Coal Trains Through County Not Expected Until 1987

Trains laden with bituminous coal from the Appalachia coal mines of Kentucky destined for the Orlando Utilities Commission coal-burning power plant should begin their treks south by early 1987.

But during the four years before the proposed plant is built and operational some Seminole County officials want to get their collective foot in the door to have some say on the time schedule of those trains which will probably be traveling through the county to the southeast Orlando plant.

That's the reason for the resolutions adopted by the city of Altamonte Springs and the Council of Local Governments in Seminole and likely to be adopted by the cities of Sanford, Winter Springs, Longwood and Lake Mary this week.

The resolutions talk about possible pollution from coal dust from the trains and the desire to have them routed through Florida by another course than through Seminole County. The resolutions actually are meant to zero in on the time frame because of traffic congestion here and especially in the Altamonte area.

Altamonte Springs City Manager Jeff Etchberger said the trains will begin hauling the coal six months prior to the plant going into operation. A specific route for the trains will be determined shortly before the hauling begins, he said.

"Two other routes that could be used go through less populated areas with less traffic congestion and through the cities which will be receiving benefit from the plant," Etchberger said. The route through Seminole County is the most direct one," he admits.

If the trains must come through

Seminole County, we would prefer they do so during the 11 hours from 8 p.m. to 7 a.m. daily. It takes 10 hours for a train to make a round trip from Sanford to the OUC plant and back again," he said.

Etchberger said it takes 1 1/4 seconds for a car to go through an intersection or 2 1/4 minutes (Etchberger actually timed freight cars) for a 90-car train.

"The problem is that this is the actual time it takes for the train to cross the intersection. It is not the time it takes to clear that intersection. That would take 2 to three times longer.

"On State Road 436 there is no special rush hour for traffic. Our high traffic continues from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily," he said.

"I think it is possible to work with the railroad if the various communities get together. While our preference would be that the trains go elsewhere, I'm optimistic that we can work with the railroad to at least have the trains scheduled to go through Seminole County at a better, more convenient time," Etchberger said.

Owen Pride, manager of news for Family Lines Railroad, said Friday a route to the proposed OUC plant has not been determined.

He said currently the railroad operates freight trains of 72 cars and 100 cars and the majority of coal trains have 72 cars.

He said the trains to the OUC plant will probably number no more than a loaded one a day southward and an empty one northbound.

"The beauty of the unit train is that they do not stop but rather keep moving. That's what makes them so efficient," Pride said.

By actual timing, Pride said, a 70-car train traveling 40 to 45 miles per hour would block an intersection for 1.4 minutes while a 100-car train would block an intersection for 1.8 minutes. If the speed were dropped to 25 miles per hour, a 70-car train would block an intersection for 2.2 minutes.

"There is no problem with a coal dust from a train which has traveled more than 1,000 miles from the mines to the utility plant. We do not have a problem with whirling dust around the train. If we did there wouldn't be any coal left on the train at the end of the trip," Pride said.

"That's really nothing to be concerned about," he said.

B.E. Shoup, director of the environmental division of OUC, noted that Governor Graham and the Cabinet only last Tuesday approved the concept of the coal-burning energy plant for Orlando. Originally, construction on the plant was planned for January 1983. "That obviously has been delayed," he said. "Now construction is planned to begin sometime in 1983 and the construction schedule is 40 months. The plant probably will be in operation in 1987."

Shoup said two coal-laden trains will be traveling to the plant per week. "Seminole County and its cities currently have 35 trains per week on their route. These OUC coal trains will add about 7 percent to that traffic," Shoup said.

"I understand the problems of Seminole County's cities and I understand State Road 436 in Altamonte Springs is handling over double the traffic it was designed for," he said.

"But in all honesty, the routing to be discussed will be the shortest one," Shoup said, noting this is the one through Seminole County.

Thousands Enjoy Floats And Attractions

By JANE CASSELBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

Thousands of parade goers turned out for the annual Greater Sanford Christmas Parade Saturday morning, but the weather was more like Spring.

Parade goers were greeted by balmy breezes and sunshine as they thrilled to sights and sounds guaranteed to delight the young and young-at-heart.

The Father Lyons Council of the Knights of Columbus Color Guard headed up the parade followed by a colorful college of reindeer, Brownies, pretty girls, clowns, elves, Spanish señoritas on prancing horses, and even a unicorn.

There were 115 units entered in the parade which formed along Seminole Boulevard between Sanford Civic Center and San Juan Avenue. The parade, which began at 10 a.m., moved west on First Street to Laurel avenue then north on Fulton Street. It disbanded at Fulton and Park Avenue.

This year's parade theme, "Christmas Joy in the Morning", was submitted by Sara Wright, 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wright of Sanford. She received a $50 savings bond and got to ride in the parade.

The parade was dedicated to the late Walter H. "Jack" Weible, former Christmas Parade chairman and civic leader. His widow, Irene, served as grand marshal in his honor.

Also riding in the parade were the parade king and queen, Kevin and Susana Huanman, and the members of their court, Bridgette Deere and Tim Dycus, Cathy Brandvold and Tim Winkler, Marsha Sawczuk and Jeffrey Dickey, and Chris Tillis and Dele Sims.

The contestants in the king and queen contest raised a total of $4,190.93 toward parade expenses and Christmas decorations for Sanford. For the wide-eyed youngsters, at least, the highlight of the parade was the arrival of Santa Claus on his float decorated by the Sanford Garden Club.

Bands marching in the parade included those from Seminole and Lyman high schools, and Sanford, Tuskawilla, Lakeview, Millwee and South Seminole middle schools and the Sanford Drum Corps.

There were 25 floats in all, including one entered by Cub Scout Pack 242 in Lake Mary that reflected the spirit of a Florida Christmas. The Cub Scouts decorated their float with a Christmas tree donated by the Sanford-Seminole Jaycees and oranges and other items which they plan to donate to the Sanford Christian Sharing Center for a needy family.

Miss Sanford Catherine Stewart also rode in the parade.

Man Claims Police Brutality In Casselberry

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

A DeBary man has filed complaints against two Casselberry police officers saying the two policemen used unnecessary force in arresting a man, then arrested him when he filed the complaint.

"I was concerned about what I saw that night and I went into the police station to make out a complaint," said Terrence Crouse, 28, of 118 Dirksen Drive. "The next day I got a call from the police to come back down to discuss it and when I got there I was ushered out the back to the jail."

Crouse, a gas station attendant at the Mobile Gas Station on U.S. 17-92 in Fern Park, was arrested at 10:30 p.m. Monday and charged with an outstanding warrant for failure to appear in court in Volusia County on a traffic violation, records show.

"I tried to tell them that I had paid that fine for having an expired tag three years ago and that Volusia County didn't take it off their computer," Crouse said. Records indicate that Crouse did appear in court and paid the fine. But Crouse's name was left in the police computer.

"It was nothing but intimidation that they arrested me," Crouse continued. "And it's all because I filed a complaint. In fact, the officer that arrested me is one of the two I filed complaints on."

According to Casselberry police Chief Fred McGowan, Crouse and another man, William Meeks, whose address was undisclosed, filed complaints against Officers Gregory Hepburn and Richard Goree, alleging that the two officers used undue force in subduing and arresting Randall Blaylock, 29, of 828 Orienta Ave. in Altamonte Springs.

"The officers were called by the management of the ABC Liquors next to the Mobile Gas station where Crouse works at about 9 p.m. Dec. 4 and told that there was a man at the bar causing a disturbance."

McGowan said. "The officers responded. The man refused to leave the parking lot and was arrested for disorderly conduct, trespassing after being given a warning and possession of marijuana."

"I've got an appointment Monday with Mr. Meeks and I'll be happy to meet with Mr. Crouse about their complaints but I really can't comment on the allegations until I look into the matter," he said. "I also have to talk it over with my officers. There's a lot of things to take into consideration in handling something like this. But I will and am looking into it."

According to Crouse's wife, Donzel, who posted $100 bond to have her husband released from jail, Crouse saw the two officers arguing with Blaylock in the lounge parking lot. She said he also saw the man attempting to leave the parking lot when the officers "jumped him and started beating him with their little clubs. Terry said they handcuffed the man and were still jumping on him and hitting him, then forced him into the police car," she said.

Crouse declined to relay details of the incident saying, he preferred to have "everything about it discussed with my lawyer first."

"One thing I will say, though, is I was just concerned about what I saw," Crouse said. "Casselberry has a good police department but I just couldn't believe those two officers were doing that to that man. And, when I tried to tell them about it at the police station, they arrested me in what I feel was an attempt to intimidate me."

"We did not arrest Crouse for any reason except that it was determined he was wanted in Volusia County according to our police computer," McGowan said. "That's police procedure to check the teletype."

"I might add also that one of the complainants, Meeks, was a drinking buddy that night of the guy that was arrested," McGowan said. "But I don't have the whole picture yet on this so I'll reserve judgment."

Raines Admits Snorting Cocaine In Clubhouse

Sanford's Tim Raines used more than $40,000 of cocaine in the first nine months of the 1982 season while playing for the Montreal Expos, the Montreal Gazette reported Saturday.

Raines, who made the 1982 National League All-Star team as an outfielder and led the league in stolen bases, completed a 30-day drug rehabilitation program earlier this fall in Santa Ana, Calif.

"I often snorted the drug in the clubhouse between innings," Raines told the Montreal Gazette.

"Sometimes it affected me so much (at bat), I couldn't see the ball," he added.

Raines, 23, was a standout prep performer in three sports at Seminole High School before drafted in the fourth round by the Expos after his graduation in 1977.

Rumors were flying in Montreal earlier this year about Raines and his drug problem. He admitted using drugs on a Montreal radio talk show, but he didn't specify what drug he used until Saturday.

In 1981's strike-shortened season, Raines had a spectacular rookie season where he batted over .300, led the majors in stolen bases and earned a spot on the All-Star team as a write-in. He was named The Sporting News Rookie of the Year.

Raines told The Evening Herald after the drug disclosure that he only used marijuana. He blamed the use on personal problems—the death of a favorite uncle and a miscarriage suffered by his wife, the former Virginia Hilton of Sanford.

Raines was in Sanford as recently as last Tuesday when he worked out at the Seminole High School. He then went to West Palm Beach where he is reportedly looking for a house to buy.

On Dec. 21 For Cities

Election Turnout To Be The Pits

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

If city government observers thought the voter turnout in Sanford and Casselberry city elections earlier this past week, which ranged from 20 percent to 27 percent was bad, it's going to be worse in the Dec. 21 runoffs.

Only Lake Mary expects slightly more than one-third of its registered voters to go to the polls on that day. Sanford, which had the lowest voter turnout in the county at 20 percent this past Tuesday, looks for only 12 percent to go back to the polls just four days before Christmas. And Casselberry expects only 13 percent will vote.

With only one item on the ballot, the vast majority of voters in Sanford who have already been expected to vote in four separate elections this year will be staying home. Sanford City Clerk Henry Tamm estimates.

Voters countywide so far this year have been expected to vote in the September primary, the October primary, the November general election and in municipal elections in the seven cities.

In Oviedo the city election is held in September in conjunction with the first primary and in Altamonte Springs and Winter Springs the city election was held at the same time as the general election.

The four remaining cities — Lake Mary, Sanford, Casselberry and Longwood — held their election last Tuesday.

The turnouts were as follows: Sanford, 20 percent; Longwood 27 percent; Casselberry, 27.3 percent, and Lake Mary, 52.3 percent.

Evidence that city clerks are close to the voting scene is the fact that Tamm's prediction of the turnout Dec. 7 was off by only six votes. He expected 1,786 of the city's 4,630 to go to the polls. Some 1,772 actually did vote.

Lake Mary City Clerk Connie Major expected 850 of the city's 1,350 to vote Tuesday. Some 811 actually did. Her prediction was off by 39 votes.

In Casselberry, the city clerk of many years, Mary Hawthorne, expected a 28 percent turnout or 1,700 of the city's 6,070 registered voters. Some 1,861 turned out. She also was off by only 39 voters.

For the Sanford runoff election, Tamm looks for a turnout of 12 percent, or 1,060 of the city's voters. The only issue on the ballot is a referendum on the city charter.

The first question concerns whether the voters want a new city charter with a requirement that city commissioners live within certain districts — geographic areas — while running at large while a second question asks whether the people would rather retain the city's present charter.

In Lake Mary where the voters will select two new councilmen, Mrs. Major is predicting a 35.5 percent turnout or 550 voters to trek to the polls.

Candidates Russ Megonegal, 81, a retired, and Bill Durrenberger, 39, an estimator who is in charge of permit processing for McCree Construction in Orlando, are vying for the Seat 2 post.

Candidates for Seat 1 are George F. Duryea, 35, a certified public accountant, and Charlie Lytle, 33, an account executive with Gulf & Western Corp.

Casselberry voters also will choose two councilmen. Vying for Council Seat 1 will be Richard Russo, 45, an aerospace engineering company administrator at Kennedy Space Center, and James W. Hill, 43, a math teacher and softball coach. For Seat 3 on the council, incumbent Bill Grier, 48, is being challenged by former councilman Carl Robertson Jr., 49, a furniture store manager.

Mrs. Hawthorne is predicting slightly more than a 13 percent turnout or 800 voters.

Citizens Group Wants Better Police Protection And Handgun Controls

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Consolidation of law enforcement agencies in counties and a complex system of licensing handguns and requiring written examinations for owners are included in a list of recommendations submitted to Gov. Bob Graham for implementation by 2000.

The recommendations were made by a 1,000-member citizens group that included at least eight Seminole Countians. They were: Altamonte Springs City Manager Jeff Etchberger, official spokesman; Vic Arnett, a Sanford insurance and securities executive; Louise Crawford, an equal rights advocate with Seminole Community Action; James T. Golden, a Sanford attorney; June Gordon of Seminole Community College; Willie P. Graham; Altamonte Police Chief Bill Liguori; and Claude Orr of the city police department.

Etchberger said the group from the Florida Leadership Forum, an independent, non-partisan activity of the Florida Endowment for the Humanities, came up with the recommendations on "Creative Crime Control" at Graham's request.

Members represented every county in Florida, all major occupations, liberals, conservatives and middle-of-the-roaders in several regions of the state, Etchberger said. He noted in the Central Florida region the University of Central Florida and the Orlando Crime Prevention Commission were responsible for identifying groups in this area.

Etchberger said he personally argued against the idea of a single police agency in each county as well as against the proposals on handguns and on alcohol and drug abuse. "I ended up as statewide spokesman, however, and in a democratic process the report was clearly the view of the vast majority in attendance," he said.

The content of the report was "thought out over an intense two-day period," the Altamonte Springs city manager said.

"The report does not talk about changes that can be done over a five to 10-year period, but rather over the next 20 years," he said.

"The nature of government itself may be significantly changed by then. A single police agency may work in some areas, but my personal feeling is that it would not be applicable in every jurisdiction," he said.

"There was a strong feeling across the state that coordination is needed in the criminal justice system. There were very strong feelings that coordination in relationships in law enforcement must exist for consistency's sake to eliminate infighting and to make the system effective," Etchberger said.

The governor is expected to present his formal response to the citizens of the state by the end of the year.

The recommendations on gun control, consolidation of police agencies, alcohol and drug abuse are as follows:

Law Enforcement:
The present large number of small, local police agencies is responsible for poor coordination of effort, inefficient procurement and use of resources, reduced effectiveness, jurisdictional conflicts and complexities, poor citizen access to police services, and incompatible data bases for research and program evaluation. There is also a lack of career progression and continuing education opportunities for officers, and a poor image of the police professional in the public mind.

The general recommendation is that the Governor take action to ensure that, by the year 2000, there will be only one law enforcement agency per county, and that this agency will have improved coordination with state and federal law enforcement agencies. The Governor should take action to provide a fully-funded, uniform program of career development for law enforcement officers.

'83 Games Gearing Up

Members of the Golden Age Games executive committee didn't have long to bask in praise for the good job they did in the 1982 Games before chairman Jim Jernigan gave them their marching orders for next year.

The eighth annual games were held Nov. 8-13 in Sanford.

The committee met Wednesday at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce building to critique the operation of this year's Post Fun 'N' Golden Age Games which drew more than 2,000 men and women over 55 and over from all over the United States as well as other countries. They added up to 3,000 separate entries in the various events which ranged from knitting to decathlon.

The Ninth Annual Golden Age Games are scheduled for Nov. 7-12, 1983.

"Right now," said Jernigan, "it looks like General Foods and Post Cereals will retain their sponsorship of the event that is co-sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce. They were happy with their evaluation of the Games operation this year."

A meeting will be held on Jan. 5 to go over the overall concept of rules and regulations including the age factor.

"We will have to take a hard look at the deadlines for some events," said Jernigan. "We will have to stop trying to be all things to all people when we set up the schedule."

"In order to offer the people who have entered a good shot, we will have to consider the person who has prepared for a certain event, the specialist, rather than trying to get everyone in every event," he said.

"The growing popularity of some events such as golf and tennis has put a strain on facilities, and we will have to take a look at our mode of operation by adding additional days for the event or lining up additional facilities where needed," Jernigan said.

He said that although the city of Sanford has agreed to rent some space at City Hall to Seminole County, it looks like there will still be room downstairs to hold the hobby show and photography contest there again next year.

New Gym Floors To Cost $104,757

An Atlanta firm has been chosen to replace the gymnasium floors at Lake Brantley and Crooms High Schools. Seminole County School Board members accepted the $104,757 bid of John F. Revell Co. as the low bid for the work at the two schools.

Wimer-Stubbs of Deland submitted a $106,800 bid for the work and R.L. Dressor of Orlando submitted a bid of $109,230.

The Lake Brantley floor is a composite material that has been blamed for numerous knee and ankle injuries to high school athletes. It will be replaced by a wood floor. Crooms High School's floor was damaged by water in an April hail and rain storm. The repairs to the Crooms' floor will be paid for by the insurance settlement for the storm damage.

Architect Laurence Derryberry said the Revell firm has done five Orlando junior high school gym floors as well as the University of Florida's basketball floor.

Board members also approved $35-per-hour contract with former Seminole County parks manager Butch Alexander to devise a plan for installation of lawn sprinkler systems at county schools.

The installation of the systems will be funded by PTA and booster groups. — MICHAEL BEHA

Crumbling Consensus

The Reagan administration and the Pentagon may still take comfort in not having lost a major new weapons system to congressional opposition, but their margins of victory are shrinking steadily.

The more liberal House that will sit after January is certain to try again to kill the MX program altogether. The Air Force's new B-1B bomber will be a target too.

The Navy's F-18A fighter-bomber is in trouble, although it may genuinely deserve to die. New efforts will be mounted in Congress next year to cut funds for Army modernization and, in all likelihood, for some portions of the Navy's augmented shipbuilding program.

Already, Congress has slashed $33 billion from the $133.4 billion Mr. Reagan had proposed adding to the Carter administration's last five-year defense budget.

The trend is unmistakable. The consensus on rebuilding defenses that were neglected throughout the 1970s is crumbling. Liberals, never more than lukewarm on spending more for defense, now blame the Pentagon for the squeeze on social programs. And fiscal conservatives, worried by rising deficits, are looking for major cuts in defense to diminish the gap between federal revenues and expenditures.

Even normally pro-defense business groups are calling for selective reductions in military spending lest rising deficits keep interest rates too high for economic recovery. And some among the self-styled military reform caucus on Capitol Hill are contending that better planning by the Pentagon and the administration could yield more security for less money.

Maybe so. It is also true that huge cuts in defense might significantly reduce the deficits when the administration's new arms programs go into full production during the mid- and late-1980s. And, one might also assume, large defense cuts would diminish the pressure on social programs.

But each of these arguments suffer from fatal flaws. The wholesale changes in weaponry and tactics proposed by some of the military reformers would take years to implement. The Reagan administration, however, faces the equivalent of a national security emergency now.

The Soviet military buildup continues apace, just as it has since the mid-1960s. Soviet margins of superiority in everything from nuclear weaponry to armored vehicles and submarines continue to grow. The Reagan administration cannot afford the luxury of an extended debate before it responds to this threat.

The deficit is indeed a problem, but blaming it on the Pentagon is a gross exaggeration at best. More than two-thirds of the current deficit is directly traceable to the recession, not to military spending. As for interest rates, they have dropped from 21 percent in 1979 to 11 percent today during a period in which military spending was rising year by year.

Federal spending for social programs and especially for the so-called entitlements was ballooning out of control before the current military buildup began. The need to contain these increases would be no less real even if defense spending was being held level.

The most cursory glance at Soviet military programs shows that the defense increases proposed by the Reagan administration are, at most, minimal responses to a threat that continues to grow. Cutting defense for the sake of social programs or marginal reductions in the deficit could prove truly disastrous.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Let's call it NEGATIVE GROWTH!"

By DORIS DIETRICH

Bah humbug! Christmas shopping need not be a boring, dull drag. A day brightener just might be having a lively youngster tag along, wanting everything in sight.

The day was just made for the traditional Christmas shopping spree and luncheon on the town for my daughter, 6-year-old granddaughter, Laurie, and I.

Laurie looked as doll-like as some of the raving inanimate beauties she stopped to admire. All decked out in a frilly, fussy Christmas red frock enhanced by swirls of ivory lace with exquisite embroidered motifs accenting the yoke, vivacious Laurie didn't miss a trick.

Nor did she miss out on the charm when she cuddled up to Santa with her list of Christmas wishes. Except she doesn't ask for much.

Laurie clutched onto a shoulder bag containing six one dollar bills and some change — money she saved from her allowance for doing her chores. The bills were definitely not new and crisp. In fact, one was nearly torn in half where she had probably counted it numerous times.

The petite bouncing beauty pointed out various toys she wanted to purchase with her money. "But you don't have enough," I kept telling her. Finally, she spotted a Barbie doll priced under $6.

I intended paying for the tiny little doll, but no way. Laurie counted out $4 to the clerk as she stood on tiptoes to reach the high counter. Shoppers in line chuckled. She put the dime change in her bag and away we stalked to another store.

This time we were in the busy children's department while her mom was shopping nearby. Once again, everything Laurie wanted was more money than she had. To top it off, she had left her bag in the car. My usual reply when she spotted something, "It costs too much. Maybe we should put that on Santa's list."

Then she spotted a pencil that she simply couldn't do without. "Aha! Now she's down to my level," I thought. She promised to pay me back if I would pick up the tab. The pencil I purchased was 25 cents plus 2 cents tax.

After we arrived home and unloaded the car, Laurie gave me a big hug and kiss and thanked me for the day.

"But don't go yet," she said, taking off like a jet up the steps and into the house. She came running back out and opened her tiny little hand to reveal a quarter and two pennies.

"But, Laurie, I want to give you the pencil," I stressed.

"But, I have to pay my way when I want something," she insisted.

What I really wanted to do as my heart melted was to empty the contents of my purse to this independent, responsible little girl.

But Mother Goose here had to reluctantly take the 27 cents.

JULIAN BOND They're Doing It Again

Remember the big fight earlier this year over renewal of the 1965 Voting Rights Act? President Reagan, Attorney General William French Smith and Assistant Attorney General William Bradford Reynolds swore they favored renewal of the law — called the most effective civil rights act passed this century.

They only wanted to improve it, they said. And they almost succeeded by improving it out of existence.

If Reagan, Smith, Reynolds and company had triumphed, the United States would still have had a federal law prohibiting discrimination in the political process, with strictures against denying anyone the right to vote.

The law would still have made it illegal to use the reapportionment process to include minorities out.

And the law would still have punished any officeholder who deliberately set out to keep blacks from voting, or their votes from being fairly counted.

But the law would have been nearly impossible to enforce. A Reagan-written voting rights law would resemble Sam Goldwyn's description of a verbal contract — "not worth the paper it's written on."

Now the U.S. Department of Justice is trying to "improve" the 1965 Voting Rights Act again.

Never mind that the U.S. Senate and House of Representatives passed a renewal bill overwhelmingly. Never mind that the law's language is plain and clear.

The Reagan administration now says the law does not say what it says.

At issue is the Reagan Justice Department's favorite device for strangling civil rights enforcement — "discriminatory intent."

In 1980, the U.S. Supreme Court said that blacks in Mobile, Ala., who'd charged their city's at-large election scheme was discriminatory and therefore illegal, would have to prove the election plan's authors intended to deny blacks the right to vote. Since the plan was drawn before the turn of the century, the "intent" of the long-dead map-drawers was difficult to prove.

The Supreme Court decision became the law.

In the renewal version of the Voting Rights Act signed into law by President Reagan on June 29, that law was changed.

The Congress amended the law, forbidding any election practice that resulted in the denial of equal access to the political process because of race, color or illiteracy in English.

The Mobile court decision had resulted from a lawsuit brought under Section 5, which requires all or part of 22 states to pre-clear election law changes with the Justice Department before they are implemented.

In papers filed in the Supreme Court in October, the Justice Department argued that the new law does not change the standards in pre-clearance cases, and that there had been no discrimination in a Texas voting rights case.

Exactly two years before, in October 1980, the Justice Department had argued, in the same case, the exact opposite — than an at-large, numbered post plan for election of city council members in Lockhart, Texas, denied Mexican-Americans an equal right to vote.

A similar reversal of policy occurred within just nine days.

U.S. Consulate In Jerusalem Pro PLO?

WASHINGTON — An angry charge has been made on Capitol Hill that the U.S. consulate in Jerusalem has become a nest of Palestine Liberation Organization sympathizers.

The charge came up during a closed-door confrontation that has enlivened the backstage debate over the Middle East. Rep. James Scheuer, D-N.Y., called Morris Draper, deputy assistant secretary of state for the Middle East, on the carpet.

The congressman complained about the pro-Palestinian attitude of the U.S. consul and his staff. Draper snapped back with a vehement defense of the diplomats.

From secret records of the meeting, my associate Lucetta Lagnado has put together an account of what happened behind closed doors. The session was supposed to have been a briefing for Scheuer, who had recently returned from an inspection trip to the Middle East.

Scheuer got right to the point. He confronted Draper with information he and his aides had gathered about the Jerusalem consul general, Brandon Grove.

Scheuer accused Grove and his staff of favoring radical Palestinians and ignoring moderate leaders on the West Bank who are more receptive to an accommodation with Israel.

Scheuer specifically mentioned Mustafa Dudeen, a prominent West Bank leader and former official under King Hussein of Jordan. Dudeen despises the PLO, supports the Camp David agreement and has been outspoken in his support of a peaceful settlement with Israel. As a result, he has reportedly been marked for assassination by the PLO and their radical West Bank supporters.

As a supporter of both Israel and the United States, Scheuer suggested, Dudeen is certainly someone the Jerusalem consulate should keep in touch with. Instead, he complained, Consul General Grove and his staff had studiously avoided Dudeen.

The congressman then launched into a personal critique of Grove himself. He wanted to know why the consul general cultivated and socialized with West Bank mayors and other Palestinian leaders who were known to be supportive of the PLO and critical of Camp David.

Scheuer further complained that the Israelis, who generally get along with most American diplomats assigned to their country, actively dislike and distrust Grove.

Draper responded to the congressman's charges with some heat. Declaring that he was a personal friend of Grove, he offered a spirited defense of the consul general and his staff. Draper pointed out that it is the consulate staff's job to maintain contact with Palestinian leaders in the Israeli-occupied

West Bank, even if they are PLO sympathizers.

Draper told Scheuer that most of the West Bank population support the PLO, and the United States could not ignore this fact of life, like it or not.

Draper then made some charges of his own. He suggested that Grove and his staff were targets of a " smear " campaign — and left little doubt that he considered the Israelis responsible for it. He then attacked Mustafa Dudeen, suggesting that he was an unsavory character and that is why the consulate staff doesn't deal with him.

Footnote: Without passing judgment on the Scheuer-Draper dustup, I can confirm one point the congressman made. On my own visit to Israel and Lebanon last summer, I became aware of the deep hostility the Israeli government holds toward the diplomats in our Jerusalem consulate.

Woman's Painful Decision

In a quiet corner of the campus library, the woman and I sit close and keep our voices low. She confides an intimate and painful story.

She left her husband and four children to get a college degree.

As I listen, I think I have known no other woman to pay such a price for education. Her guilt, she admits, and her self-doubts threaten to destroy her at all times.

With fingers rubbing her forehead, as if to smooth away the signs of worry, she asks, "Am I some kind of freak? Am I uncaring, unloving? Is this some kind of deviant behavior?"

Louann, 32, tells me about her life and how she came to divorce and give her husband custody of their children.

Her own parents divorced when she was young. Her mother had a drinking problem, then a breakdown. At 12, Louann went to live with her father.

"Whenever I did something that displeased my stepmother, she would say, 'You're just like your mother.' I had such a poor image of myself that I was astonished when somebody wanted to marry me. Of course, I said 'yes,' and dropped out of college after my first semester."

The children came quickly and so did her husband's employment problems. "He was in and out of school, in and out of jobs," she says. "I baby-sat preschoolers in my home for four years to help put food on the table."

A turning point came when Louann became interested in genealogy. She traced her ancestors back to the French Huguenots who settled in the Carolinas in the 17th century and ran plantations on Hilton Head Island.

"I discovered I came from strong, hearty and intelligent people. It made me want to do more with my life, more with my mind," she explains.

She enrolled at a nearby college and drove a school bus to pay tuition.

"At first, my husband was supportive," she says, "but, in time, he became resentful. The marriage got worse. I finally moved out and we divorced. He had a job that paid $4.50 an hour and he was paying on our house. If I took the children, how could he afford child support and paying on two places? If he lost his job, how could four kids and I survive? Three years ago, my only option seemed to be to go it alone, on my own, asking for nothing."

She gets by with a clerical job on campus and a government loan. A fine arts major, she hopes one day for a job in graphic art.

What Louann didn't count on was her husband's bitterness. He insists the children not call her "Mother" anymore. She used to have good visits with her sons and daughter at her mother's home, but then her husband took the children and went to live with his parents in another state.

"When I call, I always get the answering service and my calls are never returned. My letters to the children come back unopened. I haven't heard their voices in five months and it's torturing me," Louann says.

"Whenever I see children, I worry about mine. Who is putting Band-Aids on their knees? Is anyone hugging them for getting an 'A' on a spelling paper?"

Louann also didn't count on society's reaction to her.

"Most people think you're not a good mother if you don't fight for custody. I find I even try to explain myself to strangers," she says.

Her worries about her children and the shocked reaction others have to her are what led her to start a community group for parents without custody. Four fathers and 10 mothers came to a recent meeting.

"We discovered," says Louann, "we're not so alone, not so awful, not such deviants." She describes two women in the group.

"One is where I was — the old me. She just gave up her children and is still trying to come to terms with the decision.

"The other is where I hope to be some day. That woman got a graduate degree and has returned to where her ex-husband and children live. She has a good job and sees them often. That's my dream."

Louann's dream could be just a year away — on graduation day. It could be never.

It's a risk she felt she had to take. As a wise man once said: "A life unexamined is not worth living."

JEFFREY HART Columnist's Reflections Expressed

Well, how are things going? Over a 10-year period, as the world changes, how have I changed?

The foundation remains the same. When this column began, I conceived of it as conservative in the national political sense, and it certainly remains so. Half of my friends seem to be in the Reagan White House.

I also brought news from the college campus, where so much, then and now, is happening. And not always for the best.

The other aspect of the column was to be religious, reports of what is going on in the central nervous system of the West, which I take to be Christianity.

No doubt all of those ideas are debatable, as, indeed, they should be.

But, over a decade, I find that the weights within the equation have changed, to mix a metaphor.

The general outline remains the same, but there have been changes.

First of all, I have grown more anti-communist. I always knew that the communist systems were evil, but the results of our Vietnam defeat were revelatory for me at a new level of intensity. The boat people. The use of poison gas in Laos and Afghanistan. The savage repression of Solidarity, a movement which represents the legitimate Poland; the revelations of Solzhenitsyn about the Gulag; the slave labor building the new Euro-Siberian pipeline; the reflection that if the Soviet secret police just went home and did something useful we would have from Russian artists all sorts of songs, stories, and paintings which, as long as phillistine gangsters run that country, we will never see.

No wonder I am even more anti-communist than I was 10 years ago.

On domestic policy, I am more inclined to the free-market than I was a decade ago. The bankruptcy of the Great Society programs has become in too many cases manifest. What "government" seen at first hand means, all too often, is not a rational allocation of resources, but an allocation in response to overwhelming special interest group pressure. Bolled down to its essentials, what that means is that money that you have earned is not going for what you want but for what someone else wants, and seldom for the best reasons.

I am proud to be a citizen of a country with a president who has tried, under political and media fire, to reverse those trends.

I am much more skeptical than I was 10 years ago about the official leadership of our religious institutions, both Protestant and Catholic.

I am shocked by the socialist-cum-Third-Worldism of the American Catholic bishops, and by the political and religious behavior of the World Council of Churches.

As I read the pronouncements of both of these bodies, I find few areas of agreement. There is no conception of the state that emerges from their teachings, only a vague socialistic murk, and a vague pacifism without courage or honor.

Finally, I find that I have become more intensely American, both intellectually and spiritually.

My real fathers are those young men who founded the American republic in the 18th century and wrote our Constitution, luminous, lucid and politically sane. They founded in this land the longest lived and most successful self-government nation in history.

OUR READERS WRITE

Sanford Own 'Love Boat' Wins Friends

I am very pleased and glad to say that now Sanford has their sort of Love Boat Cruise for friendships and companionships, etc., etc., having had the privilege of going on the Luncheon Cruise on Dec. 1, 1982, 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. It was truly something well worthwhile. Every minute was made very enjoyable by the crew. All employees each in their own way sure went all out for us. This includes the Bay Queen family members. The food was fresh and attractively displayed. If anyone went aboard it was their own fault. We each were greeted so warmly as we went aboard and as we left. The captain made it a point to stop at every table. He asked me if I wanted to dance. There I was unable to do so. It sure was nice to be asked and very considerate. Even a young member of the crew did the same. The musicians were extra good and very much enjoyed. Asking if I cared to dance by strangers or almost strangers. This is just a couple of small things that happened. Each waitress was so thoughtful. It just seemed that every one connected in any way tried to outdo the other to help make each one of us feel like V.I.P.s like we did. Thank you to every one who helped make our cruise so comfortable and so very enjoyable. I sure hope everyone can get a chance to enjoy themselves like we did.

Charlotte Nealon,

Hunters Are Guests

Welcome again! For some two months each year we hope you enjoy the opportunity to hunt in Farnon. Please remember that you are guests on this private property.

Unfortunately, a very few irresponsible hunters have seen it necessary to leave gates open, put nails in trees, and vandalize locks, fences, equipment, etc. And since there is simply too much area for the Wildlife Officers to effectively patrol, I am asking you to police yourselves and to respect our property.

During the past year Miami Corporation rejected some very lucrative offers to lease to private hunting clubs. However, this option is still available. Enjoy yourselves, but please treat the property as if it were yours.

To Defend The Fiends

In my letter on the opinion page of the Evening Herald, Sunday, Nov. 28, it says "it sometimes takes millions to defend the fiends." It should have been "to defend the fiends." There are several other little mistakes but I am sure I am to blame. My vision is so poor and penmanship is worse.

I shouldn't keep bothering you with my opinions but I get so angry with our lenient courts. Sometimes I think we have more to fear from the judicial system than from the Soviet Union. We are being weakened from within.

Every time some murderer, rapist, or dope peddler is about to get his due, a lawyer finds something in the Constitution to save him and often he is back on the streets in a short time. Please excuse my English but I'd like to burn the damn thing — the Constitution!

SS Changes Needed

This Social Security and SSI system has to be changed.

If anyone helps you by paying a bill or in any other way, like giving you something whether it's money or not, and it comes to the attention of the SSI office or whoever, these people are penalized for it by withholding a payment, which they cannot afford!

If an apartment rents of $250 a month, like we were in for three months and someone else is paying for it, you pay them what you can, like $40 a month, and the local government hears of this situation, and our SSI check was withheld for one month and a certain amount is taken from your checks for awhile, which does not help anyone on low income of say, $300 month in the least. These people have other bills, too; can't this system be updated?

The government wants you to better yourself, and yet if you're on Social Security and SSI you're penalized for it, especially SSI.

And why, if a person tries to get Social Security and SSI, is she told she can't get it because she is over-educated; this sounds like a cop-out.

This person happens to be my wife. Could any of you congressmen do what you expect the low income people to do?

If you want this law changed, write your congressmen and senators.

George M. Tudor,
Sanford

Bell Rate Idea Given

Outrageous medical costs have caused many people who are living on a fixed income to neglect their health because they were not eligible for Medicare and Medicaid and could not afford to pay the high cost of doctors, hospitals and medicines. If a survey was made the results would show that many have died because they could not afford medical care.

Just recently when the Southern Bell Telephone company asked the Public Utilities Commission for a large rate increase, some of these retired people living on a fixed income informed me that they could not afford to pay an increase and would have to discontinue their telephone service. They said that they had to scrimp on their food and clothing in order to be able to pay the present rates, and only kept their phones for their protection in case of sickness or for emergencies. The Public Service Commission should consider this before allowing the rich Southern Bell Telephone company a rate increase.

They Love Their Dogs

How 'bout them dogs! I enjoyed the reports on the Florida-Georgia game, especially your article written by Teni Yarborough just before the game — (My sister-in-law, Mrs. Grace Bradford, Altamonte Springs) sent the clippings) It's good to know we have such a loyal Bulldog fan down there.

I am a retired school teacher — 80 years old — and still quite active, but not enough to get involved with the 80,000 folks who attend the games. — (There were 82,000 plus here yesterday for the Georgia-Georgia Tech game). There are several fans who live in our apartment complex and we meet to watch or listen to the games in my apartment. With refreshments at half-time.

When the weather permits we sit outside near Lumpkin Street — which is one of the main lines to the stadium — and the traffic is bumper to bumper — People will wave and I'm sure some of them feel sorry for those poor old ladies sitting out there — They don't know we're having more fun than any of them.

I passed the clippings from the reports on to the Rev. Claude McBride who is my pastor and chaplain for the football team. He was a cheerleader years ago. I'm enclosing some clippings from the Athens Banner Herald which I hope you will enjoy reading.

Sincerely,
Mary Bradford,

Increase In State Taxes Will Hurt Future Economic Growth

By RICHARD K. VEDDER
Richard K. Vedder was until recently economist for the Joint Economic Committee of the U.S. Congress. A full-length version of this study will appear in the fall issue of the Journal of Contemporary Studies.

One consequence of the Reagan administration's economic policy is the strong temptation now facing many state and local governments to enact tax increases of their own—already 25 states and 20 major cities have done so this year.

Yet there is every reason to doubt the wisdom of these moves. In a recent systematic comparison between taxation levels and economic growth rates in the various states, I have found a striking inverse correlation between growth and taxation: overwhelmingly, the fastest growing states prove to be those with the lowest taxes.

Dividing the states into "high-tax," "moderate-tax," and "low-tax" categories, one finds that the states with low taxes grow more than one-third faster than states with relatively high taxes, where "growth" is measured by the percent increase in real personal income per capita.

Consider two states with the same per capita personal income level, say $10,000 a year in 1982 dollars. Suppose one state adopts a low-tax strategy and grows 30 percent in the course of a decade, while the other adopts a high-tax strategy and grows 22.2 percent. After 30 years of such differential growth, the income level in the low-tax state would be $21,970, compared with $18,218 in the high-tax state. The citizens in the low-state would have 20 percent higher incomes per capita than those in the high-tax state, or about $11,000 in 1982 dollars (before taxes) for a family of three with average incomes.

It follows that the income-generating effects of public expenditures financed by state and local taxes are more than offset by the income-destroying disincentive effects of the taxes. Taxes lower the rate of return earned by owners of productive resources, leading owners of those resources to supply less (or migrate to other jurisdictions). Since tax burdens are closely related to the size of the public sector, the results imply that states with large public sectors relative to the volume of private activity tend to have lower rates of economic growth.

Thus the evidence is fairly clear that high state and local taxes inhibit growth, but it is worth asking what types of taxes are most harmful. The findings are striking:

High-growth states also had dramatically lower income and property tax burdens than low-growth states. For example, the average income tax burden was more than 55 percent lower in the high-growth states, and the property tax burden averaged 37 percent lower. But, at the same time, sales taxes were actually higher in the high-growth states. Sales taxes, in short, did not seem to have the same debilitating association with growth that income and property taxes had.

Thus it appears that from the standpoint of maximizing the rate of economic growth, the optimal state and local fiscal policy would be one in which the overall tax burden is comparatively low, coupling high sales taxes with low income and property taxes.

In 1980, the high-growth states derived less than 14 percent of their tax revenues from income taxes, compared with 25 percent for the low-growth states. Similarly, the high-growth states derived only 27 percent of their tax revenues from property taxes, compared with 34 percent for low-growth states.

This finding should not be surprising. Taxes on income and property lower the rate of return on capital investment in either human or physical forms. For example, as marginal taxes on income rise, the "cost" of working less and enjoying more leisure falls. Also, to avoid higher taxes, productive resources may migrate to localities with lower taxes. Taxes on consumption, however, do not have the same disincentive effects on such productive activities as working or forming new capital. If anything, they increase the attractiveness of saving as a means of avoiding sales taxes. Savings, in turn, permit more investment to occur.

In sum, the short-term benefits that state and local governments may hope to gain by increasing taxes will be more than offset by long-term reduction in economic growth.

Income Lower; Lives Shorter

Black Elderly Persons Suffer From Double Jeopardy Problem

Q. It's hard enough getting older in this country, but being black and old is double jeopardy. Isn't it about time we all take notice?

A. Elderly blacks in America often confront greater economic pressures than elderly white Americans, and the discrepancy is even harsher when we all face difficult economic times. According to 1980 data from the Census Bureau, 13.6 percent of elderly whites live at or below the poverty level; 38.1 percent of older blacks live in poverty.

It is also disturbing to recognize that there are significant differences in life expectancy between whites and non-whites. Life expectancy at birth is 65.0 for non-white men and 73.6 for non-white women compared to 70.2 and 77.7 respectively for white men and women. However, after age 65, non-white men can expect to live longer than white men, and after age 75, life expectancy is generally higher for non-whites.

We are also aware that blacks have higher rates of hypertension and cerebrovascular disease than whites, though the greatest discrepancies occur in middle age and a leveling off takes place as both groups get older.

It is clear that we have not done enough research to understand why these differences exist and what fundamental changes can be effected to assure that all Americans receive equal access to excellent health care. The National Institute on Aging is supporting research to discover the factors that influence the potential for long and healthy lives among the groups in our society. Hopefully results will open the way for a higher quality of longer life for all Americans.

Q. I'm not trying to sound prejudiced, but I don't think refugees and aliens should be getting welfare benefits out of our Social Security trust funds. No wonder we're going broke.

A. The people you refer to are not receiving benefits from Social Security, though I must say that many Americans share that misconception with you. By law, the money in the Old Age and Survivors Insurance, Disability Insurance, Hospital Insurance, and Supplemental Medical Insurance trust funds, as well as

Growing Older
U.S. Rep. Claude Pepper

"FICA" tax revenues collected under the Federal Insurance Contribution Act can only be used to pay for old age, survivors' and disability insurance benefits, reimbursement under Medicare, and the administrative expenses of these programs.

The Supplemental Security Income program pays a poverty level benefit to very poor persons who qualify because of their age (65 and over), disability, or blindness. SSI benefits are extremely low and subject to strict asset tests. The Social Security Administration is responsible for administering the program, but the benefits are financed by the general tax revenues, not the Social Security trust funds.

Because Social Security benefits are paid as a matter of right earned by fulfilling certain contribution requirements, there are no citizenship or permanent residence requirements for receiving them. However, the number of illegal alien workers earning Social Security coverage will decrease in the future as a result of regulations promulgated in 1978 that set stricter requirements for obtaining a Social Security number. Also, studies by the U.S. Select Commission on Immigration and Refugee Policy and the TransCentury Foundation found that illegal aliens contribute significantly more to Social Security than they receive in benefits. This is because many illegal aliens are young, work here for a short time and pay Social Security taxes, but do not work long enough to become eligible for benefits; and because many who become eligible do not claim benefits because of fear of dealing with a government agency.

So as a humane and compassionate nation, we do our best to provide support for those in great need. But do not be misled into thinking that the Social Security system is being tapped for resources to support those who are not entitled to its benefits.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

'82 Florida Tourism Is At A Record Pace

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—Tourism in Florida was up in the third quarter and is running at a record pace for the first nine months of 1982, according to state Division of Tourism statistics released Friday.

More than 8.6 million tourists visited Florida from July through September, an increase of 11 percent over the third quarter of 1981. Expenditures for the quarter were up 35 percent to nearly $3 billion.

For the first nine months of 1982, 26.3 million tourists from North America have come to Florida, 7 percent ahead of last year and 4 percent ahead of the record-setting 1980 year.

So far this year tourists have spent an estimated $14.1 billion in Florida.

Citrus Crop Promising

LAKELAND (UPI)—The state's citrus industry appears to be recovering from back-to-back freezes in 1981 and 1982, but consumers shouldn't expect prices to come down anytime soon.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture said Friday Florida growers are expected to harvest 147 million boxes this year, 17 percent more than the freeze-damaged crop a year ago and up 3 percent from the October prediction.

Bobby McKown, executive vice president of Florida Citrus Mutual, says the boost in production would have no impact on prices, which have remained stable since the 1981 freeze.

McKown said the increases were evidence of the excellent recovery of the trees following the freezes of the last two growing seasons.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Cosmonauts Safe After 211-Day Record Flight

MOSCOW (UPI) — The longest space flight in history ended safely with cosmonauts Anatoly Berezovoy and Valentin Lebedev in good health, Soviet officials said, though television coverage of the landing and specific medical details were withheld.

"The medical checkup of the cosmonauts performed at the landing site has shown they withstood well the prolonged stay in conditions of weightlessness," Tass said Friday after the 211-day, 9-hour, 5-minute mission.

The capsule carrying the cosmonauts, both 40, made a parachute landing on the snowy plains of Kazakhstan, a Soviet Asian republic, 1,500 miles southeast of Moscow at 2:03 p.m. EST Friday. The temperature was 5 degrees.

...Citizens Speak Out

"Preferably, counties should be authorized to develop their county police agency with maximum leeway. This may require a constitutional amendment. Alternatively, the legislature could abolish the authority of municipal police agencies in a way that would cause the law enforcement functions to revert to the county sheriff. Implementation may begin at each county's discretion as soon as the legal issues are resolved. As a first step, counties should phase our present duplication of effort between local police agencies and the sheriff's office.

"There should be legislatively mandated uniform standards for police officers, as well as funded programs to: provide continuing education, improve the public image of the police, provide a career development program (with provision to retain personnel within their areas of interest and expertise while allowing them to accrue seniority benefits and performance awards), and support a police to population ratio of 2.5 per 1,000."

Handgun licensing: The state should adopt one uniform state licensing law requiring anyone have a handgun in his or her possession, custody, or control to be licensed to possess that handgun. The law should require a regular written and manual examination in which the licensee demonstrates that he or she can safely and lawfully use the handgun. A reasonable fee, similar to that levied for driver's licenses, should be imposed for a handgun license.

"Alcohol and drug abuse treatment: the state should use its resources and encourage all parts of the private sector to join in an effort having as its goal the following: by the year 2000, effective alcohol and other drug abuse treatment should be available in every major hospital or other appropriate institution, and non-stigmatizing out-patient programs for treatment and prevention of such abuse should be available at reasonable fees throughout each community.

Other recommendations are as follows:

"Family support centers: That the Governor initiate and coordinate the development of family support centers.

"School programs: That the Governor take action to develop the public school system as a primary agent for socializing youth and for helping them move successfully into the work force.

"Cooperative, community-based programs: That the Governor encourage, coordinate, fund, and mandate public agency cooperation with community-based crime prevention and implemented at the local level.

"Courts and prisons: That the Governor take action to establish community arbitration programs.

"Crimes against the defenseless: That the state provide mandatory programs, and restitution, for victims of crimes against the defenseless."

Paideia Plan Aims To Upgrade U.S. Education

ATLANTA (UPI) — An Atlanta high school is one of the first schools in the nation to test an experimental teaching method designed to upgrade the U.S. public education system by applying principles dating from the time of Socrates.

The system is called the Paideia method, which comes from a Greek word for the upbringing of a child. Its format is laid out in a book entitled "The Paideia Proposal: An Educational Manifesto," published in paperback by Macmillan.

Booker T. Washington High School will be the laboratory for testing the method during the current academic year. Dr. Robert Collins, principal of Washington High, is an enthusiastic supporter of the plan. Another ardent supporter is Dr. Elizabeth Feeley, superintendent of Area 3, where Washington High is located.

The Paideia Group is a panel of 22 educators and scholars, including Mortimer Adler, director of the Institute for Philosophical Research in Chicago; Jacques Barzun, former provost of Columbia University and Leon Botstein, president of Bard College.

Their plan offers a 12-year single-track academic program with virtually no electives and no vocational training. It aims to wipe out specialization, which Adler and the other Paideia members see as the enemy of education.

Paideia is founded on what Adler calls the three columns, representing the three types of learning that should take place simultaneously throughout all 12 years of schooling.

The first column consists of the acquisition of fundamental knowledge such as history, literature, languages, mathematics, science and fine arts. Lectures will convey this material to the students.

The second column develops the basic intellectual skills of reading, writing, mathematical computation and scientific investigation. These are taught just as physical or athletic skills are taught, through practice and coaching.

The third and most innovative column is the enlargement of understanding: the aesthetic appreciation of works of art and the ability to think critically about ideas and values. This column utilizes the Socratic method of constant and probing questioning, with the teacher joining his students in the learning process.

Paideia also proposes 12 years of physical education and eight years of manual arts such as cooking, typing and auto repair. One year of instruction is provided to help a student choose a career.

Adler hopes the Paideia method will enable youngsters "to become better human beings and better citizens, not just better at some particular line of work."

The Paideia method has already been tested at Skyline High School in Oakland, Calif., where 75 students spent one year studying 50 great books, using the Socratic method of pedagogy.

Skyline Principal Nicholas Caputi called the results "stellar," but noted that about 80 per cent of the students were gifted anyway.

Lake Mary Launches 'RAMpage' Paper

Lake Mary High School makes history once again with the production of its very first newspaper, the "RAMpage."

The RAMpage was distributed for the first time on December 3, for 25 cents each. Barbara Roth is the advisor along with the aid of Intern Elayne Shields. With only an 11-member staff, one might expect the paper to look somewhat immature; however, the RAMpage shines with professionalism.

The members of the staff include: Michelle Sawyer, editor; Kit Johnson, managing editor; Teresa Simmermacher, editorials; Eric Forrest, feature editor; Greg Wells, sports editor; Barry Botwin and Avi Kantor, photo editors; Cliff Scarborough, artist; and Doug Koegler, business manager. Also, Serena Kichler, Brian Teijeiro, and Michael Borgailo.

The newspaper will come in monthly editions and staff members are hoping to improve the quality with each issue. Here are a few upcoming LMHS events:

Today — boy's varsity soccer game in New Smyrna Beach, 1 p.m.; wrestling matches against NSB, home, jv, 6:30 p.m.; varsity, 8 p.m.

Tuesday — boy's soccer games at Apopka jv, 5 p.m.; varsity, 7 p.m.; freshman basketball against Crooms, 4 p.m.; boy's B.B. at St. Cloud j.v., 6:15 p.m.; varsity, 8 p.m.; girl's B.B. against Oviedo, home, j.v., 6:15 p.m.; varsity, 8 p.m.

Special feature will be sharing of traditions and the speaker will be Priscilla Duncan, Ormond Beach. The Altamonte Christian School Chorus will sing. For brunch and nursery reservations, call Ruth at 862-7816.

Recently elected officers of the First Presbyterian Church of Sanford will be ordained at the 11 a.m. worship service this Sunday. Elders to be ordained include Maryann Pierce, John Brunley, Bruce Clarke, David Lanier; installed, Gib Edmonds. New deacons include Charity Cleardo, Mike Gray, Bob Adams, Tom Freeman, Bill Royster, Eloise Pfeiffel, James Barke and Clifford Miller.

Recognized and honored for their contribution to First Presbyterian Church of Sanford by Mildred Lind, president of the Women of the Church, at the Red Stocking Coffee held Dec. 4 were Mr. and Mrs. W.E. MacLauchlin, Dennis Tucker and the Rev. and Mrs. Hugh Pain.

Operation CHURH (Christian Helpers United to Reach Humanity) will sponsor a service this Sunday at 3 p.m. at New Bethel Church on 700 East Ninth Street, Sanford. The Rev. Robert Doctor is the host minister. Operation CHURH is a non-profit interdenominational organization to help the needy and aged in the community and is in the process of obtaining a charter.

To become part of the group as a volunteer, persons must be in good standing with a local church. The group hopes to provide 15 families with Christmas dinner. Officers include Anthony Miller, chairman; William Lewis, chaplain; Viola J. Graham secretary and evangelist; Betty J. Luster, treasurer.

Lake Mary Subdues Stubborn Seminoles

By SAM COOK

Herald Sports Editor

Friday's Lake Mary and Seminole wrestling match had all the makings of a Tribe ambush.

Seminole coach Scott Sherman strategically dodged Ivan Carbia and Jack Likens with forfeits and received a stunning varsity debut from Jimmy Davis.

The strategy and breaks ran out, however, when Ned Kolbjornsen and Ed Ades put together back-to-back victories and a third forfeit at unlimited gave the Rams a 36-24 win over the stubborn Seminoles.

"I'm just happy to get out of here with a win," said Lake Mary coach Frank Schwartz. "They (Seminoles) have tough kids over here. They went at it like the Super Bowl."

The victory keeps the Rams unbeaten at 4-0. They host New Smyrna Beach Saturday night at 8. Junior varsity actions begins at 6:30 p.m.

"The guys really wrestled tough," agreed Sherman about his 0-3 Seminoles who host Spruce Creek Wednesday. I tried some strategy and it almost paid off. If we could have gotten a few breaks, though, it might have gone the other way."

Sherman forfeited the first two weight classes to Carbia and Likens, both who were undefeated and had pinned all of their opponents.

"I figured if it was going to be 12-0, I didn't want it to be on two pins and have Lake Mary all fired up," pointed out Sherman. "Then Mike Clark (114) would be ready to wrestle and (Virgil) Grant wouldn't be."

Sherman was right... for a while. Clark and Grant battled evenly through the first minute, but Grant escaped, reversed and near-felled Clark near the end of the period for a 10-4 lead. He eventually held off the Tribe's talented freshman, 15-11.

The Rams held a 10-0 budge, but Ronnie Watson (121) jumped to an early lead against freshman Tom Olson and held on for a win when Olson was disqualified for penalty points.

With the lead cut to 15-6, Seminole's Tony Brown (128) jumped to a 6-3 lead over Scott Beauchamp. Beauchamp pulled with one, but Brown escaped and added a takedown for a 9-5 lead. He eventually won, 12-8, to pull the 'Noles within 15-9.

Jeff Farmer (134) set the stage for the main event of the evening by jumping to a 9-2 lead after two periods over Kevin Tapscoff en route to a 9-4 win and an 18-9 Ram edge.

Lake Mary's Bob Olson (140) and Vince Clark were next and the match was everything it was billed to be as Olson broke open the standoff in the second period for a 16-12 victory.

Olson used an escape, takedown and a near fall for a 14-4 second-period lead before Clark, a district champ last year, came back with a reversal and a near fall. He escaped to pull within four in the third period, but Olson got another takedown to hold off the Fighting Seminoles.

The Seminole ambush began to take seed in the next three matches. Tough Tony Turner (147) slammed Mark Lindquist to the mat in the last five seconds to earn a 9-7 decision and pull the 'Noles within 21-12.

Gary Gonterman (157) fell behind, 4-0, against Brent Blakely, but surged in the second period for an 18-8 budge before pinning Blakely at 2:31. Lake Mary 21, Seminole 18.

The stunner of the night came next. Willie Green (169) broke on top of Seminole's Jimmy Davis to a 7-0 lead on a takedown, near fall and back points. Davis, nevertheless, reversed the startled Green and pinned him at 1:58. "God knows how Willie lost that match," said Schwartz incredulously. "He was all over him."

The quick reversal and pin sent the Seminole faithful into wild ecstasy and more importantly gave Seminole a 24-21 advantage with just three matches to go.

But as the Seminoles would find out — it would be three pretty ornery Rams. Ned Kolbjornsen (187) broke to a 2-0 lead over the Tribe's James "Cheese" Morgan, but the stocky Seminole escaped and grabbed a takedown for a 3-2 edge.

In period two, Kolbjornsen, exhibiting great strength, rolled Morgan's shoulder's back for a near fall and a 5-3 lead. An escape and a takedown in the last 22 seconds gave the big Swede an 8-3 victory and the Rams a 24-24 tie.

With the match tied and a forfeit coming to Robert Rawls at unlimited, all the Rams needed from Ed Ades (222) was to avoid being pinned.

"We don't approach it that way," said Schwartz. "Their kid (Ed Rinkavage) hadn't wrestled all year, so Ed has to go after him."

Although Rinkavage hadn't wrestled this year (only two days of practice), he turned in a gutsy performance before running out of gas and penalty points with 14 seconds left in the second period. Ades won by disqualification and the Rams clinched the match.

"I'm best," said Rinkavage after the match. "But I'll be back."

The same can be said for the Seminoles.

Intensified Tribe Topples Mainland

Prep Basketball

DAYTONA BEACH — James Rouse applied defense while Calvin "Kiki" Bryant and Willie Mitchell supplied the offense Friday night as Seminole successfully opened its Five Star Conference season with an impressive 57-49 victory over Mainland's Buccaneers.

The Tribe, 2-2 and 1-0, takes on Lyman Tuesday at home. Mainland, 7-2, suffered just its second loss, the other coming in the championship game of the Rotary East Basketball Tournament against Oak Ridge.

"We played super defense," said coach Chris Marlette. "(Assistant coach) Wayne Bennett scouted them twice and we knew their attack was to stack Will Anderson low and go to him."

Marlette countered by putting sophomore Rouse on Mainland's 6-2 leaper who was the most valuable player in the Rotary Tournament.

Rouse fronted Anderson, denying him the ball, while Mitchell and 6-2 William Wynn helped out on the backside. The minute of the second half, but Seminole went inside to the 6-2 Mitchell and he got the job done.

Midway through the quarter, the junior center popped in four of his patented turnaround jumpers to move the 'Noles to a 42-34 lead after three quarters.

"We got it to Mitchell and that was all after that," said Marlette. "They never threatened again."

Mitchell also had a great night on the backboards for Seminole which had been outscored in its first three games. Mitchell grabbed nine boards in each half for a career-high of 18 for the game. Sanford won the backboard battle, 40-27. Tracy Holloman came off the bench to grab seven and Bryant snared eight.

Bryant led the Seminoles with 19 points while Mitchell collected 10. Vernon Law and Rouse each had eight and Tom Stiffey threw in six while spelling some starters who were in foul trouble. Law handed out seven assists.

"We looked like a totally different team from the first three games," said Marlette. "We were really on the kids in practice after the Evans' game (a 34-point loss) and we even practiced Friday."

"The opening games with the Metro Conference really helped because the kids realized with what intensity you had to play," added Marlette. — SAM COOK

Dodgers Nix Texas Deal

HONOLULU (UPI) — The most inactive trading market in more than a decade closed Friday with a canceled deal making bigger news than the few that were made.

Only eight trades, involving 22 players, were completed during the six days at Waikiki, one of the lowest figures on record.

There were three minor trades and two free-agent signings on the final day, but it was the cancellation of a deal made Thursday night between the Los Angeles Dodgers and Texas Rangers that created the biggest furor.

In the deal the Dodgers were to get catcher Jim Sundberg for pitchers Bert Hooton, Dave Stewart and Orel Hershisler and outfielder Mark Bradley.

What caused it to fall through was a clause in Sundberg's contract that entitled him to get paid for four years after the 1988 season even if he didn't play.

Under the terms of his existing 10-year contract with the Rangers, Sundberg will be paid $350,000 a year through the 1988 season. At that point he can quit and still get paid $300,000 a year until 1990. If he does want to play, he has the option of renegotiating.

The Dodgers wanted that clause removed from his contract, but Sundberg refused.

Al Campanis, Dodger vice president of player personnel, said, "Our lawyers can't handle it and they can't accept somebody else's commitments."

The Mets also had a trade with Boston canceled because the Red Sox player involved, pitcher Mike Torrez, exercised the 10-and-4 option of his contract and refused to go to New York.

In the deals that were made Friday, the Chicago Cubs and the Mets were the most active teams.

The Cubs signed free-agent outfielder Wayne Nordhagen, traded pitcher Doug Bird to the Boston Red Sox for pitcher Chuck Rainey and dealt infielder Tye Waller to the White Sox for pitcher Reggie Patterson.

The Mets obtained first baseman-outfielder Danny Hepp from the Houston Astros for pitcher Mike Scott and also laid the groundwork for a trade with Cincinnati that in all probability will bring Tom Seaver back to New York.

Seaver's return, which should be announced next week, hinges on the Mets working out a contract with the three-time Cy Young Award winner and getting a favorable medical report on him from their team physician.

To get Seaver, the Mets will part with two players, both of them probably from their minor-league system.

Oviedo Trips Rams, 4-2; 'Noles Lose; Lyman Wins

Prep Soccer

Oviedo's Juan Uguet scored three goals Friday night as the Lions dropped Lake Mary, 4-2, in the first varsity soccer meeting between the two schools at Lake Mary.

The Lions, 1-1, jumped to a 3-0 lead in the first nine minutes and the befuddled Rams could never come back.

"I don't think they're better than us," said Lake Mary coach Larry McCorkle about his 2-2 Rams. "But they were certainly more aggressive. They played real well."

Uguet scored his first goal when Lake Mary keeper Joe Dalton failed to hold a pass and the ball squirted loose near the Ram net.

The skillful Lion added his second goal from 40 yards away for a 2-0 lead.

"They had some incredible-type goals," said McCorkle. "We had a lot of breakdowns on defense close to our goal."

Several minutes later, Rob Moody made it 3-0 when Dalton and sweeper Paul Holmes had a mixup on whom was handling the ball.

The Rams finally go on the board when Andre Sanders headed in a goal on a pass from Jerry Meyers to cut the Oviedo lead to 3-1.

Oviedo took the steam out of any rally, however, when Uguet got number three on a penalty kick which held up for a 4-1 halftime lead.

"That penalty kick was a killer," said McCorkle. "It took the momentum out of any comeback."

Meyers booted the Rams last goal from 20 yards out underneath the Oviedo goalie. Donald Kelly, who held in check by Oviedo all night, assisted.

The Rams outshot Oviedo, 24-12, but couldn't get more than two despite several near misses. "We had two shots hit the post and several more just go over the top," said McCorkle. "We didn't play very well tonight, but it was one of those games where we were a little bit off too."

In other soccer action Friday, Lyman's Greyhounds ran their record to 3-0 by nipping Winter Park, 2-1, at Longwood.

Kevin Hines and Keith Young booted the Greyhound goals while David Lively accounted for the Winter Park score. The Lyman junior varsity lost a 3-2 decision to the Parkers.

Winter Park outshot Lyman, 15-13, but 10 saves by keeper John Pinkley proved to be the difference for coach Tom Barnes' crew.

At Lake Brantley, Seminole dropped a 3-1 decision to the Patriots to fall to 0-3 for the season.

Carl Nooney had the lone Tribe goal. Seminole hosts Oviedo Tuesday before taking on Lake Mary at home Friday for the Mayor's Cup.

Lady Hawks Whistle Way Past Lake Mary

Lake Howell Converts 30 Of 68 Free Throws

By CHRIS FISTER
Herald Sports Writer

How do you win a basketball game these days? Let us count the ways.

One, you could play strong defense and have potent offensive game. No, scratch that, it doesn't apply here.

Two, you could shoot 68 free throws. One, you could benefit from having five of the other team's players foul out or three, another team's player could score a basket for you.

The above three ways are how the Lady Silver Hawks of Lake Howell managed to outlast the Lady Rams of Lake Mary in a 70-64 barnburner Friday night at Lake Mary.

When it was over the referee's lips had to be hurting. After all, the Rams were whistled for 44 fouls and the Silver Hawks for 32. The game was decided at the free throw line, a place where a few players stepped up to so many times, they could have set up camp.

"Sixty-eight free throws, are you kidding me?" was the reaction of Lake Howell coach Dennis Coedry. "I guess the ball just fell in for us at the right time."

The ball has fallen in at the right time four straight games for the Hawks who now stand 4-0. The Lady Rams dropped their second straight and now stand at 4-2.

Lake Howell managed to hit 30 of the 68 charity tosses and they hit 20 of 64 field goals. Lake Mary connected on 24 of 45 free throws and also collected 20 field goals. Combined, the two teams stepped to the free throw line 114 times Friday night, making 54 of them.

For the second straight week, Lake Mary was plagued with foul trouble early. Kim Averill, Peggy Glass (both starters), Liz Stone and Courtney Hall all picked up three fouls in the first half. To make matters worse, Michelle Swartz, another starter who was averaging eight points a game, injured her ankle in the first half and was out until the second half began.

A layup by Cindy Blocker gave Lake Howell a 17-11 first quarter lead but it was cut to 17-13 when Laura Glass hit two free throws and the first quarter ended with the Hawks up, 17-13.

Just seven seconds into the second quarter, Laura Glass pulled down an offensive rebound, banked in the follow-up shot and was fouled in the process. Her free throw cut Howell's lead to 17-16 and about three minutes later, Lake Mary took the lead, 23-22, as Lisa Gregory hit two free throws.

A layup off an offensive rebound by Peggy Glass gave the Lady Rams their biggest lead, 29-22 with 3:57 remaining in the second quarter.

In the last minute of the first half, the referees whistled the Rams for five fouls and Lake Howell sank four free throws to make it 35-32 at the half.

Lake Mary was able to keep its lead in the first half thanks to the outstanding play of Laura Glass. The 6-2 junior scored 14 points and pulled down 13 rebounds.

The Rams and the Hawks could have used some reinforcements for the second half for they were about to hear a lot more of the familiar sound that will have players and coaches hearing whistles in their sleep for a while.

Prep Basketball

Incidentally, Lake Mary was charged with 24 fouls in the first half, well over its average for an entire game.

The second half had a rather inauspicious start, but the weirdness returned to the game when Lisa Gregory scored two points in the Lake Howell basket.

Not long after that, the Silver Hawks took back the lead as coach Bill Moore was slapped with a technical and Elizabeth Dietrick hit both free throws to give the Hawks a 44-43 lead. A short time later, Averill was called for her fourth foul and the Rams lost one of their best ball handlers.

Still, Lake Mary stayed within two points, 49-47, as the third quarter ended. Lake Howell had a chance to increase its lead but missed nine straight free throws near the end of the quarter.

Halfway through the fourth quarter, Lake Howell took its biggest lead, 59-51, on two free throws by Beth Elder. Lake Mary hung tough though as Swartz, who was hobbled by the sore ankle, spotted Peggy Glass for two points and the Hawks lead was cut to 59-53.

Seconds later, however, the Rams lost Peggy Glass as she was whistled for her fifth foul.

The tide took a u-turn in Lake Mary's direction though, as Lake Howell's standout forward, Chiquita Miller, took a seat with her fifth foul. Laura Glass hit two free throws and the Silver Hawks lead was cut to 59-55 with 4:01 left to play.

A short while later, the Hawks led dwindled to two points as Glass nabbed an offensive carom and dropped in the layup.

The Rams comeback effort was delivered a near-fatal blow though as Swartz, Averill and Laura Glass all fouled out within two minutes.

A layup by Elder gave the Lady Silver Hawks a 63-57 advantage with 2:00 remaining. Andrea Johnson kept Lake Mary's hopes alive as she grabbed an offensive rebound and made the follow up.

Johnson's free throw seconds later cut the Hawks lead to 63-60 with 1:04 remaining. She was fouled by Blocker who also left the game with five fouls.

The Johnson free throw was the front end of a 1-and-1 situation and if she hit the second shot the Howell lead would have been cut to 63-61. But, the ball bounced high off the rim and Courtney Hall, who had been silent most of the night, hauled in the rebound and banked in a nice shot and the Rams trailed by just one point, 63-62 with 1:00 to play.

With 28 seconds left and Lake Howell clinging to a narrow 65-64 lead, Kecia McPherson snared an offensive rebound and put in the layup to put the Hawks up by three. Tammy Johnson gave Lake Howell some breathing room as she connected on a layup for a 69-64 Lake Howell lead and the Rams, with four of its starters sitting out most of the fourth quarter, could not come back again.

"I really can't ask for a better ballgame from our team," Coedry said. "A lot of credit goes to Tammy Johnson, she played a great defensive game."

Chiquita Miller, Lake Howell forward, snatches a rebound from Lake Mary's Andrea Johnson.

Blocker led the Silver Hawks with 17 points, Miller added 13 points and Tammy Johnson chipped in 12. Johnson led the Hawks with 11 rebounds while Blocker and Miller pulled down eight apiece and Christy Scott nabbed seven.

Laura Glass had a game and season-high 22 points and she dominated underneath with 20 rebounds. Andrea Johnson added 14 points and 13 rebounds. Peggy Glass netted 12 points and pulled down eight boards and Gregory had six points and eight rebounds.

Lake Howell takes on a tough DeLand team Monday night at DeLand while the Rams square off with county rival Oviedo Tuesday night at Lake Mary (junior varsity 6:15, varsity 8 p.m.).

Miller, Merthie Lead Boys' Win

About midway through the fourth quarter of Friday night's boys game between Lake Mary and Lake Howell, a disgruntled Ram fan cried out, "Get your act together Lake Mary."

But, on the Lake Mary bench, coach Willie Richardson wasn't worried. Richardson had already rehearsed for the kind of situation his squad was in and he knew what he wanted to do all along.

The Rams built a 71-51 lead at one point in the final period and Richardson knew the Silver Hawks did not have enough time to catch up. And, he was right as the Rams held on for a 75-68 victory.

"It didn't worry me at all," Richardson said of Lake Howell's late surge. "I didn't want to put the starters back in. I made sure we were going to win and got everyone some playing time."

In the last four minutes of the game, Lake Howell outscored the Rams, 17-4 but it was too little, too late for the 0-4 Hawks.

"We did a good job executing in the first half," Richardson said after the Rams upped their record to 3-0. "Then we came back and put them away in the second half."

After gaining a 36-19 halftime advantage behind the shooting of Darryl Merthie and Fred Miller, the Rams came out in the third quarter and ran up 24 points to increase its lead to 60-37 at the end of the third quarter.

Efrem Brooks caught fire in the second half for the Hawks and wound up the game with 24 points. Fred McNeil added 11 points and John Hamrick added 12 to lead the Silver Hawks.

Miller led all scorers with 26 points and he also hauled in seven rebounds. Merthie added 12 points while Donald Grayson and Reginald Medlock chipped in nine apiece.

"Lake Howell is a physical team and it was a good test for us," Richardson said. "After the Christmas break we hope to have eight or nine people that will get a lot of playing time."

Before they break for the holidays though, the Rams will travel to St. Cloud Tuesday and host New Smyrna Beach next Friday. Lake Mary will be in the Oviedo Classic Christmas Tournament on Dec. 21-23.

Sloppy Greyhounds Blitz Apopka

By BRENT SMART
Herald Sports Writer

It wasn't a pretty sight but Tom Lawrence's Lyman Greyhounds raced to a 72-44 Five Star Conference triumph over Apopka's Blue Darters Friday night in Lyman's home opener in Longwood. Lawrence's 'Hounds now stand 2-0 both in the Five Star and overall.

From the opening tipoff, both Lyman and Apopka played dropy as the 'Hounds bungled to an 18-10 first quarter margin.

In period number two senior guard Alexis Cleveland gunned in eight of his game-high 23 and Greyhound senior center Tom Felter cleaned the boards to advance Lyman an overwhelming 34-15 halftime margin. Lyman outscored Apopka, 16-6, in the quarter.

After intermission, sloppy, foul-plagued play continued to dominate. Apopka came out of the locker room with some spark but never cut the lead by more than 14. With bench help from Greg Pilot, Kent Osborn, and Laveche Nelson, the 'Hounds headed to the final stanza with a 51-27 bulge.

Lawrence was especially pleased with the first half play of his squad. "I thought we did an excellent job at the beginning, even with the slick ball that no one could hang onto," he said. "I really thought the young kids did an excellent job again."

Checking the stats, following Cleveland's 22 was Felter with 10, but more important he had 15 rebounds for Lyman.

Spencer Bridges headed the Blue Darter tallies with 12.

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Daytona Beach Seabreeze broke open a tight game in the third quarter Friday night to hand Lake Brantley its first setback — a 68-53 decision — in Five Star Conference basketball play.

"We couldn't hit anything in the third quarter," said coach Bob Peterson about his 1-3 club. "They're pretty quick and that ran away from us at the end."

Lake Brantley sophomore Dennis Groseclose, who led the Patriots with a career-high 18 points, fired in 10 points in the second quarter as Brantley erased a 10-point lead. Seabreeze still led, 31-26, at halftime.

Oviedo, 2-3, took command from the outset, running up a 33-27 halftime lead on the strength of 12 points from senior forward Bill McCartney.

Time For Trevor To Quit Blowing Smoke About UCF Commitment

If you've been buried in a mine for the past two years and just came up, the University of Central Florida football program has serious problems.

The Knights went 0-10 this year and their coach Sam Weir (who was on an interim basis) withdrew his application to take over the program full-time next year.

Just a couple of days ago, UCF bought off Don Jonas who was serving as fund-raiser because it needed his position to hire an assistant coach and to put more money ($24,000) in the athletic department's coffers. Jonas took $12,000 (six months pay) and called it a career.

Sam Weir and Don Jonas. Just two years ago these two gentlemen were expected to put the UCF program on the map. Jonas started the program four years ago and forged a 14-12-1 record which is quite an achievement for a budding program.

Don's biggest mistake was winning. He went 6-1 his first year. From then on — due to being over-scheduled and receiving the proper commitment from the university — it was all downhill.

Weir was brought in as a co-head coach two years ago and then took over for Jonas full-time this past season. Weir called it quits two weeks before the season ended because he felt the school wasn't making a total commitment to football (scholarships, money, etc.).

UCF President Dr. Trevor Colbourn, the mastermind behind this whole mess, tactfully tried to remove Jonas, but a source said Jonas was badmouthing the program and UCF didn't need him around another year (an employee with tenure needs a year's notice) to backstab the program.

Jonas is a hard worker. He won't have much trouble finding a job, so he took his 12 grand and wandered off to enjoy himself for awhile. Still, it bothered him to leave UCF, but he said he felt the place was so messed up why bother.

I find it humorous that the source said Jonas was badmouthing the program. I haven't encountered anyone this year — including Colbourn and Peterson — that wasn't critical of the program. How can you be positive about an 0-10 season? Well, the uniforms were pretty nice, but outside of that ...

The bottom line is the pipe-smoking gentleman at the top won't make the commitment to having a football program. In fact, when is the last time Colbourn made a correct move concerning the program?

Here's a man who supposedly was the acting president of San Diego State University. It must have been a good act. Tr. Aztecs had a tremendous football program. They sent quarterbacks and receivers into the pros every year. Don Coryell coached there. You'd think just being around that program something would rub off.

Yet, all you ever hear from Colbourn is what we hope to do. Which ends up to be nothing. Either you are or you aren't. Either you have a football program or you don't. It's time for Trevor to light up his football pipe and smoke it. Or else, let the ashes of a dying program flutter away on the wind.

Jonas and Weir knew what was necessary to run a football program. Athletic Director Bill Peterson knows what is necessary. The problem is the man that needs to know apparently doesn't or doesn't care enough to take the steps to finish what was his big brainstom five years ago.

Some believe the saviour is on the horizon.

Lou Saban, college football's coaching vagabond, has applied for the head coaching job and appears to be the front-runner. Saban has a reputation of not staying in one place too long.

His stops include Miami, Maryland, Army, Northwestern, Western Illinois, the Boston Patriots, the Buffalo Bills and the Denver Broncos. His shortest stint, though, was at the University of Cincinnati where he stayed two weeks.

UCF Athletic Director Bill Peterson, however, says the tag "vagabond" may be a little rough. "He's a helluva football coach," said Pete. "I hope he'll be one of the names the committee gives me."

Peterson said Saban was made promises by the various schools at which he has coached and when the schools didn't follow through with these promises, Lou waved goodbye.

He should love UCF, then.

"What you have to do is sit Lou down and tell him exactly what you have and what you don't have," said Peterson. "You don't make him any promises, you just tell him the truth."

That should be enough to scare him off.

Seriously, though, Peterson is expected to get three applications and two alternates just after Christmas.

"You better believe when I get the candidates, I'm going to interview them and pick one fast," said Peterson. "We've got to get going on this thing." But where are they going?

BURGER KINGS — Oviedo's Jack Blanton was named coach of the year Wednesday while Lyman's Mike Hill was named the best defensive player and Lake Howell's Jay Robey was selected the best offensive player.

BAD YEAR — When it's not your year, it's not your year. After finishing 0-10 this year, coach Jerry Posey's Fighting Seminoles were still invited guests of the Burger King restaurants for Wednesday's awards banquet.

Posey, however, forgot about the hamburger dinner and didn't attend. "I called (Burger King executive) Bob Santulli and apologized," said Posey. "I just forgot all about it. I really feel bad because Burger King does so much for sports in the county." Make that 0-11.

Phelps Springs Into Raider Spotlight; SCC Plays Polk

By CHRIS FISTER
Herald Sports Writer

JANUARY 1978 — As the 1977-78 prep basketball season reached its midseason point the Springstead High (in Spring Hill, near Brooksville) junior varsity team was joined by a young eighth grader who had high aspirations and a lot of determination.

At that time Louis Phelps, now a 6-6 power forward at Seminole Community College, was about 6-1 but as soon as he got a chance to play, Phelps was showing signs of what a force he could be in the future and that he would grow, a lot. When coach Greg O'Connell took over the coaching reins at Springstead, Phelps had someone who could push him to his limits.

"I knew he had the potential," O'Connell said of Phelps. "It was just a matter of getting it out of him. I had to push him pretty hard at times but it paid off."

O'Connell, a former standout player at St. Leo who stands 6-8, is responsible for bringing Phelps and the Springstead basketball program from obscurity to respectability. Many a day in practice O'Connell would work with Phelps, playing him one-on-one, teaching him to be aggressive.

J.C. Basketball

All that work got Phelps noticed and he is one of the top scorers and rebounders for Bill Payne's SCC Raiders.

"If Luis will keep going in the direction he has been, he'll be a fine player," Payne said. "At times, he has too much show in him and he has to get that out of his system. But he has the springs and a decent shot and if he works he has the potential to be a good one."

Thus far in '82-83 season (nine games), Phelps has scored 112 points for an average of 12.4 per game which is second behind 6-10 center Rudy Kulper, who averages 19.4 points per game.

Both Phelps and Kulper have 63 rebounds in nine games, an average of seven boards per outing. Phelps leads the Raiders in blocked shots with 17, an average of 1.9 per game.

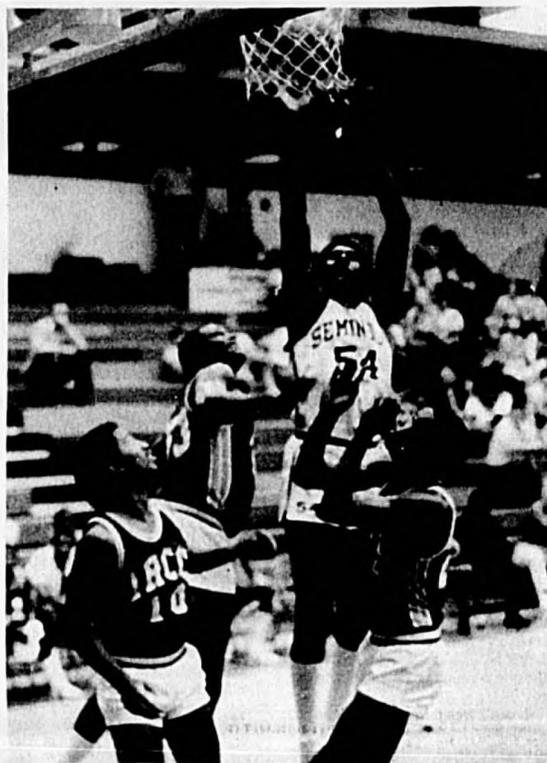

As O'Connell said while Phelps was in high school and as Payne feels now, Phelps has the potential to go far but only if he continues to do what it took him to get this far, work hard.

RAIDER RAP — The Raiders take their 6-3 record to Winter Haven Saturday for a matchup with Polk CC. SCC has won three straight including victories over the number seven team (Florida College) and the number one team (Indian River) in the state JC rankings.

The Raiders are scoring an average of 80 points per game while giving up 75 per game. Behind Phelps and Kulper in scoring are Ricky Sutton (12.1 points, 4.7 rebounds) and Delvin Everett (10.6 points, 8.2 rebounds). Sutton leads in free throws with 29 made of 34 attempts for 85 percent accuracy. He is followed by Jimmy Payton (17-22, 77 percent) and David Gallagher (10-13, 77 percent).

Keith Whitney leads in assists with 32 (3.5 per game) followed by Payton (23, 3.2 per game seven games), Sutton (21, 2.3 per game) and Gallagher (20, 2.2 per game). After seven games, Phelps, Kulper and Everett ranked among the top 20 scorers in the Mid-Florida Conference. Kulper was co-player of the week last week.

Kulper's 19.4 average seems miniscule in comparison to the national scoring leader, Carlos Griggs, of Schoolcraft, Livonia (Minn.), is averaging 44.8 points per game.

Luis Phelps drops in a short jump shot against Indian River.

Weaver Claims Fix After Loss In 63 Seconds

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — In little more than a minute Mike Weaver lost his World Boxing Association title Friday night — the quickest end to a heavyweight title fight since 1900.

Boxing

After a 63-second flurry of punches by Michael Dokes left Weaver leaning on the ropes — although apparently in complete control of himself — referee Joey Curtis stepped in and lifted Dokes' hand in triumph.

It was, without a doubt, the most controversial end to a fight, and posed many questions.

"They shouldn't have stopped it," said veteran ring physician Dr. Donald Romeo. "They referee was wrong. Weaver was fine."

Nevada State Athletic Commissioner Roy Tensionn went further.

"The fight was stopped too early," he said. "Based on Weaver's reactions during the fight and right after the referee stopped it, it was definitely the wrong thing to do. I sat right here and it was very evident Weaver knew exactly what he was doing. He looked real sharp to me."

But Weaver and his manager, Don Manuel, took the extra step.

"I'm saying this was a setup... the fix was on," said Weaver. "Anyone who saw that fight and has any common sense would say the same thing. That's why Dokes was a 3-1 favorite all week."

"Dokes started fast and threw a lot of punches," Manuel said. "And he did that because he knew ... there was a script for this fight. Now we want to find out who wrote the script."

When Curtis stopped the fight, Dokes leaped into the air, then toppled to the canvas. He was on his back for two minutes, his gloves covering his face, his body trembling.

"Before the fight his eyes looked all red and his skin was all sweaty," Weaver said. "He acted kinda weird."

Within minutes of the end of the fight, Manuel had filed an official protest with the WBA and demanded a urinalysis be conducted on Dokes. The Nevada State Athletic Commissioners at the fight voted unanimously to recommend a rematch. And Weaver refused to relinquish his jewel-studded championship belt.

"He never hurt me, not even a little bit," the 36-year-old Weaver said. "I was covering up, waiting for him to get tired. When the referee broke us up and lifted his hand in the air, I just couldn't believe it. He never asked me if I was hurt and he never even looked in my eyes. I don't know why in the world he stopped it."

Curtis issued a terse statement several hours after the fight: "I stopped it because he didn't answer me when I asked him if he was hurt."

Dokes went immediately to his hotel room and refused to appear at a scheduled news conference.

At the starting bell, Dokes had sprung from his corner and began throwing whistling lefts and rights. Just 30 seconds into the fight a left hook caught the champion on the forehead and Weaver went down on one knee. He was up at the count of five and appeared unharmed by the blow.

Dokes pressed the attack, backing Weaver into the champion's corner and landing three or four straight rights to the head. Weaver blocked several blows, and, just seconds before Curtis signaled the end, he appeared to rock Dokes with a powerful overhand right.

"I think I hurt him with that last punch," Weaver said. "I just can't believe this."

Dokes, 216, entered the fight with a 28-0-1 record. Weaver, who hadn't fought in 14 months, was 24-0 entering the fight. He had spent the last year training.

"And after one minute, it's all over," Weaver said. "That just isn't right."

Patriots Shed 'Agent Orange,' Play Dolphins At Schaefer Stadium

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — For the first time since 1968, the New England Patriots will be able to say they completed a season and didn't lose in the Orange Bowl.

The strike took care of that — but they still have to face the Orange Bowl tenants once this year. And coach Ron Meyer expects his team to have more than its share of trouble with the Miami Dolphins on the phony turf at Schaefer Stadium Sunday.

"The Dolphins have that team consistency that you want," marveled New England coach Ron Meyer. "They don't panic. They came here in 1980 and we beat them 34-0. They had 88 yards. They went home, tended to their knitting and got better. They have that level of confidence on teams that win."

The Patriots have yet to find that level this year (or last year for that matter when they were 2-14) and enter Sunday's game with the Dolphins in as 2-3 and underdogs. Miami is 4-1, but the Dolphins have not been without problems of their own.

"We're worried about our offensive production, I'm not happy with it," said Dolphins coach Don Shula, whose team needed seven quarters to score a touchdown after the strike. "We're having trouble putting points on the board and we need a lot of work on our passing game. Our defense continues to play well, we have been playing good defense."

The Dolphins are 6-9 at New England and last year's 30-27 overtime triumph over the Patriots was Miami's first in Schaefer Stadium since 1975. It will be Miami's first December visit to Schaefer Stadium since 1977, when the Dolphins lost 14-10 on a frigid day and totaled 25 rushing yards in 19 attempts.

Shula said he will start David Woodley at quarterback, although he indicated he wouldn't hesitate to switch to Don Strock, as he has done in two of the five games this season. Strock is 9-for-35 with seven interceptions in his career against New England. Woodley is 59-for-113 with five interceptions and two TDs. The two have been sacked 10 times for 93 yards.

"We're going to prepare for Woodley, but they're both good quarterbacks," Meyer said. "We had a tough time with (Jim) McMahon running around and Woodley is a more effective runner."

Meyer said he will make some changes after the Patriots' 26-13 loss Sunday to Chicago, a game which New England committed four turnovers and had a sack for a safety. The coach did say he would stick with Steve Grogan at quarterback, but he wasn't sure about kicker Dan

Miller. However, John Smith would have to clear non-recall waivers for New England to activate him.

Whatever changes Meyer makes, the Patriots still are a young team with 22 new faces, something which poses problems for both coaches. Shula, however, looks at films and sees some recognizable nemeses from past battles.

"They do have a lot of new faces but unfortunately I see some familiar faces in the secondary," Shula said in alluding to the four No. 1 draft choices in New England's defensive backfield. "I've got a lot of respect for them back there. They've also got Grogan and we know about him. And (Stanley) Morgan is a threat at wide receiver."

Air Duel Expected As Montana Takes On Chargers' Fouts

In preparing for Saturday's expected air duel with San Francisco, San Diego Coach Don Coryell is focusing the Chargers' defense on one person — their quarterback Joe Montana.

"He's a very fine quarterback," Coryell said. "Our job will be to upset his timing. He's going to get his yards no matter what we do, but if we can keep him from completing long passes, we will be all right. Last week, we played one of our best games (beating Cleveland 30-13). We're just coming on."

But, while the 49ers are struggling with a 2-3 record, Montana is not. He has passed for 1,627 yards and 11 touchdowns, and last week he led San Francisco to a 30-24 victory over the Los Angeles Rams.

The Chargers are faring a bit better at 2-2, and the reputation of their quarterback, Dan Fouts, precedes him. So Chargers' Coach Bill Walsh has prepared an identical strategy to Coryell's.

"We have to disrupt his timing, make him throw the ball faster or hold it longer," Walsh said. "He throws so quickly it's difficult for ends to get to him, so we will have to push his offensive linemen back in his face."

Walsh has been hard at work for the game at San Francisco, trying to improve his pass rush as well as the ground attack. The 49ers will use all their down linemen and linebackers in various combinations in an effort to confuse the Chargers.

Pro Football

Reserve running back Bill Ring has been moved up to starting fullback in place of Earl Cooper.

In Saturday's other game, the Philadelphia Eagles and New York Giants will meet at the NFC playoff crossroads in East Rutherford, N.J.

The Giants have won two straight after an 0-3 start and if they can beat the Eagles, they would probably need two wins in the remaining three games for a second straight postseason spot. Philadelphia, 1-4, has dropped three straight and a loss would virtually eliminate the Eagles from the playoff hunt.

"All we really need is a win," said Philadelphia Coach Dick Vermeil.

And Giants Coach Ray Perkins said he was not taking the Eagles lightly.

"Defensively, the Eagles haven't played as well as they're capable of playing, but ... they were in the Super Bowl a couple of years ago and nobody gets to the Super Bowl without having a lot of pride," he said.

King George Turns Pacific Green With Spending

Milton Richman
UPI Sports Editor

HONOLULU (UPI) — As they bid a fond farewell to this balmy island paradise, you can't help but hear some unmistakable grumbling from many of the baseball people.

First, because they never got a chance to take a dip in the blue Pacific and second, because they think free-spending George Steinbrenner is polluting the water with all that filthy Yankee lucre he's paying for ballplayers.

Now that he has picked up free-agent Steve Kemp to go with Don Baylor, King George has a gaggle of outfielders whose total salary exceeds $5 million.

The much more conservative Oakland A's are trying to do it their own way. They employed Billy Martin and it worked for a while, but with his departure, they've changed their entire approach.

They are going in more for defense now and fundamental baseball.

The man they've tapped to help them is Steve Boros, who has never managed in the majors.

He has been called bookish and intellectual. But, he's also outgoing and gregarious and no one ever could really accuse him of being an egghead or an introvert. He has managed in the minors and he had the Arecibo club in the Puerto Rican League three winters. He has his own ideas about managing in the big leagues. "My approach will be a lot like Harvey Kuenn's," he says. "I'll just step back and let 'em play."

The A's new skipper was once an English major at the University of Michigan and his instructors felt they saw considerable creative ability in him. Roy Eisenhardt, Oakland's president, and Wally Has, its vice president, believed they saw some of that, too, and it undoubtedly helped Boros get the job.

One of the qualities you can't help noticing about Steve Boros is that he has both his feet on the ground. Moreover, he has a faculty for being able to appreciate what's important in life and what's not.

He tells a story of what happened to him in Puerto Rico last Nov. 12, the night before he got the Oakland job, that demonstrates that faculty.

He was managing Arecibo and his team was traveling to Bayamon. Boros was driving a rented car and he had a player-coach, Gary Lance, sitting alongside him.

"I had been to Oakland and was waiting for news of whether I'd get the job or not and we were talking about that," Boros remembers. "It was raining and dark outside and around midnight. Gary said, 'Oh my God, there's a boy lying in the road.'"

"I turned the car around, pulled in back of the boy and put the flashers on. We could see he was about 14 or 15 years old. He had been hit by a car and was dead.

"There was a little bar on the side of the road. We told the proprietor about the boy and he called the police. I don't think Gary and I said 10 words to each other when we got back in the car and went on to Bayamon. It had put everything in proper perspective. We didn't talk about the Oakland job anymore. Gary said his wife, Lucy, had been hit by a car, that she still had nightmares about it and he could never tell her about this accident."

The following day, Boros was at the ballpark in Bayamon talking with Jack McKeon and Dick Williams of the Padres and he was telling them about the accident. One of Boros' players called out to him, saying there was a policeman who wanted to see him in the dugout.

The policeman handed him a note asking Boros to call a number in Oakland and said it was an emergency. Boros recognized it as Eisenhardt's home number.

"I was very excited," he said.

He went to the clubhouse and dialed the number.

"Hi Roy, this is Steve," he said.

"Hi Steve," Eisenhardt answered. "I want to know if you want to manage the Oakland A's this coming season."

"Roy, I'd love to manage the Oakland A's this season, and that's probably an understatement."

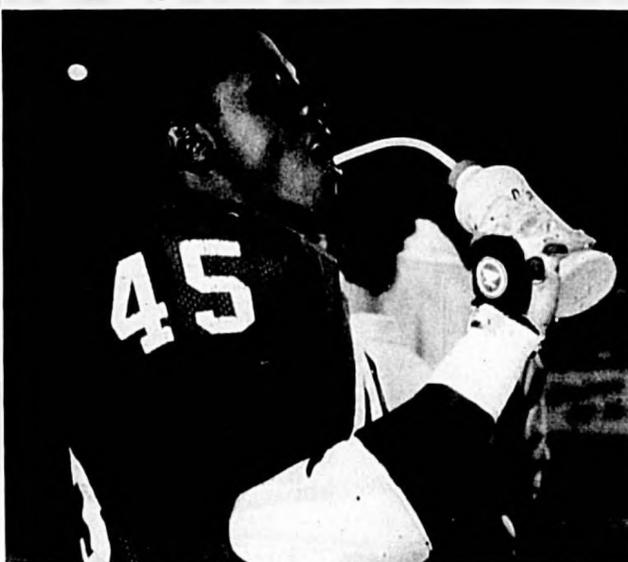

"I'm very happy to hear that," said the A's president.

Celtics Rout 76ers

You'd expect them to dislike each other, but it just isn't that way.

"It's a rivalry built on respect," Philadelphia's Julius Erving said Friday night, after the Boston Celtics routed the 76ers, 123-97, at Boston Garden. "One of the gratifying things of this rivalry was after we beat Boston last year (in the Eastern Conference championship), their fans were pulling for us in the finals. That's respect."

Larry Bird and Robert Parish combined for 32 points to key a first-half runaway that helped the Celtics take a share of first place in the Atlantic Division.

Bird scored 24 of his game-high 33 points on 9-for-14 shooting and grabbed 8 rebounds in the first half, when the Celtics, behind a 32-16 rebounding edge, moved to a 68-53 lead. Philadelphia never got closer than 15 points the rest of the game.

Parish, bothered by a sore ankle, had 14 of his 8 points in the first half while also grabbing 10 rebounds.

"It's a way of life," said Parish of his injury.

Nate Archibald registered his 6,000th NBA assist in the fourth period.

In other games, it was: San Antonio 114, New Jersey 102; Milwaukee 104, Atlanta 83; Denver 117, Cleveland 107; Dallas 122, Detroit 121; Kansas City 118, San Diego 106; Los Angeles 128, Utah 122; Indiana 108, New York 00; Phoenix 97, Houston 83; and Golden State 101, Seattle 100.

Hundreds attended the traditional cabbage patch party.

Outdoor Social Now A Tradition

Party Of The Year

By LORIDREW

Special To The Herald

"Your headline could read, 'Cabbage Patch Party Attended by Bunch of Fruitcakes!' so said one woman the eve of the party.

Laughter then filled the kitchen where some 20 friends and family members, preparing for the party, gathered to cut and clean celery, carrots, turnips, broccoli, cauliflower and just about every common vegetable except for cabbage, simultaneously "cutting up" over the history and executional techniques of the bi-annual "Cabbage Patch Party," hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Gielow and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schumacher.

The fourth in a growing series of what may be one of the largest outdoor parties still in existence was held Friday in none other than the packing field of Henry Schumacher's cabbage "patch" in Sanford. And although no "fruitcakes" made it to the vegetable farm, friends did travel from as far away as North Dakota, Pennsylvania and the Bahamas for the long-awaited festival, held simply to entertain guests.

"We wanted to entertain their (her parents) friends and our friends," said Bonnie Schumacher, daughter of Walter and "Bill" Gielow. But in bridging any possibility of a generation gap, the two Sanford families found their home space too small. "It got to be too many people (to have the party indoors)," said a vivacious Mrs. Schumacher. "We had too many friends. Now that's kind of special!"

That was (four) years ago and this year the number of post card invitations stamped in green has continued to increase to nearly 400 sent to couples in Sanford and everywhere their friends reside, keeping with the special tradition started by an obviously fun-loving family.

"Her (Bonnie Schumacher) parents always had cocktail parties," said one friend helping with the vegetable snacks the night before the big day. "But Bonnie got older and they moved them to the cabbage patch." There, nature's green carpeting absorbs the shock of hundreds of frolicking feet as hands dip into cases of unlimited beverages, and over 200 bushels of vegetables are dipped into 56 pints of seasoned sour cream.

The magnitude of the whole event appears limitless itself as flat-bed trucks are covered with newsprint tablecloths, and feedbuckets are filled with wildflowers, adorning newly facelifted tables arranged with refreshments.

Oil lanterns and torches shed a warm light on an already warm and wonderful night as three bonfires blaze. The mom and dad generation, together with daughter's and son-in-law's guests, get cozy on logs set around the fires.

But the fire in the cabbage patch warms more than conversations among friends. Each year the party is held, Mrs. Gielow and her husband get their special system in gear to concoct a batch of chili which feeds a hungry crowd.

"Walter and I have it worked out as a system," said Mrs. Gielow. "We make five gallons per day, then freeze it in 'Ziploc' bags." Although she added that she could not remember exactly how much of the beefy tomato sauce they made, the retired woman decked in jeans, western shirt and cowboy hat, estimated a mere 100 gallons was heated by a fire beneath the traditional iron kettle over 100 years old.

"That kettle is a story in itself," said Mrs. Schumacher, who explained her husband rents it from an elderly gentleman. "He doesn't want to give it up," said Schumacher about the 35-gallon antique. It's a sentimental thing for him."

Every other year, "the cabbage king" finds himself cleaning, this collector's item, wrapping it, and "when I go to get it the next time, it looks like I left it."

Two hosts and hostesses all have their own parts to play in preparing for the patch party. "My parents take care of the drinks and chili. Henry and I get the vegetables, band and tables," Mrs. Schumacher explained.

Still, they work together, and with the help of close friends and neighbors, the parties are pulled off as nothing short of success. "Everyone helps everyone do everything," said Mrs. Gielow. While one friend added, "Without her friends, Bonnie wouldn't have a party."

"Gus the Burgermeister" and his German band might still be able to play excerpts from more than two dozen songs in just three minutes—dressed in shorts and socks no less.

And the tractor driver may still make his rounds of the acres of cabbage "patches" still pulling wagons of fresh hay and gentlemen with their favorite ladies under the harvest moon.

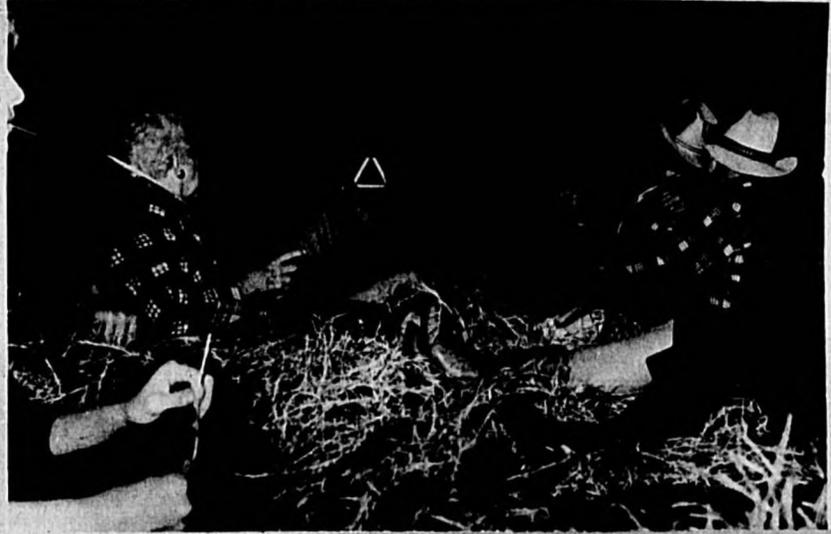

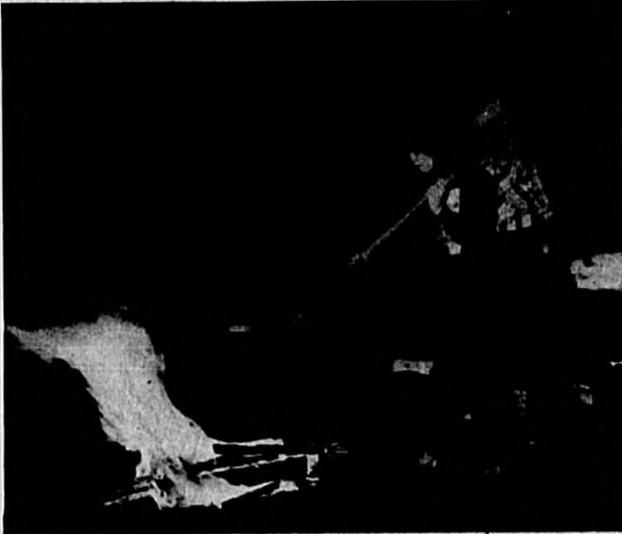

And that full moon may still rise high in the star-filled sky every November.

But it would have no cabbage patch party every other year at its second full stage in November to shed its light on—if the Gielows and Schumachers did not have their friends. Without friends, there would be no need for parties.

So under the harvest moon, the Gielows and Schumachers showed their thankfulness for their hundreds of friends in the cabbage patch. "Every other year about this time, you start saying that this is the last time," said Mrs. Schumacher.

"But then all this starts," she added, pointing to the smiling faces playing the kazoo to the tune of the turnip peeler, "and you say you can't do without it."

Shauna Schumacher, left photo, stirs chili with an oar while her grandmother, hostess Bill Gielow, takes care of last minute details. Party revelers, right photo, were treated to a hayride by the light of the silvery moon.

The Sights And Sounds Of Christmas

Gala Reception Opens Angel Exhibit At Museum

Penny Peterson, right, trustee and past president of the Board of Trustees of Henry Sanford Museum-Library, explains the unique gold Christmas exhibit to Mildred M. Caskey and Jack Horner.

"The Sights and Sounds of Christmas" will highlight the holiday season at the Henry S. Sanford Museum-Library with an unusual exhibit of angels, a collection of renaissance musical instruments (1450-1600 A.D.) mounted against a background of cherubs reproduced from paintings by the old masters.

The exhibit opened Tuesday evening Dec. 7 when the museum-library board of directors and trustees hosted a gala preview reception for several hundred "Friends of Historical Preservation."

The sounds of Christmas greeted the guests as a choral group presented a program of yuletide songs followed by a series of Elizabethan musical offerings arranged by Barbara Muller of the Seminole Community College Humanities department.

The Sights of Christmas was evident in the beauty of the display of angels and lovely refreshments arranged on the handsome antique 16-foot counter, handmade more than half a century ago for 'Yowell's' one of Sanford's most popular stores which served the fashion conscious ladies of the period.

The Angel club of America inspired the current display when the collection of Mrs. Daphne Like of The Forest, Lake Mary, was made available to the museum. The national club was founded in August, 1978 in Wheat Ridge, Col. by Theo Marie Spousier and Mary Elizabeth Mathews. The purpose of the club is to raise funds for the National Cancer Association.

Additions to the exhibit are the collection of Mrs. Grace O'Brien, Mrs. Lillian Gardner, Dr. Genevieve Richardson, Mrs. Jean Fowler and a beautiful hand-crafted collection made by exhibit director Margaret Vitale and Emy Sokal.

Mrs. Penelope Peterson and Mrs. Jan Johnson were in charge of special decorations while Mrs. Ruth Lee, Mrs. Nancy Morgan, Mrs. Barbara Moore Miss Emy Sokal, Miss Beth Fowler and Mrs. Judy Wimblish were in charge of museum decorations.

Reproductions of the masters were provided by Jack Cash. Assisting at the refreshment table were Mrs. Elizabeth Gallant Mrs. Ruth Swinney, Mrs. Boots Walker, Mrs. Grace O'Brien and Dr. Genevieve Richardson.

Receiving the guests were Mrs. and Mrs. Ned Yancey, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Horner, Mr. and Mrs. J. Jernigan, Mrs. Mildred M. Caskey, Mrs. Margaret Vitale and Mrs. Jean Fowler.

Of special interest to music lovers will be a Sunday afternoon concert of harpsichord music to be given on Sunday, Dec. 19, at 3 p.m. by Miss Barbara Muller. There will be no admission charge and the public is cordially invited.

Separated Parents Cause Pair Pre-Holiday Jitters

DEAR ABBY: Here's the situation: My husband, Joe, and I have four bedrooms and five children. My parents are coming to spend the Christmas holidays with us. (We live in Arizona and they live in New Jersey.) Joe's parents are separated and are not on very good terms.

Joe's mother, who is a darling, is coming for Christmas. Joe's father, who is a creep, called last night (knowing full well his estranged wife was coming for Christmas) and I heard Joe tell him on the phone, "Sure you can come for Christmas, Dad — we'll make room somehow." I was furious!

The next day I called my father-in-law. He was out, so I left the following message on his answering machine: "Hi, Dad! I know Joe said it would be OK for you to come for Christmas, but I don't think it would work out with all the company we are expecting. You are more than welcome to come another time. I know you'll understand. Please keep this just between us, huh, Dad?"

Dear Abby

Well, Abby, as soon as Dad got the message he called Joe, who talked him into coming anyway! I am furious!

(1) Was I wrong to call and leave that message? (2) Was my father-in-law wrong to have told Joe I called and asked him to stay home after I asked him specifically not to tell him? (3) What do I do now?

IN THE SOUP

DEAR IN: (1) Yes. (2) Yes, but what did you expect? (3) You've done enough. Just keep your mouth shut, and try to make the best of it. (P.S. Merry Christmas!)

DEAR ABBY: Why doesn't some smart builder build an apartment exclusively for non-smokers? Since smokers use more air-conditioning, and it costs more to clean up a smoker's apartment, not to mention the higher risk when it comes to fire, a non-smoker's apartment would be more profitable.

I'll bet many retired people would be willing to give up their homes if such apartments were available. I know I would.

NORMA IN TUCSON

DEAR NORMA: There's a motel in Dallas exclusively for non-smokers (The Non-Smokers Inn, 9229 Carpenter Freeway, Dallas, Texas 75247), so why not an apartment building for non-smokers in Tucson — or in any other city? Readers? (P.S. Please, no letters from builders saying, "I'll see you inhale first.")

DEAR ABBY: My sister and her husband recently lost their cat to cancer. They loved her like a "daughter" and were distraught over her death. (It broke my heart to see my "cattiece" in the hospital with an IV.)

My question: Do I send flowers, a card or what? Please give me the protocol for feline funerals.

SINCERE IN SAN DIEGO

DEAR SINCERE: Express your sympathy by any means you feel appropriate — flowers, a card, a note or just a verbal "I'm sorry" — but do express it.

Animal lovers who regard their pets as "children" need consolation and support to resolve their grief and adjust to their loss.

If you hate to write letters because you can't know what to say, send for Abby's complete booklet on letter-writing. Send $2 and a long, stamped (37 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

BUSINESS IN BRIEF

Atlantic Bank To Offer New Investment Service

B. J. Walker, president and chief executive officer of Atlantic National Bank of Florida, has announced Atlantic will offer a new package product on Tuesday that combines money market rates with checkbook convenience and provides discount brokerage service to its customers.

The Atlantic Bank Money Market Management Account will uniquely package a variety of services which will be anchored by the Money Market Account which has been approved by the Depository Institutions Deregulation Committee for introduction on or after Tuesday. The interest rate on Atlantic's basic money market account will be competitive with the money funds, and will be generally indexed to the weekly 90-day Treasury Bill auctions. The opening balance requirement for this account will be $2,500.

Additional services included in the package account are a Discount Brokerage Service which offers a savings of 50 percent or more on fees paid for transactions and a free checking account. Additional services may be included in the package and will be reflected on a monthly financial summary statement to provide maximum convenience and comprehension of a customer's financial accounts at Atlantic.

"The most attractive features of the new product are the higher money market interest rates, checking account type access, and the fact that deposits are insured," Walker said. "The financial summary statement will be most useful for our customers, allowing them to focus on their total financial relationship."

Scotty's Sales Up 15%

Ray H. Cooney, president and chief operating officer of Scotty's, Inc., reported sales for the four weeks ended Nov. 27 were $25,897,398, an increase of 15 percent over sales of $22,561,401 for the four weeks ended Nov. 21, 1981.

Daily sales actually increased 20 percent in this most recent period. This year's four-week period contained only 23 selling days versus 24 in November 1981 because Thanksgiving in 1981 was included in the following accounting period.

Sales for the 21 weeks ended Nov. 27, 1982, were $125,221,192, an increase of 9 percent over sales of $115,284,079 for the corresponding period last year.

Cooney attributed the increase in November sales to the increasing professional builder business as well as the strong consumer "do-it-yourself" segment of the market. Consumer and commercial sales still represent over 75 percent of Scotty's total sales.

Scotty's operates 99 stores, including in Sanford.

Recovery Seen In 1983

There is a silver lining in our current economic clouds, but the national recovery won't take hold until 1983, projects Mickey D. Levy, vice president corporate planning, Southeast Bank, N.A.

Despite high unemployment and declines in industrial production, the substantial drop in interest rates will help nudge the U.S. economy forward from the recession we have been in since August 1981, he said. Since July, the prime rate has dropped from 16.5 to 11.5 percent and other rates have also declined.

"The continued interest rate declines are the most encouraging news in the economy. But while long and short term rates have dropped considerably, mortgage and consumer rates have dropped more slowly, and this is holding the recovery back," said Levy.

Activity in the housing industry is also encouraging. Sales of new single family homes rose 23.7 percent in September, and housing starts are more than 30 percent ahead of the annual pace a year ago. However, housing activity must rise further before reaching a healthy level. The modest recovery is being stimulated by federal programs to subsidize multi-family units, a pent-up demand and the drop in mortgage rates, particularly the variable rate mortgages.

Less promising are auto sales, which were very weak in October, following a strong showing in September. The current level of sales is just slightly above the recessionary trough, and far below the 6.8 million unit sales pace of a year ago. Car production has been cut back until sales pick up.

Slow retail sales and sluggish demand for manufactured goods have led to another inventory buildup, which in turn is depressing industrial production and causing high unemployment, said Levy.

"The thorniest problem right now is the continuing high unemployment rate," said Levy. "This is the starkest evidence of the depth of the recession and the high cost of reducing inflation," Levy said. The unemployment rate, expected to remain above 10 percent during the next several months, will recede very slowly, even as the economy recovers, he added.

"The slow decline in the unemployment rate, currently at 10.4 percent, is typical of recent recoveries," Levy explained. "Unemployment tends to lag national business cycles, reaching its peak just after the economic trough and then not declining until after the recovery is well underway."

"Besides the obvious impact on people who are laid off, high unemployment has other undesirable side effects," Levy said. For example, it lowers national personal income, which dampens retail sales.

"In addition, as a general rule of thumb, on an annual basis, each one percentage point increase in the unemployment rate, raises the federal budget deficit by $25 billion," said Levy.

The unemployment problem also indirectly affects government economic policy. For example, the failure to emerge from recession was one factor that influenced the Federal Reserve's decision to temporarily move toward a policy of monetary ease.

Southeast Banking Corporation, N.A. is affiliated with Southeast Banking Corporation, Florida's largest banking organization with total assets of $7.1 billion, total deposits of $5.3 billion and 125 banking center locations throughout the state.

Stromberg Puts In New System

"It was an excellent cutover," said James M. Bridges, president of Stromberg-Carlson Corporation, after placing in service a Class 4-5 System Century digital Central Office at the Smithfield, Va., office of the Continental Telephone Co. of Virginia.

The Continental Telephone Co. of Virginia is a telephone operating company of Continental Telcom, Inc. The 5,500-line system utilized seven frames of Stromberg-Carlson's new Local Line Switch (LLS) and provides a full line of custom-calling features as well as pushbutton dialing and Local Automatic Message Accounting (LAMA).

Eventually, the Smithfield central office will be the hub of a large network of remote offices. By the end of 1983, 11 Remote Line Switches (RLS) with a total of 6,480 lines will be installed and working out of this office.

The RLS, which will be available early in 1983, is based on the same microprocessor controlled digital architecture as the LLS.

Stromberg-Carlson, a member of the Plessey Group, is a leading designer and manufacturer of telecommunications equipment with headquarters in Lake Mary.

Manufacturing facilities are located in Lake Mary, Rochester, N.Y., and Ardmore, Ok. The Engineering Development Center is in Longwood.

Seminole County's third independent bank is scheduled to open in its new facilities on U.S. Highway 17-92 in Longwood on Dec. 15.

It is Liberty National Bank, a locally owned institution with a local board of directors.

According to Liberty National President William B. Gossett, a resident of South Seminole County, the bank will have a capital investment of $1,750,000.

Gossett has been in banking in this area for the past 10 years having formerly been associated with Atlantic Bank of Seminole and Tropic Bank of Seminole.

Other officers of the bank include Joyce Franklin, who has worked in area banks since 1969, and Randy Stowell, consumer loan officer.

The chairman of the board of directors will be Deno P. Dikeou, a Fern Park attorney. Other directors include Dr. Kenneth Wing, a Sanford surgeon; Lionel Raymond, the senior Allstate Insurance agent; Philip Kobrin of Longwood, a real estate investor; Dr. Eugene Forrester, a Winter Park physician; John Baldwin, a Fern Park attorney; and Gossett.

Gossett said the bank will have 11 or 12 employees to begin with. It will be a standard full service bank. It will have three drive-in units with plans to add two more.

"We're going to hold off on our grand opening celebration until after Christmas," Gossett said.

Southern Bell Details Rate Hike Request

Southern Bell Telephone Co. recently asked the Florida Public Service Commission to approve rate changes that would increase its annual revenues in the state by $404.1 million.

At the same time, the company sought permission to put $178.5 million of the proposed increase in effect on an interim basis starting in less than two months from now.

The requested changes would raise the monthly rate for a residence telephone line by a maximum of $6 and for a business line by $9 in Sanford.

The monthly Sanford service bill for a residence customer with an individual line and one standard rotary dial phone rented from Southern Bell would go from the present $10.65 to $15.85, according to Larry Strickler, Sanford Southern Bell manager.

The Southern Bell filing also proposes optional local measured service offerings for residences and businesses served by electronic switching central offices.

Walter H. Alford, Southern Bell's vice president for Florida, said, "Our company's earnings in the state are at an alarmingly low level. Our profitability is being seriously impacted by continued high interest rates, greater depreciation expense due to fast-changing technology and growing competition which diminishes the subsidy that supports local service rates. Unfortunately, the only remedy is to adjust our rates to reflect more appropriately the cost of providing service. We need increased revenues and we need them right away."

Alford said the company is earning 9.12 percent on its capital investment in Florida. Southern Bell is currently authorized to earn in a range between 9.8 to 10.67 percent. The company is seeking a new level of 11.48 percent return on investment.

"Our obligations to our customers, our share owners—of which there are 200,000 in Florida—and our employees demand that the company be financially healthy," Alford said. "To continue; to serve well, we are going to have to earn well."

Southern Bell seeks no changes in charges for standard rotary dial telephone sets, local coin service, customer calling service or direct dialed long distance calls.

The company asks for higher charges for verification of busy signals and emergency interruptions of telephone calls. It proposes increases for operator assistance on local and long-distance station-to-station and person-to-person calls and a reduction in charges for calling card (credit card) calls.

The request seeks to raise the charge for each call to local directory assistance that exceeds a customer's call allowance. It proposes a charge for each call to long distance directory assistance.

Strickler said the company waited as long as it could before asking for the rate hikes. No dates for hearing before the public service commission have been set.

Southern Bell spokesmen have explained the company has cut back on its construction program, eliminated overtime work, trimmed energy use and down-sized vehicles and reduced the number in use.

The proposed measured service rate is designed to provide a savings for customers who do not frequently use telephone service. Southern Bell estimates 52 to 61 percent of residential customers could average at least $1 savings a month by choosing a measured type of service.

Measured service is an optional service under which customers pay only for the amount of local service they use. Now, everyone pays the same who has a flat rate service, regardless of the number of calls they make.

Under the new measured service rate, customers would be charged 6 cents for the first minute and each additional minute would cost 2 cents. A 50 percent discount would apply on calls from 9 p.m. to 9 a.m. every day and all day Saturday and Sunday. There also would be a 50 percent discount on all calls between noon and 2 p.m. every weekday.

The measured service rate, including one for businesses, is being introduced as an alternative to flat rate service because the flat rate is being proposed for an increase.

Southern Bell executives admit the rate hike, if granted, could cost the company customer. They hope the new measured service will provide a service more affordable to customers who otherwise would drop out all together if only the proposed higher flat rate service would be offered.

"If measured service is not approved, we'll lose the small customers," Strickler said. "Local measured service is our alternative."

"We recognize we'll lose some customers. For every $1 increase in a rate, we figure we will lose 1 percent of our customers," Strickler said.

Business customers would pay a basic monthly charge under the proposed measure service rate. The business charge would be below the monthly flat rate. A business could make up to a $7.20 worth of calls within the local calling area. The allowance would provide, based on average call length for business customers at various times of the day, about 127 outgoing calls a month.

Strickler said Southern Bell needs the rate increases in order to keep up with inflation and to prepare for the coming elimination of cross subsidization.

The firm also is asking for changes in its depreciation schedule in order to depreciate equipment in a time period equal to the actual expected life of the equipment.

Southern Bell has been amortizing its investments over a 30 to 40-year period. Now it asks that be reduced to the actual expected life of the equipment. Southern Bell seeks to recover the invested capital sooner in order to invest the funds and earn off that investment.

'Let's Talk' Explains AT&T Divestiture

Major changes are coming to the telephone industry. And although that day is a few months away, the Bell System has begun an information effort to explain to the public the reasons behind what will be taking place in the Telecommunications Industry.

The changes are a result of federal regulatory rulings and the Modified Consent Decree ending the U.S. Department of Justice's anti-trust suit against the American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Under this agreement, AT&T is to divest itself of Southern Bell and the other 21 Bell Operating Companies.

Larry Strickler, Southern Bell manager in Sanford, said, "The theme of our new information program is 'Let's Talk,' and we want to do just that. The program is designed to encourage a person-to-person communications process—a dialogue between our customers and the company."

The program is being announced in advertisements appearing in national publications and in customers' bills in the company's four-state area.

Using a toll-free phone number listed in the ads, the public will be able to ask Southern Bell Employees about the Modified Consent Decree and the impact of divestiture, as well as any personal concerns they may have about their future relationships with the company.

Strickler said, "Our customers need to be fully informed about how they will receive phone service in the future. Because the changes in our business are so complex and are occurring so rapidly, we felt we had to take an approach which provided immediate, person-to-person communication."

He said that calls can be made to the Let's Talk number 800-555-5000 — between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. on weekdays. The Let's Talk center is located in Orlando.

Besides answering questions by phone, the company also will be offering the public a free booklet. It covers events leading to the recent and coming changes and describes some of their impact on consumers.

Strickler said, "The Let's Talk program is intended to let our customers know — as information becomes available — what changes to expect in the Telecommunications Industry and, where possible, how the changes will affect them. The program will also help us identify concerns that customers have about doing business with the Bell System, and it will provide a means of responding to those concerns on a continuing basis."

Growers May Stop Fumigation

Commissioner of Agriculture Doyle Conner has said California is looking with favor on a plan that would permit Florida growers to ship citrus fruit to California without having to go through the fumigation process.

"This plan has been under study for some time as a result of concern in California about the use of the chemical used in fumigation of citrus fruit," Conner said. "If approved, it would mean less cost on our shippers by avoiding the fumigation or an alternate cold treatment process."

The state of California has for the last several years required fumigation of fruit from Florida because of an infestation of Caribbean fruit flies in Florida. The fumigant, commonly called EDB, kills the Caribbean larvae and insures that it will not be transported to California.

Florida fruit was effectively banned from California last season when the state's Occupational Safety & Health Administration (Cal-OSHA) reduced the permitted levels of EDB in air at receiving points. This action prompted Florida to seek other methods of treating fruit exposed to the Caribbean fly, including cold treatment, and development of a proposed agreement that certain Caribbean-free areas be certified so that fruit from them could be shipped without treatment.

The Caribbean fly is among the lesser fruit fly pests, not nearly as potentially damaging as the Mediterranean, Mexican or Oriental fruit flies, Conner said.

And of the things which so often go with faith: patience and courage.

Fortunately, for mankind, the doors that inspire these spiritual qualities are already open. Our churches and synagogues invite us to worship God, to study his truth, to discover the strength which religious conviction imparts to life.

Vignettes Tell Tale Of Two Christmases Past

This was to be Tom's first Christmas with us. Only now he was gone and it was Christmas Eve.

In the past when Tom had the urge to prowl, he would stay away three or four days and nights at a time. Just when we would figure he was gone for good, he would come home.

"Tom's home!" somebody would shout. We would bring out the carton of milk, pour some for Tom, and it would be like the Prodigal Son returning.

But this time Tom's wanderlust had gone on for a week. Would he remember it was Christmas Eve? His present lay with the others beneath the tree.

There was a time when it wouldn't have made any difference to me whether the wandering Tom ever returned. He had come into our lives uninvited the summer before Christmas of 1977 — a stray cat with cuts and bruises all over him, a piece of his right ear missing and a ravenous appetite.

It brought out the pity in the little girls at my house — but not in me.

"Don't feed that cat," I said, "or he'll never leave."

But you know what chance a man has when the women in his house are lined up against him. And sure enough, Tom set up housekeeping on the back porch.

"All right, but he's not to come in the house," I announced firmly.

Everybody agreed.

But then the winter weather came and someone decided one night that Tom would be cold out on the porch. When I opened the pantry door the next morning to get my Mother's Oats, there was Tom.

"Who let this cat in?" I bellowed. Silence.

Tom had been inside ever since — except for his occasionally forays who-knows-where. I had even started calling him Tom like everybody else — instead of "that cat."

And now I was hoping Tom would make it home for Christmas. He had become part of that picture of home — "eternity framed in domesticity," in the words of Mrs. Miniver — which means Christmas to me.

Phillips Brooks once said, about that first Christmas, "A mother and a father and a child were there — and the animals. No religion that began like that could ever lose its character."

Well, Tom arrived home on Christmas Eve, just before midnight, as we were coming from church. I have always figured he had planned it that way. Tom had a great sense of the dramatic.

Christmas vignettes ....

"My happiest Christmas was also my saddest," writes one of my readers.

"I had always dreamed of opening my presents on Christmas morning and finding a fur coat in one of the brightly wrapped packages. But fur coats are expensive and I knew my husband couldn't afford one.

"On this Christmas I was more sure than ever there would be no fur coat under the tree. My husband had been ill with heart trouble for much of the year.

"So after I had opened a five-pound box of chocolates (this annoyed me a little for John knew I hated candy), a pair of fine kid gloves and a sheer nightie (John had never lost that gleam in his eye), I went and put my arms around him to thank him.

"There's another box for you behind the big chair," he said as I hugged him.

"It was a big box — the kind a fur coat would come in. But I knew it couldn't be.

"But it was! And it was beautiful.

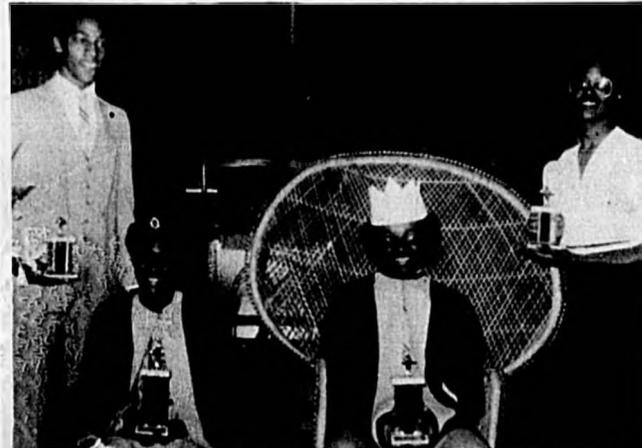

"Put it on," he said. My hair was up in curlers and I had a bathrobe on. I was just about to make breakfast for us.

"Oh, not now John," I said. "I'll wear it for you when we go out tomorrow night."

"But he insisted. And so I made breakfast that Christmas morning in my house slippers and fur coat!

"I'm glad I did. That was the only time John was to see me in the gift I had waited for so long — and the gift he had saved for so long to get me.

"I took him to the hospital that night. He died the next morning."

The Mystery Of Christmas

Hebrews 4: 14-16

Since then we have a great high priest who has passed through the heavens, Jesus, the Son of God, let us hold fast our confession. For we have not a high priest who is unable to sympathize with our weaknesses, but one who in every respect has been tempted as we are, yet without sin. Let us then with confidence draw near to the throne of grace, that we may receive mercy and find grace to help in time of need.

I have often wondered about the mystery of Christmas. Not the holiday as we know it now, but the event behind the holiday, the incarnation.

Boy, have we really missed it! We are more concerned with the buying and giving of gifts than The Gift from God. We are interested in parties than the Celebration of Life in Jesus.

For Christians this season brings with it a fresh joy. It is a reminder of the love of God seen in a birth of a child. A child that would grow up and change the course of history. The world has never been the same since this birth. The truth is almost too wonderful!

So many, turn away from the truth to look at snow covered pastoral scenes and Santa Claus, instead of a rough cut cross.

I hope you will consider what has gone on and what is going on in terms of this holiday.

Pastor's Corner

The Rev. MARK WEAVER
Pinecrest Baptist Church

The scripture quoted above is not one of our "traditional" Christmas story passages. For me, it touches me where I live at this Christmas season.

God has touched man first hand, from birth to death. We now have a God who has identified with men in the common and yet totally unique way. And with this touch has come life — abundant life — eternal life for the believers.

We have a God who has had a broken heart and knows our broken hearts and our hurts. This is the God we worship one who would spare no cost so that we might know Him. That is, he gave himself for you and me.

So that is why I want to say — AWAY with the SHAM — Look at the event — God has loved us! I do not fully understand but I make it my own by faith. I hope you will. May the true joy of Christmas be yours!

THOUGHTS

Yielding to temptation is like deliberately walking on hot coals; the consequences can be expected, as Solomon suggests. "Can a man take fire in his bosom, and his clothes not be burned?" — Prov. 6:27-28

honor in trumps.

Here we see it at work. South wants to be in seven if North holds both king and queen of spades. North doesn't have both, so he bids just six and with trumps behaving nicely South wraps it up.

This hand also shows a weakness of the convention. Give North five spades to the king and South would want to be in seven, although a 3-0 trump break would beat him.

Ely's convention was too tough for the '30s, but today in some form or another it is in every expert's bidding kit.

One feature is that you frequently want to use the grand slam force after Blackwood. In this case you can't use five no-trump, so most addicts use a new suit after the Blackwood call to ask for trump strength.

Then there is the matter of how you try for seven when your partner has bid very strongly in his suit. Then when hearts or spades are the trump suit you can ask partner to show various trump holdings.

It is all very complicated and so far no one has come close to perfecting it.
