CORK BOROUGH RUINED BY FIRE YESTERDAY STARTED BY THE POLICE

Who Were Maddened at Death of Comrades Ambushed

FIFTEEN MILLION LOSS

BY INCENDIARY FIRE WHICH SWEEPED THE BOROUGH OF CORK, IRELAND

(By The Associated Press)
LONDON, Dec. 13.—British regulars stood guard today over the blackened ruins left by fires which swept Borough Cork, Ireland, yesterday. Charges were made that police auxiliaries maddened by the killing of their comrades by ambushed Sinn Feiners loosened the fire demon on the city with a loss estimated at $15,000,000.

The terrorized districts are now quiet with the military ordered to shoot looters on sight.

Over three hundred houses were reported as being burned. Looting was general. The police seized a gang of burglars, killing women.

CORK, Dec. 13.—A military patrol was ambushed near Queenstown, the attackers throwing bombs from two houses; two attackers were killed, several wounded, two captured. One soldier was wounded. The houses from which the mobs were thrown were burned.

PROMINENT SPEAKER HERE

Dr. Evans, one of the professors of the Southwestern Theological Seminary of Fort Worth, Texas, will speak tonight at the Baptist Temple. Dr. Evans spoke on Wednesday at the Florida Baptist convention and Sunday in Miami. He will speak on Tuesday to the Stetson students at DeLand.

Remember the hour, 7:30 tonight at the Baptist Temple.

The first woman jury in Brevard county convicted a fisherman in county judge's court of "hunting out of season." As the charge made by the county game warden was "killing a duck" and as the verdict did not agree with the charge, the case was dismissed.

Stetson University has over 700 students this year—the largest in its history. Every room and every dormitory is full, and new dormitories have been provided.

Ford Agency in Sanford Has Most Complete Building in State

Important announcements are being made in all the state papers about the new Ford policy that allows dealers to sell everywhere with no more restrictions as to territory and in this respect Edward Higgins, the live wire local agent for Fords in this city had big advertisements in the state papers yesterday and is taking a half page in the Herald today calling attention of the public to the fact that he will now sell Ford cars everywhere and they can be had at any time. Mr. Higgins is among the pioneers in the Ford line in the state and is now in a position to take care of the patrons as never before. He has recently opened up one of the finest garages and sales rooms and machine shops in the state of Florida occupying three big rooms formerly used for stores on the ground floor and all the second floor over them in the building on First street long known as the Stone-Gove building that has been converted into the Ford headquarters for this section of the state. The office is fitted up in one of the rooms that opens into the department for traction and Ford car parts and containing a complete line of accessories and it takes a large space to hold all the accessories for trucks, tractors and cars but Higgins has them in profusion. The sales rooms are also on the ground floor and storage room and a place for quick repairs to cars that do not need any major operations in the operating room on the second floor. The first floors are given over to the business end of the concern and an up-to-date elevator service takes the cripples to the second floor where there is 5,000 square feet of floor space for the most up-to-date machine shop in the state. There are overhead trolleys for transporting the cars from one part of the shop to the other, a hot cleaning acid tank in which to dip parts of cars and everything to repair a Ford car, tractor or truck all model-

AEROPLANE CRIPPLED YESTERDAY

BUT WILL BE PUT IN FIRST CLASS SHAPE BY THURSDAY

George Wright, the aviator had trouble with his engine at the aviation field yesterday and in order not to disappoint the crowd he tried to go up regardless with the result that he fell some distance and tore a hole in one of the wings and otherwise damaged the plane. He will have everything all right by Thursday upon which date he will make flights over the city and will also try some stunt flying and the plane will remain at the field for some time.

There was a large crowd at the aviation field yesterday and many of them expected to go up but the engine had been giving trouble all the way over from St. Augustine and barely reached the field when it gave out altogether.

"Peggy" Dorner kept the crowd amused with his stunt flying in the Ford automobile and the promoters of the aviation field wish to announce that next Sunday there will be no collection taken up and the stunts will be pulled off free and passengers will also be taken up after the plane has been put in first class condition for flying.

The seaplane on the lake front also is doing a big business carrying up passengers and it looks like holiday weeks with the planes of all kinds, with the Million Dollar Band and many other attractions will be one big week and many people will be attracted to Sanford as a consequence.

ness men rubbed shoulders, raked, dug and hammered until the task was accomplished. All lines of life melted into one, and all the workers toiled joyously through the day. The Boy Scout troops of the city were in evidence everywhere working with a will and caught a lesson in community spirit that they will carry with them into after life.

A "house-warming" in which the citizens of Gainesville and the tourists became better acquainted was one of the events of the past week. An evening livened with stunts and games was pulled off at the camp grounds, and it is expected that these "get-together" evenings with the tourists will become a regular feature of the winter season.—Tampa Tribune.

Remember that the Herald office now has the best $65 typewriter on the market. A complete standard typewriter for this price, new and fully equipped. Come in and try them.

Took the Rounds on First Street Saturday Night

HAS BEEN CAPTURED

BEFORE HE COULD GET AWAY WITH HIS BOOTY

A smooth individual passing under the name of Bailey, passed a bunch of worthless checks on various merchants Saturday night under the signature of G. W. Bailey. He must have been here for the past week looking for the situation for he knew the various merchants and many of the clerks and called for them by name upon going into the stores. The list of those who cashed his checks is so long that this paper was unable to get them all but it seems that he hooked every merchant on First street and played no favorites lest he make some of them mad by not patronizing them. He had all the clothing and shoes and other goods that he could carry and the balance of the checks in cash in his pocket when suspicion was aroused about the checks and Officer Walker ran him down at the station where he was ready to board the train and flit to pastures new.

He is now reposing in the county jail where he will face Judge Housholder Wednesday morning and tell wherein he conceived the idea that he could fleece our merchants and get by with it.

At the jail today he said his name was George Quick and he came from Georgia. As to whether he came from Georgia or not is a mystery but he is certainly "Quick" all right and many of the merchants will bear witness to that fact. About the holiday time when all the merchants are busy is the time when these gent's get in their work and everyone should be very vigilant about watching all kinds of strangers in the stores and on the streets. They may be forgers, thieves or otherwise.

The big A. G. Allen's negro minstrels are here today and their excellent band played several concerts on the streets at noon and gave the crowd some good buck and win dancing. (By The Associated Press)
MARION, Dec. 13.—President-elect Harding conferred with Elihu Root, former secretary of state and conferred with European statesmen on the formation of a world court, under the league in meeting of minds and it was understood the chief topic discussed was how the present League may be acceptable to the United States. Root was again mentioned for secretary of state in the cabinet.

Fish That Climbs

Colombia has a species of catfish which has achieved a reputation for its climbing proclivities. One of these was watched by a naturalist and it progressed a distance of 18 feet in half an hour, making its way over a steep rock over which a stream of water was passing in the opposite direction. This is accomplished by means of a suction apparatus. There are other fish with this accomplishment in the Himalayas which have no such apparatus, but which make their way against the current and up steep waterways, adhering to the rocks by their smooth ventral skin and enlarged lips.

Despite the fact that this has been the most favorable crop year for a long time, Duval county prepared a splendid agricultural exhibit for the state fair.

CITIZENS HAVE BUILT CAMPS FOR AUTOISTS

GAINESVILLE CLEARED BIG TRACT IN HEART OF CITY

One of the finest evidences of real community spirit and appreciation of tourist visitors was displayed by the city of Gainesville, December 2, when the citizens put over a camp site project in one day. They transformed a neglected four-acre tract near the heart of the city, which should prove an inspiration to other cities throughout the state to follow the example of the University city and provide, by volunteer labor, beautiful spots all over Florida that will attract the tourist campers and keep them in the land of sunshine many more days than they would ordinarily spend.

Responding to the call of the Gainesville Chamber of Commerce an army of citizens reported at the appointed hour, 8 o'clock in the morning. Some took up the work of ground clearing, others welded the whitewash brushes, others joined the building gang, the sewer diggers, and the gang that laid out the streets. By nightfall what was a mass of underbrush was transformed into a charming four-acre park, with streets laid out, sewerage installed, electric lights in place, and everything spick and span for the motorists. In the center of the park the volunteer workers had erected a spacious assembly hall for the convenience of visitors.

The site chosen for the camp will afford ample shade and beautiful locations for the erection of tents and the storage of cars. The building has been fitted with every convenience. Electric lights, lavatories, and an abundance of the famous Boulevard Springs water will be piped directly to the camp and made available to northern visitors who will have the opportunity to spend as many hours and days as they like amidst the balsamic pines and enjoy the hospitality of Gainesville.

The volunteers who put the Gainesville project over represented every profession and men from every walk in life. Bankers, ministers, brick masons, clerks, plumbers and bus-

WAR RISK INSURANCE LIMIT UP

SEE THE HOME SERVICE SECTION OF THE AMERICAN RED CROSS.

Have you allowed your War Risk Insurance to lapse? If so, we want to remind you that the month of December is the last month in which you will be able to reinstate this insurance without medical examination. This insurance is one of the greatest benefits any government ever conferred upon its service men, and the rules under which reinstatement may be obtained are the most liberal ever offered. Insurance is protection to you and your loved ones against the three great enemies of your earning capacity, disability, old age and death. The government offers to ex-service men a policy that is:

- 1.—Payable in a lump sum, if desired.
- 2.—Exempt from taxation.
- 3.—Exempt from creditors.
- 4.—Incontestable from the day it is taken out.
- 5.—You can borrow 94 per cent of the cash value of your policy after the first year.
- 6.—A liberal total disability clause in every policy without additional cost.
- 7.—25 per cent to 30 per cent cheaper than old line insurance.

As stated, this is the last month in which you will be able to reinstate your lapsed government insurance without medical examination, and the amount necessary for reinstatement is only two monthly premiums, if you have not been out of the service more than eighteen months.

We have on hand a full supply of reinstatement applications, and if you will call at this office we shall be very glad to give you any information you may desire about this insurance, and to assist you in filling out the reinstatement form.

Yours very truly,
HOME SERVICE SECTION,

How Lightning Kills.

Numbers of cases of death by lightning, have failed to reveal any direct effect of the passage of an electric current through the human body. The evidence indicates that death was caused entirely by shock. The result is psychological rather than physical, the shock inducing heart failure or other organic disturbances.

Sometimes strokes have been fatal to a mother although the child in her arms was unharmed. Persons under the influence of a drug or intoxicated seem to escape. This seems to indicate that the psychological element is an important consideration.—Popular Science Monthly.

NO TEN DAYS OF GRACE ON FOURTH INSTALLMENT OF INCOME TAXES

James M. Cathcart, Collector of Internal Revenue, Sends Out Timely Notice to all Interested.

JACKSONVILLE, Dec. 11.—With Wednesday of next week, December 15, as the last day for the payment of the fourth installment of the income and excess profits taxes due this year, James M. Cathcart calls attention of all who have such taxes to pay, to the fact that while heretofore the government has allowed ten days of grace as provided for in the 1917 Act, that this grace period was removed by the 1918 Act, and, therefore, no extension of time can be granted for payment of these taxes when due.

"I have just received the notice from the treasury department," said Mr. Cathcart yesterday. "As there may be many who thought they had the ten days of grace allowed as heretofore, I wish to call their attention and also that of all others interested, that the grace period will not be permitted this time. The tax must be paid on or before December 15.

To avoid penalty the tax must be

In the Office of the Collector of Internal Revenue or branch office, or mailed, by midnight of December 15. "Inquiries reaching my office indicate a belief that taxpayers have ten days of grace on this installment. Such provision was contained in the 1917 Revenue Act, but was removed by the Revenue Act of 1918.

"Payment of the fourth installment may be made in cash or by money order or check. The Bureau of Internal Revenue requests that whenever possible payment be made by check and thus avoid congestion at the cashier's window. Check or money order should be made payable to 'Collector of Internal Revenue!'"

"Bills," said Mr. Cathcart, "will be sent to taxpayers who owe a balance, but failure to receive the bill does not relieve the taxpayer of his obligation to pay on time."

Japan's Famous Mountain.

Fuji is 12,385 feet in height, and only 200 years ago was an active volcano. There are still signs of fire in the jets of steam that spurt from parts of the cone, though one may now descend the crater with safety. All about the base are great boiling springs, hot enough to cook an egg in a minute. These are known as Ojigoku, or "Great Hell." Whether the idea was taken from the Bible or not is not known. But Buddhism has plenty of hell of its own. Some 800,000 pilgrims ascend the cone every year; and this year, being a special one in sixty, according to the Japanese calendar, the number was much greater than usual.

Not Exciting.

"How was the movie?" "Rather dull," said the jaded patron. "No thrills, eh?" "Well, the heroine jumped from a train traveling 60 miles an hour to an airplane, was carried over a precipice in a motorcar, was left standing on the deck of a submarine when it submerged, but there wasn't anything you could really call exciting."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Complete Transformation.

"I understand one of your former waitresses is now a motor picture star?" "That's so," said the proprietor of the Elite restaurant for ladies and gentlemen. "Any change in her?" "I should say so! She's changed her name, her hair and her disposition."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

COULDN'T HAVE FIRST OPTION

As Girl Remarkd, That Was a Matter in Which "Business" Didn't Cut Much Figures.

There was no sentiment about Herbert Jones. He met the girl he wished to marry; and he proposed like this: "Mary Dugh, will you be my life partner? I am a business man. If you are agreeable, I will draw up a marriage contract, we'll both sign, before witnesses, and then we can carry on with the world's work."

She assented, but presently regained her composure. "Fortunately," she said, "I've had a little business training myself, so we can discuss this proposed contract properly and dispassionately."

"I'm so glad to find you so sensible," he told her.

"I regret I can give you nothing better than second option," she said.

"What?" he exclaimed.

"I'm afraid I have to inform you I am already engaged—that is to say, the first option is already taken. But a first option does not necessarily mean a closed contract. If you don't want to take a chance on a second option, say so; if you do, I'll drop you a line if I find myself on the matrimonial market again."

"That's cold blooded," he complained.

"It's business," she averred.

"I'd rather have first option," he pleaded.

"A first option in such a case never has been and never will be secured by business methods," she replied.

DUXBURY HAS ALDEN HOUSE

Massachusetts Town Proud of Historic Abode That Dates Back to the Year 1653.

One of the most important of the old-time houses that are associated with the Pilgrims of the Mayflower is the Alden house at Duxbury, Mass., lately acquired by the Alden kindred of America.

The Aldens, John and Priscilla, with seven others of the Mayflower Pilgrims, went from Plymouth to settle in Duxbury in 1627, seven years after the landing of the Mayflower and three years before the founding of Boston. They built a house that stood on a knoll not far away from the existing one, and there their children were born.

The present house was built by the eldest son, Jonathan, in 1653, and has the remarkable record of having been in the possession of Aldens from that day to this.

A notable feature of the house is the existence of certain secret passages and hidden stairs whose location would never be suspected. The house dates back to the days of witchcraft and Indian wars; and notwithstanding the new freedom brought by the Pilgrims, there was no saying when opportunities for concealment and escape might come in handy.

Odd Mixtures in Bermudas.

Hamilton, largest town and capital of Bermuda, is a curious mixture of the quaint and the modern. Consulates jog elbows with the oldest and largest India rubber tree at Paria-ville, and tourist agencies hobnob with cathedrals of native limestone. Americans in thousands are all visible on the well-kept streets, and there are not a few English who have come to escape the rigors of a northern winter and wander, while suited, up Front street and down Queen and around to Field. To an American, one of the strangest matters is the speech of some of the negroes of the island. One is quite startled with surprise when for the first time, one hears a negro caddy stut out in tones of cockney London: "Keb, sir! 'Ere you are, sir," and to be assured by another negro that the view from the peak is "a little bit or right" is too much.

The great trouble with the world's idols is that they are all more or less cracked.

WONDERS OF HUMAN BODY

More Complex and in Greater Harmony Than Any Manufacturing Plant Possible to Imagine.

We engineers are apt to forget that the human body is the most wonderful work of engineering in the world. As a plant it is more complex than the largest works in existence. John H. Van Deventer writes in Industrial Management. Take the digestive tract, the lymphatic system, the framework of bones, the innumerable muscle motors, the co-ordinating functions performed by the liver, kidneys and other internal organs. And to go a step further, take the sensory departments. How about the wonderful optical plant in which colored moving pictures are instantaneously taken and developed? How about the phonographic department where the sound vibrations are received, recorded and reproduced? And the sense of touch so delicate that the fingers can be trained to feel flat spots on a steel ball which are not apparent to the eye? Think of the thousands of functions performed simultaneously, the routine ones automatically and those requiring judgment being cared for at the same time through other channels. You will agree with me surely that the body contains the most elaborate organizations ever installed in any plant; that its component parts are examples of a finer kind of design than we will ever approximate and that the functions and their relations are co-ordinated more smoothly than we will ever be able to arrange human relations.

LIFE SAVED BY PLUNDERERS

Badly Wounded Soldier Owed Recovery to Cupidity of Ghouls Who Had Stripped Him.

It was at the battle of Edgehill, fought Oct. 23, 1642, that Sir Gervase Scroop was found upon the field to all appearances quite dead. This was on Sunday afternoon, when the battle took place, and it was not until the following Tuesday that Sir Gervase's son found the body of his father. When discovered it was entirely naked, having been stripped by camp plunderers. The body was also covered with wounds, sixteen of a major nature being counted.

Being brought from the field, efforts were made to accomplish what appeared hopeless resuscitation. Rubbing was tried and after a long time a faint warmth pervaded the supposed corpse, finally resulting in voluntary movements of the limbs. Sir Gervase recovered completely and lived for ten years after what was considered almost a miraculous revivification.

The doctors were of the opinion that he owed his life really to the brutal indifference of the robbers, as the coldness of the nights had congealed the blood and prevented him from bleeding to death. Had he been brought off the field, they said, and put in a warm place he would undoubtedly have died owing to the fact that he would not have received proper attention, but which circumstances provided.—Chicago Journal.

Wanted Worth-While Order.

A city in New Jersey having been for some time without a first-class book shop, the proprietor of one of the largest department stores announced that he would establish one if he were assured of the patronage of the book buyers who had done their purchasing in New York. A number of professional men readily agreed to this. The book shop was opened and clerks from other parts of the store were transferred to it. To one of these went a scholarly resident of the city to buy an erudite treatise on an obscure subject. It was not in stock and the customer asked that it be ordered, giving the names of the volume, its publisher and its author. The young saleswoman entered these on an order blank and stood looking expectantly.

"Have you all the details? Is there anything you do not understand?" inquired the customer.

"How many dozen do you want?" answered the salesgirl.

Shapes of Hair.

A Chinaman has a round head. Every hair on his head is shaped likewise. That is to say, a cross-section of it (as seen under the microscope) is circular.

People of our own race have heads that are more or less oval in form, as your hat will show. The hairs of your head are likewise oval in section.

The negro has an oblong head. Call it rather an oblong square. Each individual hair of his kinky wool is oblong square in section, which, I suspect, is the reason why it kinks.

Nobody knows why there should be this sort of correspondence between the shape of the head and the shape of the hair. It is just a fact in nature.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Historically Sound.

Visitor.—So this is the famous original Blinks restaurant that I've heard about for so many years! City Host.—Yes, this is it. Of course, old man Blinks died some time ago and the place has changed hands several times since. The last owners moved it from its old location, which was fifty blocks farther down town to this present place and last year built an entirely new place here, which they remodeled completely last summer. Otherwise it hasn't been changed a particle since the old days.

Power of Poise.
Poise is power. The man who is not master of himself under all conditions cannot feel the assurance, the power, which is the right of every human being to experience. He is never sure of himself, and the man who is never sure of himself is never wholly at ease. He is not even well-bred, for good breeding implies self-control under all circumstances.

There is, perhaps, no other thing which is so conducive to one's physical and mental comfort, efficiency, happiness and success as a calm mind. When the mind is unbalanced, by anger, excitement, worry, fear or nervousness, the entire body is thrown out of harmony. All the functions are deranged; the man or woman is not normal, and is, therefore, whatever the situation, at a complete disadvantage, wholly unable to contend with it.—Orison Swett Marden in the New Success Magazine.

Elevator Rope in Coal Mines.
One of the most impressive things about a colliery, to an outsider, is the mammoth drum which winds the rope which brings coal up from the pit. This monster drum may measure 150 feet in circumference, and weigh about 200 tons, and it will wind in the rope with its load at a speed of nearly 60 miles an hour. There are miles of the rope, when the pit is a deep one, like the Yorkshire Main colliery's, whose vertical shaft holds the record for depth by going down nearly 1,000 yards, and for long distances horizontally. The rope costs $10 a yard and its maximum life is three and one-half years. Every inch of it passes each day through a man's hands for examination. Shaft accidents are very rare.

Strange Leases.
For weird leases London would be hard to beat in some instances, says a correspondent. He dealt with houses lately which were for sale and found that the ground landlord was the duchy of Cornwall, the leaseholder paying an annual ground rent of fourpence! And this fourpence was sent every year in an envelope which cost twopence, and it cost the duchy twopence to acknowledge receipt! "But there is a stranger lease in the north of London," he said; "some houses there are leased until the death of the duke of Connaught. There is no other date attached to the document."

CONQUEROR COULD NOT WRITE

William I of England Signed His Name by a Cross to a Charter
He Granted.

In the collection of Norman charters sold recently in England, the property of Baroness Beaumont of Carlton Towers, York, there is strong presumptive evidence that William the Conqueror was unable to write, for a grant signed by him and Matilda, the queen, bears their crosses.

This collection of Norman charters was made by the antiquary Thomas Stapleton, one of the ancestors of the barony of Beaumont, and has been preserved for centuries at Carlton Towers. Its sale is attributed to the costs of the war and the present high taxes.

The earliest grant is undated, but was made between the years 1007 and 1070. It is in Latin, on vellum, and is a grant by Walderand (de Meulin) for the salvation of the soul of his lord, William I, king of the English, and others, to St. Stephens church, Caen, of the Church of St. Mary. Inserted in their names are the crosses of the witnesses, William, king of the English; Matilda, the queen; John, archbishop (of Rouen); Roger Belmontensis (Beaumont) and Robert Belmontensis (Beaumont). The document is one of the most interesting autographs that is likely to come into the auction room for some time. The evidence of William the conqueror's illiteracy is not conclusive, however, as it may have been thought beneath the dignity of the king to write his name, as William Roberts suggests. King Henry I also signed one of the charters with his cross.

EAST INDIA SLOW TO CHANGE

Eight Varieties of Marriage in That Region Remain as They Were in Manu's Day.

There are eight varieties of marriage in India, all of them outlined by Manu, the great Hindu lawgiver, and it is not until one comes in contact with such examples of custom that one realizes how little the native Indian has advanced to meet modern ideas, an exchange says. The eight ways of marriage are:

Brahmya, which consists in a gift of a girl bedecked with ornaments to a learned and virtuous bridegroom who has been invited for the purpose, accompanied by proper religious ceremonies.

Dalva, or gift of a girl decked with ornaments to a priest who is at that time officiating at a sacrifice.

Adsha, or gift of a daughter in consideration of a pair of bullocks given by the bridegroom.

Parnajapaya, or gift of a daughter after the father has thus addressed the couple: "May both of you perform your duties together."

Asura, or gifts of a girl after her relatives have given as much wealth as possible.

Rakshasa, or forcible capture of a girl after her relatives have been killed or wounded.

Gandharba, or a voluntary union between a young lady and a man.

Palsacha, or the seduction of a maiden who is asleep, intoxicated or crack-brained.

Razor Strokes to Shave.

There is a barber in London, England, with a nice taste for figuring, and he has computed the number of razor strokes that go to a clean shave. He offers to prove the general correctness of his count on any customer. "You shall keep the count yourself, sir," says he.

The first man counted 150 strokes made by the barber. "Much too low, sir," said the barber. "But knowing you were counting I couldn't help taking longer strokes. It takes more, sir, usually."

His own computation is that, on an average, it takes 200 strokes to shave a man. Now if he shaves so many persons a day, so many days a week, how many times does the barber use his razor a week?

"Undreds of thousands, sir," says the barber. Planned to something more exact, he claimed 288,000 for one week.

The Calm Level.

I have seen the sea lashed into fury and tossed into spray, and its grandeur moves the soul of the dullest man; but remember it is not the billows, but the calm level of the sea, from which all heights and depths are measured. When the storm has passed, and the hour of calm settles on the ocean, when the sunlight bathes its smooth surface, then the astronomer and the surveyor take the level from which to measure terrestrial heights and depths. When the emotion of the hour has subsided, we shall find that calm level of public opinion below the storm, from which the thoughts of a mighty people are to be measured, and by which their final action will be determined.—James A. Garfield.

Tests for Diamonds.

The true diamond is not cut by a file, has a specific gravity of 3.52 and a luster that shows clearly even when the stone is immersed in water. A small drop of water dropped on the face of a clean, dry diamond preserves its globular form and does not spread. When a line is drawn on a diamond with an aluminum pencil, and it is then rubbed briskly with moistened cloth, the line disappears. The commonest test is to draw the edge of the stone over glass; the diamond cuts it without much pressure, while the imitation merely scratches it.

AND CUPID FLEO, SHRIEKING

Truly, as Many Have Fierred, Romance Today Has Fallen From Its Once High Estate.

They were young and it was evening, and the moon was shining. And they were young.

He was facing her, silhouetted against the silvery light of the moon. Every line of his stalwart, manly figure stood plainly outlined before her.

He looked into her lovely dark eyes. Their liquid depths fascinated him, enthralled him.

He leaned forward.
"Darling, I love you!" he breathed passionately into her tiny ear.

She gazed at him passively.
"You are beautiful, wonderful, lovely!" he cried, as the moonlight illuminated her classic features.

Her glance rested upon him as he stood out clearly in the pale light.

"Will you marry me, be my wife?" he asked, with bated breath and eyes shining. Hidden fires glowed in their burning depths.

And still her gaze was upon him.
He leaned forward a little farther, waiting for her answer, eagerly, fearfully.

"Will you marry me, precious one?" he asked again, his burning glance upon her scarlet lips.

She opened her mouth to speak. Pearly teeth gleamed in the silvery light.

"Ah! You are going to say 'yes,'" he muttered, passionately, taking hold of her tiny, lily-like hands. "You are going to say something."

He leaned closer, his head outlined clearly against the pale moonlight.

"I was going to say, why don't you wear a rubber band around your head, to train your ears not to stick out?" (The end of a perfect evening.)—Detroit Free Press.

GREAT ACTRESS KISSED POET

Sarah Bernhardt Made Her Meeting
With Longfellow an Event to Be Remembered.

When Sarah Bernhardt came to America in the seventies sculpture was her "side line." As soon as she arrived in Boston she expressed a desire to do the bust of Longfellow, says the Christian Science Monitor. Longfellow, however, though not insensible of the honor, declined. He said that he was about to leave for Portland, Me., and feared that Mme. Bernhardt would have departed before his return. Then, to mitigate the curtness of his refusal, he asked the tragedienne to his home, inviting William Dean Howells and Oliver Wendell Holmes to meet her.

They became very amiable toward one another, and Longfellow, who spoke excellent French, praised Mme. Bernhardt's performance of "Phedre," telling her she surpassed the great Rachel, whom he had seen 50 years earlier. The actress, not to be outdone, told the poet how much she enjoyed reading "Hawatha," which she pronounced Hee-a-vatere.

Evidently the affair of the sculptured bust did not rankle, for on her departure, as the poet and his other guests were escorting her to her carriage, she turned about suddenly, impulsively threw her arms about Longfellow's neck and, kissed him on the cheek, said: "Vous etes adorable."

Kidnap Chinese From Legation.

Kang-Shih-to, formerly treasurer of the Anfu club, who since the recent downfall of that alleged pro-Japanese organization has been in hiding in the Russian legation and for whose arrest a reward of $10,000 was offered by the Chinese government, has just been the victim of a coup on the part of Chinese servants employed in the legation, according to a dispatch from Peking, China. They entered Kang's bedroom in the early hours of the morning, bound him, wrapped him in a bed quilt and hoisted him over the legation wall. Accomplished delivered him into the hands of the squad of gendarmes which had been waiting for weeks for an opportunity to capture him and other refugees supposed to have hidden in foreign legations.

Woman's Latest Venture.

An engineering factory, organized, controlled, and managed by women, who also execute the orders at the lathe and in the foundry—that is the latest enterprise of the "weaker sex." It is one which deserves every success.

At the head of the firm, called Atlantia, Ltd., is Lady Parsons, the wife of the famous engineer and inventor of the steam turbine. The factory was started in the Midlands by 20 women ex-war workers. Good orders have already been secured, and Lady Parsons is convinced that these pioneer women engineers will be successful.

"There is nothing," she says, "that a woman cannot do when she tries."—London Times.

Christmas time approaches. And the wise shoppers are shopping early and getting the best. Sanford is the trading headquarters for this part of the state of Florida.

There were so many people on the streets last Saturday night that the traffic policemen were called upon to help transport the crowds to and from the stores.

And the people are coming here because they read the advertisements in the Herald and see where the Sanford live merchants are coming after the trade. This is the time for the merchants to make hay.

You can't get trade by ringing cow bells any more. Sanford people are not living in a rural district where cow bells attract the people. This kind of advertising would be all right in some of the smaller villages and would sell milk but cow bells will never advertise any business in Sanford. The people are reading the Daily Herald to note the live merchants and the prices in this city.

In fact Sanford has outgrown the village habits many years ago and is now in the big city class and while there may be some merchants who are not aware of this fact the ones who are doing the biggest business are the ones who are using the daily paper to set forth their bargains. The daily paper is making the town and the live merchants are not only helping themselves by advertising but they are helping the city of Sanford by helping the daily paper. This is the spirit that makes towns into big cities and this city is getting there every day and the village habits and the villagers are leaving together.

The Sanford Herald in commenting upon the hotel service in that city says: "The Seminole is now ready to take the travelers in." I don't see why the Herald should feel so highly elated over so common an occurrence. Sanford and the Seminole are not the only city and hotel in the state "ready to take the travelers in!" There are many duplications of this work—yet few tell about the thing till it's all over and done for. —Thorn in Kissimmee Valley

There is a constant string of cars from DeLand to Sanford and points north and south. The bridge over the St. Johns at Harden Ferry must be paying about 1000 per cent per month. The State Road Department should purchase this bridge and make it free, or greatly reduce the tolls—DeLand News.

This is something for our road department and our county commissioners to consider. And the county refused to build the bridge on account of the expense.

A FLORIDA WOMAN

Editorially, the Miami Herald tells the interesting story of how a Florida woman made good at the art of farming:

Under the caption, "Woman Farmer Retires," the New York Times tells the story of Miss L. M. White, who made a fortune on 14,000 acres in Florida. Miss White is more than a farmer, and the fact that she has retired does not mean that she has ceased being active. She is now devoting her time to the National Federation of Business and Professional Women, of which she is both state president and a national vice-president.

Beginning when only a girl, Miss White expanded her experiments in practical farming until she finally controlled 14,000 acres around St. Augustine. When she is praised for her achievement, she is always resentful that at least a part of the praise is based on her sex.

The attitude is characteristic among many women who are administering affairs or filling positions and deserves commendation. On many sides there is a cry that women anxious to gain equal privileges with men are loath to accept equal responsibilities. There may be instances where this is true, but for the most part the women who have stepped into fields formerly reserved for men ask no favors.

In an interview, Miss White stated that women are as capable as men and that she disliked being congratulated merely because she is a woman. "It is silly to treat us as though we were precocious children," she said.

This protest is justified. The patronage displayed toward successful women merely reflects on the person doing the patronizing. It is not in this spirit that Miss White should be called a remarkable woman. She is remarkable not alone because she was a successful farmer, but also because during the war she was superintendent of the work among women in the largest powder plant in Virginia and because she continues active in still another field although she has retired. How many men farmers are there who present an equally active record?

Florida claims some just pride in being the home state of Miss White, whose quality of leadership brings it credit. The greatest share, however, belongs to what, for lack of a better phrase, can be called the modern woman.

A REAL CHRISTMAS PRESENT

The holiday season with its joys and its problems is upon us. What shall be done to add to the happiness of the occasion? Each one of us would like not only to wish our friends a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year, but to give them one. We cannot do this by means of ill-considered presents. Thoughtless gifts cause the January ash can to bulge with debris. Only when our gifts have lasting meaning do they carry the true message of good-will which is the spirit of real giving.

We can give happiness and contentment and safety for the future as well as pleasure for the moment. Such gifts are within reach of all. They are to be found in the Savings Securities of the United States government. From the 25 cent Thrift Stamp to the $1,000 Treasury Savings Certificate they will carry with them not only the greetings of the season but happiness for years to come.

Presenting the child a card with one thrift stamp affixed, you bestow not only a present but a habit which will grow in value as the days pass, for he will wish to fill the card. That little gift will have grown wonderfully before another Christmas comes around, and the recipient will be on the way to a life of independence.

In recommending these lasting gifts, the Savings Division of the Treasury does not suggest that a single American curtail his Christmas giving. It suggests only that he broaden it to include this present which will bring future well-being to those he loves.

Thrift Stamps, Savings Stamps and Treasury Savings Certificates will be on sale throughout the year 1921. In continuing the sale of government Savings Securities, the government is giving the opportunity to every man, woman and child in the land through the coming year to enjoy the happiness, prosperity and contentment which is found in financial independence and security for the future.

"The Store That Is Different"

ADVANTAGE NOW WITH WOMEN

Modern Feminine Garments Such That They No Longer Need "Take All Day to Dress."

No longer does it "take her all day to dress."

Quietly and steadily woman has got rid of many checks upon rapidity of dressing; has consolidated garments, abolished buttons, done away with hooks and eyes, abandoned very often even corsets and the "fixing" of her hair, while man is quite as slow a dresser now as when Uncle C. Dewey repeated his first story.

Not, of course, if woman garbs herself for purposes strictly social. This means one-tenth dressing and nine-tenths preparation of an armament that no stupid League of Nations would ever hope to curb. Very different is the morning method of feminine executives, of girls intent on business, study or art, of stump-speaking ladies when in transit.

Brother dazed himself with speed when first he fastened trousers with a belt, though buttons still remain for the "weskitt" and the coat and that weary round of pearl and gold buttons for the shirt. But sister takes her one-piece suit at a single hurdle and snaps a single "snapper" at the waist.

Long ago man hopped into his congress gaiters. Now he ties his oxforas. His wife, however, steps into her pumps.

"Making her hair" once impeded mother's toilet. Fathers having hair to part must part it still. But daughter, being "bobbed," gives her hair one shake to "do" it.

"Nowadays," says an expert, "a girl can easily dress in ten minutes. Then she adds 20 for making up her face."
