From seven to eight-thirty in the evening is probably the hest time at which to make a station-to-station long distance telephone call at reduced rates. For one thing the folks you are calling are more apt to be at home, and then, too, we are usually able to complete the connection in shorter time.

Of course, the rates on station-to-station long distance calls are reduced still further at 8:30 P. M. Promptly at this moment, thousands of hands reach for the telephone. The result is that in spite of all the extra facilities we provide, the lines to near and distant places are taxed to capacity.

To avoid this crowded hour, try placing your calls between 7 and 8:30 P. M.
