Man arrested on assault charge

SANFORD — Charles Shannon Winn, 72, of 2301 W. First St. in Sanford was arrested Monday evening on a charge of aggravated assault.

According to a report by the Seminole County Sheriff's Office, Winn told three youths to stop skateboarding in front of his house, but they refused. He then allegedly retrieved a .22 calibre hand gun from his house and fired four shots into the air.

The youngsters, Jerry A. Marquith Jr., 15; William W. Walker, 17, and Angus Black, 14, were not harmed in the incident.

Winn is being held in the John Polk Correctional Facility on $200 bond.

Super Bowl main event

BUFFALO, N.Y. — Officials are taking steps to make sure water mains don't break when thousands of toilets flush simultaneously during breaks in Sunday's Super Bowl.

Two Erie County Water Authority operators will have a television tuned to the Buffalo Bills-New York Giants game to anticipate commercials and timeouts and adjust valves in the system, said George Markle, an authority engineer.

"Everybody runs and flushes so they can get back to the game," Markle said. "That creates a pressure surge. A weak pipe, any place you've got air trapped, and you'll split pipe."

Markle said several mains broke during a Buffalo-Miami playoff game last week. But there was no damage during the Bills' 51-3 rout Sunday of the Los Angeles Raiders, probably because the score was so lopsided, he said.

Sunday will mark the Bills' first appearance in the National Football League championship.

Mayor stands for everything

STATESBORO, Ga. — Mayor David H. Averitt has a standing rule: Never sit while presiding at City Council meetings.

"I'd just rather stand up than sit down," said Averitt, who has remained on his feet at the head of the council table through two council sessions of more than an hour since he took office at the beginning of the month.

"It would be all right with me if I were remembered as the standing mayor of Statesboro," he said.

Council members said it doesn't bother them. But Councilman David Shumake said it did sort of take them by surprise the first time.

"I was waiting for him to sit down and everybody else was waiting for him to sit down, but he didn't."

Kuwaiti oil ablaze; Iraqi missiles hit

By MARTIN MARRIS

Stabbed woman's body ID'd

By VICKI DeBORNIER
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — A young woman whose body was found wrapped in a blanket on Painted Post Place near Highway 46 on the west side of Sanford has been identified as April Marie Stone of Apopka, Seminole County Sheriff's Office investigators said today.

Stone, who was last seen on Monday, Jan. 14 about 4 p.m. walking on Old Dixie Highway in Apopka, was found stabbed and dead on Wednesday, Jan. 16.

She was not reported missing by her family until Sunday, Jan. 20.

Stone, 21, had been dead about 24 to 36 hours when her body was discovered by an area resident who was walking along the road and noticed the body, wrapped in a blanket, in an open field a few yards from the road.

When Stone's body was discovered, she was fully clothed, but carried no identification.

According to sheriff's office reports, she had been stabbed to death.

Investigators said that evidence on the body indicated that a scuffle had ensued before the time of death, but it had not occurred at the scene where the body was found.

According to George Proechel, public information officer for the Seminole County Sheriff's Office, there had been "quite a few" calls from members of the public hoping to assist in the identification of the woman.

He noted that "a lot of shoe leather" was expended by Investigator Todd Brown who interviewed many people before making the identification.

Stone's parents positively identified the body as that of their daughter yesterday afternoon.

No suspects have yet been identified in the case and a motive has not yet been established for the murder.

King banquet pays tribute

By LUCY DEMSON

SANFORD — Although Jeremy George, 4, is too young to remember Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., he knew enough to sum up the feelings of the crowd that attended the memorial banquet for the slain civil rights worker at the Sanford Civic Center last night.

"He means peace and freedom. I learned it," the little boy said.

The 5th Annual Commemorative Banquet honoring King paid tribute to his non-violent freedom-fighting days. Several hundred attended the event.

The day began with a parade sponsored by the First Shiloh Missionary Baptist Church. It began at Crooms School of Choice and ended with a rally at Fort Mellon Park.

Rev. H.D. Rucker, First Shiloh pastor, said more than 70 units participated in the hour-long parade, including groups from Orange, Lake and Volusia Counties. As many as 1,000 people attended the park rally, he said.

Rucker said the parade featured several dance groups to entertain the crowd that lined 13th Street and other sections along the route.

"It's a part of our culture," Rucker said. "We don't just march along and blow horns. We stop and rejoice □ See King, Page 5A

State plans round-the-clock TV for kids

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — Florida children will have access to learning as well as entertainment on their TV sets under a pioneering around-the-clock network planned by Education Commissioner Betty Castor.

"Our students are dominated by television," she said. "We can't fight it or overcome it, but maybe we can change their daily viewing diet. It will have to be good; it will have to be sharp."

The commissioner said the network could be operating on a limited scale this fall and in full operation within two years. She got the idea from a tour of Japan she took 18 months ago.

Learning there doesn't stop at 3 p.m., she said. After school, children go to tutors. Here, the network could provide similar benefits, through "the ease of television."

"The possibilities are unlimited," Castor said. Howard Johnston, the chair for secondary education for the University of South Florida's College of Education, said he thought the network

'Our students are dominated by television. ...Maybe we can change their daily viewing diet.'

— Betty Castor, education commissioner would have a good chance of succeeding if it's made competitive.

"It may be a good way to improve cultural literacy," he said, adding that he believes children need to be taught "where they are."

"If they are going to watch 8.6 hours a day on average, let's make it worthwhile," he said. "We can lament they aren't reading as much, but intensifying school treatment hasn't worked and maybe this will."

Programs broadcast during school hours would be based on textbooks in use in school. Most programs would be taped, but there would be an occasional live, interactive program that would give students the chance to talk directly with the person on the television.

The latch-key hours, when many children are at home alone, would be devoted to remedial education programs that could be seen either in the home, school or local community center.

Early evening hours would concentrate on topics that could involve parents. The programs could teach everything from current events to social problems such as AIDS awareness, but would be geared toward parents taking an active, participatory role in what is being shown.

"There are any number of things that can be tastefully done that are designed to have the parent involved, to stimulate conversation in the home," said David Voss, who has been given the task of developing the network. Voss is former communications director for Castor.

The late-night hours — midnight to 6 a.m. — would be devoted to teacher training programs that could be taped for more convenient viewing.

Expressway bond sale 'almost a done deal'

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — State and local officials see no obstacles to the sale of tollroad bonds next week that will be used to extend the Seminole County Expressway to U.S. Highway 17-92 in Sanford, despite potential war-created mood swings in the financial markets.

"Nothing is holding at this point," said Gerald Brinton, director of the Seminole County Expressway Authority. "It's almost a done deal," said Clement Mikowski, director of the Florida Division of Bond Finance.

Last week, state bond officials signed a contract with Prudential-Bache Capitol Funding Inc. and 10 other bond companies to market $337 million in bonds to build the Seminole County Expressway and purchase land for a Hillsborough County expressway. Mikowski said closing will be completed Jan. 31.

Mikowski said he does not expect the Persian Gulf war to deter the bond sales next Thursday. He said the underwriters first wanted liberal "escape clauses" in bond contracts, but after the Stock Market soared, they were eager to sign the contract. Any attempt to back out of the deal now would require a stringent arbitration procedure, he said.

Mikowski said the average interest cost of the bonds, which will have a maximum life of 30 years, will be 7.052 percent. The true interest cost, the average interest cost combined with seller discounts during the 30 years, will be 7.2574 percent, Mikowski said. The bonds are expected to yield about $300 million after expenses, he said.

"We were quite pleased with the rate," Mikowski said last week. "You can't get a home loan for less than 9 percent and some points right now. We basically made the municipal bond market this week."

About $205 million of the bond proceeds will be used to extend the □ See Bonds, Page 5A

Factories rush food, drink orders to gulf

NEW YORK — Factories are in high gear to help the war effort. But instead of assembling bombs and guns, they're turning out egg rolls, burritos and fruit drinks.

On Monday, Mexi-Frost Specialties Co. in Brooklyn shipped out the last of 750,000 egg rolls destined for soldiers' dinner plates in the Persian Gulf.

They also recently shipped out 3.6 million frozen beef burritos and are bidding on an order for frozen beef tamales.

Boots made with renewed vigor

BELLEVILLE, Ill. — The war in the Persian Gulf has renewed a sense of purpose for people who make U.S. Army boots.

"I feel like I'm helping over there. The boots used to be put in storage. Now someone's waiting for them," said Gerald Gulton, 26, who packs boots at the Belleville Shoe Manufacturing Co.

Gulton and many of his 385 coworkers are noticeably proud of their part in the war effort.

Machines now hum at top speed, a striking change from six months ago when military cutbacks put more than 100 employees out of work.

But they were called back in October, and soon more were hired. Many workers now work overtime and for the first time in 16 years, the company called in a shift on Sunday.

Questions arise about unknowns

By RUTH SIMAI
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — With every hour of the Persian Gulf war, more questions arise about the Pentagon's claims of success. So far the questions far outnumber the answers.

Pentagon spokesmen say that in some cases they don't have the answers; in others, they don't want to share them with the public. They profess to being as frustrated, about some things, as the reporters who badger them — for instance, the assessment of how much damage allied bombers have inflicted.

"Let me tell you that there's frustration level all over the building about what bomb damage assessment is," chief Pentagon spokesman Pete Williams said. "It's not like election returns — you don't just go out and do this, and then the computer kicks it out the next day."

The Pentagon is anxious to avoid the credibility problems that arose during the Vietnam war, when the daily military briefing became known as the "5 o'clock follies."

Reporters are upset at the strict coverage guidelines imposed by the Pentagon in the gulf, and by their inability to confirm any claims of U.S. success — partly because Iraq has expelled virtually all journalists.

Williams sought to defuse media frustration at the daily Pentagon briefing Monday after two military briefers repeatedly failed to satisfy questions about the progress of the five-day-old war.

The briefers cited two main reasons they weren't more forthcoming: they said bad weather was hampering accurate assessment of bomb damage; and operational security was limiting what they could reveal about the assessments they were able to obtain.

At the support group meeting Monday night, Pat Johnson (r) gives an Operation Desert Shield pin to Joelle Childers, whose son John Childers is serving in the Middle East. Johnson's two sons, Roger and David, are also in the Persian Gulf.

U.S. pilots nervous, vengeful, careful about bravado backfire

By JOHN KING
Associated Press Writer

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia — F-14 Tomcat pilot Rake was just back from Iraq, and he was bragging about his hits and belittling enemy pilots for running from dogfights.

"I don't think they wanted to die," Rake said. He asked that his radio call name be used instead of his real name.

Why? If shot down and captured by Iraq, Rake said his bravado could be used against him.

American pilots are anxious these days, horrified by the scenes of captured pilots and other servicemen being shown on Iraqi television. But they are determined not to allow their emotions to distract them from their mission.

To the contrary.

"We will hit 'em harder and make him pay for every violation of decency," said Air Force A-10 pilot Capt. Mike O'Dowd of Bergenfield, N.J.

Still, Saddam Hussein's capture and treatment of downed pilots and crew — and the daring rescue behind enemy lines Monday of a Navy pilot — underscore the dangers of being shot down.

"It puts a jab in your gut," said Capt. Pete Edgar of Littleton, N.H. "It doesn't make you feel that great about what is going on up there but I would hope he would treat them under the Geneva Convention."

The stark images of the first American prisoners of the Persian Gulf war harken back to Vietnam, a war most troops here are too young to remember.

Report: Saddam hiding in luxury bunker

Associated Press

HAMBURG, Germany — A German newspaper says Saddam Hussein is hiding from the U.S. bombardment in a luxurious, nuclear-proof bunker built with German technology under the presidential palace in Baghdad.

"The heavens of Baghdad explode in bright fireballs. The city vibrates from detonations of bombs and rockets. The pressure waves of explosions force scorching air through the streets," Bild am Sonntag reported.

"The Iraqi dictator sees and feels nothing of it. He is hiding in his atomic-bomb-secure bunker directly under his government palace."

Western news reports have spoken of such a complex under the palace, but details have been sketchy. The weekly did not say in the report Sunday how it learned the details and they could not be independently confirmed.

Bild said German companies, including one based in Munich, designed the bunker, which is 60 feet under the palace, furnished it and "worked for years to build it," but none was identified by name.

Storage chambers are "filled to the ceilings" with food and medicine and up to 25 people could hold out in the bunker for "more than a year without worry," the report says.

The bunker is 2,160 square yards, cost more than $100 million.

Psychologist warns too much news is unhealthy

Associated Press

SAVANNAH, Ga. — A psychologist warns that watching too much war on television is unhealthy, especially for families with loved ones in the Persian Gulf.

The even has a name for the problem that may develop: CNN Contics.

James P. Turner, a counselor at Memorial Medical Center, said Monday he coined the name for the condition from Cable News Network's 24-hour coverage.

Total immersion in war news only increases anxiety, he said.

"We're very concerned about people getting virtually addicted to news, afraid to miss every little thing that might happen," Turner said. "It's not good for their emotional health to ride this roller-coaster continually. You can't build your life around continuous news coverage."

But Veronica Szoke said she would be more anxious with the television turned off.

"I don't want to leave the TV. It'd be a disaster case," said Szoke, who has stayed home some weeks to watch the televised reports from the gulf. Her husband, Army Staff Sgt. John Garcia, is in Saudi Arabia.

Turner said the Savannah hospital and agencies in the area as well as military support groups are getting many phone calls from families, friends and employers of people they fear can't tear themselves away from watching TV war coverage.

Employers especially are reporting workers who place small TVs on their desks so they won't miss developments while working, he said.

Turner advises people who are anxious about the war to turn off the news and to keep life as normal as possible.

"If you're a TV watcher, watch TV (entertainment) shows; if you're a golfer, golf; if you do needlepoint, do needlepoint," he said.

Seminole DUI arrests

SANFORD — The following persons have been arrested on a charge of driving under the influence of alcohol (DUI) in Seminole County:

• William Wayne Wellwood, 48, 584 Harney Height Road, Geneva, was arrested by Winter Springs police Friday at about 9:30 p.m. at State Road 484 and Wagner Curve after he was seen crossing the center line several times, according to police reports. He was charged with DUI and failure to maintain a lane. He was booked into the county jail on a $500 bond.

• April Cathleen Long, 21, 112 Holly Ave., Sanford, was arrested by Sanford police Saturday at 3:17 a.m. at U.S. Highway 17-92 and 20th Street. She was charged with DUI and failure to dim lights. She was booked into the county jail on a $500 bond.

Woman arrested on theft warrant

SANFORD — Bonita Frio, 22, 47 Lake Monroe Terrace, Sanford, was arrested by Seminole County sheriff's deputies Friday on a theft charge, according to police.

Frio is charged with the Aug. 4 theft at Goodwill store in Sanford, according to a police report. She was arrested Friday at 11:15 a.m.

Man charged with shoplifting

SANFORD — Carlton Bennett, 28, 1921 Jitway Ave., Midway, was arrested by Sanford police after he was allegedly seen stealing beer from a local grocery store, police said.

After a store employee at Winn Dixie, 1514 French Ave., Sanford, reported seeing Bennett leaving the store with a 24-pack of beer, according to police reports, police arrived at the scene and arrested him on a retail theft charge.

Man arrested at lounge

LONGWOOD — A Sanford man was arrested early Saturday morning at a Longwood lounge after police report seeing him smoke marijuana in a lounge restroom, according to police reports.

Thomas Lee Ordish, 28, whose address police identify only as Sanford, was seen smoking marijuana in the restroom of Plus Three Lounge, 1271 S. U.S. Highway 17-92, Longwood, police reports said.

He is charged with possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Vehicle tag stolen

CHULUOTA — A Winter Park man was arrested on a charge of stealing a vehicle tag, according to police.

Ron David Slonecker, 28, 3040 Aloma Ave., Winter Park, was found asleep in his vehicle in Chuluota early Saturday morning by a Seminole County deputy, police said. A computer check on his vehicle tag found it had been stolen, police said.

Slonecker is wanted on an Orange County warrant for driving with a license revoked after a DUI arrest, police said. He was booked into the Seminole County jail on a $2,000 bond.

Special session starting

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — Florida legislators were summoned to the Capitol today to fix an unconstitutional workers' compensation law, deal with an expensive citrus canker problem and help military reservists cope financially with war.

Top lawmakers say the six-hour session should not be controversial. "I think it'll go smoothly," said House Speaker T.K. Wetherell, D-Daytona Beach.

The session was called after the new workers' compensation law was declared unconstitutional by a state judge. Added to the agenda was a proposal to let growers who lost trees during the 1984 citrus canker scare get settlements from the state more quickly.

The House and Senate both intend to adopt new rules to regulate lobbyists, and will consider a bill to supplement pay of government workers called to military service.

The measure would cover about 300 state workers and provide an option for local governments to make sure employees earn the same salaries when they are called to active duty because of the Persian Gulf war.

Special sessions usually cost some $40,000 a day, but Tuesday's will be far less because lawmakers were already scheduled to be in the capital for committee meetings and will get no extra travel expenses or pay.

The workers' compensation law that went into effect July 1 was declared unconstitutional in November by Circuit Judge Lewis Hall of Tallahassee. He ruled that it improperly dealt with both workers' compensation and international trade issues.

Hall also said the law was unconstitutional because two workers' compensation agencies it created violated the separation of powers between the governor and the courts. The case is on appeal to the Florida Supreme Court.

Another state judge threw out a part of the bill that removed workers' compensation exemptions for small contractors, upsetting many who contended the extra cost would drive them out of business.

The new law was enacted to corral runaway workers' compensation insurance rates, which it cut by 25 percent. But critics say it did so at the expense of injured workers, whose benefits were slashed by a third.

"What happens now is, if you're an injured worker and not able to go back to work, you're assigned to poverty," said Dan Miller, president of the state AFL-CIO. The union filed the suit that successfully challenged the law.

But business and industry interests say lower rates are essential to keep the state's already-troubled economy on an even keel. Without the new law, they say, rates could leap some 80 percent.

Opening

The Department of Energy and the Department of Health and Human Services have concluded a landmark agreement giving the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta an important role in managing research on the effects of radiation on workers in defense plants. The agreement, long in the making, represents one of the most meaningful steps in lifting the veil of secrecy behind which the findings of that research have been hidden in Energy Department files for decades.

When he first took office, Energy Secretary James D. Watkins learned that independent scientists were denied access to the department's wealth of data on radiation and human health gathered in the nation's weapons plants since the 1940s. He vowed to end that restriction. He has since opened the department's files to outsiders and developed a program to computerize the information in a central repository to make it more accessible.

Mr. Watkins has now taken the next logical step: turning over to the nation's top health agency the responsibility for conducting continuing research on radiation's impact on human health. This establishes the fundamental principle that research on the health consequences of a government agency's programs cannot be safely monitored by that agency alone. The temptation to cover up unfavorable results is simply too great.

The Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta will now manage most programs that measure the effects of exposure to low levels of radiation on workers at nuclear weapons plants. But the arrangement is backed only by the assent of Mr. Watkins and Health and Human Services Secretary Louis W. Sullivan. That's not enough. Congress should formally transfer the Energy Department's budget authority for radiation monitoring programs to Health and Human Services.

Alcohol alert

According to the American Medical Association, young people who try Ciso, a popular new alcoholic beverage, are increasingly showing up in hospital emergency rooms. Ciso is packaged to look like a mild wine cooler, but, as the AMA and U.S. Surgeon General Antonio Novello warned the other day, it is "an incredibly potent, potentially lethal alcoholic beverage."

It is particularly dangerous to unsuspecting teens. In most states, no one under the age of 21 can drink Ciso legally, but of course they do. And Ciso, which is carbonated and comes in five fruit flavors, is particularly attractive to them.

The deceptively potent beverage contains 20 percent alcohol, making a 12-ounce bottle of Ciso equivalent to five shots of vodka. Consumption of two bottles within a hour by a person weighing 100 pounds or less can cause death due to acute alcohol poisoning. And teen-agers and inexperienced drinkers are guzzling it like soda pop. The potent wine reportedly was responsible for at least 10 cases of acute alcohol poisoning since last March at one hospital in the Washington, D.C., area alone.

In response to complaints, the manufacturer of Ciso, Canandaigua Wine Co. of New York, has put labels on its bottles stating "this is not a wine cooler" and have enlarged the 20 percent alcohol content disclosure on the label as well.

But that's not enough. The surgeon general has asked that Ciso be repackaged to make it look like what it is, a highly potent fortified wine. She's also appealing to the public to urge their local liquor retailers not to stock it next to the soda pop and the less potent wine coolers. Some liquor retailers — notably Liquor Barn and Southland Corp., owner of 7-Eleven stores, among others — are refusing to see Ciso in its current form.

Booker: whose side is God on?

I had not visited my theological Harlem friend Booker Lerol Jackson for several weeks. In light of the Persian Gulf crisis, however, it seemed appropriate to get his prayerful thoughts. He was out. But he had left a prayer on the table. Yo, Lord — It's me, Booker. You know, Booker Lerol Jackson in Harlem? I feel I has to let you know who I be ever' time I pray, 'cause you got so many folks tryin' to reach you. I know I haan't been too cool lately in checkin' in with you regular-like. But I be thinkin' 'bout you a whole bunch since the last time I be prayin'. My grandmother say you never forget any of us. She be always singin' that song, "His eye is on the sparrow, and I know he watches me." And that be my point, Lord: Who you be watchin' over in this war? George Bush? Saddam Hussein? King Hussein? Yitzhak Shamir? Emir as-Sabah? All of them folks can't be right, Lord. They even call you by different names. President Bush be callin' you God, Saddam Hussein, King Hussein and the emir be callin' you Allah. Prime Minister Shamir be callin' you Yahweh 'Elohim.

When President Bush sent all them bombers over and over again to Iraq on that first night, which minister you be talkin' to, Lord? Billy Graham who be with him in the White House or one of them ministers who be marchin' outside the White House with them pickets against the war? I was listenin' to the radio, and Saddam Hussein say they was gon' win 'cause God's on they side. Is that true, Lord?

My daddy fought in World War II (he be in the Infantry, Lord), and he told me how Joe Louis say the same thing. We gon' win 'cause God's on our side.

And we won! (No way you coulda been on Hitler's side.)

My side won in the Civil War, too, Lord, but both sides was prayin' to you. Abraham Lincoln said it be kinda strange that men be darin' to ask "a just God's" help in gettin' their food from the sweat of other men's faces. He say, the prayers of both could not be answered.

Since my side won in the Civil War, Lord, do that mean that you was on my side or that my side be havin' a better pipeline to you?

I gotta ax you, Lord, whether all wars be the same. Do there be good wars and bad wars? Just wars and unjust wars? And who be decidin' which war is just and unjust? I be readin' my Bible, and the Scriptures send mixed signals.

When Moses sing his song, he say, "The Lord is a man of war: The Lord is his name." But the brother of Jesus, James, say, "Ye fight and war, yet ye have not." That be heavy, Lord. No wonder Saddam Hussein can claim God be on his side.

Since we in this war now, I be wonderin': Do it be a just war for us or a just war for Saddam Hussein? It can't be both, Lord, just like the Civil War don't be a just war for both the South and the North.

I got some homeys in the Army in Saudi Arabia, and I be prayin' specially hard for they safety. But I don't want none of them soldiers, white or black, to lose they lives. It won't be too long before this war start windin' down. That's when we gon' be peedin' your blessings, Lord, to stop hatin' each other just 'cause we on opposite sides of the fence or in opposite religions. The real test of peace be at home as much as it be in the Middle East.

His eye is on the sparrow, and I know he watches me.

Problem: persistence in error

BOSTON — "I can't believe we'll go to war," says one neighbor to another, chipping ice off a car window on a January morning. The two are amateurs on war. But then so are the experts. The neighbors seek some small comfort from the exchange: "Something will happen at the last minute to stop it," says an acquaintance at the check-out counter. He says this with bravado or is it denial or perhaps bewilderment?

In a dozen such daily exchanges, I sense the surreal quality to this approaching war. The pre-war maneuvers have been so deliberate, so apparently rational, as to appear somehow "unwarlike." And so, war seems incredible.

Never in our lifetime have Americans walked up to war with such a strangely studied pace. We approach this battle without battle cries. The occasional claims that Saddam is a "madman," his cry that Americans will "swim in their own blood," carries a melodramatic edge that merely seems more unreal.

Indeed, the international air is as full of claims to reason as promises of destruction. In Geneva, hopes for peace are dashed, but with civility. Negotiators and ambassadors who appear for post-meeting interviews are intransigent but cool, diplomatic. Enemies are polite in their television-ready responses and television-friendly suits.

Again and again, the President says that if only the Iraqis "got it," if only they understood what was in store for them, they would withdraw. Even as the Congress talks about authorizing the use of force, it is hard to realize how swiftly the competition to appear most rational, most righteous, can deteriorate into a killing field.

This time, if the worst happens, we won't need a historian, a future Barbara Tuchman, to describe in retrospect the march of folly. The tragic miscalculations, of leaders and people, are right there in front of us. We are watching our own pre-war archives, in the news reports, in the press conferences, in the videotapes.

We have on record the first, vast miscalculation by the Iraqis that the world would let them take over Kuwait. We have in full color the miscalculation that brinkmanship would succeed. And we have ample evidence of the equally vast miscalculation by Americans that we could have a war without everything that "war" is.

In the latest polls — the means by which most Americans now assuage their sense of powerlessness in this democracy — 63 percent of Americans say that we should go to war if Iraq doesn't withdraw. But when the human costs are factored in, how quickly that support drops.

What if it means 1,000 American lives? people were asked. Only 44 percent said they were in favor of war. What if it means 10,000 lives? Only 35 percent would go to war. When Rep. Les Aspin cavalierly suggests that casualties of "3,000 to 5,000 with up to a thousand deaths" would be an acceptable price, his lines are jammed by protests.

What will future historians make of this? That we wanted a war without any dead? Wars rarely come that way.

Our inability to really see war, to believe in it, may be a byproduct of confusion. Or perhaps it's because of the months we have spent waiting and watching. We may have been lulled by the endless previews, the familiar cast of characters, the scenarios played over so many times they seem scripted.

It has seemed at times like playacting. Americans are well trained as an audience, people who wait to see what happens next, whose problems are solved by the end of the show.

Will historians write about our behavior with the same irony they reserve for the Europeans before World War I?

Barbara Tuchman wrote about the folly of political leaders: "Persistence in error is the problem. Practitioners of government continue down the wrong road as if in thrall to some Merlin with magic power to direct their steps."

This time, we all sit at the edge of this road, equally in thrall. We watch as these "practitioners" drive two cars on a collision course. They're not careening madly, but (this is most unsettling of all) driving consciously, studiously, deliberately, head on.

Everything seems under control. Right up to the moment of impact.

Everything seems under control, right up to impact.

Man learns Saudi justice hard way

WASHINGTON — Scott Nelson knows firsthand the character of America's "friends" in the Persian Gulf. Five years ago Nelson was jailed and tortured in Saudi Arabia for blowing the whistle on dangerous conditions at a Saudi hospital where he worked. He went to Saudi Arabia looking for top wages and instead found himself on the wrong side of the royal family.

Nelson, an electrical engineer, took a job with the King Fahd Specialist Hospital in Saudi Arabia. His problems began in March 1984 when he spotted what he thought was a fire hazard in the hospital's oxygen and nitrous oxide lines. He reported the hazard to his superiors, but was ignored.

Whistleblowers in the United States know the meaning of on-the-job harassment, but Nelson found out that it has another meaning in Saudi Arabia. Six months after he first began complaining, Nelson was called into the hospital's security office and arrested for unspecified charges. He was put in foot shackles, thrown on the ground and beaten on his back, chest and legs.

"They broke my knees," Nelson told us. "They beat my feet with bamboo canes and forced me to do knee bends with a rod between my legs."

It was not until four days later that Nelson got a visit from U.S. Embassy officials. Nelson claims he told them about the beatings, but the response was that if the embassy filed a complaint "it could make matters worse."

Nelson was moved to Al Sijon Prison to await trial, for who knows what. He described the treatment there as "sadistic." He was kept in a cell made for 50 men, but which held 110. He slept on the floor in the bathroom while rats crawled over him. The lights were left on all night. Mail was destroyed and food was scarce.

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., found out about Nelson's case and petitioned King Fahd to release him. Nelson was freed 39 days after his arrest. The Saudis offered him his job back, but all he wanted was to get out of the country.

Back home in Raleigh, N.C., Nelson has undergone surgery for his knees. He says he will be disabled for the rest of his life.

"The worst part of my experience was dealing with our own government," Nelson told our associate Melinda Mass. "The State Department ignores the jailing and torturing of Americans in Saudi Arabia because of the country's influence and valuable export, crude oil." Jim Smrkovski of Iowa has also tasted Saudi hospitality. He was imprisoned and tortured in Saudi Arabia in 1985 after being accused of spying. Smrkovski's crime was knowing someone who was being investigated by Saudi authorities. They thought Smrkovski knew something he wasn't telling, so they jailed him for 454 days. Smrkovski said he was beaten and tortured. "The worst part came when they mutilated my toenails," he said. "I passed out." The State Department won't talk about specific cases of human rights abuses in Saudi Arabia, but would only tell us that it has protested those abuses. The Saudi government apparently does not put much stock in those protests. A recent report by Amnesty International says that the abuses continue. Saudi Arabia's neighbors, the Yemenis, are favorite targets. Amnesty compiled reports of at least 800 Yemenis who had been arrested without charges, tortured or harassed in Saudi Arabia. Some of them said the only reason they were arrested was because their government sided with Iraq in the Persian Gulf crisis.

They broke my knees. They beat my feet with bamboo canes.

Seminole County Expressway from Aloma Avenue to U.S. 17-92 at Airport Boulevard. About one-half mile of the tollroad has been completed so far. Brinton said state construction contracts should be awarded in June and all construction should be completed by Sept. 1993.

The bond sale was delayed by about a month when former Gov. Bob Martinez decided in December to delay a decision to sell the bonds until January, when Gov.-elect Lawton Chiles would assume office. Chiles said the previously-planned sale of $515 million was too much because it included money for projects that were not ready for construction.

The delay of the bond sale will also delay the settlement of the expressway authority's settlement with Brenda Properties Inc., owners of the Zayrea Plaza at the northwest corner of U.S. 17-92 and Airport Boulevard. Authority members were scheduled to pay Brenda Properties $3 million on Jan. 31, anticipating a 1990 bond sale.

Brinton said last week he has reached a verbal commitment from Brenda Properties attorneys to extend the closing until March 31 to allow time to receive the money from the state.

King

King's career as the Baptist minister who began the civil rights movement in 1955, ended abruptly in 1968 when he was assassinated in Memphis.

"He was stabbed in New York, pelted with stones in Chicago, and assassinated by a sniper in Memphis, but Dr. King epitomized peace," Mistress of Ceremonies Rebecca McCloud said.

Dr. Lurleen Sweeting presented the Brotherhood Award to local musician Mary Whitehurst for her faithful direction of the Martin Luther King Celebration Choir.

Whitehurst is ill and was unable to attend. Her award was accepted by her daughter, Faye Williams.

"Mary has been director of the choir since its inception," Sweeting said. "She does everything with a smile and she is a sister of God. I'm so glad to know Mary," she added.

Chairman for the event, Dorothea Fogle, presented Shirley Allen with a plaque for her five-year involvement on the Martin Luther King Steering Committee.

Mayor Betty Smith personally recognized Fogle for her selfless dedication to making the King commemorative days, Jan. 19-21, a success.

"This is from me personally to show my gratitude to Ms. Fogle for all she has done," Smith said.

Sanford native son, Nathaniel "Nat" Scurry, now the director of the U.S. Civil Rights Office, traveled from Washington D.C. to be the guest speaker last night.

Scurry said King has had profound influence on his life.

"After I returned from Vietnam, I had some strong feelings about if I was in agreement with Dr. King's philosophy. I listened very carefully and I began to see and feel what he was preaching," Scurry said.

Scurry said he was encouraged to be successful as a teenager.

"Coming from a place like Sanford, a community like Midway, made me feel a need to give back something," he said.

Pilot

Mullen's message to the support group was that networking is critical to surviving the hard times war forces upon military families. After her husband died in Vietnam, she said, she was helped through her grieving by "complete strangers," although support groups for military families didn't exist.

Mullen, who directs the American Legion's Family Support Network in Florida, spoke as part of a program facilitated by HCA West Lake Hospital. Richard Stout, a therapist at the psychiatric hospital, led the group in a discussion of stress, its symptoms and its dangers.

The kinds of stress members of the group identified varied, but none of the speakers showed how common a thread those stresses have become among the families since U.S. troops were deployed in the Persian Gulf months ago. Wives and mothers agonized because their loved ones cannot tell them where in the Middle East they are located. A mother cried because the war, offending her maternal instincts, has left her feeling helpless because she is unable to help her son and remove him from harm's way.

"It's out of my hands," she said.

Stout warned the group that too much news from the front lines, particularly vivid images of bombs hitting their targets, could trigger extreme anxiety that can threaten both emotional and physical health. He urged families to temper their viewing of television broadcasts.

Stout also prohibited professional counseling or smaller support circles for families who suffer extreme stress because of a loved one's involvement overseas.

Mothers, fathers, wives and husbands of military men and women last night shared with each other the tidbits of comfort they have gleaned from the Persian Gulf.

One woman got a round of applause for telling the group she received a phone call at 3 a.m. yesterday from her son.

Another woman was applauded for sharing with the crowd a phone call from her husband.

"He just said, 'Keep sending me letters and Clearasil,'" the young wife said.

Mothers and fathers were cheered on by clapping hands merely for the words "tears" and "helpless."

War

foggy air base in eastern Saudi Arabia, continuing their nonstop bombing campaign against Iraq. And the air force of Qatar, Saudi Arabia's oil-rich neighbor, joined the fray for the first time.

The Baghdad government, in a military communique carried by Iran's Islamic Republic News Agency, claimed today that residential areas in Baghdad and other cities had been hit by more than 20 allied air raids overnight. Baghdad radio also assailed what it called the allied "crime of aggression" against sacred Muslim shrines.

Word that Kuwaiti oil facilities were ablaze was an ominous development. In September, six weeks after it seized Kuwait, Iraq had threatened to turn the region's oil fields into an inferno if it was challenged.

Air Force 1st Lt. Casey Mahon, a spokesman for the U.S. military command in the Saudi capital, Riyadh, said aerial photography showed oil wells and storage tanks had been blown up at the al-Wafra facility in southern Kuwait, just across the Saudi border.

"We do have evidence that Iraq is damaging or destroying some of these facilities," he said.

Oil industry executives in touch with their Kuwaiti counterparts said oil storage tanks were on fire today at a pair of major facilities, Shuaiba and Mina Abdullah, next to each other about 60 miles north of the border. The executives in Bahrain, speaking on condition of anonymity, speculated that the destruction could be a part of Iraq's preparations for an expected allied ground attack.

The official Iranian news agency, meanwhile, reported today that allied warplanes staged heavy air attacks Monday night and early today on the strategic Iraqi city of Basra, site of Iraq's military headquarters governing operations in Kuwait.

The withering allied air strikes against Iraq — 10,000 combat and support sorties so far — are only the first stage of a battle that could later lead to a bloody ground war. Iraq has the fourth-largest army in the world, with 545,000 troops entrenched across southern Iraq and Kuwait.

But U.S. fliers were heartened by the daring rescue of a downed pilot from Iraqi territory on Monday. An Air Force search-and-rescue helicopter picked up the Navy F-14 Tomcat pilot who bailed out into a featureless expanse of desert after being hit by ground fire.

During the nerve-rattling rescue operation, an Iraqi army truck headed directly toward the stranded airman, but the ground support attack jets raked it with fire from their 30 mm Galling guns.

NATIONAL BRIEFS

Postal rate hike decision today

WASHINGTON — Postal Service officials are to decide today when you'll pay more for your mail — probably 29 cents and perhaps as early as the first week in February.

The Independent Postal Rate Commission three weeks ago recommended raising the current 25-cent rate by 4 cents. The postal governing board has overturned the commission's recommendations only once and was expected to vote today to implement a 29-cent stamp effective in early February.

The Postal Service originally wanted to charge 30 cents as the basic first-class rate. But cuts in staffing and improved productivity lopped more than $700 million from the agency's deficit, permitting the rate commission to shave a penny off the new rate.

Marchers mark Roe vs Wade anniversary

WASHINGTON — Abortion rights supporters and opponents alike lined up activities in the nation's capital today to mark the 18th anniversary of the Supreme Court's Roe vs. Wade decision.

The March for Life rally, which has become an annual ritual since the landmark 1973 decision that legalized abortion, was to begin at noon on the Mall in Washington, where this year's theme is a call to politicians for a firm anti-abortion stand.

"The theme is no waffling on the life principles," march leader Nellie Gray said. "We saw candidates in the last couple of years who had been pro-life and they waffled and tried to take a moderate stand, and then no one trusted them. They lost their elections."

Abortion rights advocates organized by the National Organization for Women planned to hold their own demonstration nearby.

Latvia OKs anti-Soviet home guard

Associated Press

RIGA, U.S.S.R. — Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev met today with the leader of Latvia a day after the republic's secessionist lawmakers voted to form a volunteer militia in defiance of Moscow.

No details were immediately available from the talks in Moscow, but a Soviet parliamentarian, Anatoly Denisov, said Monday that Gorbachev might order presidential rule after his meeting with Latvian President Anatolija Gorbunova. The Latvia Parliament voted to form the defense force and fortify public buildings to protect against possible attack by Soviet forces. Also Monday, the Soviet prosecutor's office ordered republican governments to disband "illegal armed units" — a reference to the self-defense groups.

The statement, carried by the official Tass news agency, also instructed the republics to suspend all legislation that contradicts the Soviet constitution.

In Luxembourg, representatives of the 12-nation European Community were meeting today to consider canceling a $500 million technical aid package promised.

A Bad Day Fishing Is Better Than A Good Day At Work.

It's Shad Derby time again at Marina Isle Fish Camp. January 1st marked the official beginning of the event which runs through April 15th. There is a one time $25 entry fee, with a $1,000 Grand Prize, two second prizes of $500 each and a third prize of $250. Weekly winners will receive a custom rod and reel for the heaviest shad caught that week. According to Leonard and Bobbie Harrell, owners of Marina Isle Fish Camp the area of the St. Johns River running from Marina Isle to Mullet Lake to Lemon Bluff is the main spawning ground for shad. Shad migrate inland from the ocean in order to spawn. They are highly prized as food fish and are best caught in the afternoon and early evening hours.

Marina Isle is also participating in Crappieathon USA. Crappieathon USA is a sixty day fishing event held annually and sponsored by national companies and local businesses such as Marina Isle Fish Camp.

This year's event runs from January 19th through March 19th. Lake Harney, Jessup, Monroe, Beresford, Woodruff Spring Green, Dexter, George, Little Lake George, Dunns Creek and Crescent Lake are involved.

Marina Isle Fish Camp is an official weight station and is sponsoring a prize fish, named Lock Jaw Outlaw, weighing in at 1 pound, 12 ounces (28 ounces) and worth $1,000 for the first live fish caught and weighed in. See Marina Isle Fish Camp for details and registration information.

Marina Isle Fish Camp offers a wide variety of services to recreation-minded persons. There is an RV park and campground, a picnic area, groceries and supplies, ice, gas, oil and tackle, boat and motor rental, boat ramps and stalls, as well as year round storage for boats available. There is a $1.00 ramp launch fee.

Marina Isle recommends scenic airboat tours to experience the natural beauty of Florida. These airboats go back into the swamps and allow you to see wildlife close up. In the water and on the banks, Marina Isle also rents pontoon boats, which hold up to 14 people. These are great for fishing parties. Fishing enthusiasts should expect to hook shad, bass, crappie, specs, bluegill and bream in the waters adjacent to the fish camp.

Marina Isle Fish Camp is located off of State Road 46, east of Sanford and Lake Jessup. They are open seven days a week from 6 AM to 6 PM. You can reach Bobbie and Leonard, when they're not fishing, at 322-4786.

Newsome's second half goal leads Lyman to win

Jim Johnson (-8 on ground) of Seminole makes a beautiful tackle on Lyman's Alan Newsome to stop a first half scoring try. But Newsome would get the last laugh as he came back in the second half to net the only goal as the Greyhounds topped the Tribe 1-0 Monday night.

By PHIL SMITH
 Herald Correspondent

LONGWOOD — The Lyman Greyhounds improved their record to 13-4-3 Monday evening with a 1-0 victory over the Seminole Fighting Seminoles in boy's soccer action at Lyman High School.

The Greyhounds, now 7-1-3 in the Seminole Athletic Conference, benefited from an excellent performance from goalkeeper Marcus Dewberry, who had six saves on the evening.

Seminole goalkeeper Jon Williams played equally well recording seven saves during the contest, keeping the Tribe, now 3-7-1 overall and 1-6-1 in the conference, within striking distance.

This game was a lot more exciting than a typical 1-0 score would indicate as each team created many good scoring chances, combining for 26 shots on goal.

The Seminoles had two excellent chances midway into the first half.

David Lambert made a throw-in into the Lyman goal box where Geordie Davison flicked a strong header that went just over the crossbar.

A few minutes later, Travis Groover made a strong run into the Greyhound penalty box from the right wing and rocketed a shot from 10 yards out but Dewberry was able to make the save.

Lyman also had some good opportunities of their own in the first half.

Mike Sells made an excellent run through the Seminole defense but his shot went just wide.

Later, Brian Fooks made a throw-in into the Seminoles penalty box where Frank Cipolla put a clean header on goal but Williams was LANDOVER, Md. — Darrell Walker's jumper from the corner with 1.4 seconds remaining Monday gave the Washington Bullets a 121-119 victory over Orlando, the Magic's fourth straight loss.

Walker's shot from the left corner completed his third triple-double of the season and enabled the Bullets to stretch their home winning streak to five games. Walker had 10 points, 15 rebounds and 13 assists.

The game-winning shot came after Orlando's Scott Skiles made two free throws with 19.4 seconds remaining to tie the score. Dennis Scott's 3-pointer at the buzzer bounced off the rim for the Magic.

Scott scored 30 points and Skiles had 27 points and 12 assists. Terry Catledge added 24 points and 13 rebounds for the Magic, who lost for the sixth time in seven games. Orlando has never beaten Washington in five meetings.

Harvey Grant scored 31 for the Bullets and Ledell Eackles added a season-high 25. Bernard King missed 12 of 18 field goal attempts but still scored 22.

Orlando took a 103-99 lead with 8:34 left before Grant hit a jumper to ignite an 8-0 run that made it 107-103. The Magic then got a free throw by Skiles and two baskets from Scott to regain the lead, and neither team led by more than a basket the rest of the way.

Bullets coach Wes Unseld said Walker was the last player he wanted to shoot the ball as the clock wound down.

"The play was designed for Ledell, then Bernard, then to Harvey in the corner, then to Pervis (Ellison)," Unseld said. "Then, if all else fails, get the ball to Darrell and pray."

Roy Johnson (right) of Casselberry caught this 30.5-ounce speck Monday to earn himself $1,000 in the Johnson Reels Crappie/Thon USA fishing tournament. Johnson is shown standing with Peggy Parker, who owns the Big Bass Hole Bait and Tackle store in Sanford where the fish was weighed. The fish was sponsored by Hontoon Marina in DeLand and is called the "River Boat Gambler".

By DEAN SMITH
 Herald sports writer

SANFORD — Leslie Cephus, Demetrius Lomax and Niki Washington have been named the Sanford Jaycees Players of the Week.

Cephus, a freshman from Birmingham, Ala., was named for Seminole Community College after he came up with 29 points, 22 rebounds, three blocked shots, four steals and five assists.

Lomax, a 5-foot-9 junior, was named for the Seminole High School boys team after scoring 19 points, grabbing five rebounds, seven steals and seven assists. But his biggest game was in a victory over Mainland. In the last two minutes he nailed a three-pointer to put SHS ahead by four, but the Mainland fought back to take the lead with 15 seconds left. Lomax came up with a steal and was fouled. He made both free throws put Seminole back on top and then came up with a steal.

Washington was named for the Seminole girls team after scoring 28 points, grabbing 46 rebounds, blocking 20 shots, picking off 20 steals and handing out 13 assists.

The sophomore's best game was against Oviedo when she scored 12 points, pulled down 16 rebounds, had 10 steals, eight blocked shots and six assists.

Man needs support from bra and wife

DEAR ABBY: When I was a young man in my 20s, I lifted weights and worked out a lot. I was very proud of my physique — especially my well-developed chest. I am now 63, and I'm sorry to say I did not keep up with my exercising, because the muscles in my chest are soft and flabby and I need a bra. These breasts are really heavy and they hurt.

My wife said I should go to a doctor and have the d— things cut off. I went to the doctor, and he said I could have them surgically removed — like a woman having a double mastectomy — but most men with this problem prefer to wear an elastic support bra.

I have been married 41 years. I am not kinky or anything like that, but I do need help. My wife says real men do not wear bras. I really wouldn't mind wearing one, as no one would ever see it except my wife. If she would just shut up, I'd try it. What do you think?

TOP-HEAVY
DEAR TOP-HEAVY: Whether she shuts up or not, do whatever is necessary to relieve yourself of the discomfort. Ask your doctor to recommend a shop that sells the elastic support garment he describes. And, if that doesn't put an end to your discomfort, consider surgery. Your problem is unusual, but not uncommon.

DEAR ABBY: In your reply to "Slow Eater" in Tucson, you used the word "waitperson." Do you have a dictionary that includes the word waitperson? If a waitperson in a restaurant is slow to bring the food, are the would-be diners then guest waitpersons? Is a butler a front-door waitperson? If I'm standing in line to get into a theater, does that make me a theater line waitperson?

ADVICE
ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

What is wrong with the longstanding, well-understood, less cumbersome words "waiter" and "waitress"? Must we invent a new language? In some languages, every noun is either male or female gender, so why are we concerned that the few English words that refer to gender might offend someone? Has a diner ever failed to notice the "waitperson's" gender? (Incidentally, why does "waiter" refer only to a male person, while "diner" includes both male and female?) Sign me...

WAIT (WAITER) PERSON
DEAR WAIT (EATER) PERSON: I did not invent the word "waitperson." It appears in my Random House Dictionary of the English Language, 2nd Edition, Unabridged, page 2,137. And I am now a person waiting for your apology.

DEAR ABBY: I am a past president of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Italian American War Veterans in Chicago. I am also a longtime fan of you and your sister. I want you to know that we have used your Thanksgiving prayer all year long to open our luncheons and dinners, and whenever an invocation is appropriate. We find that it follows the dictates of everything we stand for.

We would further like you to know that we have received many compliments on using this thought-provoking, stirring "prayer," and never fail to credit Dear Abby as its author.

NORMA E. BATTISTI, CHICAGO

DEAR MRS. BATTISTI: How kind of you to let me know. Your gracious expression of gratitude made my day.

DEAR ABBY: I recall hearing the newsmen yelling "Edition Special!" ("Special Edition!") on the streets of Paris. Lindbergh had successfully crossed the Atlantic in a solo flight. The press reported that he had to borrow a tuxedo, formal shirt and shoes to be honored the following evening by the French government in the company of your American Ambassador Merrick.

JENNIFER'S PAGES, PALM SPRINGS, CALIF.

DEAR ABBY: We arrived in Paris from Switzerland by train, got a cab and asked the driver to take us to our hotel, but we were soon in the middle of a big traffic jam with everyone yelling, "We're going to the airport — Lindbergh has landed!" We instructed our driver to head for the airport where we joined the crowd. I was 17 at the time and will never forget it.

MRS. W. CALVIN WELLS JR., JACKSON, MISS.

DEAR ABBY: I cannot pass up this opportunity to brag that I was 18, driving two miles from LeBourget airport, and I not only saw Lindbergh land, I touched his plane!

ANNE CROSS, SANTA MONICA, CALIF.

Relieving sciatica with acupuncture

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 79-year-old female with sciatica. After many doctors and no results, I tried Chinese acupuncture and am doing well. What's your opinion?

DEAR READER: Sciatica is sharp back pain that radiates into the buttock and, sometimes, into one leg. It is caused by pressure on nerves that exit between the lower spinal bones and supply the lower extremities. The most common cause of sciatica is a herniated disc, which slips out of place and pinches the nerves. Ordinarily, herniated discs are treated with rest and physical therapy; pain medication may be required. If, after a course of this conservative therapy, the pain persists, patients usually must consider other treatment options, such as surgery, chymopapain injections or acupuncture.

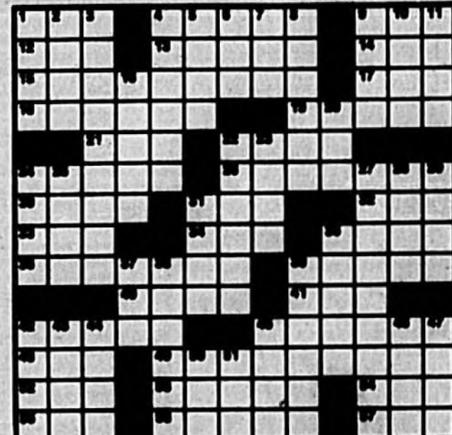

Given your age, I believe you have made a good choice, because aggressive therapy — such as surgery — is more hazardous in the elderly. Of course, acupuncture will not cure your sciatica; it may simply relieve your pain while your body heals the condition. Since you experienced relief from acupuncture, I suggest you continue with this therapy, should the pain recur. If and when the acupuncture loses effectiveness, you and your doctor can weigh the benefits of the other treatments I mentioned.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Prevention magazine recently published a medical survey of cancer physicians who listed the 10 most effective ways people can prevent cancer. What do you think of this?

DEAR READER: I agree with the findings, which seem very sensible. The purpose of the survey, according to Prevention executive editor Emrika Padus, was to "give the public reliable guidance about how to prioritize cancer prevention steps." Chronic exposure to natural radon, high-voltage wires, computer terminals and irradiated foods ranked low on the list. The most important factors, in descending order of importance, are: Don't smoke or chew tobacco, get regular cancer screening (such as pap tests, mammography and stool blood analysis), perform breast or testicular self-exams.

Picturing the declarer's hand is crucial to accurate defense. Part of that mental effort is assigning declarer values when he bids; just as important is realizing that he cannot have certain cards when he fails to bid. This thought process helped East to defeat four spades. South passed his partner's opening bid. West competed with two diamonds and North doubled, not for penalties but to show a strong hand with support for the other suits. East bid three diamonds, getting in North-South's way, and South came in with three spades. It might have been optimistic for North to now bid four, but the play for game was reasonable. In fact, even with the 4-1 trump split, declarer would have made 10 tricks except for good defense by East. East won the ace of diamonds and made a mental note that South held the king. He could see a spade trick for his side and realized that West must hold the heart ace. (South would never have passed the opening one-heart bid with the diamond king plus heart ace.) But if East carelessly returned a low heart, school would be out, since South could ruff the second heart return, and dummy's heart suit would be good. Instead East put the king of hearts on the table. That held the trick, and a second heart played by East beat four spades. When South ruffed and played dummy's A-K of spades, he could not prevent East from making a trick with his remaining small spade in addition to the spade queen. (C)1991, NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
Jan. 22, 1991

Your material prospects for the year ahead look rather encouraging. Your most substantial gains, however, are likely to come not from your usual income generators but from other endeavors.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You might not be the dominant party if you become involved in old-fashioned horse trading today. The more complex the negotiations, the more you're likely to give away. Aquarius, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 to Astro-Graph, Co this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your evaluations of developments today could reflect either too much optimism or too gloomy a scenario. Reality lies somewhere in the middle.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be extremely careful regarding the manner in which you conduct your material affairs today. If you are careless or extravagant, what you gain could slip right through your fingers.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Through expeditious desires or by trying to placate another, you might overlook a critical situation that should be corrected. This could cause complications rather than resolve them.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your judgment might not be up to par today, a problem which may be compounded by unreliable hunches and perceptions. If you're doing work of a critical nature, have it double-checked.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You might be inclined to gratify whims of nonessential purchases today. If you feel a surge of these impulses, leave your credit cards at home.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Weak, ineffective allies or your own indifferent attitude could be the culprit of any misfired plans today. Be serious about the objectives you establish.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

You're lucky today, but it could have definite limitations. If you overstep the boundaries, four-leaf clovers or wishful thinking will come to your rescue.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Try to keep others out of your confidential affairs today, especially a well-intentioned friend. This individual could really gum things up if given a free hand.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Confusion is the likely end result today if you seek too many viewpoints. Dealing with divergent opinions could have you running around in circles.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Try to restrict your attention to the task at hand today. Attempting to do one thing while your mind is on another sets the stage for unnecessary errors.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your checkbook might not be able to cover your luxurious inclinations today. If they gain the upper hand, you might become involved in a long-term obligation.
