

Administration To Try For Passage Of Stronger Controls

WASHINGTON. June 18—(AP)—President Truman's strongest anti-communist leaders will try to enactment of stronger economic control legislation before the House on July 30, application of the Defense Production Act.

Neither House Speaker Rayburn nor Senate Democratic leader McFarland was in favor of a temporary extension of the existing authority.

"The days are not good," Rayburn said when asked about some speculation centering around such an extension.

And McFarland said he wanted to see a bill passed. "I prefer to go the issue out of the way now."

The Senate bill, if passed, is sent law is extended 30 days, "we'd be right back where we are."

Rayburn said the House Banking Committee hopes to get a controls bill to the House this week.

They conferred with Vice President Barkley and House Majority Leader McCormick.

Rayburn said that Congress is still in session at this time to review the Korean Armistice because economic aid to countries trading behind the Iron Curtain.

It is difficult to understand the implications of it," Rayburn told the reporters.

The administration has contended that the strict enforcement of the amendment sponsored by Senator McClellan (D-Mo) would put an end to the ECA, which is the Administration program.

Meanwhile, its operation has been suspended by the Senate for 90 days by action of the National Security Council of which Mr. McClellan is chairman. The Council gave McClellan exemption to all countries receiving ECA aid pending further examination of their trading with the Soviet bloc.

"I have fulfilled that promise to date," he said. "I would like to have the Korean war wind up victoriously." He implied he would be reasonable if that happens. Equally unreasonable are the views of Mr. Truman's partisans. They would occasion for a democratic rally against a hearing scheduled in San Francisco.

Noon Hour: The Shop
Now suddenly the scream of lathes and drills has ceased, metal no longer clangs on metal,

the motors stilled,

and in the ensuing hush, quiet
laughter of men at lunch, an anecdote repeated in three languages,

a remembrance of a time gone by,
a time between the wars, before the wars:

but essentially the hush, as of a deep gray pool, remote, removed beyond the sound of time.

A shaft of summer sunlight falls
across the door-sill, intensely white against cool inner gloom and in this spotlight buzzes a great blue-bottle fly, agile and iridescent as a baller dancer,

then comes to rest, metallic peacock-blue and green;

one with the silence: only the dust
motes shimmer in the light

Time, time, time, unmoving and unseen, but ticking, for suddenly the monstrous wall of whale:

the lunch pails clatter and the giant fanlets turn.

Control Of Metals

Government mobilization planners have disclosed that they will probably set up compulsory allocation of metals for this fall. An allocation plan for essential industry is effective in July, but apparently the planners fear it will not be adequate. Known as the controlled materials plan, it is supposed to assure essential industries of needed quantities of steel, aluminum and copper, leaving other industries to scramble for what is left.

The controlled materials plan is also intended to guard against hoarding of metals by the privileged users. It provides for definite maximum amounts an essential user may have on hand. Amounts held in excess of these limits will be subject to government requisition and reallocation. The intent is to keep the metals available in all the different places where they are needed for production rated as necessary, and to give other users a fair chance to obtain what is not actually needed by essential users.

If all civilian industries should be brought under the plan, most manufacturers probably would be assured of a certain minimum supply of metals. But they would not be permitted to look for supplies in excess of their allotments. Industries not getting allotments are permitted to buy and use as much as they can find.

Overall control would enable government planners to decide exactly what should be manufactured, and how much of it. It might also stem inflation to some degree, since competitive bidding for the controlled metals would virtually be eliminated. Controls of any sort are distasteful, but sometimes they may be necessary. They are better than disaster.

The Building Of Ships

The Bulletin of the Lake Carriers' Association pays tribute to the department of naval architecture and marine engineering of the University of Michigan. This university might be thought of as land-locked, for it is thirty miles from the nearest navigable water, but it has been training ship designers for seventy years. The Bulletin says that most of the ships built on the Great Lakes in the past fifty years have been benefited by this training.

The building of ship is no simple matter. It has always been a work of high skill and artistry, and of something which can only be called feeling. A vessel is a good ship or a troublesome ship, according to minute characteristics in the shape and balance of her hull, the placement and tilt of her stacks, and a thousand small details. Once a ship was simply designed on paper; before that it must have merely taken shape in the mind of the builder. Now the paper design is used to build a model which goes through all manner of tests in a tank of water, to determine whether the design is good or faulty.

Progress in the building of ships is part of progress in carrying more freight and more passengers, and carrying them faster and more safely, at less cost. Progress in transportation, in turn, is inextricably linked with all other advancement. Ships carried man on his first ventures beyond the little area he could cover on his feet. In all the remarkable strides in transportation, nothing has been found which can push the ship aside. One need not be a sailor to look at a graceful ship and know that there is nothing in all the world which quite matches her.

Adapting Education

A change in the pattern of rural education is advocated by the Department of Rural Education of the National Education Association in its 1951 handbook. The book points out that present rural education methods are usually the same as those used in cities and this tends to make education inflexible, unadaptable to the needs of the student and unable to take advantage of factors in a student's environment which can enrich learning.

It is important that the child who is around a dairy should learn about measurements in gallons and quarts before he learns about making change and it is equally important for a city child to learn about handling change before he learns about bushels and pecks. Both children should learn about the various processes by which men carry on ways of making a living, but environment should help to dictate the order in which they are learned.

The idea of the Rural Education Department might be pushed further and be made to include a general movement to make education more adaptable. This does not mean more narrow. The year that a president is elected might be the best time to teach the meaning of a free election. The time when India is suffering from a famine might offer a good opportunity to teach the geography of India and the causes of famines.

It is unwise to use programs of different quality in rural and city schools; but the manner of teaching so that the program has meaning related to the experience of the students has value.

Death Of Marine Guard Is Called Suicide By Police

HAVANA, June 19—(UPI)—Surgeon said after an autopsy today that U. S. Marine Sergeant Robert J. Sheldon, found dead in the U. S. Embassy, was "suicide by firearms."

Sheldon, 22, of Parishville, N. Y., was a guard at the Embassy. He and a Cuban night watchman, Agustin Fernandez, 67, were found dead of gunshot wounds in the via section of the Embassy offices yesterday morning.

Earlier, Dr. Jose Diaz Padron, chief of the Cuban police crime laboratory, reported that the "scientific facts now available" indicated the Marine sergeant shot the watchman and then killed himself. Investigators said they were in the dark as to a motive.

Surgeons said no sign which might indicate a struggle was found on Sheldon's body.

The surgeon said Fernandez' death was "homicide as a result of external hemorrhage."

Baffled by lack of the slightest clue to a motive, Staff Sergeant Richard Carrigan, chief of the Marine guard at the Embassy, declared, however, that Sheldon "just wasn't the type to commit suicide. Never will I or anybody who knew Bob believe he killed himself. It just isn't possible."

The surgeons were Drs. Jose Estrada and Ramon Prieto. They performed the autopsy in the presence of Navy Surgeon Lt. Wadlow. Parts of Sheldon's internal organs were taken by the investigators for chemical analysis.

THE WORLD TODAY

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, June 19—(UPI)—General MacArthur is now up to his neck in politics, although perhaps not on his own behalf. He jumped in Saturday at Fort Worth when he made a full-scale attack on the Truman Administration for the way it operates at home.

He had returned to this country after an absence of 12 years, as a critic of the Truman Adminstration's foreign policy.

But now he has launched out as a critic of the Administration's handling of domestic affairs. MacArthur made a whirlwind speaking trip through mid-West cities last week, defending and urging in five of them his views on how to win in Korea.

But in Fort Worth he never once spoke of Korea or foreign problems. He spoke there only of events at home.

At Fort Worth MacArthur has been mentioned as a possible Republican candidate for president, followed the favorite line taken by many Republicans critics of the Administration.

He struck at what he called the "internal subversion and corruption" and detailed regeneration over our daily life in the drift away from our competitive system of free enterprise.

The drift upward in the cost of bureaucracy . . . the drift toward socialism . . . the tax burden.

Senators Kerr, Oklahoma Democrat, reacted with this statement on MacArthur: "He's running for president as hard as he looks."

Shortly before his arrest he had informed the U. S. Embassy he was being shadowed.

At the time of his arrest was announced, Frank Starrett, General Manager of the Associated Press, told the AP knew no basis for the charges against him.

Dally had been writing for the Associated Press since 1937 except for four years when he was in the United States Army during World War II.

The Czech announcement of April 26 said the charges against him included activities hostile to the state, gathering and disseminating information considered secret by Czechoslovakia and spreading malicious information regarding the Czech state through illegal news channels. The announcement said he had misused his influence in the military.

And now that MacArthur has attacked the Administration in both the foreign and domestic fields, it is clear his feelings against the Administration are intense in all directions.

So even if he is never rewarded with the Republican nomination, it undoubtedly will be a satisfaction to him if he can help bring about the Administration's defeat in the 1952 elections.

Until now the Democrats have handled MacArthur pretty glibly for several reasons.

He had wide sympathy in the United States, great prestige as a military expert, and wide resources in Asia. His quarrel with the Administration was in the military and foreign fields.

His views on both were entitled to respectful hearing, even though his criticism of the Administration on both counts may have hurt it politically among those persuaded to his way of thinking.

So long as he confined his criticism to military and foreign affairs, as he did almost exclusively, he could claim he was standing aloof from politics no matter what political effect he had.

But his Fort Worth attack if repeated—there's no reason to believe it won't—should certainly be of political help to the Republicans in their fight on the Administration. And in domestic affairs MacArthur can't claim to be a special authority.

So that puts him neck-deep in the American political brawl where the Democrats may feel a lot freer to start mousing his hair.

AP Bureau Chief To Go On Trial In Czecho-Slovakia

Reporter Is Charged With Activities Hostile To State

LONDON, June 19—(UPI)—Reports from Prague today said the trial of Vladimír Clementis, former Communist foreign minister who is now in jail on charges of anti-Moscow treason.

The Prague report today said it was believed the correspondent may be given a public trial before the state court in Prague.

Following Oatis' arrest, the United States government on April 1 banned travel to Czechoslovakia by private American citizens.

The American government took similar action against Hungary after the arrest of Robert A. Vogeler on spy charges by that country in November, 1949.

Vogeler, who made a so-called confession at a trial at which he was sentenced to 15 years in prison, recanted the confession after he was released last April.

He said he had been under mental, moral and physical pressure. After his release the United States rescinded ban on travel to Hungary.

Four other members of the Associated Press in Prague, all Czechs, disappeared in the month before Oatis' arrest. Presumably Czech citizens in his activities.

Western sources in Prague speculated that his arrest was designed to set the stage for the trial of Vladimír Clementis, former Communist foreign minister who is now in jail on charges of anti-Moscow treason.

HOLLYWOOD By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, June 19—(AP)—

"This is the age of the octogenarians," observed Groucho Marx. He was referring to the age of many of the topnotch comedians, including himself, Jack Benny, Jimmy Durante, Eddie Cantor, Fred Allen, George Burns, George Jessel, etc.

"A lot of my contemporaries sometimes sit around and moan about the future of comedy," he continued. "Most of them are middle-aged and they wonder where the new comedians are coming from."

"I tell them that as long as the money is good, new comedians will come along. Sure, they don't have vaudeville to give them experience, as we did. But they'll come from nightclubs; they'll even crawl out of the woodwork. Come to think of it, some of them have."

In a more serious vein, Groucho cited some of the young comics who show promise of taking the places of those of his generation:

"That fellow Herb Shriner is terrific. I like Jack Carter; he's a little early Santa and middle Milton Berle, but a great mimic. And then there's Lewis and Martin (also known as Martin and Lewis). And don't forget Danny Kaye, Danny Thomas and Jack Carson; they're still fairly young."

Groucho himself is looking youngish these days. He is wearing a golie uniform for "They Sell Sailors Elephants," a film which will be getting a new title any hour now. He and Bill Bendix portray sailors who woo Marie Wilson. "Bendix and I are the old man's Martin and Lewis," Groucho cracked.

The Marx set is usually crowded with people waiting to hear the wits fanned ad lib. He never disappoints them, but I got him to talk semi-seriously about his television show. I mentioned that most comics complained that TV was hard work.

"Not for me," he replied. "In fact, it's the only thing in my life that doesn't give me trouble. I get trouble from everything else—my family, my home, my cook, my agent, getting pinched by the police. The television show is the only thing in my life that's easy."

"Of course, I was lucky to sit on a show that is a cinch for me to do. I couldn't stand doing one of those hour-long shows like Durante and Cantor, with all that memorizing. And you couldn't get me to live in New York for a million dollars. I'd rather retire and rent a four-room shack in Palm Springs."

Groucho went into the scene, which had him climbing up the ladder of a naval ship. During one take, he bumped his head against a beam and the studio manager was called to attend him.

After doctoring the wound, she said, "I wish you wouldn't call me for something trivial like this. Next time break your leg or something."

"How do you like that?" Groucho exclaimed. "Everybody on this set is a comedian. Bendix and I are the only straight men here."

As I left, Groucho wagged his eyebrows and warned, "remember, young man, there are strict libel laws in this state. Be careful!"

That's Groucho.

Sanford Is Defeated By Cocoa Indians In Twelve Inning Tilt

Giants Seek Revenge Over Tail-Enders In Single Contest At 8 P. M. Tonite

Scheduled double-header with the Cocoa Indians here tonight has been changed to a single game following injuries to two Cocoa players in an automobile accident following last night's game. Business Manager Charles Morrison announced today, Jim Vickery and Ted Brooklyn were seriously injured when their car was sideswiped on Cameron Ave., last night at 2 A. M. Both players were taken to the Fernand-Lauthon Memorial Hospital here. Vickery is believed to have a fractured skull. Ray Scheidt, lanky Giant right-hander, is slated to hurl for Sanford tonite as the Giants seek revenge for last night's defeat at the hands of the cellar-dwelling Indians.

Putting on a spectacular ninth inning rally the Cocoa Indians scored four game-winning runs last night to defeat the Sanford Giants 8 to 7 in the 12th inning.

Cocoa had gotten to Sanford starter Jerry Schultz for only two hits until the wild ninth when two walks were combined with an error and two more hits to tie the score.

The game-winning run came across when Ted Brooklyn singled in the last of the 12th to drive in Jim Vickery.

Sanford manager Richie Klaus led the Giants' attack with four hits including two doubles and Frank Thuring continued his hitting streak blasting out two for five. Mickey McBride and Don Bailey also contributed two apiece in the 12-hit Giant attack.

The Giants will meet Cocoa in a single game here tonight beginning at 8 P. M.

DAYTONA BEACH, June 19—

Coach Brewster doubled in the tenth inning here last night to score Red Roberts, who had made first base on a shotstop error on his ground ball, with the run that gave Gainesville a 6 to 5 triumph over the Daytona Beach Islanders.

The Islanders were ahead, 4 to 2, until the eighth when Roberts homered over the rightfield wall to score Bill Hamilton, who had singled, and Stan Abernathy, who had walked, giving the G-Men a 6-4 lead. The Islanders tied it up in the last of the ninth on a home run over the left field wall by Bobby Colavito.

Colavito doubled in the last of the tenth, but his mates were unable to bring him around.

PALATKA, June 19.—(AP)—The Palatka Aleas got out their hitting bats here last night and blasted Al Onofre for 18 blows, including a three run homer by left fielder Mike Kassabian, to cap the win from the Orlando Senators by a 9-2 score.

Kassabian tapped two singles besides the circuit clout, to lead the Aleas attack, and snared six out without a miscue at field. Pete Fagan, Aleas centerfielder also made a brilliant catch of Ed "Pete" long hit ball in the third, which may have given the Aleas a 1-0 lead. The Aleas then went down to hold the lead, but the Palatka bunch really came out with the big hits and with the big

Crestes Minoso Of "Amazing Sox" Takes Over American Batting Lead

CHICAGO, June 19—(AP)—Crestes Minoso, the swift swatter of the high-flying Chicago White Sox, holds a 23-point lead in the American League batting race with a .379 mark.

Minoso last week clubbed 14 hits in 27 trips to climb 25 points from a four-place .354 was Philadelphia's Ferris Fain.

The former leader, Minnie's Pale Hose team-mate, Little Nellie Fox, slipped 17 points to a third-spot .347.

rounding out the top 10 in statistics compiled through Sunday's games were: Vern Stephens, Boston, .339; Dom DiMaggio, Boston, .331; Ray Coleman, St. Louis, and Jim Bushy, Chicago, .326; Dick Kryszak, Detroit, .322; Luke Easter, Cleveland, .321; and Gil McDougald, New York, .320.

McDonald was the top ten's only newcomer, replacing Chicago's Eddie Robinson.

Minoso also continued as a double leader in the specialized departments with 52 runs scored and nine triples.

Boston's Ted Williams bashed his 10th homer to remain the leader in that department, but yielded the No. 1 spot to unshattered-to-toe Robinson, who has 60.

Other unchanged leaders were Dom DiMaggio with 82 hits, Fain with 18 two-baggers, and Bushy with 16 stolen bases.

Top pitcher on a percentage basis was Chicago's Randy Gunn, with a 6.0 record, while Bushy's Maurice McDermott was lead in strikeouts with 64.

BIRMINGHAM SHOWS HITTING POWER IN WIN OVER LOOKOUTS

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Birmingham Barons, with a kid named Hershell showing them how, gave evidence last night that they, and not the best collection of players in the Southern Association.

Birmingham scored eight runs in the first inning against Chattanooga and when that didn't prove enough to win, added five more in the seventh, two runs and seven.

When Chattanooga's night of woes was sprinkled between the first and second, it was over Birmingham score, was the winner by a lusty 16-10.

Young Hershell Freeman came out of the null pen in the fifth inning to relieve old and graying Mickey Hesmer, late of the Washington Senators. Hershell didn't save the game for Mickey, he won it for himself—No. eight against two losses.

For four and a third innings Hershell held Chattanooga still enough for Birmingham to win. The Lookouts got only three hits and one run off the 22-year-old Gaddeden, Ala., pitcher.

Mobile ended Memphis' four-games of glory with a 7-6 victory. The remainder of the Southern program was rained out.

Birmingham's victory left the Barons to within five and a half games of league-leading Rock. But for a time last night in Chattanooga, before 6,791 fans, it looked like Birmingham would slide back. Lookout Hal Keller, brother of the New York Yankees' famed King Kong Keller, hit his second grand slam homer in two nights as Chattanooga pulled even with Birmingham at of perfect fielding retired the side with no damage.

The Aleas racked up five runs in the big third and coasted to victory adding single runs in the fifth, sixth and eighth for insurance. Orlando scored its two runs in the second on a walk and three consecutive singles.

The Senators return home today for a concluding session against the Aleas and a big night for young John Dickson.

Dickson, sent here from Charlotte to replace John Tennant on the staff, makes his Tinker Field debut against Bill Steinecke's Palatka crew. He is a righthanded rookie with good speed and a whopping curve.

Business Mgr. John Ganzel announced yesterday that beginning today, all home games will get underway at 8:15 P. M.

Grocer Fights Ban On Operation Of Store On Sunday

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 19.—(AP)—A Little Rock grocer is making a determined fight—on more than one front—against an old Arkansas "blue" law which has caused his arrest eight times in the last nine weeks.

The grocer, H. V. Hicklinbotham, 30-year-old war veteran, has been arrested for keeping his store open on Sunday.

He's been fined $100 in municipal court after seven of the arrests and has appealed each time. His latest case, up for hearing yesterday after another arrest Sunday, was continued.

Hicklinbotham says he's going

CARD OF THANKS

to continue to stay open Sunday. Not only that, but he's announced as a candidate for mayor against incumbent Sam Wassell, who he says ordered the arrests.

Hicklinbotham sought a chancery court order preventing further arrests or an alternative order that operators of other businesses—drug stores, filling stations and the like—which are open on Sunday be arrested. Chancellor Guy E. Williams said he had authority to grant neither petition, and Hicklinbotham has appealed the ruling to the State Supreme Court.

The grocer says if he doesn't federal court and charg his civil rights are being violated.

Hicklinbotham's troubles began after the greatest Little Rock Grocers Association agreed to a request of the Ministerial Alliance that groceries not remain open on Sunday. Before that some stores had stayed open, others were closed.

Hicklinbotham didn't join with the rest of the grocers in closing. Since then he's been arrested every Sunday except one—and apparently it was just an oversight he wasn't arrested that day.

With the past few weeks, some groceries in North Little Rock, a separate municipality across the Arkansas River from Little Rock, has resumed Sunday operations. North Little Rock police haven't bothered these.

Moral Standards

ceptions, and he added:

"A few rotten apples may not contaminate the whole barrel, but they certainly make it smell." Warren told the subcommittee, headed by Senator Douglas (D-Ill.), that during World War II "shockingly low moral standards" were exhibited by those concerned with war contracts, both in government and business.

Saying the government is now in another period of huge defense spending, Warren said:

"We cannot afford, with the present size of our national debt, another spate of waste, profligacy and other disregard for the public interest."

Now can the people afford to excuse unconscionable conduct," he said, from those who plead that they stayed "within the letter of the law."

There was a time, Warren said, when he thought the government needed no written code of ethics, but that is true no longer.

As for the war years, he said: "Some high government officials made it the rule, rather than the exception, to accept kickback parties, hotel bills and even transportation from contractors while at the same time drawing travel expenses and allowances from the government."

"We saw them accepting outrageously expensive gifts from contractors. We saw contracting officers accepting without a blush gratuities from those whose performance they were passing on for the government."

He said that "to put it mildly" this made the government "more liberal" in dealing with contractors.

He declared that even some Army and Navy officers "used the uniform to feather their own nests."

A recent check of a government agency which he did not identify showed, Warren said, that "in one regional office, every employee had received gifts. They ranged from television sets, cases of liquor and watches to hosiers. The employees seemed to think this to be their inalienable right, a remnant of their jobs."

Warren said prompt action was taken in that case and the gifts were returned. He called Congress to task for repealing during the year an act which forbade anyone leaving government service to serve within two years for a new employer. In dealing with the government agency in which he had served,

Warren said "the breakdown" of that ban "still has not been repaired."

Warren said a code of ethics would help to cure a condition where "many business people think that they must be a little shifty to get any business from the government. Others think they must hire an intermediary who operates along the fringes of the law."

Warren also called for: (1) An amendment to the munitions bill; (2) A prohibition against taking official business in cocktail lounges and at social functions; and (3) "A complicit fulminating" on how the American taxpayer pays the bills, in part, of the training of all government officials and employees.

Other witnesses called by Douglas' group for the initial hearing were Theodore M. Greene, head of Skidmore College at Yale University, and Senator Benton (D-Conn.), an advocate of overhauling government moral standards.

these views:

1. He believes the U. S. lost our great gamble in China by not giving prompt and effective military supply aid to the Chinese Nationalists in 1949.

He said as one example that a force of 110,000 Chinese had to wait five months for U. S. equipment and then "collapsed" to the Communists when the equipment which finally showed up was "almost useless."

2. He opposes recognition of Red China. "The unanimous stamp of approval by Western nations of government as unpopular, so tyrannical, and at odds with acceptable principles of civilization, would result in loss of Western prestige."

He said it also "would result in movements by minorities in other world areas and the further spread of Communist tyranny and slavery among people who basically seek peace, independence."

3. The best U. S. course of action in Asia calls for "the prompt establishment and maintenance of strong moral and economic support in the free communities of Asia including Formosa." He said the people in China are aware of the improvement in conditions on Formosa and it aids in their dissatisfaction with Communist rule.

4. He believes there is a chance—which is being increased by the Red setbacks in Korea—that South China may revolt against the Communists.

5. It is unfortunate that "post-war developments" turned over the strategically-important area of Manchuria "from one potential disturber of the peace in the Far East—Japan—to another, the USSR."

6. The surplus rice production of Siam and Burma may invite invasion by Red China.

7. In Indochina Communist influences "are weak but the government has many serious problems involving differences between the Dutch, the Moslems, the Islamites and others, who feel seriously enough about the situation to back frequent insurrections." He added:

"Collectively speaking, the greatest need of all of these nations of southeast Asia is for technical assistance, for the improvement of agricultural techniques, health, transportation, education, exploration of natural resources, and other development."

Badger said he is opposed to a naval blockade of China by the United States alone, but believes this is an inflationary action."

He charged it would block off consumers from "benefits contemplated by the government, and may establish a new base for the stabilization of wages."

The House Agriculture Committee meantime instructed Chairman Colley (D-N.C.) to introduce a bill authorizing all rollbacks of prices or wages.

The committee action came in an executive session called to consider an amendment to the defense production act adopted by the House Banking Committee last night.

A Committee source said the agriculture members were not pleased with the banking committee's decision to take action against only the 1% percent rollbacks scheduled for Aug. 1 and Oct. 1 and not the first 10 percent rollback which went into effect several weeks ago.

Elsewhere in the nation's capital President Truman signed into law today a bill including for the first time a start toward Universal Military Training.

Secretary of Defense Marshall, one of a number of military, congressional and other leaders witnessing the ceremony, hailed it with reservations as "a step of historic significance" and added:

"It will enable us to face the uncertainties of an explosive international situation with the knowledge that we can be strong militarily without having to im-

Haybank said the January-February control period would permit an additional 2 percent rollback on top of the existing rollback if DiSalle wanted to order it in place of the sharper cuts he had selected.

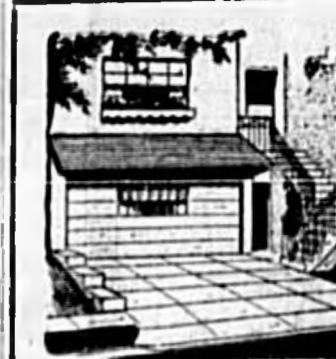

Senator Moody (D-Mich.), a committee member, told the news conference, "some of us believe this is an inflationary action."

He charged it would block off consumers from "benefits contemplated by the government, and may establish a new base for the stabilization of wages."

Mossadegh Orders Full Authority Over British Oil Company

Threats To Shut Off Flow Of Oil Will Not Be Carried Out, Premier Announces

TEHRAN, Iran, June 20.—(AP)—Premier Mohammed Mossadegh today ordered his government officials to take "full authority" over the billion dollar Anglo-Iranian Oil Company. He promised to keep oil flowing from company installations.

Mossadegh's orders were issued at the end of a five-hour cabinet meeting.

Deputy premier Hussein Maki announced that Iran would not carry out threats of extreme Nationalists to "shut the valves" of AOIC's refinery at Abadan—the world's largest.

The cabinet had been summoned into emergency session. The ministers had before them an appeal from the United States to reconsider a British offer whose rejection brought to an end negotiations to rescue the oil crisis.

A vaguely worded communiqué indicated the Mossadegh government planned to try to take over the administration of the vast oil fields gradually. It announced that Iranian officials had been named to take over "Anglo-Iranian's northernmost oil fields at Kermanshah."

The cabinet meeting, whose length indicated that Iranian officials realized the enormity of the task before them, came after British-Iranian talks on a permanent settlement broke down last night.

The communiqué said that any orders of the Anglo-Iranian board of directors and its general manager would not be carried out unless countersigned by the temporary board of directors of Iran's National Oil Company.

The next step is now up to AOIC. Iranians apparently expect former AOIC employees and executives to continue to work under the direction of the government's oil company.

Mossadegh himself had voiced the threats to cut off the flow of oil at Abadan because of British refusal to turn over profits of the company to Iran. But his announcement after the meeting made it certain that no such action was planned.

Hussein Maki, Nationalist firebrand and right hand of Mossadegh, had voiced the threats to shut off the flow of oil at Abadan—an act that would deprive Western Europe of its chief source of oil.

Approval Of Vast Military Building Program Is Asked

Air Force To Receive Bulk Of Appropriation For Expansion

WASHINGTON, June 20.—(AP)—Secretary of Defense Marshall asked Congress today to approve as quickly as possible a vast $6,612,622,000 military building program he said is "dictated by the current international tension."

The Defense Department said that in "the near future" it will ask Congress to appropriate $4,500,000,000 to start the program and rush it along toward completion hoped for within two years. The money will be sought for the fiscal year which starts July 1.

Marshall outlined the program in letters to House Speaker Rayburn and to Senator Russell (D-Ga.) and Rep. Vinson (D-Ga.), chairman of the Senate and House Armed Services Committees. Vinson said his group will start hearings on Monday.

Marshall expressed hope Congress will authorize the program "as expeditiously as possible." He said the projects included are "urgently needed under the existing military program."

"After 23 years of Navy service," he declared, "it is unique to walk into a town where everyone is so friendly and helpful."

He pointed out that there are now three, and a portion of a fourth, squadron of planes here, and on Friday all five squadrons will be here. At the end of the month, four squadrons will leave on a carrier cruise.

Of the total, Marshall asked Congress to authorize the Air Force would be allotted the Army and Navy combined, $2,028,000; more than the Army, $1,831,028,000; for the Navy, $1,145,753,000.

U. S. Planes Damage Or Destroy Ten Of Chinese Aircraft; Valley Abandoned

BY OLENS CLEMENTS

TOKYO, June 20.—(AP)—Ten Red planes were shot down or damaged today in the Korean war's first double-deck dogfight.

Both jet and propeller driven planes—98 of them—took part in the fourth consecutive day of air war over northwest Korea.

On the ground North Koreans suddenly abandoned Punchbowl Valley, which they had fought for so viciously. United Nations guns now dominate the former Red buildup area on the eastern front.

Sharp battles flared Wednesday on both sides of the valley—one near Kansong on the east coast and the other in mountains north of Yanggu.

The double air battle broke out simultaneously between low flying propeller planes and jets soaring above at 13,000 feet.

When it was over the Reds had lost three planes destroyed, one probably destroyed and six damaged.

Twenty-four U. S. Mustang fighters overpowered a flight of six Russian-built propeller planes. All the Reds were hit. A YAK fighter and two Stormovik attack-bombers were shot down. Another Stormovik was probably destroyed and two were damaged.

Thirty-two American Sabres battled 30 Russian-type MiG-15 jets in the top level of the battle. The jet fight began at 13,000 feet and swooped down to 6,000.

Four Red MiGs were damaged. All the MiGs then streaked back across the Manchurian border, 15 miles from where the action started.

Fifth Air Force said all Sabres returned safely.

(Field dispatches did not report whether any U. S. Mustangs were lost.)
