

Poor Man's Philosopher Says Old People Are Getting More Important

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK — (AP)— Old people are growing more important. Every year there are more of them. Every year from now on there will be still more.

For despite its long foolishness the human race is living longer. The population is growing—chronologically if not morally and intellectually. And that fact in itself makes elderly people more important—in many ways.

It makes them more important economically. The day is about gone when poor old work-worn grandpa would observe to himself mournfully: "The only real friendly smile I get anymore is from the undertaker."

Other business men are going to have smiles for grandpa and grandma from now on. Because the old folks, more and more, are financially independent. Fewer bank failures, the growth of Social Security, the enlargement of industrial pension plans—these things are enabling millions of men and women to retire with some semblance of a nest-egg.

So old people are in themselves a tremendous market for people with things to sell. And the old folks are going to have more influence with politicians. They will become a tremendous pressure group for themselves. They are now finding their way from the government more of what they want. And, in a democracy, that seems far enough. Does anyone doubt that, if school children could vote, there would be more and better school buildings?

Old people also are getting more important to the medical profession. Having cut the birth mortality pretty much to a minimum, the doctors now find that diphtheria and the whooping cough are taking less of their time than hardening of the arteries and that ancient misery—"my rheumatism."

Many physicians are specializing in the new science of gerontology—the study of old age. And they have found that it isn't enough for old people merely to be of some economic importance to others. They have to be made to feel still important to themselves.

And that's a problem. Their pride and self-confidence suffers a terrific blow when they realize they have passed the peak of their powers. As Dr. Martin Gumpert told the Gerontological Society here last week, the realization of aging is "perhaps the most profound shock of our lifespan—next to dying."

For when a woman looks into the mirror and sees her beauty fading, when a man no longer can go up the stairs two at a time—each knows in his secret heart that he has begun to die. And he begins to be afraid. For all healthy life distorts death.

This fear begins earlier than most people realize. And it affects them in ways they would be reluctant to admit.

The fear often sets in during middle age, which is only a corridor of uncertain length between youth and old age. It explains why many men make the accumulation of money an unreasonable passion. They try to replace the security of dwindling health and physical strength with financial security—an impossibility.

This fear of being old, whether it starts at 25 or 60, causes many people to go through a kind of troubled second adolescence. Both men and women do foolish things they afterward regret.

They take what they call "last fling" at life. A friend of mine, who handles financial affairs for many people, has a name for this period.

"I call it forty-year fever," he said. "And it's the devil of a thing to go through. It destroys a lot of people."

It is then that the man or woman, fearful of the common fate of mankind, most needs the props of home, friendship and religion. For once the threshold of old age is crossed, most people don't find it too bad. Sociological surveys show that old people often complain of loneliness. But if asked whether they are happy, the majority say—"yes!"

Since there are going to be more and more old people in the world, why not prepare them for it? They can be educated in a way to lessen the shock and to emphasize the serene pleasures in store.

Universities ought to offer a post-graduate course in how to grow old gracefully.

Acheson Denounces Charges He Favors Appeasing Russians

Communists Will Be Kept Out Of State Department Offices, Nominee Declares

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13—(AP)—Dean Acheson told Senators today that there must be something more than even "disinterested malice" behind suggestions that he is an appeaser.

Foreign Relations committeemen skirted gingerly the question of Acheson's nomination as Acheson testified in a hearing on his nomination to be secretary of state.

But in answer to a general question by Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.), ranking Republican and former chairman of the committee, Acheson said:

"The things I read about myself as an appeaser are so incredible that it is difficult for me to believe that even disinterested malice could think them up."

He did not mention Russia in that connection. Neither did Vandenberg.

The nominee assured the committee that he wants no subversive persons around him if he becomes secretary of state, and declared: "No step will be left untried in order to secure the State Department in its conduct of foreign affairs."

Acheson said he and Alger Hiss are "friends" and "remain friends." Hiss is under penalty indictment in connection with testimony that he never gave out State Department secrets to a Soviet agent.

The nominee described as "vague" and unsupported the information on which questions were directed about Hiss by Vandenberg. He said he is something to be determined by the President, and said President Truman has stated in the "most categorical manner" that he does not contemplate any change in that policy.

And he said that while it should be "utterly clear" that nobody can take the place of General George C. Marshall, retiring secretary of state, "someone who has served under him can do his best to follow General Marshall's example."

After Acheson's testimony for Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius told the committee that President Truman made a "wise selection" in choosing Acheson as his next secretary of state.

Stettinius said the late President Roosevelt had "very great confidence" in Acheson and had nominated him to the highest posts of this government.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, quickly led a hearing on the nomination into the question of Acheson's relations with Hiss, his former subordinate in the State Department.

Acheson told the committee that Donald Hiss, brother of Alger Hiss, who was assistant secretary of state, he said Donald Hiss "served me and the country with complete fidelity and loyalty."

The nominee said Alger Hiss was "a man of high character."

Southern Senators Say Demo Leaders Stir Up Friction

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13—(AP)—Senator Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.), new head of the American for Democratic Action (ADA), said today Congress will pass the civil liberties bill.

Humphrey said the bill is "a measure of justice and fairness" and "a measure of the American people's desire for a more democratic government."

He said the bill is "a measure of the American people's desire for a more democratic government."

Peiping Hit As Peace Bids Are Scored

Communists Demand Removal Of Chiang And Seek Punishment Of Criminals

Chinese Communists were reported to have set up conditions for peace talks amounting virtually to absolute control of the country.

Then competing armies struck into the great northern cities of Peiping and Tientsin, whittled down the survivors of trapped government armies north of Nanking and increased by the hour the threat to the Chinese capital. The government's position was most critical.

A Peiping source said the Communists demanded the removal of President Chiang Kai-shek and Vice President Li Tsiang-chen. They also demanded punishment of war criminals and Chang head of the constitution and coalition government with five Communists, three Kuomintang and four politicians of all Chinese political parties. It would be easy for the Communists to set up such a setup with their own supporters among the Kuomintang and independent members.

The source called also for a mutual cease fire with both sides holding their present places.

The Peiping informant said Chiang will issue another statement, possibly tomorrow, regarding the situation.

China's National government is opposing both military and financial aid to the Nationalist government. It is also opposing direct Communist attack on the capital.

This situation was accurately forecast three years ago by General George S. Marshall when he said National leaders during his efforts to bring peace that "You must quit fighting and disarm your armies or face bankruptcy."

The lack of ready funds is affecting not only attempts to meet military and property to places of greater safety but is preventing a continuance of the normal processes of government.

Actual government functions are rapidly being shifted from Nanking to Peiping and Hsin-ching, whose ability to collect taxes and control territories is growing to the strength of Chiang Kai-shek's army.

The loss of Lu-Li-Shing's well equipped armies in the encirclement of Hsin-ching to the government's ability to hang on north of the Yangtze River. There are many deserters here who say the defense of Nanking itself is impossible in view of the deterioration of the government's unity, strength and power.

The normal system by which the national income is gathered and distributed has been definitely smashed by civil war developments.

Today it was learned from reliable Chinese sources that the national income is being collected in a piecemeal fashion.

45-Man CIO Group Begins Campaign Asking Repeal Of Taft-Hartley Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13—(AP)—A 45-man CIO Union delegation began a door-to-door campaign on Capitol Hill today asking immediate repeal of the Taft-Hartley law and a return to the Wagner Labor Relations Act.

One of the first doors knocked on was that of the office of Rep. Lesinski (D-Mich.) who is scheduled to become chairman of the House Labor Committee.

Lesinski declined to meet the full group or receive its petitions, saying he has not yet been named chairman. He said he would talk later in the day with one or two of the union's representatives.

The 45 men represented the various districts in the CIO United Electrical Workers, Russ G. Nixon, U. E. legislative representative, led the delegation. Nixon said the group intended to call on as many members of congress as it could.

Nixon said the union wants a "package" procedure on labor legislation. That is, first a bill repealing the Taft-Hartley Law and reinstating the old Wagner Law then, second, a separate bill making any changes Congress decides are needed in the old Wagner Act.

The procedure question has become a warm issue. Some Congress members say that Taft-Hartley repeal and any Wagner Act changes will have to be wrapped up in one measure.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) and Representative Nixon (D-Mich.) are the two "package" approach urged by the CIO and the AFL.

During the day, the U. S. Chamber of Commerce made public a bulletin to its members, urging them to urge Congress members to "approach labor legislation calmly" (Continued on Page Four)

Court Delays Labor Hearing Until Feb. 28

Steelworkers Union Requests Review On Constitutionality Of "Commie" Section

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13—(AP)—The Supreme Court today deferred until Feb. 28 a hearing on the constitutionality of the non-Communist affidavit requirement of the Taft-Hartley act.

Amendment had been scheduled to begin late today in a case filed by the CIO American Communications Association. Court attaches said the justices decided to hold off pending action on a petition filed by the U. S. Steelworkers of America to review the case.

The court has yet to decide whether it will give the steelworkers a hearing. Should it decide to hear that petition, the two cases might be consolidated or at least decided together.

The steelworkers union has asked the court to review a decision by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in Detroit. The court in Detroit had ruled that the constitutionality of the affidavit requirement of the Taft-Hartley Act.

The CIO Communications Association filed an appeal from a decision by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in New York, which upheld the constitutionality of the affidavit requirement of the Taft-Hartley Act.

British Ambassador Asks Truman To Put Pressure On Israel

1 Killed And 15 Injured By Bomb On Cairo Street

Windows In Government Building Are Smashed By Blast

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13—(AP)—British Ambassador Sir Oliver Franks discussed the Jewish-Arab crisis with President Truman in a 30-minute White House conference today. Diplomats believe he urged "mild" pressure on Israel.

Truman Without defining what his views are, he said that he had covered the same ground he had gone over with Undersecretary of State Lovett at the State Department yesterday.

The British envoy added that he had not delivered any note but had been in touch with the President.

From highly placed diplomatic informants it was learned that Franks' unusual call on the Chief Executive to report something he had not told the top State Department official was made on direct instructions from British Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin.

Bevin, whose tough, unrelenting policy in the Middle East is a controversial one in England, is reported to feel that a most critical point has been reached in the whole Middle Eastern situation. He is said to feel, too, that the first essential to avert disaster and move toward peace is complete British-American policy coordination.

Mainly for this reason, diplomatic authorities said, Bevin is using every available device to try to get the United States government to bring strong pressure on the government of Israel for agreement with the Arabs on a Palestine settlement.

He is reported to feel that the United States has not been giving this sufficiently strong support at a time when he had, in the British view, brought pressure to bear on the Arab states to get together with the Jews.

Britain's official position is that in recent instances of Jewish provocations, Jewish provocations have been guilty of the first shots and that only of Israel will live up to UN Security Council orders to stop fighting and there be a chance of success in peace efforts.

The United States, on the other hand, has been urging the British themselves simply to refrain from any action which would upset the delicate balance under United Nations sponsorship.

Bevin's role in Rhodes, the United Nations Palestine mediator, summoned Israeli and Egyptian to a face-to-face meeting in Rhodes. They must negotiate an armistice as quickly as the first step to peace in the Holy Land.

A statement by mediator Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, prepared for the first meeting of the two parties across a conference table, expressed in other parties to the Palestine settlement.

Windows In Government Building Are Smashed By Blast

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 13—(AP)—A cigarette seller was killed in a blast today.

A report circulated that a policeman also was fatally injured, but the report lacked confirmation.

Fifteen persons were treated at the government hospital in the Kasr El Am district. Hospital attendants said five of these were wounded seriously.

Police announced at least 10 of the injured were policemen.

Windows in government offices were smashed.

Officers said the bomb was in a bag taken to the square for official scrutiny after it was dropped in a corridor leading to the national court of appeal. It was dropped by a man once arrested in connection with the discovery of a jeep loaded with arms and ammunition.

Police identified him as Shafiq Ibrahim Anas, an employee of the minister of agriculture. They said he tried to flee, but was arrested.

Officers of the public prosecutor, in the national court building, are investigating the assassination of Premier Mahmud Fahmy Nokrashy Pasha Dec. 28 and the court of assizes there is trying a number of his associates.

Good Progress For Atlantic Bank Is Reported At Meet

J. L. Inley, president of the Sanford Atlantic National Bank, reported to stockholders at the bank in a meeting yesterday that satisfactory progress was made in the undivided profits over the year.

The bank made over 1,800 new loans in 1948, involving over one million dollars, which represents an increase both in the number and amount of loans handled over the previous year. A comparison of loans and deposits of five years ago shows the following:

Dec. 31, 1944: Loans $403,673.00, Deposits $5,244,801.00; Dec. 31, 1948: Loans $794,789.00, Deposits $6,224,661.00.

Mr. Inley also stated that the bank celebrated its twenty-first birthday Jan. 2, 1949, and its figures indicate that Sanford and Seminole County have come a long way forward since the bank opened for business Jan. 2, 1928. At the close of the first year, Dec. 31, 1928, the bank's statement showed deposits amounting to $266,640.00.

Mr. Inley expressed his appreciation to the stockholders.

Mr. Holt To Talk To World Federalists

The local chapter of the United World Federalists will meet on Monday night in the community room of the City Hall and will have as a guest speaker, George Holt, president of the Connecticut branch of the World Federalists and son of Dr. Hamilton Holt of Rollins College. It was announced this morning by Mrs. T. E. Tucker, temporary secretary of the organization.

The group will meet at 8:00 o'clock and Mrs. Tucker stated that the public is invited to attend. Election of permanent officers will also be held at this meeting.

Firemen Fight Blaze South Of Airport

Firemen were granted permission yesterday afternoon by Mayor Andrew Carraway to get under control a grass fire that threatened homes in the area south of the Municipal Airport and outside of the city limits.

A run was made at 6:45 P. M. Tuesday to the home of B. F. Whitner, Sr., 1402 Oak Avenue where a defective heater nearby caused a fire, and at 8:04 P. M. to 611 Cypress Avenue where slight damage resulted from a defective oil heater.

ATLANTIC CITY, Jan. 13—(AP)—The nation can expect food prices to remain high for several more years, according to the head of the National Wholesale Grocers Association.

Arthur W. Lutz, of Los Angeles, told the association's annual convention yesterday that many causes "should bring higher prices next year."

Lutz said most causes are "faced" with still higher labor costs.

"While it is true," Lutz added, "that we will from time to time see a market decline on a given item because of an overcrop, or because of inadequate financing, apart at the seams or our experience a general price decline in foods, unless our economy falls on the whole we should not expect a substantial amount of unemployment."

He said: "The farmer for some years is secured of relatively high prices for his products."

Neal Coleman Died At Home This A. M.

Neal Coleman, 72, died at 1:15 A. M. today at his home in Floral Heights.

In ill health for three years, Mr. Coleman had lived in Sanford for 20 years. He was born in La-Grange, Ga. and for 25 years was state mill superintendent for the Shalholzer Crates Mill. He retired four years ago because of ill health. He was a member of the First Christian Church.

Survivors include the widow and two sons, W. C. Coleman, Sanford, and J. C. Coleman of Jacksonville; one brother, John Coleman, Miami; five sisters, Mrs. M. C. Gunter, Sanford; Mrs. Minnie Russell, New Smyrna Beach; Mrs. L. M. Shaw, Mrs. Parrot Grant and Mrs. George Rowden all of Miami; two grandsons, Stanley H. Coleman and W. C. Coleman, Jr., Sanford; and one grand daughter, Stacey Joy Coleman, Jacksonville.

Funeral arrangements are not complete and will be announced later.

Tax Man Is Looking For Ways To Meet Soaring Government Costs

NEW YORK, Jan. 13—(AP)—That tax man really has his eye on you this year. The $4 billion extra that President Truman asks may look pretty big, if he gets you. But wait till the state and local men get through with you. They are really out looking for money this year to meet soaring budgets and government costs.

More cities are talking about adding their own income taxes to the state and federal levies. Rates may be hiked on existing income, property or sales taxes. Some places, for instance, have figured out that television is an amusement and are taxing taverns that use it to lure customers. Some states are reported looking for a way to tax the air—that is, the air lanes through which planes fly.

This Saturday you may have a date with the federal tax collector.

Mr. Holt To Talk To World Federalists

The local chapter of the United World Federalists will meet on Monday night in the community room of the City Hall and will have as a guest speaker, George Holt, president of the Connecticut branch of the World Federalists and son of Dr. Hamilton Holt of Rollins College. It was announced this morning by Mrs. T. E. Tucker, temporary secretary of the organization.

The group will meet at 8:00 o'clock and Mrs. Tucker stated that the public is invited to attend. Election of permanent officers will also be held at this meeting.

State Board Of Health To Seek Passage Of Four New Bills For Florida

JACKSONVILLE, Jan. 13—(AP)—Four health bills which the Florida State Board of Health will ask the coming session of the legislature to consider were made public today.

Dr. Wilson T. Sowder, state health officer, said one is a rabies control act. It would require the vaccination of dogs against rabies, create the office of state rabies inspector, provide for the wearing of a tag by all vaccinated dogs.

The bill also asks for the confinement of dogs which have bitten human beings, and which have been exposed to rabid animals.

The Legislature will be asked to appropriate $25,000 annually.

A new birth certificate law which would protect birth records, could easily be public knowledge, Dr. Sowder said.

Due to the increase in the number of people suffering from diabetes, the amount spent by the present law, the Vital Statistics state board for distribution of insulin to indigent diabetics has exceeded the appropriation for that purpose. Therefore, the Legislature will be asked to increase the annual appropriation from $20,000 to $60,000.

A state-wide enabling act, which would make possible the creation of sanitary districts, is the fourth objective of the board's legislative program. This act, when passed, provides for appropriate machinery under which urban communities and surrounding areas may set up districts so that water supply, sewerage, sewage treatment and garbage disposal facilities may be constructed, maintained and operated.

New Taxes

As a citizen, everything you do is subject to tax, directly or indirectly. If you try to go on living, the tax collectors have got you, if you die, they have a field day. If you feel generous, there's a tax on gifts. Only charity is relatively free of tax, and some legislators are talking about a levy on religious and charitable property.

Some taxes are "hidden," in the sense that you have forgotten or scarcely notice any more—tobacco tax, liquor tax, gasoline tax, theater admissions and the like.

Some of you may have become so used to the sales tax that you count it as a part of the cost of the article. Some people even confuse it with the price to the extent of thinking it just added profit for the merchant.

Many workers think of their take-home pay as the actual total amount of what the company allows for their work, and not as what is left after they share the company's payroll with the tax collector.

Load laws, the emphasis has changed since 1911. In that year the government collected more from excises (taxes on commodities) than it did from either the tax on individual incomes or on corporations. Now the returns from the excises taxes are a very poor third, although they have more than trebled in volume.

Farm Bureau

ation and subsidies should be avoided as in the end, he declared, such means defeat themselves. The citrus marketing agreement should be extended to include the coming industry.

In the main, Mr. Pringle suggested, growers should solve their own economic problems through a really large co-operative organization along the lines of Florida Citrus Mutual. If this cannot be done, he said, a determined effort should be made to form a North and North Central organization along the lines of the Indian River group with emphasis placed on dependable quality fruit.

He pointed out that the Farm Bureau is a mechanism available for use of the citrus industry and not an organization designed to dictate or even instruct farmers or growers what to do, but a means of formulating an industry-wide program to present to legislative bodies for action.

Telephone Torture Is Ended Before Judge Walt Curry

By HAL BOYLB
NEW YORK (AP)—Remember the name of Walter Curry. Immortality crooks a finger his way. Let the common man budge his fame.

Who is Walter Curry? He is a kind of junior Abraham Lincoln, heralding the pattern of a promised freedom for the new slaves of the mechanical age.

In more prosaic terms, Walter Curry is a superior court judge in Providence, R. I. and he has just made a provident decision—a decision provident for the health of all mankind.

Only Wednesday it was that Judge Curry ended by judicial decree a case of what four lady complainants called "torture by telephone."

The feminine quartet complained that a fifth lady for six years had annoyed them several times a day by calling them on the phone. They said she greeted them with "curses, epithets and Bronx cheers."

And what did Judge Curry do? Why, he forbade the fifth lady from ever showing her four neighbors again under pain of "drastic punishment."

This decision may at first glance appear to be only a minor footnote in the long history of jurisprudence. But it could end up by making Walter Curry the best known judge since Sir William Blackstone laid down his English wig.

For he has struck a clear sharp blow for freedom from one of the greatest mental perils of the twentieth century—"torture by telephone."

Millions hailed as a blessing this small instrument, the telephone, when it was first brought to widespread public attention by Don Ameche after earlier research by an obscure putterer named Alexander Graham Bell.

What joy it held at the beginning—carrying a loved one's voice and helping dear hearts to span the distant miles! It brought people closer together than they had ever before. It shrank continents—and then the world—to the size of the room. A person could speak into it and be heard at almost any point in the globe he chose.

And the blessing, like blessings often do, became a kind of curse, too. The telephone made it possible for a big mouth to be heard anywhere and everywhere.

It got to be an instrument that brought people together who didn't necessarily want to be together. It reached the point where thousands of people hated to answer its bell, because they thought, "oh, oh, here's trouble."

It forced people against their will to talk to people they didn't want to. It became an instrument of solicitation and unwanted invitations.

People began to jump when the phone bell rang. Thousands and thousands of people with names like "Phil Graves" were plagued with practical jokers who woke them at night to say: "This is the cemetery calling."

THE OLD HOME TOWN By STANLEY

BACK ROAD FOLKS - COUSIN JASPER

Subscribers began demanding unjustified numbers. They didn't want to be in the phone directory. The new dial phones helped some also—they tended to cut down the calls from people who couldn't count up to ten.

But Judge Curry has opened a real way to liberty from "torture by telephone." He has shown the law offers ready relief from this invisible plague. Yet it still takes a brave man to go to court to end his annoyance, and it takes time. A Congress could be helpful. What is really needed is a federal statute, for the problem goes beyond state borders. It is a national nuisance.

One way would be to pass a law making it a felony for a man to phone another man without sending a letter in advance and getting his written permission.

Or at least he ought to be made to call up first to see if it's okay.

Welter Of Claims And Litigation Is Left By War II

WASHINGTON—Among the legacies left by war is a welter of claims and litigation.

Tens of thousands of civilians are demanding redress of injuries and losses, and soon they will get their hearing. The 80th Congress authorized a War Claims Commission to go to work on the problem but never appropriated any money for it. So the President didn't appoint the commission, and nothing has been done as yet. But Congress is expected to provide the funds soon.

Certain types of claims already have been approved by Congress. There are thousands of others, however, questionable cases, which the commission will investigate. It will then advise Congress on the action which seems proper. These are the war claims pay awards which Congress has already authorized.

1. Death, injury, disability or death benefits for persons captured by the Japanese. These are the claims of Guam, Wake and the Philippines. The death benefit amounts to $50 for each month of imprisonment for persons over 18 years of age, and $25 a month for those under 18.

In addition, employees of government contractors who were captured, primarily the group in China, will be paid the regular wages they would have earned if they had been at work instead of in captivity. The federal security administration is directed to adjust the claims of the government employees.

Military personnel who while in Japanese prison camps were not paid the quantity and quality of food which is stipulated in the Geneva Convention of July 27, 1928, are to get $1 for each day they were fed.

Certain religious organizations which remained in Japanese-held territory and gave support to American prisoners will be reimbursed for their expenses. These are the only claims the government has recognized up to now.

You get an idea of how big the claims are when you know that one government department has received as many as 100,000 claims regarding civilian war claims.

The biggest issue which will come before the commission is one thing: the claims of Americans who suffered war damage in Asia or Europe. International law clearly relieves a nation from any responsibility for damage inflicted in the course of combat operations. U. S. military units, moreover, have their own claims which can settle damage claims by natives injured by a high non-combat activities, such as being hit by a jeep behind the lines.

But what of Americans who continued to live and do business in Europe, in Japan, or on the continent of Asia after they had been advised that war was likely? State department spokesmen have told Congress they felt amply satisfied had been given to such persons and that if they persisted in remaining in the threatened area it was their own responsibility.

They see the situation in the Philippines and the other American islands as entirely different for fear of alarming the population or unnecessarily disrupting normal activities, no firm warning was given. The government was responsible for their being caught in the war.

Another ticklish issue is presented by persons who were injured or suffered property loss in the attack on Pearl Harbor. They contend that as the war had not started, it was not a combat operation. They had not been warned to leave Hawaii. Therefore, they say, they are entitled to damages as persons who were living in the Philippines.

Some limit has to be set on the total damages that can be assessed. The Japanese nation, now sorely dependent on American dollars to get back on its feet, will not pay the bills. The money will come from a fund in the Treasury derived from liquidation of foreign and Japanese assets in this country, both government and private property.

It is estimated that the fund will finally accumulate, will amount to from $275,000,000 to $375,000,000.

Deep-freezing of food was developed because a New England scientist spent several years in Labrador and noted that quick frozen fish and caribou meat were tender and flavorful after months of exposure to the Arctic.

WHEN you see the 1949 Chevrolets, a glance will be enough to tell you they're new—all new—in line and contour, in beauty and style. And when you look inside, and under the hood, and beneath the chassis, you'll see that their newness is not merely in outward appearance, but in design and engineering and construction as well.

But, to a lot of people, the 1949 Chevrolet is already old. They know what it will do, and how exceedingly well it will do—it they know all about its performance, its comfort, its power, safety, durability and economy. They are the engineers and technicians of the General Motors Proving Ground—the largest, most completely equipped, outdoor testing laboratory in the automobile world.

Here, before a single new 1949 Chevrolet went into production, experimental models were tested—made to show that they possess, in greater measure than ever, all those qualities on which Chevrolet has built its leadership.

In short, the General Motors Proving Ground tests are your assurance that your new-model Chevrolet has proved its worth through many months and many, many thousands of miles of rough handling.

Soon you will see the new Chevrolet—and when you do, you will see a car not only new, but tried and true.

CEILING ARE THE LIMIT

CHICAGO (AP)—If something in a hotel falls on you, the chances are 50-50 it will be the ceiling.

An analysis of 1,000 hotel accidents compiled by Kemper insurance safety engineers showed that in 140 of them, persons were injured by falling objects. Half of these were hurt by the ceiling or ceiling.

Next to falling on them, the most dangerous falling objects with which guests somehow became involved were windows, window shades and various types of lighting, rolling or falling beds.

However, a survey showed that most guests are far more likely to fall than be bitten on.

Altogether, 170 persons were hurt in this type of accident, most of them in falls on stairways. An miscellaneous objects. Half of this group tripped on defective stairs and another tripped on rugs.

Fifty persons were caught in doors, revolving and otherwise, and another 70 persons hurt themselves by falling on sharp objects. The rest of the injuries came in accidents listed as "unclassifiable."

New Secretary

In efforts to weigh the probable effect on foreign policy of the nomination of Dean Acheson to be Secretary of State, great attention has been given to the question of relations with Russia.

There are ever increasing signs that before long our government will face the question of recognizing and establishing policy toward either a coalition or an outright Communist administration in China.

It is almost certain that some change in the manner of dealing with Russia will occur as a professional soldier steps out as head of the State Department and is succeeded by a corporation lawyer with some previous experience in the department.

The international position of this country might be more solid, and our ability to work for world peace might be greater, if the new secretary of state should prove able to strike a stronger balance of policy over the total area of foreign relations.

The Prisoners

Pity the prisoner of war. He did not make the war, in most cases he did not want to fight it, yet he is among those who suffered most from it.

In March, 1947, Russian Foreign Minister Molotov admitted that his country still held 800,000 German prisoners, all of whom he promised would be returned by Dec. 31, 1948.

It may have been in anticipation of this note that Gen. G. S. Lukyachenko, the Soviet chief of staff in Germany, has made the charge in an interview that the Western powers still have many German prisoners.

Many Germans undoubtedly died toward the end of the war without having their fate recorded. Uncounted others perished in the grim surroundings of the Russian concentration camps.

Of course the Soviets might say that since they have no individual consideration for their own people, why should they treat the Germans any better?

Publishing A Newspaper Is Easy— Or Is It?

Mathias P. Harpin, publisher of the Rhode Island Pilot, West Warwick, R. I., gets discouraged every now and then about a publisher's lot.

Everybody Co-operates. "It's easy to publish a newspaper. You never get tired. You never need a vacation. Your head is always clear. You're always bright as a silver dollar."

"Everybody pays you on time. You never have to remind people over and over again that their subscriptions are due. If you're late paying a bill, they say it's all right, let it go."

"Your proofreader never makes a mistake. The front page always looks nice. The ads are always eye-catching. You just sit at your typewriter and write beautiful lines."

"People never say your paper is political. They never insist you're taking sides. They always agree that you're independent."

No Production Bugs. "Everywhere you hear people say you're a good guy. They always say you work hard. The waste baskets never fill up, no nobody has to empty them."

"People never think of asking you for favors that are entirely out of your reach. After every issue advertisers call up and say: 'Say, that was a honey of an ad you wrote for me last week. Thanks!'"

"You always have plenty of time to spend with the family. Your little boy never asks: 'Mama, have I really got a Daddy?'"

"Never do you place an ad upside down. When you misspell a person's name, he calls up and says: 'Forget it. It's all right.'"

Tugboat Strike. (Continued From Page One) up and industry is slowly affected. The employers committee asked the union to extend the strike deadline to midnight tomorrow after 13 hours of negotiations.

After announcement of the postponement, negotiations continued for a time between representatives of the tugboat and fuel oil barge crewmen and the Marine Towing and Transportation Employers Association.

Another strike, which would have cut off coal and fuel oil truck deliveries to most of the cities, was averted shortly before the deadline last night.

A senior police officer said Angus ran when a policeman accosted him in the corridor to the court. Folsomen removed the bag to the square, where it exploded.

Some birds take shower baths, sitting and spreading their wings in the rain.

The union had sought a flat day and other benefits.

THE WORLD TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

U. S. Undersecretary of State Lovett is quoted as telling the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that Soviet leaders would go to war whenever they figured it necessary to achieve their aims.

That's calling a spade a spade. It depicts a merchant and unscrupulous capitalist at wholesale bloodshed to attain its ends.

However, we are left to figure what the Moscovites think of prospects at this juncture. When, if ever, will the wretched hour for war arrive?

The way it looks from here, the Bolsheviks hardly can find the sign propitious for launching war now.

As Secretary of the Army Royal says, the forces of democracy are definitely on the rise against Communism in Europe.

Therefore the presumption is that Moscow will pursue its present tactics. Of course the Communists are opportunists and may be expected to take advantage of any good opening.

They are to continue their world affairs largely by indirection, that is, by making others do their work for them.

Bolshevism is the cuckoo in the nest of democracy and the Reds have been doing right well for themselves in many instances.

Moscow is getting a vastly important part of the world revolution carried out by providing the Communists with the means of war.

Objective tactics like the Berlin blockade are placing a heavy economic strain on the Western nations, especially the United States.

Still, while the Russians have been playing a crafty and at times profitable game, on the whole they appear to be losing ground in the Western Theatre of the "cold war."

It could be more accurate to say that the Western Nations are steadily gaining ground as the Marshall Plan becomes more effective.

Also Russia is under a heavy economic strain herself, she is having to spend much money in Italy, France, Britain, the United States and many other countries.

These contributions include funds for support of Communist parties, for Red propaganda, for espionage, for incitement of labor strife and what not.

Moreover, the Soviet Union is far from having repaired the ravages of the world war in her home territories. And it shouldn't be overlooked that her available resources at the beginning of the war weren't sufficient to maintain her effort.

As Generalissimo Stalin admitted, she couldn't have made the grade but for the help given by Uncle Sam.

So Russia isn't ready for major war now, and it will take her long to prepare herself, if the democracies stand firm. What the Western nations have to do is hold their nerve.

There is no use in talking "peace" to Russia. She has made it perfectly clear that she doesn't want peace and has no intention of making it. The Bolshevik world revolution is to go on at all costs.

Therefore the winning strategy for the democracies is to surround their present determined policy that will hold Russia's war potential in check, and will encourage the wretched slave nations of Eastern Europe to assert themselves against the oppression of the Kremlin.

Unembarrassed

Life is boring at best, but we do get an occasional bit out of the passing show. With a couple of city girls as spectators, I was milking the cow last night when one of them comes up with this question: "Why the cow doesn't get a bit embarrassed."

Then I sat back on my milking stool. No, I'll take that back. I never owned a milking stool. I sit on anything—usually my heels.

Because always have them with legged milking stools in this part of the country have all been bought up by New Yorkers. They would rather have one of those old stools than have the saddle Napoleon rode on or the latched cherry tree down with. They polish and varnish them and keep them in the living room to show their friends, who remark, "How charming and quaint!"

However, this particular night I was sitting on an overturned water pail, so I got out of range of the cow's tail and prepared to give a lecture on the bovine species. Says I, "No, she is not embarrassed because she is strictly modern and she has a right to be. Her sire was Flay Boy and her dam Beautiful Lady. Her sire never saw her dam and neither of them saw a damn. She is subterranean bred and bangs free. No, her horns do not blow, but she does give her milk. It takes 'milk' to get anything from a cow; and according to grammarians, she does not snore—she snores. That's why you have it, girls. That's why the Lore of new milk supply is the Lore of the Bovine."

Cairo Blast. (Continued From Page One) off in Cairo in 1948. (Egyptian unrest over the struggle in Palestine has been a factor in several recent incidents in Cairo. First among the Arab states to agree to armistice talks, Egypt now has a delegation in Rhodes to negotiate with Israeli representatives over ending the war.)

A senior police officer said Angus ran when a policeman accosted him in the corridor to the court. Folsomen removed the bag to the square, where it exploded.

Some birds take shower baths, sitting and spreading their wings in the rain.

The union had sought a flat day and other benefits.

CIO Committee

Among other things, the bulletin said a method for dealing with national emergency strikes which interrupt production of essential goods and services "must receive paramount consideration."

It also said a new labor law should prohibit strikes against the government, mass picketing, and jurisdictional strikes; and that union heads must swear they have no communist affiliation if their unions are to make use of National Labor Relations Board machinery.

Palestine War

Obviously he was implying that if Egypt and Israel reached an armistice, the other warring Arab nations might fall in line and the end of the Palestine war might be at hand.

"We are holding a peace conference here," Bunch said. "We are not expecting to settle the complicated political issues which bedevil this problem and to which the conciliation commission will soon direct its attention; but in seeking an armistice we are engaged in a peaceful endeavor and unquestionably charting the road to peace."

The conciliation commission, formed by the United Nations, consists of representatives of the United States, France and Turkey.

London, Cairo and Tel Aviv to minimize the dangers which might result from Israel's shooting down of five British fighter planes in the Egyptian-Israeli border area.

Both British and American commentators said here today that actually there is at the moment no split between London and Washington over middle eastern policy; that both governments are working toward the objective of a Jewish-Arab peace and the only questions concern how to achieve the common end.

Humphrey is the man generally given the most credit for presiding the Democratic convention last July to include the Truman civil rights program in the party platform.

He said in a prepared statement that the A. D. A. will continue to operate as an independent organization, but recognized that the Democratic Party "offers the best opportunities on the national level for achievement of liberal purposes."

He commented the bi-partisan foreign policy and said there is no reason why bi-partisanship shouldn't be extended to a "liberal domestic program."

In reply to questions, he said the civil rights plan could be embraced in such a bi-partisan program because both the Democratic and Republican platforms called for specific measures in that field.

Following the stockholders' meeting, a meeting of the directors of the bank was held at which the following officers were re-elected: J. W. Shands, chairman of the board; J. L. Ingley, president; L. Experiments with radio-active materials such as by-products of uranium have been made to stimulate plant growth, but so far no marked benefits have been noted, he declared.

These materials have been sent to Massachusetts Institute of Technology, but he said he was allowed to add any vegetables thus grown.

Work on experiments with new insecticides is progressing. Due to the poisonous nature of some of these, growers have been warned not to use them within three weeks of harvesting.

Too Late To Classify

By RUSSELL KAY

Fuller Warren promised the biggest gubernatorial inauguration in its history if he were elected and Tuesday, January 4, he came through in a big way.

He kept his other campaign promises as well as he kept this one, those who voted for him on the strength of that platform won't be disappointed. My guess is he will follow through and before his term is up will do just about everything he said he would do.

And if his other appointees put the same heart, effort and enthusiasm in their respective tasks that A. F. Rich, Mrs. E. K. Roberts and others responsible for the success of the inaugural gave to theirs, Florida will have outstanding government during the next four years.

The only thing that marred the festive occasion was a drizzling rain that came just as retiring Governor Caldwell was making his address. It was a tough break for Millard for he was in a position to report real progress during his administration. He will go down in Florida history as one of the state's ablest governors despite the yapping of those who throughout his administration could not see eye to eye with him.

Omni or not, when Governor Warren began his address, the rain stopped and it did not rain again throughout the day. Retiring promises made during his campaign, Warren pledged himself to drive the cows, reckless and drunk drivers off Florida highways, set up a central purchasing agency, provide for flood control and an intelligent reforestation program. He made it clear that he was "everybody's" governor and that during his term of office it was not going to be necessary for any person to "see somebody else" in order to "see" him nor would letters of introduction from so-called "big shots" carry any weight.

The throng of 20,000 or more that filled the entire block in front of the Capitol and overflowed its grounds proved to be an enthusiastic and appreciative audience; applause was frequent and the cheering that greeted his boyhood ambition must have found it extremely gratifying.

I was really impressed with the manner in which arrangements for Inaugural Day had been worked out by those in charge and with the smoothness and dispatch with which the mammoth program was carried out. There wasn't a hitch; it seemed that everything down to the smallest detail was taken care of. The inauguration was on time, the barbecue was on time, and the parade was on time. Wherever transportation was needed to handle arrivals by train, bus or plane it was available. There was no confusion, no snarls; and while crowds jammed public buildings, the Mansion and the several inaugural balls, they were happy crowds and everyone seemed to be having a good time.

Having had considerable experience in handling events and parades I know what a gigantic task it is to make all the necessary advance arrangements, provide for emergencies and keep things moving. It is seldom that a parade of such magnitude as that staged in Tallahassee moves without a hitch. It is no small chore getting the various units in position to that each can fall in line at the proper place and time so as to avoid breaks and delays.

The inaugural parade was one of the finest I have ever witnessed. The floats were splendid, the bands and marching units excellent and in every way it was the equal of such events as Gasparilla in Tampa, the Orange Bowl at Miami and the Festival of States in St. Petersburg. And it was a much more difficult task to stage such an event in Tallahassee since facilities for such production are not available as is the case in larger cities.

Some idea of the number of Colonials on the Governor's staff was evidenced by the number of folks milling through the buildings and about the streets in orange and blue armbands that read, "Member of Governor's Staff."

Without those seemed more conspicuous than those with them. Only a limited number could be accommodated on the speaker's platform and a few who had expected special attention and privilege because of their newly acquired rank were disappointed when hard-boiled Mr. at the various entrances informed them that it was a case of "No fickers, no washes" and armbands didn't count.

But when it developed that no less a personage than the Honorable Claude Pepper, Senior United States Senator, and his wife were refused admission to the stand because they failed to present the proper credentials, a lot of the disgruntled colonel felt better and the crowd got a kick out of the fact that even in his own hometown the Senate was not recognized by the man on the gate.

When it was revealed that such distinguished guests were being pushed around, Secretary of State Bob Gray interrupted proceedings to explain that it was all a mistake, that seats had been reserved for them on the platform and an escort with authority to crash gates was sent to rescue them. The affair gave the crowd a laugh and it was suggested that the Senator arrange to get his picture in the papers so that he would be recognized in the future.

FINNS IGNORE RUSSIANS

HELSINKI—(AP)—The Finns seem to have found something to talk about besides the Russians.

There was a time after the war when Russia and Russians appeared to dominate, or at least weigh down, almost every conversation here.

Not so any more. "Where," asked a Finn, "shall we have dinner?" Recalling his trip to a restaurant here more than two years ago, a visitor replied, "Does it make any difference?"

The Finn smiled. "Food isn't rationed anymore, you know." He was proud and justly so.

"They went to an extremely nice restaurant atop one of Helsinki's fine buildings. Everything went beautifully, especially as fine a pair of lamb chops as you can find this side of Paris."

"During the war," said the Finn, "we didn't dance. We're doing it now."

Hours had passed and the visitors met a lot of Finns and still there hadn't been a word about Russia. It was left to him to bring it up.

"Oh, Russia," said a young engineer. "You Americans get too excited about the Russians. Look, we live beside them and we seem to be getting on."

"That," the visitor remarked, "was quite an observation for a Finn."
