

ROOSEVELT PLANS TO GIVE WORK TO IDLE MILLIONS

New Relief Program Will Supplant Present Direct Dole

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7. — (AP) — President Roosevelt last night shaped details of a plan aimed at giving work to the millions on direct relief and a co-ordinating emergency spending into one broad program to accomplish the task.

There were authoritative signs as the President returned from Warm Springs refreshed and buoyant, that he intends to ask Congress for emergency sums exceeding $4,000,000,000. This figure was mentioned in informed quarters as probably a minimum.

This central fund, some of Roosevelt's advisors reported, was expected to be apportioned out for carefully drawn projects. They added that the plan would include many that fit in with the President's conception of America in the future.

Whether one central agency would be designated to direct the expenditures contemplated apparently had not been decided but such a proposal has been under discussion.

Some of the things in mind are: Land and water conservation, relief, public works, roads, subsistence homesteads, rural rehabilitation and various others.

The four million or more employables on relief rolls are to be put to work but opinions varied as to the extent that low cost housing, subsistence homesteads, alum clearance or other projects would be used in giving them jobs.

One estimate from a generally reliable quarter said $600,000,000 might be employed in a land and water conservation program.

Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator, who returned with the President, said in a press conference that he did not expect any increase in the amount of emergency relief administration work relief this winter. He stressed the value of such work relief as slum clearance, rural rehabilitation and like projects.

One point was particularly emphasized in other quarters: The President was said to be determined that the four million employable persons on relief rolls shall be taken off and put to work. Between this point and Hopkins' statement many concluded that while the FEERA might not expand its work relief, some agency would.

United States weather bureau records for 65 years show the average winter snowfall in Norfolk, Va. is eight and a half inches.

LONG'S DEBT MORATORIUM IN EFFECT

(Continued From Page One) missioner, however, are subject to court review. The debt will be suspended pending decision on the appeal.

A debtor may single out any one of his obligations, apply for a moratorium on it, and pay the others. The debtor will retain control of his assets during the moratorium and the creditor will have no right to demand security. Business men were still puzzled over some of the provisions. Lindsey and J. S. Brock, state bank examiner, met with the New Orleans Credit Men's association and attempted to explain the new law. Charles G. Cobb, secretary of the credit association, said neither official seemed very well versed in their subject.

Cobb said the law would tend to tighten up credit, the very thing the Roosevelt Administration was trying to avoid.

"From the viewpoint of the small wholesaler and manufacturer, the act is unfair," Cobb said. "Take the example of a small retailer who applies for a moratorium. He has 10 creditors. On whatever evidence the commissioner decides is proof he gets a two-year moratorium, prohibiting the creditors from collecting."

"Then the same retailer may continue in business and contract new debts. The other wholesalers, so far as the moratorium commissioner is concerned, are kept in the dark about the retailer's failure to pay his debts. In this way the retailer would be able to contract a new set of debts and maybe at the end of two years only the shell of a business would be left and the retailer would wind up in the bankruptcy court."

Brock replied that business men would have to co-operate in reporting among themselves the names of debtors who applied for moratoriums.

"You gentlemen are assuming the attitude that all debtors are crooks," Brock said. He estimated 90 percent of debtors are honest.

Yugoslav Troops Cross Border Into Hungary Nearly To Precipitate Flight

A general conspiracy against the territorial integrity of the new states set up after the World War was charged today at Geneva where the League of Nations Council was studying tense relations between Hungary and Yugoslavia.

Earlier, Hungarian reports said that Yugoslav troops had returned to their own territory after crossing the border last night and almost precipitating a conflict with Hungarian forces.

At Washington, evidence that the War Department considered it more important for the Du Pont Company to continue the production of powder than for the nation to guard its military secrets, drew assertions today from members of the Senate Munitions Committee that America was an arming world to its own future disadvantage.

"Also, some damage has been done to the wooden steps leading from the entrance of the Court House to the hall, and should be repaired. Also we recommend that four additional swivel chairs and six straight chairs be provided for the Bar of the Court Room. With the above exceptions we find the property in good condition."

"We have visited the County Farm and Convict Camp and, so far as we were able to determine, both properties are well kept and conditions appear to be satisfactory."

"We particularly wish to commend the work of Capt. Paul Biggs, superintendent of the Convict Camp, likewise Supt. R. L. Dann of the County Farm."

"We also wish to commend the work of County Traffic Officer E. T. Hamill for his untiring efforts in patrolling our highways and especially appreciate his courtesies to the motoring public."

"We, the grand jurors of Seminole County, after completing the cases coming before us and noting the number of persons pardoned, paroled and in other ways released by the Pardoning Board of the State of Florida and coming up again for major offenses, wish to petition the Honorable Judge under whom we are called and through him and his Court, the Governor of the State of Florida and the Pardoning Board, to stop releasing these criminals upon society."

"We feel that with all the safeguards that are thrown around the Julius Hanton, charged with first degree murder in the death of David Lee Jackson on Nov. 4, 1934, pleaded not guilty and was docketed for trial at 9:30 o'clock Tuesday morning.

George Robinson, indicted for rape and pleading not guilty, was docketed for trial at 9:30 o'clock next Thursday morning. S. J. Nix was named by the Court to represent Robinson, held insolvent.

Abraham Small, pleading guilty to the robbery of the Floyd Land on Oct. 20, 1934, was sentenced to 18 months at Raiford.

PORTLAND, Maine, Dec. 7. — (AP) — A $200,000 fire swept a 300-yard stretch of the waterfront yesterday, destroying two small vessels.

The flames, which originated in the plant of the New England Grain Company on Hobson's Wharf, completely razed that 700-foot pier and the adjacent wharf of the Brown Company, a lumber concern. A jetty coal company wharf was constantly in danger as the flames appeared likely, soon after the outbreak, to sweep the entire upper section of the waterfront.

Guy C. Smith of Cloquet, Minn., shot an albino deer with pink eyes. The animal, weighing 60 pounds, was completely white except for two small yellowish patches.

Paul Williams, pleading guilty to breaking and entering, was given a year's sentence on the county roads.

J. T. Treadwell, pleading guilty to entering the D. D. Daniel home on Sept. 1, 1934, was sentenced to serve 18 months at Raiford.

Mose Williams, indicted for breaking and entering the A. R. Tingley properties on Feb. 4, 1934, with an intention of committing a felony, is yet to be arrested and a capias was ordered issued for the arrest.

An indictment returned in error against a negro named Paul Johnson was nolle prossed.

Also nolle prossed were old indictments lodged against J. D. Clark, negro youth charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Carl Tompkins of Altamonte Springs; H. F. Walker, white man indicted for obtaining money from Klen Area of this city under false pretense; Hattie Whittaker, indicted for an assault with intent to commit first degree murder.

At the request of State Attorney Lloyd F. Boyle, an old indictment charging John Garvin with murder, will be brought into Court with a trial beginning at 9:30 o'clock Wednesday.

After its first appearance, the grand jury retired and returned with its final presentment and a no true bill in the case of Retha Kennedy, charged with receiving stolen property.

----- WE SUGGEST A Brand New Set Of

Firestone TIRES

Your Battery SPARK PLUGS, BRAKES TESTED Without Charge!

It's seldom that the family car is not in need of at least one tire, and sometimes two. Then when replacements are finally purchased there will probably be one or two bad ones left over.

Good tires are a necessity for general safety in driving, but it happens that some car owners put off buying them until it is absolutely necessary.

So take a look at Dad's car and see if it doesn't need new tires. A new set would take a load off of his mind, both financially and worrying about his family's safety.

We think he would appreciate a new set of Firestones most of all—and the cost is very low for a gift of this kind. Let us help you more between now and Christmas.

NORTHERN ROADS LOSE FIGHT FOR CITRUS REVENUE

ICC Order Is Upheld By District Court In Denying Plea

NORFOLK, Dec. 7.—The application of northern railroads for a greater percentage of the citrus fruit revenues divided between northern and southern carriers was denied in a district court for the eastern division of Virginia.

Regarded as one of the most important to come from the Norfolk court in many years, this decision means about $1,200,000 in back revenues and $300,000 annually to southern carriers, the principal ones affected being the Seaboard Air Line railway, Atlantic Coast Line railway, Southern railway and Florida East Coast railway.

The decision sustains an interstate commerce commission order dated Jan. 8, 1934, which gave the southern lines a higher percentage of the revenues derived from hauling citrus fruits from Florida to northern destinations and was made retroactive to Nov. 22, 1930. It was on this date that the southern roads applied for a higher percentage of the revenues.

In the hauling of citrus fruits and other commodities from Florida to the north, the traffic passes over tracks of several southern railroads on the way to Richmond and Norfolk, and from those points onward, notably from Richmond, the traffic moves over the tracks of northern railroads.

The principal complaints against the I. C. C. decision were the Baltimore and Ohio railroads, the Pennsylvania railroad and the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac railroad, although a number of other lines filed intervening petitions asking for the same relief.

The principal contentions of the northern railroads were that the new division of rates was confiscatory, in that the new percentage did not cover the costs of handling; that the I. C. C. had exceeded its authority by basing a decision partially on the lines' need for financial assistance; and that the retroactive feature of the order was in violation of the seventh amendment to the constitution of the United States. These contentions are dismissed in the decision.

HOPKINS PLANS NEW PROJECT TO AID IDLE YOUTH

Relief Head Wants To Keep Alive Eagerness For Vocations

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(AP)—In Harry L. Hopkins' folio of work relief plans yesterday rested a program designed to give to many schooled but jobless young Americans tasks for which they are trained.

The relief administrator wants to keep the eagerness for vocations which they so recently brought fresh from high schools and colleges.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt shares Hopkins' interest in this problem. Letters from discouraged young men and women—many of them just out of high school and college—called it to her attention. A survey indicated 3,500,000 young folk in this group were neither in school nor at work.

Special FERA aid for youths is limited largely at present to part-time work relief jobs for poor college students. The government is spending $1,500,000 a month to keep 100,000 students in school. They are paid an average wage of $15 a month for helping librarians and registrars, building campus flower beds, repairing school properties and engaging in other "socially desirable" projects.

Another relief activity in the educational field is the employment of 40,000 jobless teachers at an average salary of $60 a month.

Among other things they teach 12,000,000 citizens to read and write. Nurseries for children of work relief employes also are conducted by the relief-paid teachers. Half of Japan's factory workers are employed in the textile trades.

30,000 DRIVEN FROM GERMANY GET NEW HOMES

McDonald, League Official, Lauds Aid Given To Refugees

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Dec. 7.—Nearly 30,000 refugees from Germany have been settled in new homes, through funds raised by private organizations in countries adjacent to the Reich, supplemented by grants up to the limit of their resources from the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee, the Central British Fund for German Jewry, the Jewish Agency for Palestine and the Jewish Colonization Association, James G. McDonald, High Commissioner for Refugees, said in a nation-wide broadcast from this city over stations of the National Broadcasting Company.

"It is now a year and a half since the exodus from Germany of tens of thousands of men, women and children Jews and Christians began and just one year since the League of Nations provided for the creation of the office of the High Commissioner to direct the international collaboration for the solution of the economic, financial and social problems of the refugees," he said.

"From the beginning the direct work with the refugees has been carried on by Jewish and non-Jewish private organizations. Their manifold activities in supplying relief, in education, in training and in administering emigration have resulted in the settlement of nearly 30,000 refugees from Germany in new homes.

"But no one connected with the work is satisfied. In certain centers, particularly Paris and Prague, the need for immediate day-to-day relief is desperate. Within the next few months event in the Near East may add largely to the total of refugees.

"One of the encouraging feature of the work during the last six months has been the continuation and expansion of retraining activities. In almost every country of refuge groups of young men and women who in Germany were engaged in the professions or in commerce or as employees are undergoing courses of training to prepare them for manual work.

"Much less encouraging than the work for retraining have been the efforts for relief during recent months. Destitution among the refugees is increasing. Many of those who heretofore have been able to support themselves by their own means are no longer able to do so because their resources are exhausted."

SMALL BUSINESS TESTS NRA AT PERKINS TRIAL

Storage Battery Manufacturer Defied Code, Stands Trial

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 7.—Fred C. Perkins, York storage battery manufacturer, went on trial this week as the champion of "little business men" when the government brought him to court for alleged violation of the N. R. A. code for his industry.

Perkins, who learned to buck a line when Glenn Warner made him a fallback at Cornell more than 30 years ago, has resisted the wage provisions of the NRA contending that the rate would destroy his business. His trial, according to the defense outlined by counsel, will test both the constitutionality of the Recovery Act and the rights of small manufacturers to special consideration.

After Federal Judge Albert L. Watson had overruled a defense motion to quash the indictment, a jury of seven men and five women was chosen.

Harold B. Beiler, of Philadelphia, former president of the Pennsylvania Bar Association, represented Perkins and asked that the charges be quashed on the ground that the National Industrial Recovery Act was unconstitutional in two respects and that the court had no jurisdiction. He declared that Congress could legislate only on interstate business (that of Perkins being confined to Pennsylvania) and that Congress could not delegate the power of legislation to others as, he contended, had been done by the creation of code authorities to write codes with the standing of laws.

Perkins, a descendant of Miles Standish, started his battle with the NRA more than a year ago when he refused to sign the code for his industry. The code required a minimum wage of 40 cents an hour, Perkins, employing from 10 to 20 men, declared that he could not pay that rate and keep his business going. His employees declared their willingness to continue at work under their average wage of 20 cents an hour, this being increased subsequently to 25 cents by their employer.

The government started criminal proceedings against Perkins last June. He was arrested and jailed. Unable to raise bail, which had been fixed at $5,000, he conducted his business from a jail cell for eighteen days. Bond then was posted by Mahlon N. Haines, a York merchant.

The trial has twice been postponed, and Perkins has expressed the belief that NRA was afraid to bring him to court.

Perkins started his business on a "submarine." During the early stages of the business he used his small automobile to make deliveries. The business prospered and he was able to move into larger quarters.

The defendant, who appeared to court in a suit which he said was the first new one he had worn in ten years, has attributed much of his trouble to "some of the biggest concerns in America."

"If I had attempted to pay wages," he said recently, "I could never have got to first base. Every cent I made has been 'plowed in' in the business to keep it going. My greatest wish is to repay my employees' loyalty with a fair wage. Big firms have sought to wipe me out through the agency of the NRA."

Mr. Beiler, when he retired last summer as head of the bar association, made a stinging attack on the NRA. It is said he is contributing his services free in the case.

Assisting Assistant U. S. Attorney Herman F. Reich are Meyer Turner, assistant counsel in the NRA litigation division, and a large staff from Washington.

Perkins has been assured by a large number of small businessmen throughout the country that they are "with him" in the case. Many of them are engaged in businesses confined wholly to the states where the plants are located, and they felt that on the outcome of the Perkins case depended their existence under the NRA.

UNIQUE HOUSING PLAN IS HANDED U. S. OFFICIALS

Government Would Give 20 Percent Of Cost Of New Home

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(AP)—A direct government gift of the cost of building homes for individuals was proposed Monday in high administration quarters as a method of opening a four-billion-dollar tap of private spending.

The plan called for the use of a billion dollars of federal funds in an effort to bring four times that amount of private capital into construction totaling five billion dollars. The government, through loans insured by the Housing Administration, would stimulate both the desire to borrow and lend.

The program was put forward as the effort to find a middle path between public and private building operations.

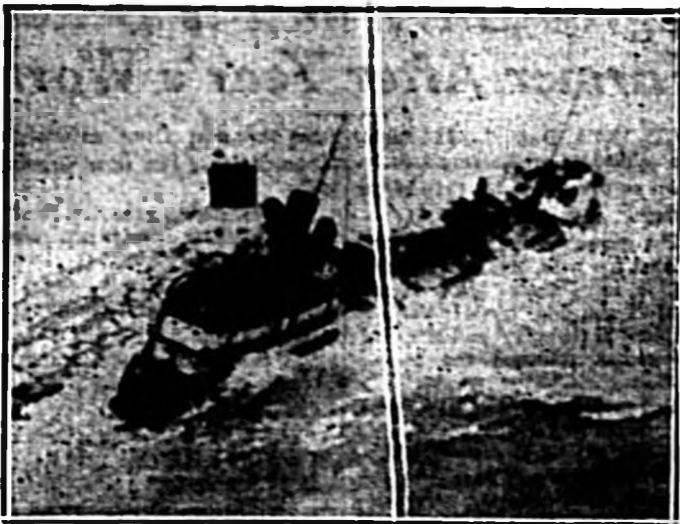

There was no immediate official comment from either housing or relief administrations. If such a plan were adopted, it would be administered by the housing administration, but the officials of all emergency agencies have been endeavoring to devise means of getting more persons to work and off relief rolls.

Some have felt the present program of insured loans for housing was not enough incentive to building. Borrowers have been slow to respond. One reason ascribed has been that the cost of labor and material for building made it cheaper to rent than to build. Advocates of the plan said the one-fifth of the cost given by the government might cause many renters to decide it was advantageous to build.

An example of the way the proposed plan would work follows:

A man owns a $200 lot. He wants to build a $2000 home. The housing administration invests $400. After its approval, the government advances 20 percent of the $2000 or $400. The owner borrows the balance from a bank or other private lending agency, the loan would be required to put up the balance of $1600. If being insured by the housing administration. The government, however, would not be figured into the cost of the house for loan purposes. By adding the value of the government's pending $400 and $400, the borrower would be able to obtain an insured loan of $2000.

CHAKALES ENDS TAR CAREER IN TILT AT TAMPA

Chunky Rollins Field General Rated As Among The Best

WINTER PARK, Fla., Dec. 7.—Soxates Chakales, the chunky Rollins field general who is better known as "Sox," and sometimes as "Ned," has been named by Coach Jack McSwain to fill the role as game captain in the contest with Tampa U. Saturday afternoon in Tampa.

Sox deserves the honor of leading the Tars in their final and most important clash of the season. The Tar quarterback has done a great job this season, his work being consistently heady and competent.

Atlanta papers were quoted in their praise of Chakales after the Delthrop game and the Cumberland players passed the word around that he was the best back they had run up against all season.

This is the first year Sox has had a chance to show his worth. He came to Rollins in 1930 and played quarterback on the undefeated Freshman team of that season. The next two years he was out of college spending most of his time working as a newspaper man in Asheville. Last year returned and served as under coach to Quarterback Ray Miller and as a reserve halfback.

Sox has improved considerably this year in passing, punting and in punting. He holds the record in his line punning abilities and his road, most likely to have been an outstanding feature of the Tar campaign this season.

Students of Rollins met at an assembly Wednesday to make plans for the coming year which will bring the Tar football team to Tampa Saturday. The assembly is held in the gymnasium at 11 A. M. and is open to all Tar students and all varsity football players. The time to reach the field before 1 P. M.

FERA DENIES MISTREATMENT OF 2 FAMILIES

Charges Hurlled At Ft. Pierce Found Without Foundation

JACKSONVILLE, Dec. 6.—The Florida Emergency Relief Administration yesterday denied the families of Henry W. Taylor and J. M. Lee of Fort Pierce were starving and denied relief, as the men were said to have reported to Marvin H. McIntyre, assistant secretary to President Roosevelt.

Taylor and Lee called at the Warm Springs, Ga., executive offices Wednesday with a committee from the Florida Unemployment Council and made their charge.

McIntyre telegraphed State Administrator Julius F. Stone, Jr. asking an investigation and report of the situation.

"Neither Mr. Lee's nor Mr. Taylor's family is starving," Stone replied in a telegram. "Mr. Lee has received $12.80 work relief for the month of November and commodities valued at $5. He would have received $6.40 work relief in addition had he not left Fort Pierce on a mission for the Unemployed League on a date assigned to work."

"Mr. Taylor is classified as an unemployable because of age and physical condition. However, his wife is employed by the relief administration on a work relief basis, which has given her $12 for November. The average monthly relief expenditure per case in the state of Florida is $12, which indicates that these two families have not been discriminated against or neglected."

"The Unemployed League, represented by Mr. Lee and Mr. Taylor, has been attempting to serve as an intermediary between the relief administration and relief clients."

"We deal directly with the client. This intermediary function we have not encouraged because it tends to misinterpretations of actual situations; for example, the present one. Our refusal to recognize the Unemployed League as an intermediary has not been agreeable to them."

Pensacola Offers To Cut Interest On Delinquent Tax

PENSACOLA, Dec. 7.—An ordinance was adopted by city council Wednesday night eliminating all interest and penalties on delinquent taxes on condition delinquent taxpayers take advantage this month of the city's new installment payment plan.

Council also passed on first reading an ordinance imposing a tax of $2 per pole on all poles erected within the city by telephone, telegraph, electric light and power companies, and defeated, 8 to 2, a motion to close all places of business within the city from 9:15 A. M. to 12:15 P. M. on Sunday.

The new tax ordinance it was explained, makes it possible for delinquent taxpayers to take advantage of the city's new plan to divide delinquent taxes into 40 payments.

Councilman Turner explained that many local persons owe taxes, with penalties and interest, to a total amount more than the property is worth, and this plan makes it possible to get some returns from such property. Councilman Bear added that the ordinance gives delinquent taxpayers a chance to take the same course that a business does in taking bankruptcy.

FERA Laborers Will Get 20 Cents Hour

OCALA, Dec. 6.—(AP)—R. E. McDonald, regional administrator of District 2 for the Florida Emergency Relief Administration, announced yesterday a reduction of the minimum unskilled labor wage scale to 20 cents an hour on relief work projects.

McDonald's announcement followed a conference with representatives of 12 counties of the district. These are: Marion, Alachua, Bradford, Union, Columbia, Gilchrist, Dixie, Levy, Sumter, Citrus, Harndale, and Pasco.

Traffic Judge C. B. Fox fined Attorney Frederick Dubovsky $2 each on six parking violation tags and gave him a suspended sentence on 25 others in Oakland, Cal. One tag was for double parking and other 24 for overtime parking.

INSULLS HAPPY OVER ACQUITTAL

It was a happy moment for Samuel Insull, Sr., and his son, Samuel, Jr., when they and 15 other defendants were acquitted of mail fraud charges by a jury which deliberated only two hours. They are shown smiling their pleasure in the courtroom shortly after the jury's verdict was announced. The trial, which was held at Chicago, lasted eight weeks. Insull, Sr., still faces other charges which grew out of the collapse of his vast utilities empire (Associated Press Photo)

Farming Talmadges Can't Agree On Which Is Better Farmer After Year's Work

ATLANTA, Dec. 7.—The farming Talmadges are nearing a showdown as to which is the better farmer.

The governor has always insisted that his wife, Mrs. Eugene Talmadge, is "a much better farmer than I am, and one of the best farmers in Georgia," and Mrs. Talmadge has returned the compliment.

But now they are running separate farms, and when the year's operations are over, the public may have the answer. They are running farms of different types, so it may develop into a no-decision affair, but the governor and the first lady are going at their tasks with enthusiasm.

The governor, who was reared on a farm in middle Georgia and who followed the plow for many years until he whirled himself into the state political picture, is centering his interest on a wheat crop.

When, now a minor crop in Georgia, will be a big one if farmers follow the governor's advice. He said recently that "we ought to grow our own flour on Georgia farms. It looks like flour is going up."

Mrs. Talmadge runs the family farm in Telfair county. She raises a little of everything.

"And that's what we ought to do," she says. "It pays on the farm to live at home. I wish I could spend more time on my farm. You have to keep everlastingly at it to make a real farmer."

"You know I have been farming all my life and right now I think one of my keenest pleasures is to get on a horse and ride around my farm, looking and working, and seeing how things are going. It's a lot more fun than bridge. I'll tell you."

Governor Talmadge, whose red suspenders were one of the bright spots of his recent campaign for re-election, runs the old family farm in Monroe county, 40 miles from Atlanta. He is near enough to his farm to be able to go down there on afternoons when state matters are not pressing.

BOWLING NOTES

The re-juvenated No. 11 Bottlers scored a two out of three game victory over the Hi-Grade Bakery team in the second match of the new Sanford Bowling League series last night because of some steady bowling by John Weaver. The winners racked up 2407 points to 2347 points made by the losers.

Mr. Weaver had high three game score with 590 points, while Wm. Luhrmann, also of the No. 11 team, scored 212 points for high score in a single game.

The Western Union team will meet the St. Johns River Line team at 8:00 o'clock tonight.
