Volunteers To Do More; Librarian Reluctantly Agrees To Program

By Michael Beha
Herald Staff Writer

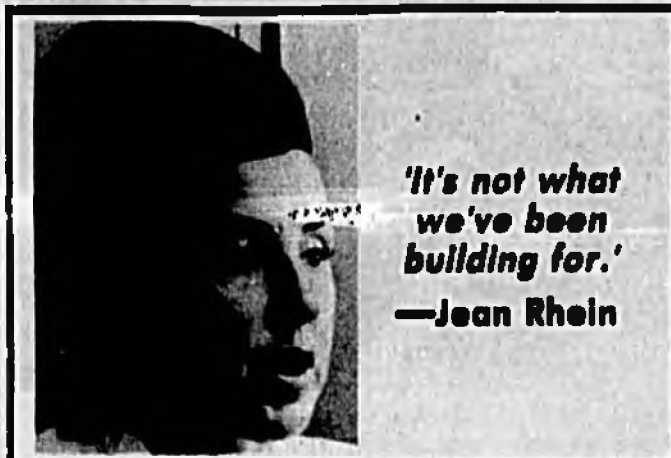

Seminole County Librarian Jean Rhein will establish a volunteer program at the county's two libraries even though she feels the program will reduce their quality of service.

Mrs. Rhein expressed her opposition to the decision by Seminole County commissioners at the Monday work session but reluctantly agreed to establish the program.

"Lots of libraries use volunteers but not very successfully," she said. "It's not what we've been building for."

The libraries recently reduced their hours of service. Both the Casselberry library and the Sanford branch library are now closed on weekends and have reduced hours on Thursday and Friday.

County commissioners have warned that library services may be seriously reduced in an attempt to meet

'It's not what we've been building for.'
—Jean Rhein

an anticipated $8 million budget deficit.

The deficit and even larger deficits anticipated for coming years could also affect a $7 million bond issue approved by county voters for construction of four additional libraries in the county.

Commissioners have warned that those bonds might not be sold unless the deficits can be eliminated.

Ms. Rhein said establishing a volunteer program is not difficult but instituting it while the library system continues to grow is much more difficult.

"Our capability to grow at the pace we have been will be cut in half," she said. "We'll have to pull in our horns. We won't be able to automate as we had planned. Our emphasis will be on just keeping the libraries open."

Ms. Rhein said training volunteers for the Sanford branch will be much easier than for the Casselberry branch.

"In a small operation it can be easily done," she said. "Altamonte Springs is a good example. But they have a circulation of about 30,000 books a year. Ours (circulation) is about 700,000."

County Commissioner Sandra Glenn said the volunteer tasks should include checking out and receiving books, shelving returned books, collecting fines and other circulation jobs. By using volunteers for those jobs, professional staff could be used for more technical jobs.

But Ms. Rhein told commissioners the pace at the Casselberry library can be hectic. She said 1,700 people sometimes use the library during a 1 1/4-hour period.

Mrs. Rhein said the county's library advisory board recommended against using volunteer help.

"They'd rather reduce the hours of service than the quality of service."

But Commissioner Robert Sturm said he's already received phone calls from people who want the libraries open longer. And other commissioners agreed.

Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff, who agreed that the volunteer program should be instituted, said it probably won't save any money.

"Expenses are going to have to be considered," he said. "It's not going to be an easy fix."

County Told To Take Better Care Of The Wetlands

A plan to control development in Seminole County's wetlands will not limit growth but will help developers plan better projects, according to a University of Florida professor.

Mark Brown, one of two UF professors who headed a study team of the county's wetlands, said the study gathered information which will allow developers to be creative in their construction plans. "Creativity was used to get around the law. We want to use that creativity."

The study is intended to help Seminole County get a wetlands management program in place before development occurs in areas which could be seriously affected by development. Wetlands are seven types of areas which perform valuable ecological services such as storm water drainage and water purification.

A wetlands management code, similar to land management and building codes now in effect, has been proposed by Brown and fellow UF professor Earl Starnes. The key to the program would be to identify where each of the seven types of wetlands exist in Seminole County and what development may occur within them.

But Brown said to properly manage the wetlands the county should also manage the adjacent property. "It has become very obvious that without managing that adjacent property you haven't managed the wetlands."

He said severe damage can be done to the wetlands by draining an area that feeds into it or by polluting neighboring property.

Development in the county's wetlands has not been widespread, Brown said. And so far there is no record of any damage to the wetlands.

"But you get a little development here and a little development there. It sneaks up on you," he said. "On the scale I've seen, you've done wrong. And the whole water management district will pay for it."

Brown was not critical of the county's efforts at controlling development in wetlands. He said there has not been major impact so far.

County Planner Woody Price said the alternative to developing a wetlands management code now is to pay higher costs for manmade water management facilities in the future. The wetlands code would basically let water take its own course.

That policy is supported by Starnes, a member of the Suwannee River Water Management District. That group's policy has been "God made it, gravity runs it," he said.

Starnes said creating manmade containment areas and drainage ditches may look like a good idea but may have severe long term impact on an area. "We made some very serious errors in Florida in the 1880s and 1890s. And we're paying for them now."

During that period much of south Florida was drained to make farmland. The cost of maintaining that farmland will run into the billions over the next 50 years, he said.

But there is some controversy between the consultants and a citizen's committee appointed to review the study. The consultants have proposed strict guidelines on the wetlands and adjacent areas, including a ban on the use of herbicides.

County commissioners accepted the report Tuesday and have been asked by the committee to hire a consultant to draw a county map identifying where each of the seven types of wetlands exists.

The county has filed a grant application with the St. Johns River Water Management District to fund the map-drawing.

Cementing Friendships

All Pinecrest Elementary School faculty and staff members, including Marie Lewis, left, secretary and bookkeeper, Principal Caren Gager and Ruth Dougherty, secretary, reverted back to their childhood Tuesday when they placed their handprints and names in the newly poured concrete, "Memory Walk" at the school laid out and finished by the Seminole County School Board Maintenance Department. They are being eyed by envious students, who didn't get to record their names for posterity.

Feather's Apartment Plan Rejected

Familiarity was no ally for Seminole County Commissioner Robert G. "Bud" Feather.

Feather's plans to develop a 43.8-acre parcel along the Wekiwa River into 222 apartments were derailed by fellow commissioners Tuesday night on a 3-2 vote. Commissioner Robert Sturm voted with Feather but Sandra Glenn, Bill Kirchhoff and Barbara Christensen vetoed the plan.

About 100 residents of other developments in the area appeared at the public hearing to protest the plans of Feather, who is president of Audobon Habitats Inc., and Robert J. Pugh of Epoch Properties.

Those opposing the plan said too many apartments were planned for the property beside Wekiwa Springs Road, Miami Springs Road and Wekiwa State Park.

The proposal had a gross density of five units per acre and a net density of 7.9 units per acre. But adjacent developments have densities of between one and three units per acre.

Neighbors were also skeptical of the developers' plans to build a brick wall to obscure the development from the site of neighbors and of plans to rent the units for five years prior to converting them into condominiums.

Feather and Pugh asked for a specific amendment from a low density residential preservation conservation area to a medium density residential area and a zoning change from agricultural and mobile home district to multi-family dwelling district.

The county's Planning and Zoning Commission approved the plan on May 4 but county staff officials opposed the plan. —Michael Beha

'Scared' But Gutsy Girl, 16, Chases Thieves, Recovers Property

Jodi Getman

By Diane Petryk
Herald Staff Writer

A 16-year-old Sanford girl who chased two suspected burglars last night has been credited with saving $17,600 in property for Robson Marine, 2927 S. Orlando Drive, Sanford.

"I was pretty scared," she said today.

But Jodi Getman, a junior at Seminole High School, was also determined that two men she saw leaving Robson Marine at 8:30 last night not get away with a van full of boat motors it appeared they had just taken.

Jodi knew the van she saw leaving the marine compound was suspicious, because she had once worked for the owners of the shop. She knew they close at 5:30 and she knew the boxes in the van were motors.

"I'd unpacked plenty of them," she said.

Jodi said she and her mother, Vicki Getman, were coming out of McCrory's store in Sanford Plaza just before 8:30 when she heard a burglar alarm coming from Robson's.

As she and her mother got in her Ford Ranchero, she saw two men in a van approach the compound fence. The man on the passenger side got out and opened the fence.

Jodi said she tried to get its license number, but the occupants apparently saw what she was doing and backed up and turned.

At the same time Jodi alerted her boyfriend and another friend, who were in their own car, to follow.

The young men tried to head the van off as it went around the Flagship Bank auto teller. Jodi was honking the car horn to get attention.

The van then headed past the Southern Bell phone center toward Airport Boulevard.

At Airport Boulevard, she said, it appeared the van hesitated, first seeming to want to turn toward U.S. Highway 17-92. But then it turned left on Airport.

Jodi said she feels the men in the vehicle were panicking after seeing her trying to get their license and being chased by two cars.

By this time Jodi's mother was telling her to "forget about it."

But Jodi continued her pursuit.

While the van made a turn into Sandlewood Villas off Airport Boulevard, Jodi's boyfriend alerted a police officer whose patrol car was parked at the Pinecrest Baptist Church nearby.

By the time police joined the chase, Jodi's car had the van bottled-up at Sandlewood.

"I think they thought they were entering a through street," said Jodi, who was scared but undaunted.

As the two men leaped from the van, Jodi started to get out of her car to continue pursuit but her mother restrained her.

"I was grabbing her with one arm and trying to start the car with the other," Mrs. Getman said.

"Get back in this car," Jodi remembers her mother saying.

Upon reflection, Jodi said the thought one of them might have had a gun or something should have made her more prudent. But it didn't.

She saw the man on the passenger side of the vehicle jump out and run to the right and the driver stop to grab something off the seat of the van and run straight into the woods.

The police car arrived through another Sandlewood entrance, but by that time the men had disappeared.

Sanford police detective Karen Reynolds said the van was impounded and four outboard motors recovered. The vehicle's owner had not yet been identified this morning, but Ms. Reynolds said the van is from Orlando.

Today, Ruth Jean Robson said Jodi will get a reward for her efforts, along with her boyfriend Rowdy Hinkle and his friend Keith Taylor. Hinkle is 18, Taylor, 19.

"I think it's a wonderful thing what these young people did," Mrs. Robson said. "It's wonderful."

"While everyone's saying young people are no good and are all on drugs, these young people last night showed what they can do. What they're capable of doing. We are very grateful."

Mrs. Robson said an inventory of the Robson Marine premises, currently selling all its inventory, has not been completed and no damage was noticed in the confusion last night, except for the two chains securing the compound fence which were clipped.

For Jodi's part, she hopes the burglars will be caught. But she didn't do anything for a reward or for the Robson's.

Looking back on it, she said, "It was a terrible place to work."

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Askew Campaigns For Unity In New Hampshire

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — Taking his campaign for the 1984 Democratic presidential nomination to the New Hampshire House, former Florida Gov. Reubin Askew called for a new unity to meet the challenges facing the nation.

Revisiting themes he has made familiar in seven previous appearances in the first-in-the-nation primary state, Askew said Tuesday that America faces increased economic competition from its world neighbors.

"Our standard of living is in peril, and jobs, profits and futures are being lost because we aren't competing as we must with other nations," the former trade ambassador told the 400-member House, which traditionally invites all major party presidential candidates to speak.

At that trend, Askew said the nation must moderate its reliance on individualism and be "willing to look beyond our narrow interests as individuals and our special interests as groups to our common interest as Americans."

Askew opened his address by pledging his support to preserve New Hampshire's status as the initial state primary.

That status has been threatened by Democratic rules changes which could permit Vermont to hold a non-binding primary on March 6, 1984, the date the party has chosen for New Hampshire's primary. Presidential candidates trooping through the Granite State have each been asked their position on the primary issue.

Dentist Still Charged

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — An administrative hearing examiner refused Tuesday to dismiss unprofessional conduct proceedings against a Jacksonville dentist who was acquitted in 1981 of charges he raped a female patient.

Charles Adams of the Florida Division of Hearings heard a complaint by the Florida Department of Professional Regulation against Dr. William T. Woodward that he sexually molested a patient and kissed two others after administering nitrous oxide (laughing gas) to them.

If found guilty, Woodward, 44, could be fined or stripped of his license to practice dentistry in Florida.

In September 1981, a Circuit Court jury acquitted Woodward of rape charges stemming from the same incident involving Sherry Martin, 26.

Woodward's lawyer, Edward M. Booth, argued Tuesday that the state's administrative charges were vague and put the dentist in double jeopardy in that he was being tried for the same action.

Dredge In For Repairs

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers dredge McFarland was laid up in Jacksonville for repairs Tuesday after an on-board explosion May 1 killed one crewman and injured five others, authorities said.

A Corps spokesman said repairs to the ship, formerly assigned to Jacksonville but now part of the Philadelphia Corps' district, were expected to take three months after the contract is awarded.

The vessel was dredging near the channel entrance to Port Canaveral when a welding torch apparently sparked the explosion, Corps public affairs spokesman Juan Colon said.

Crewman James Puffnock, 55, of Virginia Beach, Va., was killed.

Wood Chips To Cut Prison Fuel Costs

RAIFORD (UPI) — Union Correctional Institution hopes to save $500,000 in fuel oil costs next year when it switches over to an innovative wood chip boiler system to heat cells and cook prison chow.

And inmate labor will be used to chop down trees on the prison's 9,000 acres of timberland and to feed the logs and wood pieces into a machine known as a "chipper" that reduces them to chip-size morsels.

The prison currently is on the last leg of completing the $3.7 million project, which is set to be inaugurated this fall.

Wally Mooneyham, UCI Industries supervisor, predicted that, once it begins operations, this self-perpetuating use of an alternative energy source will never cost the state a cent.

The wood chip project is unusual since work on it has proceeded on schedule and well within the anticipated $4.2 million cost, according to Rick Schroeder, a wood energy specialist with the state Division of Forestry.

"It might set all kinds of records irrelevant to wood energy," Schroeder said, who added that it could become the prototype for similar projects at state-owned hospitals and other prisons.

The chips will fuel two 60,000-pound boilers at UCI, which previously were powered by expensive fossil fuels. Water is boiled to about 440 degrees (Fahrenheit), making steam.

The steam then is forced through underground pipes to the prison, where it will heat buildings in the winter and provide steam for cooking all year long, Mooneyham said.

UCI spends $1 million a year for fuel oils. The wood chip program will cut that in half, Mooneyham said.

Any kind of tree or part of a tree can be used to make the chips. Project officials hope not only to harvest trees, but also to "chip" the garbage tree parts normally left to rot or pitched out by area timber companies.

"That's the beauty of it," Mooneyham said. "We've got the existing timber. Our 9,000 acres, properly managed, is a perpetual line of fuel."

With an eye on future fuel needs, prisoners this year planted 40,000 seedlings, which will be ready for harvesting in eight to 10 years, Harvey Smith, prison forestry supervisor, said.

As the wood chip system gets underway, about 3,000 acres a year will be chipped and replaced with 14,000 hand-planted, fast-growing seedlings, he said.

A steam pipe to neighboring Florida State Prison could be added later and the boilers could be modified to create electricity for lighting the prison as well as steam for cooking and heat.

Melinda Ponce of Davis and Associates Engineering of Gainesville, the project engineer, said even the potash-rich ashes left by boiler steam-making will be used to fertilize the trees that one day will fuel the boilers.

"You have completely used the entire product," Ms. Ponce said. "There's just no waste."

Lake Mary Working To Secure City Manager

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

Lake Mary city commissioners are working individually on a job description and salary range in the city's search for a new city manager.

Although City Manager Phil Kulbes' written resignation earlier this month carried an effective date of June 30, he actually will be on the job only two more weeks.

He is scheduled to take his two weeks vacation and compensatory time due him before his resignation's effective date, meaning he is expected to leave the job within the first week of July.

Although Commissioner Kenneth King wanted to immediately advertise in the Florida League of Cities journal for a replacement, his colleague, Dr. Burt Perinchief, insisted the advertisement would be premature.

"We should review the job description and examine some parameters on remuneration first," Perinchief said, adding to advertise before these decisions are made would be doing so "in a vacuum."

Commissioner Russ Megonegal, noting he has already asked Kulbes for a paragraph citing his job responsibilities, said when advertising is done, it should not only include the "Municipal Record" of the Florida League but also target nearby colleges and universities.

Some city officials have already talked to a graduate student of government who would like to take a leave of absence from his employment.

Perinchief said the advertisement should include enough information to attract applicants and that is why the decisions on salary range and other considerations should be made prior to the advertising.

The commission may have a special meeting to adopt a salary range, qualifications and responsibilities of the office prior to its regular June 2 meeting.

Kulbes' resignation was submitted after a work session of the City Commission on May 4. It was contained in two type written lines in a memo to Mayor Walter Sorenson.

Kulbes was first hired by the city as a building official on Aug. 7, 1978, at a salary of $12,000 annually. On Jan. 18, 1979, he was appointed city manager at a salary of $13,999.96. His current salary is $21,982.75.

He is the city's first manager. He will celebrate his 65th birthday on June 26.

Kulbes said he resigned for personal reasons. Among those was that he and Mrs. Kulbes were trying to get custody of their grandson, who lived in California. They have since been successful in that effort and the boy now lives with them.

House OKs Controversial Insurance Reform Bill

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Some health insurance policy holders would be denied a choice of doctors and all would have to pay a portion of medical bills up to $2,500 under a bill approved by the House and sent to the Senate.

The measure (HB 1182), approved 87-31 Tuesday, also would require a second doctor's opinion for non-emergency surgery and bar holders of multiple policies from making a profit on their reimbursements.

Proponents said the reforms would help put the brakes on spiraling health costs, which increased 19 percent in Florida last year compared to 11 percent nationally.

Opponents asserted it would unfairly deprive thousands of employees of their right to select their doctors, lead to lower quality medical care and, in effect, place a tax on all policy holders by mandating they pay a portion of medical bills now covered by insurance.

This bill is not the end-all, said Commerce Chairman Sam Bell, D-Daytona Beach, whose committee drafted most of the measure. "It's just a beginning (to crack down on health costs)."

"If you want to lower the quality of health care in Florida, vote for this bill," said Rep. Tom Woodruff, R-St. Petersburg.

In its most controversial provision, the legislation would authorize insurance companies to offer "preferred provider" coverage.

Reagan Should Seize The Moment

The recent budget fiasco in the Senate is one more sign that Congress is not even close to getting federal spending under control. Indeed, there is such a lack of leadership in Congress on Capitol Hill that one wonders whether Congress can even produce the required budget resolution before sometime this summer.

The Senate considered two separate budget resolutions and rejected both. Neither reflected a proper sense of urgency on the need to cut excessive spending and the huge deficits now in prospect.

The budget resolution tentatively favored by the administration would preserve the third year of Mr. Reagan's tax cut, but leave the fiscal 1984 budget with an estimated deficit of $192.4 billion. Senate Democrats and a rump caucus of liberal Republicans wanted a resolution calling for $70 billion in new taxes during the next three years. Their projected deficit for fiscal 1984: $184.4 billion.

Tip O'Neill's House of Representatives stands in even greater disrepute on spending. The House budget resolution passed March 22 would cancel both the administration's third-year tax cut and the scheduled indexing of income tax rates designed to protect us all against inflation-induced bracket creep. Domestic spending would rise $30 billion over what President Reagan proposed for fiscal year 1984 and the House version of the deficit would swell to $198.2 billion.

So much for congressional Democrats' pious expressions of horror over the deficits, to say nothing of their fraudulent claim to be holding the line on spending. The House budget resolution was drafted by the Democratic leadership and approved by the Democratic majority. The resolution would hike taxes, increase spending, and fatten the deficit.

The budget plan offered by Senate Democrats and a handful of liberal Republicans was only marginally less objectionable. No doubt it would have been worse if Democrats in the Senate had a majority. Even the resolution endorsed by Senate Republican leaders was such a disappointment that Mr. Reagan hardly lifted a finger to help it pass.

Beyond the dismal-budget numbers in all of these resolutions is a larger, more ominous reality. President Reagan took office more than two years ago rightly pledged to reduce the percentage of the gross national product siphoned out of the private sector by the federal government. In 1980, that figure stood at 24 percent. Unless something is done, it will grow to 25.2 percent next year.

Granted, much of this increase is due to a recession that has curtailed economic growth while driving up government spending for such things as unemployment compensation. But it is just as true that Congress has steadily resisted White House efforts to cut deeply into federal spending. And Mr. Reagan has contributed to his own problems by allowing, and sometimes even helping, his tax cuts to be offset by higher Social Security levies and various "revenue enhancements."

The new taxes and higher spending now being advocated by Democrats, and by some so-called "moderate" Republicans, can only soak up an even greater percentage of the nation's total output of goods and services. At the very least, this would mean slower economic growth for most of the 1980s. At worst, it could abort the economic recovery now in progress and risk plunging the nation into a new recession.

It is worth noting that during the period from the Korean War to the Vietnam War when the economy grew steadily without significant inflation or high budget deficits, federal spending took only about 18 percent of GNP. Restoring anything close to the robust growth rates of the 1950s and 1960s depends on reducing Washington's current 25 percent take to perhaps 22 percent or, better yet, less.

Congress is giving daily demonstrations that it is not up to the task. With the congressional budget process in total disarray, maybe it is time for President Reagan to seize the moment by returning to his earlier call for a freeze on discretionary domestic spending.

"I hope those people in the moon suits out there are from another planet and not looking for DIOXIN!"

By Sam Cook

It's doubtful Pete Rozelle is looking into this one, but a friendly wager had half of the Lake Brantley Blue football coaches huffing and puffing after practice Monday night.

Two laps were bet on the outcome of Friday's Blue & White Intrasquad game. Unfortunately for the Blue, Allen Armstrong and Greg Shatto rolled up 236 yards on the ground to pave the way for a 12-0 victory. Donnie O'Brian returned a fumble eight yards for a TD to cement the victory in the third quarter.

So Monday night after practice, Blue coaches Tony Durham, Kevin Carpenter, Marty Williams, Wes Salley and Scott Trimble (on loan from the Florida Gators) put on their track shoes and paid their dues.

Head coach Dave Tullis viewed the whole situation as pretty hilarious, but he also knew where to place the blame for the low-scoring contest. "I thought we'd score more," he said. "But there was a lot riding on the outcome. I think (winning) coach Sam Momary got a little conservative when he got that lead."

Which goes to show you, he who laps last doesn't always laugh best.

Lyman High School is looking for four assistant football coaches. Offensive coordinator Dan Bridges has left and volunteer assistant Danny Allen is returning to the University of Central Florida to play nose guard. Allen, one of the Knights' top defensive linemen two years ago, was injured last year. Contact athletic director Ed Buckner (831-5600) if you choose to apply.

The last great track meet of the season will be Friday when the Golden South Classic gets underway at Winter Park's Showalter Field at 2 p.m.

Seminole County's three state champions — Lori Carroll, Ken Cheeseman and Schowonda Williams — will all be there to try and pick up some more hardware. All three are juniors, so you can expect great things, and maybe another state championship, next year. Lyman's Carroll won the high jump, the Lady Greyhounds' Williams took the 330 hurdles and Lake Howell's Cheeseman, a student, won the 100-yard dash. The Jager-Cheeseman duel will be spiced by Ransom Everglades' 2A champ Billy Convey, too.

You can throw Seminole's Charita Medlock into that elite group, too, after her performance Saturday in the State Heptathlon. Medlock, a sophomore, long jumped 19-6 to break the Heptathlon and Seminole High School mark. Tony Hardy held the old mark of 19-1. She was a state champion in 1982. Medlock won the region, but had an offday in the state meet before putting it all together Saturday.

Football concludes its spring season Thursday and Friday for county teams. Defending district champion Lyman tackles Seminole for one half in the Apopka Jamboree Thursday at 7:20 p.m. Apopka and Osceola play in the second half.

On Thursday, Lake Brantley hosts a jamboree for the rest of the county schools and DeLand. Admission is $2 and the first quarter begins at 7:30 p.m. Here are the matchups:

First quarter: Lake Mary vs. DeLand
Second quarter: DeLand vs. Oviedo
Third quarter: Oviedo vs. Lake Brantley
Fourth quarter: Lake Mary vs. Lake Howell
Fifth quarter: Lake Brantley vs. Lake Howell

The EPA: Too Much Pressure

By Gregory N. Jonsson

(Editor's Note: Gregory N. Jonsson is USIC Washington Representative and a former law clerk with the Environmental Protection Agency.)

Repeated public opinion polls have shown that Americans detest hazardous waste, acid rain, smog and other forms of pollution. It is axiomatic to conclude that most Americans are environmentalists.

What should have been the subject of a thorough benefit-cost analysis at the level of local communities has become a strident debate at the national level between environmentalist extremists and the Reagan administration, which is determined to bring benefit-cost analysis to agencies of the federal government. Caught in the middle are the career bureaucrats of the Environmental Protection Agency, who seem incapable of providing the American people with the decentralized solutions to environmental problems.

The truth is a central bureaucracy far removed from the parochial interests of state and local governments will never provide the practical solutions to environmental problems. Moreover, EPA is unmanageable because it is a co-opted agency, in part hostage to the commercial interests it is charged with policing, and in large measure because special interest groups such as the National Wildlife Federation and the National Resources Defense Council pressure the Congress to second-guess every EPA decision. The environmental extremists have persuaded millions of Americans that corporate interests control EPA.

For example, the environmentalist pressure groups have alleged certain improprieties in the recent sale of Powder River Basin coal leases. The allegations were inaccurate, but they made the headlines and helped to undermine public confidence in the Department of Interior's coal leasing program, a well-run program in a superbly managed department of the federal government, led by an outstanding steward of the public trust, Secretary James G. Watt.

The facts speak for themselves. In the case of the Powder River Basin Leases, acreages containing 1.6 billion tons out of an estimated 146 billion tons of recoverable coal will be leased at a record average price of $7.25 per ton, $2.80 of which will go for taxes, royalty and rent. There were no improprieties in the sale of leases which would justify a freeze on appropriations for Interior's coal leasing program.

Papandreou No Greek Bearing Gifts

WASHINGTON — Greek Prime Minister Andreas Papandreou has become a baffling source of discomfiture and dismay to the Reagan administration.

He has a perturbing habit of denouncing the United States in full-blown rhetorical outrage. Yet he served in the U.S. Navy during World War II, went on to teach at Harvard and other U.S. universities, became an American citizen and married an American. His children are U.S. citizens.

Administration officials don't know whether to believe his words or trust his background. Why do they care particularly? Because a new round of negotiations got underway this week on renewal of the leases for U.S. bases in Greece.

The bases are vital to NATO's defenses in the eastern Mediterranean. But in last year's election campaign, Papandreou's Socialist Party promised to get rid of the "imperialist" U.S. presence. It was a good, xenophobic campaign tactic that appealed to leftist voters, including the Greek Communists.

Some intelligence analysts figured Papandreou's shrill attacks on the United States were simply a political ploy that would be dropped once he gained power. Now they're not so sure.

They were startled at his intemperate reaction when Assistant Secretary of State Richard Burt expressed support for increased military aid to Turkey last month during an official visit there. Actually Burt said nothing more than he had voiced on earlier occasions in Washington.

But Papandreou responded with a great public show of indignation. He lambasted Burt and withdrew Burt's invitation to visit Athens.

Among intelligence analysts, there are now two diametrically opposed theories about Papandreou's actions:

One is pessimistic. It views Papandreou as a man trapped by his own anti-American campaign rhetoric — someone who, as one source put it, has painted himself into a corner. He promised so long and so persuasively to get rid of the U.S. bases in Greece that he doesn't dare renege. That means the a political perspective on the letter.

For, of course, the letter did not emerge in a vacuum. It is part of a surrounding context of related events.

Following the deployment of the Soviet SS-20 missiles in Europe, we have been subjected to a political hurricane of nuclear protest directed not at the Soviets, who have deployed these weapons, but at the United States, which has not yet done so.

We had the growing protest movement in West Europe, and the later but similar mass protests in this country — in New York, Washington, and elsewhere.

We have seen the House of Representatives pass a "freeze" resolution which, however innocuous in terms of its text, does represent a political and symbolic victory for the disarmament movement. Congress voted for a mutual and verifiable negotiated freeze — language that anyone could support, especially if the negotiations ensured substantial equality of forces — but the whole exercise was empty of military and diplomatic substance. Nevertheless, it does put political pressure on the White House.

The colleges and universities, many of them at least, have been used as centers for agitating against further deployment of nuclear weapons, with special emphasis on the planned Pershing II in Europe. The Soviets have cheerfully supplied speakers for these efforts, and they have invariably been dominated by anti-nuclear pressure groups.

renewal of the leases is doomed.

The other view is optimistic. Those who favor it cite Papandreou's American background. This, they argue, suggests that his anti-American bombast is hogwash and that deep down he realizes that Greece needs U.S. aid more than we need the bases. In this view, Papandreou's public flogging of Burt was just part of a horse trader's technique for getting a better money deal on the bases.

The pessimists, of course, wonder if Papandreou's American connections — well known to Greek voters — haven't forced him to be determinedly anti-American as proof of his independence.

As one source told my associate Lucette Lagnado: "Papandreou is a captive of his own rhetoric. Demagoguery has its price. It catches up with you sooner or later."

One thing both schools of thought agree on: Papandreou has U.S. policy makers confused. With Casca in Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar," they admit it's a "Greek to me."

A Darker Side To Job Loss

By Al Rossiter Jr.
UPI Science Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Researchers say a darker side to unemployment is an increase in adverse emotional and physical health effects, and even suicide.

Dr. Duane G. Hagan, chairman of psychiatry at St. John's Mercy Medical Center in St. Louis, said several studies have produced evidence that job loss contributes to increased ill health and is related to severe mental disorders.

And he said no longer is it just the unskilled and undereducated who are in risk of losing their jobs. He said white collar workers, professionals and managers also share that risk.

"The implications for emotional and physical health are profound," he wrote in a report in the current issue of Hospital and Community Psychiatry, a magazine published by the American Psychiatric Association.

In a separate commentary in the same magazine, Dennis A. Ahlburg of the University of Minnesota and Morton Owen Schapiro of Williams College said: "It is critically important to understand all the costs of unemployment and to attempt to minimize them."

"Those who speak of squeezing out inflation, staying the course, and living with the short-run effects should be aware that the total costs of such a policy go far beyond the more visible economic consequences of fewer jobs and lower production."

Hagen, who reviewed the scientific literature dealing with the subject, said the suicide rate was perhaps the first indicator of health problems linked to changes in the economy.

He cites the research of sociologist M. Harvey Brenner at Johns Hopkins University who found specific correlations between higher joblessness and mortality. His findings suggested that a 1.4 percent rise in unemployment in 1970, affecting 1.5 million people, was responsible for 51,570 deaths, including 1,740 additional homicides and 1,540 additional suicides.

Hagen said Brenner's correlations are controversial, but he said they have been confirmed by other studies. He said researchers in England and Russia also found an association between suicide rates and chronic unemployment.

Other researchers, he said, have found a link between unemployment and homicide, spouse abuse and child abuse.

He said a state hospital in Connecticut noted an increase in the number of hospitalizations during the economic decline of 1974, and a more recent study in Missouri found a strong correlation between patient readmissions to mental health facilities and unemployment rates.

ing to pare a few bucks from its multi-billion-dollar budget, has run head-on into critics on Capitol Hill. The economy in question involves the Pentagon's hopes of hiring rent-a-cops and private firefighters to handle security duties at military bases. Instead of civilian employees of the Defense Department.

In recent years, Congress has forbidden the military to hire outside police and firefighters, but the legislation runs out Sept. 30. Rep. Vic Fazio, D-Calif., has introduced legislation to ensure that these vital services remain in the hands of government employees. Why?

Reason One: Federal employees don't have the right to strike. Employees of private contractors do — and in the past they have done just that.

Reason Two: Publicly-paid firefighters are more likely to assist neighboring communities in an emergency.

Reason Three: The Pentagon cost-cutters haven't convinced congressional critics that the move to private security contractors would actually save the taxpayers any money.

Foreign Legion: Boredom Most Feared Enemy

By John A. Calicott

AUBAGNE, France, (UPI) — At Foreign Legion headquarters these days the men are out tending the flowers.

As could be expected the flowerbeds are perfect. And the grass, as cropped as a regulation haircut, is lush and green despite the hot sun of southern France.

But gardening hardly seems the right task for the mercenaries of an army whose real job is desert and jungle warfare.

"The toughest, most disciplined fighting force in the world," is how the Foreign Legion is described by the official journal of the U.S. Marines — themselves not known for softness.

Lack of action is proving a major problem. The Legion's last combat in Zaire back in 1978.

"Sure we still get plenty of recruits," said one veteran sergeant. "But a lot of them are looking for a fight and get restless."

One thing the Legion may do is cut the current initial signing-on "contract" of five years to three years.

"That probably would be a lot better as there doesn't seem much chance of real action," the sergeant said with distaste.

Legion headquarters on the outskirts of sleepy Aubagne was once a regular French Army caserne. The Gestapo used it as an interrogation center in World War II.

The Legion arrived in 1962 when Algerian independence forced it to leave its traditional home at Sidi-bel-Abbes — in typical fashion cut up everything in its path except its own commitment to its dead.

The Wooden barracks at Aubagne, which is close to Marseille, was torn down and replaced by a city-within-a-city of gleaming white buildings complete with hospital, movie theater and bordello.

"We are the only army in the world to have our own brothel at all of our camps," an NCO said.

He declined to point out the headquarters facility but explained that it runs according to usual iron Legion discipline.

The girls arrive each day at 5 p.m., leave at 9 a.m. and get the basic pay of a private plus monthly commissions. They also get a monthly commission based on the counters bought at the door with the price determined by rank.

Visitors are shown the Legion museum with its full of past battle souvenirs and its hushed crypt with illuminated cross set into the floor.

The crypt is holy to a legionnaire with its regimental standards and the wooden hand of Capt. Jean Danjou, who led 82 men in holding off 2,000 Mexicans for a full day at Cameroun in 1883.

That engagement and the fourth-month defense of Dien Bien Phu in 1954 symbolize the glorious past for the Legion.

In a niche in the crypt is an urn with the ashes of William Moll of Chicago who, before his death at age 57, asked that he "be buried with the Legion."

Top officers at Aubagne headquarters said the French Army Ministry in Paris has to authorize interviews but an unofficial visit was arranged for a foreign Legionnaire.

Names were withheld and in any case would mean little because most of the men changes both name and nationality on joining.

"The one thing you never do is ask a man why he joined," the veteran sergeant said. "He came in because he wanted to bury his past and you don't remind him of it."

Today's Legion is 8,000 men strong, compared with the peak enlistment of 50,000 reached during the Indochina conflict in the 1950s. About 50 percent drop out after the first five-year contract expires.

"But we get 400 to 450 new recruits here every month," an officer said. "The minimum joining age is 18 but it can happen that nothing is said if someone is 17, although they are supposed to have parental permission."

Only half the 5,000 to 6,000 yearly applicants are French who are given another nationality "and name if they want," because it is the "Foreign" Legion. Some 15 percent of the foreigners are West Germans. About 55 nationalities are represented in all.

"We don't get many Americans because they have a big army of their own," the sergeant said.

Applicants go through three weeks of security screening and intelligence tests at Aubagne with one out of three failing to get sent on for basic training.

Training is so rough — including a 100-mile march — that half of the men do not make it.

A total 600,000 men have been through the Legion — and 35,000 have been killed — since it was established in 1831 by King Louis Philippe as a mercenary army of Russian refugees.

Most Male Infertility Problems Can Be Solved

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Infertility generally can be treated and solved more simply in men than in women, a Medical College of Pennsylvania physician says.

"One out of six couples cannot conceive a child," said Lester Karafin, head of urologic surgery at the college. "At least half the time, the male partner has an infertility problem."

Karafin said a large percentage of male infertility problems can be identified and solved.

"Women, because of their complex reproductive systems, may need many time-consuming, delicate and sometimes uncomfortable tests to uncover the cause of infertility," he said. "On the other hand, unless a man is impotent, discovering the cause of infertility is frequently pretty straightforward."

In most cases, the man either does not manufacture enough sperm or the sperm does not reach the egg to fertilize it, he said in a recent interview.

"An examination to tell if the sperm-carrying tubes are intact will often reveal a varicose vein in the spermatic cord," he said. Such an irregularity accounts for more than one-third of the cases of male infertility.

"Fertility can often be restored by tying of the spermatic vein," he said. The procedure requires a hospital stay of up to two days.

Karafin said a study showed that following surgery, 70 percent of men had improved semen counts and 50 percent were able to father children.

"At the first visit, if there is an abnormal sperm count, the urologist will take blood samples to check hormone levels," he said.

Irregular levels sometimes are associated with benign brain tumors that can be treated, leading to a restoration of normal levels and potency, he said.

"In other cases where a semen sample shows no sperm at all, biopsy of the testicle and x-ray of the tube transport system may reveal a blockage which can be corrected surgically," he said.

Not Everyone Sharing Epcot's Prosperity

ORLANDO (UPI) — Time is the enemy of that ever-growing group EBD — Everybody But Disney.

Since Walt Disney World's Epcot Center opened last fall, thousands more tourists have poured into central Florida to see the combination futuristic world and international community.

Highways are jammed and hotels are packed.

It seemingly would mean good news for the rest of the area's attractions, too. Right?

Wrong. Most of those extra visitors, plus the traditional tourist trade, were spending all their time at Epcot and its sister park, the Magic Kingdom.

Many of them hopped the planes and trains out of central Florida before casting their shadows at Sea World or Circus World or Cypress Gardens or Stars Hall of Fame or any of the other attractions in the area.

No one has gone out of business yet and nobody is losing jobs of money. But the threat is there, and park executives have had to change their marketing attacks in mid-stream.

"Time is the problem. We all knew it was going to happen," said Richard Howard, director of marketing at Sea World. "But people don't seem to understand the time situation."

"Epcot has filled up the plate. You're going to be full if you eat everything on the central Florida plate."

Howard, along with executives from other parks and the Disney people, admits it takes at least three days, maybe more, to see and enjoy the Magic Kingdom and Epcot.

With vacationers spending only three or four days in central Florida — called by one executive as the "family tourism capital of the world" — the results can be brutal for EBD.

"Sea World has traditionally been the No. 1 attraction after Disney," Howard said. "For the majority of people, we would be the third day, but Epcot has changed that."

The result is a new approach to the tourist trade by Sea World and the rest of the attractions. The enemy is not Epcot. It's the clock.

"We have to convince the tourists to stay a longer period of time," said Frank Langley, a spokesman for Circus World. "We want to build their three-day vacation to five days or seven days or 10 days. God knows there's enough to do in the area to spend two weeks here."

While Epcot is helping Disney World break attendance records, other area attractions are struggling to attract visitors. Officials are re-aligning their predictions and expect 3 or 4 million more visitors this year, the numbers are down slightly at the other central Florida parks.

An unusually rainy winter slowed attendance some, but Epcot played the biggest role, all admit. After years of annual increases, these parks are having to scramble to recapture a share of the market.

The nearest victor of the Epcot explosion is Busch Gardens in Tampa, where attendance records were set all spring. But Busch officials consider themselves a West Coast property and not a member of the central Florida club, an advantage when it comes to Epcot.

"We feel like people are going to Epcot and Magic Kingdom, getting overloaded on theme parks and lines and then saying 'Get me to a beach,'" said Busch spokeswoman Glenda Gilmore.

"Then, they're going to Daytona Beach or the West Coast. Those that come over here are staying at the beach and coming to Busch Gardens as a day trip. But there's no question that the impact of Epcot is huge and that people are choosing a Florida trip because of Epcot."

The battle is being waged in the trenches of central Florida. No casualties so far, but that doesn't mean there won't be any, warned Howard.

"It may take awhile, but somebody may eventually go out of business," Howard said. "Not the small, family-run operations who will always get enough people to keep going; but the ones in the middle."

Peanuts Detect Colon Cancer

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A peanut substance used successfully to identify pre-tumor changes in mice may offer a way to detect potential colon cancer in humans early enough for prevention or life-saving treatment, a researcher says.

"The method has proven successful in one patient so far, and the evidence is encouraging," Dr. Richard Boland, gastroenterologist at the Veterans Administration Medical Center, said Monday.

"We don't want to raise false hopes but we can't help being excited," said Boland, who will present his findings about the substance — peanut lectin — at the annual meeting of the American Gastroenterological Association in Washington, D.C. this week.

"I think we're on the path that's really hot, but we'll have time to brag later."

Boland said doctors already know how to identify fully established colon cancer, which strikes about 5 percent of all Americans and kills some 40 percent of its victims.

What they want to find out now is how to identify pre-malignant lesions.

"We've used the substance extracted from peanuts to detect pre-cancerous changes in the lining of the colon before tumors develop in mice," he said.

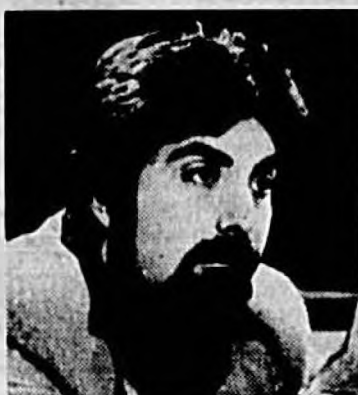

"Peanut lectin may help us detect the step-by-step development of colonic cancer, allowing early treatment that could save lives."

"If we can detect the changes that indicate cancer is coming but that occur, say, five years before the actual tumor, we can remove the colon or, even more exciting, change diet and lifestyle and prevent the tumor from ever developing."

Boland and his colleagues produced tumors in mice by exposing the animals to dimethylhydrazine, a chemical known to cause cancer of the colon. After a few weeks, they examined the mice for signs of tumors or other changes.

Boland used peanut lectin, attached to a fluorescent marker that made it easy to see. He found the substance binds chemically to mucous secreted by cancerous cells in the colon — but not to mucous secreted by normal cells.

Q: "I'm conserving on my electric use, but my bill still seems to keep going up. Why is this?"

A: "Because our operating costs, like the costs of the other goods and services you buy, have gone up dramatically in recent years. And will probably continue to go up at about the same rate as the general inflation level. You may also be noticing the seasonal increase in your bill primarily caused by increased use of your air conditioner."

"However, you can still have some control, through conservation, over the amount of your monthly electric bill. In fact, the energy usage information in the lower left hand corner of your bill shows you the kilowatt-hours you've bought both the current month and the same month last year. Use that information to help guide your conservation efforts."

Q: "What is FPL doing to make it worth my while to conserve?"

A: "Many things. Our cash incentives help residential customers pay for ceiling insulation, solar film, or the replacement of inefficient air conditioning and water heating systems with new energy-efficient systems. We offer Energy Audits for homes and businesses. Our Watt-Wise™ Line gives customers information on how to conserve electricity. We have a comprehensive program encouraging builders to build energy-efficient Watt-Wise Homes. We have a program that helps residential pool owners by adjusting their pool pump timers. And we distribute information and brochures telling customers how to conserve electricity to hold down their energy costs."

Q: "Are conservation programs really working?"

A: "Yes. Their success and lower fuel prices are the primary reasons bills for the average customer will be lower this summer than they were two years ago. Conservation, together with the full range of FPL's oil-savings programs, reduced our total use of oil by 27 percent last year. That's 12 million barrels of oil that no one had to pay for. Conservation benefits everyone through reduced oil use and deferred power plant construction. However, customers who conserve actively get the biggest immediate benefit."

Hefner: Most Beautiful Women Are Californians

By Vernon Scott
UPI Hollywood Reporter

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The most beautiful women in the United States come from California.

This flat statement of fact comes from no less an authority on American beauty than Hugh Hefner, publisher of Playboy magazine and the acknowledged satchem of sex appeal in this country.

Hefner should know whereof he speaks. No single man in America is as besieged by nubile beauties as he. Herds of young women and girls, anxious to fling off their clothes, storm his offices daily, seeking fame and fortune as centerfolds.

They are, of course, screened by Playboy employees and an editorial committee, which selects the Playmate of the Month. Hefner makes the final decision.

"I see only the cream of the crop. After more than a quarter century of eye-balling some of the most pulchritudinous women in America, he has concluded the fairest in the land are Californians.

Hefner has a solid theory for the pre-eminent position of California women.

"This year alone, both Miss America and Miss U.S.A. are California girls," said Hefner, drawing on his ever-present pipe. "And this year's Playmate of the Year is also a California beauty."

Miss America is Debra Sue Moffett of Anaheim. The recently elected Miss U.S.A. is Julie Hayek, 22, of Westwood.

And, lo and behold! Sitting across the richly paneled den of his Beverly Hills mansion was Playmate of the Year Marianne Gravatte, literally in the flesh.

Unlike Misses Moffett and Hayek, the tall, long-legged, blonde Miss Gravatte is not above casting aside her swim suit for her car.

She appeared in the altogether in Playboy's centerfold last October and makes a repeat appearance in the June issue as Playmate of the Year, equally au naturel.

Hefner is convinced it is no coincidence that all three young women are natives of the Golden State.

"Look at it this way," he said. "For decades now, almost from the beginning of this century, beautiful young women and handsome young men have been flocking to California to become movie stars and, more recently, TV stars."

"Naturally, only a fraction of them make it. But even those who don't enter show business generally stay in California. And they are attracted to one another because of their physical attributes."

"They have children, half of whom are girls. And they keep getting better looking all the time. I'm not even talking about the current crop of beauties who come to California. We're doing just fine with the natives."

Hefner did not feel it necessary to add that such former Miss Americas as Mary Ann Mobley and Lee Merriweather settled down in California and currently are rearing another generation of beautiful daughters.

Marianne, 23, agreed with Hefner. As a Playboy model she has traveled on the East Coast and in the Midwest.

"I think California girls are prettier, too," she said.

"Mostly I think it's because we're into health food, exercise and sunshine. California girls spend more time outside and they take more pride in their bodies."

If her Playboy layouts are any indication, California girls are also less self-conscious about displaying their bodies.

As Playmate of the Year, Marianne collected $100,000 in cash and a new sports car worth almost as much. Unless a girl is into education, the Playboy haul surpasses the prizes for most beauty contests.

Of her dishabille in the pages of the magazine, Marianne says it was the first time she'd been able to overcome her shyness.

"I was born in Hollywood," she said, "but I was too shy to try out for school plays or cheerleading. I wouldn't even enter a beauty contest. I overcame my shyness because a Playboy centerfold was that important to me."

"I wasn't shy about taking off my clothes. To me being in Playboy is historic, something I can be proud of and show my children and grandchildren."

Marianne said she would not have stripped for any other magazine, making the point that Playboy is the only such publication "with class."

"The centerfolds in Playboy are more concerned with beauty than sex," she said.

Hefner, as one may guess, nodded his approbation.

To Find A Job, Search By Phone

By Bruce B. Bakke
UPI Business Writer

DALLAS (UPI) — Finding a job is simply selling yourself, John Trullitt says. He says you can often do it over the phone.

"Direct dial the best job of your life" the dust cover of his book, Telesearch, says.

It is Trullitt's contention that job seekers should use the telephone to make the initial contact directly with head of the department in which they want to work.

"By calling the department head directly, you find out everything. He's the first one to know if a vacancy might be coming up. He's the one who knows if he's dissatisfied and plans to get rid of someone," Trullitt said.

"Sometimes there is a delay of four to six weeks from the time the manager decides he'll be hiring someone to the time that vacancy gets to the personnel department, or the help wanted ads."

A job search, like any sales campaign, must be well organized, Trullitt says.

He says you first need a goal. You need to find the openings before anyone else — the competition — does. You need to be persuasive on the telephone to set more interviews.

"You've got to sell yourself," he said. "If you can make that guy want you — in his company or in his department — he will find an opening in his place for you, or he'll help you find an opening someplace else."

He tells job-seekers to open their phone contact with a 30-second sell that catches the attention of the prospective employer. The main point, he said, should be established in the first five or 10 seconds.

"You've got to get their attention in the first statement," he says.

The opening statement should end with a question, asking for an interview and suggesting two times for such a meeting.

Trullitt said, "In sales talk that's a 'forced response question.'"

Trullitt also discusses job discrimination. He calls it unfortunate, but cautions job-seekers. "Neither you nor your interviewer will change company policy during your first interview. Moreover, if the company has any inkling that you might be some kind of activist, you can forget about working for the firm. Right or wrong, that is the way things are."

He is not high on resumes, which he says are created to help the employer, not the prospective employee. "If you can avoid sending a resume, don't," he advises.

He also advises job-seekers to dress up for interviews. He says women should not wear pants suits to the first interview and a man should wear a neatly pressed dark business suit. "You may be wise to call ahead and ask if there is a company policy concerning facial hair," it suggests.

Much of Trullitt's advice could be labeled common sense. He reminds job-seekers that when making phone contact with prospective employers, they should have a calendar in front of them. Never get into a telephone argument with a prospective employer, he says.

"If you run into repeated rudeness or negative responses, it's not them — it's you," Trullitt said. "You may be too uptight. Loosen up and smile. You will be amazed at how many nice people you can meet over the phone."

"I know how to sell," says Trullitt. "I've been in sales since my teens. I sold encyclopedias while I was in college at the University of Georgia."

Trullitt, 35, who grew up in Madison, Ga., and now lives in Houston, dropped out of college and at 19 was a full-time sales manager for Collier's Encyclopedias. For six years he interviewed prospective sales people, trained them in basic sales techniques, and then designed and taught an advanced sales course to more experienced personnel. Later he owned an executive job search firm which he sold just before the economy turned sour.

"I was darned lucky to do it then," Trullitt said.

'Coach' Fare Costs Cedeno $13,000 Seat

You can't be a complete hardrock when you're running a ball club. You can't be only one way. You must have infinite patience, understanding and forgiveness, and to varying degrees a guy like Dick Wagner has those capacities, but it doesn't matter.

Cedeno's three-day suspension still stands. At his salary level, it'll cost the Reds' sidelined outfielder somewhere around $13,000. That's B.A., meaning Before Appeal. His agent already has said there probably will be one. Money, however, is only a side issue here.

Cedeno's suspension was the direct result of his being assigned a coach seat instead of a first class one on the Reds' flight to Cincinnati from Chicago last Sunday after their 4-3 win over the Cubs. Accustomed to flying first class with the club, Cedeno ripped up his boarding pass for the coach section, strode angrily off the plane and flew back home on his own.

His action also could be tied into problems he was having with Reds' manager Russ Nixon the past three weeks. Cedeno fell into a slump and was benched after a fine start. Sore shoulders also contributed to his problems, which became compounded when he angered Nixon first by not coming out to Wrigley Field early enough for treatment Sunday and then by getting into an argument with team trainer Larry Starr.

On Monday, Cedeno was suspended for "misconduct." The suspension was announced by "the club." But as president and chief executive officer of the Reds, Wagner was the man who had to make the decisions. He had to hear all the problems, solve them and keep the house in order. He met with Nixon Monday and also spoke with Cedeno.

"I'm not angry with Cesar," Wagner revealed from his Cincinnati office Tuesday. "He's a good competitor and a good person. He played very well for us at the start of the season and he has been hampered by legitimate injuries the past few weeks. He had hustled good for us. I think it was just the frustration on his part that caused him to do what he did. He's had problems and we've had problems."

Wagner didn't excuse what Cedeno did, though. "I don't look at it lightly or we wouldn't have imposed the suspension," said the Reds' boss, who made the deal to get Cedeno from the Astros for Ray Knight in December of 1981. "I don't feel he was correct in the things that happened. But I suppose down deep you wind up liking all your ballplayers. I've never had a cross word with Cedeno. He has always been thoughtful. I read somewhere that we were sorry we had made the trade for him but that's not true at all. I told him last night I had no regrets over the trade and that I felt he could help our ball club. He has helped us and I believe he will again. Cedeno apparently felt Nixon was the one responsible for his being assigned to the coach section on Sunday's flight.

"I think he made the statement that Russ did that personally," Wagner said. "Russ didn't. He wasn't even aware of it. Steve Cobb, our traveling secretary, was in charge of the plane tickets and he wasn't to blame, either. He was simply following our regular policy of rotating the fellows in first class and coach seats. Besides, he's new on the job."

"Cesar is a very emotional fellow," Wagner went on. "He wants to do well. There have been stories that he has asked to be traded, but those stories aren't so. He has never asked us that. On Sunday's flight from Chicago, we had nine first class seats. The other three first class seats were held by non-baseball people, so the rest of our players had to sit in the coach section. We normally move the fellows around. We usually try to put the next day's pitcher, the manager and the player rep (Frank Pastore) in first class. I guess when Cesar got that coach ticket, with all his other problems, it hit him wrong. To him, maybe it was the last straw that broke the camel's back."

Cedeno, who spent his first 12 seasons with the Astros, isn't having that bad a year with the Reds. He has played in 24 of their 41 games and his .272 batting average includes six doubles, two homers and 13 RBI, two of which have been game-winners. People always keep expecting more from him. Insisting he never really fulfilled his potential although he owns a more than respectable .289 lifetime average, has driven in 848 runs, hit 173 homers and stolen 507 bases.

"Sometimes, I think the fans expect too much," Wagner said. "It's hard for them to understand what happens to a player and it's hard for people in the front office to understand. But players don't stay the same. And you know how the game is. It's frustrating. It reminds me of when I was in the Navy," laughed Wagner, who served two hitchhikes as a hospital corpsman during World War II and the Korean War. "The old Navy guys would sit around and you'd hear them say how the last ship they were on was the worst ever, this one was only a little better and the next one was going to be the best. They'd never change their stories, and you hear the same thing in baseball all the time."

Johnson Will Miss Remaining Games

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Earl Cureton has been a hard guy to find for the past three months but the Los Angeles Lakers will make sure they know where he is when the NBA championship series resumes Thursday night.

The Philadelphia 76ers will have the 6-foot-9 Cureton slotted for some playing time in Game 2 in place of Clemon Johnson, who remains in Temple University Hospital with a urinary tract infection that could keep him out of the entire series. Johnson played his college ball at Florida A & M University.

Cureton, a third-year backup center and forward, has seen his playing time cut since the acquisition of Johnson from the Indiana Pacers on Feb. 16. But putting him in the playoff pressure cooker doesn't seem to overly concern Sixers coach Billy Cunningham.

"Earl has been through this many times in the past," Cunningham said Tuesday. "You just don't know what's going to happen but one thing I know you will get is the effort and intensity, and that's all you can ask from a player. Earl has great quickness and can get up and down the court as well as anybody."

The speed of Cureton, who has played just six minutes in three post-season games, is important against the fast-breaking Lakers. He thinks he'll be able to contribute despite his limited playing time.

"I know to be ready now because I'll definitely be on the court," he said. "I've been practicing hard every day. Our practices are almost like games so I'll be ready to go out and help."

Cureton will back up Moses Malone at center and also may see some time at power forward alongside Malone. The Sixers have another center in 7-1 rookie Mark McNamara.

The Lakers are confident they can bounce back from a 113-107 defeat on Sunday and they can use history as evidence.

Blue Jay Hitters Take Over, Rally Erases 5-0 Lead For Win

United Press International

Please don't laugh, but the Toronto Blue Jays have the distinct look of a team that must be taken seriously in the American League East this season.

Yes, this year's Blue Jays squad bears the same name as the team that has finished last six times and next-to-last once in its seven years of existence. But don't be misled. This is not the same team at all.

For one thing, the Blue Jays have perhaps the best starting pitching staff in the AL East with Dave Stieb, Jim Clancy, Luis Leal and Jim Gott providing a formidable rotation. The bullpen corps, led by comebacking Randy Moffit, also is sound.

Yet it's that intangible quality known as confidence that sets this year's Blue Jays' squad apart from its predecessors.

The Blue Jays believe they can win any game now when they take the field whereas before they expected to lose most of the time.

This was evident Tuesday night when they rebounded from a 5-0 deficit to defeat the Detroit Tigers, 7-6, for their fifth straight victory. After posting three straight shutouts, the Blue Jays switched tactics and let their hitters lead the way to victory this time.

Buck Martinez drove in four runs, including three with a bases-loaded double in the fifth inning, to spark the triumph.

"We didn't plan it that way. Another shutout would have been nice," said Martinez, who entered the game in the third inning as a pinch hitter for Ernie Whitt. "But this is really great. It shows the club can score runs."

Martinez feels the Blue Jay offense is beginning to match its pitching prowess.

"In order to be a really consistent ballclub, we have to have all facets going," he said. "The pitching has been really great and I think our offense is starting to catch up to it. We're generating a lot more runs."

Toronto reliever Roy Lee Jackson raised his record to 3-1 by allowing only one hit over 3 2-3 innings. He struck out four and walked one. Joey McLaughlin worked the last two innings to register his third save.

"A lot of teams would give up when they're down five runs, but not this team," said Jackson. "The guys on this club have a lot of confidence. They really believe in themselves. Everybody is capable of doing what they're called upon to do."

Twins 6, Orioles 1

At Baltimore, John Castino and Tom Brunansky hit solo homers to lead the Twins to victory and hand the Orioles their fifth loss in a row. Bobby Castillo, 2-3, notched the victory by pitching the Twins' second consecutive complete game. He allowed six hits, walked four and struck out six in besting Scott McGregor, 4-3.

White Sox 12, Red Sox 4

At Chicago, Ron Kittle and Jerry Hairston each slammed a three-run homer during an eight-run first inning that carried the White Sox to victory. Greg Lutzinski, Lorenzo Gray and Carlton Fisk also homered for the White Sox, who tagged Doug Bird, 1-2, with the loss. Jerry Koosman, 2-0, scattered eight hits in six innings to notch the victory with Dick Tidrow finishing for his third save. Dwight Evans homered for Boston.

Indians 6, Mariners 4

At Seattle, Mike Hargrove's two-run single highlighted a four-run ninth inning rally that gave the Indians their victory. The Indians rallied against Bill Caudill, 0-3, and helped Neal Heatton, 2-1, gain the victory. Julio Cruz stole four bases and scored twice and Pat Putnam homered for the Mariners.

A's 8, Brewers 7

At Oakland, Bill Almon stole home with one out in the bottom of the eighth inning to snap a 7-7 tie and give the A's their second straight victory over the Brewers. Almon started the winning rally by beating out an infield hit and took second on a single to right by Jeff Burroughs. Dwayne Murphy sacrificed the runners and with Mike Davis at bat. Almon broke for home on an attempted suicide squeeze and made it when the pitch got away from catcher Ned Yost. Dave Lopes homered for the A's.

Greg "The Bull" Luzinski clouted his fifth home run in five games to help the Chicago White Sox rip Boston, 12-4.

Angels 7, Yankees 6

At Anaheim, Calif., Bobby Grich blooped a single off the glove of right fielder Oscar Gamble with two out in the 10th inning to drive home pinch runner Rick Adams with the winning run and cap a two-run rally that gave the Angels their victory. A dropped fly ball by right fielder Oscar Gamble with two out allowed the Angels to score the tying run. Roy Smalley, Oscar Gamble and Graig Nettles homered for New York and Fred Lynn connected for California.

LaPoint Snaps Cards' Skid

United Press International

Dave LaPoint went the distance Tuesday night but fell short of his chance for immortality.

"I was trying to make the Hall of Fame," LaPoint kidded after throwing his first complete game in 35 major league starts, helping the St. Louis Cardinals snap a four-game losing streak with a 7-1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

"I wasn't sure how many starts without a completion I'd need to set the all-time record, but if I'd gone this year without a complete game, I was going to check on that statistic."

The left-hander dropped to his knees after the final out.

"I fainted," LaPoint laughed. "I couldn't believe I had a complete game. It seems like the last complete game I had was in Little League."

Bruce Berenyi, 3-5, suffered the loss, giving up six earned runs and nine hits over 6 1-3 innings. He struck out seven but walked six.

Berenyi walked LaPoint, Tommy Herr and Ken Oberkfell to load the bases at the start of the third inning. Lonnie Smith singled in LaPoint and George Hendrick singled home Herr to give St. Louis a 2-0 lead.

The Cardinals added a run in the fourth when Ozzie Smith singled, moved to second on LaPoint's sacrifice bunt and scored on Herr's single down the right field line.

In the Cardinal sixth, Darrell

Porter walked and raced all the way home on a double to the right field wall by Ozzie Smith.

St. Louis added two more runs in the seventh. Oberkfell singled, went to third on Lonnie Smith's single, and after Smith was picked off first, Keith Hernandez hit a run-scoring triple and scored on a sacrifice fly by Hendrick.

The Reds scored in the fourth when Dave Concepcion walked, took second on LaPoint's wild pitch and came home on a single by Ron Oester.

The Cardinals scored again in the ninth when Hernandez singled, went to third on Hendrick's single and scored on Willie McGee's single off the second baseman's glove.

Reds' manager Russ Nixon was more concerned with Berenyi than he was with LaPoint.

"He's got pain," Nixon said of Berenyi. "We'll have to decide what to do about him."

Berenyi declined to discuss his problems.

"It's just something I don't want to talk about right now," he said.

Giants 6, Mets 2

At New York, Jack Clark belted a double and a home run and scored twice to back the seven-hit, 10-strikeout pitching of Mike Krukow and lead the Giants. Dave Kingman

WORLD IN BRIEF

Steamer In Egypt Sinks; More Than 100 Missing

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) — A Nile River steamer carrying 627 passengers and crew caught fire and sank today in crocodile-infested waters and more than 100 passengers were missing and feared dead, police said.

A police spokesman said the vessel, a shuttle service between Aswan in southern Egypt and Wadi Halfa in northern Sudan, was carrying 599 passengers, mostly Sudanese, and 28 crewmen when it caught fire before dawn.

The boat, the 10th of Ramadan, sank in southern Egypt a few miles south of Abu Simbel — the site of two temples built in the face of a cliff by Ramses II, the spokesman said.

He said 183 people were rescued and seven bodies recovered. But the Middle East News Agency quoted Police Maj. Gen. Farouk Nour Eddin, the security chief in Aswan, as saying 500 people had been rescued.

A search was under way for those missing in a section of the Nile infested by crocodiles.

Chinese Jetliner Crashes?

PEKING (UPI) — A witness reported a Chinese jetliner crash-landed in the southeastern coastal city of Fuzhou in February, but the Chinese-state airline CAAC denied the accident occurred. China does not confirm air disasters unless foreigners are involved. But details were provided Tuesday by a foreigner who said he witnessed the Feb. 27 accident.

The witness, who requested anonymity, said the plane was a British-made Trident jetliner.

"I saw it come down. Its landing gear snapped and it damaged its belly as it skidded along the runway," he said.

Paris Torn By Riots

PARIS (UPI) — Some 130 Paris police officers and dozens of student activists were injured in rioting over educational reforms that ended early today, authorities said.

The violent clashes broke out during protest marches Tuesday and lasted until 3 a.m. as bands of youths skirmished with police and lit bonfires at several points around Paris.

One police officer suffered a serious eye injury, but none of the other injuries to police were serious. Authorities said dozens of students suffered minor injuries in the clashes with police, who repeatedly fired tear gas to disrupt roving bands of protesters.

Police arrested 11 protesters on riot-related charges and held 67 before releasing them after questioning.

The late-night confrontations unfolded as the Socialist majority moved to curtail a parliamentary debate on university reforms. The education minister, who introduced the legislation to the National Assembly Tuesday, invoked an emergency clause of the constitution that will limit the upper and lower houses of Parliament to one reading of the bill.

Thatcher Is THE Issue In British Election

By Gregory Jensen
UPI Senior Editor

LONDON (UPI) — "This isn't an election," cried a British politician studying opinion poll results. "It's a Thatcher coronation."

Every poll, it is true, makes a landslide winner of Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher and her Conservative Party in Britain's June 9 election.

Yet this election poses a choice as sharp-edged and clear as any set before an electorate in recent times. Its main contenders are even of opposite sex.

On one hand, a Labor Party under Michael Foot, 69, pledging a nuclear-disarmed Britain with American bases evicted, a pullout from the European Common Market, "massive" economic refutation, sweeping nationalization perhaps even of banks and farm land, import and currency controls.

On the other, a Conservative Party under Margaret Thatcher, 57, pledging exactly the opposite in every case.

Among the smaller fry, an "Alliance" of Liberal and Social Democratic Parties crying a plague on both other houses and propounding policies it hopes are in the middle ground.

"The choice facing the nation," says Mrs. Thatcher without partisan rhetoric, "is between two totally different ways of life."

Yet the real choice involves only one factor.

"Thatcher is the issue," said the Economist magazine.

"The issue in this election is Thatcher and Thatcherism," echoed former Parliament member Brian Walden.

"She dominates contemporary politics," Walden said with what is almost British understatement. "Everything is seen in terms of her. This election is Thatcher versus the field."

She seems strangely subdued as she enters her first official campaign news conference. Eyes down, mouth relaxed and unsmiling, posture calm under the neat brown tweed suit and double string of pearls.

Then the questions start.

Margaret Thatcher's head whips up. Eyes flash. Voice firm, precise, modulated as if at an elocution class. Accurate figures and dates tumble from her, without notes. She talks always to one person, who is speared unwaveringly on her sword-blade gaze.

No questioner gets away with any innuendo, any slur, anything at all.

"We are fighting against the most extreme program ever laid before the British public," she cries. "It is state socialism rampant."

An "Iron Lady," all right, and a very formidable one.

There is an ovation as Michael Foot takes the lectern. There always is.

As always he is ruffled, even unkempt — "He's resisting all attempts at tutoring," says an advertising man. "People give him hints, but by the look of things he's not taking them."

His owl-eyed spectacles sparkle, his luxuriant white mane bobs to the chopping, sweeping arm gestures of a triumphant soap box orator.

Nothing remains of the accent of his native Wales. His voice sinks, swoops, whispers, shouts. Here is an evangelist, a tub-thumper, a man obviously convinced of the passionate truth of what he says.

"She offers us just more of the same, shameful, disastrous policies we have had over the last four years," he orates, the voice rising on "the same," shouting out "shameful," thunderous on "disastrous."

Foot's oratory sometimes carries him away — "Ignorant barbarians," he has called his opponents. Some of them call him "Yesterday's man."

Some 3,000 candidates are fighting for 650 Commons seats. Britain's 42.7 million eligibles vote only for their area's Commons member, not for the prime minister or a party slate. It's a gloves-off but not dirty campaign.

Campaign styles tell much about the two main parties' status.

Foot's underdog Labor must throw the rascals out, so its campaign is aggressive, emotive and somewhat vitriolic. It produced a party platform 15,000 words long, instantly dubbed "the longest suicide note in history."

Mrs. Thatcher, prime minister for four years, promises more of the same, so she works words like "steadfast," "firm" and "resolute" into every statement.

Israel Denies It

Beirut Claims It Downed Israeli Jet

United Press International

Syrian warplanes fired two air-to-air missiles at Israeli reconnaissance jets over Lebanon today but missed their targets in the first aerial encounter since last summer, the Israeli military command said.

The military command in Jerusalem said the Israeli planes did not fire back and that they had returned safely to their base.

But in Beirut, state-run Beirut Radio said Syrian ground-to-air missiles today shot down a pilotless Israeli reconnaissance aircraft over the Niha mountain slopes overlooking the southern Bekaa Valley.

Quoting "security reports," the radio said the Israeli drone was one of several on a reconnaissance flight over the region when it was downed. There was no confirmation from the Israelis or the Syrians on the report and it was not known if the two incidents involving Israeli aircraft were related.

The Beirut Radio broadcast said a number of Israeli reconnaissance planes were spotted over the Bekaa valley and other parts of Lebanon, including areas south of Beirut.

"Syrian ground-to-air missiles shot down a pilotless Israeli reconnaissance plane over Niha," the Beirut Radio report said. The Niha region, 22 miles southeast of Beirut, is under Israeli occupation.

In the encounter with the Syrian jets, an Israeli army spokesman said the "Syrian planes tried to intercept Israeli air force planes that were on a routine reconnaissance mission over Lebanon."

"There was no dogfight and all our planes returned safely to base," the brief announcement said. "The air force is continuing its flights as usual."

Armed Forces Radio said the Syrian jets fired two missiles at the Israeli planes.

The confrontation was the most serious between Israel and Syria since last summer when Israeli jets destroyed Syrian anti-aircraft missile batteries in the Bekaa Valley.

How would you like to put yourself in our shoes?

Being a funeral director isn't for everyone. The hours are unpredictable... you are continuously exposed to grief... you become the subject of a lot of bad jokes... and, when you have a sick friend, you can't visit him because people will say you're a "vulture" and you can't stay away because his feelings will be hurt.

But we're not complaining. We know there are disadvantages to every job, and ours has an unusual redeeming feature: it provides the satisfaction of knowing we've helped others at a time when help is needed most.

Cook Of The Week

No-Bake Pie Perfect Summer Dessert

By Lou Childers
Herald Correspondent

Wife, mother of three active boys, church pianist, employed by a local doctor, and an excellent cook...that's Rose Ann Dean of Sanford.

Rose Ann considers Sanford "home" even though she was born and grew up in Charleston, W. Va. "My husband Gary and I moved to Sanford in 1976," she says, "and even though his work has taken us back up North a few times, we always come back to Sanford."

The Dean household has been spending quite a few hours on the soccer field watching Greg, age 11, "do his thing." Chris, 13, and Adam, 5, watched their brother play his last game of the season Saturday with the F.C. United Tornadoes Soccer Team.

"We are an active family," says Rose Ann, but she always manages to have time to give good, nutritious meal together for her "gang." "One thing I learned when studying for my L.P.N. degree at SCC in 1979, was the value of eating a balanced diet by using a variety of foods. I also serve my family as many fresh vegetables as possible instead of using canned goods so much."

Rose Ann states that her family is beginning to "gear down" a bit right now, adjusting their eating habits due to the hot, summer weather we've been experiencing. "We just don't eat heavy meals when it's 80 degrees in the shade," she says, adding "we tend to be really big on salads and the likes."

Rose Ann is fond of Taco Tossed Salad because it is "quick and easy" and seems to fit into her family's lifestyle. "We also love the Zucchini Crescent Pie because it is as good cold as it is fresh out of the oven."

Rose Ann lost her mother when she was a young teen-ager, and credits her grandmother with being the one who really taught her to cook. "I still use Granny's 1938 Watkins Cook Book." It is full of "a pinch of that, a dab of this" recipes. From this book Rose Ann found a great "no-bake" peach pie that makes the perfect summer dessert.

Ever faced with the problem of what to serve a large gathering of friends for a summer luau? For liquid refreshment, Rose Ann likes Tropical Punch. This cooler is a lemon-lime concoction that includes bananas, white grape juice and floating melon balls. For light snacking her choice is Cool Canapes. She adds, "For the children who are invited, make Banana Pops." Her recipe makes an even dozen of the frozen pops that are equally good for dieters since they contain only 50 calories each.

ITALIAN ZUCCHINI CRESCENT PIE

Cook and stir 4 cups of thinly sliced zucchini and 1 cup chopped onion in ¼ cup margarine for 10 minutes. Stir in ½ cup chopped parsley (or 2 tablespoons parsley flakes), ½ teaspoon basil, and ¼ teaspoon oregano leaves. Combine 2 beaten eggs and 8 oz. shredded mozzarella cheese. Stir in zucchini mixture.

Separate 8-ounce can refrigerated crescent dinner rolls into 8 triangles. Place in ungreased 10" pie pan; press over bottom and up sides to form crust. Spread crust with 2 teaspoons mustard. Pour vegetable mixture into crust. Bake in preheated 375 degree oven for 18-20 minutes or until center is set. (Cover crust with foil during last 20 min. of baking.) Let stand 10 minutes before serving. Yield: 6 servings.

BROCCOLI AND MUSHROOM SALAD

1 bunch fresh broccoli
1 pound fresh mushrooms
1 small bottle zesty Italian dressing
Clean and cut broccoli and mushrooms into small bite-sized pieces. Place in salad bowl and cover with dressing. Refrigerate at least 2 hours before serving for vegetables to absorb dressing flavor.

WATKINS REFRIGERATOR PIE

Crust:
1 ½ cups crushed corn flakes
3 tablespoons confectioners' sugar
¼ cup melted butter
½ teaspoon vanilla
Mix all ingredients thoroughly and line a 9-inch pie pan. Place in refrigerator 1 hour to chill. Add 1 cup sliced ripe fresh peaches.

Filling:
3 egg whites, beaten stiff
9 tablespoons granulated sugar
Mix sugar into stiffly beaten egg whites. Cover peaches with egg mixture and spread whipped cream over top. Add a few ripe sliced peaches to decorate top of pie. Chill until ready to serve.

TEA MUFFINS

½ cup butter or margarine, softened
¾ cup sugar
1 egg
2 cups all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk

Herald Photo by Lou Childers

Rose Ann Dean still uses her grandmother's 1938 Watkins Cook Book which calls for "a pinch of that, a dab of this."

¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar
2 tablespoons finely chopped walnuts
Cream butter and gradually add sugar, beating until mixture is light and fluffy. Add egg; beat until blended.

Combine flour, baking powder, cinnamon, and salt; add to creamed mixture alternately with milk, beginning and ending with flour mixture. Spoon into greased muffin pans, filling half full.

Combine brown sugar and walnuts; sprinkle over batter. Bake at 350 deg. for 20 minutes. Yield: about 2 dozen.

TACO TOSSED SALAD

1 pound ground beef
½ cup taco sauce
1 small head lettuce, torn into bite-size pieces
1 medium green pepper, cut into strips
1 medium tomato, cut into 8 wedges
½ cup pitted ripe olives, drained
2 cups shredded Cheddar cheese (about 8 ounces)
1 package (1 ¼ ounces) taco-flavored tortilla chips, crumbled (about 1 cup)

½ cup Thousand Island salad dressing
Cook and stir ground beef over medium heat until light brown; drain. Stir in taco sauce and heat. Toss lettuce, green pepper, tomato wedges, olives, cheese and chips. Spoon hot beef mixture and salad dressing over lettuce mixture; toss. Serve immediately. Yield: 8 servings.

BANANA POPS

1 envelope (1 ¼ ounces) low-calorie whipped topping mix
1 cup skim milk
½ cup orange juice
1 medium banana, mashed
1 tablespoon packed brown sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla

Grated peel and juice of 1 lemon (about 1 teaspoon peel and 3 tablespoons juice)
Prepare whipped topping mix as directed on package. Stir in remaining ingredients. Beat on low speed until smooth, about 30 seconds; pour into twelve 3-ounce paper cups or paper lined medium muffin cups. Freeze until mushy, about 2 hours. Insert wooden sticks and freeze until firm, 5 to 6 hours. Yield: 12 pops.

COOL CANAPES

Beat ¼ cup butter, softened, 1 teaspoon finely shredded lemon peel, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, ½ teaspoon sugar and dash of red pepper sauce until fluffy. Cut 24 slices day-old white sandwich bread into circles with 2-inch biscuit cutter; spread butter mixture over bread circles. Cut 1 medium cucumber or zucchini into thin slices. Top each bread circle with a vegetable slice; sprinkle with salt. Yield: 4 dozen canapes.

TROPICAL PUNCH

6 medium bananas

2 cans (6 ounces each) frozen lemonade concentrate, thawed
6 ¾ cups water
1 can (6 ounces) frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed

3 cups white grape juice
½ cup honey
2 quarts chilled ginger ale
4 cups assorted melon balls
1 lime, cut into very thin slices

Slice bananas into blender container; add lemonade concentrate. Cover and blend on high speed until smooth, about 15 seconds; pour into large bowl. Stir in water, orange juice concentrate, white grape juice, and honey; pour into freezer containers or shallow pans. Freeze uncovered until slushy, about 2 hours.

Pour banana mixture into chilled punch bowl. Just before serving, stir in ginger ale and melon balls. Garnish with lime slices. Yield: 50 servings ¼ cup each.

Prize Fern 30 Years Old

Inez Frederichs of Sanford, a retired school teacher, stands by a 30-year-old "Mrs. Witherton" fern given to her by her mother. Today, the fine-leaved fern stands more than 5 feet tall. Mrs. Frederichs said an Apopka nurseryman claims he "never saw anything to equal it." But the stately fern was not always so healthy and lovely. Mrs. Frederichs admitted to neglect after her mother gave her three prize plants. "I didn't have time to care for them," she said. "I set them under the Magnolia tree and they nearly died." After she retired, Mrs. Frederichs said she noticed the fern in a clay pot was sprouting new growth. Today, she waters the plant daily and feeds it the necessary nutrients.

Consolation Talk Sometimes Cruel

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from "Linda in Lancaster" telling about some of the cruel comments she heard after losing her 14-year-old son. Six years ago my 14-year-old son was killed in an accident. I also heard some cruel comments from people who thought they were comforting me.

My son was a slow learner. Not retarded — just slow. My sister-in-law said, "You're better off. Now you won't have any more 'problems' to deal with, so don't feel sorry for yourself." (I will never forgive her.)

At the time of my son's death, there was no one to talk to about my feelings. It was easier just to keep quiet — easier on others. Everyone assumed I was "adjusting nicely."

Recently my mother casually mentioned how much my son had resembled me. My guard was down and I broke down and cried. Her comment: "I thought you'd be over that by now."

Abby, I'll never be "over it!" I'll just keep my guard up more closely now, especially when people ask, "How many children do you have?" We originally had two, but I thought that by answering "One," I wouldn't have to talk about the one we lost. But that doesn't work either. When I say "One," I'm asked, "Why only one?" (Can you believe it?) I feel for Linda. Thanks for letting me get this out of my system. In my heart I'm still...

THE MOTHER OF TWO

DEAR MOTHER: Please accept my condolences. You most certainly should talk about the son you lost. And if you feel like crying, go ahead and cry until you're all cried out. (Tears are healing.) Don't keep this raging resentment bottled up inside you, pretending to be "adjusting nicely."

You are still hurting because you haven't allowed yourself to express your normal feelings: the anger, the pain, the grief of losing a part of you. You need to do that.

Please get in touch with a wonderful support group called Compassionate Friends. (Check your phone book.) They can be enormously helpful to people who have lost a child.

About your sister-in-law: She probably meant well, but she showed herself to be shallow, unfeeling and thoughtless. Forgive her.

DEAR ABBY: I noticed that the U.S. post office has issued a 17-cent postage stamp with a picture of a woman on it. Her name is Carson. Who is she? Someone said she's Johnny Carson's mother. Is that true?

TRUE OR FALSE?

DEAR TRUE: False! (Johnny Carson's mother's name is Ruth.) The stamp was issued to honor Rachel Louise Carson, an American biologist and science writer (author of "Silent Spring"). She died in 1964.

DEAR ABBY: I heard something that upset me and wonder if it is true. Someone said that in case of female twins, one twin is likely to be sterile. Thank you.

ATWIN

DEAR TWIN: Not in humans. However, in the case of cattle, when a female and male are twinborn, the female, known as a "freemartin," is usually sterile.

ECKERD HEALTHLINE

BY JAY GAWLER
ECKERD PHARMACIST

Allergic reactions to the sun can occur to people after a brief exposure to direct sunlight if they are taking or using one of the many consumer drugs and cosmetics today.

This reaction can manifest itself in the form of severe sunburns, skin rash, and swelling and will vary from person to person, depending on many factors. Great care must be taken by these individuals. Sunscreening agents can be helpful to protect yourself from these reactions. This is one more reason you should not hesitate to ask your physician or Eckerd pharmacist about the medication you take!

Miss Embree J.L. Acevedo Repeat Vows

Doreen Kathrine Embree and Jorge Luis Acevedo were married May 7, at 7 p.m., at the Aloma United Methodist Church. Pastors Leon Reich and Jim Henry performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Embree, Winter Park. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Acevedo, Orlando.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a formal gown fashioned along the Southern Belle silhouette. A wide-brimmed hat secured her full-length veil of illusion. She carried a teardrop cascade of white roses, carnations, baby's breath and ivy.

Debbie Glasgow attended the bride as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Lisa Acevedo, Ellie Baker, Jennifer Jacobs, Natalie Jacobs, Sonya Green, Melissa Mowdy and Donna Bidmead. They wore peach-colored taffeta gowns and carried white fans arranged with tiger lilies and baby's breath.

Hector Acevedo served the bridegroom as best man. Groomsmen were George Glasgow, John Keen, Danny deArmos, Billy Carrion, Rex Terrell, Lyle Schakford and David Embree.

Following a reception in the church fellowship hall, the newlyweds departed on a wedding trip to the Poconos Mountains, Pa. They are making their home in New Orleans.

Make Dad Feel Special On His Day

Looking for a sure way to make Dad feel extra special this Father's Day? He'll know just how great you think he is when you make him the guest of honor at a family cookout featuring Texas-style Beef Brisket.

Dads from coast to coast will enjoy this man-pleasing beef entree served up with Western flair. While the beef brisket is naturally less tender, the National Live Stock and Meat Board has developed a cooking technique that will enable you to cook this full-flavored cut on the grill with tender and tasty results. The brisket is first sealed in a cooking bag, then wrapped in foil, allowing it to cook leisurely in moist heat on the grill.

To accent the beef with robust Western barbecue flavor, the brisket cooks in the bag with a spicy tomato coating. Then as serving time approaches, more flavor punch is added as the already-tender brisket is brushed with the easy-to-make barbecue sauce and briefly broiled over the coals.

You can bank on this flavorful beef brisket to satisfy not only Dad but the whole clan as well. The brisket is an excellent choice for a crowd as it is boneless with little waste. When carved into thin diagonal slices, it's easy to stretch its outstanding beef flavor a long way.

TEXAS-STYLE BEEF BRISKET

- 4 to 5-pound boneless beef brisket*
- 1 cup catsup
- 1/4 cup brown sugar
- 2 tablespoons prepared mustard
- 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
- 1 teaspoon hot pepper sauce
- 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
- 2 tablespoons flour

Combine catsup, brown sugar, prepared mustard, Worcestershire sauce, hot pepper sauce and cinnamon. Combine 1/4 cup catsup mixture with flour. Cover and refrigerate remaining sauce. Place brisket in large cooking bag and brush catsup-flour mixture over both sides. Press air from bag and tie securely. Place bag containing meat in center of a double-thick rectangle of heavy-duty aluminum foil (twice the circumference and 8 inches longer than brisket). Bring 2 opposite sides of foil together over top of meat. Fold edges over 3 to 4 times, pressing crease in tightly each time. Flatten foil at one end, crease to form triangle and fold edge over several times toward package, pressing tightly to seal. Repeat procedure on other end. Place on grill and cook at low temperature 4 1/2 to 5 hours, turning every hour. Carefully open foil packet and cooking bag; pour off drippings into saucepan. Add reserved sauce to drippings and cook slowly until thoroughly heated. Brush brisket with sauce and place on grill. Cook 10 to 15 minutes, turning and brushing with sauce occasionally. Carve in thin slices diagonally across the grain. Serve sauce with slices of brisket. 12 to 15 servings.

*A boneless chuck pot-roast, cut approximately 2 inches thick, can be substituted for the brisket.

from heat. Add half and half and sauteed vegetables to corn mixture, mix well. Pour into prepared casserole, set casserole in pan, pour hot water to 1" depth around casserole. Bake, uncovered, 1 hour or hour or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Serve hot, serves 8 to 10.

SWEET CORN RELISH

- 2 1/2 quarts, frozen corn
- 1 cup, chopped green pepper
- 1 cup chopped sweet red pepper
- 1 1/4 cups onion
- 1 cup chopped celery
- 1 small clove garlic
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 1/2 tbsp. mustard seed
- 1 tbsp. salt
- 1 tsp. celery seed
- 1/2 tsp. turmeric
- 2 1/2 cup cider vinegar
- 2 cups water

Combine all ingredients, simmer for 20 minutes. Pack into clean pint jars, leaving 1" space but making sure vinegar solution covers vegetables. Adjust lids. Process in boiling water bath (212°) for 15 min. Remove from canner and complete seal. NOTE: if using self-sealing, this need not be done. Makes 5 1/2 pts.

P.S. - Can be made from fresh corn. Take about 20 ears of corn, boil for 20 min. Plunge into cold water and proceed as above.

Chocolate Baked Pudding

A rich chocolate baked pudding dessert is just the thing to set before guests at a barbecue.

This version is filled with almonds, sponge cake and dates or raisins.

CHOCOLATE PUDDING

- 1 can (4 1/2 ounces) whole blanched almonds
- 2 eggs
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 cup milk
- 2 cups day-old cake (sponge or pound), cut in cubes
- 2 ounces semi-sweet chocolate, grated
- 1/2 cup chopped, pitted dates, or raisins
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon

Place almonds on baking sheet; bake in 300-degree oven 20 minutes or until golden. Using an electric blender, or sharp, heavy knife, chop nuts very fine. In medium bowl, beat together eggs and sugar; beat in milk. Stir in almonds, cake, chocolate, dates or raisins and cinnamon. Turn into lightly buttered 1-quart baking dish. Bake in 350-degree oven 40 to 50 minutes or until tip of knife inserted in center comes out clean. Cool to room temperature. Serve with ice cream or whipped cream. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 servings.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Blood Pressure Up When Visiting Doc

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — Please tell me what makes one's blood pressure go up when visiting the doctor. This happens to me each time I go to the doctor. Is there anything that can be done about it? I am over 65 but I don't feel age has anything to do with it.

This has been happening for the last three or four years. My blood pressure is normal when I leave home but at the doctor's office it is high. When I get home it is normal again. I am in good health otherwise. Thank God.

DEAR READER — First, take your blood pressure device with you to the doctor's office and measure your pressure with it when you have your pressure checked in his office. If you get the same thing on your instrument, you can rule out a problem with your blood pressure instrument.

Some of the instruments need adjustment and give false readings. They are usually checked against a mercury column blood pressure instrument for accuracy.

Assuming your measurements are correct, you are what we often call a vascular hyperreactor. This is also called borderline hypertension. Many of these individuals never develop persistent high blood pressure or problems related to the labile blood pressure.

What should you do about it? I could say stay out of doctors' offices but you need your evaluations. The important thing is not to let it become a problem. When you and your doctor both know it is not your usual blood pressure level, you can both relax about it.

Blood pressure can rise or fall in a reflex manner. And if you get anxious the pressure may rise. It is important to distinguish between true hypertension and actual anxiety situations.

You didn't say what your readings were. You will be interested in reading about blood pressure control and what the values should be for good health in The Health Letter 15-8, Your Vital Blood Pressure, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Do vitamins really prevent cancer? Does vitamin C in large doses really prevent the common cold? I'm going crazy from people telling me what you get in food alone is not enough. I take no vitamin pills. I eat a very balanced diet with loads of fresh fruits, fresh vegetables and juices. I'm very active and have never smoked.

Until a few weeks ago I thought I was a very healthy person but I'm beginning to wonder. What would be a good combination of vitamins, minerals and whatever else for a person to be healthy?

DEAR READER — Your diet sounds like it is pretty good, although there is not enough information to verify that you are truly on a balanced diet.

Unless you have a medical problem, and then you need a doctor, any of the regular all-purpose daily vitamins, such as One-A-Day, is more than enough. Most healthy people on a balanced diet won't even need that.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Make play out of your work today, but don't play and avoid your work. The former will make things easier. The latter will cause you problems.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Try not to be overly possessive of persons you love. They'll resent it today if you make them feel they must account to you for all their actions.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Unfortunately, others may not readily go along with what you want today. This could cause you to become unduly angered. Watch your temper.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It's not like you to speak nastily of someone behind his or her back, so don't do so today. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be prudent in managing your resources today, even if those you are with are not. It won't take much to trigger a spending spree.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Even a harmless rendezvous could be seriously misjudged today, so don't step out of line in the romance department. Walk the straight and narrow.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't play favorites today where you do something for one friend and ignore another's request. It could cost you the goodwill of both.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Do not assume that you are the spokesman for your peer group today. Unless you are elected by the majority, your reign will be short-lived.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be realistic regarding what you hope to achieve today, or you might be tripped up by your own limitations. Keep your objectives within your capabilities.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Much time and motion will be lost today if your logistics are poorly planned. Set up a sensible itinerary that you can comfortably follow.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be reasonable regarding the terms and conditions you hope to get today in your commercial dealings. If they're too harsh, they'll be counterattacked.

Playing it safe

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby

"On a good day, I would have made six," complained South. "Every card is placed wrong for me."

South had ruffed the club lead and played one trump to collect the two out against him. Then he led his jack of hearts and let it ride. East took his king and quicker than you could say "Ely Culbertson" had led his queen of diamonds to give the defense four tricks.

"I would have made the game," replied Pessimistic Pete, who had held the North cards. "I always play as safe as possible for my contract, and this time I had a cinch."

Pete's sure-thing play was to let West win the first club trick. Pete would discard a heart, ruff the second club, pick up the trumps, play the ace and queen of hearts. With the king of hearts held by East, Pete would get to discard two of his diamonds and make an overtrick. If West held the king, Pete would lose to it, but get to chuck all his diamonds unless West took his diamond ace right away.

Pete's avoidance play had taken away East's chance to gain the lead early and guaranteed his game. Shift the ace of diamonds and king of hearts, and Pete would just make his game while the play taken by South would have brought in 12 tricks, but the contract was for just 10.

TV: If Face Doesn't Fit, Operate On It

By Kenneth R. Clark
UPI TV Reporter

NEW YORK (UPI) — When Al Corley got himself fired last year in a squabble over his role as Blake Carrington's homosexual offspring on the CBS prime time soap champion "Dynasty," its producers had a problem.

How were they going to save the role of the blacksheep son the ruthless Denver oil baron, portrayed by John Forsythe, so loves to kick around if Corley, whose looks were distinctive, was gone? The answer: an oil rig explosion, plastic surgery and Jack Coleman.

That the scenario was not exactly plausible did not bother Coleman. It meant, for him, the big move from daytime to prime time and he was willing to make the trip on any ticket the writers were willing to script for him.

"How valid does it need to be?" he said of the "Dynasty" debut he made last season, appearing to his new audience swathed from hairline to collarbone in plaster and bandages.

"I don't think anyone is really looking for realism in terms of real life problems. It's just entertainment. Sometimes it's realistic and sometimes it's not."

Thus did Corley get his fictional face burned off when his father's oil well blew its top, and thus did Coleman emerge, in his persona, from repairs when it was time to peel off the bandages.

Since Coleman looks more like an athlete aspiring to Olympic gold than an actor who might be hungry for an Emmy, and since he bears virtually no physical resemblance to Corley, the scenario was anything but realistic, but the writers of "Dynasty" were not perturbed.

Attention spans are short in prime time. They were confident that memories of Corley's face would fade as swiftly as a test pattern once a new one was presented to his prime time audience, and they apparently were right.

If the transformation was noticed, audiences did not protest — at least not at the Nielsen level, which, in the prime time ratings race, is all that counts.

"Dynasty" swiftly renewed by ABC, finished last season with enough share points in the bank to keep it going for a long time, and Coleman, who came to the show from the NBC daytime soap opera "Days of Our Lives," has many episodes in which to resolve the one thing that has bothered him about his character.

It was not easy, he said, to step into the role of a homosexual.

"It's there for prop purposes," he said of his character's sexual orientation. "It's really almost impossible to have a gay story line. You can talk about it and hint about it and innuendo, but you can't really do it. You just can't put that on prime time TV. The standards won't allow it."

Always 'On'

Funny man Dan Aykroyd is up to his old antics as guest VJ on MTV: Music Television tonight from 10 to 11. He joins the list of recording artists, Adam Ant, Duran Duran, the Stray Cats and Journey, who have also made guest VJ appearances on the first 24-hour video music channel.

Crime Victims Get More Help

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. criminal justice system is beginning to recognize the needs of crime victims and some 38 states have passed laws providing for compensation of victims, a Justice Department report says.

"The administration of American criminal justice has acquired a new focus: victim and witness assistance," said Steven Schlesinger, director of the department's Bureau of Justice Statistics that commissioned the study.

"Policymakers at all levels of government as well as the major participants in the criminal justice system — law enforcement, courts, and corrections — will need to ponder their responses to the expectations of the victim assistance movement," Schlesinger said.

Some 12 states have programs that may require offenders to make restitution to their victims, and several states have passed new laws establishing victim rights and providing victim and witness services, the report said. But it concluded more needs to be done.

resulted in a criminal going to jail or prison, said the report, prepared by SEARCH Group Inc. of Sacramento, Calif., as part of a $240,000 grant.

To get cooperation of victims and witnesses, criminal justice agencies increasingly "are sensitive to the need of victims for information, notification, compensation, participation, and simple understanding," Schlesinger said.

Hundreds of local victim assistance programs organized by community, church, service and national lobbying groups and bar associations also have sprung up across the country, the report said.

It said at least 38 states have enacted legislation providing for compensation of victims of violent crimes under specified circumstances, with payments made from state-administered funds.

Payment does not depend on the arrest and conviction of the offender, and coverage usually extends to both victims and their dependents.

Most of the statutes condition eligibility on the victim's having reported the crime to the police, and some also require that the victim have cooperated in the investigation and prosecution of the case.

Florence Glazier has the enviable job of cataloging contributions to the UCF Library, such as the Gwathmey collection shown here.

UCF Library Seeks Special Books, Other Donations

Wondering what to do with those old books and phonograph records gathering dust in the attic? There is an alternative to the flea market, or worse.

The UCF Foundation welcomes gifts on behalf of the university library. Of special interest are rare and out-of-print books. Phonograph records, music tapes, catalogs and magazines are examples of other items sought.

Florence Glazier, who's been with the gifts and exchanges department of the UCF Library for five years, notes the gifts are a way for the library to obtain valuable material not otherwise available.

When a gift is received, Glazier says, "We screen the books to see what we can use. After that we send some to other libraries, and what's left over is sold." The proceeds are added to the UCF Foundation's library enrichment fund.

A collection recently received from the estate of Dr. G. Taylor Gwathmey, a long-time resident of Winter Park, was the "first really diverse collection we had received," says Glazier.

The Gwathmey collection, reflecting a wide range of interests, consists of books, classical music tapes and records, art portfolios, canvas prints and government documents.

Dr. Gwathmey was an ophthalmologist who died in 1982. His family saw UCF as a useful and appreciative recipient of his varied collection, which includes a book autographed by President Reagan.

Those who wish to donate similar gifts, which are tax deductible, are encouraged to bring or mail them to the UCF library, where they will be acknowledged in writing.

For more information, persons may call the gift and exchange section of the UCF Library at (305) 275-2521.

U.S. Kids Ignorant About Sex?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American children know less about sex than their peers in three other countries, a study by two Australian educators says.

"America has got the worst statistics of the lot," said Ronald Goldman, a psychologist who teaches at La Trobe University in Melbourne.

The Goldmans blamed inadequate education and adult inhibitions.

He and his wife, Juliet, a sociologist who used to teach grade school, said Tuesday the results were disturbing because American children are dating and have sex at earlier ages than ever. Goldman said the average age for first intercourse is approaching 18.

The Swedish children were by far the best informed. For more than 20 years, sex education has been compulsory for all children aged 8 and older. The Goldmans said in the other three countries sex education comes in high school or late in secondary school.

Liqueur Adds Zest To Bass

Convenience foods make chicken provencale a quick dish.

French-Style Dish Ready In 1 Hour

A French-style chicken dish that takes about an hour from start to finish to prepare is welcome in busy households.

The secret here is to save time by not peeling, slicing and chopping several of the ingredients. Onion and garlic used is in dehydrated form and the tomatoes are canned.

There is an 'authentic' flavor of a peasant French provincial dish with seasonings, a few anchovy fillets, black olives and a touch of wine.

Serve with boiled potatoes, a salad and an apple tart.

EASY CHICKEN PROVENCALE

2 tablespoons olive oil
3 pounds chicken parts
1 can (16 ounces) whole tomatoes, broken up
1 1/2 teaspoons basil leaves, crushed
1 1/2 teaspoons onion powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
Dash ground black pepper
4 anchovy fillets, diced (optional)
1 tablespoon white wine or apple juice
1/2 cup sliced black olives

In large skillet, heat oil until hot. Add chicken; brown well on all sides. Drain off drippings. Add tomatoes, basil, onion powder, salt, garlic powder, black pepper and anchovies. Bring to a boil; reduce heat and simmer, covered, until chicken is tender, about 45 minutes. Add wine and olives; simmer until hot, about 2 minutes. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 portions.

Burgers With Mexican Flair

With Mexican cuisine gaining popularity all across the country, it's not surprising that south-of-the-border accents are turning up at a lot of places, including backyard cookouts.

Surprise Fiesta Burgers are a delicious example of how the all-American hamburger can be easily transformed into a Mexican specialty that will have all the outdoor diners shouting "Ole!" The flavorful ground beef burgers conceal a spicy guacamole and tomato filling. In keeping with today's emphasis on eating light and right, the burgers are served on rafts of lettuce instead of buns, then topped lightly with shredded cheese, ripe olives and salsa, if you like.

While these unique burgers are satisfying appetites, they will also be satisfying many of the body's nutritional requirements, points out the national Live Stock and Meat Board. Ground beef is an excellent source of high-quality protein, the vitamins, thiamin, niacin, riboflavin, B-6 and B-12 and the minerals iron and zinc.

SURPRISE FIESTA BURGERS

1 1/2 pounds ground beef
2 small tomatoes
1 package (8 ounces) frozen avocado dip, defrosted
Salt
1 head lettuce
Shredded colby cheese
Sliced ripe olives
Salsa, if desired

Cut 3 center slices, 1/4 inch thick, from each tomato and reserve. Chop remaining tomato and lightly mix with ground beef; form into 12 thin patties, 4 to 5 inches in diameter. Place 1 tomato slice and an equal portion of avocado dip on 6 patties. Top with remaining patties; press edges together to seal. Place patties on grill over ash-covered coals or on rack in broiler pan so surface of meat is 4 inches from heat. Broil 6 minutes, turn, season browned side with salt and continue broiling 6 to 8 minutes to desired doneness; season second side. Cut lettuce crosswise into 6 rafts, 1/2 to 3/4 inch thick. Serve burgers on lettuce rafts, top with cheese, olives and salsa sauce, if desired, 6 servings.

Who's Cooking

The Herald welcomes suggestions for Cook Of The Week. Do you know someone you would like to see featured in this spot? Recipe cooks, as well as master chefs, add a different dimension to dining. Please contact PEOPLE editor Doris Dietrich about your news and views on cooking.

Many clever hostesses focus party menus on dishes that are made from scratch, using the freshest of ingredients; dishes that can be made in just minutes before dinner is served. Another secret good cooks are sharing these days is using a variety of imported liqueurs to add distinctive new flavors to favorite old recipes.

One such dish combines succulent fillets of striped bass and julienne red peppers with a creamy tomato sauce laced with the flavor of anisette liqueur. It's a dish that can leave guests marveling.

BROILED STRIPED BASS WITH ANISETTE PEPPER SAUCE

6 fillets of striped bass, about 8 oz. each
3 medium red peppers, cut into julienne strips
2 tablespoons butter
1/4 cup Anisette
1 cup heavy cream
1/4 cup tomato sauce
1/4 cup anisette needles or chopped parsley

Salt and pepper

Preheat broiler. Place fish on broiling pan and sprinkle lightly with water to prevent sticking. Broil about six inches from heat five to ten minutes or until fish becomes pearly white and flakes easily when tested with a fork.

While fish broils, saute peppers in butter until limp. Add Anisette, heavy cream and tomato sauce. Cook until reduced by half. Mix in anisette needles or parsley. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Serves six.

Eat Well, Be Well' With One Dish Meals

Do you think a diet of only creamy mashed potatoes could be very fattening? "Not necessarily," says Dr. Theodore Van Itallie, Director of the Obesity Research Center at St. Luke's-Roosevelt Hospital Center in New York City.

Dr. Van Itallie was discussing sensory specific satiety, one of a 14-part videotape series entitled "Eat Well, Well," funded as a public service by the Metropolitan Foundation for telecasting over Public Broadcasting Service stations nationwide.

He went on to explain, "Studies carried out in Oxford, England, show that people as well as animals can come satiated on a particular food but if then offered other palatable food that is quite different from the first, they will eat that until they again become satiated, but they are still able to eat a third and a fourth food provided they're different and are palatable." The explanation for the obesity that occurs when this eating pattern is followed is called sensory specific satiety, the "pleasure" threat.

You would get bored with a diet of creamy mashed potatoes before you would get fat! Think about the times you've gone to a restaurant and stuffed down the bread while waiting for the soup. You manage to eat the soup and there is still room for salad, the entree and then dessert. Eating different things is what often keeps a person continually eating. Too much eating leads to overweight if it isn't balanced with plenty of exercise to burn the calories up.

Delicious one-dish meals can help defeat the pattern of sensory specific satiety and keep your food intake down. There are many new ethnic one-dish recipes we can prepare today because the ingredients, once found only in large metropolitan cities, are more plentiful across the country.

Chinese food comes immediately to mind. The recipe for Ginger Pork includes snow peas, ginger root, Chinese black mushrooms, Chinese cabbage and bean threads. Regular mushrooms or cabbage can be substituted. Rice or noodles can replace the bean threads.

Chinese black mushrooms are dried and shipped here from Japan. To prepare, pour boiling water over them, then let them soak in a covered bowl for 15 minutes or more. When the mushrooms turn soft, cut off the stems, squeeze out the water and they are ready to use.

There are two kinds of fresh cabbage. One, called Chinese celery cabbage, is white and firm. It is the best and good for cooking, stewing or serving raw in salad. The other kind has a white stalk with green leaves. It is good for cooking and stewing, but can't be eaten raw.

Fresh ginger root is often sent here from Hawaii and can be kept in a refrigerator for a few weeks. Never freeze it. Bean threads produced in Taiwan, are better known as cellophane noodles. The noodles are translucent and should be softened before use by soaking in warm water for 5 to 15 minutes. Heat by dipping in boiling soup.

GINGER PORK

2 tablespoons soy sauce
1/4 cup apple cider
2-3 tablespoons ginger root, cut into paper-thin julienne strips
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 pound lean pork, cut into 1/4-inch strips
1 tablespoon vegetable oil
1 pound fresh or frozen snow peas, trimmed
1 cup Chinese or regular sliced mushrooms
3 cups Chinese cabbage

Combine soy sauce, cider, ginger root and garlic in a medium size bowl. Add pork and toss to coat evenly. Refrigerate for 2 to 3 hours. Remove pork, reserving the marinade. In a wok or large skillet over medium high heat, in hot oil, stir-fry the pork for 6 to 8 minutes until thoroughly cooked. Add vegetables and continue cooking for 3 to 5 minutes until they are crisp and tender. Add reserved marinade and heat thoroughly. Serve over warm bean threads. Makes 4 servings.

Chicken Couscous is a traditional North African dish that supplies a good percentage of the recommended dietary allowance (RDA) for certain vitamins and minerals. These days some supermarkets even stock quick cooking couscous. Steam it according to package directions omitting margarine. If you have a couscoussier, simply put the couscous directly on top. Cover with the lid and the steam rises through it. Total steaming time takes 5 to 10 minutes.

CHICKEN COUSCOUS

4 cups chicken broth
1 (16 oz.) can peeled whole tomatoes
2 teaspoons powdered coriander
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 (2 1/2 pound) chicken, cut into 8-10 pieces, skinned and trimmed of excess fat
3 medium carrots, peeled and cut into 1-inch diagonal slices
3 stalks celery, cut into 1-inch diagonal slices
2 medium turnips, cut into 1-inch chunks
1 (16 oz.) can chick peas, drained
1 (16 oz.) package couscous
Grated rind of 1 medium orange
1/4 cup chopped fresh mint, leaves only
Heat broth, tomatoes and spices in a medium size saucepan over medium heat. Add chicken and reduce heat to low; simmer 5 minutes. Add carrots and celery and continue cooking approximately 20 minutes. Add turnips and chick peas; cook 5-8 minutes longer until all vegetables are tender. Prepare couscous according to directions, omitting margarine. Serve chicken-vegetable mixture over couscous. Sprinkle with grated orange rind and chopped mint. Makes 6 servings.

Wheat was domesticated in the Middle East as early as 9000 B.C. and is still an important part of the diet. Tabouli is a cold Middle Eastern salad made from bulgur which is wheat that has already been boiled and dried before you purchase it. It is sold in supermarkets and health food stores. Traditionally the dish is eaten with yogurt as an accompaniment. The combination of ingredients provides you with a one-dish light meal containing nutrients from three of the four basic food groups needed for good health.

TABOULI

1 cup bulgur
3/4 cup chopped onions
3 medium tomatoes, chopped
1 bunch parsley, chopped
1 bunch mint, leaves only, chopped
Juice of two lemons
1/4 cup olive oil
1 teaspoon salt
Soak bulgur in two quarts of water until soft; drain and squeeze out extra moisture. Add remaining ingredients and mix thoroughly. Makes 6 servings.

Regional Specialties Everyday Favorites

Three of today's "hottest" food trends which are becoming everyday fare coast to coast are pasta and other Italian specialties, Mexican foods, and American regional cuisine. As creative cooks experiment with preparing the specialties of other lands and regions, the original "authentic" recipes frequently undergo subtle adaptations to better suit individual tastes. Easily available ingredients are substituted for the hard-to-find, spicing and flavors are modified, and convenience products may be used to shortcut time-consuming preparation. Resulting dishes provide the intrigue of international and regional cuisine along with the satisfaction that comes from adding a bit of personal style.

One creative touch that's as American as apple pie yet adds pizzazz to a host of foreign and regional foods is Miracle Whip salad dressing. This amazingly versatile product combines the best features of mayonnaise and old fashioned boiled salad dressing with a unique spice blend that has made it the nation's favorite for 50 years.

Devotees of this one-of-a-kind salad dressing will find over 200 recipes for American and international specialties, as well as foods ranging from appetizers to desserts, and breakfast treats to late-night snack specials in a new cookbook from the Kraft Kitchen. "Cooking With Miracle Whip Salad Dressing," a 160-page cookbook with over two dozen color photos, contains chapters which highlight recipes for two, quick-to-fix and make-ahead dishes, recipes which shortcut preparation time with food processors and microwave ovens, time-honored "classics" and ideas for casual entertaining.

Helpful tips and serving suggestions are liberally sprinkled throughout the book, as are recipe variations which help you custom tailor flavors to fit individual preferences. Recipes were developed especially for Miracle Whip salad dressing, which has a lower fat content than mayonnaise and is made with a unique blend of spices. If mayonnaise is substituted, texture and appearance may be affected and flavor not meet expectations.

Included in the cookbook are foreign favorites such as Pasta Carbonara, a salad dressing variation of the celebrated Roman dish. This version streamlines preparation while maintaining the dish's classic flavors. Prepared with fettucini, garlic, bacon, grated parmesan cheese and parsley, the dish takes on a delicate flavor from the addition of the salad dressing in the light sauce. Recipe variations suggest substituting green fettucini or linguini, or equal parts of green and regular noodles for a change of appearance and taste. Served as a first course in Italy, the dish also makes a fine accompaniment or a light supper main dish.

For entertaining, the chapter includes such treats as Sombbrero Appetizer, a hearty south-of-the-border treat. This briefly baked mixture of cooked ground beef, salad dressing, cheese and onion takes its "heat" from taco sauce, so use mild or hot as you prefer. With corn chips or crackers for dipping it makes a great party ice breaker.

Regional specialties such as Jambalaya Rice are classic examples of the inventive and adaptive character of American cooking. A native dish of New Orleans, jambalaya reflects the culinary heritage of France and Spain. Excellent as an accompaniment to meat, poultry or seafood, it becomes a hearty main dish with the addition of chopped cooked chicken or ham.

Microwave Magic

Enhance Flavor And Nutrition Of Fresh Corn

It's almost time for the Wellwood Corn Festival. That good Florida sweet corn will be plentiful again. Microwaving enhances the flavor and nutrition of corn.

It is best if microwaved as soon after picking as possible. If corn is stored, the more apt it is to be tough and starchy. These recipes will make good use of the ears of corn that you have microwaved on the cob and are not eaten. The corn can be removed from the ears and used in these dishes.

CORN AND TOMATO CASSEROLE

Cover with waxed paper and microwave on 30% power for 8 minutes. Be sure center of custard is completely cooked. Let stand 2 minutes. Top with slices of tomato.

No-Bake Desserts Beat Heat Of Summer

Let "no-bake" irresistible dessert recipes simplify summer dessert preparation this year. Nothing could be easier, or more convenient, to prepare than fresh sliced peaches, nectarines or strawberries folded into chilled whipped topping made with real cream.

Or for a special fast and foamy dessert — try Strawberry Delight — in which smooth and fluffy layers of almond flavored cream cheese and whipped topping with sliced fresh strawberries are on a graham cracker crust. The same basic recipe — with a different twist — layers whipped topping mixture, strawberries and graham cracker crumbs in parfait glasses.

When time is at a premium, spoon fresh blueberries into cateloupe or honeydew melon halves and top with whipped topping. Or make Pina Colada Dessert...a tropical smooth pineapple, coconut charmer, gently flavored with a hint of rum. It can be served either as a chilled refrigerator dessert or as an impressive frozen pie.

STRAWBERRY DELIGHT

1 cup graham cracker crumbs
1/4 cup margarine, melted
3 tablespoons sugar
1 pt. strawberries, sliced
1 8-oz. pkg. cream cheese, softened
1 8-oz. pkg. milk
1/4 teaspoon almond extract
2 cups thawed whipped topping with real cream
Combine crumbs, margarine and sugar; press onto bottom of 9-inch square pan. Bake at 350°, 10 minutes. Cool.

Arrange strawberries over crust. Combine cream cheese, milk and extract, mixing until well blended. Fold in whipped topping; spread over strawberries. Chill several hours. Cut into squares. Garnish with additional strawberries or crumbs. 8 servings.

Variation: Omit margarine and sugar. Prepare whipped topping mixture as directed. Alternate layers of graham cracker crumbs, strawberry slices and whipped topping mixture in parfait glasses. Chill. Garnish with additional whipped topping. 4 servings.

PINA COLADA DESSERT

1 9-oz. container whipped topping with real cream, thawed
1 8-1/4-oz. can crushed pineapple, drained
1 cup miniature marshmallows
1/4 cup flaked coconut
1/4 cup quartered maraschino cherries
1/2 teaspoon rum flavoring
Fold whipped topping into combined remaining ingredients. Spoon into six dessert dishes; chill. Garnish with additional maraschino cherries. 6 servings.
Variation: Spoon mixture into 9-inch pie plate; freeze until firm. Place in refrigerator 1/2 hour before serving. Cut into wedges.

PEACH CANTALOUPE CONSERVE

2 1/4 pounds firm ripe cantaloupe
2 pounds (about) fully ripe peaches
2 tablespoons grated lemon rind
1/2 cup lemon juice
1/4 cup golden raisins
1 cup light corn syrup
3 cups sugar, divided
1 cup coarsely chopped walnuts
Peel, core and cube cantaloupe. Measure 4 cups. Rinse, peel and pit peaches. Cut into cubes. Measure 4 cups. In 5-quart stainless steel or enamel saucepot stir together cantaloupe, peaches, lemon rind, juice and raisins. Stirring occasionally, bring to boil over medium heat. Gently stir in corn syrup until well blended. Gently stir in 1 cup of the sugar. Return to boil; boil gently 10 minutes. Remove from heat. Cool to room temperature.

Return to boil over medium heat. Stir in one cup of the sugar. Stirring frequently, boil gently 20 minutes. Remove from heat. Cool to room temperature. Return to boil over medium heat. Gently stir in remaining 1 cup sugar. Stirring more frequently as mixture thickens, boil about 25 minutes. Add walnuts; stirring frequently, cook 5 minutes longer or until mixture is desired consistency. Remove from heat; skim, if necessary. Immediately ladle into clean hot 1/2-pint jars, leaving 1/4-inch headspace. Wipe top edge with damp cloth. Seal according to jar manufacturer's directions. Process in boiling water bath 15 minutes. Cool jars on wire rack or folded towel. Makes about 6 (1/2-pint) jars.

CHERRY JUBILEE SAUCE

2 tablespoons corn starch
1/4 cup light corn syrup
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/4 pound (about) sweet cherries, pitted (2 cups)
3 tablespoons kirsch or brandy
In 2-quart saucepan stir together corn starch, corn syrup and lemon juice until smooth. Add cherries. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat and boil 1 minute. Remove from heat. Stir in kirsch. Serve warm over ice cream. Makes about 2 cups.

Strawberry Jubilee Sauce: Follow recipe for Cherry Jubilee Sauce. Omit cherries. Use 1 pint (about) strawberries, cut in half. Makes about 2 cups.

PINEAPPLE PINEAPPLE SUPREME

1 pkg. yellow cake mix (Duncan Hines)
Large can crushed pineapple
8 oz. pkg. cream cheese
3 oz. pkg. vanilla instant pudding
1 cup cold milk
Whipping cream (pint)
Bake cake as directed adding drained pineapple juice from large can of crushed pineapple. Bake in 15 by 10-inch pan. Bake in 350 degree oven. Cool cake.
Blend cream cheese, pudding, and milk. Mix together; stir in drained pineapple. Spread over cooled cake; cover with whipped cream. Refrigerate. Serve.
