Special Prosecutor To Probe Watergate

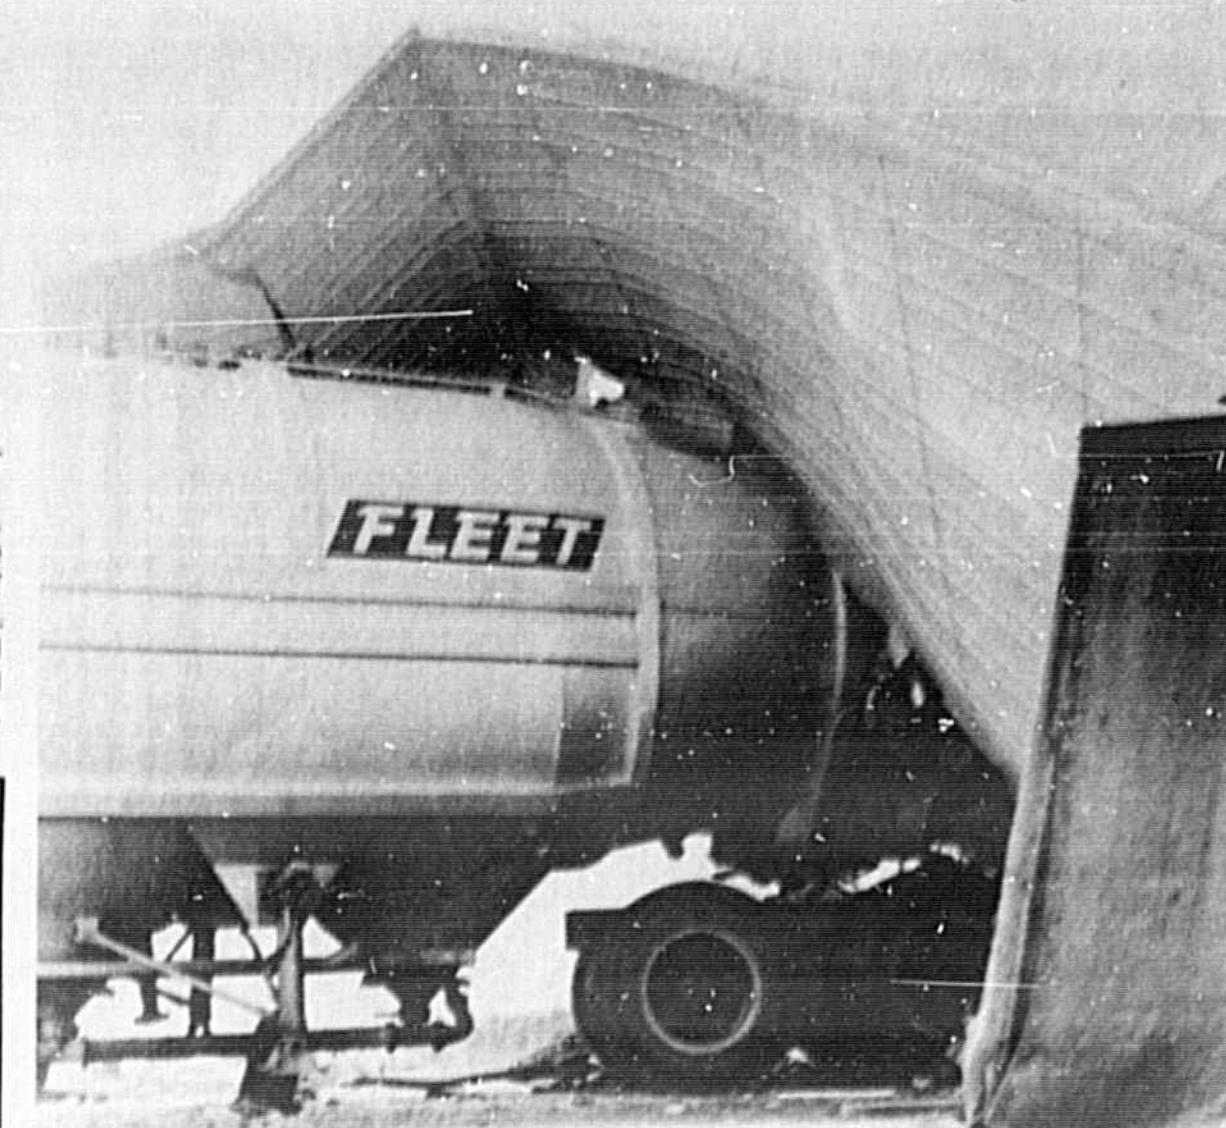

By MICHAEL PUTZEL, Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson said today he will be named special prosecutor to head the investigation of the Watergate scandal.

Richardson said, however, that he has not yet found the right man to head the probe. Acknowledging worries over how the Watergate investigation would be pursued, Richardson said, "After much careful thought about how best to respond to these concerns, I have decided that I will, if confirmed, appoint a special prosecutor and give all the independence, authority, and staff support needed to carry out tasks entrusted to him."
With special emphasis, Richardson said the special prosecutor would report only to him as attorney general. This seemed to imply that President Nixon would have no direct hand in the investigation.
Another top Watergate news weeklies said ousted White House Counsel John W. Dean III is prepared to testify that Nixon personally congratulated him last September for covering up administration involvement in the Watergate incident.
Time and Newsweek gave slightly different accounts, but both said Nixon's purported remarks came in a meeting among the President, Dean and another top White House aide.
Richardson, currently the secretary of defense, was chosen by Nixon last Monday to become the new attorney general and take personal responsibility for the Watergate investigation.
"I would welcome, in addition, an expression by the Senate as a whole of its confidence in him," Richardson said.
There have been numerous calls in the Senate for someone of the caliber of a Supreme Court justice with no ties to the Nixon administration, to personally investigate the Watergate scandal.
"I have taken into account the fact that, because I have been office in this administration from its beginning, my objectivity may be questioned," Richardson told a Senate news conference.
Richardson appears before the Judiciary Committee on his nomination as attorney general on Wednesday. Because he has yet to be confirmed by the Senate for that job, Richardson declined to answer questions after reading a three-page statement.
Of the search for a special prosecutor, Richardson said, "It may take some time to find the right person." He gave no estimate of how long that might be.
A number of prominent names have been mentioned as likely choices.
One is Lawrence E. Walsh, a deputy attorney general under President Dwight D. Eisenhower. He is a former U.S. District Court judge and a member of a New York law firm.

Another is Irving R. Kaufman, in line to become chief judge of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 2nd Circuit. Persons close to the judge told the New York Times he had been approached but turned it down.

Cushman Tied To 'Papers'

NEW YORK (AP) — Sources say that while Marine Corps Commandant Robert E. Cushman Jr. was serving as deputy director of the Central Intelligence Agency he gave the go-ahead for the burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's former psychiatrist, the New York Times said today.
Ellsberg is a defendant in the Pentagon papers trial.
The Times, quoting sources close to the Watergate case, said Gen. Cushman authorized the use of CIA material and research for the burglary at the request of former Presidential assistant John D. Ehrlichman.
Cushman, who left the CIA in 1971, reportedly accepted full responsibility for the decision to let the CIA assist in preparations for the break-in, the Times said.
In grand jury testimony last Wednesday, Ehrlichman and Howard Hunt Jr. told the grand jury that they stopped his car in the west-bound lane.
Six others were admitted to Lakeland General Hospital after the pile-up, two of them in serious condition, authorities said.
The patrol gave the following account of other accidents:
Linda Carolyn Miller, 19, of Walaboo, Fla., and Linda Nell Murray, 26, of Haines City, Fla., were drivers of two cars that collided head-on 10 miles west of Vero Beach on State Road 60 early Saturday.
Roscoe Green, 40, of Chatsworth, Fla., was struck and killed Friday while walking along U.S. 90 in Gretna in Gadsden County.
Lee Roy Love, 53, of Hawthorne, Fla., was killed Saturday when a car struck him near

Bush Wants Cash From Nixon Camp

By CARL LEUBSDORF, AP Political Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican party chairman George Bush says he wants to see President Nixon's re-election campaign dismantled and its money spent on helping GOP congressional candidates next year.
"These moneys were given to support the President," said Bush in an interview. "The best way to support him would be to gain control of one or another house of Congress."
His comments came after party officials said they feared a Wednesday fundraiser for the '74 election would meet only half of a $2 million goal.
He said he did not know the legalities of closing down the Committee to Re-elect the President, which is involved in lawsuits arising from the Watergate case.

Like his predecessor, Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, Bush has been trying unsuccessfully to obtain for the party funds left over from the Nixon reelection campaign.
Bush said future Republican fundraising efforts will be centralized under the new party treasurer, Nashville investment banker Pat Wilson, who reports directly to Bush.
GOP fundraising efforts in 1972 were completely outside the Republican National Committee and were headed by Maurice Stans, treasurer of the Committee for the Re-election of the President.
Bush said he was optimistic about the '74 elections because he felt the voters would distinguish between those involved in Watergate and party regulars.
"Since the party is separate from the illegal activities of the few, in my judgment the party will not be the loser," said Bush.

Consul Learns Hike Demands

By VICENTE MORALES, Associated Press Writer
GUADALAJARA, Mexico (AP) — The kidnapers of U.S. Consul-General Terrance G. Leonhardy were reported making more demands today for the transfer to Cuba of 30 prisoners whose freedom had been demanded in exchange for the American diplomat.
"The situation has become extremely complicated. There are new demands," said Gov. Alberto Orozco Romero of Jalisco state Sunday. "We just have to wait now. It could be hours or days."
He did not say what the demands were.
Shortly before, the governor received a note from Leonhardy saying he was being treated well and his kidnapers promised to release him "at the proper moment."
Leonhardy's wife, at home with the couple's two young daughters, received a telephone call from the kidnapers Sunday afternoon saying new instructions would be phoned later. The second call had not come by midnight.
Officials of the state and federal governments and of the U.S. Embassy in Mexico City waited with Mrs. Leonhardy. A special telephone line was installed at the house, apparently to keep the government in Mexico City in close touch.
Outside the house, nearly 100 newsmen, photographers, neighbors and onlookers waited through the night.
Thirty persons were released from jails in six Mexican states Sunday afternoon and flown to Havana in a Mexican air force plane, meeting the ransom demand.

NEWS DIGEST

THE NATION'S TWO LARGEST WEEKLY NEWS MAGAZINES say ousted White House counsel John W. Dean III is prepared to testify that President Nixon personally congratulated him last September for covering up administration involvement in the Watergate case.
THE SECRETS OF WATERGATE have engulfed the Pentagon Papers trial in controversy-and there apparently is more to come.
THIRTY PRISONERS freed by the Mexican government arrive in Cuba, but the guerrillas holding U.S. Consul-General Terrance G. Leonhardy are reported rapping their price for his release.
TAXPAYERS are spending up to $100,000 a day in subsidies for at least 30 huge tankers waiting in U.S. ports to be loaded with wheat and corn for the Soviet Union.
EVEN CONGRESS has its "impossible" dreams and the House is pursuing one that is new: an effort to modernize its committee jurisdictions to reflect present-day concerns.
ISRAEL CELEBRATES ITS 25th year of independence with tanks rumbling through the main streets of Jerusalem and jet fighters overhead in a three-hour military display.

Normally we don't cater to a request for publicity like this, what with clock space limitations, etc. However, it was the following graph which really caught my eye:
"Until this century daylies had remained practically unchanged for thousands of years. In 1973 and alkaloid called colchicine was used to cause a doubling of the number of chromosomes in a plant's cell. The result is called a tetraploid. There are a number of hybridizers in Central Florida."

Jax Offers School Job

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Oklahoma City School Superintendent Bill Lillard said Sunday he will discuss his job offer from Jacksonville, Fla., with the Jacksonville school board Monday night before making his decision.

"My first responsibility still lies with the Oklahoma City schools," he added. Lillard said he met with the Jacksonville board members Thursday night for 2 1/2 hours and that the interview was televised over a local educational channel.

Lillard returned to Oklahoma City Sunday from an interview for the superintendent's position in Jacksonville. He said a member of the Jacksonville school board told him he had been picked from five applicants.

Lillard said three of the Jacksonville board members were named to a committee to negotiate his salary and terms of a contract. It is possible under Florida law, he said, for a contract of up to four years to be signed.

Lillard, 47, has administrative responsibilities in Oklahoma City for a $25 million annual budget and the education of some 59,000 students. The Jacksonville school district covers all of Duval County and has a $110 million budget.

'His Majesty, The Devil' Satan Slaying Charge Made

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A South Carolina teenager wearing an emblem identifying him as "His Majesty, the Devil" was charged Sunday with officiating as "high priest" at a human sacrifice by Satan worshippers. The slaying confirmed a two-year-old prediction by Volusia County Sheriff Ed Duff, who said that a series of grave desecrations, cemetery black masses and animal sacrifices could lead "to a human being sacrificed if these people don't settle down."

Daytona Beach Police Chief Robert H. Palmer said David Otis Hester, 17, of Greenville, S.C., was charged with first-degree murder in the black mass before the slaying. Hester and Gasper also were charged with possession of narcotics, police said. Police said Hester and Gasper were arrested after police stopped a car and ran a check on its occupants.

Police say Cochran's mutilated body was found along a lonely road. The body was bound with ropes and the skull had been crushed by a blow from a club. Officers said that before he died, he was flogged with chains and slashed with glass.

Nixon Finds Rest

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon, nearing the end of a long weekend away from the White House, has tried with some success to find respite from Watergate worries.

Aides said the President, described as weary when he arrived in Florida last Thursday, would be spending much of today working in the office he maintains in one of his two homes here. Blocks to Learning in Class

Removal of Roadblocks to Learning — FOURTH OF A SERIES By Leslie J. Nason, Ed. D. We are becoming a nation of spectators. With our huge stadiums and television a million people can watch a mile race or a baseball game, sometimes half way round the world from the observer.

While this is good entertainment and provides an opportunity for relaxation, the same listening habits carried into the classroom bring disastrous results. The "spectator" in the classroom learns little or nothing while the listener thinks — not what the teacher says but what he thinks that produces learning.

Learning is an active process and learning while listening is no exception. The student who takes the attitude "Here I am 'Teach me'" has a block to learning that he doesn't realize. Some knowledge must be there to receive the ideas. When the words and ideas expressed in the classroom do not stimulate thoughts in the mind of the listener, little or no learning takes place.

Students with this block complain that the teacher says little, doesn't explain and wanders in his discussions. In fact they are so bored that their minds wander. Too much attention to taking notes creates a block to the most important classroom activity of a student — learning.

Note-taking is putting off learning. "I'll write it down and learn it later." The student who takes voluminous notes is usually writing one idea while the teacher is talking about the next one. This divided attention prevents classroom learning.

The remedy in both cases is simple: TO LEARN MORE IN CLASS — STUDY AHEAD. This preview makes the student aware of the ideas discussed in the textbook and often allows him to practically dispense with notes. Furthermore, having a general outline of the subject matter in mind leads to on-the-spot learning.

Next Handwriting Blocks. Students with this block complain that the teacher says little, doesn't explain and wanders in his discussions. In fact they are so bored that their minds wander. Too much attention to taking notes creates a block to the most important classroom activity of a student — learning.

Clarification Due In 'Papers Trial'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Recent events complicating the trial came in this order: —Thursday, April 26: Nissen submitted a secret memo to the judge. Byrne summoned defendants and attorneys to an emergency court session in which he sealed the memo in an envelope and gave the government until the next morning to discuss it.

Further complicating the case, attorneys for defendants Ellsberg and Anthony Russo say they are considering asking the U.S. 9th Circuit Court of Appeal to throw out the Pentagon papers indictment on grounds the judge was "compromised."

They have complained because a now-resigned presidential adviser, John D. Ehrlichman, recently discussed the possibility of Byrne's becoming FBI director. And Judge Byrne, confronted by what he calls "crucial legal problems," still is considering declaring a mistrial or dismissing charges.

But he has indicated that no amount of official wrongdoing would sway his consideration of the central legal issue: Was any illegal evidence used by the Justice Department in the prosecution of Ellsberg and Russo? The two men have been charged with espionage, conspiracy and theft for copying the Pentagon's top secret study of the Vietnam war.

Pressing for a jury verdict, prosecutor David Nissen has said he will show that the Justice Department never used "tainted evidence." The defense attorneys insist this never could be known for sure.

Capital Ideas Abroad

It's Now The Guerrillas' Turn In Mideast

The Palestinian guerrilla organization is moving its headquarters from Beirut to Damascus in Syria and the prospect is for more bloody confrontations with Israel and perhaps with the United States.

In fact, Arab nations themselves may feel the guerrillas' fanatic frustration.

The April raid by Israeli commandos on Palestinian headquarters in Beirut has had obvious effects. Only a few months ago it was possible to meet easily with representatives of the Palestine Liberation Organization in the comfortable lobbies of Beirut's best hotels — the Phoenicia, St. George or Vendome. No more.

Today the Palestinians insist on elaborate security precautions, even personal search before they will meet with Western newsmen they have known for years.

But once the "formalities" have been observed the message from PLO spokesmen is loud and clear:

"There is no reason to think that our operations will not extend to the United States," said one spokesman.

Asked if El Fatah groups considered American as well as Israeli embassies to be "fair targets," the spokesman replied simply:

"You are their allies."

Israel claims that U.S. and Israeli officials have already thwarted several bomb plots in New York City. American embassies as far away as Singapore have been under special guard in the wake of the Palestinian "execution" of two American diplomats and a Belgian envoy in Khartoum, capital of Sudan.

The announced movement of Palestinian leaders to Damascus is considered a prelude to violent reprisals for the Beirut commando raid.

That, in turn, was a reprisal for a Palestinian attack on the Israeli Consulate in Nicosia, Cyprus. Any Israeli counterblow against the Syrian capital would be much more difficult and dangerous. Unlike Lebanon's relatively open society, Syria is strictly a police state.

When the Vietnam truce agreements were signed Jan. 27 in Paris, 90 days seemed like ample time for the smoke to clear well enough to give the Saigon government and the Communists a chance to work out a basis for their political coexistence in the future.

The 90-day deadline presumed, of course, that the smoke of battle in a literal sense would disappear from the skies of Indochina. It has not.

The arrival of that deadline found South Vietnam and its embattled neighbors, Laos and Cambodia, hardly less concerned with defending themselves from military attack than they were three months ago.

Some sympathy goes to Henry Kissinger. His wearying months of negotiation with the Communists produced a truce, but he now faces a return to Paris in mid-May to confront North Vietnam's Le Duc Tho once again. This time the task is to make the truce work, and Mr. Kissinger has already summed up what has gone wrong. The North Vietnamese, as he put it bluntly in Washington recently, have been violating the Paris agreements systematically, cynically and massively.

An obvious question is whether there is anything more to negotiate in Paris when the problem lies in the compliance with agreements already made.

The resumption of U.S. reconnaissance flights over North Vietnam and the suspension of our misperceiving operations off Haiphong are actions that speak louder than words. They tell the Communists that the truce is a two-way street — that the United States of America will fulfill its obligations under the truce when the Communists fulfill theirs.

With the fires of war still flaring, the Saigon government and the Viet Cong have made a gesture toward heading the provision that they submit plans for a political settlement in South Vietnam within 90 days. Saigon has enough faith and confidence in the future to propose an election in August in which the Communists would be allowed to participate. The condition is attached, however, that all North Vietnamese troops withdraw from South Vietnam before the election is held — a not unreasonable proviso.

This throws the ball back to Hanoi and its attitude toward the truce. The presence of Communist troops in the South, and the augmentation of their strength during the truce period, is one of those facts that cannot be explained away at Paris. Only a visible reduction in the North Vietnamese presence in the South, and in Laos and Cambodia as well, can restore any hope for an implementation of the peace machinery established in the original Paris agreements.

Another gaping hole in the facade: Who repeatedly reassured him that his key people were not involved? Was it always the same man, or were there several?

The bare-bones sound of his announcement of legal counsel John Dean's resignation suggests this young man, who conducted the President's first inquiry into Watergate, may be marked for blame as an architect of a cover-up.

Still, Mr. Nixon left the way open for others to be touched, saying no one could be spared from the workings of justice and there would be no "whitewash" in the White House. Though his voice choked a bit, was there something of the cold above in his final pat on the back for "closest friends and trusted aides" John Ehrlichman and H. R. (Bob) Haldeman?

Even as the President promised no whitewash, some of his key words had the pale cast of euphemism. He spoke of men whose zeal "exceeded their judgment" and whose good intentions in a cause they believed right graded easily into "shady" campaign activities.

How does this cover the alleged break by Nixon re-election agents at the office of the psychiatrist serving Daniel Ellsberg, defendant in the Pentagon papers case?

Indeed, as digested by some of his critical friends, this euphemistic language is judged to be far short of matching the magnitude of the offenses already revealed or hinted at in Watergate's botched case.

The President has seemed to "clean house" leaving his establishment painfully disorganized in the face of pending big events. But his basement and his attic still hold too many secrets which can cloud the fresh image he tried to paint.

By KEN GEPFERT Associated Press Writer TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—If Florida's 400 cities receive broader home rule powers, legislators role could be changed from that of "super city councilmen" to state representatives, says the chairman of the House Community Affairs Committee.

The House today is scheduled to debate a bill granting municipalities the authority to determine their own destiny.

"Last year we gave counties home rule," said chairman Paul Danahy, D-Tampa. "This year we will fulfill the promise of the 1968 Constitution for cities."

Danahy said the bill would allow cities to pass ordinances to accomplish what they used to have to ask the Legislature to do with local bills.

"City Councils will be able to carry out their day-to-day responsibilities without us," he said. "They'll be more responsible to the voters and we'll be less super city councilmen and more state representatives."

Another section of the bill, expected to be more controversial, would create a joint legislative committee on local government formation to resolve boundary disputes over annexation or "city limits."

"We created all these units of local government and now it's up to us to get them out of the growth trouble they're now having," said Danahy. "We won't make final determinations, but we hope to make some sense out of the present legislative mishmash."

The new commission would be comprised of five members from both the House and Senate.

The bill giving 18-year-olds full rights of adulthood also is due to return to the House floor today for a third — and probably final — round of debate.

Included in the measure are the rights of drinking and gambling, deleted by the House last month but restored in a turn-around vote last week.

BRUCE BLOSSAT Nixon Speech: Not Quite Whole Truth By BRUCE BLOSSAT WASHINGTON (NEA) Friends — yes, friends — of President Nixon do not believe he advanced his personal cause or that of the presidency in any enduring way by his cool and lofty tale of the all-consuming Watergate affair.

The tone was presidential. His comment bore the marks of the high quest for truth and justice befitting his office. It was reinforced by solid action in the earlier removals of four top administration men, including his own closest aide.

For the sake of the country and the office, even his Democratic adversaries wanted these very things from him. Yet, somehow, it all came to too little.

In the view of some who have known and liked him, what Mr. Nixon said lacked the impressive force of specific candor. It was presidential gold dust thrown in the eyes, or a glittering movie-set facade supported by shaky props.

He told the American people that, uncharacteristically, he in 1972 delegated most of his campaign decisions to others. But he did not say to whom, nor what crucial instructions he gave to his chosen surrogates.

Besides being uninformative at its heart, this assertion is not accurate. Observers and men who took part in his campaigns can testify convincingly that he delegated heavy campaign authority in 1968 and perhaps before.

His newest utterance seeks, then, to perpetuate an un-supportable legend. Nixon the man with his eye constantly on every political gauge, too busy with higher duties in 1972 to follow pattern?

Another gaping hole in the facade: Who repeatedly reassured him that his key people were not involved? Was it always the same man, or were there several?

The bare-bones sound of his announcement of legal counsel John Dean's resignation suggests this young man, who conducted the President's first inquiry into Watergate, may be marked for blame as an architect of a cover-up.

Still, Mr. Nixon left the way open for others to be touched, saying no one could be spared from the workings of justice and there would be no "whitewash" in the White House. Though his voice choked a bit, was there something of the cold above in his final pat on the back for "closest friends and trusted aides" John Ehrlichman and H. R. (Bob) Haldeman?

Even as the President promised no whitewash, some of his key words had the pale cast of euphemism. He spoke of men whose zeal "exceeded their judgment" and whose good intentions in a cause they believed right graded easily into "shady" campaign activities.

How does this cover the alleged break by Nixon re-election agents at the office of the psychiatrist serving Daniel Ellsberg, defendant in the Pentagon papers case?

Indeed, as digested by some of his critical friends, this euphemistic language is judged to be far short of matching the magnitude of the offenses already revealed or hinted at in Watergate's botched case.

The President has seemed to "clean house" leaving his establishment painfully disorganized in the face of pending big events. But his basement and his attic still hold too many secrets which can cloud the fresh image he tried to paint.

The House today is scheduled to debate a bill granting municipalities the authority to determine their own destiny.

"Last year we gave counties home rule," said chairman Paul Danahy, D-Tampa. "This year we will fulfill the promise of the 1968 Constitution for cities."

Danahy said the bill would allow cities to pass ordinances to accomplish what they used to have to ask the Legislature to do with local bills.

"City Councils will be able to carry out their day-to-day responsibilities without us," he said. "They'll be more responsible to the voters and we'll be less super city councilmen and more state representatives."

Another section of the bill, expected to be more controversial, would create a joint legislative committee on local government formation to resolve boundary disputes over annexation or "city limits."

"We created all these units of local government and now it's up to us to get them out of the growth trouble they're now having," said Danahy. "We won't make final determinations, but we hope to make some sense out of the present legislative mishmash."

The new commission would be comprised of five members from both the House and Senate.

The bill giving 18-year-olds full rights of adulthood also is due to return to the House floor today for a third — and probably final — round of debate.

Included in the measure are the rights of drinking and gambling, deleted by the House last month but restored in a turn-around vote last week.

Subsidizing Lawbreaking

How does the American Indian Movement, which has fewer than 500 members, manage to buy vehicles and weapons and otherwise finance its activities? An answer comes from Acting Director Howard Phillips of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Mr. Phillips says AIM has been receiving federal antiterror funds. He does not say how much. The Detroit News reports the figure at $400,000 and says more than half of AIM's members are on the payroll of social agencies funded by federal grants.

This generosity has cost the government $2 million in damage to the Bureau of Indian Affairs building which AIM members wrecked last year, and the bills enforcement at Wounded Knee. It is not enough to cut off federal subsidies to organizations like this. Congress should find out who was responsible for providing them and how many more militant groups are receiving them.

Dear Abby

His fear of nudity leaves wife in the dark

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a Catholic widow married to a good Catholic widower. The problem is he won't let me into our bedroom while he's dressing or undressing. And if he's in the room while I'm undressing, he turns his head. He acts as if it's sinful for us to see each other undressed. I thought maybe time would improve the situation, but it has been years, and he's still the same.

I must admit that our sex life is wonderful—in the dark. This may not seem like much of a problem but it makes me feel less of a wife, and I am hurt.

What is the official Catholic position on nudity, Abby? Perhaps the reason for my husband's attitude can be found there.

FRUSTRATED

DEAR FRUSTRATED: There is no Catholic doctrine on nudity. Nudity is the natural state and is so regarded in matrimonial affairs. You can't blame your husband's inhibited attitude on his religious upbringing. Leave well enough alone, lady. You're doing well where he counts.

DEAR ABBY: We're a couple of old gals. My husband is 72 and I'm 70. We're not in the best of health, but we're not feeble or senile (I hope), and the Lord willing, we will celebrate our 50th wedding anniversary in June.

We want to give a dinner party ourselves and invite our friends, relatives and a few neighbors, but our married daughter and son won't hear of it. THEY want to give the party and foot the bill.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is so personal I cannot discuss it with anyone. I am 67 years old. I lost my husband two years ago, and at the same time I lost my hearing. It is amazing how your friends will desert you when you've lost your hearing, so I took up lip-reading and sign language.

Last summer I met a 36-year-old man who is also deaf, and we have been having a wonderful romance. [I am discreet and do not flaunt it.]

My husband was impotent the last 10 years of his life due to illness, but I remained faithful to him even though the desire for sex was still in me. It still is, and this young man has made me feel like a new person.

My friends have criticized me terribly for going with him. After being denied sexual pleasure for 10 years I feel I am entitled to a little enjoyment for as many years as I have left.

I have no intentions of marrying the young man because if I did, I would lose all my benefits. Please let me know what you think. I will abide by your decision.

ANONYMOUS IN ARIZONA

DEAR ANON: As an adult, you may make your own decisions without consulting yourself with what your so-called friends say. I advise you to do just that.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, MAY 8, 1973

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE
from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are likely to start the day thinking you can do far more than is advisable. You would be wise to let others know you value their good points, listen to their suggestions, investigate further, then prepare to take a big new course of action in effect tomorrow for best results.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) If you strive for the good will of others, you find you can enjoy recreations that are just right for you, inexpensively. First get good suggestions from an expert concerning business matters and complete work started.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Although you believe in your own ideas, be sure you do not try to force them on others. Work on them yourself and get ahead faster. Make a plan that pleases you and those who dwell with you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Tend to your shopping while you think out those personal plans you have, then be very cooperative with associates. Reach a far better understanding. Avoid writing letters that could lead to controversies right now.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Forget the financial now, and concentrate on being with good friends for pleasure or important conversations, or both. Get on the policy level at group affairs. Avoid alcohol.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You want to make a complaint to a big official, but are not sure of your facts, so forget it. Do nothing that can jeopardize your good name. Evening can be delightful with the one you love.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't fuss with little things if you have some big plan to put across. Get right at the practical work. Make that fine new contact, and steer clear of one who complains. Take it easy tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Listen to what a good friend has to suggest instead of putting that hunch to work that is not accurate. Get into the recreational activities that most appeal to you. Avoid one who could lead you in the wrong direction.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) An associate could deliberately do what you approve of, but if you remain calm you win out. Handle all career matters in a most efficient way. Show others you are intelligent.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Expressing your creative talents is best today. Avoid matters of an emotional nature as much as possible. Perfect those hobbies that are to your liking. Seek to gain more education.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Change conditions somewhat with good friends so there can be more harmony in the future. Get into the amusements that are most appealing. Make your home a true haven of rest.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't disagree with one at home who is just as subtle and stubborn as you, or there could be a bad argument that is best avoided. Get together with associates and accomplish a great deal. Get rid of whatever disturbs harmony at home.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Handle those affairs that require real intelligence and impress others favorably. Control temper on telephone with one who may be exasperating. Show others how much you like them.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY: He or she will be one of those strong-willed young people with great charm. Teach early to use tact and a smile instead of trying to fight way through life which would accomplish little and cause self-hurt. Also teach to focus on big things instead of fussing over the small ones that amount to little. Then there can be much success, especially in government, teaching, writing, etc.

The Stars impel, they do not compel! What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

POLLY'S POINTERS

How to Eliminate Polyester Wrinkles

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—1, too, put my husband's polyester knit pants in an overhead dryer and had them come out full of wrinkles. I took them to the cleaners, had them pressed and stretched to the original length (they had drawn up, too) and they came home looking like new again. These pants have been washed since then and I let them drip dry and they are still permanently pressed.—R. G.

DEAR POLLY—I suggest that Mrs. W. H. iron the wrinkled polyester pants with a press cloth wrung out of white vinegar. (Test first) Press until dry, re-wet the cloth and move on to another area. This will set a nice crease in knit trousers you sew yourself. The vinegar smell will leave after a bit of airing.—SHARI

DEAR GIRLS—To prevent such a problem in the future avoid drying permanent clothes in an overloaded dryer. If the load is small, balance with some clean towels for proper tumbling. When dry remove immediately. Clothes left in the dryer when the tumbling ceases acquire new wrinkles. Hang immediately, and if touchup pressing is needed, use a steam iron on the proper setting for the fabric and often this pressing will last through several washings. Some new dryers have special cycles for such clothes. If you do not have a dryer, remove from the washer before the spin cycle and hang on a plastic hanger to drip-dry—never wring. If a garment is wrinkled when bought, it is going to be more difficult to remedy so inspect carefully before buying.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—When I finish ironing I place my hot iron in the cold oven until it cools so it is out of the children's reach. Always remember to remove it before using the oven. All you Moms are well acquainted with the gobs of toothpaste the kids leave in the bathroom sink. Use them to remove those green stains left in the sink and quickly clean it to a sparkle and have it fresh smelling, too. We used to have such trouble keeping the children's play dough and mustn't we started keeping it in a tight-closed plastic bag or jar.—SUZAN

Bread and Butter Discards

He plays out ace-king and another spade. You discard a diamond on the second spade. What do you discard on the third one?

Oswald: "It is easy to see that you can't spare your high heart. You can let the club go and hope your partner holds the jack, but the right discard is another diamond. Declarer surely holds seven spades. This means he will be able to make his tenth trick by a diamond finesse unless he is void of diamonds. So to throw a diamond and find out later on that you have saved."

RITUAL OF JEWELS

The Sanford Chapters of Beta Sigma Phi celebrated the 42nd anniversary of the organization's founding with a luncheon April 28 at the Sheraton Motor Inn on Lee Road.

Forty-two years ago, the first chapter of the sorority was formed in Anline, Kansas. There are now approximately 10,800 chapters and 256,000 members in the United States, Canada and 23 foreign countries and territories.

In addition to the luncheon, traditional ceremonies were observed as the chapter presidents gave a review of their year's activities.

Highlight of the afternoon was the awarding of the Girl of the Year from each chapter. The members in their respective chapters vote for whom they feel has done the most to promote the ideals, goals, programs and activities of their chapter.

The winner is kept secret until the Founder's Day luncheon. These winners were presented a crown and yellow sash from Mary Lou Dexter, of the host chapter.

Receiving Girl of the Year Awards from both City County Council and Xi Epsilon Sigma were Vertis Sauls; Phi Delta Zeta, Barbara Brown; Gamma Lambda, Pat Johnson; Xi Beta Eta, Jan Cahill; Theta Epsilon, Jan Meyers; and Zeta Xi, Sue Ceynowa.

UDC Chapter Salutes Southern Memorial Day

Southern Memorial Day, April 26, was observed by Norman de Vere Howard Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, with the placing of Confederate flags on the 67 Veterans' Graves in the Sanford and Oviedo Cemeteries, by the Chairman, Mrs. W. B. Kirby, who has served in this capacity for 20 years.

An arrangement of red and white lilies was placed upon the grave of Doctor Norman de Vere Howard, sponsor, for whom the chapter was named.

These were placed by the chapter president, Mrs. G. Troy Ray, who presided over the short business meeting which was held later at the home of Mrs. J. H. Truluck with Mrs. W. R. Dyson as co-hostess.

The roll of the Confederate soldiers was read by Mrs. J. E. Roumillat, who was chairman of both observances.

At the social hour delicious salad course was served by the hostesses to Mrs. Ray, Mrs. Kirby, Mrs. Caldwell, Mrs. Roumillat, Mrs. L. D. Hastings, Mrs. Charles Steenworth, Mrs. C. E. McKee, Mrs. W. Wallace, Mrs. Donald Dyer, Mrs. M. J. Bream, Mrs. G. E. McCall, Mrs. G. J. Wimshis, Mrs. T. J. Taylor, Mrs. T. B. Cornelius, Mrs. F. J. Harris and Mrs. A. B. Wallace.

A memorial to a departed member, Mrs. Walter L. Carter, Sr., preceded the Annual Southern Southern Memorial Day ceremony.

Taxpayers Foot Bill For Empty Tankers

By DON KENDALL AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—Taxpayers are spending between $50,000 and $100,000 a day in subsidies for at least 20 huge tankers waiting in U.S. ports, often for weeks, to be loaded with wheat and corn for the Soviet Union.
And even larger subsidies will be paid while the ships are at sea, an Associated Press survey shows.
In all, government officials say, $3 U.S.-owned ships have qualified for the special subsidies to haul grain to the Soviet Union.
"We don't know what the total subsidy bill will be," says

R.A. Conin, a spokesman for the Federal Maritime Administration. "Any figure I give you now would be under-stated."
Conin said in an interview the waiting time in ports is "of growing concern" and that efforts are being made by the government, the shipping industry and the grain trade to speed schedules.
Meanwhile, he admitted, it still is common for ships to wait for weeks at Gulf ports, where most of the grain is loaded. In all, he said, the total time involving federal subsidies, including actual shipping and return, is commonly 60 to 90 days.

Peace Pipe Parley Gets Light Soon

By TERRY WOSTER Associated Press Writer
WOUNDED KNEE, S.D. (AP)—Negotiators for the government and Indian militants are optimistic the 68-day occupation of Wounded Knee will end this week now that a disarmament agreement has been signed.
But spokesmen for the two sides traded warnings about future laborers and the way the government would react.
Negotiators announced on Sunday the signing of a disarmament pact that calls for weapons to be surrendered and nonresidents to leave the village at 9 a.m. EDT Wednesday.
That is to be followed by implementation of an April 5 agreement that calls for an investigation of civil rights complaints and an audit of Oglala Sioux tribal funds on the Pine Ridge Reservation. The earlier pact was to have ended the occupation of Wounded Knee but never was put into effect because of a dispute over laying down arms.
The confrontation began when American Indian Movement (AIM) forces took over the village Feb. 27 and has resulted in the deaths of two of the Indian occupiers.
AIM lawyer Ramon Roubicek, a Sioux, said in a statement, "I think the government should realize that the type of governments on reservations is a failure. Something must be done to replace it."
"If not, there will be more Wounded Knees. These oppressed people are not going to live under these repressive governments," he said.
AIM has contended that traditional chiefs and headmen, not the elected officials, should rule reservations.
Richard Withers, deputy assistant U.S. attorney general in charge of negotiations for the government, said the government has "learned many lessons."
"I really don't know," he admitted when asked what the resolution meant. "But we'll almost certainly have all street and office signs printed in both English and Spanish and have bilingual people in all the government offices."

Officially Dade Is Bilingual

MIAMI (AP)—Dade County is officially bilingual, to the delight of the area's huge Spanish-speaking community. The only problem is that no one has yet decided exactly what the whole thing means.
Even Dade County Mayor Jack Orr, who sponsored the resolution which made the county bilingual and bicultural, isn't quite sure what it's all about.
"I really don't know," he admitted when asked what the resolution meant. "But we'll almost certainly have all street and office signs printed in both English and Spanish and have bilingual people in all the government offices."

New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, Texas—If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss and grow more hair.
For years "they said it couldn't be done." But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment for both men and women, that is not only stopping hair loss... it is really growing hair!
They don't even ask you to take their word for it. They invite you to try the treatment for 32 days, at no risk, and see for yourself.
Naturally, they would offer this opportunity unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.
The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

Poor Turnout Expected Sanford Set For Districting Vote

By BOB LLOYD Herald Staff Writer
A poor turnout of Sanford voters is predicted by officials in a special referendum election Tuesday on a city charter amendment that, if approved, will divide the city into four city commission residency districts.
Sanford had 7,542 registered voters as of May 1, according to Seminole Supervisor of Elections Mrs. Camilla Bruce.
City Clerk Henry Tamm said today he expects only a small turnout for the election since there's only one item on the ballot and there has apparently been little interest stirred on the districting issue.
Sanford voters will cast their ballots at only one polling place — the downtown Civic Center. Tamm said two voting machines will be used and the polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.
City Commissioner John Morris, a proponent of districts, said today he feels "apathy is rampant."
"It's really disgusting at times," Morris said. "I'm afraid less than 1,000 voters will turn out."
The charter amendment on Tuesday's ballot provides for the election in December of one city commissioner for a three year term. This seat is now held by Commissioner Julian Stenstrom.
The charter amendment provides that two city commissioners be elected for four years. Dec. 1974 will be for four years.

Under the districting amendment a commission candidate can qualify for a district seat even though he may not live in the district. However, if the candidate is elected to the seat he must reside in the district he was elected to represent at the time he takes office.
City commissioner candidates and the Mayor will run citywide for election and all qualified Sanford voters will have the chance to vote on all seats up for election.

Districting Proponent Explains

The Rev. Amos Jones, who headed the successful petition drive that gathered 1,364 signatures to put districting on Tuesday's Sanford referendum, said today he feels city commission residency districts "are a good start but it doesn't go far enough."
"As we anticipate Sanford's growth I feel in the future two more city commission seats should be added," Jones said.
The districting idea started in Sanford's predominantly black communities last year but he doesn't feel residency districts will make it easier to elect a black city commissioner. He said districting proposals arose as a by-product of former black candidates and their frustrations.
"But the issue isn't getting a black elected," he said. "The issue is representative government."
Jones feels the key points that will be promoted by districts are accessibility and accountability.
He compared city commission districts with those used by law enforcement agencies in Seminole. By requiring a city commissioner to live in the district he represents, Jones feels the citizens in the district will be closer to government and government response will be more positive.
"By living in the district a commissioner will naturally be more aware of the people's problems," he said. "And the people won't have to outline from the start a problem since a commissioner isn't aware of it."

Police Seek 7-11 Bandit For $200 Job

Sanford police are searching today for the pistol-toting bandit who struck a Country Club Road 7-11 store late Sunday and fled into the night with $200.
According to store manager William Mathis, who suffered a minor laceration on his forehead, the assailant stuck a small caliber automatic in his face and ordered him to "put all the money in the bag — all the bills."
The robber, described as in his late 20's, six feet tall, 225 pounds with long brown hair and a mustache, roared off in a "very loud" black automobile police said.
Investigating officers turned the case over to the detective division early today, police said.

Casselberry To Open Bids For Remodeling

CASSELBERRY — City council at its 7:30 meeting tonight is scheduled to open bids on the remodeling of the city hall to provide space for the water and sewer utility department to operate under city control later this month.
Although the city sent out requests for bids from 40 firms, it is expected that few if any will be on hand for opening at the meeting. The scope of the remodeling effort is to be the partitioning of space into individual offices.
In a workshop to follow the meeting, uses to which some $42,000 in revenue sharing funds can be put and the proposed county obscenity ordinance will be discussed.
Council is expected to authorize the payment of $17,500 for materials in the cooperative city-county project of paving Red Bug Road. The county furnished labor and equipment for the improvement.

Commission Split On Vote

One Sanford city commissioner is openly for the districting amendment on Tuesday's ballot, one says he is undecided and two others are personally against the measure that would require commissioners live in geographic residency districts.
Mayor Lee P. Moore is on a European vacation and is unavailable today to comment.
Commissioner John Morris says he feels the people of Sanford should make a decision on the districting issue.
"Personally I'm in favor of districts and will vote for them Tuesday," Morris said.
"I feel districts will provide commissioners with greater insight to overall conditions in the city. Districts also will create another link in the chain of communications between commissioners and the citizens they represent," Morris said.
Commissioner Julian Stenstrom said today he is undecided on districting. "I'm leaving it up to the people to vote tomorrow and decide whether we should have districts," he said.
"But I don't see where districts will do any good or have any value," he added.
Stenstrom said he doesn't

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate's Watergate committee was set today to debate whether limited immunity should be granted to former presidential counsel John W. Dean III in return for his quick public testimony.

Federal prosecutors reportedly have refused to promise Dean that he will not be prosecuted for testimony to the federal grand jury investigating the break-in and bugging of Democratic national headquarters.

Orlando Company Accused

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—A Florida company was accused Monday of operating a pyramid sales firm in a complaint filed by the Arizona Consumer Protection Division.

The complaint seeks an injunction against Camaron Products of Austin, Tex., an affiliate of Camalon, Inc., of Orlando, Fla.

The complaint was filed in Maricopa County Superior Court by Assistant Atty. Gen. William Dixon, the division's director.

A representative of the firm, which sells a variety of products ranging from mini-covered golf tees to home fire alarm systems, declined comment on the complaint.

The complaint charged that operations of the company relies on a deceptive multi-level retail and management investment program, soliciting individual investments up to $1200 for persons wishing to become "senior sales representatives."

A large portion of these payments are kicked back to the recruiters of the investors in the form of commissions, the suit charges.

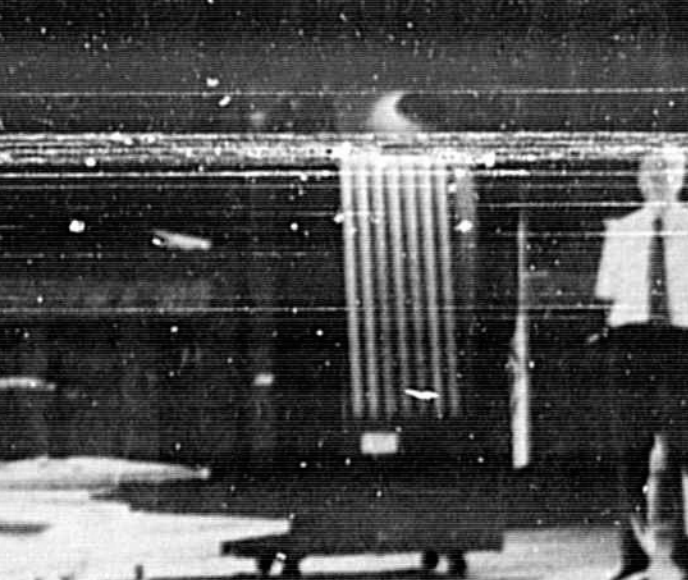

Senate panel while it would not guarantee that Dean won't be prosecuted on the basis of evidence offered by others—would allow him to testify publicly in advance of a trial without being prosecuted for his own words.

The Justice Department and Chief U.S. Dist. Judge John Sirica must approve any grant of immunity for Senate testimony.

The Dean debate comes after the White House issued a fresh denial in response to news reports that Dean is prepared to say he believes President Nixon knew of a White House cover-up of the Watergate affair.

"Any suggestion that the President participated in any cover-up activities is untrue," Deputy Press Secretary

Sanford Election Workers at Sanction

SANFORD ELECTION workers sat in readiness this morning at the Downtown civic center where city voters in small numbers cast their ballots on the question of dividing the city into four city commission residency districts.

When this photo was made only 20 voters had cast ballots. Officials predicted a small turnout since districting is the only ballot item. Two voting machines await voters but city clerk Henry Tamm reported just before noon that few of the city's 7,542 registered voters had voted. The polls opened at 7 a.m. and will close at 7 p.m. (See today's editorial, Page 4-A).

County Beams On Plan For Weeds And Water

By CHIRUS NELSON Herald Staff Writer

A countywide water conservation and management program was informally approved at today's county commission workshop session after endorsements by pollution and utility officials, and Chairman Sidney Viblen Jr.

Commissioners reacted favorably to a plea by Utility Administrator Ray Seifert and Pollution Control Officer Langley Adair that a program and budget be drawn up.

"Because of the rapid growth of Seminole County we should set out in all due haste with a program," Viblen said, after Seifert read sections of the Orange County Water Management Ordinance.

"We have a beautiful model to follow in Orange County, as they have spent hundreds of thousands of dollars in getting it set up," Viblen added.

Viblen said he hoped the county would move swiftly into a full-scale classification and monitoring program to regulate water use and conservation, as is being done by "progressive counties throughout this nation."

"Until we do this we are not doing a first class job of water management," the chairman concluded.

Lawyer Over Liberty, Judge Tells Accused

By BOB LLOYD Herald Staff Writer

Seminole Circuit Judge Robert McGregor Monday revoked a defendant's bond and ordered him returned to county jail after he asked for a public defender.

"I'm sorry," the judge told Samuel Louis Jackson, 20, of Midway, "but I've got to send the word out. People have to realize lawyers are more important than liberty."

Jackson's arraignment on an aggravated assault charge was continued for one week.

When revoking the $5,000 bond Jackson's parents had posted the judge asked why money available for the bond premium hadn't been used to retain an attorney.

Assistant public defender Gerald Rubberg told the court it was his understanding that Jackson's parents had only paid a $100 premium to obtain a $1,000 bond for his release from jail. However, the court's case file had no entry of any judge dropping the bond from $5,000.

Rubberg told Jackson before he was led away by deputies, "The court is saying if you can say for a big bond to get out of jail you should be able to hire a private attorney."

Trial was set for the week of May 29 for a topless go-go dancer and her musician husband, both charged with possessing a prohibited drug and narcotic paraphernalia.

Wilma Jean Drennan, 32, and Marvin Drennan, 33, of 1286 Gaill Place, Forest City, were arrested by county vice agents April 30 in a raid at their home.

Trial was set for the week of May 29 for a topless go-go dancer and her musician husband, both charged with possessing a prohibited drug and narcotic paraphernalia.

Wilma Jean Drennan, 32, and Marvin Drennan, 33, of 1286 Gaill Place, Forest City, were arrested by county vice agents April 30 in a raid at their home.

Mrs. Drennan, identified by deputies as "Naughty Nikki," Jackson's parents had only paid a $100 premium to obtain a $1,000 bond for his release from jail. However, the court's case file had no entry of any judge dropping the bond from $5,000.

Rubberg told Jackson before he was led away by deputies, "The court is saying if you can say for a big bond to get out of jail you should be able to hire a private attorney."
