Another First In Space

By Jane Casselberry

The latest caper being pulled off by an astronaut in space could well be a sequel to Miss Piggy's TV skit "Pigs in Space." It could be called "Ham in Space."

When the STS-9 shuttle mission lifts off from Cape Canaveral — scheduled for at 11 a.m. Nov. 28 — Amateur Radio operators in Seminole County as well as the rest of the world will have a special interest in the mission, according to William "Wimpy" Wimberly of Sanford. Wimberly is a public information assistant for the American Radio Relay League.

For the first time, average citizens from localities all over the United States and the rest of the world will have the opportunity of talking directly with an astronaut in orbit. The shuttle Columbia will be carrying the first ham radio station into orbit to be operated by Dr. Owen Garriott, a NASA mission specialist astronaut and an Amateur Radio operator, whose call sign is W5LFL.

A space center spokesperson estimates Garriott will be in contact with Amateur Radio operators no more than one hour a day, schedule permitting. He will be using a hand-held radio during part of his off-duty time to communicate with some of the thousands of "ham" operators around the world.

Wimberly said there are more than 100 Amateur Radio operators in Seminole County and many of them, himself included, will be trying to make contact with the astronaut.

He said there will be no small talk. There will only be time for exchanging call signals and the odds are against getting through during the short time allotted as the shuttle passes over. But if theirs is one of those received they will be able to get a QSL card (post cards used by hams to confirm two-way contact or reception of signal) by sending a reception report of the Amateur Radio operation from Space Shuttle Columbia.

Seminole County ham radio operators or anyone with the proper equipment will also be able to tune in at 146.94 MHz FM to listen to the 24-hour commentary on the space mission, which will be available within a 150-mile radius of the space center. The Federal Communications Commission has given the KSC Spaceport Radio Club (WB4ICJ) approval for retransmitting the radio messages between Houston and the spacecraft.

Wimberly said he listened in occasionally during the last shuttle mission, but maybe not as much as he would if he had not had so much of it while he was working at the Apollo Manned Space Flight Center during the Apollo program before retiring in 1972.

Original proposals to place an Amateur Radio transceiver aboard an orbiting U.S. spacecraft surfaced when NASA was about to launch "Skylab" in the early 1970s. NASA rejected the plan, then dubbed SKYLARK (for Skylab Amateur Radio Communications) because it came too late in the development of the program.

Space shuttle flights presented another opportunity. The American Radio Relay League (ARRL) and the Radio Amateur Satellite Corp. (AMSAT) jointly requested that NASA supply a small transceiver to be carried by Garriott, a ham operator since his teens.

NASA accepted the proposal with

Goodbye Sanford Grammar

Photograph courtesy of Mrs. Bram.

Sanford High School seniors, class of 1907, was made of four young women. They were first to graduate from what is now Sanford Grammar School: (from left) Elberta Hill, Peacha Leffler, Clara Millen and Mabel Bowler (Mrs. Martin Bram).

But Old School Ties May Not Be Severed

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

After 81 years of coping with thousands of youngsters, a name change, physical alterations, and after a life-time of service, Sanford Grammar School is about to switch careers.

Next year the School — Seminole County's oldest and Florida's fourth oldest — will close as a school. But for the venerable old building it may be only the end of a chapter not the finish of a book.

A budding plan is for it to reopen as a new education resource — a children's museum.

James J. Elliott, consultant/coordinator of social studies for the school district, said the museum he visualizes would be non-traditional.

The exhibits would be touchable and they integrated into the curriculum of Seminole County schools.

Elliott said students would receive in-class instruction and then visit the museum to see artifacts and to hear about history: Seminole County, Florida, native American, and American history, as well as the history of education.

"We're dreaming about this, but now we're going to get down to looking at what kind of staffing it will take and what kind of funds we'll need," Elliott said.

The Seminole County School Board Wednesday gave Elliott the go ahead to form a committee of educators, parents and community leaders to evaluate development of the museum.

The committee will make its recommendations to the board Mar. 1. If the museum is approved area residents will be asked to donate items for exhibit.

Even if Sanford Grammar School doesn't become a museum the stately brick structure, shaded by 80-year-old oak trees, will always have its own history to share.

Bands played, stores closed and residents paraded in the streets on April 19, 1902, when the cornerstone for Sanford High School was placed on the Seventh Street site.

The county paid $475 for the land and residents thought $7,000 to $8,000 was a high price to pay for building the new school.

When the school opened in September 1902, there was no indoor plumbing and students drank from near-by wells.

Professor W.B. Lynch had two jobs. He was principal of the new school and superintendent of Orange County schools — Seminole County was part of Orange County until 1913.

In 1907 Sanford High School graduated its first class, four girls: Elberta Hill, Peacha Leffler, Clara Millen and Mabel Bowler.

Miss Mabel Bowler, who was born in Sanford, later married Martin J. Bram. Mrs. Bram still lives in Sanford.

Mrs. Bram, 92, recalled days at her Sanford High School. She said: "It was the nicest time. I took everything they had. It was heaven to me; I especially enjoyed my four years of Latin."

When Mrs. Bram was a student children got to school the best way they could. Many walked, some rode in mule drawn wagons, flat-bed trucks, street cars and other private conveyances. School buses were introduced in 1915.

Although the school was built as a high school it also housed elementary grades from the beginning. And when a new high school opened in 1911 the first school was renamed — Sanford Grammar School.

State Attorney's Investigators Essential To Prosecution

By Charles Cobb
Herald Staff Writer

You are an assistant state attorney in Sanford. You are the prosecutor in a first-degree murder trial. Some of the witnesses who are vital to proving your case have deliberately left Florida to avoid testifying. They simply vanished.

How do you locate these witnesses? How do you return them to Sanford? How do you make sure they appear in court to testify?

The answer is you call on the services of the State Attorney's own team of "Indispensable" Investigators.

"Our main task is to do any investigative work the assistant state attorneys need to help them prepare their cases for court, to see that their ducks are all lined up," said Dan Lawrence, who is in charge of the three investigators based at the state attorney's Sanford office.

That includes locating and interviewing witnesses to crimes and collecting evidence. In addition, the investigators sometimes check out complaints of consumer fraud and occasionally conduct investigations in other parts of the state when requested to do so by the governor of the state.

The investigators "are indispensable," said Douglas Cheshire Jr., State's Attorney for the 18th judicial circuit which includes Seminole and Brevard counties. "They have to be the eyes and the ears of the prosecutors. Forty percent of the cases we bring to trial would be dismissed or not prosed (not prosecuted) if we didn't have them."

Lawrence, a 42-year-old ex-Marine, remembers one especially tough assignment that finally led him to South Carolina.

The state had charged a Seminole County man with first-degree murder. The man's sister and brother-in-law had allegedly seen the man with the murder weapon and he had described the killing to them. Obviously the relatives were important witnesses and their testimony in court was vital to the prosecutor's case.

But the pair, not wanting to testify against their relative, had disappeared from Seminole County. Lawrence and his co-workers began searching for them.

"No one had any idea where they were," Lawrence said. After a long, painstaking investigation, Lawrence located the pair in a small town in South Carolina. He went to South Carolina and had them extradited to Florida, put them up in a motel in the Sanford area during the trial period and kept a close eye on them until their court appearance.

Their testimony was crucial in obtaining a first-degree murder conviction in the case, Lawrence said.

Cheshire recalled a drug trial in which investigators from the Sanford office traveled

The Assassination

20 Years After President's Murder

Americans Sift Unanswered Questions

By Tom Tully

DALLAS (UPI) — In the 20 years since President John F. Kennedy was assassinated in downtown Dallas, the only notion that has become widely accepted about the killing is that the government's official explanation is hopelessly inadequate.

Detractors have found more and more inconsistencies in the Warren Commission Report, real or imagined. The purported facts and theories that would indicate a conspiracy have multiplied into a labyrinth of tangled half truths and suppositions that defy clarification.

The right-wing fringe in Dallas has remained suspect, along with Fidel Castro, reputed mob leader Carlos Marcello, the Central Intelligence Agency, anti-Castro Cubans, Richard Nixon, Nikita Khrushchev and various Kennedy relatives, as the real force behind the assassination.

The growth of theories and alleged new information proving or suggesting a conspiracy have even prompted some of the legions of assassination buffs to believe a concerted effort continues to keep the myth alive, in any and all of its myriad forms.

Surveys show the number of people who accept the Warren Report's conclusion has steadily declined, even as the unanswered questions about the murder have multiplied.

The Warren Report was criticized soon after it was issued, when those who blamed right-wing extremists in Dallas for the assassination found no support for their contentions.

"I was with then-Sen. Lyndon Johnson when he was spat upon in downtown Dallas, and then I was with Adlai Stevenson when he was spat upon in Dallas," said renowned Dallas merchant Stanley Marcus.

"Those acts, just prior to the assassination, indicated the characteristics of the community at that period, and the business and moral leadership of Dallas didn't rise up and yell."

Marcus tried to discourage Kennedy from coming to Dallas, "not thinking he'd be assassinated but that he'd be insulted. That atmosphere was not why he was assassinated but it showed he was killed in very unfriendly territory."

The Warren Commission, charged with delivering a comprehensive report to the nation on the circumstances of the Nov. 22, 1963, shooting of Kennedy, found that Lee Harvey Oswald alone killed the president.

Oswald himself created a tangled web of alliances that allows conspiracists to theorize he was an idealistic dreamer, or a calculating Soviet agent, or an FBI counteragent, or even a Russian double who wasn't Oswald at all.

The commission said Oswald shot Kennedy and Texas Gov. John B. Connally with a mail-order Mannlicher-Carano rifle from a sixth-floor window of the Texas School Book Depository, where Oswald worked a short time.

"The Warren Commission didn't lay the thing to rest. It opened Pandora's Box," said retired Gen. Edwin Walker, a right-winger who was shot at in his Dallas home by Lee Harvey Oswald just weeks before Kennedy died.

Walker, who admits having had several major quarrels with the Kennedys, is one of the legions who disbelieve the Warren Commission and remain convinced the whole story of the assassination has not been told.

"There's been no justice for Dallas, for Kennedy, or anybody else," he said. Walker said he has been working on his own version of the assassination, which he plans to release sometime after the Nov. 22 anniversary.

A divided House Assassinations Committee in 1980 added to the controversy, deciding after a series of inconclusive acoustic tests that there was a second gunman firing on the presidential motorcade.

Pierce Allman, a Dallas public relations man who was covering Kennedy's appearance as a newsmen on that fatal Friday, said he believes Oswald acted alone.

"But I have a nagging question — what brought it about?" he said. "And when will the official files be released?"

Vague doubts about as Allman's have blossomed into full blown disbelief in what has become an international cult of Kennedy conspiracists. Dozens of books, numerous motion pictures and even some periodical newsletters keep alive a host of mainstream conspiracy theories.

Looming large among the conspiracy elements that buffs like to cite is Abraham Zapruder's home movie of the murder, an 8-millimeter film of the shooting that seems to show the president's head snapping back at the fatal shot, suggesting a second assassin in front of his limousine.

Buffs also claim a bullet hole in the windshield of Kennedy's limo shattered on the inside, indicating a frontal shot. A bullet found on the stretcher carrying John Connally is noted to be suspiciously intact.

Some of the elements of conspiracy theories take on lives of their own, and become as convoluted in themselves as the assassination is as a whole.

One such phase developed from a photograph of the depository steps at the time of the shooting which reveals a figure that looks startlingly like Lee Harvey Oswald.

The figure later was officially identified as Billy Lovelady, another employee of the depository. Buffs note that Lovelady for some reason was wearing a shirt very similar to the one Oswald had on the day of the murder.

'I'm not entirely satisfied with the Warren Commission. If you look at what happened to Oswald, it's certainly possible to say (Jack) Ruby killed him to keep him quiet, and then you have to ask who was behind that.'

—former Dallas Mayor Erik Jonsson

Although Lovelady publicly claimed it was he on the steps, one reporter who interviewed him years later said he was tentative about the assertion, and may have experienced a profound psychological change after the murder. His early death added more mystery to his part of the story.

One Senate investigator claims 156 other figures close to the killing in one way or another have died prematurely, adding intrigue to the whole assassination epic and all subsequent investigation.

Another controversial photograph made during the assassination shows two shadowy figures in the window where Oswald was supposed to have been alone. Buffs ask why no one has applied computer enhancement to the picture for clarification.

Oswald himself created a tangled web of alliances that allows conspiracists to theorize he was an idealistic dreamer, or a calculating Russian agent, or an FBI counteragent, or even a Russian double who wasn't Oswald at all.

A signed statement from then head of Dallas Police Criminal Intelligence, Lt. Jack Revell, indicates he was told by an FBI agent that the agency was aware of Oswald's presence in Dallas, and his connections with the Communist Party.

Yet Walker claims he learned through a Dallas police source that the attorney general at the time, Robert Kennedy, ordered Oswald released after his arrest for shooting through Walker's window, in sufficient time to be free for the Kennedy appearance in Dallas.

Jack Ruby, Oswald's killer, also remains mysterious. He could have been an emotional, small-time burlesque operator who loved Kennedy and just wanted upon the opportunity to kill Oswald.

Or he could have been the calculating silencer who ended any possibility that Oswald would reveal a guiding force behind the assassination.

If Dallas suffered as a city because of the slaying, the Dallas police force has been the target of the most specific criticisms.

Dallas police had been intimately involved with security planning for the presidential motorcade, and Oswald was in Dallas police custody when he was fatally shot by Jack Ruby two days after the assassination.

"A lot of things were done wrong," conceded homicide Sgt. John Adamcik, who had been made a detective in Dallas three weeks before Kennedy was shot. "Anybody would admit that things should have been done differently. But how do you know what to do when faced with something that monstrous?"

Adamcik agrees with the Warren Commission that Oswald acted alone.

'A lot of things were done wrong. Anybody would admit things should have been done differently. But how do you know what to do when faced with something so monstrous?'

"It wasn't a hard shot, and he had been practicing," he said. "Just an average shooter could have made that shot."

Many of Dallas' leading citizens concede the Warren Report has not satisfied them.

"I have to admit there have remained through the years some unanswered questions, some I ran across as a reporter, that I've never felt totally satisfied about," said Wes Wise, elected Dallas mayor in 1971.

"I'm not entirely satisfied with the Warren Commission," added Erik Jonsson, who was elected mayor in 1964. "If you look at what happened to Oswald, it's certainly possible to say Ruby killed him to keep him quiet, and then you have to ask who was behind that."

Although the city of Dallas has largely lived down the blame it suffered for the assassination of Kennedy, for years after the murder, Dallas residents outside Texas faced insults and threats from many people.

"I was in Europe two weeks after the assassination and was sort of a curiosity, because I was the first Texan anyone had seen," said Marcus, one of the principals of the Neiman-Marcus department store chain.

"The common expression Europeans made upon hearing I was from Dallas was to point two fingers and say 'Bang bang.'"

Dallas has changed in 20 years, and the nature of its people has changed, largely due to a huge influx of northeasterners looking for a better life. Dallas remains a bastion of conservative politics, but the right-wing fervor of two decades ago has been tempered by pragmatism.

"Certainly Dallas has suffered from a conception that it had some responsibility in the assassination," Gen. Walker said. "But it has suffered because it has refused to deny and refute the castigations and criticism aimed at it."

Adamcik said the stigma attached to being from Dallas has largely abated.

"I think Dallas' bad reputation has worn down. I go all over the country and I can't see that feeling anymore," he said. "Dallas now has one of the most respected police departments in the country."

But Adamcik added that in Dallas "the potential for somebody getting shot is just as bad now as it ever was — or worse."

WORLD IN BRIEF

Turkish Cypriots Vow To Defend New State

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — Turkish Cypriot leaders said they want peace but warned they are prepared to fight to defend their newly self-proclaimed independent state in the northern section of the Mediterranean island.

The U.N. Security Council however, overwhelmingly denounced the establishment of an independent Turkish Cypriot republic in northern Cyprus and urged all nations to withhold recognition.

The council Friday adopted the British-sponsored resolution by 13 votes to one with one abstention. Pakistan voted against the call and Jordan abstained.

Rauf Denktaş, president of the new Turkish Cypriot Republic of Northern Cyprus, called the resolution "biased, one-sided and unacceptable" and "another impediment on the road to settlement."

The White House announced President Reagan will meet with Cyprus President Spyros Kyprianou on Monday to discuss the Turkish Cypriot move.

Soviets Set Rocket Threat

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union threatened Saturday to base SS-20 rockets in East bloc nations and raise its intercontinental nuclear arsenal in response to NATO's deployment of cruise and Pershing-2 missiles in Western Europe.

It also denied western government reports that Moscow had softened its stance at the Geneva arms control talks and dropped a demand that 162 missiles in the independent arsenals of Britain and France be included in the negotiations.

Defense Minister Dmitri Ustinov also indicated in a commentary in the Communist party newspaper Pravda that Moscow would deploy new armaments within striking range of the United States itself.

Not only will the Soviet Union respond in Europe, Ustinov said, "proper measures in response with a view to the territory of the United States itself will have such a nature that Americans will be bound to feel the difference."

The measures were not spelled out, but Western experts believe the Soviets will upgrade their submarine missile systems and beef up systems capable of reaching U.S. territory over the Arctic Ocean.

Battle At Refugee Camp

TRIPOLI, Lebanon (UPI) — Palestinian rebels battled Yasser Arafat's troops for control of the Beddawi refugee camp as restocked nests of mortars and rockets pounded the nearby city of Tripoli. More than 1,000 people have been killed in a week of combat, officials said.

State-run Beirut radio said both sides were waging hit-and-run strikes in the honeycombed-maze of cinderblock homes in the nearly deserted camp north of Tripoli that had been Arafat's last Lebanese stronghold.

Cruise Missile: Sophisticated Flying Torpedo

By United Press International
The cruise missiles scheduled for deployment in Western Europe next month are in effect "smart" flying torpedoes directed by sophisticated computers that guide them accurately to their targets.

Under the NATO plan, 108 Pershing 2 missiles will be placed in West Germany and 464 cruise missiles in Britain, Italy, the Netherlands, Belgium and West Germany over the next five years.

The weapon derives its name from its method of flight. It "cruises" like an aircraft. A ballistic missile is launched into a set trajectory.

The missile is a descendant of the German "buzz bomb" used on London in 1944.

The cruise missile, which can be launched from the ground, sea or air, flies on stubby, slender wings and is powered by a light turbofan engine rather than rockets, which traditionally propel ballistic missiles.

The heart of the cruise missile is an advanced navigation system that enables it to hug land to avoid detection by radar.

It is 21 feet long, has a range of about 1,500 miles and flies at about 450 mph. The missile can be armed with either a conventional or nuclear warhead.

After launch, its computer constantly scans the ground and compares it with maps stored in its electronic memory — allowing for course correction and ensuring great accuracy. The missile can hit a target the size of a tennis court 1,500 miles away.

The cruise missiles arriving in Britain this week are the first of a total of 96 nuclear-tipped cruise missiles to be placed in concrete silos at Greenham Common Air Force Base, 50 miles west of London.

The missiles will be maintained by the United States. Final firing authority will reside in Washington, although the Reagan administration has said it will consult the British government in the event of an attack.

Air-launched cruise missiles, which are dropped from the bays of B-52 bombers, already are used by the Strategic Air Command in the United States.

The commitment to deploy U.S.-made intermediate-range missiles in Western Europe was made by NATO in its "twin track" decision of 1979.

The Soviet Union has about 200 older, single-warhead SS-4 missiles targeted on Western Europe, but the West is more worried about its approximately 360 triple-warhead SS-20 missiles. Analysts believe 243 of the SS-20s are targeted on Western Europe and 117 on Asian nations.

In response, NATO decided to deploy the new missiles over a period of years beginning next month. It also decided to pursue an agreement with the Soviets on limiting the weapons on European soil.

The disarmament talks in Geneva remain deadlocked.

The Soviets are most concerned with the Pershing 2, which is capable of striking targets in their country within five to six minutes from launch.

Fire Department Sets Annual Gospel Sing

The Sanford Fire Department will feature the Annual Gospel Sing on Friday, Nov. 25, at the Sanford Civic Center from 7:00 p.m. until 12:00 midnight.

Advance tickets can be purchased from either fire station or from the ticket sales chairman, Pete Tucker. The proceeds go to the Sanford Firemen's Benefit Fund.

Advance tickets are: $5.00 adult ($6.00 at the door), $3.00 children, 5 - 11 years, and free to children 1 - 4 years.

Refreshments of coffee, cold drinks and hot dogs will be on sale. Door prizes will be awarded to lucky numbers.

Featured this year are: The Florida Boys Quartet, The Singing American and Marshall Henson.

Fun And Fitness Fair

A fun and fitness fair will be held from 1 to 5 p.m., Sunday, Nov. 20, at the Good Earth Restaurant, State Route 436, West of Interstate 4, Altamonte Springs.

Sponsored by Florida Hospital, The Fitness Force fitness centers and The Good Earth, the fair will feature aerobic dancing, demonstrations of Nautilus and other exercise equipment, whole grain and wok cooking demonstrations, and health testing and counseling.

Drawings will be held for free dinners at the restaurant, memberships to the fitness center, and health and fitness courses at the hospital.

Maternity Fashion Show

A maternity fashion show will be presented Tuesday, Dec. 6 at 7:30 p.m. in the Loch Haven Art Center auditorium, 2416 N. Mills, Orlando.

Sponsored by Florida Hospital, the show will feature a variety of styles, including casual, professional, holiday and lingerie fashions. Modeling the clothing will be 10 members of Conceptual Motions, the hospital's pre-natal exercise program.

Chara Davis, health and science specialist at WCPX-TV Channel 6, will narrate the show, which is open to the public and free of charge.

Information on health and safety for babies will be displayed in the art center lobby. Included will be material on car seats, cardiopulmonary resuscitation for infants and children, and layettes. Also, Amanda the Panda and the Parent Resource Center, both educational services of Valencia Community College, will offer free information.

Roney Gets Music Post

Louis Roney, a Winter Park native whose singing career spans 35 years and more than 2,000 performances in eight countries, has been appointed an associate professor of music at the University of Central Florida.

In addition, Roney has been awarded the title of "Artist-in-Residence" at UCF. With his wife, Joy, and other local performing artists, Roney was instrumental in founding of the Winter Park Artists Workshop.

SSAA Sets Christmas Fete

The Sanford-Seminole Art Association will hold the Christmas dinner program at the VFW Post 10050, 200 Concord Drive, Casselberry, on Dec. 14.

Job Sharing

Margaret Fontaine realized her job-sharing dream of more than a decade ago in New York

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

More than a decade ago when Margaret Fontaine was living in her small New York hometown she spotted a developing trend that she wanted to be a part of—job-sharing.

But it took a move to Sanford and a 10-year wait before she found the opportunity she had read about and dreamed of.

Margaret, 55, wanted to use her 30 years of secretarial experience, but she didn't want to work full time. She tried part-time work and was happy with her job at Flagship Bank in Sanford.

But after four years, when she left to care for her terminally ill mother, Margaret decided that when she did return to work she would try to find a full-time job that she could share with another worker.

Last May, Margaret was in the right place at the right time. The church where she has been a member for 10 years, First United Methodist Church in Sanford, was looking for a permanent replacement for Mildred Bishop Coker, who had retired about five months earlier, after more than 27 years as church secretary.

Margaret saw her opportunity and told her pastor, the Rev. Leo F. King, she would like to be the church secretary, but she really wanted only half the job.

In an interview, Margaret said when she proposed the idea it was a new concept to King.

King said it seemed like a logical idea and one he was willing to try. He found a work-mate to share the job with Margaret.

Church member Dotty Head said she had never heard of job-sharing when King asked if she wanted to be his half-time secretary.

After four years away from the work force the 55-year-old Lake Monroe woman, who had just recovered from a bout with cancer, was ready to and needed to return to work.

Dotty, who moved to Florida from Virginia 20 years ago, was in a transition period. She, like Margaret, had 30 years of secretarial experience, primarily in the aero-space industry at Kennedy Space Center.

But Dotty didn't want to restart her career in a state-of-the-art computerized office. Sharing a job with Margaret, in familiar surroundings, seemed ideal. She said, "Things just fell into place."

Since May 1, the women have shared a desk in the sunny office of the Park Avenue church. They work alternate days, each carefully placing her own name plate on the desk when on duty, so church members won't be confused.

Both women said that from the beginning their primary concern has been to make sure that church members receive consistent service from them as they perform their clerical duties, produce a newsletter and bulletins and answer queries.

When Margaret and Dotty had been on the job just six weeks King retired and was replaced by the Rev. George A. Buie III.

Buie, 39, said that having job-sharing secretaries has been a boon to the church. He said their schedule, which they work out themselves, is very flexible and he can always count on one of them being there.

He said they are both very efficient and keep close track of what needs to be done and who should do it.

Dotty and Margaret said that consideration and communication is the key to their success. They keep a log of their activities and talk on the phone for one hour every evening.

This has led to a close friendship between the two, who have found they have a lot in common: They are the same age; both are grandmothers; they play the piano and belong to the church bell choir. Both have been members of the church about 10 years and they have similar work histories and skills.

Margaret said this has been a very important factor in their being able to share their job. She said: "To do this you have to have two people who mesh together, who think pretty much alike. I've been amazed at how closely we do. Even in other areas of our lives we have the same ideas and feelings about things."

Dotty said: "I don't think I'd ever have the feeling that Margaret was taking it easy and leaving more of the work for me. It could really be a problem if those kinds of feelings developed."

The women share a paycheck as well as a job. They both work about 20 hours a week and split the pay equally.

If one needs time off the other fills in and then can count on future time off herself, without worrying about her work not being done while she is away.

Margaret said: "I feel totally refreshed when I come to work. When you don't work every day and know you don't have to I think you have a fresh attitude."

"I just couldn't work full-time. I do the books for the park — Dream World mobile home park, which her husband, Frederic, owns — and I don't have time to devote to a full-time job."

"Part-time work seems to demand too much time. This way you know someone is going to step in and do what you don't have time for."

Dotty said that at first they were afraid they couldn't fill Mrs. Coker's shoes, that they wouldn't be able to keep track of what they were doing. But it has worked out well and church members seemed to be pleased with the arrangement. She said she has gained confidence since taking the job.

Margaret said they haven't made any major mistakes, because of their work schedule. They tend to double check each other's work, so even routine errors are avoided.

Margaret realized her job-sharing dream and Dotty returned to work at a pace that meets her needs.

The women said that job-sharing isn't for everyone, but it is a good option, especially for people who are looking for a less demanding position.

Lake Brantley Senior Reigns As Junior Miss

Junior Miss Shana Fruman, center, and runners-up, Susana Human, left, first; and Sheri Duddles, second, are all smiles over victory.

By Doris Dietrich
PEOPLE Editor

Shana Rochelle Fruman is Seminole County's "Junior Miss" resulting from a program Nov. 12, at Lake Mary High School.

Other winners in the Second Annual Seminole County Junior Miss Program are: Susana Huaman, a Seminole High School senior, first runner-up; and Sheri Duddles, a student at Seminole High School.

Among the prizes Shana won is a $300 scholarship. She will represent Seminole County in the state finals in January in Pensacola.

A senior at Lake Brantley High School, Shana said the program was "neat and fun." She added, "I can't wait until the state competition."

Sponsored by the Altamonte South Seminole Women Jaycees, the Seminole County Junior Miss Program is a preliminary to America's Junior Miss, a nationwide scholarship competition for high school senior girls conducted at the local, state and national levels.

The finals are telecast over a national network each spring and summer from Mobile, Ala. where the program began in 1958 and was first telecast in 1965.

Unlike a beauty pageant, the Junior Miss program seeks to recognize, reward and encourage excellence among young people by focusing attention on the constructive achievements of outstanding high school senior girls through the presentation of scholarships and other awards to top winners.

More than $2.5 million in scholarships and awards are presented to Junior Miss participants at the local, state and national levels each year with more than $100,000 awarded to contestants in the Junior Miss national finals at Mobile. The winner there receives a $25,000 scholarship to the college of her choice.

The program is sponsored nationally by major businesses. Contestants are judged on a judge's interview, scholastic achievement, creative and performing arts, poise and appearance and physical fitness. To date, there have been 26 national title winners in the America's Junior Miss Program.

In the talent competition, Shana performed a jazz dance to the music "O to 60 and 5."

Shana, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Marshall Fruman of Longwood, works part time in a restaurant. She has two older sisters and one younger brother and is among the top ten in her class.

A member of the National Honor Society, Shana plans to major in communications at either the University of Michigan or Yale.

Shana, who maintains a 4.0 grade average, is a member of the Junior Classical League, captain of the varsity cheerleaders and she is on the gymnastics team. In addition, Shana attends jazz, tap, ballet and voice classes. She plays the piano and flute and says she enjoys drama.

The first runner-up Susana Huaman, is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Gonzalo Huaman of Sanford. Sheri Duddles, second runner-up, is the daughter of Bruce A Duddles of Sanford.

Altamonte South Seminole Women Jaycees co-chairman of the program, Cyndy Benson and Paula Brown said, "We (Women Jaycees) are extremely proud to continue to offer this worthwhile program in Seminole County. We would like to express our utmost gratitude to the business community for their support."

The program's master of ceremonies was radio personality Rick Saylor. Last year's Junior Miss, Stephanie Seaman, also participated in the program.

Shana Fruman, Seminole County Junior Miss, will represent the county in the state finals in January in Pensacola.

Engagement

Rogero-Marken

Mr. and Mrs. B.E. "Gene" Rogero, 406 Rosalia Drive, Sanford, announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Jane, to Michael Patrick Marken, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Marken of Tampa.

Born in Sanford, the bride-elect is a June, 1976 graduate of Bishop Moore High School, Orlando, where she was on the tennis and volleyball teams, and was a member of Tri-Hi-Y. She attended Santa Fe Community College and is a dental hygiene student at the University of Florida where she will graduate in April, 1984.

Her fiance, born in Peoria, Ill., is the grandson of H. Whiteside, Peoria, and G. Marken, Tampa.

Currently serving a tour of duty in the U.S. Marine Corps, he is a June, 1977 graduate of Keller High School, Keller, Texas, where he was on the football team.

The wedding will be an event of May 5, 1984, at 2:30 p.m., at All Souls Catholic Church, Sanford.

Have Breakfast With Mr. And Mrs. Santa Claus

The Lake Mary Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a special "Christmas Breakfast with Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus" on Dec. 17.

Area children and their parents are invited to share a breakfast of eggs, pancakes, bacon or sausage, juice and coffee with Santa and Mrs. Claus at Cafe Sorrento.

Due to limited seating, tickets will be available for two morning seatings, 8:30 or 9:30. Tickets are $1.50 for children under six and $3 for adults. Tickets can be obtained by contacting any chamber board member or by calling 322-1213.

A small gift from Santa will be given out to each child, courtesy of Lake Mary Lawn and Garden, and Wayne's Heating, Air and Refrigeration. A photographer will be on hand to take pictures of the children with Santa and Mrs. Claus per request of parents.

The chamber is selling a selection of homemade candies to anyone with a sweet tooth. Available while supplies last are almond fudge, marshmallow fudge Christmas balls, peanut butter fudge, stuffed dates, divinity and popcorn balls.

Prices range from 50 cents to $1.50 per box. Candymakers were Cindy Brown, Dolores Lash and Wayne and Carol Hoffman. For more information call 322-1213.

The Driftwood Village Merchants Association will sponsor its fifth Arts and Crafts show on Dec. 3-4. Deadline for entry to the show is Nov. 23.

According to Buzz Petos, spokesman for the association, this show will be better than the last one, with 100 spaces available for the artists and craftsmen to set up displays.

He said that in order to create a more "country type" atmosphere, displays will be set up in the grassy field adjacent to the shopping village.

He also stated that this will be the first time the show has been held for two consecutive days in a row. Entry fee is $25 which covers both days.

The show will be open to the public from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Dec. 3, and from 1:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. on Sunday, Dec. 4.

Proceeds will benefit the Lake Mary Community Improvement Association (CIA).

Mr. and Mrs. Joachim Liebert of Lake Mary with good friends Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Smith of DelRay Beach, recently had the thrill of a lifetime.

They were invited back stage at the Bob Carr Auditorium by Mrs. Patricia Craig, who sang the title role of "Flora Tosca" in the featured Orlando Opera Company production.

Mrs. Craig formerly Pat Duneklee, lived next door to the Lieberts in Amityville, Long Island, N.Y., and grew up with the Lieberts' three children. The Smiths were also originally from Amityville. The group enjoyed a wonderful and emotional reunion with their former neighbor and good friend, Patricia Craig.

Al and Grace Gutheil of The Forest recently celebrated their 45th wedding anniversary with a two-week stay at the Holiday Lodge in Longboat Key. While there they swam in the Gulf of Mexico and dined out in many excellent seafood restaurants.

Preceding a dinner party at a well-known restaurant, they entertained their guests with cocktails in their apartment. Special guests included their daughter, Linda, with friend, Thomas Turek, of Tampa, and "Forest" friends, Carl and Louise Rimmer, and Thomas and Zell Aiken.

The Rimmer and Aikens were also vacationing in Longboat Key at the time. Congratulations to the Gutheils on their anniversary.

The Lake Mary Chamber of Commerce met on Nov. 7. Roy Harris was not available to speak due to a previous commitment.

In his place, Rick Tesch, senior vice president of the Industrial Development Commission of Mid-Florida, Inc., spoke on the future commercial development of central Florida and explained the purpose of the Industrial Development Commission.

Winners of the meeting's door prizes were Peggy Aiken, Harry Terry, Vernon Feddersen and Ethel Carlson. The next chamber meeting will be Dec. 5.

Lake Mary Elementary School

recently held a parent advisory council meeting. Approximately 120 people attended the meeting to hear a program presented on "Everything You Always Wanted To Know About Chapter I."

The program was presented by Chapter I teachers and aides: Sandra Solomon, Eloise Matheny, Sandra Mike, Beverly Collins, Mary Jo Sitz and Dennis Dory.

During the meeting, the following officers were elected and installed: Margie Garver, president; Phyllis Taylor, vice president; Sandra Mike, acting secretary; and Mrs. Mosley and Mrs. Garver, district representatives. Miss Al Bradwell, county parent administrator, was present to install the officers.

Included in the school program were students reading poetry, a choral reading and a clogging routine. The meeting ended with refreshments being served, and an owl cake (baked by Carol Dory) was won by Mr. Carter as a door prize.

Only Child, 55, Trapped By Parents

DEAR ABBY: I am a 55-year-old single woman whose parents are still living. I am an only child. Yes, I said "child," because that's what I am.

Last week I had my phone removed because I was getting so many calls from my mother she was driving me crazy. If I don't visit my parents every day they give me the third degree: "Where were you? Who were you with? What did you do?"

I have never been able to have any close friends because my mother found fault with everybody I liked. Now I know why. She wanted me to be alone and available all the time.

How can I get out of this trap? Please don't tell me to be patient — that I will be "free" after they die — because they are both in better health than I am.

DEAR TRAPPED: It's not too late to get control of your life if you really want to. You are being treated like a child because you've been behaving like one. To deny yourself the convenience of a phone in order to avoid your mother's calls shows how you set yourself up to be the victim — something you've been doing all your life.

If you want to be "free," get professional help and learn how to be the most important person in your life without feeling guilty.

DEAR ABBY: We have two baby girls. One is 3 and the other is 2. My wife is pregnant and will have the baby in January. We are now thinking that if we should get another girl baby, we should get a sex-change operation for her that people say is now possible. How much would it cost?

NO MORE GIRLS IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

DEAR NO MORE GIRLS: Sex-change operations were not intended for infants whose parents are disappointed with the sex of a child. If you can't thank God for a healthy, normal, baby girl, why not adopt a boy?

DEAR ABBY: A few weeks ago, my husband and I went to an expensive restaurant with my sister and her husband. (I'll call him "Mickey.") When the bill came, Mickey looked it over, added a generous tip and told my husband what his share was. My husband put the cash on the table, whereupon Mickey paid the entire bill with his credit card and pocketed our cash, boasting that he would charge it to his company and write it off as a "business expense," adding he does this "all the time."

My husband didn't say anything at the time, but he felt very uncomfortable about it. If it happens again, how should we handle it?

LOST MY APPETITE

DEAR LOST: He should tell Mickey that he feels uncomfortable being written off as a "business expense." And having said that, he should insist on a separate check.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are having a disagreement about my knitting habits. I enjoy knitting while watching TV. We sometimes have friends over to watch TV, and I knit while I'm watching. My friends don't seem to mind, but my husband insists I'm being rude. What do you think?

BUSY FINGERS

DEAR BUSY: I think you're being needlessly needed. Watching TV is surely not the time to talk, so there's no harm in keeping your fingers busy. I'm sure that mountains of afghans, sweaters, booties and blankets have been conceived in front of a TV set.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple, "do-your-own-thing" ceremony, get Abby's booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (37 cents) envelope to: Abby's Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

Champagne Ball A Lunar Fantasy

A "Lunar Fantasy" will be captured at the Sanford Civic Center on Dec. 3 when the Seminole Community Concert Association stages its annual Champagne Ball.

The glittering gala is a spin-off of the former Mayfair Opening which launched the social season in Sanford before the historical landmark became the home of the Sanford Naval Academy and now the International headquarters of New Tribes Mission.

Frank Mebane Jr., manager of the fashionable Inn back in its heyday, recalls the elegant balls there when the New York Giants owned the luxurious facility. The first Champagne Ball was held under a tent at Mayfair Country Club. Nearly 400 revelers showed up for the formal affair.

Purpose of the ball is twofold: to herald the social season while promoting and supporting culture in the community. Proceeds from the gala help to bring high quality concerts to the Seminole area by SCCA.

This year's ball is under the chairmanship of Nellie Coleman, Martha Yancey and Annette Wing who plan a space trip complete with a stairway to the stars, a space capsule and spans of galaxies to create a celestial atmosphere. In other words, out of this world.

The colors of silver and blue will be carried out in the decor with sparkling blue lights featured on the white Christmas trees.

The Encores will provide the music for dancing and champagne and hors d'oeuvres will be served from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. A cash bar will be available and at midnight, ball revelers will be treated to a hearty breakfast. The dress code is semi-formal.

The package price (excluding cash bar) is $30 per couple. Reservations are due by Friday, Nov. 25. For information, call 323-0794 or 321-0780.

And there's another ball coming up which promises to be a lot of fun.

County Museum Reviews History Of Agriculture

When the Seminole County Historical Museum officially opens on Nov. 27, the history of agriculture in the county will be one of the outstanding exhibits.

Charles S. Lee of Oviedo is supplying agricultural equipment from another era.

His father, James Hiram Lee, originally from Hamilton County, and Laura Baracit Lee of Columbia County, were married in 1865. His grandfather settled in Hamilton County before 1840.

They brought $100 and their two children to Solary's Wharf on south Lake Jessup in a horse drawn, two-wheeled cart in November of 1874 and several years later moved to Lake Charm.

J.H. Lee supported his family with various jobs, one being grove-caretaking. After the exodus of most grove owners following the disastrous 1895 freeze, he was able to buy land at greatly depressed prices and set out several groves for himself.

Charles S. Lee, born in 1892, was the youngest of their 10 children. He married the late Goldie Beckley Lee in 1915 and they reared their four children in a home built on Lake Charm in 1888 by Bishop William X. Ninde's daughter, Mary.

Returning to Oviedo from Ireland where he had served in the aviation division of the U.S. Navy in World War I, Lee held several jobs before planting his first 10 acres of celery in 1922. Though celery remained his main crop, he also grew other vegetables such as onions, cabbage, and escarole. He began buying idle land in east Seminole County in the 1930s for a cattle ranch.

In 1942, at the age of 50, he sold his farms because "I've seen too many farmers die broke, and if I want to live a long life, I will have to get away from the stresses of truck farming." The cattle operation that he began is now operated by his son, Robert Lee, but he still takes an active interest in it.

He was a member of the State Stabilization and Conservation Committee for 13 years and a member of its preceding organization for 13 years. He served 15 years on the State Sanford Farmers Market advisory board.

He was a charter member of the Florida Citrus Mutual and a charter member and director of the Central Florida Production Credit Association for 39 years. He served on the town council of Oviedo in the early 1930s, was a director of the Citizens Bank of Oviedo for 19 years, and was a director of the Jacksonville Branch of the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta. He was a director of the First National Bank in Sanford from 1928 to 1932.

Lee is a member of the Seminole County Cattlemen's Association and has been a member of the Oviedo Masonic Lodge for 66 years.

Loehmann's

A note of thanks...

The overwhelming acceptance by the ladies of the Orlando Area to our new store located in Altamonte Springs has made all of our special efforts worthwhile.

Searching the fashion centers of the world for the very finest clothes, scouring the markets for the most up-to-the-minute styles and continuing our famous low pricing tradition has always been our fashion formula.

It is this gratifying support from our discriminating friends that always makes it a privilege to serve you.

Visit the Loehmann's nearest you. You'll see why Loehmann's stands alone because we let our fashions and our prices speak for themselves.

Sincerely,

George J. Bremberg

48 Students At SCC Named To 'Who's Who'

The 1984 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges will include the names of 48 students from Seminole Community College who have been selected as national outstanding campus leaders.

Campus nominating committees and editors of the annual directory have included the names of these students based on their academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities and potential for continued success.

They join an elite group of students selected from more than 1,500 institutions of higher learning in all 50 states, the District of Columbia and several foreign nations.

Outstanding students have been honored in the annual directory since it was first published in 1934.

Students named this year from Seminole Community College are:

Amjad Ali, Debra Anderson, Al Azula, Audrey Bickel, Alice-Margaret Bose, Kevin Brewer, Alan Davison, Mary A. Demerse, Cindy Duddles, Dorothy Ellis, Sandra Flake and Diego Giannini.

Also: Steve Gleason, Gene Gregory, Frederick Green, Louis Hale, Patrick Hill, David Huddleston, Tami Jones, Robert Kelly, Bertha Ann Lackey, Stella Lackey, Tammi Luke, Amy McCormick and Larry McGee.

Also: Kendall Mason, Sherry Mommens, Suzanne S. Morse, Kevin Murphy, Roy Nungesser, Lisa Overton, Randy Pinkley, Ken Rattanavong, Nancy Roberts and Mark Savole.

Also: Christopher M. Seckington, John Sorzyno, William Braden Sturm, John M. Truiuck, Thann Truong, Lisa Turner, Vicki Wade, David B. Walters, Howard Weinstein, Scott Williams, Gloria Broadbent Wills, Charlotte Wolfe and Jeff Young.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY NOVEMBER 20, 1983. In the year a enterprises or projects which you develop on your own have a stronger chance for success than those that involve partners. Be independent. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your judgment may be questionable today and steps might have to be retraced. Be prepared to have in your feet what you lack in your head. Order now: The New Matchmaker wheel and booklet, which reveals romantic compatibilities for all signs, finds rising signs, tells how to get along with others, plus more. Send $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Mail an additional $1 and your zodiac sign for your Scorpio Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll be helpful today, provided the idea is of your own making. If demands are made upon you, you might have others look elsewhere for aid. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Do not yield to peer pressure today if you feel you're being coerced into doing something against your better judgment. Be your own person. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Keep private family matters within the home today. Asking outsiders for advice could cause problems by forcing everyone to take a position. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You are likely to have small tolerance today for persons who are too opinionated. Steer clear of these types. Have yourself a fun day. ARIES (March 21-April 19) In joint ventures today, have an understanding in advance so that the greater burden won't fall upon you, but will be divided equally. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Even though your thinking will be clear today, be prepared to bend your ideas a bit in order to placate persons with whom you'll be associating. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Do not be indifferent today regarding your responsibilities and duties. Measure up when required to do your bit. CANCER (June 21-July 22) You and a close friend might not see eye-to-eye on important issues today. Don't let things get out of hand and cause a serious rift. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your image is a trifle fragile today, so do not operate in a manner that could give companions reasons to question your basic motives. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Think before you speak today or you may cause yourself embarrassment from careless remarks. If you pull a boo-boo, apologize immediately. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Today, don't lend cherished things to a person who, experience teaches, might treat them carelessly. He hasn't changed his habits. 20) If you allow it, outsiders could have a greater influence over family matters than they should have today. Let the clan alone resolve issues. ARIES (March 21-April 19) Do not take everything you hear at face value. Normally you're not very gullible, but today you might believe everything you're told. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Try not to let your extravagant urges cause you to buy things today which you presently can't afford. Wait until your purse is heavier. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Poor judgment could get you into involvements today that place you in opposition to others. Look for allies, not antagonists. CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you hope to be an achiever today, it will be necessary to rely upon yourself. Helpers will be scarce. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) True humility is a noble virtue, but today you could humble yourself unattractively. Let at least a smattering of ego prevail. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The ranks following your banner are apt to be quite thin today, so don't get into situations where you'll need strong forces to back you up. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be extremely careful how you state important issues today. What you say could be misinterpreted and cause you embarrassment. PISCES (Feb. 20-March
