Skim Milk Is High On Calcium

DEAR DR. LAMB - For the past two years I have been giving my children, ages 11 and 7, low-fat and skim milk. I asked the doctor if they were getting enough calcium and he said they were. Recently I heard a nutritionist claim that children should have whole milk to get the calcium they need. Who do I believe? Are there other foods that supply calcium?

DEAR READER - I would suggest you place your trust in the food analysis of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. There is no calcium whatsoever in the fat in milk. It is the fat that's removed from low-fat and skim milk.

In fact, if you were to check the agricultural handbooks for food values you would find that fortified skim milk and fortified low-fat milk, which is what most people use in these instances, contain considerably more protein and calcium per glass than ordinary whole milk. Perhaps you misunderstood the nutritionist. She may just have been talking about milk in general and cited whole milk as it is commonly used, rather than implying that if the milk wasn't whole you wouldn't get the calcium you needed.

To give you more information about milk and the calcium and protein content of whole milk, low-fat milk and skim milk I am sending you The Health Letter number 72. Others who want this issue on milk can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1531, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Milk and milk products are our best sources of calcium and protein. One of my favorites in this group from a health point of view is low-fat cottage cheese, sometimes referred to as slim cheese or low calorie cheese.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I have a friend in college who studies many hours a day and gets very little physical activity. She eats quite a bit but she doesn't get fat. Does studying use a lot of calories? Would you use more calories studying for three hours than you would just sitting for three hours?

DEAR READER - I hate to disappoint you but the brain uses very little energy even when one is concentrating on extremely difficult tasks. It has been said that you can run the brain on less calories than you find in one peanut, which I guess means that all of us have peanut brains.

This is one of the main reasons that office workers and people who use their brains tend to get fat. Desk work of any type in a person who does very little exercise means that the person doesn't use very many calories a day.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I have a question about a crossword puzzle. The clue is "A word that is a synonym for 'to be'." The answer is "AM".

Sunshine Law Inquiry: No 'Evidence' Up To Now

By TOM GIORDANO Herald News Editor

There is insufficient evidence as of today to support charges the state's Sunshine Law was violated in the firing of former chief Wallace N. LaPeters.

to interview one or two more persons regarding this matter and I don't know if those interviews will produce any evidence of wrong doing," said Lawrence.

The day after the firing, LaPeters called a press conference in which he hurled several allegations of wrongdoing against Knowles and implied city commissioners conducted themselves improperly by acting to lead up to his dismissal.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Iraq Embassy Raided; Hostages Held in Paris

PARIS (UPI) — Three men with sub-machineguns traded shots with police outside the Iraqi Embassy today. Two of them barricaded themselves inside the building where they were reported to have taken hostages.

The gunmen later demanded a flight to London to free one of their comrades.

The incident follows two attacks on Iraqis in London earlier this month. On July 9 Abdul Al Nalif, a former Iraqi premier and an opponent of the present regime in Baghdad, was shot dead in central London. One fleeing gunman was captured, another was arrested later.

Last week a hand grenade went off under the car of the Iraqi ambassador to London. The ambassador was unhurt but two passersby were slightly injured. Three men are being sought.

Target: Japan Prime Minister

TOKYO UPI — A man today tried to ram his car into a sedan carrying Prime Minister Takeo Fukuda in the city of Fukui, near the Japan Sea coast, the Metropolitan Police Department said.

Dollar Hits Postwar Low

TOKYO UPI — The U.S. dollar today plummeted to a new postwar low and came perilously close to the 190 yen mark before rallying slightly to close the morning at 190.65 Japanese yen on the Tokyo foreign exchange market.

Balloonists Vow Repeat

CONCARNEAU, FRANCE (UPI) — Two British adventurers, beaten by stormy weather in their bid to be the first to cross the Atlantic in a balloon, reached land in a French fishing boat early today and immediately vowed to try it again. Tired but in good spirits, Donald Cameron, 37, and Christopher Davey, 34, pulled into the picturesque Brittany fishing port of Concarneau after midnight aboard the trawler Elnisor.

Christina Wants Quiet Affair

Painful Wound For President

The resignation of Dr. Peter G. Bourne as President Carter's principal adviser on drugs and narcotics, after being charged with using a fictitious name for the recipient of a powerful drug prescription, is one of those developments that commands unusual attention because of its melancholy irony.

Dr. Bourne violated the law and medical ethics when he wrote a phony prescription to protect the identity of his administrative assistant and faces criminal prosecution.

His misdeed is a painful wound to the Carter presidency, made particularly vulnerable by low public esteem.

Dr. Bourne's resignation July 20 suggests that wiser counsel prevailed over an initial White House impulse to stonewall.

On July 19, the day following disclosure of Dr. Bourne's offense, the president's chief assistants, Hamilton Jordan and Jody Powell, dropped their important national duties and closed themselves in an all-day session with Dr. Bourne.

This produced a transparent three-page rationalization and an announcement that Dr. Bourne would be suspended without loss of pay. But the president apparently decided that the Bourne affair had better be resolved before he faced a nationally televised press conference on prime time July 30.

Even though the failure of trusted lieutenants seems to be a part of the ordeal of power, Dr. Bourne's misconduct must be particularly galling to the president.

For Dr. Bourne and his wife, who is deputy director of Action, the federal voluntary service agency, are among Mr. Carter's closest personal associates as members of the Georgia coterie in the White House.

The Georgia intimates President Carter brought with him to Washington have proved troublesome for his administration and costly for his prestige.

Bitter End For Altamonte

By JIM HAYNER Herald Sports Editor

DELAND — Altamonte Springs' pennant hopes came to a tumbling halt Saturday when its Little League all-stars were stunned into 1-0 sub-

Sports Parade

By MILTON RICHMAN

The Who, Where And Why

NEW YORK (UPI) — Now that it's all over and the two of them are buddy-buddy again following a surrealistic chain of events which kept swirling somewhere between sheer force and pure fantasy, everyone has the same question. Why? Why did George Steinbrenner, ordinarily a tough, iron-willed individual with rocklike resolve, suddenly turn around after firing Billy Martin as manager of his New York Yankees' ball club and hire him back again five days later? People are asking more questions, too. And will Billy Martin actually ever take over as manager again 14 months from now? But, let's get back to the first one: What made George Steinbrenner change his mind? The answer isn't quite as simple as it was made out to be in the news conference immediately following Saturday's Old Times Day celebration at Yankee Stadium. One of the aspects which wasn't even mentioned, mostly because both men considered it strictly private, was the mutual enmity between Steinbrenner and Martin together one day last week. It concerns Billy Martin's health.

mission to the West Volusia All-Stars as a Huckleberry Finn-type pitcher named Wyatt Smith handpicked the normally powerful hitting Altamonte boys on just one hit. Smith outplayed Altamonte ace Craig Bolton, who hurled a three-hitter and claimed the only hit off Smith. The pitching duel boiled down to DeLand striking early as Bobby Hunt reached base via an error, advanced on a wild pitch and scored on a game-winning hit by Jimmy Worthington, who rifled a single into left field for the first inning. After that, it was all Smith and Bolton, who settled down to value their seven batters he faced and 11 of the last 12. Every starter in the Altamonte lineup took a turn going on strikes. Bolton's leadoff single in the fourth appeared to be the start of a rally, but Smith got dangerous Van Golmont to pop up and whiffed power hitters John Lazoff and Troy Quackenbush.

Thus DeLand advances to today's state tournament in Miami. Altamonte manager Ralph Cochran had associates scout DeLand earlier in the week, and frankly, hasn't figured on Smith making such a strong showing. He knew catcher Duncan Parham was the team's strong point pitching-wise, but no report on Smith, who hasn't pitched in tourney competition. "I think we'll win by 15-1 or 14-1," he predicted, boldly. As for Smith, the 12-year-old youngster was beaming with pride between each pitch. He was particularly effective at hitting the corners. He pitched for Pierson during the regular season.

Sam Snead

GOLF CLASSICS Tips from an Old Reliable Sam Snead, owner of a classic golf swing, credits his slant, a factor that often doesn't get the proper attention. "A lot of golfers stand too upright with the back too straight up and down," Snead says. "Their shoulders are forced to turn horizontally on the backswing. This throws the swing out of the proper plane. Here, consciously, I see golfers who bend too far forward from the waist. This golfer's teacher for the ball and consequently swings too flat. Snead explains that you ought to stand with flexed knees, with your butt sticking back and with your arms hanging comfortably from the shoulders. This enables you to tilt and turn properly as you take your backswing. And it lets you swing freely through the ball.

Saints' Dobler Protects Flinger VERO BEACH, (UPI) — New Orleans Saints' guard Conrad Dobler was outplayed Sunday with a heavily padded flinger glove to protect his left leg from a punt. The offensive guard underwent minor surgery last week to lighten his leg from the weight, which has been prone to dislocation.

Broncos Lose To Cubans, 2-1 HOLLYWOOD, Fla. — Seminole Pony Baseball League's bronze all-stars won one and lost one over the weekend in the state title game which ended the season for the local side. Seminole remained alive with a 6-5 win over Hollywood Hills as Cuba hit two homers. But in the eighth, Florida's Phil Patton hit another homer, but was beaten, 9-1, by the eventual tourney winner Miami Cuban Baseball Academy squad.

BOBBY ROBINSON LEADS ALTAMONTE BACK TO DUGOUT

Royals Stay Hot; Take Advantage Of Slumping Red Sox For 2-1 Win

By United Press International Kansas City manager Whitey Herzog can sympathize with Boston's problems — up to a point. His Royals won the 14th of their last 14 games Sunday and stayed four games ahead of California in the AL West. They did it by defeating the slumping Red Sox, 2-1. Boston has now lost 10 of its last 12 games and watched a 16-game bulge over Milwaukee in the American League East dwindle to a 4½-game margin. "We've had two seasons this year out there," said Herzog, referring to the Royals' slow start. "But the Red Sox will snap out of it, and when they do, I'm glad I won't be around to see it." The Red Sox were held to just six hits as Paul Splittorf struck out two and walked one before yielding to Al Hrabosky, who dropped the second, 2-0. The Yankees are now tied with Baltimore for third place in the division and next open a two-game series against the Texas Rangers. The Royals scored in the first when Fred Patek led off with a double off Bill Lee, 1-0. Patek went to third on a single by Joe Zeb and scored on a fielder's choice by Al Cowens. The winning run came in the third on consecutive singles by Zeb, Cowens and Amos Otis. While none of the trailing teams is exactly making a run at the Sox, the tumultuous New York Yankees have patched themselves together and Sunday split a double-header with the Minnesota Twins, winning the first, 4-3, and dropping the second, 2-0. The Yankees are now tied with Baltimore for third place in the division and next open a two-game series against the Texas Rangers. Jeff Newman lined a two-out single to the ninth inning to help the Yankees to a 2-1 victory over the Red Sox. Tony Muser drove in one of three runs with a triple — a first for the Brewers — to power Milwaukee. Randy Stein, 9-2, was the winning pitcher. A's 5, Indians 4. Rose As Fine A Jokester As Batter, Evidenced By 'Sidney Stonestreet'

By United Press International In addition to being the most consistent batsman in the National League has seen in 61 years. Pete Rose also rates as quite a joker. "I don't know much about Willie Kauter," Rose said Sunday after reaching No. 60 on his 10,000th hit. "Of course, he doesn't know much about me, either." Almost everyone who is in the country does, though. With two singles in the Cincinnati Reds' 5-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies, Rose entered a streak that began June 14 and could threaten Joe Mauer's all-time record of 64-game streak. "Next is Sidney Stonestreet's 66-game streak," Rose quipped. "You've never heard of him, but I can't get from 46 to 66. It helps me up the ladder." Rose doesn't doubt he will be the leader against Atlanta's Phil Niekro. He doesn't seem overly excited about getting to 61, either, even though it is considered one of baseball's most unobtainable records. Philadelphia's Mike Schmidt was victimized on two Red Sox bunts that prolonged the streak and when the Red Sox leadoff man came to the plate 9-0-4 in the fifth inning. Schmidt moved to a 61th, guarding against a bunt. Rose stepped the lead by himself. Andre Dawson hit two home runs in an eight-run third inning and Larry Parrish had three home runs and five RBIs. Montreal set an NL total base record with 16 and tied a major-league mark by hitting eight homers. Pirates 5, Dodgers 2. Frank Tomars' run-scoring triple highlighted a three-run second inning and Dave Parker added a solo home run to help Pittsburgh snap a seven-game losing streak and the first win in Los Angeles since Aug. 25, 1976. Giants 4, Cubs 3-4. Vito Marcuzzi pitched a six-inning, no-hit shutout for the
