Showdown set in Lake Mary

Sixth-ranked Lake Howell takes to the road tonight against Lake Mary in a 5A District 4 football showdown.

The game is a traditional rivalry due to Lake Mary's success in recent years and Lake Howell's determination to take over the spotlight.

Make no mistake about it — these two teams just plain don't like each other.

The United States will sell 300 U.S. Army tanks to Saudi Arabia, the White House announced yesterday.

But there's a catch. The U.S. will promise to help fulfill Israel's security needs, providing Israel does not try to block the sale of the tanks.

By the way, the going price for 300 U.S. Army tanks is over $700 million.

State wants your toxics

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Give the state your toxics, your poisons, your hazardous materials yearning to be free of their cluttered lives under your sink.

The state-sponsored Amnesty Days collection of hazardous waste will be Saturday and Sunday at the Altamonte Mall and resume Oct. 3 and 4 at Sanford Plaza. Saturday hours are from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. Sunday hours are from noon until 5 p.m. Weekday hours are from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m.

Gov. Bob Martinez is tentatively scheduled to open the Altamonte Mall site at 10 a.m. Saturday along with a host of state, county and city officials.

You can deliver your hazardous wastes to the collection site, or up to 100 pounds of materials will be taken from homes, schools, farms, agencies and small businesses free of charge. Amounts larger than 100 pounds will be accepted for a reduced charge. The materials will be collected this weekend and next week by a state-paid contractor, GSN Services Inc., and either incinerated or recycled, said state Amnesty Days coordinator Jeanie White.

Began in 1984, Amnesty Days is a state program that tries to prevent pollution of groundwater and our environment by collecting commonly used hazardous materials. White said the program also serves an important education function, teaching residents the important roles they play in the protection of the environment.

Since the program began, more than 27 million pounds of the dangerous chemicals have been collected.

Braniff creates chaos

Local travel agents scramble to adjust

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN
Herald staff writer

LAKE MARY — Local travel agents are scrambling to clear up confusion created for their clients when Braniff Airlines filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy a second time in five years Wednesday.

Ann Petros of Lake Mary Travel said her agency opened early yesterday to handle a barrage of calls from clients holding Braniff tickets.

"It has been driving us crazy today," Petros said. "I wish this had never happened."

"You can't work with an airline and not expect these things to happen. Sometimes you can see when an airline is having trouble by its flights or cancellations. But there was no indication that this was going to happen," she said.

Petros said she had been busy pulling all Braniff reservations between now and the end of the year, although federal regulations do not allow re-issuing tickets already purchased for Christmas. Tickets

Shopping center gets sewer service

By SANDRA BOUCHAHINE
Herald staff writer

LAKE MARY — After delaying a decision twice, commissioners last night approved a sewer agreement between the city and the county for the southeast quadrant of the city.

This solves the problem for Victoria Square, a shopping center under construction, which was facing the threat of no sewer service. Construction for the shopping center at Highway 17-92 and Weldon Boulevard has already begun.

Even though Victoria Square will get its sewer service, other property owners who propose development in that part of the city will not fare as well if the commission adopts a proposed moratorium on development. The moratorium would exclude Victoria Square.

Commissioner Thomas Mahoney made the motion for a moratorium on development on over 50 acres of land south of Lake Mary Boulevard and east of Country Club Road. He said his concern was over traffic problems in the area.

Mahoney said the problem went "beyond sewer."

"The issue is should we allow additional development in a quadrant stressed way beyond capacity."

CFRH director leaving after 10 good years

By BRAD CHURCH
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Ten years ago Seminole County Memorial Hospital was strapped for money, losing patients and doctors to Orlando, and running out of space. The county-owned hospital was sold to Hospital Corporation of America (HCA) with the understanding that a new state-of-the-art hospital would be built.

James Tesar came to Sanford in March 1980 to take over administration of the hospital, renamed Central Florida Regional Hospital. For the next two years he was in charge of the construction of the new building and running the old First Street hospital.

Tesar is being transferred to HCA headquarters effective Sunday. Today was to be his last day in Sanford.

Local spaceman Joseph W. Kittinger Jr.

Seminole County astronaut earns niche in hall of fame

An Altamonte Springs astronaut will be inducted into the International Space Hall of Fame tomorrow.

Joseph W. Kittinger Jr., 61, is one of two Americans to be honored in the 13th year of inductions. He will be recognized with cosmonauts Musa K. Manarov and Vladimir G. Titov, the first men to spend a year in space on the Soviet space station Mir, "2001: A Space Odyssey" writer Arthur Clarke and space artist Chesley Bonestell.

Kittinger, a retired Air Force colonel, served as a test pilot for the Manhigh balloon research program at Holloman Air Force Base, N.M. In the program to test man's ability to function usefully in a near-space environment, he descended from a record 96,000 feet in a Manhigh capsule in 1957.

In Project Excelsior III, Kittinger jumped from an open gondola suspended from a helium-filled balloon at 102,800 feet in 1960. The project was conducted to develop a parachute for escape at extreme altitudes.

In 1984, he became the first to fly across the Atlantic Ocean solo in a balloon.

Kittinger, a Tampa native, attended the University of Florida for over a year before joining cadet training. He received his pilot wings in 1950 and joined the Manhigh project in 1956.

Titov and Manarov commanded the Mir Space Station from December 1987 to December 1988. Titov became a cosmonaut in 1976 and Manarov in 1978.

Clarke, who also wrote two sequels to "2001," received the 1982 Marconi International Fellowship award for introducing the concept of geostationary orbits, which allows global coverage with three communications satellites.

Tomorrow's ceremony will mark the 101st inductee into the Space Hall of Fame. Representatives from 11 countries have been honored at The Space Center in Alamogordo, N.M.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

FLORIDA BRIEFS

Anheuser-Busch buys Sea Worlds

ORLANDO - Harcourt Brace Jovanovich Inc., the debt-ridden textbook publisher, agreed Thursday to sell six theme parks to Anheuser-Busch Companies Inc., the nation's largest brewer, for $1.1 billion.

The sale agreement covers Sea World parks in Florida, Texas, California and Ohio, as well as two theme parks in Central Florida - Cypress Gardens and Boardwalk and Baseball - and related land holdings, the company said.

The sale is expected to close in November. Harcourt said it will use initial net proceeds of $930 million to reduce its long-term debt.

Much of that debt was incurred in 1987 when Harcourt directors adopted a $3 billion recapitalization plan to thwart a hostile takeover bid by British tycoon Robert Maxwell. Maxwell eventually abandoned his bid.

Harcourt put the six theme parks on the block in June. At the time, Harcourt said the debt was preventing it from investing in its publishing and insurance businesses.

Governor calls for education summit

TALLAHASSEE - Gov. Bob Martinez called Thursday for a state education summit, one day after Education Commissioner Betty Castor recommended inviting state educators to Tallahassee for the same purpose.

Inspiration for the state summit came from the President's national education summit this week in Charlottesville, Va., which Martinez attended.

Castor said she wants to hold the summit in January or February; Martinez said he'd set a date for the summit after he returned to Tallahassee Friday. He may schedule the summit some time before the National Governor's Conference in February, said Jon Peck, the governor's press secretary.

Castor said that in addition to the President's agenda of drug- and crime-free schools, preschool education and choices for parents, specific concerns for Florida need to be addressed. She listed keeping up with rapid growth - which includes more than 100,000 students next year, increasing family and community involvement and addressing ways to solve Florida's chronic dropout problem as top priorities.

Shuttle flight to go to court

WASHINGTON - Anti-nuclear activists filed suit Thursday to halt the Oct. 12 launch of the space shuttle Atlantis and the atomic-powered Galileo probe to Jupiter, charging the government suppressed critical safety data.

The Foundation on Economic Trends, the Christie Institute and the Florida Coalition for Peace and Justice claim deadly plutonium could be released in a launch explosion or if Galileo accidentally re-enters Earth's atmosphere.

Their suit is the first to try to stop a civilian space flight. They fear winds could carry plutonium as far as 40 miles from the Kennedy Space Center - as far as Disney World in Orlando, Fla.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration contends testing shows the $1.4 billion Galileo's twin compact atomic power packs would withstand a Challenger-class disaster and that even in a more severe accident, any radiation release would be minimal.

NASA accused the activists of spreading "several glaring inaccuracies." The activists claim "there is as great as a 1-in-430 chance that there will be radioactive contamination" in a launch accident.

last day in his Sanford office. He considers the task of getting the new hospital on Seminole Boulevard built and all the staff and patients moved his biggest accomplishment as administrator.

T.S. McDonald, chairman of the hospital's board of trustees and a member of the original board, said, "It was a remarkable accomplishment to get the new building built and occupied in 27 months."

"HCA had their plans, and their builder, but Jim was the man on the scene," McDonald said. "There were quite a few changes in the original plans to suit our local needs, and Jim was the one to make them."

McDonald credits Tesar with increasing the medical staff from 38 to 115 doctors, and with adding state of the art equipment to the hospital's inventory.

"I would like to take credit for some of that, but the board really does very little," McDonald said. "Jim Tesar is the one who got all of that accomplished. He does such a good job of presenting precisely what the issue is. We are certainly going to miss him."

Bill Kirchhoff, former county commissioner who was instrumental in getting the county-owned hospital sold to a private party, said Tesar was an excellent administrator and representative of HCA.

"HCA told the county when they bought the hospital what they were going to do and they lived up to everything they said, and even exceeded their promises," Kirchhoff said.

"They did a good job of getting the new building built in such a short time under Tesar's leadership. He has been well-liked and a credit to the hospital and the community and he will be missed," Kirchhoff said.

Tesar, an Illinois native who came to Sanford after working at a Fort Pierce hospital, said he is also proud of his role in keeping the Seminole Community Health Clinic open, helping to set up the county program for indigent pregnant women, in establishing the hospital's cardiac catheterization laboratory, and in bringing the Central Florida Radiation Therapy clinic to Sanford.

Tesar, who has been active in the Sanford and Lake Mary communities, said "I have always seen the hospital as part of the community and have encouraged all employees to be active in the community."

"The hospital will only be successful if the community is successful. We can only meet the needs of the community if we know what they are."

Tesar was president of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce this year and had served on its legislative and capital improvements committees. He is also past president of the Lake Mary Rotary Club and serves on that city's capital improvements and personnel committees. He also serves on three committees at Seminole Community College and on advisory boards to Sun Bank and Seminole Schools.

Tesar said he has always seen the goal of the local hospital as offering as many programs as possible which help local people from having to go to Orlando for health care.

He was instrumental in CFRH's application for a state certificate to begin an open heart surgery program. He said the 2 1/2 weeks of hearings, both in Tallahassee and Orlando, have been completed but a final decision on the application is not expected before the end of the year.

Tesar explains that the hearing officer will make a recommendation to Gary Coler, secretary of Health and Rehabilitative Services, sometime within the next couple of months. Coler will make the final decision.

It is somewhat unusual for a hospital as small as CFRH to have an open heart surgery program, Tesar acknowledges, but he is confident it will be approved and the hospital will perform 200 such surgeries the first year it is in operation. Tesar said the Meredith Scott cardiac surgery team of Orlando has committed to running the program if it is approved.

Although small hospitals in many parts of the country are having tough financial problems, Tesar said Central Florida's population growth has insulated CFRH from the problems of rural hospitals of its size.

Tesar said the primary area the hospital serves is from Lake Mary Boulevard on the south through Deltona to the north. "We have a lot of retired patients from Volusia County which accounts for the high percentage of Medicare patients," he said.

Tesar said the hospital is small enough that most staff members know each other and doctors know the staff, which is an advantage over large hospitals to most people. Yet, he said, CFRH must remain competitive with the larger Orlando hospitals in salary and benefits offered to staff.

Like most Florida hospitals, business at CFRH varies widely according to the season. "February is our busiest month and August our least busy, which gives you an indication," he said. "Besides the tourist season and retired people going north for the summer, there are just more viruses going around during the winter, even in Florida's climate," he said.

Tesar said he is especially proud of his involvement with the late Dr. Luis Perez in keeping the community health clinic, once the Migrant Health Clinic, open. He notes that the clinic was about to be closed when he and Perez got other doctors on the staff interested in maintaining the clinic. "It has had some excellent staff physicians and performs a valuable service for the community," he said.

The cardiac catheterization lab opened in a new addition to the hospital in April, 1988. A cardiac rehabilitation program was also instituted in the hospital-owned Medical Arts center behind the hospital.

Radiation therapy is something local patients had to go to Orlando for until the radiation therapy clinic was started by the hospital, and then sold to private therapists, Tesar points out.

My answer is no," he said.

He then made a motion to "direct staff to bring an ordinance that would place a moratorium on development for the next 18 months" until the traffic issue is resolved.

An ad hoc traffic study committee comprised of residents, a Seminole Community College representative and county officials has been researching since June the problem of traffic congestion in that area. The college is involved because city residents said they felt the institution was contributing to a heavy overload of traffic, especially on Broadmoor Road. The traffic committee is expected to make its recommendations to the commission in two weeks.

Mayor Dick Fess said providing sewer service and the traffic problem were not related and did not go along with slowing down development.

City Attorney Ned Julian Jr. said as long as there was enough data to justify the limitation of development, a moratorium could be approved.

ordered this week could be voided, she said.

Lake Mary Travel agents are advising clients who purchased tickets with credit cards to notify the credit card company to freeze charges for tickets. She said clients who purchased tickets with Mastercard or VISA should send their tickets with their bill to the company, who will give them credit for the amount of ticket purchase.

"One bit of advice: put it on a credit card," Petase said.

Petase said she is concerned about clients who purchased Braniff tickets through Lake Mary Travel and have already left for travel. "We just don't have any way to reach them," she said.

Beth Livingston of Abba Tours in Sanford said the agency had sold several Braniff tickets, but "didn't have too many drastic cases."

"It was a shock to everybody. Had we known, we could have warned our clients," Livingston said.

Braniff ticket agents at the airports are trying to re-route passengers on other airlines, and some airlines are accepting Braniff tickets on a stand-by basis or offering coach tickets at a 50-percent discount.

Delta Airlines is accepting Braniff tickets for return or continuing travel, but not original tickets; American Airlines will accept Braniff discounted or coach tickets with travel dates prior to Oct. 15; United Airlines and USAir are accepting Braniff tickets issued from any airline but Braniff; Continental Airlines will confirm first-class reservations, but will put excursion tickets on standby; and Northwest Airlines no longer is accepting Braniff tickets as of noon yesterday.

Relief for Hugo victims

Central Florida branches of Sun Bank are collecting non-perishable food, water and diapers for victims of Hurricane Hugo. One truck per day for the next three weeks will carry goods. Anyone wishing to donate cash or clothing should take such donations to the First Methodist Church in Sanford. Bank vice president Harold Highsmith organizes the food in preparation for departure.

Altamonte Springs police bristle at ticket quota talk

By SUSAN LODEN
 Herald staff writer

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Altamonte Springs police officials are bristling at the notion that 10 traffic control police officers have to meet a "quota" of 100 traffic citations per month, police spokesman Jeff Hawkins said.

The term quota, Hawkins said, has been improperly used by some news media in reporting the department's reduced "goal" for ticket writing. The new goal adds up to one ticket per officer each hour that officer is on duty, he said.

"This is to evaluate job performance," Hawkins said. "We do not set quantity goals to make money for the city. These guys (the officers) don't see any of that money. They just have to know if they are doing their job."

Hawkins said the traffic citation goal per month for each officer will be reduced from 170 to 100 per month beginning in October. Hawkins said the 170 ticket per month goal was apparently a bit high. Traffic officers, not including patrol officers who have duties other than traffic assignments, have written 12,908 traffic citations this year, according to Commander Richard Berry. That averages out to just over 100 tickets per month for each of the 10 traffic officers. The total for the department is 17,800 traffic citations. Berry added that in the fiscal year 1987-88 the city collected a total of almost $400,000 in traffic fines and from forfeitures. He does not know what percent of that total came from traffic fines.

The city's general fund receives 75 percent of the money collected in traffic fines in the city, with the rest going to county and state government coffers. Fines vary depending on the offense.

The Florida Highway Patrol sets similar citation issuance goals for state troopers. Longwood and Sanford police set no specific traffic citation goals. Seminole County Sheriff's Lt. Al Sanchez said his department sets "no quotas at all," no goals for traffic citations.

Lake Mary Police Lt. Samuel Belfiore said his department sets no quotas or goals for traffic citations and leaves that decision to the professionalism and discretion of each officer.

Audit of SCC uncovers minor accounting flaws

By VICKI DeSCHNER
 Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Several accounting improprieties were found during an audit of Seminole Community College by the state Office of the Auditor General. According to a report by deputy auditor general Sam M. McCall, the 13 problems are minor and the college has been asked to make some changes before the next audit is conducted in June 1990.

"Plans are already in place to make all the changes they recommended," said Dr. Earl Weldon, Seminole Community College president. Weldon added that, in general, he felt "very good" about the report.

The college accounting department routinely used college money to cover the cost of federal projects, such as student financial aid, which should have been covered by monthly withdrawals from the United States Department of Education Payment System. The audit cited the college for not properly forecasting the amount of funds needed each month.

The report found that between July 1, 1987 to June 30, 1988, SCC had cash deficiencies which ranged from $16,785.96 to $111,358.70. The use of college funds to cover these deficiencies resulted in lost investment opportunities for SCC, according to the report.

The college was cited for similar problems in the audit of the previous fiscal year.

It was also noted that the college needed to separate the duties of certain employees to ensure the flow of money into and out of the system can be easily monitored.

The same employee, for example, is able to both initiate wire transfers of college money and authorize the banks and accounts into which the money is placed. Though the auditor found no inappropriate transfers of money into unauthorized accounts, it was recommended that the tasks be assigned to separate employees.

Similarly, it was recommended that duties be reassigned so employees who collect payment on returned checks do not have access to the related accounting records.

Several problems noted by the auditor dealt with SCC's failure to deal with collection of accounts. The auditor suggested that past due accounts be turned over to a collection agency in a more timely manner in order to increase the likelihood of getting the money.

The reports also noted the college had no written procedures regarding the specific duties of employees for receipting, recording and depositing cash collections, including sales at the college book store.

Finally, the auditor noted there needs to be tighter controls places on SCC's data processing capabilities including having employees sign off their terminals before leaving them to ensure that unauthorized changes could not be made to student information.

Four instances of inadequate documentation were reported, including the disbursement of $405.80 to the the Single Parent Program.

Weldon said he was pleased the audit found the school's accounts in order.

The Lorax has met the Grinch

Is Dr. Seuss subversive? Can it be that the maestro of Mulberry Street, inventor of oobleck, the best friend to the Cat in the Hat is really a bad influence on children? Some people in California's Mendocino County seem to think so.

In October, the members of the Laytonville Union School District board will be voting on a proposal to remove Dr. Seuss' "The Lorax" from the required reading list for second-graders. It seems that officials with the local timber industry find the book — which endorses a concern for the environment and the benefits of sustained-yield logging practices — offensive. Reading it has apparently caused a few of the moppets in town to ask some pretty disturbing questions at the dinner table about what daddy does for a living.

Of course, raising those kinds of concerns among the very young is precisely what Theodore Geisel (Dr. Seuss' real name) had in mind when he wrote the book back in 1971. Since then, the story of the magical Lorax's unsuccessful efforts to persuade the Once-ler family not to chop down the last Truffula Tree has become a favorite with children around the world. But not in Laytonville.

The fact that most modern lumber companies endorse the principles and policies that the Lorax promotes hasn't deterred the parents who want this book and its morality out of the classroom. What they forget is that a young mind grows pretty much like a Truffula tree. It can be repressed for a while of course. But if, as the book advises, you "treat it with care, give it clean water and feed it" — why then, despite all the axe that have been thrown at it, the Lorax and all of his friends may come back.

More bloodshed

The collapse of the Paris peace conference leaves Cambodia once again on the brink of full-scale civil war. After 20 years of almost non-stop guerrilla fighting and genocidal destruction, Cambodians now are threatened by a major clash of rival forces soon after the withdrawal of the last 24,000 Vietnamese occupation troops at the end of the month.

The major stumbling block at the peace talks was the role of the murderous Khmer Rouge, which was responsible for the deaths of more than 1 million civilians between 1975 and 1978. The Bush administration rightly insisted the Khmer Rouge be excluded from a transitional government.

But Assistant Secretary of State Richard Solomon warned Congress that freeing out the Khmer Rouge would probably lead to civil war. On the other hand, giving it a limited role to play in a transitional government held some hope of a settlement — but at a price the United States prudently refused to pay.

Cambodia's respected former ruler, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, also had advocated some form of power-sharing with the Khmer Rouge. In the end, however, the Sihanouk plan became irrelevant. By mid-August, it was plain the four Cambodian factions represented in Paris were in no mood to make a deal.

The debate now centers on whether the sometimes-ecocentric Prince Sihanouk should continue to receive U.S. backing, and whether an administration proposal to supply his forces with arms would snare American in an intractable conflict.

Washington's fear of becoming involved in another Vietnam war has in fact contributed to Cambodia's misery under communist rule during the past 11 years. The increasing support for Cambodia's communist-backed Premier Hun Sen now evident in some western countries, including France and Australia, is not a morally correct policy but merely the path of least resistance. As far as the war-weary Cambodian population is concerned, Mr. Hun Sen is merely the lesser of two evils.

Meanwhile, as the Bush administration reviews its failed policy and laments its lack of leverage, the first ominous Khmer Rouge attacks have been launched close to the seat of government in Phnom Penh. These attacks are only the prelude to the resumption of civil war. While most of the world looks the other way, Cambodia seems doomed to more years of misery and bloodshed.

Will Poindexter say Reagan knew?

WASHINGTON — It now appears that Ronald Reagan, and perhaps George Bush, will be dragged deeply into the upcoming Iran-contra trial of former National Security Adviser John Poindexter.

This assessment is based on sources close to the defense team and on comments made in a hearing before U.S. District Judge Harold Greene.

Poindexter's federal trial is set to begin in November.

Apparently, Adm. Poindexter will now assert that he kept Reagan fully briefed on key elements of the U.S. sales of arms to Iran and the contra supply efforts. It also seems that the admiral will now claim that when he misled Congress in 1986 (one of the charges he faces) he acted under Reagan's direct order.

Poindexter was Lt. Col. Oliver North's supervisor at the White House. North's defense at his own trial was that his two superiors — first Robert McFarlane and then Poindexter — knew about and approved of what he was doing.

North's lawyers argued to the jury there was no reason for him to have covered up anything within the executive branch because his superiors already knew what was happening.

The jury and U.S. Judge Gerhard Gesell believed North on this matter. The jury acquitted him of a cover-up, convicting him only of three lesser offenses, which he admitted he knew had been wrong when he committed them.

In not sentencing him to jail, Gesell said he believed that North was operating under orders — and that although what he did was wrong, the offense was not really North's.

Poindexter's defense will be similar, except for one thing: His only superior was Ronald Reagan.

In preparation for the trial, Poindexter's lawyer, Frederick Robinson, recently appeared before Judge Greene. At that point, the defense lawyer argued that the judge should order Reagan to turn over his personal notes and diaries of various Oval Office meetings with Poindexter.

He fully briefed the president and then received direct orders on how to proceed.

In particular, the defense wants Reagan's notes about a series of mid-1986 meetings. Poindexter apparently will claim that he briefed the president in depth about a congressional investigation of the 1985 U.S. shipment of Hawk missile parts to Iran, and that he received orders on how to respond at the congressional inquiry. The actual shipment was made during McFarlane's tenure, but Poindexter was the one who had to answer Congress' questions about the sale.

During the court hearing, Robinson indicated that he needed the presidential notes to prepare his defense and to prepare motions that will be necessary to compel Reagan's testimony. He told Greene that he considers Reagan a key witness.

"Through the president's documents not only do we intend to show that Adm. Poindexter thought these activities were legal, but that the president himself told Adm. Poindexter they were," Robinson told Greene.

What is interesting about all this is how it differs from Poindexter's testimony before the congressional Iran-contra investigation in 1987.

At that time, Poindexter testified he had never told Reagan many of the things about which he now seems ready to say he fully briefed Reagan and then received direct orders on how to proceed.

Niggling on the capital-gains cut

WASHINGTON — Back when our communist adversaries were more adversarial, they predicted intensification of class conflict as capitalism entered its death throes. They were right, judging by the rhetoric boiling around the proposal to cut the capital-gains tax.

Democrats and Republicans are at daggers drawn. So are liberal Democrats and a few conservative Democrats. In the hyperbole sweepstakes, Democratic critics of the cut are routing it's Republican supporters, denouncing it as an extension of the Reagan Terror for grinding the middle class to dust. Republicans counter that without the cut capitalism will be in terminal crisis. With the cut the middle class will swim in wealth, the result of reduced taxes on sales of stocks, bonds and houses, and from the acceleration of economic growth.

Actually, in the guise of serious moral strife we have the same old stuff — bi-partisan consensus that the purpose of government is to rain benefits on the middle class. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, who once favored cutting the capital-gains tax, now vows to die in the last ditch opposing this sop to the plutocracy. He proposes instead restoring and expanding IRAs (Individual Retirement Accounts) which would please "a broad spectrum of middle America."

Economists (not that their opinions matter much in this political argument) differ about these measures.

"Economists," say George Stigler who is one (one with a Nobel Prize), "were first identified as a separate species toward the end of the 18th century." They have been deplored ever since because they are constantly talking about the costs of life and they supposedly are less sensitive than the rest of us to moral, rather than merely efficient, courses of action. But they do know things, including what it is that cannot be known.

There is a consensus that cutting the capital-gains rate would yield a modest spurt of revenues by advancing some investors' decisions to realize capital gains. The spurt would not matter much to the $1 trillion federal budget or the $5 trillion economy.

And there the economists' certainty (as opposed to certitude) ends. The long-term effects of a cut are unclear. However, no one here cares because in Washington "the long term" is measured in months. The spurt of revenues would help with this autumn's budget minut. Similarly, the possibility that the Medicare catastrophic-care program might produce a surplus this year (before becoming a sea of red ink) is the micro-reason some in Congress and administration resist repealing it.

The micro-reason why many Democrats oppose the capital-gains cut is that Democrats voting for the cut blur the distinction between the parties. So the party is (in the words of Chairman Ron Brown) drawing "a line in the sand" on capital gains. It is an unfortunate metaphor: Lines in the sand do not last.

Supporters of a capital-gains cut comprise an intensive minority of voters whose intensity, manifested in pressure on Congress, derives from the prospect of immediate, concrete gains. Opponents of the cut have an abstract, ideological objection. In Washington, intensity and concreteness matter, as can be seen regarding the catastrophic-care program.

The fate of that program shows that raining benefits on the middle class can be dangerous. If, as seems probable, the program is repealed, that will be in large measure because the program incorporated a novel principle: Beneficiaries should finance their own benefits. This was enough of an affront to the elderly. Worse yet was the fact that many had adequate coverage already.

The collapse of the program, if it comes to that, will reflect its slipshod beginning. Ronald Reagan endorsed catastrophic care after a Cabinet meeting in which various colleagues offered anecdotes about the hardship suffered by elderly people they knew. The final remarks before Reagan left the room came from Otis Bowen, secretary of Health and Human Services, whose wife had died of cancer after a protracted illness and whose mother was in a nursing home.

In his message to Congress, Reagan boasted the catastrophic care would "give Americans the last full measure of security." That was nonsense but fascinating: Mr. Conservative blandly endorsed the ideal of government providing everyone with the last full measure of security.

As the Congress apologizes for the catastrophic-care surtax, and as the capital gains arguments is presented as a battle of Armageddon between sharply divided parties, remember this: The class struggle is a struggle to corner credit for making the middle class purr contentedly.

The long-term effects of a cut are unclear.

Buchanan is simply wrong

Did some liberal at the Harvard Lampoon steal conservative columnist Patrick Buchanan's computer slug and file a spoof that then appeared in newspapers under Buchanan's byline?

Judge for yourself. In a recent column Buchanan deals with whether America should vigorously encourage the growth of Democracy around the world. Buchanan says no.

Buchanan says that real conservatives can't sanction "democracy worship," and that from the outset America has been on the team of dictators and monarchs. Buchanan says that the only way to win is through the use of force. Buchanan says let's cheer for the non-democratic Moslem nations.

Buchanan — yes Buchanan, not Jane Fonda — says America ought to "come home" because we're "not the world's policeman nor its political tutor." He asks, "What have the 'democrats' done for us lately?"

It does sound like a put-on. After all, it's what liberals have said Buchananism is about — ham-handed, neanderthal conservatism — and liberals are wrong about those things. In real life Buchanan is a very smart fellow: premier conservative controversialist, author of a splendid autobiography ("Right From The Beginning"), counselor to presidents.

But, alas, Buchanan's creed against exporting democracy is no parody. Columnist Charles Krauthammer, a wise man, says it figures; paleo-conservatives like Buchanan will head back to isolationism as the Soviets fade away.

Perhaps, I hope not. Buchanan's primal scream may be Buchanan-specific, and possibly transitory. Most conservatives, even the old-fashioned kind, have gotten smart.

Buchanan was rebutting a column of mine in which I said that as the Cold War ends our foreign policy ought to change from "anti-communist" to "pro-democracy." Why? Because it's in our national interest, and it's moral. Most conservatives, even the old-fashioned kind, know that.

Buchanan says democracies haven't helped us recently. But West Europeans drafted their youth, and spent trillions, to join us in holding the line against Soviet expansionism in Europe.

More important than what the democracies do, is what they don't do, like start wars against other democracies. More democracies means we spend less on defense. But dictatorships, right and left, often do nasty things to democracies. We've seen it too often in this bloody century, and most conservatives, even old-fashioned ones, know that.

We should also peddle democracy to those who want it because freedom is moral, and its economic handmaiden — the free market — yields prosperity. Conservatives, especially the old-fashioned kind, know that.

The goal of recent American foreign policy has been to create a user-friendly world for our values. We still need all the help we can get. Philosopher Leszek Kolakowski notes that there are other goblins out there besides communists. (Anarchy and fanaticism are two.) Without many democratic allies, our values may not end up repugnant. An America First policy can yield a world where America isn't first.

Pat Buchanan: Your troops won't follow you on this one. Conservatives have wised up. Come home, Buchanan.

Paleo-conservatives like Buchanan will head back to isolationism as the Soviets fade away.

Toxics

 been collected that might otherwise have polluted the environment, White said.
 Many common household toxic materials are often tossed in the garbage before they were completely used. The garbage is taken to a dump, where the toxic chemicals can trickle to the bottom of the dump and pollute the groundwater most Floridians use for drinking.
 Many containers that can be safely thrown away when empty should not be deposited in the trash if still partially full. Empty bleach, cleanser and oven cleaner containers should be thoroughly rinsed before disposal.
 Hazardous waste is everywhere in the home. Old cans of bug spray under the sink pose a threat. Rusting cans of paint in the garage could be dangerous. Even jars with no labels in the tool shed might contain poisons fatal if consumed by an unsuspecting child.
 Many products taken for granted as everyday conveniences are actually deadly poisons. Common insect sprays and garden insecticides should not be thrown away if no longer used. Many of the chemicals used to kill pests can kill people if taken in large enough quantities or cause damage to the nervous system in small amounts.

 Rug and upholstery cleaners can contain chemicals that can be toxic.
 The unused product containers should be collected together in a box or some other sound container and brought to the Amnesty Days tent. Even unlabeled substances will be accepted. Materials should not be mixed because deadly fumes or an explosion may result. Large quantities of materials from businesses will be accepted in 55-gallon drums.
 Aerosol cans or latex paint will not be accepted. Also, radioactive or biologically-active wastes will be refused. Gas cylinders and explosives will not be accepted.
 Materials must be brought only during the operating hours. People leaving materials at the Amnesty days tent after hours face state fines for abandoning hazardous waste.

NATIONAL BRIEFS

Education goals due next year

CHARLOTTEVILLE, Va. — If all goes as President Bush and the country's governors plan, the United States will have its first set of national academic performance goals early next year.

And those goals — likely to include increased literacy and graduation rates and improved standardized test scores — will be used to overhaul America's education system, state by state.

In addition, states will be given greater flexibility in using federal funds so they can target specific academic needs such as early childhood education, provided the states show bona fide results.

These points were among the chief areas of agreement reached between Bush and the governors at an unprecedented two-day education summit that ended Thursday at the University of Virginia.

Capital gains battle moves to Senate

WASHINGTON — President Bush emerged the big winner of the capital gains tax fight in the House, but the battle lines will move to the Senate next week and defeated Democrats say the war over the divisive issue has just begun.

Bush won a major victory Thursday when the House voted 239-190 to defeat a Democratic alternative proposal to reinstate tax deductible individual retirement accounts, raise taxes on the richest Americans and cut the deficit by about $23 billion over five years.

By defeating the proposal, House members left the controversial capital gains reduction favored by Bush in a $16.5 billion revenue and deficit-reduction bill that must be passed by Oct. 15 to meet a $100 billion fiscal 1990 deficit-reduction target. The new fiscal year begins Sunday.

'Star Wars' money back in budget

WASHINGTON — The Senate, having decided how it wants the Pentagon to spend $288.2 billion in fiscal 1990, now must settle its differences with the House.

One big difference will be the "Star Wars" anti-missile program. The issue's volatility was shown Thursday when two days after refusing to add $300 million to the program on a 66-34 tally the Senate voted 53-47 to give it an extra $600 million.

The final vote on the entire defense appropriations bill was 96-2.

The addition to "Star Wars," formally known as the Strategic Defense Initiative, gives Senate negotiators more leeway with the House and improves prospects that the program will emerge with $4.1 billion, freezing the program at what it got in fiscal 1989, which ends Saturday. At the least, the vote decreases the chances of a first actual cut in SDI funding.

House panel votes clean air measures

WASHINGTON — A House panel voted to require special canisters on cars to catch emissions released during refueling, despite charges the explosive vapors captured by the devices could make cars "motorized bombs."

In a move strenuously opposed by automakers, the House Energy and Commerce Subcommittee on Health and Environment, by voice vote Thursday, approved changes to President Bush's clean-air bill requiring the on-board canisters as a way to reduce smog-related emissions that escape when motorists pump gasoline.

At the same time, the subcommittee voted 15-6 to reject a bill to require the same level of canisters under Bush's bill for regular pollution from industrial plant smokestacks.

Abortion numbers increase

ATLANTA — More abortions than ever are being performed in the United States, largely on unmarried white women under the age of 20, federal health officials reported.

The Centers for Disease Control said Thursday about 1.36 million legal abortions were performed in 1987, up 1 percent from the 1.33 million abortions in 1986 and the highest number since the government health agency began keeping statistics in 1969.

In 1973, the year before the Supreme Court ruled that states cannot ban the procedure, only 586,760 abortions, or just 43 percent of the current total, were performed in the United States, the CDC said. By 1976, the number of abortions had registered their most dramatic jump to 986,267, or 73 percent of the current total.

For every 1,000 babies born in 1987, there were 356.1 abortions, compared with a low of 180.1 in 1973 and a high of 364.1 in 1980, the CDC said. At the same time, 24 of every 1,000 women ages 15 to 44 had abortions, compared to a low of 13 in 1973 and a high of 25 in 1980.

Bush sees hurricane damage

United Press International

WASHINGTON — President Bush, flying to South Carolina Friday to view the ravages of Hurricane Hugo, was prepared to face upset officials and citizens who believe the federal government has been slow in coming to their aid.

But the president, invited by South Carolina Gov. Carroll Campbell to see the damage, was expected to alleviate many concerns with the congressional approval of $1.1 billion in relief for the devastated areas.

The hurricane, which made landfall at Charleston, S.C., shortly before midnight Sept. 21, killed at least 26 people in the United States and left 50,000 homeless and 250,000 unemployed.

Bush planned to fly on Air Force One to Charleston, S.C., travel by helicopter to coastal McClellanville for an inspection of the damage, and then take the helicopter up the coast to Myrtle Beach.

Before making the trip south, Bush and his administration had come under fire for not moving faster to help the hurricane's victims. Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., accused the government of "dragging its feet."

"Everyone should understand the magnitude of this disaster, and everyone should understand the magnitude of generosity displayed by the American people since it happened," Hollings said. "There has been one glaring exception: the Federal Emergency Management Agency. We had to call out the military to get help while FEMA just stonewalled."

Hollings said the government aid would amount "to $4 billion below what's over."

Officials in South Carolina praised Bush's decision to visit the state.

"It will do a lot for the morale around here," said Bill McCauley, a spokesman for Charleston County, one of the 17 South Carolina counties hit by the storm. "Hell, the president is the man. (His) stopping by here should boost everyone's spirits."

Campbell said he wanted Bush to see the damage.

"I want him to understand this tragedy is not something that's going to end with quick fixes," Campbell said. "I do think there will be a realization that we have a long-term problem, and when I'm back up there (in Washington) in three months or six months from now (to seek further assistance), he'll have an understanding of what we're facing."

Bush was to spend about three hours in South Carolina before returning to Andrews Air Force Base outside Washington, where he was to take another helicopter the U.S. Naval Acad my at Annapolis, Md. Bush planned to speak at a ceremony for retiring Adm. William Crowe, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Later in the afternoon, Bush was to meet with Crown Prince Felipe of Spain and then fly to Camp David for the weekend.

IN BRIEF

AMERICAN LEAGUE

O's, Jays ready for shootout

TORONTO — The American League East Division pennant race comes down to a three-game series between the two contenders in a perfect ending to an improbable season for both the Baltimore Orioles and Toronto Blue Jays.

The Orioles, baseball's rags to riches story of 1989, meet the Blue Jays, who seemed hopelessly out of synch three months ago, for the division title at the Skydome, beginning Friday night. The winner will meet the AL West champion Oakland Athletics in a best-of-seven series for the AL pennant, beginning next Tuesday at Oakland.

The Blue Jays who lead the Orioles by one game, need two victories in the three games to clinch a tie. The Orioles need a sweep to win the division outright but could force a one-game playoff at Baltimore Monday by winning two of three.

In American League action Thursday Oakland tripped Texas 5-3; Boston mauled Milwaukee 12-6; Seattle clubbed Cleveland 6-2; and California blanked Kansas City 2-0.

U.S. barely wins in Dunhill play

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland — The heavily favored United States survived a surprising loss by British Open champion Mark Calcavecchia Thursday to edge Korea 2-1 on the opening day of the Dunhill Cup.

Australia, the No. 2 seed, wasn't nearly as fortunate, losing to France 2-1 as Greg Norman was beaten.

Calcavecchia, also victimized on the final day of the Ryder Cup last Sunday, shot a 1-under-par 71 at St. Andrews but lost to Nam Shin Park, who toured the final nine in 34 for a 70.

However, the top-seeded United States was able to advance to the second round as Tom Kite defeated Yoon Soo Choi 72-75, and U.S. Open champion Curtis Strange, with a 32 coming home, crushed Sang ho Choi 67-79.

Cooney, Foreman set bout date

NEW YORK — In an undertaking that has less to do with boxing than with stand-up comedy or archeology, Gerry Cooney and George Foreman announced Thursday they will meet in a heavyweight bout Jan. 15 in Atlantic City, N.J.

Cooney, 33, his hair streaked with gray, will be fighting for the first time since being knocked out 2 1/2 years ago by Michael Spinks in the fifth round. His last victory came Memorial Day 1986.

Foreman, whose age is questionably listed as 40 and who declines to reveal his waistline size, says this bout is another step in his bid to regain the heavyweight title he won in 1973.

He is 19-0 against a field of alarmingly dubious opponents since beginning a comeback in 1987 that has taken him to such boxing ports of call as Anchorage, Alaska, and Orlando, Fla. He says his weight soared to 315 pounds but he promises to be in "good shape" at 250 pounds for Cooney.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Giants celebration delayed

LOS ANGELES — The San Francisco Giants didn't know whether to shower or await a possible champagne bath. Would their despair turn to elation Wednesday night?

The Giants had just lost 1-0 to the Los Angeles Dodgers and had been swept in a series for the first time this season. Down the coast, minutes after Tim Lincecum had completed his four-hitter for Los Angeles, the Padres had scored a run in the bottom of the ninth and were sending their game with Cincinnati into extra innings.

Now the Giants had to wait. A San Diego loss meant a second division title in three years for San Francisco. A victory, and the Giants and Padres would meet in a showdown series at Jack Murphy Stadium this weekend.

The players, usually looking for the quickest way to the team bus, had nowhere to go. Many milled around in their underwear, not wanting to waste a shower with the traditional spray of bubbly possibly on the way.

Showdowns in SAC tonight

Tribe hosts Greyhounds

By TONY BOGOMER
Herald Sports Editor

When the Lyman Greyhounds and Seminole Fighting Seminoles take the field at Thomas E. Whigham Stadium tonight for their Seminole Athletic Conference football showdown, the two teams will be chasing different goals.

For the Greyhounds, who are 2-1 overall but 0-1 in the SAC, tonight's contest is the next in a series of self-discovery lessons. Loaded with inexperienced talent, Lyman is a team in search of an identity.

Seminole, on the other hand, has developed a reputation for being advanced offensively and defensively stingy. But with a string of very difficult games coming up in November, the Tribe (2-0) are looking to get even better.

"Seminole has one of the best high school passing attacks I've ever seen," said Lyman coach Bill Scott. "They have a lot of speed, their receivers run good routes and (Kerry) Wiggins delivers the ball on time. It's going to be a full time job trying to stop him. I don't know if you can."

"This is the best defensive club we've seen so far. They have great team pursuit and they're big up front. It's going to be a tough ball game. Coach (Emory) Blake does a tremendous job and Coach (Greg) Register has the defense playing good. They have a lot of weapons."

While the Tribe has a string of five very important and/or demanding games in October, Blake wants to make sure his team doesn't look past the Greyhounds, who boast the very talented Cedric Bouey at running back.

"I just look for us to go out and play our game," said Blake. "Like always, we'll be in a little different look on offense. Lyman has always played Seminole tough. It's always a seesaw game."

Hawks, Rams renew rivalry

By MARK BLYTHE
Herald sports writer

Lake Mary will host sixth-ranked Lake Howell tonight in a 5A-District 4 football showdown that promises to be one highly competitive contest. The teams have a great deal of respect for each other but there's no love lost between the two.

Since Lake Mary rose to be a power in the county several years ago, the only team that held its own with the Rams was Lake Howell. Now Lake Howell, 3-0, is on top and Lake Mary, 0-1, is looking to turn the tables and play the spoiler.

"I have a great deal of respect for Lake Howell and Mike Biscaglia," Lake Mary coach Doug Peters said. "He's a great coach and they're a great team. But that doesn't mean I don't think they can't be beat."

Peters and the Rams are definitely ready to get back on the field after not playing last week when their game with Apopka was cancelled both Friday and Saturday due to rain.

"I'm sure they'll be hungry," Biscaglia said. "They'll be well"

Lions travel to DeLand; Patriots at home

From staff reports

For a team that's 3-0, the Oviedo High School football team still doesn't know just how good it really is. So far, the Lions' first three wins of the 1989 season have come against young, inexperienced or undermanned teams.

But tonight, the Lions will play DeLand at Spec Martin Stadium in a contest that has both Seminole Athletic Conference and 5A-District 4 ramifications. And the Bulldogs (2-1 overall, 2-0 in 5A-4 and 0-1 in the SAC) are tough at home and should be a good challenge for Oviedo.

See Bulldogs, Page 2B

coach Jack Blanton. "The teams that we've been playing have been young and rebuilding. But I know DeLand has a lot of seniors and they're a well-coached football team. We're going to be in for a dogfight."

Oviedo won't be at 100 percent this evening, a couple players having to sit out due to injuries. But Blanton, who acknowledges that as part of the fortunes of the game, prefers to discuss the positive aspects of his club, which is in its first year of Class 5A competition.

"Brian MacInness is doing a good job at quarterback," said Blanton. "Placekicker Ron Worst and punter Karl Galm are both kicking well. They're"

Class C champions

Sanford Recreation Department athletics supervisor Jim Adams (left) presents Coach Ron LeBage and the rest of the Creative Invasion with their trophies honoring their championship in the men's Class C softball summer league. Other members of the invasion who attended the ceremony on Thursday afternoon were Blake Murry, Jerry DiBartolo, John Raynor, Joe DiBartolo and Vic DiBartolo.

Oviedo site for boys volleyball tourney

By MARK BLYTHE
Herald sports writer

The first Oviedo Lions boys volleyball tournament will be played Saturday with an eight-team field scheduled to compete for the championship.

All seven Seminole Athletic Conference teams will be on hand along with West Orange. The tourney is the first ever of its kind in Seminole County.

"The tournament starts at 9 a.m. Saturday on two courts," Oviedo coach Terry Rzepkuwaki said. "We're real happy with the tournament and I think it will be a very good tournament for everyone."

The tourney will boast some very good teams as three squads combine for a 24-3 record. Lake Brantley is the early favorite as they are 8-0 overall and 8-0 in the SAC race.

Swimmers, runners go up against state's best

Top swim teams headed to OAC

From staff reports

There's a certain advantage to individual sports like swimming. Unlike in team sports, you have the opportunity to get some of the state's best squads together for a weekend meet and see just who has what.

This Saturday, for example, Lake Brantley High School swim team will host the Lake Brantley Invitational at the Orlando International Aquatics Center (formerly the Justus Aquatic Center). Among the 15 teams scheduled to participate are some of the state's best swimming squads.

"There are teams coming from around the state," said Lake Brantley coach Clay Parnell, who guided the Patriots girls to the Class 4A state title last year. "Three teams from Seminole County will be there — Lake Mary, Lyman and Lake Brantley."

Three of the teams are or have been state champions. There are the

Runners scattered all over the state

By MARK BLYTHE
Herald sports writer

Seminole County cross country teams will be going their separate ways this weekend as the six schools will be involved in four different meets.

Lake Mary will head to the Seabreeze Daytona Beach Run with Lake Howell and Lake Brantley going to participate in the Spanish River Invite in Boca Raton. Lyman will travel to Tallahassee to participate in the Florida State Invite while Oviedo will host its own invitational.

"We're going to Spanish River because it's a fun and challenging course," Lake Howell coach Tom Hammontree said. "We had fun last year and we ran a true cross country course. I think this will be a very good meet for us."

The Silver Hawks, currently ranked third in the state in Class 4A, hope to win the Spanish River Invitational title this year after finishing as the runner-up a year

Tribe J.V. hangs on for victory

From staff reports
SANFORD - Quarterback Vashaun Williams rushed for one touchdown and passed for another as the Seminole High School junior varsity football team posted a 22-19 win over Lake Brantley on Thursday night.
 Williams opened the scoring for Seminole when he went over on a 1-yard quarterback sneak. Shane Stewart's kick on the point-after attempt made the score 7-0.
 The Patriots came right back with a long drive and tied the score at 7-7, only to see the Tribe answer with a 75-yard touchdown run by Willie Williams. After the snap on the point-after was fumbled.

Vashaun Williams recovered in time to throw a pass to Ron Nelson for the two-point conversion, making the score 15-7.
 Lake Brantley closed the gap to 15-13 before halftime. Early in the third quarter, the Seminoles got some breathing room when Rodney Hooks took a 58-yard pass from Vashaun Williams for a touchdown. Stewart's kick made it 22-13.
 The Patriots managed to come back one more time, converting a Seminole fumble on a punt return into a touchdown. But the Tribe was able to run out the clock and even its record at 1-1.
 Seminole returns to action next Thursday at Lake Mary. Lake Brantley, now 2-1, hosts Lake Howell next Thursday.
Lake Mary 18, Oviedo 18
OVIDEO - John Freeman

returned a second half interception 42 yards for a touchdown and Brian Coduto kicked the extra point to give Lake Mary a 13-12 win over Oviedo in junior varsity football action.
 The Rams scored first in the game when Grant Seibold caught a 4-yard touchdown pass from Cody Stuart. Coduto's kick on the point-after attempt was blocked and Lake Mary led 6-0.
 But the host Oviedo Lions scored two consecutive touchdowns to take a 12-6 lead into the half, setting the stage for Freeman and Coduto's second half heroics.
 Lake Mary, now 3-0, will play again next Thursday when it hosts Seminole. Oviedo is at Lyman next Thursday.

 rested and ready to play. Doug (Peters) is a good coach and I know Lake Mary will be fired up."
 Biacaglia is unsure what to expect from the Rams since they have played just one game and haven't really set a pattern on what they like to do offensively and defensively.
 "We'll have to figure out what they're doing when we step on the field," Biacaglia said. "Then we'll have to make the proper adjustments and counteract what they do."
 Lake Howell will look to its blue chip running back Marquette Smith who leads the county in rushing and is one of the state's top backs. Smith has been brilliant in lead the Silver Hawks to an early 3-0 record.
 Smith and fullback Cortes Graves give the Silver Hawks two solid backs with quarterback Dan Vereck and place kicker Steve Munnell also being offensive threats.
 Lake Mary is led by quarterback Mike Merthle and fullback Bob Monello. Tailback Chris Haney and receiver Chip Leister strengthen the Ram offensive attack.
 "It's our second game and we're playing the sixth-ranked team in the state," Peters said. "It's an ideal situation for us. We have nothing to lose, we can just go out and play as hard as we can. I really think if we play mistake-free football, we can beat Lake Howell."

Lake Brantley at Spruce Creek
 When you have eight district games to play, every one is important. But tonight's 5A-District 4 clash between the host Lake Brantley Patriots and the visiting Hawks of Spruce Creek is especially crucial.
 Both the Patriots and Hawks are 1-2 overall and, more importantly, 1-1 in district play. Whoever wins tonight will be right behind the leaders while the loser may fall into a hole too deep to climb out of.
 Lake Brantley can be expected to run the ball on offense as quarterback Clint Johnson and running back Elroy Dantzer are among the top 10 rushing leaders in Seminole County. Jason Varitek, who has carried the ball twice, attempted two passes, caught two passes and also punts, is a legitimate triple threat.
 Spruce Creek is something of an unknown quantity. With a new coach and only nine starters back from a team that went 5-5 in 1988, the Hawks pose an interesting puzzle for the Patriots.

 Lake Mary is also listed as a favorite with a 9-1 record (5-1 in the SAC) while host Oviedo is 7-3 overall and 4-3 in the conference.
 "There should be good matches all day," Rappaport said. "I feel all the first round matches will be interesting."
 Oviedo and Lyman open up on court No. 1 at 9 a.m. with Lake Mary taking on Lake Howell on court No. 2 at the same time. West Orange and Lake Brantley are scheduled for a 10 a.m. start on court No. 1 with DeLand and Seminole set to play on court No. 2.
 "It's a double-elimination tournament," Rappaport said. "But you have to win the first game to get into the winner's bracket."

 "We were playing well in the first game and were up 8-3," Lake Howell coach Jo Luciano said. "But then Oviedo started to play great defense. They came on to tie the score and then built a 15-9 lead."
 After Oviedo built its lead, the Silver Hawks cut it to 13-11. The Lions then added out on a Betsy Hughes dink. Oviedo then put the game away before completely dominating and taking over the match in the second game.

It starts with miniature golfing

By BRIAN WEBB
Herald People editor

LONGWOOD — You won't find a theme park in Seminole County, but David Dawson has the next best thing.

Dawson's version of an amusement park combines a miniature golf course with a go-kart racing course with radio-control cars with a yogurt shop with a video game room.

Dawson calls it Letts Putt America Family Entertainment Systems Inc., a name as big as the variety of doings offered, situated on 2.2 acres at 1030 W. State Road 434, Longwood.

It is the site for what Dawson said is the only miniature golf course in Seminole County. To top that off, he offers the largest miniature golf course in Central Florida—54 holes compared to most courses' 18 holes, he said.

Dawson takes pride in the "clean, wholesome, family" aspects of his 5-year-old facility, which is open 365 days a year.

"I built it specifically for entertainment for the entire family, for kids of all ages," he said.

Once a week, Dawson said, the golfing is halted to make an announcement: If you over there can make a hole-in-one on the hole you're on, everyone else in the golf course will get a coupon for a free game.

"When she makes it, we can give as many as 300 to 400 passes away," Dawson said. "When she doesn't make it, of course they boo and hiss her, but we give her a free pass."

The three courses offer three degrees of difficulty. Although every hole has a par of two, every hole is designed so that it's possible for anyone to get a hole-in-one, Dawson said. Easier said than done.

"You don't think I'm going to tell you I designed them and didn't make a hole-in-one on every hole," said Dawson, who admitted he puts in a lot of practice time.

Consider the two-hill hole, which has a hole in the valley between two hills. Or the drop-off hole, which features a three-level drop like stairs, with the hole in the corner of one step. Then there's the one where you have to take off into the wind and get your ball into a hole in the side of a hill. Test your prowess to frustration on the hole at the top of a hill, surrounded by pipe segments in an open-angled square. The putter must get the ball up the hill, through the pipe spaces and into the hole.

"It's a lot more challenging than meets the eye," said Dawson, who designed it all himself.

Those who make holes-in-one become instant celebrities, getting their names broadcast over the facility's PA system.

A single game costs $4. A person can buy two courses and get one free game, which can be played at any time.

With a family ticket, 10 games for $30, anyone can play the games at any time. Ten or more people can go in for group rates, with which a game costs $2.50 per person.

Birthday parties cost $45 for up to 10 people, and then $4 for each additional person. For that price, the birthday honoree gets a free T-shirt and his name on the marquee. Birthday guests get 18 holes of golf with prizes for the winner, frozen yogurt and a small soft drink, and a "chalk tournament" that offers more prizes.

Reservations are required for the birthday parties, which take about 1 1/2 hour and feature a hostess.

Dawson said adult birthday parties aren't that uncommon, either.

"They find it amusing. Everybody's looking for something a little different. And that is definitely different."

Senior citizens come as far as Deltona for the yogurt, then decide to give the golfing a whirl, he said.

Miniature golf can be played Mondays through Saturdays from 9 a.m. to midnight, and Sundays from 11 a.m. to midnight.

When you tire of golfing, you can step into Yummie Yogurt with terrific toppings, where four flavors are featured daily. Ten video games await your fancy in the air-conditioned yogurt shop.

Letts Race America also sits on the property. The four go-karts can go 18-20 m.p.h. on the track of 580 feet in circumference, a scaled-down version of the one in Monte Carlo. Safety rails and tires form the rim of the track and a chain link fence surrounds the area.

"It's very safety-conscious," Dawson said.

The go-karts run from 6-11 p.m. every weekday and during weekends from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. Cost is $3 for 5 minutes or $5 for 10 minutes.

Radio-control cars run in the mornings from 9 a.m. to midnight at a rate of $3 per 7 minutes.

For more information, call 634-PUTT.

The Falling Leaves...

Fall's arrival. The trees begin to change color and against blue skies, fall brings with it the most brilliant display of color...

them down and send them dancing to the earth below. Even before the last leaf withers away, the trees begin to shimmer. Soon, dismantled and quite naked, a soft white down of snow warmly covers their branches...

'Bill' honored as woman of year

By SANDRA BOUGHANNE
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Winifred Gielow, better known in the community as "Bill", is a name synonymous with involvement.

A Sanford resident since the 1950s, Gielow has recently been bestowed the "Life Membership Award" by the Presbyterian Women of the First Presbyterian Church for her outstanding work in the church.

Gielow is among 43 other women who have received the honorary Life Membership Award over the years.

The modest Gielow said it came as a surprise.

"I'm most honored. As I thought of the people who received it before me, I felt more honored," she said. She described the other recipients as "hard-working Christian people."

Over the years, Gielow has been active in the church. She was moderator or president of the Presbyterian Women for two years during the time that the church merged to become Presbyterian Church (USA) in 1983. Before that time, the church was divided into northern and southern bodies.

"It was a difficult time to be president because of the transitions," Gielow said, adding that the church had to adjust to "different customs and practices" after the merger.

Gielow was circle chairman and co-chairman of Presbyterian Women.

housekeeping committee chairman, a member of the Raulston Board, and an Elder. She presided over the First Annual Gathering of the Presbyterian Women of Central Florida in Jan. 1989 at the church with more than 300 members in attendance.

Gielow is just as active, if not more so, within the community.

She has been a member of The Salvation Army board since 1972 and is currently the chairman of the Christmas committee, responsible for taking applications from the needy from Nov. 29 through Dec. 1, and distributing the toys on Dec. 21.

Gielow was past chairman of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce's beautification committee. Under her chairmanship, the first beautification of the lakefront at Lake Monroe took place. The group was also involved with overhauling and redeveloping the historical Centennial Park, at the corner of Park and 4th Street. The park was renamed this during Bicentennial year when it was redeveloped as a city park on behalf of several different groups in the community.

The gazebo which was built there cost $15,000, "even back then," Gielow said.

During her involvement with the beautification committee, Gielow was also chairman of the community improvements projects of the Woman's Club of Sanford. She is past president of the Woman's Club which she said is the "biggest civic organization in Seminole County" with 150 members. She is currently parliamentarian of the group. She is also a member of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce and the Scenic Improvement Board which is involved with the development of the Park on Park playground at Ninth Street and Park Avenue.

Among her other achievements, Gielow was the sixth recipient of the coveted Roberta Gatchel Award bestowed by the Kiwanis Club for her outstanding accomplishments.

"It's the most coveted of all awards in this town," Gielow said.

Gielow is married to Walter, former publisher of the Sanford Herald. She and her husband were married in First Presbyterian Church on March 28, 1957. They have three children, Gayle, who lives in Jacksonville, Bonnie, director of Christian Education in Sanford and Dr. Charles Hunter, a dentist in Panama City.

Dressing in 'Sunday best' is thing of past

Until a Roman Catholic priest in Dayton, Ohio, announced last summer that he would refuse communion to anyone wearing shorts (this included men), halters or miniskirts to church, most of us had forgotten there was once such a thing as "Sunday best." People saved their best clothes to wear on Sunday.

The free 'n' easy 1980s and '70s changed all that. In a Lutheran church service at the University of Minnesota in 1974, a man and woman in their early 20s took communion in the nude. The wire service story said the couple sat fully clothed during the early part of the service, then discarded as the communion procession began to form.

The priest, who was basically sound theologically, said he came naked into the world. The other communicants appeared to be nonchalant.

The only "incident" occurred when a gray-haired man, walking toward the communion rail, turned and slapped the woman's buttocks as she was returning to her seat. According to the wire service account, "the woman wheeled, slapped the man on the back and said, 'Right on, baby.'"

But if matters of church dress seldom got that casual, the trend in church attire was fast approaching come-as-you-are.

One clergyman came out of the sanctuary into the sanctuary to perform a baptism and another to the new church in Corinth that a woman should have her head covered in church — "because of the angels," said Paul.

Some interpret Paul's dictum to mean that since the angels are in attendance at church they would be shocked at such impropriety.

Other clergy relaxed the old rules but drew a line. A Lutheran pastor said he had no objections to men and boys wearing sports shirts to church without jackets. But there were, he said, rules of propriety to be observed. One was, "don't wear clothing that distracts others from worshipping."

It was on these grounds that the Dayton priest ruled out shorts, halters and miniskirts.

There has been a general return to dressing up in the 1980s. But the '60s and '70s have left their imprint. Few women, for example, wear hats to church today. That had been de rigueur in most churches since the beginning of Christianity.

Paul's dictum is drawn to the new church in Corinth that a woman should have her head covered in church — "because of the angels," said Paul.

Some interpret Paul's dictum to mean that since the angels are in attendance at church they would be shocked at such impropriety.

In Paul's view, what made it improper for a woman to go without a head covering in church was that, in the "order of creation," women were inferior to men, women having been created after man. A head covering was a symbol of women's subordinate position.

"Man is the image and glory of God," wrote Paul, "but women is the glory of man." The feminists would naturally rebel at such sexist thinking. But it was fashion more than Gloria Steinem that brought on the demise of the hat in church. Women's hats went out of style in the 1960s.

For awhile after that, some women — especially Catholic women — continued to wear a hat just for church. Gradually the custom faded altogether. Not all priests are upset. They prefer a hatless woman in church to those who would come with a bit of Kleenex on their heads to conform to the letter of the law.

Survey: Church-state conflicts on the rise in U.S.

United Press International

WASHINGTON — Like the abortion battle, the struggle to define proper church-state relations is shifting to the state level, a survey by Americans United for Separation of Church and State stated.

The group, in a "snapshot" look at church-state conflicts, found what it called 118 "significant" incidents in 38 states.

"Most states show more than one incident and several states reported multiple problems," the report said. "California topped the list with eight incidents. It was closely followed by Florida with seven incidents and Louisiana with six."

The report categorized church-state conflicts in four areas: public funding of religious organizations; religion in the public schools; state endorsement of religion; and threats to the free exercise of religion.

In Florida, there was a church-state incident over a county ordinance barring the film, "The Last Temptation of Christ," while in Louisiana a state legislator introduced a bill that would outlaw "blasphemy," and in Oklahoma a member of the legislature sponsored a bill that would allow public school students to "honor Jesus" at Christmas.

As Jews mark Rosh Hashanah, hostages, peace are concerns

From JTA, with special reporting

As Jews mark Rosh Hashanah — the Jewish New Year — they are being urged to especially remember people being held hostage, the new freedom of Soviet Jews and the state of Israel, especially the tensions created by the intifada.

Rosh Hashanah, which begins at sundown today, ushers in the year 5750 in the Jewish calendar and begins commemorations of the High Holy Days — the Days of Awe — that end with the conclusion of Yom Kippur, the climax of the High Days, at sundown Monday, Oct. 9.

About 600 people of The Beth Am Congregation in Longwood are expected to attend services at 8 p.m. tonight, said Rabbi Mordechai Shapiro.

"We as a congregation are experiencing a lot of growth. The number of Jews moving into Seminole County is increasing. The Longwood synagogue also serves Jewish people in parts of Lake and Volusia counties.

Shapiro said the grounds have been opened up, more chairs moved and new High Holy Day prayer books provided, all to accommodate the increased attendance. Nursery facilities will also be made available.

"This is a time when all Jews feel their urge to pray together," Shapiro said. "The most intense day is Yom Kippur, which begins at sundown next Sunday, and concludes with the High Holy Days with the Ten Commandments."

"There are many people who come to the synagogue," Shapiro said. "Rabbi Conroy, president of the American Jewish Congress, is a Rosh Hashanah speaker, and will lead the year 5750 services the evening of all hostages and that there is a concerted effort to organize from the face of the earth the people of being hostages."

The High Holy Days, he said, "underscores the cosmic significance of each individual."

"Nothing could be more sacred to this Jewish affirmation of human significance and human dignity than the crucial use of hostages as hostages to terrorism."

Turning to the religious significance of the High Holy Days and its implicit meaning for the international situation, Conroy said that during the period, "every person stands before God to give an accounting of how he or she has lived during the year that has passed. The High Holy Day liturgy calls upon each worshiper in the synagogue to utter detailed confessions of shortcomings and resolutions of repentance. No rabbi or holy man can do this for us."

Child's hair loss may not be that serious

DEAR DR. GOTT: Our 6-year-old granddaughter is losing her hair. It is coming out steadily and getting worse. She loves fruits and vegetables and is not fond of sweets. Thyroid tests are negative. Her doctors suggest we wait and see. Please help.

condition, I urge you to have a conference with the doctor. You can question the specialist about further tests and the danger signals to look for in the future.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "The Prostate Gland." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title. (C)1989 NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

DEAR READER: Children often go through stages when they lose excessive amounts of hair. This can result from fever and illness, for example. If your granddaughter is in other ways healthy, I think you can take the doctors' advice to wait for new hair to grow. If, after a few weeks, the hair loss continues, ask for a referral to a dermatologist. The child could have a scalp condition—eczema, for instance—that could cause hair loss and would need treatment.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My husband's urologist diagnosed him with a malignant prostatic tumor. The doctor did a needle biopsy and IVP test. No other blood work, X-rays or CAT scans were done. What is the proper procedure?

DEAR READER: I believe your husband's urologist followed standard practice by obtaining tissue (biopsy) for analysis and performing an IVP (kidney X-ray) to check for urinary obstruction. Some specialists might have investigated further with a blood count, chemical screening analysis (to examine other substances in the blood), and a chest X-ray and bone scan (to see if the tumor had spread).

The urologist may feel confident that he diagnosed your husband's problem at an early stage; therefore, the doctor may choose to wait, before obtaining further tests, and see if your husband develops any symptoms to suggest the tumor has spread. Ordinarily, prostatic cancer is slow-growing and will not cause problems for many months or years.

Because you are obviously concerned about your husband's

By James Jacoby
Just as counting can guide you to the right way to take a finesse, counting can also guide you away from what seems at first glance to be an obvious play, when in fact that play has no chance for success. South played in four spades after a pre-emptive three-heart opening from East. West led the queen of hearts; East took the ace and led back the deuce (suit-preference, asking for a club return). West ruffed and dutifully led the queen of clubs. When declarer won the ace, East dropped the king. Declarer now played A-K of spades and was disappointed to see that East was left with a high trump. What now? In normal circumstances, with club winners ready to be taken by the defense, South would have no choice but to play A-K-Q-J of diamonds to get rid of his club losers as quickly as possible. But in this instance that play is futile. East has already shown with seven hearts, three spades and the king of clubs. East has at most two diamonds. The third diamond will be ruffed for sure, and South will still be left with a loser in clubs. Declarer must simply grit his teeth and play another spade, giving up his losing trump trick. The chances are very good that East does not have another club. Declarer will be able to ruff East's heart return and run the diamonds to make his contract.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
Sept. 20, 1989

Solid achievements can be made in the year ahead if you are willing to disengage yourself from ventures and alliances that have proven to be unproductive. New friends will help you open up fresh territory.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Avoid siding with or hanging around individuals today who band together as a clique in order to hold sway over others. You don't want to be labeled as one of these petty politicians. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91438, Cleveland, OH 44101-3438.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 23) Don't base an important decision today on conclusions you draw from past events. Look for new sources of evidence to understand present developments.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Financial involvements, especially those where friends participate, should be avoided if possible today. There's a probability things could go wrong and create resentment.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You'll have to guard against coming on too strong today with people with whom you share a common objective. Try to be a friend, not a dictator.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Make no major decisions today unless you are absolutely certain you have all the facts. There is a possibility you might overlook something critically important.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you maintain a mind-your-own-business attitude today, things should go reasonably well for you. If you don't, however, you may inherit someone else's problems by being too nosy.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A resentment you're harboring against someone could cause you to make an unpopular decision today. Ironically, it will be as much to your disadvantage as to anyone else's.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) People you'd least expect could be the ones with whom you'll have pleasant involvements today, but you might be let down emotionally by someone you cherish. Be prepared.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Today you might be drawn into a social involvement with two individuals whose presence makes you feel uncomfortable. Don't make matters worse by making your feelings too obvious.

CANCER (June 21-July 23) Just because you got away with it earlier in the week, don't attempt to be too assertive with your mate again today. It won't be tolerated a second time around.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 23) If confusion arises in something you attempt to do today, it might be due to the fact you've been given faulty information. Go back to the original source and verify the details.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You'll be held accountable today for funds entrusted to your care. Make certain your expenditures are in line with the wishes of those you represent.

Mom misses mark with son's thank-you responsibility

DEAR ABBY: I am enclosing a sample of a card I designed as a thank you note for those people who were kind enough to send my son money for his high school graduation.

As you can see, it's a printed postcard with the following message: "Thank you for your thoughtfulness and your gift of money. Yours truly, John Paul Jones" (not his real name).

Abby, I realize that this is not the usual kind of thank you note one sends, but why must one be "usual"?

Actually, I was very proud that I had been so innovative. Knowing my son, if I had relied on him to write his own thank-you notes, they would never get done. So what would be better: this, or no thank you at all? I even typed the addresses on stick-on labels, so all he had to do was sign the card with his initials.

ADVICE

After all his "thank-yous" were sent off, I received one of the cards back with the following typewritten message: "This is really shabby—keep your thanks!" I have no idea who sent it, so I can't even apologize to the person who thought my son's thank-you card was offensive.

Now I'm concerned that more than just one person thought his card was offensive, and I wonder if my husband and I should send an apology to everyone we sent the thank-you cards to. What is your advice?

JOHN PAUL'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Sorry, but I do not share your enthusiasm for the "quick 'n easy" thank you postcard you designed for your son. He's old enough to write a proper thank you note for each and every gift he received, which is what he should have done. By making it easy for him to evade this responsibility, you are encouraging laziness.

Do not compound your gaffe by sending apologies from you and your husband. Your son should write and apologize for not having sent a personal thank you in the first place.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem I'm not sure too many people have. My boyfriend and my best friend are both 17. They are both males.

My best friend, Edwin, and I have lived next door for 13 years. We are very, very close, but there was never a romantic relationship—not even a kiss. He's like a brother to me.

My boyfriend, Jayson, and I have been dating for almost a year. We are very close, but he's extremely jealous of Edwin. When Edwin and I go out with his family or even spend time together, Jayson calls it a "date." This really irritates me. I've tried to tell Jayson that I don't like Edwin as a boyfriend—only as a best friend—but he doesn't believe me.

Abby, I have never cheated on Jayson and I never will, but he doesn't trust me at all. When I ask him why he doesn't trust me, he has no answer. He just repeats that he doesn't trust me.

I need to build trust with Jayson and still remain best friends with Edwin. I don't want to give either friend up. They are both the best things that ever happened to me.

FRUSTRATED

DEAR FRUSTRATED: You don't need to build "trust" with Jayson—he needs to build confidence in himself. If Jayson mistrusts you for no reason whatsoever, that's his problem. Don't make it yours.

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 years old and enjoy going to the mall to window-shop. There is one problem that I cannot seem to handle and I hope you won't think I'm stupid for asking. Many unfortunate people appear in this mall, and it's almost impossible to avoid encountering the question, "Got any spare change?"

Being somewhat of a timid soul, I usually dig into my jeans and give whatever I have. But having the small income of an average teenager, I sometimes must consider myself one of the needy.

How can I avoid the uncomfortable feeling of guilt if I have nothing to give but a kind word or two?

WEALTHY IN SPIRIT ONLY

DEAR WEALTHY: Don't feel guilty when you give a beggar just a kind word or two. That's more than most beggars get.

I did drugs.

Maybe I don't look the type, but it's true. As you can see, I survived. I was one of the lucky ones—I overcame my problem.

But now I've got a new problem—what if my kids do drugs?

I talked with some close friends and we decided the best way to keep our kids off drugs is to be honest with them about the dangers of drug abuse. And make it clear that life is much more enjoyable when you're not in an altered state.

They're too smart for scare tactics. Straight talk is the only way to keep them straight.
