Well, we made good use of the fact that they've opened the base pool on week-ends for dependent ...

Crowded it was, but somehow no one seems to mind when we're all Navy, and just about every one knows everyone else.

Since this is a "no news, just talk" column, I'd like to add my comment on the "gate" situation in Florida. Can't say how pleased I am that the law now reads in favor of doing away with the big ones, ...

CHAPTER 18
AS EACH DAY brought me closer to the middle of April, when John Mathers' colony was scheduled to recon the valley, I felt more depressed. This was the year of change: our life here would never be the same again, it seemed.

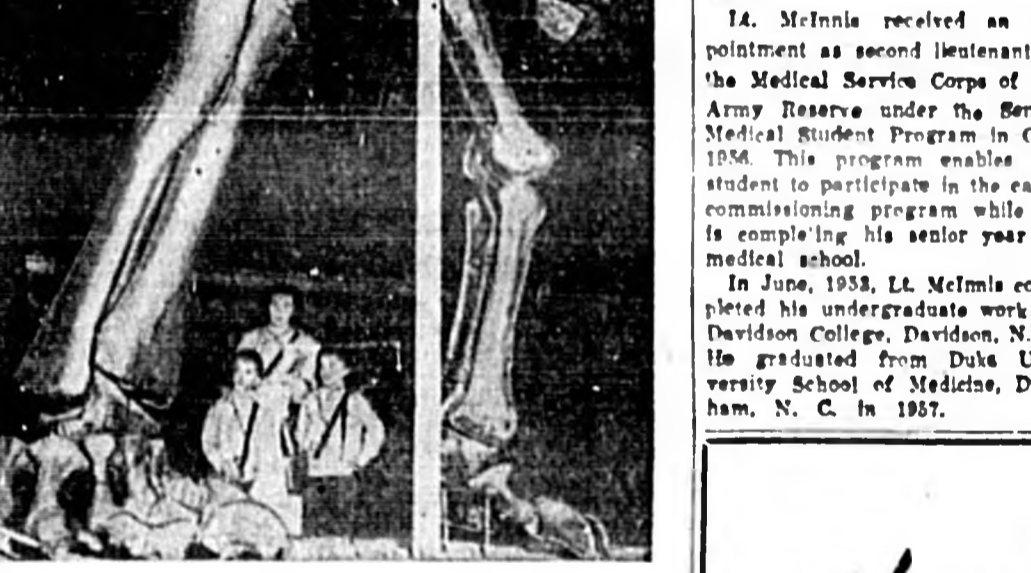

To make it worse for me, I had no one to talk to. I hadn't seen Kathy Morgan for weeks. Gene Dillingham was the same as he had been, sometimes coolly courteous, sometimes glumly silent. I was on speaking terms with Alice Dodson and that was all.

Sarah Pardee was the one I should have been able to talk with, to tell her all my anxieties and fears. I couldn't even mention it to her; I didn't know what she would do, but I did know what she would think and say.

The tension grew in me day by day until I could hardly eat, and I lay awake on my bunk more hours than I slept. I faced an impossible situation. So did Sarah. She couldn't fire me. She couldn't even get rid of me, now that she had given me half of the Box P.

I knew what must be done: I had to stop Mathers before his colony reached the valley. I kept telling myself that, but what would happen after Mathers was turned back? I didn't even try to guess. I thought only as far as the day the shots would be fired, when men would be killed.

"You can't hold an old man like me in your force, we'll be Mathers' challenge as 'Gunlock' continues here tomorrow."

part pick, providing logistic support to naval forces in the Japan and Korea area until July 1951. In July 1951 he served on the Staff of the Commander Fleet Logistics Air Wing, Pacific, as the Plans Officer for a period of one year. In July 1952 he attended the Naval War College, Newport, R. I. until June 1953. He was ordered to duty in the Bureau of Aeronautics at Washington, D. C. in June 1953 as the Administrative and Personnel Coordinator (Maintenance Division) until July 1955.

In July 1955 he reported on board Composite Squadron Eight and proceeded to the Heavy Attack Training Unit, Sanford, for duty under instruction. He completed the Heavy Attack Training Unit course in October 1955 and reported on board Heavy Attack Squadron Eleven as Executive Officer. Cdr. Bear assumed the command of Heavy Attack Squadron Eleven on April 1, 1957.

From 1941 to 1957, Cdr. Bear saw duty in both World War II and Korean Conflict. He was in the Pacific, Atlantic and European areas of operation. During his naval service he was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross (3 stars); the Air Medal (4 stars); Presidential Unit Citation; American Defense Service Medal; American Campaign Medal; Asiatic-Pacific Campaign Medal; Navy Medal for World War II; National Defense Medal; Korean Service Medal; and United Nations Service Medal.

Cdr. Bear was born Nov. 4, 1916, in Fredonia, Pa. He is survived by his wife Mrs. Ann Rebecca Bear and three children, Barbara, Sandra and Patricia, who reside at 206 Grandview Ave. His mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Bear of Fredonia, Pa. Memorial and funeral services have not as yet been announced.

City Fathers At Meet Attempting To Settle Sewage Plant Dispute

CDR. J. H. BEAR (Official Photo, U. S. Navy) Memorial Service Held Today At NAS For Cdr. J. Bear

Aircraft engines stopped turning, and men laid down their tools and abandoned their desks this afternoon as the officers and men of Heavy Attack Squadron Eleven "slowly and heavily" walked to the NAS Chapel.

The highlight of his brilliant career, which included wide varied duties and experiences was in April when Commander Bear assumed command of Heavy Attack Squadron Eleven.

John B. Crawford Dies Last Night

John B. Crawford, 71, died suddenly at his home in Lake Mary at 7:30 p.m. last night.

Mr. Crawford was born June 11, 1886 in Reds Gap, Pa. and came to Sanford in 1917.

Mr. Crawford was a member of the First Methodist Church of Sanford and was the current president of the Mens' Bible Class.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Esther Crawford, Lake Mary; two daughters, Mrs. Carl E. Williams, Sanford and Mrs. R. D. Lake, Sanford; one son, John L. Crawford, Sanford; nine grand-children; two great grandchildren; and one sister, Mrs. John Dimm.

AEC Investigates Report Diablo Shot Damaged Homes

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — The Atomic Energy Commission today investigated reports that Monday's Diablo shot caused minor damage in some homes within a radius of 200 miles of the test site.

E. K. Butler, an inspector in the Carson City, Nev., police department said the shock of the nuclear device equivalent to 10,000 tons of TNT broke a window in his home and cracked others in neighboring homes.

The AEC said it was the first case of blast waves traveling through the atmosphere causing damage at such a distance. The AEC said it would check the damage reports to determine if they were test-related and accept claims for payment.

Kiwanians To Hear Report On Boys' State Activities

Delegates to the recent Boy's State in Tallahassee will give their report to the Sanford Kiwanis Club at its noon luncheon meeting at the Yacht Club tomorrow.

Richard Phagan, sponsored by the Jaycees, Pat Donahue, sponsored by the Elks Club, Sid Whalen Jr., sponsored by the Rotary Club, Al Collins Jr., sponsored by the Lions Club, and Dickie Rountree, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, will each tell of their experiences at the American Legion sponsored Boys State.

Members of the Board of Sanford City Commissioners are in Jacksonville this afternoon meeting with David B. Lee, Director, Bureau of Sanitary Engineering, State Board of Health in an attempt to settle a dispute relative to the construction of a sewage treatment plant for the city.

The first dispute was settled when Lee found that the Board of Sanford City Commissioners were dead earnest toward developing means for the construction of the treatment plant.

Commissioners, for months, have been approaching the sewage treatment plant project with frequent reports from its fiscal agent, Wilson Holt but sufficient funds for the plant's construction could not be raised from the utility department's revenue.

Most commissioners have expressed themselves toward disfavoring Lee's method of stopping construction of necessary expansion as "unfair" when every effort possible is being made to find ways and means of constructing the needed sewage treatment plant.

Richard Phagan, sponsored by the Jaycees, Pat Donahue, sponsored by the Elks Club, Sid Whalen Jr., sponsored by the Rotary Club, Al Collins Jr., sponsored by the Lions Club, and Dickie Rountree, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, will each tell of their experiences at the American Legion sponsored Boys State.

Navy Jet Sets New Coast-To-Coast Record

VAH-11 PLANES, OPERATING out of Columbus, Ohio aided in refueling F8U-1P Crusader jets while setting a new transcontinental speed record this morning. Three crews were dispatched from the Sanford Naval Air Station based squadron for one phase of the refueling project.

VAH-11 Crews Do Refueling

NEW YORK — A Navy jet fighter set a new transcontinental speed record today.

Marine Maj. John Glenn Jr. took off from Los Alamitos Naval Air Station in California at 9:04:12 a.m. e.d.t.

Glenn slowed down for three refueling in flight over Grants, N. M., Emporia, Kans., and Columbus Ohio.

Glenn broke through the sonic barrier at least four times in flight to maintain that average, after take-off and after each refueling.

Top speed of the supersonic Chance Vought jet has not been disclosed. It was clocked at 1,015.428 miles an hour in setting a Thompson Trophy speed record in August 1956, the manufacturer said.

Aerial "filling stations" were supplied by Heavy Attack Squadron Eleven (VAH-11) for the Navy F8U Crusaders that streaked across the continent and established a new speed record between Los Angeles and New York.

Three planes from VAH Eleven took part in "Operation Bullet". The only major slackening in the Crusaders' unassisted speed came as the F8U's approached the A-11 planes to "gulp" fuel.

Local Businessmen Outline Vocations At Rotary Session

Vocational service talks by two of their members featured the weekly meeting of the Sanford Rotary Club yesterday afternoon at the Yacht Club when W. M. (Wally) Phillips of Phillips Colonial Cleaners and Kenneth C. (Ken) Reimann of Reimann Motors, Inc. gave their colleagues a picture of their businesses.

The beginning of the dry cleaning industry started, Phillips said, when a French maid, in attempting to clean a garment, chance to spill some turpentine on part of it.

Phillips mentioned the many developments in the technical aspects of his business; discussed temperatures, humidity, dyeing and remarked that from the humble beginning of a pressing club, an up to date, modern cleaning establishment handles, among other items: drycleaning, wetcleaning, pressing, leather cleaning, laundry work, drapes and puff cleaning, mothproofing, flameproofing, repairing, alterations, storage, cold storage for furs, water repelling, cleaning upholstery and several other services.

Reimann expressed his pleasure at the opportunity of talking about his business at this particular time since this happened to be the occasion of his first anniversary in Sanford. The automobile business, he said, was really four different businesses: new cars, used cars, parts and accessories and service.

The speaker took each of the four stems, starting that in new cars it was imperative to have a top quality product; have good public relations, which meant to impress people with one's integrity; to follow up sales through service and to stand in back of the product.

Pressure did not free the block but the sight of a woman hauling a toilet in a little red wagon across the street trailed by five children brought out many interested neighbors.

Leaders Consider Forming Waterways Advisory Committee

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. LeRoy Collins meets this afternoon with a group of civic leaders to consider the creation of a waterways advisory committee to spur development of a cross-state barge canal and deep water ports.

The Atlantic-Gulf Intracoastal Waterway Association yesterday urged the governor to appoint a five-man advisory group to make recommendations to the 1959 Legislature.

The Mississippi Valley is interested in getting an expanded market in Florida, the Atlantic-Gulf Intracoastal Waterways Assn. was told today.

2 Sanford Boys Attending Forestry Training Camp

Two Sanford boys are on hand at O'Leary State Park near High Springs for Florida's 23rd annual forestry training camp for Future Farmers of America. They are Tommy Sparks and Jimmie Williams.

The forestry camp is conducted by the Florida Forest Service to show tomorrow's landowners and land managers how they can manage forest land for most money for themselves and for conservation of the state's valuable forest resource.

Two children were injured this morning, shortly before 10 o'clock when the wagon in which they were playing rolled down a driveway from behind a hedge into the path of a moving automobile.

Top News In Brief

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia — Soviet Communist Party Boss Nikita Khrushchev announced today that Russia and Czechoslovakia have agreed to limit their industrial and economic power so "we can successfully compete with the capitalist world."

Some 25 civic and government officials recommended that the commission consider the long-discussed cross-state canal, deep water ports, a Sanford-Titusville Canal, Jacksonville-Miami Key West canal, St. Marks River-Tampa Bay-Port Myers canal and a secondary system of canals of less than 12 feet to carry some commerce but primarily for pleasure boating.

Among the leaders who met this morning to iron out their recommendations to the governor this afternoon were: John Krifer of Sanford; Vice Admiral H. S. Duckworth (USN ret.), executive vice president of the Gulf Intracoastal Waterways Association, Jacksonville; Alex M. Halle of Miami; L. R. Bligh of West Palm Beach; J. P. Fitzgerald of Tampa and a group of waterways enthusiasts of Leesburg.

Among those spearheading the unification of efforts was John Krifer who has become one of the leaders in waterway expansion throughout the area.

It has been suggested that one member of the commission be appointed from each of the following areas: Palm Beach; Fort Myers; Tampa; St. Petersburg; Sanford; Orlando; Deland; Jacksonville; St. Augustine; and Pensacola-Panama City-Port St. Joe.

2 Boys Hurt As Wagon Rolls In Front Of Car

Two children were injured this morning, shortly before 10 o'clock when the wagon in which they were playing rolled down a driveway from behind a hedge into the path of a moving automobile.

The two children, along with another unharmed, whisked down the driveway from behind a hedge and into the path of an automobile driven by Mrs. Bert Hollingsworth from a nearby home to take them swimming along with her children also in the car.

Application Made For Transmission Line Across River

Application has been made to the Department of the Army by Florida Power Corp. for a permit to construct a special electric transmission line across the St. Johns River approximately a half-mile northward from U. S. 17-92 bridge in Seminole and Volusia Counties.

The proposed transmission line would operate under a potential of 110,000 volts and would be supported by two towers the highest of which would extend for approximately 100 feet above ground. The masts would be approximately 1,500 feet apart across the waterway and a vertical clearance of 92 feet above mean sea level would be available under the lowest conductor.

Plans for this work may be seen at the office of the District Engineer, Corps of Engineers, 515 Riverside Ave., Jacksonville. The Corps of Engineers stated in its release that no public hearing on the application is proposed.

However, protests based on the proposition that the proposed work would unreasonably interfere with navigation or navigation easements, should be addressed to the District Engineer, Corps of Engineers, P. O. Box 4016, Jacksonville.

Good salesmen who knew their products and were employees of quality, capable of earning top pay, were important an essential. Good relations with the factory supplying the product and a proper stock attractively displayed, were also important, he stated.

Some of the items Reimann discussed in used car deals were honest advertising; having a certain definite specific policy of a warranty; keeping the stock moving and having the stock clean and neatly displayed. The parts business, he said, was of utmost importance and was only exceeded by the importance of the service department, actually the backbone of any business where any kind of appliance was sold, for the slogan of this type of business should be "we service what we sell".

In thanking the two speakers for their part in the program, Tommy Mero, who introduced them, stated that "these were some of the best talks yet made on vocational service." Each speaker was greeted with applause.

Following the meeting, club president Myron A. (Mike) Rock called his board of directors together for a short discussion of club affairs.

Family Farm Is Institution That Should Be Preserved, Strengthened

Ever since the founding of the Republic, one of the basic units in American life has been the family farm. One of the fundamental assets in the Seminole County community has been the family farm.

The fact that most of the nation's farms are still of this type in our electronic age is a measuring of the family farm system's enduring values. It is an institution that we should not lightly give up.

An excellent summary of the reasons for clinging to family farming as a way of life appears in a report on the subject just recently issued by the agriculture committee of the National Planning Association. "In terms of economic performance, equality of opportunity, and social values," the report says, "we believe the family farm represents the most desirable form of organization for American Agriculture."

The family farm is threatened, first, by the fact that more and more families cannot make a reasonably good living from their farms, and second, by the growing concentration of land and capital. These two factors are related. Scientifically managed corporate farms, many times bigger than family farms, can offer extremely tough and sometimes fatal competition to individual farmers.

It is often argued that if the little farmer can't compete he should get out of the business, that if large scale enterprises with outside capital are the most efficient way to produce farm products, then the family farm had best be allowed to fall by the wayside. The matter is not quite that simple. If the same cold-blooded argument were generally applied, various groups of Americans would suffer.

Family farming, so important to Florida, Central Florida, and Seminole County, must be weighed not alone for its efficiency as a producer of farm products, but also for its contribution to what we still can refer to proudly as the American way of life.

Judged by that standard of values, the family farm measures up well as an institution that ought to be preserved and strengthened.

U.S. Should Conserve Resources

America, one of the few islands of plenty in the sea of human want, has the reputation of being notoriously wasteful. Unfortunately, the reputation is well deserved. This has come about largely because, being richly gifted with natural resources and having developed a remarkably productive system, we have never had to worry much about conservation.

The time is coming when Americans will have to change their attitude. Our population is increasing at an extraordinarily high rate. We should begin thinking more seriously about conserving our resources, about making better use of what we produce.

One facet of the matter is highlighted by the 1957 Municipal Year Book, which reports that the great majority of American cities over five thousand population dispose of garbage by compacting it in trenches and covering it over. Several hundred other cities use either incinerators or open dumps. One hundred ten cities feed their garbage to hogs, and only 44 use salvage methods.

Garbage is organic matter, useful in production of fertilizer and rich soil. The time will come, and probably not too many decades hence, when failure to make good use of this organic matter will be regarded as an unforgivable waste.

It is by no means too soon for communities to begin thinking of how to divert this vast tonnage of organic material to useful purposes.

Price Increase

When the talk comes around to price increases, big business executives are inclined to place the blame mostly on wage boosts. If only the workers would not demand so much for their time, the executive suggests, prices could be held in line.

The record shows, however, that the executives who talk that way often exhibit a blind spot when it comes to their own salaries. Keeping wages in line is one thing, in their lexicon; holding down executive salaries is something else again.

Steel prices recently were increased by a substantial amount per ton. The word went out, as it always does on such occasions, that increases in the pay of workers brought about the price boost. That is partly true without any doubt. But it is worth noting that steel executives have not done badly when it comes to boosts in salaries.

Roger Blough, chairman of U. S. Steel, was paid $264,900 in 1956. That was 19.2 per cent more than he was paid in 1951. Eugene G. Grace, chairman of Bethlehem Steel, collected 1956 base pay of $150,000 plus bonuses of $639,011, bringing his total pay to $809,011. That was 14.6 per cent more than he received the year before.

Perhaps top executives earn these substantial increases. But when they then talk about wanting to hold down wages to prevent price boosts, one is reminded of various old proverbs. The one about its depending whose ox is gored, for instance, and another about wearing the shoe if it fits.

The 1960 presidential campaign is already underway. The first governor has denied that he will be a candidate. And there have been some political rumblings right here in the State of Florida.

Are you eligible for social security?
If you don't know the answer, it will pay you to check. Farmers and farm workers are now eligible under certain conditions.

Many persons 65 and over can qualify now for the minimum $30-per-month social security retirement benefit if they would take time to understand what they are required to do. Others could become qualified within the minimum 1 1/2-year period.

Dr. Carey Moxley of the Florida Agricultural Extension Service advises that six quarters or 1 1/2 years of social security coverage is the minimum time requirement for retirement benefits. If you are a farm employee, you get one quarter of coverage for each $100 of cash wages you receive in a year.

If you are a self-employed farmer and have a net income of $400 or more in a year, you get four quarters of coverage for

Foreign News Commentary

By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent
Great Britain is preparing to make a new and determined attempt to settle the long dispute over the future of Cyprus.

Details have been under discussion in London for a week by the cabinet, defense chiefs and Field Marshal Sir John Harding, governor and commander in chief of the island.

Several possible solutions have been considered.

One would put Cyprus under control of an international body, possibly the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Another would give the 500,000 people of the eastern Mediterranean island independence, preferably as a unit of the British Commonwealth.

But it is certain that no solution Britain decides upon will call for the union of Cyprus with Greece, which demands it.

Considers Partitioning
Britain has considered partitioning the island between its two ethnic elements, the 400,000 islanders of Greek racial stock and the 100,000 Turkish inhabitants.

The interested parties in the dispute, which has kept Cyprus under emergency rule for more than two years because of Greek Cypriote terrorism, are Britain, Turkey and Greece.

Britain is willing to give the islanders self-rule. Turkey does not want the island. It is willing to accept partition, but has announced that in no circumstances will it permit the Turkish Cypriotes to come under domination of either the Greek government or the Greek islanders. Both Greece and Orthodox Archbishop Makarios of Cyprus, who represented the Greek islanders, have rejected the partition proposal.

Refuses To Negotiate
Makarios, who is now in Athens, has refused to enter any negotiations which involve Turkey. He has said, with the approval of the Greek government, that the future of Cyprus is a matter for negotiation solely between Britain and him, as the representative of Greek Cypriotes.

On the basis of the various statements made, the Cyprus issue seems to be still in the deadlock stage.

But Britain seems to believe a solution may now be possible. There is talk in London of the possibility of a British-Greek-Turkish conference. It is possible that Paul Henri Spaak, new secretary general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, may be called in to help arrange such a conference. Spaak, a former Belgian premier and foreign minister, is one of the most highly respected statesmen in Europe.

Importance Diminished
Cyprus at present is Britain's chief Mediterranean military base. But the Suez Canal dispute and Britain's new defense policy have diminished its strategic importance.

Defense Minister Duncan Sandys has recommended that Kenya, on the East African coast, be made the new base for British ground forces in the Middle East.

If that happened, Cyprus would become a joint British-NATO air base, with facilities for nuclear bomber planes.

One thing seems essential. That is, that any solution will have to be acceptable to Turkey as well as Greece. Turkey, which ruled Cyprus before Britain took it over in 1878, says Cyprus ought to be Turkish if it is not to remain British. It points out first that Greece never has ruled Cyprus and secondly that though the island is 43 miles from the Turkish mainland it is more than 500 miles from the Greek mainland.

Sun Bath A Fine Idea But Beware Of Sunburn

By HERMAN N. BUNDESIN, M.D.

RELAXING in the sun probably is more essential for men—especially keyed-up businessmen—than for women. Yet most men know little about sunburn and how to prevent and treat it.

This is unfortunate, because men are more susceptible to sunburn than women. So let me give the male members of the household a little advice about sunbathing. Of course, you women should follow it, too.

Dark Complexion
If you have a dark complexion and dark hair, you probably will be able to stand the sun-bath better than those with fair skin and blond or red hair.

Therefore, those of you with dark hair should be able to spend about 15 minutes or so sunbathing on the first day. This is not very long. I will admit, but you should be able to stand the sun's rays better by the second day.

Dark Complexion
During the second day of sunbathing, you can try two half-hour periods: one in the morning and the other in the afternoon. After this, you can increase the daily dosage of sun gradually. For men with red or blond hair, five to ten minutes exposure is enough for the first few days. You will gradually be able to lengthen your stay in the sun.

Protective Skin
Protective lotions, oils or creams generally are advisable, especially for those of you with fair skin. Petroleum or zinc oxide ointment will usually filter the rays effectively.

While all cases of severe sunburn should be treated by a doctor, here is what you can do to relieve the discomfort of minor burns. Try ice-cold compresses of mineral oil, carrol oil or even milk.

Dusting the burned area with a powder containing equal parts of talc, boric acid and zinc oxide several times a day and before bedtime also will be comforting.

Conning The News

By VIRGINIA CONN

A surprise party was given Saturday night at Gretchen Hall's home in Loch Arbut for Lou and Si Johnson, who left Monday. Bob and Pat Knight took Gretchen and the Johnsons to dinner at the Imperial House in Winter Park and the group was to return at a later hour. However, Si Johnson would not cooperate, and it was only through the dramatic efforts put forth by Gretchen that she was persuaded to take her home. There, they were greeted by the entire VAH-7 squadron except those deployed, of course.

Si was presented with a beautiful pair of gold cuff links with VAH-7 engraved on them. By that time he was almost emotional. The girls had placed snacks in the dining room and flowers in other strategic spots.

Admiral, Mrs. Paul Johnston Retire In Sanford Recently

Admiral and Mrs. Paul Johnston are at home these days at 121 Scott Ave. Admiral Johnston retired this spring with the rank of Rear Admiral, after thirty years in the navy. He is a member of the Class of 1927 at the Naval Academy.

Mrs. Johnston is the former Merle Moss of Annapolis, Md.

Designers, taking note of the International Geophysical Year and U. S. plans to launch a baby moon, already are out with satellite silhouettes.

Lily Dache described her outspace luncheon as "spinning around the head and shooting off at the side in a spiral of bright color."

One thing is certain about the industry's concern with things out of this world. Hat shapes take off in several directions—soaring upward like a stalgamite, moving backward to the head, or slanted so far to the side you wonder what keeps them on.

Sally Victor decided some of her small evening hats—she called them "demi-tasse caps"—would stay put only if held on. So she showed one black velvet number, fitting closely as a skull cap, with a red velvet appliqued "band" keeping it in place.

Face Shows

All hats have some traits in common this fall. All will show more of the girl's face and front hairline. No more of those mushroom shadows the whole face. All have a soft, draped quality; wires, buckram and stiff linings have been discarded.

All are smaller, despite some of those extreme shapes.

The No. 1 silhouette displayed at the semi-annual show by the military stabilization committee was the turban. Next in popularity, the beret and cloche.

Miss Dache, for instance, showed "satellite berets", with the fabric draped in swirls about the head.

Some turbans are fancy as a maharajah's head-dress. Others are small and snug. Most of the elaborate ones are trimmed with outside fake jewels. Designer Emme of New York, featured a turban in green satin, decorated with a single tear-shaped jewel at the front.

Personals

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Johnson in their home on 11th St. are Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Burns and children of Perry Hall, Md. This is the Burns' first trip to Florida, and they plan to stay two weeks. Before a physician receives his license to practice medicine he must learn how to do everything necessary to diagnose and treat disease.

Before we pharmacists receive our license to practice pharmacy we must compound prescriptions under the watchful eye of our instructors, and prove that we know how to protect the potency of medicines.

Therefore, your future health is always better served when you go to your physician for advice on what to do and what to take, and get any needed medicine from your pharmacist.

Wilson - Maier Nine Drubbed 7-1 By Navy Men Last Nite

Fish Fry Slated Wednesday Night At Sportsman Meet

The annual meeting of the Seminole County Sportsman Association will be held tomorrow evening at the Elks Club beginning at 8 p. m.

Highlighting the annual event will be a fish fry, according to Cotton Brown, president of the local sportsmen.

Officers for the 1957-58 fiscal year will be elected during the business meeting.

Guest speaker for the event will be Don Southwell, Fifth District Commissioner of the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission. His subject will be "The 1957-58 Hunting and Fishing Rules and Regulations."

The annual meeting of the local sportsman association is one of the big events of the group's year to which the association's president has urged "All members to attend."

Wilson-Maier Furniture Company's softball team held their lead in the citywide recreation department's softball league despite the drubbing they received from HATU-Farron 9-1 last night.

K. D. Harvell, pitched for the navymen, struck out 14 batters in the seven-inning game which brought victory for HATU-Farron 9-1 to the tune of 7-1.

The furnituremen racked up five hits to even up the score in that department but they couldn't get the men across home plate.

Tommy Suggs, the losing pitcher and Larry Churat, whom he relieved on the mound, allowed nine free trips to first base.

Batteries for Wilson-Maier Furniture Company were Suggs, Churat and Jones; for the HATU-Farron 9-1 batteries were Harwell and Williams.

Tonight Wilson-Maier meets Robson Sporting Goods in the next scheduled game of the season which ends on July 28.

Stock Car Classic Set Labor Day

DARLINGTON, S. C. — Curtis Turner, Virginia lumberman who won the Southern 500 mile stock car classic at Darlington, S. C. last Labor Day and Paul Goldsmith, Michigan victor in the Raleigh 250 July 4 will drive team cars under Daytona Beach mechanic Smoky Yunick in the rich Southern 500 here Labor Day.

With empty blanks in the mails but 24 hours Yunick, who has won the 500 three times with driver Herb Thomas, filed the first entries. The Florida, who has campaigned Chevrolets almost exclusively during the past two years, failed to name the cars Turner and Goldsmith will drive, indicating a change from the General Motors product. Yunick has until August 21 to name his cars, according to NASCAR rules.

Turner who will be driving in his eighth Southern 500, has the distinction of leading each of the Labor Day classics but only winning once, last year, when he drove Ford. Goldsmith, last year's outstanding stock car rookie, finished fifth in a Chevrolet.

The Turner-Goldsmith combine breaks up two other famous racing teams of recent history. Turner and Joe Weatherly, a fellow Virginian, have teamed for Ford and burned up both the convertible and Grand national circuits for two years. Yunick rose to fame, through his two Hudson and one Chevrolet victory at Darlington with driver Herb Thomas. Thomas had indicated he will drive a private entry in the $53,000 event.

The big race is expected to attract a minimum of 75 entries. Reservations have already been made from each of the 48 states and several foreign countries for the annual stock car classic. Oldsmobile and Hudson have won the 500 five times while Ford, Chevrolet and Plymouth have topped the field once each.

Senior Life Saving Course To Begin Thursday Night

All who are interested and eligible for the Senior Course are requested to be on hand for the first class which will be held Thursday evening, July 18 at 7 p. m.

'Boycott' Battled At Rageway

Ball Games Held At Goldsboro Recreation Area

Softball games are being played every Wednesday afternoon at the Goldsboro Recreation Area as a part of the summer recreation program of the Colored Schools.

Games start at 1:30 according to Ed Blackshear, who coaches two of the teams who take part in the league play.

Four teams represented in the league are from the Crooms Academy area, Hopper Academy, Midway, and Oviedo.

Coaches for the teams who supervise the recreational activity for the Colored are: Ed Blackshear, H. Meadows, and L. R. Kubanks.

Approximately 50 boys turn out for the team competition each Wednesday afternoon. Six games have been played so far. Blackshear stated. The standings are as follows: Hopper Academy won 3 and lost 0; Midway, won 2 and lost 1; Oviedo, won 1 and lost 2; and Crooms Academy won 0 and lost 3.

NEW YORK — Harness racing, one of the nation's fastest growing sports, watched intently as a quiet little man with a fighting glint in his eyes battled a "boycott" at Yonkers Raceway which may make the trotting sport the next federal anti-trust target.

"This action unquestionably is inspired by the U. S. Trotting Assn.," declared Martin Tananbaum, Yonkers president, "nor is there any question but what the USTA is basically in violation of anti-trust laws."

"The USTA is composed of bullies and dictators," Tananbaum charged. "Everybody who has tried to buck this monopolistic group has been run out of the sport but we will not quit with a gun at our heads and will defeat them because of their own greed."

Began Last Spring The hassle started last spring when Yonkers attempted to pick up a three year option on a three-year contract with the Standardbred Owners Assn., composed of trotting owners. A new agreement was reached but the SOA refused to approve the decision of its own committee.

One of the reasons was that the 1924 New York Legislature passed a construction rebate bill for tracks trying to expand. The owners demanded that instead of purses being made up of 35 percent of the track's retention of the pari-mutuel betting, they now should get 45 per cent—plus 45 percent of the construction money.

"But on Monday all the big owners—acting 'individually'—had their vans all lined up in a procession and took off."

Inevitably, Tananbaum said, "the little fellows are coming here." "I will venture to predict that the USTA will be investigated under the anti-trust laws and found guilty," Tananbaum asserts. "It is a private Ohio corporation which has a death grip on the sport. It is about time it was challenged."

That it will be seems certain because Rep. Emanuel Celler, a New York Democrat, already has asked the U.S. attorney general's office to make an investigation. Meanwhile, the small owners are getting a crack at the big purses and the fans are flocking back.

L. Hoad Opens Pro Career With Bang

FOREST HILLS, N. Y. — Lew Hoad opened his pro tennis career the way the ocean surfer hits the beaches of his native Sydney with a bang.

Hoad, earning the first chunk of the record, $125,000 contract, accepted from promoter Jack Kramer last week, featured Sunday's play in the Tournament of Champions by whipping Frank Sedgman, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4. It was one of the most impressive debuts in the history of the pro game.

Sedgman's game doesn't match that of Pancho Gonzales, the pro champion. But Frank, 29, is an experienced pro and was expected to give his young Australian countryman a bitter tussle.

British tennis experts rated Hoad's 56-minute title triumph at Wimbledon July 8 as one of the finest in the history of that classic. Law stunned Sedgman and surprised Kramer by showing the same booming service and net attack Sunday.

Gonzales, who had threatened not to play in the $10,000 robin tournament if Hoad was an entrant, open his bid for the $2,500 first money by defeating Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, Ohio, 6-3, 3-6, 11-9, 6-3.

Bayer Says Kroll Helped In Winning Canadian Open

KITCHENER, Ont. — Mighty George Bayer, golf's biggest hitter, gives Ted Kroll a large slice of the credit for his maiden victory Saturday in the Canadian Open championship.

"It was his help with my irons that has helped me more than anything," Bayer said, referring to some instruction Kroll offered the golfing goliath at the Carling Open at Flint, Mich., four weeks ago.

Bayer, a six-foot-five, 240-pounder who played pro football briefly with the Washington Redskins, finished two strokes in front of grayling Bo Winger with a 73-hole score of 371. Winger, the Odessa, Tex., pro making his best showing in more than a year, fired a six-under-par 65 that left him just short of Bayer.

Official Practice Starts Yesterday For Pro Tourney

DAYTON, Ohio — The first "official" practice started yesterday at the Miami Valley Country Club in preparation for the 39th annual Professional Golfers Assn. tournament having total prize money of $40,100 including $4,000 for the winner.

Nearly all the 30 "early birds" who arrived Sunday tested the greens at the par-71 rolling course even though club members crowded the grounds as usual on Sunday.

The best of the few scores reported was a two-under par 69 by Henry Lindner of Nashville, Tenn. Doug Ford, who is the present Masters champion, had a 71; Dick Mayer, the last Open winner, shot a 72; Sam Snead, three-time PGA winner, carded a 73; and Jack Burke Jr., defending PGA titlist, turned in a 75 Sunday.

The field of 128 tees off Wednesday morning for 162 holes of golf, with 18 holes the first session and two rounds a day after that.

Ford, the 1955 PGA titlist and the top money winner among the touring pros this year, is listed as "the man to beat" despite his failure to live up to his "favorite" rating in the National Open.
