Zoo Board Arranging Own 'Recall' Meeting

By Ted Carter
Herald Staff Writer

In a compromise with its detractors, the Central Florida Zoo board of directors has agreed to call a meeting of the 280 or so voting members of the Central Florida Zoological Society.

The meeting was scheduled as an alternative to providing critics of the zoo board the list of voting society members so they could notify them of recall meeting.

"We voted to initiate the recall ourselves," said Wayne Weinberg, president-elect of the board. "We gave them a compromise. We said we would send out the notices and let them have a representative present to make sure we follow through on the commitment."

The meeting, at which comment from society members will be permitted, is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. July 30 at the Sanford Civic Center.

Depending on who is doing the talking, the gathering is expected to provide a vote-of-confidence for the board or a clamoring for recall of its members.

Weinberg said he expects the board to ask the voting members of the society for a vote of confidence.

At full complement, the zoo board has 27 members. Ten have resigned recently, five as a direct result of the controversy over the firing of Zoo Director Al Rozon, and Sanford Mayor Bettye Hazardous materials workers walk between a winding mound of dirt constructed to contain sodium hydroxide and the rail truck that spilled the material due to malfunction of a valve during the attempted transfer of the chemical to a tanker truck.

Waste Teams Scramble To Contain Chemical Spill

A malfunctioning valve that stayed open for about 10 minutes Monday afternoon allowed about 300 gallons of a hazardous chemical to spew on to the ground at the Port of Sanford.

By this morning, firefighters and hazardous waste crews had contained the sodium hydroxide inside dirt dikes speedily erected after the chemical escaped from a pressurized rail car while being pumped from the car into a tanker truck, said Joe Walters, assistant chief of the Seminole County fire division.

Families Get Exceptions For Dogs

Sanford City Commissioner Whitey Eckstein agreed to slight compromises Monday night in a successful effort to convince the majority of his fellow commissioners to allow two variances to the city ordinance limiting the number of dogs at a residence.

In the case of Linda Goins, 415 S. Orange Ave., who has six dogs, the commission voted to allow an exception to the ordinance for 60 days. Eckstein said Goins has her house listed for sale and only wanted the exception until it is sold, when she plans to move out of the city. The commission, however, decided to put a time limit on the exception.

The original petitioners for an exception to the ordinance, Bob and Linda Watkins, also received permission from the commission to keep their four remaining Dobermans at their home at 2532 Princeton Ave. When they made their request they had five Dobermans, but one has since died.

Eckstein said one of the remaining

Home Destroyed By Fire

A country estate home in the Paola area of Seminole County was destroyed by fire sparked by lightning when a thunderstorm moved through the area late Monday afternoon.

Seminole Assistant Fire Chief Joe Walters said the alarm, received at 6:30 p.m., may have come an hour or so after the fire started because no one was at home at the time and, due to the rural location, it went unnoticed by others.

When five Seminole County fire units arrived at the scene two-thirds of the roof was gone, he said.

Damage to the one-story brick home, owned by Albert G. Cichra, was estimated at $200,000.

Altamonte Springs Fire Marshall Steve Randall said Monday's high winds picked up a 2,000 sq. ft. area of roofing that had just been installed on top of the Centrust Building near the intersection of Wymore Road and State

In Floral Shop Worker's Murder

Teens Must Stand Trial As Adults

Two teenagers arrested in connection with the June 23 execution-style murder of a Forest City floral designer must stand trial as adults, a Seminole County grand jury decided Monday in indicting the 16-year-old boy and his 15-year-old girlfriend on charges of first-degree murder, robbery and kidnapping.

The grand jury delivered the indictments against Edwin Paul Bateman and Suzanne Marie Phillips after a nearly all-day session in which evidence was presented linking Bateman and Phillips to the robbery-murder of Diane Lynn McGinnis, a 39-year-old floral designer who had celebrated her 22nd wedding anniversary four days before her death. The robbers got less than $100 from Floral Creations in the Hunt Club Corners plaza.

An additional indictment charges Bateman with first-degree murder with a firearm. McGinnis died of a gunshot to the base of the skull.

The youths were arrested on June 26 after composite drawings brought lawmen several telephone tips. Investigators on the morning of June 27 found a .38-caliber Smith & Wesson, 4-inch, blue steel revolver, believed to be the murder weapon, near a McDonald's restaurant next store to

Yankee Lake Plans Before Water Board Today

By Ted Carter
Herald Staff Writer

The chief of Seminole County's environmental services department is confident the St. Johns River Water Management District today will give the go-ahead for construction of a stormwater management system in preparation for building the final phase of the Yankee Lake wastewater treatment plant.

The plans for managing runoff into Sulfur Creek and a nearby unnamed lake have been recommended for approval by the St. Johns River Water Management District's technical staff. But opponents of the proposed Yankee Lake plant will be raising strong objections, not only to the storm water plans but the entire facility, according to Dannise Kemp, director of records for the district.

"We've received several letters of objection and expect a lengthy discussion," Kemp said. She added there will be no restrictions on what aspects of the controversial project are addressed by either the opponents or proponents during the meeting in Palatka.

A principal objection is that the county should present its plan for the 2.5 million-gallon-a-day phase one facility for its entirety rather than a piece at a time. Another phase, labeled by the district as phase 1A, calls for an additional 2.5 mgd, and is covered in the permit application the board is scheduled to act on today.

Kemp noted the recommended approval carries a number of conditions, such as close maintenance of the lift station for the plant and strict guidelines on how an access road from State Road 46 to the plant is constructed. The conditions are standard and pose no problems in carrying them out, said Jim Bible, director of the county's environmental services department.

Noting other progress with the Yankee Lake plans, Bible said the state Department of Environmental Regulation has issued a notice of intent to approve a permit for the initial 2.5-mgd phase.

However, a final decision on the DER permit could be delayed now that opponents have asked for an administrative hearing before a state hearing officer, according to Art Davis, a local plumbing contractor who is challenging the Yankee Lake project on several fronts.

The permit up for consideration today involves surface water only. The county hopes to begin construction of the plant in the next few months. While the approximate $9 million construction project is under way, the county plans to seek permits for managing effluent in a series of rapid infiltration ponds and wetlands dispersement within the nearly 3,000-acre site adjacent to the St. Johns and Wekiva rivers.

County officials last month withdrew a request for water district approval of conceptual plans for managing surface runoff. The withdrawal came after the officials received strong indications from members of the district's governing body that it would reject the plans even though the district staff had recommended approval. A majority of the water district board members at the time insisted on having more information on actual plans for the on-site management of the treated wastewater.

The county plans to eventually expand the Yankee Lake plant to treat up to 40 million gallons a day.

Girl Remains In Coma

3 Left Teen Unattended At Pool

An Orlando Police Department report indicates at least 3 staffers of Threshold Inc. left Katrina Harris unattended for several minutes before finding her unconscious at the bottom of a swimming pool. The 15-year-old Sanford girl is still in a coma and listed in critical condition at Orlando Regional Medical Center after she apparently fell into the pool while on an outing with the staffers and four other residents of the Orlando center for people with behavioral problems.

A spokesman for the Threshold school took issue with that claim, saying the child was not left unattended. Tina Willard, the school's founder, said, "As far as I know, she was not left unattended."

When asked why it was that the child was undiscovered in the pool for several minutes, as police reported, if she had not been left unattended, Ms. Willard responded: "I have no comment to make on that."

Orlando Police Department Patrolman Glenn Fillius said in his report that Threshold employees Amy Burkhart, Michelle Fariasrios and Lurie Woods had discovered Harris missing during the outing at a private home located at 6300 Rockaway Rd., Orlando, and began to look for her. Harris was found by Burkhart, lying on the bottom of the pool in four to four and a half feet of water. The report says Burkhart and Patricia Butler then began cardio pulmonary resuscitation on Harris. The report did not indicate whether Butler is also a Threshold staff member.

When Patrolman Fillius arrived on the scene he said he found Burkhart in the pool and Butler

School Board Studies AIDS Policies

Policies designed to reduce the risk of transmitting AIDS should a student or school employee become infected with the highly contagious and fatal disease are being formulated by Seminole County school officials.

Last week the school board began reviewing policy drafts, written with help from AIDS policies already in effect in other school systems in Florida and the nation, in an effort to set procedures to deal with the problem of a student or employee having AIDS. To date, no student or employee in Seminole school is known to be infected with the AIDS virus.

Under interim policies, a student or employee having been diagnosed as having AIDS could be separated from others if it is believed there is a high risk of the infected person transmitting the disease. The policies would also remove a student or employee from a school if being in the campus environment was thought to be detrimental to their health.

The decision to take a student with AIDS out of the classroom would be made by the superintendent of schools after that student's case had been reviewed by a committee comprised of county school and health officials. The committee would also include the student's doctor. The student would be temporarily removed from school while the committee studied the case.

The interim policy for a school employees that contract AIDS states that the employees will not be excluded from the workplace if they can continue to carry out the duties of their job and are not a high risk to transmit the disease to others. The decision to leave an AIDS infected employee on the job also rests with the superintendent.

John Reichert, Director of Personnel for the Seminole County School Board, said he has not heard any concern voiced from school employees over the AIDS issue, but the board was looking to adopt new policies on the subject so they would be prepared for it.

"The policies are being developed so they would be there at the point and time they were needed. If in fact they were needed," he said.

Before a second draft is submitted to the school board, which they have asked for by Sept. 1, the policies will still have to be reviewed by school board attorney Ned Julian Jr., Reichert said. Adjustments will then be made that might be required to ensure it is legally correct, he said.

"It's (AIDS) going to have to be a real hot issue," Reichert said. "Decisions state- and nationwide by judges upon that issue, I'm sure, will affect the policies adopted by the board."

Lawyer Gets 5 Years For Escape; Drug Smuggling Trial Pending

A disbarred lawyer from Orlando, wanted for trial since 1983 in an Altamonte Springs drug smuggling case, pled guilty in June to a failure to appear and escape and was sentenced June 10 to five years in prison on the latter charges.

Gerald Anderson, 40, who has been shuffled between the Orange and Seminole county jails, was transported from the Orange County jail July 6 to the federal prison in Talladega, Ala., to await assignment to a yet-to-be-designated federal prison to serve the five year sentence.

Anderson is scheduled to return to Orange County Sept. 1 for the drug smuggling trial. Prosecutors will attempt to prove Anderson smuggled 125,000 grams of cocaine valued at $24 million. Charges include importation of cocaine, racketeering, possession with intent to distribute cocaine and conspiracy to import cocaine.

After his initial arrest in a raid involving about 20 lawmen, Anderson was released on $100,000 bond and he fled. He was recaptured in Gainesville about three months ago.

Storms Hit East, Midwest Cools

United Press International

Violent thunderstorms that killed a Kentucky tobacco farmer and spun off tree-toppling tornadoes in the eastern half of the nation swept toward the Ohio Valley and Appalachians today with more rain.

Showers and thunderstorms stretched early today from the lower Great Lakes and the upper Ohio Valley across central Louisiana and out to the Carolinas.

"They develop along the cold front. They've been doing that the last several days and probably will continue to do that today," a National Weather Service forecaster said.

Temperatures early today were unseasonably cool over Minnesota and broke a 27-year-old record low at Duluth, where the mercury hit 43 degrees at 1 a.m.

On Monday, a lightning bolt killed Hollie Monroe, 56, on his tobacco farm in Franklin County, Ky., during violent storms that crushed cars, uprooted trees and damaged homes.

Tornadoes also touched down Monday in Kentucky west of Lexington, damaging a house and knocking over trees and power lines, and in Frankfort, where no damage was reported. In Louisville, the storms caused power outages and uprooted large trees that crushed cars and damaged homes.

The activity was part of a line of storms sweeping east over the nation ahead of a mass of cooler air that brought temperatures in the 60s and 70s and relief from sweltering summer heat and humidity to the Great Lakes and Plains Monday.

Burlington, Vt., reached a record 92 degrees and high heat and humidity combined to produce a heat index of around 100 degrees for much of the East.

Ahead of the cold front, thunderstorms stretched from Illinois across Missouri and Arkansas into northern Texas and southern Oklahoma. Storms also spread over Ohio, bringing street flooding in Cincinnati, and were scattered over the Eastern Seaboard from New York to West Virginia and North Carolina.

The storms raked the Carolinas, sending 75 to 80 mph winds howling over northeast Union County, N.C., and toppling power lines in Mecklenburg County and at Cramerton. A large barn was destroyed in Lincoln County.

Thunderstorms also swept into Florida, spinning off a tornado that touched down at South Palm Beach. A tornado also hit Fort Lauderdale, where large trees were uprooted and lightning ignited fires. No injuries were reported.

An estimated 45 firemen responded and brought the fire under control after about 45 minutes as strong winds, torrential rain and severe lightning pounded the area.

There were no reports of injuries and the heavy rain and a protective system built into the 3.2-million-gallon tank helped keep the fire under control.

Less than two miles away, a lightning strike put the computer system at the Hillsborough County Sheriff's Department out of operation and another bolt struck an abandoned building in Ybor City, sending a shower of bricks onto parked cars, but again there were no reported injuries.

The chemical, commonly used in food processing, oil refining, paper and rayon manufacturing, is also known as caustic soda, lye and sodium hydrate. It had been transported to the port by rail from Brunswick, Ga., where it was manufactured by LCP Chemical and Plastics Inc.

Shortly before noon Monday, firefighters began diluting the sodium hydroxide with a continuous flow of water from fire hoses. Heavy rains in the afternoon helped to further neutralize the chemical, which depending on its pH content is highly acidic or alkaline. At either end of the pH spectrum, the chemical can cause severe burns, said Walters.

The biggest concern, he said, was that the chemical would flow into the nearby St. Johns River, where it could kill aquatic animal and plant life. Efforts also focused on diluting the sodium hydroxide to a neutral pH level of seven to render it harmless once it seeped into the ground.

Environmental Protection Agency officials remained on the scene today along with workers from HazTech, a hazardous waste recovery company from Tampa.

About 40,000 gallons of water used to dilute the caustic soda were pumped from the dikes into tanker trucks, which are responsible for returning the material to Brunswick.

EPA officials have deemed it safe to let portions of the contaminated water with neutral pH levels to wash into the river, according to Walters.

four dogs is 9 years old and argued that an exception to the ordinance be granted until the oldest dog dies, with the promise from the Watkins' that they will keep no more than three dogs after that. The commission agreed.

Both votes were 3-2, with Mayor Bettye Smith and Commissioner A.A. McClanahan voting against the exceptions. Commissioner Bob Thomas said he had visited the Watkins home and was impressed by the exceptional care the dogs received. Commissioner John Mercer said he questioned the reasoning behind the three-dog limit, saying the number of animals has little to do with how much a problem they are since one or two dogs can cause more problems than four or five well-behaved and well-cared-for pets.

Mrs. Smith said she knew at least one of Watkins' neighbors were opposed to the number of dogs the Watkins have. After the vote, she said she had been asked to relay a message from one of the neighbors that if her children ever suffered any harm from the dogs, the woman would hold the commissioners personally responsible.

Hunt Club Corners. McGinnis' body was discovered in woods about 150 yards from the store where she had working alone the afternoon of her death.

Bateman was reportedly living with Phillips and her family at 1532 Frances Drive at the time of their arrests.

According to Sheriff's Investigator Dan Prast, Phillips was a habitual runaway. Her relationship with Bateman had been going on at least three months before the killing, he said. She attended Crooms School of Choice, he was a former Lake Brantley High School student who worked at Publix supermarket as a bag boy.

Reports say the teenagers ate pizza at a neighborhood pizza parlor shortly after McGinnis' murder.

"I'd say that about 100 homes in that area were affected by the storm," he said. But, he said, no one was without power for more than four hours.

Florida Power Corp. spokesman David Waldrop said his company was working on about 3,000 to 3,500 power outages in the Sanford and south Seminole County area. He said the company had to deal with nearly 10,000 outages in the greater Orlando area due to the storm.

"Because the outages were so widely scattered it took longer for us to restore power," he said. "The major problem was the lightning and high winds knocking down power lines."

Waldrop said crews worked into the night, expecting to have have all power restored by 11:30 p.m., with the Rolling Hills area expected to be last to get its electricity back.

The official amount of rainfall recorded by the National Weather Service at the Orlando International Airport was 1.26 inches for the twenty-four hour period ending 8 a.m. Tuesday. In Casselberry .5 inch of rain fell in that period, in Sanford .1 inch.

The Paola home was the latest in several homes and apartments in Seminole damaged by lightning fires this summer. Twenty-three families were evacuated from Chatham Harbor Apartments, Altamonte Springs, in a July 4 fire blamed on lightning.

Craft Treaty For Safer World

The United States and the Soviet Union are inching closer to an historic agreement that would, for the first time, actually reduce their nuclear arsenals instead of merely limiting the rate of buildup. Yet, the importance of the accord lies in how it would redirect the arms-control process, not in the very modest cuts it would achieve in the nuclear balance between the superpowers.

In recent weeks, Moscow has made a number of concessions to bring its bargaining position into alignment with that of the Atlantic alliance.

The most important of these is the Kremlin's unofficial acceptance of the Reagan administration's proposal to eliminate all medium-range (600 to 3,000 miles) and short-range (300 to 600 miles) ballistic missiles on a global basis. Previously, the Soviets had sought to maintain at least 100 medium-range SS-20 warheads in Asia targeted against China, Japan, and South Korea.

By abandoning the 100 warheads in Asia, Moscow has greatly simplified the inspection scheme that will be needed to verify the agreement. It is much easier to verify a total ban on SS-20s than to keep track of 100 mobile warheads with confidence that the limit has not been breached. That's because, under a total ban, detection of even a single SS-20 would be proof of a treaty violation.

In addition, elimination of all SS-20s removes the need for permanent on-site inspectors in Soviet missile plants, inasmuch as any SS-20 production would be prohibited. To safeguard against illegal production under the total ban, American arms negotiators in Geneva have proposed simply to have unannounced spot checks of defense installations.

The Kremlin also appears to have accepted the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's insistence that West Germany be allowed to keep 72 Pershing 1A missiles whose range exceeds the 300-mile cap. Chancellor Helmut Kohl's insistence on keeping the Pershings must be honored by Washington if NATO unity is to be preserved, and the Soviets seem to recognize this reality as well.

What explains Moscow's willingness to sign an agreement on NATO's terms after nearly six years of Russian intransigence on arms control?

The most plausible answer is that Mikhail Gorbachev wants a treaty — and an attendant summit with Ronald Reagan — to enhance his own political standing at home and abroad. Putting U.S.-Soviet relations on a sounder footing also would provide a boost to Gorbachev's long-range plans for a sweeping restructuring of Soviet society.

At the same time, the Soviet general secretary must surely realize that failure to sign a treaty before the 1988 political campaign would set back the momentum of the arms negotiations for years to come. The next president, particularly if he is a Democrat, will find it much more difficult to sell a treaty to the American people if Gorbachev fails to come to terms with Ronald Reagan.

The value of the emerging Euromissile pact is its decisive shift in the focus of the arms-control process. By actually lowering nuclear stockpiles, the agreement assures that future talks on strategic weapons also will result in aggregate warhead reductions instead of a regulated buildup. Such cuts, when coupled with strategic defenses to blunt the risk of a first strike, can fulfill the overriding objective of creating a safer world.

BERRY'S WORLD

CHUCK STONE

It's Called Borking The Constitution

Trying to prevent Robert Heron Bork's confirmation as Supreme Court associate justice is like standing on top of a garbage dump ringed by cesspools and fumigating the air with perfume spray.

The intent is eminently noble. The need is imperative. The tool is miserably ineffective.

Opponents just aren't going to be able to block the confirmation of this prepossessing legal genius, despite his impassioned affinity for an era that confined blacks to lynching trees, women to pots and pans, abortions to back alleys, homosexuals to non-personhood and atheists to jail.

Of course, Bork's ultra-conservatism threatens judicial balance, but presidents have always factored in ideology in their choice of Supreme Court appointments.

The difference is that Democratic presidents have been more evenhanded.

A dramatic case in point is Democratic Franklin D. Roosevelt's promotion to chief justice of conservative Republican Harlan F. Stone, who had been appointed by conservative Republican Calvin Coolidge.

Still, as is true of Mussolini's stewardship, which at least made the trains run on time, Bork isn't all bad.

On freedom of the press, he was part of a 6-5 Court of Appeals majority decision in December 1964 that upheld two syndicated columnists who had written a damaging opinion piece about a university professor.

"In the past few years," wrote Bork, "a remarkable upsurge in libel actions, accompanied by a startling inflation of damage awards, has threatened a self-censorship which can as effectively inhibit debate and criticism as would overt government regulation."

Amen! Such enlightened Holmes-Brandeis sensitivity is a fleeting part of what he characterizes as an "intellectual evolution."

The question is: evolution toward what?

Bork has not entirely abandoned a 91-year-old racially divisive Supreme Court decision: "The objective of the (14th) Amendment was undoubtedly to enforce the absolute equality of the two races before the law, but in the nature of things it could not have been intended to abolish distinctions based upon color, or to enforce, as distinguished from political equality, a commingling of the two races..." (Plessy v. Ferguson, 1896).

God save the queen! Segregation, forever! If nothing else, we can hail this nappy-haired, scholarly jurist for enriching our lexicon of eponymous words (which already includes such examples as Elizabethan, Jeffersonian, McCarthyan and Quisling).

"Stone's Dictionary of Eponymous Neologisms" lists the following:

Bork, n. — a reactionary scholar; a brilliant but repulsive person (He screwed things up. What a bork!)

Borkism, n. — an intractably conservative mindset; a movement to turn back the clock of progress; an attempt to reverse judicial precedent.

Bork, vt. — to set back (Reagan's Supreme Court appointment borks blacks and women.)

Unhappily, on the Constitution's 200th anniversary, that document has been borked by Reagan's appointment.

WILLIAM RUSHER

Course True North

The dramatic testimony of Lt. Col. Oliver North can be viewed from several different perspectives. Each sheds its own characteristic light on the event.

Regarded purely as theater — and that, unfortunately, is the way many viewers are going to regard it — Col. North is the hands-down winner. He is an outsize and thoroughly admirable personality, and his essential rectitude is so obvious and so overwhelming that it diminishes, relatively speaking, almost all of the other characters onstage, including his own combative attorney.

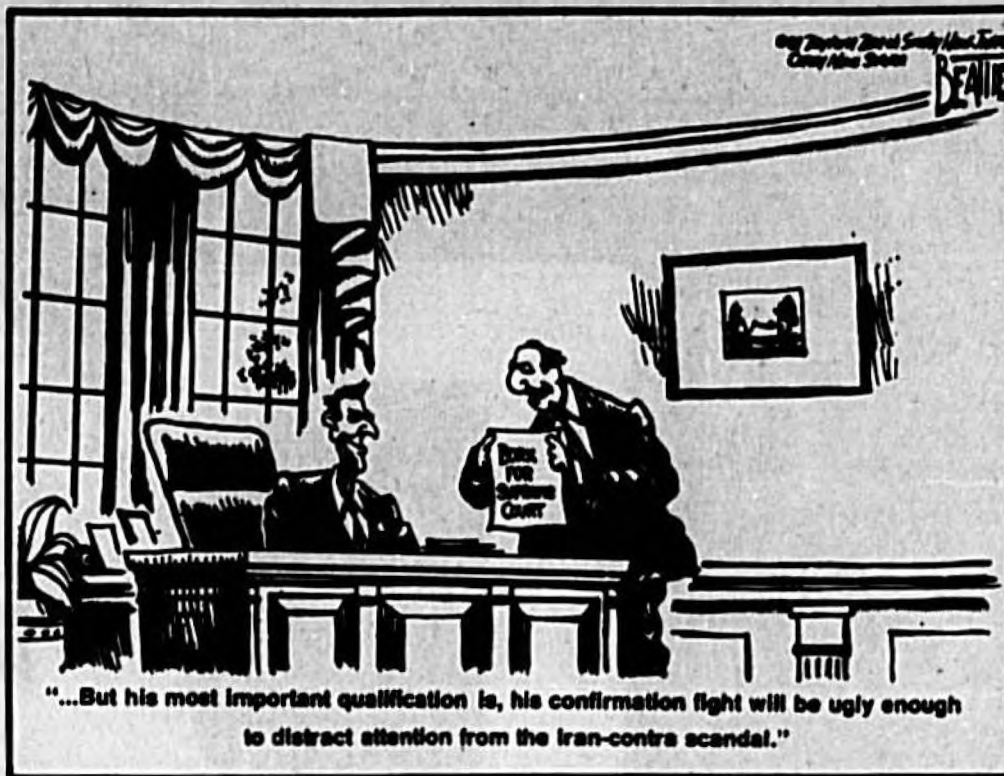

His chief cross-examiners, in particular, have suffered by comparison: The House's counsel, John Nields, simply has paled; the Senate's, the redoubtable but oily and sarcastic Arthur Liman, clearly missed a chance for a great career playing heavies in Hollywood "B" movies. Only Senate chairman Daniel Inouye, whose style runs to craggy silences and a sort of ominous Oriental inscrutability, has managed to equal the witness in sheer unassailable dignity.

As an important piece in the mosaic the congressional Democrats are trying to put together — the picture of a presidential administration out of control, running dubious covert operations behind Congress's back in direct violation of applicable laws — North has been singularly uncooperative. He has defended the various operations (the Iran negotiations, the funding of the contras), as well as the means employed to further them (notably the use of the arms sale profits to support the contras). He has not been afraid to argue that these operations were necessarily secret, and that as such they warranted the deceptions used to conceal them from others, including a Congress and various executive departments renowned the world over for leaking secrets to the press.

North probably hasn't convinced many people on the other side of the controversy, but he has stated the case for the Reagan administration's actions brilliantly, in front of scores of millions of viewers, and that is no small success.

But there is yet another level at which this drama is being played out.

Oliver North superbly summarizes, in his personality and style, one particular attitude toward the United States. It is endemic in the Marines, among many other places. It holds that this country is, in important ways, exceptionally good and that serving it is a high calling.

ROBERT WAGMAN

Big Brother Listens?

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Should employers be able to secretly monitor employees' phone calls? This is the subject of a growing debate on Capitol Hill as Congress begins to consider newly proposed legislation.

Telephone operators, Internal Revenue Service employees, airline and hotel reservation clerks and thousands of other employees who handle customers over the phone are subject to secret monitoring by supervisors as they do their daily jobs.

By one estimate, 1.5 million workers are subject to daily, secret phone monitoring.

Employers say they only monitor business calls and not private conversations, which employees make on their own time.

The employers claim the practice is vital in determining whether employees are doing their jobs correctly. They claim that in order to ascertain if the employee is responding correctly to customer inquiries, they must be able to hear both sides of the conversation.

They call monitoring a normal quality-control practice, one that consumers favor because it will help ensure that their inquiries are being met quickly and accurately.

Not so, say employees and groups that represent them. By allowing secret monitoring, they say, both the employees' and the consumers' right of privacy is being invaded. Moreover, they charge, employers who monitor have never been able to show any evidence that quality of service is better in a monitored situation.

Under federal law, wiretapping — that's essentially what secret monitoring is — is illegal without a valid court order or consent of both parties in the conversation. That is why most news organizations, for instance, instruct reporters to always ask permission to tape conversations of people they are interviewing.

There is one exception, however, written into current law. It is permissible for an employer to secretly monitor his work force if that monitoring is in the normal course of business and if the employee is aware that such monitoring is regularly done.

Groups representing employees who are most subject to such monitoring would like to see Congress close this loophole completely. But they realize the odds are against them. Instead they are backing a measure that has been introduced both into the House and Senate that would require employers, when monitoring calls, to put an audible beep tone on the line.

The fight is being led by the Communications Workers of America, which represents telephone operators — the workers most subject to secret monitoring. Some 200,000 phone operators are monitored daily. Other unions and the AFL-CIO are also pushing the bill, and it is supported by the American Civil Liberties Union.

CWA president Morton Bahr says that the proposal "is an important first step in restoring basic work place rights. Those who framed our Constitution and Bill of Rights did not intend that workers would sign away their most basic rights upon entering the work place."

The audible beep legislation is being sponsored in the House by Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., and in the Senate by Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill. Both bills have numerous co-sponsors.

Bork Battle Looms

On the defensive politically over Iran, Reagan has suddenly transformed the political battlefield with his nomination of Robert Bork to replace the retired Justice Powell on the Supreme Court. This is exactly where conservatives want to be politically. This is exactly where the battle lines are most favorably drawn.

Bork has all the credentials. A long-time professor at Yale Law School, he is known in the legal profession as a deep thinker, even a philosopher. When he was nominated for the United States Court of Appeals in the District of Columbia he won the American Bar Association's highest rating. The Senate confirmed him unanimously. I am not alone in my opinion that Bork is right up there with John Marshall and Oliver Wendell Holmes as a legal heavyweight.

Who's his opposition? Ted Kennedy, leading the charge. "Robert Bork's America is a land in which women would be forced into back-alley abortions, blacks would sit at segregated lunch counters, rogue police could break down citizens' doors in midnight raids..."

Senator Kennedy must have gone bananas. Nothing in Bork's record supports any of those obscene assertions. Even Huey Long, when a senator, did not speak so irresponsibly.

Kennedy also said that under Reagan we have moved from the "muck" of Watergate to the "muck" of the Iran matter. Kennedy is not well positioned to talk about "muck." He is fortunate that Reagan named Bork to the Court rather than Mary Jo Kopechne, in absentia.

Kennedy has a safe Senate seat for Massachusetts tribal reasons. But he does not travel well outside the Bay State. He is exactly the opponent that Reagan and Bork want.

Kennedy really represents the interests of people like Eleanor Smeal of the National Organization of Women, and Benjamin Hooks of the NAACP. Smeal by no means represents American women, and Ben Hooks by no means represents American blacks. They are professional lobbyists, and represent only their own organizations. Together, they backed Walter Mondale last time around, and managed to lose 49 states. No doubt Mondale would have carried Minnesota without them. Bork and Reagan against Teddy, Hooks and Smeal. Where would you put your money?

JACK ANDERSON

Reagan Bristles At Press 'Pig-Piling'

By Jack Anderson
WASHINGTON — Ronald Reagan appears to have weathered the Iran/contras storm, unruffled by the howling voices on Capitol Hill and the scowling reporters who dog him. I visited him in the Oval Office on the day Lt. Col. Oliver North began his testimony. The president seemed unperturbed by the mini-furors exploding around him, and was still a conciliatory figure, with the same infectious amiability.

The same appeal was at work in his voice, an instrument made pleasing to the ear by the affections, enthusiasms and sorrows that played through it. But I thought I detected a slight shrillness, just a hint of acrimony, in his tone when he spoke about the press coverage of the Iran/contras scandal.

The president said he had been too busy to watch Col. North's appearance, except for 10 minutes of highlights during lunch. He understood that the colonel's testimony confirmed his own statement that he had not been told about the illegal diversion of funds to the contras. Yet none of the television reporters had mentioned this, he complained, in their summaries of the testimony.

Reagan reiterated that he had no advance knowledge of the illegal use of excess profits from the arms sales to Iran, that he wasn't even told the Iranians paid an above-market price for the American arms. The U.S. government, he said, collected the full market price — $12 million. "I'm still trying to find out who raised the price," he said.

For his first six years in the White House, Reagan floated cheerfully above such squalls as mere reporters could stir, secure in the esteem of a majority of American. Try as they did, reporters could not find a story that would shatter the Reagan imagery. Not until the Iran/contras scandal exploded upon the front pages were they able to crack the shell of immunity that surrounded Reagan.

Yet he feels he has been a victim of press scourging that has illuminated every mishap in his administration. The process is described inside the White House as "pig piling." Accusation after accusation against the Reagan administration has been highlighted in the media. Most charges have been ill-founded, overblown or oversimplified, the president feels. But as they have piled up, they have created an atmosphere around Reagan that stifles his ability to govern.

I heard these complaints less from the president than from his assistants. He merely made a kidding remark about the "tough time" this column occasionally has given him. But his embattled aides are deadly serious about the media assault upon the president. I have had access to some of their internal memos on the subject. Here are a few blistering excerpts:

— "We should accept the fact that the Washington media are what they are. Their interpretational program is never going to be supportive no matter how hard we try to woo them."

— "The press will remain allies of (the) Democratic Party because of two simple facts: We have a left-of-center working press and, frankly, (scandals) make news."

— "Press and media judgments are like personal judgments — frequently self-fulfilling."

— "[The media's] anti-administration cant will not stop. There is absolutely nothing the Republicans can do about it."

All President Reagan wants is the kind of neutrality asked of the Lord in the story about the country boy who was running along a railroad track inside a long, narrow tunnel while a train bore down on him from behind. As hope of escape withered, he cried out, "Lord, if you can't help ME, for God's sake don't help the train!"

0-6 Raines Seeks First All-Star Hit

Tim Raines is 0 for 6. That's games, not at-bats. The former Seminole High School standout has appeared in six All-Star Games without getting a hit. Tonight at Oakland, Raines said he will try to end his slump against what he considers an inferior American League.

"I'm looking for my first hit and I want it bad," Raines said. "As I soon as I get a hit, I'm going to stop the game, get the ball and keep it."

Raines has batted eight times in those six years, but all he has to show for it is a couple walks and stolen bases.

Raines and the National League squad will be trying to reverse last year's 3-2 victory by the American League. The mere fact that the Nationals lost a year ago was surprising to Raines. The N.L. leads the series, 36-20-1. It has won 21 of the last 24 games.

Raines, who missed the first 22 games of the season due to becoming a free agent, re-signed with the Montreal Expos and has been making up for lost time ever since. The defending N.L. batting champ is batting .346 with 20 doubles, 37 runs batted in, 60 runs, 25 stolen bases and six game-winning RBI in just 63 games.

N.L. manager Davey Johnson named Raines as one to the team's reserves, thus making '87 the seventh consecutive year Raines has been an All-Star selection. That's every year of his pro career, a distinction probably not held by many major leaguers.

"I was a little bit surprised at being selected, although I thought I deserved it," he said Monday night via telephone from Oakland. "But missing spring training and all those games could have hurt me. I'm happy to be here, but this is the seventh year and I'm not as excited as I used to be."

Raines, who batted .334 last year, has been putting up exceptional numbers this season, too. He is ahead of last year's pace in average, runs, RBI and game-winning RBI.

A devout exponent of the N.L.'s superiority, the 27-year-old outfielder said he sees the older league winning in a blowout tonight. "I think it will be a home-run derby with us winning, 10-3, if they score that many," he said. "Playing the American League is like playing the minor league."

Raines said once he collects his first hit, it will be off to the races. "If I get on base I'll be running the first pitch," he said. "With them sorry catchers they have in the American League, we'll all be running."

Although Raines said he is unsure when he will enter the game tonight, he admitted he would not object to facing a left-hander. "I'm hitting almost .400 against lefties," the switch-hitting left-fielder said. "If I get up right-handed, I'm going to try and take him deep."

Raines, who did not switch-hit much in high school, turned his full concentration on the technique in the minors. "I always thought I was a better hitter left-handed, even though I was a natural right-handed hitter," he said. "But this year I feel more comfortable from the right side and I think I have more pop right-handed."

Raines experienced his first slump of the season last week, going hitless in four games and just 4 for 28 during the span. It dropped his average over 30 points to .346.

"I wasn't comfortable left-handed and we were facing a lot of right-handed pitchers," he said about the dry spell. "When we started to face some lefties, I came out of it."

Gene Letterio was officially named the Big League All-Star manager Monday by District 14 Administrator Don Crawford.

"It was a tough decision," Crawford said of his choice between Altamonte Springs; Letterio and Oviedo manager Howard Mable. Mable had been the manager six of the past seven seasons.

Letterio's club won the division and the Top Team Tournament.

Saberhagen Shares 'Shadow Fears'

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Bret Saberhagen, the American League starter in tonight's 58th All-Star Game, shares with hitters fear of twilight games.

"It's tough for the fielders," said Saberhagen, scheduled to throw the first pitch at 5:37 p.m. PDT. "I've had trouble picking the ball up off the bat."

"Hopefully there won't be any line drives up the middle. If they hit it, I hope it's not toward me."

To ease his mind, Saberhagen, 15-3 for the Kansas City Royals, need only remember the 1980 All-Star Game when Houston's J.R. Richard overmatched AL hitters in the shadows of Dodger Stadium.

"We knew for the first three innings they had no chance," said Dave Winfield, an N.L.er then, and an AL'er now.

Mike Scott of the Astros will start for the National League, which has not lost back-to-back games since 1957-58. The AL won last year's game 3-2 in Houston.

"It's probably easier for the pitcher if he throws more fastballs (in the twilight)," said Scott, who is 10-5 after consecutive seasons of 18 victories. "That may be tougher for the hitter to pick up."

Scott will throw to a lineup that includes four members of the New York Yankees, Rickey Henderson and Don Mattingly but before Boston's Wade Boggs, the league's leading hitter. The AL follows with power-hitting George Bell of Toronto fourth, Winfield of the Yankees, Baltimore's Cal Ripken Jr. and

Baseball

Terry Kennedy and New York's Willie Randolph.

Among Boston Manager John McNamara's reserves is Oakland rookie Mark McGwire, who has 33 home runs and is just off Roger Maris' record pace.

"I don't have a book on him, but I'll probably be out of the game before he comes up," Scott said.

McGwire hit one of two AL homers in Monday's home-run hitting contest against the NL.

The National League lineup begins with Cincinnati's Eric Davis and Chicago's Ryne Sandberg. More lumber follows with the Cubs' Andre Dawson, Mike Schmidt of Philadelphia, Jack Clark of the Cardinals and New York's Darryl Strawberry. Gary Carter of the Mets and St. Louis' Ozzie Smith — the leading vote-getter in the game — come to the plate next.

"This is a great team to be around with great stars," said National League Manager Davey Johnson of the Mets. "You get the best players and you let them express their talent."

"I'll give a little more playing time to the players in our league who are having great seasons. But there isn't much strategy involved. I'll just let them play."

Among those on Johnson's bench is San Francisco's Jeffrey Leonard, a first-time All-Star who is happy he does not have to hit against Scott.

"A lot of guys in the clubhouse hate Mike Scott, but not as a

All-Star Game
N.L. vs. A.L.
WESH-2: 8 p.m.

person," he said. "But I can do it (be his friend) for one day."

The NL leads the series 36-20-1.

The weather forecast called for clear skies and warm temperatures.

Larry Doby, the first black in the American League, will throw out the first ball. The Four Tops will sing the National Anthem.

"It would be nice to watch and not worry about getting the hitters out," Scott said.

Knicks Land Pitino

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rick Pitino, who used the advent of the three-point shot to coach Providence College from an 11-20 record to the Final Four, will attempt to rebuild one of the NBA's worst teams without the benefit of a rules change or good outside shooters.

"You're entering a tunnel and it's dark and you don't know what's at the end of it," Pitino said after being named head coach of the New York Knicks Monday. "I told my team it was for this reason and only this reason I took the job — the challenge."

Pitino took over a Providence team that finished the 1984-85 season at 11-20. In his first season, Providence compiled a 17-14 mark. Last year, with the institution of the three-point shot, the Friars finished fourth in the Big East, led the conference in scoring and then stunned Alabama and Georgetown to reach the NCAA semifinals.

As coach of the Knicks, Pitino will be under pressure to lead another turnaround. Since finishing the regular season at 47-35 and losing to the Boston Celtics in seven games in the second round of the 1983-84 playoffs, the Knicks have compiled a 71-175 record, the worst in the league over the last three years.

"I would not have accepted this position if I did not think it could be a winning one," said Pitino, 34, who becomes the league's youngest coach. "I feel right now everything is in place to build a strong franchise for years to come."

The Knicks finished with a 24-58 record in 1984-85, with star forward Bernard King injured late in the season. They earned the first pick in the following year's NBA lottery and chose center Patrick Ewing out of Georgetown. Ewing won Rookie of the Year honors but the Knicks finished 23-59. They led the league in defense but averaged only 98.7 points per game without King.

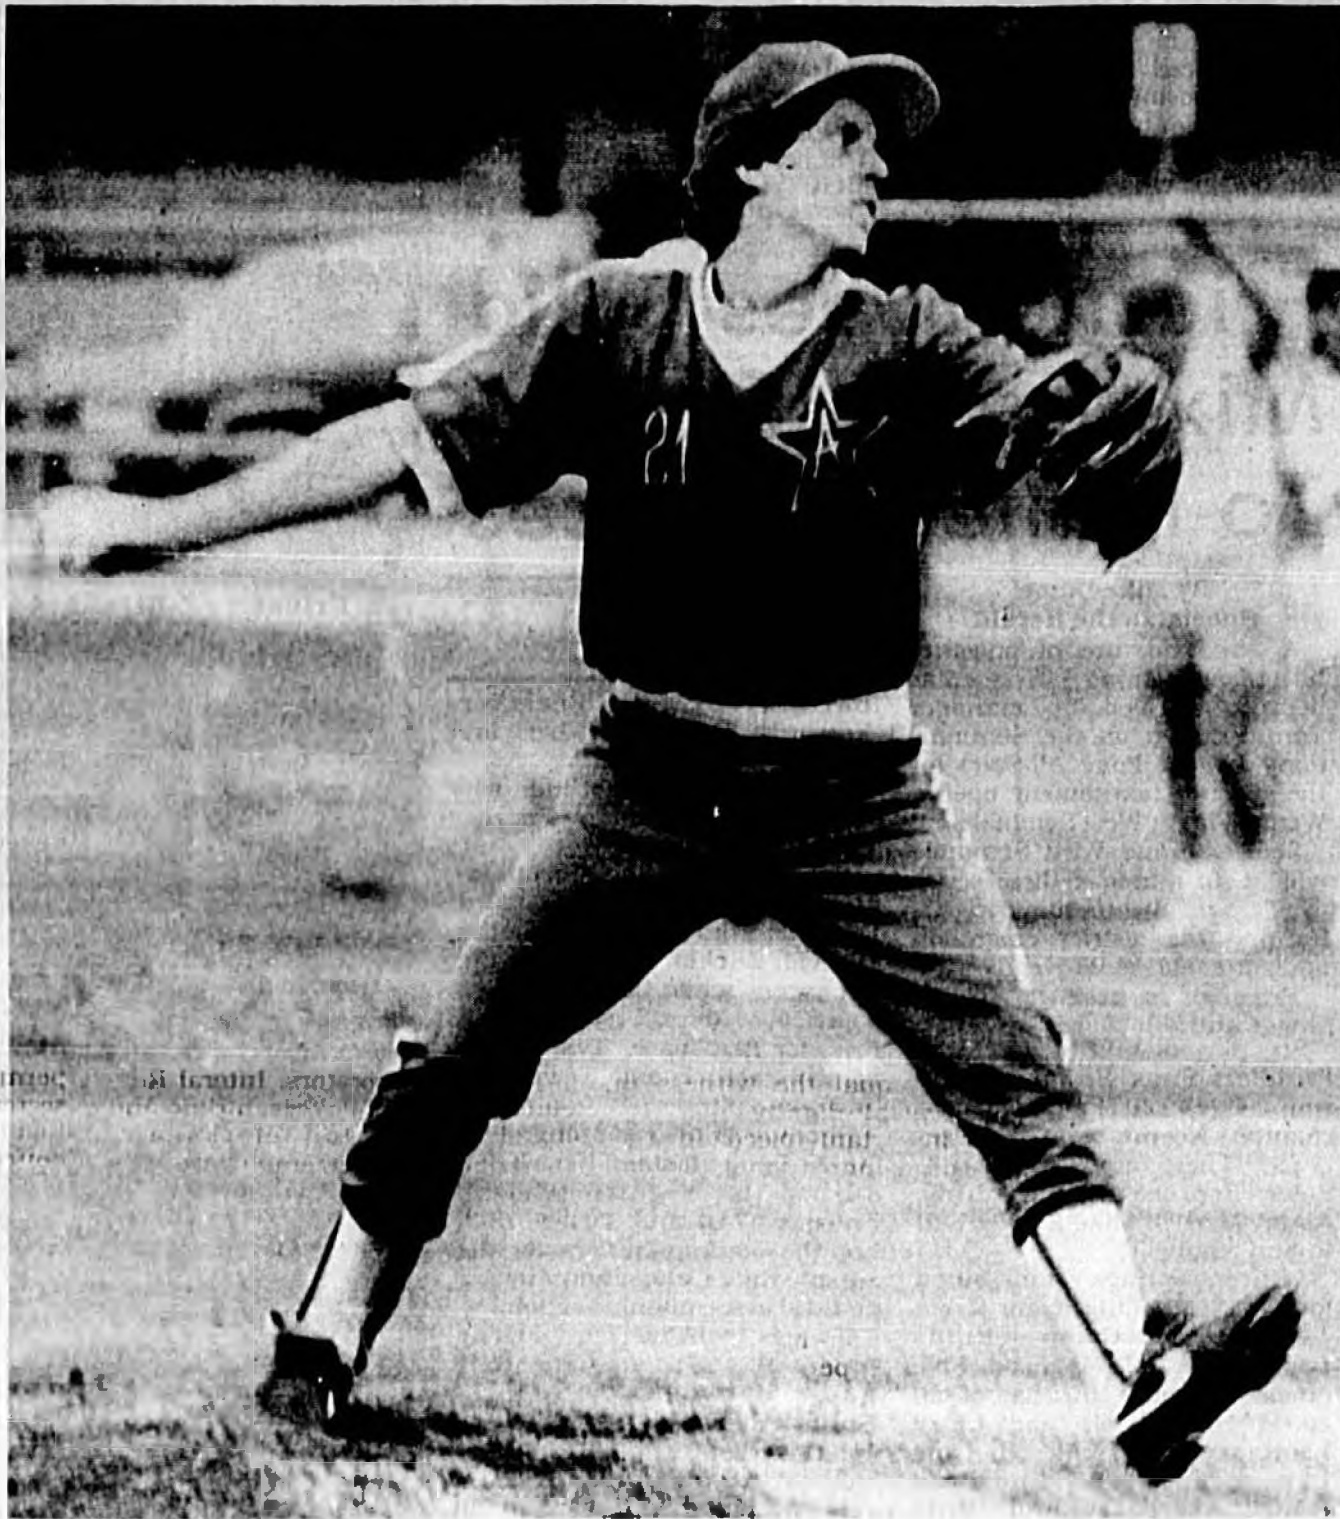

King returned toward the end of last season and showed some of his former scoring flair but not in time to prevent the Knicks from finishing 24-58.

"For the most part, it's going to be the coach's call who we keep and who we don't," said Al Bianchi, a former Phoenix Suns assistant coach named Knicks General Manager last week. "If the players we have don't fit his style and we can get players who can do it, we will. We're going to try to get him the players he needs to win."

Pitino, a native New Yorker, compiled a 91-51 record in five years as coach at Boston University before joining the Knicks as an assistant under former Knicks coach Hubie Brown.

North Carolina State Coach Jim Valvano and Kansas Coach Larry Brown said Sunday they were not interested in the Knicks job. Other candidates mentioned included Dick Motta, the former Dallas Mavericks coach; Don Nelson, the former Milwaukee Bucks coach, and Jimmy Rodgers, an assistant coach with the Boston Celtics.

Pitino said he was asked to discuss the coaching position shortly after Bianchi took over the Knicks.

Curt Prom overcame some early control problems to hurl a six-hitter Monday as the Altamonte National All-Stars topped Oviedo, 6-1, in the Senior League opener.

James' Homer Buries Oviedo

Prom Hurls 6-Hitter As Altamonte Opens With 6-1 Win

By Scott Sander
Herald Sports Writer

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Greg James' three-run homer in the bottom of the fourth inning highlighted the Altamonte Nationals' 6-1 victory over Oviedo in District 14 Senior League All-Star baseball action Monday night before 155 fans at Eastmonte Park.

The victory advances Altamonte into semifinal action of the Division II, Area I Tournament. Altamonte will take on Eustis tonight at 7 in Oviedo. Eustis, meanwhile, will travel to Mount Dora tonight at 7 and will face Mount Dora. Eustis trimmed Mount Dora, 4-3, Monday.

With Altamonte leading, 3-0, in the fourth, James crunched Oviedo pitcher Jon Williams' first pitch well over the left-field fence to ice the game for Altamonte.

"I got all of it," James said after the game. "It was a fastball, and I was ready for it."

Altamonte pitcher Curt Prom went the distance and had a fine game as he scattered six hits. "I was a little wild at times," Prom said. "But the offense gave me some runs to work with. I got in a few jams, but luckily I got out of them." Prom fanned six while walking five.

Williams went three and two-thirds innings as he gave up all six runs on four hits. Williams struck out two while issuing four walks. Rob Slavik pitched the final two and one-third innings and gave up one hit.

Oviedo manager Jimmy Boston said that his unit didn't capitulate when it had the chance to. "We outbit them and had more than our fair share of chances to score," Boston said. "But we just didn't get a hit when we needed one. I'll guarantee you that we see them again, though."

Altamonte manager Duke Pleicones said that he was very enthused about his team's effort. "We played a very solid game tonight," Pleicones said. "Greg's homer really shut the door on them. Curt also buckled down when he had to."

The game was sloppy at times as Altamonte committed three errors while Oviedo had two of its own. Altamonte's Neill James had a pair of flashy catches at third while Pat Battle and Greg James both displayed strong arms in the outfield.

After a scoreless first inning, Altamonte got on the board in the bottom of the second frame with a pair of unearned runs. Prom opened the inning with a solid single to center. Andy Spolski then hit a grounder that forced Prom at second. Battle followed with routine fly to left.

But Oviedo left-fielder Dwayne

Clark misplayed the ball, allowing Spolski to reach third, and Battle to reach second.

Williams then unleashed a wild pitch that allowed Spolski to score and Battle to move to third. Williams then uncorked another wild one that allowed Battle to come home.

Oviedo had two men on the first inning, and had the bases loaded in third, but couldn't get a hit when it needed one.

Altamonte blew the game open in the fourth with four runs. Spolski led off with a single off the left-field fence. Battle followed with a walk. Spolski and Battle moved to third and second on a sacrifice bunt by Ken Brubaker. Chris Pleicones then walked to load the bags.

Chris Davidson came up and hit a sacrifice fly to right, scoring Spolski. James followed with the three-run dinger to clinch the game.

Oviedo scored its only run in the top of the fifth when Brian MacInnes hit an RBI single to center, scoring Danny Mello.

Pleicones said that his team needs to improve its hitting. "We didn't hit the ball all that well tonight," Pleicones said. "But I'm sure that it will come around."

What in actuality was a six-inning baseball game with nine players on each side Monday night, looked more like one long game of catch between Mark Bellhorn and Timmy Slavik.

Bellhorn tossed a one-hitter and struck out an amazing 18 batters while Slavik, catching the Oviedo ace for the first time, turned in a solid game behind the plate in an 8-0 blanking of Mount Dora in the opening round of the Little League Baseball District 14 Major Division II, Area I Tournament at Mount Dora.

Oviedo returns to action tonight at 7 against Altamonte National at Eastmonte Park in Altamonte Springs. In the other Division II, Area I game tonight, Casselberry is at Eustis at 7.

In Monday's game, Bellhorn retired all but two Mount Dora hitters by strikeout. The lone hit off Bellhorn was a single in the fifth inning while he walked four. Slavik, who hadn't even caught Bellhorn in practice, committed only two passed balls in the game.

Bellhorn also contributed two hits, including a home run, to the offense while Chad Shaw also smashed a homer among his two hits and Chris Wisdom, Drew Jackson and Chris Stokes had one hit each.

Oviedo took a 1-0 lead in the first inning when Shaw singled, stole second and scored on an overthrow on the play. In the second, Wisdom walked and later scored on a passed ball and Shaw homered for a 3-0 lead.

Oviedo made it 5-0 in the third when Jackson walked ahead of Bellhorn's mammoth two-run homer. Oviedo upped the lead to 8-0 in the fifth when Jackson singled, Bellhorn walked and Stokes laid down a bunt single and both Jackson and Bellhorn scored on an error on the play while Stokes took third. Wisdom then singled in Stokes for the final run of the game.

In tonight's game against Altamonte, Oviedo manager Tank Boston said either Jackson, Wisdom or Octavio Torres would pitch while Altamonte is expected to counter with Frank Harmer.

Clark To Trinity

Torchy Clark, who won 277 games as the first basketball coach at the University of Central Florida, was hired by Trinity Prep Monday to replace varsity basketball coach Mike Spatola.

Clark coached 14 seasons at UCF and developed the program into a Division I powerhouse. He lost just 89 games.

Spatola moved to Lake Howell High to replace Greg Robinson who moved to Seminole High when Bill Klein resigned.

AUBURN, Ala. (UPI) — Kansas City Royals slugger Bo Jackson today is expected to announce intentions to become the first man since World War II to play professional football and baseball in the same year, his agent says.

Richard Woods, Jackson's attorney in Mobile, Ala., said Monday although Jackson has not yet signed a contract with the Los Angeles Raiders of the NFL, he will if details can be worked out.

Boggs' .375 Breaks Brett Stranglehold

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — The sight of Kansas City's George Brett at third base has been as much a part of the All-Star Game as American League excuses for losing to the National League.

Boston's Wade Boggs, aided by a .375 average and an injury to Brett, has broken Brett's 11-year stranglehold. The three-time batting champion accumulated more than 1.5 million votes, twice as many as Brett, and he will start Tuesday night.

Brett, slowed since last year by a shoulder problem, was named a reserve but will miss the game because of injury.

"There's a little bit more feeling taking it away from George than taking it away from someone else," Boggs said Monday. "I hope I do as good as he's done the last 11 years."

Boggs, who will bat third in Boston Manager John McNamara's lineup, could be beginning a streak of his own. The left-handed hitter batted a league-best .368 and .357 the last two seasons and he is within a streak of .400 midway through his sixth major-league season.

Boggs, 1 for 3 in two previous appearances in the All-Star Game, considers Brett a close friend. The two often discuss hitting, and Brett, who has won two batting crowns, has told him about the pressures surrounding a run at .400.

"I talked to George about it (Brett batted .390 in 1980) and he said to just stay away from the media," Boggs said. "He said to talk to them before the game, but that your private life is your own."

The three-day All-Star break has temporarily taken Boggs from the chase.

"When you get all of these guys together, it's a great honor to hit third," Boggs said. "When you've got all of these guys in this room ... any number of them can hit third."

"It's always an honor to hit behind (New York's Don) Mattingly and before (Toronto's George) Bell."

Boggs was unconcerned about facing Houston's Mike Scott in the Oakland Coliseum twilight.

"Some guys throw differently in twilight than at other times," he said. "We have a group of guys who are absolutely good hitters. We'll just have to wait and see."

"I've batted against Scott in spring training and in Double-A. You just have to see the ball and hit it."

Friesner Sees Solid Mixture As Crucial To Ponies' Chances

By Mike Dame Special to the Herald

A solid mixture of powerful hitters and strong pitchers has been assembled by manager Tom Friesner as the Seminole Pony League All-Stars for the district tournament opener Wednesday at West Seminole.

Seminole and West Seminole will begin a best of three series at 7 p.m. Wednesday to determine the district champion and state representative.

Friesner is assisted by Ed Suggs and Bob Zucker. Six players from Casselberry Freddie's Steak House, the 13- and 14-year-old Pony Division champs, led the team in selections. There are Pat Newell, Steve Friesner, Dan Edwards, Aaron Merrell, Mike Zucker and Robert Andino.

Winter Springs contributed four players to the team: Kevin Twigg, B.J. Calapa, Rufus Boykin and B.J. Mayhood. Five others complete the list of all stars: Bryan Cole and Larry Lantgios from Longwood, Lane Barrow and John Eltonhead from Lake Mary and Chris Dowling from Sanford.

"I think we'll be one of the top two teams at state," Friesner said. "I think we'll do well against West Seminole. We have some real solid performers who are proven-type players."

Some of Friesner's "proven-types" are the team's six .400

Baseball

batters: Newell, Friesner, Edwards, Dowling, Calapa and Boykin.

"We've got a lot of kids who can hit home runs," Friesner said.

Friesner's starting lineup includes Cole, Dowling and Edwards from left to right in the outfield. Zucker will open at the hot corner while Calapa handles shortstop, Merrell second and Friesner first base. Twigg will be the catcher and Newell the first-game pitcher.

Pitching is also a strong point for the Pony all stars. Newell (9-2 during the regular season), Friesner (7-0) and Twigg (8-3) are the leading hurlers on the squad while Calapa and Edward could also see pitching action.

Twigg showed his pitching potential in a season-ending game between his Winter Springs team and Casselberry. In that contest, he came in midway through the game in relief of teammate Calapa to fan 10 batters in a losing cause. Casselberry won the game, 13-3. "Our team is a good mixture of players this year," Friesner, who is managing his fourth all-star team, said. "The team that plays together and hits well will win most of these (all-star) tournaments."

Dawson Blast Brings Gasps

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — The sellout crowd of almost 50,000 at the Oakland Coliseum gasped when Andre Dawson of the Chicago Cubs reached the second deck during Monday's Home Run Contest.

And on the day before the 58th All-Star Game, the fans cheered when their prize rookie, Athletics' first baseman Mark McGwire, blasted a line drive just beyond the fence in right-center field.

But while George Bell, Eric Davis and Ozzie Virgil were taking their mighty power cuts, the little guys like Ozzie Smith of the Cardinals and Harold Reynolds of the Mariners sat around and watched. Couldn't someone find something for these pint-sized players to do?

It's the Year of the Home Run, and yet the fans want more. They never seem to tire seeing a batter stand at the plate, swing for the fences and trot around the bases. What's so exciting about that?

Wouldn't you rather see Smith dive into the hole, get himself to his feet with a quick pushup and put all 160 pounds of him behind a throw to first base? Wouldn't you rather see Reynolds release a sidearm throw at second base with a baserunner barreling toward the bag?

"Nah," said the Yankees Dave Winfield. "Go with the flow. It's the best way. Give 'em the home run; that's what they want." But he's a home run hitter who plays in the House that Ruth Built. What did you expect him to say?

On the other hand, you'd expect Smith to say he'd like to see a display of fielding finesse added to the lineup of pre-All-Star Game festivities. So he did.

"I think that's a direction we could be headed in, fielding skills and so forth," Smith said. "It would be like the slam-dunk competition in the NBA — who can show the most creativity in turning the double play, or difficult ways to release the ball. Fans would probably want to see that."

"Baseball has been an offensive-minded game since the days of Babe Ruth."

Having said that, Smith went out for some infield practice. He flips the ball behind his back. He whips the ball behind his back. He shows up in games, too. On the last Sunday before the All-Star break, he leapt over San Francisco's Jeffrey Leonard at second base, completing a double play that helped the Cardinals win a one-run ballgame.

Livernois To Hurl Opener For West Seminole

Mike Dame Special to the Herald

If there is anything in a name, West Seminole Pony Baseball's All-Star Ponies should be in good shape in Wednesday's district opener against Seminole.

Jeff Livernois, whose brother Derek pitches for the Winter Haven Red Sox and was a standout all-star performer during his younger days in Seminole County, will get the starting nod from manager Joe Czachowski for the 7 p.m. best of three series opener at the West Seminole Richard Coffey Complex in Forest City.

"He'll definitely be one of our stars, without a doubt," Czachowski said. "We expect a lot from Jeff during this tournament."

Livernois was both a powerful pitcher and hitter during the season. He hit close to 15 homers and was a dominating hurler during the regular season.

Czachowski, who managed the Orioles during the regular season to a second-place finish, said his stars are a strong bunch. His Orioles led the team in selections with four: Trevis Curto, Mike Hammer, Livernois and Kevin Steinke.

Baseball

The Pirates and the Royals followed with three players each: Sam Carlisi, Joe DeLeon and Doug Wohlstein from the Pirates and Chris Koepke, Steve Shelman and T.J. Giuffrida from the Royals.

Four others completed the 14-man roster: "Downtown Terry" Brown and Tom Penny from the Phillies and Jamie Mooney and Brad Rigby from the Cubs.

Brown was a potent slugger for Lake Brantley High's junior varsity Patriots before getting a call to the varsity late in the year. He responded with RBI doubles in two of his pinch-hitting roles for the varsity.

Completing the starting lineup (in the order each will bat) will be: Giuffrida at second base, Shelman at shortstop, Livernois, Brown at first, Koepke at catcher, Mooney at third, Wohlstein in center field, Penny in left, and either DeLeon or Steinke in right.

Auto Racing

"It's a pretty well-balanced team," Czachowski said. "We've got speed, defense, hitting — we're gonna make them make the play, as they say."

The leading hitters on the team should be Livernois, Shelman, Koepke and Brown, according to Czachowski, but he has no idea what to expect from the Seminole squad.

"They're usually a pretty strong pitching team," he said. "I don't know what else to expect."

Czachowski chose the players for his squad from a very balanced contingent of teams. The regular-season champions, the Royals, finished with a record of 12-9, while Czachowski's Orioles team finished second with a 12-10 record.

"On any given night, anybody could have beaten anybody else," Czachowski said of the division.

IN BRIEF

TRC's 4 Homers Burn Up Sod; Bill Knapp's Outslugs CFRH

Bob Jacobs, Eddie Jackson, Rodney Turner and Lloyd Wall each slugged a home run as Tim Raines Connection closed out the Sanford Men's Softball League regular season with an 11-5 victory over Deltona Sod Monday night at Pinehurst Park.

In other games, Bill Knapp's outslugged Central Florida Regional Hospital, 16-13, and Kitner Surveying won by forfeit over J.T. Green Produce.

TRC's victory improved its record to 19-2. The Connection has a one-half game lead over Elk's Roofing, which has a makeup game yet to play. An Elk's victory would force a playoff between the two Sanford powers for the championship.

Jacobs and Turner also slugged doubles to go with their homers while Otis Raines added a single, double and triple. Burnett "Slim" Washington had a single and double and Billy Griffith had a pair of singles.

Tom Altamore had three hits for Deltona. In the Knapp's-CFRH slugfest, Knapp's had 23 hits and Hospital recorded 19. Two six-run innings by Knapp's were the difference. Harry McCarty led the winners with three doubles and a single while Jim Gault had a homer, triple and double. Gault drove in six runs. Jeff Smith, Doug Emmons, Kevin Andrews and Joe Dellillo had two hits each.

Scott Milsom had three doubles and a single for CFRH and Jeff Bennett had four hits. Billy Young had three hits. Mark Snell, Gary Snell, Don Causseaux Sr. and Don Causseaux Jr. had two hits each.

Radcliff Sparks Legion Victory

Chris Radcliff picked up the pitching victory and helped his own cause with a three-run triple as the Lyman American Legion baseball team downed Lake Brantley II, 9-2, Sunday at Lyman High.

Lyman, which was rained out against Lake Brantley I Monday, improved to 16-7 for the season and returns to action tonight at 7 at Apopka. Lyman hosts Edgewater Wednesday, then entertains Lake Howell in a doubleheader Thursday night starting at 5. The Lyman-Lake Brantley I contest will be Friday at 5 p.m.

In Sunday's game, Lake Brantley took a 2-1 lead into the bottom of the second when Lyman erupted for four runs. Kevin Waincott, Johnny Luce and Kenny Jackson all had RBI singles in the inning.

Lyman then pulled away with four more runs in the third. Waincott's RBI single got the rally going and Radcliff later ripped his bases-loaded triple for a 9-2 Lyman lead.

Radcliff pitched the first five innings for Lyman and gave up two runs on three hits, struck out five and walked two. Jim Lucas threw the last two frames and allowed no runs on one hit, struck out two and walked one.

AUSTIN, Texas (UPI) — Kent Wagner of Palmetto, Monday moved back into the lead in the PBA's $115,000 Austin Open.

Wagner, the tournament's first-round leader, slipped to fifth place Sunday before his 215.6 average for 18 games nailed down the qualifying lead.

Richard Bramwell of Escondido, Calif., rose from 11th place to move nine pins behind Wagner in second place. Wagner's pinfall is 3,881, while Bramwell has 3,872.

No. 3 Turnbull Ousts Bowes

Deep Vee Not Always Better

Carl Carlson
HERALD BOATING WRITER

What really is the difference between a boat with a shallow vee and one with a deep vee? Many people are under the misconception that a deeper vee is better. In some cases this is true. In some cases it isn't.

It's common for a boat salesman to make casual comments like "she has a nice deep vee." It's not common for a boat salesman to say "she has a nice shallow vee."

Think about how you are going to use the boat. Is the primary use for cruising or fishing? Generally speaking (there are always exceptions) deep vee boats are popular for cruising and shallow vee boats are used mostly for fishing.

Fishing boats have a shallow vee for three primary reasons. The first reason is stability at slow speeds. In a bass boat, slow speed usually means with an electric trolling motor and with an off-shore boat, slow speed is considered trolling speed or drifting. Boats with deep vees tend to rock and roll at slow speeds.

The second reason is speed, especially in bass boats. Generally speaking, at a given horsepower boats with shallow vees will be faster than boats with deep vees.

The third reason is economy. Boats with shallow vees tend to require less horsepower (therefore less fuel) than boats of similar size and weight with a deep vee.

On the other hand, boats with deeper vees tend to ride better than those with shallow vees. For cruising purposes this is a definite advantage.

Hull styles can be an indicator of the manufacturer's target market. For example, shallow use designs are used by manufacturers such as Makro and Shamrock — boats most often used by avid fishermen. Deeper vee designs such as those used by Searay and Regal are targeted to the cruising market.

Next time you're in the market for a boat, think about your primary use. If you are a fisherman and you spend a short time going to and coming from your fishing spot, you may be willing to sacrifice the harsh ride for the hours of comfortable fishing time. On the other hand, if you like to cruise, a soft ride is a must.

BOATING TIP — Instead of using bagged ice, fill a couple of half-gallon or gallon plastic milk jugs with water and freeze them. When you use the frozen milk jugs in your cooler everything stays dry as the ice melts. The melting ice can also provide a fresh clean source of cold drinking water.

Radkewich, 3 Rams Excel At Games

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

Lyman High's Nick Radkewich ran away with the Golden State Games triathlon and three Lake Mary High athletes qualified for the TAC/Junior Olympics National Track and Field Championships this past weekend at state meet, run in conjunction with the Games, at Clearwater High School.

Radkewich, a junior and defending champion, shattered his mark of last year by 10 minutes. He completed the half-mile swim, 15.5 mile bicycle leg and 3.1 mile run in 1:11:20. Radkewich outdistanced the field, which numbered over 500, by over three minutes.

For Lake Mary, Cecil King, Scott Plyler and Brad Smith earned the right to compete in the national event on July 22-26 at Provo, Utah.

King finished second in the triple jump and third in the long jump to qualify in both events. In the triple jump, he led the competition until Craig Hall of West Palm Beach won on his final attempt. Hall leaped 48-7 on his last try while King's best was 46-10.

"Cecil was leading the whole competition and would have won," Lake Mary coach Mark McGee said. "But after the officials said they were not taking anyone else, Hall came in and jumped 48-7."

In the long jump, King's best of 21-9/4 placed third behind Class 3A prep state champion Len Vickers of Quincy Shanks and 4A state champion Charlie Johnson of Tampa King.

"They had some pretty poor runways and pits, but Cecil did about as well as he could," McGee said. "The only people that beat him were state champions."

Plyler broke his own school record in the 2,000 meter steeplechase and qualified for nationals with a third-place finish and a time of 7:16. Plyler's previous best was 7:19 run in the state qualifying meet at Showalter Field in Winter Park.

Smith had to wait awhile to compete in his event, the 5,000 meters, as it was the last race of the evening. Although McGee said it started around 1 a.m., Smith still had enough stamina to run a strong race and he took second with a national qualifying time of 16:44.

The three competitors will now try to raise the necessary funds to make the trip to Provo. McGee said the Lake Mary Track Club has already raised $1,000 for the trip but needs at least $500 more. Anyone wishing to donate should contact McGee at 831-0108.

Bird, Knight Master Different Court

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — No matter if it's a tennis court instead of a basketball court, Boston Celtics star Larry Bird remains one of the most popular athletes in Indiana.

Bird joined former NBA player Billy Knight to win a tennis exhibition Monday night in one of the few opening-day matches not rained out at the $375,000 U.S. Open* Clay Court Tennis Championships.

Bird's tenacious net play, including six forceful passing shots for points, combined with Knight's strong serve for a 5-2, 5-0 victory over George McGinnis and Oscar Robertson.

The special match between former Indiana basketball stars lived up to its goal of improving attendance at the tournament, attracting 4,500 fans from a state with a nationally known love for basketball. The crowd was larger than some sessions of last year's tournament and 1,600 more than came for Monday's rain-soaked afternoon rounds.

Bird, who dubbed himself a hillbilly from French Lick, Ind., said he feels uncomfortable with the fame his talent has brought.

"I don't think I ever feel comfortable with it. I enjoy the basketball and being recognized but sometimes it goes overboard," Bird said.

Stocks Move Up Quickly

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened mixed Tuesday in moderate trading of New York Stock Exchange issues but quickly moved higher as blue-chip issues sailed into the plus column.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which fell 3.02 Monday, was up 10.37 to 2463.33 soon after the market opened.

Advances led declines 615-427 among the 1,418 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early turnover amounted to about 24,689,000 shares.

Renewed leadership from two important stock groups — technology and auto issues — encouraged buying. These groups were strong performers Monday, and generally were ahead Tuesday.

High-tech issues advanced Monday on expectations that IBM's earnings, due Tuesday, would show more strength than first anticipated. IBM climbed Monday, slipped initially Tuesday on profit-taking, and has now begun to cut its loss.

General Motors, Ford and Chrysler all were higher. So are AT&T, General Electric, General Motors, USX, Eastman Kodak, DuPont and Bethlehem Steel.

Directors, Producers Agree; No Strike, New Contract Inked

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Directors Guild of America reached a tentative contract agreement today with producers, averting a strike that could have halted film and television production.

Announcement of the agreement came about 6:30 a.m. after an all-night bargaining session and a half-hour after some 30 members of the guild began to picket outside The Burbank Studios, home of Columbia Pictures and Warner Bros. Pickets also went up at Columbia and Warner Bros. headquarters in New York.

"We've got a new contract," said Carol Aklyama, spokeswoman for the producers' alliance. "We're very happy. It's a three-year contract, subject to ratification."

"We made a deal, no strike," said Chuck Warn, a spokesman for the 8,500-member of the directors' guild. Further details were to be revealed at a news conference today.

"At five minutes to six they took back the rollback demands (in residual payments to directors), which is exactly what we said was needed," Warn said. "They avoided a strike by a margin of five minutes."

"Let's get back to work," said Alex Hapsas, a free-lance assistant director, who had been picketing outside of Warner in New York. "The real people are happy to get back to work."

In separate negotiations in New York, guild staff directors and NBC also reached a tentative agreement, averting a walkout just minutes before a strike deadline, a union spokesman said.

No agreement was yet reached with ABC and CBS, Warn said. Talks with the two networks were expected in the near future but no labor action was immediately planned.

June Retail Sales Increase

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Retail sales nationwide rose a smaller than expected 0.4 percent in June, with virtually all of it coming from auto purchases, the Commerce Department said Tuesday.

The government said that without the auto category, the total would be unchanged.

Economic forecasters had expected sales to rise 0.5 percent to 0.7 percent during the month. Today's report means sales in the first half of this year slipped 0.1 percent behind those in the final six months of 1986 — a sign that consumers' free-spending ways have ended.

After accounting for seasonal factors, the government estimated retail stores sold $125.1 billion worth of goods in June. That 0.4 percent increase more than made up for May's 0.3 percent drop in sales.

Sales of durable goods — items made to last several years — increased 0.8 percent to account for $48.1 billion of June's total.

Auto dealers enjoyed the most success of that group, watching sales rise 1.9 percent to total $28.1 billion. That increase came in spite of the fact that American automakers sold fewer cars this June than they did in June 1986. Higher sticker prices or a tendency to buy more foreign models made up for the difference.

Non-durable goods sales went up 0.1 percent to total a seasonally adjusted $76.97 billion.

Sanford Mayor Appointed To Zoo Board

Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith has become the newest member of the Central Florida Zoo's Board of Directors, an appointment she said she was anxious to receive.

The 29-year Sanford resident's nomination received unanimous support from the board of directors at a meeting Thursday night. Her selection gives Sanford two residents on the governing body of the zoological park situated on U.S. Highway 17-92 northwest of the city. The other local member is Bill MacLauchlin, 316 Satsuma Drive.

Smith stressed the importance of local representation on the zoo board. The zoo's home, she said, was in Sanford until its relocation to county-owned property in

"It says they (board members) want Sanford to take part in the planning process," Smith said.

The zoo board has been mired in controversy since the dismissal early last month of Al Rozon from his post as executive director of the zoo. Smith said she intends to approach her appointment with "an open mind" and hopes to see the conflict resolved.

Smith, who was a member of the zoological society until a few years ago, declined to say whether she believes a more suitable site in Central Florida should be found for the zoological park. Some have favored moving the facility to Orlando. She said she wants to become more "acclimated" to the zoo board's work before addressing the questions, said she said.

However, her mayor noted she has explored the board in the past to set a priority on keeping a zoo park at the present site or another site near Sanford. She said an attraction featuring native animals and plants would be acceptable.

Smith said she has not been told whose unexpired term she is filling. The 27-member board has had up to 10 vacancies in recent months, five resulting from the board's firing of Rozon and decision to continue paying his salary in accordance with terms of his $37,500-a-year contract, which has two and one-half years remaining.

Smith has just accepted appointment to the board. The zoological society has more than 2,000 members, made up of individuals, families and corporate members. Voting is limited to one member of each family or corporation.

Weinberg said the refusal to provide Orlando lawyer J. Cheney Mason with the general membership roll stemmed from concern about the privacy of society members.

"We have a responsibility to our membership," he said. "Our question is whether this (releasing the list) would set a dangerous precedent."

Weinberg said the board was following the lead of other registered charitable organizations, such as friends of the library groups, museum groups and so on, when it decided against making the membership rolls public.

Mason represents Rozon, who was fired as zoo director in June but continues to receive twice monthly salary payments in accordance with the two and one-half years left on his contract. The board's dismissal of Rozon from the post he held for 14 years has been a continuing source of controversy.

Mason has threatened to sue the board if it misses a single payment to Rozon. He also has said he will sue to force the board to release its list of society members. He was unavailable Monday for comment about the planned meeting.

Mason has joined with honorary zoo board member Newman Brock, also a lawyer, in leading an effort to recall the board members. To call a recall meeting, the signatures of 20 percent of the society's voting members would be needed, said zoo board president Susan Morris.

But just what procedure a recall would involve is uncertain, she said. She said the by-laws are so vague on the issue it could be necessary to rely on state statutes, which say simply that a vote of 51 percent of a charitable organization's stock holders or members is sufficient for a recall.

"We're asking our attorney to look at the by-laws, which aren't real clear" on who can vote and what procedure must be followed, Morris said.

She noted the by-laws state any member of the board of directors can be removed "with cause" by a two-thirds vote of the board's membership. But, she said, the by-laws specify the general membership is to vote annually on the election of board members, one-third of whom are elected each year to three year terms.

Morris said the agreement to call together the zoological society's membership is aimed at resolving the conflict.

"We're tired of the constant accusations by Cheney Mason and his supporters," Morris said. "We're willing to put ourselves before the membership for their scrutiny. If the vote is 'no confidence' we'll step down."

A public forum format is planned for the July 30 meeting, Morris explained. The board will address the issues and then let the general membership speak, she said, and what actions follow likely will be decided by the general membership.

occupied with another Threshold resident. Woods was reportedly sitting with the rest of the clients.

In the report Fillius described the water in the pool as being very difficult to see through.

"The pool water was real cloudy," Fillius said in the report. "I couldn't see the bottom of the pool."

After Orlando Fire Department Rescue Personnel arrived and continued the CPR efforts started by Burkhart and Butler, Harris was transported to Orlando General Hospital where she was admitted in critical condition. She was later transferred to ORMC where she remains in that status.

The name and address of the girl's parents are not listed in the police report. But it is known that her grandmother, Ruthie M. Harris lives, at 1601 W. 15th St. in Sanford.

Orlando police public information officer Mike Wenger said the incident is still under investigation.

Free Classes For Senior Citizens Topic For Community College Vote

The Seminole Community College Board of Trustees will be voting on whether to continue to allow senior citizens to enroll in the college's classes for free during its regular meeting tonight.

If the board were to decide against seniors, they would be responsible for paying their own tuition of $23 per credit hour at the college.

The decision to grant fee waivers to senior citizens is now in the hands of the board because of legislation passed by the state this year, cutting which further cuts the number of fee waivers for students in the community college system. But the state is leaving the matter of letting seniors attend classes for free up to the individual community colleges throughout Florida.

The meeting will be held in the board room of the SCC administration building. It is scheduled to start at 8 p.m.

Dr. James Sawyer, SCC vice president for student and information services, said historically community colleges have provided fee waivers for seniors and he is going to recommend SCC continue doing that. "I anticipate the boards approval of the recommendation," he said.

Also on the agenda for the meeting is a review of the college's proposed 1987-1988 budget.

No Place For Keys

MAZOMANIE, Wis. (UPI) — The only problem during a weekend of nude bathing by several hundred people off a sandbar in the Wisconsin River came when some of them discovered their keys were locked in their cars, authorities said Monday.

"Just think about it," a Dane County sheriff's dispatcher said. "These people did not have any pockets." There were three calls to deputies about locked keys, he said.

The nude gathering was sponsored in part by the Naturist Society of Oshkosh as part of National Nude Weekend.

Clergymen Not Always Welcome

DEAR ABBY: If you are of the opinion that clergymen should phone first, you are off base. Too much precious time would be spent in making phone calls to set up appointments. I am aware that there are housewives who would rather have their homes (and themselves) all spruced up to impress the minister, but, Abby, we clergy do not visit to check up on our parishioners' housekeeping skills. We don't care if the woman and her family are not all spruced up either. We prefer to see the family in a relaxed and natural setting. I've been pushing doorbells for nearly 50 years, and I know whereof I speak.

DROP-IN MINISTER IN ALABAMA
DEAR DROP-IN: Now, a word from a housewife:
DEAR ABBY: I am glad you finally addressed the problem of clergymen who call on members of their congregation without calling first to give us at least an hour's notice. I'm as God-fearing as the next person, but I don't want any unexpected company — and I consider the clergy "company."

When my doorbell rings, I peek out from behind my living room curtain to see who's there. And if it's someone I'm not in the mood to see, I don't answer the door. I don't care if my TV is blaring away and our car is in the driveway. I'm just "not home" to unexpected visitors.
ME IN VICTORIA, TEXAS
DEAR ABBY: I am an intern pastor, and as one of the new breed, I disagree with the pastor of my church who believes it's better to just drop in without calling first.
Abby, I have seen the embarrassment on the faces of many housewives when I have accompanied the pastor on these surprise visits, and I'm sure they would have appreciated a phone call first.
INTERN PASTOR, NO TOWN, PLEASE

who prefers to call on my parishioners with no prior notice. My reason: If calls are made ahead of time, the women feel they have to have a little something to serve with coffee or tea, so they go to the trouble of baking something. Naturally when the goodies are served, the minister feels obligated to eat them. Not that it's difficult — these homemade cakes, pies and cookies are usually very tasty. But after making three or four stops in one afternoon, can you imagine what the minister will look like in a few years?

Stage Set By Iraq For Oil Price Drop

NEW YORK (UPI) — Iraq's rising oil production could jeopardize OPEC efforts to reverse last year's oil price collapse and set off a scramble within the 13-nation group to recapture sales from Baghdad, Petroleum Intelligence Weekly said Monday.

Iraq has refused to join the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries' last two production restraint agreements and is pumping well in excess of its new output quota of 1.54 million barrels a day for the second half of the year.

There seems to be some sympathy within OPEC for Baghdad's claim that it should be allowed to produce the same amount of oil as its Gulf war enemy Iran, whose second-half quota is 2.36 million barrels a day, the authoritative oil journal said.

But by October Iraqi production is expected to exceed Tehran's output quota, which "could be the trigger for a renewed upsurge of resentment among other exporters at having to sacrifice even more sales to finance Iraq's war with Iran," PIW said.

"With the trauma of last year's price collapse still fresh in the minds of exporters, effective OPEC measures to curb Iraq's aggressive solo drive for market share will be hard to agree upon," the journal said. "Efforts to reclaim sales lost to Iraq could increase the risk of a second price collapse."

In 1986 world oil prices plummeted by about 50 percent to the $15-a-barrel range as OPEC waged a pricing war against outside producers.

In December OPEC agreed to limit its overall production to 15.8 million barrels a day for the first half of the year in order to raise oil prices to an official average of $18 a barrel. On June 27 the group adopted an output lid of 16.6 million barrels a day for the final six months of 1987.

But OPEC production averaged about 17.4 million barrels a day in June — well above its official ceiling — with Iraq accounting for the lion's share of the surplus output.

OPEC President Rilwanu Lukman, who also is Nigeria's oil minister, told PIW that patience with Iraq will wear thin if its output overtakes the quota assigned to Tehran.

But officials close to the Iraqi government said cash-strapped Baghdad is proceeding with plans to boost production by 500,000 barrels a day through a new second pipeline across Turkey. Port congestion has threatened to slow the increase in Iraqi exports, however.

"Iraqi officials argue publicly that Tehran's rejection of its claim for parity removes any obligation to curb output, although they will abide by officially selling prices," the publication said.

When Iraq begins shipping the extra 500,000 barrels a day through the new Turkish pipeline, Baghdad's output could reach 2.7 million barrels a day in the fourth quarter. Current Iraqi output reported to OPEC headquarters is 2.2 million barrels a day, but many observers think the figure is exaggerated.

PIW said rising domestic and political pressures within OPEC could force some members to break ranks in an attempt to spur sales.

Yeutter Tells Japan 'Import With Vigor'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — U.S. Trade Representative Clayton Yeutter Monday urged Japan to "import with vigor" just as it has aggressively exported its goods in recent years.

Yeutter also warned that it will be difficult for the Reagan administration to fight protectionism in trade legislation being considered by Congress if Japan continues to be seen as unwilling to lower trade barriers.

"Japan's most important contribution to the international trading system would be to commit itself as a nation to import with vigor, just as it has exported with vigor in recent decades," Yeutter said in remarks to be delivered to the Japan-U.S. Business Conference, a group of Japanese and American government officials and business executives.

"By opening its markets, and exposing its citizens fully to the attractions of foreign goods, Japan will provide an opportunity for other nations to follow the Japanese model of growth through trade."

Yeutter also said "recent congressional debate on the trade bill has demonstrated how difficult it is to ward off protectionism when major trading partners are perceived as being unwilling to open their markets to us."

In 1986, Japan had a $59 billion trade surplus with the United States.

Yeutter said improvement is needed in the areas of agriculture, manufactured goods, and specialty electronics.

He also said Japan must change the way it perceives itself in relation to the rest of the world. "Some of our Japanese friends still seem to consider themselves residents of a small, weak island nation devoid of natural resources, that can survive only by exporting a lot and importing very little."

"But the reality is that Japan now has the free world's second-largest (gross national product), persistent trade and current account surpluses, and globally competitive industries and services."

"Japan can afford to import more manufactured goods, and for that matter, more goods and services of all kinds. Indeed, one must wonder whether Japan can afford politically any other result."

Soviets Deny Visa

He Seeks Freedom For Sick Brother

By Tom Tiede

NEEDHAM, Mass. — Leon Charny says he began to know joy in life when he was given permission to leave the Soviet Union. He was born in that country, but detested the restrictions and the gray uniformity, and he therefore was "very much delighted" to move to the United States in 1979.

He was also delighted to find that the move was everything he hoped it would be. He says the streets in America are not paved with gold, but they do have a surface of opportunity, and over the last seven years he has become comfortable with the liberties, the challenges and the competitions.

Still, he says his satisfaction is not complete. He has everything he wants now except the one thing he wants most. He says he had to leave his brother behind in the Soviet Union, because the authorities would not let the relative go, and he is worried, as he puts it, "that I may never see Benjamin again."

Leon points out that his brother is seriously ill in Moscow. He has a deadly form of skin cancer, called melanoma, and he furthermore suffers from a debilitating cardiac disease. Leon thinks Benjamin might respond to advanced treatment in the United States, but he does not have the same chance in Russia.

So Leon's new happiness is tempered with impending tragedy. And he has interrupted his resettlement here to become, in effect, his brother's only hope. He has mounted an exhaustive and poignant campaign to force the Soviet officials to release Benjamin into the care of the United States.

He started the campaign last year. That was when his brother and three other cancer patients began petitioning the Kremlin for emigration papers. Those four were then joined by others in similar circumstances, and soon there were nine very sick Russians trying desperately to get out of the place.

Naturally, the situation created something of a worldwide reversion. The Soviet authorities were repeatedly charged with being heartless and cruel. The condemnations grew so intense, in fact, that the Soviets eventually reconsidered the matter and finally released the cancer victims one by one.

But not Benjamin Charny. The Russians said they would not bend to pressure in his case. They said he had once worked for the government as a mathematician, he was therefore in possession of state secrets, and they do not allow anyone to leave the sovereignty who is accompanied by "classified information."

Classified indeed. Leon says the Soviets invented the explanation so they could continue to keep his brother captive. He says it's true that Benjamin worked for the Kremlin, but that was two decades ago:

"Everything he did has been published since then, and he doesn't hold any state secrets."

Leon says the real reason behind the Soviet position is a lack of compassion. The Russians just do not have a concern for people.

"I think it's a national defect," he says, "and it goes way back in history. Russian leaders as a group have never put very much stock in the love of human kind."

They do put stock in self-interest, however. And Leon is concentrating on that in his campaign to free his brother. He has solicited the sympathetic attention of an army of U.S. leaders, who have in turn reminded their counterparts in Russia that the world is watching.

Leon says he has printed and distributed thousands of leaflets concerning Benjamin. He has also persuaded every U.S. senator (from Edward Kennedy to Jesse Helms) to sign a protest statement. He has even held vigils outside the Soviet Embassy in Washington, where he has pleaded for mercy and common sense.

Leon's friends say he has become obsessed with the involvement. He thinks that's close to the truth.

"You must understand," he says, "my brother means everything to me. My parents died when I was young, and he took over to raise me like a father. No, I will not rest until we're together again."

That could be a long time. Despite his best efforts, Leon admits that the Soviet authorities seem to be as recalcitrant as ever. He notes that everyone has been lobbied in the Kremlin, including Mikhail Gorbachev, but the Russians say they will not even consider a Charny visa until 1995.

Leon doesn't think his brother will last until 1995. Actually, he lives from day to day.

"I remember what happened to two of the other cancer patients who were released," Leon adds. "They died right after they left the country. I pray that won't happen to Benjamin; I don't want to just bury him here."

Doc Begins Court-Ordered 'Slumming'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A Beverly Hills neurosurgeon and convicted slumlord Monday was electronically "leashed" within one of his own apartments in a rat- and roach-ridden building as part of a unique sentence.

Dr. Milton Avol, 63, was given the unique sentence by Superior Court Judge Veronica Simmons-McBeth in 1985 after he repeatedly failed to clean up slum conditions in his apartment buildings to meet city building, health and fire codes.

Avol contended in his appeals that the sentence amounted to "cruel and unusual punishment."

Sylvia Smith, director of the county Probation Department, fitted Avol with an electronic ankle that will monitor his movements and alert authorities if he travels further than 150 feet of the apartment.

Smith said Avol will be allowed to move about the building during the day to check on repairs, a condition of his probation.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING SEMINOLE COUNTY COMPREHENSIVE PLAN INTERIM UPDATE

Notice is hereby given that, pursuant to Section 163.2174, Florida Statutes (1985) and Section 6, Chapter 74-812, Laws of Florida, the Seminole County Local Planning Agency (LPA) will conduct a public hearing on August 11, 1987 at 7:00 P.M. or as soon thereafter as possible, in the Seminole County Services Building, 1101 East First Street, Sanford, FL 32771, Room W120. The purpose of the hearing is to receive public input and to consider recommendations of the five Citizen Advisory Committees and the Comprehensive Plan Policy Steering Committee on the 1987 Seminole County Comprehensive Plan Interim Update.

The LPA will consider recommendations and receive public input on the future land use map for unincorporated Seminole County and on the goals, objectives and policies relating to the following Plan elements:

Conservation, Recreation, Future Land Use, Housing, Solid Waste, Mass Transit, Library Services, Public Safety, Transportation, Parks and Aesthetics, Potable Water, Sewer, Drainage, Capital Improvements, and Implementation of a State Governmental Coordination.

The purpose of the 1987 Comprehensive Plan Interim Update is to: Assess the effectiveness of the current Plan's goals, objectives and policies, update the adopted Future Land Use Map, develop Future Land Use Maps for the three planning areas which were not mapped for land use when the Plan was originally adopted, develop a Capital Improvements Element to set level of service standards and identify the costs of achieving those standards, identify as many growth-related issues as possible and set the stage for meeting the requirements of the Local Government Comprehensive Planning and Land Development Regulation Act and Chapter 92-5, Florida Administrative Code, during the 1991 Plan Update.

Major issues that will be addressed later in the 1990 Plan Update include, but are not limited to coordinating Land Use and Utilities Elements with City plan updates accomplished by municipalities; coordinating the elements with the regional and state policy plans to ensure consistency therewith; developing procedures for allocating facility capacity; and developing guidelines, standards and special area plans for high growth areas.

The public is invited to attend and encouraged to participate in this process. Those in attendance at the public hearing desiring to present input will be heard and written comments may be filed with the LPA at the public hearing or by mailing same to the address below, c/o Planning Director. The hearing may be continued from time to time as found necessary.

Further information pertaining to this process may be obtained from the Office of Planning, Room N341, Seminole County Services Building, 1101 East First Street, Sanford, FL 32771, 321-1130, extension 371. Persons are advised that if they decide to appeal any decision made at this hearing, they will need a record of the proceedings, and for such purpose, they may need to ensure that a verbatim record of the proceeding is made, which record includes the testimony and evidence upon which the appeal is to be made.

Bloodshot Eyes Need Checking

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT - I am male, 21, and have bloodshot eyes and a red face much of the time. I can feel blood rushing to my head, especially when I am embarrassed. Can anything be done to prevent this?

DEAR READER - You seem to be describing two conditions. Bloodshot eyes and a red face may be due to air pollution, allergies or to the use of drugs, especially alcohol and marijuana. In addition, some people inherit a tendency to plethora, increased blood supply to the facial tissues. Finally, certain diseases, such as polycythemia (an overabundance of red blood cells) can produce red eyes and face. You should see a doctor to make sure that you do not have a treatable disease underlying your symptoms.

The second problem, flushing when you are embarrassed, is a common reaction. The degree of blushing is built into your genes. Nonetheless, you might be helped by learning ways to reduce anxiety. Stress-management clinics or counseling could aid you in overcoming this unwanted reaction.

DEAR DR. GOTT - My son, 42, has the type of hearing loss that is not helped by a hearing aid. How can I find a support group for him?

DEAR READER - Some forms of nerve damage produce hearing loss that is not helped by hearing aids. If your son has been thoroughly checked by an ear specialist (otolaryngologist), I suggest that you contact the National Health Information Clearinghouse (800-336-4797) and ask for information about support resources.

DEAR DR. GOTT - I had a vasectomy five years ago. I sit a lot (driving and talking to customers) in my job. Sometimes I will get a buildup of semen that works its way out and stains my pants. This is very embarrassing. Is this normal after a vasectomy?

DEAR READER - No, it isn't. A vasectomy interrupts the flow of sperm from the testicles. It does not affect the prostate, a gland that produces the major portion of the seminal fluid. That is why vasectomy does not interfere with normal sexual functioning and is a splendid method of birth control for couples who are not interested in having more children.

In your case, the prolonged sitting while driving may be stimulating your prostate gland to secrete fluid at inappropriate times. See a urologist to make sure everything is working properly.

For a more complete discussion of the prostate gland, I'm sending you a free copy of my Health Report on THE PROSTATE GLAND. Other readers who want a copy should send $1 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to mention the title.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
Nowadays South's holding is frequently opened with two no-trump, but our South player was conservative. If North couldn't bid over one club, why should the contract be as high as two no-trump? As soon as North did respond, South showed his hand with the jump to game. Four no-trump was an invitational raise, and South happily bid the small slam.

a heart to dummy's 10, losing to East's queen. South was unlucky to lose both finesses, but the really sad fact was that he had mangled a sure contract.

The safe and certain play is for declarer to take enough diamonds to exhaust West of that suit. Then the lone club is led from dummy, declarer playing the nine or 10. If West wins that trick, any return he makes will present declarer with his 12th trick. Obviously, if East puts up the club jack when the six-spot is led from dummy, South simply wins the ace and forces out the queen with his 10 or nine, thereby developing the slam-going trick.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY

JULY 15, 1987
Interesting changes are in the offing for you in the year ahead. They could come about rather unexpectedly. For instance, you may begin with one type of venture, only to use it as a base to launch something different. CANCER (June 21-July 22) You might leave a score of unfinished projects in your wake today. After you drive in a few nails, you may suddenly lose interest. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Matchmaker set can help you understand what it might take to restore the relationship. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) It's best not to gamble at all today, but if you can't resist the urge, restrict your small wagers to familiar areas.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Usually you stick to your guns once you make up your mind, but today, others may be able to turn your decisions off and on like a light switch. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you are in a do-it-yourself mood today, it's best not to experiment with exotic, expensive materials. The result of a lack of know-how could be costly debris. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Treating those you love generously is commendable, but it could also be a bit foolish if you go to extremes. It's the intent, not the cost of your gesture that counts. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't break a commitment to a family member or relative at the last minute if something more appealing comes up today. This won't win you points with your relatives. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're not the best at keeping secrets today. With a minimum amount of probing, a nosy inquisitor could find out everything you know. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) When shopping today, try to be selective. If you're not, gadgets you'll have little use for will find their way into your tote bag. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Others may not be quite ready for your avant-garde ideas today. Hold your far-out schemes in abeyance until they catch up with the times. ARIES (March 21-April 19) Hunches might take precedence over your logical assumptions today. Although you may operate more by feelings than thought, it's best to reverse the procedure. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you introduce sudden changes into special plans today, it could cause consternation among your companions and crimp everyone's good time. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Guard against an impulse today to switch objectives just when a goal is achievable. It's an unwise tactic that will deprive you of success.
