WASHINGTON (AP)—Leggy fashion models strutted. The audience of teenagers clapped and sang. They let out breathless sighs and asked for more.

When a fashion show is held at the Fifth Avenue-like fashion show, so were three cabinet wives.

One hundred young high school girls sat at round yellow tables sipping soft drinks. They talked about baseball, school, holidays and boys.

But they had to be hushed to hear the program—they couldn't see it because they're blind.

They heard a yellow dress described as "warm as the summer sun" and red called "zippy as pizza."

It's been a long time since I pounded a typewriter with my fists... But it's been a long time since I've been so angry... Listen to this... The County School Board named three architects for the three new schools yesterday afternoon... It took them 11 seconds to come up with the decision.

Talk about your run... You can read about it elsewhere on this page... All I can stutter out is that the 12-man school architectural contract goes to an Orlando firm... How much taxes do they pay in Seminole County?

Earlier in the morning we questioned Supt. of Schools R. T. Milver on who the architects will be... I have no idea what the school board will do, he said... I got out of there fast.

Look for three elementary schools and South Seminole Junior High to go on double sessions in the fall... And I need any spare to tell me this.

You'll hear about it at the March 23 School Board meeting... Perhaps one reason I'm so mad is that I had to sit through a Civil Service meeting last night while you all were with Miss Florida.

I mean I like Mack Cleveland Jr., but... Oh yeah, it came out at the meeting the Sanford Police Department now has two captains... You know Ben Butler is still a captain (officially) as is Arnold Williams... There were no appeals of any resignations at the meeting... I got out of there fast.

And ended up at the Democratic Executive Committee meeting listening to some gut talk about "bombs" so I got out of there fast... And went to Spencers... I didn't say I got out of there fast.

Ho-Hum... They threw out that Pig N' Whistle case in Municipal Court this morning... An official of the Aero-Space Industries will tour NAS today... Keep this in mind... Water for an announcement soon on an Essex Wire Company location here... That's all I can say now.

A public hearing on "redeeming the city limits of Sanford" will come before the Legislative delegation on March 23... Watch for the city to push for try to it through the Legislature without a referendum... City Commission meeting Monday night should be interesting... Architects John Burton and Euglen Kelley will present proposals for relocating the zoo and downtown beautification.

A CONVERSATION WITH A SPARROW—How come you're limping? REPORTER—Aw, I didn't go back to the office by way of Fulton Street today. SPARROW—So? REPORTER—West by way of Laurel and at Commercial tripped into a six-inch pot hole on the railroad tracks and broke my leg.

Big shindig at the Elks Club Saturday night... Proceeds going to the Crippled Children's Home.

What ways and means did the mayors of the six municipalities of the county decide to use in their effort to obtain all road and bridge funds collected at their respective cities? The good mayors held their little confab at Longwood Mayor A. L. Lorman's office last night.

The next time we see a city or county vehicle used for picking up kids at school... We'll list the license tag. Okay?

Paulucci Purchases Texize Property

Jeno F. Paulucci, who is removing his business empire headquarters from Duluth, Minn., to Sanford, today completed purchase of the Texize building property, 2380 West 25th Street, for $175,000.

Paulucci said announcement as to the use of the building will be forthcoming next week on consummation of further negotiations. It has been rumored an electronics engineering firm will move in.

Commenting on today's transaction, Paulucci said: "Faith in the continued growth and development of Sanford and Seminole County prompted this investment in this fine industrial site. We intend to make this property and building available to industry and will build additional buildings when needed in order to attract new industry and business to this community."

Paulucci was elected chairman of the newly formed Sanford Industrial Commission last month. Other members of the commission are Howard Hoyle, Law Moore, Howard McNulty, A. K. Shoemaker Jr., Ernest Southward and Harold Smith.

The former Texize building provides approximately 68,000 square feet of industrial space, and the land involved totals eight acres, providing space for additional buildings to meet any prospective industry's needs.

The building was built in 1962 by the Sanford-Seminole Development Company for Du-Mar Cabinets. The Du-Mar Company in turn sold the property in 1964 to Chemical Corporation of America.

Texico, Inc., acquired the entire property from Chemical Corporation in 1965 when it purchased the rights to "Freeway" and the other assets of the company.

Clifford McKibbin, president of the Sanford-Seminole Development Company, stated that the development company had fully cooperated with Paulucci by releasing all the company's mortgage rights in the property and building and have offered to provide capital for the construction of industrial buildings for any future projects that may be developed by the Sanford Industrial Commission under the guidance of Paulucci.

Demos Gear For Election

William F. Plante, Democratic candidate for the district 4 seat in the House of Representatives, went on record favoring an increase in the sales tax, if necessary, for education at the meeting of the county Democratic Executive Committee last night.

Fulford said "if all other means are exhausted I would favor increasing the sales tax and earmarking the additional funds for education."

Meanwhile Sen. Beth Johnson declared that since the governor "has pledged to furnish all the needs of education without raising taxes, I'll wait and see."

Furnish with the candidate was conducted by Rep. Tom McLomaid.

Other remarks heard from the candidates were:

Ben Duflos, district 17 - Senate, "My opponent has been against everything and for nothing."

Ben Griffin, district 42 - "Local legislation is very important and affects more people in the county than general legislation."

During the committee news meeting, it was unanimously agreed to allocate $50 for campaign purposes to be used as the chairman's discretion.

A countywide candidate speech by Robert E. Lee, campaign manager for Gov. Claude Kirk, making Plante for his important part in the successful race.

Plante served as state organizational director for Kirk and after his election was named to a seven-man advisory committee by the governor.

Lee credited Kirk's success to the fact that he based his campaign, and on recruiting, and coming young men such as Plante in each community, rather than turning to the established party leaders or wealthy citizens.

The newspaperman, group which included a large percentage of Democrats, heard a

A new star is rising on the local political horizon. Republican Ken Plante "jumped in with both feet" when he decided to tackle Democratic incumbent Beth Johnson for the state senate in the March 28 election. CLIMAXING A WHIRLWIND of activities for Miss Florida, Christine Torgerson, on a visit to Sanford Thursday, was her appearance in a Florida Fashion Festival at Penney's with local models sharing honors with the beauty queen, Charles Robinson, left, manager of Penney's here, and Joe E. Baker, Sanford's mayor, officially welcomed Miss Florida.

Burton Gets Nod On Junior High

The School Board yesterday named three different architectural firms to draw up plans for three proposed new schools in the county.

Sanford Architect John Burton was selected for Sanford Junior High School; Switzer and Switzer of Winter Park for the new Oviedo High School and Watson & Co. of Orlando for the proposed new Lyman High School.

Work on preliminary plans for the new schools are expected to be submitted within the next month.

According to the State Education Survey team report the Junior High School will cost $1,772,093; Oviedo, $1,809,280 and Lyman, $2,570,461.

The board has only about $2,500,000 to get the three projects underway and indications are a bond issue will be needed to finish the schools.

At the same time the board authorized Burton to proceed "immediately" with preliminary plans for the Junior College complex. The deadline for the plans is June 1 as the county can get some $30,000 in state funds and $45,000 in federal appropriations.

Cost of the first phase of the complex has been set at $4,500,000.

In other business during the meeting, the board tabled all bids on shop buildings at the Junior College site pending more study. The board had anticipated spending some $40,000 for the new metal facilities. The six bidders submitted prices from $66,406 to $85,600.

They also took no action on modifications to the Sanford Junior High School's heating system as only two bids were submitted. The board authorized Burton to ask bids be resubmitted for the March 23 meeting.

Turned down a request from the Longwood Citizens Progress Committee to furnish paint to repaint the Longwood Elementary School. The group had planned to do the labor. However, board members felt under this plan, the structure would have to be repainted every few years.

Asked for a standardized grading program for the physical education department on the secondary level, School board members felt the "mentally strong were being penalized for being physically weak."

Fraasa Named To Spark YMCA

A major step towards bringing steps which show that Sanford YMCA services to Sanford was taken today when DeWitt Fraasa was named to the position of chairman of the new organization.

Matthews, president of the Seminole Chamber of Commerce, appointed William A. Fraasa as chairman of an organizational committee with a "branch Y" in this city this year as its goal.

This implemented the recommendations of the YMCA survey committee of the chamber of which John F. Bolt is chairman. "The branch Y" program was recommended for Sanford by the national organization so that we would have available the already existing administration of the Orange County area. Our committee was in accord with this recommendation."

Fraasa brings to this important task a background of early and continued support of the YMCA as a boy in Ohio. Fraasa joined the "Y" at the age of nine and it was during his boyhood and young manhood that the deep dedication to the YMCA was born and matured.

Immediate task of the newly appointed chairman is the selection of a committee which would engage at once in the plans for speedy formation of the branch.

He feels that this is one more evidence of the several forward

Pastor's Corner Lighting Candles

By REV. FRED R. CHANCE
First Baptist Church

The 15th day of May, 1786, in Hartford, Conn., has gone down in New England history as a terrible foretaste of judgment day. It is said that at noon the skies turned from blue to gray and by mid-afternoon had blackened so densely that, in that religious age, men fell on their knees and begged a final blessing before the end. The Connecticut House of Representatives was in session, and as some men fell down and begged for adjournment, the Speaker of the House, one Colonel Davenport, came to his feet. He silenced them and said these words: "The day of judgment is either approaching or not. If it is not, there is no excuse for adjournment. If it is, I choose to be found doing my duty, I wish therefore that candles be brought in."

We can say thanks to be God for men like Colonel Davenport in all the days of human history, and we need persons of this faith and fortitude to step forth in our day. The evidence of God's judgments upon the ways of men are obvious all about us. As we look out over the horizon of human history in this hour, the sun of righteousness is overcast to say the least. Our skies are covered with clouds of doubt, despair, and even moods of defeat. There are those about us and among us who are clamoring for adjournment to Christian action and in a sense they are begging for a final blessing before the end. I believe that the words and spirit of the Speaker of the Connecticut House of Representatives are appropriate for this hour. Whatever the hour is in regards to the final judgment, let us join him in saying, "I choose to be found doing my duty."

In the dark world in which we live we need to light the candles of our personal and corporate faith in God, and to live lives of obedient, dutiful service to God. Paul's words to the Philippian Christians seem to describe our responsibility. "... in the midst of a crooked and perverse nation, among whom ye shine as lights in the world." (Phil. 2:15) I suggest some candles that need to be lighted in the darkness of our day. We need to light the candle of individual Christian conscience. Men have never been saved (converted or born again) en masse. They have always been saved one by one. This calls for individual, personal witness on the part of Christians. It is still a high privilege to describe our responsibility, to shine through one life to another and to point another to God. In this dark hour we need to fan the flame of fellowship in the church - in the local and universal sense. We can let our lights shine together in corporate worship and work for God. Our churches can be lighthouses along the way for persons in the darkness.

It is my judgment that the most desperate need in this hour is to light the candles of personal commitment and consecration on the part of those who embrace the Christian faith. The ideals and hope that inhere in Jesus Christ are worthy of total commitment.

The words of our Lord are continuously appropriate. "Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven." (Mt. 5:16)

Baptist Church Denied Zoning At Altamonte

Altamonte Springs Town Council unanimously denied a request from the Friendship Baptist Church for a variance to the zoning ordinance to permit construction of new facilities following a public hearing Wednesday evening.

The church has requested the variance to permit construction of an auditorium, to be used as a temporary sanctuary, and an educational building without meeting the requirements of one-off street parking space for each four seats in the facilities.

Also Caponi presented a petition containing more than 500 signatures protesting the proposed variance. Caponi made it clear the petitioners were not opposed to the church. We want everyone to abide by the law as stated in the ordinance of ordinance 127. If the law is not suitable to the town, then change it," Caponi said.

First Alderman also presented a petition opposing the variance request which he reported was signed by members of Friendship Baptist Church.

Rev. Harold Steel, church pastor and the church architect appeared on behalf of the variance request.

In other business at the Council meeting, the board: Referred to the city engineer the request for a rezoning charter and possibly the question of liquor on Sunday sales and a bond issue for a sewage system.

Major decisions affecting the whole city are too big for the council to act on. The people should decide matters this important," Swoford declared.

Town attorney S. J. Davis Jr. reported the proposed charter is nearly complete and may be put before the people at public hearings in the near future.

Recommendation that some effort be made to promote a Chamber of Commerce for the city was also made.

Statistics reveal that the average American makes 1.5 visits to the dentist per year.

26 Persons Die In Collision Of Two Airplanes

URBANA, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's second airliner crash in five days—the latest possibly caused by a collision with a private plane—carried 26 persons to their death Thursday.

The DC-9 Trans World Airlines jet disintegrated in flames as it approached Dayton's Municipal Airport for a landing. The private plane, a twin engine Beechcraft, fell from the sky at the same time like a wounded bird.

Only moments before, veteran airline pilot Karl B. Kohlstatt of Chicago had been warned of "unknown traffic" in his range by the Federal Aviation Agency.

Wreckage of the airliner and bodies of those aboard—21 passengers and four crew members—were strewn through woods and gullies nine miles west of here.

The private plane and its pilot, Cyrus H. Burgestahler, 54, of Detroit, fell two miles away.

The crash was 45 miles south of where a Lake Central Airlines turboprop went down in a snow-sleet storm Sunday night with 38 aboard.

The Civil Aeronautics Board still investigating that tragedy, quickly turned to search for the cause of the second one. Some members of the investigating team sent here came from the scene of the earlier crash.

"We don't know what happened yet," said Ed Slattery of the CAB at the scene. "No one saw it."

The Federal Aviation Agency refused to say there had been a collision in the air. But the DC-9 had been in contact with the Federal Aviation Agency traffic control at Dayton by radar at 11:54 a.m. and Burgestahler by radio, 20 miles to the south, at 11:59 a.m.

The weather was clear and bright.

U.S. Rep. Clarence J. Brown, R-Ohio, Urbana newspaper and radio station owner, said he had learned there were indications FAA radar had shown the planes on a collision course.

"I would leave no stone unturned if it elected," he asked voters before the state representative election for the whole Democratic team and attributed his own recent primary victory to the help given him by fellow-Democrats in Orange County who had "spread the word."

Asher was making his first bid for state elective office. In a well-organized statement of aims he explained his interest in taxes—his business is real estate, education, industrial growth for the two counties. He, too, endorsed the Port of Sanford and promised support for the Sanford-Indian River canal.

Asher saw such development as improvements for both counties who have, he pointed out, many common interests.

Duliois, in a first appearance in Sanford, saw the Orange-Seminole Counties as "many common interests. But he was quick to point out that he lived in Orange County only three and one-half miles from the Seminole boundary. "I'm concerned with your problems and want to actively support you when elected. If you'll help me, my phone will always be open to call on Seminole County and I'll do my best to help you," said Duliois.

Frank Finch, noted Sanford Jaycee veteran, said Sanford Jaycee veteran, was chairman of the meeting as he was of a similar meeting two weeks ago when other Orange-Seminole candidates appeared and these three were unable to attend due to prior commitments.

The meeting was opened by the chairman, Mrs. E. E. Brown, who named the missionaries listed for special prayers in the eastern area of the United States.

Prayer for the missionaries and their work followed.

Devotional was given by the pastor and routine business was completed. Mrs. L. Vera Harrison was named new chairman of the "JoAnn" Committee through which the circle sends aid to a mentally retarded girl.

Mrs. T. W. Freeman, program chairman, presented the second chapter of the study book on Philipians and asked members to read chapter three.

War Strategy Meet Planned

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson says he'll take part in a Vietnam strategy conference later this month, "in the Pacific area somewhere."

This surprise disclosure, voiced Thursday at a news conference, left questions unanswered—mainly where and exactly when.

Johnson said he would be meeting in the next few weeks with Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador in Saigon, and Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the American commander in Vietnam. But he wouldn't specify the site except as being "in the Pacific area."

The 30-minute session with reporters also brought from Johnson a reaffirmed defense of American policy in Vietnam and an apparent one-on-one slap at Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., who has suggested possible other ways to resolve the conflict that last week produced record American casualties.

Johnson, wearing a deep-hued blue shirt for his first news conference on live color TV, also came up with another surprise: An announcement that he is asking Congress to restore immediately the 7 per cent tax credit business had been claiming until last Oct. 10 on new investments in plant and equipment.

This time he acted because the economy has been sagging a bit and seems in need of a shot in the arm.

But he told questioners his move doesn't mean he's abandoned his proposed 6 per cent income tax surcharge, which he asked Congress to approve effective July 1.

"We see no reason to change that recommendation," he said, offering opinions on overhauling the military draft. On such politically touchy subjects as continuation of deferments for college students, "I will reach a decision when Congress has had a chance to act."

He asked the Justice Department to seek an 80-day court injunction against a 4-month-old strike by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers against U.S. Marine Engineers, in Vietnam.

Johnson's rather offhand announcement of his plans to travel eleven thousand miles to meet with Lodge and Westmoreland came after he was asked about reports Lodge plans to resign.

He said Lodge had talked with him several times about eventually leaving the ambassadorship. Then he added that he would fully explore the envoy's future "in Vietnam or elsewhere, if he cares to do that."

After the television cameras were turned off and reporters were leaving the room, some crowded around the President to ask when and where the Vietnam conference would take place.

Johnson just smiled and said nothing.

George Christian, press secretary, who was besieged with inquiries within minutes, said there would be no immediate word on the timing or locale of the meeting.

On other topics Johnson said: "The government is very hopeful that despite January's triple tragedy in an Apollo spacecraft the nation will be able to meet its goal of landing men on the moon by 1970. However, Johnson cautioned "I don't think there is any guarantee that we will be able to do that."

Regarding subsidies by the Central Intelligence Agency for student and other groups, "I resist very much some of the interpretive statements and some of the severe criticisms that have been made about various government agencies including the Central Intelligence Agency." Saying it would be better for all Americans if there was unity of opinion, he said he expects a report on all CIA activities later this month and after receiving it, he'll "make such decisions as may be indicated."

The President is pleased with the contribution of the Federal Reserve Board to the recent lowering of interest rates. But he ignored a question about whether he plans next month to reappoint William McChesney Martin as chairman.

"I realize that there are differing opinions on overhauling the military draft. On such politically touchy subjects as continuation of deferments for college students, "I will reach a decision when Congress has had a chance to act."

Highlights Of LBJ's News Meet

Vietnam planning—He'll meet with Ambassador Lodge and Gen. Westmoreland this month at an unannounced Pacific site.

Vietnam peace prospects—"We are willing to talk unconditionally, or we are willing to talk conditionally. All we ask is other side as likewise. I no equity and fairness, and the longer we see any possibility of a military victory on the part of North Vietnam."

Taxes—He's asking Congress to restore the 7 per cent business investment tax credit but still wants an income tax surcharge.

The 1968 presidential election—"I think down the road several months from now I would be the appropriate time for an announcement of my future plans."

The draft—"There has been discrimination against minority groups. I will do all I can to see that this is corrected."

Johnson said he would be meeting in the next few weeks with Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador in Saigon, and Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the American commander in Vietnam. But he wouldn't specify the site except as being "in the Pacific area."

Florida sheriffs have called the report of a recent law enforcement survey headed by Atty. Gen. Earl Faircloth a document which "does serious injustice to Florida's overworked but underpaid and understaffed law enforcement agencies."

Faircloth was not available to comment on the letter sent to him by Leon County Sheriff W. P. Joyce, president of the Florida Sheriffs Association.

Misinterpretation, lack of understanding and inaccuracies were attributed by Joyce to the thick report by the Florida State Committee on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice. Faircloth was chairman of the committee.

Sanford Port A 'Must,' McDonald Tells Jaycees

Three candidates for the 1967 state Legislature where they would represent Orange-Seminole County interests appeared before the weekly meeting of the Sanford-Seminole Jaycees in the Civic Center yesterday and asked for voter support.

The Big Problem

With one primary down, Florida voters face two more elections in the coming weeks. Next week comes Tuesday when 19 House and 15 Senate runoff will be decided.

There will be only one contest on the Seminole County ballot, and that is the runoff between Tom Mooney and Don Asher.

Whoever wins the runoff will be challenged in the final election by Republican Jan Fortune.

Out of the first primary came two bright spots for Seminole County — Tom McDonald's clear cut victory over his Democratic opponent from Orange County and the way A. B. Peterson Jr. handled himself with a strong Seminole showing from a complacent voting public.

McDonald has a Republican opponent in the March 28 general election — E. Pore Bassett who practices law in Maitland. There were very few surprises in the primary, and if that is any indication of what can be expected later this month, McDonald can be assured of reappointing in the Spring Legislature. There is an unknown quantity however, and that is the strength of the Republican vote in this area.

None of the Republican candidates can be said to have the vote getting power that Claude Kirk demonstrated in getting elected governor last year.

In fact, the big problem facing candidates who must go before the voters in the next two elections is voter apathy. The public just doesn't seem interested in the outcome despite the fact that Florida leaders have made a great effort to point out how significant it is to have the best men possible in Tallahassee this year.

What happens in Tallahassee during the coming legislative sessions probably will govern the lives of Floridians for many years to come.

We refer to the constitutional revision session which is expected to follow the general session which begins in April.

About 14 percent of the registered Democrats cast ballots in Seminole County during the first primary. In other counties the total ranged from significantly less to slightly more. That is not a very complimentary picture of public interest.

We must do better in coming elections.

Analysis Of The News

WASHINGTON (AP) — One generation sweeps so the next one may merely perspire. The words mean the same but sound much more ominous than the other, which is the story of American-Soviet relations.

Fifteen years ago what is happening in the Senate now would have been unthinkable. Joseph Stalin was alive then and here he is dead. Joseph McCarthy's Red-baiting campaign was nearing its peak.

The Senate is debating and is expected to approve, despite some opposition, a treaty by which the United States and Soviet Union agreed not to arrest each other's consular staffs when they are in each other's country.

And it is intended to give quick protection to American tourists traveling in the U.S.S.R. If one of them is arrested, American officials will be notified within several days.

The kind of agreement may not seem much but the Johnson administration describes it as part of its effort to "build bridges" to more civilized countries. What Americans say on the horizon is the Stalin-McCarthy era was a terrible sight.

BORDERING TROUBLE

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The tragedy of the space program is that too little of the money and scientific manpower have been put into basic research and state-of-the-art research.

This would not have prevented accidents such as that which occurred on the launch of the Soviet satellite, which may become unusable, between which is not the case now.

They agreed on a cultural exchange in the late 1950s, after Stalin's death, and in 1959 signed a treaty about something that was not undergirded, namely, a kind of faltering first step.

The treaty involved American scientists setting up scientific laboratories, free from military activities like military bases, weapons, or weapons-testing. In short, it was to be used for peaceful purposes only.

The next step toward relations is a more civilized one: in 1963 with a treaty forbidding nuclear testing in the atmosphere, outer space, or under water, but not underground.

Now comes the consular treaty. And this week the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee began hearings on the treaty, this one to forbid the use of weapons of mass destruction in outer space, although what outer space is and where it begins was not defined.

This can't go into effect until after the committee completes its hearings and where it begins was not defined.

Dr. Crane's Worry Clinic

CASE B-383: Fritz Z. aged 38, is the platoon husband who is a chain smoker.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I smoke at least two packs of cigarettes per day and sometimes three, if I have several key business interviews."

"Since you say that medicine, tobacco, both because of its cause of cancer and heart ailments, I might be persuaded to quit."

"But if you really believe cigarettes cut down a man's sexual vigor, that would make me give up my tobacco even faster!"

As a Hologing psychiatrist, I have been consulted by thousands of panicky husbands, scared about premature impotence. Other psychiatrists will substantiate my finds that when we check on the older and non-smoking brothers of these non-smoking men, they are still virile. So it isn't heredity that has made these younger husbands platonics.

Instead, it is the de-sexing influence of their tobacco!

Do you visualize a Don Juan or "Great Lover" as a chain smoker?

Certainly not, for you laymen have already subconsciously arrived at a medical axiom, namely, that cigarettes reduce erotic vigor!

They also kill a man's stomach hunger, too, which is why a former cigarette addict soon perks up in his eating after he has stopped his slavery to nicotine.

Why do you suppose the cigarette habit cuts down a man's dinner table appetite?

For what the same reason that it also reduces his smoking hunger!

Political Gossip

By FRED VAN PELT

A new star is rising on the local political horizon. He got his foot in the door in a local campaign over a year ago, he got them good and wet in the state campaign last year, and now he has jumped all the way in. He'll either come out a champion or sink in the March 28 general election.

Kenneth Plante is the typical young businessman of today forging ahead in local community leadership. He resides in Altamonte Springs and is associated with his family's business at Oviedo.

Ken got his first taste of politics when, although a Republican, he campaigned for Democrat Bob Parker for the county commission.

("I registered as a Republican when I turned 21 because of Crenshaw Ed Gurney.")

The young man decided he liked the taste of politics, and he plunged last year by quietly jumping on the bandwagon of the Republican candidate for governor, Claude Kirk. He was named "area director" in the classic report of the Democratic legislative committee. Under that title, he traveled about the state on a "leg" trip "black groups."

Small groups of party workers who got out the vote by ringing doorbells.

That is new history. For his efforts, Plante received a gold inscribed cigarette lighter from Governor Kirk. He was offered "a state job" but turned it down.

When the federal court ordered a general election of the entire State Legislature, Ken decided to "go whole hog" and made up his mind to run for the House seat held by Democrat Mack N. Cleveland Jr.

The Friendly Season

But he received a telephone call, "Come to Palm Beach for a talk." After that weekend conference with Governor Kirk at his "rest retreat" in Palm Beach, Plante announced he would oppose Democrat incumbent Beth Johnson for the Senate.

Plante's association with Governor Kirk has not been overlooked locally. Previously he had been unsuccessful in his efforts to work locally for the good of the community — he was more or less ignored, probably because of his youthful appearance — but now he is a member of several strong Chamber of Commerce committees, and is recognized.

He already has made it known he will come up with fresh ideas. When other candidates agreed at a teachers' meeting that more money should be made available for pay raises and for education in general, Plante advised the teachers "to sell yourselves and the pay raises will be forthcoming."

The Orange County Democratic committee is unhappy with Senator Johnson. After supporting her for two years, the committee finds itself more or less left out: Senator Johnson is running her own campaign, and pretty much ignoring the committee. She is running the campaign of the Democratic legislative committee. They meet in her office almost daily to discuss campaign strategy, and receive her instructions.

Look for Governor Kirk to come into Orange and Seminole Counties before March 28 to lend a helping hand to his political protégé, Ken Plante. Kirk would like to have Plante in the Senate to shape the Governor's program in the upper chamber of the Legislature.

And look for Congressman Gurney to "plug" for Plante tonight at the Republican rally at the Civic Center in Sanford. Because Gurney is going to need all the bright young men he can staff if he does come out for George Smathers' seat in the U.S. Senate next year.

Easter Bonnets Are Feminine, Vivid

By HELEN HENNESSY Women's Editor

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. NEW YORK —(NEA)—Even the girl who goes hatless all year-round would not be seen outdoors without her chapeau on Easter Sunday.

The story of this year's Easter bonnet is told in bright colors and light and airy materials. Flowers, chiffon, tissue-weight silks, Panama straws and airy crocheted straws are among the favorites.

You'll have your chance to flutter those lashes (real or store-bought) under your hat brim on that special Sunday in March.

Hats for this Easter day are very feminine. Concepts of design remain right in line with the total look—and the total look for spring is soft and more womanly than it has been in the past few seasons.

With more shaping in dresses and coats and with hats decked with chiffon and flowers, the feminine contingent in the Easter parade should come through with flying colors.

LOCAL, STATE, HOME AND FARM NEWS FOR AND ABOUT SEMINOLE COUNTY AND VICINITY.

FARM AND HOME

The Farm Front

By DOYLE CONNER
Commissioner of Agriculture
TALLAHASSEE — (Special to The Sanford Herald) — President Lyndon Johnson's First Annual National Farm Policy Conference held in Washington, D. C., was long on ideas but short on time. About 400 representatives of more than 30 farm organizations were invited by Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman to participate. I attended in behalf of the State of Florida and the National Association of State Departments of Agriculture.

The President asked Mr. Freeman to call the meeting so that he might become more aware of the complex problems facing this nation's agriculture industry.

We barely had time to scratch the surface. However, it was a good start. In fact, President Johnson termed the conference "successful and constructive."

He stated that "with virtually no government stocks on hand, with resale policies severely insulating the market from the negligible supplies in the United States, with the Federal Reserve's credit expansion, the government's role in the market has been sharply diminished. The market functions as it will, responding to private forces in the marketplace, recording dollars and cents variations as a consequence of supply and demand and quality conditions."

My position on the national farm policy has always been that it is fair, simply stated, and that the American farmer should be able to compete on an open market without controls and without unfair competition of agricultural imports. Competition is healthy for our economy and, certainly, it is welcomed by the homemaker when she shops for food and the other necessities of life. Competitive brands and prices, increased cost of living, higher implement prices, higher interest rates, and stable or lower prices for their farm commodities. I do hope there are some signs of hope for a substantial improvement in this situation.

"I can promise you that parity of income for farmers is and will be the goal of our agricultural policy. I believe there is a good future for farmers. In the past few years, the outlook has grown brighter."

Secretary Freeman reviewed the past six years of progress in Agriculture, pointing out the successes "that all that sufficed in 1961 when I came to Washington in 1961 was eliminated." He feels that the Food and Agriculture Act of 1965 and the Food for Freedom Program for 1966 are the tools—used wisely and prudently—to prevent another piling up of surpluses in the future, together with the downward pressure on the market that accompanies an over supply of commodities.

He stated that "with virtually no government stocks on hand, with resale policies severely insulating the market from the negligible supplies in the United States, with the Federal Reserve's credit expansion, the government's role in the market has been sharply diminished. The market functions as it will, responding to private forces in the marketplace, recording dollars and cents variations as a consequence of supply and demand and quality conditions."

Peach Trees Need Good Air, Drainage

GAINESVILLE (Sp.)—You probably take pride in those two or three orange trees in the backyard. But have you ever thought of growing peach trees?

Good air and water drainage are needed for these trees to grow and produce well, so don't choose a low spot where late spring frosts can damage them.

Peach buds which have begun the swell "will take temperatures as low as 20 degrees," according to Ralph Sharpe, a horticulturist with the Florida Agricultural Experiment Station.

There are chemical weed controls for peaches but probably the best way to keep down the weeds is to pull them yourself. If it's chemicals you want, try Casoron and Simazine. Both are probably available at a nursery or supply store.

Before your newly bought peach tree goes into the ground you ought to check the soil and make sure the pH is between 6.0 and 6.5. Your county agent's office will help here.

Those of you living in the western part of the state should use an 8-8-8 fertilizer for peninsular Florida, use about a 12-4-8 formulation. "All should have one or two percent zinc oxide equivalent when used on young trees," Sharpe says.

During the first year, apply fertilizer in a circular area 6 to 24 inches from the trunk at the rate of 1/2 lb. for each tree in February, 3/4 lb. in late May and 1/2 lb. in July.

For additional facts on growing peaches, check with the county agent's office and ask for Agricultural Experiment Station Circular 299 entitled "Peaches and Nectarines in Florida," written by Ralph Sharpe.

Non-Farm 4-H Members Outnumber Farmers

These girls and boys belong to community clubs, with 5,300 leaders and 1,670 other 4-H members serving as junior leaders.

One reason for the rapid increase of 4-H in the range of projects and activities being offered, says W. D. W. W. Brown, State 4-H Club leader. Club members from town and country can choose from projects in automotive, home economics, clothing, electric, home ownership, home, food, crafts, photography, and safety. Projects aimed primarily at farm youth cover field crops, beef, swine, tractor, and dairy.

4-H citizenship, community service, and public speaking projects offer opportunities for leadership.

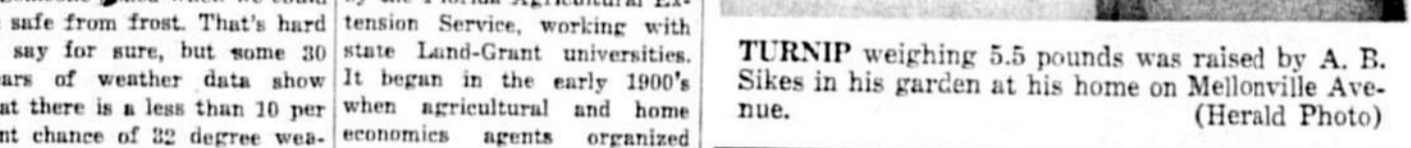

4-H is the youth phase of an educational program conducted by the Florida Agricultural Extension Service, working with state Land-Grant universities. It began in the early 1900's when agricultural and home economics agents organized corn and tomato clubs for farm youngsters as a way to introduce new farming and home-making practices to their parents. These informal groups were organized into 4-H clubs in 1914.

More than two and a quarter million American boys and girls between 10 and 18 look to 4-H for an opportunity to learn and grow.

Florida youth share in this opportunity.

For 40 years 4-H has been a vital educational force in rural America. In Florida, 4-H clubs have been active for 57 years. Brown points out.

I personally agree with Cooke on his championship prediction. The boys have the tools and all it takes is that extra something they will have to find along the way.

News And Views Of Agriculture

By CECIL A. TUCKER II
County Agricultural Agent
Old Grant Fruit finally found his way into the county last week and left his mark. Some of the older areas of the county, along the westside in particular, were hit harder than we thought at first.

There were over a hundred acres of pepper and eggplants planted already, which the cold wiped out completely. Fortunately, most of the seedlings came through with minor damage. The cold tipped the lettuce but there is still some harvesting continuing. Cabbage and celery, being quite hardy, and vegetables, came through with varying degrees of damage but in general with little damage except to quality.

Citrus tree damage varied according to the area. Some of the citrus already in bloom received damage to the bloom. Fortunately, we were not in the heaviest part of the time of the cold. Scattered groves can be seen which have leaves from new tender growth hanging brown—indicative of small twig damage. Fortunately, this is quite spotty. It appears we can expect much better than expected on damage to citrus trees.

Some of the hardest hit areas are homeowners' yards. Following a cold such as this usually brings up a rash of questions about what to do with their cold damaged ornamentals. For most ornamentals, the procedure would be to keep them adequately watered and to fertilize lightly. This only the most tender plants such as hibiscus, turks cap, etc. now if you do too much pruning now you may prune off more good wood than you should. Waiting a few weeks to prune will not hurt the plant.

Yardners' Corner

By CECIL A. TUCKER II
Seminole County Agricultural Agent

Have you been mistreating your shrubs and flowers lately? Many people are guilty of this. They buy fine plants and then consign them to a life of starvation, thirst, and attacks by insects and disease. Fertilization is probably the place where more people go wrong in the care of their ornamentals, as than any other.

We fertilize ornamentals to supply them with nutrients—the raw materials they use in their food manufacturing and growth processes. This, in turn, stimulates vegetative growth and flowering during the growing season, and root growth during dormant and growing seasons.

Timing is important in fertilization. Fertilize trees in early spring when growth starts; shrubs four applications per year in early spring, late spring, summer and early winter; annuals, perennials and biennials, one or two or three times during the growing season.

When fertilizing trees, use 2 lbs. of 16-0-0 or 6-0-6 fertilizer per inch of tree diameter for small trees—that is, those less than 6 inches in diameter. For large trees—over 6 inches—use 5 lbs. per inch of diameter.

Can Refram Pull Major Upset in Citrus Play?

The Sanford Herald March 10, 1967—Page 1A

J. RICHARDS ON DUFFERS AND DIVOTS

By J. RICHARDS

It's pretty hard to stay on the home course and play a round when something as big as the Orlando Florida Citrus Open golf tournament is in play at Rio Pinar. Activities at the various country clubs have been curtailed to give the members a chance to see the game of golf as it should be played.

For a fortunate few, the Citrus Open was once a chance to meet and talk with the pros. The guys who know the game inside out and exhibit the class and style of top golf. ALAN CLACK, a sophomore at Lyman High School, is one of the lucky few.

Alan, who is rated as the number one golfer on the Lyman team, had his wish come true Wednesday as he competed in the Citrus Open Pro-Am with Tommy Aaron as his pro.

Fletcher Ockell, the coach of the Lyman High golf team has a fine tip on how to concentrate on keeping a steady head while taking your rap at the ball.

"I find that golfers need to focus on some particular spot as they address the ball in order to maintain a steady head, which is one of the most important aspects of the shot."

"A perfect spot to center your attention is the brand name or the number of your ball. Turn the ball until the dots are in the center of your vision and then, if you concentrate on that spot, you should have a better swing."

Fletcher named Alan Clack as his top golfer and stated that if the young duffer continues his play he will probably be the top Lyman golfer for his three-year tenure on the team.

Charles Haley and Walter Shepard, both seniors, shot in the mid-40s with possible games in the lower brackets and should come around more towards the end of the season.

Floyd Williams will probably round out the top foursome right now and his play is steadily improving. In fact, the whole team's play is coming into shape as they lowered their scores by 10 strokes in the span of two matches.

Donnie Smith is in the middle of changing over his stroke. He should come back to the low 40s soon and regain his starting berth.

Overall, the Lyman team probably won't set the links on fire. However, they have good possibilities for the coming years with three sophomores on the squad. If they come through, Lyman's future is bright.

Winter Park Knocks Off Lyman Nine

A towering home run by Sid Cash ignited a five-run fifth inning outburst by Winter Park which knocked off Lyman 7-4 triumph over Lyman in the Greyhounds' season opener at Cooper Field in Casselberry.

The two-inning game was the Park first baseman erased a 3-2 Lyman lead and helped to ruin Lyman coach Jim Payne's hopes for his 21st consecutive day opening victory.

The visiting Wildcats took a 2-0 lead in the second inning of the contest when short stop John Beasley drove in a pair of runs with a line single through the pitcher's box.

The Greyhounds knotted the score in the bottom of the frame when Brent Helms plated Jim Lucas and George Milwee with a two-run single down the right field foul line.

The Wildcats, however, erupted for five runs in the fifth to wrap up the victory.

Lyman outbit the Wildcats 9-8 in the contest. Paulsen, with a walk, a single, and a home run, and three HR's, paced the Hound attack. John Beasley lapped three singles and Beasley knocked in four runs for Winter Park.

The Greyhounds will play a pair of home games this week, entertaining Bishop Moore at Cooper field Sunday and meeting County rival Oviedo on Saturday. Coach Payne has stated Brewer as a probable starter this evening with Under on the hill tomorrow against the Lions.

Saints Get Picks

NEW YORK (AP)—The New Orleans Saints will get the most picks, despite several trades, and the pro championship Green Bay Packers will be next in number, because of earlier trades, when the American and National football leagues hold their first combined draft next week.
