Humane Society Faces Mass Resignations

By Brad Church
Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County Humane Society board will attempt to reorganize tonight, faced with the resignation of its entire slate of officers and three members of its animal shelter staff.

Outgoing president JoAnne Gates was on the job her last day Monday, and today newly reinstated former co-executive director Barbara Woodall took over as acting director of the animal shelter, located on Old County Home Road.

Gates announced her resignation last month, along with board secretary Clydene Rauch and attorney William Sheaffer. Also resigning effective Monday was board treasurer Carol Sheaffer.

The officers resigned following a board meeting at which members amended the organization's by-laws allowing a majority vote of board members, rather than the president, to appoint new members. Following the by-law amendment, former president Helen Wolk and Woodall were appointed to the board.

Gates said shelter staff members Coleen Chamberlain, assistant manager; Mary Guerrero, who is in charge of cats at the shelter; receptionist Joyce Goodreau, and bookkeeper-office manager Phyllis Benson have also resigned. Goodreau's resignation is effective Dec. 15 and Benson has agreed to stay on the job through the end of this week to handle the month's payroll duties, Gates said.

Gates said her attempts to hold a meeting before today in an attempt to work out dissent among board members was unsuccessful.

"I think for the good of the organization, and the animal shelter, it is best that I step aside," she said.

Gates became president of the organization last July after the resignation of Wolk and Woodall. She said she agreed to take the job because board members decided they needed some "new blood" running the organization. However, she added, when faced with it, former officers didn't want to give up their authority.

Gates said she did not change the policies

Shooting Suspect Jailed, Victim In Serious State

A 17-year-old Sanford boy is hospitalized today with a gunshot wound to the head. The 19-year-old Sanford man accused of wounding him at about 7:31 p.m. Monday remained jailed today on a charge of attempted murder.

James Davis of 14 Cowan Moughton Terrace was airlifted to Orlando Regional Medical Center, Orlando, where today he was reported to be in serious condition. The man who allegedly fired a single shot into Davis' forehead in a confrontation near 16 Cowan Moughton Terrace, Van Meter Prison Jr., of 47 Lake Monroe Terrace, was arrested at 7:38 p.m. at the scene by Sanford police.

A witness to the shooting, James DeLafield, told police that he and Davis were trying to get money from the suspect, which he said was theirs. During the confrontation

Schools Face $3 Million Cut

Funds Loss Affects Construction

By Brian Hedberg
Herald Staff Writer

If a major shortfall becomes a reality in the state fund for building and maintaining public school facilities in Florida, Seminole County schools will have to tighten their belts and cut back on needed new construction, said a county school official.

School officials are operating on the basis that state funds will be cut 75 percent, from $3.5 million to about $700,000 to $750,000, said Carey Ferrell, assistant superintendent of business and finance for Seminole County schools.

"Right now, we're just planning on what we've been told," Ferrell said. "We're not spending any money until we have it in hand."

The brunt of the state funding cuts will be absorbed by bond revenues coming into the county, so that the county will experience an overall 8 percent cut in funding, working with $120 million instead of $130 million, Ferrell said.

"If it were not for the bond issue we passed three years ago, we'd be wiped out," he said.

The ongoing debate over the services tax is complicating efforts to resolve a major shortfall in the state fund for building and maintaining facilities at Florida public schools.

Lawmakers might have to pump extra money into the Public Education Capital Outlay fund. The effort to find that money is made no easier by the debate over the services tax — which may be repealed in a special session next week.

"The services tax could be used in the future to shore this up," Ferrell said, but he said the major funding for the school system stems from gross receipts tax on utilities. Both this year and last year, mild winters and conservation efforts have made for low utility maintenance and usage, meaning lower gross receipts tax revenues.

During public hearings Monday, some members of the House Appropriations subcommittee on Education indicated they will be creating the Education Trust Fund — the primary source of funds from the state lottery — for a short-term solution to the facilities crunch.

That would launch the lawmakers on a collision course with Commissioner of Education Betty Castor, but they will find support from the

Port Authority Gets Quorum, Approves Storage Tank Lease

By Brad Church
Herald Staff Writer

A three-month lease for a storage tank in the Seminole County Port Authority's tank farm has the potential of becoming a longer term lease for several tanks, the authority's board of directors was told Monday.

The board approved the lease agreement with Chemfleet Chemical, Ltd., of Ontario, Canada for three months at a payment of $2,000 per month. Dennis Dolgner, administrator of the port, said the company is expanding into Florida and testing the market here for isopropyl alcohol. It has an option to lease the tank for another three months at the same price, or signing a year's lease at the regular price of $1,155 per month.

Dolgner said Chemfleet is a large company which handles a variety of chemicals and is very interested in leasing additional storage tanks, possibly all of the five tanks in Phase I of the tank farm. Two larger tanks in Phase II of the tank farm are presently leased and Chemfleet is the second customer signed to a lease since the port converted from petroleum to non-petroleum chemical storage.

Although the port must pay 40 percent of its income from the tank farm to its consultant which manages it, the short-term lease is still very profitable, Dolgner said. Costs to convert the tank, including new piping, is about $1,000, and the construction of new docking facilities cost about another $1,000, but those facilities will be able to handle two additional chemicals when additional tanks are

Authority Wants To Enlarge

After trying three times to get a quorum, the Seminole County Port Authority finally held its November meeting Monday at the last day of the month. The issue was setting up the authority's revenue to be used to build a tank farm.

Authority members decided the problem of coming up with 50 percent of the cost of the tank farm was not by law, it was by contract. The contract was made and signed to all the county's legislative delegates to the spring session of the Florida Legislature to increase the board's membership to 10.

If there are nine members and the number for a quorum is 10, the members must call a meeting when a quorum can attend.

The November meeting was originally scheduled for 4 p.m. Nov. 18 at the port authority meeting room. Its actual time was 10 a.m. When fewer than five members were able to attend, the meeting was rescheduled for Nov. 24, 10 a.m. time and place. This time the meeting was held, but a quorum was not present so no business could be conducted.

The meeting was rescheduled again for Monday, the last day of the month, at noon in a hallway in meeting room and a quorum was present.

Board members are appointed by the county commissioners. One member by law is a commissioner and sets a liaison between the port

Grand Jury Hears 6

By Richard Whittaker
Herald Staff Writer

An 18-member grand jury met Monday for the second time this month as it continues its probe into alleged illegal activities connected with the purchase of 2,867 acres at Yankee Lake by the Seminole County Commission for $7.5 million.

The grand jury heard testimony from six witnesses throughout Monday, according to Stephen Kunz, assistant to Jacksonville State Attorney Ed Austin, who was assigned by Gov. Bob Martinez to be the special prosecutor in the case.

Witnesses included:

- Frank Faison, Sanford city manager.
- Brad Lang, Seminole County finance director.
- Stewart Hudson, Florida Department of Law Enforcement investigator assigned to the case.
- Mary Mantzaris, an aide to County Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff.

—Pat Warren, an aide to County Commissioner Barbara Christensen.

—Pat Wall, a county clerk. Sanford Utilities Director Paul Moore showed up at the grand jury waiting room Monday, but was never called to testify.

Kunz said Hudson was a witness because he is helping the state in its investigation of the case. Hudson was in the grand jury room for about 2 1/2 hours.

Hudson and the rest of the witnesses could not comment on their testimony. Kunz said all witnesses that appear before a grand jury are briefed thoroughly on what they can and can't do after they testify.

The Seminole County Commission bought the land from

Clarification

It was incorrectly reported in a Sanford Herald story Monday that a shooting victim in Sanford was denied treatment at Central Florida Regional Hospital, Sanford, on Aug. 11.

Luray Demair Aikens of Sanford was shot several times, including once in the head, and admitted to CFRH Aug. 11 where he was stabilized until he could be transferred to a hospital in Jacksonville where he died the following day. CFRH did not refuse Aikens medical treatment. Aikens was in need of a neurosurgeon, and the neurosurgeon who treated such patients in emergencies at CFRH had weeks earlier said he no longer would do so because of the high risks of malpractice suits accompanying such cases.

Monday's story came after the man accused of shooting Aikens was arrested in another county on separate charges. The Herald regrets the error.

Pioneer Family Holds Reunion

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

Orville and Alice Bryant and their children moved to Longwood in 1884 and 28 of their descendants returned to the city Saturday in search of their roots. In the process they donated some of their prized family heirlooms to the Seminole County Historical Museum.

They came to Seminole County from Alabama, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Florida for the first family reunion in 27 years — since the death of the Bryant's son, Guy.

The Bryant family held a reception at the museum and presented Curator Lorraine Whiting with a guitar, which had belonged to Rob Bryant, son of Orville and Alice; a sharpening wheel which used to be on the back porch of the home near the old cemetery where they are buried; and postcards sent to Alice's cousin, who was the wife of Longwood's founder Edward Hencke.

Whiting said, "We are delighted to have these things. I'm especially interested in the guitar, which was used by Rob Bryant, a man who actually lived in the museum building in the 40s and 50s when it served as the County Home. He would sit on people's porches and play the guitar for food and drink. According to his family his job at the home was to take care of the cows. They said there was a feeling of family for those who lived at the old folks' home. He died in the home and is buried in Longwood."

The guitar has names scratched on the side. The kinfolks gathered at the behest of the family historian Russell Bryant, professor of British and European History at the University of Alabama, who corresponded for a year with the various family branches coaxing them to get together for the big event. Still not all of the relatives were able to come on the chosen date.

Russell, the great-grandson of Orville and Alice, has also traced the family tree back to the 17th Century. It was discovered that a couple at the reunion recently celebrated their 54th anniversary, which he said was the all-time family record.

The youngest family member present was 3-year-old Charles Robert Bryant, great-great-great-grandson of Orville and Alice, and the oldest was Russell's father and Rob

NATION IN BRIEF

Court Rejects Appeals From Death Row Prisoners

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Six death row prisoners are the latest condemned convicts to lose their appeals to the Supreme Court. Including two who raised the same constitutional questions currently under review in pending cases.

The court refused to hear an appeal Monday from Nevada inmate John Snow, who challenged the idea that the same aggravating circumstance cited in his 1983 murder conviction could be used to sentence him to die. In October, the court heard the same question in another case, the unresolved Lowenfield vs. Phelps.

Also Monday, the justices refused to hear an appeal from Texas inmate Robert Carter, who challenged the constitutionality of executing juvenile offenders — the same point being considered in the much-publicized Thompson vs. Oklahoma.

Carter, who was 17 at the time of the crime, received the death sentence for killing an 18-year-old cashier during the 1981 holdup of a Texas gas station.

Gorbachev: SDI In Progress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev chose his first American television interview to acknowledge that Russian researchers are working just like the United States to develop a "Star Wars" type of missile defense.

The Kremlin chief nonetheless asserted in the interview broadcast Monday that there are "real prospects" for progress toward reducing longer-range nuclear arsenals in his talks with President Reagan next week in Washington — a summit in which they expect to sign a treaty eliminating intermediate-range missiles.

Gorbachev, speaking for an hour with NBC News, provided perhaps the clearest evidence yet to support U.S. statements that the Soviet Union is working hard on a project akin to "Star Wars," the Strategic Defense Initiative.

Reagan Defends Deficit Pact

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It would be "a calamity" if new negotiations beginning today in the Senate Finance Committee seriously alter an agreement between congressional and White House bargainers to cut $76 billion from the deficit, President Reagan insists.

The committee is responsible for recommending ways to raise $23 billion in new taxes during the next two years.

Its proposals will go to the full Senate for a vote and later become the subject of yet another round of negotiations with the House aimed at drafting final legislation to implement the overall deficit reduction agreement.

Robbers Stage Weekend Attack On Sanford Man

By Nancy Simmons
Herald Staff Writer

A Sanford man told city police he was assaulted and robbed by several assailants Saturday at about 8:38 p.m., at 3rd Street and Olive Avenue. Napper said he was stopped in his vehicle by a black male who had a steel blue handgun and allowed other assailants into the vehicle.

Terry Napper, 31, told police that he escaped from the car and fled to a nearby house where he called the police. He had no description of the suspects. He did say they had taken a camera, keys and a key ring, and cash, valued at $118 from him.

A Sanford woman has told city police that Saturday at about 10:30 a.m. a juvenile tried to hold her up outside her home at 612 Elm Ave.

Pamela J. Douglas told police that the youth approached her, riding a bicycle and started asking her all kinds of questions. Then, after he asked her several times for 50 cents, and she kept refusing, he attempted to grab her gold necklace. She yelled for her husband, who was inside the house. The suspect then fled.

Douglas told police the suspect was about five-feet two, with black wavy hair to the shoulders, and that he was wearing a tank top and shorts.

Other investigations include: ●Edwin Otis Bryant of 1102 W. 3rd St. told police that at 3:10 p.m. Friday, two or three black males came up behind him and took a hundred dollar bill from him.

He told police the suspects kicked and beat him and then fled on foot through nearby woods. The incident happened at 6th Street and Avocado Avenue.

●Michael A. Kennerly, 30, of 1204 W. 11th St., told police that sometime over the weekend prior to 9:15 a.m. Saturday, someone had entered his residence and taken two VCR's, a portable 19-inch TV set and approximately 12 video tapes, values totaling $400. The suspect(s) apparently entered and exited the residence through an unlocked rear door.

Wounded In Hand

Victim Shot Twice During Robbery

Thanksgiving weekend spawned a series of unrelated robberies and holdups, with one robbery resulting in the victim being shot twice in his hand, according to Sanford City Police Department reports.

Richard Sandkulla, 25, of 609 E. 29th St. told police that at about 5:30 p.m. Sunday, a black male, probably a juvenile and about five-feet-six, approached him by bicycle while he (Sandkulla) was in his car at 5th Street and Olive Avenue. Sandkulla said the man asked him if he wanted to buy some cocaine and he said no.

The juvenile then pulled out a black handgun, and told Sandkulla to give him his money. Instead, Sandkulla put his right hand on the gun and the suspect shot him twice, before he could pull away.

The boy fled on his bike, and it wasn't until then that Sandkulla realized he'd been shot, he told police, who met him at the Central Florida Regional Hospital emergency room. Sandkulla was treated and released.

When police examined the car, they found a .22 caliber bullet, under the right side of the back seat.

Sandkulla said the juvenile appeared to be about 16-18 years old, and that he was wearing a yellow tank top. The assailant's bike was red.

In another incident, about 6 p.m. Saturday, an unidentified white male, held up a clerk at the Chevron Gas Station at 3001

Orlando Drive. Witnesses said the robber came into the station, removed a paper bag from his right pocket and advised the clerk to put all the money into the bag. He said this was a holdup and that he had a gun. However, neither of the two witnesses saw the gun.

After he had been given the money, $683, he made the clerk and another witness get down on the floor until he left on foot.

No arrests have been made at this time, however, the clerk at the gas station told police the suspect was about 5'8", weighing about 160 lb. and that he was wearing red or maroon framed sunglasses which had mirrored lenses. He also was wearing a maroon and gray tank top and baggy blue jeans.

In another Saturday incident, a black male, forcibly entered the residence of Vonda F. Howard, 27, 2600 Georgia Ave., at 9:04 p.m. by knocking down the front door. He was armed with a sawed off shotgun.

He reportedly came there to assault Clarence Ford, who was visiting his brother Jerome Bingham at this residence. Earlier that day, the assailant and Ford had fought, according to the report. When the assailant returned 15 minutes later, he kicked the door open and made threats. Bingham grabbed the barrel of the gun and tried to wrestle it from the man.

The suspect then knocked Bingham to the floor, witnesses said, and then fled. He was seen leaving in an a blue AMC Concord, with a white male.

Police said the suspect has not been arrested, but that the victim knows him and that charges are being filed with the state attorney's office.

Fishing Gear Stolen

An estimated $900 in fishing gear was stolen from a Lake Mary residence this past week, according to a Lake Mary police report.

Horace Hyatt, 35, of 147 W. Wilbur Ave., reported that he found his rear garage window open upon his return. Sometime between 3:30 p.m. Nov. 24 and 2:30 p.m. Nov. 27, one or more burglars removed the fishing equipment from his garage, he said.

Hyatt said that several teenagers had been allowed inside the quarters during his absence and that one had keys to his house.

Removed were a saltwater tackle box; two deep-sea fishing rods and reels with line.

No Quick Fixes In South Africa

The debate over disinvestment and sanctions against South Africa is heating up again in Congress. Should America increase economic pressure against the white regime — or abandon sanctions?

For those of us who supported economic sanctions, now may be a time to assess their effect on the complex reality of South Africa.

Helen Suzman, the grand old woman of parliamentary opposition in South Africa, speaks out against sanctions.

"I understand America's moral outrage," said Suzman, a diminutive, white-haired woman with the determination of a lioness. "I share it. I have fought apartheid longer than anyone. ... I voted against every single measure which abrogated the rule of law. But I don't believe in punitive measures which will hurt the economy. Divine retribution is not selective. It hurts those whom you want to help."

It hurts blacks, who have lost their jobs, Suzman contends. It also hurt her party, which lost its place as the official opposition, outvoted by a right-wing extremist party. She says disinvestment has meant that American firms have turned over businesses "at fire-sale" prices to South African whites who continue to manufacture the same products, but are not held to the Sullivan principles. The result is that blacks are not only losing jobs but power.

What should Americans do?

"Getting rid of apartheid is our common cause," Suzman said. "Strategy is at issue. Use all positive measures to continue to protest apartheid. But I cannot support counterproductive measures. The problems of South Africa must be solved by the people of South Africa — all the people." Positive measures include supporting black trade unions and pressuring American firms to stay in South Africa and serve as role models.

Suzman's views are difficult for supporters of sanctions to hear. They challenge our belief in the effectiveness of international economic and political pressure to promote change in South Africa through peaceful means. They also wound our pride that, somehow, America can bring light to a regime that is bent on maintaining a reign of repression on the black majority.

Americans see the suffering of the people of the black townships. We want instant retribution against white racists and instant transformation of South African society along American lines.

But there are no "quick fixes" to South Africa's problems, Suzman cautions. If sanctions continue, she says, "I foresee more urban violence. More oppression. A confident white government opposed by a mass movement. A protracted stalemate."

Suzman dreams of a South Africa where all adults can vote, where the majority rules, but where the minority has rights and protections. We share this dream. So far, it's a rhetorical glimmering in a nightmare of police bullets and mass funerals, where the air reeks of burning tire "necklaces" and black children are detained in prison without rights.

While Suzman speaks out against sanctions, Bishop Desmond Tutu, the Nobel laureate, and other black leaders are speaking out eloquently for further sanctions and an economic boycott. Americans must also consider their pleas. The test should be pragmatic: What is better for peace and equality among blacks and whites in South Africa? Not what is better for assuaging consciences in America.

Summit Preparations Scrambling Along

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Summit fever is rising in Washington.

Officials are scrambling to find out how it was done before, when Nikita Khrushchev visited the United States in 1959 when Dwight Eisenhower was president and in 1973 when Leonid Brezhnev came to Washington for a summit meeting with President Richard Nixon.

Planning for the visit of Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev Dec. 7-10 is on a crash basis with much to be arranged, and all by mutual agreement.

Skittish congressional leaders decided against what they thought would be the political risks of inviting Gorbachev to address a joint session of Congress — an interesting development since American presidents have always urged Moscow to open up its channels of communication to permit American leaders to address the Soviet people.

There will be substantive talks for two days between President Reagan and Gorbachev, who will be flanked by their top advisers. There will be a ceremonial welcoming ceremony and a state dinner for about 120 guests with the invitations extremely coveted.

There is no doubt that many former secretaries of state, especially Henry Kissinger, who have negotiated in the past with the Russians on arms agreements, would love to be invited and may be.

Although he rarely makes an exception with other visiting heads of state, the Reagans will attend a reciprocal dinner at the Soviet Embassy.

The visit of Khrushchev was memorable since it marked the beginning of an era of coexistence. Thousands of persons, including the government workers who had been given a couple of hours off, lined the parade route into Washington, hoping to catch a look at the Russian leader who had denounced Josef Stalin.

But unforgettable on that parade route was the deadly silence that greeted the Russian motorcade as it moved slowly down Pennsylvania Avenue. Curiosity and hostility dominated the mixed feelings that day.

No sooner will the summit fanfare be over and the White House will plunge into Christmas festivities.

Although she is still recovering from breast cancer surgery, the first lady is forging ahead with a full calendar of traditional events, including the closing of the White House for the weekend of Dec. 12-13 to decorate it.

The theme of the decor will be kept secret as always until the press preview on Dec. 14. Late in the afternoon, the first lady will be hostess at the traditional first party in honor of the children of the diplomatic corps.

After that the Reagans will touch base with a series of Christmas parties, including a ball for members of Congress, receptions for the press, Cabinet, White House staff, Secret Service and White House police as well as the household staff.

As is customary, the Reagans are adapting an original painting of a White House scene for their Christmas card and enlarged copies as their souvenir Christmas gifts which recipients always have framed.

Foreign Lobbying Scandal

WASHINGTON — The scandal of foreign lobbying of Congress and the Executive at long last is beginning to receive the attention it deserves. There is a growing realization that the U.S. government is being manipulated by lobbyists for foreign firms and their American subsidiaries.

Sen. Dan Quayle (R-Ind.) has asked the U.S. Department of Commerce to investigate the impact of a senior administration official's "personal ambitions" may have had on the Market-Oriented Sector-Specific (MOSS) talks with the Japanese on automotive parts.

Sen. Quayle wants the Department to determine whether the action of Robert Watkins, who was an assistant secretary of commerce for automotive affairs, may have undermined the U.S. negotiating position during those talks.

Watkins has resigned following disclosure that he had asked Japanese car manufacturers to consider hiring him as a lobbyist. According to The Washington Post, Watkins wrote to Japanese auto manufacturers, including Mazda, Toyota and Nissan, urging them to hire him to form a trade association to represent their interests against "protectionist and xenophobic" U.S. policies. A House subcommittee has started an investigation of this case.

A far-reaching probe is needed. It should cover the entire range of activities designed to serve foreign interests in legislative activities and Executive decision-making. The National Journal recently devoted a major article to foreign lobbying. It reported that a mid-1986 survey found at least 92 political action committees, sponsored by corporations, in which a foreign investor held a substantial percentage of the stock. It pointed out that foreign companies are becoming more and more involved in the American process.

Prof. Susan J. Tolchin of George Washington University, the author of a forthcoming book on foreign influence buying, was quoted as saying that senators have told her that they cannot take an independent position on trade legislation because of the extent of foreign investment in their states.

National Journal disclosed that this year's trade bill has brought out an unprecedented number of lobbyists. For example, Japanese electronics manufacturers formed a new trade association to lobby on the issue.

The American people should insist that investigations be carried out and the law revised to prevent the manipulation of our government.

A Manhattan Tree

NEW YORK (NEA) — Quite small and without any substantial vegetation, the two parks adjoining the Tudor City apartments here aren't much in comparison with the great recreational areas elsewhere in the country.

Situated across the street from each other, the half-acre parks sit astride 42nd Street near its intersection with First Avenue. Less than a block to the east towers the U.N. General Assembly Building.

Indeed, the twin parks are surrounded by skyscrapers that block out the sun and make growth a struggle for the few trees, shrubs and other plants on the property. Although there are patches of grass, much of the ground is barren.

Still, the parks are an oasis in a desert of asphalt and concrete and provide a respite from the city's hustle and bustle — and what makes them very special is their ownership status.

They are owned not by any government parks agency but by a private land trust established with the assistance of the Trust for Public Land, a San Francisco-based organization that specializes in "acquiring and preserving open space to serve human needs."

Like other conservation organizations, TPL has saved endangered property in the country's sparsely settled regions. In recent years, it has helped to preserve land in Florida's Apalachicola Bay, Montana's National Bison Range, New Mexico's Pecos Wilderness and similar sites.

But the non-profit organization is equally active in major metropolitan areas. "While we work to protect wilderness and to keep land in agricultural production," explains TPL President Martin J. Rosen, "we devote equal attention to maintaining and creating urban open spaces."

The group has done conservation work in Seattle, San Francisco, Cleveland — and even midtown Manhattan. "If you can do it in New York, you can do it anywhere," says Lisa Cashden, TPL's land acquisition specialist here.

TPL typically acts as an intermediary between those seeking to or willing to dispose of property (usually wealthy individuals or corporations) and public agencies to whom the land eventually will be transferred.

In 14 years, TPL has completed 376 projects in 29 states. It has preserved 345,000 acres of land and conveyed $269 million worth of property to public agencies.

TPL's professionals specialize in encouraging land owners to donate the property or sell it below market price to maximize the tax advantages (often in the form of charitable deductions) to the land owners.

The community parks along 42nd Street date back to the late 1920s and early 1930s when they were incorporated into the original Tudor City development that today houses 7,500 people in nine apartment houses.

When the complex was sold in 1972, the new owner announced plans to build additional apartment houses on the park sites — a proposal that infuriated neighborhood residents and touched off a 15-year legal battle.

After Tudor City was sold again last year, TPL helped rescue the parks, which were valued at $40 million. With the cooperation of the new co-owner, Time Equities, a new land trust known as Tudor City Greens was established to preserve and protect the parks in perpetuity.

TPL also convinced Time Equities to provide $1 million for legal costs, short-term rehabilitation and long-term maintenance.

The Year Of The Skeleton

By Arnold Sawilak
UPI Senior Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — We are approaching the season for the selection of the people who made the biggest news of the year. For 1987, this corner nominates The Skeleton In The Closet as the runaway newsmaker of the year.

Before setting down the argument for this candidate, attribution is called for: This idea originated with several colleagues, including Mike Tully, Dan Chiszar and Tom Ferraro.

The foregoing may be designated as the Biden Disclaimer, and it also serves as a good start on introducing the Skeleton, which came out of the closet in many forms in 1987.

For Sen. Joe Biden of Delaware, it emerged in the guise of his own law school record and someone else's words. The senator was off to a passable start as a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination when someone noticed echoes in some of the more elegant phrases in a couple of his speeches.

Echoes they were — of the unattributed very words of British Labor Party leader Neil Kinnock and of Robert Kennedy. As it turned out, this was not a new Skeleton for the senator — he had the same problem years before with a law school paper.

For former Sen. Gary Hart, the Skeleton stalked a townhouse on Capitol Hill and a cabin cruiser anchored off Bimini. The odd feature of this episode was that Hart, the consensus leader for the Democratic nomination, invited reporters to poke around in his closet to disprove oft-repeated rumors of playboyism. They did and what they found sent him back to Denver.

An even bigger Skeleton came out of the closet of television evangelist Jim Bakker. This one dragged with it an aggrieved church secretary, and behind her came an air-conditioned doghouse, several luxury cars and houses and a debt of a size to rival The Mount on which The Sermon was delivered.

Bakker wept, but not nearly as copiously as his fellow TV preachers, whose revenues followed Bakker's career down the tubes.

One such who gave up his electronic pulpit in 1987 was Pat Robertson, who took aim on what Theodore Roosevelt called "the bully pulpit" of the presidency.

The Skeleton came off the "wild oats" shelf of his closet, where it developed he embarked on the road to fatherhood without first passing through the gate of marriage.

Cheap Airfares Cost Taxpayers A Bundle

By Jack Anderson
And Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — The average cost of an airline ticket out of the Manitowoc, Wis., airport is $89 — plus $515 in taxpayer subsidy.

This lopsided arrangement is the result of yet another well-intended federal program that went a little haywire: the Essential Air Service Program. It was passed by Congress 10 years ago to ease the hardship inflicted by the Airline Deregulation Act on rural communities.

The idea was to have a 10-year "phased transition" to free-market air service. Airlines would be subsidized to provide scheduled service to rural airports until the flights somehow became self-supporting in the new era of deregulation.

In its first year of operation, the law subsidized air service to 202 communities in the continental United States, at a total cost of $71 million. Unlike most federal programs, Essential Air Service has actually shrunk in the years since. As of Jan. 1, 1987, only 102 communities were getting the subsidized service, and the cost to the taxpayers was $21 million. The number of passengers on the subsidized flights had dropped by 54 percent since 1978.

A Department of Transportation analysis, obtained by our reporter Frank Byrt, estimates that if subsidies were ended entirely, about 70 of the 102 communities would be without air service. Of those 70, the report notes, 43 served fewer than five passengers a day and 33 were within 75 highway miles of an airport with scheduled, unsubsidized flights. One was only 16 miles from such an airport.

Take Manitowoc: Its little airport is 39 freeway miles from Green Bay's, and is within reasonable driving distance from Milwaukee's. Regular bus, train and limousine service can take a passenger from Manitowoc to either airport for as little as $11. But the EAS subsidy to the airline that serves Manitowoc is $371,000 a year, and the airline carries two passengers a day on average, five days a week. So every passenger who flies out of Manitowoc costs the taxpayers, on average, almost six times as much as the price of the airline ticket.

There were several cases, according to the DOT report, where the federal subsidy was more than $1,000 a day to provide air service for one or two passengers a day. In each of those cases, the subsidized airport was barely an hour's drive from a larger airport.

The Senate has passed a bill that would extend the program for another 10 years and eliminate the subsidy for any airport within 50 highway miles of a bigger one; the House version calls for a 35-mile limit. The matter will be resolved in conference.

Sen. James Exon, D-Neb., thinks that people aren't taking the subsidized flights because of inferior service. So he proposed an amendment that requires "enhanced service" — airplanes with at least 15 seats, with two pilots, two engines and a six-day-a-week schedule. He would also expand the program to any community willing to pay 50 percent of the cost.

The Congressional Budget Office has estimated that the cost of continuing the EAS subsidy for another 10 years — without the Exon provisions — will be $357 million to $443 million. The improvements in quality that Exon proposes would add $100 million to $150 million to that.

Exon, whose state gets $1.5 million a year of the subsidies, said: "Anything we ever do around here, of course, can be second-guessed. ... Rather than dwell on the negative, however, I think we should dwell on the positive aspects of the program."

SHS: A Look Back

1970: Awesome Seminole High Goes 11-0

Note — This is the first of two parts on Seminole High football in the last 25 years. Today: the 1970 undefeated team, probably the best ever at SHS.

By Chris Flater
Herald Sports Writer

Seminole High has had its share of ups and downs on the gridiron in the past 25 years. In both 1962 and '79, Seminole had unbeaten squads. This year, the Tribe has won the school's first ever region championship.

Of all the teams at SHS, though, the most powerful and most prolific was that of the 11-0, 1970 team of coach Tom Perrin and assistants Jerry Posey and Wayne Epps.

"That was physically the most awesome bunch we've ever had," Epps, now SHS Principal, said. "It was so well-balanced and we had 30 to 35 real quality players. The guys on the bench would have started any other year. It was a great collection of talent."

The year 1970 was one of transition in Sanford for the community, school and the football team.

It was the year the racial barriers in Sanford were finally torn down as Crooms High School closed and Seminole High was integrated for the first time. There was much tension at SHS, but it could have been worse had it not been for one

Football

"One reason that the 1970 season was so rewarding was all the students saw how the team got along together and it brought us together as a student body."

— Tommy Barks

special year on the football field.

"We had our share of racial fights and even had the school closed a few times," Tommy Barks, who quarterbacked the 1970 team, said. "It could have been a real bad situation, but I think us having such a good year kept it from getting worse."

"That's one reason that it was so rewarding," added Barks. "All the students saw how well we got along together on the football field and it helped bring us together as a student body."

While the school went through its biggest and most important changes ever, the integration also had an impact on the destiny of the football team. Before the Crooms High students went to SHS, the Tribe, originally a Class 3A school, had already made up its football schedule and would face mostly 3A opponents. With the addition of the Crooms students, though, Seminole was considered a 4A school when it came to the playoffs.

"It was a real strange system they had to determine who went to the playoffs," Epps said. "It wasn't just you win the district and go to the playoffs. They had a point system where you got so many points for beating a school your size or bigger and lesser points for beating a smaller school. The team with the most points at the end of the year went to the playoffs."

Since Seminole had already finalized its schedule, it was forced to play against smaller schools. The 'Noles rolled over everything in their path en route to a 10-0 regular-season record. In the points standings though, Orlando Oak Ridge, (9-1 record), won out as it played more Class 4A schools.

"It was very disappointing because we wanted to get into the playoffs," Barks, now an anesthetist at Central Florida Regional Hospital, said. "I believe we were one 4A opponent short of making the playoffs. But we had no idea we would be 4A when the season started."

The 1970 season saw Seminole High average 40 points per game while surrendering only 6 or 7. That included two games where the 'Noles scored 60 or more points, one a 67-12 victory.

Seminole went on to the Orlando Sentinel Bowl where it lost to Orlando Edgewater, 23-20, on a last-second field goal, but Edgewater later had to forfeit the game because of an ineligible player.

That game against Edgewater was on of Barks' most memorable though as he completed 14 of 24 passes for 304 yards and two touchdowns and won the Most Valuable Player trophy.

Barks threw for over 1,200 yards and had 20 touchdown passes for the season and he had some glue-fingered receivers in Tommy Whigham, Ricky Nesmith, Ronnie Howell, Johnny Holt and Chris Malbie.

"It was easy to be a quarterback on that team because we had such a good running game," Barks said. "We had four guys who ran for over 700 yards. I think we averaged close to 500 yards per game total offense."

Linebacker Mike Hardin was the recipient of the Peter Schaal award that year while Barks won the Buddy Lawson Offensive Player award.

Perhaps the top two players on the team, though, were Dallas Brown and Clifford Martin. Brown, a 280-pound tight end, and Martin, an outstanding defensive back and running back, were both High School All-American selections.

"It was just an awesome team," Epps said. "We really haven't had an entire team of physical specimens like we had in 1970."

Red Lobster Regatta: A Gala Event

Are you a sailing enthusiast? Well here is the Premier sailing event of the year. More than 400 boats in 30 classes are expected to compete in the 1987 Red Lobster Cup sailing regatta. This gala event, the largest all-class sailing regatta in the nation, will take place on Dec. 4-5 on Lake Monroe off of Sanford.

This year, as in years past, this event will draw Olympic and world class sailors from all over the country as well as many from other parts of the world. This exciting event kicks off an exciting month of Florida Citrus Bowl sports events benefiting Shriners Hospitals.

The highlight of the event will be the Race of Champions, pitting some of the world's top sailors against each other on identically prepared boats. The new Hunter 26.5 will be featured in the monohull Race of Champions and the catamaran class will again use a Hobie catamaran.

Among the celebrity sailors competing in the regatta will be:

Steve Benjamin, a 1984 silver medalist in the 470 class. Steve's long history of sailing includes titles such as the Collegiate Sailor of the Year in 1978, two-time Fireball World Champion, 505 World Champion and top helmsman in the 1983 Admiral's Cup.

Dick Tillman, a Rolex Yachtsman of the Year with a string of seven Laser, Finn and North American titles to his name. He and his wife Linda are the officers in charge of the J-24 class.

Carlton Tucker, one of the top catamaran sailors in the world, has won numerous titles over his illustrious career. For the last three years, he has finished second in the Hobie 18 Worlds. Tucker is the defending Hobie 18 National Champion and Nacra 5.2 world title holder. Recently, Tucker qualified for the Alter Cup finals which will determine a national multihull champion.

Tom Blackaller, a resident of Sausalito, Calif., will compete in the Race of Champions which pits some of the top sailors against each other. Blackaller has compiled an impressive list of sailing accomplishments since he took up the sport in 1950. He won the Star Class World Championship in 1974 and in 1980, the 6 Meter Class championship in 1979, was the SORC overall winner in 1981 and was an America's Cup skipper in 1980, 1983 and 1987.

The United States Coast Guard Auxiliary will provide screening vessels that will help deter motorboats from trying to cut through the sailing events. The United States Power Squadron will provide the chase boats.

Glass For 2

Nation's Largest Regatta

ORLANDO — Since its beginnings 15 years ago, the Red Lobster cup has grown today to become the nation's largest and most prestigious all-class, inland sailing regatta.

Over 400 boats, including many Olympian and world champion sailors, will compete in this year's event, scheduled for Dec. 4-6 on Lake Monroe in Sanford. In all, the race will involve 2,000 skippers, crew and families from around the nation.

Formerly known as the Citrus Bowl Sailing Regatta, the race is sponsored by Red Lobster, the nation's largest seafood restaurant company. It kicks off the month-long Florida Citrus Bowl sports holiday.

John Gardiner III, a race organizer, noted that the Red Lobster Cup has experienced tremendous growth over the past five years at a time when participation in other sailing regattas has been on the decline.

In 1982, the race drew 167 participants. By 1984, the field had grown to 210 sailors, and last year, there were 336 participants—more than double the number of just four years ago, he said. Gardiner attributes this growth to several factors, primarily the overall quality and professionalism of the race. Officials and judges are provided from the United States Yacht Racing Union, which recently presented the Red Lobster Cup with its "one-design" award of excellence.

Cup Draws Celebrities

ORLANDO — Celebrity sailors competing in the 1987 Red Lobster Cup regatta will share their skills at six seminars open to all participants and their families.

The seminars will be held Dec. 4 at the Sanford Civic Center, followed by a welcoming reception. The regatta is scheduled for Dec. 5-6 on Lake Monroe, also in Sanford.

Following is the seminar schedule:

Loss To 'Noles Hard For Gators To Handle

GAINESVILLE — As the Florida Gators headed toward their locker room following their 28-14 loss to intrastate rival Florida State, they did so to the chant of "FSU, FSU," from a large contingent of Seminoles in the south end zone.

Each and every Gator was greeted by the echoing reminder, and none made a reaction to it except for the final Gator to come off the field — freshman tailback Emmitt Smith.

The chant grew louder and louder as Emmitt approached, and he returned their taunting by raising his arms and pointing to the Gators' insignia on his helmet.

Emmitt may still have had his pride, but for most of the other Gators — especially the seniors — the game was downright depressing.

After jumping out to a 14-3 lead early in the second quarter, the Gators (6-5) seemed to unravel, both offensively and defensively. The main cause of the breakdown was FSU head coach Bobby Bowden's decision to switch from the passing to the running game.

"We got the good lead on them, and I'd hoped they would keep throwing the ball around the field," head coach Galen Hall said. "But they didn't. They came back and hammered it at us, which I was afraid of all along."

And hammer the ball they did. The Seminoles rushed for a total of 279 yards, led by sophomore tailback Sammie Smith's 116 yards on 17 carries. With the performance, Smith established a new FSU single-season rushing record at 1,230 yards.

"We knew they were going to run, we were there, we didn't tackle them," junior nose guard Jeff Roth said. "If you miss a tackle, he ends up getting 12 yards when it should have been a one-yard gain. You kind of put yourself against a wall."

As FSU established the running attack, it took control of the game, holding the ball an amazing 38:47 to Florida's 21:13. That statistic alone made senior quarterback Kerwin Bell's nerves do jumping jacks on the sidelines.

"I hate to be on the sideline and watch the clock eat up the time," he said. "It's frustrating, and you start to get a little desperate."

Bell's frustrations turned to anger toward the end of the third quarter. With his team behind, 20-14, Bell finally took to the air with the permission of the coaches. Unfortunately, the Gator receiving corps was not up to the task, as the unit dropped three consecutive passes on one possession before a Gator punt. Bell stormed off the field, ripping his helmet off and muttering to himself in disgust.

"I probably shouldn't have done that, because other teammates see it," he said. "But I'm a competitor and I want it that bad, and I felt that was the key series there."

Despite those key dropped passes, the receivers did manage to put on three catching hands

Mike Dame
HERALD SPORTS WRITER

In time to help Kerwin capture the Southeastern Conference career passing record. He finished with 114 yards in the air, pushing him to 7,585 to overtake former Gator John Reeves.

The record doesn't mean much to Bell now, however.

"It will mean a lot to me later on, but I just wanted to win the football game bad, and the record really doesn't mean nothing right now," he said.

One bright spot for the Gators was Emmitt Smith. The freshman sensation from Pensacola Escambia rushed for 100 yards on 20 carries, becoming the first back this year to rush for 100 yards against the FSU defense.

Smith's performance gave him 1,341 yards for the season, setting a new single-season rushing mark at Florida. The old mark was 1,307, gained by Jimmy DuBoise in 1974.

Emmitt, however, did not find comfort in his record.

"I was not satisfied with my game," he said. "School records don't mean nothing."

On the whole, Emmitt was satisfied with his season in general. "It ended like I wanted it to," he said. "I was off to a hot start the first part of the season, and it just didn't carry over to the second half. That's something I have to work on."

There was one person, however, who was very happy to break a record in the game — FSU's Bowden. The coach broke a string of six consecutive losses to Florida, lifting a great burden from his chest.

Bowden had only one thing to say of the win: "This compares favorably to the ones we've won."

Whatever you say, Bobby.

Rams' Curry Over 1,000

The final football statistics on Lake Mary's John Curry were incorrectly reported last week. After reviewing the film of Apopka, coach Doug Peters said the senior running back finished the season with 1,068 yards and not 985 as was reported.

Curry added 115 yards last Friday in the region playoff game against Jacksonville Sandalwood to run his final total to 1,183. It was the second time Curry has gone over 1,000 yards in his career and he finished with nearly 3,500 yards rushing in four years.

Lake Mary To Rely On Quickness, Defense

By Mark Blythe
Herald Sports Writer

Lake Mary High School will rely on its quickness and ability to change defensive strategies throughout the game to offset its opponents.

Coach Willie Richardson enters his eighth season with a little controversy as guard Mike Mandeville has transferred to Winter Park.

"This throws a monkey wrench into our plans," Richardson said. "We were depending on him and now we don't know."

The Rams open this Friday away at Ft. Pierce and make their first home appearance Tuesday against Wymore Tech.

"We have three days to get ready when we need three weeks," Richardson said. "We need to get our feet wet though, we won't start coming around until after Christmas."

Three seniors dot the starting lineup for Lake Mary this season. Richardson will hope their experience can blend with the youth and come together by January.

"We won't be competitive for awhile," Richardson said. "My guard play was set (until the transfer) now we have to rebuild everything."

Preview '87-88

Richardson will have three-year starter Terry Miller at the point guard and he will run the Rams' offense.

"If he can play under control we'll be a real tough team," Richardson said. "He just came out from football and has looked good in practice so far."

Miller, playing on an injured ankle, will give Lake Mary experience and will need to take a leadership role this season.

"This should be his year," Richardson said. "He will be slowed at the beginning with the ankle but should be very good by the end of the season."

Corey Prom will be at the other guard for Lake Mary. Prom played last season and promises to be an outside three-point threat for the Rams.

"Prom has been looking real good in practice," Richardson said. "Corey should be able to run the point and play the off guard for us."

Alonzo Robinson, a transfer from Lake Howell, will bring strength to the Lake Mary middle. Robinson, a 6-4 center, led Lake Howell in scoring and rebounding last season and promises to be a plus for the Lake Mary offensive attack.

"He (Robinson) makes a difference for us in the middle," Richardson said. "He has to get in shape still, but he's been working hard and improving all season."

Bernard Mitchell looks to be the Rams top offensive threat this season. Mitchell, a 6-2 junior, will start at the power forward but will see action at other positions as well.

"Bernard (Mitchell) is a flexible player for us," Richardson said. "He's a good inside player and is able to come out and play in the guard position if we need him there."

Mitchell started for Lake Mary for the second half last season and has the most experience other than Miller.

"Bernard is also establishing himself as a leader," Richardson said. "It's taking away from his game right now because he is concentrating on getting everybody else going in the right direction."

The fifth starter is still up in the air right now and Richardson's original plans have been altered.

"I wanted to go with a three guard offense," Richardson said. "We had a good lineup for that strategy, but like I said, I'm just not sure right now."

Bench strength for the Rams will come from Don Worden, who Richardson is thinking on starting, guards Brad Compton and George Gordon will also add depth.

Greg Pierce, Carlos Hartefeld and Ernie Hallare will add depth and quickness to the Lake Mary squad this year.

"I'm in a catch 22 position," Richardson said. "I'll know a lot more after we get out and play a couple of games."

Another possibility is Mike Merthie who is out with a foot injury. Richardson is hoping he will be able to play after the Christmas break.

"He can light it up," Richardson said. "He's quick and very talented but we're still not sure when or if he'll be able to play this year."

"We're suspect right now," Richardson said. "We could go either way, I just hope the team can be competitive in the second half of the season."

Jucker: Depth Key To Winning Season

By Scott Sander
Herald Sports Writer

Last season, the Lake Brantley basketball team was kind of like a sputtering car. At times, the Patriots played well, while at other times they putted along. Brantley was a team that usually found itself in most of the games entering the fourth quarter, though.

But unfortunately for the Pats, it was during the final period that they found their gas gauge on empty. Most of Brantley's losses came in the final period, due to fatigue. Brantley only played six players in most of its games.

Brantley coach Steve Jucker, entering his second year as Patriot mentor, said that he is hoping that this year's team will have a little more fuel left down the stretch. "We had a chance to win most of the games that we lost last season," Jucker, whose team posted a 7-12 record last season, said. "I plan on using a lot more players this season, so we won't be so tired once that final quarter rolls around."

Jucker is hoping that the leadership of three seniors will carry his team. The play of guard Doug Lawson (5-foot-10), power forward Darren Leva (6-foot-2), and point guard Joe Nollif (6-foot-1) will be the key for the Pats.

"There's no doubt about it, we are counting on those three guys to have big seasons," Jucker said. "Their leadership will be crucial to the success or failure of this team."

"I think that this team will be a heck of a lot better than last year's team was," Lawson said. "We have some experience, and we are all pretty confident about things."

Jucker said that in order to be successful, his team is going to have slow the tempo of each game down. "Most of the points that were scored against us last season came when our opponents were on defense, and when we committed a turnover," Jucker said. "We are going to have to play a halfcourt offense, and that takes some patience. I hope every game that we play is in the 50's."

Jucker is hoping that Leva

Preview '87-88

and junior center Bo Pamplin can control the glass on the inside. "We have looked pretty good on the inside," Jucker said. "We have changed up our offense. We are going to put one guy down low instead of two."

One thing that Jucker has been displeased with is the time that practice started. The state ruled that teams could not officially begin practice until Nov. 2. "That rule has really hurt us. We have had to rush things," Jucker said. "In the past few years, we have started in mid October. This rule has made things very tough on us. We have had to practice very long, and I think that the fundamental teaching has really suffered."

Brantley's starting lineup will be rounded out by junior small forward Trey White (6-foot-2). "I just hope that we will be competitive," Jucker said. "I haven't been all that happy with our practices. I think that we should have a pretty decent team, though."

One thing that Brantley didn't have last season was depth. This season, however, the Pats have a capable bench according to Jucker.

"We didn't have any depth last season," Jucker said. "But we have got a good bench this season, and that is extremely important."

Jucker got a nice preseason gift when junior Sam Smith transferred to Brantley this year. Smith (6-foot-2) played on the Evans junior varsity last season. "Sam has got a lot of natural ability," Jucker said. "He won't be starting right now, but he will be seeing a lot of action." Smith will be playing center and forward.

The rest of the Patriot team consists of Kevin Hinshaw, Davis Baccus, Pat French, Billy Clark, Jeff Engel, Craig Williams, and Bob Methvan.

"I've really been looking forward to the season," Jucker said. "I just hope that we can play up the level that I think we are capable of."

Lyman's Craig Radzak, left, and David Kendrick go to the boards. Both players return this season and will be counted on for strength inside as the Greyhounds try to compensate for the loss of standout point guard Robert Thomas.

Lyman: Replacing Thomas No Easy Task

By Scott Sander
Herald Sports Writer

Filling the shoes of Robert Thomas is a task that no basketball player would like to have assigned to him. Last season, Thomas was Lyman's sparkplug.

Not only was Thomas a fine shooter who possessed great quickness, but his passing ability put him in a class by himself. Thomas was regarded by many as the best point guard in Seminole County last season. Thomas currently plays at Seminole Community College.

Now that Thomas is in the college ranks, a big void has been left in Lyman's offensive scheme. A little player will be attempting to fill the shoes of the county's best guard last season. Todd Patterson, a 5-foot-9 sophomore, will be running the Lyman offense. Even though he is just a youngster, Lyman coach Tom Lawrence, who is starting his 10th season as head coach at Lyman, said that he has all the confidence in the world in Patterson. "Todd is a quick little kid, and more importantly he is very smart," Lawrence, whose team posted a 12-9 record last season, said. "I think that Todd will be a surprise to a lot of people."

Lyman will begin its season on Wednesday night when it plays host to Orlando Colonial. Like many other coaches around the county, Lawrence said that his team is not as ready as it could be.

The state came up with a new rule this season that said teams couldn't begin practice until Nov. 2. In the past, most teams begin in mid October. "We aren't in shape yet. Losing those two weeks really goofed everything up," Lawrence said. "I think that this no rule is not a very good one."

The key to Lyman's season rests squarely upon the shoulders of senior forward Craig Radzak. Radzak (6-foot-3), was one of the top scorers in the county last season, and has a fine touch on his shot.

"The play of Craig is vital to us," Lawrence said. "Craig is good basketball player. This will be his fourth year starting on varsity, and we will be looking to him for leadership this season."

Preview '87-88

Lawrence is also hoping that forward Darryl Starkes will have a big season. "Darryl started for us during the first half of the season last year," Lawrence said. "But he tore up his knee and had to have it operated on in midseason. I'm expecting a big season from him.

"I think with Radzak and Starkes in the middle, we should be pretty strong on the boards," Lawrence continued. "On offense, we are going to try to dump the ball inside. We are a frontcourt team, that's for sure."

Lawrence, who has a penchant for fast tempoed games, said that he plans on using the same strategy this season. "We like to push the ball up the floor," Lawrence said. "We are going to try to run with the ball as much as possible this season. But we have to get in shape first."

The rest of Lyman's starting lineup consists of junior guard Mike Whittington (5-foot-10), and senior forward Eric Wright. "Our offense has three forwds in it," Lawrence said. "We really don't have a center."

Lawrence has several football players that have to make the adjustments between sports. J.J. Miller, David Kendrick and Steven Jerry are all seeing hoop action for the first time. All three will be key players coming off the bench. James Flint, Matt Lamb, Deon Weeks, and Rich Holtgrete compose the rest of the Greyhounds.

"We will be playing about eight or nine people a game," Lawrence said. "We should have a lot of depth."

"We are all very anxious for the season to begin," Lawrence said. "It should be a lot of fun. The strength of our team is going to be its quickness. We are lot quicker than we have been in the past."

Bo's 221 Yards Bury Seahawks

SEATTLE (UPI) — After producing the 13th best single-game rushing performance in NFL history, Bo Jackson said football will remain just a hobby and baseball is still his No. 1 sport.

Jackson, the 1985 Heisman Trophy winner who spurned pro football for a year to play baseball with the Kansas City Royals, proved Monday night during the Los Angeles Raiders' 37-14 win over the Seattle Seahawks he has the talent to be a dominating runner.

The rookie from Auburn, playing in only his fifth NFL game, rushed for 221 yards on 18 carries. He flashed his speed on a 91-yard TD run, the longest in Raiders' history, in the second quarter that put the Raiders ahead 21-7.

When asked if the public and the NFL didn't deserve to have him give football his full attention for 16 games a year, he said: "I can't let the public make my decision for me. If I started to do that, then it wouldn't be Bo.

"For now, I like that way things are," said Jackson, who was celebrating his 25th birthday.

Los Angeles Coach Tom Flores, whose team improved to 4-7 and broke a seven-game losing streak, is just happy to have Jackson on his team.

"I'm sure glad Bo chose to play with us and accept the challenge," said Flores. "He is the fast guy on our team since Cliff Branch, and he weighs 230 pounds. He turns the corner and he's gone. Impressive isn't it?"

Said Seattle Coach Chuck Knox: "Bo Jackson is just a great football player. He was just awesome. His speed was something. Awesome."

On the 91-yard run down the left sideline, Jackson reached the corner quicker than any of the Seattle defenders except safety Eugene Robinson. Jackson shed Robinson with a power move and he roared away from the rest of the Seahawks.

"I saw the defender (Robinson) had the angle on me," Jackson said, "so I just threw my head back and ran as fast as I could."

The Raiders improved their NFL-best record in Monday night games to 25-5-1. It was also the Raiders' first victory in their last six games in Seattle.

Arizona Wins Shootout

ANCHORAGE (UPI) — Ken Lofton's job is to be quick off the bench and faster on the court. Lofton did his work Monday night, and it carried 10th-ranked Arizona to an 80-69 victory over No. 1 Syracuse in the championship game of the 10th Great Alaska Shootout.

Lofton's dunk after a Syracuse turnover was followed by a 3-pointer, a combination that took the punch from a Syracuse comeback late in the second half and sparked the Wildcats to their third victory in as many games.

"I saw the ball loose, and I know I'm the quickest guy on the court, so I took off," said Lofton, who received a pass at the top of the foul circle and then dunked.

"It was a big lift," said Sean Elliott, who led Arizona with 16 points. "Our bench went crazy when Kenny did that dunk. (The game) was over."

Just to be sure, Lofton followed a Syracuse miss with a 3-pointer, pushing Arizona ahead 67-61 with 4:39 to play. The heroics came less than two minutes after Syracuse had taken its only lead of the second half, ending a 15-2 run that wiped out a 12-point Arizona lead.

"After the dunk, I felt the adrenalin flowing, so I took the (3-point) shot," Lofton said. "That's my job, to come in and change the tempo of the game. I just go in there and speed things up."

"We made a bad pass at a time when we could have taken control of the game," said Syracuse Coach Jim Boeheim, referring to Rony Seikaly's toss that was knocked loose and led to Lofton's breakout.

The Wildcats pulled away on free throws and punctuated the win on Tom Tolbert's dunk.

Elliott got support from four teammates in double figures. Craig McMillan had 12 of his 15 points in the first half and hit four 3-pointers. Anthony Cook scored 13 points, Tolbert 11 and Joe Turner 10. Lofton finished with eight.

Syracuse, 2-2, was led by Seikaly with 19 points and Sherman Douglas with 18.

SMITH: PUNISHMENT TOO HARSH

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — North Carolina Coach Dean Smith says the punishment given two of his players for their roles in a nightclub fight was excessive.

Forward Steve Bucknall received a 30-day suspended sentence and center J.R. Reid was ordered to perform community service for their involvement in an Oct. 24 fight, which left a North Carolina State student with a cut around his eye requiring nine stitches and a chipped tooth.

DUKE DUMPS EAST CAROLINA

DURHAM, N.C. (UPI) — Greg Koubek and Joe Cook, two freshmen playing in only their second college game, combined for 22 points in the second half Monday night as 13th-ranked Duke overwhelmed diminutive East Carolina 94-49.

Carolina Captures UPI No. 1 Ranking

NEW YORK (UPI) — North Carolina, which opened the season by knocking off Syracuse without two key players and last weekend coasted in a minor holiday tournament, today captured the No. 1 ranking in voting by the United Press International Board of Coaches.

The Tar Heels, ranked second behind Syracuse in the pre-season rankings, collected 520 points and 23 of 40 first-place votes. Syracuse dropped to second with 417 points and one first-place vote. The Orangemen lost 80-69 to Arizona in the final of the Great Alaska Shootout, but all votes were cast before Monday night's championship game.

Rounding out the Top 10 it was: Indiana at No. 3, followed by Pittsburgh, Kentucky, Florida, Arizona, Missouri, Duke and Iowa. Indiana and Kentucky each received four first-place votes. Pittsburgh had three, Iowa picked up two and Florida, Arizona and Duke had one apiece.

Wyoming was ranked 11th, then it was Georgetown, Michigan, Purdue, Temple, Louisville, Oklahoma, Nevada-Las Vegas, Kansas and North Carolina State.

The Tar Heels opened the season by beating Syracuse despite playing without center J.R. Reid and forward Steve

Lady Rams Rout Winter Park, 5-0

By Mark Blythe
Herald Sports Writer

Donna Rohr scored two goals and collected two assists to lead the Lake Mary Lady Rams to their third win this season with a convincing 5-0 thumping over Winter Park.

Lake Mary, 3-1, scored four times in the second half to down the Wildcats who are 2-2 this season.

Annermike Stonebrock scored the opening goal in the first to give the Lady Rams the lead for good.

"She scored about 16 minutes in," assistant coach Larry Betsinger said. "And our defense played a solid game for us tonight."

Soccer

Lake Mary has played four games this season and has come out victorious in three of those games, all being shutouts. The only loss came at the hands of Melbourne, last season's state champions.

The Lady Rams outshot the Lady Wildcats 30-15 as keeper Tammy Scott recorded her third shutout of the season.

Rohr, a junior midfielder, is expected to lead Lake Mary this season for Betsinger.

"Both she (Rohr) and Michelle Mattingly should finish high in the scoring department," Betsinger said. "Both have a lot of experience and show leadership on the field."

Barkley's 43 Lift 76ers Over Jazz

United Press International

Charles Barkley made up for the absence of two teammates by scoring enough for three players.

Barkley scored a career-high 43 points and grabbed 14 rebounds Monday night to lead the Philadelphia 76ers to a 106-100 victory over Utah, the first Jazz loss at home this season after seven victories.

With teammates Tim McCormick and Roy Hinson sidelined with injuries, Barkley hit 15 of 20 shots from the floor, including a 3-pointer, and sank all 12 of his free throws. He also had five assists and three steals.

"I just want to keep getting better," Barkley said. "I just want to do better each year."

Philadelphia Coach Matt Gutknecht said Barkley is "on a little bit of a mission" to get Philadelphia back into contention in the Atlantic Division, where the 76ers trail first-place Boston by 7 1/2 games.

Cliff Robinson added 24 points for Philadelphia, with David Wingate chipping in 12 and

Basketball

Maurice Cheeks 11.

"They're good players played great and our good players played all right," Utah Coach Frank Layden said. "The bottom line is Barkley played very, very well. In the toughest part of the game, he took control of the ball and made some big shots. He has great quickness and we just couldn't stop him."

"If one guy gets 43 points, you're always going to have a tough time winning."

Thurl Bailey led Utah with 21 points, while John Stockton had 20 and 18 assists. Darrell Griffith and Karl Malone had 17 points apiece, and Bobby Hansen 10.

Utah, trailing 53-41 at halftime, rallied in the third quarter to move ahead 78-77 entering the final period. Stockton tied a club record with nine assists in the stanza.

The 76ers countered with a 15-7 run to open the fourth quarter to grab the lead for good.

In Monday's only other game, Milwaukee ripped Indiana 104-94.

Bucks 104, Pacers 94

At Milwaukee, Jack Sikma scored 21 points and Randy Bruner added 20 to help the Bucks halt Indiana's three-game winning streak. Vern Fleming had 20 points and Steve Stipanovich 19 for the Pacers, who never led. Craig Hodges, out since Nov. 19 because of an injury, scored 12 points in the final quarter to help the Bucks hold off a late Indiana rally.

WHITE ENDS COMEBACK

TOPEKA, Kan. (UPI) — Former NBA All-Star Jo Jo White has retired from pro basketball a second time, saying his 41-year-old body cannot withstand a rigorous Continental Basketball Association season.

White, a guard who played with the Boston Celtics for 10 years and retired from the NBA in 1981, Monday announced his decision to leave the Topeka Sizzlers of the CBA after averaging just 5.6 points in five games.

"As the season went on, my legs seemed to not be responding," White said. "Coach (John) Killilea had me playing point and I wasn't able to give him what he wanted."

White, who played collegiately at Kansas, said he was not upset with his failure to make it back to the NBA, which he left because of a foot injury.

"My game was weak on the defensive end," said White, a seven-time All-Star in his 12-year NBA career. "When you have to guard younger people, it's difficult."

White played 122 minutes with the Sizzlers, averaging 4.2 assists a game. His performance tailed off after the first game of the CBA season, in which he collected 13 points and 10 assists.

"I talked with Jo about his ancient wheels," said Killilea, who was an assistant at Boston during White's tenure there.

Penny Spears, left, owner/operator of Airport Adult Care Center, chats with resident Martha Raborn in the center's sitting room.

Airport Adult Care Center Offers Homelike Atmosphere

Airport Adult Care Center, located at 129 W. Airport Blvd., Sanford, provides custodial care in a homelike atmosphere.

Licensed by the city and county to accommodate 12 residents, Airport Adult Care Center opened in this location in January. Owner/operator is Penny Spears, a Licensed Practical Nurse for 11 years, worked in nursing homes and hospitals in Illinois and Florida before opening her own center.

The center provides personalized tender loving care for men and women who are ambulatory or in a wheelchair. They are not equipped to care for completely bedridden patients.

They have staff on duty 24 hours a day. In addition to Mrs. Spears they have a certified nurse aide on staff for all three shifts and a cook.

Residents are assisted with bathing and dressing. Laundry care is provided. Three nutritious hot meals a day are prepared in the center kitchen and served in the dining room.

Menus are approved by the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services dietitian.

Mrs. Spears said the center is primarily for persons who are not ready for a nursing home, but are no longer able to stay at home by themselves.

She said the center is family oriented and children of all ages are allowed to visit. Visiting hours are from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Residents are allowed to take walks outside accompanied by a staff member. Outside doors are kept closed and are equipped with a security alarm to prevent residents from wandering away on their own undetected.

If bedspace is available, Airport Adult Care Center also accepts patients temporarily by the week or month while the family or usual caregiver is away or on vacation.

If you are looking for this type of care for an elderly family member Mrs. Spears invites you to visit the facility or call 323-2545 for information.

Arnold's Stained Glass has gift items created in their Lake Mary studio for the whole family.

Arnold's Stained Glass Has Gifts For Everyone

The Arnold family made a reputation for its skill and creativity in working with stained glass during 16 years of living and working in South Florida before relocating to Lake Mary.

Stained glass panels, doors, windows, ceilings and lampshades created by Jane Arnold and her daughter, Deborah Miltello, owners of Arnold's Stained Glass, are now proudly displayed in some of our area's finest homes, restaurants and offices.

But don't have to go to a cathedral or a millionaire's mansion to enjoy the beauty of stained glass. In Arnold's studio in the Driftwood Village, you will find many less expensive colorful gifts of glass suitable for every member of the family. They also have gift certificates for stained glass classes or gift items great for Christmas giving.

Here are some suggestions:

- For women they have exquisite jewelry boxes, fan lights, bookends, small lamps, sun-catchers, night lights and small clocks.

- For men there are bookends, boxes, penholders, ducks, birds and items with all sorts of sport themes.

- For the children's room there glass hanging panels and night lights with the balloon, clown or bear motif.

Arnold's also has the popular country and flamingo motifs and authentic looking art deco replicas with brass figures combined with the glass.

Jane and Deborah both teach the craft for a low tuition which includes use of their tools. Jane uses her 28 years of teaching experience to help beginners get a good start in her morning and evening classes, which are limited in size to give time for individual attention. Basics are taught in a once-a-week five-week course for all ages, men and women. Students end up with stained glass work and get a chance to see if they want more than a taste of the art form, which can grow into a passion.

If you would like to try making stained glass yourself, you will find a wide selection of glass in many colors and textures as well as tools and supplies, patterns and books. They are happy to order anything you need that is not in stock.

The shop, located at Suite 203, Driftwood Village, 549 W. Lake Mary Blvd., Lake Mary, is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, and 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., Saturday. Come in and shop or browse - you'll find a friendly welcome. Call 322-0197.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Nicaraguan Resistance Calls For Cease Fire With Sandinistas

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — The Nicaraguan Resistance called Monday for a month-long cease-fire in its civil war against the Sandinista government, but set terms that are certain to elicit objections from President Daniel Ortega.

The proposal delivered to the government by mediator Cardinal Miguel Obando y Bravo said the Contra rebels advocated a cease-fire from Dec. 8 to Jan. 17, said Marta Sacasa spokeswoman for the resistance based in Miami.

The rebels proposed to lay down their arms but continue to occupy areas they control, while the government wants them to retreat to designated areas. The Contras also want the Sandinista army to disarm. The government proposal calls for just the rebels to give up their weapons.

"This is our proposal. Next we have to hear from the other side. There are things that they have to agree upon before a cease-fire takes place," Sacasa said.

Candidate Asks For Intervention

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (UPI) — A leading presidential candidate called for intervention by a multinational force to supervise elections canceled by Haiti's military-led government after terror attacks that killed up to 34 people.

Occasional gunfire rang out in downtown Port-au-Prince Monday night and most stores in the capital remained closed the day after Sunday's election-day bloodbath.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Reagan Will Address High School Students In Jacksonville

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — President Reagan is scheduled to speak today to some of the people who will be most affected by the soon-to-be-signed Soviet-American weapons treaty — high school students.

Reagan is scheduled to address 5,000 Jacksonville-area high school students at 1:55 p.m. While in Jacksonville, he will also hold a private meeting with a group of Florida's most generous Republican Party fund raisers.

"He is coming to make a major speech in regard to the upcoming arms summit," state Rep. Bill Bankhead, R-Jacksonville, a member of the welcoming committee, said Monday. "He is going to address 5,000 high school seniors, the idea being they are the ones who will be growing up and living their lives in a world made safer by this treaty."

"When the president said he wanted to make this address to something other than a university audience, Secretary of Education William Bennett recommended us," said Julie Dawson, Duval County school board spokeswoman. "The president said he wanted an audience this would have real meaning for, and we're very honored he selected us."

Jewish Group Protests Sign

PENSACOLA (UPI) — The B'nai B'rith Anti-Defamation League has filed a complaint with the state attorney general's office demanding a service station owner take down a sign that offers a 10 percent discount "for those whom Jesus loves."

The controversy started a week ago when Harrison put up a sign saying "Notice: For Christians only. Ten percent discount on all labor." That brought a reprimand from the parent Exxon Corporation, which told him to take it down.

So Harrison took the sign down. But after talking with attorney Paul Shirek, replaced with another sign that says "Ten percent discount on labor to those whom Jesus loves."

Housing Will Be Topic Of Meeting

Housing in the city of Sanford will be the issue at Thursday's Planning and Zoning workshop, at 6 p.m. in the city commission conference room.

This is the fifth in a series of six workshops in which City Planner Jay Marder will explain various phases of the city's proposed comprehensive plan for growth and development, to planning and zoning commissioners and to any residents who might attend.

Marder said Monday that "To a great extent the housing element (of the proposed comprehensive plan) is more a reflection of programs the city is already implementing, rather than a suggestion of new programs." Some of those programs involve the community development program, the Westside Improvement Neighborhood Strategy (WINS), preserving the historical area of the city, and of course group homes.

The housing unit of the proposed plan notes that adequate and affordable housing for existing and anticipated residents should be taken into consideration. For example, the plan notes that in comparison "to other communities in Seminole County, low and moderate income households will continue to constitute a relatively large portion of the total city population." However, the plan also points out mixed income families in an area would provide for a wider range of housing choices. The plan recommends wider development of mixed income areas.

Transmission Similar In All HTLV Viruses

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT - I have two women friends whose husbands have hairy-cell leukemia. If the day comes when they are alone again, will they be able to have other sex partners or will they be carriers of the HTLV virus?

DEAR READER - Three retroviruses, viruses that cause disease long after their introduction into the body, have been identified in humans. HTLV-I causes adult T-cell leukemia/lymphoma (ATLL), a rare form of blood cancer. HTLV-I has recently been shown to cause another form of blood-cell disorder, called hairy-B-cell leukemia.

HTLV-II, the second retrovirus, causes the T-cell variant of hairy leukemia. The term "hairy" refers to the shaggy appearance of the cancerous blood cells when they are smeared on a slide and examined under a microscope. The terms "B" and "T" describe the types of blood cells that are penetrated by the HTLV I and HTLV-II viruses.

Dr. Gott's new Health Report on VIRUSES AND CANCER tells about the latest discoveries in cancer research. For your copy, send $1 and your name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

HTLV-III is the virus that causes AIDS. Most of the investigation of retroviruses has thus far centered on the HTLV-III (also called HIV) because AIDS is a worldwide epidemic for which there is no known treatment. HTLV-III is spread through the exchange of body fluids, such as semen and blood products.

Answer to Previous Puzzle grid with numbers 1-48

All retroviruses appear to be spread in a similar fashion. Although there have been no reports that hairy cell leukemia is spread directly by sexual relations, many experts are assuming (on the basis of AIDS research) that HTLV-II will eventually be shown to be transmitted in much the same way as the HTLV-III.

Therefore, in answer to your question, your friends' husbands probably are carriers of at least one HTLV virus; they should use condoms and, in my opinion, exercise the same precautions as AIDS patients are urged to employ.

The subject of retrovirus infection is a fascinating chapter in the long history of infectious disease. Now that some types of leukemia have been found to be

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

One of the obvious advantages of having a trump fit is that small trumps can be used to dispose of side-suit losers. When the defender's trumps split badly for declarer, he must be careful that the defender with long trumps does not use them to wreck declarer's prospects. It is particularly important that a defender "beats the air" when he trumps in early.

In, since South would simply play low from his hand and claim the remaining tricks. East discarded and South won the king of spades. A diamond was played to dummy's king, and another spade was led from dummy. East was in the same spot. When he discarded again, declarer won the queen of spades, led his last spade and ruffed it in dummy. East could overruff, but that was his only trick.

South won with dummy's ace of clubs and played A-K of hearts. That gave him the bad news that East had a sure trump trick. He now played his king of clubs and ruffed a club. Then he played the ace of spades and a spade toward his hand. East could not gain by now trumping

Note the difference if declarer carelessly plays a high spade first from his hand. Now, when he leads a spade to the ace in dummy, East will ruff in, and declarer will be left with an eventual spade loser as well as a trump loser.

What The Day Will Bring...

By Bernice Bada Ouel YOUR BIRTHDAY DECEMBER 2, 1987

In the year ahead, creative endeavors could turn out to be extremely profitable, especially those that you help to conceive.

heed your intuition. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Should your domestic routines get a trifle boring today, do something outside of the home that will revitalize your outlook.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) There's a chance you may hear something unflattering about a friend of yours today that you know is untrue. Be a pal and stop it at the source.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Rather than waiting for one who is not dependable to help you with a task, try to do it on your own. Self-reliance will provide you with true gratification. ARIES (March 21-April 19) An issue might arise today that will cause you to make a choice between your material and idealistic goals. Do that which is more honorable.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be philosophical rather than resentful if you are denied cooperation you're expecting from an associate today. This party will eventually come around.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If a task appears to be too tough for you early in the day, walk away from it for a while. When you come back to it later, it should be less intimidating.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) heed your intuition.

Today, if someone treats you rudely in front of friends, don't reply in kind. This person's uncalled for remarks will make him or her look bad without any prompting from you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll gain the admiration and respect that you are seeking today by thinking of others before yourself. Be willing to help where you can.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Valuable information can be acquired today from a least-expected source. Keep an open mind and listen to what others say - even people you dislike.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If something to which you're entitled is late in coming from another, this is a good day to bring the matter to a head.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) In your one-to-one dealings today, you may think it's the other guy who is being unreasonable. However, it's possible you'll be at fault as well.
