Impaired Physicians

A Threat To Themselves And Their Unsuspecting Patients

EDITORS NOTE — Doctors, perhaps the most respected of all professionals, are indeed human, too. Long thought to be the pillars of society, miracle workers for the sick and suffering, physicians themselves are not immune from the same pressures and anxieties that contribute to alcohol and drug abuse in every other profession. In part two of a series on physicians who are impaired by drug and alcohol abuse, the dangers to themselves, their patients and the reputation of the medical profession is examined.

Second in a series

For Dr. William Smith, the "last straw" came when he turned his back on a long-standing successful career in surgery because of an alcohol abuse problem.

Dr. Smith (not his true name) had just been on a three-day drinking binge and was preparing to step into the operating room again when he told his fellow surgeon, "I just can't do it anymore."

The "last straw" would come for Dr. Smith several more times before he learned to cope with an alcohol problem that began as social drinking during his teens, later blossomed into a threat during his medical school days and eventually led to him losing his wife and family, his home, his practice and nearly his life.

His experience with alcohol tumbled him from the lofty position as a respected, financially successful, skilled surgeon, through years of humiliation, the depths of degradation and depression before he was finally able to put the pieces of his life together again.

Today, Dr. Smith is remarried and has started a new career as a hospital administrator in New Jersey. But for all that he went through because of an alcohol abuse problem, he was lucky. He never harmed a patient, never operated while he was drunk, was never sued for malpractice.

Dr. Smith's story is not unlike similar experiences recounted by two Seminole County physicians or those experienced by an estimated 10 percent of the nation's physicians who are considered unable to perform properly because of alcohol or drug abuse problems.

Once ignored and swept under the rug, the problem is receiving more attention from organized medicine. Efforts are increasing to identify and treat impaired physicians before they harm their patients, destroy their practices, lose their licenses, get sued for malpractice, and damage the credibility of the medical professions.

The dangers to patients being treated by physicians under the influence of booze or drug abuse are obvious.

The possibility of an impaired physician reaching an incorrect diagnosis and prescribing potentially harmful medication or an improper dosage are serious patient concerns.

Normal inhibitions dashed by the effects of alcohol or drugs can lead to illicit sexual activity between doctors and their patients.

"Surgeons with nervous hands because of withdrawal, misjudgments in diagnosis and the over prescription of medication are some of the most common dangers associated with the impaired physician," says Dr. Dolores Morgan, addiction treatment director at South Miami Hospital, one of three Southeastern facilities that offer rehabilitation programs for impaired physicians.

For the doctors themselves, drug and alcohol abuse more often than not leads to despondency and depression. Occasionally suicide.

"They get to the point where they don't like themselves," said Dr. Morgan. "That leads to broken marriages and homes. Often, doctors move from town to

Man Drowns; Police Search For Swimmer

Allamonte Springs police continued their probe today into the death of a 45-year-old man, found drowned in his pool Saturday, while Seminole County sheriff's deputies searched the St. Johns River for a 16-year-old Sanford boy presumed drowned.

According to police, James Herman Thornton, of 617 Spring Oaks Blvd., was discovered lying on the bottom of his algae-filled swimming pool at about 11 a.m. Police said the body is believed to have been in the pool for about a half-hour before it was discovered by a family member.

Seminole County medical personnel, who performed the autopsy on Thornton, confirmed death was caused by drowning. However, police are continuing their investigation into the fatal incident.

Meanwhile sheriff's deputies continued their search of the St. Johns River today in search of Robert Daren Sherman Jr., 16, of 1508 W. Summerlin Ave., who is believed to have drowned in the river at about 7 p.m. Sunday.

According to deputies, the teenager and a friend, Robert C. Holcomb, 16, also of Sanford, were swimming in the river near the Osteen bridge when young Sherman suddenly went under the water and never surfaced.

"Today, we have county fire department skin divers out there and we're dragging the river bottom to see if we can find him," said sheriff's spokesman John Spolski. "He may not even be drowned but it is believed that he was swimming across the river, panicked and drowned."

Molly Magee's Fire Ruled An Accident

An investigation into Saturday's fire which caused $75,000 to $100,000 damage to a Sanford restaurant-lounge has been ruled accidental.

According to fire officials, the early morning fire at Molly Magee's Restaurant, 254 Park Drive, was caused by an electrical short circuit in a fuse box, possibly caused by mice whose charred remains were found in the box.

The fire broke out at about 2:35 a.m. while five employees were still in the building, although the business had closed a short while earlier. No one was injured in the blaze, but fire investigators reported an extensive amount of fire and smoke damage at the restaurant.

The restaurant was sold Wednesday for $150,000 to Dorma Jon, Inc. of New York. New owner Dorothy L. Reisch, of New York, says she plans to reopen the restaurant as soon as the damages can be repaired.

Police Interview Survivors

What Caused Wall To Fall?

Sanford police today are interviewing the survivors of Friday's collapse of a wall at the W. Atlee Burpee Seed Co. building to determine what caused the accident which killed three men.

Officer Larry Monti said detectives are interviewing seven men who survived tragedy which occurred shortly before 5 p.m. Friday.

Darrell Jackson, 29, of 102 Scott Drive, Sanford, was discharged from Central Florida Regional Hospital Sunday. Two other Sanford men: Robert Walton, 34, of 1849 Jerry Ave.; and Charley Jones, 26, of 1726 W. 14th St., are still in the hospital. Walton is in serious but stable condition in the intensive care unit while Jones is in good condition.

An autopsy report of the three men killed in the collapse, William Gracey, Nathaniel Bailey, and Vincent Foster, showed the men died from injuries they received in the collapse. The autopsy is required by Florida law for all accident victims.

Gracey Construction Co. had been working for two weeks to gut the interior of the Burpee building at 206 W. First St., Sanford. Survivors of the tragedy said they were about an hour away from finishing that job in preparation for demolishing the building the next morning when the wall fell.

Several of the survivors said the crew involved in demolishing the 78-year-old building was largely inexperienced. Nathaniel Bailey, one of the dead men, had worked for Gracey for only three days.

Cleanup efforts at the site began early Saturday morning. Several area contractors donated their time and equipment to knock the rest of the building down and haul the debris away.

Flagship Bank President Dennis Courson, whose bank owns the property, said today, "we extend our sympathies to everyone involved."

Courson said crews would begin filling the site today and the property will be seeded and landscaped. "It will be maintained as lawn and eventually we'll develop it for more parking," he said.

Funeral service information on Gracey, Foster and Bailey is on page 2A.

There's No Mad Rush To Food Stamp Office

Although new federal guidelines allow food stamp recipients to earn 10 percent more money and still receive assistance, the number of Seminole County households participating in the program has changed little.

Under the new guidelines, which went into effect July 1, a family of four is now eligible to receive food stamps if its gross monthly income does not exceed $1,008.

Local officials say they do not expect the higher limits to result in significantly more people receiving food stamps. Nationwide, about 22.7 million persons participate in the program.

George Easley, food stamp unit supervisor in Sanford, said that the average gross monthly income in the central Florida area is far below the $1,008-a-month level, noting that many recipients are unemployed.

"This is a citrus area and a lot of households drop off the program in the winter months," Easley said. "Plus, there are other seasonal factors like what crops are being harvested and when" that cause the number of food stamp recipients to fluctuate.

As of July 1, the monthly income at or below which families are eligible to receive food stamps was: one person, up from $467 to $507; two persons, from $617 to $674; three persons, from $766 to $841; four persons, from $916 to $1,008; five persons, from $1,065 to $1,175; six persons, from $1,215 to $1,342; seven persons, from $1,364 to $1,508; and eight persons, up from $1,514 to $1,675.

Income limits are set at 30 percent above the Office of Management and Budget's poverty lines for the various household sizes.

According to Jeanne Alshouse, district program specialist for food stamps, the number of Sanford area households participating in the food stamp program in July was 1,563. In the south end of the county, the number was 1,477 for a total of 3,040 Seminole families receiving help meeting their monthly food bill.

Easley said that new regulations which went into effect in October resulted in a drop in the figures over the same period of a year ago because children living with their parents were no longer certified by the welfare department to receive food stamps as separate households.

Hospital Longwood Psychiatric Facility Hearing To Be Held Tonight

The city of Longwood has been known to have some packed City Council meetings on occasion, and tonight's public hearing on a conditional use permit for a proposed psychiatric hospital should be no exception. Longwood residents are expected to flock to City Hall, 125 W. Warren Avenue at 7:30 p.m. to hear what decision is made on Hospital Corporation of America's (HCA) request to build a psychiatric hospital on a 5.9-acre site at State Road 434 and West Lake Road.

HCA first received permission from the city to construct a 150-bed general use hospital on a 26-acre site at the same location about six months ago. But HCA officials took Longwood by surprise by later announcing plans to construct a separate psychiatric facility.

That announcement prompted City Attorney Marvin Rooks to advise HCA officials they would have to seek a separate conditional use permit for the psychiatric facility because the commission approved the general use hospital permit request with the understanding it would include only a psychiatric wing.

HCA immediately filed for a conditional use permit for the psychiatric facility, and following a lengthy question and answer period before Longwood's Land Planning Agency, initial approval was granted in July, setting up tonight's public hearing on the matter.

On July 30, HCA flew Mayor June Lormann, several commissioners and other city officials and a handful of Longwood residents to a similar psychiatric hospital in Chattanooga, Tenn., for an inspection. The trip was designed to give officials a first-hand look at what type of facility would be built in Longwood.

Upon return from the Chattanooga trip, the contingent expressed their satisfaction with HCA's facility.

Although no decision has been made, tonight's commission vote is expected to come after residents ask similar questions expressed by the Land Planning Agency board last month.

Among the concerns from Longwood residents are proper security to ensure no psychiatric patients will be escaping, what type of patients will the hospital treat, will any criminally insane patients be housed at the facility as well as general admission policies and outpatient care.

At last month's Land Planning Agency meeting, HCA had several of its officials on hand to field the same type of questions expected from the public at tonight's meeting.

Donald E. Annis, administrator at HCA's Cypress Hospital in Chattanooga, assured commissioners and concerned residents that the Longwood facility would not be treating criminally insane patients.

Annis explained that the majority of cases handled in Longwood would be for depression and stress and that the majority of cases treated would be short term.

"You shouldn't have visions of people running around in straight jackets," he said. Annis added that security at the facility would be adequate, although he said there would be no bars on the windows.

"We're attempting to get away from that concept," said Annis.

"Patients need a place that feels like home, not like many of the state facilities. We won't have goons for guards," he said.

Casselberry To Review Double Taxation Study

The Casselberry City Council is expected tonight to debate a report which documents the existence of double taxation in Seminole County and claims it cost municipal residents $2.4 million last year.

The council is scheduled to meet at 7:30 p.m. at City Hall, 95 Lake Triplet Drive.

The report, compiled by Kelton & Associates of DeLand, was unanimously accepted last week by the City of Sanford, one of seven Seminole municipalities which commissioned the double taxation study to find if city residents are paying county taxes for which they receive no substantial benefit.

The report shows that county taxes for city residents should decline by about $1.80 per $1,000 assessed property valuation, while the taxes of residents living in the unincorporated areas should go up by $3.60 per $1,000 assessed valuation, because residents of the county's unincorporated areas receive a higher degree of service.

The Kelton report notes that the county, rather than levying a tax large enough to totally fund transportation, shifts other funds into no account. Thus, they share less money with the cities.

Casselberry, along with the other six Seminole cities, is expected to begin talks with the county in an effort to solve the double taxation problem. Officials have said legal action will be used only as a last resort.

This is all that's left of the W. Atlee Burpee Seed Co. building, First Street, Sanford, where three men were killed Friday when a wall collapsed during demolition of the structure.

NATION IN BRIEF

Uphill Fight Expected For Federal Tax Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — White House and congressional leaders agree the administration-backed $98.3 billion tax bill faces an "uphill fight" and will need strong Democratic support to become law.

Exhausted House and Senate negotiators hammered out the compromise measure early Sunday after back-to-back night-long sessions. It's now up to the House and Senate.

"It's going to require bipartisan support. It will require strong Democratic support. I can't sit here this morning and tell you we have those votes. This is going to be a very, very difficult battle. It's very much uphill," said White House Chief of Staff James Baker, interviewed Sunday on CBS' "Face the Nation."

"We hope and believe that when the vote comes later this week... that we'll have a majority in both houses," he said.

The joint conference committee completed its work at 2 a.m. Sunday with an agreement to double federal cigarette taxes to 16 cents a pack — a severe blow to tobacco-state lawmakers who had hoped to scale back the increase.

Tax Hike Fight Broadens

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan impressed 32 House members with invitations to Camp David and a low-pressure sales pitch, but picked up few hard votes and today broadens his fight for a $98.3 billion tax increase.

Reagan scheduled more meetings with House Republicans whose help he needs to win passage this week of the three-year tax increase bill approved by House and Senate conferees early Sunday morning.

Reagan also reserved time this afternoon to work on a televised speech set for delivery at 8 p.m. EDT — a crucial step in his final drive to win public support for the tax bill and push it through Congress.

An aide to House Speaker Thomas O'Neill said there "certainly" would be a response to Reagan's speech from Democrats. At least one television network planned to carry the response directly following the Reagan speech.

Elvis Fans Mark Death

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Sobbing and singing their idol's favorite hymns, 7,000 Elvis Presley fans swarmed at his Graceland mansion early today to walk past his grave and commemorate the fifth anniversary of the death of the rock 'n' roll legend.

Holding candles lit from the eternal flame at Presley's grave, the fans endured a light drizzle and were allowed in small groups to walk to the meditation garden and grave beside the white-columned mansion. The grave is open to the public during the year but today marked the first time it was opened for the anniversary ritual.

Two women in tears comforted each other as the rest of the crowd joined in the sing "In the Sweet Bye and Bye," "There Will Be Peace In The Valley," "Amazing Grace" and "How Great Thou Art," probably Presley's most popular gospel recording.

After two of Presley's cousins brought a flame to light the candles, musician J.D. Sumner, a long time Presley friend, called for a silent prayer and led the singing. Presley recordings then were played and open sobbing was heard when the loudspeaker blared, "I Did It My Way."

...Doctors As Patients

town before they get themselves in trouble.

"And," she adds, "drug and alcohol abuse can lead to serious physical disabilities for the doctors themselves."

With easy access to a wide variety of narcotics, doctors abusing drugs seldom even have to write themselves a prescription. Drug samples readily supplied by pharmaceutical salespersons give doctors a ready supply.

"If doctors have a drug problem, these are occasions when they may have a tendency to over prescribe drugs for a patient because of their own abuse," says Dr. Morgan.

But does the medical profession differ from any other profession whose ranks include members with drug and alcohol problems?

"Yes," said Dr. LeClair Bissell, president of Edgell-Newport Inc., a private alcoholism treatment center that played an important role in the development of the impaired physician program of the Medical Society of New York.

"Because doctors are in a greater position to do more spectacular harm."

Dr. Bissell adds that the public's view of doctors as "father figures," supposedly immune from the "ailments" that hinder others, can be shattered when the public comes to realize that doctors are human too, with human problems.

At the same time, Bissell says that doctors can easily fall into the trap of feeling different from the rest of the world as a form of protection.

Dr. Bissell illustrates her point by using doctors who deal with cancer patients as an example.

"The doctors say to themselves, 'This can't happen to me.' That's the denial— But it helps them get through," she said.

While the medical profession attracts hard-working, dedicated and conscientious workaholics that make others successful in other career fields, research shows that doctors become different when they are the patients, which makes successful rehabilitation for alcohol and drug abuse more difficult.

According to the 1976 survey, the latest available, conducted by the National Association of Private Psychiatric Hospitals, most doctors are reluctant to accept the role of being a patient, often insisting on consulting on their own cases, prescribing treatment and determining the length of hospital stays.

An American Medical Association report indicates that as many as 25 percent of physician-patients leave hospitals against medical advice.

"They think they know how to deal with their own problems," says Dr. Morgan. "It can be very traumatic for a doctor to have to be treated for drug or alcohol abuse," she said.

"They have a feeling that they possess all the answers, yet they have to be convinced that they're sick with something that's considered a social stigma.

"While many doctors will admit to having a 'problem' with alcohol or drugs," she said, "Seldom will they admit to being addicted.

"But having a 'problem' is like being a little bit pregnant," Dr. Morgan said. "Either you are or you aren't."

In tomorrow's continuation of the impaired physician series, Herald Staff Writer Joe DeSantis reports on the experiences and reactions of two Seminole County doctors who have been through the South Miami Hospital rehabilitation program.

Seminole Officials Win Suit

By MICHAEL BEHA
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County commissioners have been found innocent of denying the civil rights of a Casselberry real estate broker by refusing to allow him to cut trees on property in the environmentally fragile Spring Hammock area.

A federal court jury in Orlando rendered the innocent verdict following 4½ hours of deliberation late Friday in the civil suit against the commissioners filed by Arthur Lee Seligman, former owner of Cross County Realty, Inc.

Seligman claimed the commissioners violated his civil rights in 1977 when they refused to grant him an exemption to cut trees on his 32-acre tract near Longwood.

Seligman said he sought an exemption because he wanted to use the property as a horse ranch and a garden but the commission denied the exemption because he refused to promise not to develop the property for five years.

But Seligman claimed the five-year clause, which commissioners cited in denying his exemption, was not in effect in 1977. The county ordinance, adopted in 1973 to protect the county's forests from developers, was changed in 1976 and the five-year clause was removed.

The defendants in the suit were current commissioner Bill Kirchhoff and former commissioners John Kimbrough, Robert French, Richard Williams and Harry Kwiatkowski, along with arbor inspector Irving Kaufman, the county officer charged with enforcing the ordinance.

Attorney Howard Marsee, who represented the county officials in the case, argued that Seligman did not meet qualifications to exempt him from the ordinance which prohibited tree clearing on the property.

Seligman did not qualify for agricultural tax classification because he was not going to use the property for commercial purposes.

In the rejection of Seligman's request, commissioners said his plan to remove the trees would seriously endanger Spring Hammock, a water recharge area for Soldiers Creek.

Following the 1977 rejection of his waiver request, Seligman appealed the commission's decision to Seminole Circuit Court. A three-judge panel ordered commissioners to grant Seligman a permit to clear the property. An appeals court in West Palm Beach eventually upheld the circuit court decision but by that time Seligman had sold the property.

Seligman claimed he lost $94,000 in the deal and filed the civil suit in 1979.

In the commissioners' defense, Marsee argued Seligman had made a bad investment and wanted the county to pay for it.

Seligman said he has not waded up his mind whether to appeal of the verdict.

Teen Runs Away From Home And Into Cuban Jail Cell

KEY WEST (UPI) — What she thought would be a boating adventure in the sunny Caribbean has turned on 16-year-old runaway Elisa Steedly and put her behind the bars of a Cuban jail.

FORT LAUDERDALE (UPI) — A newborn boy found abandoned on the sunbaked asphalt of the parking lot at Fort Lauderdale-Hollywood International Airport may be adopted by one of the paramedics who helped save him.

Pot Smuggler Faces 5 Years

ORLANDO (UPI) — Sentencing has been set for Sept. 7 for Lawrence Wolfson, the owner of Key West Airlines who was convicted of conspiring to import 800 pounds of marijuana from Jamaica to Brevard County in May 1980.

A federal court jury deliberated about three hours Friday before returning the guilty verdict against Wolfson, 65. He faces a maximum of five years in prison and up to $15,000 in fines.

Wolfson told insurance investigators after the plane was confiscated that it was to deliver six drums of insecticide to Haiti and return to Florida with a load of mangoes.

Sisters Are Found

United Press International
A man suspected of kidnapping two pre-teenage sisters who had been living with their mother and her boyfriend in a car parked near Walt Disney World was expected to be extradited to Florida today.

Myrna Lynn Faur, 7, and her sister, Raquel Rose Faur, 12, disappeared Aug. 2 from an Interstate 4 rest area of the Lake Buena Vista interchange in the Orlando area near Walt Disney World.

Cherokee County Sheriff C.M. "Mack" Garrett said the children were found Saturday night in Centre, Ala., after their apparent abductor wrecked his car. Garrett said the girls weren't hurt and were being cared for by state welfare officials.

Before the children were abducted they had been living at the Florida rest area in a 1970 Cadillac with their 14-year-old brother, Patrick, their mother, Alice Rose Faur, and her boyfriend, Herbert Johnson.

A man babysitting the two girls, Steve Osborne, allowed them to leave with another man he had only met three days before. Osborne said the man, known to him as James Elliott, offered to take the girls to Walt Disney World.

"He didn't seem like a killer, a rapist or a child molester," Osborne said after the youngsters disappeared. "I still don't think he's that type of guy. I still consider him a friend."

Orange County sheriff's Capt. John Guempe said the kidnapping suspect was drunk when he wrecked his car in a ditch near a Centre residence in northeast Alabama.

PLO Guerrillas To Begin Withdrawal This Weekend

United Press International
Palestine Liberation Organization guerrillas trapped in west Beirut will begin leaving the Lebanese capital by the end of the week under the agreement negotiated by U.S. envoy Philip Habib, Lebanon's prime minister said today.

"I expect the implementation of the plan prepared by Mr. Habib at the end of this week at the latest," Prime Minister Cheif Wazzan said after conferring with the American diplomat in Beirut.

Wazzan said the Lebanese Cabinet will meet Wednesday to discuss the final mechanics of the evacuation of the estimated 7,000 to 9,000 PLO fighters in the besieged capital.

The Cabinet also will formally call on the United States, France and Italy to send troops as part of a peace-keeping force to supervise the withdrawal.

Wazzan's remarks came as Beirut's leftist newspaper As Saif — which is sympathetic to the PLO — said the guerrillas would begin their evacuation of west Beirut Friday or Saturday.

Woman, 77, Scares Off Armed Robber

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

A 77-year-old Longwood woman scared off an armed robber by faking a heart attack but not before the man stole $140 cash and an undisclosed amount of jewelry from her trailer home.

Elizabeth Fritsch, of 753 Poinsetta Street, in the Lake Katherine trailer park, told deputies she was robbed by a man who knocked on her door at about 11 a.m. Sunday, asked her if she had been in a nearby drugstore Saturday evening and if she had lost the wedding ring he held in his hand.

When Mrs. Fritsch told the man she had been in the store but had not lost the ring, the man pulled out a pocket knife, put the blade against Mrs. Fritsch's neck, said "this is a holdup," and forced her into the trailer and to a rear bedroom where her husband, who suffers from a heart condition, was lying in bed, deputies said.

The robber then demanded the couple's money and took $140 from Fritsch's wallet, deputies said. He also stole an undisclosed amount of jewelry which he placed in a plastic bag.

In an effort to scare the armed robber into leaving her home, Mrs. Fritsch faked a heart attack and fell to the floor, deputies said.

The robber, who Mrs. Fritsch said was about 30 to 35 years old with a space between his front teeth, ran from the home, cutting telephone lines before fleeing in a small white car.

SANFORD HOME BURGLARIZED
Thieves broke into the home of Lee Moore, 2456 Mellonville Ave., and stole an undetermined amount of property Sunday.

Police said they discovered the burglary at about 12:34 a.m. Sunday while on routine patrol. A bathroom window had been broken and the home entered, police said.

AUTO PARTS SHOP HIT
About $793 cash was stolen from a cash box in the Parts City automotive parts shop, 605 W. 25th St., between 6 p.m. Saturday and 8:45 a.m. Sunday.

Police said the thieves entered the shop after removing an air vent on the roof of the building. After stealing the money, the thieves replaced the vent and fled, police said.

Dr. Irrgang Heads Seminole Cancer Unit

Dr. Sara Irrgang has been named unit chairman of the Cancer Prevention Study II for the Seminole Unit of the American Cancer Society.

Cancer Prevention Study II is slated to begin in the Seminole County area on Sept. 1. Similar to a study the society conducted from 1959 to 1972, the new study will follow a million Americans for a minimum of six years to learn how lifestyles and environment may relate to cancer and other diseases.

Irene K. Brown, president of the society's Seminole Unit, spoke of Dr. Irrgang's record of service to the community.

"Her work in our upcoming environment and lifestyle study will be another example of continuing public service for Seminole County."

Dr. Irrgang, pathologist at Central Florida Regional Hospital, will oversee the start-up Cancer Prevention Study II and manage the study over the next six years. She will be responsible for organizing and directing the recruitment of volunteer researchers who in turn will enroll local residents in the study. These participants will be asked to complete a detailed, confidential questionnaire about their health and lifestyle practices.

"From information provided by Seminole County residents, and study participants all over the U.S., scientists at the society's national office will try to find factors related to cancer that may be useful in instituting measures everyone can take to prevent cancer," said Irrgang.

SANFORD SCHOOL HIT

Thieves broke into the Sanford Elementary School, 301 W. Seventh St., between 3:10 p.m. Thursday and 9 a.m. Friday stealing a small amount of money, searching classrooms, offices and cabinets and spraying paint on a chalkboard and clock.

Police said the culprits entered the school after removing two glass window panes from a hall window. Once inside, the thieves searched desks, cabinets and classrooms stealing a small amount of money from one desk and spraying paint on a clock and chalkboard, police said. The vandals sprayed the word, "Funkadelic" on the chalkboard, police added.

FOUR DRUG CHARGES FILED
Four Seminole County people were arrested Friday by Seminole County Drug Task Force agents on charges of cultivating marijuana.

Agents raided the home of Kenneth Fillingar, 20, of 2825 S. Magnolia Ave., Sanford, at about 5:30 p.m. Friday and arrested Fillingar on charges of cultivating marijuana, possession of a controlled substance and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Police reported the marijuana was seen growing in the back yard of the residence and just prior to the raid Fillingar was allegedly seen in a car outside the property giving marijuana to another man.

The car also was searched and Jimmie Johnson, 39, Osteen, was arrested on the same charges.

Fillingar today was in the Seminole County Jail in lieu of $8,000 bond.

Jones was lodged in jail in lieu of $500 bond.

Agents from the drug task force also arrested John and Betty Schultz, of Geneva, on charges of cultivating marijuana, possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia. They were released on $500 bond each.

TWO CHARGED IN FRAUD

Martin Moore and Brian Rist, of 105A, Springwood Village, Longwood, were arrested Friday afternoon on charges of intent to defraud several Seminole County residents.

Police said Moore, 22, and Rist, 28, were arrested at their apartment after depositing fraudulent checks, police reports said. Several banks in South Seminole County said they had lost a total of $2,000.

Inconsistency Can Lead To Incoherence

One of President Reagan's least-defensible decisions last year was his lifting of the U.S. grain embargo against the Soviet Union.

In Des Moines recently, Mr. Reagan compounded this mistake by promising a one-year grain-sale extension beyond the Sept. 30 deadline that would permit farmers record sales to the Soviets.

Some administration spokesmen have pointed out that the president is keeping the Soviets on a short leash by not renewing long-term grain sales contracts. Critics, on the other hand, maintain the administration could have minimized negative reaction by refusing to negotiate a new pact at this time and by simply allowing grain sales to continue without an agreement.

Instead, Mr. Reagan made much of "the sanctity of the contract" he is proposing with the Soviets. "... We must restore confidence in U.S. reliability as a supplier," he said.

The cheers in Des Moines over the promised deal were jeers in Bonn, Paris, and London. Our West European allies have been up in arms over the Reagan administration's decision to block foreign subsidiaries of U.S. companies from selling equipment for the Soviet-Siberian natural gas pipeline. They regard as hypocritical the president's renewal of a one-year grain sales contract to the Soviets at a time he is pressuring them to forgo the Soviet pipeline. And his homily about the sanctity of U.S. contracts is especially enraging for them because he is enforcing his pipe-line boycott by requiring U.S. firms to break their European contracts.

It is true that the grain embargo imposed by President Carter after the Soviet Union invaded Afghanistan in December 1979 was only partially successful because other grain suppliers did not join in. Nevertheless, withholding U.S. grain was not without a telling effect on the Russians.

Moscow was forced to scurry around and find other sources and pay hard cash at higher prices.

The Carter grain embargo cost the Soviet Union an estimated $5 billion extra that it could ill afford.

One thing everyone agrees on, according to Jan Vanous, East bloc specialist at Wharton Econometric Forecasting Associates, is that a grain embargo would be damaging to the Soviets. "Where they are most vulnerable is where we are helping them the most," he warns.

A grain embargo would hurt much more now than in 1980 because Soviet dependence on Western grain is soaring. The Russians now must import more than 20 percent of their grain requirements compared with about 15 percent two years ago and only about 6 percent in 1978.

In the full knowledge of these facts, West Europeans angrily ask why the Reagan administration should expect them to do all the sacrificing in a get-tough attitude toward the Soviet Union — why their firms and workers should give up doing business with the Soviets on the pipeline while U.S. farmers are enjoying record grain sales.

Despite its arguments about the difference between obtaining Soviet cash for grain in contrast with paying the Soviets for natural gas, the Reagan administration has failed to justify its obvious inconsistency. The bigger problem is that such inconsistency in foreign affairs often lapses into incoherence.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Mom, if we just mess around together, would that be considered 'quality time'?"

By DONNA ESTES

A man could earn a living that way. That was the reaction of Lake Mary Councilman Ray Fox to the report that State Rep. Jason Steele, R-Rockledge, in his bid for a Senate seat has taken nearly half his campaign funds for his personal salary. It's all legal. But Fox said if a person enjoyed campaigning, and had a good fund-raiser on the payroll, he could earn his living doing what he liked by being a perennial candidate.

"The Challenger," the official newspaper of the Republican Party of Florida, published in its August edition a selection of rhetorical gems as only politicians can provide.

The gems were originally reported in the Wall Street Journal in an article by Eugene Carlson. The quotes were heard in the chambers of the Michigan State Legislature.

They are as follows:
— "Before I give you the benefit of my remarks, I'd like to know what we're talking about."

— "There comes a time to put principle aside and do what's right."

— "I don't see anything wrong with saving human life. That would be good politics, even for us."

— "This bill goes to the very heart of the moral fiber of human anatomy."

— "It's a step in the right direction, it's the answer, and it's constitutional, which is even better."

— "Some of our friends wanted it in the bill, some of our friends wanted it out, and Jerry and I are going to stick with our friends."

— "I'm not only for capital punishment, I'm also for the preservation of life."

— "From now on, I'm watching everything you do with a fine-toothed comb."

— "The chair would wish the members would refrain from talking about the intellectual levels of other members. That always leads to problems."

— "I don't think people appreciate how difficult it is to be a pawn of labor."

— "This state's atypical. We've got some real weird ducks and I think that's reflected in this senate, with all due respect"

— "Let's violate the law one more year."

— "Mr. Speaker, what bill did we just pass?"

At the same time, the Democratic Express, the weekly newsletter from the Florida Democratic Party, reports that State Rep. Robert Hattaway, D-Altamonte Springs, has come out swinging against Republican State Sen. Toni Jennings of Orlando in his drive to take the 15th District Senate seat away from her.

"He's challenging her role as a member of the Senate Democratic-Republican coalition and accuses her of short-changing Orange County interests as a result," the Newsletter states.

But, Miss Jennings is obviously popular in the Seminole-Orange district. She has been able to raise $27,000 for her campaign while Hattaway has raised less than $7,000.

Hattaway's supporters say, however, that Hattaway will have all the money he needs and that now he is concentrating on campaign organizing.

DON GRAFF

Democrats Throw A Rod

For a proposition of such minimal merit that kicked around so long generating so little enthusiasm among so many political professionals, the balanced budget amendment appears suddenly to have acquired the momentum of an inevitability.

Mind you, it's not that the idea itself is so off target. Fiscal responsibility in public affairs is greatly to be desired. But so are minimizing loss of life in earthquakes and avoiding abuse of alcohol.

The point is that these worthy social goals are not achieved through mere words, even if enshrined in basic law.

Writing off Senate approval of the amendment proposal as political hypocrisy, a cynical election-year maneuver to blunt negative public reaction to ballooning budget deficits, is too easy. What is happening is more complex and more demeaning to the democratic process than that.

While public support for the principle of budget balancing is unquestionably broad, public comprehension of what it involves is not. The budget makers may be doing a poor job, but there is no way that they can be compelled to guess right every time on economic uncertainties that ultimately shape a budget. That is what this proposal would attempt to do.

Much of the public may lack the legislative expertise to comprehend this, but its elected representatives in the Senate presumably know better. A majority, however, has responded to public sentiment by abdication of its responsibility to act in the best interests of the public. That is what the vote reflects, not the real convictions of most of the senators who contributed to it.

It is one of those occasions when democracy's flaws triumph over its virtues, and the democratic process throws a rod. Is there anyone who really believes that a body that could be pressured into this vote cannot later be pressured into taking advantage of the proposed amendment's mile-wide loopholes when expediency calls? As it certainly will — again and again and again.

Loopholes are a major objection but far from the only one. As Vermont Royster, editor-emeritus of the Wall Street Journal observes, the amendment's intent and language depart from the procedural character of the original Constitution and most of the existing amendments. It would mandate what to do, not how to do it.

In the process it is specific without being really binding, stopping just short of scheduling congressional lunch breaks during budget debates. And too wordy. Its six sections are not much briefer than the original Constitution's entire Article III, establishing the federal judiciary.

It exemplifies one of the great dangers in constitution writing. Again borrowing from Royster, it is all too easy "to be caught up in the emotions of the time about what needs to be done and find ourselves afterward unwisely locked into a rigid constitutional vise."

There is no need to look far for bad examples. State constitutions provide many. There was a time, remember, when ERA looked inevitable.

Who Is To Blame For Killing Of Civilians?

BEIRUT — A smoldering question mark hangs over the ruins of Beirut: Who is to blame for the indiscriminate killing of civilians?

Yassir Arafat, the grizzled PLO chieftain, has pronounced Israel guilty. In the midst of defeat, he has lofted by communique, interview and leak a salvo of inflammatory accusations.

Outside his battered press office next to a barricade of sandbags, for example, he went through a show-and-tell act. Leaning against the wall were half a dozen cluster-bomb canisters, each six feet high. The markings revealed that they had been purchased from the U.S. Navy.

Canisters like these, dropped by Israeli planes, had opened over Beirut; each had scattered hundreds of golfball-size bomblets over a neighborhood, he said. Then each tiny ball had exploded like a grenade, raining down lethal shrapnel on the populace below.

The wily Arafat, with his flair for dramatics appeared as the embattled leader of an heroic, last-ditch stand. Any leader can be a

ANTHONY HARRIGAN

Year Of The Giveback

With many industries in deep trouble, it is widely believed that labor unions will have to make major concessions. Indeed Dun's Business Month recently referred to 1982 as the Year of The Giveback.

This means that unions will have to yield part of the wage gains that they obtained in the affluent 1970s. Certainly, a number of union members are beginning to see the handwriting on the wall. If they don't make concessions, the industries they work in are likely to disappear. In the steel industry, for example, layoffs continue at a high level. Production in the steel industry is at about 47 percent of capacity, and there is little likelihood of improvement in the months ahead. Unions must face up to the fact that hard-pressed employers can't pass on labor costs to the consumer.

The industrial unions won't yield without a fight, of course, and we continue to see strikes even at a time when the economy is going downhill fast. Nevertheless, there is little in the way of a strike attitude in the labor movement as a whole. Realism is beginning to emerge.

Limitations on income growth are hard to adjust to, of course. Industrial workers, like other Americans, have high expectations. They aren't the only victims of recession, however. Many large businesses have cut or frozen executive and white collar employee salaries.

Business, for its part, may concentrate too much on wage givebacks. This would be a serious mistake. Archaic, hurtful work rules are more threatening to American business than excessive wages. In many industries, union agreements over the years have stripped management of flexibility in assigning employees.

Under many union contracts, workers can't be shifted from job to job as they are needed. One example that came to my attention recently was of a worker whose job it was to attach taillights to tractors. He would complete his task in two hours of the working day. Thereafter, he sat around and drank coffee. The company couldn't assign him to other duties. This rigidity contributes to a decline in productivity and profits. In the long run, the worker is the loser because his employer goes out of business.

The example of railroad worker rules is the classic case. A trip of 100 miles remains the working day of a locomotive engineer. The reason is that 100 miles was a full day's trip at the turn of the century. How can a transportation company hope to survive if it is required to accept work rules that belong to the age of steam? Obviously, it can't.

Americans have read about British locomotive drivers who refused to accept flexible work rules until British Rail threatened to shut down the entire system. The no-work, slow-work procedures in effect in Great Britain are duplicated in the United States.

Everyone understands how Britain lost its preeminence because of indolence and union rigidity. The U.S. public is much less aware of the extent to which British type union obstructionism exists in American industry.

Archaic management practices are a reality. In this case, however, management that fails to adjust to changing times simply loses out.

The only way to halt the process of this de-industrialization is to abolish archaic work rules.

hero in victory; only Arafat could project himself as the hero of a catastrophe.

I confronted Ariel Sharon, the big, bluff Israeli defense minister, about the cluster bombs. Who ordered their use? "I did," he said bluntly.

Sharon believes in the sweeping strategies required for total victory. He doesn't pretend to believe that the concept of limited war is other than a contradiction in terms, a perversion of military logic and a betrayal of the troops in the field.

He regretted the necessity, he said, of using cluster bombs. They were designed to knock out tanks and artillery, and that's what he had used them for, he claimed. (The canisters that Arafat showed me, sure enough, were marked "Anti-tank Bomb Cluster.")

Sharon pointed out that he had not chosen Beirut as a battlefield; the choice had been made by the PLO, which had deployed its forces behind a civilian cover.

His aides showed me reconnaissance photographs of Beirut. I could pick out PLO tanks and artillery strategically located near embassies, hospitals, apartment buildings and other sensitive sites. I saw a PLO ammunition dump that had been situated between a church and an adjacent graveyard.

I saw evidence that the Israelis had tried to concentrate their fire on military targets. But I also saw evidence of indiscriminate shelling by both Israeli and PLO artillery.

My associate Dale Van Atta, who accompanied me to Beirut, checked with American sources on Israel's use of cluster bombs. Under the agreement by which the United States provided the deadly bombs, Israel was to use them only for defensive purposes, against fortified military targets and only if Israel were attacked by two or more "Arab states."

Yet the Israelis have reportedly been using the cluster bombs since their 1978 anti-PLO action in Lebanon. Civilians, unfortified cities and even an Armenian hospital have been hit on a number of occasions. One reliable source said the bombs have been used so often in the past four years in Lebanon that in some areas fragments are "as common as pine cones in a

JEFFREY HART

Saving You Some Money

In a recent column, I reported on Reagan's proposal to transfer some 40 federal programs to the states in exchange for a federal takeover of Medicaid.

The idea, really, is not that the states will continue to fund the former federal programs at their present levels, but that when the voters get a good look at those programs they will decide that they would rather keep their tax money, or at least a lot of it.

At present, it is very difficult for public opinion to have much impact on these programs. Congress is vulnerable to small but well-focused pressure groups, and public opinion doesn't really know what is involved here.

As I remarked in my earlier column, most people have never even heard of most of these federal programs.

Government in the largest states, such as California and New York, is still pretty remote from the grass roots.

Let us make a preliminary test of my assertion that you are paying for a lot of federal programs which you have never heard of. And, as you scan the following list, please give at least preliminary answers to the key question: Do you really want this program and, are you willing to be taxed to pay for it?

Here are some of the programs, large and small, which Reagan's New Federalism would submit to review at the state level:

Education and Training

Vocational and rehabilitation, $952 million; Vocational and adult education, 750 million; State Education and Rehabilitation Block Grants, $537 million; Comprehensive Employment and Training Act, $2.9 billion; Work Incentive Program, $245 million.

Energy Assistance

Low-income home energy assistance, $1.9 billion.

Social, Health, Nutrition Services

Child nutrition, $3.2 billion; Child welfare, foster care and adoption assistance, $485 million; Runaway youths and child abuse, $15 million; Social Services Block Grant, $2.4 billion; Legal Services, $240 million; Community Services Block Grant, $348 million; Preventive Medicine Block Grant, $82 million; Alcohol, Drug Abuse and Mental Health Block Grant, $432 million; Primary care health care centers, $248 million; Maternal and Child Health Block Grant, $348 million; Primary care research and development, $2 million; Family planning, $125 million.

Transportation

Urban transportation, $800 million; Secondary transportation, $400 million; Appalachian highways, $75 million. Urban Mass Transportation Administration, construction, $2.4 billion; Urban Mass Transportation Administration, operating, $640 million; Highway safety, $10 million.

Community Development, Facilities

Water and sewer grants, $125 million; Water and sewer loans, $375 million; Community facilities loans, $130 million; Community Development Block Grants, $3.5 billion; Waste water treatment grants, $2.4 billion.

One particular horror of the cluster bomb is that the mini-bombs sometimes land on a soft surface, or otherwise fail to detonate as they're supposed to; then they become tempting, lethal toys for curious children who find them lying around on the ground.

Even soldiers find the bomblets attractive souvenirs. The results can be fatal. Lt. Gen. Rafael Eitan, Israel's chief of staff, warned his troops not to pick up the cluster bomblets "Because your life may depend on it." Eitan's confidential directions revealed that eight Israeli soldiers had been wounded in such souvenir hunts.

In the past, the Israeli government denied using cluster bombs. But in the 1978 incursion, an Israeli journalist not only saw some dropped near civilians; he himself was badly injured by one. He wrote a long story about the incident from his hospital bed. Instead of printing it, his paper published a government press release that played down the use of the weapon.

Sales of cluster bombs have always been wrapped in tight security; the documents are classified "Secret" at a minimum.

Golsteyn Looks Sharp In Fourth-Quarter Surge

Morton, Carver Raise Stock In Buc Romp

TAMPA (UPI) — A pair of fleet running backs from Nevada-Las Vegas raised their stock with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers Saturday night as they broke open the NFL exhibition game with the Philadelphia Eagles in the fourth period of a 35-7 romp.

Michael Morton, a 12th-round draft choice, scored on a 9-yard touchdown run and then broke loose for an 80-yard scoring jaunt, while free agent Melvin Carver jolted the Eagles with a 30-yard run for the Bucs final score.

But despite the score, Eagles Coach Dick Vermeil was not overly concerned with his club's performance.

"We had some mismatches there at the end," he said. "They had some pretty high draft choices playing against guys that will probably have to be sent home Monday. After tonight, I'd have to say we haven't progressed as much as I would like, but you have to think maybe it has more to do with (coaching) approach."

"I think we got everybody in that we could," said Tampa Coach John McKay. "I thought for a preseason game it was a good game for us."

McKay saw his veteran quarterback Doug Williams and tight end Jimmy Giles team up on a 2-yard touchdown pass and then watched his rookies strut their stuff.

In addition to the Morton-Carver show, rookie linebacker Jeff Davis of Clemson rambled 29 yards for a touchdown with an intercepted pass.

The Eagles only score came on a second quarter pass of two yards from Ron Jaworski to rookie tight end Lawrence Sampleton of Texas.

Jaworski gave way to Joe Pisarcik midway through the second period. He remained in the game until late in the final period when he was knocked unconscious while scrambling to pick up the ball after it had been centered over his head.

Pisarcik was hospitalized for observation and released Sunday.

Williams played only the first period for Tampa and was followed by Chuck Fusina and then former New York Giants quarterback Jerry Golsteyn, who was directing the team during the three-touchdown fourth quarter.

McKay said Golsteyn looked "much sharper" than Fusina but added, "I think he was going against lesser people."

Vermeil said the Eagles passed more than they normally would because they already know about their running game, anchored by Wilbert Montgomery.

"We wanted to look at all the little things," he said. "We know we can run. We know Wilbert can run. And we know our offensive linemen can block for the run. But we wanted to throw more, because we wanted to give all the young guys more opportunities to catch."

The Eagles had 17 different pass receivers and 14 different ball carriers representing 24 different players.

In all, Vermeil used 83 players in the opening exhibition game and McKay used 68.

All but one player from both squads met at the center of the field prior to the game for a mass hand-shaking show of player solidarity in the contract talks with the owners.

The only player not participating was Tampa free agent offensive lineman Matt Petzelka from Iowa.

"I didn't do that for publicity, I can guarantee you that," Petzelka said later. "I just instinctively didn't do it. I just had my mind on football. I didn't even notice them going out and shaking hands when they did."

"To be honest, I was saying a prayer at the time," he said. "I'm preoccupied with making this football team."

The players had been warned they face minimum fines of $100 each if they participated in any such action, a move union representatives said they would fight.

Dolphins Shake Up 'Skins

MIAMI (UPI) — Except for the "solidarity shake" before the game, Miami's 24-7 victory over the Washington Redskins was about what you would expect from an opening-preseason game.

There were 13 penalties and six turnovers. Most of the obvious mistakes were by the Redskins but untimely penalties and dropped passes by the Dolphins, especially in the first quarter, took their toll.

The Redskins threw two interceptions, lost three fumbles and were penalized 13 times for 192 yards. The turnovers led to two of Miami's three touchdowns.

"No way you can get that number of penalties, and turn the ball over that often and win. That's just cut and dried," said Redskin coach Joe Gibbs after the game Saturday night.

Quarterback Joe Theismann, who played the entire first half, heartily agreed.

"It boils down to the fact we fell down on fundamentals. It's that plain and simple," Theismann said. "There's no mystery to football when you make that many mistakes."

Dolphin Coach Don Shula preferred to look on the bright side. "We did the job in all phases. Our first team against their first team, our second team against their second team," he said. "The defense played well except for the opening drive. It came up with a lot of balls for the offense."

Among the bright spots for Don Shula and his staff was the running of Larry Cowan, a stubby seventh-round draft choice from Jackson State, who carried the ball 11 times for 69 yards, including long gainers of 16 and 13 yards.

Shula called his performance "outstanding" and said the 5-foot-11 190-pound Cowan may be "the slashing-type runner" the Dolphins have been looking for in the past few years.

No answers to uncertain place-kicking were provided by either team. In the Redskin duel between Mark Moseley and rookie Danny Miller of the University of Miami, Moseley missed a 53-yard field goal and Miller was short with a 48-yarder.

As for the handshake to show union solidarity during the currently deadlocked NFL contract negotiation, nine dolphin rookies and veteran guard Bob Kuechenberg remained on the sideline.

"I didn't think it was appropriate," said Kuechenberg, the only non-union member among Dolphin veterans. "I have been pretty consistent with my views toward (players association representative Ed) Garvey. The most important thing is that this team sticks together."

"Management needs to put a decent offer on the table and the players need to get off this nickel-and-dime stuff so we can get down to what negotiations are all about."

In other games Saturday, Baltimore

Green Bay nipped the New York Jets 21-19, Atlanta topped Minnesota 20-17, Buffalo downed Dallas 14-10, Cleveland slipped by Detroit 17-16, Denver defeated the Los Angeles Rams 33-20, Miami clubbed Washington 24-7, Pittsburgh stopped New England 24-20, and Tampa Bay routed Philadelphia 35-7.

On Friday night, Kansas City edged Cincinnati 26-20 and Seattle blanked St. Louis 14-0.

At Baltimore, a 45-yard interception return by reserve linebacker Ricky Jones of a Mark Reed pass in the closing moments of the final quarter set up a 1-yard plunge by Howard Jackson with just 13 seconds remaining.

At Green Bay, Wis., Rich Campbell passed for one touchdown and Willard Reeves and Eddie Lee Ivery ran for two more to lead the Packers.

At Atlanta, reserve quarterback Mike Moroski threw a 19-yard TD pass to rookie running back Reggie Brown with 4:38 remaining to lift the Falcons.

At Irving, Texas, Matt Robinson, the fourth Buffalo quarterback of the night, threw a 2-yard swing pass to Arthur Whittington for the winning touchdown with 39 seconds left to spark the Bills.

At Pontiac, Mich., Cleo Miller scored on an 8-yard run with 7:20 remaining and Matt Bahr's conversion clinched Cleveland's victory.

At Anaheim, Calif., Steve DeBerg passed for 161 yards in the first half and Mark Herrmann keyed a second-half rally to lead the Broncos.

At Miami, veteran Don Strock directed a third-quarter touchdown drive that FORT PIERCE — A four-run, sixth-inning led to the demise of the Altamonte Legion Post 183 Saturday night as Winter Haven went on to claim a 9-2 victory in American Legion State Tournament action.

Tommy Williams led off the sixth by crushing a 380-foot homer off starting

With still no outs in the inning a breakdown in communication cost Altamonte a chance at a double play. The runner on first was breaking and a pitch out was called for by Altamonte's second baseman. Stripp missed the call and Tom Clark rolled a grounder to second which

Bucs Look Impressive In Opener

Some 65,000 football-hungry fans went home happy Saturday night when the Tampa Bay Buccaneers put on an impressive showing in its first preseason outing, a 35-7 trouncing of perennial powerhouse Philadelphia Eagles.

A lot of folks have been anxious to know if the Bucs could improve after last year's 9-7 record and the NFL Central Division title.

Well, if Saturday night is any indication, the answer is a definite yes. The Bucs got outstanding all-around performances and some of the rookies showed they are ready for the NFL. And, the Bucs showed, when it comes to depth, they are quite a few steps ahead of the Eagles.

The veterans got in some work in the opening half as Tampa took a 14-7 lead at intermission. Doug Williams completed seven of nine passes for 68 yards and one touchdown. Williams should establish himself as one of the premiere signal callers in the game this season.

James Wilder showed versatility at running back with 19 yards rushing on three carries and he caught three passes for 37 yards. The Bucs backs turned in 211 yards rushing for the game while the Eagles managed only 97 and were led by I.M. Hipp's 30 yards.

Tampa Bay dominated the Eagles throughout most of the game but the Eagles had a few chances to tie it in the first half. Tony (when I kick with my bare feeties, I get the eaties for my Wheaties) Franklin missed two field goals and Joe Pisarcik, the second string QB for Philadelphia, threw three interceptions.

The second half was a different story. Tampa Bay's defense totally shut down the Eagles offense. A Neal Colzie interception late in the first half seemed to fire up the Bucs for the second half. Dana Nafziger, converted from tight end to linebacker, led the defensive effort along with Scot Brantley and Jeff Davis.

In the fourth quarter the Bucs turned a close game, it was still 14-7 after three quarters, into a run away with 21 fourth-quarter points.

Four newcomers put on a fine showing for Tampa Bay in the decisive second half. Jerry Golsteyn, an ex-New York Giant QB, led the Bucs to its third touchdown that seemed to take the air out of the Eagles. Golsteyn completed three of seven passes for 49 yards.

The most outstanding single performance of the night belonged to Tampa Bay rookie running back Michael Morton. Morton, a powder keg in football armor, exploded for touchdowns of nine and 80 yards. He ended up gaining 104 yards on just five carries. The 80-yard run was a Buc record.

Another rookie in the Bucs backfield, Melvin Carver, scored the last TD on a 30-yard run. Carver carried nine times for 61 yards.

The Bucs other TD was scored when Davis picked off a Pisarcik pass and returned it 29 yards.

The preseason is usually dubbed as a time for the NFL teams to work out the kinks and look at the rookies and new players to the team. As for the kinks, there weren't many at all. As for the rookies, they showed they have what it takes to play professionally.

The 1982 version of the Tampa Bay Buccaneers could shape up to be one of the finest years in Buc history if Saturday night's game was a preview of things to come.

Gerulaitis Gets Serious, Trips Lendl For Canadian

TORONTO (UPI) — The reformation of Vitas Gerulaitis is now a "serious" matter.

The blond New Yorker, his rakish ways replaced by a devotion to tennis, worked quickly back from a one-set deficit Sunday to defeat Ivan Lendl 4-6, 6-1, 6-3 and win the $300,000 Canadian Open Tennis Championship.

"I just want him (Lendl) to know that nothing he does perturbs me," said Gerulaitis, talking very tough for a man who was working harder at his nightlife than at his serve less than a year ago.

But the words were fully earned against Lendl, who had not lost a set in his journey to the final, including a shockingly easy 6-4, 6-4 win over John McEnroe Saturday in the semifinals.

In mid-season last year, Gerulaitis allowed his inclination for parties and late hours to get the better of his tennis game. He plunged to the low teens in the computer rankings for the first time in eight years.

"I mean, you could not find me. I was having a great time," he said. "Then I decided it was no fun losing to guys I used to beat 6-0, 6-0.

Norris Out-Foxes Floyd

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (UPI) — Wily old fox Ray Floyd chased Tom Norris over the Wethersfield Country Club golf course for four days, but he never did catch the record-setting rabbit.

Floyd, however, could relate to the first-ever victory by Norris, a Fresno, Calif., native who can now pay his bills from the $54,000 jackpot he earned Sunday.

Norris, 24, blasted a 5-underpar final round of 66 for this year's lowest total, 259, which was just two strokes shy of the all-time low. He led the earlier rounds with cards of 63, 64 and 66 over the par-71 course.

"I feel blank now," said Norris, a serious, plodding worker on the course struggling to hang on to his PGA tour card. "This will be something I'll remember for a long, long time."

Daniel Coasts By 8 Strokes

JERICHO, N.Y. (UPI) — Beth Daniel's victory in a $125,000 tournament was so anticlimactic — she won for the fifth time this year to take home $18,750 — that she herself began to wonder who would capture The Battle For Second Place.

When the dust settled Sunday, Daniel had a tournament-record, 12-under-par total of 276 for an eight-stroke victory over — get ready — Martha Hansen and Ayako Okamoto.

The tournament was known as the WUI Classic. "But I don't want to hear anybody saying, 'Who are these people?'" said Daniel, 25, who boosted her 1982 winnings to $199,298. "I think I deserved to win and I think both Martha and Ayako deserved to finish well. They're up-and-coming pros."

Rogers Does It All At Speedway

NEW SMYRNA BEACH — David Rogers did everything right and ended up the big winner on Saturday night at New Smyrna Speedway. Rogers turned fast time, won his heat, won the flip of the coin setting him on the pole and led all the way to win the 25-lap late model main in his new Miller High Life 1982 Firebird.

But Rogers definitely did not run away with it, as he had to contend with the extra strong challenge of second quickest "Leaping" LeRoy Porter who stayed right up on his rear spoiler lap after lap, ready to take advantage of the slightest mistake.

Third was Dick Anderson, followed by division's high point man Joe Middleton and seasoned veteran Bob Eggerl. Second heat winner was Jim Ownby.

Joe Coupas won the thunder car feature, ahead of previous week's winner John Cochran. Apparent third place finisher Pete Starr was again disqualified for an illegal carburetor, moving Randy Tyler, Mike Fitch and Tom Balmer up in positions three to five. Heat winners were Coupas and Chuck Burkhalter.

Sieve Rambaugh won the street stock feature, besting the DiCandido brothers (Ron and Lynn), Mike Barfield and the new ABC Lounge machine of Bob Collins who won the first heat. Second heat winner was Lynn DiCandido.

Alan Howell, a member of the Bob's Space Racers' No. 96 late-model crew, won the four cylinder feature. Second to fifth were Charlie Tolson, Eddie Trevat, Richard Newton and Bob Clark.

Jay Catalano outlasted and outbanged 26 hopefuls to win the giant demolition derby. Second was George O'Berry.

Schmidt Makes Expos Pay; Sweep Lifts Cards Sky High

United Press International

Mike Schmidt usually receives more intentional passes than a mini-skirted girl on a U.S. Navy base.

But Montreal Manager Jim Fanning went against the basic idea of purposely walking baseball's most dangerous slugger Sunday and it ended up costing the Expos.

With first base open, the tying run on second and two out in the ninth inning, Fanning and pitcher Steve Rogers elected to pitch to Schmidt rather than George Vuckovich, and the hot-hitting third baseman unloaded his 26th homer to give the Philadelphia Phillies a 3-1 triumph.

The late manager Fred Hutchinson used to say after consistently walking Ted Williams intentionally, "I'd rather see Ted on first base because then I know where he is, rather than at home plate because I don't where he'll wind up."

Fanning said he let Rogers make the decision about pitching to Schmidt.

"Normally, I tell the pitcher whether he should pitch to the man or walk him. But in this case, Steve figured he'd get him out," Fanning said.

Pete Rose left the ninth with a single and went to second on a sacrifice by Manny Trillo. One out later, Schmidt homered to send Rogers down to his sixth loss in 20 decisions. It was the first decision that Rogers had lost to Philadelphia since April 29, 1981.

Marty Bystrom allowed only three hits in eight innings to get the victory. Tug McGraw relieved in the ninth but was replaced by Ron Reed after giving up a leadoff single to Warren Cromartie. Reed got the last three outs to gain his eighth save.

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — When it rains, it pours. This time, it was baseballs from heaven.

After rallying to tie it in the ninth, the hapless Atlanta Braves dropped a 6-5 decision in 10 innings Sunday when center fielder Dale Murphy lost a fly ball in the sun to open the door for the San Diego Padres' victory.

"Usually a ball like that goes into the sun and comes out. This one didn't come out," Murphy said after the Braves lost their 12th game in the last 13 attempts and 10 of 11 on this road swing to tumble out of first place.

"I waited it out and said to myself, 'Maybe this one will hit me in the glove,'" Murphy added.

Terry Kennedy opened the 10th inning with a single to right and Gene Richards ran for him. Sixto Lezcano then hit the fly that Murphy let drop, allowing Richards to reach third. Luis Salazar hit loser Steve Bedrosian's second pitch into left field for the gamewinner.

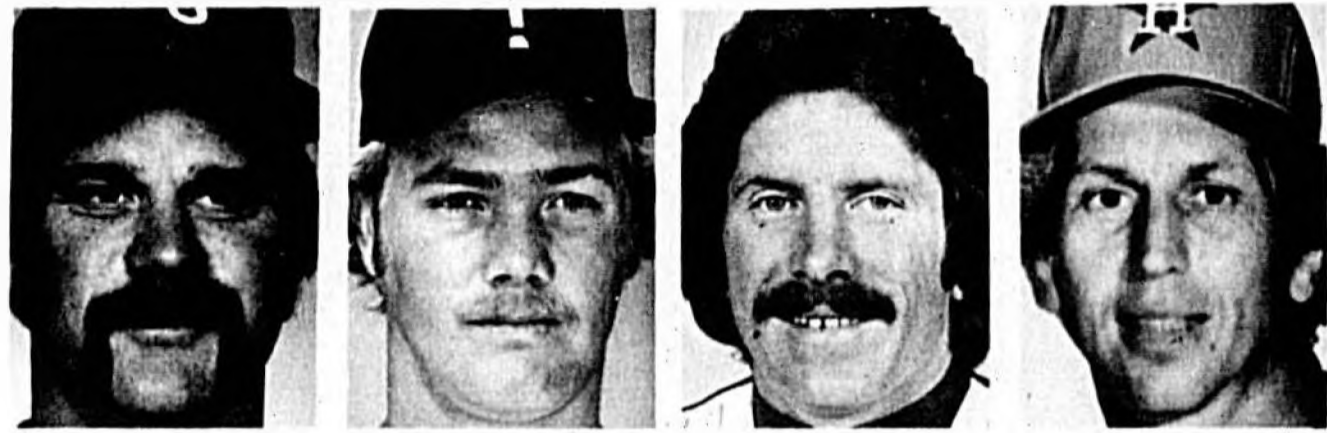

"I was looking for a ball to hit to the outfield," Salazar said. "We had some very good luck in that last inning."

Luis DeLeon picked up the victory in relief.

Giants 8, Dodgers 6
At Los Angeles, Darrell Evans and Jeff Leonard homered to pace the Giants to their fourth straight triumph over Fernando Valenzuela. The Giants tagged Valenzuela for eight hits and five runs in only three innings and helped rookie Bill Laskey to his 12th victory.

Astros 7, Reds 3
At Cincinnati, Don Sutton, 12-8, allowed five hits in eight innings and struck out 10, while Dickie Thon collected four hits, including three doubles, to pace the Reds. Reds starter Tom Seaver failed to retire a batter in the first inning before being removed from the game with an aching right shoulder. He was charged with his 13th loss in 18 decisions.

Mets 6-5, Cubs 5-4
At New York, Ed Lynch scattered nine hits in seven innings and George Foster and Mookie Wilson had RBI singles in a three-run third inning to lead the Mets to victory in the opener. Leon Durham hit two home runs, including an inside-the-park shot, as the Cubs salvaged a split in the nightcap.

Leonard's Helping Hand Swats Tigers

United Press International

With his fingers healed, Dennis Leonard figures to give Kansas City a hand.

"He gives us a good-pitched game," said Royals Manager Dick Howser Sunday after watching Leonard spark a 6-1 triumph over the Tigers at Detroit.

"We're going to have a heckuva time winning if he doesn't pitch well." Right now, though, it appears Leonard may pitch well. The right-hander, making only his second start since suffering two broken fingers, did not allow a hit for 5 1-3 innings and scattered four hits over eight innings.

"This is just one time out," Howser said. "It is encouraging. You have to like what you see. But next time out it could be different. I'm not going to start waving banners."

Howser would gladly postpone waving banners if he can eventually hoist a pennant. Leonard's triumph put the Royals right on target, launching them into first place in the AL West by a half-game over California.

When the right-hander had his middle and index fingers broken by Buddy Bell's comeback on May 21, it seemed Kansas City's season might end. Instead, the Royals stayed close enough to strike now.

"They did a heckuva job winning while I was hurt," Leonard said. "If we were losing, it would be worse for me. It was disappointing getting hurt. Then I came back against Baltimore and pitched bad. I thought, 'What's the deal?'"

This time, Leonard, 6-3, allowed a seventh-inning run when rookie Glenn Wilson put a 3-and-2 pitch into the upper deck in right field with two out for his sixth home run of the season and fifth in nine days.

Dan Quisenberry pitched the ninth inning for the Royals, allowing one hit. The Royals scored four runs in the fourth. Greg Pryor doubled in one run and Willie Wilson followed with a two-run double, before Wilson scored on Hal McRae's grounder.

Red Sox 8, Orioles 0
At Boston, Glenn Hoffman and Dwight Evans each knocked in two runs in an eight-run seventh and Mike Torrez and Bob Stanley combined on a six-hitter to lead the Red Sox. Torrez was hit in the right side of the head by a line drive off the bat of Ken Singleton and was taken to the hospital, where X-rays showed no evidence of a fracture.

Mariners 10, Twins 2
At Minneapolis, Todd Cruz hit a grand slam to cap a seven-run Mariners sixth and Terry Felton suffered his 15th straight loss. Felton, 0-12, has broken the 68-year-old record of Cleveland's Guy Motton for the worst start to a career.

White Sox 6, Yankees 4
At Chicago, Steve Kemp's two-run double highlighted a four-run eighth for the White Sox. Carlton Fisk's shot for a single off shortstop Rodney Scott provided insurance. Dennis Lamp worked the final 1-2-3 innings to pick up the victory. Reliever Rich Gossage, 4-5, took the loss.

A's 3, Angels 2
At Oakland, Calif., Mitchell Page hit reliever Dave Goltz' second pitch in the bottom of the ninth for a home run to give the A's their victory. Reliever Tom Underwood picked up the triumph. Brian Downing homered for California.

Blue Jays 3, Brewers 2
At Milwaukee, Ernie Whitt singled home Alfredo Griffin for Toronto's victory. Griffin opened the ninth with a walk off losing reliever Jim Slaton, moved to second on a sacrifice by Damaso Garcia and scored on Whitt's two-out single to left.

Indians 6, Rangers 4
At Arlington, Texas, Rick Manning's two-run single highlighted a five-run Cleveland uprising in the sixth inning and Miguel Dilone went 4-for-5 and drove in two runs to lift the Indians. Ed Glynn picked up his first save as Cleveland snapped a six-game losing streak.

Mears Regains Confidence With Championship

Racing

MOUNT POCONO, Pa. (UPI) — One race is all Rick Mears needed to regain his confidence and head him in the right direction for a second straight CART driving title.

Mears, admitting he was getting a little worried when he failed to win a race in his last five starts after capturing the first two races of the season, blended experience with an experimental turbocharger to break the losing streak Sunday in the Pocono 500.

Nearing $1.5 million in earnings in only his sixth full season as a championship car driver, Mears beat his Roger Penske teammate Kevin Cogan by two seconds and was sitting comfortably in the catbird seat when he took the checkered flag.

"The car was operating where I could lead and run comfortably," Mears said. "I made up my mind I was going to take it East for 500 miles. At the start I ran hard for a few laps and took the lead. But then I backed down and let Mario (Andretti) and Johnny (Rutherford) go by me. I just decided I would run the same pace they ran, feeling I could go in front again whenever I wanted."

Mears, clocked at 145.879 miles per hour, really had no problems after Rutherford crashed on the 138th lap, suffering a broken right hand, and Gordon Johncock went out on the 156th with a broken gear box.

Johncock had been seeking to become the only driver besides Al Unser to win the triple crown of 500-mile races in a single season. He won at Indianapolis and Michigan this year.

Earning a winner's purse of $66,435, Mears said he thought the Japanese-built turbocharger "didn't make that much difference. It was not a big deal at all. It's the same as other turbochargers we have made in the past. We were taking a chance in using it. It wasn't a proven unit. We weren't sure how our fuel mileage would be when we started."

Gaining the pole position Friday with the first 200-mph lap ever recorded at Pocono and winning Sunday's race gave Mears 68 points and moved him past Johncock into first place in the CART standings with 191. Johncock earned 24 points for a sixth-place finish and is the runner-up with 185.

Mears and Cogan were the only drivers Sunday to go the full 200 laps. Bobby Rahal was third and Geoff Brabham finished fourth, both three laps behind the leaders. Tony Bettenhausen was fifth, covering 195 laps.

Mears said, "I felt that on any particular lap during the race, I had everybody else on the track covered. But too many things can happen. You're never comfortable until a race is over."

Mears led the field 12 times for 142 laps. He was in front for the last 21, wearing down Johncock's car and beating off Cogan's challenge.

Penske, who has fashioned numerous championship teams during the last decade, was particularly delighted over the 1-2 finish of Mears and Cogan.

"I'd been concerned in previous races about our cars finishing," Penske said, "but obviously with this kind of result, it's a great day. Kevin ran real strong at the end and ran Gordy down, which was terrific — especially for the point standings."

Penske hopes the team can do as well over the next three CART races which will be run over road courses.

Cogan, who said Penske's only instruction prior to the race was to "go out and win," admitted there was no way he could catch his teammate at the end.

"When I was leading in the middle of the race," he said, "he went right by me. He was going too fast. I knew there was no chance I could stay with him."

Johncock also said he couldn't catch Mears and was just hustling to stay ahead of Cogan when his gear box broke. "Naturally, I'm disappointed at not taking the triple crown," Johncock said. "When we tipped the wall during qualifying and our suspension was damaged, I thought we might be in trouble. The car did not handle too well in the late stages of the race."

In And Around Winter Springs

Chamber To Conduct Blood Drive

A joint meeting of the Longwood-Winter Springs Chamber of Commerce and the Greater Seminole Chamber will be held on Aug. 23 at 11:45 a.m. at the Quality Inn, Longwood.

A representative from the blood bank will give a short presentation on the blood drive to be held on Sept. 11, in front of the TG&Y store in Longwood. Gary Bemiller is chairman for the event.

Four local high school coaches will present a luncheon football preview to the chamber members.

Catherine Ray, president of the Chamber, and a resident of Longwood, and Bill Daucher, vice president of the Chamber, and a long-time resident of Winter Springs, are merging (marrying) on Sept. 4 at the Winter Springs Community Church.

I'm sure I speak for everyone when I say we wish the very best for these two terrific people.

Meta Burgess says she is really excited these days. She is planning her "first real vacation ever." Meta is going to Mexico to see the Pyramids with a psychic group on Sept. 23-26. She says she'll fill us in on her trip when she gets back.

Dorothy McGonigal is home after having surgery, and her son, Bruce, says she's doing quite well.

There are more wedding bells in the air. This time they are for Robin Ranson and Joe Perez. They have set Nov. 6 for the day when they'll tie the knot. The wedding will take place at the Maitland Art Center in the garden, amidst the flowers and (hopefully) a bright blue sky. Robin is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Seogin of Altamonte Springs.

Our birthday wishes go to Dorlisa Jennings, Aug. 2; Cindy Blackburn, Aug. 4; Wayne Robinson, Aug. 8; Kristi Moore, Aug. 21; and Danny Lenhof, Aug. 27. We wish each of you the very best birthday ever.

Shelly and Kevin Moore have returned from a 3-week vacation in Georgia where they visited with their grandparents, aunts, uncles and cousins.

While their parents, Donna and Chuck, looked forward to having some noise back in the house, I'm not sure if they had planned on so much, all at once. Three days after Shelly and Kevin returned, they not only had them, but also seven other kids for the night.

Two of the children are former Winter Springs residents who have moved to Chicago. Nikki and Todd Gatuso are visiting with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bott of Longwood, and decided to spend three days of their vacation in their former neighborhood to see old school chums.

It seems like this is a week for seeing old friends. My husband and I were visited by Jan and Bill Ross, along with daughters Kathy and Joliet, whom we haven't seen in over a year.

We all used to live in the same neck of the woods in Ohio. They now live in Clearwater and we've decided that's too close to not see one another for so long a time. It's always so good to see good friends.

Andrew Cantinoe just returned from a month's vacation in New York where he visited with his grandparents. He wasn't home a day when he took off on vacation with his parents, Chris and Scott Wyse and brother, Jason, for South Florida.

Andrew returned from New York with New York Yankee T-shirts for some of his friends and family.

If any of you have been to Sanibel and Captiva Islands in the past, when you go again and you think things somehow look different, you will be right.

When we were there a few weeks ago we were surprised to see how the storm, Hurricane Alberto, managed to change some of the land around.

At Turner Beach you can no longer park your car and walk directly on the beach. It now has a channel cut through the beach with signs telling of an undertow. Many of the trees lining the streets have been uprooted and the other are leaning sideways.

We also had a chance to visit the Thomas Edison Museum in Ft. Myers. Thomas Edison is said to have had a learning disability. When you see everything, he was responsible for inventing, it's absolutely incredible.

Penchant For Pain Puzzles Woman

DEAR ABBY: I recently met a man I'll call Rick, and we hit it off from the minute we met. He's a nice-looking guy who works at a health club during the day and tends bar at a classy club three nights a week.

One thing led to another, and he told me if we were going to have any kind of intimate relationship, he wanted to be perfectly honest with me. Then he said he was a "masochist." He said he likes to be "spanked" — hard! I told him I didn't care for violence. He said if he enjoys it, it's not violence. He asked me to go ahead and hit him, and I said no. Then he asked me to think about it. It sounds weird to me.

I don't know what to think of him now. I like him a lot, but I'm afraid if I go along with his wishes, he may try to hurt me. I was married to a wife-beater for a year and have had enough broken bones for one lifetime.

I'm 22, and Rick is 29. Is it dangerous to get mixed up with a masochist? And can you tell me more about masochism? I'm not sure I understand what it is.

WONDERING ABOUT RICK
DEAR WONDERING: You are wise to wonder. "Masochism" is a sexual perversion characterized by a desire to be physically abused in order to achieve sexual gratification. It can be dangerous, so do not agree to engage in any practice that you consider frightening, abnormal or weird.

DEAR ABBY: A couple we have known for many years visited us recently. We truly love them as friends, but the lady is a cleaning nut! Believe me, I am a very good housekeeper and I am not lazy, but just watching her digging in the corners wore me out.

Dear Abby

I don't mind if a houseguest helps with the dishes or keeps the guest room picked up, but this friend was vacuuming and dusting the whole time she was here. She made me feel "dirty" and hurt my feelings.

Why would a guest come into someone's home and work like a horse? I wouldn't do this to my own family. Abby, please tell folks that when they're guests they should relax and not work so hard.

FEELING DIRTY IN KENTUCKY
DEAR FEELING: I'll tell them, but I doubt if it will help compulsive cleaners. Such people work like a horse, digging and cleaning, not because they think the place is "dirty," but because it provides an outlet for their nervous energy.

DEAR ABBY: Last year at a county fair I won first place in the pie category with "Dear Abby's Pecan Pie." This year I won first place with your "Dear Abby's Cheesecake." I really am thrilled and want to thank you for sharing your terrific recipes. Love,

MRS. DIXIE CORDLE, BLAINE, KY.
DEAR DIXIE: My pleasure. And if anyone else out there wants the above-mentioned recipes, they're yours for the asking. Write to: Dear Abby, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

What you don't know can hurt you. For Abby's booklet, "What Teen-Agers Ought to Know," send $2 and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing about an office problem that is creating friction here at work.

We have a large office with three clerks, and two of them have radios that they play all day, every day. The stations selected are hard rock and the volume is loud. I have asked both clerks to keep the volume down, but they persist in keeping it up to what I find a distracting level.

I am 20 years older than the other two "girls" and was not brought up to appreciate rock music. I have no objection to soothing music; in fact, I like it. My supervisor, with whom I have talked about this problem, agrees that the volume should be kept down but does little to enforce it.

We are working in an office at a college, not a regular "business" office.

Do you think that there is any way out of this dilemma? Do you think that rock music has a place in offices? I would like your thoughts on this and any solution that you think we could come up with. NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAMES: Regardless of what kind of office it is, music of any kind at a disturbing level should be prohibited. Complain to your supervisor again, and if nothing is done to improve the situation, complain to the person who supervises the supervisor.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Urea Buildup Has Many Causes

DEAR DR. LAMB — My elderly father died recently from azotemia. The dictionary didn't explain it very well. Would taking tranquilizers over a long time contribute to this urinary trouble? Is it an acute disease or something a person would have chronically? He did not eat very much for several months before he died.

DEAR READER — Azotemia refers to a build-up in the blood of high levels of urea. Urea is the end product of protein metabolism. As the amino acids that are in the protein are broken down to release energy, the "ammonia" group is split off and two of these are hooked together to form urea. The water-soluble compound is then eliminated through the urine.

When the kidneys fail to filter the blood adequately for any number of reasons, they don't filter out enough urea. Many normal people will have high urea levels because they eat a lot of protein, as in meats, and may not drink enough water. The kidneys filter out urea best if they pass a lot of water, and for that to happen you must drink water.

It follows that elevated urea levels are more common in people who sweat a lot and get dehydrated as usually seen in hot, dry climates. Now, most people tolerate minimal elevations of urea. It is important to doctors as an indicator of how your kidneys are working. But if the ability to eliminate urine is compromised, as from an obstruction from an enlarged prostate, the level of urea may be many times its normal level and the patient will still live.

A lot depends on what causes the elevation. If it is caused by an obstruction that can be removed, it is temporary, and successful removal may result in complete recovery.

I am send you The Health Letter number 12-12, Your Kidneys and How they Work, which will explain kidney function to you.

Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

I doubt the tranquilizers had anything to do with your father's azotemia. His kidney function probably declined with age, and perhaps poor circulation to the kidneys, they cannot filter very well.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My mom had a complete hysterectomy when she was 33. She is now 42. Her regular doctor did a Pap smear every year. Recently she moved and went to another doctor for her Pap smear. The nurse told her there was no sense in having a Pap smear if she has had a hysterectomy because there is no way to get cancer if there was nothing down there. Should she have her Pap smear or not?

DEAR READER — It is unlikely that a woman will have cancer of the vagina but a purist might think of that as a reason to have a Pap smear.

But before the nurse so quickly told your mother that she didn't need a Pap smear she should have known what kind of hysterectomy your mother had. A partial hysterectomy leaves the cervix intact and early detection of cancer of the cervix is the main reason for a Pap smear. The answer to your question depends then on whether your mother still has her cervix or not. If she does not know already, her doctor can tell her that when she is examined.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Tuesday, August 17, 1982

YOUR BIRTHDAY Aug. 17, 1982

In the coming year you may establish many new outside interests. They will be fun and time-demanding, so you must be careful not to neglect your family life.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Rushing into things could do you more harm than good today. Everything will work out far better if you relax, take your time and don't pressure yourself. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the seasons following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph, Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't waste time today quarreling with those who want to blow everything out of proportion. Smile and be nice, but ignore their outlandish thinking.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Keep your cool. Don't be rushed into purchasing something today without taking time to get quotes from other sources. You'll be glad you did.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Lady Luck cannot be relied upon to carry you over today's hurdles, but your charm can break down barriers and open doors. Don't fear to pour it on.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be modest even though you may be bursting to boast about your accomplishments. Acclaim travels faster and is better received when the news is carried by others.

received when the news is carried by others.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) There is no reason to feel ashamed if you cannot do everything you'd like to for another today. Being supportive of those who can is equally appreciated.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Keep even the well-intentioned out of your affairs and decision-making today. You have a better handle on your situation and you won't gum things up as they could.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) In your work today you could get so hung up on the over-all picture you might forget details. If anybody is trying to point out your flaws, listen.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) No matter what you feel another has done to you, maintain your high ideals today. Use their tactics and you'll end up on their level.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) All those nice little things you do for the family aren't appreciated just because today they're not showing their gratitude. They will tomorrow.

New Hospital

Longwood People Want Psychiatric Facility, But On Their Terms

By JOE DeSANTIS
Herald Staff Writer

It's not that Longwood city officials and residents don't want a proposed psychiatric hospital built in their city. It's more a case of wanting it built under their conditions.

That's the message the Longwood City Commission and a standing room only crowd at Longwood City Hall delivered to Hospital Corporation of America (HCA) officials during Monday night's public hearing on HCA's conditional use permit request to construct an 80-bed psychiatric hospital on a 5.9-acre site near West Lake Road; part of a 26-acre parcel at State Road 434 and West Lake Road for which HCA has already received approval to build a 100-bed general use hospital.

With the exception of one commissioner, the remainder of the board and the majority of about 100 residents who packed City Hall last night have no qualms about HCA building the psychiatric hospital.

What remains to be resolved, however, before the commission will approve the conditional use permit request are differences over what name the facility will have, whether the psychiatric hospital will in some way be physically connected to the general use hospital, and some sort of guarantee that HCA will indeed build a general use hospital following construction of the psychiatric hospital.

That decision is expected to come Friday at a special meeting between the commission and representatives from HCA over differences of opinion expressed at the public hearing.

The grass roots of Monday's impasse actually began more than a year ago. Based on a certificate of need assessment by the state, HCA received approval to build a 100-bed general use hospital in Longwood.

During that initial approval stage, HCA officials indicated the hospital would have a psychiatric wing. Seven months ago HCA also received a certificate of need assessment from the state to build an 80-bed psychiatric hospital. A site near Goldenrod was purchased but prior to actual construction, HCA found sinkhole problems on that site which prohibited construction.

Goldenrod residents weren't too thrilled about having a psychiatric hospital in their backyard and neither were Longwood officials when they were somewhat taken by surprise in March when HCA announced plans to build the psychiatric hospital in Longwood.

The city advised HCA at that time that the company would have to seek a conditional use permit because the city commission approved the general use hospital with the understanding it would include a psychiatric wing and not a separate facility. HCA immediately filed for a conditional use permit and after a grueling question-answer session before Longwood's Land Planning Agency received initial approval that eventually brought the matter to a public hearing.

Two weeks ago HCA flew several city commissioners and Longwood residents to Cypress Hospital, a similar facility to the one proposed for Longwood, to give officials and residents a first-hand look at what kind of facility would be built in their city. The trip proved to be convincing, but both residents and members of the commission expressed their desire for a guarantee that the two proposed hospitals would be connected somehow and that HCA would not change its plans for a general use hospital.

Commissioner Steven Uskert remained adamant in his opposition to separate facilities.

"If the psychiatric hospital is approved, you'll put the general use hospital on the back burner," Uskert told HCA officials.

"I worked hard for a year gathering petitions in this city for a general use hospital. That's the one I want to see built first."

"I think Longwood should look at Longwood's needs first, not the central Florida area or the state or the Southeast, I firmly believe the two facilities should be one unit, not two separate units," said Uskert.

HCA director of hospital development, Bill Trivett, explained to Uskert that HCA had several reasons for wanting to build the psychiatric hospital first.

"We're interested in holding down the cost of medical care for patients," explained Trivett. "A lot of diagnostic and medical testing facilities associated with a general use hospital aren't necessary in a psychiatric hospital."

"Our certificate of need from the state expires in five months, while the certificate of need for the other hospital doesn't expire for some time," Trivett said. "If we don't start construction we run the chance of having to go through the whole process of starting from

Year's Delay Expected

Speer, Others To Fight Downtown Sanford Ruling

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

It could be nine months to a year before the city of Sanford finds out whether it can redevelop Sanford's downtown.

Attorney G. Algernon Speer, representing himself and other property owners, filed notice in the circuit court at Sanford late Monday that he will be appealing a circuit court decision favoring the city in Speer's lawsuit.

And a clerk of the appellate court said today the notice of appeal and a certified copy of the lawsuit must be sent to Daytona Beach and it will be 110 days thereafter before it is assigned to a judge or a panel of judges for a decision.

If it is assigned to a judicial panel, it will be even longer before a decision is rendered.

"When a case is assigned to a panel of judges, there is no time limit on when it will be decided," the clerk said.

On April 19, Circuit Judge Roger Dykes ruled against Speer and his clients, declaring that the city of Sanford has the right to spend money to redevelop the downtown section and that the proposed development plan is in accordance with law.

Just a few weeks ago, Dykes refused to hold a rehearing in the case.

City Attorney Bill Colbert said he was hand-delivered the notice of intent to appeal at about 5 p.m. Monday.

The civil division of the Seminole County Clerk of the Circuit Court has not as yet received a written decision from Dykes, denying Speer's motion for rehearing.

Colbert said today he never doubted that Speer would appeal the local court decision. "It's not unusual for cases to be in the appeal court for three to nine months and I've had them there a lot longer," Colbert said.

He said after the records are sent to Daytona Beach, Speer will present the court there with a brief of his contentions in the suit. Colbert will have an opportunity to respond for the city and both attorneys will have one more go-round each with additional responses before the court will begin consideration of a ruling.

In the original law suit, Speer said the planned improvements for the downtown would hinder emergency vehicles, adversely affect the safety and convenience of motorists and double flooding hazards downtown.

He said it also would reduce the number of parking spaces and that the city by spending money for the improvements would be violating state law.

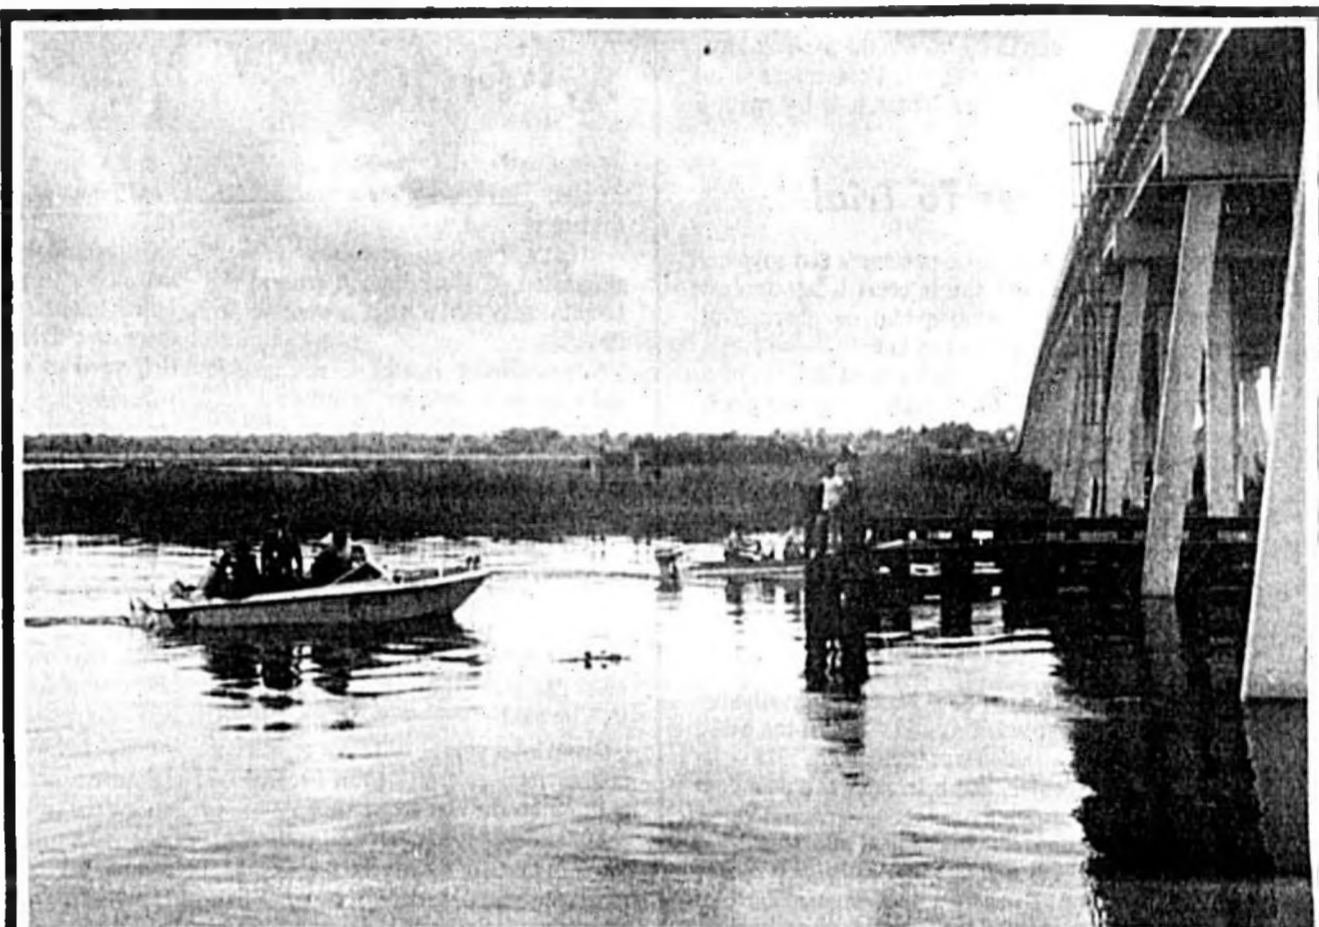

Dykes ruled that none of the contentions are true.

The Sanford City Commission adopted the downtown development plan in May 1980 and budgeted $251,000 for materials and labor in the 1980-81 fiscal year budget.

While the lawsuit has been going on, the city has continued funds for the project in the city budget.

The plan calls for reconstructing the north half block of Magnolia between First Street and the adjacent alley to turn it into a pedestrian plaza.

It also provides for improvements to a two-block section of First Street between Park and Palmetto avenues, with additional landscaping and lighting. Additional parking is to be provided through construction of a new parking lot at the corner of Second Street and Magnolia.

SWIMMER IS FOUND

The body of a 16-year-old Sanford boy, missing since Saturday, was discovered floating in the St. Johns River at about 10:30 a.m. today, one mile north of the Osteen bridge just east of Sanford where the youth and a friend had been swimming. Seminole County sheriff's deputies identified the body as Robert Daren Sherman Jr., of 1508 Summerlin Ave., after Volusia County deputies spotted him while patrolling the river daily using divers, boats and the helicopter since Sherman's disappearance Saturday afternoon. Sherman's father said his son and a friend were swimming in the river when the youth suddenly disappeared under the water and never resurfaced.

Strike Up The Band

Seminole High School's Marching Seminoles will jump into pre-school band activities Thursday and Friday at the SHS Band Hall, according to band Director Bob McGuire.

Orientation, which will run from 9 a.m. until noon, will continue throughout next week. McGuire said all current and new band members should attend to receive information on Fall band activities.

Band members should dress casually and bring instruments, he said.

Wall Collapse Investigated By State

By MICHAEL BEHA
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford police have concluded that last Friday's collapse of a wall at the W. Altee Burpee seed company building in Sanford which killed three workmen was caused by a strong gust of wind.

Investigators from the Florida Department of Labor began their own investigation of the tragedy today. But an official with the state office in Tampa said the inquiry is "routine."

Officer Larry Monti of the Sanford Police Department said the investigation by Lt. Ralph Russell and Detective Karen Reynolds confirms the theory that the collapse was an accident not caused by negligence and was caused by a gust of wind.

"Lieutenant Russell and Detective Reynolds have said they're going with the wind theory," Monti said. "Every individual involved has said there was a wind blowing right before the wall fell."

He said no charges will be filed as a result of the police inquiry.

Howard Stevens, of the Department of Labor's Occupational Safety and Health Act office, said that office probes every industrial accident with fatalities that occurs in the state.

"We investigate all fatalities," he said.

Stevens said the team of investigators will visit the scene of the collapse at 206 W. First St. and interview all the survivors to determine the cause of the tragedy.

"It will make it more difficult to investigate since the building is no longer there," Stevens said.

He said any information gathered in the probe is confidential until the inquiry is completed. The investigation will try to determine whether the collapse was an accident or caused by negligence.

"That's what we're trying to determine — whether there was negligence involved," Stevens said.

The wall collapsed Friday afternoon killing three men who were working to prepare it for demolition the following day.

William Gracey, 55, of 2551 Palmetto Ave., Sanford, owner of Gracey Construction Co., and two workmen for the firm, Nathaniel Bailey, 31, of 612½ Cypress Ave., Sanford, and Vincent Foster, 29, of 1120 W. 14th St., Sanford were killed in the collapse.

Two men remain in the Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford with injuries they received in the collapse. Robert Walton, 34, of 1840 Jerry Ave., Sanford, is in serious but stable condition in the intensive care unit and Charley Jones, 26, 1726 W. 14th St., Sanford, is in satisfactory condition, hospital officials said.

Darrell Jackson, 29, of 102 Scott Drive, Sanford, was released from the hospital Monday. Four other men escaped the tragedy with only minor abrasions.

Gracey Construction Co., had been working for about two weeks to gut the inside of the building, which was purchased by Flagship Bank. The bank plans to landscape the site and eventually convert it into a parking lot.

The remainder of the building was torn down Saturday morning by local contractors. The group assembled because they were friends of Gracey and because they wanted to knock the building down so it would no longer pose a threat to passersby or to adjacent structures. The 78-year-old building had been empty since June 1981.

Impaired Physicians

Rehabilitation Program Leaves Stigma As Difficult As Problem

Editor's Note: While there are countless drug and alcohol rehabilitation programs nationwide to help individuals with abuse problems, there are only a few that deal specifically with the problems faced by physicians suffering from alcohol and drug addiction. And while Florida is a frontrunner in addressing the impaired physician problem, methods of treatment, obligations of doctors, legal ramifications for those doctors who refuse treatment, and the consequences faced by peer physicians who refuse to "turn in" their colleagues remain controversial. Two Seminole County physicians who have been through the South Miami Hospital Addiction Treatment Program openly discuss their experiences and their reactions to being physician-patients.

By JOE DeSANTIS
Herald Staff Writer
Third in a series

"You have to do something to blunt the emotional pain and that's near impossible. It's difficult to find relief when you walk away from suffering people."

"The main problem with using drugs or alcohol to excess is that you go through hell to withdraw. You need some sort of help."

Those are just a sample of the feelings expressed by two Seminole County physicians who have been through the hellish experience of drug or alcohol abuse battles and are presently attempting to piece back together both their private and professional lives.

As much of a problem as alcohol and drug abuse was for them to deal with, the stigma of having to go through a rehabilitation program proved an equally heavy burden to carry.

"Once we signed into the program we signed over our rights," explained one of the doctors.

"I'm not saying that the program doesn't have good points. I'm just saying that it needs some cleaning up."

The two Seminole County physicians found themselves signing at different times into South Miami Hospital's Addiction Treatment Program after a fellow physician became aware of their problems and strongly suggested they seek help.

Under Florida's Sick Doctor Law, passed in 1969, doctors experiencing drug or alcohol abuse problems, or doctors facing debilitating physical or emotional handicaps are required to suspend their practices and seek help.

The law also states that other physicians, aware of those problems among the ranks, can have their licenses revoked for failing to turn their colleagues in for rehabilitation.

Both doctors contend that the specifics of their voluntary entry into the rehabilitation program were not fully spelled out and they said they had to go through the degrading experience of admitting addiction.

Among the local doctors' unfavorable contentions about the South Miami Hospital Program are: that they were told the program would last four to six weeks; that they were forced to admit to an alcohol addiction problem regardless of whether they were experiencing problems with drugs or alcohol; that some of the staff members at the facility were not qualified to treat physicians, and that no provisions were made for their practices when they were told to go out of state for additional follow up treatment for a period ranging from three to five months.

"The entire month's stay consisted of a one-hour session with a professional," said one of the Seminole County physicians. "Their contention is that a one-on-one counseling session has no value."

"One of the therapists didn't have a college degree and no training other than having gone through alcohol abuse treatment himself," one doctor said.

"If I knew what I know today, I would have never signed in," said the doctor. In response, Dr. Dolores Morgan, Addiction Treatment director at the

Reagan Says Tax Package 'A Price Worth Paying'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, using his persuasive talents to pressure Congress to pass the $98.3 billion tax increase, asked help from those who will be directly affected — American taxpayers.

His political clout on the line, Reagan appeared on nationwide television Monday night to issue his plea for the tax package he described as a "compromise" he had to "swallow hard" to accept.

"You can help ... by letting them know this legislation is a price worth paying for lower interest rates, economic recovery and more jobs," he told the viewers.

Termining the issue "a simple matter of fairness," Reagan Monday night denied the tax hike he proposed is the largest in history and insisted the impact on most taxpayers will be offset by tax cuts and the benefits of a healthier economy.

Jury To Get Franklin Case

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI) — Avowed racist Joseph Paul Franklin concluded testimony in his trial by saying he was not in Fort Wayne, Ind., on the night he allegedly shot civil-rights leader Vernon Jordan.

Final arguments were scheduled for today and U.S. District Judge Allen Sharp said the case would go to the all-white eight-man, four-woman jury about noon.

Franklin is charged with violating Jordan's civil rights by shooting him in the back in the parking lot of a Fort Wayne motel on May 29, 1980. Prosecutors claim he was angered after seeing Jordan in a bar with a white woman.

Draft Resister To Trial

ROANOKE, Va. (UPI) — A minister's son says his faith in God will protect him in court today against federal authorities prosecuting him on charges of disobeying the draft registration law.

Enten Eller, 20, an honor student and the son of a Brethren minister refused to register for the draft because he believes military service is counter to the teachings of Jesus Christ.

Federal attorneys decided to prosecute Eller as an example to the estimated 500,000 other draft-age men who have failed to obey the registration law, risking the threat of a five-year prison term and $10,000 fine.

Anti-Abortion Filibuster

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Jesse Helms' slightly watered-down anti-abortion measure — still the most far-reaching since abortion was legalized in 1973 — is running into a filibuster, and both sides are counting votes to test their strength.

Although weakened, the amendment still would be the most far-reaching anti-abortion legislation since the 1973 Supreme Court decision legalizing the procedure. It would prohibit the federal funding, direct or indirect, and federal insurance coverage of abortions, and encourage a quick review of the 1973 ruling that legalized abortion.

The draft also would overturn the 1962 Supreme Court ruling outlawing prayer in public schools by removing the high tribunal's jurisdiction in such cases.

For Shooting Daughter 6 Times

Fern Park Woman Gets 35 Years

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

Lawyers for a Fern Park woman, sentenced Monday to 35 years in prison for trying to murder her 8-year-old daughter six months ago, are preparing to appeal her conviction.

Kathy Ruth Oviatt, 26, of 240 Oxford Road, was convicted July 2 of shooting her daughter, Pamela, six times and leaving her to die along a dirt road off State Road 535 near the Walt Disney World employee entrance. The young girl, discovered by passing motorists, was rushed to the hospital where she was treated for gunshot wounds to her chest and arms. She later testified in court that her mother shot her while the two were playing a game of blindman's bluff.

Describing the case as "bizarre," Orange County Judge Rom Powell said Mrs. Oviatt will spend at least three years in prison before she becomes eligible for parole because a gun was used in the crime.

Mrs. Oviatt's lawyer, Russell Crawford, said the case will be appealed to the Fifth District Court of Appeal in Daytona Beach, but that he is turning the case over to the public defender's office for undisclosed reasons. Mrs. Oviatt is being held without bail in the Orange County Jail pending the appeal which is expected to take six to nine months.

The maximum sentence for an attempted first-degree murder conviction is life in prison, prosecutors said.

Assistant State Attorney Ray Sharpe said he believes Mrs. Oviatt shot her daughter because the little girl had become a burden to her "foot-loose and fancy-free lifestyle" since Mrs. Oviatt's divorce from Pamela's father.

Pamela is currently living with her father.

MAN CHARGED WITH ARMED ROBBERY

Richard Charles Faylhofer, of 823 Hanover Drive, was arrested in connection with Friday's armed robbery of the York Steak House restaurant in the Altamonte Mall, police said.

According to police, a man wearing dark clothing and a stocking mask and carrying a gun and a knife ordered the assistant manager to gather all of the restaurant employees in the kitchen and then ordered everyone, except the manager, into the cooler. The robber then demanded the restaurant's money which he put into a brown vinyl pouch.

The bandit then forced the manager into the cooler and told the employees not to call the police for 10 minutes, police said.

Faylhofer was arrested outside the mall after employees gave police a description of the thief. Police said the stolen money was recovered and that a gun and a knife were found in Faylhofer's possession.

JOGGER'S PURSE SNATCHED

A 33-year-old Altamonte Springs woman told deputies that a man stole her purse and knocked her down while she was jogging along Oak Street near County Road 427 late Friday.

Gail Zowsel, of 120 Peacock Drive, told deputies the man ran up beside her and started talking to her. She said the man suddenly grabbed her purse from her shoulder, causing her to fall, then fled east on Oak Street. The purse contained about $150 cash, keys and personal papers.

scratch with the state for another certificate of need."

"That's not our problem," Uskert responded. "I worked for a general use hospital and that's what I want to see first."

Commissioner Russell Grant labeled Uskert's comments as "selfish."

"That's a selfish motive and unjust," said Grant. "There's no hospital around that's going to serve the needs of one community."

"I'm not embarrassed to have a psychiatric hospital in Longwood," said Grant. "There's a need for one. I wouldn't be embarrassed to lead my wife through the front door if she needed help. Most likely she'd be the one leading me in," he said.

Grant later said he will file a conflict of interest form prior to the vote because he is a minor stockholder of HCA.

Among the Longwood residents who spoke in favor of the psychiatric hospital were attorney Mark Rabinowitz, Sue Busman, Ruth Grant, Harvey Smerilson and John Crystal.

Smerilson, a member of Longwood's Land Planning Agency, said, "We've put HCA through a lot more grueling questions that are being asked here tonight before we approved the site plan. I think the people of Longwood can show more intelligence than the people of Goldenrod by approving this."

Rabinowitz, who works with juveniles and teenagers in trouble, said, "We're dealing with mental illness and I can't describe the magnitude of the problem. State facilities are a horrible place to visit, they are certainly not the place for mentally ill juveniles. There's a lack of proper facilities in this area," said Rabinowitz. "It's easy to condemn people who need help. But we're talking about emotionally disturbed children here, not people that are going to be running around maiming and killing."

Ruth Grant of the First Pentecostal Church of Longwood commented, "I have seen the need for this type of facility. It's not the type of thing you throw your hands up and say 'we don't want it.' I'm wholeheartedly in favor of it."

John Crystal added the job of the commission is to look out for its residents and that he would rather see a psychiatric hospital built than another shopping center on 434.

Mayor June Lormann also expressed approval of the psychiatric hospital if it were in some way connected with the general use hospital while commissioner Tim O'Leary also expressed a desire to see the two facilities physically connected and wanted assurances that HCA would build the general use hospital.

"I don't know how to offer a guarantee," responded Trivett. "HCA is an honorable company we meet our obligations. HCA has invested a tremendous amount of time and a considerable amount of money in the development stages for both hospitals."

Trivett then suggested HCA officials and the commission could probably work out a compromise on connecting the two facilities in some fashion and work on a name that would be suitable to both Longwood and HCA.

Those compromises are expected to be reached at Friday's special meeting.

...Few Doctors Seek Help On Their Own

South Miami Hospital facility, disagrees. "Everything is spelled out before they enter," said Dr. Morgan.

"It's a traumatic experience for doctors themselves to have to go through a program like this. They feel a stigma of being connected with a social disease. They worry about acceptance from their peers and they're concerned that their practices will suffer."

Morgan said the basis for the facility's treatment is spelled out before the doctors enter the program. However, with the threat of license revocation by the State Board of Medical Examiners hanging over their heads, troubled doctors in reality face little choice.

Following what Dr. Morgan termed as "usually a month's stay" at the Miami program, doctors live at similar facilities in either Georgia or Mississippi in a communal setting among other troubled physicians and other individuals going through drug and alcohol abuse rehabilitation.

"Once you're admitted, there is no turning back," said one of the local doctors.

"Usually at the second stage of treatment there are two people to a room feeling a lot of anxiety."

"Doctors have a feeling of uncertainty about how friends and peers will react to their problems," he said.

Both of the Seminole County doctors agreed that rehabilitation emphasis is keyed toward alcoholism.

"There is little difference in the treatment between the two centers," said one of the physicians. "Everything is keyed off alcoholism."

The other doctor, who experienced a drug abuse problem, said he resented being made to admit to an alcoholism problem for fear of being labeled "uncooperative."

"That was a bitter pill to swallow," he said.

Dr. Morgan contends the first step toward recovery is admission of addiction. And she emphasized those physicians with drug problems are not made to admit to alcoholism.

"If they are drug abusers, we don't insist on them saying they are addicted," she said. "But getting doctors past that denial stage is a very important part of their recovery."

"Being an alcoholic or drug addict is a lot like being a little bit pregnant," she said. "Either you are or you aren't."

During the second phase of the rehabilitation program, the physicians attend nightly meetings with others at the centers similar to Alcoholics Anonymous groups, where each individual gets up, admits his problem and tells his history of drug or alcohol abuse.

Following completion of the second phase, doctors are then required to continue on a two-year self help program in which they must attend one meeting a month at either a local Alcoholics Anonymous group of Narcotics Anonymous group.

During that two year period those doctors also have a peer physician that supervises them and checks up on their rehabilitation progress.

Dr. Morgan said the addiction treatment center's rehabilitation program, "is the only way they'll survive."

She rates the South Miami Hospital success rate with impaired physicians as 80 percent successful.

There are, however, those physicians who don't make it back to regular practice. Somewhere during the second phase and the two-year self help programs the doctors quit.

When that happens, Morgan notifies the State Board of Medical Examiners with the end result either a suspension or revocation of that physician's license.

She added that there have been some cases where a doctor's abuse problem is so severe she recommends that he never return to practice.

One of the local doctors pointed out some physicians who go through the program feel so demeaned and afraid that word of their problem will get out that they change their names and leave town.

And he added that in some instances physicians with abuse problems feel threatened by Florida's Baker Act, which allows persons to be institutionalized if they are considered to be a threat to themselves or someone else.

Dr. Morgan states the Baker Act applies strictly for individuals with mental health problems, although she added that in cases where impaired physicians refuse treatment, the Meyers Act can be invoked. The Meyers act deals with persons who are considered a danger to themselves or others because of drug or alcohol abuse.

"Very few doctors will seek help on their own," she said. "They fear the word will get out to their patients and they fear failure of acceptance by fellow doctors."

While the two Seminole County doctors did have several unfavorable views of the rehabilitation program, neither denied the need for it.

"I realized a lot of things bothered me in my life and I had no effective way to deal with these problems because my ego as a doctor got in the way," said one.

"It was difficult for me as a doctor to admit that I was fallible and had the same human weaknesses that some of my patients had."

"Therapy helped me ventilate my feelings — whether they were fear, anxiety or frustration."

Mrs. Zowsel was treated for a head injury at Florida Hospital-Altamonte, and released, deputies said.

Martinez told police the thieves entered his home through a window.

LAWNMOWER LIFTED
A lawnmower, valued at about $125, was stolen from the home of James R. Bennett, 53, of 466 Eagle Circle, Casselberry, between 9 p.m. and 11:12 p.m. Sunday, deputies said.

BATHTUB, BED, GATE GRABBED
Thieves stole a new bathtub, a bed and a chain-link gate from the home of Morris Rogers, 41, of 3001 Jewett Lane, Sanford, between 10 a.m. Wednesday and 8:35 p.m. Sunday.

Deputies said the bathtub and bed were stolen from the home after thieves entered the house through a window.

CHURCH-GOERS HOME BURGLARIZED
Thieves broke into a Sanford woman's home between 10:44 a.m. and 2:45 p.m. Sunday while she and her son attended church, stealing $317 worth of property.

Rosa Mae Payne, 61, of 1111 Second Dr., told police the thieves entered her home through the front door and stole sheets, silver half-dollars, two men's watches and a revolver.

SANFORD MAN JAILED
A 24-year-old Sanford man was being held in the county jail today under $5,000 on two charges of carrying concealed weapons.

Police said they arrested Michael Patrick Garrity, of 606 1/2 Palmetto Ave., after they observed him carrying a M-1 rifle under a sheet near Sixth Street and Oak Avenue, at about 5:47 p.m. Sunday. Police said they also discovered ammunition and a knife in Garrity's pockets upon searching him.

Seven Persons Are Charged With DUI

The following people were arrested recently in Seminole County on charges of driving under the influence (DUI) of alcoholic beverages:

— Elmer Macateer, 44, of 2509 S. Laurel Ave., Sanford, arrested 2:40 a.m. Saturday, charged with DUI and leaving the scene of an accident. Macateer was arrested by deputies after his truck reportedly struck a car along U.S. Highway 17-92, Sanford, then fled the accident scene. Macateer was arrested about a mile from the accident scene and bond was set at $500.

— John Dewey Fella, 23, of 150 Pineda St., Longwood, arrested 3:05 a.m. Saturday, charged with DUI. Fella was arrested by Casselberry police along Seminole Boulevard near Lake Katherine. Bond was set at $500.

— Timothy Thomas Torrey, 22, of 1101 Abigail Dr., Deltona, arrested 12:26 a.m. Saturday, charged with DUI, careless driving and violation of driver's license restriction. Torrey was arrested by deputies along U.S. Highway 17-92 about 1/4 mile north of Gen. Hutchison Parkway. Bond was set at $500.

— Leland Stanley Demers, 50, of 518 Dewdrop Cove, Casselberry, arrested 2:10 a.m. Sunday, charged with DUI, and resisting arrest without violence. Demers was arrested along State Road 436 in Casselberry by deputies. Bond was set at $500.

— Archie Wilbur McCormick, 43, of DeBary, arrested 7:53

a.m. Sunday, charged with DUI, driving with a suspended driver's license and refusal to sign traffic citation. McCormick was arrested by Florida Highway Patrol officers along Interstate 4 at Lake Mary Boulevard. Bond was set at $500.

— William Morris Lodge, 61, of Sanford, arrested 5:41 p.m. Friday, charged with DUI, and reckless driving. Lodge was arrested along Orange Boulevard, in Paola, near Sanford by deputies. Bond was set at $500.

— William Robert Fatula, 23, of 3904 S. Conway Road, Orlando, arrested 1:40 a.m. Monday, charged with DUI. Fatula was arrested by deputies along Interstate 4, near Lake Mary Boulevard. Bond was set at $500.

Herald Offers Its Condolences

The Evening Herald would like to join everyone in the community in extending condolences to the families of the three men — William S. "Billy" Gracey, Nathaniel Bailey and Vincent Foster — who were killed when a wall of the W. Atlee Burpee Co. building collapsed Friday.

All three victims were Sanford natives and Mr. Gracey was particularly well known in the community, having worked all of his professional life as a construction worker and lately as a consulting engineer.

There are no apparent reasons that make any sense for why the three men would die. There rarely are understandable reasons for death.

No doubt friends and relatives are having difficulty consoling the immediate families of Mr. Gracey, Mr. Bailey and Mr. Foster.

Words at a time like this cannot replace a loved one. But the presence of other persons who care and the offerings of help are most essential.

Mexico Vs. Inflation

The latest devaluation of the Mexican peso — judged at 28 percent — comes hard on the heels of sharp price increases for tortillas, bread and fuel and a monetary devaluation of 30 percent last February. These actions have the Mexican people reeling in financial chaos.

What is happening is that the Mexican government seeks to stop subsidizing fuel and tortillas and to stop supporting the peso at a false rate. It recently withdrew price supports. Now it intends to let the peso float internationally, as other major nations do.

In a true float, the peso would seek its own level on the world market. Mexico, however, has announced it will try something new — Banco de Mexico will set a preferential rate to pay interest on foreign loans and certain imports, with the government supporting the difference. The preferential rate will be established each day. Other exchange rates will be based on supply and demand.

The Mexican government is making these financial decisions because the country is plagued by high inflation, high interest rates, plummeting prices for crude oil exports and a foreign debt expected to reach $80 billion by year's end, largest of all Third World nations.

Mexico hopes the latest devaluation will help restore the confidence of foreign investors. It is bound to increase Mexico's tourism business, once that country's No. 1 industry. Travel to Mexico will become a real bargain with the peso-dollar exchange at 70 to 1 or more.

These financial maneuvers make it most difficult for the Mexican people. Those who live near the border will have to give up some more of their shopping in the United States — bad news for many merchants who say business never really recovered since last February's devaluation.

The government knows the moves are unpopular and is making them in the "window" between the election of a new president and his inauguration. The new president cannot be held responsible for the actions and the "lame-duck" president has nothing to lose. Not for six years, when the term of the new president comes to an end, will there be another such opportunity for the party in power to take unpopular actions without suffering at the polls.

The financial turmoil is to be regretted. But Mexico is making the right moves. There is no lasting economic security in price and currency controls that do not reflect realities.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Fred and I are like Iraq and Iran. We BOTH claim to be winning the war!"

Tampa Bay coach John McKay is a funny man — when he wins. He had good reason to be funny Saturday night after the Bucs stomped Philadelphia, 35-7, in the preseason football opener for both clubs.

"I was encouraged by the running backs," said McKay after the game. "Of course, some of the players they had playing (in the second half) won't go to the Hall of Fame."

Concerning rookie defensive end Booker Reese from Bethune-Cookman College: "Booker played long. Booker played well. If we can get Booker to keep his shirt in he'll be all right."

Concerning an interception by linebacker Jeff Davis: "The first time he touched the ball professionally, he scored," said John. "I told the team that the first man to do that was Red Grange, and they didn't know who Red Grange was."

Of course, McKay is just as sarcastic when he loses, but the press conferences usually don't last as long.

TOURNAMENT LEFTOVERS — On the way home from Tallahassee after Little Major League State Tournament, truck driver Gary Taylor pulled into a weigh station and announced to first baseman Todd Revels that he should get out and use the scale. In Revels' defense, I must relay this situation which occurred at the Sanford Flea Market. Taylor, who will never be mistaken for Twiggy, stepped on a scale and waited for the card to come out with his fortune.

The card came out and said... "One at a time, please."

Back in Sanford at the Little Junior League State Tournament, the following conversation took place:

"Want some boiled peanuts?" Jim Jernigan, director of parks and recreation, asked Evening Herald sportswriter Chris Fister.

"Do you really eat those things?" responded Fister.

"It's just like eating an unborn calf," pointed out Jernigan.

DON GRAFF Bad News And Worse At The U.N.

The situation was going from bad to potentially disastrous in the Persian Gulf. Iran, having blocked and then repelled Iraq's invasion, was poised for a counter-invasion. Not only Iraq but the Arab oil states that had bankrolled its military adventuring were in the line of advance, raising the prospect that the sputtering 2 year-old war was about to spread beyond control.

So what was happening at the command center of world peace-keeping?

Most of the diplomats at the United Nations, the New York Times reported on an inside page, took the weekend off.

And why not? It was a natural reaction not only to the seasonal heat of a sweltering New York summer, but to political heat about which the diplomats were only too well aware that they could do nothing.

These have not been good times for the United Nations. Its major recent achievement was selection of its own new secretary general after months of great power deadlock.

Its efforts in the Persian Gulf and Falklands wars only served to publicize its impotence. When it isn't being ignored it is being criticized, most painfully to the point recently by one of its own — more or less. U.S. Ambassador Jeane J. Kirkpatrick publicly ticked off the world organization as "a very dismal place" that has come to be more problem maker than solver.

The United Nations has come a long way — all downhill — from the high hopes of its founders. Or at least their promises.

There are a lot of candidates for the blame. In the very beginning, the great powers that decreed its creation to institutionalize a new and less murderously anarchic world order also arranged that it would not develop an independent will and way of its own.

Those were the years when the West European and Latin American connections gave the United States an almost automatic majority among the 50-odd members. The General Assembly functioned as a semi-autonomous extension of the State Department. The Soviets' response was the Security Council veto.

The self-serving superpowers could not have provided worse examples for the new majority that developed with the admission of the multitude of new nations carved out of disintegrating colonial empires and, most recently, a proliferation of mini-states.

It is majority composed of factions and blocs within blocs, held together by the realization that in unity there is voting strength if not the capability to translate votes into meaningful action. It has tended to use its numbers to serve its own various ends but not to further the effectiveness and credibility of the United Nations itself. It has been at its most destructive in pursuing the Arab vendetta against Israel, crippling the technically non-political U.N. cultural, economic and social agencies.

The sad part is that the nations most actively engaged in demolition are the very ones most in need of an international arbiter such as the United Nations was originally designed to be.

Even the genuine idealists in 1946 recognized the realities of power. They did not expect their creation to impose its will upon the real powers.

Crisis after crisis — from Korea to Hungary to Afghanistan and even Britain's triumph in the Falklands — has demonstrated the wisdom of that initial skepticism.

Who'll Get Abandoned Weapons?

BEIRUT — One of the sticking points in the negotiations over moving international peacekeeping troops into this battered bastion may well have been the technical question of who gets custody of the huge cache of military equipment the PLO is leaving behind.

I have seen some of the PLO's weapons in use here, and it's clear that the stuff is valuable. The age-old rules of war give the spoils to the victor. This may explain in part the Israelis' reluctance to let the French, Italian and U.S. forces come between the conquerors and the booty.

In fact, the Israelis are still smarting over the way the Pentagon handled Soviet-made weapons that Israel captured in the 1973 war and turned over to her U.S. ally for study. As much as 75 percent of the weapons Israel captured from Egypt was shipped to the Pentagon. After studying the stuff for several years, my sources tell me, the United States refused to share its final ultra-secret findings with the Israelis.

One thing is certain: The amount and variety of PLO weapons captured even before the Israelis got to Beirut was staggering.

With my associate Dale Van Atta, I examined some of the thousands of captured weapons collected at an Israeli army base not

EDWARD J. WALSH

The Pipeline And Grain

President Reagan's approval of a one-year extension of the U.S.-Soviet grain purchase agreement was received with both jubilation and smirks. The National Association of Wheat Dealers was happy, saying the decision keeps a "formalized trading agreement in place," and "makes a new agreement next year more likely." However, our European allies, who don't like the president's ban on sales of natural gas pipeline equipment to the Soviets by European licensees of U.S. firms, scented a whiff of hypocrisy, which the administration has left undispelled.

Already the French, Italians, and British governments have advised the State Department that they will permit their companies to fulfill contracts already signed with the Soviets. "A contract is a contract," said one Italian official.

The administration's effort to stop or delay the Soviet gas pipeline to Western Europe certainly would have had greater impact if announced six months ago, instead of in June. Still, it is a healthy sign that the administration does not entirely "love commerce more than it loathes communism," as columnist George Will alleged a few months back.

The grain deal agreement paints a different picture, because, as the Wall Street Journal points out, grain is different from turbines and rotors. On its face, the sale of grain to the Soviets on a hard currency basis is not much different from sales to anyone else. Grain is grain, and if American farmers don't sell it, the Canadians and Argentines will, and do. In any case, we don't sell them as much as the headlines suggest. The United States has authorized the sale of up to 23 million tons of corn and wheat to the Soviets for all of 1982. Thus far, they have purchased about 14 million tons, and will probably buy a total of 17.8 million tons this year. According to the Department of Agriculture, current U.S. grain reserves exceed 400 million tons.

Last year, the Soviets paid $1.57 billion for American grain, making them a distant eighth among U.S. customers to Japan, which bought $6.7 billion worth from U.S. farmers.

The one-year extension of the agreement will authorize open-ended sales until October 1, 1983. The extension does represent a ticklish compromise by the administration on grain sales to the USSR. Mr. Reagan has ruled out a long-term agreement, citing Soviet conduct in Poland, in the hope that the Europeans' hurt feelings will be assuaged. But they know, as the Wheat Dealers Association knows, that another extension will be forthcoming next year.

But the balancing act fails when the president defends his decision as preserving "the sanctity of contracts" as he did in Des Moines last week, while he is asking the Europeans to swallow their signed contracts with the Soviets. Further, the conspicuous back-slapping within the administration over making a cozy political deal with farm state congressmen, in the best pork barrel tradition, ridicules the real distinction between U.S. business with the Soviet Union, and that of our allies.

The Urengoi natural gas pipeline is a travesty of trade, financed by below-market European credits, to transport Soviet gas that is not needed in Europe, through a pipeline that will very likely be built by Soviet prison camp labor and slave workers imported from Vietnam. The pipeline will earn the Soviets upwards of $8 billion in hard currency per year.

The sales of American grain to the USSR are cash sales, and will continue to be. Such sales are helpful to American farmers, and a significant drain on Soviet hard currency. Those are the differences between sales of grain, and sales of pipeline turbines, which the administration must point out. A contract is a contract, but some are less defensible than others.

ROBERT WAGMAN

Jobless Figures Flawed?

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The Bernard Cap Company of Hialeah, Fla., just outside Miami, expected to win a $750,000 contract to make caps for the U.S. Army.

But its bid was rejected because the Pentagon awarded the contract under a special program designed to aid firms located in areas of at least 9 percent unemployment. The federal government put the jobs rate in South Florida at only 7.5 percent.

State and local officials disagree with that figure. They say that the monthly survey used to determine the unemployment rate badly undercounts refugees, of whom there are many in South Florida.

Says Don Hill, director of the South Florida Employment and Training Consortium: "Our own studies show that refugees seem to be underrepresented in the monthly (unemployment) survey and even more underrepresented when the statewide figures are broken down into local figures. We and the state feel that unemployment in South Florida is running close to 12 percent, not the 7.5 percent that is the official number."

Bernard Cap is filing suit against the federal government to challenge its method of measuring local unemployment.

The $750,000 problem of this small company serves to illustrate a multi-billion-dollar problem for states, cities and counties across the nation. That problem concerns the accuracy of local unemployment figures.

Each year the federal government distributes more than $20 billion to state and local governments based almost solely on the monthly or quarterly unemployment figures for those areas. But even the people who compile those numbers concede that they are suspect.

The federal funds are used to support such programs as unemployment compensation, job-creation and job-training efforts, federal contract programs such as the one from which Bernard Cap was excluded.

The late Julius Shiskin, the longtime commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, remarked in a 1977 interview that he had considerable faith in the accuracy of national unemployment data. But as for state and local data, Shiskin said, "my level of confidence with these numbers is much lower."

Little has changed since in the way in which the state and local data are obtained. Ray Konstant, who heads the Bureau of Labor Statistics' Local Area Unemployment Statistics Division, is less critical than was Shiskin about the data that his division produces. But he acknowledges that problems exist.

"We think that the Dade County (Miami) situation is probably unique," says Konstant. "It's true that the numbers we generate for counties and population centers with populations above 50,000 are subject to higher rates of statistical error than we would like to see. But we feel those numbers are as good as we can produce at this time given our resources."

The Bureau of Labor Statistics knows that it could produce much more accurate state and local data. But doing so would cost millions of dollars that the Reagan administration is unwilling to spend.

One of those who find this attitude penny wise and pound foolish is Dr. Sar Levitan, who chaired a national commission appointed by President Carter to examine the collection of unemployment data.

safe from Israeli reconnaissance snoopers. There was even a U.S. military vehicle that somehow had made its way to Lebanon from South Korea.

Disposal of all this deadly booty may pose something of a problem for Israel. Obviously, the Israelis don't want to sell them on the open market, where terrorist gangs (or the PLO itself) could buy them.

A more likely choice would be to sell them to governments that want them as replacements for Soviet Weapons they already have on hand. This would be a safer way for the Israelis to cash in on their military success and help to recoup some of the enormous cost of the Lebanese invasion.

Still another option is to use the materiel for units of the Israeli army. This is possible because the quantity of certain captured weapons is so huge, along with the needed ammunition, that the Israelis could get along for years without need of resupply from the Soviet bloc.

The Israelis have already shown a certain knack for turning captured weapons back on the enemy. They have been pounding West Beirut regularly with captured PLO weapons, particularly Russian-made Katyusha rockets.

far from Haifa. Sources there told us the total haul may be worth $2 billion.

The biggest items were Soviet-made tanks captured from the Syrians. The Israelis collected 52 T-34s and 72 T-55s, which can be used for spare parts or recycled for the metal.

What was most impressive about the crippled Soviet tanks were the gaping holes cut in their inches-thick armor by the Israelis' new 105-millimeter anti-tank gun. The shells seem to have cut through the Russian armor like skewers through butter.

Contrary to some reports, the Israelis did not capture any of the latest Soviet T-72 tanks, the kills were made in territory still controlled by the Syrians. The Israelis did manage to get a close-up look at one shattered T-72, however.

The variety of handguns, automatic and semi-automatic weapons the PLO used can be attested to by anyone who has careened wildly through West Beirut streets, hoping to avoid sniper fire, and seen the gun-toting guerrilla bands roaming there.

Among the more than 12,000 machineguns and submachineguns captured by Israeli troops before they got to Beirut were 700 brand-new U.S. M-16s still in their packing cases. Markings on the crates showed that the guns were originally shipped from the United States to Saudi Arabia. If the Saudis willingly allowed them to be diverted to the PLO, they — like the Israelis — will have some explaining to do about violation of their arms-sale agreement with the United States.

The M-16s weren't the only unused small arms captured from the PLO arsenals. Many others, like late-model West German G-3 automatic rifles, were found still packed in their factory grease. How they got to the PLO is anyone's guess.

Another curious collection in the Israelis' "war museum" of captured weapons was a motley display of almost 35,000 rifles from practically every country that has ever made one. Half of them were Russian Kalashnikovs. Perhaps 4,000 were sporting guns, many of them intricately hand-tooled, possibly heirlooms "appropriated" by the PLO from their original Lebanese owners.

Also among the military loot were some 4,000 12-gauge shotguns — a weapon that has been outlawed for use in war by the Geneva Convention.

One of the most curious military artifacts was a huge construction machine the Israelis nicknamed "The Mole." It was used to gouge holes about 18 feet in diameter in the side of a mountain. The Palestinians would then hide their artillery pieces in the manmade caves,

Golsteyn Glitters In Battle For Backup Quarterback

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor

TAMPA — In the Tampa Bay Buccaneer lockerroom there is a cubicle shared by two quarterbacks. It reads:

GOLSTEYN 11
LANE 15

Well, Jerry Golsteyn, at least you were given top billing over fourth stringer Bob Lane.

After the showing, the ex-Orlando American quarterback put on Saturday, however, he not only rates top billing but probably a spot right behind Doug Williams on the Buccaneer quarterback depth chart.

"I was pleased," said the Chula Vista resident. "We had a lot of guys busting their butts in there and we came up with the big plays."

Golsteyn, who spent a couple of years with the New York Giants after a fine career at Northern Illinois University, is in a head-to-head battle with incumbent Chuck Fusina for the backup role to Doug Williams.

With Tampa clinging to a 14-7 lead just into the fourth quarter, Golsteyn took over the helm and engineered the Bucs to three, fourth-quarter scores to wrap up a 35-7 victory over Philadelphia.

The 6-4, 200 pounder completed 3-of-7 passes and had three others dropped. An interference call of 40 yards also fueled another drive.

Fusina, by comparison, completed 4-of-8 for 36 yards. The ex-Penn State great, though, fumbled the first snap he received and tossed an interception.

"I had the opportunity, and I didn't use it," said Fusina, a discouraged player, after the game.

Pro Football

"Golsteyn threw the ball pretty well," said coach John McKay. "He was sharper than Fusina. But some of those players they were playing against won't go to the Hall of Fame."

A Johnny Ray Smith interception set up Golsteyn with good field position at the Eagle 36. Pint-sized Michael Morton bolted twice for six yards to the 17, but a holding penalty pulled the Bucs back to the 32.

Golsteyn then hit Melvin Carter with a pass at the 20 but Carver coughed up the ball to the Eagles.

A shaky Philly punt gave Golsteyn another good opportunity at the Eagle 45. He fired a down-and-out to Jim Obradovich which the instant replay showed Obradovich caught. The referee, nevertheless, ruled incomplete.

Undaunted, Golsteyn found a wide open Jim Obradovich at the 25 for a first down. A holding penalty cost the Bucs two plays later, but Golsteyn hit Carter on a swing pass and the Nevada-Las Vegas back romped to the Philadelphia 9.

Morton, who totaled 104 yards on 5 carries, then exploded around the right side for a touchdown. The series went 45 yards in six plays in just 1:54.

The next time Golsteyn touched the ball, it didn't take nearly as long. He handed off to the exciting Morton over left tackle and the 5-7 speedster blew away from everybody, 80 yards for a touchdown.

"I turned around and saw a big hole and expected him to go 10 or 12 yards," said Golsteyn about the play. "I looked again and he was gone. It's always expecting to be in for one play and score." For Morton, who was delayed by writers after the game, it had to be quite a thrill in his first pro game. "I remember having a 77-yard TD run," he said between smiles. "But never one this long."

The next Buc score was also a quicky. Golsteyn maneuvered Tampa 66 yards in just four plays as Carver capped the drive with a 30-yard burst off left tackle. Bill Capece booted his fifth point after to close out the 35-7 romp.

"I thought Golsteyn did a heckuva job," said Williams, who didn't do too shabbily himself with 7-of-9 completions for 68 yards before an early second-quarter exit.

While Golsteyn has won his first battle with Fusina for the number two spot, he wasn't ready to predict the war was over.

JERRY
...glitters

"I'm not ready to jump to any conclusions," he said. "I'm just going to do the best I can and hope that's good enough."

It'll probably be good enough to earn him his own cubicle too.

Eagles Better Than Super?

COACH DICK VERMEIL: "We were a better team last year than the one that played in the Super Bowl — especially on defense, where we've concentrated our recent drafts."

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
NEA Sports Editor

In 1981: 10-6, second in NFC East; wildcard

OFFENSE

PASSING Eagles have brought back old Sid Gillman to tutor "The Polish Rifle," Ron Jaworski, into regaining touch that directed club to Super Bowl in '80. Vermeil cleaned out receiver corps to make room for kids, except for rangy Harold Carmichael. That means top rookie Mike Quick, drafted tight ends Lawrence Sampleton, Vyto Kab could play right now. FAIR

RUNNING Wilbert Montgomery remains best offensive threat on team, either running (1,402 yards) or catching (49 passes). Search for reliable fullback to complement him continues. If Perry Harrington, who has talent, doesn't measure up, soph Hubert Oliver, Leroy Harris get job. GOOD

BLOCKING Mixture of young and old guys. The old guys — Jerry Sizemore and Stan Walters at the tackles, Guy Morriss at center — represent stability on forward wall. Almost three decades combined on job. Quartet of young guys — Ron Baker, Steve Kenney, Pete Perot, Dean Miraldi — compete for guard spots, with first two leaders. GOOD

DEFENSE

LINE Solid unit in Eagles' 3-4 defense, with pair of blue-chippers in end Carl Hairston (touted by Vermeil as best) and nose tackle Charlie Johnson (un-budgeable). Big Dennis Harrison could find competition at left end from Leonard Mitchell, who's equally big. GOOD

LINEBACKING Two of them — outside backer Jerry Robinson and inside veteran Frank LeMaster — made Pro Bowl, so you know this is class brigade. Al Chesley succeeded retired Bill Bergey as inside mate for LeMaster and tied for lead in tackles. John Bunting and Reggie Wilkes divided time on outside, without dropoff in quality. Need depth. GOOD

SECONDARY There'll be no changes back here. Randy Logan at 31 is only one with age factor, and he completed maybe his best season in nine. All-Pro of secondary is CB Roynell Young, who does it all. Herman Edwards on other corner may be step slow, but he manages to be where ball is. FS Brenard Wilson completes crew. GOOD

SPECIAL TEAMS

KICKING Tony Franklin, the barefoot placekicker with the iron toe, made comeback after teetering on edge of inconsistency. Punter Max Runager doesn't reach rain clouds, but he's steady. GOOD

RETURNS Little Wally Henry, who's also spare receiver, was down as punter returner and no great threat on kickoffs. So, Vermeil will be looking for help. He can always turn to handy man John Sciarra. FAIR

OUTLOOK

There's no coach more positive than Vermeil. Nor more intense, nor more hard-working. Way he's worked team has been criticized. But results haven't been bad, despite elimination from playoffs last season. If Jaworski bounces back, this team will once again be in contention.

PREDICTION Tie for second in NFC East, with 9-7 record.

UP AND OVER

Daryl Mantey, first in line, is all smiles as he sails back and forth during pre-season football drills as Seminole High coach Jerry Posey (left) watches. The Fighting Seminoles will work out in shirts and shorts most of this week. The opener is Sept. 10 at Titusville Astronaut.

Antitrust? Yea...Or No More Franchises, Says Rozelle

Pro Football

WASHINGTON (UPI) — NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle warns if a bill giving the league new antitrust exemptions doesn't pass, there will be no new franchises.

And, NFL Players Association Director Ed Garvey warns if the "union-busting" bill does pass, the players will strike.

Although the bill before the Senate Judiciary Committee seems on the face only to restore the Raiders' franchise to Oakland, there were indications at Monday's hearing, the entire structure of the NFL is at stake.

Some of Washington's top lobbyists have been working for the bill for months, and despite Rozelle's denial he has offered new franchises to certain cities in return for votes from their representatives. He stood by his previous threat: "No exemptions, no expansion."

Rozelle was testifying on behalf of a bill that would overturn a Los Angeles court decision and give the league sole power to approve franchise shifts, retroactively force Raiders' feisty owner Al Davis to move back to Oakland from Los Angeles, and put the weight of Congress behind a unique revenue-sharing scheme that gives all 28 teams the same amount from television — about $11.4 million this year.

Garvey said while he supports revenue sharing — which assures most teams of a profit before a game is played — it means owners no longer have to compete for talent, thus forcing down players' salaries.

"If this bill passes, there will be a strike," he warned in an interview. He said the AFL-CIO opposes the bill.

Garvey said he supports another bill that would give the NFL power to block franchise shifts only if the team can meet criteria laid down by the league and its home city.

Rozelle said he opposed it because owners who wanted to move could juggle their books to show a temporary loss.

Rozelle said revenue sharing is the only way small franchises without big TV audiences can survive. With franchises freed from league control, owners could "auction" their franchises to the highest bidding city, Rozelle contended.

Although both professed to have the fans' interest at stake, it was left to Rep. Fortney Stark, D-Calif., who wants the Raiders back in Oakland, to articulate the concern:

"Who buys the underarm deodorants, the caps, the T-shirts, the hot dogs and beer — the one person we've neglected — the fan."

Nay...Or Players Will Strike, Says Garvey

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The executive director of the NFL Players Association, Ed Garvey, left no question in anyone's mind.

"If this bill passes, there will be a strike," he said in an interview following his testimony before the Senate Judiciary Committee against legislation that would restore the NFL's power to block franchise transfers, similar to the Raiders' proposed move to Los Angeles.

NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle testified unless the bill passes, no expansion franchises would be awarded.

The bill, pushed by some of Washington's top lobbyists on behalf of the NFL, retroactively would block the Raiders' move, put into law the notion that the league is a "partnership" that can control franchise moves and preserve the unique revenue-sharing scheme under which all clubs get the same amount from television rights.

Garvey said passage would add to existing antitrust exemptions the league enjoys and would "harden their position" in labor negotiations.

The contract between the Players Association and the NFL has expired and talks have been deadlocked.

Garvey said the legislation effectively would remove labor protections from the current antitrust exemptions.

"I think the league thinks it can impose its own restraints on players without dealing with the union," he said. "I think they're engaged in union busting."

Rozelle, asked about bargaining progress, said he hadn't been informed recently by league negotiators.

Garvey said unless Rozelle or owners with authority attend bargaining sessions, "they're trying to force a strike."

Two owners, Art Rooney of the Pittsburgh Steelers and Leonard Tose of the Philadelphia Eagles, attended the hearing.

Garvey said he would have a statement Wednesday on union plans if the owners lock players out of training camps.

Chargers Nip Bears

United Press International
Chicago Bears' rookie quarterback Jim McMahon, who set 56 NCAA records at Brigham Young, got his first look at the pass-happy San Diego Chargers Monday night.

And while the Chargers defeated the Bears, 28-27, in an NFL exhibition game, McMahon, who started the fourth quarter and rallied the Bears to two touchdowns, managed to throw his first pro touchdown.

"I wish I could have had some open receivers," said McMahon, who completed 9-of-14 passes for 110 yards, including a 10-yard scoring strike to Duke Ferguson. "The game was what I expected. I'll have to get used to the better athletes in the NFL."

The better athletes Monday night were the Chargers, but not by much.

Owners Decide On Kuhn

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Bowie Kuhn is bracing for a high hard one.

The baseball commissioner's future may be decided this week when major-league owners convene for three days to finalize plans for the restructuring of the game and iron out some of the problems confronting the sport.

The owners do not have to act on Kuhn this week. His seven-year contract does not expire until Aug. 12, 1983, and the owners could decide to table a decision until the winter meetings in Hawaii in December.

However, several owners have expressed their displeasure with Kuhn and they may not want to put off a vote any longer. Under baseball's rules, four dissenting votes from National League owners, or five negative votes from American League owners would result in Kuhn's removal from office.

Nelson Doubleday of New York, John McMullen of Houston and Ballard Smith of San Diego are three NL owners who openly oppose Kuhn's being rehired. A fourth, attorney Lou Susman who represents Cardinals' owner Gussie Busch, also was a signer of the infamous "Dump Bowie" letter that resurfaced at last December's baseball meetings in Hollywood, Fla.

If all four cast a vote against Kuhn, his contract would not be extended.

AL owners George Steinbrenner of New York, Eddie Chiles of Texas, Edward Bennett Williams of Baltimore and George Argyros of Seattle also have publicly stated their opposition to Kuhn.

Kuhn, however, feels he will get a contract extension.

"I'm willing and desirous to continue as commissioner," Kuhn said recently. "I feel a great many clubs are continuing to support me."

One thing in Kuhn's favor is, there is no experienced person to replace him. Two rumored to be possible candidates for the commissioner's job are Montreal President John McHale and former Houston General Manager Tal Smith. Smith currently is a baseball consultant who specializes in working with management in preparing arguments for salary arbitration cases.

"McHale's the only man who might get enough votes," said Philadelphia owner Bill Giles.

McHale, however, isn't campaigning for the job.

"I have never been interested in the job," McHale said, "but I guess you'd have to see as things developed. It would be very flattering if enough people were interested in me, but I've never really thought about it."

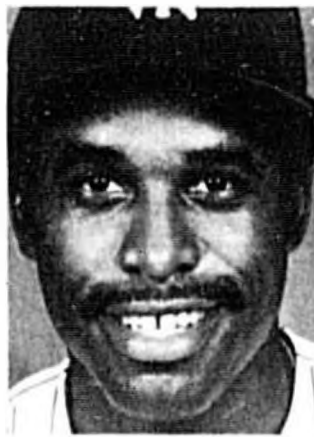

No matter who the commissioner is, his role is going to be quite different in the future.

At a meeting of the owners two months ago, it was revealed the restructuring committee had decided to expand many of the duties of the commissioner's office.

Oakland owner Roy Eisenhardt, co-chairman of the restructuring committee along with Peter O'Malley of Los Angeles, said Kuhn and future commissioners would have "greater authority."

"During the strike, the commissioner's office was standing aside," said Eisenhardt at the June meeting. "We've recommended the office of the commissioner be centralized — the commissioner will report to the owners with branches of public relations and promotions."

"The commissioner's office will be enhanced with marketing, public relations and administrative functions. The responsibilities of the commissioner have been increased."

O-Twins Within Half Game, Gains Split With Charlotte

ORLANDO — The Orlando Twins were within two runs of first place Monday night at Tinker Field but wound up splitting a doubleheader with Charlotte to pull within one half game of Southern League East Division leading Jacksonville. Two victories would have had the Twins in first place as Jacksonville lost to Savannah.

In the first game, Orlando trailed 2-0 going into the seventh inning when Mark Funderburk belted a shot over the left field fence, his 19th homer of the year.

The Twins rallied in the ninth but failed to push across a run and Charlotte claimed a 2-1 victory.

In the nightcap, Bob Veselic pitched his first shutout of the year and was helped by back-to-back homers from Greg Gagne and Mike Soddors as Orlando triumphed, 4-0.

The victory was Veselic's fifth in eight decisions. He struck out seven and walked two.

The O-Twins race for the second half division title continues tonight in the first game of a three game home stand against Savannah.

Swimmers Start Monday

The Seminole High School swimming team will get off to an "early" start this year with its first practice scheduled for 6:15 a.m. on Monday, August 23 at the Sanford Bath & Tennis Club.

Physicals for Coach Donald Knight's squad will be Wednesday at the training room in the Seminole High gym. Boys physicals are at 1 p.m. followed by the girls at 4.

Cross Country Physicals

Physicals for the Seminole High cross country team will be held Wednesday at the Seminole High gym. Boys physicals are 1 p.m. followed by the girls at 4.

The first day of practice for coach Tom Tombras' team is Thursday for all boys and girls in grades 9-12. Practice gets under way at 3:30 p.m.

Richard, Down On Farm

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) — J.R. Richard is down on the farm and enjoying it immensely.

"I don't have anything to prove. But it is fun to be back in the fast lane," says the former Houston Astros' pitcher, who suffered a stroke two years ago that almost took his life.

"I only think about the future now, not the past. I've learned to take it just one day at a time," the 6-foot-8, 230-pound Richard said recently.

Richard, who has been hit hard since joining the Tucson Toros of the Pacific Coast League, isn't dwelling on his medical setback or the 94 mph slider that made him the terror of the National League.

Richard said his physicians never warned him against trying to make his way back to the big leagues.

"I still consider myself another minor leaguer just trying to make it," said the man who struck out more than 300 NL batters in one season. "I'm very confident of returning."

Johnson Makes A Boob-Boo

SMITHERS, British Columbia (UPI) — When Elaine Johnson's routine tee shot ricocheted off a tree and landed in the cup, it wasn't exactly the one she had in mind.

During a practice round for a tournament, Mrs. Johnson sliced the top of the ball off the tee into a tree 5 feet away and caught it in her brassiere on the rebound, club pro Jake Block said Monday.

"I don't mind taking a two-stroke penalty, but I'll be damned if I'm going to play the ball where it lies," said the Terrace, British Columbia, native, with tears of embarrassment streaming down her face.

Block said only Mrs. Johnson's pride was hurt.

Lee Mazzilli, a native New Yorker who was traded from the New York Mets to the Texas Rangers at the beginning of the season, then traded to the Yankees Aug. 8, is showing his gratitude at being brought back home.

Mazzilli, in his debut at Yankee Stadium, slammed a sixth-inning, two-run homer and Dave Righthand and Rich Gossage combined on a four-hit shutout to power the Yankees to a 2-0 victory over Kansas City in the first game of a Monday night double-header.

In the nightcap, Dave Winfield socked his 20th homer and hit an RBI triple and Lou Piniella added a solo homer to carry the Yankees to a sweep.

Mazzilli, who got a curtain call from the 26,815 fans, is 9-for-20 since coming to New York from Texas.

"It felt great," said Mazzilli, who was devastated when the Mets traded him to Texas. "It's like a dream. I'm happy it led to a win. This is my biggest thrill in baseball. Being happy and being where you want to be helps."

Reliever Rich Gossage, who saved both games, clearly doesn't share Mazzilli's enthusiasm for playing in the "Bronx Zoo." Gossage claimed the Yankees have to fight the front office, the fans and negative thinking by the media.

"It is so negative around here ..." said Gossage, who has 25 saves. "Negativism is like injected into you. It's just very upsetting."

Tigers 3, Mariners 1

At Detroit, Jack Morris, backed by three double plays, pitched an eight-inning and Chet Lemon hit a home run and scored another run to pace the Tigers.

Blue Jays 2, Indians 1

At Toronto, pinch-runner Alvis Woods scored from third base in the seventh inning to lift the Blue Jays out of last place in the AL East, a half game in front of the Indians.

White Sox 6, Rangers 1

At Arlington, Texas, Harold Baines drove in three runs with a two-run homer in the fourth and a sacrifice fly to spark Chicago to its 15th victory in 18 games.

Angels 8, A's 4

At Oakland, Calif., Tim Foli drove in three runs with a single and sacrifice fly and Fred Lynn and Rob Wilfong homered to lead California back into first place in the AL West.

Red Sox 9, Orioles 4

At Boston, Carney Lansford smacked two doubles and a three-run homer and Tom Burgmeier pitched 4 1-3 innings of hitless relief to propel the Red Sox, before a season-high crowd 34,746.

Air Of Excitement Previews Season

There is an air of excitement about the county. Preparations for a busy fall season are underway.

Club boards are meeting to prepare for the resumption of activities, the stores are showing the latest fall fashions, parents are eyeing back to school clothes and visiting doctors and dentists.

I spoke with Joan Madison, president of the Seminole Chapter of the American Association of University Women.

Their first meeting of the season will be held Sept. 2 at the South Seminole Community Library. They plan to cover the Library Referendum at that meeting.

The Seminole Chapter has about 58 active members and is currently seeking to add more to that number. If you are eligible, sounds like a good organization to become involved with.

Mr. and Mrs. James Grady (formerly Jean Roche) of Sanford have just returned from their honeymoon in the Carolinas. They were married at the Upsala Church in Sanford and had guests attending from as far away as Virginia, New York and California.

If once a month you would like to share good food and good company, the Altamonte Springs Woman's Club meets in a variety of restaurants. Judy Fallis, past president says they have members from all over South Seminole, not just Altamonte Springs.

If you would like to join them call Joan Zoltik at 896-4090.

Why is Eloise Jerger of Winter Springs smiling these days? Her daughter, Mrs. Fred Reuben, and two grandsons, Karl and Ross, are visiting from Chesapeake, Va. Every day has been packed with activities for them. They will need a vacation to rest from this vacation.

No, there is not a beauty contest in town. That beauty is Kelly Dunne. She is here with her mother, Mrs. Joanne Dunne, from Leesburg, Va.

They are visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lou Valente. Kelly celebrated her 12th birthday in Florida.

Enzo Agnese of Winter Springs is poorer by three coins. That is right. He just returned from a trip to Rome, Italy, where he visited his mother and sisters. Enzo is of course that miracle hairstylist known throughout the county for his creative abilities.

Last week I had a plea from Janice Trawick, the volunteer coordinator for Meals on Wheels asking for volunteers in the Sanford area to give a few hours a week.

The number I gave at which she could be reached is not a working number. Please call her at 831-1631.

Alicen Freund left this week to visit her father in Philadelphia. Longwood just does not seem the same without her.

Michele Barrett has thrilled her family and friends by an early graduation from Central Adult High School, a division of Seminole Community College.

Michele plans to attend Seminole Community College in the fall. Congratulations and best wishes, Michele.

MRS. JOHN DAVID FOX

Miss Harasti Bride Of John D. Fox

Bambi Jo Harasti and John David Fox were united in marriage Aug. 14 at 7 p.m. at the Altamonte Chapel, Altamonte Springs, with the Rev. Fred Suedmeyer performing the double ring, candlelight ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Harasti of Altamonte Springs. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Fox, Altamonte Springs.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her wedding a white knit silk chiffon gown with a Queen Anne neckline and full bishop sleeves. The entire bodice and sleeves were trimmed in silk Venice and Schiffler embroidered lace and embellished with seed pearls and sequins. The A-line skirt extended into a graceful chapel train trimmed with scalloped lace at the hemline.

She wore a full length mantilla veil which fell from a Venice lace Renaissance cap. The cap also featured small clusters of lilies of the valley which framed her face. The mantilla was detailed with hand-placed silk Venice lace floral appliques and bordered with laces matching her gown.

She wore diamond earrings, a gift of the groom, and a diamond and pearl necklace which was the first gift given to her mother by her father. She carried a silk keepsake cascade bouquet fashioned of white roses, lily of the valley, tiny lavender daisies, white satin ribbon loops and flowing white satin streamers adorned with lily of the valley.

Sharon Oehler attended the bride as matron of honor. She wore a long gown of lavender Qiana with a sheer chiffon yoke and ruffle. The neckline and yoke were trimmed with dyed to match silk Venice lace. She carried a white lace fan adorned with silk white roses, rose apple blossoms, lavender daisies and tied with lavender and pink streamers. Her hairpiece was fashioned of matching flowers.

Bridesmaids were Miss Mary Fox, sister of the groom, and Miss Helaina Howard. Miss Lisa Krtek served as junior bridesmaid. Their gowns and headpieces were identical to the honor attendant's as were their flowers except tied with lavender streamers.

Flower girl was Miss Erin Brooks who wore a long white eyelet gown veined with pale pink satin ribbons.

Kenneth Oehler was best man. Usher-groomsman were Tod Karanginis, Nick Karanginis and Abel Fox, brothers of the groom. All the male attendants wore silver and grey tuxedos matching the groom's tuxedo.

The bride's mother wore a long light blue Qiana gown with an attached sheer chiffon blouson with a single overlay cascading from the waist to the hemline.

The groom's mother wore a long dusty rose silk gown with long sleeves and a chiffon bodice enhanced with beading.

Their wrist corsages were fashioned in the same flowers as the bride's.

The reception was held at the Westmonte Civic Club. Out-of-town guests attending the wedding came from Brandon, Miami, Ft. Lauderdale, Plantation, and Tampa; California, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Texas and Wisconsin.

'Young' Lady, 91, Lives By Poem

DEAR ABBY: I am a "young" lady of 91, and have been reading your column since it started. I hope you will find it in your heart to print the enclosed poem. I have lived by its dictates for many years and hope it will do for others what it has done for me.

MARY HELEN BOWLING, SAN DIEGO, CALIF.
DEAR YOUNG LADY: The poem you sent happens to be the first poem I memorized! (I have yet to identify the author.) I will share it with pleasure:

MYSELF
I have to live with myself, and so I want to be fit for myself to know. I want to be able, as days go by, Always to look myself straight in the eye. I don't want to stand, with the setting sun, And hate myself for the things I've done. I want to go out with my head erect, I want to deserve all men's respect. For here in the struggle for fame and self I want to be able to like myself. I don't want to look at myself and know I'm bluster, a bluff and an empty show. I never can hide myself from me; I see what others may never see. I know what others may never know, I never can fool myself, and so,

Cyclists To Ride For CF

According to Jacques Maxwell, chairman of the 1982 cystic fibrosis committee for Sanford, National CF week is Sept. 19-25. Sanford will hold its annual Bike-A-Thon on Sept. 25.

Cystic Fibrosis, as yet incurable, is a respiratory and digestive disease which is inherited when both parents carry the recessive gene for CF.

One out of every 20 persons in the United States is a CF carrier, usually without knowing it. Medical treatment has helped some patients live into their teen years and beyond, into young adulthood.

Any child with cystic fibrosis is eligible for treatment. The closest medical center to Sanford is Orange Regional Medical Center in Orlando.

For more information call Jacques Maxwell at 322-2805. Any persons interested in helping with the Bike-A-Thon, feel free to call anytime.

pictures they took of their six-week vacation in Hawaii. We know we will be in for another three hours of viewing. What do we tell them? We hate to hurt their feelings, but enough is enough.

SICK OF SLIDES

DEAR SICK: Tell them in advance that if they will limit their slide show to one hour to please come. If they agree, fine. If they don't, what have you lost? The "friendship" of a very selfish, insensitive couple who couldn't care less about your feelings.

DEAR ABBY: As a coroner, I recently performed an autopsy on a teen-age boy. He was driving an automobile at approximately 120 miles per hour, his car became airborne, skidded 140 yards, then hit an oncoming car. As a result of that accident, there were two dead and two injured.

In the wallet of that teen-age driver was a clipping from a Dear Abby column. It was, "Please, God, I'm Only 17." If you print this, do not use my name or state. I did not tell the parents.

2 Sanford Men Convicted In Currency Theft

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

Two Sanford men, convicted in U.S. District Court in Orlando Monday of stealing over $500,000 in uncut U.S. currency, are free on $15,000 bond each pending a pre-sentence investigation.

Kenneth Kroesser, 33, of C-5 Sandalwood Villas, 110 Airport Blvd., and Roger Harmon, 48, of 300 Art Lane, were arrested April 28 after Kroesser's girlfriend Cynthia Lee Queen, 23, informed police of their crime. Each could face up to 20 years in prison and $20,000 in fines for their convictions on charges of retaining and concealing government property, according to a U.S. District Attorney's office spokesman.

Officials said Kroesser and Harmon were found guilty by a 12-member jury in Orlando at about 3:30 p.m. Monday.

Police first learned of the two men's illegal activities from Miss Queen who turned the men in after Kroesser became angry and left her after she discovered the uncut sheets of money in their home.

Officials said the money was smuggled from the U.S. Treasury office under the two men's clothing while other employees were out to lunch. Kroesser and Harmon were former security employees of the U.S. Treasury Bureau of Printing and Engraving.

Prosecutors said $127,000 of the suspected $500,000 stolen in the money-smuggling operation was recovered.

Funding Unavailable For Left Turn Lane

Plans to construct a second left turn lane from State Road 434 onto Interstate 4 in Longwood have been approved by the state but no funds are available for the project until "beyond 1987."

State Department of Transportation officials told Seminole County officials Monday that plans for a second lane have been approved to accommodate westbound traffic from SR 434 onto I-4. But even though the $320,000 project has been given the green light, the funds to carry it through have not.

DOT Engineer Wally Fish said the project ranks high on the list of projects to be funded exclusively with state funds. But state legislators have adopted a policy requiring state funds to be used only as matching money for federal road grants.

Seminole County Traffic Engineer Gary Lester said a DOT study showed that 600 cars an hour use the left turn lane from SR 434 onto I-4 westbound during peak hours. That is more than twice the capacity of the intersection.

State Rep. Robert Hattaway, D-Altamonte Springs, said the state policy isn't expected to change before 1987. Therefore, he said, no state funds will probably be available until then.

Seminole Grants Zoning Variances

The Seminole County Board of Adjustment has approved special exceptions for construction of one business and the expansion of another business near Oviedo.

The board Monday granted a land use exception to Jimmy R. Wilkerson for construction of a saw mill on State Road 426 near Oviedo.

But there was considerable discussion between board members and Wilkerson's representative, Bill Robinson, about exactly what the mill would do.

The county's saw mill land use classification is a generic term covering all operations which cut logs or pre-cut wood into planks or boards.

Wilkerson's operation would not be a traditional mill operation, Robinson said. He explained that the facility will be primarily designed to re-saw wood that has already been cut into lengths. He said the mill will be enclosed and small saws will be used.

But that operation could be considered a wholesale lumber yard operation, Ginny Markley, of the county's land management office, said. A wholesale lumber yard is commercially zoned, not agriculturally zoned.

Board members Roger Perra, Harry Hagle and Larry Blair said they know very little about saw mill operations but decided that the information they had about the operation, and assurances from neighbors in attendance that the mill would not bother them, was enough to grant the exception.

The board also approved an exception for J-W Training Center to construct two buildings for groom's quarters. The change to the horse training center's site plan also calls for construction of recreational vehicle parking spots.

The additional facilities will be used for customers and staff, a representative of the training center said.

The board also approved exceptions for James Thompson to operate an auto repair garage at Aloma Avenue and Howell Branch Road near Casselberry. The property had previously been zoned for operation of a service station.

An exception for operation of a paint spray booth was granted for Henry P. Lo at a facility on General Hutchison Parkway near Longwood. Lo said the facility will be used to paint wicker furniture he is importing into the area for retail sale.

The board also granted special exceptions for placing mobile homes on agricultural property within the county.

Five-year exceptions were granted for John T. Ballerino, Lester Kilmer, Harold Fues, Bill Salyers, H. Jeff Vonler and Jerry G. Adams to place mobile homes near Sanford. A 10-year exception was granted for Brian C. Bone to place a mobile home on Willingham Road off of State Road 419.

UW FUNDRAISER

Lou Whitney, director of industrial relations at Stromberg-Carlson's Sanford plant, has been named chairman of the Major Industries Division of the Seminole County United Way. Whitney, of Longwood, will have his hands full helping the UW raise about $330,000 by the end of October.

Steve Lash, right, general manager of Jim Lash's Blue Book Service Center and Rent-a-Car with service department staff who keep the rental cars in good repair as well as offering a full auto repairs and services to the public (from left) Terry Seay, Ralph Wight, Merrill Schrimmscher and service manager Jim Durs.

Blue Book Cars Offers Rentals, Sales, Service

Company flying in from out of town? Is your car in the shop for body repairs? There are many occasions when a one-car family temporarily needs a second car fast.

It is for times like these that Jim Lash Blue Book Cars, Sanford, established its independent car rental service to provide dependable, but economical good used cars for rental.

Rental cars with automatic transmission, air-conditioning and power steering start at $9.99 a day, the first 100 miles each day are free with a five cents a mile charge thereafter. Vans rent for $19.95 for 24 hours. Weekly rates are available.

Cars are serviced at the Blue Book Service Center at 4114 S. Orlando Ave. (17-92), to ensure they are in good working condition.

To qualify to rent one of these cars you must be at least 21 years of age, the holder of a valid driver's license and have auto insurance.

There is no need to postpone badly needed repairs to your car because you have no other transportation. For your convenience Jim Lash offers rental cars for a flat $9.99 a day fee including full collision coverage while your car is being worked on in the Blue Book Service Department.

The low cost rentals enable persons with policies with insurance companies with fixed rates to rent within the rental car allowance. Blue Book Cars bills direct with some insurance firms.

Owner Jim Lash, who has 28 years experience in the automobile business in this area, has operated his used car sales from this same location since 1975. He has a large selection of quality used cars at Blue Book prices.

Steve Lash, general manager of Blue Book Cars and Service Center, announces a new service available for the public. Car owners can now sell their cars on consignment at Blue Book.

"The service developed out of the rising need for people to sell their cars," he said. "It is hassle free. We take care of financing and if a trade is involved we handle all the necessary paper work for a minimal cost."

The Blue Book Service Center is a full service diagnostic operation utilizing the latest in electronics systems for wheel balancing, engine testing, wheel alignment and electrical system repair from battery to tail light.

Their computers will diagnose your car's problem promptly. They will service any make car. "We do everything but body work," said Jim Durs, service manager. Working with Durs in the service department are experienced Terry Seay, Merrill Schrimmscher and Ralph Wight.

Blue Book Service Center and cars is a one-stop place for automotive needs. Call 321-0741 or 830-6688 to make an appointment to have your car serviced.

Another nice thing about the horse: It's almost a certainty no one is going to steal his hubeaps.

An office with low overhead tends to make the staff stoop-shouldered.

Little rules to live by: If you fix the dripping faucet, the pipe behind the wall will let go.

Reader Questions Kidney Removal

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR LAMB — Recently I had surgery for the removal of my left kidney. I was in good health and had no symptoms indicating a problem existed. A tumor was found quite accidentally and definitely determined with an angiogram. The doctor insisted that the only course of treatment was removal of the kidney itself, for all the reasons you are probably familiar with. The tumor proved to be benign.

New I am convalescing and have some anxiety about living with one kidney. I also wonder if the surgery was absolutely necessary. I would appreciate any comments you may have on these points. I would also like to know if one can do something to keep the remaining kidney healthy.

intake. You have fewer kidney units to filter out sodium now and a high salt intake could be more harmful than usual.

I know you are interested in how the kidney works so I am sending you The Health Letter number 12-12, Your Kidneys and How They Work. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR READER — Unfortunately, in a number of situations where a lump is found the only way a diagnosis can be established is by removing it. In some instances this can be done as a simple lumpectomy but in other cases a whole organ may be lost.

DEAR DR LAMB — I'd like to know what miracle takes place after an operation where a man becomes a woman and his or her face becomes so smooth and hairless. I'm a 74-year-old female, and I'd like to remove the hair from my face. I hate it when someone says, "why don't you shave?"

The danger with a tumor in the kidney is that if it is cancer it is a particularly hard type to treat and the sooner the cancer is removed the better the chances of survival. If there is reason to think a tumor is cancer, surgeons are not happy about manipulating it as might occur in just taking out the tumor. The manipulation may cause cancer cells to be released into the circulation, actually causing spread. By tying off all the circulation first, which could mean to the whole kidney, this can be avoided. And this is particularly important if you may be dealing with a highly malignant tumor.

I've had the electric needle burn some from my upper lip but the hairs either returned or more replaced them.

DEAR READER — Surprise: men and women have about the same amount of hair on their faces. The difference is that the hair fiber in women is so fine you don't see it. Under certain genetic influences and hormones the hair shaft may become coarser and longer, making it visible. Male hormone is a big factor. And with a transsexual operation the decrease in male hormones from castration and taking female hormones cause a big change.

After the menopause the adrenal gland in some women produces more testosterone compared to estrogen and that stimulates hair growth. You can't get rid of the hair permanently unless the hair follicle is destroyed. That usually takes several treatments with an electric needle under the best circumstances.

YOUR BIRTHDAY

Aug. 18, 1982

It appears you're going to be making a considerable change in direction in the year ahead. Experience has taught you many valuable lessons and you are now ready to profit from them.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You should find yourself in a position today to be able to let go of an unproductive situation without having any regrets. You can now make a fresh start. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the seasons following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph, Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

invitation today to participate in a joint undertaking, even if you have to change directions in order to do so.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Terms may finally be found today concerning something which you have been trying to negotiate for a long time. They will happily satisfy everyone involved.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Present to the boss or inaugurate today that program you've been mulling over. Once it is set in motion you'll see how good it really is.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You'll be given an opportunity today to get off to a new start with a relationship important to you. Make your move as soon as you get the signal.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your artistic abilities are above par today, so if there are any changes you'd like to make around the home, now is the time to do so.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Plan today the course of action you'd like to take in the next couple of weeks to accomplish your purposes. Fresh, concise ideas can be formulated now.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A financial opportunity may come your way today, giving you the chance to reorganize your budget and put it on a stronger, more solvent basis.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It is no longer necessary to delay a project you've been wanting to start. You can now garner proper support if you'll seek it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Now is the time to set your sights on loftier goals and ambitions. You can achieve them by following what your instincts are dictating.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be exceptionally attentive today. There's an opportunity about you to gain some knowledge which will be invaluable to your future plans.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Seriously consider any

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

In explanation of the bidding it seems that North felt that his two no-trump rebid not only denied four spades, but also showed a very minimum hand. South didn't feel at all certain about what North meant South said to himself, Damn the torpedoes! and blasted into the spade grand slam.

One look at dummy made him wish that he had settled for six. In fact he wasn't at all sure that six was a sound contract.

There was a simple way to play for seven. Just take a heart finesse. If it worked he would have a parking place for one of his clubs and could try for one diamond ruff in dummy.

Then South looked at West. The game was match point duplicate. South had not seen this West before, but he didn't look like a man who would lead from the king of hearts. Was there a way to make seven with just one heart trick? South saw there was such a way and he tried for it.

Up with the ace of hearts. Three high diamonds to discard a club from dummy. Then three rounds of clubs, ruffing the third one with the eight of trumps. Then back to his hand with a heart ruff to lead his eight of diamonds and ruff with dummy's trump queen. Then he ran his trumps and when the suit broke 3-2 South had his ambitious grand slam.
