By SHARON CARRASCO Herald Staff Writer

The nationwide strike waged Sunday by the International Brotherhood of Teamsters against 71 truck lines will hinder more the shipping of general commodities than produce for residents of Seminole County. Six major truck lines based in Orlando which ship freight in and out of Seminole County have been shut down by teamster strikers. The trucking firms deal mainly in general commodities and all report no knowledge of picketing in Seminole County. The six truck lines now shut down are: Ryder Truck Lines Inc. which ships mainly store merchandise (dry goods) Roadway Express Inc., store merchandise; Consolidated Freight, general an adverse effect on shippers of produce in Sanford and other commodities from personal belongings to machinery; Caroline Freight, general commodities; Yellow Republic Freight, general commodities; and Pacific Intermountain Express, general commodities. The nationwide strike involves at least 71 truck lines and affects at least 2,200 drivers and freight handlers in four Florida locals, union officials said. Today picketing was orderly at lines where union members affiliated with the Teamster locals were posted at Jacksonville, Tampa, Miami and Orlando. On a brighter side, the nationwide strike is not expected to have

Power Company Claims Bubble Disintegrating

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) - Metropolitan Edison Co., the power company that owns the Three Mile Island nuclear plant, claimed today the dangerous bubble of hydrogen gas inside the reactor is "disintegrating." Federal nuclear experts refused to confirm the report but said they were "encouraged" about the bubble size. spokesman for Metropolitan Edison. part-owner of the stricken nuclear plant, said the bubble, which is complicating the vital cooling of the nuclear core is "about 170-175 cubic feet right now and there is evidence it might be disintegrating." If true, the report would mean the bubble is far less than half its original size when it first posed a dangerous problem to the cooling process. It was because original efforts to eliminate the bubble produced no results that mass evacuation plans for the whole area are being considered. However, a spokesman for the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, which is in charge of the operation at Three Mile Island, refused to confirm the Met-Ed report. The NRC has consistently had figures on the size of the bubble higher than Met-Ed. "The only thing we have is that there is reason to be encouraged about the bubble size," NRC spokesman Ken Clark said. Meanwhile, engineers at the site continued the slow process of starting to convert hydrogen gas in the containment building back to water to help cool the reactor.

The new attempt began just hours after President Carter - himself a trained nuclear engineer - and Gov. Dick Thornburgh donned bright yellow protective boots, personally inspected the plant on the situation "stable." Engineers hooked up hydrogen "recom-biners" to the vents of the containment building, where the nuclear core is housed, t start today's operation. The two recombiners were in place and were-expected to be in full operation later today, according to Harry Kister, a Nuclear Regulatory Commission official in Philadelphia.

The recombiners are designed to convert some of the hydrogen gas buildup in the containment building back into water by heating it with oxygen - a process similar to the way steam from a teapot is converted ack into water year Once that is achieved, the engineers hope to use the reconverted water to help in the cooling process.

Success in the conversion attempt also would reduce the possibility of a second hydrogen gas explosion. Officials believe such an explosion damaged the facility last Wednesday, less than 10 hours after the nation's worst nuclear accident began.

Authorities said the maneuver posed no new danger and Thornburgh - as if to stress the belief - ordered state employees to report for work as usual today in the state Capitol complex, 10 miles from the plant site.

Carter - who 27 years ago was part of a Navy team that helped avert a nuclear disaster in an experimental reactor at Chalk River in Canada - made a 26-minute on-site inspection of the mist-shrouded Three Mile Island plant Sunday.

Fire officials have determined started a fire at Seminole Petroleum Co., 202 N. Laurel Ave., in Sanford March 22, was located on French Avenue and could have spread fire through a large section of town had the top not been blown off one of the petroleum storage tanks.

"Fuel was released from an escape valve on top of the tanks and that fuel vaporized when it hit the atmosphere," said Sanford Fire Chief C. Manning Harriett.

The petroleum vapor is heavier than air, so it drifted to the ground and flowed toward French Avenue, according to Harriett. There, something ignited the vapors causing the resulting fire to spread back to the storage tanks. The pressure from the burning vapor entering the tanks led to the explosion which reocked northern Sanford in the early hours March 22, according tr Harriett.

The explosion blew the top off one storage tank, shooting flamer 150 feet into the sir. commented Harriett today.

Harriett said the investigation of the fire's cause being done by his department and the Florida State Fire Marshal's office has not yielded a cause for the explosion and resulting fire. However, he said arson is being ruled out.

The source of ignition could have been any number of things. according to Harriett. He cited as examples, a spark from a passing car, a cigarette thrown down along French Avenue, near the site of the blaze or some sort of spark from a nearby house on Fulton Street and French Avenue. The explosion occurred just after Karl Yost, 62, Mullett Lake Park, had finished unloading 1,600 gallons of petroleum from a tanker truck into the plant's storage tanks. The blast reportedly knocked Yost to the ground. He had been standing in the parking lot area near the corner of Laurel and Fulton, a short distance from the explosion, at the time, according to a spokesman for the Sanford Fire Department. Other than that incident, no injuries were reported, authorities said.

The plant has a storage capacity of 80,000 gallons, according to the spokesman. While the exact number of gallons of petroleum being stored at the time of the explosion in not known, fire officials said they feel the plant was near capacity.

A burning power pole at the explosion site promoted Florida Power & Light to de-energize the line at 1:15 a.m. causing an area ranging from the Rand siding down First Street and over to the county courthouse to be without power, FP&L's District Manager Scott Burns said. Most of the area was back on the line at 2 a.m., he added, and power was restored completely by 4 p.m. Called out by the emergency, Burns said he could see flames

With Little Fanfare

Israel's Begin Arrives in Egypt

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) - Menachem Begin arrived in Cairo today with little fanfare but made history as the first prime minister of the modern Jewish state to set foot in an Arab capital. Blue and white Israeli flags fluttered over the airport, Israel's national anthem was played by an Egyptian band, and the man once denounced as a terrorist by the Egyptian press lowered his head in salute to the Egyptian flag. Vice President Hosni Mobarak greeted Begin as the 65-year-old prime minister and his wife. Aliza, emerged from their Israeli air force Boeing 707. Neither Begin nor Mobarak made any statements, although the Israeli leader waved to more than 300 reporters and photographers, saying "Shalom, shalom." The welcome for Begin's 28-hour visit was routine for visiting heads of government and indicated that his overnight stay in the most populous city in the Middle East will be kept low-key. Begin's first stop was to be at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier before touring the Great Pyramids at Giza and a synagogue. H will be Sadat's guest at a state dinner Monday evening. The visit came just one day after five Arab countries withdrew their ambassadors from Cairo, formally beginning Egypt's ostracism from virtually the entire Arab world. # Jury Finds Passman

Not Guilty In Scandal

MONROE, La. (UPI) - Throughout the trial, former U.S. Rep. Otto Passman was described by his lawyers as a feeble man whose very life was in jeopardy by the rigors of his courtroom appearances.

But the 78-year-old Louisiana Domocrat bolted like an athlete to the courtroom door once the 12 members of the jury - his former constituents - pronounced their verdict Sunday: they found Passman innocent of the conspiracy and tax evasion charges that subjected him to 366 days of indignity.

The nine men and three women, all from the 5th Congressional District Passman represented for 30 years, deliberated just 90 minutes before returning the verdict. Passman was the only congressman ever to stand trial in the South Korean influence-buying scandals. He was indicted in Washington on March 31, 1978, for allegedly conspiring to accept $213,000 from South Korean rice dealer Tongsun Park. The trial was moved to Passman's hometown because of his ill health.

Patty Hearst Now Mrs. Shaw

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) - As an Episcopal minister spoke of righting old wrongs, Patricia Hearst was married Sunday to policeman-bodyguard Bernard Shaw, who courted the newspaper heiress during a long campaign to free her from prison.

The 25-year-old bride emerged from a small chapel on Treasure Island Navy Base in San Francisco Bay as Mrs. Patricia Hearst Shaw. A small crowd of joggers and Navy wives applauded and yelled, "Congratulations, Patty!" The 30-minute ceremony was performed by Rev. Ted Dumke, an Episcopalian minister who organized a nationwide campaign to free Miss Hearst from federal prison after her 1975 conviction for helping her terrorist tidnappers, the Symbionese Liberation Army, rob a bank. The couple's honeymoon plans were kept secret. Shaw has said he and his bride would live in a secluded San Mateo mountain retreat south of San Francisco.

Blackout In Boston

BOSTON (UPI) - Residents of the fashionable Back Bay section awoke this morning to hear, if they had battery powered radios, that Boston Edison hopes to have power restored early today to the 30,000 residents still without electricity.

At the height of the blackout Sunday about 100,000 residents were without power and some tenants of highrise apartment buildings and fashionable hotels were evacuated Sunday night when underground cable fires triggered at least one explosion, plunging the city's center into darkness. "We hope to have power restored to all customers by 8 a.m.," Boston Edison spokesman Walter Salvi said. "We have only about 30,000 people out at this point."

Evans Sorry, Ready To Die

ATMORE, Als. (UPI)-A Catholic priest who has made frequent visits to John Louis Evans III on death row says the man who is scheduled to die in the electric chair Friday is sorry for his crimes, but cannot bear the thought of a lifetime of incorceration.

Father Kevin Duignan visited Evans Sunday as the convicted murderer spent a quiet day in his death row cell near Alabama's electric chair, where he is scheduled to become the first person to be executed in the United States in more than two years.

Evan's lawyer, John Carroll of the Southern Poverty Law Center in Montgomery, said Sunday he was considering going against his client's wishes by seeking a stay of the execution in federal court.

We, The People: That's Who Pays

If President Carter is looking for a domestic issue that should prove wildly popular with the electorate, he could do far worse than to raise the banner of regulatory reform as he did recently.

No one knows the exact cost government regulation imposes on the American economy. But, by any calculation, the total cost is staggering and every nickel must ultimately be paid by consumers in the form of higher prices for virtually every product and service they purchase.

A notable study last year by the Chase Manhattan Bank put the cost of all government regulation at $103.1 billion during 1977, with the vast bulk of this sum attributable to the regulatory web spun by federal agencies.

What does a $100 billion price tag for regulation mean? In 1977, it equalled:

- $470 for every man, woman and child in the United States, or $1,880 for each family of four. - Five percent of the nation's gross national product, the total value of all goods and services produced in the United States that year. - 25 percent of the entire 1977 federal budget. - Nearly three-quarters of all private investment in plant and equipment during 1977. At General Motors, more than 20,000 employees work full-time trying to keep the nation's largest corporation in compliance with government regulations.

In New York state, one-fourth of a hospital patient's bill reflects the cost of meeting regulations issued by no less than 164 government agencies.

The impact of regulation on small business frequently is even more devastating. U.S. News and World Report noted the case of a gasoline station owner who spent 610 hours each year nearly one-fourth of his total working time - filling out forms required by federal, state, and local government agencies.

Part of this effort, and its attendant cost is, of course, the price we pay for cleaner air. less polluted waters, safer work places, purer drugs, uncontaminated food, and other generally recognized social benefits.

And yet, no one would seriously contend that the vast fortune expended on the administration of and compliance with government regulations is without its quota of waste. Indeed, there is every reason to believe the regulatory thicket has become impossibly tangled and is in desperate need of pruning.

As the president noted: "It should not have taken 12 years and over 100,000 pages for the Food and Drug Administration to decide what percentage of peanuts there ought to be in peanut

Given that some regulations are necessary and others are not only unnecessary but harmful, the trick is to distinguish between them. What the president proposes is to subject each regulation to a careful analysis of its costs versus its presumed benefits. Assuming competent cost-benefit analysis, no single reform would exert a more constructive influence on federal regulatory practice.

The president also plans to propose a package of additional regulatory reforms including periodic reviews of existing regulations, reduction in paper work requirements, and extensive revision of current regulatory procedure. All are needed.

Pushing these reforms through Congress will, of course, be more difficult than delivering a Sunday speech. But, as Mr. Carter must sense, the impetus in Congress for regulatory reform has been building for several years.

This is the year to transform the impetus into workable legislation and, in the process, to liberate the economy from the onerous burden of regulatory

Another Oil Firms Serenade?

WASHINGTON - The nation once again i being serenaded by the major oil companies, offering the latest rendition of their theme song: With the "right economic climate," the petroleum industry can serve the country's energy needs.

The lyrics never change. "Companies need added income in order to accelerate domestic production," says the American Petroleum Institute in arguing for decontrol of crude oil prices now regulated by the federal government. Those controls currently impose a ceiling price of about $12.50 per barrel for "upper tier" domestic crude obtained from "new" wells that began production since 1975. For "lower tier" crude from "old" pre-1975 wells, the limit is approximately $5.50 per barrel. That substantial price disparity is supposed to stimulate exploration for previously untapped sources of oil. But the multinational energy corporations, as usual, aren't content with a price that has increased more than 400 percent since the early 1970s.

They want the "cartel price" established by OPEC, the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, which now stands at about $13.50 per barrel in the country of origin and almost $15.00 per barrel for oil landed in the United States. The petroleum industry has a penchant for portraying itself as a bastion of free enterprise which could satisfy much of the nation's energy LIGHTER SIDE demand if only it were unshackled from artificial government price restrictions ac ministered by inept bureaucrats. But a recently released report, commissioned by the Department of Energy, conclusively demonstrates that the federal government and the taxpayers who provide its financing has provided billions of dollars to prop up production, refining and distribution of oil. The little-publicized report is the product of a two-year study conducted by the Pacific Northwest Laboratory of Richland, Wash., a subsidiary of the prestigious Battelle Memorial Institute of Columbus, Ohio. The Battelle analysts examined all federal incentives provided from 1950 through 1977 to stimulate production of various forms of energy. then assigned costs to those incentives based on 1977 price levels.

Included were both direct subsidies, usually in the form of federal expenditures, and indirect incentives such as tax deductions and other potential industry payments that the government foregoes collecting.

Included were both direct subsidies, usually in the form of federal expenditures, and indirect incentives such as tax deductions and other potential industry payments that the government foregoes collecting.

Federal incentives under the present system of control, in the form of a premium price for "new oil," totalled $23.94 billion. For lowproduction "stripper wells," the industry received an additional $12.14 billion worth of

No Sugar On The Grapefruit

NEW YORK (UPI) - The season hasn't even started yet and the Yankees already have clinched one title. Their spring training record, six wins and 18 losses, is the worst of any team in baseball and even if they sweep their remaining two games, one of which is with the University of North Carolina tomorrow, they're still assured of finishing in the pits of the Grapefruit League Circuit. They scissored a four-game losing string with a 4-3 decision over the Tigers in 10 innings Sunday at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

The prevailing tendency in most quarters is to discount virtually everything that happens in spring training. Wait'll the bell rings Thursday, they'll be all right, most people are saying about the world champions.

George Steinbrenner, their principal owner and a hard line pragmatist, isn't that positive. He has a good memory and remembers how poorly the Yankees also did in their spring games last year, losing 13 of 23. He didn't like what he saw then and turned out to be right. When the regular season started a year ago, the Yanks lost eight of their first 14 and a number of the problems that first surfaced in spring training came back in the summer.

For all those who keep saying spring training doesn't mean a thing, I'm reminded about the worst spring performance I've ever seen by any club, The St. Louis Browns in 1950. The Browns lost the first 10 exhibition games they played that spring without winning one, and the late Zack Taylor, who was the manager then and could sense the kind of start his team was going to get off to in land downed Chicago 9-8; gives you that boyish grin and the regular season, told a couple of newsmen:

"Don't worry. The rest of the league will come back to us in Finally, the Browns managed to pull one out, and if memory serves me, it was in a game with Brooke General Hospital, an Army Medical team, in Texas, There was little cheering as I recall.

While spring training games are by no means a completely accurate barometer of what to expect from a club during the regular season, the contests frequently foreshadow future roblems.

For example, the Blue Jays, A's, Mets and Cardinals all did batting instruction from hitting two years in a row. And the way poorly in their spring games a year ago and their standing at the coach Charley Lau prior to the and of the exhibition season pretty much reflected the way they game, tied the score at 3-3 with Heritage Classic this past week, inished at the end of the regular season.

George Steinbrenner made his annoyance known over the "ankees' poor showing this spring a few weeks ago when he said he knew some of the players weren't getting enough sleep at night the game when Rod Carew was tour events and his second because they were staying out too late and he didn't like it. Indirectly, he was telling Bob Lemon to run a tighter ship.

That's really not Lemon's style. One of the reasons everybody ites to play for him so much is because he doesn't come down on his players like a ton of bricks with a whole set of rules. He figures lead the Angels to a victory decisive five strokes. But three they're old enough to know what's right. The players like that and over the Dodgers. A sellout earlier second place finishes sually respond to it.

Lemon's style of managing was good enough to lead the Yankees to a world championship last year after he replaced Billy Martin in mid-summer, but with a fellow like Steinbrenner, who as the most consuming passion for winning of anyone in sports 've ever seen since Vince Lombardi, there's no such thing as isting on your laurels.

Not that Bob Lemon is built that way. ## Roadrunners Champions

SAN DIEGO (UPI) - The Pacific Hockey League has reversed an earlier decision and decided the Phoenix Roadrunners will be declared league champions without holding any playoffs, officials said Sunday.

Phoenix captured the regularseason title in the per-centage standings. The decision not to hold playoffs resulted from a series of problems involving "an ice plant breakdown, scheduling of games and overall financing," PHL officials said in a statement issued by league headquarters.

PHL officials said discussions now are underway to establish a new hockey league in the United States for next season. The proposed league, still in the planning stages, would be comprised of two divisions, East and

'Hawks, Seagulls Tie

WOODLAND HILLS, Calif. (UPI) - Two overtime periods failed to break a deadlock between the Los Angeles Skyhawks and the Las Vegas Seaguils as the American Soccer League season opener for both clubs ended in a 1-1 tie during the weekend. Los Angeles outshot Las Vegas 21-5 in Saturday night's the situation by completing a three-point play, but there really shouldn't have been any pressure in the first place. Philadelphia owned a ninepoint lead with 1:38 left, then allowed the Lakers 11 points on five turnovers.

When Jamaal Wilkes made two free throws, suddenly Los Angeles led. It was only then that Dawkins scored and drew a foul by Kareem AbdulJabbar. "I don't think I fouled him," contended Abdul-Jabbar, who poured in a game-high 38 points to go with 15 rebounds and seven assists. "I was reaching just like he would be reaching. don't see how a foul could h called there."

Los Angeles had a chance to win with five seconds left and looked for Jabbar, but Wilkes wound up with the ball and missed.

With the win and Houston's loss to Cleveland, the Sixers moved into third place in the overall Eastern Conference standings, one-half game behind San Antonio.

The loss left the Lakers percentage points ahead of Kansas City for third place in the Western Conference and a half-game up on Denver and Portland. Los Angeles felt bad about coming so close, only to miss a chance to improve its standing.

Julius Erving led Philadelphia with 23 points. Dawkins never lost his intensity, though. He explained it after the game. "I keep playing until the buzzer rings," he said. "To me, the game isn't over unless we're 20 or 30 points ahead with minute left

Islanders Fall Again

By United Press International Only last week the New York Islanders skated triumphantly off the ice in the Montreal Forum, having beaten the home team to apparently wrap up the overall point title in the NHL. But then again, the Canadiens never give up that easily. And the Islanders never accomplish anything that easily. "We're the toughest team in the league, but if we don't go out there and prove it, people are just going to take advantage of us," New York goalie Glenn Resch said Sunday night after the Islanders fell 6-4 to Washington, lowering their record since the triumph in Montreal to 1-2-2.

Meanwhile, Montreal tied Boston 3-3 to move three points ahead of the Islanders - New York has a game in hand - in the race for what could be home

Ice in the Stanley Cup finals. Boston built a 3-1 lead on goals by Rick Smith in the first period and Stan Jonathan and Dwight Foster in the second. Montreal's Doug Risebrough scored in the first period. Jacques Lemaire and Ron

As a prerequisite to implementing a sex education program in the public schools, Seminole County School Superintendent William P. Layer today called for a boycott of all media carrying offensive advertising and products "until this is cleaned up." Layer's statement is contained in a written recommendation released today on his position of implementing a sex education program in the county.

Layer, who made his recommendation verbally at the March 29 school board meeting, was asked by a board member to prepare his recommendation in written form for other board members to study. The recommendation, in which Layer elaborates his position, will be placed for consideration on the April 11 agenda for board action.

Last week, Layer told the school board a sex education program could not be implemented in the public schools without first cleaning up the environment in which the students must live. He blamed the media for exploiting sex and said it was the main

A Fern Park man, his wife and daughter are suing a lieutenant of the Seminole County Sheriff's Department for damages incurred for alleged false arrest, false imprisonment and assault and battery.

James and Jimmie Harvey and daughter Crystal Bunn Anderson of Fern Park filed several complaints last Friday against Lt. Charles Coffee for his alleged actions on May 11, 1975. Sheriff John E. Polk, who was not involved in the incident, has also been named as a defendant in the civil suit. The action was filed in the Seminole County Courthouse, Sanford.

In the suit, the Harvey family claim they were arrested by Coffee without probable cause on May 11, 1975. The parents were taken to the Seminole County Jail while the daughter spent several hours in the Seminole County Juvenile Detention Center. the complaint states.

As a result of their alleged false arrest and false imprisonment. the Harveys claim they suffered "great inconvenience. discomfort, mental pain and suffering, humiliation, shame, public ridicule, disgrace, loss of time from their normal pursuits and injury to personal and professional reputations." The Harveys claim their arrests were "malicious and willful" by Coffee who was bitter because other charges against the family were dropped in court. Prior to May 11, 1975, James and Jimmie Harvey were arrested by Coffee for resisting an officer without violence and resisting an officer with violence according to records. Circuit Judge Anthony J. Hosemann Jr. dismissed the charges against the couple on July The Anderson girl also was charged by Coffee prior to May 11.

they were being detained at county jail on or about May 11, 1975 James Harvey said Coffee allegedly struck him with closed fists and a slapstick while he was handcuffed and held by another police officer. While she was talking on the telephone, Jimmie Harvey

With that thought in mind, Layer asked the school board to consider his three-part plan for implementing a sex education program in the public scholl system. The plan includes: short range, intermediate range and long range goals. Layer said he needs the help of concerned citizens to wage a clean-up campaign to convince the media to rid itself of offensive programs and advertising. Newspapers which publish offensive advertisements and products should be boycotted "until this is cleaned up," Layer recommended.

The program would then be taught on a pilot basis through youth groups and or church schools of each denomination and mplemented by the ministerial association, he said. "This means of presentation of the program would dispel any apprehension that the school system might not present the program in the proper light according to their individual beliefs. He also recommended the Seminole County Medical Association accept responsibility for piloting a medical type informational program in the county's hospitals for the teen-age groups and individuals under its care.

The public health service should accept responsibility also in piloting a program through its clinics and in conjunction with all welfare agencies giving aid to dependent children, he recommender

"There is a special need for this phase of the program because of the incidence of repcated teen pregnancies as shown by the following: Of 215 teen pregnancies, 99 were first-timers, 69 were second-timers. 21 were third-timers, 15 were four-timers and 11 were pregnant for the fifth time," Layer said.

If, and only if, the media upgrades its programs and advertisements and the pilot programs have been shown to be effective. Layer said the school board should consider implementation of the program in the Seminole County public schools on a voluntary basis. He said he hadn't determined which grades would be offered the program. The Seminole County Chapter of the Florida Alliance for Responsible Parenting is pushing the school board to implement a mandatory "family living" curriculum in the public schools for students from kindergarten to 12th grade and includes sex education in its proposal.

Layer said the school system would "go to bat" with a kindergarten through 12th grade program if all the agencies and parents "do their part."
