True our revered Pilgrim Fathers originated the day of big eats. There probably never has been a more lavish spread than that with which those pioneers celebrated the safe ending of a long year of hardship and hard work. But with that first Thanksgiving Day was much gratitude. Genuine thanks were offered in the prayers and hymns of those first Americans. They consumed a lot of food and made much of the feasting, but they were remembering that charged it was only by the mercy of God that they were there to enjoy the big dinner.

In Florida this year there will be some sincere thanks-ivings. In the fections of the state that were visited by September storm, it is probable that hundreds of thinksgiving prayers will be a natural, even compelling fact the moon, that with its constant ture of the day's observance. Instead of spending more money than usual on the preparation of the Thanksgiving dinner, some people will use the money they might have spent, buying a good dinner for needy people. Other folks have already sent generous contributions to the Children's Home Society of Jacksonville, or to the orphanages their churches support, or to other charity organizations. Some folks have been busy for a week or two, making preparations for other folks' happiness that day.

As we approach Thanksgiving Time, it is altogether a good idea to make a little survey of our own causes for gratitude—and then to make an honest effort to show that word, although legally married. gratitude in pleasant ways.
