Lawmakers wrangle over special session

TALLAHASSEE - A south Florida legislator has filed an abortion bill that represents the flip side of what Gov. Bob Martinez hopes to get the Legislature to approve in its October special session.

Meanwhile, another south Plorida legislator said Thursday that the governor's call for a special session is illegal because it improperly restricts the op-tions lawmakers can consider.

The bill by state Rep. Susan Guber, D. Miami, would strengthen abortion rights rather than restrict them, which the support for stricter controls on abortion among legislators and that the special session will backfire on him.

"If they're going to use this time to put in bills on abortion, why not put in a good bill? Why do they all have to be bad bills?" Guber told the Tampa Tribune.

Her bill would classify abortion as a personal decision to be protected under the state Con-

atitution's 1980 privacy

ent, a broad protection against goverment intrusion passed by voters with no dis-cussion about abortion.

Senate Majority Leader Jack Gordon, D-Miami Beach, takes issue with the governor's calling of the special session. "The governor in effect has stacked the deck, telling us, 'Do what I say, or do nothing," Gordon said. "Not only is it totally unfair ... but it's a deep wounding of the separation of powers' between the executive and legislative branches.

Gordon said he'll ask the Republican governor to rewrite his call for the special session. Failing that, Senate President Bob Crawford and House Speaker Tom Gustafson will have to call the Legislature into a simultaneous special session with broader guidelines.

The special session to set for Oct. 10-13, which would make Florida the first state to consider legislation since the U.S. Supreme Court's decision July 3 upholding a Missouri law that strictly regulates abortions.

Over the last four years. Shell has conducted dozens of sciemic tests in the fringes of protected areas in the Everglades to come up with a geological profile of the area. The tests use shock waves to map underground rock formations.

"South Florida is one of the last onshore areas that has not been fully explored for oil," Shell applieswoman Mary Dokianos said Wednesday. "And so it is what we call a frontier area."

DELAND - Seminole County Commissioner Jennifer Kelley has expanded her documentcopying to include the Florida Department of Transportation. Prior to the most recent effort, Kelley had copied tens of thousands of Seminole County and Seminole County Expressway Authority records, the documents spaning a period of 19 years. The copying was done largely on her own copying machine by her personally-paid employees and associates.

Kelley has said she is compiling the information to provide a central-access computer library of county decisions and activities since 1970 that would be available to the public.

Now Kelley has wheeled her portable copy machine to state offices.

DOT district secretary Tom Berry said Wednesday Kelley and two assistants have spent four days making copies in DOT offices in Winter Park and De-Land. Berry said the copies were primarily of records of DOT's plans to build a Western Beltway and widen Interstate 4.

Kelley said her copying efforts at DOT are part of her continuing effort to collect information needed for her responsibilities. "I want to get a coherant set of files so I can do my job with the expressway," she said.

Kelley said when she renewed the copying effort last week, she found files were missing and disorganized. She said there is no central DOT file on each project and she had to travel to several different DOT offices in central Florida to find information. Kelley had drawn attention by contacting state officials in June in an effort to get them to revise plans for the in-terchange of Interstate 4 and the Western Beltway, which connects to the Seminole County Expressway. A portion of the land designated for the interchange is owned by Kelley's mother-in-law, Viola Kastner. Kelley's husband. Eoghan

Kelley, manages the property. Kelley has said she to not serving her own or her family's interest in opposing a larger interchange because she said she is trying to save taxpayer's money. She said Kastner would be willing to donate the 2.5 acres needed by the state for the smaller interchange, but not the 7.6 acres required for the larger interchange.

Harold Webb, DOT project engineer for the proposed widening of I-4, said the smaller interchange, though less costly in total land costs, will cost an estimated $5.5 million more because the smaller interchange requires four levels of overpass instead of two needed for the larger interchange.

The total cost of the smaller. four level interchange is estimated at 842.4 million. compared to $36.9 million for the larger, two-level interchange, Webb said. A third option, which would allow direct access be-tween I-4, the beltway and State Road 46 would cost $52.2 million. Webb said.

Berry said most of the copying done in Winter Park and DeLand was done by Bill Jacobs, a Winter Springs city commis-sioner and former chief deputy □See Helley, Page SA

All eyes on Bloch

To say that there's something bizarre about he government's espionage investiga-tion-cum-spectacle of U.S. diplomat Felix Bloch is to understate the point. It's not just that such sensitive matters shouldn't be handled in the full glare of publicity or that a citizen's right to one process seems to have been largely ignored, or that the U.S. government is made to look foolish and inept. It's all of that, and more.

Perhaps the original leak to ABC News about Bloch's suspected 14-year relationship with the Soviet KGB couldn't have been prevented, though one can't know that without knowing who did the leaking, and why. But once the government's suspicion of Bloch became known, why did the state Department so readily confirm the report's accuracy rather than do the usual thing refuse comment? And why did the State Department apparently ignore the Justice Department's objections that going public might harm its case against Bloch? If there's evidence enough to build that case, then Bloch should be arrested and charged — perhaps even given legal immuni-ty, as has been suggested, in return for vital information about, among other things, the feared existence of a "mole" inside the government, one who might have tipped off the KGB, which is said to have told Bloch in turn that he was under investigation.

If the case isn't yet strong enough, which seems to be the case, surely the government could have taken steps to neutralize the threat of further damage to the nation's security, and to prevent the suspect from fleeing the country — which the PBI failed to do in another case a couple of years ago rithout turning the case into the media tircus i has now become.
The lack that the Bloch investigation has becime public - with FBI agents, reporters and photographers, and presumably the KGB - dogging his every step, and the "informed souces" and "investigators" and "senior REGISTER STATE OF THE STATE OF iceaing aca to the media, all suggest that the government hopes to browbeat Bloch into cooperating.

If that's true, it's a dubious tactic at best. But of course one doesn't know if any or all of these speculations are true or not; all one knows is that Felix Bloch is suspected of being a spy, that evidence supporting that suspicion keeps dribbling out, and that Americans have a legitimate reason to wonder of their government really knows twhat it's doing and, if so, will ever explain why it has chosen to put the finger on Felix Bloch in such bizarre fashion.

Try higher fines for rich

Maricopa County, Ariz., is trying a new system of justice — fining criminals based on their income.

It is a laudable attempt to find an alternative to throwing non-violent criminals in jail. "Paying" for a crime has come to mean doing time. But then the taxpayers are the ones who pay for the room and board behind bars.

Depending on how it is administered, fining criminals based on their income could ensure that the penalty hits the rich and the poor with equal force, and it frees up jail space for violent criminals.

Four steps toward reducing crime

The U.S. crime rate, which exploded in the 1980s and has ravaged urban centers ever since, was supposed to decline when baby boomers was supposed to decline when baby boomers matured. It did, but not by much. Boomers are now pushing 40 or so and yet the crime rate remains a national diagrace.

The cost of crime is rising, too. Americans' total corrections bill reached an estimated $25 billion last year — and no easing of the burden is in sight. Not only is the federal prison population expected to double in the next decade, but many states and counties have almost despaired of keeping up with the tide of immates projected to flood julie and prisons in the next few years.

What is to be done?

No. 1: Don't scrimp on budgeting for corrections. Public officials who refuse to find the revenue for new prisons and related programs do no one except criminals a favor.

According to the U.S. Department of Justice, nearly 6S percent of people released from prison are rearrested for another felony or serious misdemeanor within three years. That's hardly surprising, since more than 90 percent of them fall into one of three categories: violent offenders, repeat offenders or violent repeat offenders.

In other words, it is simply not true that the United States incarcerates a multitude of non-violent mest and women on their first

What's more, many of those technically impris-oned for non-violent crimes were actually charged with far worse behavior be-fore a ples bargain spared them. Sure, prison is expensive — about 920,000 a year. But that bill is almost certainly cheaper than the almost than the alternative of releasing prisoners onto the streets. given the social cost they inflict. Experts disagree on how many felonies an average career crim-inal commits each year, but even the lowest estimates are inpressive. The medical expenses and property damage resulting from just a few muggings or burglaries easily top $20,000.

No. 2. Consider proven alternatives to incarceration for some felons, John J. Dilulio Jr.,

a professor at Princeton, recently outlined three such approaches in The Brookings Review. They include the use of electronic ankle bracelets include the use of electronic ankle bracelets (which are quite expensive) to make sure an offender never strays from home or work, and intensely supervised probation or parole.

Nearly three times as many people are on probation or parole as are behind bars. Yet their supervision is usually minimal. Dilulio argues that the most effective parole or probation subjects offenders to "mandatory work, community service and educational activities as well as to random drug and alcohol tests ... They must make payments to victims and payments to offset the costs of supervision. Any violation results in immediate incarceration."

No. 3. Consider private operation of corrections facilities. Texas, for example, has become a leader in contracting with private

Life, death, crude calculations

WASHINGTON — V.S. Naipsul watched Teheran volunteers, full of revolutionary fervor, loading hot bread on open trucks in winter for transportation to flood victims. "It was frenziedly stulled — as though it was a matter of life and death — into plastic sacks and dumped into a truck with biankets and clothes. Wouldn't this breath live truck to stone by the time it got to Khuzistan? But the bread didn't matter. The gesture and the excitement mattered."

We are back making gestures at murderous gesturers, saying things we do not mean to people who do not care what we say. Worse, some American voices are sincerely deploring. with fine impartiality, terrorism and larael's measures against it. Robert Dole, senator from Kansas (which is not lapped by angry waves of lalamic fanaticism), accuses Israel of acting irresponsibly.

One person, Samuel Lewis, former U.S. Ambassador to israel, gets it right: "Israel is at war. We are not." Right on both counts.

Israel has a solemn compact with its soldiers: It will do whatever it can to get them out of captivity. We have sold arms to the terrorist state that runs the group that killed Lt. Col. William R. Higgins. The State Department has written scripts for a terrorist group (the PLO), for a charace of conversion to civility. This, so we can do openly what hitherto we did in violtion of stated policy: deal with the PLO. So today, U.S. diplomats alt across the table from a PLO "diplomat" who organized the murder of two U.S. diplomats.

Given the U.S. record of hypocrisy, incoherence and impotence. It is demoralizing to watch Washington shift into its well-rehearsed. highly routinized melodrama mode. There are so many cameras, microphones and pens hovering over poised note pads, that episodes like this unleash a torrent of talk. In Washington, the intensity of talk about a problem is usually inversely proportional to the number of ideas for doing something about the problem.

Archimedes said, Give me a firm spot on which to stand and I shall move the Earth. Iran, standing (through its marionettes) on Lebanon's artillery-churned earth, and using the leverage of hostages — a renewable resource - moves the U.S. government. It moves it into the awkward position of demonstrating a dangerous asymmetry between words and capabilities.

At times like this, a President must perform a cathartic function, expressing the nation's anger. But he also must conspicuously proceed with the normal agenda of governance, lest terrorists be magnified, and for that reason

Terrorism, the geture of the weak, is a tragedy for individuals but not a crisis for nations. It conquers no territory, topples no regimes. Terrorism's goal is maximum com-motion with minimal risk of retaliation. So until the President finds a way to retaliate, he is right to minimize the commotion: Call the Pope but proceed with the barbeque. which he did.

But the Bush administration bears a burden of proving two things: that we do not know Iran's ipvolvement in the killing of Col. Hig-gins, and that we lack the ingenuity and military assets to make fran pay. If we do not know and lack those assets, people should be fired by the battalions for failures of intelligence and procurement. If we do know and have appropriate assets and still do not retal-iate, we are violating the principle of "statistical morality."

In an essay in Science magazine pertaining to public polity about punishment of drunk driving. Daniel Koshland defines statistical morality as the precept that a polity that may cause some individuals immediate harm will result in greater benefits for more individuals in the future. For example, when whoopingcough vaccine is given to one million children. about 100 will have serious reactions, some fatal. In Britain, public anxiety about this caused withdrawal of the vaccination requirement - until whooping-cough deaths soared. The requirement was reinstated.

Or: When criminal sanctions designed to deter are not imposed by courts, deterrence is weakened and it is a statistical certainty that some people are thereby condemned to become crime statistics — victims.

Every time terrorists go unpunished, innocent people are by that fact condemned to death. Conversely, the U.S. raid on Libya cost lives but probably saved more.

Crude utilitarianism - the greatest benefit for the greatest number - often is not a morally acceptable policy, even if one can predict the allocation o the future benefits of an action. But in the lives of nations, policies often must rest on just such crude calculations.

Making such calculations is a cruel burden on a President. But no one is compelled to be President. And too many Western leaders ignore the warning of Trollope's crusty old Duke of Omnium: "There is such a thing as a conscience with so fine an edge that it will allow a man to do nothing."

Who really was computer's father

WASHINGTON - At the Smithsonian Institution, the title "Father of the Computer" has become more a matter of politics than paternity. A Smithsonian exhibit on the "Information Age," due to open next March, will give short shrift to a man many people believe invented the first electronic computer John Vincent Atanacoff.

Instead, the exhibit focuses on John W. Mauchly, an early computer ploneer who worked for Sperry Rand Corp., now a part of Unisys Corp., which, just by coincidence, is underwriting the Smitheonian exhibit. Alanasoff. now 85, lives a life of quiet anonymity in Maryland. In the midst of his ground-breaking re-search in 1942, his country called, and he joined the Navy in World War II. By the time he got back. other geniuses had nodestly who gets the credit.

patented the idea. He now modestly says he doesn't care who gets the credit. But he has plenty of fans who do care, and they are pressuring the Smithsonian to give Atanasoff

Is the Smithsonian dabbling in revisionist history to satisfy a patron? No, says David Allison, curator of the Smithsonian Computers and Information Society. He told our reporter Ken Rogerson, "We haven't dis-cussed with any of our sponsors what will be in the exhibit."

Paul Ceruzzi, a Smithsonian historian, said IBM gave $1 million to the exhibit, and doesn't believe either Atanasoff or Mauchly created the first computer. IBM believes it did, Ceruzzi said.

In 1973, Sperry Rand and Honeywell Inc. tangled in federal court over the paternity question. Sperry Rand owned the patent of Mauchly and his co-worker Presper J. Eckert. and Honeywell was refusing to pay royalties for using the idea of a computer. The judge ruled that "Eckert and Mauchly did not themselves first invent the automatic electronic digital computer, but instead derived that subject matter from one John V. Atanasoff."

Fifty years ago, Atanasoff was a physics professor at Iowa State College, now Iowa University. In the summer of 1941, Mauchly visited him, and, according to evidence presented at the Sperry Rand trial, he saw the computer Atanasoff created. The two men corresponded for a few months. Then Atanasoff was called into the Navy. Mauchly didn't let any grass grow under his feet. He patented his computer, ENIAC, in 1946.

Atanasoff came back from the war and pursued his own research, but by then, the computer industry was off and running without him.

Alice and Arthur Burks, who wrote a book about Atanasoff, told us that the Smithsonian implies Mauchly was first by building the exhibit around ENIAC. Labeling ENIAC as the first computer in this country also means that the United States does not have the prestige of being the first country to unveil a computer. The British "Colossus" computer came along before ENIAC, but after Atanasoff's prototype. Ceruzzi admits that Atanasoff was the inventor of the computer. but says that Mauchly and Eckert were the 'effective" inventors because they patented it and made something that was useful. "We always felt like (Atanasoff) belonged in the exhibit," Ceruzzi said.

Well, maybe not "always." In the spring of 1988, a Smithsonian builetin about the exhibit in the planning stages referred to ENIAC as the "first" computer. Then, after Atanasoff's supporters came out of the woodwork. Smithsonian literature started calling ENIAC the "largest, most powerful early computer."

Another DC-10 engine breaks up

DENVER — Pederal authorities said they would investigate the tail engine explosion of a Northwest Airlines DC-10 "on its own merit," despite similarities to an accident that killed 111 people in low last month.

Northwest Flight 306, en route from Los Angeles to Minneapolis, made an emergency landing at Stapleton International Airport in Denver about 6:30 p.m. Wednesday. None of the 265 passengers or 11 crew members were injured. Federal investigators arrived Thursday to determine what caused the tail engine of the jet to break apart in flight, but officials refused to compare the accident to the July 19 crash of United Airlines Flight 232.

Landing gear fails on Trump Shuttle

BOSTON — Landing gear failure that precipitated an emergency touchildwri' of a Trump Shuttle plane with 56 people on board was a mechanical problem not related to the aircraft's age, the company's president said.

The pilot of Flight 1012 from New York-to-Boston brought the crippled plane down Thursday morning at Logan Airport, balancing the speeding Boeing 727 on its two back wheels for 8,000 feet before bringing the jet to rest on its nose with a tongue of flame shooting from its belly as it scraped the tarmec.

The sparks did not result in fire and all 40 passengers and 7 crewmembers evacuated the plane safely via chutes, airport officials said. The only injury reported involved a passenger with a cut finger.

Trump Shuttle President Bruce Nobles refused to speculate on what caused the front landing gear to lock on the 19-year-old jetliner, but he emphasized, "This is not an age issue, it's a mechanical problem."

The plane was acquired by Trump Air when its owner, real estate tycoon Donald Trump, purchased the shuttle service from Eastern Airlines in June. Eastern ran the plane on its Washington-New York-Boston shuttle for three years, the Globe reported.

Student loan default costs to grow

WASHINGTON - The cost of student loan defaults is expected to grow faster than previously reported, and 1.803 schools have been ordered to submit default reduction plans, the Education Department announced.

The department last week informed post-secondary schools participating in federal student loan programs of their 1987 default rates and what they must do to remain qualified for loan programs under regulations announced June 1.

Under the new rules, schools with default rates above 60 percent could be barred from the programs and those with default rates between 20 percent and 60 percent could be subject to a series of sanctions.

The regulations will be based on the 1967 figures, which show the actual default rate fell to 17 percent from 21 percent in 1986, with reductions for all types of institutions, including trade schools.

However, department officials said Thursday the decline reflected several factors including changes in the way the rates are calculated, and warned that more information is needed to confirm there is a trend towar of the percentage of student loan expenditures that will be used to cover defaults in 1990 from 27 percent to 44 percent.

Under the new calculations, default costs are expected to hit a larger-than-expected $1.9 billion this year and $2 billion in 1961, Default costs source from $235 million in 1961 to $1.3

Signals not from Leland plane

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia — Searchers determined today that distress signals thought to have been emitted by a missing plane carrying Rep. Mickey Leland and 15 other people were take, a U.S. Embassy spokesman said.

Two U.S. Air Force C-130s, which joined the massive air and land search for Leland's plane were dispatched to remote regions of southern and northern Ethiopia to listen for further calls for help.

But the searchers determined that two emergency transmissions picked up by a U.S. weather satellite Thursday were not from Leland's plane, which has been missing since Monday, said John Guerra, a U.S. Embassy political officer in Addis Ababa.

The C-130 that headed south, to the area around the town of Goba about 160 miles south-southeast of Addis Ababa, searched for two or more hours before turning back in worsening weather, said Guerra.

"Weather was a hig factor but the determining factor was that they determined it was a false signal," said Guerra, adding that a ground search by police and peasants' associations also failed to find anything.

The other C-130, which flew a similar distance north of Addia to the area around the town of Mota, spent several hours in good weather before determining that the aignal detected there also was false, Guerra said.

106 bodies recovered from train wreck

MEXICO CITY - Rescuers using wooden walking sticks to alog through thick mud recovered 17 bodies, raising to at least 106 the number killed when a train bound for the California border derailed and tumbled into a river, the Red Cross said.

Nearly 150 people were injured when the overcrowded express train was unable to stop at a washed out bridge and fell into the San Rafael River Wednesday morning in an area flooded by torrential rains near the Gulf of California, some 400 miles from the U.S. border.

A Guamuchil official said the town morgue was filled to capacity with 63 of the bodies, and 40 more of the bodies were at the morgue in Guasave, 37 miles northwest of Guamuchil.

Miguel said the rescue teams "have to walk around with sticks to get around and have discovered some bodies just by chance. The teams are digging bodies out of the mud. Vehicles cannot enter the area,

Aquino, Bush will discuss U.S. bases

MANILA, Philippines — President Corazon Aquino will travel to the United States Nov. 9 for talks with President Bush on the future of vital U.S. military bases in the Philippines, officials

A formal statement issued by the presidential palace gave no details of the visit but said Aquino and Bush also will discuss "important political, economic and financial issues," including debt relief and U.S. economic aid for the Philippines.

U.S. Ambassador Nicholas Platt said Thursday the talks in Washington will deal extensively with the future of the six military facilities in the Philippines, including Clark Air Base.

Iran says talks with U.S. immine

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Iran, in a strong positive signal to the United States, has predicted the two countries will begin indirect talks "in the next few days" in hopes of winning the release of Western hostages held in Lebanon.

The statement was carried in Thursday's edition of the Tehran Times, an Iranian newspaper believed to reflect the views of President Ali Akbar Hashemi Rafsanjani. It said the talks would be conducted through a third country, probably Pakistan. "Indirect talks between the United States and Iran (are) expected to begin in days to solve the hostage crisis," said the newspaper in an editorial carried by the official islamic Republic News Agency.

"Political observers ... believe that in the next few days we should expect certain moves toward mediation, of course unof-ficially," the newspaper reported. "These observers give the best chance (to mediate) to Mr. Sahabsada Yaqub Khan, foreign minister of Pakistan."

The English-language pewspaper did not say whether Pakistan had agreed to mediate or where and when the talks would be held.

There was no immediate comment on the editorial from the United States, which broke diplomatic relations with Iran in 1979 after hostages were taken in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

In Betrut, a Shitte Moslem official who saked not to identified told United Press International that the kidnappers of Joseph Cicippio have called off a threat to kill the American because of stepped up diplomacy

Cicippio is among 16 foreigners, including eight Americans, widely believed held in Beirut's southern suburbs or around the ancient city of Baalbek in eastern Lebanon, a region controlled by pro-Iranian Lebanese Moslem fundamentalists and Syrians.

"The recent threats by the captors of Cicippio against his life have been canceled because of intensive diplomatic contacts and activity that involved regional states," the official said.

The hostage crisis is expected to be the main topic of scheduled talks in Damascus. Syria, early next week between Iranian Foreign Minister Ali Akbar Velayati, Syrian officials and representatives of Lebanese Moslem militia groups, he said.

Voyager two weeks from Neptune

PASADENA. CMM. - NASA's hardy Voyager 2 probe, two weeks away from its historic flyby of distant Neptune, is working "extremely well," searching for strange, partial rings that may be circling the planet, engineers said.

Scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory are gearing up for man's first close-up glimpse of Neptune, the culmi-nation of a 12-year flight from Earth that has carried Voyager 2 past Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus and a host of moons in a once-in-a-lifetime "grand tour" of the outer solar system.

With two weeks to go before passing Neptune, its fisial port of call, the aging probe is working smoothly, radioing back a steady stream of data about the planet and its environment. "The spacecraft's doing fine, clicking off everything just the way we had designed it." Voyager project manager Norman Haynes said Thursday. "We've had absolutely no difficulty with the spacecraft. It's one of those things where you wonder if you ought to be worried because things are going so well. Streaking through space at 60,980 mph. Voyager 2 will plungs over the northern hemi-mines of Neptune at midnight EDT Aug. 34, pussing a cent 3,000 miles over the top of the planet's atmosphere — the closest the probe has been to any world since launch from Cape Canaveral, in 1977.

Arcing over Neptune's leading edge above 77 degrees north latitude, Voyager 2's trajectory will be bent roughly 48 degrees southward by the planet's gravi-ty, and the spacecraft will dis-appear behind the north pole of the planet as viewed from Earth.
About 55 minutes later, the probe will sail back into sun-minutes after that it will soom past the moon Triton, an enigmatic body roughly the size of Earth's moon that may have a transparent atmosphere and pools — or more likely glaciers — of nitrogen on its surface.

Neptune now is the farthest planet from the sun and the last target for Voyager 2 before the 1-ton spacecraft sails out of the solar system on an endless space odyssey. While close encounter actually takes place Aug. 24. data from the flyby won't reach Earth until four hours and six minutes later.

Cocaine causes birth defects

BOSTON - Women who use cocaine early in their pregnancies are nearly five times more likely to produce babies with serious birth defects, government researchers reported.

in a first-of-a-kind study, researchers found pregnant women who used cocaine had a much greater chance of giving birth to babies with deformities in their kidneys or other parts of their urinary tracts.

"There is more and more evidence that it's not good idea that pregnant women use cocaine," said Dr. Gilberto Chaves, an epidemiologist at the federal Centerality Disease Control in Atlanta who conducted the study.

"This is just one more thing that has been found," said Chavez, who reported his findings in Thursday's edition of the Journal of the cocaine use during pregnancy may decrease the amount of oxygen getting to the developing fetus, causing malformations in the development of certain organs, such as dies, doctors have suspected that cocaine use could cause bables to be born with defects in their urinary tracts and

To examine that association, Chavez's team compared the cocaine use of mothers of 276 babies born with urinary tract defects and 791 born with genital defects in the Atlanta area from 1968 through 1960 to that of about 5,000 mothers of healthy babies.

The researchers considered any cocaine use from one month before pregnancy through the first three months of pregnancy.

No statistically significant relationship was found between cocaine use and genital defects, but the researchers found women who used cocaine early in pregnancy were 4.8 times more likely to have bables with urinary tract defects. The defects consisted most commonly of deformed kidneys.

Researchers believe cocaine use during pregnancy may decrease the amount of oxygen getting to the developing fetus, causing malformations in the development of certain organs, such as the kidney, Chavez said.

Previous studies have linked cocaine use by pregnant women to other problems, including premature births and Legal Notice

Postal worker shootings baffle police

United Press International

ESCONDIDO, Calif. - Police said they do not know why a postal worker shot his wife, then went to work and killed two fellow employees and wounded a third before shooting himself. but a union official said such tragedies are on the rise because of the workload.

The gunman, John Merlin Taylor, 52, was on life support systems Palomar Medical Center, where officials said he was brain dead.

Police said Taylor, a 27-year veteran of the Postal Service. shot his wife, Elizabeth, 50, as she lay in their bed Thursday morning, then drove to the Orange Gien Post Office and emptied a .22-caliber platol at co-workers, reloaded and fired some more and finally shot himself in the head.

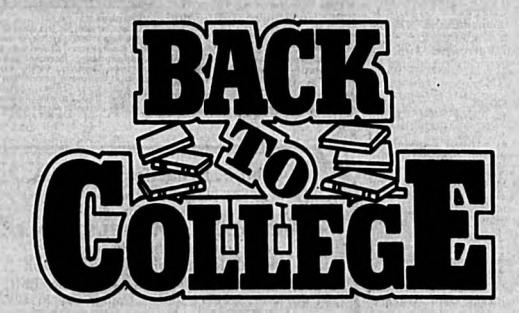

Police said the letter carrier fired 15 to 20 shots, but passed by several people without harming them as he walked through the building.

Bob Henley, manager of the postal station 40 miles north of San Diego, said Taylor "pointed the gun toward me but said, 'I'm not going to shoot you'. He shot away from me. I went back inside my office ... and called 911."

The two dead men. Ronald Williams, 56. and Richard Bernie, 38, were shot behind the post office where they and Taylor usually had coffee together in the morning. Another employee suffered a minor gunshot wound and a fourth hurt herself scrambling for safety with the other dozen or so employees.

Taylor had no history of problems on the job, but a fellow worker said Taylor and others had recently discussed a 1986 shooting rampage by a disgruntled Oklahoma mail carrier that left 15 dead.

PEMBROKE PINES — Jason Sewell closed the door on Texas with four-and-a-third innings of strong relief pitching and lifted District 14 to a 6-1 victory in the championship game of the Big League All-Star Southern Region Tournament.

District 14 now advances to the Big League World Series. According to District 14' manager Woody Woodard, the World Series will be played in Fort Lauderdale beginning this weekend.

District 14 stayed close and managed to tie the game in the sixth inning. Pitcher Shane Stufflet stroked a two-run single for District 14 before Louis Guevera delivered the tying run with a sacrifice fly to deep right.

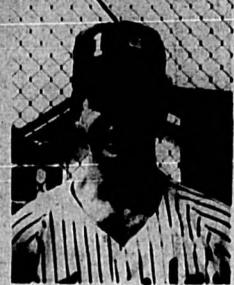

Texas came up with the winning run in the bottom of the sixth and shut down District 14 in the top of the seventh to force the winner-take-all confrontation.

In the nightcap, District 14 came up with three runs in the first inning. After two walks and a hit loaded the bases. Guevera delivered a two-run single lose.

bases. Guevera delivered a two-run single. Joe Difrancesco followed with a fielder's choice that accred another run and upped the lead to 3-0.

Aaron latarola then put District 14 in total command as he belied a one-out, two-run home run well over the right field fence to increase the lead to 5-0 in the second inning.

Dan Miceli, District 14's starting pitcher, then ran into a jam in the third inning and gave way to Sewell. With two out, the score 5-1 and the bases loaded, Sewell struck out Wossa, who represented the tying run.

Academy wins a pair

By MARK BLYTNE Herald sports writer

BASEBALL CITY - Discipline and patience played key roles Wednesday afternoon as Wes Rinker's Florida Baseball Academy took a pair of victories over two California teams.

WRFBA improved to 25-14 and will return to action in four weeks with a game against Seminole Community College.

The Academy opened Thursday's action with a game against Tustin, Calif. After finding out the team had only six players show up. it was decided to play a scrimmage game with players from the Mater Dei, Calif. club joining the Tustin squad.

WRFBA committed nine errors in the game. walked a number of batters and made several unforced mental errors as the Tustin/Mater Dei unit took a 7-2 victory.

The loss (though WRFBA actually won by forfeit) prompted action by Wes Rinker, the Academy manager. His players were told to take two strikes in each at but in the second game against Mater Det before being allowed to swing.

"There were several reasons for doing that."
Rinker said. "The poor defense was the reason we did it, but it will also give the players confidence at the plate with two strikes on them. It will also teach them to be more patient."

In the game against Mater Del, with the discipliary action in effect, the Academy came up with a 4-3 victory. Tim Krier went the distance on the mound as the limited offense came up with several big hits.

Legends in PGA title chase

United Press International

HAWTHORN WOODS, Ill. - Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Tom Watson evoke golfing memories that will last as long as the game is played.

And they were very busy making some more memories Thursday.

As improbable as it seemed, three players who represent three different golfing eras have lined up to make a run at the final major championship of the 1980s.

Mike Reid and Leonard Thompson wound up leading the 71st PGA Championship Thursday with 6-under 66s, but unfortunately for them they picked a day that golfing legenda were running amok.

Jack Nicklaus, soon to turn 50, was only two shots back after his 68. Tom Watson, nearing his 40th birthday and a winner only once in the last five years, was just a shot behind.

Palmer gave his thousands of loyal fans an immense thrill by shooting a 4-under 68. Only a bogey-bogey finish kept him from sharing the lead with Thompson and Reid.

On Sept. 10, Palmer will be 60 years old. "We were walking off the 12th green," Nicklaus said, "and (playing partner) Tom Kite looked over and said, 'You know, he (Palmer) is leading the golf tournament."

"I said, 'He sure is, that's great."" "I'm really pleased for him. I'm sure that made him feel wonderful. I think it is special to see the guys who have been the champions, who have been the good players through the years, play a round of good golf." Palmer, winner of four Masters, a U.S. Open and two British Opens, evoked memories of days long gone by with a series of rocket-like drives, gorgeous iron shots and putts that found the

Ryan flirts with no-hitter again

United Press International

ARLINGTON, Texas — Nolan Ryan, who has been as overpowering in his 22nd major league season as he was in his prime, came within two outs of his sixth career no-hitter Thursday night, settling instead for a combined two-hitter and a 4-1 Texas Rangers victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Ryan, who along with Bob Feller and Walter Johnson are considered among the elite power pitchers in major league history, lost his bid to become the oldest major leaguer to throw a no-hitter when Dave Bergman aliced a single to left-center on an 0-1 pitch.

"I got down 0-1 to Bergman, throwing him the fastball first, but I felt like he was going to be sitting and waiting for the curveball," said Ryan. "And that's just what happened. He didn't over swing on the curve and just hit it into the gap."

The 42-year-old Ryan was visibly upset after surrendering the single, bending at the waist with his hands on his knees. The crowd of 35.266 saluted him following the hit. Ryan yielded a double to the next batter, Matt Nokes, and left the game to chants of "Nolan, Nolan." Ryan acknowledged the crowd by coming out of the dugout and tipping his hat.

"I felt strong and still had command of my priches going into the mith beauty and a star-"and I had a real good idea what I will to do with the batters coming up." . Jeff Russell relieved Ryan and yielded an RBI groundout to Chet Lemon. He struck out Doug the game for his 25th save. It marked the second time this season Ryan took a no-hitter into the ninth inning and the fourth time past the seventh. On April 23 in Toronto, Nelson Liriano tripled with one out in the ninth to spoil Ryan. On April 12 at Milwaukee, Terry Francona singled with none out in the eighth, and June 25 vs. Cleveland. Brook Jacoby doubled with two out in the eighth.

Five other pitchers have taken a no-hitter into the ninth this scason, the latest being Toronto's Dave Stieb, who pitched 8 2-3 perfect innings against New York last Friday.

Ryan, 13-7, walked six and struck out 13, Ryan, who leads the majors with 211 strikeouts, has a major league record 4,986 for his career and is 14 shy of the 5,000 milestone.

"When I walked six early I didn't have very good command, but I settled down," Ryan said. The key, I think, was how cool it was [78 degrees, generally it is in the upper 90s). I threw a lot of pitches early in the game and if the temperature had been normal. I probably wouldn't have lasted."

The 13-strikeout performance marked the 193rd time in his career he has struck out 10 or more in a game. He has fanned 10 or more in five of his last seven starts. Ryan has pitched two complete game one-hitters this year. Other than the one in Toronto, he one-hit Scattle June 3. Harold Reynolds opened the game with a single.

Juventus of Italy gives U.S. nationals a lesson

United Press International LOS ANGELES - Juventus of

Turin, one of Italy's soccer powers, Thursday night defeated the U.S. national team 2-0 in the Mariboro Cup tournament at the Los Angeles Colineum.

Juventus dominated the exhibition, outshooting the Americans 17-7. Rui Barros scored in the 43rd minute of the first half and Salvatore Schillachi connected in the 25th minute of the second.

"I wasn't all that pleased with our performance," U.S. Coach Bob Gansler said. "We could have played better, more aggressively. We would have liked to have scored. That was important to us."

In the second game Thursday night, the South Korean national team met a squad from Mexico. The U.S. team, in a battle with and Tobego and El Salvador for a spot in the 1992 World Cup, played poorly. Virtually the entire first half was played in their zone.

"The U.S. was a good team, but we were much better," Schillachi said. "We had a lot of occasions to score. They weren't that good on defense." Juventus, owner of a record 22

Italian League championships. outshot the United States 9-4 in the first half. However, sharp goaltending by Tony Meola kept the Americans close.

Juventus' first scoring chance came in the eighth minute when Soviet Alexander Zavarov hit the crossbar. About 12 minutes later. Dario Bonetti, taking a nice feed from Zavarov, kicked a shot that was inches wide:

Zavarov narrowly missed a goal in the 34th minute when his header

Bengals, Bills renew no-huddle rivalry

The Buffalo Bills Sunday will face the no-huddle offense they persuaded NFL officials to ban seven months ago in the AFC championship game. "We will remember that forey-

meetings, several NFL coaches tried again to get the no-huddle banned. They failed. The only thing the league did was to rule that if a no-huddling team simulates or makes a substitution, then the defense must be given time to make substitutions before the offense quick-snaps. Wyche says that won't affect his use of the no-huddle.

But, during offseason NFL

Drive-in is still in its heyday

Dy LANDA L SULLIVAN Horald staff writer

SANFORD — A long line of cars trailed along U.S. 17-92 from Movieland Drive-in, where a feature hit was playing at Seminole County's only outdoor

The big deal: super-hype summertime hit "Batman." The time: an hour before showtime. not even dusk. More than 900 movie-goers would pack the theater grounds to see "Batman" night after night for about a month, when most of the surviving drive-ins are struggling to draw crowds.

Judy Crews, Movieland

supervisor, said the theater fares well compared to other drive-ins because it plays first-run movies and admits children at no cost. "It depends on what we play, but we still do well," Crews said.

The future of Movieland is up in the air due to tentative plans for a six-screen complex on the site. Donna Bryant, spokesman for Floyd Theaters' headquarters in Kissimmee, could not say whether Floyd has plans to tear down the drive-in screen to make room for a house theater.

Movieland Drive-in has outlived the 1960s' era of drive-in popularity, 140-mph hurricane winds and the advent of television. Cecil Bales, 83, has been a projectionist at Movieland since its opening night April 19, 1946. He has seen Movieland's speaker posts planted in a pasture, a concession stand built in a milking station, and a black-and-white-only industry explode into real-life colors. Movieland was the second drive-in theater in Seminole County at the time it opened. and is now the only surviving drive-in in the county.

Movieland's business was cut in half when television hit the mass market, Bales said. But within five years, he said. viewers got bored with TV and returned to the drive-in to check out the latest in film technologies.

When Technicolor came forth as the first technology to replace black-and-white productions, Bales said, crowds flocked to Movieland.

Supplies for the drive-in were scarce during the Korean War. Bales said. Because wiring was hard to come by. Movieland picked up its 42 speaker-post replacements when a Daytona drive-in closed, he said.

When Hurricane Donna blew through Sanford at 140-mph speeds in September of 1960. her winds knocked to the ground Movicland's asbestos-and-wood screen, shutting the theater down down for six weeks. Al-

Movieland marquis read after the storm. Movieland has been repainted and refurbished every three years since the hurricane, Bales Bales, who had been the projectionist for The Ritz theater in downtown Sanford, said his favorite flicks were those starring Roy Rogers or Humphrey

Bogart. But the big drive-in features were mostly thrillers and Westerns, he said. Movieland has a 80-by-37-foot screen, four parking rows, a concession stand, restrooms and 75 speakers. Bales said. Sound is also transmitted on the FM radio band to serve a capacity of 500

Although the theater has no said. Movieland is a popular spot for families with children. He said families often spread out blankets and move speakers to the ground where they can stretch out. Movieland draws family crowds with the many Gand PG-rated movies played there, he said.

Children under age 11 are admitted free. Admission for adults is $2.50 apiece.

Number of in-house theaters to multiply

SANFORD - Seminole County movie buffs will have at least 2,000 more seats to kick back in by next year. Signs along U.S. Highway 17-92 herald the coming of two new multi-screen theaters. One sign at 17-92 and Weldon Boulevard marks the spot where Litchfield Theaters will add at least 10 movie screens by next year.

But the other, announcing the coming of a six-screen complex at Movieland Drive-in, may go unnoticed as part of the landscape since a year has passed without groundbreaking.

"It's been up for over a year," said Donna Bryant, spokesman for Floyd Theaters' Kissimmee headquarters. "We get calls from people asking hout it all the time."

The idea for the theater complex at Movieland is "still in the planning stages" while Floyd Theaters concentrates on other areas, Bryant said. Floyd has plans to tear down the drive-in screen to make room for a house theater.

Floyd owns 40 theaters across northern and central Florida, including Movieland and Rocking Chair theaters in tion to ask and don't know who to ask. If you don't know the answer, you can at least find someone who does. Please don't dismiss this as a dumb question: We are told that AIDS is contracted through body fluids or through needles passed around by drug users. We live in an area where there are lots of mosquitoes. Is it possible for a mosquito to bite a person with AIDS, then infect another person by biting them? In other words. can mosquitoes spread AIDS? DUMB QUESTION

FROM ARKANSAS

DEAR QUESTION: There is no such thin as a "dumb question." There are, however, stupid (not "dumb," pleasedumb means mute) people who remain uninformed because they are too embarrassed to ask. The answer to your question is no. AIDS cannot be spread by mosquitoes.

DEAR ABBY: For shame! (And fie on you!) You told "Happily Married" (who wrote to pick a bone with you about not having disclosed a previous divorce): "There is nothing wrong with revealing the truth. Hiding it is deceitful, and, therefore, shameful.'

Abby, what's happened to you? In the past, you have said that a person's past is not material for the "confession box" between partners. Now you are saying that no matter what the consequences, the truth should be revealed.

You goofed, but I love you anyway. CAROL B. IN

,In the case of "Happily Mar-ried," her father had forbidden her to even date a man in whose family there had been a divorce. so when she met the man she wanted to marry, she asked him not to disclose the fact that his favorite aunt had been divorced!

I was trying to make the following point: There was nothing wrong with revealing that particular truth. Divorce is not necessarily a dark and dirty secret. It's nothing to be ashamed of. Hiding it. in my opinion, was deceitful—and, therefore, shameful.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to address my comments to a couple who signed themselves 'Married Without Children."

You wrote: "We are both career-minded, have never felt the need to have a child, and we like our life the way it is."

That's fine. But did you ever think what one of you will do after the death of your mate? You are alone, with no children to care for you, help you or turn to in time of need.

Children are a treasure to us who have them. Think about it! A FRIENDLY READER

I would hope that couples have children because they want them, with no thought of "self."

A caterpillar crawls along a branch. So unsightly and useless is he that, at he is scorned, at worst, exterminated. A grain of sand, one of an infinite number, lodges within an oyster's shell. It is coarse and hard, worthless and unwanted.

And then, there are people. They are restless, a bit lonely sometimes, and apprehensive about the future. They enter churches and speak to God. From the cocoon, a gally-colored butterfly emerges. People paint pictures of it; children try to claim it as their own.

From the oyster, a pale, creamy pearl is taken. It is admired, sold for a small fortune, prized.

So, God changes the lowly caterpillar and richly clothes the grain of sand. How much more can He change the lives of those who ask it of Him! God awaits you. Come meet Him in His house this week.

Smith will hold a special service at 5 p.m. Sunday to dedicate the new Central Baptist Church building at 3101 W. First Street.

Smith said it will be a "service dedicating the facilities as a place of worship and ministry."

The brand new building. valued at $3 million including the land, was occupied for the first service last Sunday. Smith said the church was "packed."

Marked by a 49-foot-high cross, the 44,000-square-foot facility is more than just a. place of worship. It features a nanctuary with overhead col-ored lighting, a large carpeted gymnasium to be used for basketball, volleyball and as a fellowship hall, and many upstairs classrooms.

The church auditorium accomodates about 730 people. Central Baptist Church was formerly located on Oak Avenue since 1954. That building was sold to another church, according to Smith.

Dr. John Sullivan, executive director and treasurer of the Florida Baptist Convention will speak at 5 p.m. Sunday during the dedication service. The regular 7 p.m. service will not be held.

The "reacue mission" has been dealing with the margins. the cast-offs of American society so long that, like the stereotype of the alcoholic derelict as the core of the homeless, it has entered America's folklore.

But even as the stereotype of But even as the stereotype of homeless person has changed with the 1980s "new homeless." so, too, the work and style of the rescue mission — more formally, the International Union of Gospel Missions — has changed.

Burger eaid the homeless peo-ple his missions are seeing are getting younger and younger and, "Today, the festest growing group is women and kids."

"Between 50 percent and 60 percent of those we serve are locals," he said, and it is no longer true that the homeless

There are also, he said, a growing number of what he termed "special needs folk," the mentally ill, those with physical problems turned out of hospi-

It wouldn't be right, of course, but one would like to be a fly on the wall and listen in on the prayers of the First Couple. Do they repeat prayers from the Book of Common Prayer? Some of the most beautiful thoughts in the English language are found there. Like this evening prayer:

"Keep watch, dear Lord, with those who work, or watch, or weep this night, and give your angels charge over those who sleep. Tend the sick, give rest to the weary, soothe the suffer-

Or do they say extemporaneous prayers, making up petitions and thanksgiving as they go along? Certainly they pray for guidance for the president. Do they end their prayers with the usual list of "God bless-es". remembering their five children and 10 grandchildren by name. as you or I might do?

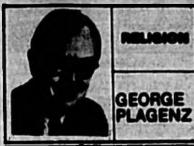

Are they formal in speaking to God, as Episcopalians are apt to be? If not, let's hope they don't get as familiar with God as a friend of mine. She addresses the deity as "Goddie dear."

Usually when we think of praying out loud we think of children. The prayer life of most of us began with spoken prayers when we were small. Who can forget: "Little Boy kneels at the foot of the bed, / Droops on the little hands little gold head. / Hush! Hush! Whisper who dares! / Christopher Robin is saying his prayers.

One of the reasons, I suspect, that our parents had us say our prayers aloud is that this way they could tell whether we were really praying.

I remember, as a small boy, figuring out a way to say my prayers without having it intrude into my playtime. After my mother kissed me goodnight and shut the bedroom door, I would get out my toy automobiles and push them around on the bed while rattling off my prayers.

This worked well until my mother (was she suspicious?) walked in on me one night and caught me. Was I praying while I was playing? That would have been fine. Or was I playing while I was praying? That was a it was readily determined that I was playing while I was praying. The practice ended.

It is too had that as we grew older we gave up the habit of praying aloud. It keeps the mind from wandering if we have to make audible sentences out of our thoughts.

Emile Coue (pronounced koo-a), a French druggist of the first quarter of this century who developed a healing technique known as autosuggestion, said it was indispensable to say the words aloud - "that is, loud enough to be audible to your own ears. In this way the idea is reinforced by the movement of lips and tongue and by the auditory impressions conveyed through the ear." Coue is unknown to the present generation; but his theories have become the basis of much spiritual healing today.

He witnessed remarkable cures after instructing his patients to repeat aloud, "Every day in every way I'm getting better and better", 20 times twice a day upon going to bed and upon rising.
He felt that if we could get the subconscious ("the grand director of all our functions") to accept an idea, it would carry out that idea unfailingly. It wasn't necessary to tell the subconscious what to do. It was enough to keep it supplied with a fund of positive thoughts. The subconscious intelligence would do the rest.
