Motion pictures, articles, plays, stories, radio programs - all have brought to millions of every faith the heart-warming story of little Bernadette and her Vision of the Holy Lady.

HOW THE MIRACLE HAPPENED!

A vision of A Lovely Lady appeared to Bernadette as she was searching for firewood. The Lady ordered Bernadette to dig. The little girl did dig - and a fresh, cool spring came bubbling up out of the ground. Sick people who bathed in this water grew well and many of the blind could see again! "Build here," said the Lovely Lady, "a great church. And tell people to pray and do penance and walk in processions." This was done and soon the wonderful Shrine of Lourdes was built. The Spring is still there at Lourdes, France and is visited by millions of pilgrims from all over the world!

Never - Never Before a Rosary Like This!

The special water-filled beads are made of clear, transparent polystyrene plastic, so that you not only FEEL the beads but actually SEE the water inside. These three special beads are made slightly larger than the other beads of the Rosary so that a generous supply of Lourdes water could be sealed in! The Rosary itself is a masterpiece of elegance. It is exquisitely cut with scintillating flame polished, simulated crystal beads. Linked together with tarnish-proof metal chain. Beautifully crafted framing head Corpus is on brilliant metal cross. Attractively packaged in plastic jewel Gift Box on royal blue velvet. Your choice of Diamond Clear Beads, Sapphire Blue Beads or Black Ebony Beads. Only $2.98 each, postpaid (2 for $5.00).

Largest Tax Revision Program Is Signed Today By President

Strolling In Sanford

Robert Cornell, Ben Wiggin, Ernest Cowley, Carl F. Lind, Bunney L. Carter and John Martin returned yesterday after spending 36 days of active duty in the 32nd Airborne Division, Army Reserve unit which is at Orlando.

JOSEPH WILSON, 71, of Balmoral Castle, N. Y., is shown in the picture. He was the first to be captured by the Japanese in the Philippines in 1942. He was held in a prison camp for 10 years and was one of the few who survived.

Ike Says Action Will Be Benefit To All Americans

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today signed into law the biggest tax revision program in history, what he called a "monumental" overhaul that will benefit all Americans.

The new law, Eisenhower said in a statement, will "help millions of Americans by giving them a fairer tax treatment." At the same time, he added, it "will help our economy expand and thus add materially to the strength of our nation."

The new law brings about tax reductions of $1,263,000,000 in the first year, and more later on, for millions of individuals and nearly all corporations.

In all, the initial year's tax cuts will total about $1,263,000,000. This will be increased later as the new program takes full effect.

Ten members of Congress took part in the ceremony today. Eisenhower signed the bill, Eisenhower said, "with a sense of responsibility that each of the Congress members could have as a sovereign."

Holding up the 929 page bill, the President grinned and remarked, "I must say that represents a long long bunch of work."

"Boy," he exclaimed, "there's a lot of work in there for lawyers." Eisenhower said the bill is part of a comprehensive program which since last Jan. 1, will have provided for tax cuts totaling $7,400,000,000—the largest dollar tax cut in any year in the nation's history.

Fire Ravages Landmark

Two families and several truck drivers were living in the residence of the old French house, 1600 French Ave., now owned by John O. Andes. The blaze which got a good start under the porch and before being discovered, reduced the home unrecognizable.

Top Floor Of House Is Guttled

Firemen Have Stiff Battle

Fire yesterday gutted the second floor and cupola of the old French house at 1600 French Ave., which dates back to before the turn of the century.

The blaze in the landmark was discovered about 9 a.m. by Ptlm. Arnold Williams who was on police patrol. He radioed police headquarters, which in turn informed the fire department.

Quoted by the blaze were Mr. and Mrs. John O. Andes, owner of the residence and family. Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Vandergift and several truck drivers who were sleeping at the house, Charley Wilcox, Terry Ford and O. E. Miller and Walter Ryan.

Mr. and Mrs. Andes and their son, 1, and Mrs. Andes' sister, 1, were about 5 a.m. yesterday to attend the birth of another son, John O. Andes, Jr., a 4 1/2 lb. baby at Augusta, Ga., last night. The former, on had just graduated from a Forest Rangers school at Lake City Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Vandergift were preparing breakfast when, according to the former, "I noticed smoke come around back of the house." He said he ran out of the house and saw smoke billowing out of a cupola.

The truck drivers were all away on runs. Ptlm. Williams, who had stopped and was waiting at the Seminole High School, south of the house, said he thought they were burning tires, like they usually do. He was referring, he said, to previous burning of tires, near by, which creates a heavy black smoke.

Dial G. Boyle, daughter of Mrs. Lloyd F. Boyle, Sanford is a delegate from Duke University who will attend the Seventy Annual National Student Congress, Aug. 22-31 at Iowa State College, Ames, Ia. Students from more than 27 American colleges and universities will discuss campus activities and world problems affecting student interests. Theme for this year's congress is "The Responsibility of Freedom." Specific topics for discussion will include the effect of the U. S. Supreme Court's segregation ruling on colleges, means of improving student self-government in the United States and methods of strengthening non-Communist student movements abroad.

Los Angeles Boy Soap Box Derby Winner At Akron

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Dick Kern 14, of Los Angeles coasted his $9.40 blue racer to victory—and a $5,000 college scholarship—in the 17th All-American Soap Box Derby here yesterday.

Carrying a lucky silver dollar and wearing a favorite though weathered pair of red leather moccasins, Dick finished down the 3 1/2 mile track in 27:30.5 seconds in the final heat. It was his slowest heat of the day.

The freckle-faced champ was just an inch or so ahead of Gray Miller of Long Beach, Calif., the second place winner, who in turn was just barely ahead of the third place John Kirtley of Evansville, Ind.

The singers are vacationing here with friends.

Head Legislators Planning To Push New Anti-Red Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional leaders agreed at a White House conference today to try to push through Congress a new bill to outlaw the Communist party as such.

In a session with President Eisenhower, the decision was to get the House to pass a measure declaring the Communist party is unlawful and without any rights.

The new approach is intended to supplant a bill that whined through the Senate last week which would make it a crime to belong to a Communist party.

Ferguson explained the plan agreed upon to far approaches the question from the standpoint of the Communist party as such rather than individual members.

Martin and Ferguson the latter chairman of the Senate Republican

U. S. Navy Units Go To Indochina For Evacuation

ABOARD FLAGSHIP ESTERLINE S. Navy units today began on Hanoi, Indochina, to begin about some evacuees of the U. S. Navy's greatest mass civilian evacuation by sea.

The gigantic operation will move hundreds of thousands of Vietnamese from North Vietnam to South Vietnam before the Communist take over.

Mr. Sahlin said he does not know how many men, women and children will be transported to South Vietnam. There have been varying estimates, ranging from 100,000 to 700,000.

As many as 40 ships may participate in the operation. These will include transports, cargo ships and amphibious craft.

PILFERING POOCH—A large German shepherd dog is caught in the act as he stole a hot feeding dish from a barrel at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Fisher, 317 W. 15th St. For the past several weeks, feeding dishes for the Fisher's two kittens and dog have been mysteriously disappearing from the back yard of the residence. Fisher, who is managing editor of The Herald, had no little else watching for the culprit, thinking it may be some odd job power. Finally, on Saturday night, he decided to watch from the roof of the garage, armed with a camera and a rifle. After he had waited about 45 minutes, after taking his post at 8 p. m., he caught the varmint red-handed. The light of the flash bulb and rifle failed to make the dog drop the dish (shown in his mouth in the picture) and when Fisher then fired the rifle close to the animal and it dropped the dish and took off. The problem now is—to whom does the dog belong? (Staff Photo)

GOAN ADULTS Split Surplus Profits Under Old System

NOVA GOA, Portuguese India—Most Goans—natives of this largest of the three Portuguese Indian territories—are born with a paid-up annuity policy payable as soon as they reach adulthood.

Today even Goans who have left to live in nearby India or elsewhere receive annually the portion of village profits shared by each adult male registered from that community.

Historians are unable to explain when and how this system developed.

It was here when the Portuguese arrived, said one scholar of ancient Goanese history.

Each community under the Goan system elects its own government, responsible to the people of the community for its administration and to the government of Goa for a share in maintenance of public roads, schools, churches, hospitals, and whatever public utilities exist and are developed and financed from community funds.

Nurse Lady

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE
A SHY little Polish girl whose reserve had always baffled Cynthia looked to the Nurse Lady that there was going to be a new baby soon at her house.

Cynthia had to suppress a smile. It was well she had just turned the child over on the table to her mother. Cynthia had readjusted the next lamp. She said, "Well, now, I wouldn't be surprised. Though I hardly believe Dr. Bellars is like Mr. Stork, do you? Anyway, it will be fun to have a new baby. You can help your mother take care of it, now that you are learning to do so many things and getting to be such a big girl."

It ought to break this very day, Cynthia could hardly wait to learn what Mrs. Bellars would be after her. She had no interview with Mrs. Bellars. She knew he would be as amazed as she had been at the scope of Elizabeth's plans.

Dr. Bellars had greeted his assistant nurse with his usual somewhat preoccupied but all morning. He had been busy that morning with outpatients and their parents, and this had not been time for any further exchange between him and his assistant nurse.

The moment she stepped into the clinic the doctor always, almost literally, rolled up his sleeves and plunged headlong into his activities. He would adopt his most professional manner automatically. Yet Cynthia had not been able to keep from feeling a bit envious to find him so busy on this Monday morning as on every other one.

It seemed to her he could have stepped out of his role of doctor, and head of the small clinic, long enough to greet her with a little more personal warmth. After all, she had been away.

Of her might even have gone a step further and taken time out to say to her some sign that things had undergone a drastic change in their relationship.

For they no longer were simply doctor and patient. They were a man and a woman. They were a man and woman who only the evening before had become as good as engaged to be married.

Cynthia had to remind herself, as this morning she did, that this was what she had expected. What's work would always be paramount in his mind and heart. While he represent a bluebird flying in a window—the bluebird of happiness, the child had told the Nurse Lady, because she had flown back to them. And another older boy had even written a poem, which if it did not have perfect meter, was surprisingly good.

Cynthia received that she must follow up this talent and encourage the boy to make as much of it as he could. It was wonderful, she thought, for a boy who had no so little to be thankful for—he was one of the worst spastic cases—to find beauty in words.

Mrs. Bellars remained within the confines of his private office. He was still holding phone conversations, going over records. When Cynthia had no more to attend to, she emerged, Cynthia took it upon herself to poke her head through the opening of the door and remind him that he ought to stop long enough for a sandwich or a cup of coffee.

This was in her line of duty. She ought to remind him of such ordinary matters. Sometimes she almost instinctively had to drag him away from his work to make him eat or rest for a few minutes.

Religious Parley Will Be Tension Charged

EVANSTON, Ill. — Churchmen from the East and the West headed today for a religious arena which is charged with tensions—both religious and political. The gathering is in the cause of Christianity.

Around this central purpose swirls a haze of doubts and discords that could roll in to frustrate the meeting—the Assembly of the World Council of Churches here, starting Sunday for two weeks.

"There are dangers, but there also are hopes," said Dr. G. K. A. Bell, Britain's Bishop of Chichester and chairman of the council's Central Committee.

"The danger in a great body of churches meeting in a time of so much strain, antagonism and hostility is that some may seek to reflect their own political and national points of view."

"But there is hope that they will all come together in a mood to submit various experiences and insights, even ideologies, to the mastership and judgment of Christ."

Although the council faces a host of touchy social and religious questions, probably the most explosive is the relationship of Christianity and Communism, and the presence of delegates from Communist countries.

At least 18 churchmen from Red-ruled lands—8 from East Germany and 5 each from Hungary and Czechoslovakia—will be among the 1,500 representatives. Others from Poland and Yugoslavia also may attend.

"Communist collaborationists" is the label applied to them by Rep. Alvin S. Bentley (R-Mich.), who says he will hold hearings shortly. He is expected to appear with the assembly to show their "false pretenses."

He said they are "servants of world communism who masquerade as men of God."

Others, including two Midwestern American Legion posts, also have denounced admission of the delegates. Daniel A. Poling, editor of the Christian Herald, called them "puppets of atheistic communism," and said:

"Evanston must declare communism, anti-religious, anti-Christian and utterly antagonistic to every ideal for which the church should stand, or Evanson will divide the American Protestant community."

However, none of the 161 orthodox, old Catholic, Anglican and Protestant denominations in 45 countries belonging to the council have opposed representation of the Iron Curtain churches.

Dr. W. A. Visser't Hooft, the council's general secretary, said "some of us may disagree" with positions taken by Iron Curtain churchmen, but council membership is based solely on a "spiritual criterion"—recognition of Christ as divine Lord and Savior.

He called it "terribly important for this movement to keep in touch with the churches" behind the Iron Curtain, and do "everything we can to strengthen the links with Christians in those countries."

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, who as a church leader clashed with Iron Curtain delegates at the council's founding assembly six years ago at Amsterdam before he entered the government, backed their admission now. The State Department made detailed inquiries before approving the visas. It said the importance of the meeting to worldwide Christianity was so great the government should not bar anyone legally admissible.

This implied none were found to be Communists or Fascists, who are barred under the McCarran Act.

Dr. O. Frederick Nolde, chairman of the council's International Relations Commission, called the decision a "clear demonstration of our belief in religious freedom," which would lighten people under totalitarian rule.

Most vociferous attack on admitting the Iron Curtain churchmen has come from the Rev. Carl McIntire of Collingswood, N. J., head of a small faction of fundamentalists called the International Council of Christian Churches.

Describing the delegates as "agents of the Kremlin," he has urged a wave of rallies, resolutions, speeches, advertisements, letters and demonstrations to protest their coming.

Larger Tax

tax on this income, up to $100 a week.

Provisions affecting business, the President said, will "help our people produce better goods at cheaper prices." The tax law, he said, also will help create more jobs.

"This economic growth," he said, "will be fostered by such provisions as more flexible depreciation and better tax treatment of research and development costs, thus encouraging all business, large and small, to modernize and expand."

And, partial reduction of the double taxation of income from dividends will stimulate the investment of savings by our private citizens and so make available the thousands of dollars that provide the plant, tools and power needed for each new job in America."

Head Legislators

Policy committee, said the new plan is acceptable to the administration. They said Atty. Gen. Brownell sat in on the White House discussions this morning.

Sen. Knowland of California, the GOP Senate leader, told reporters he thought the House might pass the new bill today under a suspension of the rules.

He said he also expects Senate action this week on three other anti-subversive bills that would make it easier to remove security risks who are employed in defense plants, tighten penalties for peacetime espionage, and deny political or other benefits to government employees who are convicted under loyalty actions or refuse to testify in such issues.

The administration had been dissatisfied with the bill passed by the Senate.

TRUCK ROLLS 1,500 FEET
LOS ANGELES (AP)—"I'll bring back anything that's salvageable," a forest ranger promised Donald L. Colman after Colman's new 1951 pickup truck slipped from a jack and rolled over a precipice. Some time later the ranger climbed back out of the canyon to where Colman was waiting on Angeles Crest Highway. The truck had rolled 1,500 feet down, he said, handling Colman one hub cap, badly mangled.

Denmark, Southern Sweden Show Resemblance To U.S. Mid-West

Editor's Note—An American family of five—Bill Becker, his wife and their three daughters—visit Scandinavia on the second leg of their European motor trip on their $20-a-day budget.

By BILL BECKER

COPENHAGEN (AP)—No matter where you turn in Scandinavia, you're bound to find something that will remind you of home.

Denmark and southern Sweden resemble the Midwestern farm states. Central Sweden, with its hills and lakes, is a composite Minnesota-Wisconsin, and Norway and upper Sweden are much like the Pacific Northwest.

For every red barn in Minnesota you'll see two in Sweden. The architecture, designed for hard winters, generally is less foreign to American eyes than British buildings.

Home Westerners, Mama, the three girls and I liked nearly all we saw in Scandinavia on a series of motor trips. Hospitality and good food abound. Prices are reasonable except coffee at $1.50 a pound, and gasoline at 43 cents a gallon in Denmark to 53 in the Norwegian highlands.

It was easier to stay under our $20-a-day budget in Denmark, Sweden and Norway than anywhere else in Europe. For example, on a three-day swing through Gottinger, Sweden and Oslo, Norway, we covered everything in child mementoes.

Highways range from excellent in Denmark and south Sweden to downright poor in the mountain reaches, but the pine forests, sparkling lakes and breathtaking fjords are worth the battle.

We didn't reach the land of the Midnight Sun, but we did get with in the 11 o'clock shadow.

That's one of the joys of touring Scandinavia in the summer—there are 18 to 24 hours of daylight if you want to stay on the road late. A word of advice: make reservations ahead, especially in Sweden, where the hotel situation is tight.

The ideal place to start your tour is Copenhagen, although arrivals from England or Germany will find the short trip across Denmark rewarding, especially at Odense, the birthplace of Hans Christian Andersen. Our three girls, soon fed on Andersen's fairy tales since they could walk spent a wonderful couple of hours in the museum of the writer's old home.

Another pleasure awaits you on the Mjose Korsor ferry to the Is of Zealand, where Copenhagen is located. The food is typically Danish—a recent luncheon has you getting the $1 Swedish can't get you to sleep for the afternoon.

"Wait," yelled our daughters as the water brought a head of trashy ice cream his stomach for crepeux double helpings for five. Cost, 75 cents.

This is just the warm-up for Copenhagen, which concedes little to Paris in the art of preparing food and treats the traveler's pocket book with much more consideration.

American servicemen in Germany like Copenhagen for leaves because Danes are perhaps the world's most hospitable people. Offered if you don't have a beer or coffee with them.

It's a rare and interesting sight to see a 30-mile radius of the capital Copenhagen itself with unique Tivoli amusement park, scores of outdoor cafes, fine shops and much fine de vivre. It's a snare the motorist finds hard to escape.

When you want to go to Sweden, you have a choice of three ferry routes. The shortest, Flisnare to

One Dead, 11 Hurt In Typhoon's Wake

Halsingborg, takes 25 minutes.

Masonry red barns, many with five feet high, are the trademark of rural Sweden. Bye and wheat stand tall over much of the land, giving way to tall forests of aspen and pine as you head north.

The drive to Stockholm from Halsingborg is a one-day trip of 100 miles through some of Sweden's finest lake country.

Stockholm, attractively draped over a half-dozen islands, is more modern in some respects than Copenhagen, but not so lively. From Stockholm you can drive 600 miles along the Gulf of Bothnia, separating Sweden and Finland, up to Lapland and the midnight sun.

You enter Narvik over the Sainsund Fjord Bridge and customs officers usually want to see only your passports and international carnet (driving permit). Oslo, regally situated at the end of one of Norway's longest fjords, is reached by a drive via Gøteborg which compares favorably with Coast Route 101 in Oregon and Washington.

For a test of driving stamina on roads fashioned after goat trails, there are the scenic drives from Oslo to Bergen and from Oslo to Trondheim.

410-Pound Fish Caught By Divers

ST. PETERSBURG (AP)—A seven-foot, 410-pound sea fish was caught by two divers near the new Sunshine Skyway Bridge in Tampa Bay yesterday.

Jim Renner was the one who spotted the giant and he was helped by Hardy Bryan Jr., Hardy Bryan III and Lorin Bryan.

Fishermen believe the big fish is the one known as Ole Mose who has been humping at sportmen's fishing spots for years.

Renner and his pals went into the bay to look for the big fish and spotted him near a grouper fishing spot. It swirled at them and everyone scattered.

But Renner discovered the fish had a blind side. He slipped on his back and a spear shot into his back.

The fish snapped the line attached to the spear, but Renner swam near and tied a cable to the loose line. It was landed after an hour's struggle.

Veteran Actress Will Be Co-Star

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Eight years after her last film role and 11 years after her first, Lillian Gish has returned to the film capital to co-star in a new motion picture.

Charles Laughton, who will direct the film, and Shelly Winters, who will co-star with Miss Gish, met the veteran actress on her arrival from New York yesterday. She appeared in her first movie in 1913, later attained fame for her part in "Birth of a Nation."

ACTRESS Marie MacDonald smiles happily as she is joined on her Honolulu vacation by her husband, Harry Karl, and her children, Danise and Harrison. Mrs. MacDonald, who is free on bond on charges of hit-and-run driving in Los Angeles, is preparing to return to face the court proceedings. (International Newsphoto)

Ex-UN President Profers Advice

SINGAPORE (AP)—Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, outgoing president of the U.N. Assembly, says she thinks the international organization should meet in parts of the world "less fraught with tension" rather than "secluded in a glass tower."

Addressing the second World Assembly of Youth here yesterday, the Indian woman leader said solutions to important questions might be speeded by putting U.N. delegates in close proximity to the troubles instead of in their New York headquarters. "With every kind of luxury inside and out taking our minds away from these problems."

Father Lifts Car Off Son

HAMILTON, N. J.—William H. Backman Sr. weighs only 120 pounds but he lifted a 3,500-pound auto off his young son's leg yesterday.

Backman said he was backing his car out of a picnic area when he felt a bump. He got out of the car and saw one wheel resting on his 4-year-old son's leg.

The son was pulled away while Backman lifted the car.

The leg was only bruised.

Emergency March Of Dimes Needs Our Support For A Worthy Cause

Florida has had almost three times as many polio cases this year than were recorded here for the same period last year. According to tabulations from the Associated Press last week, the state has had 679 cases of the dread disease this year, compared to 254 for last year. Texas has had the largest increase of any state—1,548 cases this year and 1,092 in 1953. California has had 1,736 cases compared with 1,446. An epidemic has been declared in Los Angeles, county. Polio cases over the nation totaled 10,797 for the year, compared to 13,224 in the similar 1952 period and 11,710 in the comparative 1953 span.

Shaw And The Alphabet

As might be expected from a man whose life proved him a master of the unexpected, the will of George Bernard Shaw is causing difficulty. A large part of his estate was left to establish a simplified alphabet of 40 to 44 letters. Shaw called our present alphabet a "relic of the Phonicians." He deplored the fact that there are sounds in the language for which there are no letters in the alphabet.

There seems to be some doubt as to the validity of this portion of Shaw's will. If after a court test it is ruled invalid the money will go to the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art, the British Museum and the National Gallery of Ireland.

Because Shaw's will is unusual it must

MP Booted After Scrap With Reds

NEW YORK (AP)—Some people believe Edward J. Tunney Jr. ought to get the Medal of Honor. The U. S. Army, when it gave big Ed his goody papers, stamped the word "undesirable" on them. This still gapes Tunney. He doesn't like being regarded as an undesirable hero. "Either the Army should take me back into the service, or give me an honorable discharge," he said.

The point at issue is whether Tunney was right or wrong in knocking down eight Russian soldiers in Vienna five years ago. "They say I caused an international incident," remarked Ed. "But I say the Russians started it. They got no right to push a man around and call him a spy. They got what they deserved."

The 6-foot former military policeman now weighs 350, and he feels bad in every pound. But he was a mere 240-pound brock of a boy, not quite 20, when the event happened that ruined his military career.

"I never got to tell my side of

Aug. 2 totaled 1,612, up less than 10 per cent over the preceding week at a time of the season when the jump each week anywhere from 20 to 35 per cent. Ohio was the only state to report a "substantial increase" in new cases during the week, 104 as compared with 60 in the previous week.

Polio is definitely still with us in force and is making a particularly ugly mark this year in Florida. However, medical forces are at work combating this disease and are making definite progress. Perhaps sometime in the near future, it is hoped, the scourge may fall to the efforts of medical science.

In the meantime, money is needed to promote this scientific work, such as the testing of the new Salk vaccine, and to help those unfortunate people who have contracted the malady.

For such work, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis is conducting a nationwide emergency drive for $20 million. Funds collected during the regular drive in January proved insufficient.

This campaign is a worthy cause. Polio must be licked and the quicker the better. Let's all get behind this campaign. Give your dimes and dollars to the emergency March of Dimes.

It is not thought that he was less than serious in making it. He was, in his lifetime, a sage and a jester, a teacher and an entertainer. That people saw the entertainer and the jester and failed to listen to his sermons or his teachings was always a source of irritation to him. It may be that the 40 letter alphabet he envisioned will never materialize. But the publicity given his bequest has at least turned the attention of people to the alphabet. It may very well be that that is just what he intended to do.

Stop! Think! Act

Most forest fires could be prevented if people who visit the woods, or who ride along highways lined with forest trees, would exercise a little care and common sense.

Repeating the rules of safety over and over isn't fun. But it is a necessary task for there are always those who have never heard them before or those who have heard and have forgotten. Make sure that campfires and picnic fires are out—don't just think they are, make sure! Never throw lighted cigarettes or matches out of a speeding car, or drop them anywhere in the woods. It only takes an extra few seconds to be certain that they are out.

Forest fires are expensive. They destroy valuable timber as well as the beauty of the forests. They kill countless animals that make their homes in the woods. Stop! Think! Act to prevent forest fires.

THE ETERNAL TRIANGLE

My New York

By MEL HEISNER
NEW YORK.—Things one New Yorker thinks about... Proving that if you stick to something long enough you'll get results—I finally, this week, came across someone who bet on Jim Dandy when that 100 to 1 shot displaced home in the mud six lengths ahead of Gallant Fox and Whicome in the Travers Stakes at Saratoga in 1930. The bettor (who, thus, naturally, was embarked on a horseplaying career forever) was Ruth Anne Hickman, who runs a beauty shop for the plush set on upper Madison Avenue. I dropped in on both Anne because someone told me she did Bobo Rockefeller's hair (which she does), and if that isn't news, what is?

However, after reporting that Bobo has good, manageable, natural blonde hair—and a mind of her own—which figures—pretty Ruth Anne, a Colorado girl in the beginning, told me about betting Jim Dandy and how now she ducks all Tuesday afternoon appointments, whenever Belmont Park is in season.

Ruth Anne and the socially prominent Mrs. Rufus Finch are partners in crime in this vice, and when the day's handicapping work is done, Ruth Anne brings Mrs. F. back to the shop and rouses the paddock dust from her hair.

Incidentally, Ruth Anne had one lack on Jim Dandy—and it is interesting to note that her reaction to his stunning triumph, which is considered the biggest upset in turf history, is typical of all horse players. "All I could think of," she said with a smile, "was why didn't I have $10 or $20 on him?"

I have just been asked to vote in a contest to decide the world's 10 most beautiful pairs of hands, which, if it isn't the most absurd item of the year, will do for a while. Among those it is suggested I pick and choose from are Eleanor Roosevelt, the Duchesse de Windsor, Helen Keller, Mamie Eisenhower and Anne Rosenberg. These staid ladies, they may be exceptions of course—but darned if I ever can remember seeing a truly beautiful pair of hands on any other woman.

I saw the Marcellino-Charles fight on theater television, in the Serf room of the Waldorf, and can report faithfully that no other method of watching a fight can compare. It's better than ringside at the bout. You're right in the ring with the pug. I think Rocky hurt me more than Charles.

Surprising to see Gene Tunney around town on hot New York afternoons; you'd think with that handsome mop of hair he has, he'd go bareheaded—but no; he wears a Panama hat.

In an age where the average Manhattan actor makes about $600 a year, 19-year-old Don Hastings is a real one. He has played 1,248 performances—and now has over 1,200 performances—on nearly five years—as the "Captain Video" Ranger on TV.

I see where Whyte's the famous downtown New York restaurant that caters in Presidents, mayors, bankers, et al. Is he 60 years old, I am most impressed by Whyte's because years ago it paid an Indian prince more than four figures—and not in 28-cent dollars, either—for its recipe for curry.

With grand central station on a full of camp-bound kids these days, I am perplexed again by those parents who fight with relief when they pack Junior off to Squemahomes lodge. What's Junior around for, anyway?

I caught up at long last with the film version of "The Caine Mutiny," and was disappointed; its staging seemed extremely trite in many places and certainly a great deal below the quality of the play now on Broadway.

Act Best Weapon To Jail Reds

WASHINGTON (AP)—The best single weapon the government has at this time for jailing Communists for their conspiracies against the United States is the Smith Act, passed in 1940. Under this law 81 Communist leaders have been convicted and jailed for conspiring to teach forceful overthrow of the government. More than 100 have been indicted. And the Supreme Court has upheld the constitutionality of the act. The Communist Party in no where mentioned by name in the Smith Act. The convicted Communists were found guilty of violating the law as conspirators, not as Communist party members.

If the Communist party had been specifically named in the Smith Act the Supreme Court might have held the law unconstitutional. For example, the party, although government agencies have found it to be a Moscow tool, calls itself a political party.

The court might have decided that a law which aimed at the party by name might therefore have infringed on the constitutional guarantee of free speech.

The government has spent a long time still without final positive results trying to force against the Communist Party. The Internal Security Act of 1950.

Under that law—the Communist Party isn't mentioned by name there either—Communist party leaders and members must register with the government if their organization is found by the Subversive Activities Control Board (SACB) to be the agent of a foreign government. In this case Soviet Russia. The board's report is after giving the Communist party a hearing which lasted a year.

If the Supreme Court upholds the board's findings, when the board ruled against them, the Communist Party is expected to appeal to the courts. The Supreme Court is expected to give a final decision by mid-1955.

If the Supreme Court finds the McCarran Act is unconstitutional, the government will have spent five years for nothing. If on the other hand, the court upholds the board, what happens? Communist party leaders, although appealing in the courts, have indicated they won't register if the final decision is against them.

Suppose on the day the court ruled they must register, the Communist Party dissolved their party under its present name and organized another party which had the same purpose.

Would the government then have to go through the whole process all over again? Some government lawyers think that would be necessary. Others argue the FBI could go out and arrest the Communists who didn't register.

There are still penalties for not registering, once it becomes necessary, but since there are an estimated 25,000 Communists in the country, the government would have its hands full jailing all of them.

Now Congress seems in a mood—the Senate voted for it but the House hasn't acted yet—to out-law the Communist Party. That's the present name of the party. But by name, Atty. Gen. Brown previously expressed concern about such a move. He's chief spokesman for the Eisenhower administration's opposition to banning the party outright.

He feared that outlawing the purchased would cost about $282,000 more a year than the power produced by TVA. Opponents of the President have charged that private power would cost approximately $3.5 million more. This is a good example of how bureau-crats who believe that only the federal government should run things—can exaggerate figures.

If one would take TVA loans at face value, one would believe that the TVA was paying its way with the taxpayers' money. This is not the Communist Party. The TVA's original stated purpose of TVA was in developing navigation, flood control and hydro electric power on the Tennessee River. This power was to be used to manufacture munitions, new and improved fertilizer, and to further develop the resources of the Tennessee Valley.

The sponsors of this legislation apparently never dreamed (or at least they never said) that the TVA eventually would be sold to the colossal for the distribution of electric energy that has become TVA. But the TVA now is an excellent example of how the bureaucrats can expand and expand a government activity.

The first step in really building up TVA was the successful effort by the bureaucrats to persuade Congress to appropriate funds to install steam plants. The bureaucrats argued that steam power is needed to "firm up" hydro electric power, that is, steam generated power was needed to maintain peak loads in seasons when the river was low and the water resultant inadequate.

partly might wreck all the work the government has put in so far in trying to make the Communists register under the McCarran Act. There's a section of that act which says anyone forced to register under it does not in any way incriminate himself by registering. But if now Congress outlaws the party, Communists could argue at once and could be upheld by the courts on grounds that: It is unconstitutional for the government to require a man give evidence against himself as he would be doing if he registered as a Communist when there is a law making it a crime to be a Communist.

It is also possible—and some government lawyers think it's a likely possibility—the Supreme Court would knock out an act outlawing the Communist party by name. Again, perhaps, on the infringement of the free speech guarantee.

The government could spend years getting a Supreme Court ruling on the outlaw act while as he would be doing if he registered as a Communist when there is a law making it a crime to be a Communist.

Fred N. Wainwright, town marshal and fire chief, told a letter of resignation to Acting Town Clerk, Mrs. Edna Nelson on Wednesday to become effective Sunday, Aug. 15.

Wainwright has served since June 1 as town marshal filling the vacancy left when former Marshal H. O. Swafford resigned in February. He took over the duties as the town's fire chief replacing B. D. McIntosh, Jr. who resigned when the department was turned over to the town by the private corporation.

Wainwright gave "personal reasons" as his reason for giving up the post which draws a salary of $225 per month plus expenses. He lives with his wife and daughter on Pennsylvania Ave. having come here from New York State. His resignation will be acted upon when the council meets on Monday night.

Word was received here this week that Lydia Marie Bridges, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alden I. Bridges of this city, placed 2nd out of 41 contestants in the Canadian-American Synchronized Swim Meet held at Niagara Falls, N. Y. July 22-24.

Lydia, who won over the Florida State champion by 1 place and 2 points, was sponsored by the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, Sandlot Springs and the Longwood Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Gilbert Jr. and children Donald and Michael spent Wednesday at New Smyrna Beach as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Burney, who are vacationing there from Sanford.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Swafford and children, Carl and Connie, are vacationing in South Carolina, North Carolina, Tennessee and Arkansas during the month of August.

Acting Mayor and Mrs. Harry T. Guest returned to their home here yesterday after vacationing in St. Petersburg for several weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ealem left Wednesday to return to their home in Corning, N. Y. after having visited Mr. and Mrs. B. D. McIntosh Jr. and other relatives in Central Florida.

The local Garden Club met at the Community House Thursday night for its August business meeting. Major Robert Watson, president, presided over the business meeting while P. D. Anderson Jr., Maitland Nurseriesman, gave the report on the growth and care of Hibiscus. Hostesses were the Mrs. P. O. Schallert, Mrs. Reginald Caries, Mrs. Horace Weltmer and Mrs. Fred Rasmann.

A meeting of the Junior Civic Club will be held at the Community House Wednesday, Aug. 18, at 8 p. m. R. T. Millwee, Seminole County superintendent of public instruction, will be guest speaker. His subject is unannounced. Hostesses are Mrs. Millie Fox and Mrs. W. L. Swafford.

LEUKEN MCGRATH, lovely blonde actress-wife of George S. Kaufman, once expressed a desire to have a look at Manhattan's famed Bowery, and friend, Abe Burrows, reluctantly escorted her there. As they walked its squalid length, Miss McGrath noted that all the decreets were males. "Where," she wondered, "do all the lady bums live?" Burrows whipped out a little black date book, but Kaufman silenced him with a lift of a shaggy eyebrow.

Two definitions quoted to me recently seem to linger in my mind. Doris Schary, studio head of MGM, described "obscure" as something which entails disapproval in everyone but the critic. (It happened to be Miss McGrath he was talking about.) And Miss McGrath's definition of a female—she says "You take the energy when in his presence like this."

But Tommy, unemployed since he was laid off by a steel mill recently, believes the Army ought to take him back—or give him an honorable discharge.

"In three years with the Army I never went AWOL once," he said. "I understand they were even considering giving me a good conduct ribbon at the time this whole thing happened."

Men Tell Reaction To A-Bombing

Editor's note: When the atomic cloud first spread its mushroom cloud of death over a city, it carried for it the traditional concept of war. Here, nine years later, it was the 12 men who carried the first bomb think of the men they played in history.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The superfortress carrying a dozen men and a bomb winged across the Pacific toward the island of Japan in the night.

"It was a very beautiful night," one of the 12 recalls today.

But with the dawn came a new era in the history of mankind. At 9:15 a. m. on Aug. 6, 1945, was dropped on the industrial city of Hiroshima the first and only atomic bomb used in warfare.

As the men flew back to their base on Tinian Island in the Mariannes, they left behind 78,120 persons killed or fatally wounded. Some 50,000 more were crippled and burned. The dead and maimed totaled more than a third of Hiroshima's population.

Five days later a second bomb even more powerful than the first exploded over Nagasaki killing 78,140 more. Three days later on Aug. 14, 1945, the Japanese empire surrendered, blotted its knees, by two bombs that now are piled by nuclear weapons of vastly more destructive power.

"I was given a job and I'm happy it was completed successfully," says Col. Paul Tibbets Jr., then a lieutenant colonel and the pilot of the Enola Gay "I felt strictly impersonal about it then. I still do."

The 39-year-old career officer—one of the three original crew members still in the Air Force—says he is convinced the Hiroshima bomb saved many lives, Japanese as well as American, by averting the expected defense of the island continent at every rice paddy and pagoda.

The same feeling is shared by the other crew men.

Lt. Col. (then major) Thomas W. Ferber, the bombardier, Capt. Robert A. Lewis, copilot, Capt. (later major) Theodore J. Van Kirk, navigator, 1st Sgt. Wyatt E. Durenburg, flight engineer, Sgt. Robert H. Shumard, assistant flight engineer, S. Sgt. George Robert Caron, tailgunner, Sgt. Joe A. Stelbork, radar operator, and

Pfc. Richard N. Nelson, radio operator.

Aboard were the late Rear Adm. William Parsons, division leader in A bomb work at Los Alamos and the only man aboard who has since died, Lt. Morris R. Tompson, the weapons officer who fired the bomb, and Lt. Jacob Beiser, assigned to the flight as counter measures officer. Beiser was the only man to make the bomb runs on both Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

The wary, brown-haired Tibbets claims no great concern in the current world race for nuclear supremacy. Nor does he admit any inner qualms should the necessity arise for dropping a hydrogen bomb many times more powerful than the A-bomb.

"If I'm directed to deliver another bomb, anywhere, I'll deliver it."

Lt. Col. Ferber, the bombardier who released the A-bomb says: "I looked as if it had done what we expected. All of us felt that the bomb would end the war."

Ferber, now a 35-year-old veteran of 17 years in the Air Force, has spent the last four years at Eight Force Base near Fort Walton Beach, Fla. Now slated for an assignment in Germany, he flew 64 combat missions during World War II.

Tibbets, then 22, now is president of the Applied Radiation Corp. of Berkeley, Calif., a firm designing machinery using atomic energy for peacetime purposes. He says he had few regrets for the people who were to feel the blast of the bomb.

"We were after a military target and we didn't expect that it would have practically a whole city, I had some misgivings afterwar. The man who was copilot, for me, Capt. Lewis, says he has done considerable thinking since that historic day nine years ago.

"Having seen the A-bomb on off television, I feel the only salva- tion from total destruction is in prayer. Human beings must put their faith in our Holy Father." Lewis is now a resident of Maywood, 10, and personnel manager of the Henry Heide Corp. a New York candy manufacturer.

Sgt. Durenburg, now 31, who was flight engineer, says: "Personally I feel that if we hadn't dropped that bomb, and the other crew hadn't dropped its bomb on Nagasaki, it could have cost thousands of U. S. soldiers' lives establishing a beachhead for the invasion of Japan."

"I have no personal compunction about it, even though it killed a lot of children. I would do the same thing again. They would have done the same thing to us. If they had the A-bomb first they wouldn't have wasted any time dropping it on Los Angeles or New York."

Durenburg is non-commissioned officer in charge of the flight section of the 390th Air Refueling Squadron at MacDill Air Force Base in Tampa, Fla. He calls Lansing, Mich., his permanent home.

Caron, now 31, and a designer in the engineering department of the Boeing Aircraft Co. plant in Wichita, Kan., had a tall gunner. He says he was the first to see the flash as the bomb exploded, then "a tremendous buildup of light." He saw the shock waves speeding to reach the plane, then watched in awe as the cloud began mushrooming over Hiroshima.

"I'm not sure whether I said it out loud, but I remember thinking 'There goes Nagasaki.' Then 'There we have killed them all!'"

Shumard, manager of a wholesale plumbing warehouse in Detroit, says: "The bombing is something more to think about than to celebrate."

Radar operator Stelbork comments now: "I remember when we found out how many we killed, it did make you feel kind of bad. If they had all been soldiers, I guess it wouldn't have made any difference, because war is war. But there were women and babies—just plain folk."

Stelbork, a 30-year-old native of Taylor, Tex., now works for the Texas Power and Light Co. at Rockdale.

The radio operator was the baby of the crew. Only 20 at the time, Nelson says he was keyed up "not because of what have come to be known as the 'vast implications' we were just anxious to do a good job of the mission."

Now a sales engineer for Imperial Brass Manufacturing Co. of Chicago, he says he had no qualms about dropping the big bomb.

"I think it certainly shortened the war, both for the Japs and ourselves. That many civilians were killed or injured is regrettable, of course. Modern warfare doesn't make much provision for protecting civilians."

Now, nine years later, the con- dition of Nagasaki is a little different. Today's version is a little different. "Baby Reo" in Atlanta, Penn., Reo Motors is trying to find a driver to fit the car, built in 1945. Reo Motors, Wall the driver's seat is only nine inches wide. And there is only 12 inches clearance between the edge of the front end and the pedals!

After the pretty mechanic gets through driving the car into running condition, Reo plans to take the car and a driver, if one can be located—on a tour of the country to celebrate its 50th Anniversary.

News Of Men In Service

IX CORPS, Korea—Second Lt. Henry F. Richter Jr., 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Richter, 417 First St., recently helped the 86th Field Artillery Searchlight Battery celebrate the 170th anniversary of the Army Artillery Corps in Korea.

Lt. Richter is a platoon leader in the battalion, which is training with other IX Corps units north of the 38th parallel.

Lt. Richter has served three years in the Army and holds the Korean and UN Service Ribbons.

PORT SAN HUSTON, Texas—Second Lt. William F. Meriwether, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Meriwether, Sanford, and husband of Mrs. Peggy H. Meriwether, at Atlanta, Ga., and 1st Lt. James P. Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Evans, 606 Park Ave., and husband of Mrs. Clara E. Evans, Athens, Ga., have completed an orientation course in military medical service at the Medical Field Service School, Brooks Army Medical Center, and have been transferred to Fort Benning, Ga., and to Europe, respectively.

The class is made up of officers newly commissioned in the Army medical service.

The orientation course stresses medical service in combat. Subjects include clinical procedures in treatment of battle injuries, care of combat exhaustion casualties, and preventative medical measures aimed at the detection of health hazards and avoidance of epidemics.

The Medical Field Service School is one of seven units of the Brooks Army Medical Center, the Army's largest medical installation. The center carries on virtually all phases of professional and technical training in military medicine, as well as patient treatment and research.

Lt. Meriwether was graduated from the University of Georgia in 1951.

Lt. Evans was graduated from the Medical College of Georgia in 1951, and was resident physician at the University Hospital at Augusta, Ga., prior to entering the Army.

Scientist Says A-Radiation Is Changing Human Beings

FULLMAN, Wash.—Atomic radiation from exploded A-bombs is at work changing the human species all over the earth and probably for the worse, a distinguished American scientist says.

He says there is no stopping this, that the change was going on slowly before the advent of the atomic age because of the effects of the earth's natural radiation, and that the bombs already set off have simply made it worse.

He adds that any more bombs will increase the undesirable changes. These views were given by Dr. A. H. Sturtevant, radiologist, before a meeting of the Pacific Division of the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science. Dr. Sturtevant, a specialist in genetics at the California Institute of Technology, spoke as the retiring president of the association.

"There is no possible escape from the conclusion that the bombs already exploded will ultimately result in the production of numerous defective individuals if the human species survives for many generations," Dr. Sturtevant said.

Whether the ultimate result will be good or bad is beside the point, the scientist added. It may be, he said, that the gains to be derived from the bombs will outweigh the genetic damage that is bound to result.

The best fact is, he argued, that human beings of the future are going to be genetically different in some ways from those of the present and that the extent of the difference will depend upon how many bombs drop.

Dr. Sturtevant disagreed with Atomic Energy Commission Chairman Lewis L. Strauss' statement that while the test in the Pacific added to the earth's radiation background, it remained "far below the levels which could be detected in any way to human beings."

Strauss apparently referred only to the immediate effects on the people exposed, Dr. Sturtevant said. He added: "Every geneticist familiar with the facts knows that any level whatever is certain to be at least genetically harmful to human beings when it is applied to most or all of the inhabitants of the earth."

The scientist cited the work of many investigators to support his point. He said this research indicated that:

High energy radiation hitting the germ cells of living organisms causes genetic changes which are passed on to offspring.

The great majority of these changes is proportional to the amount of radiation present, that even the tiniest amount of background will cause some changes.

The great majority of these changes are bad, and in subsequent generations can produce a wide variety of defects, including early death.

Dr. Sturtevant said color blindness, night blindness and cataracts are certain genetic defects, chargeable to heredity require the affected individuals to live on earth's surface. One of these is Huntington's chorea, an ailment with symptoms like St. Vitus Dance. One of its effects is a form of dementia.

These defects are trivial, but there are some which are not. Dr. Sturtevant cited some diseases with hereditary factors which affect the mind. One of these is the case of a hereditary disease affecting metabolism. It is called phenylketonuria. It produces a condition called "scanty mind."

With the earth's radiation background causing more genetic changes, still other diseases attributable to heredity probably will be found, Dr. Sturtevant said. And if they affect the mentality of other important functions they will increasingly mark future generations with the sign of the atom bomb.

Factors Of Fatness Enter Cancer Probe

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—Research being conducted here may some day reveal whether factors which cause obesity are linked with cancer.

Dr. Paul Fenton and a graduate assistant, John B. Lyon, are seeking to discover the body mechanism which controls the rate at which calories are burned up or stored in the system in the form of fat.

Dr. Fenton has found among his thousands of laboratory mice evidence of a process controlling the burning and storing of fats in the body. He leans to the theory that susceptibility in some kinds of cancer may be controlled by the same basic body chemistry.

He and his assistant suspect hormones are involved.

Dr. Fenton says he and other researchers at work on the problem have a long way to go but if successful, he says it might lead to two important results:

1. Early discovery of obesity and cancer tendencies in humans.

2. A means of eliminating the danger by correcting hormone balance, or hormone production actually is involved.

Some of Dr. Fenton's mice—products of long inbreeding—are naturally cancer-susceptible. Others are cancer-resistant.

When fed a normal diet, he says the two strains show only slight physical differences. But when a high fat diet is introduced, the cancer-susceptible strain becomes fat and the production of breast cancers is speeded up. The other strain eats as much but remains thin and cancer free.

The biologists found other differences:

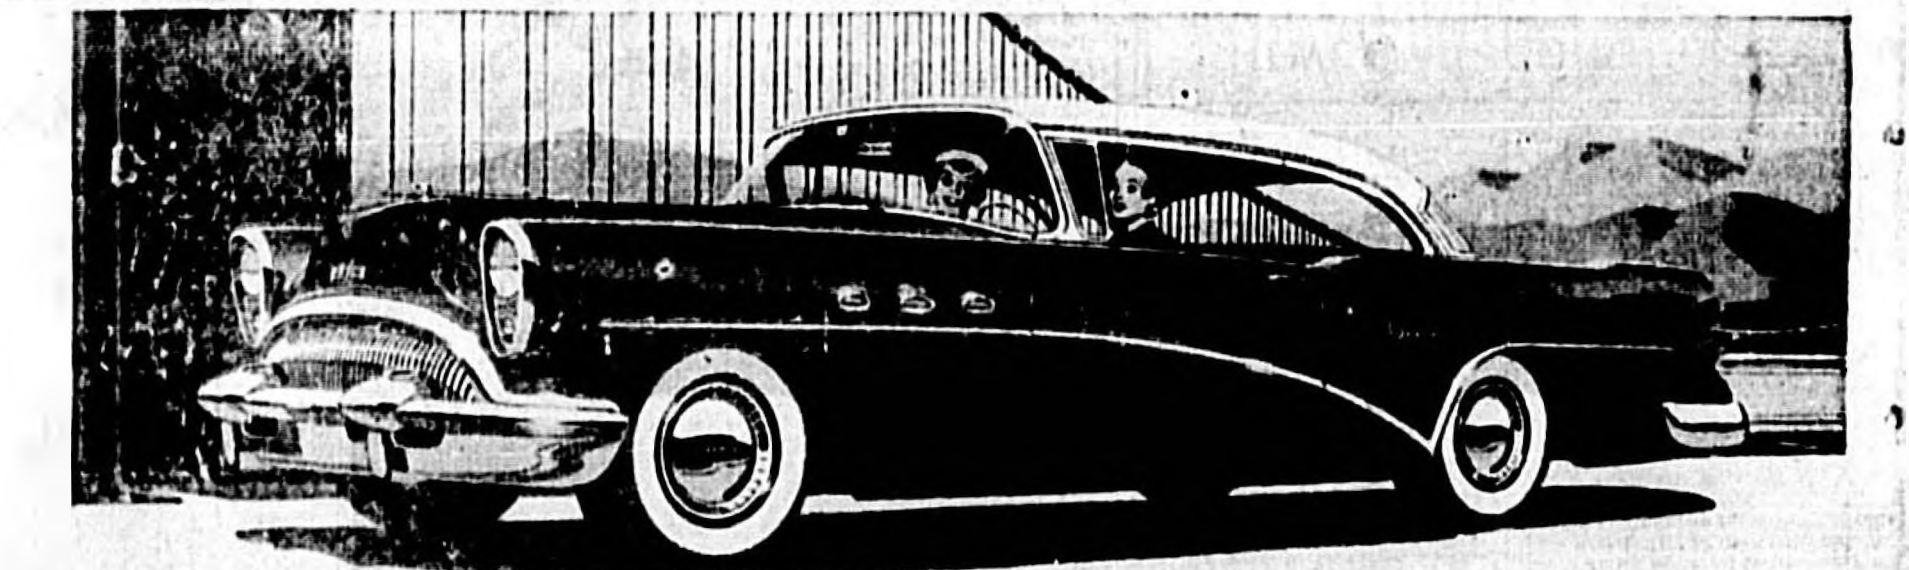

The thin mice are more active and absorb more oxygen into their bodies. The extra oxygen enables them to burn up the extra calories.

Sugar injected into the mice disappears slowly from the blood stream of the fat, cancer susceptible mice, but rapidly from the blood of the thin mice.

Since insulin burns sugar, Dr. Fenton suggests that under production of insulin by the pancreas, or over-production of and insulin hormones by the pancreas, or abnormal gland, may be involved.

Excess protein and minerals, as well as fat, found in the tissues of the obese mice may indicate that the pituitary gland is producing too much growth hormone, Dr. Fenton says.

The biologists hope the continued work will turn up clues that the edges point north and south.

Buick's biggest hit brings you a 3-way bonus

- You get the car that's in step with tomorrow
- You get the car that's a sure high resale value
- You get a bigger allowance from our volume business

From stem to stern, Buick today is styled a year ahead—with long, low glamor lines, with the very look of tomorrow, and with that broad panoramic windshield that many other cars won't have till 1955. Equally important, you get in Buick advanced V8 power, big room, luxurious comfort, the famed Million Dollar Ride—and all for prices that start just a few dollars above those of the so-called "low-price three." Is it any wonder, then, that Buick today is outselling all other cars in America except two of these "low-price three?"

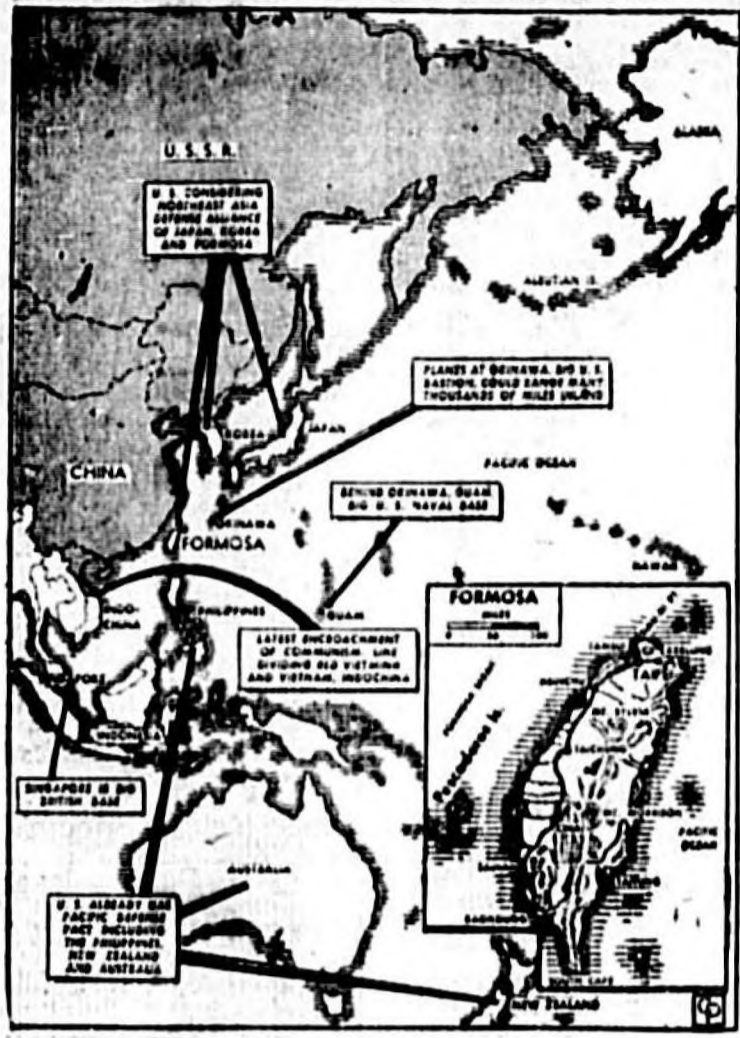

Come see for yourself why—
