Pentagon Wants Home Radio Warning System

Originally, Civil Defense Officials hoped for a law requiring that the radio receivers be built into every new television set sold in the United States.

By BROOKS JACKSON, Associated Press Writer
 WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon plans wide-scale tests next month on a radio warning system it wants to put in your bedroom.

The radio receiver listens silently to a government frequency and comes to life only when the military activates it with a special, coded signal.

The aim is to save lives by broadcasting warnings of tornadoes, hurricanes, floods or nuclear attack. Installation of the radio device would be voluntary.

Originally, Civil Defense officials hoped for a law requiring that the radio receivers be built into every new television set sold in the United States.

But White House broadcasting officials overruled the military, which runs Civil Defense operations. They feared the public might interpret mandatory installation of the receivers as part of a government propaganda and spy system similar to the one used by dictator Big Brother in George Orwell's novel "1984."

The Pentagon's system can only talk, not watch or listen.

Civil Defense officials, who conceived the warning system, have built a bombproof radio transmitter near Baltimore and plan to start test broadcasts to a 10-state area in early February. About 400 high-priced receivers are being built, and will be distributed at first only to state and local government authorities who want them.

But technicians are close to perfecting a home receiver cheap enough—about $10—for almost anyone to afford.

The civil defense officials call the system DDES, for Decision Information Distribution System.

Planning began in 1964, and small-scale field tests were conducted in 1968 and Congress appropriated $2 million for the first transmitter and receivers in 1970. Cost overruns have raised the initial price to $5.7 million.

If next month's tests are successful, and if Congress goes along, the Pentagon plans eventually to build a total of 10 transmitters that together would reach nearly every corner of the nation, except Alaska and Hawaii.

The automated transmitters could be operated by remote control from the North American Air Defense Command near Colorado Springs, Colo., or at either of two back-up points.

By pushing buttons on a console, a technician at one of these control points would be able to turn on air-raid sirens, broadcast messages by voice or teletype to state and local officials, or send announcements over home receivers.

For warning of a nuclear attack, the controller could turn on every home receiver in the country. For warning of a flash flood or other natural disaster, he could turn on receivers in a certain area, in some cases as small as one-third of a single county. Specific instructions on how to cope with the disaster could be broadcast.

The Pentagon began thinking about improving its national warning system more than a decade ago.

Hunt Offered Money In Watergate Pleas

By DON McLEOD, Associated Press Writer
 WASHINGTON (AP) — As the Watergate political espionage trial entered its third week today, Time magazine said it learned that one of the original seven defendants, E. Howard Hunt Jr., offered money to four other defendants as an inducement to plead guilty.

The government's key witness, Alfred C. Baldwin III, a former FBI agent, faced cross-examination from defense lawyers today.

Only two of an original seven defendants remained on trial in U.S. District Court here in connection with the break-in and alleged bugging of Democratic party headquarters at the Watergate last summer. Hunt and four others have pleaded guilty to the crime.

Time magazine said Hunt offered the other four $1,000 a month apiece for each month they spend in jail. It said the admissions of guilt by Hunt and the others "staved off" testimony that the operation had been approved by other persons.

Hunt's lawyer, William O. Bittman, said Hunt "categorically and emphatically denies" the magazine story.

Time magazine said Hunt recruited the four to bug the Democratic offices saying: "It's got to be done. My friend Colson wants it. Mitchell wants it."

The magazine said this was a reference to former Atty. Gen. John Mitchell, who was also Nixon's campaign manager for a time, and to Charles Colson, a special counsel to President Nixon.

It didn't say where it obtained the information.

Colson's office issued a statement saying Colson "unequivocally denies what Hunt is quoted as saying and points out that he (Colson) had already denied it under oath."

Nigerian Crash Kills Over 162 Moslems

KANO, Nigeria (AP) — A Jordanian jetliner bringing 202 Moslems home from a pilgrimage to Mecca crashed on landing in a fog here today and burst into flames. Officials said most aboard were killed.

The death toll was variously given as 162 and 191 as rescue teams went through the burned wreckage. Radio Nigeria reported about 40 survivors. Officials here said they have recovered 11 persons alive.

A witness said the plane was engulfed in flames after it crashed on the runway at about 10 a.m.

The world's worst air disaster took the lives of 176 persons in the crash of a Soviet Aeroflot jet near Moscow last Oct. 14.

Mecca, the holiest place of Moslems, is in Saudi Arabia.

The Royal Jordanian Airlines Boeing 707 left Saudi Arabia from Jidda, near Mecca, on the 2,100-mile flight to Kano.

Officials in Lagos, 730 miles south of Kano, said it was not likely that a full report on the crash will be available before Tuesday.

The other day, I made mention to the Madison Square Garden near-Iscusio when the powers-to-be were seriously giving consideration to the elimination of the National Anthem. It was subsequently reinstated.

However, it did prompt one of our prominent leaders to pen his thoughts on the matter. And we're grateful to George Touhy for taking the time to share his views on this important topic:

"There may be some psychological hang-ups in the development of pride of country because of some of the inexplicable goings on, but it is still our native land; has given us much, and patriotism should be one way of expressing appreciation. Too bad this fervor of country no longer is taught youngsters in our school system. It would help the zeal at home."

Perhaps you'll remember this newspaper's campaign early in '64 year's school calendar when it was found that the Pledge was not being recited at one of our area schools.....

Would you believe that there were some educators who chastized us for being "nit-pickers"?

And if that wouldn't jolt you, Mrs. Pittman from Winter Springs who received her latest gas bill and it showed an amount due of $2,461.38. Says Mrs. Pittman, "I know the cost of living has climbed a bit....but, this is just too much."

And when she called the officials at the local office, when the male voice inquired, "do you think that's too much?", she was all set to offer a reply.....and then realized that the gent was putting her on.

Of course the bill was in error, and a corrected bill was mailed later.

Did Zoning Board Approve Final Plat?

By DONNA ESTES

LONGWOOD — The big question in this city today is: Was the final plat of Winsor Manor approved by the city's zoning board prior to its being recorded?

The recorded plat of Winsor Manor carries the signature of Jack Lindsay as "acting chairman" of the city's zoning board, indicating the development plan was approved by the advisory body.

When the Baptist minister was contacted via telephone Saturday, he could not recall having executed the plat, asked the reporter to describe the signature, and affirmed as best he could recall a statement made by Councilman B. H. Ferrell, Thursday night, that the zoning board had never approved the plat.

This morning at City Hall, however, Rev. Lindsay exhumed the signature, stated without qualification that it is his and said he believed Winsor Manor plat had been mentioned at last January's meeting when he acted as chairman.

He said "someone" ... "the Council" ... "someone" had told him it was his responsibility to sign the plat as acting chairman.

Councilman Dick Crenshaw, also a member of the zoning board at the meeting in question last January, by telephone Saturday, said he did not recall the plat having been approved, but perhaps it was mentioned.

Minutes of the January meeting on file in City Hall do not reflect any approval by the zoning board of the plat, nor of authorization for Rev. Lindsay to sign the document.

Mayor Eugene Jaques said this morning, when this fact was brought to his attention, that the minutes are wrong and the item was probably omitted. He recalled personally being at the meeting, but did not elaborate on his recollection.

Zoning board clerk Sniye Haislip told The Herald this morning that she recalled the final plat of Winsor Manor was never brought to the zoning board for approval.

Ferrell, who resigned in December, 1970, to seek a seat on the City Council, missed the first January meeting, but was reappointed to the board on the second Thursday of that month. He expressed surprise that the board had been approved on behalf of the zoning board, Ferrell remembers being approached numerous times to execute the plat and refusing each time.

High Court Bars States In Abortion

By BARRY SCHWEID, Associated Press Writer
 WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today barred the states from interfering with the decision of a woman and her doctor to end pregnancies within the first three months.

In the 7-2 decision striking down the Texas abortion law, Justice Harry A. Blackmun said medical data indicates abortion in the first three months, "although not without its risk, is now relatively safe."

Therefore, he said, "any interest of the state in protecting the woman from an inherently hazardous procedure ... has largely disappeared."

The ruling followed two years of deliberations by the justices. It was based predominantly on what Blackmun called a right of privacy. He said the right "is broad enough to encompass a woman's decision whether or not to terminate her pregnancy."

Justices Byron R. White and William Rehnquist dissented. White said he could "find nothing in the language or history of the Constitution to support the court's judgment."

Rehnquist, meanwhile, said "the court's sweeping invalidation of any restrictions on abortion during the first trimester is impossible to justify."

City Mulls Landscape Standards

By BOB LLOYD

Under strict landscape standards, being considered by the Sanford zoning and planning commission for review of site development plans, no trees over 10 inches in diameter can be removed from a development site without approval.

With the city planning and zoning director's approval the trees can be removed but each tree must be replaced with three new trees of four inches or more trunk diameter and minimum height of at least three feet.

Currently under study by the zoning and planning commission are standards for site development plans including areas, paving, pedestrian walkways, fire prevention, storm drainage, water and sewer, land use design, vehicular and pedestrian traffic circulation, visual design and natural elements, arrangement and orientation and landscaping.

The recently adopted revised city zoning ordinance calls for site plan approval by the zoning and planning commission on all construction in zones except single-family residential.

The commission may attach to its approval of a site development plan any reasonable condition, limitation or requirement which is found necessary, in its judgment, to effectuate the purposes of the zoning ordinance and to carry out the spirit and purpose of the ordinance.

The ordinance calls for a development plan to include: A site with grades or contours, (Cont'd On Pg. 2A Col. 8)

ADDING GRACE and charm to rough and tumble Congress is newcomer Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y.

What he added amounted to a recognition that a president alone can't carry out his dreams.

Julie Nixon Eisenhower said this was one of her favorite parts of the 1,800-word, 17-minute inaugural speech. The family had not read the text in advance, she told a reporter at a reception following Sunday's White House worship service.

At about 6 p.m. on the eve of the inauguration, she said, the President made some minor adjustments in the address, most of which he wrote himself over a period of weeks. He even revised it while driving to the Capitol to deliver it, she added.

The addition of two paragraphs near the end incorporated thoughts that Julie said "came to him in the middle of the night" after a round of inaugural concerts.

Early Saturday, in his tuxedo in the White House sitting room, he added these two paragraphs:

"As I stand in this place, so hallowed by history, I think of others who have stood here before me. I think of the dreams they had for America and I think of how each recognized that he needed help far beyond himself in order to make those dreams come true.

"Today, I ask your prayers that in the years ahead I may have God's help in making decisions that are right for America. And I pray for your help so that together we may be worthy of our challenge."

As Nixon Leads In Tribute Entire Nation Mourns Death Of LBJ

LYNDON B. JOHNSON

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Led by President Nixon, the nation paid tribute today to Lyndon B. Johnson as the president whose domestic achievements were overshadowed until his death by the war he couldn't end.

Thrust into office by tragedy, Johnson coped first with the mounting racial turmoil of the mid-1960s, but watched the nation become more deeply rent as American soldiers died by the thousands in Vietnam.

Johnson believed he could not bring the warring parties into peace negotiations unless he withdrew from the campaign and purged the bid of any political taint.

Johnson's vice president, Hubert H. Humphrey, reflected on that day: "He and Lady Bird, Luci and her husband came up to our apartment. He said 'could I talk to you alone?'"
