JACKY FENWICK

This is the best news I've had to report in a long time! The word was passed to the squadrons and other outfits today, but in case you haven't heard, the base swimming pool will now be opened to dependents on weekends! There will be definite hours for us to use it, but that's only fair to everyone concerned. These will be the new hours:

Monday: The same as before. The pool will only be open from 8:30 until 6:00 P.M. for the men only.

Tuesday: 10:00 A.M. until 3:00 P.M. for dependents, and from 8:30 until 6:00 P.M. for the men. There will be just one change on Tuesday, and that is that the pool will be opened from 8:30 until 9:00 P.M. for dependents and the men.

Wednesday: The same, 10:00 A.M. until 3:00 P.M. for dependents, and from 8:30 until 6:00 P.M. for the men.

Thursday: The same as Wednesday.

Friday: This day will be the same as Tuesday, with the pool opened to dependents again at 8:30 P.M. until 9:00 P.M.

Saturday: This is where the big change comes in! The pool will open at 9:00 A.M. on Saturday morning, for dependents and they will be able to use it until 3:00 in the afternoon. The pool will be open from 8:30 until 6:00 P.M. for the men only.

Sunday: Another big change for Sunday! The pool will open on Sunday at 10:00 A.M., following the service held each Sunday in the base chapel. It will remain open for dependents until 3:00 P.M., and again it will be open only from 8:30 until 6:00 P.M.

I made it just about as clear as I possibly can, and may I suggest that if you plan to make any use of the base pool, that you clip out these hours so if you're ever in doubt, you'll have it to refer to!!!!

Foreign Car Sales in U. S. Booming

By ROBERT MORTAL
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK — Sales of foreign cars in the United States are booming.

American this year will exceed in the neighborhood of half a billion dollars for small, high-weight cars from Germany, France, England, Italy and Sweden.

The sharp increase in foreign car sales—from around 30,000 cars in 1934 to around 300,000 this year—has caused some raised eyebrows in Detroit.

Every American car manufacturer is snapping plans to take advantage of the new market opened up by their foreign counterparts.

Foreign cars are expected to account for about 3 to 3.5 per cent of the total U. S. car market this year. Foreign manufacturers report sales are running well ahead of 1936 and that they have long waiting lists.

The big selling feature of these cars is economy-low prices, efficient operation.

Germany's little Messerschmidt, which carries two people, one behind the other, is said to run 100 miles on a gallon of gasoline.

U. S. Imports Rise
Imports of foreign cars have increased so rapidly the past few years that some experts are predicting 1937 will be the first year in history that the U. S. imported more cars than it exported.

U. S. Firms are taking steps to capture a share of this fast-growing and lucrative market.

General Motors Corp. announced last week that it will begin importing cars made by two of its foreign affiliates—Vauxhall in England and DKW in Germany.

Ford is pushing imports of two of its affiliates—Ford of England and Simca of France. Studebaker-Packard is going to produce an economy car in this country and also has an arrangement with Daimler-Benz of Germany. American Motors Corp. makes the small Rambler and is importing the British-made Metropolitan.

Why Small Cars Sell
What's behind the rise in small car sales.

"Our big markets are the people who must drive back and forth to work every day," said Robert Lemmon, the president and general manager of Renault Inc., major French auto maker.

"Our biggest selling feature is economy. Why buy a car that gives only 15 miles to the gallon when you can buy one that will give you 40?" he asked.

Lemmon said the move to the suburbs and the rising cost of gasoline have helped to spur the growth of the economy-car market.

Return Address Is Important On Mail

There are a few extraordinary circumstances in which people who write letters want to keep their addresses to themselves. Ordinarily, however, those who take the trouble to write are anxious for their correspondents to know how they in turn can be reached through the mails.

A complete, properly placed return address is a basic ingredient of good postal service. To be complete, one's return should include name, street or box number, apartment or room number, city and state. So that mail may be speedily and accurately handled, the postal regulations provide that all return addresses be placed uniformly in the upper left hand corner of the card, envelope, wrapper, or label. All postal employees are trained to look for the return address in this customary position, so it may be overlooked if placed elsewhere.

Omission of any of the essential items mentioned above in the return address, or improper placement of the return address, may result in disappointment or loss to the sender. Here are just a few of the important benefits provided by the correct return address:

1. If friends, relatives, or business associates have moved without filing a forwarding address, or if mail cannot be delivered to the addressee for any reason, it can be returned to the writer promptly and accurately.

2. If the bank, finance company, insurance company, department store, or other organization requires a defective or incomplete check, money order, or other remittance, the writer can be identified from his return address and furnished proper credit or reply.

3. If mail lacks payment of postage, sufficient address, or is otherwise irregular, requiring its return for correction, it can be promptly and accurately delivered back to the sender.

4. Correspondents will have a current, reliable means of knowing the writer's correct mailing address.

Develop the habit of showing a complete return address on all mail. Write or type it legibly and correctly. Place it properly. It will pay you rich dividends in improved personal and business relationships and in improved postal service.

If you need help with your mailing problems, call FA 2-2972. A few minutes on the phone might present a great deal of expense and inconvenience.

Decision Reached Today

WASHINGTON — Southern opponents today agreed to permit a showdown vote. "The middle of next week" in the first round of the Senate battle over the civil rights bill.

The decision was reached in a 30-minute conference in the office of Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), leader of the southern bloc waging an all-out fight against President Eisenhower's four-point program. The huddle preceded the fifth day of Senate debate.

The exact day will be worked out later today with Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson and Republican Leader William F. Knowland.

Knowland told reporters after a conference with President Eisenhower today that there is no justification for charges by some northern Democrats that the White House is wavering in its support of the bill.

He said the administration's civil rights recommendations still stand. But he added that the White House has "never taken the position that there should be no clarifying amendments."

Evidence Of Lung Cancer, Smoking Link Increases

WASHINGTON — The U. S. Public Health Service said today there is "increasing and consistent evidence" that "excessive" cigarette smoking "is one of the factors which can cause lung cancer."

Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney said studies have "confirmed beyond a reasonable doubt that there is a high degree of statistical association between lung cancer and heavy prolonged cigarette smoking."

He issued the statement after the Public Health Service completed a review of the report of a study group on smoking and health, which found a "direct relationship between the incidence of lung cancer and the amount smoked."

It was the strongest statement the government has made to date on the subject. Burney said copies, along with scientific findings, are being sent to state health officers and the American Medical Assn., "with the request that they consider distributing copies to local health officers, medical societies and other health groups."

American Red Cross Can Be Called Generosity In Action

Americans are generous people when it comes to supporting a host of semi-public research and welfare organizations. They are so generous that, often enough, they make little inquiry into the effectiveness of the work done by the objects of their generosity. It is a good thing, now and then, to take a look at one of these groups in operation.

For years, the Red Cross has been an outstanding instrument through which Americans have extended a helping hand to those in distress. Its performance in Louisiana following the ravages of Hurricane Audrey provides welcome reassurance that it continues to be a first-rate extension of that helping hand.

Some two thousand victims of the disaster are receiving aid from the Red Cross. Immediate needs—food, clothing, shelter—were taken care of first. Now Red Cross workers are engaged in the long task of putting a community back on its feet. Each family's needs are measured against its loss and whatever resources remain.

Some are receiving furniture and household necessities; some will get occupational supplies, inventories and equipment. Homes, small business establishments, essential farm buildings are being repaired or rebuilt. Hospital and medical care are involved, it goes without saying. Months will pass before the task of rehabilitation is ended.

All this cannot be considered charity in the usual sense of the word. As in countless other emergencies, the Red Cross is serving as the intermediary between disaster victims and the millions of Americans who want to help them. It is a heart-lifting thing to see generosity in action.

'Task Force For Action' Proposed

President Eisenhower belongs to that fast-growing group of authorities who believe that one way to bring about tax reduction is for the states to assume responsibility for some of the costly activities that are now carried on by the federal government.

The President proposes a "task force for action" which would have a three-pronged job: "To designate functions which the states are ready and willing to assume and finance, that are now performed or financed wholly or in part by the federal government; to recommend the federal and state revenue adjustments required to enable the states to assume such functions; and to identify functions and responsibilities likely to require state or federal attention in the future and to recommend the level of state effort or federal effort, or both, that will be needed to assure effective action." As specific examples of programs in which there should be greater state participation, the President cited alum clearance and disaster relief.

It is an obvious fact that the federal government can only spend money which it has first taken from the people and the enterprises of the states. It is also a fact that a substantial proportion of that money is absorbed by federal administrative overhead—and that in most instances the states would get more concrete return out of each dollar if they did the work themselves.

Moreover, the money saving, important as it is, would be only a part of the benefits that would result. If the states knew they had to do their own financing, they'd examine spending proposals with much more critical eyes—instead of seeking government aid for all manner of unnecessary projects. Then, best of all, there would be re-affirmation of the largely forgotten principle that local needs should be met so far as possible by local action—a principle which lies at the heart of free, representative government.

Totalitarianism

The inaugural address of Dr. David R. Allman, new president of the American Medical Association, was a thoughtful and compelling document. At the end he said this: "When the physician ventures into the realm of public affairs, he frequently is accused of being too conservative. Of course, he is conservative—in the best sense of the word. All of his education and training... all of his experience in practice... all of his exposure to human nature... all of these have given him a profound respect for certain proven, fundamental principles that should be conserved—in medicine and all of human life.

"In medicine, for example, he knows that first-rate medical care—including humane consideration for the problems of the individual—cannot survive if patients and physicians are shackled by rules, regulations, controls and assembly-line procedures. Applying the same principle to the broader aspects of human and public affairs, he knows also that people's minds, hearts and souls cannot find true expression if they are oppressed by rigid ideologies or systems which bury the individual in the mass."

What Dr. Allman spoke so eloquently against is totalitarianism, in any and all of its forms and disguises. What he spoke for is that old philosophy of freedom which has been responsible for the greatest achievements in the professions, in business, in representative government, and in the arts and sciences.

We need more voices with comparable messages.

Letters To The Editor

The Sanford Herald
Dear Editor:

In view of the fact that it was my privilege to present Sidney Vollen, Jr., one of the Boys' State representatives, at a recent meeting of the local Rotary Club when he gave the Americanism address he delivered at Tallahassee and since you were gracious enough to publish that talk on the eve of Independence Day, I am sure you will be interested in the following letter just received by Sidney:

"Mr. Sidney L. Vollen,
314 West 3d Street,
Sanford, Florida.
Dear Sid:

Please let me again say thanks to you for the part you played in making Florida Boys' State the most outstanding. Your evening talk and tape, and your morning review, believe it or not, were looked forward to each day.

I enjoyed your Americanism speech very much. You should be proud to have been selected first as a member of the Senate from your district, as well as one of the fifteen to be interviewed to represent Florida at Boys' State. The job of the evaluation board was a rough one, and I can assure you, you were very close to the top, when the final choice was made.

Thanks again for all you did for us of the American Legion.

Very truly yours,
(Signed) Billy

Editor,
The Sanford Herald

At approximately 0040 hours, the ringing of the telephone commenced competing with the sheering drone of the ASD Skyriders which were being operated in the field carrier practice landing operations. The midnight caller, an aviator civilian from Sanford, registered a complaint concerning the noise necessary in such an "unnecessary operation," his lack of sleep, attendant nervousness and then proffered free but unsound advice on the proper operation of this Master Heavy Attack Air Station. Needless to add, the Navy was being soundly castigating again, the competence of the Commanding Officers was being questioned and the petty officer of the watch was subjected to vituperation. Many calls of this nature have been received recently.

A short time ago, the city of Sanford renewed its marriage vows with this Air Station and one of its pledges was to remain together for better or for worse. Can it be that some residents of Sanford intend to file for a divorce now that the alimony payments have been assured by Congress? Or will they nag and nag until they become a defendant in a divorce proceeding only to play, once again, upon the sympathies of the husband once he decides to leave—again. A snoring husband will never be judicially separated from a complaining wife. The nights of conjugal bliss may be uncomfortable and annoying at times but love and necessity usually prevail.

It is futile to repeat the arguments of preparation in the event of attack but it behooves me to remind a few that competence is obtained only by practice. In this instance, practice cannot be limited to the hours of sunshine because the battles of war have been known to have been waged at night. It may happen again since the Indian is no longer our enemy and his superstition our ally.

If, as alleged, the night flying over Sanford is unnecessary, WHY do Navy pilots work all day, fly many hours during the night and return at 0045 the following morning; WHY do many others work all day, stand watches during the night and report for duty early the following morning; and listen to the complaints of grates but only to guarantee, with their lives if necessary, that all may remain alive to be pestered by the drone of the jet airplane. If all of this is unnecessary, why do you, who risk their lives on every training flight and why do some leave the jet engine because they think that the dimes spent on start a fund for the unfortunate survivors of crash victims who would gladly listen to the drone of the jet engine because they then would know that their loved ones are still "UP THERE."

Foreign News Commentary

By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent
Soviet Russia appears to have acquired a new chief coequal in its collective leadership.

Nikita S. Khrushchev has been recognized as the chief coequal since Georgi M. Malenkov was ousted as premier in 1955.

Now Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov seems to have moved in beside Khrushchev as chief coequal No. 2.

That implies that until there is another blow-up in Soviet leadership, Khrushchev and Zhukov will direct policy in both domestic and foreign affairs.

There are 13 other co-equals in the enlarged ruling Presidium of the Russian Communist Party. Both Khrushchev and Zhukov will be top men.

Central Political Machine
Khrushchev's strength lies in the fact that as chief secretary of the Communist Party he controls the party political machine.

Zhukov's strength lies in the fact that as defense minister and Russia's outstanding soldier he controls the army.

It has become clear that Georgi M. Malenkov, Vyacheslav M. Molotov and Lazar M. Kaganovich, who recently succeeded in ousting Khrushchev at a meeting of the presidium last month, they had the support of two other members. It is reported that Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin was wavering between the Malenkov faction and the Khrushchev faction. Had he gone with Malenkov, the anti-Khrushchev men would have had six of the votes in what was then an 11-man presidium.

Khrushchev saved himself partly because, as first secretary, he was able to force a meeting of the full 21-man central committee of the Communist Party. Khrushchev and Zhukov will direct policy in both domestic and foreign affairs. But it is being said, apparently correctly, that Zhukov played the decisive part. He is reported to have come out fully in support of Khrushchev in the presidium and to have emphasized that the army was with him.

Regarded as Conservative
Zhukov is regarded as a conservative man, who as a soldier knows fully the catastrophe Russia would face in event of a third world war and who is inclined to be as friendly with the Western countries as a dedicated Communist can be.

Zhukov and President Eisenhower became good friends when, as supreme commanders of the Russian and Allied armies, they were in Berlin together after the end of World War II. They even entered into a brief correspondence later. It was suggested that Zhukov might play a big part in easing East-West tension.

Only time will tell whether Zhukov will work for better relations with the United States and its allies. Time will tell also how well Zhukov and Khrushchev can get along together, and whether a might occur as Zhukov that would like to be the sole No. 1 co-equal and thus get into a battle with Khrushchev for leadership.

Veterans Corner

Here are authoritative answers from the Veterans Administration to questions of current interest to former servicemen and their families.

Q. I want to sell my GI house because I just got a job in another city. Is it possible to find out in advance whether VA will restore my GI loan rights? Or must I wait until after I sell, and then find out?

A. You may find out in advance whether your GI loan benefit will be restored by making a request to the VA office that guaranteed your original loan and furnishing the reasons why you want to sell. Your GI benefit cannot be restored until VA is relieved of responsibility on the original loan. You can accomplish this by paying the loan in full, or by having the new purchaser do so.

Q. My GI term insurance policy lapsed a month ago because I forgot to pay my premium. Will I need a physical examination in order to reinstate it?

A. Not necessarily. You may reinstate within three months from the date of lapse without providing a physical examination, provided you are in as good health as you were when the policy lapsed, and submit a signed statement to that effect to the VA.

Q. Part of my Korean Conflict military service was spent as a cadet at West Point. Does that time count toward my eligibility for Korean GI training?

A. No. Under the law, time spent as a cadet or midshipman in one of the Service academies is not counted toward GI training eligibility.

Q. I am a "six-month enlistee" and I have just completed my active training duty. If I need VA hospital care, under what conditions could I get it?

A. For you to be eligible for VA hospitalization, you must have Mowing your lawn properly will go a long way toward making it the envy of your neighborhood. Under average conditions, mowing, fertilizing, and watering are probably the most important elements in encouraging the growth of permanent lawn grasses and discouraging undesirable weeds.

According to Agricultural Engineer Tom Skinner of the Florida Agricultural Experiment Station, mow your lawn at 2 to 2 1/2 inches; and on Pensacola Bahia and St. Augustine, adjust the height of cut at 2 to 2 1/2 inches.

All mowers can be adjusted to height of cut, but the means of adjustment depends upon the type of mower. On most rotary mowers, height of cut is fixed by adjusting the wheels in holes or slots on the mower frame. On reel-type mowers, adjustment of the roller usually determines the height of cut. Make adjustments and check them on a flat surface such as a concrete walk or floor.

Rotary mower blades require frequent sharpening. This can be done with a steel file. On reel type mowers both the cutting edge of the bedknife and the reel blades been discharged under other than dishonorable conditions for a line-of-duty disability, or you must be receiving compensation for a service-connected disability.

Whatever the height of your lawn, frequent mowing is important to avoid cutting off too much top at one time. Too heavy a cut is a shock to grass plants which weakens them and slows their growth. Also, if you remove a small amount of top growth at one time, you can save the beneficial organic matter to the soil. If clippings are heavy, however, they should be removed in order to lessen chances of smothering the grass and danger from disease problems.

Safety thought for the week: Power mowers are dangerous tools. Treat them with the "respect" they deserve. Always start rotary mowers on level ground, with your foot on top of the deck. Don't forget power mowers can throw rocks or sticks with killing force.

Remember: "The foot or the child you save may be your own."

Geologists To Lose Good Digging Spot

RUFFALO, N. Y.—Geologists will lose one of their favorite digging areas in this part of the country shortly with construction of another link in the New York State Thruway.

Plans being drawn for an expressway 4 1/2 miles extension through the 70-acre Williamsville Quarry on the outskirts of Buffalo. For years the quarry has been an attraction for "rock hounds" because of its large store of fossils.

The large trilobite ever discovered in the country was picked up in the quarry. But the insect-like animal almost was overlooked by its finder.

Irving G. Reimann, former geologist at the Buffalo Museum of Science, took a piece of Onolaga limestone rock with traces of fossil segments in it back to the museum one day nearly 20 years ago. But it gathered dust for several years.

Then one day Reimann decided to break a rock. When he split the limestone he discovered the large trilobite. Most such fossils are less than two inches in length.

Respectable 2-Party Plan Needed

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON—What this country needs more than a good five-cent cigar is a respectable two-party political system.

A respectable two-party political system would be one in which the leaders and the rank and file of each party were deeply committed to a general program of the public welfare and in which the two general programs substantially differed.

The Republican Party does not meet that standard today. Else, it would not have been necessary, recently, for President Eisenhower to remind congressional Republicans that in opposing some of his basic legislative program they also were opposing the party platform on which most of them last year sought office.

Democrats Fall Short Too
The Democratic Party doesn't meet it, either. To demonstrate that to yourself, just try to define a Democrat in terms which would cover, for example, such notable leaders of that party as Adlai E. Stevenson, Mr. Eleanor Roosevelt, Sen. Harry F. Byrd (Va.) and Mr. Wayne Morse (Ore.). It can't be done.

Enactment of civil rights legislation on which the Senate begins a filibustering debate Monday would manage the southern way of life. It also would move the United States closer to a real two-party system, respectable or not. This would be accomplished by the extension and enforcement of the right to vote among those elements of southern society which do not now, for one reason or another, exercise that right.

The Bureau of the Census calculated for the 1952 presidential election the percentage of persons of voting age who actually voted.

Southern States Lagged
It is reasonable to believe that Negroes comprise the bulk of southern non-voters. It is likely that enactment of civil rights legislation would bring them to the polls.

At that point, southerners would be likely to take a hard look at their one-party system in which a Democrat nomination for state form or federal office is about the same as election to it. Negro voters in the South might, of course, join with the Republican Party.

Could Also Become Democrats
More likely, they would be attracted by the more radical policies of northern Democrats and tend, therefore, to move into the Democratic Party in the South. That would bench the old line Democrats conservatives in several southern states and wreck the congressional coalition of conservative Republicans and southern Democrats.

Conservative southern voters would be looking then for another place to mark their ballots and they probably would wind up in the Republican Party or in a party of their own allied with the Republicans. That would be a considerable move toward a respectable two-party system in which, ultimately, Americans must distribute themselves for a show-down contest for control of the destiny of the United States.

Rob Bruce Returns From Stay In S. A.

Sixteen months in South America Rob Bruce, son of Mrs. Camilla Bruce of Sanford has just experienced such an adventure. Rob spent sixteen months in Cochabamba, Bolivia with Mr. and Mrs. Frances Leahy, Mrs. Leahy is the daughter of Fred Wilson of this city.

Rob attended the American school in Cochabamba and also the Spanish school. In the latter he did well in only math, because he could not understand the teachers instructions given in Spanish. The national sport in Bolivia is soccer, a sport about which Rob is not enthusiastic. He prefers swimming and chess, although chess would hardly develop body English.

A coke day was a treat that Rob enjoyed. He liked the food except for a soup, the contents of which he could not identify. Soup is served twice daily.

Rob may find it difficult to get back into tending chores, since Mrs. Leahy had a number of servants, "A cook, a wash lady, a gardener, a chauffeur and a maid." His mother recently remarked that she had been saving the garbage for him for two years, so he will soon forget the leisure of life in Bolivia.

Mr. Leahy is the chief engineer in a construction company that has built the Bolivian highways. The company is now constructing local roads in Cochabamba.

The Leahys flew with Rob to Lima, Peru, where they spent ten days. The trio toured the ancient Inca cities, before putting Rob on the plane for Orlando. He will enter Seminole High School as a freshman in the fall.

P. T. A. President Has Varied Interests In Sanford Community

Wife, mother, organizer, Mrs. Jacqueline Caolo is all of these things and more. In Sanford for only eight months, she is president of the P. T. A. Leader of Brownie Troop 421, and chairman of the P. T. A. Recreation Committee which she originated.

Mike Caolo is a Chief stationed at N.A.S. Sanford, who holds the singular distinction of graduating from the University of Southern Law, Memphis, Tenn. This achievement was accomplished when he Caolos were stationed in Memphis for five years.

Mike and Jackie bought a house in Sanford at 2841 Park Ave. Their five children, Susan, 4, Mark, 7, James, 10, Pat, 12, and Michael, 13, are the primary reason for Jackie's interest in the development of P. T. A. activities.

In approximately thirteen months Mike Caolo will retire from the navy and plans to stay here in Sanford, where the family is playing such an important role. Jackie was raised in Hollywood, Fla. The navy was not new to her for her father served in both wars in that branch of the service. Between conflicts he worked for the Texas Power and Light Co. and it was while helping Florida in 1924 during a hurricane disaster that the family decided to settle in Hollywood.

Mike has attended navy schools in Connecticut and California. The Caolo children were born in Rhode Island, Texas, Central America, Miami Beach and Tennessee.

Jackie attended the institute of short-course instruction in "Parent-Teacher leadership in Gainesville. This is the four day course given at the University of Florida.

When asked who they decided to remain in Sanford, Jackie replied, "I like the atmosphere of the town and the people. The children like the schools. It is a wonderful place to raise a family.

On supervision; "I think that all recreation for children should be supervised—and don't wait until they are ten years, they need it now."

While in Memphis Jackie worked in the navy nursery and kindergarten. That was where she started working with children and thoroughly enjoyed it. Before she had been too tied down with children of her own. Her last year there Jackie was the dietitian and dining room supervisor, where there were 60 to 75 small children to be fed daily.

Jackie claims that moving does not affect a child's grades in school. Her oldest child attended 6 different schools while in first grade and has always maintained an A average.

In defense of her many activities Jackie proclaims; "If you don't participate in clubs, school and church, you'll never have any place to call home."

It is self evident that the Caolo family has found the home for which they have been searching. And it is also apparent that Sanford will be unable to do without such an indispensable worker as Jackie Caolo.

The Caolos attend All Souls Catholic Church if a reader should wish to know how to find a volunteer as talented and devoted as Jackie Caolo, he may find the answer in one of Jackie's own statements; "People like to do things when they are asked."

Conning The News

By VIRGINIA CONN

Dot and Bob Heid are in Sanford visiting their former next door neighbors, the McNells, on Elm Ave. Bob will be stationed at N.A.S. center in Jacksonville, which is perfect for Dot, since her leather lives in Jax. In fact the Heids plan to buy a house near him in Orange Park.

Dot reports that she is one of the few persons who did not care for Monterey, California, while they were out there in Line School. The Heids are glad to be back in the east.

The simple life is still the best, Betty and Jim Guy, Ruth and Forrest Norvell, and Don and Polly Hubaker took children to Lake Mary recently. On the beach they built a fire and roasted corn. The children were allowed to take a dip in the moonlight. No one said very much. They just relaxed and drank in the peaceful evening.

Muriel Scott is kept running these days, or perhaps I should say swimming. Between teaching her own swimming classes and those of the Girl Scouts there is little time to stay dry. Several of Muriel's littlest students are only two years old.

Anita and Bob Haiden have flown the coop to Long Island for a three week visit with Anita's family.

Barbara Hartwig is spending her summer at the pool with the children. The Hartwigs are also blessed with a tremendous plastic pool in their back yard, and soon even little Robbie will be an expert swimmer.

Am having a frightful time this morning finding anyone at home. Wanted to get some information on the dinner party Jean and Jim Stetson had Wednesday evening. It was for Lou and St. Johnson who are leaving on Monday. Do know that bridge was played after dinner. Jean had placed the buffet table on the porch, covered with a blue denim cloth. A basket of red slippers centered the table, and Jean used her lovely white ironstone to complete the picture. The casual ease with which the Stetsons entertain makes an evening in their home doubly enjoyable.

When the Stetsons leave in August Bob and Pat Knight will take over their house.

Lou and St. Johnson will spend the weekend with Gretchen Hall in her Loch Arbor home, before departing Monday.

Have over to the Chamber of Commerce to chat with friends Camille Bruce and Georgia Hall. Met Camie's Bob at long last. With a mixture of Spanish and English he reluctantly described his stay in South America with Frances and Bill Leahy. The Leahys have no children, so handling Bob must have been an experience for them too.

Camie's twins are both away from Sanford. Pat is at the Girl Scout camp, and Dick is visiting Camie's brother, Richard Deas, in Columbia, S. C. The Deas family will come to Sanford next week, bringing Dick with them.

Adelaide Moses, Ellen Betta, and Dot Powell have an odd hobby. They have been gathering pieces of broken cement blocks from newly constructed buildings. Perhaps they are planning to build a seawall at the camp to keep out the rising tide. And if it keeps on raining maybe they will be the only dry ones in town. Second guess is filling up the pit well of the boat, so Camie won't try to bail out the water.

And as for my own comments on things around town—the park situation will soon be remedied, due to recent reports by the County Commissioners. It is only fair that the county beauty pots be kept clean and attractive, even as we build highways and new civic buildings. The man who drives his car on the highway or uses the civic building will be more inclined to live in a community where his leisure hours can be spent in appealing surroundings.

Hartack Recovering From Fall

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, Ill. — Top jockey Willie Hartack was recovering from severe cuts and bruises today, thankful things weren't any worse.

Kennels Having Supremacy Battle

Daytona Beach, Fla. 24 kennels competing at the Volusia County Kennel Club this season are having a tough battle for supremacy.

Based on the amount of purse money collected, John Prevatt has been on top since the opening day, but several other kennels are giving him a run for his money.

Frank Lane, top kennel owner two seasons ago and second last year, has been pushing Prevatt hard and was in second place until the end of last week.

Claude McGee moved into second place and Lane dropped to third. As an example of how close the benefits are in standing, McGee in second place has collected just $1731 more than Lane in the third spot.

Joe LaCroix, whose kennel was on top last season from wire to wire, is now in fourth place while W. L. Kirkpatrick occupies fifth place.

The other five in the first ten are Rushway Kennels, Ray Randle, Sunshine State, L. M. Kirkpatrick and Ollie Payne in that order.

When just wins are considered Prevatt's greyhounds have registered an even 40. That puts him right ahead of his nearest competitor, Frank Lane, whose competitors have chalked up 32 firsts.

McGee is in third place with 29 victories. McGee was high for the week ending July 6th with nine firsts. Prevatt and R. K. Hutchings were tied with eight wins each.

Rushway Kennels accounted for seven away Kennels for seven weeks and W. L. Kirkpatrick and Frank Lane for six each.

Hartack, the nation's leading rider with 185 wins to date this year was spotted in the first race at Arlington Park Wednesday.

At first it was feared he had suffered a fractured vertebra and would be sidelined "indefinitely." A later re-examination of X-rays revealed there had not been a fracture. Doctors said Hartack probably would be ready to ride again within a week.

Hartack tried to persuade the doctors to let him out by Saturday so he could ride Iron Liege in the $100,000 Arlington classic. But they apparently told the spunky veteran that he wasn't as well as all that.

Dr. Herman J. Carr, Arlington Park physician, said Hartack had a bad bruise in the area of his right kidney and abrasions on the right side of his forehead.

Hartack was thrown from Smoke-Me-Now, a 2-year-old filly. The accident occurred when Smoke-Me-Now apparently tripped on a turn, somersaulting and throwing Hartack to the outside. He was sprawled on the track while six horses passed.

Hartack, 25, a native of Black Lake, Pa. has won 135 races so far this year. His closest competitor is veteran Willie Shoemaker, now in California, who has 161 winners up through Tuesday.

Oliver, Ranson Take 1-Shot Leads In Open

KITCHENER, Ont. — The tricky, rolling Westwood golf course was causing loud moans today among the touring pros in the 48th Canadian Open, but Ed Porky Oliver, Mayfair Inn Winter Pro, and Henry Ranson weren't complaining.

The two "old pros," who between them have been playing professionally for 45 years, showed the young guard how it was done during the first round of the $25,000 Canadian Open Wednesday, posting identical scores of 33-68 to assume a one-shot lead.

But prevailing the 40-year-old Oliver and the 46-year-old Ranson was a fight of 14 other par-keers. Mike Souchak, Grossinger's, N. Y., Mike Fitchick, Mahopac, N. Y., Don Fairfield, Casey, Ill., and Masters champion Doug Ford, Mahopac, N. Y., were all one shot back.

Ten more were bunched at 70 as the slightly reduced field of 143 teed off in the second round of the 72-hole medal play on Aug. 10. Those shooting 85 or more were cut after the first round and the field will be further pared to 100 and ties today and the low 60 and ties after 34 holes.

"He had to have loaded gloves because he fought me before in Hollywood, and hit me with everything but the ringpost and never hurt me. That's why I wanted to win this one more than any other, to get revenge."

Vaughn weighed 161 1/2 to 150 for Hernandez who said he was "just groggy" when referee Frank Secora stopped the bout at 2:19 of the seventh round.

Baseball Bigwigs Face Possible Bullying Charge

WASHINGTON — Baseball's bigwigs, already under fire by congressional investigators for alleged monopolistic practices, today faced a possible "intimidation" charge.

Rep. Patrick J. Hillings, R-Calif. disclosed Wednesday that staff investigators of the House Anti-Trust Subcommittee have started a check to determine if baseball owners and officials are "intimidating" Bob Feller because of his recent critical testimony before a House committee.

GREENWOOD LAKE, N. Y. — World heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson, who defends his crown against Tommy Hurricane Jackson in New York on July 20, scaled 184 1/2 pounds after sparring six rounds Wednesday.

The disclosure came about after Feller was prevented from holding a baseball clinic for youngsters in Brooklyn Dodger-owned Wrigley Field in Los Angeles this week.

Hillings statement brought conflicting statements from all concerned, but the congressman said that if the House Anti-Trust Subcommittee finds "substantial evidence of reprisals against Feller because of his testimony, then it would ask the Department of Justice to prosecute the individuals responsible."

Minor Leagues Map Survival Plans

By LEO PETERSEN
United Press Sports Editor
ST. LOUIS — Faced with a drastic realignment because of the possible westward movement of the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants, the minor leagues started mapping plans for survival.

At a three-and-a-half hour session with baseball Commissioner Ford Frick, the heads of the nation's 10 minor league started setting up the machinery to change the minor league map as the major leagues expand.

While no concrete action was taken at the special session Frick said that "now at least we know each other's problems." But he added he didn't have any information that the Dodgers will move to Los Angeles and the Giants to San Francisco.

"Actually, we found we don't know where we are going," Frick declared. "Baseball over the next few years faces the problem of growing up with the country and putting its leagues on a modern basis."

The Pacific Coast League, the top minor circuit in the country, would be the most affected if the Dodgers and Giants — and they have until Oct. 1 to decide — should go to the West Coast.

But Frick said there was no mention of specific cities as possible new sites in the league should it lose Los Angeles and San Francisco.

which he feels sure will be established in the near future—or his proposed change in the baseball draft, which he thinks will have to be adopted if the sport is to stay outside anti-trust legislation.

Now Hear This!

JACKY FENWICK

Chris Ricker's brother, Flanders Pierce, spent the Fourth of July holiday with the Rickers, and accompanied Lloyd and the children to Georgia over last weekend. Most of Chris' family gathered in Sperson, Georgia, for a dinner on Sunday which was a tripple celebration in honor of Becky Ricker's birthday, which was on Saturday, Chris' father, Mr. K. F. Pierce's birthday, which was July 9, and also her sister, Mrs. T. J. Bennett's birthday, which is the same as Becky's, July 8. Really was a shame that Chris couldn't go along for the fun, but right now her health is more important to everyone.

We played cards at Jimi Gold's house last night. Not too many of us made it, but we had quite a card game going until the "wee small hours"! Joyce Williams, (she's still around!) Doris Shortland, Rosemary Finnegan, Chris Ricker, Jimi, and yours truly were on hand to play. Rosemary and Joyce won high scores prizes, and Chris and I won them for low score. Score-wise, I had a real rough night, and got thoroughly disgusted at meal time about half of the girls that play with us are "expecting". Jimi decided to cut down on the calorie consumption, and just served lead tea while we played. (Those that aren't "expecting" are trying to lose weight, so we have to put a stop to it someplace!) Later on, Jimi served a delicious spice cake, and I only ate ONE piece!

Guess everyone is quite pleased that the pool will now be opened week-ends for dependents. Remember, the hours are the same, except that we will be able to use it from 8:00 A.M. until 3:00 P.M. on Saturdays, from 10:00 A.M. until 3:00 P.M. on Sundays, and on Tuesday and Friday nights, from 8:00 P.M. until 9:00 P.M.

Remember too, square dancing on Monday night at Lake Golden, for all chiefs and their wives, and guests. Hear it's so much nicer outside in the cool night air.

What can I say or do to get the response I'd like from you about a new P.O. Club for all first and second class party officers? I need lots more names, and those of you who are really interested in having one, can help out by telling many of your friends about it. They might not get this paper, and may not know what's going on! And, as I've said before, if you don't have a phone, ask someone else to pass your name on to me. We have to have a good sized list before we can expect any action. So... how about it?

Going through that same old process of searching the corners of my brain (?) for anything worth writing about, and coming up with nothing!! And since my family will be hungry, and expecting to be fed in no time at all, I guess I had better do something about it.

Furniture, Rug Market Features 'Smart Styling'

HIGH POINT, N. C.—Smart styling with an air of graciousness and international inspiration and exceptional values are highlights of the 66th semi-annual formal Southern Furniture and Rug Market staged especially for the retailers of Dixie. It is reported to this newspaper by Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Goodwin of Super Trading Post.

Some 5,500 retailers of home goods visit the Summer Market for inspection of the style hits and values of 1957. Within 150 miles of High Point there is concentrated more production of wood bedroom, dining room and upholstered furniture than anywhere in the world, according to the latest U. S. Census figures. The industry has stepped up values through technological advances, retailers report.

'Elvis Made Me Cry' Says Actress

Editors Note: One of the last things Judy Tyler did before leaving Hollywood on a trip which ended in death for the actress and her husband was write a column for United Press about being Elvis Presley's leading lady in "Jailhouse Rock."

By JUDY TYLER
Written for United Press
Hollywood — Elvis Presley made me cry—and I loved every moment of it. He was full of surprises. He also made me laugh, he made work seem like fun, difficult scenes seem easy. To say the least, he left me deeply impressed.

And I'd like to add, I met Elvis, and began working with him, with a completely open mind. Not that I hadn't read about him—I think I've read almost everything ever written on the subject of Elvis Presley.

From the time I was a little girl, I've always read whatever I could find about the famous names in show business. Dad used to play trumpet with Paul Whiteman and mother is a former Zigfield girl, so I was interested right from the start.

Touched With Magic I had an open mind about Elvis, except for one thing. I was sure he was touched with magic. Without it—and don't let anybody tell you different—no one can attain such phenomenal success. So what did I learn working with him?

Well, he's a very sensitive, very emotional young man. His simple, basic American family background and training may have made him a very nice boy. He's still very close to his family, and he has deep religious feelings.

These qualities put even the most hard-bitten members of our crew on his side — men who've seen stars come and go, who are quick to recognize the real one from the phonies and equally quick to say so.

But there's something else that puts him head and shoulders above other performers of the moment. This is hard to define—it's an intangible something—the something that also has made Sinatra what he is today, singing better and recognized, too, as one of the screen's great actors.

Elvis Is An Actor
Elvis isn't that far along yet, to be sure. "Jailhouse Rock" is only his third picture, but I believe it will be a turning point in his career.

Now, that sounds funny, I know, considering the present peak of his popularity. But I do believe it will do much to establish him as an actor. Those who may have scoffed at him before will recognize some of those qualities I have been describing. I think it will show a maturation, both in his acting and his singing, that may have been overlooked previously.

His songs, for example, range from rock 'n roll numbers like "Jailhouse Rock" and "Treat Me Nice" to one with a spiritual quality and another, a ballad, which I think represents the finest singing he has done. It's called "Young and Beautiful"—and that's when he made me cry. I wept buckets every time he sang it.

So that's what I think Elvis is really like, and what he's got. As for his future, he's got that, too. With that intangible something, there can be no stopping him.

ROCK HUDSON nearly strangles his wife (Dana Wynter) unknowingly as he awakens from a nightmare, following his return from a Mau Mau hunt. The scene is from "Something of Value", M-G-M film version of Robert C. Ruark's explosive novel dealing with the Mau Mau uprisings in Kenya, East Africa, where much of the picture was filmed on location. "Something of Value" begins Sunday at the Ritz.

'Something Of Value' Stars Rock Hudson

The spellbinding excitement and fascinating backdrop of Robert Ruark's best-seller novel, "Something of Value," have been captured on the screen in M-G-M's impressive motion picture version of this explosive story of racial turmoil in East Africa. With Rock Hudson and Dana Wynter in its starring roles, the picture, photographed in part on location in Kenya, unfolds in the Kenya Colony, ranging from steaming jungles to two-mile high mountains, begins Sunday at the Ritz Theatre, as one of the year's outstanding movies. Tracing the rise of the dreaded Mau Mau organization, and its ruthless attempt to drive the white man out of Africa, the story of "Something of Value" centers on the friendship of Peter McKenzie, son of a pioneer family, and Kimani, an African native. Although they were raised almost as brothers, when Kimani is humiliated by the intolerance of the whites, he is driven to become a leader of the Mau Mau and to take the blood oath to murder and slaughter. The fearful carnage of the terrorists changes Peter McKenzie from a man with respect and sympathy for the natives to an avenging fighter determined to match terror with terror, a transformation which brings about a rift in his relations with his young wife, Holly, who implores him to take her away from Africa. But Peter cannot run away, and he plays an important role in the events which lead to the round-up of the Mau Mau leaders and the eventual quelling of their atrocities. In the end Peter tracks down the fleeing Kimani to his hiding place in the mountains and the savage struggle which culminates in Kimani's death is a symbolic climax to the conflict between white and black. Peter takes Kimani's little son back to his father's farm to what no hopes will be a new life, free from racial hatreds. Scene after scene of this starkly realistic drama holds the spectator spellbound in its depiction of the strange superstitions and witchcraft of the Africans the Mau Mau, the frenzy of their attacks on the white settlers and their final downfall. The shots of the wild beasts, an episode in which Peter saves the life of Kimani, and the frightening ceremony of the induction into the Mau Mau ranks are other thrilling highlights of this picture, which never lets up in its absorbing action. The roles are played with perception. Rock Hudson gives an admirable portrait of a tolerant man driven to become an avenger. Dana Wynter is movingly sensitive as the wife who finds her world and her marital happiness shaken asunder. Wendy Hillier has a contrasting characterization as Peter's sister, whose husband is murdered by the Mau Mau but who rises above her tragedy. Sidney Poller, remembered for "Blackboard Jungle," scores as the confused and tormented Kimani. Another powerful performance is given by Njogu, the shy and formidable Mau Mau leader, with William Marshall Robert Healy, Walter Fitzgerald, Ken Renard, Michael Pale and Ivan Dixon in prominent supporting roles. Richard Brooks directed "Something of Value" from his own screen play, with Pandro S. Berman producing. They have achieved a complete success in transferring a tremendously exciting and topical novel into an equally exciting and provocative motion picture.

Fierce Action Seen In 'Gun For Coward'

Powerful emotional crises alternate with violent brutal action to make a highly unusual but fascinating and tempestuous film of "Gun For a Coward," the Universal-International picture in color and CinemaScope, starring Fred MacMurray, Jeffrey Hunter and Janice Rule, which opens Sunday at the Movieland Ride-In Theatre. Action-packed though this picture is, its chief characters are by no means the stock figures of frontier drama. Each of these characters emerges as a genuine human being, an amalgam of conflicting and sometimes almost paradoxical motivations, and the film delves far beneath their surface actions to make them understandable and credible. In achieving this credibility, the production is benefited by some powerful and expert performances. MacMurray is magnificent as a toll-worn cattlemen who has devoted himself with almost fanatical zeal to making a paying proposition of his family's ranch after the death of his father and with equal dedication to serving as a father to his two younger brothers. The elder of these two youngsters is the subject of a vivid and memorable portrayal by Jeffrey Hunter, probably the best acting job this handsome young fellow has turned in during his six years as a top motion picture personality. This character is a stranger in the rough frontier environment of the story. An essentially gentle youth who abhors violence, his feeble efforts to adjust himself to his environment are smothered by maternal protectiveness of a doting mother. Events, including the death of his mother and his love for a girl who is also loved by his elder brother, effect a remarkable metamorphosis in this erstwhile peace-loving youth. The girl who is loved by the two brothers is played with rare delicacy and understanding by Janice Rule, who virtually deserted the screen when she starred in the original Broadway stage production of "Picnic" and returned only briefly to do this fine role in "Gun For a Coward." Excellent support is given the starring trio by Chill Wills, Dean Stockwell, former child star who gave up acting for five years and now returns at 20 to confirm the promise he showed as a little lad, and by Josephine Hutchinson, Betty Lynn and John Larch. Direction by Abner Biberman is probably the finest job he has done since this former character actor switched sides and went behind the camera several years ago. The brilliant screenplay is the work of R. Wright Campbell and the production reins were in the capable hands of William Alland.

Jeffrey Hunter is a cowboy who is considered cowardly because he doesn't believe in violence in "Gun For a Coward" opening Sunday at the Movieland Ride-In Theatre. Universal-International picture in CinemaScope and color, in which he co-stars with Fred MacMurray and Janice Rule.

Queen's Visit Will Have Influence On Fall Fashions

By GAY PAULEY United Press Staff Correspondent NEW YORK — Look for an Elizabethan era in American fashions for fall.

The visit of Britain's young monarch and her husband to the United States is three months away. But Seventh Avenue manufacturers already are busily cutting clothes with "regal simplicity" from fabrics rich enough for royalty.

Natural Waist Highlighted Suits belted at the natural waistline highlighted the Harry Fresh collection. Frenched is one of several manufacturers providing plenty of walking room in narrow suit and dress skirts, with deep box pleats, or slits.

Nettie Rosenstein featured all sorts of jackets in her suits — some of them hipbone length, others waist, some single-breasted, others double, some belted, others unbelted.

One of the most striking dresses in her collection: A vamped-up gown of clinging crepe with the neckline slashed to the waist at back. It is named "Inky."

Jane Derby's evening clothes feature skirts cut with extravagant fullness, but bodices appear they just barely are modest.

The Queen's visit will have a strong influence on the way Miss and Mrs. Average American will want to look, said Roxane, who with Cecil Beaton designed the Samuel Winston fall and winter collection.

Roxane's "fit for a queen" festooned with silk motifs in jewel tones, a $62 per yard lame, ottoman silk brocades and wools with velvet-like texture.

Monte Bano and Pruzan, pace setters in coat and suit styles, came up with the "great circle" coat-cut full enough to envelop just about any costume in a woman's wardrobe. They also showed the three-quarter length and seven-eighths length coat, the latter done in large pattern pleated tweed, in circular, barrel, straight and bias cut.

Jaycee Meeting Called To Discuss New Info Booth

Plans for the moving of the Jaycee Information Booth and the construction of a new one will be discussed at a called membership meeting of the Sanford-Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce tomorrow night.

The meeting, announced by the Jaycee's president, M. L. Raborn Jr., will be held in the commission room of the City Hall at 7:30 p. m.

Use of the park property at Fourth St. on French Ave. for the location of the proposed Jaycee Information Booth and Park was approved by the Board of Sanford City Commissioners at its last meeting.

The proposal approved by the commission would allow the construction of an Information Booth, the development of the area into a park with benches and tables for use by tourists, but would not allow the construction of a club building.

Best room facilities already on the property and the location on French Ave. has a well-kept Jaycee interest in the city's proposal. However, some of the membership is in favor of a location where club rooms for Jaycee use could be constructed.

Raborn, in announcing the meeting tomorrow night, said that it is for "the purpose of discussing and making plans for the construction of a Jaycee Building."

President Eisenhower was to be heli-ported to a secret Civil Defense command post from his Gettysburg, Pa., farm to check on activities in this post attack phase of "Operation Alert 1957."

The "attack" by supersonic enemy bombers hit all parts of the United States except Louisiana and Arkansas. Civil Defense officials in the state were too busy with real devastation left in the wake of hurricane Audrey and recent floods to participate in the test.

Officials at the control center in Jacksonville said that had the bomb blasts been real, more than 100,000 persons of the state's 4 million population would have died and 250,000 injured.

In the mock attack Friday, "enemy" bombers dropped a small A-bomb on Tallahassee and H-bombs on Miami, Jacksonville and Pinecastle Air Force Base near Orlando.

The exercise ended Sunday night. It consisted of make believe evacuations worked out on paper by civil defense directors in 12 Florida cities.

On the national scene: More than 100,000 agencies of federal, state and local governments today began the hypothetical job of putting the nation back on its feet following a make believe nuclear assault that took a staggering toll.

Some 95,000,000 persons were affected by the imaginary nuclear bombardment of 158 American cities Friday in this year's Civil Defense test. About 41 million of these were "evacuated"—the rest presumably were killed or left behind.

JACKSONVILLE — Civil defense leaders today credited Operation Alert workers with doing an excellent job, but said that if the mock atomic attack on four Florida cities had been the real thing, it would have been a grim picture of death and destruction.

Here in Sanford, A. B. Peterson Sr., Seminole County Director of Civil Defense said "The alert was to test the efficiency and adequacy of the local organizations."

The test would be of no value unless we evaluated the services and our ability to cope with the situation," he said.

The staff operated and functioned perfectly, said Peterson as he reported that each member of the Seminole County Defense Unit staff reported every two hours and personally when called.

"In view of the fact that we were not hit here," said the Seminole County Civil Defense Director, "our services were in support of Orange County where the mock nit was at Pinecastle Air Force Base."

"We received our requests from Capt. C. Q. Wright, the coordinator of this area," Peterson explained.

Communications were furnished by the Seminole County Sheriff's Department, the Florida Highway Patrol, and the Florida Fish and Game Commission.

Functioning of the staff, explained Peterson, "was pretty much a success as far as our ability to function under actual situations is concerned, we don't have the stock piles necessary to operate. Our test alert was on paper and pictures."

However, explained the Seminole County Civil Defense Director, "four plans are to stockpile necessary materials."

Peterson expressed his appreciation and pleasure over the cooperation from the local Naval Air Station "Capt. Lionel Arthur cooperated with us perfectly," he said.
