

JACKSONVILLE LOST OUT ON FARM BANK

SOUTHERN BANK LOCATED IN COLUMBIA DESPITE ALL EFFORTS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—Springfield, Mass., Baltimore, Columbia, S. C., Louisville, New Orleans, St. Louis, St. Paul, Omaha, Wichita, Kans., Houston, Texas, Berkeley, Cal., and Spokane have been chosen as locations for federal farm loan banks. The twelve districts into which the country is divided were announced by the farm loan board today as follows:

No. 1, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York and New Jersey.

No. 2, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia.

No. 3, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

No. 4, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Tennessee.

No. 5, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana.

No. 6, Illinois, Missouri and Arkansas.

No. 7, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and North Dakota.

No. 8, Iowa, Nebraska, South Dakota and Wyoming.

No. 9, Oklahoma, Kansas, Colorado and New Mexico.

No. 10, California, Nevada, Utah and Arizona.

No. 11, Washington, Oregon, Montana and Idaho.

"In determining the federal land bank districts and designating the cities where banks shall be located," the official announcement says, "the farm loan board gave careful consideration to the farm loan needs of the country. The board held public hearings in nearly every state and collected information of great value."

Every reasonable opportunity has been afforded applicant cities to furnish evidence to support their claim. More than seventy-five cities applied to be designated as the headquarters of a bank and were heard through committees and individuals.

The banks will be established as soon as practicable. Each will have a capital of $750,000. Application for loans have been pouring into the board in great volume and it is estimated that twenty times the combined capital stock could be used in making loans.

Almost the first work after approving and issuing loans will be the issue of farm loan bonds, a new form of security in this country. The bonds will be issued in denomination as small as $25, it is expected, and will bear interest at a rate of 1 per cent less than the interest rate charged farmers on their loans. What this interest rate will be has not been definitely settled. It is limited by law to a maximum of 6 per cent. It is expected that it will not exceed 5 1/2 per cent at first and subsequently may be lowered.

Loans on farm lands are limited by law to 50 per cent of the value of the land and may be payable in from five to forty years. As fast as loans are made bonds will be issued to cover them, so that at no time, under the present plan will a bank's entire capital be tied up in loans to the detriment of other applicants.

One of the tasks now confronting the board is to find experienced employees for the banks. More than 6,000 applicants for positions have been received. The appointments will be exempt from civil service regulations, but the board intends to assemble a corps of men experienced in banking.

The head of each bank will be called the registrar. They probably will be only residents of the districts involved and preferably attorneys.

The banks will be organized temporarily by the board's appointment of five directors for each bank who must reside in the district. The directors will select from their number the bank's officers. The capital stock of each bank will be open to public subscription for 30 days. If not fully subscribed the government is authorized to take the unsubscribed amount.

Through a process of having borrowers subscribe in small amounts to the capital stock it is expected that the banks soon will be virtually co-operative institutions. The permanent organization of the banks provided for nine directors, six to be selected by the associations of farm borrowers; the other three being appointed by the federal board. Their terms will be three years and they will elect officers from among their number.

Eagles Masquerade Ball

Sanford Aerie of Eagles comprising some of the best fellows in the world will give their annual masquerade ball on the night of Monday, January 1st, as is their usual custom and the public is cordially invited to attend and take in the festivities. The Eagles affairs are always very popular and the annual ball this year will be no exception to the rule. They have a fine home in the former Underwood building on Oak avenue and everything will be done for the comfort and convenience of the guests. Remember the date and get your costume ready. Good music will be furnished for the dancers and a good time is assured all who attend.

WHITE WINGS PEACE DOVE FLUTTERING

NEUTRALS AND WARRING FACTIONS ALIKE ARE TALKING OF PEACE

Several of the big papers who have inside information on the subject say that peace in Europe is very near and one of them even goes so far as to advise against investments in stocks as peace will send them to the bottom at once. There is no doubt about there being high hopes of peace in the hearts of neutrals and the warring nations alike and peace seems to be in sight. Despatches from the different countries on the subject are given below.

London, Dec. 28.—German agents have arrived at the Hague to make preliminary arrangements for the German delegates to the peace conference as suggested in the German reply to the American note, according to a news agency dispatch.

London, Dec. 28.—The prompt German answer to President Wilson's note was characterized by evening papers as evidence of Germany's sagacity to end the war. The Standard said it would be a mistake to neglect the "German peace maneuvers," and said it hoped the government would courteously and definitely reply to the President's note and then "get on with the war as energetically as possible." The Pall Mall Gazette declared Germany had summarily dismissed invitation to state terms and said that "most dignified course now would be its frank withdrawal."

Washington, Dec. 28.—The United States' next move regarding peace will not be determined until the official text of Germany's reply has been received. The President and cabinet will discuss it probably Friday. Some officials declared that the United States could do nothing further until the entente allies replied to the President's note. The official information was received that Sweden had sent a peace note to the belligerents.

Berne, Dec. 28.—Swedish diplomats have handed all belligerents and neutrals a note supporting those of President Wilson and the Swedish government, the Tageblatt announced.

Mr. and Mrs. McGuinn and family of New York state are among the new arrivals in the city and will make Sanford their future home.

ST. JOHNS DRAINAGE APPROVED

WAR DEPARTMENT ISSUES PERMIT THAT OPENS 350,000 ACRES OF LAND

Announcing the issuance by the War Department of formal permit for the reclamation project of the Upper St. Johns Drainage District, Hon. J. N. Whitner of this city, member of the board, has received word from the War Department.

This means that the government's approval of one of the most gigantic drainage projects in the country has been finally and formally given and that work may proceed under permission from the War Department.

Preliminary survey work has been in progress for some time under the direction of Isham Randolph & Co., consulting and directing engineers, of Jacksonville and Chicago, and preliminary plans have already been made for the drainage of which the St. Johns river and tributaries, the total amounting to, probably, three hundred and fifty thousand acres. These lands are now, or a large part of them, uncultivated because of frequent inundation, which menace will be removed by the completion of the drainage project.

The project is to be carried out in two stages, the first to be the drainage of land lying in Brevard, Osceola, Seminole, Orange and St. Lucie counties. In addition to the lands lying directly within the district the drainage will have a tangible effect on probably one hundred thousand acres contiguous to the district lands, making the total area benefited by the project well above three hundred and fifty thousand acres.

The cost of the completed system will run between two and a half million and three million dollars, according to estimates, the aggregate sum depending on the extent of the territory to be taken into the district in addition to that already designated as forming the drainage area. Not less than two and a half acres will be required to complete the project, as two main canals will be cut to handle the principal flow and numerous laterals and sub laterals will be brought to the main ditches. The value of property values of lands benefited by the drainage will be approximately twenty-five million dollars at the start.

The next step by the drainage movement is to apportion the benefits individual land owners will receive from the drainage of the district and to levy proportionate taxes against such lands. This work will take practically three months, it is believed at the local office of Isham Randolph & Co., money from such taxes should be available, making possible the actual start of construction work.

Bonds against the property comprising the district will be issued and sold, the tax money going into a sinking fund for the retirement of the securities. The issuance of bonds, as well as the pro-rating of benefits from the drainage and routine matters and no difficulties in the successful completion of this work as foreseen.

Plans for the district met with opposition from the local district office of the engineer corps of the army, an adverse report being made by Lieut.-Col. W. B. Ladue, then ranking as major. Numerous conferences were held by representatives of Isham Randolph & Co., Mr. VansAgnew and others interested in the district with the War Department representatives. Conferences also were held in Washington with General Bickel who, after certain modifications of the plans, agreed to issue a permit. It was the contention of the War Department that the diverting of water from the St. Johns into the Indian river brought danger of lowering the water in the upper St. Johns and thereby menacing navigation. It also was contended that there was danger of flooding the country contiguous to the Indian river with the excess runoff from the St. Johns. These objections, however, were overcome by a submission of complete plans and through numerous conferences.

AMUSEMENTS AT THE FAIR FIRST CLASS

VISITORS TO SEMINOLE FAIR WILL BE WELL ENTERTAINED

Prospects are bright for the Seminole County Fair which is to be held at Sanford February 5th, 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10th. New exhibits are being contracted daily and a record breaking crowd is expected.

One of the departments to which the management is paying much attention is the amusement features and from present indications the largest, cleanest and best collection of shows ever gathered in Central Florida will be seen on the Midway at the Fair.

The Fair Association has contracted with the Krause Greater Shows, one of the largest touring amusement companies in the United States, to furnish the shows and amusement attractions. The Krause shows have been successful for the past twelve years for the reason a large number of their attractions and some to Sanford from a large number of successful fairs, highly endorsed by press and public wherever they have exhibited in the past.

There will be no objectionable features tolerated. The dancing girls and the "men only" shows will be conspicuous by their absence no gambling will be permitted and all attractions will be clean and moral catering to ladies and children as well as gentlemen.

There will be a number of free attractions presented by the company, including Dare Devil Klein who will dive from the top of a ladder ninety feet high into a small tank containing only four feet of water. Before his daring and sensational high dive Dare Devil Klein will present an exhibition in trick and fancy diving and sensational swimming stunts worth coming miles to see.

Dare Devil Blundin will present a sensational and death defying performance on the high wire, mounted on a slender thread sixty feet in the air. This daring performer will flirt with death in a manner to make all spectators hold their breath in suspense at his sensational feats.

And the midway is to be a large and complete one with shows and attractions to please both sexes, all ages and all classes.

There will be a Human Shotgunning contest, a mile a minute, where during motor races, a mile a minute, the perpendicular walls of an upright track, performing tricks of fancy riding, while whirling at express train speed around the upright track.

How they can keep their machines from dropping to the ground is a puzzle to all beholders and to watch them ride is a thrill that the observer will remember as long as he or she may live. This is the newest and most successful of all modern amusements.

The big dog and pony circus will please young and old. Here are seen quadrupeds who do everything but talk. Dog performers who know their A. B. C's, can count and spell; ponies who march and drill like regular soldiers and our old friend, "Maud, the Mule." The management of this attraction offers five ($5.00) dollars per minute to anyone who can ride Maud and to stay on her back earns five dollars.

The big circus side show is another feature. Here are to be seen all the freaks, wonders and curiosities. The fat woman, the living skeleton, the strong man, the giant, the dwarfs and many other strange and curious people make this tent a wonderland and those who visit never forget the many strange forms and freaks in which Mother Nature displays herself at this attraction.

The Old Plantation with its mirth-provoking, laughter inciting darkies is another attraction. Here the sweetest of singers, the cleverest of dancers and the funniest of comedians from Nature's own entertainers, the colored race, combine to present one solid hour of music, mirth and merriment. The latest songs, the newest jokes and the most difficult dances are presented by an array of artists equipped by Nature to get the most fun and the greatest amount of entertainment from them.

A laugh a minute is promised to all who attend this attraction.

The merry-go-round is one of the largest and most elaborate on the road and is lighted by hundreds of electric lights of every color of the rainbow, and the various colors, the dancing and jumping horses and animals and the music of the orchestra combine to make a ride on it a pleasure.

The Days of '49 is a reproduction of a western mining camp during the boom days when gold was discovered, and the cowboys and cowgirls, the bar dogs, the dance hall and the creepy music are all there. Even the famous Alkali Ike in picturesque costume helps to make the picture perfect.

The Katzenjammer Kastle is the home of the famous Katzenjammer twins—Hans and Fritz—and is an attraction for laughing purposes only. One trip through this house of fun is a sure cure for the blues; it guaranteed to kill the healthiest frown, and will drive the wrinkles of dull care from the face of a confirmed misanthrope.

Tornado in Arkansas
Little Rock, Dec. 28.—Ten known dead and a score of others may have perished in a tornado which swept central Arkansas yesterday. Wide communication at some points was severed. It may be a day or two before the exact loss is known.

Allderman Dungee returned yesterday from Dunedin where he and Mrs. Dungee spent Christmas. Mrs. Dungee will remain for a few days with home folks.

BASKET BALL LAST NIGHT GREAT GAME

SANFORD BOYS WERE TOO STRONG FOR ORLANDO TOURISTS

ORLANDOUGHS came over last night to play the local basketball team, and while they failed to bring any Fleischman's yeast with them, the DOUGH failed to rise and also the score failed to rise to any extent. The local boys loaded up on CELERY and what they did to those Orlando lads was a plenty.

The B. S. A. of Sanford smothered the visiting team to such an extent that it required two miles to pull them out of the mud. At the end of the game the official score read 19 to 8 in favor of the locals.

This was by far the prettiest exhibition ever seen in this city, and the Parish House failed to hold all that came in to see what Seminole county had as far as REAL LOCAL STUFF is concerned.

All of the local players cut up like an infantile paralysis germ would in an orphan asylum, and that's good and covering some territory.

Harold Washburn, playing left guard played excellent and at no time could you have seen where the old boy was asleep on the job.

Robie Laing, the peerless center threw three field goals and his accuracy on free goals is unquestioned as he had six of these to his credit. Kanner threw five free goals and one field goal that sums up the number of points which was made by the locals.

Hawkins, the genial captain administered what sporting editors call ruff treatment to the opposition.

Allan Jones, the midget of the team must not be overlooked for his guarding was as good as any and his knowledge of the game was better than a whole lot of them present.

Sheils, the coach of the team went in the last quarter and to the amazement of those present displayed a game that is only seen in rare times and at very few places.

If Willima Jennings Bryan, the famous Prince of Peace Advocate could have attended this game last night, he would have thought that another war was on in this country. There's no getting around it Sanford likes Orlando just about as well as Kaiser Bill loves King George.

In all athletic lines it seems as if one side or another are always dissatisfied. As far as the writer is concerned this is all right, but the people that attend these games don't approve of these things.

Red Davis.

TRAINING IN BIBLE FOR BAPTISTS

BAPTIST TEMPLE WILL BE SCENE OF GREAT ACTIVITY

In order that the people of the Seminole Baptist Association and those within the district covered by such association may have an opportunity of meeting together, having a grand old time and learning something of benefit to themselves, and learning great things in connection with the Bible and its characters and teachings, the trustees of the Association have arranged to hold the Fourth Annual Training School at Sanford beginning with the week of January 1st.

John D. Jinkins has been elected secretary of the Association and to him fell the duty and honor of arranging this week of learning, and great credit should be given Mr. Jinkins for the magnificent program that has been arranged for the training school.

The faculty arranged for the training school is composed of the following widely known men: Messrs. Arthur Flake, the Southern Baptist Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. Inspector, W. W. Williah, the state secretary of Baptist Sunday schools and B. Y. P. U. Societies, and Geo. Hyman, pastor of the Baptist church of Sanford. The faculty will each have charge of a special class and are all considered to be past masters in the line which they will teach.

The school will begin every evening at six o'clock and will last until nine o'clock—a feature of the school is the fact that there will be supper served each evening entitled "Build Your Physique Up" which is served free at the church, this supper will be served each evening with a specially prepared toast by some of our leading men and should be the means of attracting many to the training school.

The cost to take this course is nothing whatever—except a few cents for books, pencil and pads, and every one of Sanford's folks should avail themselves of this wonderful opportunity to take advantage of such a course.

INSTALLATION SERVICES

At Methodist Church Next Sunday
The members of this church are requested to make an extra effort to be present at the services next Sunday morning. The pastor by special request will preach on "Church Finances" at 11 o'clock. Those members not able to be present at the morning worship will please remain at home on Sunday afternoon from 2 to 4 o'clock as some member of the Board of Stewards will call at your home to speak to you about matter of vital interest to you and your church.

The evening worship will be given over to the installation of the of the church and missionary society. All officers and members are requested to be present.

Watch night services will be held consisting of songs, talks and prayers. These services will be held all over the United States in the Methodist churches. This request comes from the commissioners of the Methodist churches both north and south that they may be wisely guided in their deliberations on the matter of unification of the Methodist churches.

All are welcome in the services. Strangers specially invited.

Congregational Church

A Chief Is Among Ye Taking Notes and Faith, "He'll Print 'em" So Says Saunterer.

The Optimist
Never known a thing so bad
But what somehow I could be glad
It wasn't worse;
Always when my troubles come

And I'm sitting, sick and dumb,
About to curse,
Somebody whistles, jogging by,
That is ten times worse off than I.

Lord, when I think about them all,
Most of my troubles here are small.

And petty things:
I don't believe I really know
Save one or two real bits of woe
Life's bitter stings.
For I can bear and walk and see
And health is still a part of me.

Cripples and blind men and insane
And invalids on beds of pain
Are all about:

I daily meet the deaf and dumb
And I that still can talk am dumb
And year a pout,
And now a smiler passes by
That is ten times worse off than I.

Each day of self I'm more ashamed,
To think with rage I am inflamed.
When plans go wrong:
So many joys belong to me
My life upon this earth should be
One roused of song.
Why should I now my woes rehearse
When many near me suffer worse?

The men think women are strange creatures sometimes and no doubt the women have their own ideas about us men. For instance the women never understand why men hate to go shopping on Saturday nights and while the women discuss dress and the latest gossip father warms his heels on the outside of the store and gets along the best he can. The wife wonders at it from time to time and there are more or less family jars about this shopping business, but if more women would investigate the matter they would let father out of the shopping trip always. If there is one thing that gets a man's goat it is shopping and while they love to make the children happy at Christmas they certainly do hate to do the shopping. The Indianapolis News strikes the keynote in the following:

"The car was well filled with women who had neglected the oft repeated warning to shop early. You could guess it by their plump purses and limp string shopping bags, and you could guess also that on the return trip the purses would be limp and the shopping bags limp to the bursting point. It was a jolly, friendly crowd, and the car was filled with their cheerful chatter.

"I'm going to put in the whole day and just take my time for it," a dear, motherly looking woman announced to her seat mate. "Pa said said for me to go and he'd just stay home and keep up the fires. I left his dinner for him. I cooked spare ribs and set the dish on the water tank in the kitchen. The water was boiling, so they'll stay good and hot." Lucky pa! With spare ribs for dinner. Not the sand papered variety, either, but real, country spare ribs, with real meat on them, brown, juicy spare ribs, kept hot for his dinner. Maybe pa fooled her, making her think it was a sacrifice, giving up the Christmas shopping trip and stay home to keep up the fires. But he couldn't fool everybody. Whoever saw a real man who craved to go shopping? If the motherly woman had been listening she might have caught some side lights on this subject, for the pretty, golden haired woman was telling her companion that her husband had said desperately: "I've walked squares, looking in shop windows, and I can't see anything suitable for any one." And farther back in the car, the big man with the Roman nose was airing his views audibly: "I just won't get out and buy things this year. People go wild over their buying. Junk, I call it—Christmas junk! Whoever heard of anyone getting the things he really wanted! Folks just buy and buy, and dump the stuff on other folks—just junk!"

Perhaps pa had tried it some time—shopping on a drear December day—and knew what it was all like. Now a woman can put up with a lot of discomfort just for the joy of spending money—but a man! even a woman gets fagged but by night. On the streets, the biting winds whipped her skirts about her, pushed her hat over one eye, helps the snow and soot to ruin her complexion and disposition. When she gets to the big shops the hateful whirling doors nip at her heels like spiteful curs, and the crowding elevators crush her Christmas spirit into mighty small quarters. No doubt the motherly looking woman had a hard day of it, not being accustomed to the city and its ways, and all the time, there was pa, out in the quiet, comfortable farmhouse, with nothing to do between the morning feeding time and the late afternoon chores, except keep up fires and read the daily paper which the rural carrier left at the gate. Add spare ribs for dinner!

You can guess at the dishes which kept the spare ribs company on that table. He could make coffee, if he liked, and have real country cream in it. And there'd be plenty of good bread and country butter, and four kinds of preserves or jams, and maybe a dish of sauerkraut! And, of course there would be a generous wedge of pie, and maybe doughnuts, just to fill in around the corners. It wasn't fair for pa to say resignedly: "I'll just stay home and keep up the fires." Wise old scamp! As you drag your tired feet homeward, you almost envy him, snug and warm—eating spare ribs. But, after all, would you have missed it? Not, for all the spare ribs in the world, would you miss the round of Christmas shopping—if you're a woman—but it certainly was nice for pa, being just a man. Indianapolis News.

LITTER IS IMPORTANT

Quite Essential in Well-Regulated Poultry House.

No Excuse for Not Providing Fowls With This Needed Article—Chopped Straw Acts as Absorbent Under the Roosts.

It will not do to underestimate the importance attached to litter in the poultry business. It is even more essential in a well-regulated poultry house than a carpet is in the modern farm home. It does not take the place of a carpet, but it answers as such for the poultry and is more. It is a good thing in a poultry house, summer or winter. We have been in poultry houses where litter was as scarce as ice-cream on an autumn noonday, says a writer in an exchange. Such houses are usually as bare of convenience as the floor is bare of litter. It pays to have a large quantity, and the supply should be liberal enough so it can be changed at least once a week. By this means the house may be kept sweet and clean, and scratching the litter will afford exercise so much needed by fowls when kept inclosed.

On every farm there is an abundance of chaff and straw and there is no excuse for not providing the poultry house with this needed article. The best litter is chopped straw. It acts as an absorbent under the roosts and as a receptacle in other parts for the grain that is thrown to the poultry. In winter chickens should be made to scratch for every grain they obtain. For every grain they should give a peck. Chaff, buckwheat hulls, or almost anything of that nature will answer well for litter. We have seen poultry houses littered with shredded fodder. One more good thing about litter is that it helps keep the feet of fowls warm in winter.

RETARDS WINTER EGG LAYING

Sudden Freezing of Hen's Comb Will Shut Off Egg Supply—Good Treatment Recommended.

Freezing of the hen's comb will retard egg laying. Freezing of the feet of both male and female means loss of fertility in the spring. Often the sudden freezing of the combs of hens that have made a good start at laying will shut off all laying by them for the rest of the winter. Frozen or nipped combs should be looked for early and the comb dipped in ice-cold water or packed with snow. Afterward apply glycerin and some healing salve.

Is Grammar Essential?
Sometimes it is used that formal grammar teaches children to write and speak correctly; but as all Americans have studied formal grammar, including newspaper reporters and saleswomen, there would appear to be no guaranty that formal grammar study leads to correct habits of speech. On the other hand, I once knew a school where for 14 years not a minute was spent on formal grammar and like the worm who does not miss a slice or two, no one ever knew the difference.—Abraham Flexner, in the Atlantic.

LARGE SUM FOR CANKER IN STATES

GOVERNMENT WILL APPROPRIATE IN CONJUNCTION WITH STATES

Washington, Dec. 25—Work of further eradicating the citrus canker will go forward as a result of recommendations recently made by David F. Houston, secretary of agriculture, to Congress, and the provisions in the present agricultural appropriation bill, just reported for an additional sum for this purpose.

What I Wish I Had Known

In a church meeting at Cleveland recently the speaker gave the replies of nineteen men to the questions: "What I Wish I Had Known Before I Was Twenty-One," which was interesting enough to pass on. One man said: "I wish I had known what I was going to do for a living."

The Plea of Bob White

Please, farmer friend, may I speak before you shoot? I am Bob White. It is my cheery whistle that comes to you through the ghost-gray mist of the morning.

How many bugs and beetles and weevil seeds do I eat?

Well, I wonder! I cannot say, but here is what science says: "Eighty-five different weed seeds make up in part Bob White's bill of fare."

CHRISTMAS TRADE GOOD IN SANFORD

MERCHANTS WELL SATISFIED WITH RESULT OF HOLIDAY TRADE

Christmas Week was a good one in Sanford. For many days the streets have been packed with an eager crowd of buyers and they bought early, thus relieving the strain somewhat on Saturday before Christmas.

Millions in Florida Crops

Florida's corn crop this year, based on the government crop estimate for December 15, just issued, is worth $2,580,000 more than the crop of last year, having shown an increase in yield of 600,000 bushels and an advance in price of 17 cents a bushel.

the county poor farm near Kissimmee and to purchase a site for a combined county hospital and farm in a more desirable locality.

Just at present there is not much being shipped from Bartow. Lettuce is moving slowly, a few cars a day, with a few eggplant and peppers going forward. The largest acreage in this neighborhood is cabbage and the outlook is for a good crop.

Lake county is taking the lead in this part of the state in the eradication of the cattle tick. This means everything to the coming industry, and is most encouraging news to the cattle producer. Vats will be installed and quarantine declared.

Mr. E. O. Willets of Kokomo Indiana has purchased through the Florida Good Homes Company, a tract of eighty acres near Orlando, and will make this one of the most attractive points in the county.

Almost every kind of winter vegetables are now being shipped from Fort Lauderdale. The weather has been good and the crops are in a fine condition.

Beans, peppers, eggplant and potatoes are now being shipped from the Davis district, and a little later there will be celery, lettuce, peas, cabbage and tomatoes.

Peppers and beans are starting to move from Stuart. Peppers recently sold as high as three dollars. Quite a large acreage of potatoes and cabbage has been planted.

Plans for the new Riverside school building in Jacksonville have been approved by the county board of public instruction, and work will begin at once. The building is to cost $100,000.

Plans are under way for the organization of a stock company by the citizens of Phoenix Park, Cummings Mill and Panama Park to furnish electric light and power to those sections of Duval county.

The taxpayers of the West Palm Beach School District recently, by a vote of 5 to 1, voted to construct 100 worth of bonds to construct and equip athletic playgrounds and an agricultural farm for the pupils of the West Palm Beach School.

It is estimated that nearly 300,000 crates of fruit and vegetables will be shipped from the Lake Okeechobee section this winter. Arrangements are being made to handle the greater part of this produce through the West Palm Beach Canal.

There is a great deal more interest being taken in diversity of crops around Plant City this season than at any time previously, while tomatoes will rank as before, the main crop. The cabbage crop is receding a lot of attention and a large acreage will be planted.

Pasture Hogs the Whole Winter. It is not such a difficult matter to run your hogs on pasture every month of the year if you know what to plant to provide the pasture.

The figures given in the table are based on average temperature and average soil with sufficient moisture to grow the crops. The table is reliable and has been followed by hog raisers with marked success.

This bulletin, known as No. 7 or Hog Pastures and Feeds is printed on a heavy card suitable for tacking it up in a handy place. A copy of the bulletin may be had free on application to the Extension Division, University of Florida, Gainesville, Fla.

Mr. Dutton as Chaperone. Yesterday afternoon a number of children and older folks too decided to take a boat ride on the lake and immediately they began to look about for a boat and a chaperone—rather a skipper, and Mr. Dutton the captain of the "Jolly-er" was the skipper they first met, and when the proposition was placed before Mr. Dutton he, with his usual kind, good natured "Sure I will" became at once the chaperone of the day, and even insisted on throwing in his yellow bus to go out and gather up the ones that were to take part in the sailing brigade.

The different lodges of the city contributed $46 in cash and many business firms contributed cash and merchandise and the spirit of giving was in the air several weeks before Christmas.

The community tree was a success in many ways. Let us bear in mind all through the year that our gifts should be directed toward a larger tree filled with gifts next year and let the amounts be doubled.

It is better to give than to receive and the Sanford spirit has always been to give.

There were eleven families supplied with baskets of food and suitable gifts yesterday, a box was sent to the Children's Home at Jacksonville and one to the Orphanage at Enterprise and there are several families that will be supplied today that were overlooked yesterday.

This is the practical side of the community tree and one that the audience knows nothing about. The gifts are not made with the idea that it will ever be made known but the needy of our community will be supplied every year from the community tree.

COMMUNITY TREE WAS BIG SUCCESS

LARGE SUM WAS GIVEN TO CHARITY AND EXERCISES WERE GOOD

Sanford's first community Christmas tree was a success. One of the largest crowds that has congregated in the park in many years was out last night between the hours of five and six to witness the first community tree and gift giving.

The tree was placed near the band stand and was beautifully decorated and resplendent with candles. The exercises started with the various Sunday schools entering the four corners of the park and when all had reached the band stand uniting in song, Dr. Brownlee of the Presbyterian, invoked the divine blessing on the exercises and after the song of America by the children, Dr. Davidson of the Congregational church gave a short address explaining the community Christmas tree, its origin and how it is celebrated in the large cities of America.

The ready response with which the ladies of the Civic committee of the Woman's Club met by every one in Sanford made the affair a success for the real benefit of the community tree was not demonstrated at the band stand.

AMONG THE THEATRES

Chit-Chat of the Play Houses in Sanford

Charles Dickens' "Oliver Twist" with Marie Doro

In presenting Marie Doro in the photodramatic version of Charles Dickens' famous story, "Oliver Twist," which will be the Paramount attraction at the Star Tonight, Friday, the Jesse L. Lasky Company has utilized its great resources, not only in making the story true to detail, but historically accurate.

Charles Dickens is chiefly noted for his wonderful drawing of characters and present them on the screen was one of the Lasky Company's most difficult tasks. That Marie Doro was an ideal Oliver is self-evident, as she is not only the character described by Dickens when arrayed in boys' clothing, but was hailed throughout the country as a perfect Oliver when she appeared in the all-star revival of the famous play on the speaking stage a few years ago.

Hobart Bosworth, noted for his work in "The Sea Wolf" and other important photodramatic productions is an ideal Bill Sikes. Tully Marshall one of the cleverest of character actors, wonderfully portrays the part of Fagin. Raymond Hatton, famous for his work in crook parts, is the ideal Artful Dodger. Elsie Jane Wilson, who scored such a pronounced success in support of Geraldine Farrar in "Temptation," is cast as Nancy Sikes, and good old Mr. Broynlow, Oliver's benefactor has been placed in the capable hands of James Neill.

These principal members of the organization, with Director James Young, realizing that they were to have the honor of appearing in the presentation of the famous author's work, which will live as long as his written word made a profound study of their respective characters and relations to each other. Libraries, both public and private were ransacked by the Lasky Company, which even sent to England for the first edition of the author's works illustrated with the original Cruikshank drawings. The story of Oliver Twist is loved and remembered by every man, woman and child. In selecting the characters for the minor types, Director Young has almost outdone Dickens himself in producing the type of his pen for this production. The story has been given most elaborate attention to detail and the English atmosphere of that period most admirably preserved. The photography is of the usual Lasky excellence.

William S. Hart in "The Patriot"

With the present crisis in Mexico and the ceaseless agitation for preparedness, the thesis of this story, which upholds the sentiment of "America First," will attract considerable attention. The story revolves about a red-blooded patriotic Yankee who settled on Government property. Through the machinations of some gamblers and the connivance of land thieves his property is taken away from him. In vain he tries to get Uncle Sam to help him. In a moment of revolution he curses his aggressors and his native land. He alligns himself with the forces against it and organizes a band of Mexican outlaws. Just as he is about to make an attack on an unprotected American town, he realizes that he is about to shed the blood of his own flesh and blood. The dying embers of his patriotic soul are rekindled. Lyric Tonight.

Darkest Just Before Dawn.

When you get in a tight place and everything goes against you until it seems as if you cannot hold on a minute longer—never give up; for that is just the place and the time that the tide will turn.—Harriet Beecher Stowe.

Washing and Automobiling.

A speaker before the convention of the National Educational association in New York asserted that if the men had to do the washing for a week there would be more washing machines than automobiles bought. This would also be quite as true if the women who do the washing had anything to say on the subject.—Washington Herald.

Roses That Soon Fade.

The roses of pleasure seldom last long enough to adorn the brow of him who plucks them; for they are the only roses which do not retain their sweetness after they have lost their beauty.—Hannah More.

Daily Thought.

A tactful man can pull a stinger from a bee without getting stung.—G. H. Lorimer.

Worth While Quotation.

"Everyone is the son of his own works."—Selected.

Would Wait Awhile.

"Mrs. Grant has a new baby at her house. Wouldn't you like to see it?" Elmer, who had been out seeing a litter of day-old kittens, hesitated. "Guess I'll wait till it gets its eyes open."

Just the Thing.

The way of the transgressor is hard, but that seems to make the motoring all the better.

Origin of "Furlong"

Furlong was at first a furrow long, or the distance that a pair of oxen would plow in half an hour.

The Hard Task.

Many a man who prides himself on his physical strength cannot even hold his tongue.—Judge.

Why We Save You Money

Because of our thirty years of experience in building roads, we know just what it takes to build a road that will last. We use the best materials, and we employ the best workmen. We guarantee the best. Because of modern machinery and processes, we are able to build roads that will last longer than any other roads. We save you money by building roads that will last longer than any other roads. We save you money by building roads that will last longer than any other roads. We save you money by building roads that will last longer than any other roads.

Standardizing the Street Suit

A movement has recently been launched by women of affairs, whose opinions are worth while, to standardize the street suit. For smart women, a movement was not needed. They may be relied upon to be uniformly garbed in rather plain, beautifully shaped and faultlessly made tailored suits when their affairs make it necessary for them to walk in the streets. For them the street-suit has been standardized for years. It is inconspicuous as to color and conservative as to style, made to get about in when conducting the ordinary every-day business of life.

But in order that our streets may make a better showing of tastefully dressed women it will be necessary to establish a standard for the woman who may be in doubt as to what she should wear, and to call her attention to it.

The first consideration is that women are getting together more than ever before in clubs and other organizations, in the interest of progress. If they establish the custom of wearing the tailored suit for almost any occasion, no woman will stay at home because she lacks the proper dress. Such an attitude will cease to exist. A second consideration, of great importance, lies in the fact that the street is not the place for conspicuous clothes. An ugly inference is certain to be drawn when any woman dresses so as to attract everyone's attention on the streets. A woman dressed in a conspicuous manner will not reduce us to a lifeless monotony in suits, because there is endless room for variety in making. The smart suit shown in the picture is an illustration. It is a smooth-faced cloth in a dark mixture, with brown predominating. When the plain and beautifully tailored coat is off, one discovers a trim skirt with an entirely new management of the belt and actual pockets, patterned after the saddle-bag pockets which have been one of the pretty fancies of fashion. But these are stitched flat to the skirt instead of hanging free. The handsome costume blouse is of brown chiffon over lace with a vest of delicate brocade. For another occasion a plain tailored blouse might be worn. This is the sort of suit that it is proper to wear for church and for the street, the two places in which one woman should never seem to try to outshine any other.

In the Galaxy of Luxuries

One might as well try to count the stars as to tell of the innumerable styles in bags that have come to the front in fashion's parade. They are here in anticipation of the holidays, and promise to entice more money out of shoppers than any other one article in a whole galaxy of luxurious things. They are expensive luxuries, but every one concedes their right to be. Handsome beaded bags, in which the background and decorations are entirely of small beads, bring sometimes a hundred dollars; and twenty dollars is a modest price for this particular kind of bag. Others of velvet, embroidered with steel beads, range between five and twenty-five dollars, with few that are less. There are bags partly covered with bead patterns on a background of velvet, and many showing combinations of two fabrics, as velvet and brocade or velvet and satin.

They are all made of rich materials, but it is the tedious handwork involved that brings the high price. The practiced needleworker who can do this for herself can save a surprisingly large part of the cost of these sumptuous accessories.

In the picture a bag and hat to match and two separate bags are shown. The hat has a wide brim of gold lace and a crown covered with a piece of Paisley. The brim edge is bound with seal, and a single peacock feather poses the glorious colorings of nature against a background rich enough to correspond with it. The lining is of Paisley with tassel of fur tied with a small bow of black satin ribbon like that in the hangers.

A fairly simple bag of black velvet and satin is wrought with a lattice-work pattern in small steel beads. Small apples, made of satin, are suspended at the bottom, set in a little frill of velvet. They are calculated to tempt the daughters of Eve into extravagance. A more elaborate bag is decorated with beads at the top and bottom in wide border and lattice pattern, and a narrower pattern along the sides. It closes with steel rings, and a beaded hanger is strung through them.

Accessories for the Tailored Suit

To smarten the tailored suit these dainty accessories are designed. They consist of a jabot and collar, vestee and two cuffs and collar sets.

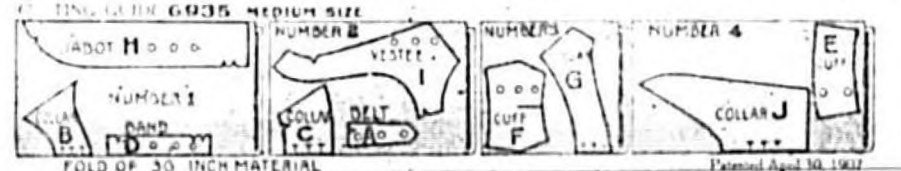

This season it is the little things that count in the makeup of a tailored suit and they count more than ever. With the vestee, collar and cuff set shown here, the woman who must make a limited wardrobe meet the maximum of service will find herself amply supplied for her needs. The first collar is finished in front with a jabot of self material, which is gathered to a straight band. The vestee may be hemstitched or have the collar pieced. It is very pretty in a plain cloth or crepe. The vestee is suitable to development in fabric, for a cloth or brocade. It has a turn-down collar, is belted in back and adjusted to fit the waist. The collar and cuff set is smart in organza, linen, white broadcloth or silk and the cuffs are trimmed with fancy buttons. Collar number 4, as illustrated

4, 3/4 yard 3-inch cloth. There is a separate guide for each design and these should be studied well before any attempt is made to cut the materials. Set No. 1 has the collar placed on the lengthwise end of the goods and the band and jabot on lengthwise threads.

In the case of the vestee, the collar is placed on the lengthwise end of the goods and the band and jabot on a lengthwise thread of the material.

Fold the organza in half to get set No. 3 and place the cuff into position first, on a lengthwise thread, after which the collar is laid on the lengthwise fold.

The collar in set No. 4 is laid on the lengthwise fold, while the cuffs are placed to the right of it on a

Draped Skirt of Novel Style

Very novel in style is this two-piece draped skirt, which is gathered and has an extension on the right half that is drawn around toward the waistline closing at the right side. The foundation consists of a two-piece yoke attached to a lace skirt.

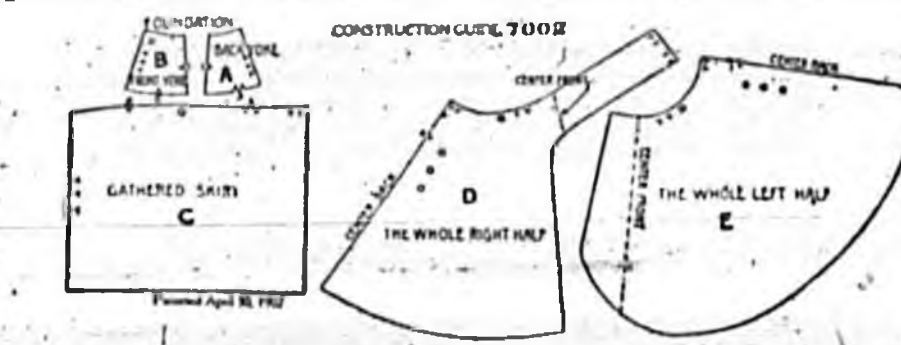

Satin and lace founcing could not be combined more effectively than after the model of this two-piece draped skirt. The extension at the upper part of the right half is wrapped around the body and closed at the right side. The foundation consists of a two-piece yoke, which closes at the right side, with attached one-piece gathered skirt suitable for founcing, but having a straight lower edge. In medium size the skirt requires 2 1/2 yards bouclé 32 inches wide, with 2 1/2 yards 36-inch satin and 3/4 yard 2 1/2-inch lining for the foundation gares.

The foundation is made first, of course. To do this, close the left side seam of yokes as notched and finish right side edges for closing. Close back seam of skirt, gather upper edge between double "TT" perforations, then turn hem at lower edge. Sew skirt to yoke, notches and center-fronts and center-backs even, large "O" perforation at upper edge of skirt at side seam. If flouncing is used for the skirt, of course, there will be no hem to turn.

Now, close the center-back seam of the draped skirt, notches even. Gather upper edge and the extension in right half, between double "TT" perforations; stitch tape about 3/8 inches long under gathers in extension drawing gathers to fit. The center-front is indicated by line of small "o" perforations in right and left half of skirt. Adjust skirt to position on foundation, center-fronts and center-backs even; attach upper edges together, bring the large "O" perforation at upper edge of skirt to side seam of yoke and bring the double "TT" perforations near front edge of right half to small "o" perforation at upper edge of front yoke. Bring the extension in right half around the waist, and fasten on right side, over the front edge of left half.

This skirt is also very handsome carried out in chiffon velvet and lace.

Pictorial Review Skirt No. 7002. Sizes 22 to 32 inches waist. Price, 20 cents.

Christmas at Holy Cross Church
The services for Sunday will be, of course, for Advent as Christmas is not until Monday. The list is:
For Sunday:
Early Celebration, 7:30 a. m.
Sunday School, 9:45 a. m.
Morning Service, 11 a. m.
First Vespers of Christmas, 7 p. m.

Christmas Day, Monday, Dec. 25th, the hours for services are:
Early Celebration, 7:30 a. m.
Masses, 9 a. m.
Choral Celebration, 10:15 a. m.

Those who will assist in decorating the church are asked to come to the church at 2:30 p. m. on Sunday. The Senior Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew will be there.

The annual Christmas tree and party for the children of Holy Cross parish will be held in the Parish House on Holy Innocents' Day, Dec. 28th (Thursday) at 7 o'clock. The children of the parish will bring their gifts for children less favored than themselves. This has always been done. The Senior Chapter of St. Andrew has already bountifully supplied certain ones with Christmas cheer and the Junior lads also extend happiness to others. The work goes quietly on but there is a surprising amount given the whole year through, as well as at Christmas.

Office in Herald Building Telephone No. 148

The Sanford Herald's Christmas edition, published on last Tuesday, was an excellent number comprising thirty-six pages all filled with interesting articles, news, advertisements and special features. The Herald is issued twice a week and is recognized as a power for good in its section. The special edition is entirely creditable to Sanford and the Herald office and will be widely circulated and produce a favorable impression wherever received.—Times-Union.

WITH THE BIG ONES

The high cost of paper did not prevent the Tampa Tribune, the Tampa Times and the Sanford Herald from getting out Christmas numbers that not only displayed the merits of the writers on these valuable papers, but paid tribute to the business management and the mechanical forces as well as to the business acumen of their patrons. They were editions that the citizens of each community might point to with unguessed pride and carry messages to the outside world of the progressive spirit of the people of the cities in which these newspapers are regularly published. The beneficiaries these communities will receive from these editions are not transitory but will continue for years to come. They display a community spirit the homeseeker, investor and tourist desire to find.—Manatee Record.

SLIGHTED SEMINOLE COUNTY

The Tampa Times Christmas edition of many pages and full of good matter had among other articles upon the good roads of Florida and in the list of counties Seminole and Sanford was left out completely. All the counties that voted bonds for good roads were in the list except Seminole. This county, the pioneer county in bonding for good roads and that now has a bond issue of $400,000 for good brick highways and never a mention of it in the table. In the descriptive matter attention was called to the good roads from DeLand to Orlan-do and Kissimmee and no mention made of SANFORD on the route whatever. Whoever wrote that article was a blockhead or willfully left our county without mention. Seminole county was the first county in Florida to organize a special road district and bond for $200,000 for brick roads and afterward bonded for $250,000 additional, combining the bond issues in the grand total of $450,000 and Sem-Inole county is one of the youngest and one of the smallest in area in the state.

Those big state papers that profess to know so much should pay some attention to their figures and when compiling a list of progressive counties in Florida remember that in everything Seminole leads the procession.

We are the people that put the "way" in highway and we want the Tampa Times and all the rest of the highbrows to distinctly understand it.

THE PROPER SCHOOL SYSTEM

The Herald has often pointed with pride to the Sanford school system, especially the idea of having two primary schools, one on the east side and one on the west side of the city where the little tots can be near the school and have a school of their very own. The following editorial from the Bartow Courier Informant calls attention to the bungalow type of primary schools which have been adopted and built here in Sanford: "We are beginning to see that it is morally wrong to invest the people's money in school buildings and use those buildings less than half the time. The school house ought to be used for youths as well as children," said Dr. Henry E. Jackson of the Federal Bureau of Education, in an address before the American Civic Association in Washington last Wednesday. This is true and but another demonstration of the fallacy of the present school system.

To a great many of the smaller children the schoolroom is but a place for them to "say" lessons. When arithmetic is said then comes dinner. When they reach the 25th page in the book they will receive a certificate of promotion. To the youth it is a place where they have to sit in a stilted position a certain number of hours a day and do as teacher says and not as they want to do. To learn some hard old rule in "trig." that has nothing so far as they are able to discern to do with getting rich quick. The process is too slow. It is not the fault of the teacher but of the system.

The time will come when there will not be so many expensive buildings, but more buildings on the bungalow type scattered around the cities for the convenience of the smaller children and the present expensive buildings will be used for the more advanced grades.

The word school is derived from the Latin or Greek word "schola," the difference in spelling cannot be shown in the English, which means "leisure," but the present generation has certainly gotten bravely away from the original meaning. It is a strenuous existence for a few hours every day in order that all the "perils" can be squeezed in. The schedule must be closely adhered to or the pupils will not reach that 25th page by the close of school and then somebody will have just enough curiosity to ask, "what can the matter be?" If a child's mind was a shell or a pigeon hole, then this process would be perfectly satisfactory, but as long as there is a difference in the human make-up it cannot succeed. It may with some, but those would probably succeed if they never darkened the doors of a school.

Congregational Church: Christmas Sunday is one of the great Sundays of the year. It is the season of our Lord's coming as a child to earth that "He might grow up under our conditions, then when the time was ready, give Himself for the salvation and happiness of men. Then, further, it is the closing time of the year. Because of so many associations it is a Sunday when men, notwithstanding their weariness ought to go to church. On this day hearts ought to go out to God in a joyful gratitude. There will be appropriate Christmas services in the Congregational church both morning and evening. At 11 o'clock Rev. J. A. Davidson will speak on "The Peacemaker" and in the evening at 7 o'clock, "The Heart of Christmas." There will be Christmas hymns and special Christmas music by Mrs. Julius Takach and the choir. Let every member make an effort to be present. Strangers will be given a cordial welcome. Sunday school at 9:45. The S. S. Supt., C. R. Walker urges every child to be present. Christian Endeavor at 6 o'clock Subject, "Helping to accomplish the purpose of Christ's coming." Leader, Mr. Booth. Come in and spend an hour with us. The Christmas tree exercises, "The Prince of Nations" with recitations will be given Monday at 8 o'clock.

Masonic Election

The regular meeting of Sanford Lodge No. 62, F. & A. M. was held in the lodge room last night. As per the usual custom the annual election of officers for the coming year was held at this meeting. The result of the election was as follows:

O. J. Miller, W. M.
Jas. Moughton, S. W.
F. S. Frank, J. W.
G. W. Spencer, Treas.
O. L. Taylor, Secy.

These officers will be regularly installed at a meeting to be held for this purpose on Wednesday evening, Dec. 27th, 1916. Sanford lodge is to be congratulated upon the selection of its officers and it is believed that the work of the coming year will equal if not surpass any year in the history of the lodge, although Sanford lodge now has an excellent record of past performances.

After the meeting a light banquet was served in the banquet room and after dinner oratory flowed freely. The retiring Master, S. G. Kennedy was the recipient of very many kind expressions from those present, as his administration has been an exceptionally good one and he is held in the highest esteem by the members of the craft.

Preaching at Ft. Reed
Rev. F. M. Baldwin will preach at Ft. Reed church Sunday, afternoon at 2:30.

Guided by Magnetic Currents.
Recent experience has tended to show that carrier pigeons and other birds of passage are guided by magnetic currents. M. A. Thimble, a French student of pigeons, has noted that on two occasions when pigeon flights were unsuccessful magnetic storms were occurring, and the flights of these birds have been becoming often uncertain and erratic since wireless telegraphy came into extensive use.

Belated Vindication.
The Persians of the time of Cyrus were Zoroastrians. The Persian religion was primitively monotheistic, and they allowed no idols or other material symbols of deity in their temples. There was less enmity on the part of the Jews against the Persians than against the other great nations with whom they came in contact, due probably to the monotheism which characterized the Persian religion. So Cyrus, whatever else may be said of him, was certainly not an idolater.—Christian Herald.

Lou Tellegen in Christmas Program at Star

The tall figure, garbed as an East Indian native was no other than Mr. Lou Tellegen, the celebrated romantic actor who will be seen at the Star on Christmas in the Jesse L. Lasky production of the thrilling romance of the Sepoy rebellion, "The Victoria Cross." He was seated on the steps of a native cottage in the main street of the quaint, old-fashioned East Indian city of Cawnpore. About him were chattering natives before him, up and down the street trudged heavy native carts, and gilded native women carrying laden baskets. Interspersed in the crowd were Sepoy and native soldiers with the brilliant red of their jackets standing out among the colors.

know," he explained, "was said in Cawnpore, during the Sepoy rebellion, and it seems but yesterday that I visited that city and saw many of the places, replicas of which are built around here."

"I did not see the set in the process of building, and since I first for the first time but a few months ago and really, as I stepped out of my dressing room and into this street, I felt as if I had been suddenly transported back to India. You can hardly call this a reproduction of Cawnpore—it is Cawnpore itself removed to California. Take for example the streak of dirt along the sides of the buildings where the thousands of shoulders have been brushed against them in walking past. This was on the walls at Cawnpore and it is on the walls here. It shows the action of an amount of thought the Lasky Company gives in details."

"And those boys in the street—they might have been picked up from India to make the scene here. Even the straw mats on their thatched roofs has the appearance of being perfectly authentic. And recently when we were in India several of the boys during the taking of the picture, I felt worried for fear we would have to believe the scene and not to have for other boats."

The voice of the director was heard and, with an apology, Mr. Tellegen rose and a few minutes later was busily engaged in reading a beautiful English girl. The little some two years ago, in India, wanted to go back and here I am, native mob.
The scenes of this picture, you! Matinee at 8:15.

Pity the Poor Dyspeptic.

"Back home" we used to gather around the piano of an evening, a God-fearing, respectable family, and hold orgies of sentimental melody, seeing Nellie home, and imploring the winds of heaven to bring back our Bonnie to us. To a chance dyspeptic sitting on the hydrant outside, it must have been sickening.—Robert M. Gay, in the Atlantic.

The Old Shawl

By JESSIE E. SHERWIN

(Copyright, 1916, by W. G. Chapman.)

"It will be a long good-by," spoke old Mrs. Marsh sadly.

"Don't talk that way, Aunt Julia," remonstrated Hector Vaile, her favorite nephew.

"No use of looking at things so darkly," added her other nephew, Willis Craine.

The doctor says my only chance of getting through the winter is to go to a warmer climate," proceeded Mrs. Marsh. "It won't be home, and that is why it won't do me any good. Now then, boys, I want to have a serious talk with you. Both of you have my love. You have been kind and loyal to me, a childless old widow. I expect my lawyer here within an hour. I want you, here and now, to decide as to my little property. You know of what it consists—the old home here, the house in the city, which my poor foolish husband made a hobby of, and found it hard to live in on account of the expense."

The eyes of Willis glowed. A certain eagerness came into their depths. Hector only looked sorrowful. He was not thinking of money or property. To him this dear old relative had been as a mother. He would miss her, even if her absence were only temporary.

"Of course all my ideas are to make a record in the city," Willis spoke first. "I've great ideas if I can carry them out."

"Aunt, leave me the old home, if it is necessary to decide about your property. I feel my place is here, in my native village, and I can see that"

Willis is more ambitious and gifted than I," said Hector.

"Then that is settled," said Mrs. Marsh, with a misty approving look at Hector. "And the shawl I have been knitting for so many years goes with the home and all there is in it. Unless you hurry some high-up belle of fashion, Hector, your wife will be glad to wrap it around her, cold winter days."

"We'll leave the high-up belle of fashion to Willis, Aunt Julia!" laughed Hector. "In fact, I think he has his eye on one such there already."

Willis looked embarrassed, then rather proud. He was of the flashing, buoyant sort, and he secretly despised what he called the old-fashioned humdrum ways of his cousin.

"I shall always keep the shawl as a cherished memento, Aunt," declared Hector loyally, and so the matter was settled. Mrs. Marsh had spent most of her leisure time in knitting, and Hector thought tenderly of the tired old fingers that had assuaged ennui and pain through occupation.

Mrs. Marsh was right in her prophecy. She never saw the old home again. Her legacies were carefully arranged, and within the year Hector found himself the legal owner of the old home. It seemed to him that no palace could be more welcome. It was furnished comfortably, it was near the town academy where he was one of the professors. There was a vegetable garden, and fruit and chickens. He settled down to practical housekeeping, a happy and contented man.

Willis had accepted the house in the city with some grand plans in view. He grumbled because, with the exception of a few hundred dollars at bank, his aunt had left no liquid funds. By the end of a year he was established as a doctor with a fashionable clientele, and had married a lady more renowned for her social eminence than either her intelligence or means.

For Hector life went on evenly, enjoyably. He was able to live and save, and books were his hobby. Winter evenings the little room he called his library was a nest of rare comfort. In summer time he sat on the screened porch, which he had furnished with a table, a swing, a chair, and a bar of sweetened condensed milk. It was a veritable paradise, and he was content.

The circumstances under which he met Eunice Graydon.

Who but a visionary writer would ever have imagined that the daughter of the richest man in the village would come to the modest humble home as a guest, remain there two whole hours and take in the old environment with a rare sense of enjoyment plainly evidenced in her bright, winsome face?

"Hallo!"

The call, echoing and somewhat mandatory, took Hector to the front door one cold snowy night in March. He strained his vision to make out a man well muffled up, holding the reins that guided a steaming team of horses. Near to him was a graceful-featured figure, shivering with the cold.

Millinery, Christmas Novelties, Wilcox Paintings of Florida Scenery MRS. GRACE E. WILLIAMS Phone 295-J 106 East First Street Next to McCullers

"Won't you come here for a minute?" called out the man to Hector, and the latter hurried on overcoat and cap. "I am Mr. Graydon," continued the other in an aristocratic way. "My daughter, Miss Graydon," he introduced informally. "The sleigh tipped over, smashing a runner and wrecking it. I've got to get these horses home. Won't you give my daughter shelter with your womenfolk till I get home and send another conveyance for her?"

Took Hector to the Front Door.

"Surely, Mr. Graydon," bowed Hector courteously, and he assisted the young lady through the snowdrifts and into the house.

"There are no womenfolk," he remarked, as Eunice Graydon ran to the cozy fireplace and held out her chilled hands with a little cry of delight.

"You surprise me," she flashed out, and he felt the warmth and sincerity of the compliment as her bright eyes took in the neat furnishings.

And then they chatted. There was no restraint. In her innocent girlish way she told how she had attended two of his lectures at the town hall, and Hector inquired after the health of her mother, a confirmed invalid in whom the whole village felt it had a right to be interested.

It was all too brief, that lovely visit, and when Miss Graydon left Hector, he insisted on providing her with a warm wrap. From its place in the old wardrobe the shawl his aunt had so laboriously knitted was brought forth. He thrilled as he placed it about her shoulders. Then the carriage, that had come for her, took her away, and returning to the lonely room, for an hour Hector stood gazing upon the chair where she had sat as though in some wonderful vision.

What was his surprise the next day, when the shawl was returned, not by a servant, but by Miss Graydon, accompanied by a friend.

"I have made a strange discovery, Mr. Vaile," said Eunice, "and I felt I must come and advise you—unless you know already that some words are knit into the fabric of the shawl."

"That is, indeed, news to me!" murmured Hector wonderingly.

And then they spread out the shawl on a dark background, and in quite a system of construction the words were figured out: "the home lover must search in the old dry cistern."

"Before the day was over Hector Vaile knew that he had come upon the hidden hoard of dead Aunt Julia.

Within a week he and Eunice were close friends, and then love began to play a part in the romance.

"You always were the lucky one!" remarked Willis Craine, during a visit to his cousin, a year later.

He had come to borrow money to clear away some of the debts of his extravagant wife. As he spoke, however, he looked significantly at the mistress of the household—Eunice.

Nation's Brain Cells.

In national government, as in all other great human concerns, it is not possible to destroy long established and complicated systems with a sledge hammer, no matter how evil their real character may be without injuring the innocent, and temporarily, at least, halting the fluent and logical cooperation of the nation's brain cells.

Enthusiasm for Furs

Furs have invaded every branch of woman's apparel as the most desired of garnitures. There is an immense enthusiasm for them. They add a sumptuous touch to coats and suits and wraps of all kinds. In millinery a border or collar of fur on a face or flower-trimmed hat makes places for its summy gayeties in the depth of winter. Millinery designers delight in the touch of fur.

Just about the best asset in the winter's wardrobe is a fur set of some sort—a neckpiece, little or big, and a smart muff. They are worn with coats and suits, one-piece frocks, and evening wraps. Anything unusual or original in designing them, so long as it is graceful, adds much to their distinction. The woman who is clever about making things for herself at home can make small fancy neckpieces in a pillow muffs of fur or of fur and a material combined.

The handsome set pictured is made of moleskin bordered with Hudson seal. The small cape, rather full, is lengthened by two ruffles of moleskin, and has the effect of a triple cape, each one of them bordered with the seal. There are two similar ruffles at each side of the muff. The ruffles are lined with mole-colored satin, and the very modish collar muffs up the neck in the approved style.

All the soft, loosely woven cloths that are fashionable are combined with fur bandings in smart sets. Velvet, brocade, and rich ribbons play an important role also in fashioning them. Neckpieces in combinations of fabrics and fur are usually small, but muffs are larger than many all-fur muffs. Large fur-covered buttons and hanging balls of fur are among the embellishments that fashion approves. Occasionally a bright-colored material is veiled with a sedate color in chiffon and encircled with fur in unusual sets.

LONGWOOD PICK-UPS

Miss Maude Ensminger returned home for Xmas holidays from Tallahassee Sunday.

W. Caldwell was transacting business in Sanford Monday.

Mrs. H. R. Chapman has been visiting a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Dinkel, but returned to Orlando Thursday where Capt. Chapman of Company "C" will join her to spend the Xmas holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Dinkel and daughters motored over to Ocoee one day last week.

Cy. Smith of Georgia is visiting friends in town this week.

Mrs. W. Caldwell and Mrs. Duffield were shopping in Orlando Saturday.

Mrs. Jim Martin is spending a few days with her sisters, Mrs. Geo. Shipp.

WEKIWA NOTES

We are glad that the item which told about the Wilkinsons moving was a mistake and they are still with us but they expect to move soon.

R. O. Von Herbulis lost a valuable horse last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Newcome are expected home to spend Christmas with his parents who have come down to spend the winter in Florida.

People are beginning to flock back to Wekiwa, as they want to spend another Christmas in the city. Jas. and Raymond Boyd are home from Kissimmee and Henry Boyd from Beresford.

Misses Achsa and Minnie Holiday have returned from Rollins for a two weeks' vacation.

Brick is being hauled for the road from the county bridge on into Sanford. Work will be started shortly.

E. A. Rush and W. D. Fillman made a business trip to Sanford on Thursday.

Miss Mae Gaines is expecting to leave in a day or two for Zephyr Hills where she will visit friends and relatives during the holiday season.

EAST SANFORD

The Moore's Station entertainment and Christmas tree will take place at the church Christmas night.

Through the kindness of Rev. J. W. Bartlett of Enterprise a reading stand for the pulpit of Moore's Station church was secured from the Enterprise church. The gift is much appreciated.

Miss Ethel Hickson has accepted a position as stenographer with the Virginia Carolina Chemical Co.

J. W. Sipes returned from Virginia recently after more than a year of absence and after a short visit left for Miami for an indefinite time.

Miss Nona Hickson and Lionel Sipes were married Dec. 16th and have gone to housekeeping in the Sipes home. They are both popular young people and are receiving congratulations from a host of friends.

A. C. Cross of Black River, N. Y., was a guest of the Chamberlain home a portion of last week en route to his winter home in Clermont. Mrs. Harry Deltrich was also a guest on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Tyler, and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Eden of Syracuse, N. Y., drove to Orlando for the day Saturday.

G. F. Smith is erecting several neat tenant houses on his Beardall avenue farm.

UPSALA AND GRAPEVILLE

J. E. Lundquist with his son, Aron have gone for a few days' work on his grove at Apopka.

We were misinformed as to the arrival of Joe Ne Ros home last week but he came this week Tuesday, instead, from the hospital in Jacksonville.

Mr. Davis was a visitor at the home of his daughter and son, Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Darby of Pennsylvania are guests at his brother's, A. Derby and wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Swanson were out calling again on the home folks Tuesday. We were all glad to see Norman able to be out again after his illness.

P. E. Green of Alabama and Rev. Albertson of DeLand were with us as promised last Tuesday evening. They were entertained at Mrs. Christine Bertelson's on Wednesday, calling at Mrs. Clark's and at the home of G. T. Ballinger. Bro. Green gave us a splendid talk, we think, on the need of the careful and prayerful guiding of the little lives on our Cradle Roll that the right influences may be thrown about them that will lead them to give their little hearts to Jesus.

Mrs. Tyner, Rev. Ericson and Miss Ebba Stedt have been about sick with colds.

Mrs. Magnuson has been taking her sister, Mrs. Borell and Mrs. Ericson to town for their Christmas shopping. In fact most of the ladies have tried to get a sight of Santa Claus.

We are planning to have a nice time Sunday at Sunday school with some Christmas songs and exercises at 2:30.

We expect Rev. Thompson with us Sunday evening.

Mrs. Bertelson came near a serious accident while in town Tuesday falling and bruising her face badly, but is thankful it is no worse. It was a mis step. In the confusion some one picked up her purse with four dollars in it and she also lost a couple of dozen eggs.

The old custom of early Christmas mass, Christ mass will be observed by Rev. Swamborn, Tuesday morning at five a. m. in the Swedish Lutheran church. The church will be decorated and it is hoped as many will get out as possible.

WEST GENEVA AVENUE

Mrs. Jack Vaughn is still making improvements on her place, as she has had a new fence put up in front of her place.

Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Culp and children also Mr. Culp's nephew, Walker Culp of North Carolina were the Sunday guests of Mrs. Will Robinson.

We're having plenty of rain and some cold weather nowadays. Hope it will last awhile.

Mrs. Westerdick, Mrs. Will Robinson and Mrs. Jack King were the afternoon guests of Mrs. Jack Vaughn Monday.

Mrs. Jack Vaughn and little Gladys Robinson were in town Saturday doing some shopping.

Mr. Corbet Hester of North Carolina, the young gentleman who is employed by the A. C. I. to run the water pump was the Friday evening guest of Mr. and Mrs. Will Robinson, where a very pleasant evening was spent.

Mrs. Will Robinson and daughter, Mrs. Jack King were in town Tuesday doing their Christmas shopping.

Mrs. Will Robinson received quite a shock Tuesday night when she received news of the death of her niece, Mrs. Bessie Hartley of Jacksonville, who was one of the party that went in the Amelia river four miles from Fernandina, caused by an automobile running into an open bridge. Mrs. Robinson's friends extend their sympathy to her in her hour of sorrow.

Mrs. Jack Vaughn and little Gladys Robinson spent Sunday on Celery avenue, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Robinson, enjoying a very pleasant day.

Mrs. Jack Robinson is expecting her nephews, George and Fred Mansfield of Tampa this week. They are coming up to spend the Christmas holidays with her. Fred will be welcomed with open arms by his many friends here as he is a general favorite with every one here, but this is

Mr. Mansfield's first trip here since he was a small boy, but no doubt will be made welcome.

Well children, you must be extra good for too many good things are coming your way now—a free matinee Thursday at the Lyric, a circus Saturday and Christmas on Monday. If you don't be good, if I was old Santa I would not jingle my sleigh bells for you at all.

Mrs. Jack Vaughn has disposed of her oranges already this year, so there will not be so much loss to them, but the prices are not much on the fruit now.

Psychological Problem.

Just as a problem in practical psychology, how many can tell the initials of Mr. Bailey, one-time partner in the Barnum & Bailey circus. And who is there doesn't know, on the other hand, that Mr. Barnum's name was Plineus T. Springfield Republican.

WEDS KING GEORGE'S COUSIN

In the first marriage of royalty since the outbreak of the European war, Countess Nadejda Torby, twenty years old, daughter of Grand Duke Michael Michaelovitch of Russia, Duke of Battenberg, a cousin of King George of England.

Two ceremonies were performed, the first according to the bride's faith in the Russian embassy chapel and the other in the chapel royal, St. James palace.

King George, Queen Mary and Dowager Queen Alexandra witnessed the wedding; also the duke and duchess of Connaught, Princess Patricia of Connaught and ex-King Manuel of Portugal.

The bridegroom is a lieutenant in the British navy, serving on the battle cruiser New Zealand. He is twenty-four years old and a nephew of Princess Henry of Battenberg, King George's youngest aunt. The bride is the daughter of Grand Duke Michaelovitch, a cousin of the czar of Russia.

South American Newspapers

We North Americans speak of ourselves as Americans and in speaking of an American newspaper we would naturally think of one published in the United States. But in a recent study of Argentina it was interesting to note that they were among the world's leaders in some lines of current publications.

One rather wonders how the business man of Buenos Ayres who desires to read the publications of his own city can find time to so much as scan the headlines of the 63 local daily newspapers as he drinks his coffee! We are not surprised that the Buenos Ayres is not a church goer, for his Sabbaths must be rather occupied with the reading of the 200 weekly papers of his home town!

How can he find his bills at the end of the month amidst the stack of 64 monthly magazines printed in his city?

There are almost 500 regular publications printed in this city alone. Of these 412 are in the Spanish language, 22 in Italian, 8 in French, 8 in English, 8 in German, and one each in Danish, Norwegian, Swedish, Dutch and Arabian.

Some of these are no mean publications. Any city in the world would be proud of La Prensa (The Press). It is probably the most influential daily in Argentina, with a daily circulation of over 100,000, and has the reputation of publishing more foreign news than any other newspaper in the world. It has a magnificent plant costing $3,000,000. It provides a number of unique features, among them being a free medical clinic for the poor, a free law of fee for the indigent, a large and well stocked library for which no charge is made, a suite of handsomely furnished apartments in which distinguished foreigners are entertained gratis, besides restaurant, gymnasium and auditorium in which operas and musicals are given for the force.

Welcome From Arcadia

To the Teachers and School Officers of Florida:

Your executive committee has announced the program for the meeting of the State Educational Association in Arcadia, Dec. 27th-29th. We feel that it is a great thing for Arcadia and DeSoto county that your organization is to hold its thirtieth annual session here.

A glance at the program is convincing proof, but the testimony of other cities that have had the privilege of entertaining you, of becoming acquainted with you and learning first hand the wonderful work you are doing for a Greater Florida and the wonderfully efficient manner in which you are doing this work causes us to feel that your meeting is to have a profound effect upon the life of our people socially, spiritually, educationally and commercially. We know that you are going to make us realize as never before what a great world of opportunity, what a splendid world of growing enlightenment we are living in today.

You have done infinitely more for Florida than Florida has done for you. You are coming among people who appreciate your heroic services and are willing to lend whatever aid is in their power to bring about conditions more favorable to your welfare. We want you to tell us how we can help you and to tell us in such a way that we will know how, when and where to direct our forces in your behalf.

The hotels, boarding houses and homes of the city are making special preparations to receive you, and the thousand or more representatives of your great association will be accorded with genuine good cheer the true Arcadian hospitality. If you wish to make hotel reservations or desire any information regarding the city, plans of the local committees, meeting places of the sectional groups, etc., write us and we shall be glad to serve you.

"Son, Buckeyes Was Good Citrus Trees Since You Was a Li'l Boy"

For more than the third of a century Buckeye trees have been improving in quality yearly. Extensive experiments, almost daily field inspections—part of our ceaseless search for betterment—have produced the sturdy, generous-bearing citrus stock that has made our trees the standard throughout citrus Florida.

Time is not for sale. Nature progresses leisurely. The accumulated robust health and fruitfulness of 26 years cannot be Aladdin's-lamped into new-sprung stock. Says a Buckeye customer, "The several hundred trees of three-year-old stock that I purchased from you three years ago are the finest trees for their age I ever saw. They are now producing a look-or-more-to-the-tree."

You would naturally expect to pay more for Gillett-grown Buckeye trees, but you may be astonished at how small the difference is—how utterly insignificant when compared with the stronger, better-developed trees that Buckeye stock invariably produces.

As a present or prospective grower, you should know the whole story of Buckeye trees. Send for our free catalog today.

Evening Bridge

Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Herndon entertained the Evening Bridge Club and three extra tables of players last evening at their beautiful home on Park avenue, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Bell of Washington, D. C. The attractive rooms were lovely with the gay Christmas colors of red and green combined with pleasing effect in the cedar wreaths tied with their bright crimson bows of ribbons and poinsettias. The balustrade of the living room was entwined with southern smilax below which hung wreaths of cedar. A pretty arrangement of tall vases holding poinsettias, with wreaths just above, adorned the mantels. Between the colonial columns were large brass jardiniere filled with brilliant masses of poinsettias while brass and Japanese baskets in which were the same bright flowers rested upon the tall book cases and low cabinets. The centerpiece upon the dining table was a huge bowl of gorgeous red roses. The lovely little score cards with poinsettia design and appropriate Christmas wishes was the work of the clever artist fingers of Mrs. Herndon's young daughter, Norma. The cards were tied with red ribbons. A salad course was daintily served at the refreshment hour.

The ladies' prize was won by Mrs. E. L. Miller and to Mr. R. A. Newman fell the gentlemen's prize.

Besides Mr. and Mrs. Bell guests of the evening occasion were Mrs. and Mr. Bishop, Dr. and Mrs. Puleston, Mrs. and Mrs. Newman, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Symes, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. S.

Charming Christmas Card Party

Surrounded by the beauty and charm of Christmas holly and glowing red gladioli, accentuated by the pretty evening gowns of the girls who served, the bridge party given by Mrs. Fred Walsman on Wednesday afternoon was one of the most attractive social functions of the winter. The bungalow was beautiful with the softest glow of red shaded lights and Christmas decorations over the doors and windows and the air was filled with the fragrance of holly and gladioli.

The room to the left of the entrance which was a social restaurant, was and gladioli in bowls and vases adorned bookcases and cabinets and ferns were placed about the room, forming an effective background of green for the gorgeous red of the flowers and handsome points of gramophone. The refreshments were served in the dining room, sprigs of holly for adornment.

Wreaths of holly hung in the draperies at the windows and the Christmas idea was attractively carried out in perfect harmony and detail. The girls who served were Misses Gretchen and Olga Schultz, Clarissa Starling, Rena Murrell, Muriel Harold and Nina Lardman of Altamonte. To Mrs. S. E. Barrett making highest score fell the honor of first prize, a lovely brass hanging basket, while Mrs. Charles Bell of Washington, D. C., cut the consolation prize, a cut glass bud vase.

Besides those already mentioned others enjoying the charming hospitality of Mrs. Walsman were Mrs. Geo. Bishop, Mrs. A. P. Connolly, Mrs. R. R. Dean, Mrs. Geo. Fox, Miss Florence Frank, Mrs. E. M. Galloway, Mrs. F. J. Gonzales, Mr. C. F. Hunt, Mrs. Geo. Hunt, Mrs. B. W. Herndon, Mrs. Geo. Davis Hart, Mrs. B. A. Howard, Mrs. G. I. Ladies Minstrels in DeLand

The Music Department Minstrels gave a successful performance in DeLand on Tuesday night and were received with heartiest encores. A clipping from DeLand News follows: To a fair sized house last night the Sanford Ladies Minstrels, under the auspices of the Woman's Club of DeLand, gave a splendid entertainment at the DeLand opera house.

There happened to be several other entertainments in DeLand on the same evening—the Maxwell Kane tent show and carnival, special feature pictures at the Princess School of Music entertainment at the university auditorium, etc., besides the weather was bitterly cold. All these things tended to cut down the attendance.

The house was comfortably heated and the audience most appreciative, encoring the ladies with vigor, to which they responded most graciously.—DeLand News.

Accompanying the performers were—Mrs. E. M. Galloway, president of the Sanford Woman's Club; Mrs. R. A. Terhoun, Press chairman and Mrs. John Meisoh. Others attending from Sanford were Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Watson, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Dean, Miss Edna Owens and Messrs. J. P. McCuller, Arthur Yowell, Ben Fish and Billy Hill.

Changes in the cast included Mrs. Lucille Aspinwall Takach, Mrs. Geo. Fox and Mrs. Robert Herndon.

When the banner advertising Seminole County Fair was unfurled at the conclusion of the performance it was greeted with vociferous applause.

Where the Teachers Will Spend Xmas

Every Christmas many of the teachers whose homes are not in Sanford return to the home folks to enjoy with them their Christmas turkey and plum pudding, and sometimes a few of the resident teachers spend the holidays with relatives and friends elsewhere. This season is no exception to the rule for a number of them are leaving.

Miss Hazel Stevenson will leave on Friday for Atlanta where she will spend the Xmas vacation.

Mr. Chaffers, another of the High School faculty will go home to Lemon Bluff.

Miss Elizabeth Tribble will cut Christmas dinner in Lake City, and will also Miss Myra Fatch of the Grammar school.

Mrs. Geo. B. Dugan, principal of the Commercial school will spend the holidays in her home in Lake City.

IN THEIR NEW HOME

Sanford Elks Held Meeting in Their Fine New Building

Sanford lodge No. 1241 are now in their new home on Park avenue on the lake front and all the visitors to the city have pronounced it one of the finest homes in the state. The regular meeting on Wednesday night was held in the new lodge room and the Elks are very proud of their new home and the fact that it is most comfortable in every respect. In Tuesday's Herald a full description of the building, together with the advertisements of the builders will be given and the Elks will all wish to send out some extra copies of that edition. It will be an Elks special edition in many respects. The new home built at a cost of more than $20,000 is something of which the city of Sanford can well be proud and the better advertisement could hardly be a poor thing. states if the carnival is not held, by reason of, which many contributed to the movement who were not well able to do so. The fair officials having no funds, financed the fair themselves, while the citizens financed the carnival.

Another large exhibition building is now being erected on the fair grounds, which belong to the city, this being necessary in order to meet the demands for space from county and individual exhibitors. Girls' canning clubs of sixteen counties will be represented in the home exhibit department. Those desiring premium lists are requested to write A. L. Allen, secretary, this city. (Frank L.
