Boy Accepted Entire Responsibility For Killing But Grand Jury Blames Father

Defendant Held In County Jail

Argument On Retrial Of Boy To Be Made In Court Tomorrow

The County Grand Jury on Wednesday returned a new indictment against C. C. Gracy of Paola, charging him with murder in the first degree for the death last September of O'Dell Bumbalough, a Paola youth. Publication of the indictment was withheld, however, until the sheriff's department was able to locate the older man late in the afternoon and lodge in jail.

Gracy was indicted by the same grand jury on Dec. 6, with his 16-year-old son, Virgil Gracy, but which the boy insisted, against the advice of counsel, upon pleading guilty to manslaughter, the indictment against the father was quashed. Virgil Gracy was sentenced on Dec. 10 by Judge M. B. Smith to a term of five years in the state reformatory at Marianna, and he is now in that institution.

Garland W. Spencer was appointed by the court to represent the Gracys at the December term and he informed the court of the boy's determination to plead guilty. The court thereupon took the boy into his chambers and with the attorney, discussed the case with him of some length. Mr. Spencer had advised the lad that by pleading guilty he would save his life, but all argument was of no avail and the lad, accepting entire responsibility for the crime, entered his plea of guilty and elected to serve five years in the reformatory rather than four years in the State Penitentiary.

When the new indictment against the older Gracy was returned by the Grand Jury yesterday Mr. Spencer advised the court that it would be impossible to go to trial with this case this week, and the court thereupon excused those jurors who stated they would rather not return for duty next week or the week after. Thirteen jurors signified their willingness to serve later but at the afternoon session of court they were also excused, and Mr. Spencer said he thought he would be able to go to trial during the week of Jan. 26.

Trade Body Of County Regrets Stevens' Death

Resolutions expressing the regrets of the Sanford County Chamber of Commerce in the untimely passing of one beloved associate, Henry B. Stevens, were passed by rising vote of the directors at their monthly meeting Tuesday evening. The resolutions were prepared by a committee composed of E. F. Galena, H. E. Papp and Fred E. Wilson.

In the resolutions the late Mr. Stevens was declared to be a "faithful and enthusiastic worker and supporter of the trade body in every movement which would contribute to the welfare and upbuilding of Sanford and Franklin counties," and the statement was made that "the active and untiring counsel of Mr. Stevens will be a distinct loss to our organization and Franklin County generally."

Prohibition Party Is To Have Ticket In 1936 Campaign

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Prohibition leaders said today they will enter the 1936 political war with a three-fold plan aimed at acquisition of new territory. Howard Hyde Russell, founder of the Anti-Saloon League, named these objectives as local option, election of congressmen favorable to prohibition and additional legislation to prohibit liquor sales in dry states.

Plans Completed For Charity Ball On January 30th

Bridge Will Also Be Played, Prizes To Be Offered Guests

Plans for the charity ball to be given on Jan. 30 at the Mayfair Hotel were completed at a committee meeting yesterday afternoon. The date is President Roosevelt's birthday and the party will be given to obtain funds for the Warm Springs Foundation for infirmity paralysis research, founded by the President, and for local charitable uses.

The event is sponsored by the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce under a committee of which C. E. Adams is chairman and W. H. Schmidt is vice-chairman, and will feature, with contract and auction bridges from 8 o'clock until 10 o'clock, with attractive prizes for high scores. This feature of the evening's entertainment will be in charge of the P. T. A. organizations under the direction of Mrs. W. H. Stewart.

Prizes are being obtained through a committee of which Maxwell Stewart is chairman and will be announced at an early date and displayed in a large town store window.

An attractive door prize—a 30 day pass good for two at the Milane Theater—will be given at midnight to the holder of the proper door check.

The Sanford Garden Club, of which Mrs. J. Howell Fish is president, will be in charge of decorations for the ballroom and card room, in co-operation with the management of the Mayfair.

Mrs. F. E. Reumillat and T. E. Simpson are the joint chairmen of ticket sales and their activities will begin immediately. A cash prize of $10 is being offered to the participating group that turns in the largest amount of money from sale of tickets.

Thirty percent of the net proceeds of the charity ball will go to the fund for infantile paralysis research work, while 70 percent will be retained for local charity and will be distributed equally among the organizations uniting their efforts for this benefit. The groups that are actively participating are the Sanford Elks Lodge, Kiwanis Club, Lions Club, P. T. A. and Rotary Club, and their portion of receipts will be used for charity work in addition to such other funds they may have for that purpose.

Mrs. Synopators have been engaged to furnish the music for dancing which will begin at 10 o'clock. Other entertainment features are being arranged and will be announced within the next few days.

Attention was called to the fact that this affair is strictly informal.

Woodmen To Plan Dance Monday Night

Plans for the annual New Year's ball and Monday night will be made by Celery Camp of the Woodmen of the World at the lodge meeting this evening. The dance is to be in City Hall next Monday evening and the general public is invited. Invitations have also been sent to W. A. W. Lodge in Umatilla County, Lakeland, Orlando and Winter Garden. The New Year's ball will follow the dance.

O. P. Barlow, the new club commander of Celery Camp, will preside at tonight's meeting of the lodge at the New Year's ball.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The state committee on vocational guidance, headed by William B. Zachary of Sanford, was installed as lieutenant governor of the Central Division of Kiwanis Clubs. Harold H. Hipple, international trustee, was the installing officer.

Judge Smith Makes Talk On Constitution

Amendments May Be Made, But Do Not Tinker With It, Is Advice Of Jurist

Answering the charge that the government of the United States is archaic because it is based upon a constitution, Judge Millard B. Smith of the Circuit Court bench in an address before the Men's Club of the Episcopal Church last night, declared that it is the Constitution that makes this nation different and better than any other. If the Constitution needs changing, the document itself, he reminded his hearers, provides a method for amendments, and this legal means should be sought rather than by brain trusters or evaded by congressmen.

Judge Smith also expressed the opinion that any lawyer member of either House of the nation's Congress who votes for a law that he knows is unconstitutional is tinkering with the country's basic law under which the liberties of its people are guaranteed.

Absolute confidence in the United States' Supreme Court was voiced by the speaker who declared that "what the United States Supreme Court does under the Constitution is O. K. by me," while resounding applause nearly drowned out the concluding clause of the sentence "that is my notion of government."

"That to my notion is what has made this country great, and the moment we depart from it we will cease to be great. He mentioned only two recent decisions of the supreme tribunal, those against the NRA and the AAA.

Judge Smith also referred to the Townsend Plan which he is known to oppose as visionary and impractical. His hearers applauded again when he said that "no one has ever heard of being fed from Heaven since the ravens fed Elijah, but that's what they are trying to do with this false philosophy."

Various "schemes, nostrums and patent medicines" have been proposed by the tinkers with the Constitution which was written by our forefathers who tried to provide a different and a better government. In this they succeeded by making a place for the individual, by giving him rights under the Constitution that could not be taken away. "How well they succeeded," he said, "is expressed by Arthur Balfour, great English statesman, who declared that in the latter part of the 18th century nowhere was government so well understood as in the American colonies."

In this connection he referred to the Constitution of the State of Alabama which declared that "the only legitimate aim of government is to protect the citizen, his life and property. That," the jurist asserted, "is a conception which should be what the government should be all the time."

Under the AAA, he said, levies were made on processors and the money collected was "paid over to someone for not growing."

Russia Can Place 1,300,000 Armed Men In The Field

MOSCOW, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The Soviet Union's answer to what it calls war threats from Japan and Germany was an announcement last night that the red army already the largest in the world, has been increased during the last year to 1,300,000 men.

In addition to this, the Bolsheviks estimate they have a trained reserve as large as that under the same.

A wild cry has greeted the announcement of the army's huge size.

Navy Plan For More Defenses Seen Probable

Modernizing Of U. S. Ships May Follow Japan's Quitting Of Naval Confab

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Navy moves for more mighty to build United States defenses and modernize American war-craft were foreseen in Congress today as a result of a press session from the International Naval Conference.

In Tokyo, Premier Okada minimized the possibility of a naval building race, declaring that Japan would not be the aggressor, but a high Japanese naval commander said "if the Japanese navy is called upon to fight the combined power of America and Great Britain I am confident we will win, even if the ratio is ten to one."

In London, Italy, Britain and United States delegates laid plans to achieve free limitations without Japan.

Naval Race Looms LONDON, Jan. 16.—When Japan walked out of the International Naval Conference last night 13 years of limitation of sea armaments went by the board and a naval race immediately loomed as a possibility, although all delegations, including the Japanese, said they wanted to avoid this costly competition.

After the meeting, which broke up late in the day, an American spokesman said: "We will join a four-power conference because we do not want a naval race. "Naturally, we will have to consider a provision for some other power star's building. "There will probably be some escape clause in any agreement the four powers may reach today to take care of any such contingency. Although the four powers are continuing without Japan, it is hoped later on they (the Japanese) will see fit to join in some way and perhaps return."

J. F. Karnatz Is Speaker Before Townsend Club

J. F. Karnatz, former well known Sanford business man, delivered an address before the Townsend Club last evening and, according to Geo. M. Douglas, secretary of the Club, those who failed to hear the address "missed something that all those present would agree was of the most interesting nature ever heard on the subject in this city."

Mr. Karnatz quoted governmental figures showing the burden of taxation that is always passed on to the ultimate consumer, together with the terrific costs of "what is termed 'governing' these people who desire nothing better, than to be encouraged a little so, they could become useful in aiding the circulation of the immense amounts of circulating medium that is on deposit anxious to find itself being used for what it was invented."

Italian Advance On 49-Mile Front Fierce'y Disputed

British Unit Of Red Cross Bombed And Seven Are Killed

(By The Associated Press) The Italian high command announced today a 40 mile fiercely disputed advance along the entire 49-mile front in southern Ethiopia.

Marshal Pietro Badoglio announced "complete success" in a battle on the Ganale Dorya River which accompanied the Italian advance. He claimed the Ethiopians were retreating in disorder with "considerable" casualties.

The Ethiopian government announced the destruction by Italian bombs of a Red Cross unit which was commanded by Major Gerald Burgoyne, a British officer, at Waldia, on the northern front. The announcement said that seven men and seven women were killed. Burgoyne reported none as unharmed.

In London authoritative sources said "death notices" for oil sanctions against Italy were premature, indicating the matter may be taken up at the League of Nations council meeting next Monday. These British sources said they believed there was a distinct possibility of an oil embargo.

Snowslide Buries Five Coaches Of Passenger Train

COLFAX, Calif., Jan. 16.—(AP)—A snowslide buried three coaches of the Southern Pacific's westbound transcontinental train, Pacific Limited, last night near Donner Summit in the high Sierra. Four men and five passengers were reported injured.

Tons of snow, made heavy by recent rains, smashed through snow sheds protecting the track and engulfed the rear portion of the train as it was pulling into Eder station, 40 miles northwest of here.

Railmen here received word the passenger coach struck over. One man received a broken arm.

Passengers in the observation car made their way through the buried coaches to the forward end of the train. Trainsmen unhooked the three rear cars, leaving the other coaches on the train, which started for Colfax.

Senate Considers Baby Bond Bonus Measure Friday

Delay Of Day Given When Asked By Republican Leader

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The Senate agreed today to start consideration of the baby-bond bonus bill tomorrow, after Republican Leader McNary urged a day's delay under the rules.

As sources close to the White House differed over whether President Roosevelt would sign the bill for full payment of veterans adjusted service certificate in $50 bonds after June 15 next, Senator Thomas (D. Okla.) said he could make a last ditch fight for paying the bonus in new currency.

Following this was an announcement by Senator King (D. Utah) that he would offer a substitute to pay now only the "cash surrender" value or present worth of the adjusted service certificates which were issued in 1925 to run for 20 years.

Dingfelder Named Director Of New Kiwanis Program

Julius Dingfelder of the Sanford Kiwanis Club is the chairman of the new objective of Kiwanis International for "Support of Churches in Their Spiritual Aims." The appointment was made at the mid-winter conference of the Florida District Conference of Kiwanis in Gainesville this week.

The program under which this committee is to work will stress the unity and aims of all churches and the principles that "the things that unite are more important than the things that divide."

Others appointed on this committee are, Doyle G. Carlton, former governor of the State of Florida; Tampa; Scott Laughlin, Jacksonville; Claude Pepper, Tallahassee; Stewart Bowman, Clermont; Roe Folkerson, an editorial writer, Hollywood; Karl Lehmann, Tallahassee; and George Hiller, Miami.

Mr. Dingfelder was also appointed on the state committee for underprivileged children work. Walter Coleman, president of the Sanford Kiwanis Club, was appointed on the state committee for arranging for the Kiwanis international convention to be held in Washington, D. C., and Mayor T. L. Dunlap of Sanford was appointed state committeeman on vocational guidance.

William B. Zachary of Sanford was installed as lieutenant governor of the Central Division of Kiwanis Clubs. Harold H. Hipple, international trustee, was the installing officer.

Only High Court Or Governor Hoffman Can Save Doomed Man From Chair

No Decision Yet As To Reprieve

Reported Confession Has Not Been Sent To Jersey Governor

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 16.—(AP)—Governor Hoffman late this afternoon granted Bruno Hauptmann a reprieve of 30 days.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The U. S. Supreme Court this afternoon refused to save Hauptmann from death in the electric chair tomorrow night.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(AP)—In a dramatic eleventh hour effort, attorneys for Bruno Richard Hauptmann appealed today to the Supreme Court to save the convicted kidnaper and murderer of the Lindbergh baby from the electric chair tomorrow night. A petition for a writ of habeas corpus and a stay of execution was presented in open court shortly after 11 o'clock.

"You may see the papers," was the only comment of Chief Justice Hughes. The entire proceedings lasted only a few seconds.

The petition was signed in blue ink by Hauptmann, its allegations being similar to those in his recent unsuccessful appeal to the Federal District Court. Whether the Supreme Court would act on the petition may not be known before noon tomorrow. Previously it refused to review the trial.

Gov. Hoffman Undecided TRENTON, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Simultaneously with the announcement by Governor Hoffman's press aide here that the governor "has no knowledge of any confession" in the Lindbergh case, it was stated in other high sources today "there has been a confession and it is by someone other than Bruno Hauptmann. It was understood that the governor shortly before noon was in conference with a public official in New York.

William Conklin, the governor's press aide, also said he had reached no decision yet as to a reprieve. Only a reprieve by Hoffman or favorable action by the Supreme Court can save the German carpenter from the chair tomorrow night.

Hoffman had before him an affidavit by Samuel Small, professional penman of New York, that Hauptmann "could not possibly have written" the ransom notes which were a great factor in his conviction. Small drew his conclusion from a general method of writing.

Mrs. Anna Hauptmann went to the prison to see her husband who was reported calm. Today was her last visit to him before his scheduled execution.

Authorities concerned with investigation and prosecution of crime were previously quoted as saying "crackpot" confessions are not unusual in capital crimes.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Austin Phelps Palmer, an engineer who was indicted today by a federal grand jury on charges of sending threatening letters to President Franklin D. Roosevelt, pleaded guilty in Federal court yesterday. He will be sentenced Jan. 24.

A Better Farm Plan

In its recent decision on the AAA the Supreme Court has not held that the federal government cannot do anything for the relief of agriculture; it has said only that the method of attempting to relieve agriculture under the AAA did not conform to the Constitution of the United States. Many competent authorities are of the opinion that there are other methods of helping the farmers which will prove constitutional and which will also prove more practical in the long run.

Walter Lippmann, who is politically a Democrat, and socially a liberal, and who has been a fairly consistent supporter of President Roosevelt and the New Deal, is among those who does not agree with Senator Norris that the Supreme Court's decision obviates all possible aid to agriculture. "The problem of agricultural adjustment is to induce the farmer to farm more scientifically . . . to conserve the land," says Mr. Lippmann. "The governmental question involved is whether the United States should pay a bounty to agriculture to assist a more economic management of farms and to conserve the land by scientific crop diversification. . . I do not see how it can be doubted that such a policy is squarely within the spirit and the letter of the powers of Congress."

And yet, of the now invalidated AAA, Mr. Lippmann says: "There is a very good reason why there has been no wailing and gnashing of teeth at the judicial destruction of the AAA. It is that the court has cleared the ground for a far better agricultural program. Without some such general sweeping away of the emergency devices of the AAA and the powerful vested interests and sectional lobbies which it was establishing, it would have taken years of educational effort, probably years of disappointing effort, to induce Congress to consider seriously a truly national program. The far-sighted agricultural leaders have known for many months that they were in a sense the prisoners of the AAA's success. The thing worked so well to satisfy immediately the more politically powerful farmers that very little progress could be made in substituting a better policy."

"Yet AAA, though a justifiable expedient, was bound in the long run to become an economic and political monstrosity. The theory that the price of a few commodities selected out of all the products of the farms must be maintained at a level fixed by Congress meant that sooner or later Congress would succumb to the temptation to raise this price on some or all of them. The initial basis of AAA, which was to freeze the right to produce certain commodities on particular farms and then to treat a vested right among established farmers as against new farmers, was thoroughly objectionable. The delivery of government checks for not producing certain commodities was universally disliked."

"Yet, without some such decisive ending to this emergency system, it would almost certainly have perpetuated itself, would have degenerated into a scandal as great as that of the tariff lobbies, and would have discredited the whole conception of a national policy for agriculture."

It can hardly be doubted any longer that the Supreme Court has rendered the country a real service by bringing to an end a policy that was fraught with so much evil as the AAA, and, it is very probable, as a more practical and carefully considered plan takes its place, the farmers themselves will be among the loudest in their praise of the Court's action.

Safe Driving

Indicating that Florida motorists are awakening to the necessity for careful driving are such facts as these: that, though there were 25,559 more vehicles in use on Florida highways last year, there were 35 fewer fatalities than the year before. These facts are produced by Governor Sholtz' Public Safety Committee which urges continued caution in 1936. The following rules for safe driving are suggested:

1. A kid can be stopped before it starts if you drive slowly on oily or wet streets.
2. Be prepared for the reckless moves of the other drivers on the road.
3. Backing your car without looking to see that the road is clear is a dangerous practice—be certain the road is clear.
4. A train can't pull over, so observe the law—"STOP" 59 killed at crossings in 1934.
5. Children may be thoughtless, but you are a man and should not be. Blow your horn and give them all the room you can.
6. Give all the signs possible when making turns or stops—you know you expect them from the fellow ahead.
7. Never try to pass another vehicle going in the same direction on curves or when going up or down a hill. This is a violation of the traffic law in every state of the United States.
8. Running in and out of traffic to get ahead of the other fellow is a dangerous practice.
9. If you are walking down the highway, walk on the left side of the road facing traffic.
10. It is against the law for children under 16 years of age to drive an auto or truck.
11. Permitting children to play in the streets or run from behind parked automobiles is a bad practice—stop it—streets are not playgrounds.
12. Florida laws require trucks to have a mirror—be sure your truck has one.
13. If your equipment is faulty in any way, don't use your vehicle.
14. When you read of an accident—think that this might have happened to you or your family.
15. Parking on the highway with or without lights is dangerous and against the law—if you must park for repairs, use only one foot of pavement.

FARM RELIEF AND THE AAA

BY MARK SULLIVAN

On what President Roosevelt proposes as a substitute for Triple A, and what the Republicans bring forward as an alternative to Mr. Roosevelt's proposal, hangs much of that momentous question, who will carry the Mid-West states in the coming Presidential election? Mr. Roosevelt's plan, as so far revealed, is not auspicious for him.

Soil conservation, in one of at least three major New Deal policies which are unquestionably beneficial. All that has been said and written about the waste of soil is justified. The erosion that makes practically every American river and stream muddy half the time and carries some of the best of the soil into the sea almost gives justification to the phrase "indignity of American civilization." A president and an administration which would reverse the American practice in this respect would by that alone deserve censure.

Not only is the Administration's policy about soil saving wise and far-seeing, the methods used, so far, have been sound. Now, however, it is apparently the intention to merge soil conservation with Triple A. In an effort to have what is saveable of Triple A after the Supreme Court decision, against a soil conservation is to be made the justification for continuing many Triple A practices.

By the new plan, as that far developed, farmers are to be approached with a contract in which soil conservation is to be tied up with Triple A in such a manner as to make the two inseparable. The farmer will be paid a given amount of money to permit the government to plant trees, or to inaugurate some other method of soil preservation, on a part of the farmer's acres. Such a transaction, standing alone, or any of the other methods of soil saving, carried out on its own merits, would be not only unobjectionable, but worthy in the highest degree.

But in the new plan, as so far apparently laid out the farmer will be given this soil-preservation money only on condition that he permit the government to direct what and how much he may plant on all the acres of his whole farm. Under this arrangement practically all will be done that the Supreme Court decision prevents being done directly. As a matter of law and the Constitution and the courts, the new device would probably work.

But the new device ignores the apparent state of public opinion about Triple A. It seems safe to say that public opinion was rapidly turning against a system which gives the government any power to control what a farmer raises on his land and how much. It was turning against payment of money to farmers for not raising crops. It was turning against the creation of artificially high prices for food by using public funds to pay farmers to raise less than they otherwise would. It was turning against the whole "philosophy of scarcity."

That public feeling was coming to oppose all this is reasonably susceptible of proof. A nationwide newspaper poll which asked whether Triple A was favored resulted in returns of nearly 60 to 40 adverse to Triple A. Many farmers who took the cash benefits did not like the practice. Many farmers who refrained from participating heartily disliked the system. As for the consumers, who and may yet be, a principal factor their attitude was just beginning to be one of strenuous resistance. The cost of living might have been, and may yet be, the principal factor adverse to the Administration in the coming election. President Roosevelt, if politically shrewd, might readily thank the Supreme Court for loosening his hands from the tail of a bear that was just becoming dangerously embarrassing. The decision of the Supreme Court against Triple A was like its decision against N. E. A. Both these alphabetical devices had already come under widespread public disapproval. The decision of the court did little more than insert a lethal needle to shorten the death struggle of doomed institutions.

Throughout America there has come to be widespread assent to the talk that farming as an industry should have, for some time at least, special support from the government. The support, however, must come in some other way than by creating scarcity to the disadvantage of the consumer, and at the same time putting the farmer under an intolerable regime of inspection, supervision and harassing by agents of the government.

About all this there will be illuminating debate when the Administration's proposal for a substitute for Triple A comes before Congress. In the debate the Republicans no doubt will present whatever is their plan for farm relief.

The Republicans and the various aspirants for the Republican presidential nomination have as much cause as Mr. Roosevelt to be grateful to the Supreme Court. The Republicans are now free from the necessity of taking a position on Triple A as it stood. They have a clean page on which to write whatever they think should be done about farming. It is safe to say the Republicans will not subscribe to the extraordinary statement which Mr. Roosevelt permitted the press conference to quote from him:

"We must avoid any agricultural policy which will result in shipping our soil fertility to foreign countries."

Munitions Investigators In Senate Go After Old Story Of War Loans To The Allies

By WILLIAM S. WHITE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(P)—Source of a hundred sensations as to the world-wide secret activities of the war gun merchants, the Senate munitions committee returns to its job this time to turn up the story of American war loans.

In the backwash of the committee's astonishing disclosures, Congress passed in 1935 temporary neutrality laws that were the broadest the country ever has known. Now the investigators again become the means of dramatizing the views of those who want rigid neutrality and control of the munitions industry.

Already an inquiry has been made as to how much it would cost the government to manufacture its own guns and bombs and ships; a drive for a government monopoly on the implements of war appears in the offing.

The committee in its last session heard a story of international intrigue, of alleged graft and bribery reaching from Central America to China. Some of the testimony provoked diplomatic representations from abroad; no less majestic a figure than King George of England was pictured once before the committee substantially as an arms salesman for British interests—competing at one time against officers of the Army and Navy of the United States.

The inquiry brought forth secrets long guarded, and at one time committee investigators charged certain government departments with blocking them by withholding material information.

A great deal of what was told the inquiry subsequently was denied by the principals involved; munitions manufacturers struck out sharply against government manufacture of war weapons on the ground it could not be as efficient as private operations.

Chairman Nye of the committee reached the belief, he said, that some American munitions interests were co-operating with foreign companies to increase their profits through advocating large armies and navies. Among the many accusations put forward, either through witnesses, matter dug up by committee investigations, or upon the statements of senators were these:

"That a son of the late French premier Clemenceau was listed as a former agent in Europe of an English munitions firm. That Sir Basil Zaharoff, 'mystery man' of Europe, got commissions from an American concern which had agreed with a British company to split the world's submarine building business.

"The World War German U-boats were built on an American-owned patent. That a submarine salesman seriously attempted to attend the 1925 disarmament conference as a delegate.

"That an American ambassador and other high government officials in 1922 helped an American submarine company to sell its wares in South America. That one company was successful in foisting national anthems to sell munitions.

"That an American naval officer was sent abroad as a 'honey moon' to help a private firm sell its boats. That the United States War and Navy Departments were at one time co-operating fully in helping an American munitions concern build up foreign business.

"That arms manufacturers knew as early as 1906—six years before the World War—a great scandal was brewing. That the United States Government who responded to the British were kept away from the British ship by the sounding of the gun.

Labor Federation Executives Meet In Miami Today

MIAMI, Jan. 16.—(P)—With renewal of the controversy between craft unionists and industrial unionists confidently expected, 17 members of the potent executive council of the American Federation of Labor today began consideration of the manifold issues confronting organized labor this new year.

Confronting the committee members, as they assembled, was the flat demand of John Brophy, director of the committee for industrial organization, that the federation take "serious and immediate steps" to allow organization of auto, steel, rubber and radio workers along industrial lines.

Because 1936 is an election year, the council also is expected to discuss possible political action by labor organized under it—whether or not, for instance, President Roosevelt and the New Deal shall be supported.

ARBOR DAY

By Mrs. J. Howell Fish
Tomorrow is Arbor Day. Arbor is from the Latin word meaning tree and that's what it is—"Tree Day." Are you going to plant a tree tomorrow? Arbor Day is celebrated mostly in the schools by the children but what a nice idea for everyone to observe it.

Think how our town would look without our trees! How we would suffer without their shade during the hot summer. Think of the multiple uses to which timber is put. Nearly every activity of ours depends directly or indirectly upon some product of the forests.

Plant a tree tomorrow. Let it be in memory of some loved one. Plant one for each of your children. Why not make it our custom for what more satisfying tribute could we pay to anyone than a living growing tree enduring after we are gone.
