Business

When planning a party that will establish your reputation as a creative hostess, why not consider a "Far away places" theme. Everyone (adults included) loves to pretend. Party time can be fun time, when you plan the entire evening around an exotic foreign theme.

Your decorations can be as simple or as fancy as you want to make them . . . dress for the evening can be costume, semi-formal or "comeas you are." And the highlight of your evening will be the refreshments you serve - if you fit them to the home,

For planning such an event you'll need a cook book with some international ideas. The Editors of Better Homes & Gardens have compiled just such a book - MEALS WITH A FOREIGN FLAIR. It's one of eight volumes in the Creative Cooking Library, an inexpensive series currently available in Food Fair stores.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the mother who read her 16-year-old daughter's diary and was "worried sick." I. too, was 16 when my mother read my diary (20 years ago). It read like this: After choir practice we all went to Margaret's house and as usual her mother was out. We were popping corn when Margaret's brother came in with some friends. 'R.M.' sure is the love of my life. When Margaret's mother came home, 'R.M.' was showing us how the coach gives rubdowns. trouble is evident. I'm sure she thought the worst! Next week after choir we will go to Betty's as her folks will be out of DEAR ABBY: I, too, town. Oh, boy! Here's hop-

Some of the above was true, but the part about 'R.M.' was all wishful thinking. I had a terrific crush on him and he didn't know I was alive. I filled my diary with one imaginary love affair after another. Of course my mother would never believe that it was all made up. I'm sure that many teenagers do this today. My own little girl (13) is now entering the thrilling age of secrets, and I am glad I have a secret to help guide me. Sincerely, AUTHOR OF A TEENAGE DIARY

DEAR ABBY: I seldom disagree with you, but when you say that It is "unforgivable" for a mother to read her daughter's diary, I can't go along with that. It is the DUTY of parents to keep a close eye on their children until they are able to assume full responsibility for their actions. If a mother can learn something that will be helpful in guiding her daughter by reading her diary, or letters, or listening in on telephone conversations, I say more power to her! The "loss of privacy" is not nearly as serious to 16- or 16-year-olds as the trouble they could get into when they get away with things they shouldn't. It doesn't do any good to hear the confessions after a girl is in trouble when the have read my 16-year-old daughter's dlary for more than five years, and I expect to tell her only when she is lying awake waiting for her teenager to come in. By reading it, I have come to understand the intense need for love and patience at 16. It has helped me to foresse trouble before it develops, and to offer wise guidance. It has taught me to listen instead of preach. It has beloed me to set limits before they are breached. It has also given me growing confidence in my daughter's ability to make the right decisions. I believe I have an obligation to God to return this child to Him as a fulfilled, useful person, not as an apology. And I know that I will be forgiven for using "unforgivable" means to do so when the time comes.

mother of a 16-year-old boy, and while he doesn't keep a diary, I did come across an unfinished letter he had written to a boy cousin. I was shocked and heartsick at some of the stuff he said he had done. Since one incident had to do with school, I got in touch with his football coach and a helpful school counselor, and had a talk with them. It turned out that my son hadn't done any of these things! He was just tired of being a "good kid" and wanted to appear more daring and spirited. Perhaps our entertainment today makes crime and violence appear so glamourous and exciting that our young people feel almost ashamed if they don't get into some sort of trouble. Parents shouldn't feel hurt if their children don't share all their thoughts and dreams with them. I know I didn't, and I had wonderful par-

Fatter 'Middle' Needed

One of the incendiary factors causing unrest in underdeveloped lands, and even in some that are relatively advanced, is inequality in income distribution. The rich are very rich and few, the poor are very poor

We of the United States, most of us would agree, have pretty well solved that problem, and through peaceful means.

An exception to that consensus is taken by Herman P. Miller, an economist with the Census Bureau. In a recent study entitled "Rich Man, Poor Man," he tosses out the following statistics:

The top one-fifth of U.S. families receive 45 per cent of the nation's income, only one percentage point less than their share 20 years ago. The bottom fifth, however, is receiving exactly the same as in 1944 -5 per cent.

"Our 'social revolution' ended 20 years ago," Miller asserts. Before that, between 1929 and 1944, the top fifth's share went down by eight percentage points and the bottom group's share increased slightly.

He sees signs that there may actually be a widening of the distance between top and bottom, which he fears will be accelerated by the machines that are displacing unskilled and semiskilled workers.

On the other side of the picture, Miller reports that although the percentages shares of the American economic pie have remained the same, the dollar size of those shares has steadily grown, even allowing for inflation.

In 1929, 51 per cent of U.S. families earned less than $3,000 yearly (in 1962 dollars). In 1962, the under-$3,000 group was down to 21 per cent of all families.

It may be that the U.S. has arrived at a more or less permanent percentage arrangement among the rich, the well-off and the poor. Whether or not it is the optimum arrangement is open to question.

But the problem would seem to be less one of shaving percentage points off the top and more one of bringing the lower end closer to the middle in terms of absolute dollars.

It is to upgrade this "poor fifth" of the nation - the 21 per cent earning less than 33,000 - that President Johnson has launched his "war on poverty."

Thought For Today

They are afraid also of what is high, and terrors are in the way; the almond tree blossoms, the grasshopper drags itself along and desire fails; because man goes to his eternal home, and the mourners go about the streets.-Eccl. 12:5.

It is the utmost folly—it is just short of suicide—to take the position that citizens of any country should hold their tongues for fear of causing distress to the immediate and sometimes torturous policies of their leaders. - Wendell L. Willkie.

Beef Price War Hits Texas Town

ABILENE, Tex. (UPI) -Abilene supermarkets are modern in every respect these days except the price of beef. The reason is a beef price war that has trimmed the cost of chuck roast to 25 cents a pound and sirloin steak to 49 cents a pound. Customers have gleefully gone on steak diets while supermarket managers and meat market operators are sizzling like backyard barbecues. Cattlemen are bellowing louder than some of their

No one seems to know how or why the price war got started, but most seem to agree that there is no end in sight.

Store owners insist they are selling only top quality, government inspected beef and although cattlemen claim imports are the reason for the low prices, imported beef is not among that being sold at reduced rates.

Reds Ask Ouster Of Police Head

Barry Nearing Half-Way Mark

WASHINGTON (UPI) -Sen. Barry Goldwater appears likely to pick up this week another big block of delegate votes to the Republican National Convention.

The Arizona senator, who already has 810 first-ballot votes according to a United Press International survey, could get 84 more in Florida's primary Tuesday and 13 from Mississippi at a state GOP convention Saturday.

By getting 18 or more delegates, Goldwater would have more than half of the 655 votes needed to win the GOP nomination at the San Francisco convention opening July

Keyserling For DuPont Curb

WASHINGTON (UPI) Economist Leon H. Keyserling Tuesday endorsed legisla-tion which would require the Alfred I. DuPont Estate to sell its banking interests.

The legislation would place the DuPont banks under the Bank Holding Act which bars banking institutions from engaging in commercial interests outside the banking field. The DuPont Estate presently is exempt from the act.
