Thousands Of Fish Die In St. Johns

By JANE CASSELLBERY
Herald Staff Writer

Thousands of fish are floating dead or dying in the St. Johns River between Lake Monroe and Lake Harney from what some say is lack of oxygen.

Many residents of both the Volusia and Seminole Counties' sides of the river are expressing concern today not only about the mammoth fish kill, but the prospect that the river they love itself may be dying.

J.T. Turnipseed, president of the Friends of the St. Johns, who inspected the area of the kill by boat Wednesday afternoon, described the scene: "Half way between Lemon Bluff and Lake Harney is the worst area," he said, "we counted up to 500 dead fish and then quit—there must be thousands. They are mostly scale fish—bass, shiner-crackers and what looks like millions of small shad all dead. We also saw some dead catfish and even a dead sting ray."

Turnipseed said two young men camped along the shore were catching the blue crab and bass that had come up to the shallows desperately seeking oxygen.

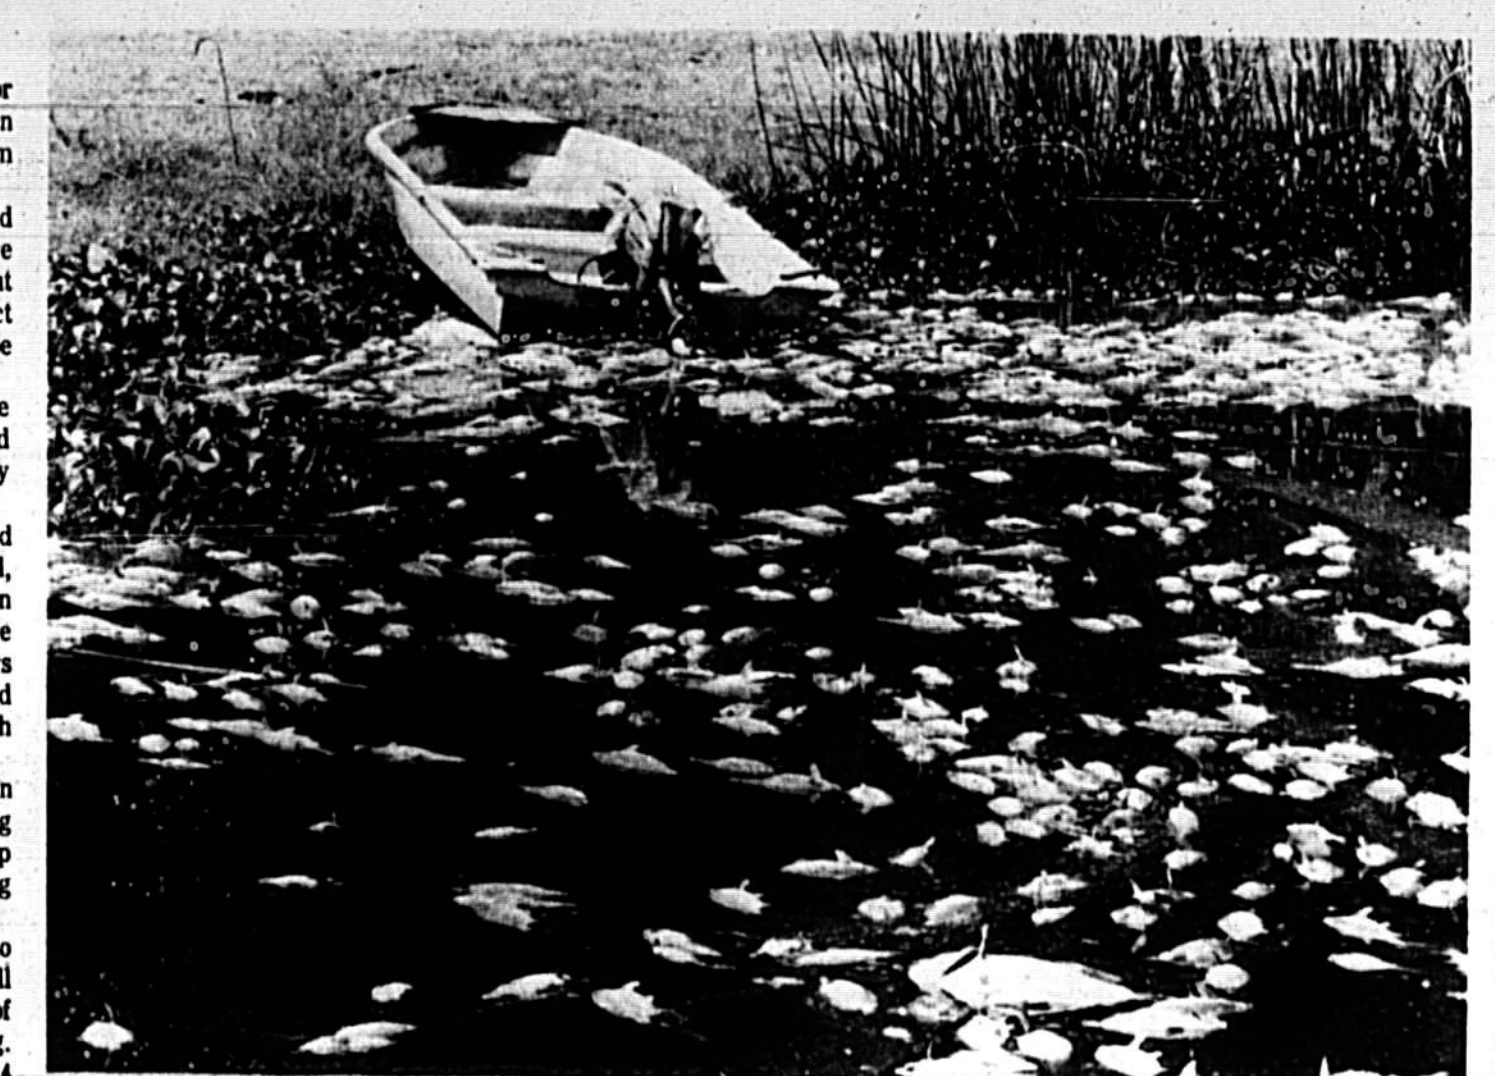

People in boats also were trying to catch the bass in the water that were still breathing, he said. "There were bass of all sizes from 4 to 20 inches long. Although some looked about 10 to 14 pounds, they were bloated and probably weighed less," he added.

"Green algae bloom that covers the river is caused by pollution," Turnipseed said. "If the current was flowing, it would have been swept away, but there has been none the last few months."

In fact, Mrs. Elsie W. Lacey of Lemon Bluff notes that the hyacinths, debris and dead fish on the river seem to be drifting south, which for the St. Johns is upstream. "We think it's important," she said, "as the Friends of the St. Johns have been trying to do, to make everyone aware of the danger of losing our important natural resource."

"I would like to do something, but what can I do? Take a drinking straw and blow oxygen in the water?"

Claude Creel, who lives on the river near the Ocoola landfill at Geneva, a point where the situation is worse, said the fish began dying Tuesday afternoon. He noticed that on that cloudy day the silvery green algae which had covered

Rain Sent Pollutants Into River: Officials

By DAVID M. HAZLER
Herald Staff Writer

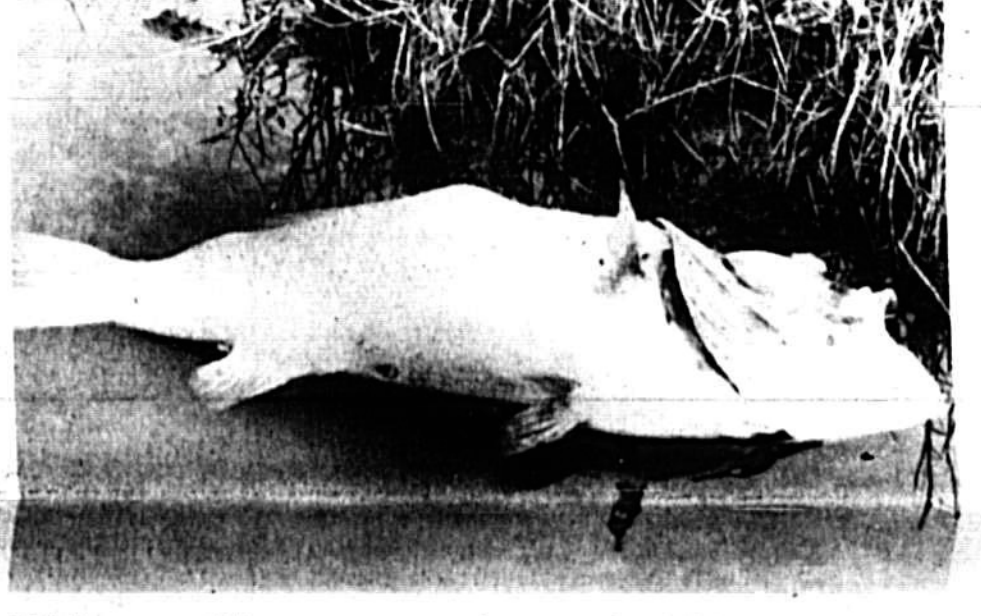

Hot days filled with sunshine followed by thunderstorms are the immediate cause of the St. Johns River fish kill, state biologists say.

Department of Environmental Regulation (DER) Pollution Control Specialist Bob Soklaski explained the rainy weather caused nutrients from fertilized land and septic tanks to wash into the river, causing an algae bloom.

The simple green plants soon died off, leaving behind a second bloom of brown microscopic plankton feeding on their remains and using up most of the oxygen in the water, suffocating the fish.

Fish will continue to die for the next week, Soklaski predicted. He said he expects the plankton population to decrease as quickly as it exploded this week.

Sam McKinny, fisheries biologist for the state Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission said he expects fishing in the area will be bad for the next few days,

This largemouth bass was among the many dead fish now floating in the algae covered river.

the surface disappeared before the fish were stricken. "It's a mess," said Creel. "The smell is terrible and if it gets any worse we may have to move out for a few days till it clears up."

Creel said a neighbor with a dip net pulled out five bass over 10 pounds that were still breathing and 15 bass from 5 to 10 pounds. He counted "35 to 40" bass over 10 pounds which were already dead.

Many small fish were in the shallow water trying to get air, he said. "It's a shame to see something as pretty as the river die because of a man-made mess."

Creel commented, he said just across the river from his place is a big slough, which serves as a breeding and spawning ground for bass.

"We need to stop the nutrients from flowing into Lake Harney from the Econ River," said Creel. "We need to collect enough money to sue the government agencies and then we may force them to save the river."

Vic Levitt, who lives at Lemon Bluff, said the water level in the river is 2 or 3 feet below normal partly due to the lack of rain and partly because the water is being dammed and diverted into canals at the headwaters by agricultural interests and at Lake Washington the water is being used for water in the Melbourne area.

Turnipseed said that after trying to call the Department of Environmental Regulation and the Environmental Protection Agency without success, he finally called the U.S. EPA office in Atlanta. He said the official there expressed concern and noted that they had refused to go along with a request that the process to delete the nitrates and phosphates from the discharge be eliminated from Iron Bridge regional sewage treatment plant being built in Southeast Seminole County.

Others complained that the Game and Freshwater Fish Commission and other local agencies brought little response and officials seemed unconcerned.

Turnipseed told him the fish kills were "common." "This is not common in clean water," he said. "This river is in more serious condition than Lake Topokalgia in Osceola County and we need to get federal and state agencies out to see what is happening. The St. Johns River Water District won't even talk about it."

Lake Mary, DOT Say Syndicate Off Track

Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce secretary Virginia Longwell samples Pragy Hornert's recipe for the recipe book being compiled by the Golden Age Olympics Committee for sale at the Sanford Fourth of July festivities. Local cooks wishing their favorite recipes to be included in the book should send them to the chamber office as soon as possible.

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

A syndicate's plans to build a $14-million quarter-horse racetrack have run into roadblocks from two governmental agencies—the State Department of Transportation and the city of Lake Mary.

Marc Robinson, head of a group of investors planning the facility, said today the track is to be located on 152 acres south of Lake Mary Boulevard. The group has a contract to purchase the Lake Mary property. Lake Mary will not have to worry about traffic problems from the track because "we are going to build an interchange," he said. The group already has preliminary approval for the Interstate-4 interchange from both the DOT and the federal government, he added.

However, Bill McKelvey, deputy district engineer of the DOT's Deland office, said today: "It is highly unlikely that an interchange could be built where the Sunshine Park people propose to build one."

McKelvey said a representative from a consulting engineering firm, Howard, Needles, Tammen and Bergendoff, talked to DOT "planning people" on June 3. "They wanted to know about the possibility of locating an interchange 1.3 miles south of the existing Lake Mary interchange," McKelvey said.

McKelvey said existing DOT policy calls for a minimum spacing between interchanges of three miles in rural areas. "The consultants went away with the understanding an interchange would have to be three miles away. Three miles away they would come into an area where the DOT plans to build a rest area," he said.

Meanwhile, Lake Mary City Manager Phil Kulgas said today the city council has expressed its opposition to a racetrack being constructed in the city. He added the city has received quite a few telephone calls from the Crossings, a planned unit development near the proposed racetrack site, opposing the idea.

He said he will still attempt to gain a harness racing permit, which will require either legislative approval or approval by the people in an election.

Robinson asked the county several months ago for cost estimates for holding a referendum on the question of a harness racetrack. After researching the law, County Administrator Roger Neiswander said a special election would have to be called.

The question could not, according to law, be considered at a regular election. Costs for holding a special election, Neiswander informed Robinson, would be $20,000 and the money would have to be posted in advance.

Sunshine Park plans ground-breaking in November for the facilities and racing possibly by October, 1981, depending on what dates are approved by the state.

Robinson said according to the master plan and land planning underway, the development of the 152-acre racetrack includes: a five-eighths mile track; a one-quarter mile chute for quarter-horses; parking for 3,500 cars; clubhouse with dining facilities large enough to serve 500 persons and clubhouse seating for 1,100.

He said, in addition, the grandstand will seat close to 2,000. Robinson said other amenities planned include a beauty shop, barber shop and gift shop, restaurant and food concession.

Other facilities on site, he said, will include 20 fireproof bars with sprinklers to house 800 horses initially; a separate half-mile training track; base ball and exhibition field; housing for stable help; recreation, Olympic size pool; game room; tennis courts; recreational vehicle parking and a trailer park for trainers coming in with their families.

Robinson said plans also include a mature club to be held on Saturdays giving those wishing to get involved in the sport a starting point—a place where they can learn about the care of horses and about racing. Starters, announcers and judges can be trained in the club, he said.

Electronics Firm Coming To Altamonte

The Seminole County Industrial Development Authority (SCIDA) this morning approved issuing $4.4 million in industrial revenue bonds, assuring an electronics firm will locate in Altamonte Springs.

The firm, Sun World Circuits, Inc., is expected to employ 125 to 200 people by 1982.

SCIDA Director Jim Daniel said the bonds will be used to finance a $3 million plant, land acquisition and equipment.

Plant sales, which had ground almost to a halt about a month ago because bank interest rates were higher, have picked up, according to Daniel.

"It's gotten a lot better, things have loosened up," he said.

Daniel explained that SCIDA is a "pass through" agency which approves bond issues to encourage industry to locate in Seminole County, but does not do the financing. Southeast First National Bank of Miami has agreed to handle the bonds.

Interest on the bonds are exempt from federal taxes.

Don World Circuits is expected to build a 30,000-square-foot plant that will produce printed circuit boards for electronics manufacturers throughout the southwest. The firm has an option on three lots south of Sunshine Lane in Altamonte Springs. It plans to hire from the local area at starting salaries of $3.50 per hour.

Daniel said the SCIDA board this morning also discussed other industry prospects for the county including three product distributors and a Japanese electronics firm. The board will meet again July 2.

Must History Repeat Itself?

Forty years ago this month, France clanked under the hammer blows of the German blitzkrieg. What now seems hardly more than a footnote to history was, in fact, a cataclysm that stunned the world.

The traditional divisions between the political left and right in France became unbridgeable. Bitter factionalism ensured an enfeebled leadership. The French army, considered by many at the time to be the best in the world, nevertheless put its faith in the static defenses of the Maginot Line.

When the storm broke, it carried everything before it. Hitler's panzer divisions struck France and the Low Countries on May 10, 1940. Ten days later, German armor reached the Channel coast, splitting the allied armies and dooming France.

Today, NATO faces military odds three times worse than those confronting the Western allies in that calamitous spring four decades ago. The foolish clamor for disarmament and appeasement can still be heard in Western Europe and here at home.

Must history repeat? And if it does, and Americans face their own Dunkirk, who could then rescue us?

Chinese To Begin New Era?

There have been some amazing developments out of China in the few short years of its turnaround from xenophobic hatred of the ultra-radical communist faith to cooperative member of the world community.

It has turned from reviling the industrialists of the capitalist world to inviting their business and advice. Instead of slamming its door on the outside world, it is now promoting itself as a tourist attraction.

After decades of squaring off against the American paper dragon, it is now a virtual ally. An authoritarian society in which there is only one truth and that is the one laid down in Peking, it even briefly experimented with semi-free speech.

'Harvest' Of Ideas?

By EDWARD CRAIG UPI Business Writer NEW YORK (UPI) — The idea is hardly that original but international Harvester is pretty excited these days about the technological think tank it has coming on line.

Bob WAGMAN New Group To Assist Reagan

WASHINGTON (NEA) — In the last two weeks, the Reagan campaign has tried to broaden its base by bringing on behind key professionals who have been identified with candidates from the Republican Party's more liberal wing.

A special invitation went out to Stuart Spencer and John Deardourf, the man most responsible for Gerald Ford's 1976 campaign. Their reply was "no thanks" or words to that effect.

Under federal election law, the government provides all general election campaign money for the Republican and Democratic presidential nominees. There is a limit on how much the candidates can spend; this year, it is $28.4 million.

COUNTY IN BRIEF Port Of Sanford Residents Block Incinerator Permit

Residents near the Port of Sanford succeeded this week in convincing the Seminole County Commission to uphold the county's Board of Adjustment in denying a special permit for a pathological incinerator at the port.

The incinerator would have burned human and animal flesh. Despite arguments to the contrary by Port Administrator Dennis Dolger, residents said they feared emissions, odor, leakage of diseased materials during transportation and said the "just don't like the idea."

At a work session this week the commission considered the possibility of updating its sidewalk construction policies. Commissioners Sandra Glenn and Bob Sturm said they were in favor of looking at participation projects, where the county would share the cost of a sidewalk installation with a city when a planned city sidewalk goes along a county road.

Commissioner Richard Williams agreed that building sidewalks is becoming "a bigger and bigger issue every year," but said there are enough areas in the county that need them without going into cities.

Budget Hearings July 23 The commission and county staff settled on July 23 as the day to begin day-long hearings on the 1980-81 fiscal year budget proposals for the county.

Nigeria Awaits Local Teacher

Lake Brantley High School social studies teacher Desta Horner is one of 13 Florida teachers from kindergarten through 12th grade selected to spend 6 1/2 weeks in Nigeria, Africa this summer in an in-depth study of that country.

Ms. Horner will take a four-day orientation course beginning June 20 prior to leaving on June 24. She will return Aug. 7. During the orientation the group will be given a crash course in tribal languages and six books to read.

The project is funded through a $50,000 grant from the U.S. Department of Education to the University of Florida, one of the four universities in the United States with a federally sponsored center for African studies, Ms. Horner said.

Ms. Horner is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Horner of Sanford. Ms. Horner said she will be expected to conduct a workshop for all social studies teachers in the county and will become a primary resource person in Seminole County.

CIA Reports To Officials Questioned

WASHINGTON — Defenders of the Central Intelligence Agency have always responded to exposure of the agency's illegal activities and operational failures by stressing the importance to U.S. policy-makers of accurate intelligence-gathering.

'Scared Silly' Pryor Given 50% Chance

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Richard Pryor's attorney says the comedian was critically injured by an exploding glass of rum, but police stand behind earlier reports he was using ether to purify cocaine when the mixture flared up.

"He told me he was lighting a cigarette and holding a glass of rum when it happened," attorney David Franklin said Wednesday. "There was this explosion."

Police had reported Tuesday that the 39-year-old entertainer told a doctor at the hospital he had been "freebasing" cocaine when ether used in the purifying process ignited, enveloping him in flames.

But Dr. Richard Grossman and his brother, Dr. Jack Grossman, who have been supervising Pryor's care at Sherman Oaks Community Hospital's burn center, denied telling police Pryor had been using freebase.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Comedian Redd Foxx sent flowers and a telegram Wednesday to the hospital room of his old friend Richard Pryor, who is in critical condition with third-degree burns.

The telegram read: "I knew you were looking for me, but I didn't expect you to send up smoke signals."

Pryor remains in critical condition, but Wednesday underwent his first treatment in a pressurized chamber to speed healing.

The comedian's attorney said he did not believe the police version of Pryor's accident because of doctors' denial, a police statement that there would be no prosecution, and a Fire Department report that no drugs were found in Pryor's Northridge home.

Police, however, said they had no doubts about the incident and they were sticking to their version.

Dr. Richard Grossman said Pryor remains on the critical list but now has a 50-50 chance of survival. When Pryor died at the burn center Monday, he was given a one-in-three chance to live because of third-degree burns over 50 percent of his upper body.

"He is sitting in there and saying, 'I want to live, and that's the best medicine we've got,'" Grossman said. "He's scared silly — that's what he said — and he's got a perfect right to be."

He said Pryor was able to walk and feed himself and is "in good spirits, alert and awake."

Legislature Keeps Law To Inspect All Trucks

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Gov. Bob Graham managed not only to save a program to make sure the giant tractor-trailer trucks operating on Florida roads are safe, but expand it to include the private fleets of big companies.

A proposal by Graham was approved 34-0 by the Senate and 92-30 by the House Wednesday shortly before adjournment of the special session.

It will allow safety inspections of trucks to continue after Public Service Commission transportation laws "sunset" July 1. All trucks would have to be inspected, including the private fleets operated by Winn-Dixie, Publix and other big companies that were never under the PSC's jurisdiction.

Proposed Ban Draws Fire

PALATKA, Fla. (UPI) — A proposal to ban wheeled vehicles from 70,000 acres of upper St. Johns River marshland in Brevard and Indian River counties drew protests Wednesday from a group representing Florida hunters.

The St. Johns River Water Management District, which owns and administers the marsh, proposed the temporary ban until the effects of the vehicles on the vegetation in the area can be studied and evaluated.

Jerry Brooks, director of the district's environmental sciences division, told the board that tank trucks, tracked vehicles, weighing up to 7,000 pounds, cause damage to vegetation in the marshland and may spread nuisance plants.

Jax Bridge In Question

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — The tragic collapse of the Sunshine Skyway Bridge into Tampa Bay has become a factor in the controversy surrounding a planned bridge in Jacksonville.

Cabinet aides were warned Wednesday that the design of the Dunde Point bridge would make it vulnerable to collapse in the same way the Sunshine Skyway fell apart when it was rammmed May 8 by the freighter Summit Venture, killing at least 35 persons.

But Jacksonville Transportation Authority officials insisted the bridge would be much safer than the skyway, noting that the Coast Guard, after accumulating 32 volumes of evidence, issued a permit for it.

County Approves 29 New CETA Jobs

The Seminole County Commission this week approved 29 new CETA jobs that will utilize over $200,000 in federal funds over the next year.

The jobs will be at a number of local non-profit and public agencies. They will be filled by economically disadvantaged workers eligible under CETA, the federal Comprehensive Employment Training Act.

Twelve positions at a cost of $117,869 were approved for the Seminole Youth Sports Association. The jobs include a receptionist, coordinators for basketball, football, and soccer; four maintenance workers; three site directors; and a sports publication field director.

The Seminole County School Board won approval for five clerical aide-typists that will cost $33,855.

The board also approved clerk-typist positions for the city of Altamonte Springs, the Central Florida Migrant and Community Health Center and Seminole Community Action.

Seminole Community Action had to settle for one position instead of two, however.

Shelly Cox, SCA spokesman, said the positions were needed due to an increase in paperwork from increased federal demands for documentation concerning the agencies activities.

But upon further questioning, Ms. Cox revealed that those demands began three years ago.

"If you've been able to handle the work for three years, why do you need new position now?" asked Commissioner Richard Williams.

One clerk-typist position for the agency was approved 3-2, the other was defeated 4-1 with only Commissioner Sandra Glenn voting in favor of the proposed job.

Central Florida Legal Services, Inc. was unanimously denied its request for a disability intake assistant-typist.

Also approved were three employment security aide positions for the Florida State Employment Service and the bureau of unemployment compensation in Altamonte Springs and Sanford. Two animal keeper technician positions were approved for the Central Florida Zoological Society, Inc. and the migrant center was also granted a laboratory assistant.

29 Suspected Cuban Criminals Leave Fort Chaffee

FORT CHAFFEE, Ark. (UPI) — Relocation camp officials have transferred 29 Cuban refugees suspected of committing crimes in their native country or in the United States to a federal prison in Atlanta.

The refugees, who had been held in the fort stockade, boarded a chartered plane at the Fort Smith Municipal Airport at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Officials originally said as many as 37 would be transferred, but Federal Emergency Management Administration spokeswoman Neila Petrick said all the paperwork was not completed on those left behind.

"I suspect if the others have (criminal) records, they will be taken later," Ms. Petrick said.

Camp officials sent 60 suspected troublemakers to an El Paso, Texas, detention center Saturday. Originally, Fort Chaffee officials had said the additional 30 or so would also go to El Paso.

However, Immigration and Naturalization Service south-

Graham To Back Petition?

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Gov. Bob Graham may get behind a petition drive to bypass the Legislature and put on the November ballot a single-member districting amendment, rejected by the Senate just before the Legislature adjourned its 1980 session Wednesday.

With the deadline for getting the signatures three weeks away, supporters think only the active backing of Graham can pull off a similar win for single member districts.

While there was still a chance of legislative approval, Graham refused all overtures of Common Cause people's lobby to lend his name to its drive to get enough signatures of voters to put it on the ballot.

But when the Senate killed off the plan before pulling out for home, he got mad.

In a press conference right after adjournment, he didn't say flatly that he will lead the campaign.

5 Boats Arrive At Key West

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI) — Despite the wet weather covering Florida, Cuba and the straits in between, five boats arrived in Key West Wednesday as seafight stragglers continue to trickle into the United States.

The boats carried 296 refugees, bringing the total since the seafight began to 112,850.

Meanwhile, at the Talladega, Ala., federal prison Wednesday, the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service began deportation hearings for 390 Cuban men who had been imprisoned in Cuba.

West commissioner D.E. Powell said: "It was never considered they would come down here to begin with. We've insisted all along that no known criminals would be sent to El Paso in view of the fact it's a minimum security installation."

As in the case of the refugees sent to El-Paso, those in Atlanta will await exclusionary hearings.

Meanwhile, the refugee population dropped below 17,000 Wednesday and two military units put to work as a result of the June 1 rioting were told they would be going home.

Officials said about 16,500 refugees were still on the post Wednesday and nearly all had completed their health screenings.

Van Rush of the Health and Human Services Department said more than 19,000 refugees had been screened by his staff.

"We've practically shut down the big screening agency," Rush said. "Now we are just hunting those who haven't been screened."

The 142nd Field Artillery Brigade of the Arkansas National Guard will leave the post Friday. Its 900 members were at the installation for a two-week training exercise when they were put into action as a security force after violence broke out.

The Army Reserve 480th Engineer Company will leave Saturday. Its members built wire and wooden fences to restrict refugees after the rioting.

Many Flowers Will Bloom All Summer

Colorful, flowering plants are an important part of home landscapes. They brighten the whole scene.

Florida's hot rainy summers are hard on many flowers, but there are several perennials that can thrive well.

Some of these are the Cannas, Periwinkle, Impatiens, Marigold and Zinnias.

The Canna is a large tropical appearing perennial. The stems arise from rhizomes and will die down in winter. They thrive in most any soil and like full sun.

The Periwinkle is easy to grow, tolerates extreme heat and thrives in hot sun. The plant is covered constantly with many pink or white flowers. It grows from seed and often reseeds itself.

Impatiens is a good choice, but likes shady areas. It will produce flowers all summer in all shades of pink - even an orange-pink.

Zinnias and Marigolds are well known for the summer garden. They are excellent for cut flowers. Marigolds come in various sizes and in colors ranging from very pale yellow and bright yellow to orange and rusty brown.

Zinnias also come in a variety of sizes and in almost any color, except blue.

Once established, these pretty flowers will bloom and delight all who pass by, the whole summer long - ROSE CIRCLE, Sanford Garden Club

Pro Says Phone Training Difficult To Teach Help

DEAR ABBY: A while back you had a letter from an employer who resented having his telephone calls to others screened by a secretary. The stupidity and ignorance that make people believe they can invade anyone's privacy at a time of their choosing by simply picking up the telephone and calling is indeed remarkable.

After 30 years of professional life, I have concluded that one of the most difficult tasks in secretarial training is teaching office personnel how to handle telephone calls.

Alexander Graham Bell invented a wonderful instrument, but unfortunately he never anticipated the problems his invention would cause with its improper use.

When I get to heaven, I plan to discuss this with him in detail.

SYRACUSE PHYSICIAN

DEAR PHYSICIAN: If there's a line to heaven, it's willing to take the call, the secretary then says, "I am sorry, but Mr. Smith is unavailable at the moment. If you will give me your number I will ask him to return your call." (She never says, "I'm sorry, but Mr. Smith is in conference.")

There is no way of saying those words without sounding pompous.)

An increasing number of busy executives are answering their direct-dial number to only those they want to have. If the call is a nuisance or inconsequential, anyone bright enough to be an executive will know how to terminate it quickly and diplomatically.

DEAR ABBY: I recently met a charming woman who is new in town, and when we parted, I casually said, "I hope we can get together sometime in the near future."

She telephoned the very next day and said she and her husband would like to come to my home for lunch next Saturday! This shocked me, as I certainly did not intend for her to bring her husband. Also, I resented her inviting herself, so I said Saturday was not convenient for me. Well, she has been calling me daily to set up a convenient date.

If she is this nervous after only one meeting, what can I expect if we become better friends? Knowing how presumptuous she is, I would rather not get involved with her at all. How can this be handled tactfully?

HARRISBURG IN HARRISBURG

DEAR HARRISBURG: Continue to find each suggestible "inconvenient." She will get the message eventually—I hope.

DEAR HARRISBURG: About sex, love, drugs, and the pain of growing up? Get Abby's new booklet, "What Every Teen-ager Ought to Know." Send $2 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Teen Booklet, 133 Lakely Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Doctors Testing New Female Drugs

DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm a 67-year-old female and for years, ever since my menopause, I've been getting these terrible sweats. My whole upper torso from my head down to my waist is drenched with sweat. Sometimes these occur every hour. It's very uncomfortable and my clothes get soaking wet. I have friends with the same problem, too, and our doctors can't help us. Will you?

Normally this medicine is used for high blood pressure and irregular heartbeats and a variety of other disorders. You might ask your doctor about this. If he's willing, he might want to try you on Inderal and see if that will relieve your problem. For Inderal is not a medicine that everyone can take, but it just could be the answer to some women's problems with recurrent episodes of hot flashes and sweating. You can take my column along to your doctor. He won't mind.

I'm afraid the general understanding of this problem is limited. There is some new information, however, that suggests that these attacks are associated with some abnormal function of the thermostat in your brain that regulates your body temperature. Whenever your body needs to be cooled, there is a built-in mechanism that is turned on that causes increased circulation to the skin and sweating. This area is located very close to the pituitary gland in the floor of the brain that's associated with your hormone system. Apparently that's why the whole mechanism gets out of whack at the menopause time.

Some doctors are now testing the use of progesterone, the other common female hormone besides estrogen; to see if it can help control these hot flashes. There's also some evidence that these are associated with the release of adrenaline. That can be associated with stress or perhaps other factors. For this reason, some doctors are now treating such disorders with Inderal.

A prolonged or unexplained cough should not be neglected. Readers who want more information can send 75 cents with a long, stamped self-addressed envelope for The Health Letter number 818, Health Letter number 818, Cough: How and When to Treat It. Send your request to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1651, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

WIN AT BRIDGE

That way you get on to the next deal quickly and have a chance to complain about the bad luck of having the same hand in each suit in both your hand and dummy. A slightly better approach is to draw trumps, then cash your aces and kings in the minor suits and then throw West started with a spade. In case West started with a spade, then two cards in each minor suit he had to lead another spade. Now you ruff in one hand, discard in the other and make your contract. This play fails because West holds three diamonds and can lead his jack to East's queen.

The best way to make your contract. There is a play that is certain as long as West holds eight spades. You draw trumps and cash the high side cards as before. Then you lead your last diamond, not your last spade. If East leads his last spade, but must then give you the ruff and discard. If East wins the trick he can take a club, but is then dead and buried.

Safety is a family affair. GOVERNOR'S HIGHWAY SAFETY COMMISSION Florida Department of Administration

2 Lakes Face Fish Kill: Biologist

By DAVID M. RAZLER
 Herald Staff Writer

Lakes Jessup and Harney, on the verge of suffering the same kind of massive fish kill which wiped out most aquatic life along a six-mile stretch of the St. Johns River Wednesday, a state biologist says.

All it will take is a cloudy day.

Harold Moody, biologist for the State Game and Freshwater Fish Commission, assigned to work on the St. Johns River fish kill, said today the two areas lakes and other sections of the St. Johns are only hours away from losing most of their fish to suffocation.

There is nothing that can be done to prevent the kills at this point, he said. All that can be done is to hope it stays sunny for the next few days, he added.

The Wednesday fish kill is the worst in the county since 1963, when almost the entire fish population in Lake Jessup died, Moody said.

Moody estimates between 75 and 100 percent of the fish along six miles of the St. Johns near Lemon Bluff an estimated 100,000 died Wednesday due to a lack of oxygen in the water.

The oxygen loss seems to have occurred when an excess amount of green algae died when cloud cover reduced the sunlight the microscopic plants need to live.

Millions of decay micro-organisms began multiplying Tuesday, feeding on the decaying plant material and using up most of the water's oxygen.

Moody said oxygen levels in the area of the St. Johns affected by the kill are almost back to normal, and fish soon should begin to return.

But Lake Jessup and Lake Harney are both poised on the very brink of disaster, along with other sections of the St. Johns, he said.

The lakes and river areas have turned a soupy green color, indicating the presence of many times more algae than are normally found in the area.

Just one overcast day will be enough to trip the balance, killing off the small plants and repeating the process which took place near Lemon Bluff, he says.

Moody says there is no method known to prevent the impending disaster at this point.

He says officials have been successful in saving fish in small oxygen-starved ponds by pumping in air. "There is no way to avert something that size," he said in reference to the lakes and river.

The algae bloom was apparently caused by several factors, state officials say.

The recent dry spell left the river slightly lower, depleting the water flow which normally cleans nutrients which help the algae grow from the banks.

The water flow which normally cleans nutrients which help the algae grow from the banks.

On May 10, the nitrogen level in the St. Johns was reported up from a normal one to two parts per million to about 3.5 parts per million, Department of Environmental Regulation scientists say, enough to cause the algae bloom.

Levels of phosphates, the other nutrients which aid algae growth, apparently remained constant, they say.

The sudden thunderstorms last week pumped even more nutrients into area waterways, Moody says. Tuesday's clouds started the kill, he added.

Most of the pollutants in the St. Johns cannot be linked to sewer plants, but to other man-made sources, Moody explained.

He blames runoff from fertilized fields, septic tanks and cow pastures as the worst sources of nutrients in the water.

The rainwater drained from streets and residential areas with their fertilized lawns is also a large contributor, he said.

Thousands of dead fish float along the St. Johns River near Lemon Bluff. Lake Jessup and Lake Harney may soon look like this, a state biologist warns.

Volcano Roars Again

VANCOUVER, Wash. (UPI) — Another major eruption from Mount St. Helens shot black volcanic ash plumes 10 miles high and showered the Portland, Ore., area today with grit and pumice that fell like heavy gray snow. Portland Mayor Connie McCreedy declared a limited state of emergency.

The eruption, coming after 18 days of relative calm, began Thursday night with a boom heard more than 100 miles away. Huge, mushroom-shaped clouds rose to 55,000 feet, blown mostly southwest toward Portland and out over the Pacific Ocean.

Dozens of northwest Oregon towns and some parts of southwest Washington were blanketed with the gray grit, which turned to slippery mud in early morning rain showers.

"It's terrible out there," said Cindy Johnson of West Lin, Ore., who drove into Portland early today. "It was just like somebody was dumping mud on you. It was like mud clods coming down."

Authorities, mindful of the cataclysmic May 18 blast that killed scores of people, evacuated 1,500 persons near the mountain.

About 15 remaining residents in the town of Cougar, 12 miles southwest of the peak, reported rocks the size of marbles falling amid the ash and a heavy smell of sulfur.

Most of the Cougar residents left their homes soon after the ash started falling, but officials said the stubborn ones didn't stay away long.

"Some of the diehards don't believe it's really serious," said Cowlitz County Sheriff's Deputy Bob Covington. "They came out and after a little while they went back in again."

Those who did leave were taken to residences outside the "red zone" — an area roughly within a 20-mile radius of those issued special state permits.

There were no immediate reports of missing or injured persons in trying to bring in enough water for domestic use by her husband and two daughters.

Fish and Game biologists estimate within a week the decaying fish should sink back into the water and be cleared out by natural decay and current.

Until then the Warrens, and the hundreds of others living on the banks of the river will have to do their best to cope with the smell and decay, they say.

Miles From Water Supply

Mess Leaves Families Without Bath Water

For the past 10 years, the J.L. Warren family, along with their neighbors, have been drawing their bath and wash water from the St. Johns River.

But since Wednesday that source of water has not been available to them. The river cove where they draw their water is a foot deep in dead fish.

State Game and Freshwater Fish Commission officers said today that 65 percent of the fish along a six-mile stretch of the river east of Lake Monroe have died over the past two days due to a plankton bloom.

The fish are piling up along the banks of the waterway, raising an incredible stench on both the Seminole and Volusia sides of the river, cutting off utility water in the area of the Ocoola Fish Camp in Seminole County north of Geneva.

Mrs. J.L. Warren, who has lived along the St. Johns for 10 years, says she has never seen a fish kill like this before.

Mrs. Warren said that for years her family has been trucking in its drinking water from Sanford. But wash water comes from the river.

"We're nine miles from the nearest city water supply," she said.

Wells do not work near the Warren house, or for the estimated 100 homes east of Mullett Lake, she said.

The water is either full of iron and sulfur in a shallow well or full of salt if the homeowners dig deeper, she explained.

"Would you want to take a bath in this?" she asked, pointing to the thousands of dead fish piled up along the banks of the inlet she and her neighbors live on.

Mrs. Warren and her neighbors say they are upset that no governmental agency will do anything to clean up the mess, leaving the fish to rot.

She complained she can barely stand the smell, let alone the additional problems caused in trying to bring in enough water for domestic use by her husband and two daughters.

Fish and Game biologists estimate within a week the decaying fish should sink back into the water and be cleared out by natural decay and current.

Until then the Warrens, and the hundreds of others living on the banks of the river will have to do their best to cope with the smell and decay, they say.

Industrial Production Drops Again In May

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's industrial production declined again in May, falling more than it has at any time since the last recession five years ago, the government said today.

The combined output of U.S. factories, mines and utilities slumped 2.1 percent, following a revised 2 percent drop in April, the Federal Reserve Board said.

"Reductions in output occurred in all major marketing groupings, and were particularly sizable for automotive products, home goods, construction supplies and durable goods materials," the nation's central bank said.

The decline in production was the largest since a 2.2 percent dropoff in February 1975 when the nation was mired down in its worst economic slump since the Great Depression.

At the end of May, the industrial production index stood at 145.5, its lowest point in a year.

Clowns Play It Safe On Friday The 13th

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Friday the 13th makes almost everyone wary of black cats, ladders and mirrors. But today is particularly worrisome for circus performers.

It was on such a Friday in February 1931 that legendary Ringling Bros. Barnum and Bailey star aerialist Lillian Lettitz plunged to her death.

"It all started with Lillian," said Presley Little, clown director with Ringling, which performs in Philadelphia tonight.

Little, a clown since 1956, said Thursday "circus people are a little more superstitious than most," and on Friday the 13th "we have to be extra careful. It's a bad day for us."

Many fears center on Clown Alley — the clown's dressing room — "a place with the biggest taboos," said Little, where no one is allowed to eat peanuts, whistle or play the radio.

For the whole Ringling troupe, there is a never-broken rule the circus band cannot play Auld Lang Syne or Home Sweet Home on any but the final night of performance. And for good luck, the final engagement is printed on billboard posters upside down.

Scientists said the third major eruption in less than a month — heard 135 miles away in Toledo, Ore. — could be larger than the May 25 blast, when the grit covered much of southwest Washington and northwest Oregon.

The ashfall came in the middle of Portland's Rose Festival — the biggest civic event of the year — scheduled to culminate in Saturday's Grand Floral Parade, which generally draws thousands of tourists.

Earlier, pilots flying over the volcano said the eruption looked "like an atom bomb."

Iranian Anguish

Country Rocked By Worst Fights Since The Shah Left

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Iran was rocked today by shock waves from the bloodiest street fighting since the shah was toppled and government claims a coup attempt had been smashed.

In another development, President Abolhasan Bani-Sadr said Iran's grave economic situation was worsening because of fear and a collapse of spirit in the country as well as economic sanctions imposed by the United States and other nations.

"If there is no law governing this nation, that will result in a sick economy," he said. "This is aptly reflected in the high inflation rate in the country today."

The word a plot by army officers to overthrow Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini had been crushed last Thursday just before tens of thousands of Modern militants and leftists battled in the streets around the occupied U.S. Embassy, but the two events did not appear related.

Militants who seized the embassy Nov. 4, capturing the American hostages, joined revolutionary guards in trying to disperse the rioting crowds.

Warning shots over the heads of the street fighters were followed by firing into the crowds and witnesses said there were "many scores" of casualties. The officials Pars news agency said one person was killed and 13 wounded.

The clashes, witnesses said were the worst since Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi was ousted last year, erupted when Modern militants tried to break up an rally by the leftist People's Mujahideen (freedom fighters) attended by an estimated 100,000 people in a stadium across the street from the embassy.

Both groups had joined together to oust the shah.

Her speech — written after the controversy began — noted the First Amendment guarantees "the right of freedom of speech to people of all races, religions and beliefs."

"Outside forces" sometime make dreams unattainable, she said, adding, "At times, one person's rights may conflict with another's."

Miss Bahadori, who attended the school for 18 months on a student visa, defeated Miss Plotka in a contest to speak at the graduation. But parents and teachers objected to allowing an Iranian to give the valedictory address while 53 Americans are being held hostage in Iran.

After 80 of the school's 140 teachers signed a petition protesting her selection, Miss Bahadori decided to withdraw.

Student In U.S. Hears A Moving Graduation Speech

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — An Iranian student, forced to withdraw from delivering her high school valedictory address because of her nationality, heard a close friend deliver a ringing defense of freedom of speech in America, "the land of dreams."

Tina Bahadori, 18, had won a competition to give the address at Thursday's Atlantic City High School commencement, but since she is an Iranian, some of her teachers protested.

Miss Bahadori made the painful decision to withdraw, but did attend the ceremony, which, in itself, was a trying experience.

Before it began, she spent 45 minutes hiding in a locker room. Once it got underway, she spent much of the time hiding her face behind a blue program shielding herself from reporters and photographers.

But when her classmate, Helene Plotka, 18, rose to deliver the valedictory address, Miss Bahadori dropped the program, sat up in the bleachers and listened attentively.

"America is the land of dreams," Miss Plotka declared, "which promotes the rights of an individual."
