Youth a World Series veteran

Most big league baseball players never fulfill their life's dream to play in a World Series.

That won't be a problem for Lake Mary's Aaron Iatarola. Even if he never makes it to the major leagues, he can still boast about playing in two — county — World Series.

Man wanted bucks from Bucs

After coming off another lackluster year, the last thing the Tampa Bay Buc's need are off-the-field problems.

But the had one, briefly. FBI agents have arrested a Pinellas County man on charges that he attempted to extort money from owner Hugh Culverhouse and team vice president Phil Krueger.

The suspect threatened to kill an unidentified individual if Culverhouse and Krueger did not pay him $35,000.

Colombia to get U.S. support

President Bush will unveil a plan early next month that will call for up to $8 billion in financial aid for Colombia in its battle against drug kingpins in that country.

The administration believes financial support, not military aid, is the best approach to take in helping stifle the drug trade that originates in Colombia and eventually makes its way to U.S. soil.

Meanwhile, Colombian officials have arrested 12,000 drug suspects and confiscated over $100 million in property after five days of a sweeping crackdown against narcotics overlords.

Gas shortage not materializing

NEW YORK — Drivers' apparent resistance to higher pump prices and refineries operating near peak capacity foiled forecasts of tight U.S. gasoline supplies and lines at service stations, oil industry experts said.

In the spring, industry leaders such as Exxon Corp. Chairman Lawrence Rawl, Phillips Petroleum Co. Chairman Pete Silas, and Texaco Inc. President James Kinnear were predicting a tight gasoline market this summer.

Buyers Up, a Ralph Nader consumer group, issued an early June report warning that unless there was an unprecedented increase in U.S. refinery production or imports, "gasoline shortages and consequent price gouging are a probability."

Gasoline prices traditionally rise during the summer driving season as demand rises and supplies tighten.

Judges run down escapee

DALLAS — Three state district judges helped arrest a suspect who shoved a Dallas County sheriff's deputy and escaped from the county courthouse.

Eddie Coleman, 34, who was wanted on bond forfeiture charges, was arrested Monday afternoon after a brief chase through downtown Dallas. Sheriff's department spokesman Jim Ewell said Coleman would face additional charges of felony escape and assaulting a law enforcement officer.

Sheriff's Deputy William Kelley, who tried to arrest Coleman at the courthouse, slipped and cut his head on a water fountain when Coleman broke free. Kelley, 42, suffered a 1 1/2-inch cut but was not hospitalized.

State District Judges Randy Isenberg, Pat McDowell and Craig Enoch, who were returning to the courthouse from lunch, saw the suspect flee and chased him before deputies closed in to make the arrest at a residence near downtown Dallas.

Schools open with hoopla, some ho-hum

By VICKI BOGOMER

Some students in Seminole County dragged themselves out of bed this morning in for school. Others were ready to go before the alarm clock sounded.

It was the first day of school for thousands of public school students and they streamed out onto streets and roads in Sanford, Lake Mary and elsewhere in the county.

On a muggy morning, the bright sun caused many of them to squint and shade their eyes with clean notebooks. Before the buildings opened to the youngsters, many leaned against walls and fences

City has 'no choice' but to rejoin CDBG program

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The city has no choice but to reverse its decision to opt out of Seminole County's community development program, the mayor and city commissioners agreed yesterday.

"We really don't have much of a choice," Mayor Bettye Smith said. "We only have one reasonable choice."

During a work session yesterday, the commission decided to begin negotiating to rejoin the county Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) program. But, the commissioners said, Sanford should only rejoin if the county guarantees fair-share allocation of CDBG monies.

Last year the city dropped out of Seminole County's CDBG program to pursue grants for small cities. When Sanford began its community development office in 1985, the city received $650,000 through the small cities program. Sanford has received about $705,000 in CDBG money in the three years of participation in the county program.

Bill Simmons, city director of engineering and planning, said the city should modify the interlocal agreement that bound Sanford to the county program for three years, including a guarantee that monies would be fairly distributed to participating cities.

Simmons said entering an agreement with the county without such a guarantee "makes me a little nervous in light of the $170,000." He referred to the county's July 28 reallocation of CDBG monies from projects in Sanford to paving in rural Altamonte Springs.

Charles Rowe, city community development office director, said Sanford accounts for 21 percent of Seminole County's total low- and

Eclipse sends expectant moms to delivery room

From staff and wire reports

SANFORD — It seems the eclipse Wednesday was responsible for more than a beautiful astronomical sight. Hospitals across the state reported a jump in births and false labor during the eclipse.

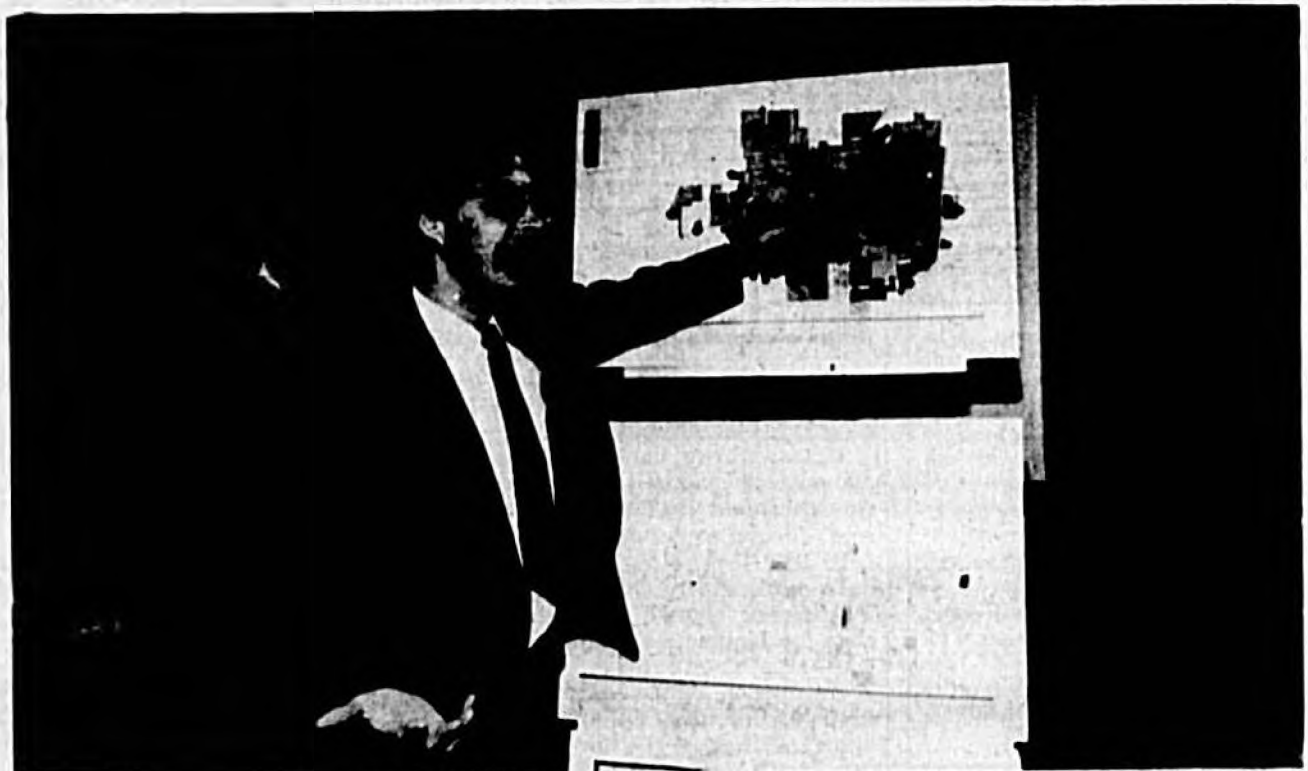

At Florida Hospital-Altamonte, where births normally average about three a day, nine new people entered the world Wednesday. Clare Rogers, assistant head nurse of the maternity department, said the births kept coming throughout the day. "We had a lot of births that day," Rogers said. "It was pretty much all day long."

Hardly anyone in south Florida saw the eclipse late Wednesday and early Thursday because of heavy clouds, but maternity ward staffs said they saw the results.

At Jackson Memorial Hospital in Miami, which normally handles 40 births a day, 61 babies were born early Thursday. At Plantation General Hospital west of Fort Lauderdale, there were 17 births, twice the usual number.

At Mount Sinai Medical Center in Miami Beach, which usually has about three births a day, nine babies arrived after the moon slid through the shadow of the Earth.

Longwood city planner Chris Nagle presented the city's 'future plan' during a Tuesday night meeting.

The plan calls for a more defined downtown area and an improved historic district.

Longwood residents get glimpse of the future

By SANDRA BOUGHAMINE

LONGWOOD — Several residents got a glimpse last night of what the future Longwood will look like.

A public hearing was the setting for citizens to voice their opinions about the city's comprehensive plan and future land use element plan. Some had no reaction, while others disagreed with proposed changes.

The state-mandated plan which must be submitted to the Florida Department of Community Affairs by July 1, 1991, is intended to guide the growth and development of the city through the year 2005. Its objectives are to maintain the quality of life in the city, improve residential areas, encourage an economic base for employment and business, provide adequate infrastructure and public services, and to revitalize the downtown and historic district.

City Planner Chris Nagle told the commission that the new plan is the product of almost "four years of hard work by city staff, local planning agency, comprehensive advisory committee and the consultant." Nagle said it represents "a consensus and compromise of various ideas presented by the

Officials may take big bonuses

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Bob Martinez used his veto powers earlier this year to preserve a "Golden Parachute" rule allowing top officials who leave state government to draw thousands of dollars in bonuses by cashing in unused vacation time.

According to a story Monday in the Tallahassee Democrat, the rule has cost the state at least $36,000 this year.

Adis Villa, who resigned June 30 as head of the state Department of Administration after serving two years and three months, qualified for $23,767.81 by cashing in 593.75 hours of unused leave.

Kaye Henderson, resigning as secretary of the Department of Transportation effective next week after serving slightly longer than Villa, will gross nearly $20,400 for 477.5 hours annual leave, at an hourly rate of $42.70.

Vila, who took a job in Washington, D.C., as an assistant U.S. secretary of agriculture, was actually paid $15,544.64 after deductions, the newspaper said.

Neither Villa nor Henderson could cash in accrued sick leave upon leaving the state's employ because neither was with the state the minimum 10 years. But as senior managers, they automatically received 240 hours annual leave — about six weeks' worth — effective immediately upon their employment and on each of their two anniversary dates.

Most rank-and-file state workers must use their vacation time or convert some of it to sick leave by the end of each year or lose it.

But if Senior Management System officials have more than 480 hours annual leave on the eve of their employment anniversary, the excess hours automatically carry over into their sick-leave accounts. Then, on their anniversaries, another 240 hours is added to their vacation accounts.

So Vila and Henderson each started with 240 hours vacation time and earned another 240 hours in 1988 and again this year, the newspaper said.

In signing the state budget that took effect July 1, Martinez used his line item veto authority to kill language that would have slashed the perk. The budget language would have required that unused vacation time be pro-rated for the time actually worked.

In other words, if a top official quit one month after an anniversary date, he or she would have received only 30 hours' vacation time, rather than the entire six weeks.

Vila would have lost 180 hours' vacation time had the provision been in effect when she resigned. Henderson would have forfeited about half the 240 hours annual leave he accrued on his last anniversary.

"Limiting this benefit would not only impair the contract the state has with its present senior-level managers, but would also seriously undermine state government's ability to attract other high-level senior managers," Martinez said in vetoing the budget language last June.

Shuttle returns to Florida after stopover

CAPE CANAVERAL — The space shuttle Columbia returned home to Florida Monday after spending the night at an air force base in Georgia, where it was diverted because of bad weather.

Columbia, bolted atop a specially fitted Boeing 747 jumbo jet, made a one-night stopover at Robins Air Force Base in Warner Robins Sunday when bad weather in Cape Canaveral prohibited a landing there.

The 747 landed about 5 p.m. Sunday at the Georgia base, refueled overnight and took off Monday at 10:30 a.m. EDT. It landed at the Kennedy Space Center at 11:44 a.m.

Columbia, the oldest shuttle in NASA's fleet, was en route to Florida from Edwards Air Force Base in California.

Nine Cubans rescued from raft

MIAMI — Nine Cubans, including one infant, were rescued Monday by a Coast Guard patrol boat after floating on a homemade raft for five days, and authorities said three more Cubans were missing.

The Cubans, seven men, one woman and an infant, were picked up about three hours after riders on the pleasure boat Pier 59 radioed the Coast Guard.

A 41-foot Coast Guard patrol boat picked up the refugees, who apparently were heading to the United States, shortly before 2 p.m. EDT 30 miles south of Islamorada in the Florida Keys. Coast Guard spokesman Luis Diaz said.

Victim's husband, father visited area

ST. PETERSBURG — The husband and father of three Ohio women killed and dumped into Tampa Bay in June visited the area last week, but apparently contacted no law enforcement officers.

Hal Rogers, a dairy farmer from Van Wert, Ohio, flew to Tampa International Airport Thursday with a photographer and reporter from St. Petersburg television station WTSP after they had interviewed him at his farm.

The station reported Rogers decided to make the trip to the Tampa Bay area to seek answers about the deaths of his wife Joan, 36, and his daughters Michelle, 17, and Criste, 14, who had come to Florida on vacation.

Their partially nude bodies were found in Tampa Bay June 4. They had been weighed down with anchor rope and concrete blocks and the medical examiner said they died of asphyxiation, but because of the condition of the bodies could not determine if they drowned or were dead before being dumped into the water.

Tampa police said they were not contacted by Rogers and St. Petersburg police spokesman Bill Doniel said Rogers never contacted any St. Petersburg officers.

Guilty plea entered in drug-related death

TAMPA — A cocaine trafficker pleaded guilty Monday to third-degree murder and was sentenced to 15 years in prison in the death of a woman who began hallucinating from an overdose and threw herself in front of a car.

James Joseph Millitello, 36, was charged with murder under a 1987 state law holding traffickers accountable for the welfare of people they peddle drugs to.

Hillsborough Circuit Judge Susan Bucklew sentenced Millitello to 15 years in prison and fined him $250,000.

He was accused of selling cocaine to Cheryl Ann Snowden, 32, who was killed April 24 after she began to hallucinate after a four-day binge and began thrashing around in her boyfriend's car screaming her hands were melting because he had poured acid on them.

Authorities said the boyfriend, Richard Leonard Ayers, 22, stopped the car on the shoulder of Interstate 75 near Punta Gorda and Snowden jumped out and ran down the highway and was struck by a car. They said Ayers, a cocaine addict and ex-convict, said he too was hallucinating as a result of having taken the cocaine and after he drove away and ran out of gas, was picked up by a Florida Highway Patrol trooper after walking about 10 miles.

Governor calls for tanker-free zones

MIAMI — Gov. Bob Martinez called Monday for the creation of a tanker-free zone to steer oil tankers away from Florida's coasts and protect the state's fragile coastal environment from the threat of an oil spill.

The governor suggested the tanker-free zone after U.S. Coast Guard Commandant Admiral Paul A. Yost gave him an aerial tour of south Florida's major shipping lanes Monday. The tour included fly-overs of Port Everglades near Fort Lauderdale, the Port of Miami and the Florida Keys.

Martinez said the shipping lanes should be moved to more than 10 nautical miles from the state's coastlines to protect sensitive environmental resources.

Moving vessels further offshore would also reduce the problem of tar balls from bilge discharges reaching Florida's coast, Martinez said, and would lessen the possibility of vessels running aground or striking reefs.

finding yet another non-scholastic use of the notebooks: fanning themselves.

"I couldn't wait," Jean Fuller, a junior at Lake Mary High School, 685 Longwood-Lake Mary Road in Lake Mary, who was in the cafeteria at the school at 6:45 a.m. this morning, a full hour before she had to be there to pick up her class schedule. "I spent the summer in North Carolina and I wanted school to start."

Though they got an to sleep in a day later than their Orange County, some of the kids were not too thrilled with having to get into the routine of class and homework again.

Corridors at all the schools were alive with chatter. There were squeals of excitement at seeing an old friend for the first time since classes let out for the summer. Hands clapped together in greeting and students shouted to one another down the hall. For the most part, teachers stayed in the classrooms waiting for their charges to arrive.

Resource officers stood, arms crossed to make sure there was no trouble. There wasn't.

"I'm not really too happy about having to start school again," Heidi Bowie, a Lake Mary senior, said. "But you gotta do what you gotta do."

At Goldsboro Elementary School, 1301 W. 16th Street in Sanford, Luis Velazquez was not ready for his mother to leave when kindergarten teacher Arlene Lehman asked the parents to go. Reassuring hugs from his mother and a well worn Care Bear did little to stop the flow of tears.

"He was ready to go before we left home," his mother Pam noted.

At 27 elementary, nine middle and six high schools district-wide, nearly 48,000 students made their way to their classes.

Tenth graders Tiffany Sanders, Aimee Arnold and Dana Presley stepped off the bus at Lake Mary High School with smiles on their faces.

"It's great because you get to see all your friends," said Sanders.

"We went to summer school," Arnold said, "but this'll be fun too."

began their duties a week ago. Classrooms were brought to life with colored paper and posters. Books were distributed. Class plans were finalized.

Some instructors took part in one of the many inservice programs that the district offered to help them update their skills.

"We really emphasized the sciences and math, especially at the elementary level," Marion Dailey, assistant superintendent for instruction, said.

The older children, notebooks, pencils and pens in hand went to class, most often without adult supervision.

"It's too early to say but it seems like everything will go well," said Lake Mary assistant principal Don Smith.

At Sanford Middle School, 1700 French Ave. in Sanford, sixth graders Spencer Young, Roger McCray, Anthony Clayton and Andre Carson and eighth grader Timothy Blanch congregated in an outer corridor waiting for the first bell.

"Yeah we want to be back," Young, the spokesman for the group, said. "We wanna have fun."

After some quick introspection he added, "We want to learn stuff too."

Occasionally a student could be seen staring, confused, at a schedule card, unable to remember where a particular classroom was located. Down the hall, another student is

Arrest made in robbery of crippled victim

CASSELBERRY — Casselberry police called to a domestic dispute at 796 E. Orienta Ave., reported arresting a man involved in the dispute. The man was also reportedly identified as the suspected robber of a crutch-bound man outside the Club Juana Friday.

The victim of the robbery, David S. Levinson, 24, 120 Centennial Drive, Sanford, told police he was confronted by the robber outside the back door of the club on U.S. Highway 17-92, Casselberry. The robber asked Levinson if he could walk and when Levinson said he was doing the best he could because of a broken hip, the robber grabbed him by the throat and threw him down.

The robber took Levinson's wallet and kept $120. He gave Levinson $6 back when Levinson told him he had kids to feed, a Casselberry police report said.

Although the robber reportedly eyed Levinson's watch and ring, he said he didn't want to be greedy and left with the cash. Levinson reported the robbery to police and described the suspect and his clothing.

After police responded to a report of a domestic fight at the suspect's house, they reportedly began to consider Jimmie Ramsey, 25, a suspect in the robbery. They put his photo in a lineup and Levinson reportedly identified him as the robbery suspect. Ramsey was charged with strong arm robbery and battery. He was arrested at home at 10:30 p.m. Monday. Bond is $4,000.

Sanford man allegedly forged check

SANFORD — Sanford police allege Edward Remo Hamilton, 38, 414 Cypress Ave., Sanford, presented a stolen and forged check to pay for rent and deposit to Ruth J. Allen July 28. The check for $350 was drawn on the account of the First Independent Free Methodist Church. Police arrested Hamilton at home at 2:40 p.m. Monday on charges of uttering a forgery, grand theft and dealing in stolen property. Bond is $2,000.

Sanford convenience store robbed

SANFORD — A man who put a sharp object on the back of a store clerk at Circle K, 1906 Country Club Road, Sanford, at about 12:45 a.m. today, grabbed a bank bag and fled with $841.

Sanford police said the robber told the clerk, "Don't move or you're dead." A police K-9 was unsuccessful in searching for the robber.

Police produce composite of suspect

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Police here are seeking the man shown in this composite picture as a suspect in the Aug. 3 gunshot slaying of John Alexander Watts, 33, in his apartment at 938 Vineridge Run, State Road 436, Altamonte Springs.

Watts' companion, Carol Sparks, 21, was also shot twice in the head, as was Watts, but she survived.

Witnesses described the suspect in the 11:30 p.m. shootings as being about 32 years old. He has dirty blond, shoulder length hair brushed back off his forehead, and some facial hair, possibly a goatee, and a mustache.

The suspect is about 6-feet tall and weighs about 140 pounds. He has a narrow nose that turns up at the end. He has hollow cheeks and tattoos on both arms.

Altamonte Springs police have not released detail on the shootings. Information on the suspect should be reported to police investigators at 830-3828.

Woman says man beat her head on bed

OVIDO — Oviedo police report charging Terry L. Brock, 30, 796 Lincoln Parkway, Oviedo, with battery after Teresa Coe accused him of banging her head on the frame of their bed.

Brock was arrested at home at 5:12 a.m. Saturday. Bond is $500.

Women accused of altering check

CASSELBERRY — A travel agent for Sunshine Adventures, who allegedly altered her $142 pay check and tried to collect $1,042 from the Check Express, 6851 U.S. Highway 17-92, Casselberry, was arrested there on charges of forgery and uttering a forgery.

Lisa Anne McDaniel, 18, 1457 Bencick Way, Altamonte Springs, was arrested at 3 p.m. Monday by Seminole County sheriff's deputies. Bond is $1,000.

Smith reprimands Cummings over 'wetback' remark

LAMMA L. SULLIVAN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The text of Mayor Bettye Smith's formal reprimand of a city housing authority commissioner who called a man with a Hispanic surname a "wetback" shows she called his comment an "embarrassment" and an "affront" to the city.

"Your remark, however innocently made, is an embarrassment to all of us," Smith wrote, to Sanford Housing Authority Commissioner J. Wain Cummings. The letter was released Monday. The mayor also wrote:

"You should consider this letter a reprimand for your conduct and an admonishment to, in the future, consider the consequences of your actions before they are taken."

Cummings said about Robert Perez, owner of R&P Management, "He's a wetback." He made the comment Aug. 3 during an authority meeting for selection of professional management for SHA, then apologized during the next SHA meeting Aug. 7.

When a representative of the Seminole County National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) asked the city commission to remove Cummings, the city attorney advised commissioners that housing authority members could not be removed unless misconduct or neglect of duty could be shown.

The authority is under investigation by the Florida State Commission on Hispanic Affairs, whose representatives asked Cummings to step down at the Aug. 17 SHA meeting.

Cummings could not be reached for comment.

Don't kill organized crime strike forces

Attorney General Richard Thornburgh will commit a serious mistake if he breaks up the Justice Department's 14 regional organized crime strike forces.

During the last two decades, federal strike forces have put enormous pressure on the Mafia and other crime syndicates that operate across state lines. The New England strike force, for example, blunted mob operations in Boston, Providence and New Haven. Meanwhile, the Kansas City strike force obtained convictions against Mafia Kingpins in Kansas City, Milwaukee, Cleveland, Chicago and Las Vegas.

If Mr. Thornburgh has his way, however, these special teams will be folded into the regular offices of U.S. attorneys around the country.

The attorney general contends that this reconfiguration will enhance the federal government's campaign against organized crime. Actually, the record suggests the opposite.

When similar strike forces were abolished 13 years ago in New York, Pittsburgh, St. Louis and New Orleans, organized criminals there went out of control. Rival mobsters waged a pitched battle to infiltrate labor unions, control gambling and monopolize the drug trade.

A public outcry in New Orleans resulted in the reinstatement of the strike force. And when the mob got completely out of hand in New York City, the FBI, in conjunction with the U.S. attorney's office, quietly revived the strike force concept with assistance from state and city police. As a consequence, in 1985 U.S. Attorney Rudolph Giuliani was able to get convictions against most of the city's Mafia hierarchy.

Federal strike forces are more effective against organized crime because they are staffed by experienced investigators and prosecutors. Unlike U.S. attorneys, who are buffeted by political pressures and rarely stay in one place for very long, strike forces maintain the continuity required to counter entrenched mobsters.

U.S. attorneys generally concentrate on investigations that can be resolved quickly, with particular emphasis on high-profile local cases. If the strike forces are in fact merged into the attorneys will be diffused and diluted.

Mr. Thornburgh concedes that, in the past, many U.S. attorneys were political animals and thus lacked the patience to sustain attacks on organized crime. But he insists they are far more professional today. Such assurances notwithstanding, the existing strike forces aren't broke and don't need fixing.

Tax drugs to solve the problem

WASHINGTON — Congress is in recess, the president is in Kennebunkport and Washington has a couple of weeks to doze in the late summer sun before the rat race resumes after Labor Day.

The first order of business, President Bush declared before taking off for Maine, will be a new comprehensive drug-fighting plan to be presented by former Education Secretary Bill Bennett.

We are told the plan would stress penalties for all drug users, call for more prison space to house them and send more money to both states and cities in this country and foreign countries to fight the narcotics trade.

Bush called the proposal "balanced, decisive, effective and achievable" and said, "It will target all aspects of the problem."

To be formally offered the first week in September, the Bennett plan will cost about $7 billion a year, or approximately $1 billion more than being requested for the current fiscal year. As someone noted, the increase would amount to about the cost of two B-2 stealth bombers.

Bush also said the extra money to pay for the campaign would have to come from other federal programs because he is not — read his lips — going to ask for higher taxes and he is going to meet the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings budget deficit reduction targets.

The president said he has detailed his budget experts to decide what programs should be cut and that decision will be made after he returns to Washington next month.

It may be begging the question here to assume that the president is going to call for more cuts in social programs to pay for the drug plan. But Bush certainly did nothing last week to quell speculation to that effect, and his administration, while talking a somewhat more moderate game than the departed Reaganites, has done little to indicate it believes such programs do any good.

Hopefully, the president will use his vacation to relax and shuck off some of the cares of office. Maybe he can even do some quiet reflection about progress toward the "kinder, gentler" America he has called for and how his "no new taxes" pledge has affected it.

Specifically, he might ponder whether any more money can be cut from housing programs, where the reductions and graft of the last eight years are being blamed, justifiably or not, for the national surge in homelessness, or from education programs, the very area where Bush announced he wants to make his mark.

The point here is that there really is something to the old saw about foolish consistency being the hobgoblin of small minds because of all the reasons that might be given for raising taxes, fighting drugs probably would be the most likely to be accepted by the public.

Not only that, it probably would not even be necessary to take in one cent of new income taxes to finance the drug fight.

A small bump in alcohol and tobacco taxes probably would do the trick, and have the added attraction of using two substances whose abuse is a part of the problem to help pay for the solution.

Bennett's plan will cost about $7 billion a year.

Sick salutes to female setbacks

BOSTON — Every year, in preparation for Aug. 26, the anniversary of the passage of women's suffrage, I gather together a list of those people who have done the most in the past 12 months to slow the progress of women. In deference to our foremothers, I then annually and with great fanfare dispense the Equal Rites Award.

This year, however, concern about the celebration ran high. What would happen without such perennial winners as Ronald Reagan and Ed Meese, who have retired to the ERA hall of fame?

Well, not to worry. The competition was every bit as keen as ever, the prizes as coveted as ever. And so without further ado, the envelopes please.

We begin with the ever-popular Raging Hormonal Imbalance Award. This testosterone special, a real crowd-pleaser, goes to none other than Mike Tyson for his many acts in and out of the ring and most especially for his boy-talk relayed by buddy-author Jose Torres. "I like to hurt women when I make love to them. I like to hear them scream with pain...it gives me pleasure." Mike's denial? "I don't have any problems dating anybody. Thank God." To Mike, we sent a glass of warm milk, an estrogen tablet and a lonely Saturday night.

As for high-flyers, The Male-adjusted Mogul Prize goes with deep regrets to Al Neuharth, the retired founder of USA Today. After years sheltered in a corporate jet, Al is back to reality complaining that flight attendants are no longer young, single and nubile, but are "aging women who are tired of their jobs or slightly young men..." His solution? "Bring back the skygirls." Our prize? A second career for Neuharth: "Fly me, I'm Al."

While we are talking images, the hotly contested Ms-Guided Madison Avenue Award must go to the folks who penned the Camel campaign. They offered a set of instructions for Camel men out to pick up women: "Run into the water, grab someone and drag her back to the shore...The more she kicks and screams, the better." We send them a plaque: Warning: This ad may be dangerous for your product's health.

A special Entrepreneur with an Attitude Award goes to Harry E. Figge, Jr., chairman of Figge International who told Fortune magazine, "You don't build a company like this with lace on your underwear." To him we ship a special catalogue full of Victoria's Secrets for Success. Try it.

Now for the Blind Justice Award. This year there were so many contestants the award is being shared by two of the jurists who labored mightily for recognition. One goes to the New York judge who, in the flight of sensitivity gave Don Lu Chen five years probation after he killed his wife with a hammer. The man was Chinese, the wife was unfaithful, the judge explained: "He was a product of his culture." To him we send a misfortune cookie.

The other goes to an equally understanding judge in Michigan who lightened the sentence of a convicted rapist to three years probation and $200 compensation. The judge explained that he didn't want to prevent the rapist from achieving his goal: becoming a police officer. We give this judge a new phone number: 911.

Let's you think it's just the American legal system that has gone awry, a special mention goes winging its way to Korea where a woman was convicted and sentenced to six months in jail for biting off the tongue of a rapist. We send the judge a booklet entitled: The Korean Art of Self-Defense. The pages are blank.

On now to the Dubious Equality Award for the woman who fought the hardest for the most questionable achievement. This year it goes to Roseanne Barr for her effort to prove women too can dump on men: "You may marry the man of your dreams, ladies, but 15 years later you are married to a reclining chair that burps." We send her a liberated laugh-track. Silent.

The G-String for Gratuitous Sex was pulled out of the closet this year and will be sent posthaste to Life Magazine for its June cover story: "Hurrah for the Bra." This titillating anniversary issue offered 100 years of puerility disguised as history. To them, we send a shirt and a story idea: Hurrah for the Jock Strap.

Now on to International Backlash Award which has gone in previous years to assorted Ayatollahs. This year it goes to Japan's prime minister Souzuke Uno, the guy with the geisha and to his agricultural minister Hisao Horinouchi who said, "It is wrong for women to come to the forefront of politics." We send them no prize because they already got what they deserved: defeat at the polls.

Finally, a prize is surely due to the marketing genius who has found a novel product to keep the male ego inflated. So the Macho in Merchandizing Award goes to David Mayer of Mayers Lab for creating Maxx (sic) a condom, that is 25 percent larger than the others. To Mr. Mayer we sent the perfect accompaniment to Maxx: helium.

Barbs for: You don't build a company like this with lace on your underwear.

The red car murder case

LOS ANGELES — With traffic congealing on its streets and freeways, Los Angeles is building a mass transit system designed to belatedly relieve everything from smog in the air to congestion on the ground.

But construction on the initial 4.4-mile downtown segment of the Metro Rail project is already 18 months behind schedule, and its cost is likely to exceed the very substantial original estimate of $1.25 billion.

Moreover, most of the transportation-related grief currently being experienced by the city would be unnecessary if a corporate cabal led by General Motors had not cynically destroyed the elaborate, 1,200-mile mass transit system that served the entire metropolitan area earlier in the century.

Indeed, members of that criminal conspiracy brazenly dismantled streetcar and trolley lines in dozens of locations throughout the country — from the cities of St. Louis, Baltimore and Salt Lake City to the smaller communities of Butte, Mont.; Terre Haute, Ind., and Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

By far the most extensive and ambitious of the early mass transit systems was Los Angeles' "red car" system, built in the first years of the 20th century. Named for the color of its trolleys, the electric railway operated 2,700 trains daily along a sprawling network of tracks that stretched from Santa Monica on the west, through downtown Los Angeles, into the San Gabriel Valley and as far east as San Bernardino. It ran as far north as the San Fernando Valley and as far south as Long Beach and Newport Beach.

Built without public money, it was the comprehensive urban mass transit system that city planners can only dream about today. Indeed, it would cost well over $100 billion to duplicate under current conditions.

In the years following World War I, however, the trolleys were unable to compete with the allure of new vehicles called automobiles, and ridership on the red car system began to decline.

To accelerate that trend and to promote the sale of its cars and buses, GM and its partners bought transit systems in cities throughout the country at depressed prices, then brazenly dismantled them. Journalist Jonathan Kwitney, writing in Harper's magazine some years ago, described what occurred:

"In many places, mass transit didn't just die — it was murdered ... (by those who) schemed from the mid-1930s through the 1940s. Electrified-rail mass transit systems, which carried millions of riders, were bought and junked. Tracks were literally torn out of the ground, sometimes overnight. Overhead power lines were dismantled, and valuable off-street rights-of-way were sold."

Between the mid 1930s and late '40s, this happened in Saginaw, Jackson and Kalamazoo, Mich.; in Portsmouth, Canton and Springfield, Ohio; in Montgomery and Mobile, Ala.; in El Paso and Port Arthur, Texas; in Galesburg and Joliet, Ill.; in Tulsa, Okla. and Tampa, Fla.; in Portland, Ore., and Spokane, Wash.

In California, city transit systems were systematically obliterated in Fresno, Oakland, Stockton, San Jose, Sacramento and elsewhere — but by far the biggest prize was the Los Angeles network.

After all of the damage was done, the corporations were convicted of violating the Sherman antitrust law following an unpublished 1949 criminal trial in U.S. District Court in Chicago.

The companies were fined $5,000 apiece.

GM bought transit systems at depressed prices, then brazenly dismantled them.

But the baby boom seems to have missed Sanford. The birth rate in Sanford tends to drop slightly during the full moon, not increase as in many other areas, according to Margaret Magarya, obstetric nurse at Central Florida Regional Hospital. Magarya said there was no change in numbers of births last Wednesday.

"We usually have a large increase two or three days after a full moon, but we have not noted any increase following the eclipse," Magarya said. "In fact, we are running steady and have not seen the usual upturn in births. But then Sanford is different. Most maternity departments in other hospitals see an increase in births during the full moon, but we normally lag behind."

officer Gordon Reid. City manager Frank Faison told the commission that his hospital bills had reached $250,000 since he was injured in an automobile accident July 3.

Under the city's insurance plan, the city is liable for the first $175,000 in medical bills and any expenses over $5 million. If Reid's condition does not change, Faison said, his hospital bills could top the $5-million worker's compensation limit by February 1990.

During a work session, the commission agreed to set aside reserves for possible claims to be filed for Reid if his medical expenses reach the worker's compensation limit.

Reid, 40, received head injuries when a car collided with his motorcycle. He remains in intensive care at Orlando Regional Medical Center after surgery to reattach his left foot.

In other discussion about the city's reserves, Commissioner Lon Howell suggested the commission use part of the $4.5 million to buy a 32-acre tract of land off Airport Boulevard to build a recreation complex.

The land Howell proposed for the complex was one of four sites suggested by Bill Simmons, city director of engineering and planning. The tract, owned by ZOM Corporation, is located immediately south of Hovantian Park, fronting Old Lake Mary Road and Airport Boulevard.

Simmons said 25 acres of the ZOM land could be used for a recreation complex, while seven "wet" acres could be used as storm drainage for the Mill Creek system. The land would cost the city between $30,000 and $35,000 per acre.

Simmons also suggested Golden Lake at Sanford Regional Airport as a possible site. The land is owned by the city, he said, but is earmarked in the airport master plan for industrial use.

A 65-acre tract west of Goldsboro Elementary School and a 10-acre French Avenue tract were also included in Simmons' list presented to the commission yesterday.

Myrna Roth, a nurse at Plantation Hospital in South Florida, has an explanation for their birth excess. "I'm sure it had to do with the eclipse," she said. "Whenever it rains or there's a drop in the barometric pressure, we get busy."

St. Mary's Hospital in West Palm Beach reported about seven more newborns than normal. At South Miami Hospital, births nearly doubled in the hours around the eclipse, which started at 9:21 p.m. Wednesday and ended at 12:56 a.m. Thursday.

"They always say the tide has something to do with births," said Pat Jamason, a nursing supervisor at St. Mary's. "So maybe the eclipse is responsible."

Some of the pregnant women flocking to hospitals weren't even ready to deliver. Within 1 1/2 hours Thursday morning, four women rushed to Mercy Hospital in Miami with false labor. The hospital usually handles about one case of false labor a day, said nursing supervisor Gloria Sanchez.

Maternity nurses said birth rates rise whenever there is a full moon. They theorize the sudden changes in gravity or barometric pressure may push pregnant women into labor.

"It forces water to break," offered Anita Brown, a maternity ward nurse at Plantation.

Some doctors were skeptical. "Everybody always talks about it," said Dr. Debra Kenwood, a South Miami obstetrician and gynecologist. "As far as I know, there's no scientific proof to support it."

In a letter to commissioners last week, recreation director Jim Jernigan said land considered for purchase should be the appropriate size, shape and topography to accommodate four softball fields. The complex should also include a quarter-mile track, six tennis courts, handball courts, a soccer field, a picnic area and a community center, he said.

Commissioner A.A. McClanahan argued that reserves should be used only for emergency situations, like Reid's hospitalization.

"I'm not so sure you couldn't sell a referendum on a recreation complex," McClanahan said. "...You've got recreation and kids. That's the same scenario that passed the lottery in the state of Florida."

The commission agreed to place the land purchase question on Aug. 28 meeting agenda.

while larger cities have been hurt.

"Sanford is not large enough to be an entitlement city on our own," Rowe said. "but we are just large enough to be hurt."

If the commission chooses to rejoin the county CDBG program, Sanford will not be eligible for money through Seminole County until the 1990-1991 fiscal year. The agreement would be binding for two years, said Buddy Balagtas, Seminole County principal community development planner.

"It's not a dying world or anything, but the fact that those fish have a very limited escape to the estuarine flow is important," he said. "There were generally higher numbers of marsh fish in Cabbagehead prior to the breach, but there are fewer species. They're what I would call the survivor species. They can tolerate lower oxygen and higher nutrients."

Rowe said there are 10 species of fish in Cabbagehead, 19 in

Opening of tidal inlet may revitalize bayou

United Press International

TAMPA - Environmentalists are hopeful the opening of a main tidal inlet in Old Tampa Bay may revitalize 23-acre Cabbagehead Bayou and restore it to its natural state.

Cabbagehead Bayou was sealed almost completely from tidal flushing in the 1960s when a channel was dredged for flood control and the material was dumped on the banks, forming a dike.

With the main inlet closed, water in the bayou was recycled into the bay more slowly and fish and bird populations changed - in some cases declining - as the water turned green with algae, plankton and decaying leaves.

"We'd like to see if the populations of fish and animals that live in the bottom get closer in similarity to Double Branch Creek," said Fred Voss, a University of South Florida staff biologist who has been monitoring the bayou for 16 months.

Double Branch Creek, which was connected to Cabbagehead, is being used as an experimental control so scientists can compare wildlife populations.

Voss said although the water of Cabbagehead Bayou is green, the marsh still has lots of fish in it.

"It's not a dying world or anything, but the fact that those fish have a very limited escape to the estuarine flow is important," he said. "There were generally higher numbers of marsh fish in Cabbagehead prior to the breach, but there are fewer species. They're what I would call the survivor species. They can tolerate lower oxygen and higher nutrients."

Rowe said there are 10 species of fish in Cabbagehead, 19 in Double Branch Creek. Cabbagehead fish include rainwater killifish, the sheepshead minnow and mosquitofish. Missing from Cabbagehead but found in Double Branch Creek are gobies, pipe fish, juvenile snook and juvenile silver perch.

Scientists hope the flushing action of the tides will restore the bayou as a productive habitat for birds, fish and other marine life, and be a natural filter cleaning pollutants and sediments from rain water on its way into the bay.

"We anticipate that Cabbagehead Bayou will become a much more productive area for natural habitat," said Brandt Henningsen, an environmental scientist with the Southwest Florida Water Management District, which is coordinating the project through its Surface Water Improvement and Management program. "We think these are a very novel series of ground-breaking experiments."

Scientists say if the project succeeds, there are half a dozen or more areas on Tampa Bay that could be re-opened to tidal flushing and restored as wildlife habitats.

In addition to monitoring fish and bottom dwellers such as crabs and shrimp in the bayou, the Tampa Audubon Society has been counting birds in the bayou to see whether numbers and types of birds increase.

The dike was breached Thursday in the same place as the original inlet, and the vegetation along the slopes of the canal and the dike top also will be restored to its former state, at a cost of about $200,000.

"This project is a real good example of what a cooperative effort can accomplish," Henningsen said.

The Florida Department of Transportation is helping restore the bayou to compensate for environmental effects of widening the Courtney Campbell causeway.

Another site on Tampa Bay expected to benefit from restoring tidal flushing is Joe's Creek.

public. Ivey, Bennett, Harris and Walls Inc., Orlando, was the consulting firm retained by the city to assist with the development of the plan. After the state conducts its 90-day review, a second public hearing is scheduled to take place on Dec. 18.

About 34 land use changes which will affect about 200 parcels of land within the city are proposed.

A Caselberry planner read a letter written by Mayor Owen Sheppard expressing opposition to the proposed light industrial designation for the property to the east of Milwee Middle School on CR427.

"The City Council and I believe that a low density or medium density residential classification for the site would appear to be consistent with the proposed plan's efforts to protect residential areas," Sheppard wrote.

John Davis of 1747 Alvarado Ct. spoke in behalf of Janis Colle of Trout Lake in Caselberry in opposition to light industrial adjacent to her property which is low-density residential. Colle has lived there for the past 45 years.

Davis said a medium residential land use classification would be preferred to insure "land use compatibility." He said regardless of what the land use is, he urged the city to consider "protection of the wetlands" and a "reasonable buffer."

Adrienne Perry of 281 Rangeline Road, who was a member of the comprehensive plan committee, said that she would like all of Rangeline Road to be considered for a residential-professional land use, and not just a portion of it as is proposed.

"I would like that property to be considered residential/professional so that offices can be built along Rangeline Road.

moderate-income population. He estimated Sanford's fair share of the county's average receipt of CDBG funds at $313,000 annually.

Negotiating an interlocal agreement with the county would be well timed with the city's request to reconsider the $170,000 reallocation, Simmons said. The city's request came at the same time as a county letter to the city asking Sanford to rejoin, he said.

Commissioner A.A. McClanahan last week urged the commission to reconsider its decision to seek small cities grants. Because the city ranks low in criteria for the program, he said, "we haven't got a small prayer."

Rowe said Sanford ranks 104th of 238 cities eligible for small cities grant in community-wide need, which is determined by 1980 Census data. "I really don't think the prospects are too bright for receiving small cities money," he said.

Sanford ranked among the top cities in community-wide need in 1985, when the city was funded by small cities grants. Rowe said smaller, rural areas are faring better now that criteria are weighted differently,

Whole dies at California Sea World

SAN DIEGO — Sea World officials said they would examine the body of Kandu the killer whale to determine whether a fatal collision with another female whale was an accident or a rare act of aggression.

Kandu, the popular killer whale who thrilled crowds at Sea World by giving birth during a show last year, died Monday from injuries she suffered during an apparent confrontation with another female whale at the marine park.

Kandu and Corky, two of the stars of Sea World's performing killer whale show, collided shortly before a 4 p.m. show at the 5 million-gallon Shamu Stadium, park officials said.

Baby Shamu, Kandu's 11-month-old offspring, apparently was nearby when the two whales collided and the calf refused to come out to begin the show, witnesses said.

Hundreds of spectators seated for the show were told there was some "agitation" among the performing whales and Kandu was seen bleeding profusely from the mouth and spout. The park was cleared of all visitors moments later.

Jury chosen for Bakker trial

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — PTL founder Jim Bakker sat on the edge of his chair most of the day Monday, watching as 12 jurors were chosen to decide whether he is guilty of crimes that could possibly land him in prison for the rest of his life.

The television evangelist arrived at U.S. District Court tightly clutching the hand of his daughter, Tammy Sue, 19. His wife, Tammy Faye, stayed behind in Orlando to perform on the couple's daily television show.

"My faith is in God," Bakker said as he walked past dozens of reporters.

He was somber and appeared frightened. He could be imprisoned for 150 years if he is convicted of all 24 counts of mail fraud, wire fraud and conspiracy stemming from the sale of so-called "lifetime partnerships" at PTL.

In Orlando, Tammy Faye Bakker was teary-eyed as she asked the couple's followers to pray for him. "We need you to really pray for us," she said. "Just terrible things are going on in Charlotte, N.C., today."

Publicity about the case has been pervasive, not only in Charlotte but across the nation, a fact noted repeatedly by U.S. District Judge Robert Potter over the past several months as he has turned down motions for a change of venue.

Bell strike enters 17th day

A shrinking nationwide telephone strike limped into its 17th day Tuesday, with unionized employees returning to work in California and Nevada but staying away in 18 other states and the District of Columbia.

In Chicago, a statement released by Illinois Bell said negotiators for the Communications Workers of America union refused to return to the bargaining table.

Illinois Bell, a subsidiary of Ameritech, said Monday it was unable to get permission from regional union leaders to resume bargaining.

"We're concerned because we would like to see an end to this work stoppage and have all of our employees back on the job," the Illinois Bell statement said.

Negotiations between Ameritech and its 37,000 striking workers have occurred on a state-by-state basis in Michigan, Wisconsin, Ohio, Illinois and Indiana. The strike began Aug. 13 and affects 12 million customers in the Midwest.

From United Press International reports

Colombia will get U.S. aid

United Press International

KENNESBUNKPORT, Maine — President Bush is preparing to provide Colombia with increased economic and legal aid to fight cocaine cartels, but the South American nation has assured him that it does not need U.S. combat troops.

Bush received the assurances during a telephone call late Monday with Colombian President Virgilio Barco, said White House press secretary Martin Fitzwater.

Fitzwater said Bush called Barco to "express his condolences" for the murder Friday of presidential candidate Luis Carlos Galan — the latest in a series of public officials to be executed by cocaine cartels — and to express support for Barco's actions to "restore law and order."

Fitzwater said Barco told Bush he had read "press speculation about use of U.S. troops in Colombia" and "reaffirmed to the president that U.S. troops would not be necessary."

Fitzwater said Bush, who Saturday vowed to work with Barco to extradite suspected traffickers to the United States to stand trial, "reiterated the United States' intention to render appropriate assistance as rapidly as possible."

Earlier Monday, White House chief of staff John Sununu said Bush had made final decisions on a comprehensive anti-drug strategy that will include increased economic aid to Colombia and other South American nations and cost from $7.5 billion to $8 billion.

Bush is to announce the plan formally in a nationally televised speech Sept. 5, the day after he returns to Washington from a three-week vacation at his summer home on the coast of Maine.

Speaking with reporters while Bush played golf at a nearby course, Sununu said the president was reluctant to send any combat troops into Colombia, but, as a matter of administration policy, would consider such action if asked.

Sununu said, "I think the tradition in the Western hemisphere has been a reluctance on the part of anybody to ask for troops and I think there's a reluctance on part of the president to commit troops unless the situations are extreme."

Asked if conditions are indeed extreme, considering a recent series of drug-related slayings of three public officials, Sununu said:

"The best people to determine (that) ... are the Colombians themselves" and that to date they have asked for no combat troops.

After Galan's death, though, Colombian and U.S. officials are reviewing extradition policies to make it easier to bring suspected traffickers to the United States to stand trial.

Colombia continues crackdown

United Press International

BOGOTA, Colombia — Security forces have arrested 12,000 suspected drug dealers and seized about $100 million in property in a massive crackdown on drug barons held responsible for a string of political assassinations.

Police interrogated witnesses and suspects in the killings last week of Superior Judge Carlos Valencia, Medellín Police Chief Valdemar Franklin Quintero and presidential candidate Luis Carlos Galana.

Galana — like many other judges and journalists slain by suspected drug hitmen — had been a vocal critic of the cocaine cartels and was seeking extradition of traffickers to the United States when he was slain.

Defense Minister Gen. Oscar Botero said Monday more than 12,000 suspects have been arrested in 600 raids under a massive crackdown launched after the murder of Galana, but that the key barons had eluded authorities.

"The most important traffickers are either leaving the country or have gone into hiding. Sooner or later we will get them," the defense minister said. "Right now the important thing is to get their collaborators. And then eventually we'll get them."

Saberhagen continues mastery

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Bret Saberhagen increased his personal winning streak to six games and George Brett drove in a pair of runs Monday night to lift the Kansas City Royals to their seventh straight triumph, a 4-2 decision over the California Angels.

Saberhagen allowed six hits and struck out five in improving to 15-5. He also walked one in winning the 12th game in his last 13 decisions. Rick Luecken pitched the ninth for the first save of his career.

The Royals' winning streak is their longest since June 1983. The loss dropped California out of first place in the AL West by one game to Oakland. Kansas City remained 4 1/2 games behind the Athletics.

Willie Fraser, 46, who came on in the first when California starter Chuck Finley had to leave with a sprained big toe, took the loss.

In other action Monday night Oakland hammered Detroit 6-1, New York tripped Boston 6-1 and Baltimore blanked Milwaukee 5-0.

FOOTBALL

Thomas feels good with Chiefs

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — What Derrick Thomas saw from the sidelines on Sunday night had to make him feel good in the area of his wallet.

The Kansas City Chiefs made Thomas their first choice in last spring's draft. The Alabama linebacker set a school record with 52 sacks over his career and was given the Dick Butkus Award as the top linebacker in the country last season.

The Chiefs, who had trouble at linebacker last season, decided on Thomas early and snapped him up with the fourth overall choice in the draft.

But midway through the exhibition season and just three weeks before the opening of the regular season, Thomas is unsigned by Kansas City and he isn't sure just how long he'll stay that way.

Sunday, Thomas was on the Chiefs' sidelines watching as the Kansas City defense was riddled in a 45-7 loss to the New York Giants.

Polonia pleads no contest

MILWAUKEE — New York Yankees outfielder Luis Polonia was found guilty Monday after pleading no contest to the misdemeanor charge of having had sexual intercourse with a 15-year-old girl.

Milwaukee County Circuit Judge Thomas Doherty ordered a presentence investigation and scheduled sentencing for Oct. 2, the day after the regular season ends. Polonia, 24, faced a maximum sentence of 90 days in the Milwaukee County House of Corrections and a $10,000 fine.

Under a no contest plea, a defendant does not acknowledge innocence or guilt but admits there is enough evidence to be found guilty. Doherty accepted the plea and found Polonia guilty.

Polonia and his attorneys declined comment. The outfielder remained free on a $5,000 bond.

Mets closing ground on Cubs

NEW YORK — Ron Darling scattered seven hits and struck out a season high 10 over 8 1/3 innings Monday night, leading the New York Mets to a 4-1 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

Gregg Jefferies banged out three hits and Kevin Elster and Howard Johnson added two each as the Mets won for the 11th time in their last 14 games and dropped the Giants' lead in the NL West to 1 1/2 games.

Darling, 12-9, walked none as he posted his fifth complete game of the season. The right hander has gone the distance in three of his last four outings.

Randy Myers notched the last two outs for his 22nd save.

On the field Monday San Diego socked Philadelphia 8-2, Los Angeles whipped Montreal 6-1 and Cincinnati edged Chicago 6-5 in 10 innings.

Luck strikes twice

Fortune puts Iatarola in two World Series

By MARK BLYTHE
 Herald sports writer

How would you describe a baseball player who has participated in not one, but two Little League-sponsored World Series tournaments?

For Lake Mary's Aaron Iatarola, who has been to both the Little League (11 and 12 year olds) World Series, and this summer, the Big League (16, 17 and 18) World Series, the accomplishment defies reason.

"I guess I'm just lucky," Iatarola said of his two experiences. "I was

Some five years ago, Iatarola and his Altamonte Springs Little League All Star teammates reached the title game against Seoul, Korea, where they lost a tough 6-2 confrontation. Iatarola pitched and won the semi-final game before the game with Seoul.

"I can remember pitching and winning the game to get us into the finals," Iatarola said. "It was a big deal since the finals were televised and since we beat Indiana, where my family lived before moving to Florida."

Iatarola was on a team that dominated play throughout the qualifying tournaments before reaching the World Series. He recalls beating Indiana and what it meant to him and his teammates. He also remembers his role on that team and how they played together to reach their final goal, the final game of the World Series.

"We were pretty close and we played together," Iatarola said. "We had a good team and everyone knew their role."

Iatarola, who graduated from Lake Mary High School in June, also remembers his trip to Fort Lauderdale this summer for the Big League World Series. The District 14 Big Leaguers were a surprise team that reached the World Series before bowing out after being hurt by injuries.

"We were the underdog throughout the tournament," Iatarola said. "We were relaxed when we played. The coaching staff was real loose with us and we came together and played as a unit. That's why we won as many games as we did."

Iatarola feels the chemistry with both teams allowed them to reach World Series play. Both teams had caliber athletes and both squads played as a unit.

"We had a good mixture on each team," Iatarola said. "I'm happy to have played with teams as talented as the Major and Big League teams were."

In Big League play, Iatarola remembers the three game series District 14 played against Texas to reach the World Series. Texas, which came in as the team to beat in the Southern Regional, faced

Race gets tighter in 'B' softball

By DEAN SMITH
 Herald correspondent

The A Team Construction Company and Sunnland Corporation moved closer to a showdown for the second half title while the Tim Raines Connection got back in the win column on Monday night in Sanford Men's Class "B" Slowpitch Softball action at Chase Park.

The only two teams with a chance to win the second half title are The A Team with an 8-0 record and Sunnland, which is 7-1. Next Monday night, The A Team takes on Stromberg Carlson and Sunnland meets Royce Electronics. If both teams win on The A Team loses, the last game of the season will be a showdown for the title. Sunnland's lone loss in the second half was to The A Team by a 5-4 score.

Buc administrators target of extortionist

United Press International

TAMPA — The FBI arrested a Pinellas County man Monday on charges of mailing extortion letters to Tampa Bay Buccaneers owner Hugh Culverhouse and team vice president Phil Krueger.

Rudolph Joseph Skowronski, 38, was arrested by agents at Feather Sound, a housing area north of St.

Petersburg. The FBI released few details, but said Skowronski allegedly sought to extort $35,000 from Culverhouse and Krueger by threatening to kill an unidentified person if the money was not paid.

The letters were received Aug. 15. Skowronski faces a maximum of 20 years in prison and a $5,000 fine if convicted.

Dent intends to help Yankees and keep job

United Press International

NEW YORK — Declaring he is not "chumb," new Yankee Manager Bucky Dent said Monday he will try to improve the club without dwelling on the fate of his predecessors.

"I'm not going to concern myself with that," he said. "People ask me, 'Is it hard to work for Mr. Steinbrenner?' Those kinds of things aren't even in my mind. My job right now is to go out and manage this club the best that I can."

When Dent succeeded Dallas Green Friday in Detroit, it marked the 17th managerial change since George Steinbrenner bought the club in 1973.

Dent, who said he had not discussed his contract with Steinbrenner, made his home debut against the Boston Red Sox, the same club he victimized in 1978 with a three-run homer in the one-game American League East playoff.

"I know the ground rules coming in here," Dent said. "I know it's a job where there's some pressure and the bottom line is to win. Nobody wants to win any more than I do."

"I've been here as a player. I See Dent, Page 2B

Ryan Express goes after 5,000th victim tonight

United Press International

ARLINGTON, Texas — Nolan Ryan, who at age 42 continues to throw 95 mph fastballs past yet another generation of befuddled batters, tonight reaches for another milestone in a fabulous career.

With the Oakland Athletics serving as the opposition, Ryan will try for his 5,000th strikeout. It would be one more proud achievement for the man who has thrown the most no hitters (five) and who has established strikeout standards that may be forever unmatched.

Ryan will take the mound for the Texas Rangers tonight needing six strikeouts to reach 5,000. In only two outings this season has he failed to strike out that many.

A sellout crowd of more than 42,000 will be on hand. Within hours after Ryan's most recent outing, in which he struck out eight in Seattle to come up six short of 5,000, the last 10,000 tickets to Tuesday night's game were sold. One fan in Maryland called the Rangers ticket office in an attempt to buy 12 tickets — not to see the game, but to have the ticket stubs as potentially valuable souvenirs.

"My attitude has always been that I didn't want the fans to go away disappointed," Ryan said. "Natural. I'd like to do it Tuesday night. If I

- June 26, 1965 — Signed by the New York Mets after being selected in the 10th round of the draft.
- Sept. 1, 1966 — Records his first major league strikeout — Pat Jarvis of the Atlanta Braves.
- April 20, 1968 — Wins first major league game, defeating the St. Louis Cardinals (1-1).
- June 18, 1968 — Strikes out 10th batter, Denny Lee/Master of Houston.
- Dec. 10, 1971 — Traded by the New York Mets to California along with pitcher Don Kase, catcher Francisco Espada and outfielder Leroy Stanton for pitcher Jim Fregay.
- April 18, 1972 — Strikeout total reaches 400 against Charlie Manuel of Minnesota.
- May 15, 1972 — Throws first no hit game, defeating the Royals 1-0 in Kansas City. 1-0. Shortstop Rudy Meoli saves no hitter with an over the shoulder catch of a looping liner by Galt Hopkins in the eighth.
- July 1, 1973 — Sal Bando of Oakland becomes 1,000th strikeout victim.
- July 15, 1973 — Records second no hitter of the year in Detroit, striking out 16 in the first six innings and 17 overall for a 0-0 win. Becomes fifth man to pitch four no hitters in one year.
- June 18, 1974 — Sets personal record with 19 strikeouts against Boston, a mark later equaled three times, twice more in 1974.
- Aug. 20, 1974 — Establishes record for most strikeouts in three consecutive games (47).
- Sept. 28, 1974 — Throws third no hitter in final start of the season. Strikes out the side in the first two innings and is for the game but walks seven.

Seminar set on working women's stress

Reservations are required for the seminar "Working Women's Stress Syndrome," to be held on Thursday, Aug. 24, at the Holiday Inn—UCF, Orlando, in Ballrooms C and D from 7-9 p.m. The free seminar, sponsored by Winter Park Pavilion, will focus on women's experience of achievement and work-related stress. Anne-Marie Berck, Ph.D., a licensed clinical psychologist, will discuss self-esteem, self-expectations and specific suggestions on how to reduce and control stress. To make reservations or for more information, call 677-8642.

Girls State was eventful

SANFORD — Jennifer Beck, a senior at Seminole High School, told of her experiences at Girls State before the Aug. 10 general meeting of American Legion Auxiliary, Unit 53.

The Sanford auxiliary sponsored Beck for Girls State, held in Tallahassee the week of June 16.

The American Legion Girls State is a week-long course held for high school juniors to learn about Americanism and government. Each youth is assigned to a mock political party, and mock elections are held to fill various city and county offices. State legislative sessions, court trials, law schools, evening assemblies and glee clubs are popular activities at a typical Girls State.

Beck served as a city commissioner and was elected to the house of representatives at Girls State. She also served on the committee that wrote a bill calling for a lottery commission to investigate how lottery funds are being spent by the state of Florida. The bill passed the Girls State House and Senate and will be forwarded to Gov. Bob Martinez for review.

Beck's mother, Martha, also was a guest at the auxiliary meeting.

LONGWOOD — A surprise bridal shower was thrown for Amy Dickson with around 65 guests keeping the secret.

"It was very difficult to plan it with 65 women to tell," said Paula Howard, the publicity chairman for the local Sounds of Sunshine Chorus of Sweet Adelines Inc. "Our phone chain worked really well, though."

The chorus, of which Dickson is a member, threw the shower after their weekly meeting Thursday, Aug. 3. The meeting started at 7:30 p.m., with the shower following at 10 p.m.

"It was a ball! She was really surprised," Howard said.

Some of the members pitched in together and gave Dickson some very nice gifts, including a comforter, some household items and some slinky negligees.

"Our chorus is very warm and loving. We really go out of our way to make each other feel special," Howard said. "We are educational, but also sister-supportive. That's why so many people stay in for years and years."

'Teeth thief' raises Cain in convalescent home

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Abby is off on a two-week vacation, but she left behind some of her favorite letters taken from her best-selling book, "The Best of Dear Abby.")

DEAR ABBY: I am employed at a very large convalescent home. One of the elderly residents here lost her dentures, so with a pillow case in hand, she crept into the rooms of the other occupants while they were sleeping and picked up every pair of false teeth from the water glasses. She then returned to her room and tried each set until she found one that fit her. Then she sneakily returned the sets of teeth to any water glass.

The next morning, everyone was walking around the place with overbites and underling jaws, complaining bitterly that their dentures didn't fit!

How do we straighten out this mess? Or must we buy new dentures for 100 residents?

DENTURE DILEMMA

DEAR DILEMMA: Call in a dentist and ask him to examine the mouths of the patients and the dentures, in order to return them to their rightful owners. (P.S. Denture-making kits are available. Get one and use it, before another teeth thief gums up the works again.)

DEAR ABBY: Our 15-year-old, 6-foot, 200-pound son got a girl from a neighboring farm into trouble. She is also 15. We gave him strict orders to stay away from her, but it seems he didn't. Her people claim it's our fault.

I talked with a judge in the city, and he said there is a law that says if a man owns a bull,

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

he is responsible for keeping the bull locked up. And if the bull gets loose and goes into a neighbor's pasture and breeds his dairy heifers, the owners of the heifers can't sue for damages because they should have kept their heifers locked up. My friend, the judge, says the same law applies to people. Do we have a case?

OSMO FARMER

DEAR FARMER: A man's son is not a bull; neither is his neighbor's daughter a heifer. I can't practice law, but I think your friend, the judge, gave you a bum steer.

DEAR ABBY: I've been going steady with this man for six years. We see each other every night. He says he loves me, and I know I love him, but he never mentions marriage. Do you think he's going out with me just for what he can get?

GERTIE

DEAR GERTIE: I don't know. What's he getting?

DEAR ABBY: I am absolutely beside myself with the news my parents gave me this morning.

They drove over here and calmly announced that after 44 years of marriage they are getting a divorce! I honestly believe they have taken leave of their senses.

They have had their differences like all married couples, but they have never separated—not even for one day. I can't imagine what has come over them.

Dad says that since he is 70, if the good Lord gives him another five years he wants to live them in peace. Mother, who is 69, says she feels the same way.

I suggested a larger apartment with two bedrooms, frequent separate vacations, a trial separation—anything but divorce. But they insist they have thought it over and this is what they both want. Abby, they have children and grandchildren who love and respect them. How can parents disagree their families that way?

THEIR DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: Your parents have a right to make their own decisions, for their own reasons, without loss of love or respect from their children and grandchildren. And if they terminate their marriage after 44 years, where is the "disgrace"? Perhaps they stayed together as long as they did out of consideration for you. They need compassion, not criticism.

(Problems? Write to Dear Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dear Abby, P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. All correspondence is confidential.)

Madame Katherine offers advice

LONGWOOD - Award-winning psychic Madame Katherine of Longwood introduces her daughter Sylvia, who has been psychic for 15 years. Her natural psychic ability has developed under the guidance of her mother since she was three months old.

Sylvia assists Madame Katherine in her business, which she will one day take over. Both are licensed by the state and the county. A psychic for over 50 years, Madame Katherine has given readings in the privacy of her home for more than 25 years, helping people by advising them on their problems.

"That's why they voted me Central Florida's best psychic," she said.

She's been in the same location on Highway 17-92, two blocks south of State Road 434 in Longwood since 1969.

"We could help you in your problems in business and in love," Madame Katherine said. "We can reunite the separated."

"Do you want to know about your future?" she asked. "Why worry when one visit will ease your mind. We could help your children with drug problems and worries. We could help you with your finances by analyzing you and telling you the right direction to take."

"We will answer all your questions after the reading. We will advise you what county, city or state is best for you, what are the best investments and what business or job is better for you. We will tell you if you have the right love in your life," she added.

Madame Katherine and her daughter, Sylvia, who is also a psychic.

They do psychic, palm, crystal ball, card and tarot card readings as well as making horoscope charts by appointment only. Call 407-665-7005 for an appointment. Hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

China's Deng has 85th birthday

United Press International

BELJING - Senior leader Deng Xiaoping turned 85 today, the most troubled birthday in his 10 years as China's most powerful man, with his health uncertain, his legacy tarnished and his nation groping for direction in the era that will succeed him.

Deng's birthday went unmentioned in the official press, although newspapers carried the most recent photograph published of him, said to have been taken July 2 and showing Deng sitting in an armchair.

In the year since his last birthday, Deng has been impelled to roll back his cherished free-market economic reforms, dump his chosen successor and send tanks against the people of his capital in the brutal June crackdown on the student-led democracy movement.

With his reputation at its nadir both at home and abroad in the aftermath of the crackdown, the government has begun building the foundations of a personality cult around Deng for the first time since he emerged as supreme leader in the late 1970s.

State-run media on Monday published the latest in a series of glowing tributes to Deng, marking the publication of a new book of speeches and articles he authored between 1938 and 1965. Several books and a film about Deng's life and works have appeared.

The Communist Party newspaper People's Daily carried one such speech from 1957 in its Tuesday editions with an editor's note calling it of "great significance" for the present and future.

The tributes have not approached the dedication once accorded Mao Tse-tung, but are puzzling because Deng has in the past eschewed them and opposed the canonizing of a single leader.

"I don't think we'll see Deng badges or little books of his quotations," said a veteran Chinese journalist. "But the leadership is having trouble with what will happen after he dies, and they need him as a symbol to support themselves."

As the architect of the open-door policy and the economic reforms that raised living standards for most Chinese, Deng will remain a legendary figure for rescuing the country from the destruction of the 1966-1976 Cultural Revolution, observed a Western diplomat.

"But he may go down with an official reckoning similar to Mao's, as a great man who made serious mistakes late in life," the diplomat added.

NOTICE OF CODE ENFORCEMENT BOARD PROCEEDINGS
TO: Mark & Suzanne Christian 2808 W. 17th St. Sanford, FL 32771 or the owner(s) of the following described property: Lot 25 28' 20" Broadwood Pk # PG 99 as recorded in PG 1, Seminole County, Florida Also described as: 2808 W. 17th St. Sanford, Florida RE: Case No. 89-19

The Sanford Code Enforcement Board was created by Sanford City Code, Ordinance 128, as amended, as authorized by Chapter 166, Florida Statutes. The purpose of this Board is to facilitate the enforcement of the codes and ordinances in force in the City of Sanford. You have been charged with violating the following Code on your property: Chapter 14, Section 14-1, Chapter 13, Section 13-4 and Chapter 21, Section 21-111; Allowing stagnant water to remain in a swimming pool, allowing high grass & weeds to develop on premises, allowing pool area to remain open & unattended.

You are hereby formally notified that a Public Hearing will be conducted by the Code Enforcement Board of the City of Sanford on the 12th day of September, 1989, at 7:30 p.m. in the City Commission Chambers, Room 117, Sanford City Hall, 280 N. Park Avenue, Sanford, Florida, concerning the above-cited violation. The Board will receive testimony and evidence of said hearing and shall make findings of fact and conclusions of law.

You are hereby ordered to appear before that Board of the Hearing to answer the charges and present your side of the case. You have the right to obtain an attorney, of your own expense, to represent you before the Board. You have the right to call witnesses on your behalf as well as to cross-examine all other witnesses. If you do not appear, the Board may proceed without you. Should the Board determine that a violation exists, it has the power to issue Orders requiring you to bring the violation into compliance including the power to levy fines and create a lien on your property up to $250.00 for each day the violation continues past the date set for compliance by the Board's Order.

If the violation is not corrected by the time of the hearing or if, prior to the hearing, you have failed to comply with the above-cited alleged code violation but the violation recurs prior to the Public Hearing, the hearing will be held on the allegations against you.

If you have questions concerning this matter, please contact the Building Department at (407) 326-5656. SHOULD YOU DECIDE TO APPEAL ANY MATTER CONSIDERED AT THE ABOVE HEARING, YOU MAY NEED A VERBATIM RECORD TO THE PROCEEDINGS, TESTIMONY AND EVIDENCE WHICH RECORD IS NOT PROVIDED BY THE CITY OF SANFORD (P.S. 26-262).

Impotence may not be a chemical problem

DEAR DR. GOTT: Will fluoxymesterone help my problem with impotence?

DEAR READER: Perhaps, depending on the cause of your impotence.

Fluoxymesterone (Android, Halostatin) is a synthetic male hormone (testosterone). In men who experience sexual dysfunction from inadequate amounts of naturally produced testosterone, hormone supplements (in pills or injections) can correct the deficiency. With treatment, these men will become more interested in sex and be able to perform more satisfactorily.

However, most cases of impotence are not the result of hormone deficiency. For example, circulatory problems are a much more common cause of impotence. Experts estimate that up to 50 percent of diabetic men suffer sexual dysfunction, because the disease interrupts circulation to the genital organs.

Also, arteriosclerosis in non-diabetics often causes impotence. In addition, many men are impotent from psychological factors, including depression and emotional upset. Finally, medicines and drugs, such as alcohol and anti-hypertension medication, are associated with sexual dysfunction.

To determine whether testosterone supplements might help, your doctor should first discuss the problem with you, perform an examination and order a blood test to determine the level of hormone in your system. If your testosterone level is low, a trial of fluoxymesterone could benefit you.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Is there a similarity between Milroy's disease and Lyme disease? A recent article by you and another from Good Housekeeping have me confused.

DEAR READER: The two conditions are unrelated, distinct entities.

Milroy's disease is swelling of one or both legs due to an increase in edema fluid. The cause is unknown. Treatment consists of wearing elastic hose or pneumatic stockings to force the edema out of the leg.

Lyme disease is an infection caused by a tick bite. Usually, a rash initially forms at the site of the bite; this is associated with flu-like symptoms of fever, weakness and aching joints, which may progress to arthritis, heart inflammation, exhaustion and signs of brain infection

PETER GOTT, M.D.
 (encephalitis and meningitis). Antibiotics are useful in eradicating the infection. However, the longer the disease is present, the less effective drug therapy is in curing it.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Indeed a little learning is a dangerous thing, particularly at the bridge table. After West's opening three-diamond bid, South got to three no-trump. West, who remembered reading about someone who led the queen from a suit like his own against no-trump, successfully smothering the singleton jack in dummy, tried leading the queen of diamonds. Declarer won the king, quickly ran five club tricks, and then led a heart up to the king in dummy. Declarer of course was hoping that West also held the heart ace. No such luck! East won the ace of hearts and returned a diamond. That was seven tricks to the defense and down three for declarer. In fact, West had made what should have been a fatal error by leading the queen of diamonds.

It is very unlikely for someone to pre-empt in second position with a good suit and a side ace. South should know that the ace of hearts surely will be in the East hand. Therefore, declarer should play low on the queen of diamonds lead. West can take the ace but no more diamonds, and declarer can force out the ace of hearts after forcing out the ace of diamonds to make nine tricks. West's proper lead, when he has no outside card that might win a trick, is the nine or 10 of diamonds. Then, when East takes the ace of hearts, the defense will still have communication to run the diamond suit.

HOROSCOPE

YOUR BIRTHDAY
 Aug. 23, 1989

A number of material goodies that you've been wanting to have but really don't need might come into your possession in the year ahead. They'll be like frosting on the cake.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're going to have to be more assertive than usual if you hope to achieve an important objective at this time. Opposition will be impressive, but the odds still favor you. Virgo, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It won't be helpful today merely to verbally inspire an associate. In order to encourage this individual you are going to have to physically demonstrate your intentions.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It may be best to avoid little groups or cliques whose members of whom you disapprove.

Things they may say or do today could give you even more reasons to dislike them.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If possible, try to work independently of others today. In your intensity to accomplish your aims, you might feel cohorts will just get in your way and slow you down.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your social acceptance by others is at a high point again today, but if you ignore your duties and responsibilities to pursue a good time, you'll have to pay the price later.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Although your heart will be in the right place when you try to help someone sort out complications today, your methods and ideas might only create more problems.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Neither you nor your mate should make major decisions today without first consulting one another. This is a day when two heads are definitely better than one.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you can't fully concentrate on what you're supposed to be doing today, it might be wise to walk away from it. Don't let persistently poor procedures worsen matters.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You're likely to be in an extremely sociable mood today and this is well and good, but you could also be in a very extravagant frame of mind and this is not too nifty.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Being too set upon having everything your own way today could create some problems in your life, especially in dealings with family members.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) People will try to be friendly toward you today because they really like you and want to be of assistance if they can. However, if your mindset is negative, you might not even recognize it.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't attempt to impress or influence others today through your expenditures, because it isn't apt to work. Flamboyant gestures will be both costly and ineffective.
