Murder trial continues

SANFORD — The Sanford trial of Nakita Maxine Cronin, 35, of Geneva, for second-degree murder continues for the third day today at the county courthouse.

Cronin is accused of, on May 27, fatally shooting her husband John Frederick Cronin, 40. The shooting occurred during a fight at the couple's house at 548 E. Osceola Road, Geneva.

Seminole County sheriff's investigator Robert Jaynes initially arrested Cronin late that night on a charge of manslaughter.

More found guilty in sex case

SANFORD — A Florida State Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services worker has been found guilty of solicitation for prostitution and unlawful compensation, for attempting to force a Longwood woman into having sex with him and participating in a welfare scam in exchange for his dropping a reported investigation against her. The investigator was to have received a percentage of the welfare money the woman would have collected through false claims to the state. She reported the offer to authorities.

A jury in Sanford Thursday convicted James Morel, 50, of Lake Mary, in the case. He has been an HRS worker 24 years and now faces up to one year in jail and possible probation, when sentenced.

Morel was arrested in June. He met the victim when he was investigating an allegation of child abuse against her earlier this year.

St. Lucia Festival opens

Gala tonight; parade set for tomorrow

By NICK PFENFAUF
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The period of time from 7 p.m. tonight through late Saturday will see one of the most ambitious and entertaining combination of events ever staged in the downtown Sanford area. It's the second annual St. Lucia Festival.

Events of every description will be held, including an original ballet, children's activities, downtown festival, Christmas parade and a gigantic boat parade.

Tonight the festival begins with the Candlelight Gala at 7 p.m. at the Sanford Civic Center, located at Sanford Avenue and Seminole Boulevard. The gala begins with a champagne hour, then is to be followed by "Circle of Light," a ballet about a St. Lucia celebration among Swedish settlers in early

Iraq's parliament votes to free all hostages in 'peace gesture'

By SAYLE YOUNG
United Press International

The rubber-stamp Iraqi National Assembly, carrying out President Saddam Hussein's order, voted Friday to free all foreign nationals held hostage in Iraq and occupied Kuwait, the official Iraqi news agency INA said.

In a special session held on the Muslim day of prayer, the assembly voted 238-15 to immediately lift all travel restrictions for an estimated 6,000 Western and Japanese nationals still trapped in the troubled area, INA said.

Proponents of the release called the vote a gesture of peace, the agency said.

Saddam surprised the world when he decreed Thursday that the hostages be freed, but his government gave no indication when the captives would be permitted to depart.

Iraq's ambassador to Washington said Thursday the timing of the hostages' release depended on the availability of flights and that all previously detained foreign nationals could be home by Christmas.

Last month, Saddam had said would free the hostages in batches beginning Christmas Day and ending March 25.

The State Department Thursday broadcast a radio message over Voice of America urging any Americans in hiding inside Iraq and Kuwait to "stay where you are" until Iraq makes clear when and

Families of hostages are skeptical

United Press International

Iraqi President Saddam Hussein's proposal to free his hostages elated yellow-rifles families around the United States but they maintained a degree of cautious skepticism.

"I hope it means that this is a solid indication that this thing can be worked out," said Ingrid Pawlowski, who had to leave her husband, Paul, hiding in Kuwait when she and their 7-year-old daughter fled the country in September. "I'm afraid to get too excited how they can leave.

Freedom for all foreign nationals held by Iraq since its Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait would meet one of the three U.N. objectives for resolving the 4-month-old Persian Gulf crisis.

But Pentagon officials Thursday said Iraq continued this week to build up his military forces in the region, indicating Saddam was not ready to meet the two other U.N. objectives — Iraq's unconditional withdrawal from Kuwait and restoration of Kuwait's legitimate government.

Nevertheless, President Bush and Secretary of State James Baker said Thursday Saddam's announcement demonstrated that international military and diplomatic pressure against Iraq "is working."

Both said the United States remained determined to see the U.N. objectives fully achieved.

In a message Thursday to the speaker of Iraq's National Assembly, Saddam told the parliament to "lift the ban on the travel of all foreigners whose travel abroad has been restricted and to take a decision to this effect," according to the Iraqi News Agency, monitored in Cairo, Egypt.

Approval of the release by the Iraqi legislature not unexpected because the National Assembly is widely regarded as a rubber stamp body for Saddam's directives.

Saddam reportedly acted at the suggestion Wednesday of three of his few remaining Arab allies — Palestine Liberation Organization Chairman Yasser Arafat, Jordan's King Hussein and the vice president of Yemen.

A U.N. Security Council resolution passed Nov. 29 authorizes a U.S.-led multinational force arrayed in the Persian Gulf to forcibly dislodge Iraq from Kuwait after Jan. 15 unless Iraqi withdrawals before then.

Saddam's announcement came as Iraq and the United States prepared for top-level talks Bush called for the day after the Jan. 15 deadline.

Lake Mary to maintain cemetery

LAKE MARY — City commission discussion, citizen participation and work on three major items produced an almost five-hour marathon session for newly elected Mayor Randy Morris last night.

The three issues involved land use changes near Sun Drive, a decision on what to do with the Lake Mary Cemetery property and the intergovernmental coordination element of the city's growth management plan.

Prior to the scheduled start of the regular meeting, the commission held a joint work session with planning and zoning members at 8 p.m., to discuss several elements of the master land use plan.

Much of the presentation centered on changing and correcting drafts of the work done thus far by the firm of Henigar and Ray. Eventually, the full plan will be submitted to the state Department of Community Affairs for approval.

Albert Gonzales, senior planner with Henigar and Ray, explained that even after the plans are submitted "it will take another five to six months

Class prepares students for 'real life'

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald staff writer

LAKE MARY — As the wedding of the semester was ready to begin yesterday at Lake Mary High School, the bride peered nervously from behind the door as the rest of the bridal party made their way down the aisle. A guest wiped a tear from the corner of her eye.

The ceremony appeared real enough until the minister pronounced Brian Levi and Christy Santora "simulated husband and wife."

Simulated? The wedding was part of the family living class taught by Deborah Mitchell, who is teaching the class for the first time this semester.

"The class prepares students for real life situations," Mitchell said.

The family living class covers situations that Mitchell said the students will more than likely face during their lives.

Beginning with dating, the class covers the subjects of anatomy, contraception, marriage, childbirth, child development, divorce, and death.

"I try to make the class more interesting for the students," she said. "If they know we are doing things like this they'd be more likely to sign up for the class."

Levi, a senior, said he thought the wedding would be an easy exercise, but found out there was more to getting married than he imagined.

"It was a lot of work," he said. "I was surprised."

He added it would be a long time before he attempted the real thing.

Mitchell takes exception to those who say a wedding with no meaning behind it teaches the students nothing of the real life marriage experience.

Tampa airport windows crashing

TAMPA — The floor-to-ceiling windows of Tampa International Airport's $62 million international terminal have been randomly breaking.

Mayor Sandy Freedman told airport officials Thursday that something has to be done to make people aware of the danger or keep them away from the windows.

Airport officials say 25 windows have cracked since the building opened three years ago. Only one window collapsed after it shattered, but nobody was hurt.

Airport engineer William J. Connors Jr. said the glass is apparently contaminated with nickel sulfide "stones" the size of ground pepper grains. The tiny particles can expand unpredictably and shatter the window.

The Hillsborough County Aviation Authority has hired a consultant to figure out what to do about the windows and ensure public safety. The authority has also used the contractor who installed the windows.

Humphrey's brother critical of media

ORLANDO — George Humphrey has criticized reporters and photographers for the insensitivity they showed when his brother was identified as a suspect in the Gainesville aerial killings.

He also said he did not expect to see so many inaccurate depictions of Edward Humphrey's history in print.

George Humphrey, a 23-year-old University of Florida student, made those comments recently at a meeting of the Central Florida chapter of the Society of Professional Journalists in Orlando.

Besides lambasting the press, Humphrey said he also lost respect for police investigators. He said they showed a lot of insensitivity in their eagerness to find out who killed five Gainesville students in August.

Edward Humphrey was one of the first suspects named in the investigation of the Gainesville student slayings. While cooperating with authorities, George Humphrey said he became a suspect himself for a short while.

No one has been charged in the case.

Edward Humphrey is serving a 22-month sentence in state psychiatric hospital for beating his 79-year-old grandmother.

Citrus canker legal fees mounting

TALLAHASSEE — It's costing taxpayers $500 an hour in interest charges while private lawyers haggle over fees for settling citrus canker lawsuits.

The suits were prompted by a 1984 citrus canker eradication program, implemented by the state, that destroyed millions of trees.

The dispute could cost more than $4 million a year in interest charges until the lawsuits are resolved, Assistant Attorney General Jon Glogau said. It could cost millions more in unreasonable attorneys' fees.

Meanwhile, citrus growers who settled 31 suits are waiting to get paid while lawyers squabble over fees.

Informant testifies in arms case

ORLANDO — A government informant has testified in federal court that a German eye doctor knew he was discussing illegal arms deals.

The informant, an executive with an Orlando weapons development firm, said the doctor warned him that he did not want to spend 20 years in prison.

Under cross-examination, the executive never expressly told the doctor that the proposed deals were illegal.

Roy Woodward, a vice president with MDTT, said he didn't think he needed to after the physician's remark about prison. Woodward said the comment was made during a discussion of how the two should communicate.

Woodward spent nearly five hours on the witness stand Thursday in the conspiracy trial of ophthalmologist Claus Fuhler, and Spanish businessman Juan Martin Peche-Koesters.

The two men are charged with violating the Arms Control Export Act by conspiring to buy and sell weapons to Iraq and other Middle Eastern countries.

They allegedly conspired to sell anti-tank missiles, artillery shells, grenades and other weapons to Iraq, Libya, Iran and other countries.

USF drops 'little sisters'

TAMPA — Allegations of sexual harassment have led the University of South Florida to abolish little sister organizations on campus.

Dan Walbolt, USF vice president for student affairs, said he abolished the programs after his office received an anonymous letter complaining that some girls were being taken advantage of.

He said the letter had some serious allegations in it — that some fraternity members saw the groups as providing sexual opportunities for them that were otherwise not available. He declined to be more specific.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Second shuttle computer fails

By WILLIAM HARWOOD
UPI Science Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL — The second and last available computer needed to operate the shuttle Columbia's $150 million telescope payload shut down early Thursday in a major crisis for the star-crossed astronomy mission.

Even before the computer failure, other technical glitches and ongoing trouble with a balky telescope pointing system had reduced by about half the number of targets the crew could study, although they were making good progress when the control computer shut down.

If the astronauts are unable to restart either computer — and officials were not optimistic — ground controllers would have attempted to aim Columbia's four-telescope payload from the ground, using the shuttle crew to zero in on the targets using a joystick.

"We know that it is going to be difficult, but we're going to give that a try," said mission scientist Ted Gull.

While the hard-luck mission would be able to continue in that fashion, the amount of astronomical data gathered by Columbia's four telescopes would be sharply reduced. Even if the plan works, science operations were not expected to begin again until Friday.

"We haven't really practiced at it very much," said flight director Robert Castle. "This is certainly a setback. This is certainly going to hurt us for a while. They're not able to do what they set out to do."

ing computer shut down occurred about 7:15 a.m. EST after the crew noticed a burning smell similar to the odor that preceded the failure of a similar computer shortly after launch Sunday.

Castle said if one of the two computers cannot be reactivated, the astronauts would be unable to operate their high-tech space observatory efficiently in a major setback for the hundreds of scientists who have devoted eight years or more to the "Astro" astronomy mission.

It also would be another black eye for NASA, which has struggled through a painful summer of setbacks highlighted by problems with the $1.5 billion Hubble Space Telescope.

Covering all the bases, the astronauts removed panels from the computer that failed Sunday and found its vents clogged

Florida's restrictions on AIDS test reporting under AMA fire

United Press International

ORLANDO — The American Medical Association has called for mandatory reporting of positive AIDS test results, saying policies that ban such reporting in states like Florida is hampering monitoring of the disease.

Guidelines approved Wednesday by the AMA's House of Delegates recommend reporting of positive test results for human immunodeficiency virus, or HIV, to state and local public health officials in all 50 states.

Florida law permits only the reporting of full-blown cases of acquired immune deficiency syndrome.

Terrence McCoy, a Tallahassee doctor who sits on Florida's Committee on AIDS, said he hoped the measure approved during the AMA delegates' four-day convention in Orlando would spur a change in the Florida law.

"I think it's essential to have adequate data in order to take control of this devastating disease," McCoy said. "And that data necessitates the reporting of seropositive individuals." Seropositive people have tested positive for HIV and would be expected to eventually develop the life-threatening opportunistic infections associated with AIDS.

Researchers argued they cannot track the spread of the disease and the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta cannot keep tabs on the number of infected people if states like Florida continue to prohibit the reporting of HIV test results.

McCoy said that early detection is crucial to the treatment of any disease, including AIDS, for which there is no known cure.

The delegates also voted to support efforts to restrict HIV transmission among prison inmates by offering them condoms, but delayed a decision on a proposal to let doctors perform unrestricted HIV testing on their patients.

Current Florida law permits HIV tests to be performed only with the informed consent of the patient.

The delegates delayed a vote on whether to support legislation to take away for one year the driver's license of any person under 21 caught driving after drinking alcohol.

But they did vote to support a ban on tobacco sales at Veterans Administration hospitals, where smoking is already banned.

I think it's essential to have adequate data in order to take control of this devastating disease.

Convictions overturned

By MICHAEL MOLINE
United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — The Florida Supreme Court overturned Thursday the convictions and death sentence given a man who killed his mother and stepbrother, ruling that the defendant was too mentally ill to assist in his own defense.

In its unanimous ruling, the court cited repeated attempts by the prosecutor to undercut Frederick Nowitzke's insanity defense by what the justices said amounted to improper personal attacks on the defense's witnesses and on the entire field of psychiatry.

The court warned in 1985 that it was concerned about "the lack of propriety and restraint exhibited in the overzealous prosecution of capital cases," and

Guilty plea accepted from Noriega co-defendant

United Press International

MIAMI — A former Panamanian military leader pleaded guilty to a conspiracy charge Thursday and admitted he delivered hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of cocaine bribes to deposed strongman Manuel Noriega.

The plea agreement, accepted Thursday by U.S. District Judge William Hoeweler, calls for Lt. Col. Luis del Cid to testify against Noriega at his drug trafficking trial.

Del Cid, 47, pleaded guilty to one count of conspiracy to commit racketeering. He has already served one year in jail and the agreement calls for him to serve no more than two additional years.

Sentencing will be postponed until after Noriega's trial, which is scheduled to begin Jan. 28 but expected to be delayed.

In exchange for del Cid's testimony, the government agreed to drop five other counts, including racketeering and cocaine trafficking, contained in a 1988 indictment. If convicted on all the original charges, del Cid could have faced up to 70 years in prison and fines up to $550,000.

Defense Attorney Sam Burstin said del Cid will probably end up serving less time than if he had waited for trial.

"He would serve three to four years if he persisted in fighting the case and taking it through appeals. This case presents the unusual opportunity where a guilty plea gets you out of jail faster than a trial," Burstin said.

Del Cid, described as a trusted Noriega aide for 20 years, admitted he acted as Noriega's bag man, delivering payoffs from cocaine traffickers who used Panama as a shipping and money laundering station for U.S.-bound drugs.

The U.S. Attorney's Office in Miami issued a prepared statement saying, "His admission of guilt today speaks for itself."

"The government will carefully consider any cooperation, truthful testimony and evidence before making any recommendation (on sentencing) to the court."

Judge says woman may talk about Lippman charges

By MICHAEL MOLINE
United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Former House employee Kathryn Jennings will be allowed under an agreement approved Thursday by a judge to tell prosecutors her story of being sexually harassed by a powerful legislator.

Jennings settled her sexual harassment claim against Rep. Fred Lippman in 1988 for $47,000, which was approved by the House leadership. The money was taken from tax money used to cover administration costs at the House.

Jennings also promised to keep silent about the affair and agreed to pay double the amount, or $94,000, if she ever told.

But Tallahassee State Attorney Willie Meggs reopened an investigation into the affair and Jennings feared violating the gag clause if forced to discuss the case with prosecutors.

House Speaker T.K. Wetherell had already agreed to let Jennings give a sworn statement to Meggs' office. Leon County Circuit Judge Sanders Sauls adopted that agreement as a court order following a brief hearing Thursday.

Jennings' lawyers also argued the gag clause amounts to an unconstitutional infringement of her right to discuss wrongdoing by powerful public officials — especially since House members have spoken freely about the case since it finally came to light over the past two weeks.

Sauls made no ruling on the constitutional argument, but he did set a Dec. 16 deadline for both sides to file written arguments on the issue, overruling a House plea for more time.

Kent Spriggs, Jennings' Tallahassee lawyer, said he did not know yet whether Jennings would be interviewed by prosecutors by telephone or if she would return to Tallahassee from Colorado, where she now lives.

He did say that Jennings is eager to tell her side of the story.

Stolen bus recovered

SANFORD — City police flipped a mini-bus reported stolen in DeLand and found at a mental health facility in Sanford Wednesday.

Police said they located the van at the mental health center on Park Avenue at 25th Street. Inside the center, police said they found a man who had the keys to the bus. That led to a charge of auto theft against Francis Eugene Grant, 64, of 1931 Longpond Road, Longwood.

DUI arrest

SANFORD — The following person faces a charge of driving under the influence in Seminole County:
 Clinton Lavell Edwards, 30, of 3202 Oriano Ave., 1106, Sanford, was arrested on U.S. Highway 17-92, Sanford, after police noticed his vehicle had a broken tail light. He was also charged for having unsafe vehicle equipment.

Three arrested in drug raid

SANFORD — Two men who allegedly tried to run out of a Sanford house raided by Sanford police's Special Investigations Unit and the Seminole County SWAT team, were stopped by SWAT officers Thursday night.

The men, Bernard Burke, 22, a resident of the raided house at 1506 W. 15th St., and Michael Leon Williams, 19, 1512 W. 15th were stopped as they exited the back door, where a bag of crack cocaine was reportedly found. They and resident Myrel A. Reid, 21, were all charged with possession of cocaine. Reid, who was on a front porch, reportedly had cocaine in his pocket.

Witness identifies suspect

SANFORD — A neighbor who reportedly identified for police a man he saw coming out a window at 1705 Strawberry Ave., Sanford, at about noon Thursday, brought the arrest of a neighbor.

Richard Bernhard Gordon, 35, 1821 Strawberry Ave., was found at home by Sanford police and arrested there on a burglary charge at 1:13 p.m. a police report said.

Police arrest burglary suspect

SANFORD — A man reportedly seen leaving the burglarized house of Albertha Barnett, of 1312 Pine Ave., Sanford, on Sept. 24, has been arrested by Sanford police.

The witness reportedly said he saw the suspect take a box from the house and put it into his own vehicle. Lonnie Lee Berr, 30, of Palatka, was charged with grand theft at 10:45 p.m. Thursday. He was arrested at the county jail.

Two accused of smoking drugs in park

SANFORD — A Seminole County sheriff's deputy who approached a vehicle at Lake Jesup Park, S. Sanford Avenue, Sanford, at about midnight Thursday, reported seeing a woman in the car who appeared to be smoking crack cocaine.

The deputy said he saw pieces of crack cocaine on the floor of the vehicle. That led to a charge of possession of cocaine for occupants of the vehicle, Tammy Bennet, 24, 901 Cherokee Circle, Sanford, and Steve Lee Tucker, 35, 1301 Myrtle Ave., Sanford.

State investigators seek arson suspect

By NICK PFEIFAU
 Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The State Fire Marshal's office is seeking information regarding the whereabouts of a man who may have been involved in the Oct. 18 early morning fires at the Amtrak station in Sanford.

Investigator Doug York said, "We have a description from a witness who saw a man exit from the building and jump on board a southbound train early that morning." York said that the train was traveling at a slow rate of speed at the time it passed by the Sanford station, making such a boarding relatively easy.

He continued, "When the train stopped later that morning in Taft, south of Orlando, CSX yard workers found a man on board the train and made him get off. We have reason to believe it was the same person."

The man being sought is described as a black male, approximately 40 years of age. He is between 5 feet, 10 inches and 6 feet tall, 165 pounds, with black hair and brown eyes. According to the witness, the man was wearing blue jeans, a dark jacket, and carrying a backpack.

The blaze, which is being investigated as an arson case, caused an estimated $2 million damage to the southern half of the train station building, at the western end of Ninth Street in Sanford.

York said a small fire discovered that same morning in the cab of a locomotive, parked some 300 yards from the train station, was connected with the fire in the building.

"At first," he said, "we didn't think the two fires were related, but now we have determined that they were probably both set that same morning and were the work of the same individual."

Investigators have reason to believe the fire in the mall building was started at several separate points. Evidence of this has been sent to Tallahassee for analysis, but so far no reports have been returned.

Police sketch of suspect

The main blaze burned the contents of the storage area in the southern half of the station building which were mostly building supplies being stored by a nearby business. Damage to the actual train office at the north end of the building was minimal.

York said a reenactment of the arson case along with a description of the man being sought will be video taped this week for use on television's "Crimeline" program in an effort to publicize the case over a large area and possibly help in determining the man's whereabouts.

Authorities are asking anyone having any information regarding this person to contact Seminole County Sheriff's Investigator Nick Diprenda at 330-8650 or Investigator Doug York at the Bureau of Fire/Arson Investigations, 1-800-638-3473.

Reunion of Bataan survivors this weekend

By NICK PFEIFAU
 Herald staff writer

Former World War II servicemen from the Sanford and Seminole County area will be joining their counterparts in a special gathering Saturday at Steak and Ale near the intersection of Interstate 4 and State Road 436 in Altamonte Springs.

The event, scheduled to begin at 4:30 p.m., is a combination memorial observance of Pearl Harbor Day, a mini-reunion and Christmas party.

The mini-reunion will reunite former American servicemen who fought on Bataan and Corregidor in the Philippines in the early days of the war. These include former Navy personnel and Army Air Corpemen who fought as provisional infantry on the front lines of Bataan.

At that time, these two units, not part of the normal front line forces, were issued World War I rifles and lived on the front lines at Bataan, subsisting on less than half rations for a period of 99 straight days.

On April 9, 1942, they were ordered to surrender, making it the first time in our nation's history that our forces had surrendered to a foreign enemy.

Later, these same men were forced to take part in what has now become known as the infamous Bataan Death March, during which over 10,300 people died at the hands of the Japanese Army.

Following the march, they spent three and a half years in various prisoner of war camps in both the Philippines and Japan.

Out of over 38,000 Americans who fought on Bataan and Corregidor, less than 3,000 are still believed to be alive, with over 400 of them living here in Central Florida.

Samuel B. Moody, past National Commander of the Defenders of Bataan and Corregidor, said, "Some of these men haven't seen each other in years, and I know they'll have a lot to talk about when they get together."

Sons of Civil War vets gather for first reunion

By TOMM BECK
 United Press International

MILWAUKEE — Two sons of Civil War veterans convened the first reunion of the Iron Brigade Association in 67 years by recalling their fathers' pride in helping save the Union and noting the resurgence of interest in the war.

"I believe that this renewal of interest in the Civil War is presaging a more or less revival of patriotism," said James F. Sullivan, 89, of New Port Richey, Fla.

Sullivan and William H. Upham II, 74, Milwaukee, convened the reunion Thursday night during the monthly meeting of the Civil War Round Table of Milwaukee. Upham's brother, Frederick, 69, Steamboat Springs, Colo., was scheduled to attend but was ill with the flu and remained in Colorado.

"This (the war) was the high point in their lives in many respects," Upham said of his father and other members of the Iron Brigade. He said his father and other veterans "talked constantly" of the war.

Sullivan's father, who became a lawyer in Ontario, Wis., after the war, painted his law office red, white and blue to show his patriotism.

In 1861 Sullivan's father, James P. "Mickey" Sullivan, joined Company K of the 6th Wisconsin Infantry while Upham's father, William Upham, signed on with Company F of the 2nd Wisconsin Infantry.

Upham was shot through the neck and back at the First Battle of Bull Run and was taken prisoner, but was paroled in 1862 and through a Wisconsin senator was taken to meet President Abraham Lincoln, who asked to see Upham's wound.

"He had my father take off his blouse, and then his undershirt, and the wound on the back, the hole that had filled in, was at least the size of a man's hand."

"This (the war) was the high point in their lives in many respects."

—Sullivan Upham

Upham said.

"Lincoln made some statement that it was a serious wound and he said one of his relatives, I understand he said it was his grandfather but it could have been somebody else, suffered the same wound (in the Blackhawk War) and had survived," Upham said.

Lincoln later appointed Upham's father to the U.S. Military Academy at West Point. Upon receiving his commission in 1866 Upham was sent to Fort Monroe, Va., where one of his duties was guarding former Confederate President Jefferson Davis.

"As a companion and a man to talk with, Mr. Davis was very pleasant and social," the elder Upham later wrote of Davis. "Never to me did he indulge any bitterness or inflection upon anyone."

Upham in 1894 was elected governor of Wisconsin. William II was born in 1916 when his father was 75 and Frederick was born in 1921. The elder Upham died in 1924 at the age of 83.

Sullivan was born in 1901 when his father was 60. The elder Sullivan died in 1906.

"I didn't get a chance to know my father very well because he died when I was a little over 5 years old," Sullivan said.

Mickey Sullivan was wounded in the battles of Second Bull Run, South Mountain, Gettysburg and Weldon Railroad.

The Iron Brigade included the 2nd, 6th and 7th Wisconsin Infantry, the 19th Indiana Infantry and the 24th Michigan Infantry.

Now the hard part...

The unexpected political chaos sparked by Poland's presidential election is a jolting reminder that the transition from communism to democratic capitalism in Eastern Europe will be neither simple nor quick.

Poland was the first Warsaw Pact nation to throw out its Communist Party leaders. And under the noncommunist government of Prime Minister Tadeusz Mazowiecki, Poland embarked on the most aggressive free-market reforms in the East Bloc.

But the recent balloting can only be interpreted as a popular repudiation of the bold course charted by Warsaw's reformers.

Mazowiecki, the former newspaper editor who engineered Poland's economic "shock therapy," was forced to resign as prime minister after winning only 18 percent of the vote. Lech Walesa, the shipyard electrician who rallied the nation against its Kremlin-installed rulers, captured only 40 percent, far less than the 80 percent he needed — and expected — to win the presidency in the first round of voting. The biggest surprise of all was the strong showing of Stanislaw Tyminski, a formerly unknown Polish emigre who spent the last decade in Canada and Peru. He won 23 percent of the vote and will face Walesa in a runoff on Dec. 9.

Even before the election, the broad social consensus built around the Solidarity movement had begun to crumble.

It was far easier in the heady days when Solidarity united Polish intellectuals, workers and the Catholic Church in a crusade to bring down the common foe of Soviet-imposed communism. Once Solidarity leaders took over the government, however, a rancorous schism split their ranks, with Walesa and Mazowiecki leading the two main factions.

Mazowiecki's economic austerity program sought to leap the chasm from a centralized economy to a free market in a single bound. Although the program succeeded in curbing hyperinflation and replenishing shops with goods sold by budding entrepreneurs, it also produced 1 million unemployed workers in a country where every person once had been guaranteed a paycheck. And wages failed to keep pace with prices after government subsidies were eliminated.

Exploiting the economic pain to further his political ambitions, Walesa publicly criticized the austerity program and took other steps that undermined the Solidarity government. If he is elected in the final round of balloting, it is unclear in which direction he will lead the country.

After four decades of communist domination, Poles are unsure how to find their way to Western-style prosperity. But their plight is shared by millions of others from Berlin to Bucharest who are discovering that the hard part comes after the communists are gone.

Boost for living wills

To the weekend athlete entering the hospital to have an old knee injury repaired, it will be an unnerving moment; between the insurance forms and the menu choices, the admitting clerk will explain about living wills, and briefly a shadow of mortality will hover where there had only been concern about mobility on the tennis court. Unnerving though it may be, however, the new federal requirement that hospitals and nursing homes inform patients how to make out a living will is a useful step to give Americans more control over their medical care.

In most states, patients have long had the option of leaving legally binding instructions to guide medical decisions in the event they become incapacitated. In California, patients can write a durable power of attorney for health care, in which they may designate a person to direct care on their behalf and leave instructions about what kind of measure they do or don't want.

But living wills are not as widely used as they might be. It's easier to put aside the issue of illness and dying than to confront it. As a result, hundreds of thousands of terminally ill people are subjected to heroic medical intervention they might not have chosen, and an even larger number of medical providers and family members are left to make agonizing choices forced by medicine's technical ability to plump, however briefly, a semblance of life into a dying person.

The new federal law, to go into effect at the end of next year, will not force anyone to make out a living will or to choose any particular course of treatment. But it will require all Americans to face routinely the possibility of death and invite them to make their own decisions if they wish to an opportunity that many will probably choose. Medical experts hope this will save some money on heroic but futile cases. More important, it will help restore some of the dignity modern medicine has robbed from life's last hours.

WILLIAM A. RUSHER

Our view of China keeps changing

American attitudes toward foreign countries are notorious for changing abruptly — usually when the winds of U.S. foreign policy begin to blow from some new quarter. (Hence the late Ayatollah Khomeini's sudden replacement by Saddam Hussein as the certified all-time bad guy of the Middle East.)

In the case of China, however, the U.S. State Department has been only one of many cooks contributing to the broth of American attitudes on that vast and complicated subject. Journalists, academicians, politicians and even tourists have all had their say on the matter, and (to change the metaphor) the result has been the fastest and dirtiest roller-coaster ride that U.S. public opinion has ever taken on the subject of a foreign nation.

In his new book, "China Misperceived" (Basic Books), my colleague Steven W. Mosher, Director of the Asian Studies Center of the Claremont Institute, identifies no less than four successive dominant American attitudes toward China in the 40 years between communism's conquest of the mainland and the bloody events in Tiananmen Square in June 1989.

The first, which he calls the Age of Hostility, lasted from 1949 until 1972. It was more or less coeval with the start of the Cold War between the free world and the communist bloc, and was of course greatly intensified by China's intervention in the Korean War on the side of North Korea.

Then, following the break between Chairman Mao and the Soviet leaders, came Richard Nixon's surprise diplomatic opening toward Peking, which ushered in the Age of Infatuation (1972-1977). All of a sudden Communist China was perceived by many Americans as commendable. The "excesses" of the Cultural Revolution were (allegedly) over. Journalists, professors and tourists, able to obtain visas at last, swarmed over such parts of China as the communist authorities allowed them to see, and proclaimed them superb. Some visitors even swore there were no flies.

Next, from 1977 to 1980, came the Age of Disillusionment, in which more realistic descriptions of conditions (not least by the communists themselves) replaced the blind adulation of the Age of Infatuation. Slowly, Americans began to understand, just for one thing, what a gaping wound Chairman Mao's touted Cultural Revolution had inflicted on the Chinese nation and people. Moreover, the evident prosperity and relative freedom of such non-communist Chinese enclaves as Taiwan and Singapore suggested unmistakably that free enterprise offered a far better model for China than communism.

Bending in that direction, Deng Xiaoping thereupon introduced market techniques into China's faltering economy, which slowly began to recover. The Age of Disillusionment was then followed by an Age of Benevolence, commencing in 1980. Civil rights violations that would have been denounced mercilessly if they had occurred in South Africa, or even in the Soviet bloc, were serenely ignored by such famous "watchdog" organizations as Amnesty International and even by reporters on the scene.

Women on war and last resorts

BOSTON — In 1925, a handful of years after American women had won the right to vote, a rear admiral in the U.S. Navy expressed his anxiety about their "seemingly insatiable desire to interfere in matters they do not understand."

"War," said Adm. Flake, "they understand least and from it they instinctively recoil. There is danger in this situation. Women now have the vote and they outnumber the men...In spite of themselves we must protect the ladies!"

As it turned out, the admiral needn't have worried his pretty little head about the ladies. In the fight for suffrage, many had argued that women voters would usher in a millennium of peace. But when military push came to shove in the 20th century, women and men expressed very similar attitudes toward war and peace. That is, until now.

This fall, a vast and deep gender gap has been unearthed in the Persian Gulf. Differences about the use of force had already formed a slight trench over Grenada and Panama. But now they are close to a chasm.

In one poll, 73 percent of women say they oppose a war to liberate Kuwait. Only 48 percent of men concur. That's a margin of 25 points. In another poll, women are 18 points less likely than men to believe that Bush has tried hard enough to use diplomacy.

Polls are finding gender gaps of 18, 19, 24 and 25 points. Today American women are working side by side with men from Saudi Arabia to Sioux Falls. But their views are diverging.

It is possible of course that the pollsters are just racking a new willingness among women to say what they always thought. There is hard evidence that women are no longer reluctant to speak out in disagreement with the men in their lives. They have gained the courage of their convictions.

But the more interesting questions are about the origin of these convictions. Why do women seem to be less directed toward war — or at least toward this war at this moment? Is it the isolationism that seems particularly acute among older women, for better and for worse, to keep their focus close to home.

Is it the simple pop-female explanation that Woman the Nurturer is innately opposed to violence? That smacks of the old admiral's notion that women "instinctively recoil" from war and the lingering image of woman as peacekeeper. I don't see instinct on this battlefield of ideas. But there is surely rebellion at the thought of sending a child into battle.

What then about the official feminist explanation that we oppose this war because, as NOW's Molly Yard said, "Saudi Arabia and Kuwait are despotic, clan-run monarchies" guilty of gender apartheid. The argument seems almost cartoon-like in its simplicity. Yet questions about human rights are part of the larger doubt about the worth of this enterprise and these allies.

And what of the possibility that women are more reluctant to start a fight because of different experiences with conflict? In our daily childhood conflicts on playgrounds and in homes do men learn they must confront a bully while women learn they can only maintain peace through negotiating? Such separate truths become part of a world view.

Any analysis of a gender gap risks a gender stereotype. There are men and women all across this war-peace spectrum, but the differences are now real. And strikingly little is known about the reasons.

As an amateur geologist sifting through this terrain, I see bits and pieces of all these reasons and add another. Men and women may assess risk differently. Men often see more danger in inaction; women in action. Men often think about winning; women about hurting. Surely the President's sudden emphasis on Iraq's atomic bomb potential is an attempt to make inaction seem more dangerous, to change the direction of the worry.

The old admiral said that wars were made to comfort and protect women even against their will. This week, a different sort of admiral, William Crowe, former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told the Congress, "War is not neat, it's not tidy, and when you resort to it, it's uncertain and it's a mess."

The image from the polls is not of women as pacifists, but as wary citizens who require more and better reasons for war, who accept war only as the truly last resort. If that is true, perhaps we are not splitting from men, but leading them.

There is surely rebellion at the thought of sending a child into battle.

Keating Five staff on S&L hot seat

WASHINGTON — With the "Keating Five" senators on the hot seat for their dealings with the high-flying savings and loan magnate, many Senate staffers are counting themselves lucky that they and their bosses steered clear of Charles Keating. But one Senate aide can only count herself caught.

Carolyn Jordan, an aide to Sen. Alan

Cranston, D-Calif., on the Senate Banking Committee, was constantly courted by the thrift industry. While her boss was earning himself a place of dishonor as one of the "Keating Five," Jordan was a guest at S&L functions in Orlando, Palm Springs and Toronto. Among the hosts paying the bills was American Continental Corp., Keating's company.

The S&L scandal has opened wide the doors of Congress so that the public can take a look at the ugly scene inside. People such as Keating didn't stop at winning friends and influencing people in elective office. They wooed the staffers too.

We reported in July that the chief banking aide to Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-Ill., had been wined and dined by Keating. Annunzio has since tried to pass himself off as a tough cop on the S&L beat, even though he took money from Keating too. Jordan's trips on the industry's dime don't help the case of her boss, Cranston, who is trying to back out of the ranks of the "Keating Five." From 1986 through 1988 — even after the horror of the S&L scandal had begun to dawn on Americans — Jordan was the guest of the thrift industry at a variety of functions. In May 1988, the National Council of Savings Institutions paid for her lodging and transportation to attend the council's annual meeting in Toronto. A spokeswoman for the council told our associate Scott Slesk that key Washington officials such as Jordan are invited to the meetings to discuss legislation.

Jordan also got free food and lodging for various trips as a guest of the American Savings and Loan League and the California Thrift and Loan Association, according to her own records.

Keating's American Continental paid Jordan's expenses during a trip to Phoenix in 1987, but a company spokesman said no one was left at the company who could explain why. The trip that has caused Jordan the most grief is already a matter of public record and ridicule. Reports surfaced last summer that she took a nine-day trip to Europe in 1987 as a guest of Robert Royer, a lobbyist for Swiss bankers and the U.S. Securities Industry. The purpose, according to Senate documents, was to meet with foreign government officials to discuss securities issues. Jordan failed to report the trip on her 1987 financial disclosure statement. She owned up to the trip with the required paperwork only after a reporter quizzed her about it. Then she told the Senate Ethics Committee that the omission was an honest mistake. Last year, the Ethics Committee had to lean on Jordan twice before she submitted her financial disclosure records for 1988, three months after they were due. She was also late in filing her 1988 report, which was due last May.

Jordan did not respond to our questions, but a spokesman in Cranston's office said many congressional staffers take such trips. He said it's preferable to the industry to pay for such trips than for taxpayers to fund them.

Maybe the taxpayers would rather pay the bill and have public servants in debt to the public rather than special interests. And there is another option. The staffers could stay home.

Jordan's trips on the industry's dime don't help the case of her boss, Cranston.

Festival

Sanford.

The setting for "Circle of Light," written by Mildred Cankey, is a dinner for Swedish immigrants hosted by founder Henry Stenstrom, who brought the Swedes here in the 1870s to work in his citrus groves.

Featuring Megan Lugen, of DeBarry, in the role of St. Lucia, the pageant is choreographed by Valerie Rye Weld and Miriam Rye Doctor, and performed by the Ballet Guild of Sanford/Seminole. Also appearing in cameo roles will be a number of local dignitaries.

Immediately following the presentation, at approximately 8:45, a Swedish buffet, catered by Indulgence, will be served amid a background of harp music performed by Rosalind Beck of the Florida Symphony.

Activities then move to Park Avenue at Fourth Street where the gazebo at Centennial Park will be the setting for a Christmas music program featuring the Caroling Company in authentic Victorian era costumes.

For the grand finale of tonight's activities, candles will light the path from the park to the Cultural Arts Center, at Fifth Street and Oak Avenue, decorated in a holiday motif by the Sanford Flower Shop. There, patrons will enjoy Swedish delicacies and coffee plus more holiday harmony of the harp and Christmas caroling.

Tickets for the gala may be purchased at the St. Lucia Festival headquarters, 205-D E. First Street.

Tomorrow morning, activities for the day-long children's events begin. "Breakfast with Santa" will be offered beginning at 7:30 a.m. at the First Presbyterian Church in Sanford. The cost is $3 per child, or $10 per family. The Ballet Guild's "Santa's Breakfast," will be at the Civic Center beginning at 8 a.m., at a cost of $7 per person, with reservations required.

A two-mile family run begins at 8 a.m. at the Civic Center, sponsored by the Sanford Recreation Department. The $5 registration fee will also include a St. Lucia T-shirt.

Free children's events sponsored by Park Suites Hotel begin at 10 a.m. inside and around the Civic Center, with storytime, Swedish arts and crafts show, the Park Avenue

Puppeteers, face painting and balloon and magic shows at various times of the day into late afternoon.

Preparations for the Christmas parade will begin at 10:30, with the newly crowned Miss St. Lucia, Stephanie Russell, on board an authentic replica of a Viking ship, arriving at the shore of Lake Monroe. From that point, she will be driven in a horse-drawn carriage to her place at the head of the parade where she will be joined by Sanford Mayor Betty Smith.

The Christmas parade begins at 11 a.m. The staging area will be the eastern end of East First Street, where, according to parade Chairman Albea Parrish, 80 separate units have been entered.

Among honorees to be featured in the parade will be Eunice Martin, Olga Hunter and Sidney Vikken Sr., three of the oldest second generation Swedes in Sanford. They will be riding in a horse-drawn carriage.

The theme of this year's parade is "Family Christmas Tradition Around the World." A secondary theme is "St. Lucia." Prizes will be awarded for first, second and third places in various categories, as well as a trophy for the St. Lucia theme.

First Street and Seminole Boulevard east of Park Avenue will be closed for the entire event Saturday First Street, from Park to Palmetto will be closed for festival booths, displays and other activities during the entire day. First Street will also be closed east of Sanford Avenue during the staging of the parade and will be reopened as activities permit.

The parade will proceed west from Mellonville Avenue, on Seminole Boulevard along the lakefront, to the City Hall parking lot where the various units will be disbanded.

The final event, to begin at 8 p.m., will feature the lighted boat parade along the city's shoreline on Lake Monroe.

A number of bands will perform throughout the day at Magnolia Mall and Rand Mall, both located off First Street. Booths featuring arts, crafts and gifts will line First Street.

Commission

before any administrative hearings can be held.

With the passage of the Growth Management Act in 1988, cities and counties are now required to submit approved plans for handling their growth. The preparation and approval, however, are time consuming.

Land use changes in the area north of Sun Drive and west of Rinehart Road involved what was supposed to be an overview of future uses, but ended up to be a discussion on seven separate parcels of land, with owners or their representatives presenting a number of pleas to the commission.

Although decisions were made to allow a change from agricultural to restricted commercial office use for a number of parcels, the overall discussion consumed a great deal of time, swaying between concern over individual parcels and the total overview.

One parcel, adjacent to the Feather Edge community, was left without a decision until individual homeowners could be notified and have an opportunity to be on hand for further discussion.

The joint work session, scheduled to last for one hour, consumed well over two hours, putting the start of the regular city commission meeting near 8:30.

The main item of the regular meeting centered on what to do about the old Lake Mary Cemetery property.

The Lake Mary Cemetery Association had requested the city take the cemetery off its hands. Five separate proposals were presented to the commission by the city's staff for consideration. Costs to the city ranged from a low of slightly over $17,000 to a high of almost $124,000.

Commission discussion of the five options were interspersed with citizen comments on subjects that ranged from the history of the property to insistent pleas that the city take over complete operation of the cemetery.

There are actually two pieces of property, one the old cemetery which is near capacity in use and the other is a new parcel of land adjacent to the old area, located at the corner of Old Lake Mary Road and Palmetto. Some citizens say the new area, currently undeveloped, was once the site of the original Lake Mary train depot and at least five separate post office facilities.

The commission voted 4 to 1 to accept the third option, which would involve the city taking over maintenance of the old cemetery, plus irrigation and landscape improvements at an estimated yearly cost of $17,250.

The question of what to do with the new section was staked when Morris suggested the Twenty minutes after the ceremony, the groom was sipping a glass of punch and nibbling on hors d'oeuvres. The bride was changing her clothes for her fourth period class.

Morris added that he would like to see a bona fide plan regarding exactly how the city would manage a cemetery.

The news increased hopes for a merrier Christmas for Ben Brown of Lexington, Ill., whose son, State Department employee Alan Brown, is being held in Iraqi military barracks.

"He wants to be home by Christmas," Brown said Thursday. "Maybe this will get him home by Christmas. Who knows?"

Saddam, facing growing international pressure and talk of war from the White House, made his surprise announcement as representatives of Coming Home, a Champaign, Ill.-based group, were on a mission to Baghdad to get relatives freed.

Bush finds hopeful signs for South American future

By NORMAN D. SANDLER
United Press International

SANTIAGO, Chile — President Bush found an ironic formula for progress in the country he deemed the model for a new Latin America: a champion of democracy building on the economic legacy of his iron-fisted predecessor.

Chile, the latest Latin nation to abandon military dictatorship for civilian democratic rule, was perhaps Bush's most illustrative stop so far on a 12,000-mile swing to assess the historic change sweeping South America.

Not since Dwight Eisenhower has a U.S. president paid such a high-level visit to the southern cone nations, a lapse of 30 years that has seen the region wracked by unrest that strained relations with the Yankee colossus to the north.

And on this visit, which winds up Saturday in Venezuela, an exception to the political norm he encountered over the last few days, Bush has seen hopeful signs of South America's future, along with disturbing reminders of its past.

Bombings, demonstrations and even an attempted coup in Argentina served notice that years of turbulence have not given way to tranquility.

At a joint news conference Thursday, Bush and Chilean President Patricio Aylwin sought to put years of antagonistic relations behind them while still faced with the vestiges of conflict over human rights abuses under the previous regime of Gen. Augusto Pinochet.

Pinochet seized power in a U.S.-encouraged 1973 coup against Marxist President Salvador Allende. Widespread cases of kidnapping and torture, some unresolved to this day, caused the United States to turn against Pinochet in the 1980s.

Yet Pinochet, who retained the post of army commander after relinquishing power to the popularly elected Aylwin in March, was among the dignitaries on hand to greet Bush, who later praised Chilean leaders old and new for "wise planning" that has transformed its economy "into an engine for growth."

"Chile has moved farther, faster than any other nation in South America toward real free-market reform," he said in a speech to the Chilean Congress. "What has worked here in Chile can work across the continent."

In each of the other three southern cone countries Bush visited, economic reform has lagged behind political reform. Not so in Chile, where the policies of Pinochet enabled Aylwin nine months ago to assume control over one of the healthiest economies in Latin America.

If that would appear to give Aylwin a certain amount of comfort, spared some of the endemic problems present elsewhere in Latin America, Chilean Senate President Gabriel Valdes warned Thursday that the gains to date — political and economic — must not be taken for granted.

"Yesterday, we thought that economic development would guarantee our freedom," he said. "Today, we know that freedom is the only guarantee for development."

Bush promised to reward Chile's return to democracy with a restoration of trade benefits and military assistance.

Black homicides 'disturbing'

By JIM BARBER
United Press International

ATLANTA — Federal health officials, reporting a "very disturbing" jump in the homicide rate among young black males, called for action to curb violence among minorities.

Homicides accounted for 42 percent of the deaths of U.S. black males ages 15 to 24 in 1987, the national Centers for Disease Control said Thursday.

The homicide rate in 1987 was 84.7 per 100,000 young black males — the highest rate of the decade and 40 percent percent higher than the rate of 60.6 in 1984, the CDC said.

"Though already recognized as a significant problem, the problem has significantly worsened over the past few years," said Dr. Robert Froehle, a pediatrician and epidemiologist with the CDC. "We had expected some increase, but the magnitude of the increase was very disturbing."

In addition, preliminary data for 1988, the latest year for which figures are available, shows a 19 percent increase in the homicide rate for young black males over 1987, indicating the problems has continued to worsen, the CDC said.

"It's a bad problem, and it's

Farrakhan warned about death threats

UPI report

LOS ANGELES — Nation of Islam leader Louis Farrakhan said Thursday law enforcement authorities have warned him to beef up his personal security in the face of recent death threats.

Farrakhan, the controversial head of the U.S. black Muslim community, also disclosed that his scheduled appearance Saturday at a rally at the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum "will probably be the last time I will be in Los Angeles for quite a few years."

He refused to say more, but promised to explain his announcement during the rally.

getting worse," Froehle said. "In some areas of the country, it is now more likely for a black male between 15 and 25 to die from homicide than it was for a U.S. soldier to die in Vietnam on his tour of duty."

While more research is needed, many of the homicides occur during domestic violence, child abuse, rape and disputes among acquaintances, the CDC said.

"Factors identified as potentially important contributors to homicide include immediate access to firearms, alcohol and substance abuse, drug trafficking, poverty, racial discrimination and cultural acceptances of violent behavior," the agency said.

The increase was 55 percent for black males ages 15 to 19 and 33 percent for those ages 20 to 24, the CDC said.

Firearm-related deaths accounted for 96 percent of the overall increase in the homicide rate for young black males and 80 percent of all the deaths, the CDC said.

While the homicide rate for young black males has soared, the rate among white males and females and black females has stayed disproportionately low, the CDC said.

Of every 100,000 young black males, 84.7 die as the result of a homicide, compared with 17.7 for black females, 11 for white males and 3.9 for white females, the CDC said.

Odor

Scientists grasp a wisp of how we detect smell

United Press International

WASHINGTON — Scientists reported Thursday they had discovered an enzyme that apparently plays an important role in how the nose detects odors.

Researchers at the Johns Hopkins Medical Institutions in Baltimore found the enzyme, adenylyl cyclase. In the nasal cells of rats, which have odor detection systems similar to human's.

"The enzyme fits right into our model of how odor molecules are recognized and then sent from our noses to the brain," said Randall Reed, who led the research.

Scientists have long known that smelling begins in the mucous membranes behind the bridge of the nose where hair-like nerve endings from 5 million so-called receptor cells pick up airborne odorants.

Reed and his colleagues previously proposed a complex chemical system inside nasal cells makes cells fire a signal to the olfactory bulb, a processing center that translates the signal into a sensation and sends it to the brain.

The cascade of events inside sensory cells begins when the odor-carrying substances adhere to a protein on nasal cells called a receptor, activating messenger proteins that in turn trigger the new enzyme.

Oil price dive may boost economy

By BRENDAN MURPHY
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK — The crash of oil prices in response to peace moves by Iraq and the United States should dampen inflation, cushion and shorten the present economic downturn and let the Federal Reserve bring interest rates down faster to stimulate a recovery, economists said.

They warned that considerable uncertainty remains as to whether Iraq, which has accepted talks with the United States and promised to let foreign hostages go, will peacefully end its four-month occupation of Kuwait. But they said the oil price fall considerably brightens the economic outlook.

Since President Bush announced a peace initiative late last week, per-barrel oil prices have plummeted from over $32 to $26.40 Thursday. Analysts said they expected they could drop further if Gulf diplomacy progresses.

I think it's going to improve the outlook erably if it persists — it's possible the mood is going to lighten a little bit.

—James Merrill, economist

"We don't have a conclusion to the Mideast situation yet, so it is premature to say oil prices have come all the way down and will stay down," New York-based independent economist James Merrill said Thursday.

But, he added, "I think it's going to improve the outlook considerably if it persists — it's possible the mood is going to lighten a little bit."

"Right now the move towards peace, or the more peaceful outlook in the Middle East, is very positive," said Allen Sinai, president and chief economist of the Boston Company Economic Advisers consulting firm. "The recession is 'pretty much baked in the cake' by now and the downward momentum too strong to reverse, he said, cheaper oil 'could revive the economy by next spring and give us a stronger (1991) second half.'"

The most immediate benefit of falling oil prices will be a sharp reduction in U.S. inflation, now running at 6.7 percent a year but headed for the double digits in the quarter ending Dec. 31. With the inflation threat eliminated or reduced, the Fed can speed up its credit easing process.

Economists said that if the oil price decline is sustained, the Fed can lower its key funds interest rate — set on overnight loans of reserves by one bank to another — from 7.5 percent to 6.5 percent by spring.

Beyond the numbers, the psychological benefits from reversal of the oil shock and peace in the Gulf could be significant.

Retailers' weak November sales a bad holiday omen

By JOHN MURDLE
United Press International

NEW YORK — The nation's major retailers reported weak November sales, continuing the pattern of recent months and raising fears the all-important Christmas shopping season could be the worst in more than a decade.

Stores again suffered from slumping consumer confidence brought on by higher gasoline and heating-oil prices, fear of war in the Middle East and a declining economy, analysts said Thursday.

Analysts said the figures point to a sharp fall in retail industry earnings for the Christmas period and a Christmas shopping season marked by heavy promotional selling as retailers attempt to move inventory.

"The November sales were extremely weak and even below our most conservative expectations," said Jeffrey Feiner, first vice president at Merrill Lynch. "There has been a deterioration since Thanksgiving that leads us to believe that this could be one of the most difficult Christmases in 15 years."

He said Merrill Lynch had been predicting flat earnings for the Christmas season but is now looking at a dropoff.

Uncertainties cloud budget in short term

By BOB WEBSTER
UPI Business Writer

WASHINGTON — The slowing U.S. economy and mounting uncertainties from the Persian Gulf crisis have combined to cloud the short-term outlook for reducing the federal budget deficit, the Congressional Budget Office said.

In its interim report on the federal budget, the CBO said Thursday the total federal deficit will rise from $200 billion this year to $250 billion next year and 1992 before easing to roughly $170 billion in 1993, $60 billion in 1994 and $30 billion in 1995.

Robert Reischauer, the office's director, told the House Budget Committee that the short-term budget outlook has worsened since the Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait by Iraq. But the long-term outlook has improved.

"Even allowing for some additional deterioration in the economic outlook, by fiscal year 1995, the total federal deficit is likely to fall below $100 billion for the first time in 14 years and below 1 percent of (gross national product) for the first time in 20 years, Reischauer said.

While the long-term prospects for the deficit appear healthy, the short-term reality will be dominated by a sluggish economy, Middle East uncertainty and the continuing savings and loan bailout.

The government's effort to protect depositors of failed thrifts and sell the assets of those institutions will continue to add to federal borrowing requirements in the next few years.

"Over the next two years, massive spending to resolve insolvent savings and loan institutions will keep the deficit at record levels," Reischauer said.

The CBO projected that federal spending on deposit insurance will increase from $58 billion this year to $91 billion next year and $107 billion in 1992 before dropping sharply in 1993.

The CBO budget forecast was based on economic assumptions developed in Mid-October. The assumptions differ significantly from those of the previous forecast, made in July, by factoring for slower GNP growth and higher inflation.

"Many of the changes from last summer's forecast reflect the effects of the sharp increases in the price of imported oil that resulted from Iraq's invasion of Kuwait last August," Reischauer said.

Move on to keep state-run firms going in USSR

By MICHAEL COLLINS
United Press International

MOSCOW — Directors of more than 3,000 state-run enterprises met to press for continued central control of the economy and were assured by Premier Nikolai Ryzhkov that the state sector will remain a key in the Soviet system.

Some of those at the meeting lashed out Thursday at President Mikhail Gorbachev's perestroika reforms, blaming them for the economic crisis by destroying the state control system.

The directorships of state enterprises are generally limited to loyal communists and the group that filled a hall at the Kremlin seemed to reflect the conservative wing of the party.

A director from an enterprise in Estonia told Gorbachev, who attended the meeting with Ryzhkov and other top officials, that perestroika is leading the Soviet Union "not in a constructive but a destructive direction," according to the independent Interfax news agency.

JUCO HOOPS

SCC men, women in action

The Seminole Community College men and women's basketball teams will look to keep winning streaks alive on the road this weekend.

The men are in the midst of a five game winning streak that has seen their record improve to 7-1. But they will be severely tested in the Brevard Christmas Tournament.

The tourney will feature four of the better programs in the southeast as the Raiders take on Sue Bennett College of London, Kentucky at 6 p.m. and the host Titans face Cincinnati Technical College at 8 p.m. The winners and losers will play at 6 and 8 p.m. Saturday.

The women hope a week of inactivity does not slow the momentum that garnered them three straight wins that raised their record to 4-2.

They have a pair of tough road games also as they take on Indian River in Ft. Pierce tonight and Miami-Dade C.C., North on Saturday.

CROSS COUNTRY

Local team to Jr. Olympics

OMAHA, Neb. — The Alpha Omega Track Club that recently won The Athletics Congress state championships at the University of Central Florida will send nine young men and women to the TAC National Junior Olympics at Omaha's Tranquility Park this Saturday.

The team, under coaches Craig Wise, Art Foster, Ted Benz and Mike Gibson, will send Ade Wise, Kamal Wise, Omari Wise, Dara Wise, Dafina Wise, Jennifer Capell, Jeanette Byrd, Courtney Phillips and Tiffany Gibson to run in the 3,000-meter race.

COLLEGE HOOPS

Knights move to 4-0

ORLANDO — Junior Ken Leeks scored 36 points in 31 minutes to lead Central Florida to a 111-74 win over Mercer Thursday night.

The Knights improved to 4-0, their best start since 1981, when they were an NCAA Division II team. UCF has been Division I for six seasons.

Wildcats win first

DELAND — Clifford Reed scored 28 points, hitting four of six 3-pointers, to squeeze Bethune-Cookman past Stetson 73-72.

Bethune-Cookman had turned back Stetson just once in 13 meetings. The victory was the Wildcats' first of the season after six losses. The Hatters fell to 2-4.

HOCKEY

Tampa awarded franchise

PALM BEACH — The Tampa Lightning and Ottawa Senators won approval Thursday to join the NHL in 1992-93.

Former NHL star Phil Esposito helped Tampa beat bids by groups from nearby St. Petersburg and Miami.

PRO BASKETBALL

Seattle squeaks by Heat

Miami — Sedale Threat scored 18 points, including four in the last 90 seconds, and added 11 assists Thursday night to lead the SuperSonics to a 105-103 victory over the Heat.

The Heat was paced by Rony Seikaly with 27 points and 10 rebounds.

BASEBALL

Pirates re-sign Smith

PITTSBURGH — Zane Smith, the left-hander who helped Pittsburgh to the National League East title, has signed a four-year, $10.5 million contract to stay with the club.

Smith had the second best ERA in the NL last season, 2.55, and put together a record of 12-9 with the Montreal Expos and Pittsburgh. He joined the Pirates in August, and went 6-2 with a 1.30 ERA in 10 starts.

Cubs sign George Bell

CHICAGO — Slugger George Bell signed a 4-year, $12.8 million contract Thursday, giving the Chicago Cubs both 1987 MVPs and one of the most formidable lineups in baseball.

Bell has spent his entire eight-year career with the Toronto Blue Jays. The power hitting left fielder now teams with 1987 National League MVP Andre Dawson, Ryne Sandberg and Mark Grace in Wrigley Field.

Rams, Patriots in thriller

In close games like a Lake Mary-Lake Brantley soccer match, the outcome can depend on who controls play at midfield. On Thursday, Shayne Thomas (No. 10) and the Rams lost most of the midfield battles to the Patriots.

Delahoussaye's goal keeps Lake Brantley undefeated

By PHIL SMITH
Herald Correspondent

LAKE MARY — Nicole Delahoussaye scored the only goal of the match to give the Lake Brantley Patriots to a 1-0 victory over the Lake Mary Rams Thursday afternoon in Seminole Athletic Conference girls' soccer action at Lake Mary High School.

Lake Brantley remains unbeaten at 7-0-1. Lake Mary drops to 3-2-3.

"It was a typical Lake Brantley-Lake Mary game," said Lake Brantley Coach John Schaefer. "Our games can go either way and fortunately, it went our way today."

In the 27th minute, Katie Tullis won a ball at midfield and ran down the left wing. Ram goalkeeper Jen Preston was able to make the initial save on Tullis' shot but was unable to cover the rebound. The ball rolled to within inches of the far post, where Delahoussaye kicked it into the net.

Late in the first half, Dana Hoover made a pair of excellent crossing passes to Joy Gorman directly in front of the Patriots goal. However, Gorman could not get a strong shot at the goal on either occasion and Lake Brantley goalkeeper Alyssa O'Brien made both saves.

The Patriots defense took over in the second half, smothering the Rams' attack, allowing only one shot at goal.

That shot came in the 71st minute on a fast break opportunity. Leanne Bazile firing an excellent shot at the upper corner of the net. But O'Brien reached back to tip the ball over the crossbar and preserve the victory.

"It was a hard fought match and they controlled most of it," said Lake Mary Coach Bill Eissele. "We're a very young team and we still have a lot of things to work on."

Lake Mary will next face Clearwater Central Catholic at home on Saturday afternoon.

Lyman blows out DeLand

DELAND — Lyman scored two goals in the first three minutes of its match with DeLand Thursday and went on to post a 9-0 victory in a Seminole Athletic Conference girls' soccer match.

Danielle Garrett scored the first goal on assists from Adrian and Sara Kane. Adrian Kane scored three goals of her own and assisted on another while Tracy Sher netted three goals and had two assists. Beth Robinson and Anne Brewer scored the other Lyman goals. Amy Smith collected an assist.

The Greyhounds outshot the host Bulldogs 39-0. Lyman goalie Becky Carr did not have to make a save to register the shutout while the DeLand keeper made 19. Lyman also had a 3-1 advantage in corner kicks.

Now 6-1-1 overall and 4-1-1 in the SAC, Lyman will host Bishop Moore in a 3:30 p.m. contest.

Bishop Moore romps

ORLANDO — Scoring four goals in each half, the Bishop Moore Hornets romped to an 8-0 win over Leesburg in a girls' soccer match.

Amy Geltz scored three goals, Stephanie Feulner and Stephanie Gringer both scored twice and Connie Davis added one goal. Denise Lombardi and Missy Borrero each had two assists while Feulner, Gringer and Jill Geltz each had one.

Hughes leads Oviedo past Lake Howell

By PHIL SMITH
Herald Correspondent

OVIEDO — Betsy Hughes scored 15 points, pulled down seven rebounds and blocked three shots to lead the Oviedo Lions to a come-from-behind 46-39 victory over the Lake Howell Silver Hawks Thursday evening in girls' basketball action.

Christa Vaughan added 12 points and a game-high 14 rebounds to help fuel the comeback.

Lake Howell built its largest lead, 30-23, as Elizabeth Mills hit a pair of jumpers — including a three-pointer — with 3:35 remaining in the third quarter. Oviedo then went on a 10-0 run to take a 33-30 lead with 6:10 remaining in the game.

The Silver Hawks answered with a 9-2 run of their own to go back up 39-35. But Oviedo hit seven of eight foul shots down the stretch, including four straight by Hughes, during a run of 11 straight points over the final 3:01 to cap a 19-point fourth quarter.

"Defense has been the key for us so far this season," said Oviedo Coach John Thomas. "We've been starting slowly so we've got to play great defense to get the adrenaline going and get us into the flow of the game."

Kruger leads Greyhounds

DELAND — Jennifer Kruger scored 17 points and grabbed nine rebounds as Lyman cruised past DeLand 41-32 in girls' high school basketball.

Morris rolls in Ram romp over Patriots

By TONY DeSORMIER
Herald Sports Editor

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — For Lake Mary sophomore Karen Morris, being relaxed makes all the difference in the world.

After being so tight that she was almost ineffective against Seminole and close friend Nikki Washington on Tuesday, Morris was at ease on Thursday night, scoring 21 points in limited action to lead the Rams to a 57-32 blowout of the Lake Brantley Patriots.

"It's not that I'm intimidated by Nikki," said Morris, who is teammates with Washington on the SBA Blue Streak summer team. "I just wanted to win that game (against Seminole) so much."

Against Lake Brantley, Morris showed the form that helped her score a school record 42 points earlier this season. She might have made a run at the record had Coach Anna Van Landingham not pulled her after Lake Mary went up 50-19 late in the third quarter.

"We really came out well at the beginning of the game and at the beginning of the second half," said Van Landingham. "That's what it takes to win games."

"Some things are starting to click on the court. I'm real proud of them. A lot of people did things well tonight."

Marti Citarella added nine points

Lake Mary Coach Anna Van Landingham said that things were starting to fall into place for the Rams in their win over Lake Brantley on Thursday.

for Lake Mary while LaShaun Merrick and Melissa Mau contributed six each. Nora Lidke and Kristen Forst led Lake Brantley with eight and seven points, respectively.

For the Patriots, Lake Mary's intense defense and foulcourt press were real problems.

"We have to take care of the ball better," said Lake Brantley Coach Karen Kroen. "We turned the ball over 34 times. We need to take care of the ball better when we're getting pressed."

Inexperienced Tribe suffers rout at hands of Mainland

By TONY DeSORMIER

WINTER PARK — The way Greg Robinson looks at it, this week's Rotary Tipoff Classic at Winter Park High School was a shake-down course for his young Seminole High School boys' basketball team.

After suffering a pair of double-digit losses, the Tribe may be in dry dock for a little while.

"We played the two worst games since I've been over here," said Robinson after the Seminoles fell to the Mainland Buccaneers 60-42 in a consolation bracket contest Thursday evening. "Our kids may be inexperienced."

It's a combination of the kids not knowing what to do in a certain situation and playing teams with experience.

Seminole got in a hole early against Mainland, falling behind 14-3 in the game's first six minutes.

The Tribe managed runs of 9-0 in the second quarter and 8-2 in the third quarter, pulling to within six points each time. But in both instances, Mainland responded with runs of its own.

Ron Beard scored the Buccaneers' first 12 points on his way to a game-high 22-point performance. Michael Moten added 12 for Mainland, Jeff Hill and Kerry Wiggins each scored 11 points from Seminole.

Mainland only outscored Seminole 42-40 from the floor. The big difference was free throws, the Buccaneers converting on 18 of 28 while Seminole made just 2 of 10. Seminole was whistled for 20 personal fouls while Mainland was called for just 10.

Taking advantage of their speed and depth, the Seminoles kept Mainland from pulling away by playing intense defense. But Seminole couldn't harness that intensity on offense, turning the ball over almost 20 times and making only a third of their shots.

"Our timing is off," said Robinson. "We have to get a consistent effort from everybody. We're not as talented as we've been the last two years. And when you're not as talented, you can't afford to turn the ball over and make other little mistakes."

This is why we come to play in this tournament. The wins and losses count in the record, but we play in this tournament really just to get some of the guys used to playing basketball again.

Seminole will play again Tuesday at Spruce Creek.

HOOPS

basketball Thursday night.

"It was another fine defensive effort," said Lyman coach Steve Carmichael. "Our opponents are only averaging about 37.5 points per game, they (the girls) work hard on defense and I'm real proud of them."

Kruger also had three assists and four steals as Lyman jumped to a 15-4 lead after the first quarter and took a 25-12 lead into the intermission. Helping Kruger for the Greyhounds were Keesha Robinson (eight points, seven rebounds), Katina Stafford (six points, five steals) and Melissa Lewis (two points, two assists).

Carmichael also had special praise for Sheila Clark who was forced to play with an injured ankle after Kruger picked up her fourth foul. "She preserved the win," said Carmichael.

Lyman advanced to 5-2 overall, 2-0 in Seminole Athletic Conference play, while the Bulldogs fell to 2-3 overall and 0-1 in the conference.

IN BRIEF

See what's cookin'

Ladies of the Elks 1241, 1002 Second St., Sanford, has a few cookbooks left to sell. The cookbook is titled "Our Favorite Recipes" and features 197 recipes from contributors in Sanford and the surrounding communities.

These books, complete with color art, will make a great stocking stuffer or gift for the holidays.

Cost is $5. The book can be purchased at the Elks Lodge or from Lida Roffe, 8241 Via Bonita. Details 321-0470.

Help the needy

As the holiday season approaches, Florida's 2, WESH-TV, is preparing for its Fifth Annual Share Your Christmas Community Food Drive, scheduled for Saturday, December 15, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Local individuals, businesses and organizations are encouraged to donate canned food items for Central Florida's needy. The food collected will be distributed through area community food banks, Salvation Army units and will remain in the county of collection.

Gooding's Supermarkets will join WESH's efforts by serving as drop-off sites throughout Central Florida.

Holiday potluck planned

On Wednesday, December 19, Just Friends, a Sanford community singles group open to anyone over 21 who is widowed, divorced, separated or never married, will be hosting a Holiday Potluck Dinner, starting at 7 p.m. Cost is $3 and a side dish to share. Meat and beverages will be provided. For directions and more information on Just Friends, call 322-9255.

Young pianist performs Monday

MAITLAND — Sixteen-year-old Saar Ahuvia was born in Kibbutz Beit Hashita near Haifa in Israel. At 8, he moved with his family to Puerto Rico, then Argentina, and finally Longwood, where his parents, Ofer and Rachel, now reside. His mother states that "his musical career started at the age of three when he made drums out of boxes."

Saar began his formal training in Puerto Rico, and when the family moved to Florida, he studied with Dr. Gary Wolf. He has won numerous competitions and has performed all over the United States and Israel.

The winner of the Karen Sharat scholarship, which is designated for young artists in Israel, Saar is presently living in Ramat Hasharon where he attends the Alon School of Performing Arts. He is also studying piano with Emanuel Krasovaki at the Academy of Music in Tel Aviv.

Center State Magazine and the Jewish Community Center are proud to present Saar in concert on Monday, December 10, at the Jewish Community Center, 851 Maitland Avenue, Maitland.

Tickets are $6 for seniors and students and $10 general admission.

For tickets or information, call 629-0252 or 645-5933.

Beautifying Sanford

Last weekend to view SCC basketry exhibit

SANFORD — This is the final weekend for the exhibit "Fibers and Figures" by Anne Meier, whose work is on display through December 9 at Seminole Community College in the gallery of the Fine Arts Building. The exhibit is free to the public.

Meier has been an award-winning artist for over 12 years. A self-taught basketmaker, Meier has pushed the limits of traditional basketry and has paved the way for experimental and contemporary fiber constructions. Meier's unique basketry has been shown in major exhibitions throughout America. Her work was featured on "Good Morning, America" in February and she has been published in several books and periodicals. Locally, Meier has taught basketry privately and through the Maitland Art Center.

Her new mixed media work combines wood, clay, fiber, and unusual finds. Her figurative presences, called "Ancestors" indicate ageless spirituality, yet they are fashioned from contemporary materials. Each figure comes alive with its own persona. The viewer is sometimes led, but most often it is Meier's intent for the viewer to bring his own interaction to these enigmatic but powerful forms. Meier sometimes presents ambivalent and symbolic ideas that affect the viewer on a more subconscious level, creating for the viewer the job of subjectively completing the work through intuitive responses.

Bride annoyed by dress for wedding

DEAR ABBY: I'm planning my wedding and need to know how to handle a touchy problem. My mother has selected a beautiful royal blue street-length dress.

My fiancé's mother says she is wearing either a floor-length dress or a pantsuit! (She's had polio and she wears leg braces.)

I asked her, if just for that one day, could she please make an exception and wear a street-length dress like my mother is wearing, and she said, "Sorry, I'd rather not." I even offered to rent a wheelchair, so she could wear a nice dress and not use the leg braces, and she still refused.

Abby, it is just one day in her life — surely she could bend a little. The pictures will be important to us for a long time, and the impression the wedding party gives is important to me. My mother is very upset.

Please let me know what you think, as my future mother-in-law values your opinion highly.

TORONTO BRIDE

DEAR BRIDE: You and your mother should "bend a little" and rearrange your priorities if you want your wedding to be a stress-free, convivial occasion. Apologize to your fiancé's mother for having hassled her to wear a street-length dress instead of a floor-length dress or a pantsuit to cover her leg braces. Your wedding pictures will be no less cherished if she wears whatever she feels comfortable in. Trust me.

DEAR ABBY: I don't know a soul in the Saudi desert, but I wanted to help the military a bit with morale. I made a "cookie coupon" stating it was good for one box of homemade chocolate chip cookies. please fill in name and address and return to (my address). I mailed it to Any Servicemember to an APO in New York. So far, I've had one response from a Marine. (I sent out six coupons.)

ADVICE

Abby, I'd like to share a good way to package cookies to go overseas.

1. Wipe the inside of a sturdy box with a damp sponge sprinkled with vanilla.
2. Line the bottom of the box with a layer of unsalted popcorn.
3. A layer of waxed paper.
4. A layer of cookies.
5. More waxed paper, popcorn, cookies, etc. until the box is filled.

This is the way my mom sent cookies overseas during WWII. SARAH IN WHITTIER, CALIF.

DEAR SARAH: Thanks for the helpful tips. Everybody loves cookies, and our men and women serving far from home in all corners of the world will eat them up. Readers, head for your kitchens!

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a married man who has been married for 16 years and goes with a married woman for nine years and then drops her and goes with a girl for five years? Then, when his wife dies, he goes with another married woman for seven years?

CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: I think he must be a very old man by now.

DEAR ABBY: I am tired of people's complaints about barking dogs. Unless a person lives in the country with a couple of acres between houses, there is no way sound can be eliminated, other than eliminating the dogs, cats, roosters, whatever.

People have gotten used to the sound of trucks, highway traffic, screeching tires, electric mowers, electric saws, airplanes, buses, sirens and dozens of other sounds — but let a dog bark, and all h---breaks loose!

There's a barker across the street from us and a highway three blocks away, and I'll take the barker any day; I can't call the police about the highway noise.

JULIE IN TULARE

DEAR JULIE: You failed to mention that a barking dog discourages burglars — not only in the owner's home, but the neighbors' too.

JUST TRYING TO GET AHEAD

"I'm just trying to get ahead."
How often we hear this phrase. Yet, how often the "great American dream" turns into a nightmare.
Certainly we need some financial security, but in the process of pursuing great riches and social standing, which might be lost in the blink of an eye, some lose sight of those riches which cannot be bought, and they may pay the price.
Most importantly, we may sacrifice our spiritual well-being. Matthew 16:26 warns us, saying, "For what will a man be profited if he gains the whole world and forfeits his soul?"
This week, seek the riches of the spirit as you worship God in His House. The Bible advises us in Matthew 6:20 to "lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven where neither moth nor rust destroys..." and in Matthew 6:33 to "seek first His (God's) Kingdom and His righteousness, and all these things (worldly goods) shall be added to you."
Is this not the greatest security of all?

FROM THE PULPIT

The heart of Christmas is within

Fragrant evergreens, colored lights, shining tinsel and gifts galore are all a part, but not the heart of Christmas. The heart is found in a person, the babe of the manger.

So, when you see Christmas lights remember that Jesus said, "I am the light of life" (Jn. 8:12). We must never allow the light of the tree to dim the light of the world.

Christmas tree: Remember that Christ bore our sins in His own body on the tree (1 Pet. 2:24). The Christmas tree is a symbol of a passing season, but Calvary tree is a symbol of eternal life.

Christmas gifts: Each present reminds us to give thanks unto God for His unspeakable gift (2 Cor. 9:15). The one

The Christmas tree is a symbol of a passing season, but Calvary tree is a symbol of eternal life.

—Rev. George Hammond

lasting, satisfying gift is Jesus the Son of God, who gives us life everlasting.

Christmas love: How warm and wonderful, always, is the love and affection of our relatives and friends, but nothing short of heaven can compare with the love expressed by Christ himself. It was to a man named Nicodemus that He said, "For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life" (Jn. 3:16).

And the promise is this: "Come unto Me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest" (Matt. 11:28).

Fragrant evergreens, colored lights, shining tinsel and gifts galore are all a part, but not the heart of Christmas.

Episcopal church plans to build church in Honduras

LAKE MARY — David Norman, Steve Israel and Father Beverly Barge of St. Peter's Episcopal Church recently returned from Honduras after making preliminary plans to build an Episcopal church in Quince Ereno, a small and very poor farming community in the mountains about 40 minutes from San Pedro Sula.

The men went to Honduras, at their own expense, to present plans and drawings to Leo Prado, the Episcopal Bishop of Honduras, and members of the small church family.

"The meeting went extremely well," according to the Father Barge. "We spent two days and three evenings with the Bishop and met with the members of the community to make plans for the church."

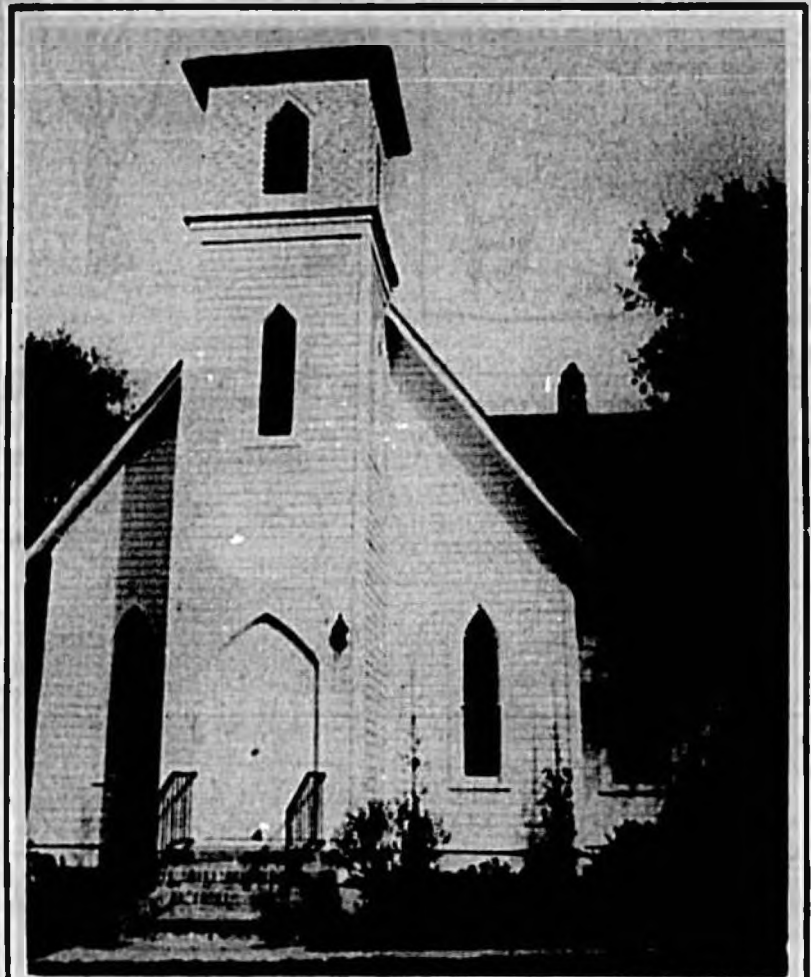

"The community agreed to supply unskilled labor, sand, water and whatever else was available to them and our part will be to supply material, blocks, wood, paint, and so forth," said Father Barge.

"It's really quite a coincidence the construction is scheduled to begin on Jan. 6," said Father Barge. "Jan. 6 is epiphany, which is the commemoration of the coming of the wise men to bear gifts to the Christ child."

St. Peter's, founded six years ago in Lake Mary, is holding worship services in its future parish hall on Rinehart Road until the congregation can build their own church building. But as part of their Christian outreach, they have committed to provide a place of worship for the approximate 30 Episcopalian families who are now meeting at a rundown shack which only accommodates the women and children, the men stand outside the building for the services.

In the Spring, several more members from St. Peter's are scheduled to go to Quince Ereno to assist with the actual building. The material and professional labor will be paid for by St. Peter's Church.

The Diocese of Honduras is the companion diocese to the Diocese of Central Florida and is chaired by The Rev. Ronald Brokaw, of Orlando, who was interim rector at St. Peter's for a year beginning in May 1989. The Episcopal Church has taught the people in this very poor farming community how to grow crops, can and sell their products. The government has now opened a consolidated school in Quince Ereno where approximately 200 children come from miles around on a daily basis.

As Sanford remembers the Swedish neighborhood of New Upsala during the St. Lucia Festival, so shall they call to mind the Presbyterian Church of Upsala, which still stands at 3600 W. 25th St. The church was given permission to organize by the South Florida Presbytery on Oct. 25, 1890, and entered on the roll of churches of the Presbytery at the spring, April 16, 1891. The congregation built the church in 1892.

Churches plan to improve effects of drug abuse

By DAVID E. ANDERSON
UPI Religion Writer

For the most part, the nation's religious bodies have been remarkably quiet or the war on drugs.

Generally, with the exception of a few maverick pastors and priests who favor taking a new look at legalizing some drugs, religious groups have said the equivalent of "oh, sure, we're against them" and then gone on about their other business.

The exception has been the United Methodist Church, which last year called Bishop Felton May of Harrisburg, Pa., to a special full-time post as a kind of denominational anti-drug czar to rally the troops and devise programs aimed at ameliorating the damage the drug trade causes, especially to inner-city neighborhoods.

Now, the rest of mainline Protestantism seems to be falling in line behind May and the Methodists.

The National Council of Churches' Prophetic Justice Unit recently brought together 64 religious leaders working for a drug free society. May keynoteed the session, telling the leaders the problem presented by drug abuse is a spiritual crisis of such magnitude that it demands a united response from people of faith.

"The god of justice, the god of reconciliation, the god of liberation, the god of hope does hold us responsible because we claim that god to be a god all humankind," May said.

But the NCC consultation was no cheering session for President Bush's war on drugs.

May, speaking aloud some of the charges that are usually just whispered in Washington said, "We are in this (drug) mess to some degree because of our government involvement (in the drug trade)." He charged that there is "a clear and unmistakable trail" connected to the U.S.-backed Contra rebels and drugs were "brought into this nation, into our ethnic communities, and were sold to generate funds to fight (the) covert war" aimed at toppling the Nicaraguan government.

Politics, however, was not the main agenda item.

Instead, participants in the consultation looked at programs being carried out by local churches across the country, including the United Methodist's "saving stations."

TOYOTALAND

Where you buy your next new or used vehicle is actually more important than what you buy. When you start to look for that Special Deal, check the whole story. Check Price, the people you're buying from and those who will service you for years to come. I'm confident that if you check the facts, you'll come to my All New Toyotaland! As the owner who will be at the dealership, I'll personally make sure you've Never Been Treated Better.

Bruce Rossmeyer
PRESIDENT

THE COMMITMENTS:

PRICE:
The lowest prices and the biggest savings in Florida aren't goals at Toyotaland. They're the way we do business. Our NEW OWNERSHIP is committed to saving you more than any other dealer on every new Toyota car & truck and we stand behind every price everytime.

SERVICE:
We are one of the HIGHEST RATED TOYOTA SERVICE GROUPS IN THE SOUTHEAST & we want to earn your trust for a lifetime. Our sales team will satisfy your every need WITH COURTESY & FRIENDLINESS. We're taking CUSTOMER SATISFACTION into the 90's with our new ownership.

SATISFACTION:
The New Toyotaland is backed by a $500 MILLION DOLLAR DEALER GROUP. The other Toyota Dealers in our group have won PRESIDENT'S AWARDS FOR EXCELLENCE. We have the resources and the determination to be #1. And we guarantee YOU'VE NEVER BEEN TREATED BETTER OR FELT MORE SATISFIED.
