THE SCIENTISTS Vs. THE LAYMEN
By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Scientists almost always have trouble making their work understandable to laymen. The problem is that most research nowadays is so esoteric it can't be reduced to terms a layman can fully comprehend.
Therefore, whenever there is an important scientific development, we laymen tend to relate it to something in our own experience, and usually the analogy self-destructs.
At the breakfast table the other morning I came across a piece in the paper about the team of University of Illinois researchers who reported the discovery of a new form of life on earth.
It was the third life form to be identified thus far, if you do not count sex change operations. I found the story so fascinating I read part of it aloud. I quoted one of the scientists as saying the organism came out of the primordial ooze, produces methane gas and thrives on simple, inorganic chemicals.
"That's not new," my teenage son commented. "It sounds like Uncle Albert to me." I acknowledged the similarity but pointed out that "this organism is so small you need a microscope to see it."
My son was not convinced. "Maybe Uncle Albert is an overweight version of it," he suggested.
My son had never before exhibited much interest in science, or any other academic subject for that matter, so I was reluctant to dampen his newly awakened intellectual curiosity.
"Let's leave your Uncle Albert out of this," I said. "However, scientists say there may be still other forms of life that haven't been found yet. Perhaps one of them will turn out to be a relative — on your mother's side, of course."
Later on, I was talking with a colleague, a political reporter, about the discovery. He said he was wondering if the third life form might have been the nucleus of one of the third party movements that had sprung up from time to time.
"Some of those third party movements never developed beyond the microscopic stage," he said. "It could be that nobody noticed this one at all."

Arabs, Israelis Swap Rockets, Cannon Fire
TEI, AMIV, Israel (UPI) — Arab guerrillas fired three volleys of rockets into the Israeli town of Nahariya today, killing one person, and Israeli troops retaliated with cannon fire across the border into Lebanon, witnesses said.
The victim, a woman, was the third Israeli civilian killed by the Palestinians' cross-border attacks since Sunday. Five other persons were wounded by the Soviet-made Katyusha rockets.
Despite military officials' warnings that further guerrilla attacks could spark another Israeli raid into Lebanon, troops confined their response today to an artillery barrage. The Palestinian rockets damaged windows and set fire to a pickup truck, the witnesses said in Nahariya.
The increased action by guerrillas in southern Lebanon came despite a five-week-old ceasefire in the fighting between Israeli-backed Christian rightists and Syrian-backed Palestinians and leftists.
Chief of Staff Mordcha Gur visited the northern border village and said the rocket attacks were a violation of the U.S.-mediated truce in Lebanon.
Under the agreement Israel pulled its tanks and troops out of Lebanon in exchange for a promise that the guerrillas would withdraw from the border region and be replaced by units of the Lebanese regular army.
After Sunday's rocket attack in which two men were killed in a carpentry shop, Defense Minister Ezer Weizman said the army may send ground troops back across the border.
"The return fire may not be enough," Defense Minister Ezer Weizman said Sunday.

Madden: A Checker Gold And Champion Grandson
By DAN RUTLEDGE
Herald Correspondent
It was quite a day for long-time Sanford resident A.L. Madden, and the twinkle in his eyes said he was enjoying it.
Monday afternoon at the Sanford Chamber of Commerce Building Madden, 77, of 701 Magnolia Ave., won the gold medal in checker competition at the third annual Golden Age Olympics.
But the checker championship was only one source of Madden's elation. "Yes, I'm happy — but not just over checkers. Winning wasn't that tough. There's no competition here. I didn't lose a game. 'What I'm really excited about,'" he continued, "is that I'm going to go see my grandson win a championship."
"Of course, I'm excited that it's my 57th wedding anniversary. Madden is married to the See CHECKER, Page 3A

Sanfordite Returns From Flood
'Material Things' Lost, Hopes Remain
By MARYLIN SHEDDAN
Herald Staff Writer
"The flood might slow us down at first, but I think in the long run each of us has learned a great deal from this. It has united us much more strongly as a Christian body within the school."
Those were the words with which Dave Penick, 25, Sanford, a senior at Tococa Falls College in Georgia, summed up the flood damage to his home.
He also lost some friends, including three who were part of a group of 11 (including Penick) who were sleeping in what students dubbed "the basement."
"Penick is not certain how many.
"A friend and I were lying in bed talking," Penick recalls. "It was shortly after one in the morning, because I had just gotten in from work. We heard a loud crack and saw a flash of light. Later we figured out that it must have been the water striking the power lines," Penick said.
The dormitory had been without power since 7:30 the night before, Penick said, so he and his friend took a flashlight and looked through a window to see "what was going on."
"First we just saw a little water, and thought it was just a flash," Penick said, "but when we started through the building we saw water coming in."

Penick said that he and other students returning home until the damage is assessed were told that "classes will begin again Monday or Tuesday."
"I don't know if they will actually be able to begin again that quickly. The board of trustees will meet this week," Penick said.
"They will decide whether they can open up again that soon. They have to find out what they have left to work with."
The flood took at least 30 victims, most of them students, faculty members or their families from the 425-student college.
Penick is a senior, majoring in "Missiology," planning to go into foreign missions. "My main interest is toward West Germany," he said, "but whether that is where I will end up, I don't know."
For the time being, Dave Penick has to gather up a few new belongings, replace three and a half years worth of textbooks and return to finish his senior year at Tococa Falls College.
Like the insurance people, Penick says, the students and faculty of the college consider floods an act of God.
"But we claim that all things work together for good for those who love God," Penick insisted.

MATE CHECKED
Lake Mary's John Ulmer ponders his move in checker competition. But he didn't ponder enough, evidently, as he finished fourth — losing the consolation match to his wife, Eunice. "We haven't played each other in checkers for five years, or more," said John. "Mostly we play pinocle at home." Does Eunice beat him in cards? "Sometimes," he said. Mrs. Ulmer was the lone representative of the fairer sex in the contest.

NATION IN BRIEF

Governor Races: N.J., Virginia Contests Close

By United Press International
In today's off-year election, the battles for governor of New Jersey and Virginia have wound up much closer than expected and heavy rains could affect the outcome of both races.

In addition to the two governorships, 38 of the nation's cities with a population of more than 100,000 — including New York, Detroit, Houston, Minneapolis and Cleveland — elect mayors today. And voters will decide major statewide referendums in Ohio, Oregon and Washington.

Sniper Gives Up Meekly

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Carlos Poree, 35, was charged with the attempted murder of 10 persons Monday, but surrendered to police without resistance after his shooting rampage. All the victims are in hospitals.

Police said he began his spree by shooting his estranged wife and father-in-law, then shot his other victims at random in a park, a brokerage office and on a downtown sidewalk. His mother-in-law said Poree had lost his $19,000-a-year job with the New Orleans Internal Revenue Service office last year, and had been arguing with his wife.

Golda To See Jimmy, 'Golda'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With his aides sounding out foreign leaders on a new date for an overseas journey, President Carter invited former Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir to the White House for talks on the Middle East. Mrs. Meir, who was in the United States for the performance of the Broadway play "Golda" based on her life, scheduled a "courtesy call" on Carter today.

Court Hears Nixon Tape Plea

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Today, for the third time in a little more than three years, the Supreme Court's marble chamber was the arena for a debate about Richard Nixon's White House tapes.

This time the justices were being asked to rule whether up to 22 hours of tapes played as evidence at the Watergate conspiracy trial of top Nixon aides may be mass produced for public sale and broadcast.

Newton Will Face Court

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — A judge has decided there is enough evidence to warrant a trial for Black Panther leader Huey Newton on charges of shooting a young prostitute to death and pistol-whipping another person.

Municipal Judge J. Robert Friberg bound Newton over to Superior Court Monday on the basis of a week-long preliminary hearing where two prostitutes testified they witnessed the Aug. 6, 1974, shooting of 17-year-old Kathleen Smith. Friberg set Nov. 21 for trial.

Carter Addresses Nation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter will give his third major energy address at 9 tonight via radio and television in an effort to get his energy program through Congress.

Owner Dies, Ritz Closing

The Ritz Theater, closed since the Oct. 28 death of owner, Leonard N. Franconer Sr., 59, Sanford, will remain closed, his widow, Mrs. Lorette Franconer, says. Before his death at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Gainesville, she said her husband had plans for renovating the old theater into three separate theaters.

A native of Fall River, Mass., Franconer began in the theater business at 14. He bought the Ritz in December, 1970, and took over the management the following February.

He had owned the Trading Post in Maitland for about 10 years. He was a disabled veteran of the Army in World War II. He was a member of All Saints Church and American Legion Post 43 of Sanford and...

Deadly Southeast Rain Toll Hits 49

By United Press International
Hundreds of flood refugees plodded back to crushed or mud-scarred homes in the southern Appalachian and Blue Ridge mountains today and rescuers poked through mud and mire for more victims of the deadly mountain rains.

The death toll from the weekend rampage by mountain streams climbed to 49. Rescuers searching a flood-ravaged Bible college campus at Toccoa, Ga. Monday found the body of Dr. Jerry Sproull, a professor at Toccoa Falls College. Sproull was the 38th victim of the Toccoa flooding. Authorities planned to continue the search today for another man still missing and presumed drowned.

Georgia Gov. George Busbee informed the White House he would seek federal disaster aid. Searchers in the Blue Ridge mountains of North Carolina found five more bodies Monday, boosting the state's weekend death toll to 10.

The bodies of two 3-year-old brothers — William and Paul Hendrix — were found Monday in Tennessee. A body, so far unidentified, was found Monday near Erwin, Tenn., where the Doe and Nolichucky rivers drove about 100 families from their homes.

Flooding caused millions of dollars' damage in a wide area. Gov. James Hunt estimated damages to North Carolina roads and bridges alone at $40 million. Officials said some homes and businesses in North Carolina were total losses. Hunt said he would seek federal aid.

Rain soaked much of the Northeast Monday and early today. Flash flood watches were posted today for southern New England and for portions of New York, New Jersey and Maryland today.

Nearly four inches at Atlantic City, N.J., Monday, shattered the previous single-day rainfall record of 2 1/2 inches. A wintry western storm dumped up to six inches of snow in the mountains of Arizona and Colorado and a heavy snow warning was in effect today for portions of Colorado, where up to four inches of new snow was forecast.

$1,170 Items Stolen In Rolling Hills

Sheriff's deputies today are investigating the theft of $1,170 in personal items taken in a burglary at the home of Faye Littleman, 111 E. Citrus Ave., Rolling Hills.

Deputies said thieves entered the Littleman home through the garage, then pried open a kitchen door.

Reported missing in the burglary were: a color TV, two watches, a diamond and ruby ring and $300 cash.

HOME BURGLARIZED
Sue Osteen of Box 125, Goldenrod, reported to deputies the theft of a French horn valued at $500 and an eight-millimeter projector valued at $200.

Mrs. Osteen said the items were taken during a daytime burglary at her home. Thieves entered the home by prying open the front door, according to sheriff's deputies.

WAREHOUSE ROBBED
About $1,500 in personal items stored at a warehouse at Sanford Airport, was reported stolen to city police today.

Charles L. Evans of 1599 Findley St., Deltona, said thieves pried open a padlock on the warehouse door to remove the items he had stored there.

WOMAN ARRESTED
Pamela Sue Arvey, 28, with no permanent address, according to deputies, was arrested inside the Shop & Go grocery at SR 434 and Preservive Avenue, Longwood.

Deputies said they found the woman sitting at a table in the store smoking a cigarette and drinking coffee.

She told deputies, according to reports, she entered the store to get some cigarettes and coffee. They arrested her.

The Casselberry City Council Monday night at the request of Councilman Don Willson that the city buy the 100-acre tract at the south-east intersection of Lake Drive and Bird Road.

The board agreed to authorize preparation of the annexation ordinance, but to table action on its adoption until an expected Florida Supreme Court decision on the legality of the 900-acre annexation of Deer Run, the city planned unit development.

The property, petitioned and zoned by Elmer Bakalis, a local realtor, and Robert Lewis, a local realtor, is contiguous to the city only by way of Deer Run, the city planned unit development. A decision is expected from the state's high court before the second Monday in December.

Money Stops Mower
OSTEEN (UPI) — An Osteen woman who hoped to travel 800 miles on a riding mower towing her son in a homemade cart has ended her trip after 250 miles because of a shortage of money.

Betsy Miller said she tried Monday to acquire sponsorship for her stunt from the mower's maker in Valdosta, Ga., but was turned down.

The mower and cart were to be loaded into the back of a pickup truck that her husband Delmar was following them, and the three will return to Osteen in Volusia County.

'Hoppie' Takes Cue From '76

By DAN RUTLEDGE

The rest of the men's field in the 1977 Golden Olympics had better watch out — defending champion Tom (Hoppie) Hopkins has started off just like last year.

Hopkins, 66, of 404 S. Sunland Drive, won the gold medal in billiards (eight ball) Monday afternoon at the Civic Center Youth Wing.

Last year Hopkins took the eight-ball competition for his first gold medal. He ended with seven golds, and one bronze, for 37 points and the championship.

Over all standings are figured on the basis of five points for gold, three for silver, and two for bronze.

Hopkins needed just four games of a best-of-five set to sit down James Whelan of Orlando in the finals. The two men were the best of a 29-man field — more than twice as many entries as last year.

Hopkins, a native Indianan, has been living in Sanford for five and a half years. When Hopkins took the Olympic crown last year, he was less than a year from a heart attack that forced his retirement from truck driving. The defending champ said the competition was a little stronger this year.

Asked if he played often during the year, Hopkins replied, "No, I haven't played any to speak of since here last year."

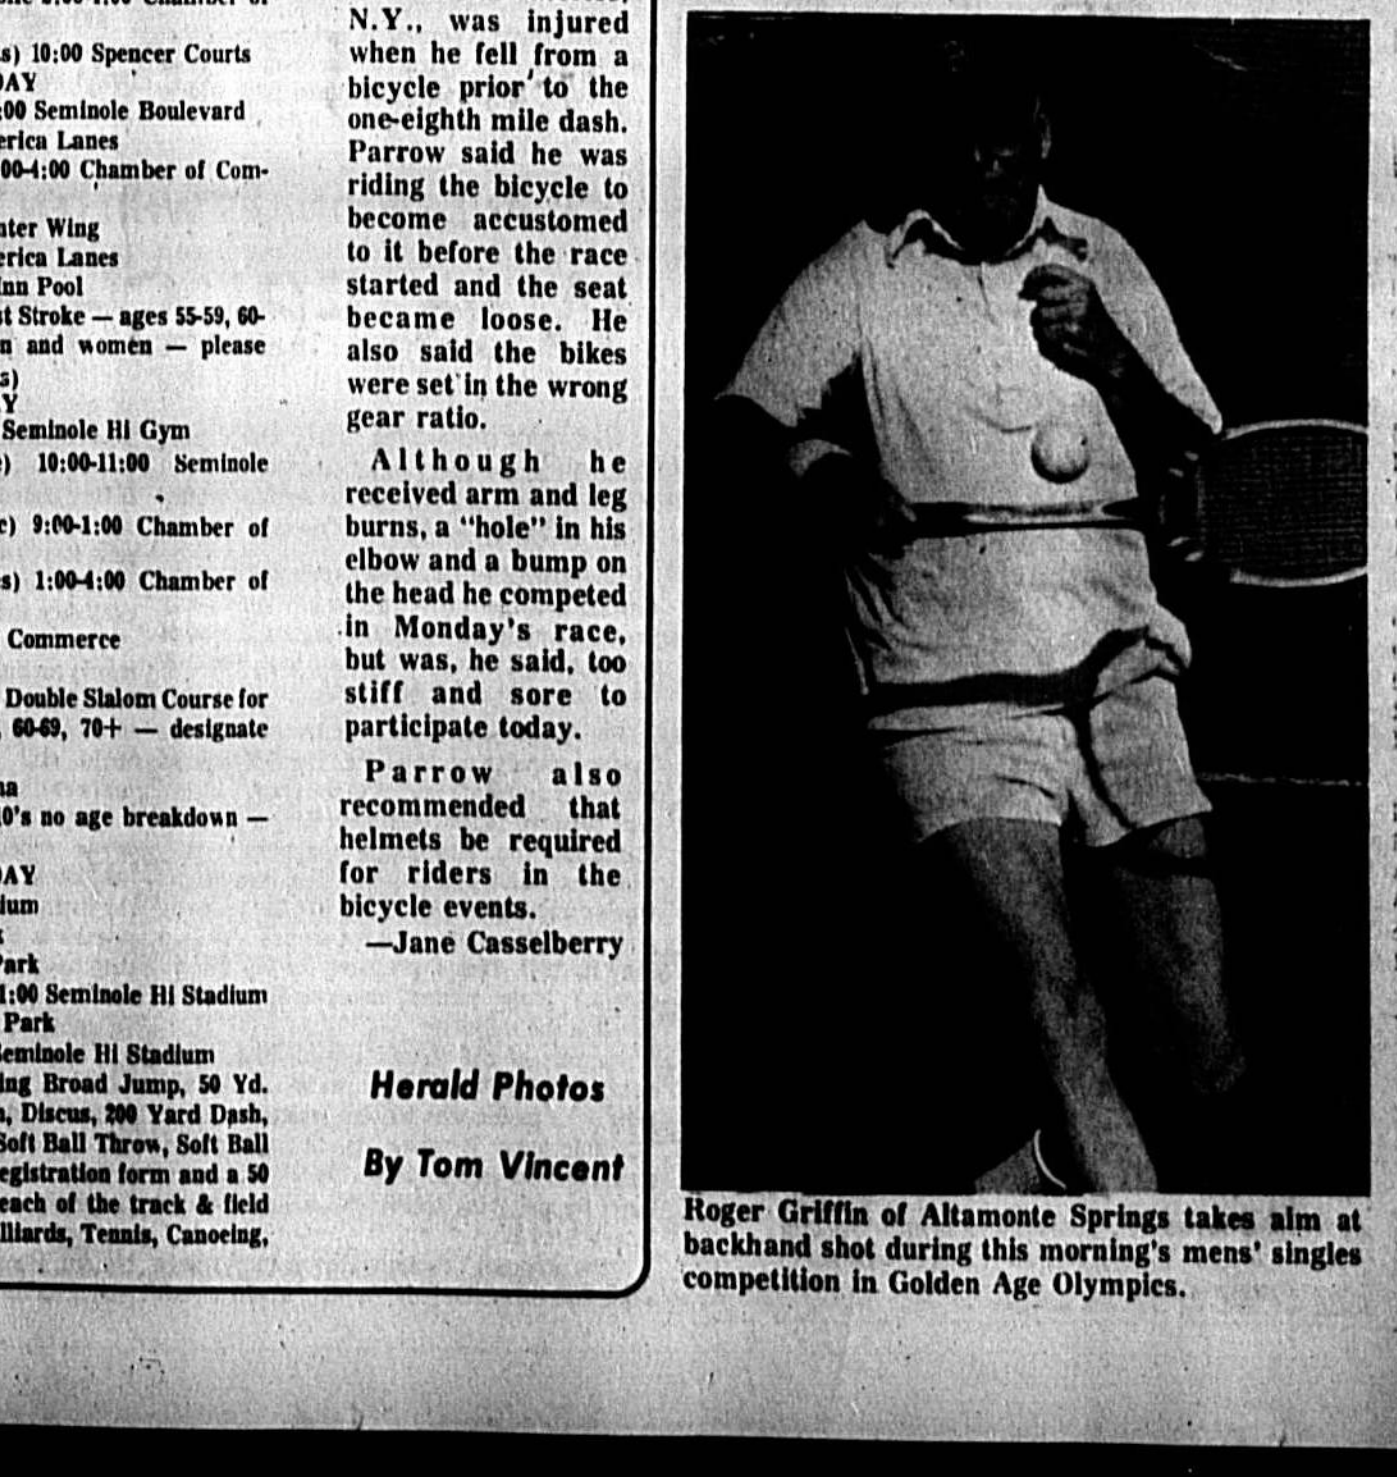

"Although he won, eight ball is not Hopkins' favorite game of pool. "I like call shot, straight pool," he said.

"Isn't that the game you play for money?" a bystander asked. "Yes, sometimes," replied Hopkins, a smile spreading.

"And I have played for money in my life," he answered an unspoken query. "But not recently. During the depression not many people had money, and pool was a way of getting it."

Orlando's Whelan came to win — evidenced by his personal pool stick, carrying case, and talcum powder — and was disappointed when he didn't.

"Tom is a good pool player, very consistent. But I don't feel like I played my best. I haven't had the pressure of competition in a while," the silver medal winner stated.

The Olympics Schedule Rules Switch Asked

Entrants in today's five-mile cross-country bicycle race signed a petition asking for a change in the rules in the 1978 Golden Age Olympics permitting the use of the contestant's own bicycle, including 10-speeds.

The petition was prompted by a pre-race accident Monday when 63-year-old Maurice Parrow of Waterloo, N.Y., was injured when he fell from a bicycle prior to the one-eighth mile dash.

Parrow said he was riding the bicycle to become accustomed to it before the race started and the seat became loose. He also said the bikes were set in the wrong gear ratio.

Although he received arm and leg burns, a "hole" in his elbow and a bump on the head he competed in Monday's race, but was, he said, too stiff and sore to participate today.

Parrow also recommended that helmets be required for riders in the bicycle events.

Jimmy Carter And S. Africa

President Carter has tightened the U.S. embargo on arms sales to South Africa. This is a reasoned first response to the crisis precipitated by the South African government's crackdown on black organizations...

An arms embargo is the least to be expected from the United Nations Security Council, which is being urged to retaliate in stronger terms. The dilemma for the U.S. is to apply pressure on the white regime in Pretoria without defeating the purpose of their diplomacy, which is to bring about a peaceful transition to majority rule.

Even an arms embargo carries some risk. Any isolation and weakening of the South African government makes it more inviting for militant radicals among the black nationalists to seek redress through the disastrous course of racial war.

The tougher sanctions proposed in the U.N. — an embargo on oil, or on trade and investment — would heighten that risk and do further damage to the ability of the United States and other outside nations to encourage change through constructive diplomacy with the government of Prime Minister John Vorster.

The crackdown on black organizations and their spokesmen has brought South Africa to a turning point. The Vorster government is saying that whatever relaxation of the apartheid system lies ahead, it will come at a time and on terms that the white minority decides, not under the pressures which leaders like Steve Biko were bringing.

At his news conference on Oct. 27, Mr. Carter wisely left open the question of whether any U.S. sanctions tougher than the arms embargo might be under consideration. The threat of such measures can do no harm in Pretoria, even if Mr. Vorster has been defiant of outside pressure.

While taking a cautious attitude toward the use of sanctions as a weapon, he emphasized that the United States is still working with countries of Western Europe and moderate black African leaders to defuse a crisis in which their interests are more directly involved than ours.

ANGLE-WALTERS FDA Boss Rocking The Boat

WASHINGTON — When Stanford University biologist Donald Kennedy agreed last spring to become commissioner of the beleaguered Food and Drug Administration, his friends in the health field thought he had slipped a cog.

On the contrary, under Kennedy's leadership, the FDA has suddenly seized an unexpectedly major role in the formulation of health policy in the Carter administration.

Kennedy and his boss, HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr., are launching a drive for the first major revision of U.S. drug laws since 1962 — and there is good reason to believe they will succeed.

Donald Kennedy isn't waiting, however, for new authority from Congress to force some changes in the way drugs are marketed and prescribed.

He has already announced a controversial new program to require that certain classes of drugs include printed inserts for patients explaining side effects that may accompany usage.

Both drug companies and doctors are resisting this "patient labeling" proposal, fearing that side effect warnings could discourage patients from taking drugs prescribed by their physicians.

But Kennedy is plowing ahead, convinced that patients have every right to understand the risks as well as the benefits associated with the widely prescribed drugs such as tranquilizers.

Everyone who is anyone in the insurance business has taken up the cases of inflated settlements. Especially irritating to those connected with the business, it would seem, are the multi-million-dollar awards granted by juries. That's what's helping to push up insurance costs, officials claim, and liability insurance for cities is increasing at an alarming rate.

Local Governments of Seminole County is investigating such a plan.

What happens as a relatively typical accident in a small city of northwest Broward County, has proved to have far reaching effects.

No question that the settlement was unusually steep, perhaps unjustly. There also is no question that cities must develop alternative means of protecting themselves against legal action.

The settlement in fact, was not out of line with the projected costs of treatment and constant care Garcher will require the rest of his life.

The accident occurred at night, thus the descriptive headline is not apparent to anyone who did not know the area.

In addition, Tamarac declined to settle out-of-court, despite the fact its two insurance companies ended their liability, and the city was forced to compensate the victim the difference between the settlements and final award.

The key, however, to the huge settlement was a film shown to the jury. The accident left Thomas Garcher, his mid-30s, and married, a quadriplegic. The films showed he could not dress, bathe or even feed himself.

Maybe the settlement was as unfair as the insurance companies and Garcher would have us believe. . . but how much is the use of your body worth?

Local Governments of Seminole County is investigating such a plan.

What is questionable is the manner in which officials, such as Guntner, have portrayed the suit.

I was covering Tamarac for a local newspaper at the time of the litigation. In fact, I received a letter of praise from Tamarac Mayor Walter Falck for some of the articles I did in relation to the accident.

In their rush to capitalize on the seeming unfairness of the settlement, some officials, such as Guntner, have failed to note some of the mitigating circumstances surrounding the accident.

Tea still accounts for 71 percent of all beverages consumed in Britain and is in no immediate danger of being eclipsed by the instant coffee and soft drinks preferred by young people — but the Tea Council is taking no chances.

The Council, whose members include representatives of marketing companies and producing countries — including India, Sri Lanka and Kenya — has launched a three-year, $5.4 million-plus advertising campaign.

The campaign will use television and press advertisements and will concentrate on 13-to-24-year-olds and on young marrieds — the two groups a recent market survey revealed most prefer tea.

The survey showed that housewives preferred instant coffee because it was quickly-made without problems of tea leaf disposal and young people because they thought tea drinking "old-fashioned and dull."

But a recent test campaign in the Newcastle area, using the theme "Yes — best drink of the day," was so successful in increasing tea sales that the Tea Council decided to launch its national campaign, said Secretary Stephen Heald.

The Council has some reason for concern. Although the British tea market is worth approximately $7.5 billion a year, consumption dropped from 423.3 million pounds in 1971 to 425.2 million pounds in 1973, with an increase to 464.1 million pounds last year.

The decline in tea consumption has been mainly due to an intensive advertising campaign for instant coffee. Heald said.

Head pointed out that in addition to its beneficial "pick-me-up" qualities tea has other uses. "Tea is also used as a shampoo, a color restorer and the leaves are used as a garden fertilizer."

But a spokesman for the makers of Nescafe, the world's largest instant coffee maker, said he thinks tea drinking will continue to decline because tea drinkers tend to be older.

Now That Guntner's Out Who'll Get The Political Spoils?

TALLAHASSEE, (UPI) — Insurance Commissioner Bill Guntner's decision not to run for governor leaves some important political connections and money up for grabs.

"A lot of his support will be very much up for grabs now," says Attorney General Robert Shavin, generally acknowledged as the front-runner for the Democratic nomination.

Shavin, who constructed the novel "involuntary sublimation television intoxication" defense, stood with Zamora as the sentence was read Monday afternoon.

Gunter wouldn't say whom he will support in the governor's race. His backers, he said, "are completely free to choose up sides as far as I'm concerned."

Gov. Jim Williams says he also will be contacting Guntner supporters, "but it won't be a major undertaking."

Williams does figure that with Guntner not running his chances in central and north Florida will increase. He and Guntner would have split some of the same support, especially in central Florida.

The major Democratic candidates are now Shavin, Williams, state Sen. Robert Graham, of Miami Lakes and St. Petersburg banker Raleigh Greene. Secretary of State Bruce Smathers is expected to get in the race later.

The major Republican candidates are millionaire businessman Jack Eckerd and U.S. Rep. Lon Frey.

Shavin held a campaign testimonial last week in Orlando, hometown of Guntner and Frey, and raised $40,000. "I thought that was pretty good considering," Shavin said. "I have always considered him a formidable opponent."

WORLD WINDOW Tea Hangs In There In Britain

LONDON (UPI) — For Britons' tea drinkers, there is nothing like the traditional cuppa. But latest statistics show that the national pastime of tea drinking — introduced to Britain 32 years ago — is being challenged by young upstarts.

Tea still accounts for 71 percent of all beverages consumed in Britain and is in no immediate danger of being eclipsed by the instant coffee and soft drinks preferred by young people — but the Tea Council is taking no chances.

OUR READERS WRITE

We wish to thank the many individuals and groups who assisted and offered help during the past few days to the Dallaborda family in caring for their needs.

My main reason for writing is to tell Nancy Booth how much I enjoyed her article on SEA political action in "Around the Clock."

I have enclosed an "SEA Action Message" so you may see that the aforementioned action was not spontaneous, but long in planning.

The second reason for writing is that someone has to wake up the general public that there is an ideological struggle going on as to who will control education — the teachers or the general public through their elected officials.

BERRY'S WORLD

JACK ANDERSON-LES WHITTEN Was FBI Shady in James Earl Ray Hunt?

WASHINGTON — The FBI, which used electronic skullduggery in an effort to discredit Martin Luther King Jr., tried to employ similar illegal tactics to catch his murderer.

Long-buried FBI documents reveal that then-director J. Edgar Hoover personally approved a break-in and illegal electronic bugging aimed at innocent relatives of James Earl Ray, who was later convicted of killing King.

For years, Hoover had conducted a vicious smear campaign against King. The FBI peddled malicious and slandering stories to the press and had sent doctored tapes concerning King's personal life to his wife. When King was slain in 1968, whippersnappers about possible FBI involvement had Hoover under great pressure to find the assassin.

"The proposal," continued the memo, "raises a question concerning the legality of any action taken against the subject of this case on the basis of information obtained from the microphones."

"If the Peppers used the FBI and won, the memo insisted, the taxpayers would be simply used. The government of the United States should never pay the bill for the task for any judgment against those who installed the microphones," the memo concluded. At the bottom, Hoover scribbled "OK" and added his characteristic "H." Six other FBI officials also

BALLET BENEFIT

Shades of Tara and/or a Hollywood premiere were captured at the Sweetwater Oaks mansion of Mr. and Mrs. E. Everett Huskey Friday night at a reception to benefit Ballet Guild of Sanford-Seminole in celebration of its 10th anniversary. Ballet Buffs bucked the rain to attend the event which a New Yorker described as "perfectly elegant." During the two-hour fete, a steady stream of ballet supporters toured the home and danced to the music of Nick Pelfau and his orchestra.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth W. McIntosh say they don't dance. The dancer in the family is their daughter, Martha, a new company dancer with Ballet Guild of Sanford-Seminole.

Ernest Cowley escorted two ladies to the reception; his wife, Jan (right) and her mother, Eloise Collins.

'Continue To Trust Him'

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN DEAR ABBY: My husband is a very attractive middle-aged man who has never fooled around as far as I know. The company he works for sends him and a professional female co-worker out of town together (just the two of them) on business trips for several days' duration. It seems to me that since it wouldn't be proper for just the two of them to have dinner together here in our home city, it's hardly fair for the company to send them out of town together. My husband says it's strictly a business relationship, and I believe him. But she's pretty, young and single, and being only human, all that togetherness away from home son about this, he said it was strictly up to the bride, and she selected the form that omitted the names of the bridegroom's parents. Our friends and relatives disagree. They say that it is a slap in the face and a snub to us, and if we had an ounce of pride, we would not attend our son's wedding. After all, he wasn't laid on a log and hitched by the sun! Who is right, Abby? What would you do?

HURTIEN PENNA. DEAR HURTIEN: The standard American wedding invitation does not include the names of the groom's parents, so the bride should not be faulted for having selected that style. I would go to the wedding and bear no grudge.

DEAR ABBY: Our son and his fiancée are being married soon. Our names were not included on the wedding invitations. When we asked our

'Microwave Magic' Open To Public

Microwave Magic, a microwave oven cooking school, will be held at the Seminole County Agricultural Center, Hwy. 17-92, south of Sanford. The first classes will be held Thursday, from 9:30 a.m. until noon, and from 7-10 p.m. The next classes will be held the following Thursday during the same hours. Mrs. Pat Taylor of Seminole Appliance Service will demonstrate the basic principles of microwave cooking through the use of selected foods and recipes. In addition, free recipes will be distributed, door prizes will be given, and there will be a taste sampling of foods that are prepared. The Nov. 10 session will cover the basic principles of microwave cooking, and the Nov. 17 session will review basic principles and cover more advanced microwave cooking techniques. Men and women who are interested in learning more about microwave cooking are encouraged to attend this school. Each session is limited to 50 people, and there is no charge for the school. For a reservation to attend, telephone 322-1128 or contact the Seminole County Extension Home Economics Office or Seminole Appliance Service.

Speaking Against Issues

The October meeting of the Norman deVere Howard Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy was held at the home of Mrs. Troy Ray with Mrs. Glenn Winkish as co-hostess. Retired Cmdr. G.R. Strickland spoke to the chapter in place of the scheduled speaker. Strickland talked of the Panama Canal Treaty, National Energy Crisis proposals, Constitution Revision Commission and the State's Sunshine Law, issues which he opposes. Mrs. Burch Cornelius, president, presided at business. Refreshments served by the hostesses were carried out in Halloween motif.

The home and grounds of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Beasley, 216 Summerlin Ave., has been awarded the Community Improvement Project (C.I.P.) salute. The selection was based on the overall neat appearance of the property.

C.I.P. SALUTES

Members attending were Mrs. Cornelius, Mrs. Donald Durr Sr., Mrs. L.D. Hastings, Mrs. Harold Jones, Mrs. W.B. Kirby, Mrs. E.W. Martin, Mrs. H.B. McCall, Mrs. Troy Ray, Mrs. Charles Stenwerth, Mrs. M.R. Strickland, Mrs. T.J. Taylor, Mrs. W.B. Wallace and Mrs. Winkish.

Olympics Card Games Wednesday

The Golden Age Olympics bridge and canasta games will be held at the Woman's Club of Sanford Wednesday at 1 p.m. According to Mrs. Herbert Larson, chairman, the games will be open to all interested men and women over age 55. Refreshments will be served and prizes awarded.

A Look At Gall Stones

DEAR DR. LAMB—Will all gall stones show up on X rays? I had my gall bladder removed a year ago...

I have heard if one has stones that aren't removed they can cause cancer. Is there any other way except by X ray that they can locate the gall stones?

The dye is opaque and concentrates inside the gall bladder. The transparent cholesterol stones then stand out from the solid appearing dye and can be seen.

There is an increased incidence of cancer of gall bladder with stones. Since you have been removed, I think you don't need to worry about that.

'Hee-Haw,' Junior's Come Fishin'

Junior Samples said he flew into Sanford last week — "but I flew low, in at Lincoln out there," he said, and gestured out the window of the Holiday Inn where he is staying while bass fishing for a week.

JUNIOR SAMPLES: ANGLING

Only after Pete was in the boat and breathing did Samples allow himself to be rescued of the Holiday Inn where he is staying while bass fishing for a week.

They're lazy up there. I get up with the chickens, 5 o'clock. They don't start filmin' until 9...besides that, their time is an hour slower than ours.

right in the middle of the road," Samples indicated, with another motion of his never-quit-still hands.

But the family was just fine — escaping from the water which Junior loves so much and which threatened his own life at least once in the past.

"He and a buddy was fishing," he recalled. "My boat was worked on, and somebody didn't tighten down a bolt in the steering mechanism. Georgia floods."

"I got up there, stayed three days and couldn't get in touch with nobody," Samples remembered. "Then I caught them drinkin coffee, and they wouldn't talk to me then. They said they'd call me."

Seminole Bill Being Prepared Industry Agencies Merger Proposed

Four of Seminole's five county commissioners say they favor some form of merger between two public agencies which bring jobs and industry to the county, the Seminole County Industrial Development Authority (SCIDA) and the Seminole County Port Authority (SCOPA).

Commissioner Harry Kwiatkowski is preparing proposed state legislation to merge the two agencies as commissioners prepare for their legislative program, which they will adopt at next Tuesday's county commission meeting.

Commissioner Jim Ryan is port administrator, and Jim Daniels is executive director of SCIDA. "Since the county now has control of the boards of directors of both agencies, a merger might be a good business judgment," Daniel said.

A port official said a merger isn't necessary, while SCIDA's executive director says "it might be a good business judgment" to merge the agencies after careful study.

Reporters Tuesday asked each of the five county commissioners, "Should SCOPA and SCIDA be merged?" Four commissioners answered in the affirmative — Dick Williams, Bob French, Bill Kirkhoff and Harry Kwiatkowski.

Commissioner John Alexander said he needed to study the issue before making up his mind but that his goal would be increased efficiency in the county's effort to bring industry and jobs to the county.

"There should be one agency," said Kwiatkowski. "My proposal results from a considerable amount of discussion among (county commissioners) for some time. It would reduce duplication."

French said there should be the same executive director and one board of directors for both agencies. "SCOPA and SCIDA are in competition. I'm looking for the most efficient way to get light, clean industry into Seminole County. The goal is to eliminate duplication of effort."

The port authority (SCOPA) was created by state legislation in 1968. It is a public, non-profit corporation, whose annual budget amount is approved by county commissioners.

The industrial development authority (SCIDA) was established by county commissioners as an agency of county government in 1971.

SCOPA's budget this year is $20,296. Jim Ryan is port administrator, and Jim Daniels is executive director of SCIDA.

"Since the county now has control of the boards of directors of both agencies, a merger might be a good business judgment," Daniel said.

"A merger has been talked about several times by county commissioners," the industrial development authority executive director continued.

"Until recently, the port's board was appointed by the governor. Possibly the agencies could be merged, but it's going to take some detailed study."

County Election Day Plus One W. Springs: Same Mayor

Troy Piland today called his re-election as mayor of Winter Springs Tuesday "a vote of confidence — an indication the people like to have a smoothly operating city government."

But his opponent in Tuesday's election, John H. Van Espeel, said, "I set out to change the complexion of the city government and even though I lost, the election accomplished this."

Piland handily won his bid for another two years in office — he has already served four years as mayor and three previously as councilman — carrying 481 votes to 389 for Van Espeel.

But, incumbent City Councilman Claude Ash, completing his first term, was defeated by Laurent Pellerin, 49, chairman of the city's board of adjustment, in a four-way race by 13 votes. Prior to the accounting of absentee ballots Pellerin was the Bushman gathering at the Altamonte Civic Center, won her first bid for public office, avoiding a run-off election by a scant seven votes.

Meanwhile, Harry Jacobs, a lawyer who practices in Altamonte Springs, also won a commission seat, and celebrated his victory at his home with a few close friends.

The two new commissioners are to take office in two weeks. While Mrs. Vickers will succeed Butchman, completing one term in office, Goodman will succeed Cal DeVon who had declined to stand for re-election.

Official results of the election canvassed immediately after the polls closed for the district one commission seat were: Jacobs 506; Dave Gunter 316 and Bob Cuevas 187.

City law requires winners to poll 50 per cent plus one of the votes cast. Jacobs total was 50 per cent plus nine.

For the District three commission seat, the official results were: Jim Broughton 54; Butchman 47 and Mrs. Vickers 57. Mrs. Vickers total vote was 50 per cent plus seven votes.
