

Art Show Is Better

Mrs. Beth Gregory and E. B. Stowe, both well-known local artists shared honors at the Sanford Art Assn. Art Show Sunday, taking blue ribbons for their work.

Mrs. Gregory's first place award was for her pastel "Portrait of a Young Man," and Stowe's was given for his huge picture entitled "Great Bamboo".

Mrs. Gregory's scene of "Fish Crows" and Stowe's scene of "Green Springs" were also chosen as the best in Florida scene, and after further competition, they eventually hang in the Governor's mansion in Tallahassee.

Second place in oils went to Mrs. Helen DeWit for her study of butterflies entitled "Triangle," and Gretchen Lewis Crowell's "Fresh From the Garden" still-life took the red ribbon for pastels.

A heartcatching study of a little boy, called "Little Boy Blue" took third place for Mrs. Mildred Babcock and third place in oils went to Mrs. Georgia Ball for her "Portrait of George Swain."

In the junior division of the art show a nine year old boy, John Stufflebeem, won a blue ribbon for his oil painting of a beached boat, entitled "Beached."

The third place white ribbon was won by Barbara Little, a ten year old, for her still-life study of a "Staghorn Fern."

Close to 300 visitors inched their way through the Civic Center auditorium during the afternoon, looking at the paintings, sketches, pastels and charcoals created by the members of the Sanford Art Assn. during the past year.

Some have been seen at Senkarik's or the Florida State Bank, and some already hang in prominent places in homes around the area, but there was something to appeal to every taste, and every age.

One picture that almost anyone could have recognized even without a title was a painting of Mr. Jim Hardy, Sanford's busy parking ticket patrolman, in the old days on his little motor, with the green umbrella over his head.

Visitors to this third annual art show came from all over Central Florida, including New Smyrna, Orlando, Mt. Dora, DeBary, Cocoa, DeLand and Eosita, plus winter visitors from out of state.

Comments on the show ranged from notations on the "budding talent" to "rapt enjoyment." Many expressed the hope that "you do this every year." Some said with emphasis, "Let's have more art shows."

JENO PAULUCCI

Riksha Inn Is Latest Paulucci Brainchild

Riksha Inn, the pagoda-styled restaurant now open on Hwy. 17-2 at Fern Park, is the latest brainchild of a busy young man, Jeno F. Paulucci.

The 43-year-old president-founder of the Chun-King Corp., the largest U. S. company producing canned and frozen American-Oriental foods, selected this area for the start of his newest enterprise because, in his words: "Central Florida is dynamic, growing and challenging."

Riksha Inn was conceived as an ideal place to serve the American-Oriental foods for which the Chun-King Corp. has become famous, and Paulucci plans a world-girdling chain of the uniquely styled restaurants, with the delicious, different food served at prices everyone can afford.

The "Orient Express" trucks of the Chun-King Corp. are an already familiar sight on Hwy. 17-92 as they shuttle millions of pounds of celery from Chase and Co. in Sanford to Chun-King plants in Jackson, Ohio; Cambridge, Md. and Duluth, Minn.

Paulucci makes no secret of the fact that he started his rapidly expanding business as a simple bean sprout raising venture, financed with a $2,500 loan in 1946. Business was soon so good that he had to set up a plant to can the bean sprouts. Today, Chun-King produces more than 20 million pounds of bean sprouts a year.

From there it was a natural and rapid step to chop suey and chow mein. The Chun-King list of canned and frozen products now includes fried rice, egg rolls and complete "Cantonese" dinners.

Celery, mushrooms, wild rice have also been added to the list of Paulucci products, with side branches of blueberries.

The Paulucci's make their winter home in Sanford in a luxurious home just off Mel-lonville Ave. commuting to the home office territory in Duluth, Minn. in the summer.

Other Chun-King representatives who will soon become familiar faces around Central Florida are:

Bob D'Aversa, general manager of Riksha Inn, a veteran of 12 years experience in food service operations, and former manager of the Old Chinatown Restaurant in Freedomland.

Joseph Puglisi is special projects director and was formerly marketing office manager with Chun-King at Duluth.

management schools at Denver University and was formerly associated with the catering department of the Hotel Duluth.

Beats Laver

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Manuel Santana of Spain defeated Wimbledon champion Rod Laver of Australia, 6-3, 6-4, 5-7, 7-5, Sunday to win the Pan American tennis championship. Mexico's Yola Ramirez won the women's singles title by beating Elizabeth Starkie of England, 6-3, 6-1.

Dark Captures Players Tourney

MIAMI (UPI) — If Candlestick Park were a golf course, the San Francisco Giants would probably be un conquerable in the National League this year.

Their manager, Alvin Dark, is the best golfer in baseball. Sunday he won the National Baseball Players Golf Championship for a record-tying fourth time, and became the first man to win the event at both medal and match play.

Dark, seven strokes ahead going into the closing round over the testing Miami Springs course, showed a 78-hole card of 298. Defending champion, Philadelphia coach Harry (Peanuts) Lowrey, finished second with 300.

Dark, 32, won the event previously in 1952, 1953, and 1957. Wes Farrell is the only other man to win that many times. The event was changed from match to medal play in 1960.

Behind the two leaders were Philadelphia pitcher John Gray, 304; Baltimore outfielder Jackie Brandt, 306; and Milwaukee pitcher Bob Shaw, 308.

Robin Roberts, former Phillies pitcher now working for the Yankees, shot his first hole in one Sunday. He aced the 160-yard seventh hole with a three iron.

Building Condemnation Session Ends In Flareup

City Manager W. E. Knowles asked the City Commission for a vote of confidence for two city officials Monday night and got it by a questioned 3-2 majority. A heated argument was avoided by adjournment.

The outbreak came after Knowles in a strong memo to the board suggested that the program of condemnation of structures be held up until the commission clarified its position on whether to continue the program.

Last week the fire chief and building inspector made their investigation of 19 structures on W. Ninth St. They asked that all 19 be included in a public hearing set March 2 to condemn them, but two were rejected by the board because they were "not in that bad a shape."

Knowles emphasized that the report turned in by Fire Chief Mack Cleveland and Inspector M. A. Yelvington shows the two structures, 701 and 703 W. Ninth St. were in a condemnable condition and a fire hazard.

"This program must have an impartial and objective administration if it is to be fair to the public and if strong court suits are to be built. In addition, the city officials making the inspections and reporting need strong, clear backing in performing their duties as required by the new ordinance," Knowles said.

"Their work lays them wide open for all types of charges and criticism such as favoritism, partiality, discrimination and poor judgment," Knowles added.

The city manager urged that these officials should be given the commission's backing ing all the way and be granted the courtesy of an objective public hearing right along with the property owner.

"If the city commission feels that these two are now qualified to make fire hazard and building inspections it should be stated now prior to any court cases and qualified personnel obtained to carry out the commission's ordinance," Knowles added.

Mayor J. H. Crapps said he felt those two structures were not as bad as the other 17 while Joe Baker and Tom McDonald said this should be determined at a public hearing.

Baker said the city's plan to raise old buildings was a step in the right direction and "would be one of the most important programs this board has ever undertaken."

He called for a vote with McDonald backing him up.

However, Al Wilson voted no and it was 2-1 for. Crapps attempted to explain the situation to Commissioner Earl Higginbotham who was not present at the previous meeting.

Democratic congressional leaders were with the President during the launching. White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said the President "watched it very intently."

At one point, Salinger said, Lloyd "moved the phone to a position where the President could hear Glenn's voice." Kennedy listened to Glenn's own reports to the Project Mercury control center for about 30 seconds.

Kennedy Hears Glenn's Voice As He Watches

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy today watched the orbital blastoff of Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. on television. He was described as "very pleased" at success of the first phase of the flight.

At one point, Salinger said, Lloyd "moved the phone to a position where the President could hear Glenn's voice." Kennedy listened to Glenn's own reports to the Project Mercury control center for about 30 seconds.

Col. John H. Glenn, Jr.

Destroyer Noa Lifts Him Aboard

BULLETIN
CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—The recovery fleet today recovered astronaut John Glenn from the water at 3:01 p. m. EST and reported that his spacecraft was aboard the destroyer Noa three minutes later.

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) John H. Glenn Jr. broke the space trail for the free world today with a magnificent leap into orbit that carried him three times around the earth to a splash down in the Atlantic about six miles from a recovery ship.

The ten-and-a-half cabin returning to earth arched into dense layers of the atmosphere at an altitude of about 33 miles above the East Coast.

In the space of five minutes its speed was cut from about 17,500 to 270 miles an hour, and air friction heated its blunt re-entry heat shield to nearly 3,000 degrees.

Glenn's own comment on his glowing spacecraft was, "Boy, that was a real fireball."

The towering Atlas rocket which boosted Glenn into his orbital space flight rose from the launch pad at 9:48 a. m. EST and performed faultlessly.

It was the first orbital flight by an American and the first for the free world. It came about 10 months after the first Soviet flight around the earth in space.

During the first five minutes of powered flight Glenn absorbed acceleration stresses which abruptly multiplied his 160 pounds of weight to nearly 1,200 pounds.

Then, suddenly he became weightless.

As he lost all sense of heaviness, at 9:53 a. m. Glenn reported "I feel fine."

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced 15 minutes after the liftoff, that Glenn had achieved orbital flight.

He hurtled eastward at a top speed of 17,545 miles an hour on a flight path that curved over Bermuda, the Canary Islands, Africa, Zanzibar, the Indian Ocean, Australia, the Pacific, and back over the southern United States.

Scientists said his orbit ranged in altitude from 100 to 160 miles.

He reported constantly on what he was doing and seeing. The "tremendous view" included a "very large" cloud pattern extending behind him toward the Cape.

Glenn's voice came loud and clear to the Mercury control center here and to tracking stations elsewhere.

Glenn ate the first food of his historic flight over Kano, Nigeria. Being weightless, he squirreled the food into his mouth from plastic containers.

The mighty 93-foot Atlas topped by Glenn's Mercury space capsule climbed steeply into a brilliant blue sky.

It began arcing slowly to the northeast and continued its drive to put Glenn into orbit.

As it arched, a sparkling white vapor trail curled from its engines and reeled over the sky.

The rocket left a smaller contrail as it moved quickly toward space.

One minute after liftoff, the word was relayed from Glenn that all systems were "go" and that the flight was very smooth.

Glenn reported his cabin pressure was holding at 8.5 pounds.

"I feel fine," Glenn said.

Fuel, oxygen and pressure reported "all OK," according to Lt. Col. John A. Powers, Mercury information officer, in the control room.

At 9:53 a. m. Glenn reported "the view is tremendous." At that point he was weightless.

Within five minutes, Glenn and Friendship 7 were in the inky vacuum of space, where the sustainer engine cut off.

Davis Qualifies To Oppose Sen. Smathers

FORT LAUDERDALE (UPI)—Roger L. Davis laid down a $1,125 fee today to qualify to run against Sen. George A. Smathers in the Democratic primary this spring, but it's doubtful that his action caused Smathers much concern.

Smathers' camp expects the little-known Fort Lauderdale attorney and tax consultant to reap only 10 to 12 per cent of the vote in the first party primary May 8.

Said the 32-year-old Davis: "If I were handicapping it, I would say chances today are 1,000 to 1 against my winning."

Smathers has faced little campaign gunfire since he shot Claude Pepper out of his senatorial saddle in the Democratic primary of 1950. He trimmed a political unknown, Erie L. Griffin, in the 1956 Democratic primary, but has faced no Republican opposition since 1950.

The Smathers-Perpe campaign was a bitter one fought out along conservative-liberal battle lines. The Smathers-Davis campaign, however, is unlikely to be like that. Davis, if a political test could be given them, would probably show up as more conservative than Smathers.

"Smathers," he contends, "plays a perfect game of following leadership."

"Sen. Smathers," he continues, "has tried to make nobody mad. I think the only way you can measure a man is by his enemies."

'Concrete' Plan Asked For Old Jail Repairs

The City Commission Monday night authorized City Manager W. E. Knowles to come up with "concrete" plans and figures to renovate the old County Jail into a complete police station after an angry J. H. (Jimmy) Crapps shouted "if we don't utilize the facility let's give it back to the county."

Mayor Crapps, obviously angry over petty bickering between the commissioners over the jail, said "All I want to do is make it (the jail) into a decent police station which we don't have now."

Earlier in the day, Crapps told the Herald he hoped to have the job done before the next fiscal year at a cost under $100,000. However, City Manager W. E. Knowles presented the board with figures around the $16,000 mark.

Crapps said he was hoping the Florida State Bank would cooperate in granting an easement through their adjacent property by the old jail so the city could pave a street right through to Seminole Blvd. However, Crapps said, "so far not

Court Appoints Appraisers For 436 Property

Circuit Court Judge Volie Williams today appointed real estate men Howard Monteith and John Sault as court appraisers for the 436 condemnation proceedings.

Some 45 property owners are involved in the suit along SR 436.

Under preliminary plans a 20 foot addition would be put on the old county jail to be used as a lobby.

Crapps favored making a drive-in window at the present city jail but was beaten down by commissioners, led by Earl Higginbotham, who said a drive-in was just a "modern fad."

Higginbotham favored keeping the utility department where it was and even criticized the waste in city hall, asking that the wall next to the Civil Service room be knocked out.

"The civil service board doesn't need any special room. It's for the birds and they meet only once a month."

Crapps kept emphasizing that "what we do with the present jail can come later. All I want to do is utilize the county jail."

The board then asked Knowles to come up with cost estimates and plans.

C of C To Hold 'Ladies Day'

Women employees of members of the Seminole Chamber of Commerce will be guests at the Coffee Club's Washington Birthday celebration and "Ladies Day" at the chamber building Thursday at 10 a. m.

Each person attending will be presented with a miniature American flag and in addition to the coffee and doughnuts usually provided, there will be several door prizes.

A cordial invitation to attend is extended to all secretaries, receptionists, sales people, and office workers.

Hunting Protest Gets Few Takers

A group of property owners got little encouragement Monday night on their petition that dove and quail hunting be discontinued in one area south-east of Sanford to Lake Jessup.

The Seminole County Sportsman's Assn. discussed the petition of 278 residents of a four-mile area bounded by the south end of Sanford Ave. to Lake Jessup and from SR 46 back to the lake in the vicinity of the Naval Air Station.

The petition had been presented to the County Commission and the board asked the sportsman's group to give an opinion on the closing of the area for dove and quail shooting and, in effect, making it a bird sanctuary.

B. F. Kutz, a resident of Sipes Ave., spoke for the petitioners and said that the landowners have the most trouble with out-of-town hunters who have no regard for the owner's rights.

"We have had them shoot up our houses, shoot up our cars and put pellets into at least two people," Kutz said.

One woman was hit in the shoulder by two pellets from a hunter's shell and a girl was hit in the thigh, he said. Several cows also have died from wounds inflicted by the hunters, he pointed out.

"These men are not good hunters and we are asking protection of our rights against them. When they enter our area to hunt, they are violating the law," Kutz stressed, adding that the petitioners represent 90 percent of the residents of the area.

There were several association members and others present at the meeting who questioned Kutz on the motives of the petition and whether closing the area to bird hunting would be in the general interest.

Francis Meriwether, a landowner in that section, made the only definite suggestion about a possible solution.

Meriwether proposed that a law be passed in the county requiring that hunters using lands with the owners' permission carry a signed permit from the owner and that all other hunters be barred.

The problem could be solved by strict enforcement of existing trespass laws, Attorney G. A. Speer told the group. He said he felt that the county's sportsmen should let the county commission know how they feel on the subject.

Speer spoke after a motion was made that the association turn the petition back to the county commission without any recommendation.

The consensus of those present who spoke against closing the area to hunting was that hunters could be made to cooperate with landowners if flagrant violations of the law and safety were reported to the sheriff, with the identities of the violators furnished and warrants signed by the owners.

Sheriff J. L. Hobby said that the opening of the hunting season each year creates so many complaints in the area that at least one deputy is required full time to answer them.

He said that his department will "give all the help we can to everybody who will get license numbers or identify violators and sign a warrant. We can't do anything if the trespassers aren't identified," he said.

George Hughes, who said he was a property owner in the section, said he was against closing the lands to hunting.

"I don't want anybody else telling me what to do with my land, we have enough of that already," Hughes said.

The sportsman's association finally voted to let its board of directors study the matter later.

Russian People Wish Glenn Well

MOSCOW (UPI)—Soviet citizens joined Americans and people throughout the world today in wishing American astronaut John Glenn a safe return.

"He is a brave man. I sincerely hope he lands safely," said one Moscow office worker. The worker expressed what appeared to be the general feeling among his fellow citizens.

Although the Soviet press, radio and television carried no advance news of the flight, some Soviet citizens heard about the plans from Westerners.

The quarterly meeting of the Board of Directors will be held at 7:30 tonight in the First Federal Savings and Loan Caucus Room.

This will be a short business meeting, and all members are urged to make every effort to attend, said Richard R. Deas, president.

No Action On Water

City Commissioners listened for two hours to consulting engineers on the merits and needs of a water improvement program. After engineers made their appeal, the board thanked them but took no action on water or sewage needs for the city.

Dr. Jesse Diets of Clark, Daily and Diets, with local engineers Bill Laffler and Bill Hush, urged the board to "start now" on a $1,000,000 water program combining it with a $200,000 sewage treatment plant program. No action was taken on either request.

The special meeting was called by Mayor J. H. (Jimmy) Crapps for the purpose of discussing the placing of the sewage and water program under one bond issue and financing it over a 30-year period.

According to City Manager W. E. Knowles the program would add $1.94 to sewage bills in the city limits.

Dr. Diets urged the board to

Woman's Club Members Have A Day In Court

The Sanford Woman's Club was host Wednesday to a special meeting of the Woman's Clubs of the county. A covered dish luncheon was served at noon, followed by a program by Judge Vernon Mize.

Judge Mize spoke about the "after care bill" which was defeated last year in the legislature. The bill would provide a special parole officer for children who are released from a corrective institution.

The judge feels that due to the overworked schedule of the juvenile judge and his counselor they are unable to supervise children who come home to take their places in society after serving their sentences.

Following the talk Judge Mize took the group to a court hearing in the County Commissioners' Room at the Court House.

After a briefing on legal forms used by C. E. McCord, they witnessed some formal juvenile hearings.

The women were so favorably impressed with the program that they gave Judge Mize a standing vote of appreciation for arranging the interesting and informative program. Among things learned during the day was the fact that the judge may revoke a juvenile's driver license for any amount of time.

They also learned that out of 760 juvenile cases during 1961, 319 had official hearings and 71 children were sent to jail during the year.

Mrs. Douglas Stenstrom, Mrs. W. H. Steuper and Mrs. L. J. Hinehart were hostesses for the luncheon and Valentine decorations adorned the serving tables and the club house.

Self-Help Is Best

In considering our foreign aid program, we've often wished the U. S. could recruit a couple of hundred men like Seminole County agent Cecil Tucker to send abroad and take the under-privileged nations the know-how of modern agriculture.

Not that we want to get rid of Cecil Tucker. On the contrary, we'd prefer to keep him around for purely selfish reasons. But the idea of pumping money and materials into backward lands doesn't make sense unless the people there are willing to learn how to farm, mine their own resources, develop industries, and generally stand on their own feet.

The county agricultural agent system, so well illustrated by the career of Cecil Tucker in this area, has helped America become the world's most successful food producer.

Far more of this kind of technical help is needed in the manner of our own remarkable agricultural extension work guided by the land grant colleges (including the University of Florida and Florida State).

Some of these schools are helping out in foreign technical advice, we're told—but it is suggested by knowledgeable agriculturalists that a great deal more of it is needed. It could come with greater leadership on a national level. America might be able to win a friend or two with cash. How much more lasting, though, is a friendship built by real and lasting help?

Dr. Crane's Worry Clinic

Donna's case is very common, so sick it on your mind. For insanity is our greatest feeder of hospitals. It indicates a withdrawal from what seems a cruel, forbidding external reality. You parents and teachers can vacillate children against it by showing them how to adjust happily. Urge them to read this clinical column daily to show them how.

CASE L-444: Donna Z., aged 17, was a brilliant student.

"Dr. Crane," her faculty advisor began, "Donna used to make straight 'A' grades. She would have been crestfallen if she had even rated a 'B'.

"She was neat in her dress and unduly conscientious, we felt sure. She would have been valedictorian in June."

"For she even studied or played the piano during her spare time."

"But three months ago a change came over her. She began to grow careless in her dress. Then her grades dropped."

Reds Goof Too

(UPI) — Into New York seeking a brief respite from the chaos of Southeast Asia the other day came UPI correspondent Hubert Udick.

Udick picked up a thorough background knowledge of Communist tactics in Asia while covering the war in Korea and has added to it since in a roving assignment which takes him from Rangoon to Jakarta, from Singapore to Saigon and such news fronts as Laos and Cambodia.

With intentional irony he calls it the "cold cash war" in Southeast Asia.

The validity of his description becomes apparent when it is recalled that U. S. aid to Laos is approaching the half billion dollar mark, that it is around $2 billion in South Viet Nam and is more than $600 million in President Sukarno's Indonesia.

This is an area of head-on collision between Western-style free democracy and Soviet and Red Chinese-style communism.

It also is an area where so-called neutrals have been able to profit handsomely by an on-the-fence policy which demands the maximum in benefits from both.

Udick's attitude was a philosophical one in which he took note of the suspicion among some American taxpayers that their dollars don't always do the desired job of winning friends.

But, he says, the Russians are having troubles, too, and he cites several examples.

In Rangoon, a hotel of considerable size and expense was undertaken with Russian aid and built through the joint efforts of the Russians and Burmese. But its design was such that no experienced hotel man wanted to run it and as a

Hula Helps Keep 'Em Young

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Oren E. Long of Hawaii is at age 73, trim and vigorous and a living testimonial to the health-giving benefits of watching hula dancers.

"Perhaps you didn't know that hula dancers have a salubrious effect on their audiences. I doubt that Long did either until he became chairman of a Senate subcommittee on the problems of the aged."

In the course of his duties, Long conducted some hearings last fall in Honolulu. One of the witnesses was the Rev. Edwin Goodwin, who for 22 years has been a Baptist minister in the islands.

One of Long's aides has sent me a transcript of Goodwin's testimony along with a note explaining that it was somewhat overlooked in the press coverage of the hearings.

The aide regarded this as regrettable because he felt that the minister had made a noteworthy contribution. After reading his testimony, I could only agree.

Goodwin pointed out that "our government guarantees 'life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.'"

"So let's give some happiness to these aged people by providing entertainment programs that will boost them up and bolster them and make them feel better," he said.

He went on to comment that in his opinion "one of the greatest things that can do that is the hula dancing."

He added that Sen. Long himself was a good example of what watching the hula can accomplish.

Therefore, Goodwin proposed that the government sponsor nationwide tours by hula dancers so that old folks on the mainland would be able to share in the benefits.

Long thanked the minister for his testimony but did not necessarily endorse the plan. "I'm glad, Mr. Goodwin, that you said I 'observed' rather than 'participated,'" the senator remarked.

It seems to me that Goodwin has pointed the way to a significant advancement in the science of geriatrics. Offhand, I can't think of a finer way to spend my declining years than by watching grass-skirted girls do the Polynesian twist.

Although I don't yet qualify as a "senior citizen," I already have reached the age where a few hula dancers would brighten my outlook.

If they get to me in time, it could add years to my life.

Problem Must Be Faced

By Harold Thomas Hyman, M. D.

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

If a recital of unpleasant facts causes you to stick your head in the sand, ostrich-fashion, better skip this column. But if you are an intelligent teen-ager or a parent or a teacher of teen-agers, you might devote a few minutes to the following shocking statistics:

There are, in the United States, approximately 1,200,000 patients with syphilis in various stages, all in need of treatment.

Each year, approximately 1,000,000 fresh gonorrheal infections are known to occur. Undoubtedly, many more are unreported.

The rate of infection is rising rapidly in middle and upper income brackets. And this rising incidence is more apparent in teen-agers and, especially, in girls. Incidentally, what is being reported in America is also being reported in England, continental Europe, Asia and in the U.S.S.R.

Nearly one out of every five cases of infectious syphilis (primary and secondary stages) occurs in patients younger than 19 years of age. In general, the infections occur at an earlier age in girls. And finally, to conclude this "chamber of horrors" for the moment, there were more girls infected with both gonorrhea and syphilis at age 18 than at any other age.

What makes these revelations the more shocking is the fact that we have in our possession simple and safe drugs that can both prevent and cure these venereal infections.

Now I am not competent to discuss any but the medical aspects of this alarming problem. Nor can I enter into a discussion of the problem as a whole. But I would like to make the following special suggestions to parents and teachers of teen-agers, and especially to those responsible for the health and welfare of 18-year-old girls whose incidence of infection is highest at the age of graduation from high school:

By means of lectures with lantern slide demonstrations inform all high school students of the risks of promiscuous intercourse. And include in this course of instruction the facts about illegitimate pregnancies whose incidence rates have been rising in the same groups and in the same proportions.

Warn these youngsters that much of the "red-hot dope" they tell one another about venereal phylaxia and contraception is just not true. They cannot rely on phylaxia kits, douches and sulfa pills or bootlegged devices to keep them "out of trouble."

Emphasize to them that the risks they run far exceed the fleeting pleasures they may obtain. Particularly emphasize to girls that the road to the altar is not through promiscuity. Indeed, it is rather the contrary.

And stress the fact that the risks they run are at the expense of persons other than themselves. Members of the household. Their future spouses. Their children. And, in the case of infectious syphilis, contacts other than those made during intercourse. For, if the infectious sore is in the mouth, the disease may be spread by kissing or by use of common eating and drinking utensils.

Political Notebook

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—President Kennedy's Latin American Alliance for Progress will be a year old on March 13, but like any other baby it is just emerging from the crawl stage to try its own feet.

The United States made $6 million available to the Organization of American States last November to finance alliance planning. The idea is that this will be a one-shot expenditure to get acceptable plans drawn up by the 20 republics to the south within the next year or so.

The job of co-ordinating the planning has been turned over to Dr. Jorge Sol of El Salvador, who is also director of the OAS Department of Economic and Social Affairs. His Pan American Union staff has been expanded and occupies four floors of a new office building near the White House and International and U. S. lending and foreign aid agencies.

Principal business now is studying what the problems are: how much road building, school building, housing, sanitary engineering, industrial development, land, tax and public administration reform are needed.

Then comes the problem of how the needs can be met on country-by-country, South American continental and Caribbean area bases.

Task forces have already been set up for housing, agriculture and education planning. Other task forces for health, tax reform and public administration are still to come.

Planning officers from OAS and all the member nations met in Santiago, Chile, beginning Feb. 19 to set standards for all country planning. The hope is that acceptable plans for all the republics will be ready before the end of this year. There are to be short-range, intermediate and long-range plans for 1970 goals and beyond.

Emergency projects to meet immediate needs are not being held up until all plans are completed. Financing is already being advanced on acceptable projects if they fit into an over-all, national development program.

Technical assistance task forces will be sent to countries that can't do their own planning and which ask for help. Two such groups are already at work in Haiti and Uruguay.

Review of each country's plan to screen out the impractical and screwball ideas will be assigned to committees of experts chosen for this specific purpose. Two or three members will be drawn from a panel of nine "wise men" already appointed by OAS Secretary General Jose A. Mora. He will also appoint two or three other outside

Industrial development program, an increase of exports from $683 million to $975 million a year is called for by diversification of a coffee economy.

In the social field, plans call for construction of 22,000 additional schoolrooms, 25,000 low-cost housing units a year, water supply and sewerage for 403 communities. Outside financing required will be $163 million a year through 1964, declining to a per billion a year for 1968-70.

Senator Opposes Two Mergers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chairman Estes Kefauver of the Senate antitrust and monopoly subcommittee, has asked President Kennedy to block two proposed railroad and airline mergers until a national transportation policy has been worked out.

The Tennessee Democrat, it was learned Sunday, called on the President to set up a commission to explore the issues involved in mergers. In the meantime, federal regulatory agencies should postpone action on merger applications, he said.

Kefauver, in a letter to Kennedy, expressed apprehension over the proposed merger of the New York Central and Pennsylvania railroads and Eastern and American airlines.

He said consolidation of the nation's two largest railroads and the second and fourth-ranking airlines would create "huge monopolistic combinations of financial power."

Citrus Prices Show Decline

LAKELAND (UPI) — Concentrators paid less for citrus last week than any time since the last week in January, but prices for fresh Florida citrus held steady.

Prices of oranges for concentrators, Florida Citrus Mutual said, ranged last week from 42 to 42.5 cents per pound solids. The price, off three to five cents from the previous week, was the lowest since the week ending Jan. 27, when the price was 40-42 cents.

On the fresh market, however, valencias held steady at $1.50-4.75 and mid-season oranges at $4.25-4.50 per box. FOB Florida packing house.

Easter Lily Ball Chairman Set

Appointment of Mrs. Laymon Goodman as chairman of the 1962 Easter Seal and Lily Ball was announced at the last meeting of the Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

Mrs. Goodman will lead the campaign for the cause of crippled children during the Easter Seal appeal March 15th through Easter Sunday, April 22. In accepting the Easter Seal chairmanship, Mrs. Goodman said,

"To be able to participate in so inspiring and at the same time, so practical a cause as crippled children is irresistible. I feel very privileged indeed to head the Easter Seal campaign. This is a great American voluntary organization that has been doing a tremendous job for 41 years in the United States and to have a part in continuing its services and perhaps expanding them in Seminole County is a challenge I welcome.

"I invite the volunteer cooperation of everyone who has ever seen or known a crippled child," Mrs. Goodman said. "We will need that help if we are to meet our obligation to help our helpless children."

Mrs. Goodman has been a member of the Seminole County Society for Crippled Children and Adults for three years.

The Easter Seal Campaign will be conducted by nearly 1,400 Easter Seal state and local affiliates of the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults throughout the United States.

Each year Easter Seals provide rehabilitation care to a quarter million crippled children and adults regardless of cause of crippling, race, religion, national background or economic status.

Church Youths Have Banquet In Chuluota

By Carol Jepson
Excitement and fun filled the home of Mr. and Mrs. LeVoy Lane recently as 16 young people from the Chuluota First Baptist Church gathered for games and fellowship at their "Sweetheart Banquet."

Unique menu for the affair consisted of: Lovebird (ham), Love's Nest (potatoes), Love Charms (green beans), Light Hearts (apple sauce), Honey-moon Salad (tossed salad), Honey Buns (rolls), Love Pats (butter), Cupid's Brew (coffee or iced tea) and Sweet Dreams (cake).

The Valentine theme was carried out with red and white streamers dangling from the ceiling and tables were adorned with heart-shaped place cards and other appropriate decorations.

The main event of the evening was the crowning of the Sweetheart queen, Miss Diana George, who then presided over the group for the remainder of the program.

Nova Challenges Stressed At Sorority Meet

The problems and challenges of the next ten years, in relation to the impact of the Nova project in Seminole County were projected to a group of teacher-members of Alpha Delta Kappa sorority, by Attorney Douglas Stenstrom, Saturday, at their Mayfair luncheon.

Stenstrom explained that he felt that many problems that must be faced can be solved if the people in the area think sensibly and rationally and forget sectionalism, for the good of the whole county.

He urged the teachers to try to know both sides of the problems and keep themselves well-informed.

The enormous potential of the project was illustrated by the statement that 40 billion dollars and 80,000 acres of land would be needed by the Nova complex.

The invocation preceding the luncheon was given by Mrs. Ruby Booth, chaplain, and the devotional by Mrs. Marion Nichols concerned the responsibility of teachers to constantly seek Divine guidance as they lead students to their educational goals.

Miss Ollie Reese Whittle, president of the organization, presided at the meeting and introduced the speaker. Door prizes were awarded to Mrs. Teresa Holick, Mrs. Joyce Roberts and Mrs. Marion Nichols.

Members presented were Mrs. Polly Daniels, Mrs. Mildred Lind, Mrs. Hazel Flynn, Mrs. Helen Richie, Mrs. Roberta Richards, Mrs. Belle Humphrey, Mrs. Mary Grace Kosky, Mrs. Kate Nash, Mrs. Esther Williams, Mrs. Mary Rogers, Mrs. Martha Webster, Mrs. Marie Stumpf, and Mrs. Mary Groome. Heard the word? We were third in sales in '61. Third!
It's nice to be loved.
Like we've said: "When people like a car they show it." All you have to do is put together a car that's sharper looking, smoother running and a bigger value. That's why Pontiac and Tempest stormed into third place. Why don't you see your Pontiac dealer (a very happy man these days) and go with a winner?
