BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

BUILDING OR DESTROYING—Every wise woman buildeth her house; but the foolish plucketh it down with her hands.—Prov. 14:1

PRAYER—Give us, O God, women, wise in faith and fortitude in purity and patience.

The trials are ended but the memory lingers on—and will for about 46 years.

Does anybody really care whether the Chinese Nationalist Army reaches Peking?

Orlando went wild over Mrs. Owen, and Orlando is getting pretty close to Joe Sear's home town.

Sanford's citizens will have to start paying their way into the ring again now that the big free show at the court house has ended.

Today the Celery Feeds play in Orlando, but tomorrow they'll be back in Sanford to appear before a big Saturday afternoon crowd.

The South yesterday paid fitting tribute to the memory of her dead soldiers in hundreds of cemeteries in more than half a dozen states.

Seminole County's host of political aspirants will descend on Altamonte Springs Monday night for the third meeting of this primary season.

An Iowa carpenter has four sets of twins. Just trying to build a little family—Jacksonville Journal. There's going to be quite an upkeep on his building.

The crew of the Bremen will have the sad duty of paying homage at the funeral of Floyd Bennett, who gave up his life flying to their relief.

There are only two days left to register—Saturday and Monday. If you want to vote in this primary, avoid the rush and put your name in the book tomorrow.

One of the new political organs which have found their way to our exchange table is "T N T—The Naked Truth," published in Miami by a Catts' following and strangely enough we don't believe a word of it.

One Sanford business man says some of his customers the other night became confused on account of the darkness of the streets and finally ended up in Lake Mary. Crier up "tette," there's a full moon on the way.

The statute of limitations is a good defense for a banker. It bars anything he may have done two years or more before the finding of an indictment. That keeps a lot of things from being used against him.

More than 1,000 Sanford baseball enthusiasts paid good money to see the opening game of the season here yesterday. The new team lost, but with that kind of grand stand support it should begin winning soon.

A good many people are wondering how Miami is going to take care of those thousands of Shriners meeting there Monday. They needn't worry. Miami won't have any trouble finding them places to eat and sleep or entertaining them.

Charged by Carson with receiving $11,000 in 1924 from a man who owns a gambling club in Palm Beach, Catts says it was "only a loan." There are not many other Baptist preachers whose credit is so good as the Reverend Catts'—Jacksonville Journal.

"I hereby invite you to join me in Gainesville and in Tallahassee, in another inspection of the records with the understanding that we will publish jointly the results of our findings as revealed by the records on the several items which are the subject of controversy."

Carson's invitation to Hathaway, Carlton is willing to prove his statements by Hathaway's own records. What could be fairer?—Ocala Star. Accept Dr. Hathaway's word for it without going to the records.

Carson is fast closing up on Carlton for third place. While Carlton has been putting Catts on the slide, Hathaway is getting in some good licks at Carlton, and its telling. Catts will undoubtedly come back at Carson late in the campaign for the purpose of discrediting him—and we can imagine that he will try to link Carson up with the Havana race track people. Catts is desperate and he will likely undertake any sort of method to destroy Jim Carson. It won't work.

Carleton must find something else besides attacking Hathaway to catch the voters with. He is now in a poor way to do that, because he

These Ocean Flights

With other celebration for across-the-Atlantic flyers in the offing, it is interesting to note this comment on the English attitude toward ocean flights in the Baltimore Sun, a paper noted for its common sense. The question of what the Bremen's crew accomplished in their so nearly fatal hop from Ireland to the coast of Labrador has been raised by many American newspapers. Here, in the Sun's opinion, is the stand the British take:

"In England the newspapers are trying to bring flying back to earth. Aviators are urged temporarily to abandon plans for trans-Atlantic flights and to concentrate on developing better and safer planes. It is pointed out by some that the Bremen's flight did not 'advance the cause of scientific aviation.' It is emphasized that the trip got nowhere except to a cold coast of Labrador. It is said once more that unnecessary risk to airmen's lives is no help to the future of accelerated travel.

"This criticism and this advice will seem to many to be in the best British tradition of common sense and the best modern tradition of careful open-mindedness. How different from the outcry which once met every new advance in science and each new mechanical exploit; assuring us that it would be an affront to Heaven; that like Babel's tower it exemplified the fatal arrogance of man; that it was a danger to life's beauty and the labors of forefathers.

"The English critics are concerned with none of these matters. Their interest is simply in the limitations of present-day planes, not in man's nature; in the future of flying on this globe, not in another world. The British papers are not eager to prevent ocean flights but to insure them. And they take the quite sensible view that so far trans-Atlantic aviation has proved only that more study and building are needed rather than more adventures and combats with chance.

"Often common sense is a laggard, hanging chains about progress; sometimes it has a way of appearing out of place. But in this instance it is on the side of progress and speed. Its own entrance marks the world's progress since the invention of the steamboat and steam train. Not only are the elation and hurrahs and 'new opening vistas' which accompany a great feat greater than ever. Even the cautious reaction and the wise warnings which follow them are better."

It really seems these Britishers live up to their reputation for keeping their heads. The ocean flights have been wonderful. They have stirred the world to a new contemplation of aviation. But beyond that what? The planes of this Spring seem not one whit better than the ship in which Lindbergh flew from New York to Paris. They'll need improving before aviation advances just as the automobile needed improving to make it the absolute necessity that it is today.

Please Move Over

The menaces of automobile traffic to the lives and limbs of motorists and pedestrians are forever being made the subjects of pronouncements by police chiefs, safety councils and like officers and organizations. One recommends this and another that. In the big cities, the problem is keeping the traffic moving, and more motorists are called down for going too slow than too fast. In some small towns, and a few of them are in Florida, ridiculous ordinances are passed and sensible motorists are made to pay for violations of silly traffic codes.

There are however a few more or less universal rules of the road which have grown up with the automobile from its infancy. One of these is the usually unwritten law that a motorist wishing to pass a car ahead of him should blow his horn and that the driver ahead should pull over to the right and let the man behind pass. Of course there are plenty of violators. Some will not blow their horns to warn the man ahead they wish to pass, and some of the men ahead won't pull over and give the car behind, room to get by. Chief Sweat, of Jacksonville, has this to say about the law as he sees it:

"All drivers must blow their horns when approaching another car from the rear if they wish to pass the car in front, and all drivers must pull to the right when a horn is sounded from the rear, regardless of the speed their automobiles are making. They may be traveling 45 miles an hour, but the car in the rear may be carrying a doctor on an emergency call, it may be a road patrolman or some other emergency may exist. Always pull to the right."

THE WAY IT LOOKS

OKEECHOBEE NEWS

Here's the gubernatorial situation today. Hathaway leads with Catts second, except Hathaway has gained the last 15 days and Catts has lost more ground than any candidate in the race. His losses may be attributed to Jim Carson, the American Legion, the Ku Klux Klan and the falling away from him of thousands of church people. Hathaway is gaining because people are beginning to believe that Carlton and Catts' attacks on him are unfounded and are merely mudslinging.

Mrs. Ralph Wight Is Hostess At Luncheon

Of much interest and pleasure was the bridge luncheon given Wednesday morning by Mrs. Ralph Wight, when she was hostess for the Sisters Bridge Club at her home in Rose Court.

Pink roses and other seasonable cut flowers were lavishly used in decorating the rooms where the tables had been placed for play. The morning hours were quickly spent with games of progressive auction bridge and when scores had been collected it was found that highest score had been made by Mrs. Oldham who was given a dainty work basket.

When the bridge accessories had been removed and tables laid with embroidered covers, the hostess served a tasty three course luncheon. Covers were laid for Mrs. M. S. Wiggins, Mrs. Braxton L. Perkins, Mrs. La Verne Hurt, Mrs. Percy A. Mero, Mrs. Floyd Palmer, Mrs. A. W. Epps, Mrs. Oldham and Mrs. Elton Moughton.

Mrs. George D. Bishop Has Luncheon Party

Of the many social affairs of the week, one of especial beauty and enjoyment was the luncheon and bridge party given Wednesday by Mrs. George D. Bishop at her attractive home on Magnolia Avenue. The guests were the members of the Fortnightly Duplicate Bridge Club.

Pink and lavender was the color note accentuated for this occasion and was most effectively carried out with an abundance of Gladioli, snap dragons and ageratum. The daintily appointed luncheon tables were spread with hand made covers and graced with crystal baskets filled with pink verbena and corn flowers. At one o'clock a tempting three course luncheon was served.

Games of Duplicate Bridge caused the afternoon hours to pass all too soon. The bridge pencils and score pads were done in pink and lavender and when scores had been added the prizes for highest scores, glazed chintz card table covers, were awarded Mrs. Harry B. Lewis and Mrs. F. E. Roumillat.

Covers were laid for Mrs. Harry B. Lewis, Mrs. F. E. Roumillat, Mrs. David L. Thrasher, Mrs. Frank Miller, Mrs. W. J. Thigpen, Mrs. W. Theodore Langley, Mrs. Edna Hope of Dunedin and Mrs. George S. Witmer.

MRS. VAUGHAN IS HOSTESS

Mrs. Alexander Vaughan was the gracious hostess Thursday afternoon when she entertained the members of the Sisters Bridge Club most pleasantly at her home on Park Avenue.

A colorful assortment of Spring flowers, with the predominating colors of pink and lavender, was used in decorating the rooms where the games were played. Of exceptional interest were the bridge games and when the fifth progression had been concluded it was found that the high score prize, a deck of bridge cards, had been won by Mrs. Howard Long.

Late in the afternoon Mrs. Vaughan served her guests with delicious Bavarian cream and sponge cake as refreshments. The players included Mrs. Howard Long, Mrs. John Bender, Mrs. John Meisch, Mrs. Harry Heeren, Mrs. Endor Curlett, Mrs. Osborne Herndon, Mrs. George Davis Hart, and Mrs. E. D. Ball.

Church Society Gives Evening Bridge Party

The subscription bridge party given Wednesday evening by the Rosary Society of All Souls Church at the Parish Hall on Oak Avenue, proved a most decided success.

An abundance of Spring flowers including La France roses were arranged about the rooms by Mrs. Frank Meisch and her committee. The tables were in charge of Mrs. F. E. Roumillat, who also collected scores and awarded prizes. When the usual number of progressions had been played, the prize for highest score a linen dresser scarf went to Mrs. Peter Paul, while Andrew B. Mahoney, who scored the most points among the men, received a silk scarf. Miss Ellen Hoy was given a vanity powder puff for consolation prize, and Paul Pezold won the low score prize, it being a pair of silk socks.

Refreshments of chicken salad sandwiches, surprise salad and coffee were served by Mrs. Frank Peters assisted by Mrs. Noone and Mrs. A. E. Mallett.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends for their assistance during the illness of W. S. Robbins, for their beautiful floral offerings and for their kindness to us in our sorrow. Mrs. W. S. Robbins, Mrs. A. H. Webb.

Mrs. Newman Honors Evening Bridge Club

Quantities of exquisite pink Radiance roses and gladioli lent their beauty and fragrance in decorating the lovely home of Mrs. Robert A. Newman, Thursday evening when she entertained the members of the Evening Bridge Club. The color scheme of pink, white and green was effectively carried out in every detail.

The evening hours were quickly spent with games of progressive auction bridge and when scores had been collected it was found that Mrs. Samuel Puleston had scored the most honors and points and was given a porch floor lamp. The men's top score prize, silk-socks and tie to match went to F. E. Roumillat.

At a late hour the bridge tables were cleared and spread with embroidered covers and refreshments consisting of deviled crabs, Waldorf Salad in apple baskets, pickles, saltines, potato chips, and hot chocolate were served by the hostess.

Suprise Party Given Mr. and Mrs. Chistian

A very unexpected yet most delightful surprise party was given Mr. and Mrs. A. Christian, Wednesday at the home of the latter's sister Mrs. E. Vidal at Lake Monroe. Mr. and Mrs. Christian were married at Chicago, Ill., in the year 1878 and have spent their winters in Florida since 1917. This date marked their fiftieth or golden wedding anniversary.

The Merry Matrons Club served a six course dinner, the table decorations being carried out in gold. Mrs. E. Kaeserman baked a mammoth golden wedding cake, which graced the center of the table. The matrons spent a very pleasant afternoon. Mrs. Christian sang a number of solos, and at four o'clock a lunch was served after which all the guests expressed their wishes to the honor guests on the Golden Wedding Day.

Those attending were, Mr. and Mrs. Barellit, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Holly, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Holly, Mr. and Mrs. John Holly, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Gut, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Kaeserman, Mr. and Mrs. R. Losing and sons, Mr. and Mrs. A.

Mrs. George Witmer Entertains At Home

The members of the Every Week Bridge Club were most delightfully entertained Thursday afternoon as the guests of Mrs. George S. Witmer at her cozy home in Loch Arbor.

A variety of Spring flowers combined with ferns were used most effectively in decorating the rooms where the guests assembled for the games. When scores had been compared after the usual number of progressions had been played, it was found that Mrs. W. J. Thigpen had scored highest among the club members and was awarded a double deck of bridge cards. Mrs. Frank J. Gonzalez made top score among the guests, receiving a crystal lemon squeezer and measuring cup.

Dainty refreshments were served at the conclusion of the games by the hostess. Enjoying this affair were Mrs. Frank J. Gonzalez, Mrs. Fred T. Williams, Mrs. J. C. Gibbs, Mrs. Lindberg, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Price, Mrs. L. Stothoff, Mr. and Mrs. H. Witte, Mr. and Mrs. F. Wolfer, Mrs. E. Lake, Mrs. E. Vidal and Mr. and Mrs. A. Christian.

THE YOWELL CO.

We are so proud of the good quality of our bread, that we 90 members of "Quality" Bakers of America, serving the people in 90 sections of the United States, do not want the taste of our bread spoiled by having it spread with poor butter.

Therefore, we urge everybody liking our quality bread (there are millions that do like it) to insist on their grocers serving them with Quality Butter.

You see, we are not selfish. Good Butter men will appreciate, we are sure, this little boost that we are giving their product, but we hope at the same time that all of them will be as conscientious and as earnest about serving grocers with Quality Butter as we are in serving them with Quality Bread.

And are we not putting a practical thought in your mind to be always sure to use good butter with good bread?

We believe that every grocer, consistently selling Good BREAD and GOOD BUTTER is well on his way toward establishing a fine reputation in his community as a reliable business man, always looking after the best interests of the public.

Nation's Commerce Department Indicates That Industry Of Central Power Has Shown Little Progression

BERLIN, April 26. Despite the fact that satisfactory business conditions prevailed in Germany during 1927, the balance sheets of the industry of that country, just available, the dividend levels apparently are a little higher than during the preceding year, according to reports to the Commerce Department at Washington by Commercial Attache FaFyette W. Allport at Berlin.

"In numerous instances the relatively high activity of the year was not affected in a corresponding increase in net profits," Allport said.

"This dividend situation was considered more unusual in view of the fact that during 1926 the first six months were marked by severe business depression, according to Allport.

"The increase in overhead costs is an outstanding feature of many of the industrial balance sheets," Allport continued. "Wages have risen more rapidly than prices. The activity of 1927 is referred to as a 'quantity boom'—suggestive of the 'prosperity without profits' that has been said to have characterized American industry during the same period."

BURDENSOME TAXES
Among the other items that have consumed profits during the past year are mentioned in the increased burden of taxation, shorter life of machinery and equipment resulting from the frequency of technical improvements, and the replenishment of stocks. In the textile and several other industries, however, the 1927 dividends are substantially above those of 1926—particularly where the labor cost is small in proportion to the "end price" of the product, according to Allport.

In the case of leading commercial banks the absence of a dividend increase was marked. The larger turnover has led to an increase in income from fees and charges, but this has been offset by lower interest returns, and the absence of customary profits from stock exchange operations, owing to the steady decline in stock trading following the May panic.

"The greatest inroads in profits have come from increased operating expenses, as revealed by the reports of the banks," Allport said. "The position of mortgage banks is somewhat better. The first and last quarters of the year brought mortgage bond sales to a higher level than for sometime previous. Consequently an increase in dividends is noted in some cases."

"For the shipping companies 1927 was unusually favorable and was reflected in their dividend payment attributable to the ultraconservative dividend policy of these companies in 1926."

SHIPPING DIVIDENDS
The Hamburg-American Line and Norddeutscher Lloyd paid eighty percent, as compared to six percent in 1926. The Hansa Dampf increased from six to ten percent while other companies had similar or higher dividends in 1927.

"It would be unfair to assume that the absence of dividend increases in the basic industries indicates that the German program 'rationalism' has been a failure, however," Allport said. "In many cases the absence of higher dividends is traceable to extra cost of reorganization and consolidation."
