Teachers, School Officials Blast Merit Pay

By Richard Truett
Herald Staff Writer

Sixty nine teachers from Seminole county have received word they'll get $3,000 in "Merit Pay." But, the recipients and school principals and administrators are unhappy with the system that is giving it to them.

Teachers say the way they were evaluated is unfair because too many good teachers didn't win.

Principals say some teachers they evaluated as excellent were rejected for the pay.

Administrators say that the system discourages teachers from applying for the pay and hurts morale.

Here is how the system works: to qualify for the award, teachers who have at least four years of experience fill out several forms for the Department of Education. A test is then given in the teacher's area of specialization. But tests are not available in all teaching areas. For those areas without tests, such as physical education, the teacher must have a master's degree. Those teachers who pass the test or have a master's degree can request an evaluation date during which the principal comes into the classroom and observes the teacher for one class period. The principal checks off certain items on a form evaluation and mails it to the D.O.E. for review and selection.

"They look for positive words, teaching style, and teaching method," said Mabel Minshall, a math teacher at Brantley who won the award. "Some of the best teachers did not get it."

"I think the evaluation was way off base," said David Tullis, a physical education teacher at Lake Brantley High School. He said the principals should have gotten the money to disburse to the teachers who deserved it.

"The principal is a professional who knows who the teachers who deserve the award are," Tullis said.

"The thing was they would give you an evaluation and in their mind they thought it was a good one," Tullis said.

Karen Coleman, a spokesman for the Seminole County School Board, said she had heard many complaints that the classroom evaluations were very unfair.

Mrs. Coleman explained that there is an item on the evaluation form that measures how many

Holiday Ends With Fire, 1 Traffic Death

A Sanford family was homeless today, turned out by a fire that heavily damaged their house and consumed a car. Arson is suspected.

Elsewhere in Seminole County, the July Fourth weekend ended with one traffic death reported during the four-day holiday period which saw 33 fatalities statewide.

Sanford firefighters were called to the Academy Manor subdivision at 8:44 p.m. Sunday to find flames rising through the roof of a house at 162 Bethune Circle, according to Assistant Sanford Fire Chief Ron Neel. The blaze, which at one point totally engulfed the structure, apparently started on the side of the home in a carport and may have been deliberately set, according to Neel who said a state fire marshal was to begin an investigation of the incident today. The $31,030 structure as well as a Renault in the carport were destroyed.

According to firefighters, the flames spread from the east end of the home through the attic, leaving gutted, charred remains. Unburned portions of the house were damaged by smoke and water.

The owner, Vivian McMeal, was home at the time with her family and escaped without injury. No injuries were reported among firefighters.

Looking east towards Osteen from downtown Sanford just before 10 p.m. Sunday, a natural fireworks display was visible as thunderstorms passed through the area. Sunday evening wind and lightning damage resulted in scattered power outages in Sanford, Geneva, Chuluota, Osteen and Deltona for Florida Power & Light Company's Sanford District. All but one customer, who was on the end of a line in Chuluota, had power restored by this morning and crews were still working there. A FP&L spokesman said 30-40 Sanford customers were without power Sunday night for four hours because of a broken cross arm at 1003 W. Sixth St., Sanford, which occurred at 6 p.m. Florida Power reported minor scattered outages.

Sellers Offers 5-Year Plan For Road Work

The Seminole County Commission has not yet formally approved the levy of an additional 2 cents per gallon gas tax for roads, but county Director of Public Works Larry Sellers was to tell the board in workshop today what he thinks the money, along with other revenues, should be spent on.

In an report issued before the meeting, he states that not only is money needed from the 2-cents tax for road construction, but also from fixed "voluntary impact fees" from developers.

The projects he is listing for improvement over the next five years from those funds are:

- Lake Mary Boulevard extension, two miles, from U.S. Highway 17-92 to County Road 427, right-of-way acquisition, new construction of a two-lane rural road, $2.7 million.

- Lake Mary Boulevard, six miles, from Markham Woods Road to U.S. Highway 17-92, engineering design, right-of-way acquisition, widening to four lanes, $17.7 million.

David Craig, 17, shows children's books and tapes to Sanford pediatrician Marilisa Pastis Sunday. Realizing nothing is more boring for a young child than being stuck in a hospital, David, with help from his scouting colleagues in Troop 834, produced for his Eagle Scout project, a set of eight sound tapes with about six stories read aloud and recorded on each. He presented the tapes, 40 accompanying books and a small tape player to Central Florida Regional Hospital for use in its pediatric ward. The project took about 50 hours to complete, he said. David is the son of Judith and Robert Craig of Sanford.

High Speed French Train Hits Truck Stuck On Tracks

PARIS, France (UPI) — A Paris-bound express train smashed into a truck trying to beat it through a crossing in northern France today, killing 12 people and injuring 46 others, officials said.

The train was speeding to the capital from the English Channel port of Le Havre at about 80 mph when it slammed into a semi-trailer truck at about 9:15 a.m.

A local government official provisionally listed 12 people killed in the collision about 12 miles south of Rouen. Another 46 people were injured, 10 of them seriously, he said.

The crash threw the truck about 300 yards, killing the driver, and sent five coaches hurtling off the tracks in a tangled mass.

One of the railway cars rebounded off three houses lining the track, killing one inhabitant, a television newscast said.

Witnesses said the truck became trapped between automatic barriers guarding the track after its driver disregarded warning lights and tried to cross the rail line ahead of the train.

"He tried to back up and began sounding his horn but he just didn't make it," said a local resident who had stopped his car at the crossing.

Two of the injured were townspeople who had been standing by the tracks when the crash occurred.

"First we heard a terrible noise, then things started flying around the car and there was white dust everywhere," said one unidentified passenger. "Then all you heard was kids crying."

About 150 firemen rushed to the scene from surrounding towns to help pull the dead and injured from the wreckage.

Reue Bouveau, assistant mayor of the village of Saint-Pierre-du-Vauvray, said the injured were treated in a large tent that had been used on the weekend for a country fair. Ambulances and a fleet of four helicopters ferried the seriously injured to hospitals in nearby cities.

Study: Prison Time Served Dropping

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The amount of time convicts spent in prison for all sorts of crimes dropped to a historic low in 1982, culminating a trend started nearly 60 years ago, the government says.

The study by the Bureau of Justice Statistics, released Sunday, also said about half the murderers released from state prisons that year had served less than six years, while roughly half of released rapists spent three years or less behind bars.

The study also reported:

- Nearly 60 percent of those under life sentence released from state prisons in 1982 had spent seven years or less in jail; nearly a quarter served three years or less.

- More than half of state prisoners released from manslaughter sentences had served less than 2.3 years.

- About half of released robbers served two years or less.

- More than half of the burglars freed that year had been incarcerated less than 1.2 years.

- Median prison time for those released in 1982 was 13 months for auto theft and 11 months for drug offenses, forgery, fraud and embezzlement.

The report, "Prison Admissions and Releases 1982," was based on statistics from 29 states and the District of Columbia representing about 60 percent of nationwide prison admissions and releases.

Steven Schlegler, head of the bureau, said, "Time served in prison has been dropping during the past half century."

"The median (prison time) was 19 months in 1926, and the 16-month median for all offenses in 1982 was an historic low, even though a higher proportion of prison inmates are now serving sentences for violent crimes."

While about half of the convicted rapists released from prison had served 36 months or less, the report said the median sentence for rape was 10 years.

The median is the point at which there are as many above as below.

For murder, the median sentence was more than 60 years — a figure skewed by the fact 49.2 percent of convicted murderers are sentenced to life — but time served was less than six years for about half those released.

The report said that 52.8 percent of those admitted to state prisons in 1982 were whites, and 46.3 percent were blacks.

Burglary and robbery were the two most prevalent crimes.

Of those released, whites had served a median of 15 months for all offenses, while blacks had been jailed for a median of 18 months — a difference attributed to the fact a larger share of blacks were sentenced for more serious crimes.

'Wolfman' Elusive

PANAMA CITY, Panama (UPI) — A hairy "wolfman" who howls after dark and frightens those caught on the street after sundown has prompted citizens in the village of Penonome to try to hunt down the creature.

Actually "a normal human being," the wolfman made his debut last week in the rural village 94 miles southwest of Panama City, according to the government newspaper, Critica.

Suspect In Sex-Torture Slayings Nabbed For Shoplifting

United Press International

Charles Ng, a suspect in as many as 25 sex-torture slayings in California who vowed not to be taken alive, was under a suicide watch today as he awaited a court appearance for shoplifting.

Ng, 23, has been held in the Calgary Remand Center since his capture Saturday in a department store. He faces charges of attempted murder, possession of a firearm and theft under $200 stemming from his arrest in Canada.

The arrest ended a monthlong international manhunt for Ng, wanted in the gruesome slayings of as many as 25 people at a mountain hideaway near Wisleyville, Calif., about 125 miles northeast of San Francisco.

Calgary police would not comment on possible extradition. Neither was it clear whether Ng would stand trial on the Canadian charges.

Canada has no death penalty, and Canadian judges in the past have been reluctant to extradite people who could face the death penalty in other countries.

Watermelons To Be Destroyed

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — California officials have decided that millions of watermelons already distributed to retail outlets should be destroyed, a spokeswoman for the state Department of Food and Agriculture said.

Watermelons tinged with Aldicarb, a banned pesticide, are blamed for a wave of illnesses in the western United States and Canada.

No formal order for the melons' destruction has been issued, but agricultural officials are working with the state Department of Health Services on preparing one, said Department of Food and Agriculture spokeswoman Janet Wessell.

Watermelons tainted with Aldicarb are blamed for 100 or more illnesses in California, Oregon, Washington state and British Columbia. None was believed to be life-threatening.

Wessell estimated the state watermelon crop to number around 30 million. About one-third of it, or 10 million melons, are believed to be in the retail food chain or in the hands of consumers.

Inspection of the remainder of the watermelon crop is being tightened so that it can be marketed, Wessell said.

Will The Best 'Man' Win?

NEW LONDON, Conn. (UPI) — Bridgette Pot says a slanderous campaign by her opponents probably will keep her from becoming the first transsexual commander of an American Legion Post.

"It's a slander-type situation as much as if I were black or Chinese or whatever," Pot said Sunday on the eve of tonight's balloting at Post No. 9.

Post Commander Joseph Ottaviano, 65, who is running for re-election against Pot, said the Legion "is just not ready" for a leader who has undergone a sex-change operation.

"If we had a transsexual commander it may just ruin the image people have of the American Legion," Ottaviano said. "I often wonder why she didn't join the (women's) auxiliary."

Pot, 50, a decorated Air Force pilot during the Korean War, underwent a sex-change operation in Mexico 12 years ago and married a Marine Corps sergeant. Her husband was killed in Vietnam.

Ex-Aide To Haig May Reveal Secrets In Embezzlement Trial

WEST PALM BEACH (UPI) — A former Alexander Haig aide accused of embezzlement says the defense in his trial, which starts today, includes divulging of national secrets, and government officials are worried.

Ex-Maj. Gen. Richard B. Collins, 55, and his Miami lawyers say they will release information about secret U.S. cash used to bankroll covert CIA operations in Southeast Asia and elsewhere.

Government officials call the plan "graymail," an attempt to prevent prosecution by threatening to disclose the secrets.

A military aide to Haig when Haig was supreme commander of NATO forces in Europe, Collins was director of plans and policies and supervised war planning for all U.S. military services.

He was once assigned to manage spy money in Europe. A federal grand jury returned a six-count indictment in January 1983, charging him with going to Geneva in 1977 and removing $445,000 from a Swiss bank account and depositing the money into an account under his own name.

The decorated ex-fighter pilot, who retired to Fort Lauderdale in 1981, says he moved the money legitimately and with the approval of superiors.

Cypress Wetlands A Battleground

JASPER (UPI) — A chemical company wants to mine phosphate on 14 square miles of wetlands near the Suwannee River, and while supporters say the plan means jobs and money, detractors say it will hurt the environment.

Occidental has been mining phosphate in the area for the last 20 years, but now wants to expand operations. Supporters say that the company generates $50 million a year in wages for 2,000 people, and helps support schools and other services through its tax dollars.

Environmentalists, however, say the dredging operation will alter the course of the Suwannee and doubt the cypress wetlands can ever be reclaimed to their natural state.

Largest Turnover Since Vietnam War Ended

26 U.S. MIAs Coming Home

HONG KONG (UPI) — Vietnam has agreed to return the remains of 26 American servicemen — the largest such turnover since the Vietnam War ended 10 years ago, U.S. officials say.

The officials, traveling with Secretary of State George Shultz on a 13-day tour of Asia and the Pacific, also said Sunday that Vietnam agreed to provide information on six other servicemen declared missing in action during the war.

Their comments came before Shultz left Hong Kong for Bangkok, Thailand where he is expected to sign over $3 million in U.S. aid for Thai border villages affected by fighting between Cambodian guerrillas and Vietnamese troops.

The State Department welcomed Vietnam's decision to return the bodies, which resulted from four days of meetings in Hanoi last week between the Vietnamese government and a U.S. military team.

"We look forward to this turnover, which would be the largest since the end of the war and in line with pledges made by (Vietnamese) Foreign Minister (Nguyen Co) Thach in high-level negotiations on this issue since 1982," the State Department said in a statement.

A high-ranking U.S. government official said in Hong Kong Sunday that the remains of the 26 servicemen will be returned home within six to eight weeks.

The United States has the names of the servicemen, but their identities will be made public only after the remains are returned, the identities are confirmed and their relatives are notified, the official said.

He said greater cooperation from Vietnam will be needed if the MIA issue is to be resolved within the two-year timetable set by both countries, and he did not rule out sending U.S. troops to Vietnam to assist in exhumations.

Since the end of the war in 1975, the remains of 116 servicemen listed as missing in action have been returned to the United States. But 2,464 others are still listed as missing in action in Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos, and Shultz is expected to press for information about them during his Asian trip.

The highlight of Shultz's trip will be a meeting Wednesday with the foreign ministers of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations, which groups Thailand, Malaysia, Singapore, the Philippines, Indonesia and Brunei.

Much of the focus at the ASEAN meeting in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia will be efforts by the group to resolve the six-year Vietnamese occupation of Cambodia.

During his stay in Thailand, Shultz is scheduled to visit the volatile Thai-Cambodian border Tuesday, becoming the highest ranking U.S. official to tour the area.

Shultz also will discuss the Australia-New Zealand-U.S. alliance, which has been shaken by New Zealand's refusal to allow U.S. nuclear warships into its ports.

Policeman Shoots And Kills Woman Armed With Toy Gun

MIAMI (UPI) — A 28-year-old mother who one acquaintance says "was not well in the head" was shot dead by a Miami policeman when she pointed a gun at him that turned out to be a toy replica of a .38 revolver.

"It's a very realistic-looking toy," said police spokesman Mike Stewart. "She pointed the gun, and that's when he pulled his service revolver and shot her."

Maria C. Ocana was waving the gun near an outdoor cafe and pointed the weapon straight at officer David Herring, 23, one witness said. When she disobeyed warnings by police officers to drop the gun, Herring fired.

After Herring shot Ocana, "he just collapsed on the hood of a car," said a witness, Marie Alvarez.

"I felt so sorry for him," she added.

Stewart said police were called to the corner of Northwest 12th Avenue and 29th Street Sunday morning about a woman waving a gun on the street, where she had been arguing with another woman.

Ocana and Ceneida Miranda were quarreling because Miranda had broken up a fight days before between Ocana and another woman, police said.

"Maria pointed the gun, then pushed her to the ground and roughed her up," Stewart said. Miranda ran off and called police.

When officers arrived, Herring approached Ocana and three other officers warned her to surrender, Alvarez said.

"All three hollered at her," she said. One witness, Francis Howard, said one of the officers yelled, "Drop it!"

Herring has worked for the Miami Police Department 2 1/2 years and has been assigned temporarily to administrative duty pending an investigation, which is routine whenever an officer fires a gun, Stewart said.

Herring could not be reached for comment.

Stewart said officers are trained to use deadly force to save their lives and those of others and as a final way to capture a dangerous and armed felon who is fleeing.

"We are trained you do not shoot to wound," Stewart said. "If you use a weapon, you shoot to kill."

Police said Ocana had threatened people with a toy gun at least once before. Records show she was arrested Nov. 22 in an incident that involved a toy gun.

Stewart said Ocana had two daughters, aged 2 and 5, who have been in the custody of the Florida Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services "for some time."

"She was not well in the head," said an acquaintance, Carmen Betancourt, who said he knew her from Cuba.

Betancourt said Ocana, who was single, came to Florida during the 1980 Mariel boatlift to live with her parents in Miami.

Bert Lance Quits As Party Chairman

ATLANTA (UPI) — Bert Lance, who resigned as President Jimmy Carter's budget director amid charges of banking irregularities, has resigned as budget director amid charges of banking irregularities, has resigned as chairman of Georgia's Democratic Party in the face of new allegations of banking improprieties.

Lance said in a brief letter of resignation dated July 3 that his fight with the U.S. Office of Comptroller and Currency "should be my fight and not the party's."

Gov. Joe Frank Harris, who was quoted by an aide as saying the resignation was not unexpected, plans to meet with party leaders this week to discuss a replacement for Lance.

Lance had been under pressure by some state party and legislative leaders to either resign his post or become more active in state party affairs.

"I leave the chairmanship because I desire to regain my status as a private citizen and not because I have done anything improper," Lance said in his resignation letter.

A preliminary federal bank examiner's report leaked to the media last month said Lance had engaged in "numerous violations of the law" as chairman of Calhoun First National Bank.

The report, following an eight-month investigation, said Lance and the bank's directors allowed numerous "abusive activities." The bank was sold earlier this year.

Lance, who ran unsuccessfully for governor in 1974, could not be reached for comment.

He resigned as Carter's budget chief in 1977 amid allegations of banking irregularities.

In 1981, a jury could not reach a verdict on charges cited in a bank fraud indictment and the government decided not to retry the case.

Lance made a political comeback when Walter Mondale named him national party chairman, snubbing national chairman Charles Manatt.

Senate May Ease Firearm Restrictions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate returns from its holiday recess this week to debate legislation that would make it easier for Americans to buy guns, with advocates arguing "gun control is not the same as serious crime control."

The bill, supported by 54 senators, would be the first change in federal gun laws since the 1968 Gun Control Act was passed after the assassinations of Martin Luther King and Robert Kennedy.

The legislation, sponsored by Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, would lift the existing ban on interstate sales of guns. A buyer from one state would be able to go to another state to buy a gun over-the-counter as long as the sale did not violate the laws of either state.

That provision represents a major change that gun dealers and the National Rifle Association say is long overdue but gun control advocates warn could undermine state efforts to regulate firearms.

The bill, which goes into Senate debate Tuesday, also would allow gun owners to travel from one state to another with a licensed firearm as long as it is unloaded and in a car's trunk.

The 1968 law, which gun control advocates say was not strong enough, barred the mail order or interstate shipment of firearms and ammunition. It also banned importation of most firearms but not gun parts.

Many gun owners and dealers, as well as the NRA, have long argued that the 1968 law put unnecessary restrictions on them. The administration, which supports the legislation, maintains the best way to handle illegal use of firearms is to impose tougher sentences on people who commit crimes with guns.

McClure says his bill would "remove unnecessary regulatory burdens on the legitimate purchase of firearms by hunters and others for sporting purposes, and by law-abiding citizens seeking weapons for self protection."

Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, another sponsor of the legislation, argued that cities with the toughest gun control laws, including New York and Washington, D.C., have the highest rates of illegal use of guns.

In lobbying hard for the legislation, the NRA says those opposing the bill must "begin to realize that restrictive gun control is not the same as serious crime control."

But Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., a longtime backer of strong gun control legislation, says he is concerned the new bill would create new loopholes, including the sale of guns interstate.

"Instead of weakening handgun controls, we should be working to keep handguns from falling into the wrong hands," Kennedy said.

Opponents say that each year handguns are used in more than 10,000 murders and another 500,000 violent crimes.

American Explorer Finds Ancient City In Peruvian Jungle

LIMA, Peru (UPI) — An American explorer who has spent more than a quarter century exploring South America says he may have made his greatest discovery: a huge stone city that may be one of the largest pre-Columbian ruins ever found.

Gene Savoy, 58, who has made a career of exploring Peru and South America, returned last week from a 60-day expedition into the Amazonian jungle between Peru's Marañon and Utcubamba rivers some 400 miles northeast of Lima.

He said he discovered an ancient city stretching for some 50 miles and covering an area of 120 square miles. He and his team of 20 machete-wielding explorers counted some 24,000 structures in the city, he said.

Savoy said many of the buildings were circular, built on platforms. Others measured up to 140 feet in length. Some resembled terraced pyramids the size of 15-story buildings, said Savoy, in describing the fortresses and buildings used for living or religious ceremonies. He said buildings in the city, which he named "Gran Vilaya" after a nearby river valley, were of sophisticated construction including doorways, windows and staircases.

"I have never seen anything quite like it in my many years of exploring," said Savoy, who is on record as having found 40 ancient stone cities in Peru's jungles.

The ruins were remarkably well-preserved, apparently by the thick cover of jungle brush, he said.

Although he has not yet conducted scientific aging tests, Savoy estimated the city was built around 800 to 1,000 A.D. and suggested it was built and used by the Chachapoyas culture, a pre-Incan tribe about which very little is known.

"The magnitude of the Gran Vilaya ruins makes this undoubtedly the largest pre-Columbian metropolis in all of the Americas," he said.

Savoy said it will be up to archaeologists to determine the full significance of his find. But its sheer size will undoubtedly attract further study.

The city is located on mountain plateaus 8,000 to 9,000 feet above sea level in an area "populated only by wild bears, monkeys and puma," Savoy said.

He said his crew reached the site after "four hard days straight up and down (mountainsides) on mules and then we walked another day to where the ruins began."

Savoy said he saw condors with 11-foot wingspans circling above as he and his team cut and crawled their way through the jungle carpet. The rainforest was filled with "Tarzan-like vines" and so deep that daylight could not make its way through in places, he said.

The expedition was sponsored by the Andean Explorers Club of Reno, Nev. Savoy, a Reno native, is a member of the club.

Congressmen Warn Japanese: Open Your Markets To U.S.

TOKYO (UPI) — Members of a U.S. Congressional delegation have expressed doubt Japan will open wide its markets to U.S. goods and warned legislation restricting Japanese imports to the United States is likely if Japan keeps its own barriers.

"What we've been saying is 'Open up some of your doors or we'll close some of ours,'" Rep. Sander Levin, D-Mich said Sunday.

Rep. Berkley Bedell, D-Iowa and leader of a delegation of representatives from Northeastern and Midwestern states, said the group has seen nothing to indicate the Japanese would take "substantial action" he said was needed to eliminate bureaucratic and procedural barriers to imports. American officials blame those barriers for contributing to America's $35 billion trade deficit with Japan in 1984.

"They have been polite. They have listened," Bedell told a group of American journalists at a briefing following meetings with Japanese government and business leaders.

But "I question personally whether we can expect to see any substantial action on their part" he added.

"The prime minister (Yasuhiro Nakasone) recognizes the seriousness of the problem somewhat more than ... the people in the Diet (parliament) or the business people we've met," he said.

"The trade deficit we face in the United States is sufficiently great that unless there is a change, it is quite likely that we will see some legislation in Congress affecting trade," Bedell concluded.

Members of the delegation, which arrived in Japan Wednesday, said Congress is considering quotas, tariffs and surcharges on Japanese products entering the United States. But he emphasized the United States needed to take "a comprehensive approach" that included measures to cool the dollar's high value in relation to other currencies.

Levin conceded that "American suppliers are going to have to do a better job marketing their products." He called for more commercial attaches in U.S. embassies and a greater emphasis on foreign language education in the United States.

But he predicted "a combination of surcharge and quotas" on Japanese imports if the Nakasone administration fails to enlist corporate and bureaucratic support in eliminating barriers to foreign goods entering Japan.

"The pressure for us to do something is becoming greater and the commitment to do something is becoming greater in Congress," said Bedell.

Rep. Mary Kaptur, D-Ohio, said she and other members of Congress were not optimistic that Japan's "action plan" to be announced this month in Tokyo would be sufficient to redress the problem. But she added she "will wait and see" before throwing her weight behind any anti-Japanese legislation.

'Reckless' Motorist Arrested On Gun Charge

A motorist who allegedly brandished a handgun when confronted by irate Longwood motel residents has been released on $5,000 bond after being charged with aggravated battery.

Residents of the Lake Fairy Motel, 920 N. U.S. Highway 17-92, reported to Longwood police that a man sped into the motel parking lot, leaving skid marks. He was confronted by residents and stepped out of his vehicle, a police report said. Witnesses told police the man brandished a handgun in a threatening way and then fled north on U.S. Highway 17-92 at about 9 p.m. Saturday.

Police ran a computer check on the license number of the suspect's vehicle and traced him to his home, the report said.

One of the motel's residents, James Apuzzo, reportedly identified the suspect and Tory Lee Donahue, 22, of 426 David St., Winter Springs, was arrested at his home at about 9:30 p.m. He is scheduled to appear in court July 22.

POT IN TRUCK
The driver of a truck stopped because police thought firecrackers were being thrown from the vehicle has been charged with possession of less than 20 grams of marijuana reported found in the vehicle during a police search.

Sanford police stopped the truck on French Avenue at about 11:13 p.m. Thursday and a small quantity of marijuana reportedly found after the suspect reportedly gave permission for a search of the truck, a police report said.

Joseph Michael Amato, 20, of 114 Longleaf Pine Circle, Sanford, was being held in lieu of $500 bond.

BAD CHECK CHARGES
A 30-year-old Sanford man has been charged with trafficking in stolen property, petty theft, uttering a forgery and theft, after allegedly making transactions with stolen, forged checks.

Sanford police reported one of the checks had been stolen from the Seminole County Services Building on First Street, Sanford. It was for $50 and had reportedly been forged and cashed.

The other check, for $40, had reportedly been stolen from Claudia S. Herring and cashed at Atlantic Bank, Sanford, on June 17. The suspect reportedly tried to get his father to cash the other check, but he refused on Wednesday, a police report said.

Loren George Baker Jr., of 701 E. 8th St., Sanford, was arrested after questioning at the police station at about 11 a.m. Thursday. He was being held in lieu of $8,600 bond.

RIPPED OFF PANTS
A Tennessee man lost his money and his pants during a Sanford robbery Wednesday.

Jack Rich, 53, of Jasper, Tenn., reported to Sanford police that he and Jack Lester, 53, of 110 Old Lake Monroe Road, Sanford, were robbed by two men — one they picked up in at a bar and the other they picked up on West 13th Street.

Rich and Lester met one man at George's Tavern, 1101 S. French Ave. at about 9 p.m. and then picked up another on West 13th Street.

The four then drove to #78 Castle Brewer Court. While there, one of the men Rich and Lester picked up pulled a knife and held it to Lester's throat and demanded his money, according to Sanford police Capt. Herb Shea. Rich turned over $260.

At the same time the other man whipped out a stick and beat Rich on the legs and lower body, demanding his money, Shea said.

The bandit took Rich's wallet containing $125 and his pants. The robbers then fled.

Rich was treated at the scene for cuts, scrapes and bruises on his legs, arms and back but went to the hospital on his own, according to a rescue report.

There are no suspects in the case, Shea said.

CALIFORNIA HOLD
Seminole County sheriff's deputies acting on tip picked up a Sanford man wanted on a California burglary charge and for fleeing prosecution there.

Fredric Lee Wheeler, 32, of 813 Willow Ave., was arrested at about 6 p.m. Thursday after deputies made a traffic stop of his vehicle on state Road 46, west of Sanford, sheriff's Capt. Jay Leman said.

Wheeler who is also known as Christopher Siron, Leman said, was to be held in lieu of $50,000 bond on the burglary charge, but federal agents have ordered him to be held without bond, pending extradition to California.

KNIFE TOGS
A 25-year-old Casselberry man who allegedly threw a knife at his roommate during an argument has been charged with aggravated assault.

Donna Pitzer of 1425 Ash Circle, Casselberry, told Casselberry police the man threw the knife and then fled at about 10 p.m. Thursday. Police searched for the suspect for about 20 minutes and found him near his home, a police report said.

Ms. Pitzer gave them the knife she claims he threw, the report said.

Michael Allen Baker was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

POT SNIFFED OUT
A Sanford policeman who thought he smelled marijuana burning in a car as he drove by on U.S. Highway 17-92 sniffed out a suspect who was arrested for possession of pot and drug paraphernalia.

The officer informed another officer of his suspicions and the woman's vehicle was stopped on U.S. Highway 17-92 near Lake Mary Boulevard in Sanford at about 8:25 p.m. Wednesday. Two men in the car were not charged, according to a police report.

The woman gave police permission to search her car and among the items found were a plastic box containing pot, two vials, a razor blade, a mirror, a clip used to hold cigarettes and two partially smoked marijuana cigarettes, the report said.

Cynthia Mary Rice, 23, of 100 Coleman Drive, was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

BORROWED THEFT
An Orlando man who reportedly borrowed the 1978 Dodge of a Seminole County woman, but didn't return the car has been charged with grand theft auto.

Marion Fiscus told sheriff's deputies that she loaned the man her car on June 26 to drive to a job interview in Orlando.

He never returned and on June 29 she reported the car stolen.

Arthur Dewey Givens Jr., of Orlando, was arrested at about midnight Tuesday at Branchwood Apartments, Winter Park, where deputies reported he had been staying. He was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

COKE AT HOME
A 19-year-old Altamonte Springs woman has been charged with possession of cocaine and drug paraphernalia after a search of her home reportedly turned up contraband.

Seminole County drug task force agents and Altamonte Springs police, armed with a warrant, searched the home at 713 Wymore Road, #4, at about 8:30 p.m. Friday and reported finding a plastic bag of cocaine and various items of paraphernalia.

Krish Mala Sanghi, who was arrested at her home following the search, was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

FAKE PRESCRIPTION
A pharmacist questioned the validity of a prescription presented by a woman and that led to her arrest, Sanford police reported.

David Klingensmith of Fout's Drug Store, 407 E. 1st St., Sanford, reported to police that at 5:30 p.m. Friday a woman known to him presented a prescription for Percocet #16, a pain reliever.

He called Dr. Robert Smith of Sanford, whose name was on the prescription, and Smith said he didn't prescribe the medication for the woman, the report said.

The woman left the store and Klingensmith reported the incident to police. The suspect was picked up at her home and reportedly identified by Klingensmith.

Karen Margaret Donaldson, 23, of 300 S. Bay Ave., Sanford, was charged at 7:05 p.m. Friday with attempting to obtain a controlled substance by fraud. She was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

STOLEN CAR RECOVERED
A man who was putting gasoline into a disabled car parked on State Road 46 near Upsala Road, west of Sanford, has been charged with possession of a stolen vehicle.

Sheriff's deputies who spotted the car determined it had been reported stolen and the man with the car had been listed as a suspect in the theft.

Warren Eugene Carter, 32, of 301 5th St., Sanford, was jailed at 5:40 p.m. Friday. He was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

BURGLARIES & THEFTS
A $500 television was stolen from the home of Anthony Eden, 26, of 887 N. Jericho Drive, Casselberry, on Thursday or Friday, a sheriff's report said.

A 1981 Buick worth $4,430 and on consignment at Sanford Auto Auction, State Road 46, Sanford, was stolen between May 22 and July 1. Sales manager Jim Simpson reported the theft to sheriff's deputies and said the car belongs to Jack Lynch Chevrolet of Jacksonville.

Two 12-volt batteries with a combined value of $110 were stolen from a boat behind the home of Robert Palmer, 71, of 1612 S. Bear Lake Road, Apopka, on Thursday or Friday, deputies said.

Johnny Southerland, 59, of 153 Whitcomb Road, Geneva, reported to deputies that a 22-caliber pistol worth $239 was stolen from his home on Thursday or Friday.

About $155 cash, $400 worth of costume jewelry and a $475 police scanner were stolen from the home of Herald G. Hartscock, 56, of 5205 Wilson Road, Paola, on Wednesday, deputies reported.

Deputies have the name of a suspect who may have stolen a $1,000 watch and two handguns with a combined value of $295 from the home of Robert B. Steiner, 62, of 725 Charlotte St., Longwood, on Tuesday or Wednesday.

A 1978 moped worth $250 was stolen from the garage of Joseph Oak Stever, 41, of 100 Magnolia Oak Court, Longwood, on Thursday.

Caroline L. Washkill, 36, of 1156 N. Floral Way, Apopka, told deputies a 1985 Suzuki motorcycle worth $2,500 was stolen from her garage on Thursday.

A $300 video recorder was stolen from Ronald E. Driggers, 34, of 1833 Crowley Circle, Longwood, by a thief who ransacked his home on Wednesday, according to a sheriff's report.

Easing Distress Of The Disabled

More than a year has passed since the Reagan administration stopped its overzealous review of Social Security benefits for disabled Americans.

But the lull in that mean-spirited campaign has not brought an end to the hardship.

Thousands of deserving people thrown off the disability rolls still must fight their way through a complicated appeals process.

The administration could ease their plight simply by complying fully with the law.

When Congress ordered reviews of disability benefits in 1980, it envisioned an orderly effort to purge the program of malingers.

Yet the administration used reviews not just to detect fraud, but to shrink the program's $18 billion costs.

It redefined eligibility rules and cut off payments to half a million handicapped, mentally ill and retarded recipients by declaring them able to work.

That capricious scheme unleashed the wrath of the courts — which reinstated benefits for nearly two-thirds of those who appealed — and of Congress, which last fall approved a law to forbid arbitrary benefit cutoffs.

A somewhat abashed administration temporarily suspended the review program even before Congress acted.

But the moratorium did nothing for the destitute thousands already tossed from the rolls.

They remain victims of a misguided administration policy: Whenever a court ruled that a disabled person had been wrongfully removed from the rolls, the administration reinstated the plaintiff's benefits — but refused to apply the court's ruling to other cases.

That policy hurt many people who were simply too poor or too confused to appeal their benefit losses.

Health and Human Services Secretary Margaret Heckler admitted as much earlier in June when she announced that the administration will now follow legal precedents in benefit cases.

Yet the new policy offers only feeble hope. Though it requires administrative law judges to give claimants the benefit of appellate rulings within their circuit, it includes no similar requirement for state agencies that handle initial claims and appeals.

Thus only the few claimants with the money, stamina and time to press a case past the initial appeal will benefit from federal-court rulings.

That approach ignores the real distress of defenseless people wrongly removed from the rolls and in need of immediate relief.

And as lawmakers at a recent House subcommittee hearing complained, the policy flouts Congress's order that the administration apply circuit court rulings if it does not plan to appeal to all claimants within the circuit. Despite these criticisms, the administration says it will keep the new policy and resume disability reviews this summer.

Congress should intervene to change the administration's lawless plan.

What To Do About America Held Hostage

Launched on the rallying cry "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," America has always placed importance on ensuring "the blessings of liberty" for all its people. Given our enormous investment in state-of-the-art security systems, it is not surprising that Americans feel frustrated over our vulnerability to terrorism.

Former President Carter was the chief political victim of the frustration that Americans experienced during the Iranian hostage crisis. The president's challenger, Ronald Reagan, shrewdly exploited the public mood, assuring voters that a different kind of president would end terrorism.

The irony of all this is that Reagan has presided during a period when more Americans have been seized or killed by terrorists than at any previous time. During this crisis Reagan adopted the same position Carter did, speaking of his "frustration" in not being able to hit the terrorists without jeopardizing the hostages and other innocents.

Most Americans, I suspect, would have no objection to retaliation if it could be executed without risking innocent lives. But for the long term, I believe we should take two more substantive steps:

1. We need to sharpen the intelligence gathering capability of the CIA so that we have a better knowledge of the various terrorist groups in hot spots such as the Middle East. The CIA should invest less time and resources in trying to overthrow the government of Nicaragua, and more effort in getting on top of international terrorism. Poverty-stricken little Nicaragua is not much of a threat to anyone — certainly not to the power and might of the United States. But Middle East terrorism is a daily threat to Americans residing or traveling in that part of the world. The CIA should recognize this as a major challenge to their role as a gatherer of intelligence information.

2. We need a careful and critical review of American foreign policy to determine, if possible, why our policies so deeply infuriated the groups that have decided to risk their lives in these terrorist attacks against us. Is it possible that we are pursuing policies that could be modified with no loss to our nation, while reducing some of the resentment and rage that drives the terrorists against us?

For example, the Shiite Moslems were the chief victims of Israel's 1983 invasion of Lebanon. Although the Israelis finally withdrew, they have seized more than 700 Shittes who, at press time, are being held hostage in Israel. The release of these Moslem hostages was the chief objective of the group holding the original 40 American hostages. Have our policy makers been slow in recognizing the explosive nature of the Israeli occupation and the subsequent seizure of Lebanese citizens? Have our policy makers also considered that the heavy shelling of the Druse hills by the battleship New Jersey and the Marine shelling of Shiite communities after the bomb attack on the Marine barracks enraged the Shiite people and their leaders?

Our best-informed experts on Iran tell us that the 1953 CIA-assisted coup that overthrew Iranian Premier Mossadegh and put the shah on the throne has been a major cause of Iranian hatred of America's policy. For the 25 years that followed, the shah was seen as an American creation who systematically persecuted dissidents at home, while pursuing military and economic policies that served U.S. objectives rather than those of the people of Iran. These and other questions need to be considered by our policy makers in seeking out the root causes of acts of rage against our citizenry.

Party Changers To Watch

By Arnold Sawilak
UPI Senior Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "All politics is local," Tip O'Neill has said, and the elders of his Democratic Party would do well to pay attention to that dictum in considering the current Republican effort to induce a political realignment in the United States.

The Republicans have made much of their conversion of big name Democrats such as Jeanne Kirkpatrick, the former United Nations ambassador, Ed King, the former governor of Massachusetts, and Kent Hance, the former Texas congressman.

The Democrats, with some justification, have noted that some of these well-known party switchers were people who had nowhere else to go than to the GOP after being rejected by Democratic voters.

They have labeled these defectors "opportunists," who were just trying to prolong their political careers by crossing the street, where campaign funds and easy nominations were being waved.

But there is more to the story, and the Democrats can ignore it only at their peril.

The Republicans, in making a show of the defections, produced about 100 Democratic switchers from 20 states at a White House ceremony last month. More than 30 of these were state officials, most legislators, and nearly twice that number city and county officials.

These are the people — the mayor and city council members from Dry Prong, La., and the state representative from Gas City, Ind., for example — the Democrats ought to be worried about.

First, they hold public office now, which means the actual ability of the Republicans to put their imprint on government has been enhanced.

Second, their influence is at the state and local level, where the Democrats have remained strong despite the loss of four of the last five presidential elections and the loss of control of the Senate for the first time in a quarter of a century.

Third, there seems to be less of a stigma on politicians who switch parties at the lower levels of the ladder than those who do so on the highly visible upper rungs.

When top-level politicians switch, they often flop in their new parties.

Examples are Democrat-turned-Republican John Connally, the former governor of Texas who hasn't been elected to anything since his change of parties, and Republican-turned-Democrat John Lindsay, the former mayor of New York.

Unrest Stirring South Of The Border

By Jack Anderson
and Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — Not in many years have relations between the U.S. and Mexican governments been as cool as they are today. Ironically, this estrangement comes at a time when economic and cultural ties between the American and Mexican peoples are closer than ever.

A fundamental trouble seems to be that U.S. and Mexican leaders simply don't understand each other. No more startling proof of this could be imagined than the private conversation Mexican President Miguel de la Madrid had with two of his top aides late last year.

They weren't discussing U.S.-Mexican relations directly. The subject was the upcoming Mexican midterm elections (held yesterday) in which the opposition National

ROBERT WAGMAN

Our Global Economy

PALATINE, Ill. (NEA) — Discreetly mounted on a wall overlooking the lobby of the Square D Co. corporate headquarters here is a stylized world map with almost two dozen lights designating the firm's global facilities.

Square D's emergence as an international marketer and manufacturer, a relatively recent development, typifies the extent to which the economies of this country and other nations have become increasingly interdependent.

In 1970, U.S. imports and exports of goods and services totaled $125 billion. During the past five years, that figure has averaged more than $700 billion annually. Thus, a fivefold increase in global trade has been registered in slightly more than a decade.

The attention focused in recent years on the nation's trade deficit (the extent to which imports exceed exports) has obscured a far more important phenomenon — the emergence of a truly global economy.

Indeed, the revenues earned by other countries from their exports to the United States have assumed crucial importance in sustaining a healthy domestic economy.

Only a few years ago, economists were warning that the federal government's need to finance massive budget deficits would "crowd out" private borrowing, drive up interest rates to intolerable levels and push the economy into another inflationary spiral.

But that crowding out never occurred — in great measure because other nations' export earnings have been recycled back into this country in the form of investments or loans made to both public and private borrowers.

Even though exports have lagged behind imports in recent years, the phenomenal growth of exports has saved or created millions of jobs in an era when the domestic market for many goods and services has become saturated.

The Census Bureau estimates that every $1 billion worth of exports provides 30,800 domestic jobs — a relationship crucial to the employees of companies such as Square D.

When it was founded in 1903, Square D had no global aspirations. As recently as 1960, it was essentially a domestic producer of heavy-duty electrical equipment. Today, however, the firm has marketing and manufacturing facilities in Singapore and Spain, Ireland and Italy, Canada and Costa Rica, Saudi Arabia and South Africa.

More than one-fourth of the company's 22,600 employees are assigned to its international operations, which account for 15 percent to 20 percent of its annual sales.

An example of the company's international involvement: Five years ago, Fluor Corp., a California-based architectural, engineering and construction firm, was awarded a $500 million contract by Pertamina, Indonesia's national oil company, to expand a petroleum refinery on the island of Java.

Almost 150 other companies — ranging from a heavy equipment manufacturer in Minnesota to a valve producer in Connecticut — as well as uncounted thousands of their employees benefited from the Indonesian refinery project.

tain convenient amnesia on this side of the Rio Grande. In fact, one of the big difficulties in U.S.-Mexican relations (and in U.S.-Nicaraguan relations, for that matter) is the insensitivity of American officials to our Latin neighbors' fear of Yankee aggression, which to them are solidly founded in history.

The State Department, at least, has long been aware of both the difficulties between the United States and Mexico and the importance of trying to erase them. "There (are) forces so powerful that the combined efforts of leaders here and in Mexico can only influence them at the margin," a secret department report states. "The problems of illegal immigrants, narcotics and social inequality are forces of this magnitude. These problems will be important to us: Mexican and American societies are

Science In The Microwave

By Jan Ziegler
UPI Science Writer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some people put dinner into their microwave and end up with rock-hard sludge. Scientists at a government laboratory did it on purpose and ended up with a new building material.

But rather than using the latest gourmet frozen entree, researchers zapped tiny microbubbles of flyash or glass in an ordinary kitchen microwave and found they could produce an incredibly hard, strong, featherweight foam that can be cut and sawed.

Like chefs, the scientists at Los Alamos National Laboratory in Los Alamos, N.M., are experimenting with many ingredients, but the best so far has been flyash, the airborne ash that comes from coal-fired power plants.

"The strongest foams we've made have been out of flyash, and also the lightest foams we've made have been out of flyash," said Tom Meeks, a ceramics engineer and section leader for the advanced ceramics project at Los Alamos.

The flyash foam weighs .012 ounces per cubic centimeter. It can hold up under 790 pounds per square inch, or 100,000 pounds per square foot. The tensile strength is about 50,000 pounds.

Sprayed on concrete has a weight-bearing capacity of 300 to 400 pounds per square inch. Reinforced concrete, however, has a compressive strength of 3,000 to 4,000 pounds per square inch.

Meeks said the National Aeronautics and Space Administration has shown interest in the process. It may be possible one day for astronauts to place a bag of ceramic dust in a microwave onboard the shuttle, zap it and use the resulting material to replace damaged tiles on their craft.

The process may be ideal for projects on a space station or lunar base, where moon dust could be used and thereby eliminate the need to transport raw materials from Earth.

It may also be useful as insulation or as material for buoys, he said.

The process could save energy in the making and transporting of building materials, but will it revolutionize the building industry?

"The jury's out on that," Meek said in a telephone interview. "What interests me and the people here is what we're seeing with the microwave processing of this material. We're seeing different kinds of chemistry going on that we don't understand."

becoming interwoven to the point of symbiosis."

The State Department's concern over Mexico and its seemingly insurmountable problems is shared in a frightening way by the Pentagon. The Defense Intelligence Agency has actually made a secret study of how many Army divisions it would take to seal off the 1,933-mile border with Mexico to stop an expected deluge of panic-stricken refugees in case of revolution or widespread violence.

Footnote: Reagan administration officials don't want to talk about Mexico's problems. Repeated requests for interviews were rejected, and a respected private group, the Center for International Security, had to cancel a seminar on the subject because no administration official would agree to take part in a public discussion.

Americans Have It Their Way, 7-2

By Chris Pister
Herald Sports Writer

TAVARES — Before the Florida Little Major League Sub-District Tournament began, Erskine Howard and Eric Washington didn't figure very heavily in Sanford Americans' plans.

Washington was considered the fourth pitcher on the team and would probably only be called on in a jam. Howard was an alternate and not even on the team when practice started.

However, when the Americans found out that Derrick Taylor and Tony Chavers, the top two pitchers, would not be able to play because they are 13-years-old, Washington was moved into the starting pitching rotation and Howard was moved up to the team where he earned the starting job at second base.

The rest, as they say, is history.

Washington pitched his second strong ballgame of the tourney as he tossed a three-hitter and Howard, who, at around 4 feet 5, is usually counted on more for his glove than his bat, ignited the offense with two hits, including a solo home run as the Americans disposed of the Sanford Nationals, 7-2, Saturday morning in the Sub-District 3 finals.

The Americans advance to the District 4 Tournament which begins Monday (July 15) at Ormond Beach.

"Eric (Washington) was really a pleasant surprise," Americans coach Duane LaFollette said. "He was actually a fourth string pitcher to start out with. Everything was on Derrick (Taylor) and Tony (Chavers) but, when we lost them, Eric showed us in practice that he could do it."

In his two outings, Washington allowed a total of five hits and no earned runs. Saturday, the big right-hander struck out seven and walked just four.

In the Americans' two previous games, Howard had made a number of outstanding plays in the field but had gone hitless at the plate. Saturday, the diminutive second baseman cracked a solo homer that tied the game at 1-1 and the Americans never looked back after that.

"He (Howard) had no business being an alternate in the first place," Americans' coach Ronnie Sippio said. "He should have been on the team all along. He's a great little ballplayer."

Washington pitched out of a jam in the top of the first as, with one out, he walked two hitters and they moved to second and third on a passed ball. Washington then caught cleanup hitter Scott Sestak looking at a third strike and struck out Darrell Canada to end the inning.

The Americans rapped out three hits off Nationals' starter David Dunn in the bottom of the first, but a fine defensive play by center fielder Calvin Donaldson turned them away.

Tony Duval, who hit over .700 for the tournament, led off with a single to right center and, with one out, Floyd Henderson singled to left. With two away, Al Perkins drilled a single up the middle and Duval was waved home. Donaldson came up with the ball cleanly and fired a strike to Canada to nail Duval at the plate.

The Nationals then carried the momentum from Donaldson's play into the top of the second. With one out, Donaldson lined a shot past first baseman Harvey Clinger and it went for a triple. An error on the throw to third enabled Donaldson to score for a 1-0 lead.

Dunn set the Americans down in order in the bottom of the second and Washington did the same to the Nationals in the top of the third.

Ormond Stuns Sanford

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Sanford's Junior League All-stars received an indicator that it wasn't going to be their day Saturday morning when Ormond Beach hung a 5-0 setback on them in the Florida Junior Major League District 4 baseball tournament.

Six hours later, however, the Juniors found out for sure it wasn't their day as Ormond Beach exploded for 13 hits en route to an easy 9-2 victory and a berth in Aug. 2 Junior Major League State Tournament at Key West.

"I guess it just wasn't meant to be," said a disillusioned Jim Lucas whose team needed just one win Saturday to wrap up the Key West trip. "We lost this tournament in the morning. We didn't have anything left for the night game. That demoralized us. We should have won that morning game."

Lucas, nevertheless, said he could take nothing away from Ormond Beach, which played near-perfect baseball. Ormond was surprised Monday by New Smyrna Beach, 7-6, but then came back with 9-1 (Holly Hill) and 4-1 (NSB) victories to move into Saturday's game.

Jeff Grodi was the biggest thorn in Sanford's side. The slim Ormond Beach right hander shut down the Juniors on three hits in the opener. He struck out 11 and kept the locals swinging at a nose-diving breaking pitch all morning.

Sanford had its opportunities. After two were out in the first, Ronald Cox reached on an error by the catcher, Willie "Sugar Tex" McCloud and Bernard Mitchell each drew a walk to load the bases.

Sammy Edwards then hit a soft grounder between shortstop and third. The shortstop gloved the ball and just nipped McCloud, who got a late start on the play, by a step at third base to kill the rally.

Jimbo Lucas was a surprise starter on the mound for Sanford. "I wanted to set up their hitters with the curveball for two or three innings," said Lucas. "Then bring on McCloud with the speed. It would have worked if we would have played defense."

Lucas got the first batter on strikes by Larry Hingle singled to right and Grodi reached on an error by the third baseman. Lucas came back to get big (6-2, 200) Billy Glenn on a pop fly to second base. He then induced Ron Sapsford to hit a routine fly ball to right but the right fielder dropped the ball, allowing both runs to score for a 2-0 lead.

Grodi and Lucas matched goose eggs in the second inning. Sanford had another golden opportunity in the third when Dwight Brinson singled, stole second and moved to third on a passed ball. Williams followed with a medium fly ball to right field. Brinson broke for the plate after the catch but catcher Glenn made a great grab and tag to just nip the speedy Brinson who barreled head-first into the massive backstop.

McCloud came on to pitch the third. With one out, the irrepressible Grodi reached when he struck out and the wild pitch skipped past the catcher. McCloud the whiffed Glenn but with Sapsford at bat, Grodi, who stole second and went to third on a wild pitch, drew a throw to third which hit him in the back. He scored as the ball caromed into foul ball territory.

Sanford never seriously threatened again. Ormond picked up two more in the six then Sapsford took McCloud deep over the left center field fence for a homer. McCloud then tried to pick a runner off third with two outs and threw the ball away for the final run.

Lucas, Cox and Brinson had the three Sanford singles. "We came in overconfident," said Edwards. "We just knew we were going to win that first game. They spoiled all of our rallies."

Becker's 20 Aces Fold Curren

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — With a wicked serve, an arsenal of athletic shots, and an indomitable will, Boris Becker re-wrote Wimbledon history Sunday.

The 17-year-old strawberry blond with the thunderous serve fired 20 aces in a 6-3, 6-7 (4-7), 7-6 (7-3), 6-4, victory over Kevin Curren, becoming the first unseeded player, the youngest man, and the first German to win the All England championship.

"I think I played a very good match today, and I think the match was a good one," said Becker, who faced no one seeded higher than fifth en route to the championship.

Curren, who demolished defending champion and top seed John McEnroe and No. 3 seed Jimmy Connors in straight sets to reach the final, testified to Becker's remarkable accomplishment. "He can be No. 1 in the world one day," Curren said. "He's only 17 and he's got a lot of time and a lot of room for improvement."

A year ago at Wimbledon, Becker, sprained an ankle during a third-round match against Bill Scanlon and had to be carried off on a stretcher. Sunday, he walked off Center Court with the Challenge Trophy.

Only once during the 3-hour, 18-minute contest did Curren break service, and he reached break points only four other times. Curren, who had used his powerful serve to win three consecutive matches without losing a service, was broken three times by Becker.

"I've played harder servers, but not guys with his great placement," the 27-year-old Curren said. "His return has a dramatic topspin. He hits it so hard and with such a dip, that perhaps it put me off at times." Ironically, Becker, nicknamed "Boom Boom," passed up the German Open two months ago fearing too much pressure in his homeland. Now, he is faced with being an instant celebrity.

"This is going to change tennis in Germany," Becker admitted. "Maybe West Germans now have a tennis idol. And maybe it's me now. I don't know."

MARTINA'S 6TH IS SWEETEST
WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — For Martina Navratilova, the sixth one was the sweetest.

Perhaps the reason for this is because she's won the Wimbledon championship so often, it's difficult to remember one from the other. Or perhaps there's a feeling that at age 28 there's cause to wonder if any more will come.

To her own way of reasoning, Navratilova explains it to the fact she wasn't the strong favorite as has been the custom in recent years.

"This was the most satisfying," Navratilova said Saturday after overcoming Evert Lloyd, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2, in the women's final. "I was more of the underdog this time than maybe I've been since the first time I won."

"I don't know what the consensus was among the press, but in the locker room Chris was the majority winner."

On Center Court, Navratilova was the unanimous winner, further establishing her position as a Wimbledon legend. Only two women, Helen Willis Moody with eight and Dorothy Chambers (7), have won more singles than she has, and not since Moody (1927-30) has a woman been able to capture four titles in a row.

Of more immediate consequence, Navratilova avenged her defeat to Evert Lloyd in last month's French Open final, stopped her long-time rival's run of two successive Grand Slam crowns, and in all probability reclaimed for herself the world No. 1 ranking.

Radcliff's Bat Sizzles; Altamonte Sweeps 3

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Even the heat took a backseat to Chris Radcliff Sunday. While the temperature was sweltering at the 100-degree level, the Altamonte Juniors' 13-year-old center fielder continued to swing a sizzling stick as he clobbered two home runs to stoke Altamonte past Maitland, 13-3, in District 14 Division 2 All-Star Tournament baseball at the Maitland Little League complex.

Coupled with Friday night's 18-2 demolition of Deltona and Saturday's 25-0 blitz of Oviedo, Altamonte has a 3-0 start and earned a week off before meeting the survivor of the losers' bracket Monday night, July 15 at Oviedo.

"It will be good for us, we're looking forward to it," said Waincott. "We'll get some practice and a little rest. We expect the competition will get tougher but we also think we'll play better against better competition."

It's going to be hard for Radcliff to play too much better. The left-handed phenom is 7 for 7 for the three-game set with two homers and a triple. He also tossed a no-hitter Friday night. The two homers came Sunday against Maitland. After Jason Varitek doubled to open the first, Kevin Waincott walked. Radcliff then launched a mammoth shot over the right center field fence for a 3-0 lead.

Baseball

In the third, Altamonte added two more when Varitek singled prior to Waincott. Radcliff, Jerrey Thurston and Danny Hendricks drawing successive walks for the 9-1 lead.

Varitek couldn't find the plate in the third as Maitland added its final two runs. "The Shiek" was relieved by Prom who shut down the Maitland crew the rest of the way to pick up the victory.

Radcliff, who made a spectacular diving catch in center field to complement his fine day, made a curtain call in the top of the fourth. After Waincott drew a walk, the big lefty picked on a fastball and rifled a screamer just inside the right-field foul pole for a two-run homer and an 11-3 lead.

Altamonte tacked on its final two in the fifth when Jimmy Hovia and Prom singled. Jamey

Youmans Wins 1st... Ticket To Minors

United Press International

For Montreal Expos reliever Floyd Youmans, Sunday was a long, cruel roller coaster ride. When it finally stopped, the young right hander had his first major-league victory — and a ticket back to the minors.

Before Sunday's game against the Astros — which lasted 19 innings — Youmans was informed he would be sent back to Indianapolis, the Expos American Association affiliate, at its completion to make room on Montreal's roster for Bill Gullickson, due to come off the 21-day disabled list.

After nine innings at Houston, the score was tied 2-2, and the marathon was on.

By the 17th inning, Expos manager Buck Rodgers had gone through four pitchers, and Youmans was pressed into service. The Expos scored a run in the 18th to take a 3-2 lead, but Youmans gave up a run in the bottom of the inning for a 3-3 tie.

Meticulously, Montreal scored three runs in the 19th, and Youmans, a product of the Tampa Belmont Heights Little League, recorded the final three outs to seal a 6-3 victory, giving him a 1-0 record in the big leagues.

"I don't feel bad about it at all," Youmans said following the five-hour, 12-minute marathon, which tied the New York-Atlanta game begun July 4 for the longest game this season.

"No one likes to be sent down, but I'm confident that if I do my job down there I'll be noticed, and I'll be brought back up here."

Rodgers was ecstatic with the work of his bullpen, particularly since ace reliever Jeff Reardon is out of action with a tender elbow.

"Our bullpen was just super this whole series," Rodgers said. "Houston plays so well against us, especially here, for us to come out of here with a split without Jeff is just remarkable." An error by first baseman Enos Cabell on Al Newman's bunt in the 19th inning allowed Vance Law to score from third base, giving the Expos their victory. Montreal catcher Sal Butera was the only non-pitcher not used in the game.

In the 19th, Law led off with a single to right off Ron Mathis, 3-4. Andre Dawson singled to center, moving Law to second. With one out, Hubie Brooks' fly out to right sent Law to third. With both runners moving, Newman bunted down the third base line and Denny Walling threw to Cabell, who dropped the ball.

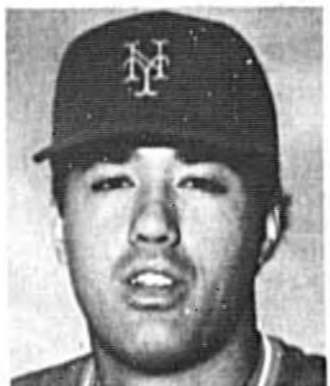

Montreal added two more runs when Mitch Webster walked to lead the bases and Mike Fitzgerald singled to right, moving Dawson and Newman.

Tim Lincecum singled twice and stole two bases to run his season total to 26.

Cubs 6, Giants 5 At Chicago, Leon Durham hit two home runs including a solo shot in a three-run sixth inning, to power the Cubs over the Giants. The victory went to reliever Warren Brusar, 2-1.

Padres 3, Pirates 0 At Pittsburgh, LaMarr Hoyt pitched a six-hitter for his ninth consecutive victory and Tim Flannery hit a two-run double to lead San Diego. Hoyt, 11-4, walked none and struck out two in notching his third shutout. Rick Reuschel, 7-2, lost for the first time in his last five decisions.

Reds 3, Phillies 2 At Philadelphia, Cesar Cedeno hit his third home run of the season with one out in the 10th inning to propel Cincinnati. Reliever John Franco, 5-1, was credited with the victory and Ted Power worked the 10th for his 15th save. Kent Tekulve, 4-4, took the loss.

Mets 4-0, Braves 0-5 At Atlanta, the Mets' sweep gave them six straight victories, while the Braves have lost five straight. In the first game, Sid Fernandez and Roger McDowell combined on a three-hitter, and Zane Smith fell to 5-5. In the nightcap, a six-run sixth made a winner of Ron Darling, 8-2.

Cardinals 7, Dodgers 1 At St. Louis, Willie McGee, Terry Pendleton and Ozzie Smith each banged out three hits to stake John Tudor to his seventh consecutive victory. Los Angeles committed five errors and leads the NL with 87 on the season Tudor, 9-7, last lost May 29.

Nicklaus Feels Familiar Following Strange's Win

OAKVILLE, Ontario (UPI) — Curtis Strange's victory in the Canadian Open left Jack Nicklaus in a disappointing but familiar position.

Strange took the $650,000 tournament by two shots Sunday with a 9-under 279 total to become the second golfer ever to pass the $500,000 mark in single-season earnings.

And who was No. 2? Nicklaus. Again.

Nicklaus has finished second in the Canadian Open so many times they may ask him to mail in his score next year and then let the others shoot around it. He has never won the event played on Glen Abbey, a course he designed.

"Now why would I think I'm destined to never win it?" Nicklaus deadpanned. "I've only finished second seven times — and missed finishing second by a shot or so three or four other times. I've got 34 years left."

Strange's 1-over 73 in the final round was just enough to hold off Nicklaus, who had a par 72, and defending champion Greg Norman, who also shot 73.

"This is by far the biggest tournament I've ever won," Strange said after picking up a check for $86,506 ($117,000 Canadian) that boosted his season's earnings to $520,081. "Because it's a national championship. The national championship of Canada."

"It's great to win a big golf tournament," said Strange. "And I'm not taking anything away from the other wins I've had."

Strange has now won three times this year and eight times overall in a career that began in 1977. His career winnings are in excess of $1.9 million.

LOPEZ KEEPS PROMISE

SUGAR LAND, Texas (UPI) — Nancy Lopez was true to her word even if husband Ray Knight failed to keep his end of the bargain they struck before the final round of the Mazda Hall of Fame Tournament.

Lopez told Knight, a third baseman for the New York Mets, that if he hit a home run against the Atlanta Braves, she'd win the $300,000 tourney.

While Knight went 5-for-8 at the plate Sunday, he did not homer. Just the same, Lopez mounted a fierce charge on the back nine to win the inaugural event by three strokes over JoAnne Carner and Allison Finney.

Lopez had entered the final round trailing Carner by three strokes and Amy Alcott by two.

Lopez finished the day with a 4-under-par 68 for a 72-hole total 7-under 281. Carner and Finney finished at 284.

JANUARY: 16 UNDER PAR

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W.Va. (UPI) — Don January is just $1,110 short of becoming the first PGA seniors tour millionaire.

The 55-year-old January pushed his tour earnings to $998,890 by firing a 6-under par 68 Saturday to capture the inaugural Greenbrier-American Express championship.

January, who has been on the seniors' tour since 1980, finished at 18-under-par 200 to shade Lee Elder by two strokes, and Harold Henning by four. Henning had trailed by one stroke heading into the final round of the 54-hole tournament.

Yanks Sweep Twinbill

United Press International

Unlike last year, the second half of this season offers more to the New York Yankees than a chance to regain respectability.

The Yankees produced the best second-half record in the major leagues in 1984, only it didn't count for much because the Detroit Tigers had virtually eliminated every team in the East with their record-setting start.

This season, with the division race going according to plan, the Yankees are one of five clubs in the hunt for the AL East title.

"Right now, this team's on the move," Dave Winfield said Sunday after New York swept a double-header from the Minnesota Twins, 3-2 and 14-2. "The teams ahead of us know we are starting to pick up some ground."

The Yankees, who swept a four-game set with Minnesota and are now winners of 10 of their last 14 games, moved to within 4 1/2 games of first-place Toronto.

The 17 runs they scored in the double-header showed that Yankees are again resembling the Bronx Bombers of old.

"When our lineup starts hitting together we're gonna be awfully tough to stop in the second half," said New York's Don Baylor, who contributed a home run and four RBI in the nightcap.

Ken Griffey, who supplied two three-run homers and six RBI in the 14-2 rout, was the offensive star for New York.

Griffey, since coming off the disabled list June 12, was hitting a mere .211 while Baylor came into the twinbill with just three hits in his last 23 at-bats.

"We've been in the same boat, we've had a tough three or four weeks," said Baylor. "Ken came through today, he had six RBI, and I contributed four, so that's 10 of the 14 right there. You just have to hope for certain guys to break out."

Winfield, who went 5-for-10 on the day, homered leading off the bottom of the 11th inning to lift the Yankees in the opener.

Elsewhere, Cleveland crushed Chicago 10-3, Kansas City beat Baltimore 8-4, Toronto downed Oakland 8-2, Milwaukee shaded Seattle 2-1, California defeated Boston 8-3, and Detroit topped Texas 5-3.

In the NL, New York swept a pair from Atlanta, 4-0 and 8-5; San Diego blanked Pittsburgh 3-0; Cincinnati edged Philadelphia 3-2 in 10 innings; St. Louis battered Los Angeles 7-1; Chicago nipped San Francisco 6-5; and Montreal beat Houston 6-3 in 19 innings.

Indians 10, White Sox 3

At Cleveland, Brett Butler's bases-loaded single triggered an eight-run seventh inning that allowed the Indians to snap a five-game losing streak. Tom Waddell, 3-5, was the winner in relief. Tim Lollar, 3-5, took the loss.

Royals 6, Orioles 4

At Kansas City, Mo., Frank White, Jorge Orta and George Brett each knocked in two runs to help the Royals avert a four-game sweep. Charlie Leibrandt raised his record to 8-5 and Dan Quisenberry posted his 16th save. Storm Davis, 4-5, was the loser.

Blue Jays 6, A's 2

At Oakland, Calif., George Bell ripped a two-run homer in his first game back from a two-day suspension and Ernie Whitt added a three-run shot to power the Blue Jays. Jimmy Key, 7-3, held the A's to five hits over eight innings. Steve McCatty slipped to 4-4.

Brewers 2, Mariners 1

At Seattle, rookie left-hander Ted Higuera, with ninth-inning relief help from Rolfe Fingers, hurled a five-hitter and Cecil Cooper drove in the game-winner to end Milwaukee's four-game losing streak. Higuera improved to 5-5 while Fingers earned his 10th save. Bill Swift, 3-2, was the loser.

Angels 6, Red Sox 3

At Anaheim, Calif., Ruppert Jones belted a pair of home runs and Reggie Jackson added his 516th career homer to ignite the Angels. Rookie Kurt McCaskill, 4-5, won for the fourth time in his last five decisions. Jim Dorey, 0-1, took the loss.

Tigers 5, Rangers 3

At Arlington, Texas, Darrell Evans, hitless in 16 straight at-bats, slammed a three-run homer in the eighth inning to lift the Tigers. Frank Tanana, traded from Texas to Detroit last month, raised his record to 4-7. Willie Hernandez earned his league-leading 18th save. Greg Harris, 2-2, took the loss.

Bryant Sparks Stars Past Stallions

Bryant's 70-yard touchdown pass reception and 76-yard scoring run set playoff records and led the Baltimore Stars to a 28-14 semifinal victory over the Birmingham Stallions.

The Stars, the defending league champions, will be making their third straight USFL championship appearance.

"I gave them seven points," said Birmingham quarterback Cliff Stoudt, referring to Jonathan Sutton's interception and 36-yard touchdown return of his first pass just two minutes into the game.

"There were times today that I wish I could have just crawled into a hole," said Stoudt. "Getting behind by seven early to Baltimore is like getting behind 21 or 28 points to other opponents."

Bryant's big plays made it 21-0 and 28-0, and the former North Carolina star gained 217 total yards to put his team in the July 14 final with the Oakland Invaders in East Rutherford, N.J.

Chuck Fusina, 10-for-18 for 210 yards, threw touchdown passes of 30 yards to Victor Harrison and the record 70 yards to Bryant to give the Stars a 21-0 halftime lead the Stallions couldn't overcome.

"I have a lot of respect for Birmingham's defense," said Baltimore Coach Jim Mora. "But their defense may be easier to break a big play on than it is to gain a simple four or five yards against."

The Stars, who won the title last year while playing in Philadelphia, got off to a rocky 1-3-1 start this season and now stand at 12-7-1. They were No. 2 in defense after the Stallions, the Eastern Conference champs who wound up 14-6.

Bryant rushed 13 times for 116 yards and hauled in four passes for another 101 yards. His big run 2:17 into the fourth quarter broke his own playoff record of 54 yards set against Birmingham in last year's semifinals, which the Stars won 20-10.

Oakland 28, Memphis 19

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — The Oakland Invaders, champions of the United States Football League Eastern Conference, made it to the USFL title game by trouncing the Memphis Showboats 28-19 at the Liberty Bowl Saturday.

The Invaders will face the winner of Sunday's Baltimore-Birmingham match for the league championship Sunday, July 14th at Giants Stadium in East Rutherford, N.J.

It was the second time this year that Oakland had defeated Memphis, and the third since Memphis came into the league two years ago.

The Showboats fell victim to the combination of Invaders quarterback Bobby Hebert and wide receiver Anthony Carter. Hebert passed for 287 yards and two touchdowns, while Carter was on the receiving end nine times for 154 yards.

Altamonte Seniors Bank On Strong Hitting Attack

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

Woody Woodard has a difficult decision to make. The Altamonte Senior League all-star manager is contemplating whether to go with his best on the mound tonight or to save him for a possible meeting Tuesday with a strong Oviedo team.

Altamonte, the defending Senior League World Champions, opens play in the District 14 Division 1 Tournament tonight at 5:30 at Maitland. Either Corey Prom, the team's top pitcher, or Andy Anson will get the starting assignment.

"I really haven't decided who to go with," Woodard said. "I'm considering a couple of options. If we win (Monday) we have to play Tuesday against Oviedo. I consider them to be the toughest in the division. So now we're trying to guess whether we can beat Maitland and save our best pitcher for Oviedo. I'm leaning toward Prom. We have to get the first one in."

While Altamonte has a tough decision to make, Oviedo can save its best pitcher since it is playing Deltona which usually has a weak team.

With Prom or Anson on the mound, the Altamonte infield will include Kenny Jackson at first base, Penny Siqueros at second, Greg Metzger at shortstop and Noah Talesnick at third base. Craig Radzak will be behind the plate backed up by Pat DeLuca.

In the outfield, Jimmy Kremer will be in right, Prom will play center if he doesn't pitch, Shane Stufflet will play center if Prom pitches and Mark Apostolides will be in left. Catcher will be Craig Radzak backed up with Pat DeLuca. Other outfielders include Chad Cochran, Anson, Warren Woodard and Todd Christensen. Christensen could also play in the infield.

"The defense won't overwhelm anyone but we have the kids who can do the job," Woodard said.

"Our strength is hitting," added Woodard. "We have a good combination of power and some kids who can come off bench and hit singles. We have a good mixture as far as hitting goes."

While the Altamonte Seniors have a pair of excellent starters in Prom and Anson, the pitching staff is not as deep as Woodard would like.

"We don't have five or six starters like you would like to have," he said. "If you hit the loser's bracket, you have to have a lot of pitchers and, if you win, you have to play three straight days. Usually, you have to plan to have two pitchers a game and be concerned about not wearing them out."

Having seen Oviedo play in Top Team Tournament action, Woodard feels the Seminole County rivals will be the top competition in the division.

"They can beat you in a lot of ways," Woodard said. "They placed five kids from the Top Team Tournament team and three of those will probably start. I think they are beatable but they are a strong team. They have awesome speed, they will run you to death."

But Woodard is certainly not looking past Maitland. That is the cause of the indecision in the starting pitching assignment.

"Maitland knocked us off in the Junior Division last year," Woodard said. "I felt we would have went to the World Series if we could have beaten them. Maitland's definitely no pushover. We won't look past them. We want to play them first and beat them, then worry about who we play next."

Willie Daunic, who pitched the Maitland Junior League to the State Tournament last year and who also beat Altamonte, will probably start for Maitland tonight although Maitland is much in the same situation as Altamonte as the winner takes on Oviedo. Perry Teague may also be the starting pitcher for Maitland.

In the Oviedo-Deltona matchup tonight, manager David Austin said he would start Dwight Everett. "Dwight has tournament experience," said

Shownda Avenges 'The Fall'

Two weeks ago Friday, after a disappointing fall in the Junior National Track Meet in Elmhurst, Ill., Sanford's Shownda Martin vowed she would run her race the next time she ran.

Saturday night, the 15-year-old Seminole High sophomore-to-be blazed to a National Track Athletic Congress (15-16 age group) record with a time of 2:11.34 in the 800 meters semifinals in the Track Athletic Congress Youth Championships at Hempstead, N.Y.

Sunday, Martin won the 800 meters with a time of 2:13.92. Martin, who ran in the finals on Sunday, eclipsed the old record of 2:11.94 set in 1984 by Kim Widener of Texas.

In the meet two weeks ago, Martin was tripped from behind as she moved out to take the lead on the final lap. It was the first time Martin had not won in the 800 meters (or 880 yards).

Dorchele Webster, who will also be a sophomore at Seminole High, finished fourth in the 800 meters with a time of 2:19.83. Webster also qualified for the 800 meter finals with a semifinals time of 2:20.6.

In the boys 17-18 age group, Alvin Jones, who will be a senior at Seminole High, won the triple jump with a leap of 48-7 and Louis Brown qualified for the finals in the 100 meters with a time of 11.64. Brown finished fifth Sunday with a time of 11:17. Eric Martin ran fifth on the mile relay team composed of West Palm Beach, Twin Lakes' Chris Wilcox, Pahokee's Cecil Dryden and Delray Beach Atlantic's Richard Leilua. The foursome ran a 3:18.63 miles.

Martin and Webster teamed with two Delray Beach runners, Jamie Johnson and Gladys Everett, to finish second in the mile relay with a time of 3:56.4.

The Sanford contingent will return home Tuesday after touring New York City on Monday.

of the third.

The Americans grabbed back the momentum in the bottom of the third with two runs on two hits.

Howard, the ninth hitter in the order and smallest player on either team, led off the inning by smacking a home run over the fence in center field to tie the score at 1-1. It was the second homer of the year for Howard who had hit one out at Fort Mellon Park during the regular season.

"That's my second one and I waited till the right time to hit it," said Howard.

"That's the biggest surprise I've ever seen," said Lafollette of Howard's homer.

Dunn then hit Duval with a pitch but he was forced at second on James Jackson's grounder to the mound. Jackson then stole second on the first pitch to Henderson and Henderson stroked the next pitch to left center for a double that drove in Jackson for a 2-1 lead.

The Nationals tied it at 2-2 in the top of the fourth but could have taken the lead if not for a baserunning mistake. Canada reached on an error to lead off the inning and took second on a wild pitch. Demetrius Presley then looped a fly ball to short right field and it went for a double when Henderson couldn't make the diving catch.

That put runners on second and third with no outs. But, with Donaldson at the plate, Canada tried to score on a wild pitch and was thrown out. Donaldson then grounded to Clinger at first but Perkins couldn't handle his throw to the plate and Presley scored. Donaldson took second on the play but was stranded there when Dunn struck out and Mike Dillon popped out to short.

Anthony Roberts went on in relief of Dunn in the bottom of the fourth and the Americans greeted him with three runs.

Roberts walked Washington to lead off and a wild pitch sent him to second. With one out, Ray Adcock's liner to right was dropped and Washington scored. Howard then looped a single to right and, as Adcock went to third, Howard tried for second. The throw had Howard beat but he jarred the ball loose from Robert Redding's glove.

Adcock then went home, beating Redding's throw to the plate, and Howard took third with a head first slide ahead of Perkins' throw. Howard then scooted home on a wild pitch, capping off his baserunning escapades with another head first slide which gave the Americans a 5-2 lead.

Washington shut the door on the Nationals in the last two innings. In the fifth, he walked one and gave up a single to Brian Grayson with one out, but struck out Sestak and got Canada to pop out to shortstop Jackson for the third out.

The Americans tacked on two runs in the bottom of the fifth with both scoring via Sanford National errors. The Nationals made three errors in the fifth inning. Going into Saturday's game, they had made only three errors combined in four previous games.

Washington came back to retire the side in order in the top of the sixth with pinch hitter Tommy Hampton grounding out to Clinger for the final out. It was a fitting ending for Clinger who turned 12-years-old on Saturday.

Wallace drew a walk to load the bases and Varitek stroked a single down he left field line for the two runs.

In between Radcliff's heroics, Thurston, Prom and Hendricks carried the load Saturday night. Thurston drew the mound assignment and the tall right-hander was near perfect. He allowed a leadoff single to Stevie Coffie, then held the Oviedo squad hitless the rest of the way.

In that frame, Altamonte broke loose for 12 runs to cap the rout. Hendricks, a hard-hitting catcher, ripped a double, two singles, scored four runs and drove in two more. Prom, hitting eighth in the order, roped three singles and a double for four RBI.

They had more than enough help. Waincott singled and doubled, scored two runs and drove in a pair. Radcliff had three singles. Kent Brubaker singled twice and drove home three. Danny Albert singled in two and Greg James added a sharp base hit.

Sanford tried to get back into the game over the next four innings but each time a line drive was flagged down by Ormond's sure-handed defense. "That was unbelievable," said Edwards. "We'd get something going and then they'd make a lucky catch."

In the second after two were out, Edwards reached on an error. Lucas followed with a liner but the third basemen pulled it down just as it was going past his head.

In the third, Mitchell singled, stole second and moved to third on a wild pitch. Brinson followed with a fly ball to center to cut the deficit to 4-1. Ray Williams then doubled to right center. Cox followed with a two-out single to right center but Williams mistakenly held up between second and third and couldn't score. Cox then stole second. McCloud followed with a rocket toward right field but the second baseman caught it in self defense for the third out.

In the fourth, Lucas and Jeff Smith rapped two-out singles. Mitchell smacked another one right on the nose but right at the second baseman for the third out.

In the fifth, Grodi made a spectacular over-the-shoulder grab to take an extra base hit away from Williams with just one out.

Ormond Beach, nevertheless, put the game out of reach in the bottom of the fourth when it broke loose for four more runs. A two-run double by Lyle was the big hit. McCloud made great throw from deep left center to cut Lyle down at third base.

Sanford added its final two runs in the seventh. Mitchell beat out an infield hit, stole second and third. He scored when Williams blooped a single to right field. Williams stole second and moved to third when the catcher's throw went into center field. Cox scored him when he reached on an error by the shortstop.

"Ormond Beach played a fine game," said Lucas. "They came in big-headed Monday, like we did today, and lost their first game. They didn't lose any after that."

And that's why they're going to Key West.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Protestant Leaders Vow To Defy Ban On Marches

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Protestant leaders vowed to defy a ban and go ahead with planned marches through Catholic areas despite a surge of sectarian violence that left seven people injured over the weekend.

The seven were injured Sunday when 300 baton-wielding officers dispersed a human chain of Catholic protesters who tried to block 5,000 Protestant extremists from marching through a Catholic neighborhood.

The Protestant Orangemen, clad in the usual bowler hats and orange sashes, marched two miles across the town of Portadown and through a Catholic housing project.

Police said they arrested three people in the fourth march in two weeks by the loyalist extremists — who back continued British rule — that have led to violence in the embattled province of Ulster.

The ban is likely to cause more tension as the Protestant marching season heads toward its climax July 12, when more than 100,000 Protestants plan 26 separate parades to mark the victory of Protestant King William of Orange over King James, a Catholic, in the Battle of the Boyne in 1690.

Protestants — who make up 60 percent of Ulster's 1.5 million population — have scheduled 2,200 street marches and celebrations there this summer.

44 Hurt in 'Running Of The Bulls'

PAMPLONA, Spain (UPI) — Thousands of men raced through the streets of Pamplona pursued by five charging bulls that gored, tossed or trampled 44 participants in an annual test of daring immortalized by Ernest Hemingway.

Forty-four of those who put their faith in their feet, including two Americans, were injured Sunday in the "running of the bulls" chase.

Despite the dangers, one policeman said he could not remember another year when more people were willing to risk the sharp horns and stomping hooves of the bulls.

The chase, made famous in Hemingway's novel "The Sun Also Rises," is run each day of the weeklong St. Fermin festivities that began in 1591 as a religious celebration.

But the fiesta has become a non-stop party of drinking, dancing and daredevilry given an added mystique by Hemingway's book.

Royal Scandal Denied

LONDON (UPI) — British newspapers today carried denials that Princess Michael, cousin-in-law to Queen Elizabeth, had secret trysts with Texas tycoon Ward Hunt and that her marriage was on the rocks because of him.

"There is no question of any impropriety between the princess and myself. These allegations are absolute nonsense," the Daily Express quoted Dallas millionaire Hunt, who was reached in his London apartment.

Buckingham Palace, disdainfully dismissing it as "sewage journalism," refused comment on the report that first surfaced Sunday in Britain's biggest-selling newspaper, the weekly News of the World.

The Austrian-born princess and her husband, Prince Michael of Kent, also publicly ignored the report, appearing arm-in-arm Sunday at the Wimbledon tennis tournament. Prince Michael's late father was the brother of the queen's father, King George VI, and Kent is her first cousin.

WEATHER

AREA FORECAST: Today partly sunny and rather hot with a 30 percent chance of afternoon thunderstorms. High middle 90s. Light and variable wind. Tonight partly cloudy with a 20 percent chance of an evening thunderstorm. Low low to mid 70s. Light and variable wind. Tuesday partly sunny and rather hot with a 30 percent chance of afternoon thunderstorms. High middle 90s. Light and variable wind.

NATIONAL REPORT: Record heat that helped spread brushfires in the West edged into the Midwest today. Cooling temperatures along the West Coast helped firefighters battling the blazes, but lightning sparked more fires. Record highs in the 80s, 90s and 100s were set or tied Sunday at 10 locations in California, Idaho, Montana, Colorado, South Dakota, Nebraska and Florida. In the Plains, the mercury pushed to the century mark as far north as Bismark, N.D., and records as high as 105 degrees were posted in Huron, S.D. and Valentine and Scottsbluff, Neb. "We are expecting the heat to shift a little farther east today into the Midwest," said Paul Fike, a National Weather Service meteorologist. "The Plains and the Rockies will continue to bake under the hot temperatures." Relief from the extreme heat was expected to continue along the West Coast where fog and cooler weather Sunday aided efforts to control fires that have consumed more than 310,000 acres in Oregon, Washington, California, Idaho, Arizona, Wyoming and Nevada. However, storms in the West hurled lightning that sparked more fires. Several new blazes broke out near Monterey, Calif., and one in eastern Oregon burned 15,000 acres near Rome.

AREA READINGS (9 a.m.): temperature: 82, overnight low: 74; Sunday's high: 94; barometric pressure: 30.18; relative humidity: 77 percent; winds: southwest at 6 mph; rain: .30 inch (Sanford); sunrise: 6:34 a.m.; sunset 8:26 p.m.

TUESDAY TIDES: Dayton Beach: highs, 1:54 a.m., 2:26 p.m.; lows, 8:04 a.m., 8:38 p.m.; Port Canaveral: highs, 1:46 a.m., 2:18 p.m.; lows, 7:55 a.m., 8:29 p.m.; Baysport: highs, 6:39 a.m., 6:56 p.m.; lows, 12:32 a.m., 1:14 p.m.

BOATING FORECAST: St. Augustine to Jupiter Inlet out 50 miles — Wind variable 5 to 10 knots through Tuesday except for an easterly sea breeze 10 knots near shore during the afternoon. Sea 1 to 3 feet. A few showers or an afternoon and evening thunderstorm otherwise partly cloudy.

EXTENDED FORECAST: Wednesday through Friday — Partly cloudy with a chance of thunderstorms mainly during afternoon and evening through Friday. Lows near 70 north to around 80 south. Highs upper 80s to mid 90s.

OPEC Won't Cut Oil Prices

VIENNA (UPI) — OPEC oil ministers adjourned a three-day meeting with an agreement to maintain the cartel's production ceiling and prices despite a steady erosion of their share in the glutted petroleum market.

The 13 ministers of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries also pledged Sunday to eliminate cheating within their ranks on pricing and production and agreed to meet again July 22 in Geneva, Switzerland.

A panel of experts was told to come up with recommendations for the creation of a new disciplinary body to enforce OPEC's prices and production levels in time for the Geneva meeting.

OPEC has been steadily losing market share to independent producers even though some members have been giving discounts, undercutting official prices of $26.50 to $28.65 a barrel of crude oil, depending on quality.

The cartel also is operating under a daily production ceiling of 16 million barrels a day in an attempt to reduce the world oil glut and force up prices.

Saudi Arabia as OPEC's market policeman, has had to absorb most of the decline in OPEC's total output while other members were exceeding their quotas and offering discounts to sell more oil.

At the outset of the three-day meeting, Saudi Arabia indicated it wanted a price cut, but Indonesian Oil Minister Dr. Subroto, who presided over the talks that ended Sunday, said all 13 ministers were in agreement in the end.

"The consultative meeting finished its work with a consensus to continue with the present OPEC (price) structure," Subroto told reporters. "We continue with the production ceiling."

Subroto also said the ministers agreed that "direct and indirect discounts are to be discontinued and previous commitments to offer discounts are to be phased out as soon as possible."

One of the main issues of the conference was flagrant cheating by OPEC members.

Mana Said al Oteiba, United Arab Emirates oil minister and a Saudi ally, said crude oil prices could drop "to a very low bottom," even to $1 a barrel, if the market degenerated into a competitive free-for-all.

One unspoken threat throughout the meeting was that the Saudis, if provoked, could drop prices and boost their daily output to six times the current trickle of 1.7 million barrels, driving marginal producers from the market.

Asked about this after the meeting, Algerian Oil Minister Belkacem Nabl said: "Saudi Arabia is a founder of OPEC. I trust it will respect its engagements."

Nigerian Oil Minister Tam David-West also rejected the idea that the meeting was a showdown between the Saudis and the other 12 members.

Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani, the Saudi oil minister, made no public statements and was rarely seen outside the private talks.

times in a class period a teacher smiles.

"One might assume the more a teacher smiles in a class period, the better. But it appears that there is some appropriate number of acceptable smiles. If the appropriate number of smiles is four and a teacher smiles eight times, that's as bad as if he or she didn't smile at all," Mrs. Coleman said.

"There was this magical number of such behaviors and we were never sure what that number was and how it was determined. Many principals said when the scores came back, that they were devastated. They knew how they had marked the instruments and they were appalled to be told the evaluation was not satisfactory and the teacher was not meritorious," she said.

Mrs. Minshall explained that evaluators did not take into consideration several factors like economic background of the students and their IQ's. Some students are more receptive to learning than others and therefore reflect better on the teacher.

"The written test was very fair. It was objective and only about 2,000 passed," Minshall said. "But the classroom evaluation was a fluke. It could not detect good teachers."

She said teachers may have changed their style when an evaluator came into the classroom. Teachers know what the evaluators are looking for, she said.

"They came into the classroom and put down little check marks and left," Mrs. Minshall said.

She said she knew of two other teachers who scored as well she did on the written test but did not get the award.

"One teacher scored the same as I did on the written portion and did as well as I did on the classroom evaluation, but because the form and arrived a day or two late, it was thrown out," she said. "Another teacher forgot to put her social security number on a form and it too was thrown out."

Ann Neiswender, director of personnel for Seminole County schools, said the classroom evaluation system implemented by the D.O.E. to measure teachers for Merit Pay was created to assess the abilities of beginning teachers.

"That whole evaluation system was set up to measure the performance of a beginning teacher," Mrs. Neiswender said. "It is supposed to measure the very basic generic competency of a teacher in a classroom. And it works very well for that purpose. But it was never intended by the people who wrote it to be used in competition," she said.

Mrs. Coleman said, "I am not surprised at all the response from teachers is one of dismay and unhappiness. What about a 15 or 20-year teacher who has devoted a lifetime to the profession? In spite of doing an outstanding job, he is told by the state 'you do not merit meritorious pay.' But we know that teacher is a meritorious teacher. For the state to seemingly arbitrarily determine that that teacher is not worthy of Merit Pay would have to be interpreted as a slap in the face."

Mrs. Coleman also said some teachers did not even bother to apply for the pay because they believed the system was unfair.

"It has been a difficult decision for every teacher involved. $3,000 is a lot of money. We're talking about a profession in which the starting pay is less than $15,000."

"There are a significant number of teachers who say the system will do nothing to enhance the profession."

"You have to acknowledge that this system could very seriously and adversely impact teacher morale throughout the state of Florida," Mrs. Coleman said.

Mrs. Neiswender said another concern of the school board is that the public may think Seminole county has only 69 "good" teachers and that their child may not be getting a good education unless he or she is in a class being taught by one of the 69 teachers who received merit pay.

"Teachers who won are almost embarrassed about it. Or at least embarrassed that people know who they are," Mrs. Neiswender said.

"When we were told how the system was going to work by the D.O.E. back in September, we were told that the names of teachers who won would be kept absolutely confidential and that no one would ever be able to get a list."

"We asked them how in the world could they keep that information confidential because it was public record and not in any way protected by any statutes. And the D.O.E. said 'We just won't' and, of course, they just won't," Mrs. Neiswender said.

On Florida's roadways, the accident death toll reached 33 over the holiday.

The Florida Highway Patrol said Steven Fussell, 11, of Geneva, was the sole traffic fatality in Seminole County during the holiday period which began at 6 p.m. Wednesday and ended at midnight Sunday.

Fussell was mortally injured at about 9 p.m. when he was struck by a pickup truck. The youth was riding his bike in Geneva on Harney Heights Road without his bike's lights on when he was hit by a pickup that may have been on the cyclist's side of the road avoiding potholes. Charges are pending in that case, according to the FHP.

The FHP had predicted 39 people would die during the holiday.

The toll includes the death Sunday of a male pedestrian in north Volusia County who was run over after probably falling asleep on State Road 17, and a three-death car crash in Dade County Sunday, according to reports.

Seminole County police agencies reported no serious incidents related to the holiday and said it was a quiet weekend.

Mom's Criticism Her Way Of Controlling Daughter

DEAR ABBY: Once again I have come away from a visit with my mother feeling severely depressed and inadequate. I can't remember the last time she gave me a compliment. She always finds something to criticize no matter how good I look or what I have achieved.

I could recite one example after another, but your column isn't long enough. The most recent was last week when I was a bridesmaid at my cousin's wedding. I wore a beautiful gown that showed off my slim figure. My hair and makeup were professionally done and everyone was telling me how fantastic I looked. My mother came up to me and said, "You look terrible — you're too skinny!"

I have cried my eyes out from her insults. Abby, I want so desperately to love her and feel guilty when I don't, which is most the time. I'm 25, self-supporting and have lots of friends. What is the matter with my mother? Or is it me?

SOMEWHERE IN NEW JERSEY

DEAR SOMEWHERE: It's both of you. Your mother refuses to recognize that you are a grown woman, and her constant criticism is her way of controlling you — to assure herself that she still has power over you. And even though you are self-supporting, you are still her "little girl," trying to win her approval. You could benefit from some counseling to help cut those apron strings without feeling guilty.

DEAR ABBY: What should be done in regard to a wedding gift for a relative who marries twice in four years?

I gave a substantial cash gift to a nephew when he entered into an ill-advised marriage four years ago. As expected, it bombed before the first year was over.

This nephew is "in love" again and is getting married in a couple of months. His bride has never been married and is having a big church wedding.

I and several of my relatives are in a quandary about what kind of gift to give for the second time around. These second marriages are becoming a little too frequent to suit me. I'm considering giving a small household appliance — about one-fourth the value of my first gift. Or maybe it should be just a nice congratulatory card?

PERPLEXED IN IOWA

DEAR PERPLEXED: I can understand your reluctance to pop for another substantial gift, but please consider the bride, whose only "ain" is being No. 2.

A card will do, if that's all you can afford, but I vote for a small household appliance.

DEAR ABBY: My father-in-law passed away five years ago. Eight months later, his widow passed on. They were both well into their 80s and are buried in the family plot side by side.

As of now, their graves have no markers, which I think is disgraceful. I have mentioned this to my husband several times, but he hasn't done anything about it. My husband and his brother are the only children. I have discussed this with my sister-in-law, and she feels the same way I feel about it.

As I understand it, my brother-in-law wants to put something on his father's headstone, crediting him with having served in the Army overseas for four years, but he doesn't know how to word it.

I can't see where it's important — or even proper — to put that on a headstone. All I see on headstones in modern cemeteries is the person's name, date of birth and date of death.

Do you think my sister-in-law and I should go ahead and select a headstone and have it put up? Five years in an unmarked grave is long enough.

TIRED OF WAITING

DEAR TIRED: Give your husbands a deadline (no pun intended). And if they don't get the job done, you and your sister-in-law should do it.

Girls Dance Into Finals In National Competition

Dressed in poodle skirts and bobby sox, two Longwood girls danced into the finals of the 1985 Grand National Talent Competition for dance students last week at Lake Buena Vista.

Shaney Meager, 14, and Allison Bryan, 11, won top honors in their age group in Character Dancing. The girls jitterbugged to 50's style music in a stage setting of the interior of a drugstore "teen hangout" complete with juke box.

Both girls are students at Showtime Dance Studio. They joined winners from 20 regional contests throughout the country for the four-day competition. The two came from the regional contest at Daytona this spring.

The talented girls also belong to the Showtime Performing Dance Company which performs for charity benefit shows held throughout Central Florida.

Shaney is the daughter of Mrs. Lynne Meager, and Allison's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Allen Bryan.

At the season's final meeting of the Wekiva Woman's Club, new officers for the '85-'86 slate were installed. Nancy Eaton accepted a second term as president; Laura Kro, was selected as first vice-president; Carol Roberts as second vice-president; Beverly Garrow as treasurer with Charleen Phegley and Shirley Moser as recording secretary and corresponding secretary respectively.

These officers will serve as the club's meetings resume in September.

Seminole County resident, Melva Burgess of Altamonte Springs, graduated with an Associate of Science Degree from Fairmont State College of Fairmont, W. Va., according to Dr. William G. Dunn, registrar.

Fairmont State College is a liberal arts institution with approximately 5,100 students located in northern West Virginia.

This Tuesday, July 9, has been set as the date of the annual Orange-Seminole Legislative Luncheon sponsored by the Winter Park Chamber of Commerce and United Telephone.

Seminole County legislators to attend the luncheon-discussion are Rep. Bobby Brantley (R-Longwood), Rep. Art Grindle (R-Altamonte Springs) and Rep. Carl Selph (R-Casselberry).

South Seminole Community Hospital chief of Clinical Dietetics Pamela Mosure, has been selected as a "Recognized Young Dietician" for 1985 at the Florida Dietetics Association's annual convention held in June in Orlando.

Mosure is president-elect of the East Central Florida Dietetics Association which includes Seminole, Orange, Lake, Volusia and Osceola counties.

Midshipman Joseph V. Beadles III will report to Pensacola for flight school the middle of this month. Beadles, son of Capt. and Mrs. J.W. Beadles, Jr. of Longwood, graduated from the U.S. Naval Academy in May.

The students in Shirley Wilson's second grade class at Longwood Elementary made a donation to the State of Liberty Restoration Fund at the end of the school year. The students decided that their class project would be to put their spare change each day into a large jar on Mrs. Wilson's desk.

By the end of the term, a whopping $138 was accumulated to send to the fund.

Miss Lane Bembenek of Longwood has been named as president of the Denkins Student Union for the 1985-86 academic year. Bembenek is a student at Winthrop College in Rock Hill, S. C.

The Student Union plans the general recreational activities for the campus such as concerts, films, short-courses, tournaments and games and schedules speakers, travel and special events.

Two Longwood brothers were recently awarded Eagle Badges, the highest honor given in Scouting, at an Eagle Scout of Honor Ceremony held at Sanlando United Methodist Church.

Ralph, 15, and Robert Ballentine, 14, are members of Scout Troop 830. The boys are the sons of Dr. and Mrs. Bob Ballentine. Dr. Ballentine is Scoutmaster of his sons' troop.

Hostage: We Could Have Escaped But To Where?

MIAMI (UPI) — Former TWA hijacking hostage Michael Brown said he and his fellow captives were poorly guarded during most of their 17-day ordeal but did not try to escape for fear they would be recaptured or killed.

At one point, a bewildered Amal militant dashed into the room where some of the 39 American hostages were being held and asked in broken English, "Have you seen my gun? Where's my gun? I can't find it," Brown told The Miami News.

"We thought about sneaking out and walking toward the mountains and trying to get to the Druze area, where they would probably have taken us in," Brown said. "And we could have walked over and picked up their guns because they left them lying around. But where could we have gone? The whole place is at war."

Brown, 27, and his new wife, Judy Ditchkus Brown, were on their honeymoon when TWA Flight 847 from Athens to Rome was hijacked by Muslim Shiite terrorists June 14. Brown returned home late Wednesday after being reunited with his wife in West Germany.

The Miami Beach couple, sweethearts at Virginia Tech, accepted a local hotel offer for a free honeymoon package, and Michael Brown agreed to speak to reporters at a news conference Saturday.

He said an unspoken "understanding" developed between the captives and their guards — an understanding so complete that one of the guards handed a loaded Russian AK-47 assault rifle to hostage Peter Hill so that Hill could take an imaginary potshot at an annoying rooster.

"It was just understood that (Hill) wouldn't try anything," Brown said. "They knew we weren't desperate yet. We almost always thought we were going to get out."

Judy Brown and the other women aboard the plane were freed by the terrorists a day after the hijacking.

"I suppose that was the hardest part," Brown said. "It was pretty difficult — just getting married and then being separated."

Several days after the hijacking, the original terrorists turned the hostages over to the Amal militiamen, and they were moved to a five-story apartment house. Brown said the guards did not bother to remove a large butcher knife from the kitchen of the apartment he shared with seven other hostages.

"They noticed we looked at it and they said, 'What are you going to do with it, kill yourself?' They knew what we knew, that we couldn't go anywhere."

Brown said the terrorists stationed anti-aircraft guns, rocket launchers and a "huge" truck-mounted cannon outside the apartment building, initially leaving the United States or Israel might launch a rescue attempt.

That concern quickly melted and the hostages and the Amal militiamen then began to share fears that rival gunmen would try to kidnap the Americans.

Despite that, only two Shiite guards were regularly assigned to guard the hostages, including the one who lost his gun, Brown said.

The guard, who later found the misplaced weapon, told the hostages he had learned English in school and wanted to come to the United States to live, Brown said.

"He kept saying that he wished we could go home to our families, but he couldn't do anything. He was just following orders," Brown said. "You could tell he just wished the war was gone."

Robbers
Generous
NEW YORK (UPI) — Two men who robbed a Manhattan bus driver gave the driver $8 of his cash back before running off with his wristwatch and $400, police said.

Gonzalo Gomez, 38, was robbed just before 6 p.m. Friday in Manhattan as he was about to start his bus route, said Robert Fitzpatrick, a police spokesman.

The robbers knocked on the bus door and displayed a "blue shield." When he opened the door, they told Gomez they wanted to talk to him at the rear of the bus, Fitzpatrick said.

When Gomez got to the back of the bus, the men told him they were not police officers and pulled out a revolver with a brown handle.

"We're here to rob you," they said.

Gomez gave the two men $408 and his watch, but one of the robbers handed $8 back, saying, "You might need this."

An Rh Baby's Blood May Require 'Washing'

DEAR DR. GOTT — What is the Rh factor and how does it complicate childbirth for an Rh negative woman?

DEAR READER — Blood cells are coated with proteins that are like fingerprints: they identify the bearer. The simplest classification of blood types is based on the Rh factor. Every living person is either Rh positive or Rh negative. The Rh designation was derived from early blood-grouping work that involved the rhesus monkey. When you are Rh positive, you carry the Rh protein; when Rh negative, you are free of it.

If an Rh-negative woman conceives a child by an Rh-positive father, the baby may inherit the father's Rh-positive blood group. As the fetus grows and forms its own blood, traces of this blood enter the mother's circulation through the placenta. In an Rh-negative mother, the baby's Rh-positive blood is immediately perceived as a threat, as something dangerously foreign. Her own immune system begins making anti-Rh antibody to protect her. This anti-Rh substance enters the baby's circulation and begins to methodically destroy the baby's Rh-positive blood cells.

At birth, such a child will be anemic and jaundiced from mother-induced blood-cell breakdown. In a fundamental sense, the child has been uncontrollably poisoned by its own mother.

Before the advent of exchange transfusions, Rh babies suffered a high mortality rate. Now, with present techniques, the situation is completely treatable but may require that the baby's entire blood volume be washed out and exchanged with new blood. Since the infant after birth is "free-living," he can then happily go about making his own Rh-positive blood, while the mother makes her own brand of Rh negative.

Repeated, incompatible pregnancies result in more and more anti-Rh factor; the mother's immune system "remembers" the preceding pregnancies. Therefore, while the first Rh baby may be only mildly affected, subsequent children will be progressively more af-licted by this strange interaction between a mother and her unborn child.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My leg veins have become prominent and swollen, and sometimes my legs feel very weak if I stand or lift something heavy. This doesn't make sense to me, since I'm athletic, in my 20s and am not overweight. Varicose veins don't run in my family. What could cause this?

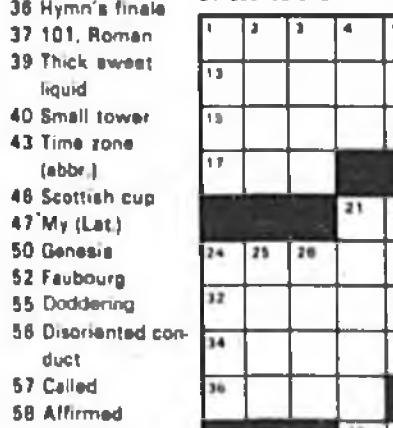

DEAR READER — You probably have inherited a weakness in the walls of your leg veins. If you stand a great deal, the pressure of the columns of blood in these veins can cause the vessels to stretch and become more prominent. You can prevent further vein distension by providing artificial support for the walls of the weak vessels. Use elastic stockings when you are on your feet.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
 At rubber bridge, making the contract is of paramount importance. Overtricks are sneered at, the macho player being one who does not make the maximum number of tricks on any hand.

Rather, what is most admired is the ability to protect against calamity and bring home the contract. Applaud with me if you will the careful tactics of today's declarer.

Against four hearts, West tabled the spade king, South won the ace and immediately played back a low heart to East. Declarer ruffed the spade continuation low and was now in a make-or-break posture. You can see what happens if declarer plays a high heart. The fact that East began with four trumps will place the defenders in control. If South plays to the club queen, he will lose at least two club tricks to go with his two trump losers. If he cashes the other high trump and plays on diamonds, East will ruff in on the third diamond and return a spade, almost certainly defeating the hand two tricks.

South found the easy solution. After trumping the second spade, he led another small heart from his hand.

This cautious play sacrifices the overtrick when hearts split 3-2, but guarantees the contract even against the less likely 4-1 division.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY JULY 9, 1985
 This will be a year of expanded opportunities for you. Handle what transpires wisely because it could mean a dramatic improvement in your status.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) Career conditions are favorable today, provided you don't trip over your own shoestrings. Watch your footing. Trying to patch up a romance? The Matchmaker set can help you understand what it might take to make the relationship work. To get yours mail $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Today, you may agree to do something, but when you later discover you made a bum deal, you'll want to back out of it.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Financial conditions look pro-missing for you today, provided you're prepared to work for what you hope to receive. Wishful thinking won't enrich you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'll be fortunate today in getting the cooperation of subordinates, but this may not compensate for your difficulties in dealing with higher authorities.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Setze the initiative today and do things for those you love without being asked. The bloom will be taken from the rose if they have to beg for your aid.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Creative ideas that flash into your mind today will be of considerable value. However, doubting companions may do their best to try to convince you otherwise.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your concepts regarding family finances may not receive acceptance from your mate today. Later, he or she might sheepishly admit you were right.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Just because things get off to a good start today, it does not necessarily mean they will end up as they began. Don't get lazy and let your guard down.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Continue to monitor your resources prudently today. You won't get into a bind if you handle your finances realistically.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You may be receiving some good news shortly. It'll be more of a personal benefit for you than for anyone else involved.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) To succeed today, you must be continuously optimistic. If you start letting negative things enter your mind, you'll severely dilute your chances.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You're apt to be in a gregarious mood today and you'll enjoy being with your friends. However, when the bill is presented, let your pals participate in the payment.
