Gearing Up Gridders: Protection's The Game

Monday, Aug. 22, 1977: Dress rehearsal time for the area high school football players, as they begin their first week of practice in full protective equipment. The all-out practices illustrate there is a lot more to the game than just grabbing a helmet and pads before the game and running on the field to play.

The protective gear plays a major role in the game. It is complicated work getting a team fitted for equipment, while at the same time trying to get the players on the squad in top physical shape. Physical condition has just as big a part in the safety of a ballplayer as does his protective equipment

If a player is not in top condition, he is vulnerable and an easy target for injury. Weight training and other conditioning programs are all part of the precautions taken to prevent serious injury.

There are many different types of gear that can be worn. Take Seminole High, for example. It is not your average school when it comes to safety measures. Coach Jerry Posey and trainer Jim Terwilleger pride themselves on having the most up-to-date equipment and

All the equipment used by Seminole High has been approved by the National Operating Committee on Standards for Athletic Equipment (NOCSAE).

SHS is only one of two schools in the central Florida area that has a fulltime trainer. Lyman is the other.

The main chore of a trainer is to keep a watchful eye

ment and the training procedure used during the hot afternoon workouts. Terwilleger is a certified athletic trainer and has been at Seminole for the last five years. In the past few years, many provisions have been made to improve equipment used in prep football games. The Seminole helmet, for instance, features the latest face masks that can be removed with a simple snip of a scissors on the release tabs, enabling a doctor to work on a player with head injuries without forcing his helmet off and possibly causing other damage. In the past the whole helmet would have to be taken apart with bolts removed, thus slowing down treatment. Another added feature on the helmet is the neck brace at the base of the helmet to keep it from moving around on the head. The new pads in the helmet and all other equipment must meet certain requirements before they are sold. Each helmet must be able to absorb one blow per In addition to this protection, Seminole footballers wear conventional mouth pieces which can be attached to the face guard of the helmet. A new four-snap chin guard also aids in keeping the helmet in place.

Shoulder pads are next in the long line of equipment Each player has to be fitted according to his physical size as well as the position he plays. Backs and receivers who are in constant contact with the ball must wear smaller pads enabling them to move

Like the helmet and all the other equipment they are checked and re-conditioned every year. Hip pads and thigh pads also are used. The hip pads that Seminole has, replace the old girdle

$31 Million County Budget Faces September Hearings

By MARK WEINBERG Herald Staff Writer

About one-third of the $30.7 million to operate the Seminole County government in the fiscal year beginning in October will come from the federal and state governments, according to figures released by county budget director Pat Glisson. Federal and state funding of $4.2 million was one-fifth of the cost of running county government in the fiscal year ending in Countywide property tax revenues for the upcoming fiscal year will support 35 per cent of the cost of county government, a slightly higher percentage than federal and state support of 31 per cent, Glisson said.

The reason federal and state support of county government is increasing from 20 per cent in the current fiscal year to 31 per cent in the upcoming fiscal year is due largely to an increase in federal funding of the manpower program, called the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA)

Federal CETA funding from the federal government for public service (government and non-profit organization) jobs will increase from $1,122,974 in the current fiscal year to $4,689,073 in the new fiscal year, budget of $30.7 million.

Pilot On Skyjacker: 'Didn't Seem Rational'

DENVER (AP) - "He didn't seem to be very rational. He told us not to turn around, to look straight ahead," said pilot Dave Bender of a man who burst into the cockpit and said he had a bomb. The hijacker reportedly told the crew of the Western Airlines flight that he wanted to be set down in Salt Lake City - or in Mexico, Kansas City or Milwaukee. When the Boeing 707 landed safely in Salt Lake City Jerry Richard Mills, 36, of Escondido, Calif surrendered to FBI agents and police on the runway, authorities said. No one was hurt and no bomb was found.

U.S. May Sue Over Tris

WASHINGTON (AP) - The government is revising its strategy for cracking down on sales of children's sleepwear treated with Tris, a controversial flame-retardant. The Consumer Product Safety Commission is considering filing court suits nationwide following a federal judge's decision voiding its ban against the sales, Chairman S. John Byington says in a telephone interview.

Vance's four-day visit is the first high-level U.S.-Chinese meeting in two years.

Philippines Granting Amnesty

MANILA, The Philippines (AP) -President Ferdinand E. Marcos told a conference on human rights today he will ease martial law by granting amnesty for subversives, lifting a nationwide curfew and ending a ban on foreign travel. He also promised to hold local elections next year and to set an election date for all other government positions. There have been no elections since Marcos imposed martial law on Sept. 23.

Rhodesia Hunts Guerrillas

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) - Security forces are hunting a band of black nationalist guerrillas who attacked the black living quarters on a farm in eastern Rhodesia and slaughtered 16 men, women and children. Some of the victims were herded into a circle and shot, others bayoneted, and one was burned to death when the guerrillas set fire to the compound, officials reported. ### Let's Consider The Inhumanity

Thoughtful people over the centuries have never been comfortable when quantum developments occurred in the technology of weapons of destruction. The discomfort intensified greatly with the advent of the atomic age.

Cost of weapons also has been troublesome, not only today when an airplane can cost more than $100 million, but also in the old days. On one occasion President Calvin Coolidge is said to have asked why the Army and Navy could not share an aircraft and take turns flying it - after both services had asked for the new machine.

The old arguments about how many weapons are too many and the costs of defense systems also are very much in the minds of Americans these days as the nation discusses the merits and demerits of B-1 bombers, cruise missiles and the neutron bomb. Recently, President Carter decided to stress the cruise missile program when he concluded that the cost of the B-1 bomber was excessive. And now Congress is debating the Pentagon's desire to deploy the neutron bombs, which kill the following arguments: 1. It's an inhumane weapon because it kills people but leaves property relatively unscathed. 2. A president would be more likely to order the use of the neutron weapon because it is precise and would not invite retaliation by intercontinental missiles and an all-out nuclear war.

3. Short of total nuclear war, use of a neutron bomb would invite battlefield retaliation from an enemy, with bombs that might be atomically

4. Deployment of the neutron bomb would simply add to existing nuclear overkill capabilities in the world - and set back diplomatic efforts to reduce doomsday armament levels.

These are serious and thoughtful concerns that cannot be dismissed lightly. But the counterarguments also have merit.

 No weapon intended to kill another human being is humane: it's a matter of degree. The neutron bomb is smaller than the present tactical nuclear weapons deployed in West Europe. The neutron weapons would probably kill fewer innocent people than the present weapons. And don't scoff at those who try to save property. Not the the lack of transportation, housing, utilities and

2. The purpose of American defense is to deter the enemy, not our president. The United States will not start a war.

3. The Warsaw Pact troops could have a neutron bomb or a dirtier one - and they might dare to use it. The idea is to make the risk of using such weapons too great for the enemy to take.

4. All "overkill" arguments are asked on the premise that mass and volume are substitutes for precision and sophistication. Henery Kissinger

"For God's sake, what do you do with strategic superiority?" He and many others make good arguments that there never will be a deliberate strategic nuclear war because the consequences are too terrible. But does anybody suggest that there will never be another war? And if a conventional land war erupted in Europe, the United States could not use Minuteman missiles to stop enemy troops. Even if present atomic tactical weapons were used, they would destroy our allies in the effort to save them.

Is the neutron warhead an American effort to make war less devastating by saving lives of innocent persons, as well as their homes and businesses? We don't know the answer. But in the real world of 1977, it is a question we all must seriously consider.

The lights are off around the portion of the Sanford lakefront in county territory - from Mangoustine west to I-4.

The Sanford City Commission after discussing for at least the last two years during budget sessions the possibility of turning off the lights and saving the maintenance and energy costs it has been paying for the nearly 10 years, voted 3-2 early this month to order them out.

The commissioners took the action as an economy move, deciding to save where it could in an already tight budget submitted by City Manager W. E. Knowles.

In a reconsideration asked by district County Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff the vote came out exactly the same this week, with Mayor Lee P. Moore, and Commissioners John Morris and A. A. McClanahan opting to discontinue the service in county territory and Commissioners Julian Stenstrom and Eddie Keith favoring the lights.

As Keith said the lighted lakefront from the interstate highway was a beautiful sight. He added that some groups are talking about the possibility of raising the money to pay the energy costs.

Whirlwind Of Illegal Activity

WASHINGTON - It's a round-the-world tour of illegality and impropriety, involving politicians in the United States, customs officials in Morocco and Iran, purchasing agents in Mexico and tax authorities in Venezuela.

In addition to those government officials, there are highpriced consultants, potentially troublesome labor leaders and a host of others spread all across the globe who were the recipients of millions of dollars in questionable payments doled out by one American firm during the past 20 years.

The company is the General Tire & Rubber Co., and the revelation of its highly unusual financial activities comes in a report which the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) forced the firm to file recently in U.S. District

General Tire is one of almost 500 companies induced by SEC legal pressure to make such disclosures, but its report is distinguished by the depth and breadth of the activities involved. That document, in the words of one observer, "chronicles one of the most extensive cases of questionable or illegal payments by a corporation since the SEC began probing such corporate illegalities some three years ago." Was General Tire interested in perusing the confidential tax returns of competitors in Venezuela? An employe of that country's Ministry of the Treasury was indirectly paid $1,100 for the information, with the expenditure described on a company expense account as "market research." Was General Tire anxious to build a plant for the production of liquified natural gas in Algeria? The company honored a previous commitment made a newly acquired subsidiary THE LONDON ECONOMIST to pay more than $10 million to various "consultants" and "agents" who helped to secure the lucrative contract. Did General Tire want to abandon its commitment to build a communications satellite ground station in Morocco? A former official of that country's government was promised a fee if known in Europe since the 18th century and has textile manufacturers themselves suggests that

The other day federal agents raided offices of the the Church of Scientology in Los Angeles and Washington, D.C., and carried away quantities of documents the government says were illegally taken from its extensive files on the group by convert Scientology agents.

Scientology, which enjoys tax-exempt status and claims three million members in this country, has been under government scruity for years, chiefly because of an unusual counseling technique that some critics say is "mind con-

South Korean Rev. Sun Myung Moon's Unification Church is another group that has been accused of practicing mind control on its converts. Cases involving the forcible "deprogramming" of converts have been much in the news and frequently in the courts.

Then there is the Universal Life Church in California, whose only apparent function is to ordain as a minister anyone who pays the mailorder fee. Each diploma is good for unlimited tax exemption benefits - supposedly.

Compounding the situation are at least two U.S. Supreme Court decisions which have expanded the definition of "religion" to include such nonworshipping groups as Humanism and Ethical Culture.

Because all taxpayers must indirectly pay for the support of all tax-exempt organizations, it is time we asked ourselves where the mushrooming of groups claiming tax and other preferences on religious grounds might be taking

JACK ANDERSON AND LES WHITTEN Is Interior Department Helping Hunters?

WASHINGTON - The big game hunters who are slaughtering endangered animals may have found an ally at the Interior Dept.

The hunters are taking careful aim at the list of endangered species, which protects such rapidly vanishing animals as the leopard, zebra, antelope, quail and Mexican duck. If the hunters water down the safeguards, they will be able to kill and import greater numbers of the imperiled animals. Should restrictions be lifted, for example, the sleek leopard may soon be seen nowhere except in the windows of chic fur salons. Until recently, the United States has been leading the fight against wholesale slaughter of endangered animals. But that policy has now been jeopardized by the Interior Dept.'s top official in charge of protecting wildlife. He is the pipe-smoking, personable Robert Herbst, who has quietly caved in to the demands of the hunting lobby. He will permit a hunter to be one of two private U.S. representatives to an international conference which will decide whether many endangered species will survive. That decision, furned one environmentalist, "is like sending a member of the Ku Klux Klan to an international conference on human rights to provide 'balance' to the delegation." Herbst insists, however, that the hunters should have a vote at the convention. "They represent a certain element of the conservation community that has a right to be heard," he told us. "I just saw it as a fair thing to do." Herbst made up his mind after huddling privately with three officials of Safari Clubs International. Even though the hunters fiercely oppose U.S. policy on endangered species, Herbst permitted the Safari officials to choose one of their own to attend the conference.

Growled one Interior official: "Everybody found out about it after the fact."

Dr. Richards, formerly a successful eye surgeon named Richard Raskind, had suffered years of torment of wishing to be a woman instead of a man - a medical oddity touching tens of thousands. The U.S. Tennis Association and the Women's Tennis Association both over-reacted. They expressed alarm that there might be a rash of such operations. W.E. "Slew" Hester, USTA president, even dredged up a 6-foot-8, 240-pound monster in Texas with designs on Chris Evert's crown.

It all was a bit ridiculous. Anyone who has seen Renee play - 43 years old now, tall, gawky, slow-footed - should realize she is not a threat to anyone. But that is immaterial. The important thing is that she is a human being asking only for human rights.
