

Assistant Superintendent Cites Employee Need Crime Lab Official Says Facility Is Overloaded

By ED PRICKETT
Herald Staff Writer

The Sanford Crime Lab is operating at full capacity and will not be able to handle any additional work load, the lab's assistant superintendent said today.

Also, according to Asst. Supt. Chandler Smith, the lab needs more positions than those funded Thursday by the Florida Senate. The Senate-approved measure provides funds for 57 positions in the Sanford and Tallahassee.

Chandler said the local facility needs 38 positions, as opposed to the 23 employees presently working at the crime lab. There is also the chance that the Sanford lab will be expected to assume the work loads of the two labs being phased out in Jacksonville and Tampa.

But Chandler says if that's what legislators have in mind, they can forget it.

"We can't stand anymore work load. We need more people to do what we're doing now. We couldn't possibly take anymore work from anybody else."

—Chandler Smith

But a conference committee will work out the difference between the House's 128 positions and the 57 funded by the Senate.

Interestingly enough the House measure does not consolidate Florida's six crime labs into two, as does the Senate measure. That's something else the conference committee will be expected to work out.

Initially, a Senate subcommittee recommended the phasing of the Sanford facility. Labs were to be located in Jacksonville, Tampa and Miami.

Then the full Senate reversed that proposal and agreed to consolidate all labs at two sites — Sanford and Tallahassee.

According to Ken Plante, R-Winter Park, the entire consolidation move is aimed at saving money. Plante said the initial Senate subcommittee's recommendation would have saved almost $1-million.

The Senate allocated $1.2-million for labs in Sanford and Tallahassee. That amount provides funds for only 57 positions.

Some legislators maintained all the state's labs were needed to fight the growing crime rate in this state.

But the majority of senators voted against that contention, saying the FBI has only one lab in the entire state of Washington. Lawmakers in favor of consolidation say the sole FBI lab handles cases for the entire state. And, it does a good job, lawmakers maintain.

Officers Say Mother Killed Children Murder, Suicide Ruled In Deaths

Sheriff's investigators said today, following autopsies, that a Forest City woman murdered her two small children in their beds Thursday morning and then hanged herself in a utility room at their Westwood Drive residence.

Sheriff's Capt. L. J. Kriz identified the victims as Mrs. Sandra DeGroot Morris, 30, her daughter, Reagan, 3, and son, Kyle, 6, of Route Two, Box 5200, Maitland.

Kriz said autopsies today by Seminole County Medical Examiner Dr. G.V. Garay showed Mrs. Morris' death was caused by apoplexy, the little girl was manually strangled and the son, a first-grader, bled to death after being stabbed in the throat.

Kriz said evidence in the death house leads investigators to believe that Reagan Morris, who was dressed in regular clothing, was strangled in her bedroom sometime between 7:30 and 8 a.m. and then Kyle Morris was stabbed once in the neck with a hunting knife with a four-inch blade.

Investigators said the boy was dressed in pajamas and that the bodies of both children were found face down in their separate bedrooms.

Kriz said after the children were killed, officers believe Mrs. Morris went into the utility room at the opposite end of the house and stepped up onto a chair and hanged herself using a pencil-thin nylon line tied to a rafter through an attic opening.

Kriz said the three deaths have been ruled double-murder and suicide and an investigation is continuing under the direction of Detective Sgt. George Hagood.

Investigators said Mrs. Anna Harris, of Orlando, the children's grandmother, discovered the children's bodies in the separate bedrooms—about 11:30 a.m.

Neighbors in the quiet residential area off W. Brierley Road north of SR-406 at Forest City indicated to reporters that they knew little about the Morris family but had seen the Morris children playing in the yard with toys that on Thursday were on the carpet and near about 6:45 a.m. Thursday for his job, detectives said.

Charles A. Morris, an accountant employed at Titusville, said "everything was okay" when he left home after 6:45 a.m. Thursday for his job, detectives said.

Investigators said no suicide note was found in the house and that no motive for the deaths has been determined.

Officers today were talking to relatives in attempts to gather more information in the case.

Kriz said clothing worn by the three victims and other evidence from the death house is being sent to the Sanford Crime Laboratory for tests.

Investigators said Mrs. Anna Harris, of Orlando, the children's grandmother, discovered the children's bodies in the separate bedrooms—about 11:30 a.m.

In addition to showmanship, equitation and pleasure classes, there will be keyhole, cloverleaf, flag race, rickshaw poloabend and figure 8 events.

In effect for slightly more than one month, Seminole County's new county manager form of government is working like a charm, according to department chiefs who have been asked to evaluate the new structure of county government and the man who runs it—Roger Neiswander.

Machine Proves Value

The newly installed Xeroradiography machine at Seminole Memorial Hospital has already proved its value by detecting breast cancer in a number of area women. Two of the hospital's radiologic technicians have developed a presentation bringing the message of new developments in early diagnosis of this number one killer disease in middle-aged women. Michigan Crossover Votes May Give Boost To Reagan

Ford today was embarking on a campaign journey to Johnson City and Memphis, Tenn., Louisville, Ky., and Michigan, where he begins his whistlestop train tour through the state on Saturday.

Earlier today is meeting AFL-CIO President George Meany for the first time — a session that could be the key to winning victory in Michigan and a Democratic nomination.

Both Ford and Reagan hope a victory in Michigan will send their campaign on the road to victory at the GOP convention. Carter wants a victory to consolidate his position as Democratic front-runner following this week's loss in Nebraska and to stymie Udall's bid.

"We have to win a state like Michigan," Ford said. Most observers agree that a loss to Reagan in his home state could cripple Ford's campaign effort.

Ford Policy Is Realistic

An example of history repeating itself occurred when U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger warned the Soviet Union that its irresponsible intervention in African affairs cannot be tolerated by the United States.

Both the danger and irresponsibility of Soviet intervention in Africa have troubled American policy makers for many years.

Then Vice President Richard Nixon warned as long ago as 1957 that imminent independence for many African states would encourage Soviet adventurism on the continent.

President Eisenhower responded by quiet diplomacy with European countries, asking them to leave an infrastructure of government and facilities when they left Africa.

What the political complexion of Africa would have been without these efforts is hard to predict, but it is safe to say that they helped. By the same token, it is clear that they were not enough.

The Soviet Union and Communist China are deeply involved in Africa and both are trying to expand their influence by whatever means they can.

It is this communistic imperialism that will preoccupy Mr. Kissinger as he engages in intensive personal diplomacy in seven African states.

Unfortunately he will not have unquestioned unanimity of his country behind him in his efforts.

Many congressmen remember Angola and continue to attack the secretary for his use of the CIA during the Angolan dispute.

Either position is an extreme. The day has long gone when a policy of even discreet support for minority white regimes in Rhodesia and South Africa could be productive.

The administration's policy is more realistic. The United States favors self-determination, majority rule, more rapid economic development and is assisting in these goals.

Consequently, some may call it saber rattling. But the truth is that Mr. Kissinger's repeated warnings that the United States cannot tolerate Communist armed intervention are not bluster but the linchpin of our African policy.

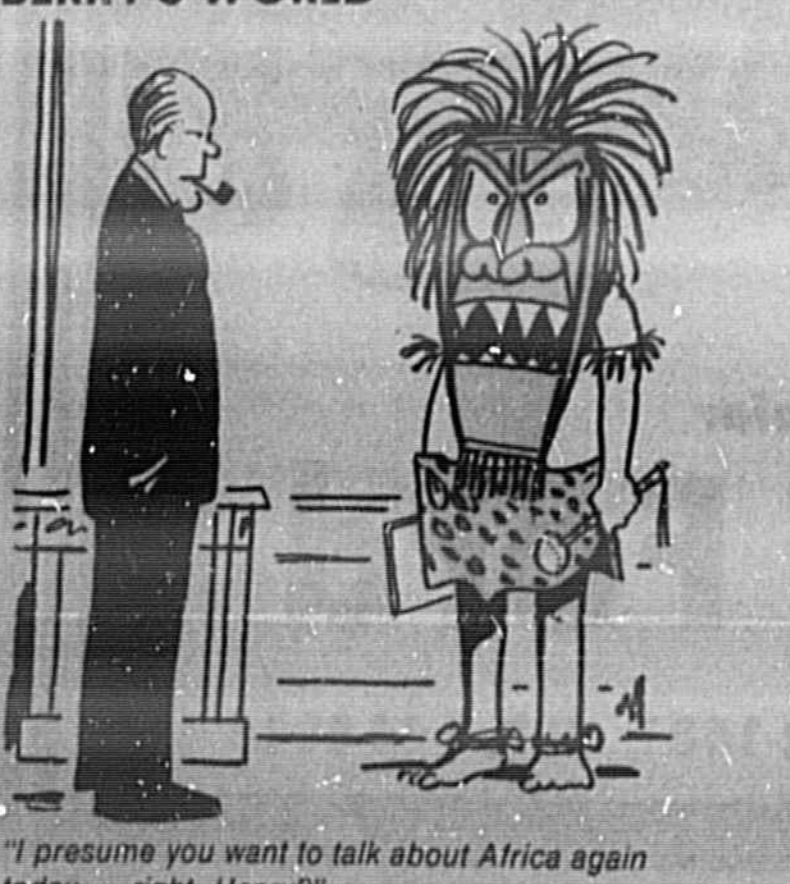

The political pendulum in Portugal made a dramatic swing from right to left two years ago following the overthrow of dictator Marcelo Caetano.

But elections on April 25 revealed that the pendulum has begun another arc, less sweeping this time and suggestive of coming to rest near the midpoint of its swing.

The Socialist Party of Mario Soares, not exactly ultraconservative out more restrained than the radical Communists, remains the most popular.

Popular Democrats, picked up enough votes to insure a strong voice in the government.

BALTIMORE — One sees it clearly in the faces of his audiences. Awe. It is the look of the

When he speaks in the presence of quote, Hiss, end quote

Once it was Ted Kennedy, then George McGovern, and, more recently, Jimmy Carter. Now it is Jerry Brown, 38-year-old governor of California, and candidate for president; those who flock to him this late primary season are engaged in the familiar ritual of anointing yet another god of politics.

Oh, yes, say those with the oils, surely this is him for whom we have long waited. He is young and handsome and he cares for us very much. Those in attendance nod their heads vigorously when he gives an opinion, laugh heartily when he makes a small joke. Women reach out to touch him, men are given new hope. The redeemer is here — so sayeth the television, so sayeth the newspapers, and, for sure, so sayeth the 38-year-old California governor.

Quiet, he is about to speak.

"We must lower our expectations."

What did he say?

He said: less is more.

Hallelujah!

It is, of course, not yet apparent how long the instant congregation will genuflect at the feet of redeemer Brown. The United States has entered into one of its rare moments of shifting outlook, and redeemer seems to be coming in and going out with the regularity of crabs in the Chesapeake. Indeed, the redeemer business is temporary at best. Not long ago, as Victor Borge reminds us, a messiah came by with a philosophy that would make us all 15 years younger; there was great rejoicing until it was remembered that the redeemer's baln would wipe out everyone in the Republic who had not yet reached puberty.

But never mind the hazards of godheads. Brown is for the moment the way of the light. When he campaigns in Maryland, he will, he says, the planes at the airport refuse to fly. Hold, he is ready to address us again. He is radiant in a dark suit, gray sideburns, and a bit of hair falling boyishly against his eyebrow. "The voices," he says, are good. "Planetary voices," he says, is the answer. There is a gentle stirring in the crowd, and agreement he is absolutely right.

"There is a lot of verbal calphornia around," he says.

"It's time for creative non-action."

Amen.

And suddenly a man in the back is reminded of a poem. "The hills will be made of marble," he says, "the meadows will be made of gold; nobody will ever get tired, and nobody will ever grow old." By damn, the good feeling is as thick as smog in the San Fernando Valley. It is a time for a New Generation of Leadership.

It is true that Jerry Brown can occasionally confuse some of those hearing his voice. His word on a national health insurance program, for instance, is that "this is a back door approach to the problem of sickness in America." Brown feels it would be ever so much if people would just take better care of themselves — not work in industries where there are unhealthy fumes, chemicals, conditions, etc.

WASHINGTON — Last fall, a mystery man calling himself "Moses" tipped us off that the giant space contractor, Rockwell International, had given gratuities to scores of government space officials.

After months of digging, we can report at least this much: Smiling Rockwell executives have taken federal officials on hunting trips, to race tracks and to football games. On these occasions, Rockwell usually has provided plenty of food and liquor.

Corporate hunting lodges at Wy Island, Md., and near Albany, Ga., were opened to space officials, depending on whether they prefer to shoot geese in Maryland or quail in Georgia. The corporate jet has also been made available to officials in need of transportation.

After the Rockwell auditors have approved the reimbursement, the lower sections of the vouchers are removed and suppressed. Despite these precautions, we have learned the names of some of the officials who have partaken of Rockwell's hospitality.

Other space officials who have been seen at Rockwell include Charles King, H. Dale Grab, Jeffrey Hamilton and Al Allarando.

Footnote: We called all the government officials who received gratuities from Rockwell. Those we reached denied any wrongful intent. A Rockwell spokesman said his company will no longer provide gratuities to government officials.

THE NEW IMPERIALISTS: It is a grim historical irony that the Soviets, who profess to be leading a world crusade against imperialism, are spreading the imperialism they cry so loudly against.

It is a new, indigenous form of imperialism which imposes Soviet tyranny upon nations in the name of peoples' democracies. This new imperialism is being carried into Southeast Asia, South America, Africa and the Middle East not by Soviets bearing arms but by Soviets bearing gifts.

The degree of tyranny varies from nation to nation. The Soviet technique is to make these nations so dependent on Moscow that slowly, inexorably, they become Soviet satellites.

A classic case is the remote former British protectorate of South Yemen. It is closed to U.S. newsprint, but we sent our associate Joe Spear to the border at the far end of the Arabian peninsula to get the story. Writing from across the border in North Yemen, where thousands of refugees have fled from the new tyranny, Spear reports:

"South Yemen has become almost a total puppet of the Soviet Union, the worst police state in the Arab world."

The Sovietizing of South Yemen began with the usual gifts — military shipments that gave the rulers the look of power. Spear reports that the small sheikhdom now has at least 20 modern MIG-21 fighter-bombers, another 20 older MIG-17s and enough support aircraft to constitute a formidable air force.

The Soviets have also supplied the South Yemeni ground troops with 250 tanks, many of them advanced T-54s and T-55s.

With this impressive military weaponry, of course, came 3,000 to 4,000 Soviet advisers and technicians ostensibly to train these South Yemenis to operate their new equipment. To give the advisory force and international flavor, the Soviets also brought in 300 to 400 East Germans and more than 200 Cubans.

The visitors are more interested in giving political than military advice. Under the guidance of the Russians, for example, the East Germans virtually run the Interior Ministry which has turned South Yemen into a Soviet-style police state.

An estimated quarter of the population is engaged in some kind of security work. As in other Communist nations, the people are encouraged to spy on one another. The interrogations are reported to be extremely harsh. Even women and children are hauled in for questioning and thrown into prison if they don't give the right answers.

The people have fled South Yemen in such numbers that smuggling individuals out of the country has become a thriving black-market business. The population, as a result, has plunged from over 1.5 million under British rule to 800,000 under Soviet influence.

Knights To Greet Visiting Queen Of Denmark

RACINE, Wis. (AP) — Two of her newly knighted "subjects" will be among those greeting Queen Margrethe II of Denmark when she visits Racine today.

Knud Hoffmeyer, 53, and Einar Damholt, 74, who came from Denmark and live in Racine, became Knights of the Order of Dannebrog Wednesday night in ceremonies in Milwaukee at the queen's decree, though the queen was not present.

The two men will be among 70 special guests attending a luncheon and reception for the 36-year-old queen and her 43-year-old husband, Prince Henrik.

The royal couple, after traveling here from Chicago, will then go to Eagle, Wis., where the queen will dedicate a restored home built by Christen Pedersen, a Danish emigrant, about 1872.

Princess Anne Rides Again

WINDSOR, England (AP) — Princess Anne is back horse-riding, three weeks after a bad fall in which she injured her back.

She looked tense and cautious as she sat aboard her favorite horse, Goodwill, on Thursday. She finished 12th in the dressage competition at the Royal Windsor horse show.

It was the first time the 25-year-old princess, only daughter of Queen Elizabeth II, had ridden since the accident April 21 in a riding event at Blandford, Dorset. Her horse hit a fence, fell and rolled on top of her. She suffered a hairline crack in a bone near a vertebra and was hospitalized for three days.

CALL ON WEEKENDS AND SAVE.

That's when long distance rates are lower. On out-of-state calls, weekend rates apply from 11 p.m. Friday until 5 p.m. Sunday. On calls within the state you get the low weekend rates from 8 a.m.—11 p.m. Saturday and 8 a.m.—5 p.m. Sunday. Evening rates apply on all calls from 5 p.m. to 11 p.m. on Sunday. Weekends are a good time to dial direct* and save.

*Members of a local telephone exchange should apply on all calls within the U.S. except Alaska. Direct dial rates do not apply to pay-per-call, coin, credit, or international calls. Check your local directory for details.

Even the sponsor of a bill approved by the state Senate admitted that any savings for consumers would be slim and possibly fleeting.

A House committee studying auto insurance has approved concepts which include abolishing the currently required $1,000 medical bill threshold before a suit may be filed for pain and suffering.

Instead, the panel suggested that such claims be paid only when the injury is "demonstrable by recognized medical technology." In other words, claims would be forbidden for those elusive "soft-tissue injuries," such as whiplash, which cannot be detected by x-rays.

The committee also favors elimination of the $5,000 personal injury protection coverage now required under no-fault. For many people, this coverage duplicates protection already available through hospitalization and workmen's compensation.

Proponents say the package would cut rates by 35 to 40 percent. Opponents, including insurance agents, say that in the long run, rates will not change because premiums for other types of insurance — such as health — would increase to keep up with the increased number of claims.

The Senate has passed a bill sponsored by Sen. Kenneth MacKay, D-Ocala, that revises the current law primarily by making it more difficult to file suit.

That measure would raise the $1,000 threshold to $3,500, and would tighten other aspects of the current law.

But lawyers, who call any attempt to restrict access to the courts unconstitutional, oppose the proposal. They argue that such an approach will discourage high awards by juries.

Some switch auto insurance companies regularly, others reduce their coverage and still others — wary of the whole business — shell out hundreds and sometimes thousands of dollars for protection.

"For nine years I couldn't buy store insurance because we are in a bad neighborhood — high crime, and they call it," said pharmacist David Weinstein of Jacksonville. "Through federal crime insurance, a pool deal, we can now buy one of three programs or a combination."

"I can only afford coverage for cash (in the store), and it costs nearly 10 percent of the maximum amount of coverage."

Diane Maderakis of Tampa said she pays $5.93 a week for auto insurance through a payroll deduction plan that saves her about $20 a year.

"It's at least double what it was two years ago and that's just regular rate increases," she said.

As in most economic crises, there are no easy solutions to the state's insurance problem — only choices.

Do you pay more money or accept less protection? Do you switch companies this year to beat a rate hike but take a chance on more increases in the coming year with the new firm? Or do you drop your auto and health insurance completely and take a chance on losing your license or suffering an enormous financial loss?

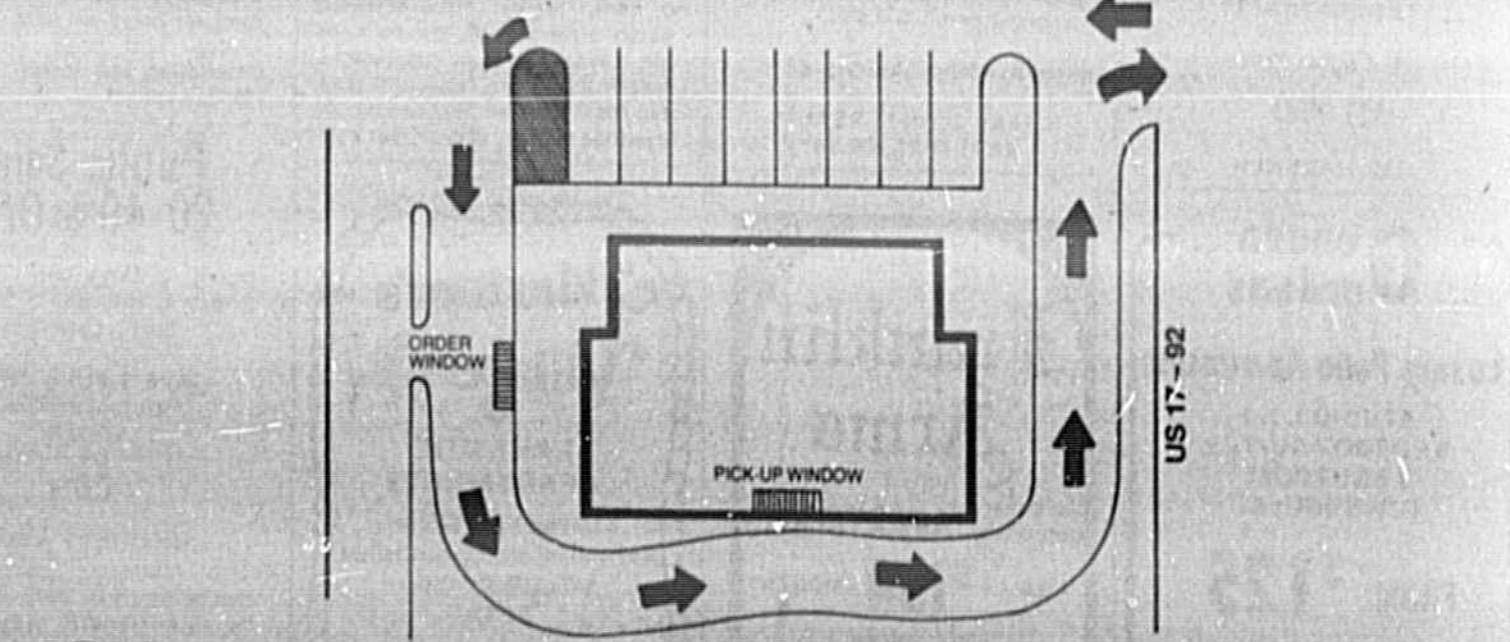

With no significant help in sight, each Floridian must decide.

Students Play 'Peanuts'

Wishy-Washy? Not This Gang!

You're a good man, Charlie Brown — and the rest of your gang are pretty fine, too.

The famous "Peanuts" gang, created by cartoonist Schultz, are brought to life with an appropriate measure of whimsy and fun by the students at Seminole High School.

Opening night of their production of "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown," in the high school auditorium Thursday night went without hitch.

More chuckles will be on hand tonight for the second and final performance. Curtain time is 7:30 p.m.

Robert Hall, in familiar V-stripped tee shirt, is suitably woebegone — but at the same time endearing — as the "blah" Charlie Brown. He loosens up beautifully in a scene entitled "Book Report," which sees him convincing himself with all the classic arguments — he's tired, he'll be much fresher tomorrow, he works better under pressure — that he should put off writing his book report until the last minute.

Meanwhile Schroeder (Bobby Newsom), Lucy (Ester Edelberg) and Linus (Buddy Echols) all get on with their homework according to their own particular style.

Schroeder, naturally, is serious about what he's doing — even if he does miss the point a little. Just the way he isn't quite tuned in to Lucy's broad hints about "when we get married!"

Lucy, as onlookers on stage as she is in the comic strips, declares she would "rather die" than admit she is wrong. She brings down the house as she postures and pouts on Schroeder's piano.

Linus, brainy and bookish, trails his "security blanket" through a succession of scenes which climax when he dances a lively jig, at the same time serenading his beloved blanket.

The real scene stealer is Peppermint Patty (T. Swift), played with all the cute-tittle-girl self awareness of a golden-curl coquette.

And then there's Snoopy — arrogant, smug, and wildly imaginative. In his fantasies he is a great jungle hero, even the Red Baron himself — and then he comes back to earth with a jolt as he almost slips off his dog house roof, so exaggerated is his posturing.

Anthony Sutton plays Snoopy, and was greeted with giggles of delight every time he strutted on stage.

Bryan Harden, Tammy Ring, Charles Turner, Maureen Kelly and Bob Maguire do a fine job in the orchestra. The production staff, visible only in the smooth change of scenes, effective lighting and pleasing make-up and costumes, also deserve commendation.

SQUARE IN ILLINOIS DEAR SQUARE: No. When children (of any age) visit their parents, they should... by the rules of the parents' home. You were far more generous than most parents would have been. Since your son preferred to stay at a motel, HE should have paid for it!

DEAR ABBY: I read in your column about the daughter who is the only one in the family who visits her sometimes senile mother in her altair half every week. Not that there's anything wrong with that, but it takes more than prayers to make people good Christians. Right, Abby?

I'll tell you a better one than that: My mother is 80, and lives in her own little house, which has no hospital odor. And she's not a bit senile. One of my brothers lives right next door to her, and he stops in to see her maybe once a month for a few minutes.

The other brother lives only 15 minutes away from her, and it's the same thing with him. Neither brother has ever offered to mow the lawn, rake the leaves, or do any painting or repairing for her. Do you know who looks after my mother? My husband — her 60-year-old son-in-law! (My brothers are not yet 50.)

By the way, my brothers run to the altar rail every week. Not that there's anything wrong with that, but it takes more than prayers to make people good Christians. Right, Abby? DISGUSTED WITH KINFOLK DEAR DISGUSTED: Right!

Our newspaper company had an awards banquet, and the invitation read: "Please wear a shirt and tie." Well, I turned down the invitation. When my adviser asked me why I didn't attend, I said, "Because I don't have a shirt and tie!" He said I was silly because if I had been there, I might have been voted paperBOY of the year.

Abby, can you do something about my problem? All of us paperGIRLS will be very grateful.

When our son returned to California, he phoned to tell us that his expenses for the trip, including the motel room, were $748, so we sent him a check but said this was the last time we would pay for a motel room since there was plenty of room at our house.

The American Revolution Had Blessings Of Clergy

By GEORGE W. CORNELL AP Religion Writer From a pulpit in the Shenandoah valley of Virginia on a Sunday in mid-1776, pastor Peter Muhlenberg took his text from Ecclesiastes 3:1: "For every thing there is a season, a time for every matter under heaven."

He finished his sermon, led a solemn prayer, then threw off his clerical robes, standing before the startled congregation in the uniform of a colonel in the Continental Army.

Church Service Revives Spirit Of '76

The Altamonte Community Church will celebrate Bicentennial Sunday with events all through the day this Sunday. At 10 a.m. the congregation will be taken 200 years back in time as Rev. Wayne E. Smith duplicates as closely as possible a service held in Congress Hall in 1776.

The seating arrangement will be unique, with the front pews reserved for the men, the middle for the women and the back for the children.

Helping the minister will be a thighbone and thighbone, whose job it will be to keep people awake and in order during the service.

Those attending the dinner from Orlédo were Jyl Eubanks, David and Cannelle Gay, Kay Rowland, and Pastor and Mrs. Bill Marr.

At 4 p.m. all will gather in the educational building where an activities period will last until 8 p.m. All types of crafts will be offered as well as discussion periods on the church and how it affected our growth and how it may affect the future.

At 7 p.m. in the main sanctuary, the Seminole Singers will present a program of patriotic songs. There will also be a Parade of Flags and a drama by the fifth and sixth graders.

Oral Roberts Getting To Know God

Question: God seems far away and unreal to me. Most of the time my prayers are nothing more than meaningless exercises. Do you think it's possible for everyone to know God in a real and personal way?

Answer: Yes, I definitely do think you can know God personally. And I think your question is one of the most important ones anyone can ask.

In fact, the first battle of the war — "the shot heard round the world" — occurred when the minister of Lexington, Mass., Jonas Clark, provided assurance in his home to revolutionary leaders Sam Adams and John Hancock, whose arrest had been ordered by the British.

When messages came of the approach of British militia, church bells and drums summoned the armed townsfolk to the common in front of the church at daybreak, April 19, 1776, and of the first seven Americans fell, one of them on the church steps where he had gone for powder.

"From this day," Clark wrote, "will be dated the liberty of the world."

Primarily, however, ministers served the cause with their teachings and exhortations on the Biblical imperative of resisting unjust encroachments on the God-given dignity and rights of every man, created in the divine image.

A pro-British Tory of the period, Judge Peter Oliver, wrote: "You take a faith rich by trusting Him with your problem, with your real self. That trust is the seed you plant, and the harvest (the answer you need) is your reward. It's a simple principle of sowing and reaping, and it's a spiritual law as well as a physical law. I can't explain it. But I know it works!"

In my new book, "A Daily Guide to Miracles and Successful Living Through Self-Faith," I discuss more fully this question of knowing God personally. I'd be glad to send you a free copy, postpaid and without obligation. Just write to me, Oral Roberts, Tulsa, Oklahoma 74102.
