

Issuing Clothes Is Comparable To Assembly Line

CAMP BUNDLING—(Special)—An Army adaptation of industrial assembly line methods clothes hundreds of Florida soldiers here daily in the record time of 45 minutes per man.

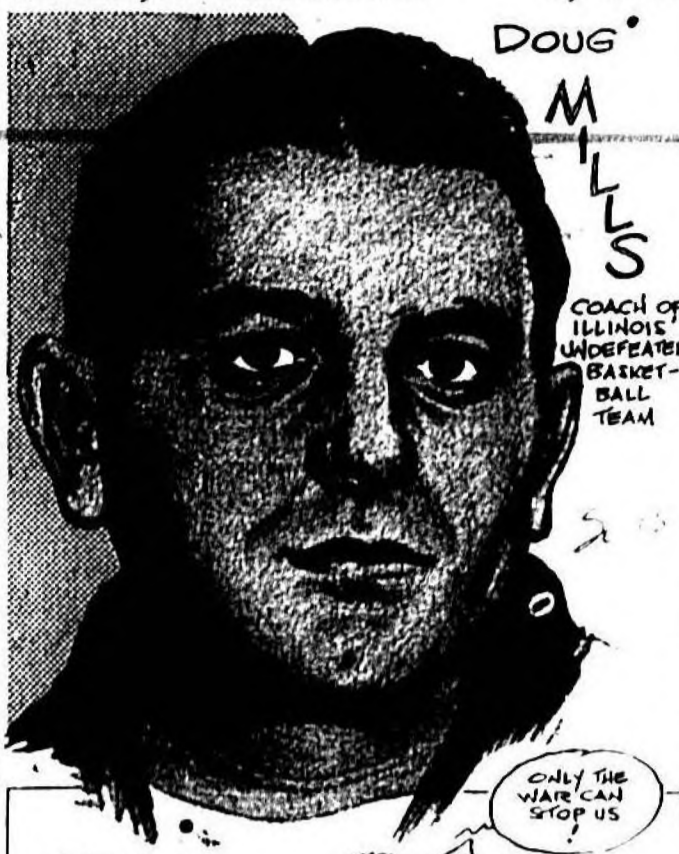

Operated under the direction of Capt. L. H. Lachiotte, the clothing assembly line is both a speedy and accurate method of clothing the large number of men who pass through the Reception Center. Out of a total of 14 items received by each man, an average of only 1 per soldier requires alteration. And according to Capt. Lachiotte, "There is no reason for a poor fit."

The warehouse which provides a roof for this rapid method of giving the new soldier his wardrobe is situated on "B" road in Blanding, close to the huts used by soldiers returning from 7-day furloughs. Daily it receives from the Quartermaster rush shipments of shoes and shirts, socks and ties, field jackets and overcoats to be fed to the assembly line where new soldiers are gradually being clothed as they pass by.

The soldier about to receive his Army outfit plunges into the camphor-scented air of the warehouse from a platform which is on the other side of the building and parallel with the one where the military habiliments are received and stored. First he passes a desk where he is checked off on a roster. Then he gets two big barracks bags, filled with 19 items such as handkerchiefs, neckties, towels—things which will not have to be fitted to him. He also puts all his civilian clothes except his shorts and socks in one of the bags.

As he passes along the line, the novice is gradually dressed in Army apparel. He tries on the clothes he is going to wear. He dons an O. D. Shirt, puts one away in his bag, and so on down the line in 45 minutes or less, including his visit to the shoe man. Contrary to popular opinion, the fitting of shoes in the Army is an exact business. Measuring machines are used, and no man is sent away with shoes which do not fit him. "After a week," says Capt. Lachiotte, "he'll be telling his buddies they're the most comfortable he has ever worn. That's because they give his ankles support."

Second Teddy Roosevelt Bounces Into Battle Leading U. S. Troops In Africa

(With the American forces on the central Tunisian front), Mar. 15.—There's another Teddy Roosevelt bouncing into battle at the head of American troops this time in a jeep called "Tough Rider."

Showing the same dash which carried his illustrious father at San Juan Hill, Brigadier General "Boss" Roosevelt Jr., his bull-frog voice ringing out greetings to privates and officers alike, is almost everywhere at the front in Tunisia acting as a combination and cheer leader. The men love this sprightly figure clad in combat jacket and G. I. khaki trousers topped by a steel helmet slightly askew.

In the first world war, two of his noted brothers served with him. Now one of his sons, Captain Quentin Roosevelt, is serving under him in North Africa, while two others sons, Theodore, the third, and Cornelius, are ensigns in Navy aviation. Quentin, field artillery officer, almost died from wounds received from a strafing enemy plane in the battle of Kasarine Pass, but he now is recovering and should be back on active duty in about a month.

"Thank God for that," said his father fervently. "I thought sure for a while we were going to lose him."

Like the Teddy of the Rough Riders, General Roosevelt thrives on the aerial snarl of burning gun power and seems to be happiest when, standing in a topless jeep, he is driving from company to company inspecting positions or climbing to the most forward observation posts where he can see the enemy at close range.

Roosevelt always is on the move, rarely passing more than a day at a division headquarters, jostling along the muddy, bumpy, dusty roads, he recites poems reeling off verses by the yard, or bums snatches of tunes. When some of his men approach in a truck, he stands up in the front seat and yells:

"You going to give it to them, boys? The grinning soldiers, salute and shout back.

The general makes it a practice to visit each unit two or three times a week, if possible. He knows the mess sergeants by name and always inquires if the boys are eating all right. He usually winds up by having a cup of black coffee from the company mess.

There's one thing out of which Roosevelt gets a particular kick, and that's handling out decorations. He tells those men who receive the Order of the Purple Heart after being wounded in action that they are receiving one of the country's proudest honors. He knows what the men have gone through, for he was wounded twice during his eighteen months overseas in the last war.

"Sure, Americans like decorations as much as anybody else," he told a group recently. "We like to pin them on and walk up and down in front of our women folk to show them what a hell of a kind of men they married."

The general is a man who loves action. As one of his subordinates put it:

"He doesn't sit back waiting, but goes out and bumps up a battle. He gets into every bit of action possible."

He commanded the first combat team which attacked Gran from the west last Nov. 8, and was with the first infantry platoon to reach its objective.

After serving through the last war, he wound up at the armistice as a colonel. He remained in the reserves during the ensuing years doing active duty from time to time. Except for a two-month period late in 1940 he has been in active service since Aug. 1940. He was made a brigadier general in December, 1941, and headed a division which went to England, and then became assistant commanding general under Major General Terry Allen.

Kiska Hit In Worst Air Attacks Of War

Navy Bombs Enemy Positions At Vila And Burma Battle Flares Intensely

WASHINGTON, Mar. 17. (AP)—The heaviest series of air attacks ever made on Kiska Island in a single day was carried out Monday, when the Navy announced today that it had sunk 30 enemy ships and destroyed 100 others in the Aleutian base six times.

Naval bombardment of Japanese Solomon positions at Vila was reported.

A new battle of Burma flared with greater intensity today as the British reported 30 hours of fighting along the Mayu River while American forces ranged far and wide to bomb bridges, highways and trucks.

Allied planes struck widely also at Japanese transports and bases in a developing battle of islands fringes around Australia.

A Japanese attack on the Akai front of Burma before the day of Bengal port at Akyah created a serious situation for the British in that area Tuesday, but Marshall's army was in position for attack that could change the picture.

The offensive advantage lay with the Japanese as they penetrated the water front on the south and north, giving the Japanese easier access to water traffic.

The fighting front is southeast of Calcutta across the bay and centers generally in the area north of Akyah, a little shellular water port with a water front of the mouth of the Mississippi. The mountains are thickly settled and the main operations in Burma. Thus the battle can be carried on relatively independent of the main show in Burma, involving British and Chinese troops.

Arakan front is like a man's right hand with its fingers pointed southward. The little finger is occupied by the British, and the middle and ring fingers are in the grasp of the Japanese.

This ring finger in turn was captured by the British in months from the base of the finger down to the extreme knuckle. Near the tip the British held by the Japanese, and the rest of the finger, which is the Mayu peninsula where most of the fighting occurred until the weekend.

Mayu is separated from the "middle finger" to the east by the Mayu River. It was in the middle finger peninsula where the fighting occurred which compelled the British and American troops to just their position to protect their east flank which the Japanese are hitting.

The British had driven the Japanese southward along this peninsula as far as Ratchabong, 25 miles north of Akyah. Ratchabong is almost due east of Dombak across the Mayu River.

Tire Inspection Deadline Is Near

A R. Peterson, rationing committee, today reminded motorists that the deadline for having tires inspected by a designated tire inspection station is near. He pointed out that the last day of the month is absolutely the final day for the inspection, and that the number of unchecked tires may easily cause a bottleneck at service establishments.

Price Ceilings On Vegetables Are Opposed By Mann

Tells Kiwanians Many Crops Are Abandoned Due To Ceiling Laws

L. R. Mann, state representative and grower, today voiced opposition to price ceilings on fresh vegetables, when he addressed Kiwanians at their luncheon at the Hotel Mayfair. He was introduced by Harold Kaatner.

Pointing out that a large percentage of the potato acreage already reduced greatly in yield by the recent freeze, had now been abandoned in this section, due to the fear of price ceilings, Rep. Mann added that "We growers may bravely face climatic conditions and pests but when bureaucrats start in on us, there is nothing we can do about it. I frankly am opposed to price ceilings on fresh vegetables."

Rep. Mann deplored the number of farm workers who are being driven from their homes, and stated that growers could not get the labor they need, and predicted that this year, in this situation, would be no different.

In putting on price ceilings on vegetables, he stated that in his opinion, the government had failed to take into account the losses of growers during the past 15 to 20 years, due to weather conditions or low prices.

"If not held down, growers will produce enough food for the nation," he concluded.

In introducing Rep. Mann, Mr. Kaatner, a produce dealer at the Sanford State Farmer's Market, stated that this is the first market of its kind in the state, was also first in pioneering new ideas for produce sales under leadership of Manager H. J. Lehman. The million dollar market in sales was erected last year, and already this year had totaled more than $900,000 in value, he added.

Mr. George C. Harden, accompanied by Mrs. P. F. Hadden, sang "A Little Bit of Heaven," and "My Wild Irish Rose," in celebration of St. Patrick's Day. Several plans were given by Mr. Mann, and they were introduced by Ed Lane.

An appeal to aid in the Red Cross Drive was made by Ned Smith, chairman of the drive, and G. E. Stevens of Orlando, was a visitor.

Black Market In Bus System Is Prevented

WASHINGTON, Mar. 17. (AP)—All vehicles carrying nine or more persons in local transportation service—buses, trolleys, trolley coaches, trucks converted for passenger use, and ferryboats—were "frozen" in their present service by the ODT today as a means of protecting war workers and school children by preventing transfer of vehicles from communities where they are needed. Sub-Committee Votes 4 To 3 For Canal Bill

Chairman Snyder Will Make No Statement On Group's Action

Washington, Mar. 17. (AP)—A member of congress, who asked he not be quoted, reported late yesterday that a House Appropriations subcommittee voted 4 to 3 to include a $4,000,000 appropriation in a pending rivers and harbors bill for construction of a large canal across Florida.

Chairman Snyder said he had no statement to make on what action the committee had taken on the question of building the canal and that he had not completed the drafting of the appropriation bill.

When a reporter advised Snyder he had been informed the committee had approved the Florida canal item, he said: "Whoever told you that talked out of turn."

Other members of the committee were equally uncommunicative.

The existing waterway between Stuart and Fort Myers should be more fully utilized before funds are spent in building another canal across the upper portion of Florida, Rep. Peterson told a closed session of the subcommittee, he revealed.

Opposition, including any appropriation in the rivers and harbors bill for construction of a new $4,000,000 cross-state Florida canal was voiced by Peterson, Rep. Cannon and Rep. Dondero.

Peterson said he told the subcommittee that if officials are concerned over the submarine threat to the main canal across the west coast of Florida, an intercoastal waterway from Tampa Springs to Punta Rassa could be built at a cost of $3,000,000.

Cannon's opposition was outlined in a statement introduced in his behalf. The congressman who is in Miami, said opposition to the canal is not confined to his district.

"This opposition is stale and intensified in the minds and expressions of the people of Florida," he stated.

He urged the committee not to spend the taxpayers' money on "an unnecessary unwanted disowned project."

Morris Comments Improvement In Paroled Youths

The four boys paroled to Herman Morris, Junior High School principal, eight weeks ago by Judge R. W. Ware, have been causing no more trouble and are doing good work at school, Mr. Morris stated this morning.

Mr. Morris stated this morning in an interview with The Herald: "They are required to be off the streets at 8:00 o'clock. Mr. Morris stated, 'and they have to report to me daily and to Judge Ware at regular intervals. A point system has been worked out with the boys under which they will be released from parole as soon as they earn 100 points which are awarded them for various meritorious acts."

Mr. Morris stated that he believes the juvenile delinquency problem in Sanford is confined to a comparatively few boys and does not reflect generally on local boys as a whole. He explained that if the trouble with these few boys is overcome the problem as a whole would be solved.

Boys At Sea Thank Red Cross Chapter

The last chapter of the Red Cross has also been congratulated by the National Production Chairman upon the well made articles sent from here that were seen in England.

The letter received by Mrs. C. E. Dawson, county chairman of the Volunteer Service, stated that United States Red Cross garments were proudly displayed by the British Red Cross and were pointed out with great pride by Mr. Philip Goodwin, the chairman.

Allied troops supported by the whole British first army paroled in the British eighth army.

Despite heavy rains in the north, the Axis continued to shell the British position. The British eighth army and German artillery were reported firing on the British eighth army.

The government will not pay the income tax on the interest on the bonds it issues.

Bread And Eggs

This bread-aling problem grows serious. The government at Washington, for reasons which seemed sound to the experts, forbade the slicing of war-time bread and decreed that Americans must do their own slicing. But after a brief trial of the old-fashioned plan, the experts passed the slicing job back to the bakers.

Canada, however, which seems to hold itself a little steadier in such world-shaking matters, goes right on making the buyer slice his own bread.

Serious trouble between neighbors might come from willful divergence. There is the classic record, for example, of the woe which came to two neighboring countries described by Dean Swift in his famous "Gulliver's Travels."

Perhaps it should be explained to Americans that those stubborn neighbors evidently used egg-cups in the most English way, thus breaking the egg delicately at the top and lifting out the contents with a small spoon.

Good evening! Have you filed your income tax report and paid your first quarter? Have you had your tires checked? Have you bought your quota of bonds for the month?

Have you made your annual contribution to the Red Cross—and made it a little bigger this year, thinking of Johnny Doughboy in Africa or Guadalcanal?

Whether soft coal miners in eastern states should have a raise of $2 a day is a question that most people in this country could hardly answer without information that they don't possess.

People in the pleasure-banned districts, of course, must be patient a little while longer. But their day is coming, too.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

Tim Sellar of Leesburg, attorney for the Florida Dry Cleaning and Laundry Board, got out a bulletin to the industry the other day which contained advice so sound and pertinent that it might well have been broadcast to every citizen and taxpayer in Florida.

It had to do with the coming session of the legislature, and I quote it here as worthy of your earnest and thoughtful consideration.

They demand more parks and playgrounds, bigger and better public buildings, pensions for the aged, day nurseries for the children, better roads, free school books or what have you, and completely free education for every child.

They will be lobbied to the point of exasperation and they will lose many nights sleep trying to figure their way in and out of situations. Why? Because, we the people want them, within this short period of time, to do everything possible for the good of the county or city in which we live.

Your senator and members of the house want to do just what you want them to do. But if you don't vote, they will not know what you want.

Don't let them do it for you. Vote for the man you want to represent you in the legislature.

Vote for the man who will stand for you against the interests of the few and for the interests of the many.

Vote for the man who will stand for you against the interests of the few and for the interests of the many.

Madam Chiang Has Received 20,000 Letters In US

NEW YORK, Mar. 17, (AP) — Since Madam Chiang Kai-shek, wife of China's generalissimo, arrived in the United States last November, she has received more than 20,000 telegrams and letters, containing expressions of admiration and miscellaneous requests from Americans in all sections of the country, it was revealed yesterday.

Madam Chiang is passing the week-end resting in her suite in the Waldorf-Astoria. Tomorrow, preparatory to the completion of her nationwide tour, next Thursday according to present plans, China's First Lady and the members of her entourage will reach Chicago.

Visits to Los Angeles and San Francisco are included in Madam Chiang's itinerary.

The messages, Madam Chiang has received, are mostly from the outpouring of Americans who have expressed a typically American enthusiasm for her. Madam Chiang began her public appearances in her arrival in Washington on Feb. 12, as the guest of President and Mrs. Roosevelt. Hundreds of letters have been daily making it necessary for the members of Madam Chiang's secretariat to set aside a separate table for each day's batch.

Madam Chiang Kai-shek and her entourage are seen here at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York City, where they are staying during their visit to the United States.

States Consider Plans To Construct Express Highways

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP) — Federal States already have more than 10,000 miles of express highways under construction, it was revealed here today.

Thomas H. MacDonald, director of the Federal Road Administration, said that the States are now planning to build 100,000 miles of express highways in the next five years.

These future highways were described as limited access roads designed to serve through traffic rather than "drift" property. The Pennsylvania Turnpike and the Merritt Parkway in Connecticut are early examples. Traffic is permitted to enter and leave these roads only at certain selected points. These particular highways are toll roads but limited access is contemplated for the future.

Many States cannot now build these advanced motorways, Mr. MacDonald pointed out, because of the lack of certain legislation that would permit the States to acquire land for the roads and to issue bonds to finance them.

States building roads that are not limited access roads are still in the early stages of planning, he added.

HOLLYWOOD

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD, Mar. 17. — "Last December producer Carl Laemmle sent for the sound engineer a script called 'The Boy From Stalingrad'." Among its plot points is one in which a Russian boy, 12 years old goes to Nazi headquarters on pretext to something in the German command. The Russian plans of attack then become and blows up the plane and all in it, including himself.

Studio people viewing a rough cut of the picture feared the scene would be incredible. They were relieved to read a recent magazine account in which the role of a young Russian boy was held to be a boy using the same pretext, the same weapon with the same results.

Among the film stars to be seen in the picture are: John Garfield, who will play the boy; and James Cagney, who will play the German commandant.

Mrs. Dea Amich, 43, announced she had accepted a contract for a picture to be made by the studio. It is a picture about a boy who has been a soldier in the army and has been a prisoner of war. He is now back in the States and is looking for a job. He has a lot of money and is looking for a girl. The picture is called 'The Boy From Stalingrad'.

Germans Speed Up Recent Offensive In Kharkov Sector

In Central Russia, Russians Advance To Site 40 Miles Nearer Smolensk

(By Associated Press)

Soviet dispatches reported a gigantic tank battle fought under skies alive with planes was raging in the Donets River valley below Kharkov as the Germans stepped up the fury of their comeback offensive. Soviet headquarters claimed the Red armies were stubbornly holding their lines.

On the central front, a Russian communique reported the capture of 22 more towns south of Bely as Red armies drove roughshod over German defenses with Russian vanguards reported only 40 miles from Smolensk.

Driving ahead, apparently from a bridgehead near Chuguyev, which itself is on the German side of the new Russian Donets river line, the Russians won a series of favorable positions.

At times, the midnight communique said, the Germans hurled their men against the Russians holding the captured ground, and each time they were thrown back.

Northwest of Kursk, where, in the area west of Sevsk, the Germans had threatened the main Bryansk-Kiev railroad, the Red army command threw cavalrymen into action to meet a fierce attack by superior German tanks and infantry forces, the midnight bulletin said.

The enemy suffered heavy losses and left dozens of machine tanks and trucks on the battlefield. The communique noted the remnants of the German force numbered about 300 Hitlerites and captured arms.

The position of the area west of Sevsk was still in doubt, the communique said, despite all the heavy attacks to throw the Red army from its positions.

The German command reported that the German Bryansk-Orel position, however, still held.

It is claimed that the Germans still are attacking westward only a short distance from Belgorod, on the main Kharkov-Moscow railway north of Kharkov.

The midnight communique said the Russians Wednesday captured several dozen inhabited places in their Smolensk front. The enemy retreated to meet tank-infantry counterattacks.

In another Smolensk front sector the Russians made another advance into action to meet the Dnieper river, the midnight bulletin said, and continued to capture several enemy strong points.

In addition, the Russians advanced through slush and mud, striking first at Yartsevo and the railroad station to the east in order to gain a line for a later attack on Smolensk, were now spearheaded by heavy gunners and light machine gunners operating far ahead of the main forces and cooperating with the guerrillas.

Kiska U-Boat Base Struck 3 Times Tuesday

Aleutian Island Hit By U.S. Aircraft 27 Times During Past Six Weeks

WASHINGTON, Mar. 18, (AP)—American bombers blasted the Japanese submarine base at Kiska three times Tuesday, the Navy reported today, and in a fourth action fighter planes shot down two enemy aircraft.

Meanwhile yesterday far-ranging Flying Fortress bombers harassed enemy positions at Kahlil and Buka on Bougainville Island in the northwestern Solomons and at Munda, and on Tuesday afternoon nearly Lightning fighters strafed shore positions in the vicinity of Viru harbor on New Georgia Island near Munda.

The overall report of blows rained on the enemy at both the north and south extremes of his Pacific defense area led to speculation here that American offensive thrusts of great importance might be in the making. There was no confirmation of this by official spokesmen, however.

The only confirmation available on the Kiska attack was a navy official's statement that the six raids were carried out by day and night. Results were not reported and statistics on the amount of bombs dropped were lacking, as were estimates of the damage.

Counting the six raids of Monday and Tuesday's four, Kiska has been attacked 27 times in the last six weeks, according to Navy reports. The frequency of actions has been stepped up with the improvement of weather conditions and gradual lengthening of daylight hours. In February there were nine attacks during which more than 1000 bombs were dropped on the enemy base. In the first two weeks of March, up to last Monday, there were eight more raids.

Blood Donors Save Soldiers Wounded Along Mareth Line

WITH THE BRITISH 8TH ARMY AT MEDENINE, TUNISIA, March 9 (Delayed)

In a large hospital already well behind the Mareth line front, casualties lay on cots along the walls, men badly wounded in battle three days before. Clipped with safety pins to the canvas over each cot was a bottle of dark red liquid. It dripped slowly into rubber tubes and from the tubes ran into the veins of the wounded—bottled blood giving the men another chance at life.

Surgeons are working feverishly in saving lives with bottled blood in field transfusion units moving with the 8th Army. Many transfusions are given in ambulances en route to casualty clearing stations.

Keeping the blood supplies replenished is vital. The fresh blood is obtained from British troops stationed in or near Tripoli—a bottle of beer for a pint of blood. The biggest worry is keeping enough beer on hand to give to the donors. The blood is taken from slightly wounded soldiers as they are evacuated from the front in ambulances.

The blood is bottled and kept at a near freezing temperature since it deteriorates in a warm temperature. Most of it is of the "universal" B type, which can be used in all cases. Dried blood plasma sent from England or the United States is used frequently, especially in ambulances where there are no refrigeration facilities.

The fresh blood is normally used within two or three weeks from the time it is bottled. The plasma keeps indefinitely in any temperature. For use it is dissolved in distilled water. The fresh blood is flown from Tripoli to an advanced landing ground where it is placed in a field transfusion unit truck equipped with a refrigerator.

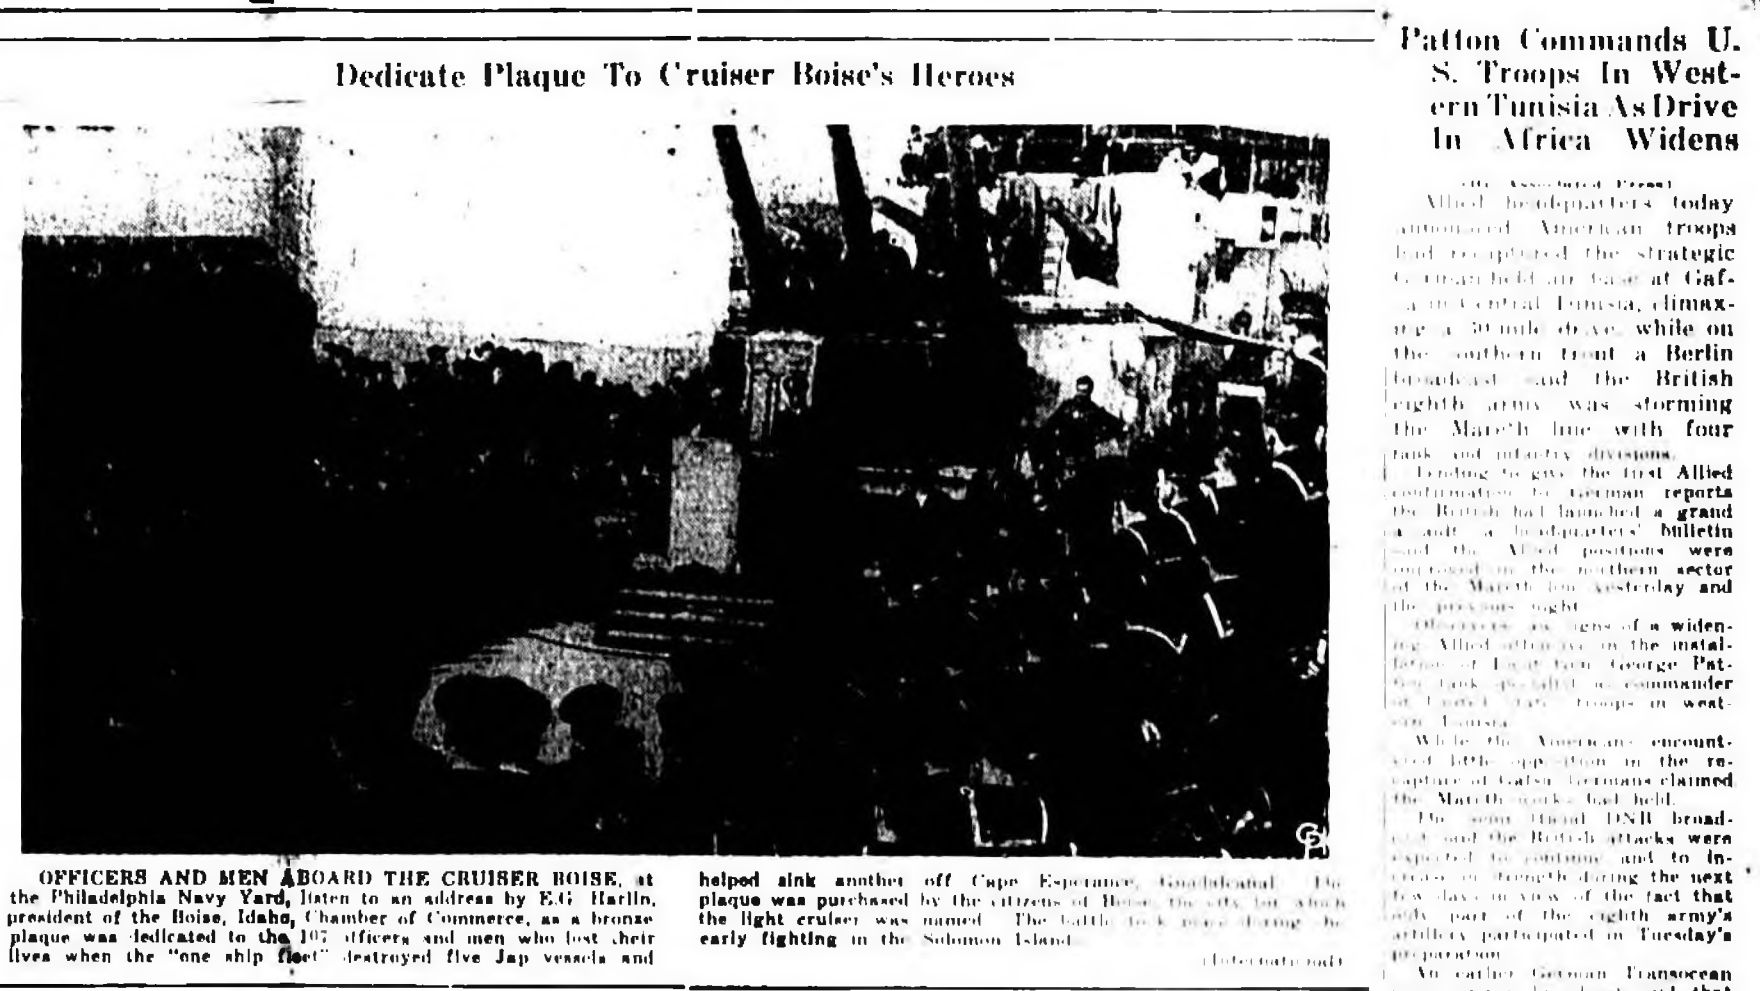

Then it is brought to the front line stations where it is advanced to blood banks—marked with the sign of a vampire bat with spread wings.

"A" Gas Ration Reduced To 1/2 Gallons Per Week

Effective March 22, Pleasure Driving Ban To Be Lifted

(By Associated Press)

The gasoline ration for "A" bookholders in Eastern States last night was cut to approximately 1 1/2 gallons a week, effective May 22, but they can use it as they please the last two weeks of the rationing.

Announcing the reduction from the present ration of about 3 1/2 gallons a week, the Office of Price Administration said it was cutting "A" books who drive to work would be allowed supplemental gasoline under revised regulations to be announced in a few days.

OPA once estimated 40 percent of industrial workers who motor to their jobs hold only "A" books and it appeared that a big cut ahead in issuing the additional rations.

The cut was effected by extending the time in which permits to register and secure a permit from his local FIA office, a farmer who raises or feeds livestock, keeping it more than 10 days, is not considered a dealer, but must keep records of all purchases and sales of livestock for FIA inspection.

Displaying a merry sense of humor, Ensign Robson said she was "so excited" when she received her first salute, she acknowledged it with her left hand.

Describing the impressive military church services, Ensign Robson wrote: "The Marine Band played for the boys to march from their barracks over to the chapel. Honestly, cold shivers run down your spine when you watch those boys file into the choir.

"The choir is composed of over 50 boys, Marines and sailors, and it's positively touching to see them march down that aisle behind the cross and two flags. An acolyte carries the cross.

"The chapel is perfectly beautiful, recently built. They had the first service there Christmas Eve, Capt. Shrum, an Episcopal minister, conducted the service today. It was chaplain aboard the ship on which Roosevelt and Churchill met in the Atlantic. All-in-all, I was deeply impressed by the service."

Marines were first called Devil Dogs by the Germans in 1918.

Red Cross To Use Most Of Money In Overseas Services

Services to the Armed Forces will take 65 percent of Red Cross National Funds for 1943. National South, campaign fund chairman of the local Chapter announced today in releasing figures on the $125,000,000 War Fund Drive in March.

"Operations of the National Organization will require $60,000,000 for servicemen at home and abroad," Mr. Smith said. "Other needs are computed as follows: disaster relief and civilian war aid, $5,000,000; education and safety services, $5,000,000; service and assistance to Chapters, $5,700,000; general executive financial offices, $1,400,000; contingencies, $0,000,000. A balance of $60,000,000 left from the First War Fund of last December will be applied on the 1943 budget, leaving $60,000,000 as the net amount to be raised for national and international work."

Completing the total campaign goal of $125,000,000 is an estimated $45,000,000 for the budgets of 2,728 Chapters. "Chapters," Mr. Smith explained, "must meet the local responsibilities of the Red Cross activities listed for the National Organization. Rapidly expanding work on the behalf of families of servicemen accounts for greatly increased expenditures on the part of Chapters."

Fixed Prices On Celery Eventually Said To Be Inevitable

Leo Butner, president of the Florida Celery Growers' Association, called a meeting of the growers today to discuss the possibility of fixed prices on celery. He said that the Federal Government is likely to impose price ceilings on celery in the near future.

Butner pointed out that the current price of celery is about 10 cents per bushel, but that it could drop to 5 cents or less if price controls are imposed. He said that the growers are opposed to such controls, but that they may have to accept them if the government insists.

The meeting was held at the headquarters of the association in Orlando. Butner said that he would be in contact with the government officials to see if any arrangements could be made to avoid price controls.

Telford Initiated Into Mythical Order

Marine Sgt. Linton M. Telford, who left the United States a year ago and has since been stationed on an island in the Pacific, has sent to his sister, Mrs. Earl Dooney, a certificate which is conferred only upon those servicemen who have crossed the equator.

The certificate initiates him in the "solemn mysteries of the Ancient Order of the Deep," and is purportedly conferred by more other than that mythical "Order of the Raging Main", old Father Neptune, himself.
