For Lack Of Financial Support

United Way Director Criticizes Sanford, North End Of County

Sanford's downtown business community came under sharp criticism Thursday by the United Way's executive director for what he claims is a lack of support for the multi-services organization.

And, the United Way director, Bob Walko, didn't limit his criticism on that score to downtown Sanford. He said most of Sanford and the northern sector of Seminole County, "with the exception of some major retailers and businesses" have traditionally given poor support to United Way.

The president of the downtown Sanford merchants' association promptly termed Walko's criticism "unfair and uninformed."

Walko's criticism came during a meeting at the offices of the Red Cross in Longwood of a United Way committee review of participating UW agencies' funding requests for 1987.

The UW committee was reviewing a request for funding presented by Seminole County Salvation Army Corps Commander Lt. Sam Flanigan and other SA representatives when Walko leveled the criticism.

Walko said he did so to in part explain why the Salvation Army's request last year for $60,000 from United Way was cut to $36,000. He said the review committee last year felt the Salvation Army did not make an adequate presentation for the funding, and had not made a good enough case of providing services on a broad enough basis.

Walko told Flanigan that United Way also has difficulty in giving large amounts of money to agencies in areas such as Sanford and other parts of the northern sector of the county where UW does not raise "many dollars. In fact, the downtown Sanford merchants' association was supposed to put forth an effort for us, and what did we get from them? Not one penny!"

Walko told the Sanford Herald right after the Salvation Army presentation in which the SA is seeking $60,000 again, that "we feel the Salvation Army has got its act together now. We think they've shown us that they intend to improve in providing their services, so I'd say there's a good chance they'll get $50,000, maybe more this time out."

When told of Walko's remarks about the downtown Sanford merchants' association, the president of that organization, Margie Beine, acknowledged it was true her group's membership "did not respond" to a request for United Way support, "but it was a matter of not enough time and other factors he (Walko) knows nothing about."

Mrs. Beine, who operates Olde Tymes Connection at Magnolia Mall, said she was first contacted by a United Way volunteer in late October and asked for help in trying for contributions among the membership. She said she was given literature to pass out, and did so.

"I gave it to about 40 of our members and made a pitch for United Way, but I got no response. I even put up a notice on the bulletin board, but we still got no response. Why? I'm not really sure, Mrs. Beine said.

City Candidates Exchange Views

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

Moments of humor, candor and vision mingled with political platforms Thursday as four run-off candidates for two Sanford city commission seats fielded questions at a candidates forum.

Present for the 2 1/2-hour session were Milton Smith and A.A. McClanahan, candidates for District 3, and Whitey Eckstein and Dot Meadors for District 4. Smith is the incumbent commissioner for District 3. McClanahan, a Sanford businessman, is a former city commissioner. Eckstein is a teacher at Seminole High School and Mrs. Meadors a Sanford businesswoman.

Smith and McClanahan collected the highest number of votes in the five-way race Dec. 2, 159 and 325 respectively. Eckstein and Mrs. Meadors got 153 and 94 votes respectively in an eight-candidate race.

The questions ranged from who asked them to run for office to drug testing for employees to what they thought about of litigation costs between the city and county on various issues.

Eckstein, asked to answer first on who asked him to run, said he was urged into the race by his teacher friends and after talking with a couple of people "in the city."

He said teachers have to set an example and get involved in community affairs. "I'm running because I thought I could do a job for the city of Sanford," he said.

Mrs. Meadors said she was not asked by anyone to run. However, she said during her time serving on a county board, various persons suggested she run and she decided on her own to do so, "because of my concern for Sanford." McClanahan said several persons asked him to run but said that he made up his mind, "all by myself."

Smith said he wants to serve the city again and ran for office initially because he was asked by friends to do so.

The topic of testing city employees for use of illegal drugs drew a mixed response from the forum.

Smith said he had no problem with requiring mandatory testing of new city employees, making such testing a part of the job requirement. He did not favor the testing of current employees but thought the opportunity should be made available to them.

McClanahan said he was not sure if he liked to make the distinction between current and future employees in regards to

Lake Mary Votes To Hire City Manager

At a special meeting following a workshop of the Lake Mary City Commission Thursday night, the commission voted unanimously to hire as the next city manager Robert L. Norris, former city manager of Richmond, Ky.

Acting City Manager Jim Orioles told the commission the references all checked out and "all the recommendations were to hire him." He said he was aware of the political pressures and the change of mayor that forced Norris out of office last March.

Norris has agreed to take over the position Jan. 5.

Orioles was so sure the commission would hire Norris at the 10 p.m. meeting that during the workshop he spent over an hour with Norris going over city matters in the back office. "I was pretty sure he was in," Orioles said.

He added that he would be glad to step down from his temporary position as acting manager to his role as public works director because, for one thing, he won't have to attend late-night meetings anymore. But he said it was "a service" to his community that he has been glad to perform.

New Lake Mary Manager Gets High Marks

By Kathy Tyrity
Herald Staff Writer

A background check into new city manager-elect of Lake Mary, Robert L. Norris, revealed that his superiors and co-workers had confidence in him and respect, but some felt he was a little too aggressive in handling problems without commission approval.

Richmond, Ky. City Clerk Susan Higgins, who worked with Norris while he was city manager from 1983 to March of '86, said, "Maybe he took the initiative a little too much. He didn't wait to be asked. If he saw a problem, he didn't wait to ask the commission what to do."

But she said he was well liked by the staff "and got along extremely well with the public." She said he had a good relationship with department heads

"as long as everything was done correctly," and she personally liked him very much.

"We loved him up here," she said. "We got along great. He's a very good researcher on things like ordinances and kept the commission well informed. He also liked to make sure the employees got a fair deal. He did a real good job, but it's kind of natural that the tenure of city managers sometimes isn't too long."

She explained the nature of the political situation that forced him out of office 10 months ago.

The Richmond commission prior to the January elections had no problems with Norris, she said. But a new mayor and three new commissioners came on board in January.

She said they were conservative, older people, and the mayor and two other commissioners had been mayor prior to the city becoming a city-manager form of government. She said they believed more in the strong-mayor principle. But presently, the city is bound by statute to have a city manager.

Ms. Higgins said the new mayor and commissioners didn't really express why they had a distaste for Norris, but they let him go in March. She said they took "several months" before bringing on a new city manager, Nina Poage, who took over in August.

Ms. Poage, who answered the City Hall main number when the Herald called, said she "didn't know the man," referring to Norris.

The Herald also called the Richmond Register newspaper and talked to a reporter who preferred to remain unidentified. She said the impetus for Norris' dismissal came from the new mayor Earl B. Baker, who she said "wanted to play dictator" and didn't like Norris' authority and aggressiveness. But she said the newspaper staff had "a lot of confidence and respect for Norris."

Mayor Baker didn't return the Herald's phone calls, which the Register reporter said he probably would not.

But the former Richmond mayor Bill Strong, who was a city official for 12 years and worked closely with Norris, had quite a bit to say.

"He did a real good job,"

Many Help To Make Christmas Merrier

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County school children, some of whom consider underwear and socks a luxury, will have a happier Christmas thanks to the school social workers and the generosity of many individuals, schools, organizations, churches and businesses in the county.

Lola Jackson, head social worker for the Seminole County school system, and her 12 social workers, act as go-between for needy families and those from the community who want to donate food, clothing, money or services. Volunteers from Community United Methodist of Casselberry took 30 school children shopping Thursday afternoon to outfit them from head to toe. A special offering was taken for the fund Sunday and Penney's at Winter Park Mall gave a discount so that the money went further. The young shoppers were treated to supper afterward, courtesy of Burger King in Longwood. This is an annual project for the Casselberry church.

Mrs. Jackson said this Saturday Sanford Kmart will host 20 children selected by the social workers from Head Start and pre-kindergarten through fifth grade from schools in the Sanford area for a shopping spree. This is the second year that Kmart's Good News Committees, groups of employee volunteers, in all of the company's stores have sponsored the event for more than 42,000 underprivileged children nationwide.

At 8 a.m. the three Seminole County stores will open early and each child will be allowed to pick out $20 worth of merchandise of their choice for gifts for their families, friends and themselves. In addition, children will be treated to breakfast and a gift-wrapped present from Santa. Kmart employees, who volunteer their time, will help the children with gift selections within their budget.

Last year most of the boys and girls unselfishly purchased gifts for their families, according to Kmart's Chairman Bernard M. Fauber. "We're not just giving these children gifts, we're teaching them about caring and sharing."

After the man used the telephone and the victim gave him $3 to buy gasoline he asked her for a date, she said. When she turned him down he slapped her face. She grabbed her infant son and held him to her chest.

The man allegedly pulled her from a sofa to the floor where he lay on her with the child between them, a sheriff's report said.

A suspect was reportedly linked to the case by witnesses at the market. Bond for Bradley in that case was set at $1,000.

Man Accused In Purse Snatch

An 18-year-old Altamonte Springs man already jailed by Altamonte Springs police in connection with the theft and use of checks and credit cards taken in an Altamonte Springs burglary has been charged in another case.

Toby Reed Flake, no address, was charged Wednesday at the jail in connection with the theft of the purse of Lucille Joachim and the use of credit cards from that purse.

Ms. Joachim's purse was snatched by the passenger on a motorcycle, which passed her in the parking lot of Gooding's Plaza, Montgomery Road, Altamonte Springs at about 7:35 p.m. Nov. 9. The passenger on the back of the bike grabbed the purse and rode away.

A suspect was linked to the case after Ms. Joachim's credit cards were used and a video tape was made of one of those transactions at a Winter Park service station, police reported.

Flake was being held in lieu of $2,000 bond in the latest case.

Triple Shooting Suspect Awaits Sentencing

A 49-year-old Longwood man accused of killing a 7-year-old boy and wounding the lad's mother and his sister pleaded no contest Wednesday to second-degree murder and attempted murder.

Ovaldo Lorenzo Acosta is set to be sentenced Jan. 15. He could receive between 27 and 40 years, his attorney, Jerry Luxenberg of Orlando said Thursday.

Acosta pleaded to second degree murder of a minor child, attempted first-degree murder of his girlfriend, attempted second-degree murder of his girlfriend's 15-year-old daughter, and shooting within a dwelling. The usual sentence would be 22 to 27 years but the spread was increased to 27 to 40 because several criminal acts were involved, his attorney said.

Donald Marblestone, assistant state attorney on the case, said because the possible sentence was negotiated, Acosta cannot appeal the sentence.

Acosta admitted killing Roldy Aragon, of 228 Berkshire Circle West, Aragon was the son of Acosta's live-in-girlfriend Margarita Montero, 33.

According to court records, Acosta killed the boy as he slept on a mattress on the floor of the master bedroom where they lived. Ms. Montero and her 15-year-old daughter were also shot in the June 29 incident. A baby boy, reportedly Acosta's and Ms. Montero's son, was unharmed. The dead boy and the wounded girl are not related to Acosta, investigators said.

The shootings reportedly followed an argument between Acosta and Ms. Montero. The boy was shot once in the left side of the head with a .38-caliber handgun. The handgun was found at the scene. Both Ms. Montero and Acosta are immigrants, according to reports.

The first deputy to arrive at the scene just before midnight said the home's front door was open. He said Acosta was covered with blood and approached him and said "I did it." He then put his hands up. After he was put in the patrol car, the deputy entered the home and found the girl and her mother. They were shot several times and were lying in the dining room. Each survived their wounds.

They had lived in the home since November 1985, records show.

Police Helped Him But It Was A Burglary

An Altamonte Springs man who attracted attention of police after they helped him with his stuck car in front of a company was sentenced to a year in the county jail after being arrested on burglary and battery charges. It was one of three cases heard recently.

Sentenced was Jeffery Kirk Smith, 19, of 125 Genevieve Drive. The jail time was part of a 5-year probationary sentence, according to court records. He was sentenced by Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor.

According to an arrest report, police noticed Smith carrying a yellow hose and that he had a screwdriver in his back pocket. As they followed him to the car, he reportedly picked up a second hose that was lying in a roadway.

When they approached the car, Smith was searched by police who reported finding a bottle of whiskey in the waistband of his pants. He was arrested for possession of alcohol by someone under 21.

Police determined that the car belonged to an employee of the pallet company who had not given the suspect permission to take the car. The manager of the company, Peoples Pallet Co., on Charlotte Street, told police he knew Smith and that Smith did not have permission to take hoses from the property.

Smith reportedly tried to flee and fought with police. One policeman was kicked in the stomach and a stun gun was used to bring Smith under control, a police report said.

In a second case, a man found sleeping in a car in the lot of a bar in Sanford has pleaded guilty to possession of Valium without a prescription.

Luke Robbin Purvis, 23, of 1318 Mellonville Ave., entered the plea before McGregor who set sentencing for Jan. 27.

Purvis was charged with possession of Valium, legally known as diazepam, after he was found sleeping in a car in the parking lot of The Barn, U.S. Highway 17-92 in Sanford. The incident occurred Aug. 29. Three tables were reportedly found in his possession, according to his arrest report.

In a third case, a Sanford man has pleaded to possession of cocaine.

Patrick Gene Jones, 22, of 1112 W. Eight St., Sanford, entered the plea before McGregor who set sentencing for Jan. 27.

According to an arrest report, an officer drove by three men on the corner of 13th Street and Olive Avenue — one of them

Jones — and saw Jones appear to hide something. He doubled back and was spotted by the men again, and again Jones took the same action and put something in his pocket, the report said.

The officer confronted the suspect and asked Jones to identify himself. Jones said he had no identification and reportedly said he only had $7 in his pocket, the arrest report said.

However, the officer reported that Jones didn't take his hand out of his right pocket. When asked again what was in the pocket, Jones allegedly took a matchbox out and tossed it over the top of a car. The officer went with the suspect to the other side of the car and recovered the box which reportedly contained a razor blade and six pieces of rock cocaine.

Ice Slicks East To West

By United Press International
A blustery storm that zapped the Great Lakes sloshed to the east today dropping snow and freezing rain on the upper Appalachians and an isolated Pacific storm turned Washington's Columbia Gorge into an "ice rink."

The frosty precipitation made driving hazardous in New England for the second day in a row and chilled the Northeast.

A separate storm that brought snow and 20-degree temperature to west Texas and New Mexico Thursday lost most of its power as it moved slowly eastward, forecasters said. However, travelers advisories remained in effect this morning for the central and northern portions of the state.

Guadalupe National Park in west Texas was hit with 7 inches of snow, and 10 inches were reported in the mountains in southwest Texas. Up to a foot of snow fell east of Deming in southwestern New Mexico.

"It snowed from dark to dark yesterday, and it's snowing again today," said Robert Averett, a college student in San Angelo, Texas. "The roofs are covered, the lawns are covered and it's dark and overcast."

As warmer air began to move through Texas Thursday night, colder air invaded the upper Midwest. Temperatures, which had plummeted below zero across northern Minnesota and extreme North Dakota, weren't expected to rise past the single digits today.

Wind chill temperatures of between 15 below and 25 below zero were common across eastern North Dakota, the upper Mississippi Valley and upper Michigan Thursday night.

In Oregon, the worst ice storm of the season hit the scenic Columbia Gorge Thursday night, prompting authorities to close several miles of Highway 14 near Beacon State Park east of Portland.

"It is a solid sheet of ice on the road and the wind is blowing so hard the crews can't even keep sand on the roadway," Skamania County Sheriff's Deputy Jim Richardson said.

An Oregon state police trooper in Portland said up to 40 accidents occurred on Interstate 84 through the gorge east of Troutdale. He said there were no major injuries reported, however.

"The Columbia Gorge is an ice rink," a Multnomah County sheriff's deputy said.

As one storm that brought snow and freezing rain from southern New England through the middle Atlantic states moved off to sea, a storm that brought the same type of weather to the Great Lakes Thursday marched into the region.

"This new storm isn't going to affect much of the Northeast, but it will bring snow and freezing rain to southern New England and New York state," said forecaster Pete Reynolds of the National Weather Service.

Snow also was expected to linger in Wisconsin and upper Michigan, where as much as 9 inches were reported Thursday. In lower Michigan, light freezing rain was blamed for many accidents along Interstate 94.

Gale warnings were posted overnight for lakes Michigan and Superior, where winds of up to 40 mph were reported.

Ten newly elected directors will be installed by the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce at the annual installation banquet to be held at 7:30 p.m. on Jan. 9 at the Sanford Civic Center, according to Executive Director Dave Farr.
Elected to serve a three-year term on the board are John Carl, J.S. "Red" Cleveland, Karen Coleman, Jack Greene, State Rep. Art Grindie (R-Altamonte Springs), Jack Horner, Jim Jernigan, Daryl McClain, Dr. Earl S. Weldon and Martha Yancy.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Summer-Like Weather Brings Thirsty Mosquito Onslaught

MIAMI (UPI) — This year's June-in-December weather in south Florida has entomologists worried about an unseasonal onslaught of thirsty mosquitoes.

Mark Latham, south office supervisor of Dade County Mosquito Control, said the last mosquito hatch in the Everglades was three days ago and officers are out spraying with bacterial poison to keep them away from urban areas.

"We'll have our spray machines out," Latham said. "We like to get them before they become adult mosquitoes."

The close-range forecast, at least, is not encouraging. Rain and more warm weather was forecast for the weekend.

Experts say the unseasonably warm weather has tampered with the internal calendars of mosquitoes. On Thursday, Miami tied another daily record for heat at 84 degrees.

Surgeons Call Off Boycott

MIAMI (UPI) — Most of the surgeons involved in a boycott of hospital emergency rooms in a protest of malpractice insurance rates have agreed to return to service at least temporarily, one of their leaders said.

"In the best interests of the public we have decided to individually return to our coverage of the emergency rooms at all of the involved hospitals," said Dr. Gary Lustgarten, president of the South Florida Neurological Society.

Lustgarten was one of 10 surgeons who refused to treat emergency patients at five north Dade County hospitals to protest expensive malpractice insurance.

Lustgarten said one of the hospitals has agreed temporarily to subsidize medical malpractice premiums.

The hospitals involved were Miami General Hospital, Parkway Regional Medical Center, Humana Hospital Biscayne, North Shore Medical Center and North Miami Medical Center.

Lemon, Johnson Win Hearings

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Condemned murderer Paul Beasley Johnson won a new trial Thursday from the Florida Supreme Court, which also ordered new hearings on death row inmate George Lemon's pleas to have his sentence overturned.

The court upheld the conviction and death sentence for Juan Roberto Melendez in the 1983 murder of Delbert Baker, an Auburndale hairdresser.

The unanimous, unsigned opinion in the Johnson case said the condemned man received ineffective legal assistance during his appeal in the 1981 murders of three Polk County residents, including Sheriff's Deputy Theron Burnham.

The court said Johnson's appeal lawyer never questioned the fact that Johnson's trial judge allowed his jury to separate overnight and reconvene during its deliberations.

The issue would have been an obvious point on appeal because previous rulings require that juries in capital cases be sequestered until they reach a verdict or prove unable to decide, the justices said.

Jailed Embezzler To Testify

ORLANDO (UPI) — A former stockbroker serving time for embezzlement in Virginia will be the government's star witness next month when eight men are tried on charges they schemed to defraud a bank of more than $7 million.

Clyde Pitchford, 32, of Richmond, Va., whose 25-year prison sentence came on unrelated charges, pleaded guilty and agreed to testify against others accused of plotting to ruin Florida Center Bank.

Pitchford faces an additional five years in prison and a $10,000 fine at sentencing scheduled for February. The other defendants have pleaded innocent and say Pitchford and Michael Rapp tricked them into the scheme.

Rapp also is scheduled for trial in January.

Pitchford's 13-page guilty plea entered Wednesday in U.S. District Court says Rapp instigated the plan to have his associates obtain loans to buy certificates of deposit with $10 million in worthless cashier's checks.

Auto Inspections, Lottery Bills Filed

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The first Senate bill filed for the 1987 legislative session would reopen Florida's once-familiar auto inspection stations, which lapsed into disuse when Gov. Bob Graham convinced lawmakers to abolish the annual inspection program in 1981.

Other Senate bills filed Thursday would establish a state lottery, let counties assess gasoline taxes to meet local road and bridge requirements, specifically forbid drug and food tampering and ban open alcohol containers in cars.

The auto inspection bill was filed by Sen. Don Childers, D-West Palm Beach, and is the latest in a series of attempts to undo one of Gov. Bob Graham's most visible accomplishments.

Graham won abolition of the annual inspection program in 1981 amid complaints of long lines at inspection stations in his native south Florida. He said roadside inspections by state troopers and other police would fill the gap.

Florida Highway Patrol troopers issued 25,779 citations for faulty brakes, mufflers and other defects in 1985.

Charles Brantley, the director of the state Division of Motor Vehicles, said he has noticed a definite increase in the number of cars travelling Florida highways with serious safety defects.

"I have noticed a general deterioration of the vehicles on the roads," he said. "One of my own headlights was broken and I didn't notice it until I saw the beam on the wall of my garage. I'm sure it's a common throughout the state."

The lottery proposal (SB 12) by Sen. Jack Gordon, D-Miami Beach, would breathe life into the citizen's initiative on lotteries that the voters approved Nov. 4. The bill would create a commission to administer the lottery.

The bill would create a Florida Education Improvement Trust fund for lottery proceeds. They money would be reserved for schools, as was promised by Commissioner of Education Ralph Turlington and other lottery proponents.

One provision holds that trust fund money could not be used to supplant the level of funding the state currently spends on education. Future Legislatures could not be bound by the provision, however.

No lottery ticket vendor could rely on the trade as his primary income. The bill would prohibit vending licenses for persons convicted of fraud, illegal gambling or any felony.

Other bills included:

—SB 19 by Sen. Bob Johnson, D-Sarasota, to allow county governments to approve local option gasoline tax increases of up to five cents for local needs. The money could be bonded and would be restricted to programs listed on the state Department of Transportation's five-year plan. The current state gas tax is nine cents.

—SB 8 by Johnson, which would make it a second degree felony to tamper with food or drugs in someone else's possession or place tainted food or drugs on store shelves. The bill follows a series of instances of product tampering in Florida and other states.

—SB 10 by Sen. Peter Weinstein, D-Coral Springs, to re-enact state sales tax exemptions for professional, personal and insurance services. The items are among an estimated $1.3 billion in sales tax exemptions due for "sunset," or automatic repeal, in 1987.

—SB 32 by Childers to ban open containers in moving cars or trucks. Violations would be non-criminal traffic infractions. The Senate narrowly killed a similar proposal earlier this year.

NASA Reviews Shuttle Wreckage Storage

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — NASA is reviewing plans to cut up some pieces of Challenger's wreckage for long-term storage to make sure such action does not destroy any evidence that may be needed for pending lawsuits, officials say.

The agency's general counsel ordered all such work stopped Thursday until the review can be completed.

NASA plans to use a pair of abandoned Minuteman missile silos at the Cape Canaveral Air Force Station for what amounts to permanent storage of the debris. The storage project is scheduled to begin about Jan. 1.

But some of the wreckage will not fit inside the 12-foot-wide, 90-foot-deep silos without being cut into smaller sections. Agency spokesman Hugh Harris said Thursday engineers can proceed with the project as planned for debris that does not require any such cutting.

Only non-critical wreckage had been slated for cutting in the first place but Harris said NASA wanted to make absolutely sure such activity does not violate "the intent of an understanding" with the Department of Justice

"to preserve any potential evidence which might be needed for pending litigation."

Killed in the Jan. 28 disaster were commander Francis "Dick" Scobee, co-pilot Michael Smith, Ellison Onizuka, Judith A. Resnik, Ronald McNair, Gregory Jarvis and New Hampshire school teacher Christa McAuliffe.

Challenger was destroyed by a booster failure and McNair's wife, Cheryl, filed a wrongful death suit in September against rocket maker Morton Thiokol Inc. seeking an undisclosed amount of damages.

In addition, Smith's wife, Jane, filed a $15.1 million claim against the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, saying the space agency let the shuttle be launched with known defects that made a catastrophe likely.

Disinvestment Bill Filed

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Legislation to require Florida's $12 billion state worker pension fund to drop holdings in companies that do business in South Africa was filed Thursday for the third time in as many years.

The measure (SB 27) was proposed by Sen. Arnette Girardeau, D-Jacksonville, Sen. Carrie Meek, D-Miami, and Sen. Jack Gordon, D-Miami Beach, and provides a five year timetable for divestment. That period could be extended if pension fund managers fear the five-year timetable would be inconsistent with their "fiduciary responsibility."

The bill would also apply to companies trading in Namibia, or Southwest Africa. South Africa maintains a military presence in the neighboring country, although the United Nations has cancelled an agreement that allowed South Africa to administer the territory.

None of the bill's sponsors was available for comment. In the past, each has promoted divestment as a tool against South Africa's white minority government's policy of apartheid, or mandatory separation of the races.

The bill failed in its earlier outings at the hands of lawmakers who feared the mingling of social policy and investment decisions.

Approximately 500,000 state and local government employees and teachers contribute or draw from the investment fund, which is administered by the governor, the state Treasurer and the Comptroller sitting as the state Board of Administration.

Environment Trends Scary

As with many other significant human advances throughout history, the International Geosphere Biosphere Program got under way in November without much fanfare. Leading scientific organizations from 56 nations are joining in a 10-year study that is being described as the most ambitious research project ever undertaken. Its goal is to predict the health of Planet Earth for the next 100 years, distinguishing between environmental changes due to human activity and those due to nature.

Roger Revelle, one of the founding fathers of the University of California at San Diego and former director of Scripps Institution of Oceanography, is one of IGBP's leading architects through his work with the National Academy of Sciences and International Scientific groups. Of especial interest is that "IGBP could be a very major component of Scripps' future," according to Edward A. Frieman, institution director.

Increasing alarm over man's impact on the planet's environment motivates IGBP's mission. "We know we've altered the system," warns atmospheric chemist John A. Eddy, chairman of the U.S. delegation to the International Council of Scientific Unions. "We may or may not have driven it past its bounds of recovery."

For example, Dr. Eddy voices concern over the so-called "greenhouse effect" — the warming of the earth's atmosphere due to rising levels of carbon dioxide methane in the air. He emphasizes that the average surface temperature of earth has increased several degrees since the late 1800s in parallel with the industrial revolution and the burning of coal and petroleum. Carbon dioxide levels are rising by one-half of a percent annually and methane levels are rising by one percent per year.

The greenhouse-causing gases are predicted to increase earth's temperature an average of up to 8 degrees Fahrenheit within the next 45 years — a change without parallel in the experience of the human species. Such heating is expected to produce global flooding from melting glaciers and stimulate drastic weather changes, including a 50 percent loss of precipitation in the U.S. grain belt.

An even more urgent concern springs from the recent discovery that the amount of ozone in the upper atmosphere has decreased to half of what it was only 15 years ago. Data gathered by satellites indicate an expanding hole in the ozone layer that forms near Antarctica in the fall.

The depletion of ozone from the earth's atmosphere is a dangerous degradation of the environment because it means increased exposure of all living creatures to the sun's ultraviolet rays. The Environmental Protection Agency projects that Americans alone could suffer 40 million cases of skin cancer and 800,000 cancer deaths during the next 80 years because of the loss of ozone, which prevents damaging ultraviolet rays from penetrating to the earth's surface. Human suffering worldwide could be incalculable. Moreover ultraviolet rays could kill bacteria and algae that populate the seas, a critical link in the ecological chain.

Scientists blame an enormous increase in chlorofluorocarbons (CFCs), of which Freon, used in refrigerators and air conditioners, is the best-known. Eventually, all CFCs leak into the air and drift upward into the stratosphere to destroy ozone molecules. Several million tons of CFCs have already polluted the environment.

Still these alarming findings are not certain. Some scientists believe an unusual peak of solar activity may have caused the radical ozone depletion, which just recently seemed to cease with the sun's activity subsiding.

We are brought back, then, to the fundamental question IGBP will be investigating: Which environmental changes are due to human activity and which to nature?

One of the significant achievements of this age is the dawning realization that Planet Earth is an ark plunging through hostile space and dependent upon a fragile atmospheric environment so thin that it scarcely reaches the top of the highest mountains. The International Geosphere Biosphere Program, which will act as a trustee for the planet's environment, promises to be one of mankind's most important undertakings between now and the year 2000.

Colombian Journalist Was Unfairly Expelled

One of the most miserable performances by a public official I have witnessed was turned in recently on CBS-TV's "60 Minutes" by Ronald Reagan's assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, Elliott Abrams.

Abrams appeared on the show to justify the Reagan administration's mistreatment of a respected young journalist from Bogota, Colombia — Patricia Lara. A graduate of Columbia University's Graduate School of Journalism, Lara is a highly regarded reporter for El Tiempo — Colombia's most prestigious newspaper. She is also an acclaimed author.

Recently, she was selected for an award by her alma mater. She arrived on Oct. 12 at Kennedy Airport in New York with a bona fide visa for what should have been a routine walk through customs en route to the award ceremony at Columbia University.

She was immediately seized by customs agents and held under guard overnight at the airport. For the next two days she was kept imprisoned at an immigration and naturalization detention center. Then she spent another two days under maximum security and solitary confinement at a federal prison. She was finally called into a summary legal proceeding and kicked out of the country.

Abrams told the CBS audience that all of this bizarre procedure was necessary to protect the security of the United States. Notwithstanding the young woman's excellent record at Columbia University and her position as an accomplished journalist who has gained the respect of Colombian politicians of widely differing views, Abrams tried to paint her as a serious threat to America.

Linking her to the M-19 guerrillas of Colombia and to the Cuban government, Abrams vaguely referred to her frequent visits to Cuba, implying that she must somehow be under the control of Havana. Citing no proof of her involvement in terrorist activities, he said, "She hasn't been one of the bomb throwers, but her role is every bit as important." What that role is we are left to wonder.

Actually, in 1984 Patricia Lara publicly praised a truce in the guerrilla war. The following year she publicly criticized the M-19 guerrillas for their violent attack on the Palace of Justice in Bogota.

Miss Lara, also interviewed on "60 Minutes," categorically denied the charges made against her by Reagan's spokesman.

Although she has been critical of the government in Bogota as well as the Reagan administration, cabinet officials in Colombia have nonetheless defended her patriotism and integrity while expressing shock over her treatment by Reagan officials.

The New Yorker magazine, in an article on this issue, cites the Colombian foreign minister's observations about administration charges, "We don't know where the U.S. government obtained such information."

Also cited by the New Yorker was former President Belisario Betancur, a strong critic of the M-19s, who said that Patricia Lara is "in the first ranks of her profession."

Betancur then referred to those in the Reagan administration who have attacked Patricia Lara as "officials who do not bring honor to the ideals of freedom sought and proclaimed by the founders of the great U.S. nation."

To Betancur's words, I can only say amen.

Hold The Opinions, Please

WASHINGTON (NEA) — In theory, the Federal Communications Commission's "fairness doctrine" is supposed to promote spirited, zealous public-policy debates on the nation's radio and television stations.

That's because it requires a station that presents any viewpoint on a public policy to afford a reasonable opportunity for the presentation of contrasting viewpoints on the same issue.

In practice, however, the fairness doctrine has stifled broadcast exposition of public affairs, because sophisticated station executives have learned that avoiding the initial airing of any position on a controversial issue will preclude the necessity of also presenting conflicting perspectives.

Moreover, a 1973 U.S. Supreme Court decision gave stations the legal right to rebuff even those willing to purchase air time for the presentation of issue-oriented material. Broadcasters, the court ruled, have no obligation to sell time for advertisements about controversial issues of public importance.

But there is no legal prohibition against carrying commercials, and many stations — especially independent outlets and those in smaller markets — do accept such ads. According to one estimate, those sales are growing at a healthy rate of 10 percent to 15 percent annually.

Stations that are network affiliates or are in larger cities are generally far more reluctant, however. "Our concern is that when you get into issue advertising, we see people with the deepest pockets as the ones doing all the advertising that eventually affects the national agenda," says a spokeswoman for the Columbia Broadcasting System, which owns stations in many of the country's major cities.

But that explanation is disingenuous because the FCC has repeatedly ruled that those who assert their right to respond to an issue-oriented commercial but lack the money to buy advertising time must be given free broadcast access by the station.

When the broadcasting industry voluntarily imposed a ban on cigarette advertising, for example, it was concerned less about the health hazards posed by smoking than by an FCC ruling that held the fairness doctrine was applicable to those commercials at a time when public interest groups were poised to demand free time for anti-smoking ads.

When individuals and organizations seek to purchase advertising time on television networks and stations, they routinely are rejected with the explanation that such issues are explored in regularly scheduled news programs.

Arms Dealer Says CIA OK'd Illegal Sale

By Jack Anderson and Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — U.S. intelligence agencies tried to smuggle state-of-the-art Soviet military hardware to the West. This is the story of an American arms dealer facing trial for a transaction he insists was a crucial part of the plan. But intelligence officials deny that they authorized anything illegal.

The intricate scheme collapsed when a Customs Service tipster learned about the illegal part of it, and those involved were indicted for attempting to sell arms to Poland. Solomon Schwartz, three other individuals and HLB Security Electronics Ltd. will go on trial in New York early next year.

The defendants claim their attempted sale of automatic rifles and ammunition to Poland was part of

SCIENCE WORLD

Nappers Not Lazy

By Gayle Young
UPI Science Writer
NEW YORK (UPI) — Around 3 o'clock in the afternoon a subtle shift in behavior is observed all over the world.

Studies show accidents increase while work productivity decreases. In offices, people tend to gravitate toward water coolers and coffee machines. On college campuses, an estimated half of all students put their books aside and take naps.

Only recently have scientists and psychologists realized that the subtle phenomenon is based not on culture, food or behavioral conditioning — but on a shift in almost every human's biological time clock.

"We sleep and wake on a 24-hour cycle, but somewhere around eight hours after waking we experience a dip," said David F. Dinges, a biological psychologist affiliated with the Institute of Pennsylvania Hospital and the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine.

"That's the time people take naps, or feel like they want to take a nap."

Studies have shown that most people experience a measurable lull in their level of alertness between 1 and 4 p.m. that scientists believe is tied in with the brain's regulation of sleep and wake cycles.

"We measure it by how long it takes to get someone to sleep," Dinges said. "In the morning and evening it takes about 15 minutes to get the brain to fall asleep while at night it only takes a few minutes."

"But somewhere in the afternoon there is a dip and people can fall asleep within five minutes," he said.

The studies confirmed what some people felt all along: that they lag in the afternoon until they catch a "second wind" that makes them alert in the evening.

Some researchers had theorized the lag was caused by heavy lunches or the body's reaction to carbohydrates in food, but Dinges said most psychologists who study sleep believe the phenomenon is linked to the brain's wake and sleep cycle alone.

In his own studies of college students, Dinges has discovered that about half nap for an average of 70 minutes a day.

"You look at college students because that's the one time in life a person can structure their day just about any way they want," he said. Retired people are also prone to napping, he said.

The 70-minute average indicates the period of sleepiness is relatively short, especially when compared to the six to 10 hours of sleep most people need at night.

Psychologists, while agreeing there is a tendency to nap in mid-afternoon, debate whether an hour of actual sleep is beneficial to most people. Studies have indicated that work performance does not change whether people nap or not, but a recent study has shown personality may suffer.

Amy Bertelson, a researcher in clinical psychology at Washington University in St. Louis, had 94 people — half of whom described themselves as nappers — either nap for an hour, rest in bed reading or watch a television program they were told they would be quizzed on.

The subjects were tested for mental alertness, performance and mood before and after the time period, she said. When it came to alertness and performance, there was little difference between the three groups.

But people who napped or rested while reading appeared to be in better moods than those who had to remain awake and alert, she said.

"It didn't matter if they fell asleep or rested, their mood was much better than those who watched the program," Bertelson said in a telephone interview. "It may be beneficial for people to nap or get the benefit of a little rest in the afternoon."

She said her studies may confirm what parents of boisterous children have known all along. Their children are better behaved after a rest period even if they don't actually go to sleep.

While the pull to nap is strong in children, most adults can work their way through the daily lull with a minimal effort, Dinges said.

ANTHONY HARRIGAN

Local Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON — In the alternative press, the silly season continues year-round.

One is reminded of this in reading "A Foreign Policy For Your Hometown?" published in the October-November issue of the Utne Reader, which describes itself as "the best of the alternative press."

Most Americans have the idea that municipal governments leave foreign policy to the president, Congress and the State Department and, instead, deal with sewers and drains, street paving and lighting, law enforcement, and other such matters.

However, according to the Utne Reader, a number of American cities "have formulated foreign policies of their own." It quotes a magazine as saying that about 80 communities (three quarters of them in Wisconsin, Oregon, California and Massachusetts) have declared themselves "nuclear free zones." Presumably, they believe that the chief of the Soviet rocket forces has taken note of this and exempted these communities from missile targeting.

The Utne Reader also reports that Michael Shuman, director of the Center of Innovative Diplomacy in California, has written that municipal foreign policies may indeed change the world one day. Truly, the world is full of surprises. But it will take some convincing to persuade Americans that the policy planning staff of the mayor of Seattle, Wash., or Santa Monica, Calif., will make the Kremlin think twice before it moves more troops into Afghanistan.

Mr. Shuman, however, is reported to be working "to promote and assist municipal foreign policies, and he is proposing that Palo Alto, Calif., create a Global Affairs Council of elected officials" which might make foreign trade arrangements. "My long-term plan," he is quoted as saying, "is to develop hundreds, perhaps thousands of municipal state departments around the world."

The Utne Reader admits that this is "visionary stuff," but it adds, "let's not forget that local foreign policy can be fun, too." The Reader's idea of fun may strike many Americans as a bit odd. Under the fun heading, it puts former Madison, Wis., Mayor Paul Soglin's statement that he remembers a trip to Cuba 11 years ago during which he had "a four-hour chat with Fidel Castro about baseball, nuclear power, Hemingway, and cattle breeding."

The former mayor concluded, "Who says that because government is serious work it can't be enjoyable."

the quid pro quo that would have induced the Poles to sell them two Soviet-made T-72 tanks and some SAM-7 anti-aircraft missiles. U.S. intelligence agencies have been trying for years to obtain the Soviet weapons for analysis of their materials and technology.

Schwartz has named names, dates and places in an affidavit submitted to the federal judge handling the case, which has been put under seal for security purposes. Our associate Donald Goldberg has learned many of the details Schwartz put in his sworn statement.

This is Schwartz's side of the bizarre story:

In November 1982, Schwartz was contacted by a "free-lance" CIA agent, who told him the agency wanted to get its hands on two

T-72s and some SAM-7 missiles and launchers. The CIA had come to Schwartz because of his past dealings with the Polish government.

Schwartz began the tricky enterprise by arranging to meet a Polish attaché at the Polish Bank Handlowy in New York, to discuss the purchase of unrelated Polish products. Schwartz later flew to Vienna, where he met with the head of the Polish commercial trade office. The American businessman was invited to Warsaw during the 40th anniversary of the anti-Nazi uprising of 1943 — a good cover for his secret discussions.

In Warsaw, Schwartz met with a high-ranking general of CENZIN, the Polish military sales office. Schwartz initially inquired only about the SAM-7 missiles. He assured the general they would not be shipped to an "out-of-bounds" nation — like the United States.

Schwartz then brought up the T-72s, and was told a sale was possible as long as the tanks were going to a Soviet "client state." An American company couldn't be involved, the price would be high, and the deal would probably take a couple of years.

Schwartz says that on his return to New York he reported all this to FBI counterintelligence officials there, and to Pentagon intelligence officials in Washington.

Schwartz also insists he told the agencies that some U.S. weapons might have to be sold to Poland as part of the deal — an illegal act that agency officials absolutely deny they approved.

Interleukin-2 Shrinks Tumors, But Researchers Cautious

CHICAGO (UPI) — A natural tumor-fighting substance once touted as a cancer breakthrough effectively attacks a form of skin cancer resistant to other treatments, but government scientists remain cautious about its future.

Interleukin-2 is "an experimental treatment, and it needs to be kept in perspective," said Dr. Steven Rosenberg of the National Cancer Institute in Bethesda, Md.

The caution surrounding the NCI report in today's Journal of the American Medical Association even exceeds that usually exercised by scientists, reflecting the belief of many medical researchers that early hopes for the highly publicized protein may have been too high.

Centrist Democrats Mull Agenda

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (UPI) — The Democratic Leadership Council is advancing a centrist agenda to help the party "reassert its claim to national leadership," but at least one analyst cautions against too much moderation.

"American opinion is not as centrist as one might believe," historian William Leuchtenburg warned the DLC's first major gathering Thursday. "History simply does not show that moving to the center is a guaranteed route to success."

The DLC was created in the wake of the 1984 Democratic debacle, in which President Reagan gained re-election by winning 49 of 50 states. Considered a splinter group by more traditional Democratic elements, the DLC has sought to defuse criticism by offering ideas it contends will return the party to power.

About 200 participants, including some of the brightest stars in the Democratic constellation, met in Virginia's restored colonial capital Thursday to begin forging a moderate program for the 1988 elections.

Stunned City Seeks Recovery

MOUNT PLEASANT, Iowa (UPI) — A stunned city tried to rebuild a government shattered by a shooting spree that left the mayor dead, two council members wounded and residents feeling like "somebody pulled a trigger on the whole town."

The four City Council members who escaped unscathed from a hail of bullets allegedly fired by a disgruntled ex-World War II POW planned to meet today to choose an acting mayor pro tem and to try returning the city of 7,500 to normal.

WORLD IN BRIEF

NATO Ministers End Conference With Call For Arms Reductions

BRUSSELS Belgium (UPI) — NATO foreign ministers today called for a 50 percent reduction in strategic nuclear forces and an agreement on intermediate-range missiles.

In a statement at the end of the two-day semiannual meeting, the 16 ministers called last October's U.S.-Soviet summit in Reykjavik, Iceland, a milestone in East-West relations and agreed that arms control talks in Geneva "should seek to achieve substantial reductions in offensive nuclear forces."

Like the NATO defense ministers last week, the foreign ministers made no mention of President Reagan's Reykjavik proposal to eliminate strategic nuclear missiles in the next decade. They called for an agreement "on 50 percent reductions in U.S. and Soviet strategic offensive forces and ... on long-range intermediate nuclear missiles."

The ministers said they recognized the "opportunity for progress in some areas" for negotiated nuclear arms reductions such as in long-range intermediate nuclear missiles but insisted agreements "must not be held hostage to agreements in other unrelated ones."

OPEC Ponders Production Cuts

GENEVA (UPI) — OPEC ministers resumed their year-end meeting today amid speculation market-leading Saudi Arabia favors production cuts to boost prices to $18 a barrel and end an oil glut that slashed cartel revenues by $50 billion this year.

The 13 ministers generally respected a news blackout when they began the second day of their year-end conference — a record sixth OPEC meeting this year prompted by the fall in prices.

Earlier, after Thursday's session, delegation sources said Saudi Arabia eventually would agree to a production cut on a proportional basis by all members except tiny Gabon and Ecuador in an attempt to obtain the target $18-a-barrel price.

Reagan Tends Nation's Business Facing Scandal Siege In Office

By Helen Thomas
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, facing a long siege with the Iran arms-Contra aid scandal, has turned his attention to next year's budget and domestic programs as investigators rummage through his files.

Deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said Thursday that the FBI, congressional investigators, and the staff of a presidential panel chaired by former Sen. John Tower of Texas have access to the files in a secure area of the Executive Office Building.

In addition, the White House counsel's office, headed by Peter Wallison is preparing an internal report from the papers in the files.

Speakes said that Reagan is maintaining an "even keel" during the heavy barrage from Capitol Hill and the media about the secret operation that diverted up to $30 million in arms sales profits from Iran to the Nicaraguan rebels.

Reagan is currently working on the 1987 budget and looking over a welfare reform plan and "catastrophic health" program which is being pushed by Health and Human Services Secretary Otis Bowen, Speakes said.

But the repercussions from the scandal are never very far away, with aides acknowledging that it will take many months before an independent counsel and the House and Senate select Watergate-style committees complete their probes.

With his presidency rocked by its worst crisis, Reagan has met with former Democratic National Chairman Robert Strauss and former Secretary of State William Rogers to discuss the Iran scandal. The Washington Post reported today.

At last Thursday's meeting — arranged by former White House aide Michael Deaver — both men counseled Reagan that must be more assertive as investigations into the Iran affair broaden, lest the scandal cripple his ability to govern effectively in his remaining two years in office.

The Post also reported that former Senate Majority leader Howard Baker, R-Tenn., has met with Vice President George Bush.

Tower's panel, looking into the operations of the National Security Council, was expected to have a report within a couple of months.

When full-scale hearings get underway, Speakes said the White House would not object to public hearings by the congressional committees as long as some of the intelligence-related subjects are reserved for closed sessions.

Speakes acknowledged that Reagan purposely did not inform some top aides of his Jan. 17 authorization to sell arms to Iran, apparently bypassing his own procedure for circulating national security decisions.

But he refused to acknowledge a report in The Washington Post that a 1982 "national security decision directive" by Reagan set up a system for notifying eight top U.S. foreign and defense policy officials of key decisions.

Speakes explained he could not confirm the Post account because of a longstanding rule against discussing top secret documents.

But, he said, "As you know, on the Jan.

17 order, the president issued very strict rules about how it should be a closely held type operation. ... As we've indicated, very few people knew about this and it was a very deliberate arrangement ... because it was a sensitive issue."

On Jan. 17, Reagan issued an intelligence authorization, called a "finding," which authorized and provided legal justification for the secret arms sales.

Thursday evening, Reagan helped an 8-year-old fatherless boy, Byron Whyte of Prince Georges County, Md., light the National Christmas Tree in a ceremony dating back to Calvin Coolidge.

Standing with him in the diplomatic reception room for the launching of the Pageant of Peace were his wife, Nancy, and Byron, who belongs to the National Capital area chapter of Big Brothers and Big Sisters.

The red and blue lights ignited on the 32-foot blue spruce when Byron pushed the button on a lectern on a desk in the ornate room where the president greets world leaders.

As soon as the lights went on Mrs. Reagan exclaimed "there" and the musicians struck up "O Tannenbaum".

"By golly, Byron, you turned it on," Reagan said.

In brief remarks, Reagan described the Christmas celebration as the "pinnacle of all history ... a time of peace and glad tidings and goodwill."

Afterwards, a reporter asked Reagan if he could really have a merry Christmas given the political problem of the Iran arms scandal.

"I don't have any problem at Christmas," Reagan replied.

Report: Casey Evaluation Encouraged Iran Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An intelligence evaluation that CIA Director William Casey provided to the White House encouraged the administration to begin its secret initiative toward Iran, The Washington Post reported today.

Former national security adviser Robert McFarlane asked Casey to submit his own evaluation of the region following a July 1985 meeting between McFarlane and David Kimche, director general of the Israeli Foreign Ministry, on the possibility of a U.S.-Iran dialogue, sources told the Post.

Casey has said repeatedly his agency had a minimal role in the Iran affair and reiterated his stance Thursday to the House Intelligence Committee.

Following two days of congressional questioning, Casey told reporters he had an inkling that money from secret U.S. arms sales to Iran was missing even before it was publicly revealed Nov. 25 by Attorney General

Edwin Meese, but he insisted he had no idea as much as $30 million was diverted to the CIA-backed Contra rebels in Nicaragua until Meese told him.

Kimche, a 30-year veteran of the Israeli Mossad secret intelligence service, told McFarlane Iranian moderates were willing to negotiate with the administration.

"Bill Casey found the Israeli analysis bona fide, based on his own intelligence," the Post quoted one source as saying, and the CIA chief spent several weeks compiling information from U.S. intelligence agencies and comparing it to Israeli information.

Kimche and other Israeli diplomats had provided McFarlane with sensitive information to support their position that a U.S.-Iranian dialogue could be restored, sources told the newspaper.

The information submitted to McFarlane included tape recordings, electronic communications intercepts and a list of important Iranians interested in restoring relations with the United States.

At Monday's House Foreign Affairs Committee hearing, McFarlane said he had been given "extremely persuasive intelligence information" about the moderates in Iran but could not discuss the documents in open session.

The newspaper said Graham Fuller, the national intelligence officer for the Middle East, produced a 25-page paper in early 1985 that laid the groundwork for the belief there were moderates in the Iran regime of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini — a belief cited by President Reagan in defending the initiative.

Casey passed on Fuller's paper to the White House and the State and Defense departments even though the document was originally intended for internal use only, the Post said.

The Fuller paper triggered other CIA studies, including a May 17, 1985, memo on Iran that stressed Soviet efforts to woo Iranian contacts.

News Curbs Knocked

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Newspaper editorials today denounced the tough new curbs on the media, and a government official said they could be reconsidered if the press could learn to police itself.

The Cape Times said the harsh strictures meant "that once friendly quarters in the West are likely to walk away from this country and its problems." It added, "Governments, already hostile to Pretoria, will adopt new means of opposition."

The liberal Weekly Mail told readers seeking information on security force action, boycotts or political detentions to personally telephone government officials.

It listed the office numbers of the state president, foreign minister, minister of defense and other Cabinet ministers under the heading "emergency made simple."

The Citizen, Johannesburg's largest conservative English-language newspaper, said, "the lamps of freedom have gone out in South Africa and will not be switched on again while the emergency lasts."

Infringements can be punished by up to 10 years in jail or fines equivalent to $9,000.

Lyman Rolls Out Its Welcome 'Mats'

"Wrestling is not a team sport. When you are out on the mat, and the other guy is faster and stronger than you, there's not a whole lot your team can do for you."

— from the movie Vision Quest

By Mike Andrew
Special to the Herald

LONGWOOD — Tonight at 6:30, 16 teams will begin action in the 15th annual Emerson Electric Lyman Christmas Wrestling Tournament. Sixteen different high schools, bringing 16 different sets of fans, all hoping for 16 different results at Lyman High School. Admission is $3 per session.

But when the mats are rolled out and the whistle blows, it will come down to just two men: one-on-one inside the circle with no help from their friends.

In fact, there will be in excess of 200 separate individuals all striving to finish number one in their weight class. For some it will be a growing experience, while others will use this weekend's tournament as a stepping stone toward a successful regular season and the state tournament in the spring.

The favorites for the team crown, according to Lake Mary coach Doug Peters, will be his Rams, Orlando Bishop Moore, and Orlando Colonial.

Among the three teams, they share eight number one seeds, and 22 overall seedings among the 14 weight classes.

When the matches begin, however, it is every man for himself. Short of the state or regional tournaments, the Lyman Christmas Tournament annually features some of the finest wrestlers in the state, this year being no exception.

Lake Howell coach Joe Corso said the tournament provides a measurement for the wrestlers involved. "This gives us a sort of meter," Corso said. "We find out what kind of condition everyone is in, and how they are developing."

"After the tournament, the wrestlers are able to adjust their individual goals, which in the end adds to the overall team strength."

Lake Brantley coach Kevin Carpenger agrees with Corso. "This tournament has the same number of teams as does the regionals," Carpenger said. "It's a good prep for this type of tournament. Afterwards each wrestler will evaluate his performance and decide where he will be the remainder of the season."

"Can I be competitive at this weight, or should I drop down a weight class come district time?"

There appears to be a possibility for a lot of fireworks in the early matches. In the 101-pound class, three of the top four seeds represent Seminole County schools. Dan Roth (No. 2) will represent the Patriots, and Carpenger is counting on him to have a good tournament. Following him in the seedings are Jeff Johnson from Lake Mary, and Peters said Johnson could set the tone for his team's chances at the overall crown.

"Jeff Johnson will make a deciding factor," Peters said. "He's seeded third and has Foster from Colonial in his first match. That will be a crucial match for us, and we need him to come through."

Another favorite Peters is counting on will be 122-pound Enrique Carbia who is seeded No. 1 and is a seasoned tournament wrestler.

Host Lyman and coach Bill Scott have favorites in 188-pound Benny Glenn and heavyweight Jimbo Smith. Both are seeded No. 1 and both are

The Seminole High School wrestling team is inexperienced, yet the Seminoles have bolted out to a 4-0 record after Thursday night's 44-28 victory over St. Cloud at Seminole High.

"We only have two seniors on the team," Sanford coach Glenn Maiolini said. "It is very encouraging to see our youngsters do so well this early in the season."

Seminole used pins by Titus Manning (100), Brad Dyess (107), Randy "Pork" Bryant (Heavyweight) and Derrick Butler (unlimited) to break open a close match and coast to victory Thursday at Seminole's Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium.

"I am very happy with the way Bryant is performing," Maiolini said. "In the past few matches, things have been very close coming into his match, and he has come through every time with a big pin."

The brother tandem of Tracy and Troy Turner each registered victories. "They are good athletes," Maiolini said of the Turners. "They have done a good job so far this season."

Maiolini said despite his team's youth, he feels that the team can be extremely successful. "We are very young, but we can still have a heck of a season," Maiolini said. "I am very excited about this team."

Maiolini said the Seminoles will be competing in a tournament at Bradenton Manatee next week which includes some of the toughest teams in the state. "Our youth will probably show on the road," Maiolini said. "This tournament is going to be very tough for us, but going up against very good competition can only help."

"This is a turnover year for us," Maiolini added. "We have virtually no experience, but the kids are working hard and doing well. A lot of the other teams in the county are in the same situation as us, they are rebuilding. Most of the teams are pretty even."

action Thursday night. Mays and the 'Noles both won for the fourth consecutive match.

Mets Fill Void With McReynolds

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The New York Mets ended the winter baseball meetings as they did the major-league season — in championship style.

The World Series champions had come to the meetings eager to acquire a right-handed power hitter in a trade. Thursday night, after two days of intense negotiations, they succeeded — but at a cost they may eventually regret.

In the biggest trade at the meetings in several years, the Mets acquired slugger outfielder Kevin McReynolds, relief pitcher Gene Walter and minor-league infielder Adam Gung from the San Diego Padres for infielder-outfielder Kevin Mitchell, outfielders Stan Jefferson and Shawn Abner and pitchers Kevin Armstrong and Kevin Brown.

Two other trades were completed Thursday. The Yankees sent outfielder Mike Easler to the Philadelphia Phillies for right-handed pitcher Charles Hudson, and the Oakland A's dealt infielder Donnie Hill to the Chicago White Sox for pitcher Gene Nelson and a player to be named. Right-handed pitcher

Baseball

Bruce Tanner is expected to be that player.

The Mets-Padres deal — which no doubt set a major-league record for most players named Kevin in a single trade — stripped the Mets of two of their top farmhands, Abner and Jefferson, and a versatile utility player, Mitchell, who played six positionals last year.

Mitchell, 24, is expected to be the Padres' regular third baseman next spring and Jefferson, 24, will be given a chance to win the regular center-field spot.

"Obviously, the most significant impact is we've given up Kevin Mitchell," said Joe McIlvaine, the Mets' vice president of baseball operations. "He afforded us a right-handed hitting third baseman with power with the ability to move around. So we're hurting a bit for versatility."

"But getting a right-handed power hitter is what we came here to do and we did it. The toughest thing in sports right now is repeating. Complacency can set in. We're trying to keep everybody hungry."

The Mets were able to complete the trade without giving up any of their prized pitchers. The Padres had originally asked for Randy Myers — a 24-year-old, left-handed strikeout artist who starred in the International League last year — or Rick Aguilera, the team's fifth starter last season.

When the Mets balked, the deal seemed dead. Then the Mets sweetened the offer with Abner, the No. 1 selection in the June 1984 draft, and the Padres jumped at it.

"How many chances do you get to acquire Shawn Abner?" asked Jack McKeon, the Padres' general manager. "That's just like trying to get Kevin McReynolds away from me three years ago. He may come here and be nothing. But you've got take a chance."

While the Mets are expecting big things from McReynolds, some people question his work ethic. Although he hit 26 home runs and knocked in 96 runs last year, he was accused by club owner Ballard Smith of occasionally not hustling.

"He's a very sensitive individual," McIlvaine said. "Part of our plan will be how to handle him and handle him best so as to bring out his maximum. He did not react well to the way he was handled at San Diego. What we can try and do is learn and handle him in a way that will be more beneficial."

The Mets' acquisition of McReynolds may spark Yankees owner George Steinbrenner into action in the free-agent race to sign pitcher Jack Morris.

Morris, who has played out his option with Detroit after 10 seasons with the Tigers, has listed the Yankees as No. 1 among four teams he is willing to join.

It places Steinbrenner in a dilemma. He is on record as saying he wants to hold the line on salaries, yet he is unhappy at the way the Mets have captured New York. He realizes the acquisition of Morris could make the Yankees pennant winners.

Don't be surprised if Morris goes from Tiger stripes to pinstripes.

Oviedo Holds Off 'Noles; Rams, 'Hounds Tie

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

Greg Brick provided the scoring cushion and Gordon King put a clamp on the goal in the late going as Oviedo's Lions held off a furious second-half comeback by Seminole High Thursday night. Brick's two goals and King's 12 saves lifted the Lions to a 2-1 victory in Seminole Athletic Conference action at Oviedo High.

Oviedo, 3-0-1 overall, returns to action Friday and Saturday in the Orlando Soccer Tournament. Oviedo's next SAC game (1-0) is Tuesday at Lake Mary.

Seminole now stands at 2-1 overall and 0-1 in the SAC and returns to play Tuesday at home against Lake Brantley.

Brick gave the Lions a 1-0 lead only 40 seconds into the game when he scored on a direct kick from 20 yards out. Seminole, though, held the Lions scoreless the remainder of the first half.

"If Oviedo scored 40 seconds into the game last year, the team would have folded and lost, 5-0," Seminole coach Carlos Merlino said. "But the guys really hung in and played well tonight."

Seminole had a chance to tie it in the first half on a penalty kick but Chris Ray hit the shot right at King who made the save.

Brick gave the Lions a 2-0 lead 26 minutes into the second half when he took the ball up the middle, beat a couple of Seminole defenders and blasted a shot between the pipes for his 10th goal in five games.

Seminole turned up the offensive pressure the last 10 minutes of the match and continually challenged King who rose to the occasion. Seminole pulled within 2-1 with 6:57 remaining when Scott Taylor scored on an assist from Mike Altizer. It was Taylor's first goal of the season and Altizer's fourth assist in three games.

Seminole continued to put the pressure on in the last six minutes but could not get a shot past King.

"We dominated the last 10 minutes of the game and King made some outstanding saves," Merlino said. "He stopped Matt Albert in close one time, and Altizer on another good chance."

While King made 12 saves for the match, Seminole keeper Sean Sundvall kept it close with nine saves of his own. Oviedo took 28 shots on goal compared to Seminole's 23.

COACHES: TEAMS TOO EVEN

In a game that was about as even as you can get, Lake Mary's Rams and Lyman's Greyhounds fought to a 1-1 tie Thursday night at Lyman High.

Lake Mary, 3-0-1 overall, returns to action Saturday in a nonconference game at DeLand. The Rams look for their first SAC win Tuesday at home against Oviedo.

Lyman, 2-0-2 overall, hosts West Orange on Saturday before returning to SAC play Tuesday at Lake Howell.

"We were dead even going in and still are," Lyman coach Ray Sandidge said. "It's always tough between us and Lake Mary and neither team got the better of the other tonight."

Walker's 20 Boards Nail Shut Apopka

By Scott Sander

APOPKA — Craig Walker collected a career-high 20 rebounds and blocked eight shots while Roderick Henderson and Andre Whitney posted near triple-doubles as Seminole trounced Apopka, 79-64, in nonconference prep basketball before 255 fans at Apopka High School.

The victory ups Seminole's record to 4-2 while Apopka fell to 1-2. Seminole returns to action Tuesday at home against unbeaten Spruce Creek. Apopka travels to Mt. Dora tonight.

Seminole's 6-8 Walker set the tone for the game as he received the opening tipoff and promptly went in untouched for the dunk. The 'Noles jumped out to a 7-0 lead and extended the lead to 23-10 with two minutes left in the first period.

Walker had almost one-third of the school-record 63 boards. "He was awesome," Seminole coach Bill Klein said about his steadily-developing junior.

"After Craig blocked all those shots, they didn't shoot very well," Seminole assistant John McNamara said about Apopka's 39 percent field-goal percentage.

Walker added 13 points to his rebounds. Henderson, a 6-4 senior, had a typical performance with 22 points on an array of moves that bewildered the Darters, along with 10 assists and eight rebounds. Whitney chipped in 14 points, seven assists and nine rebounds. A triple-double is double figures in points, assists and rebounds.

Although the Tribe won by 15 points, Klein was the first to admit that his team didn't play up to par. "We just didn't come out ready to play," Klein said. "I was unhappy with our performance tonight."

Henderson, though, after dropping a hard-fought game to Daytona Beach Mainland Tuesday, said he was impressed with the second-half performance.

"It felt good to get back on the winning track again," he said. "They (Apopka) was a pretty tough team. We didn't rebound very well in the first half, but in the second half we controlled the boards."

The game was on the verge of a blowout until Apopka scored 12 unanswered points to cut the lead to just a point at 23-22 with six minutes left in the first half.

During the three-minute span in which Seminole didn't score, Apopka pulled down six consecutive rebounds, angering Klein. "We knew coming in that this would not be an easy game," Klein said. "It is always tough to win here and they got right back in the game during that stretch."

Every time that Apopka got within striking distance, however, Seminole made a key basket to pull away. The 'Noles held off several second-quarter rallies and took a 37-31 halftime lead into the locker room.

After Apopka played Seminole tough for most of the third period, the Tribe pulled away at the end of the quarter. Apopka trimmed a 10-point deficit to just two, 49-47, with 1:30 left to play in the third stanza. Whitney extinguished the rally as he connected on three consecutive shots to give Seminole a 55-47 lead at the end of the quarter.

Apopka trimmed the lead to four at 57-53 with five minutes to play, but Seminole jumped out to a 10-point lead on their next three possessions and never looked back.

"They have a lot of good athletes and they never quit," Klein said about the Darters.

Forward Leslie Pierce led the Darters with 14 points. Brian Burgett netted 12 points while Dewey Varner and Robert Hardwick each chipped in with 11. Walt "Dunkman" Hopson added 10 points for Seminole and Steve Hathaway netted eight.

In junior varsity play, Seminole lost to Apopka, 73-59.

SEMINOLE (77): Henderson 22, Whitney 14, Walker 13, Hopson 10, Hathaway 8, Parker 5, Edwards 4. Totals: 77-59.
APOPKA (64): Pierce 14, Burgett 12, Varner 11, Hardwick 11, Smith 9, McCarthy 5, Arnett 2. Totals: 64-77.
Halftime — Seminole 27, Apopka 21. Fouls — Seminole 13, Apopka 12. Fouled out — None. Technical — Hopson. Records — Seminole 4-2, Apopka 1-2.

Schaal Award Tonight

The 59th Peter Schaal Award, named after a former Sanford Herald sports editor and the longest consecutively-presented sports award in America, will be given tonight at the Seminole High School football banquet.

The Schaal Award is given to the player which the team could least do without.

The banquet begins at 6:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

Sacks To Run 20 Races For Dingman Brothers

A few weeks ago it was reported in this column there was a rumor making the rounds that Joe Ruttman might be joining the Dingman Brothers, Winter Park-based, Winston Cup team for 1987.

Ruttman, as it turns out, will be going elsewhere as modified veteran Greg Sacks has agreed to run 20 races for the Dingman Brothers team.

The Dingmans will campaign a Pontiac 2+2 with veteran crew chief David Ifft heading the organization, Ducky Newman is the team's chief engine builder, with Dick Burgess also working in that department.

Joe Harris left the Bernstein/Quaker State team to join the Dingman operation and Bobby Jones, who recently worked for Harry Hyde and Tommy Ellis, also has moved to the Florida team's headquarters.

"Needless to say, I'm very pleased to have Greg as our driver for 1987," Billy Dingman said. "He's not only a talented young driver, but he's also willing to become closely involved with the team."

"I believe that is going to be a very positive factor during this initial developmental year in the Winston Cup series," Sacks said he is moving from New York to Florida so that he can be closer to the team.

Sacks, from Mattituck, N.Y., began his racing career in 1970 at age 17 in the Modified Division at Riverhead Raceway on Long Island, N.Y. That year he won two races and rookie honors at the track. His best season in the Modified Division was 1982 when He won 28 of 38 races. He was also the Modified champ at the New Smyrna Speedway World Series of Stock Car Racing in 1982.

In 1983, Sacks started his own Winston Cup team and competed in five events. He increased that to 29 races in 1984, posted one top-10 finish and collected $75,184. So far, 1985 has been his best Winston Cup season. In 20 races he had one win, one top-five and five top-10 finishes and won $234,141. His lone NASCAR victory came in the July 4 Pepsi Firecracker 400.

Rick Mears of Bakersfield, Calif., who twice this year set all-time closed-course oval track speed records, established another mark Nov. 17 at Michigan International Speedway.

Mears was driving a Penske-Pennzoil Z-7 March Indy Car equipped with a Chevrolet engine and was clocked at 233.934 mph on the two-mile superspeedway.

Mears broke the record on the 22nd lap during the seventh segment of testing by the Penske Indy Car team.

The record for the fastest lap set by a stock car belongs to Bill Elliott, who this past May won the pole for the Winston 500 with a speed of 212.229 mph in the Coors-Melling Ford Thunderbird.

A number of our local drivers will be collecting some hardware at New Smyrna Speedway's Annual Awards Banquet tonight. Winter Springs driver Harry Brazee won the Thunder Car championship, with Osteen driver Bill Kinley taking third place in that class.

Mike Kubanek of Longwood was going for a second championship in a row, but due to back luck in the last month of racing, was only able to take the runner-up honors in the Road Runner class.

Olden's Triple-Double Pushes Mary By Eustis — Oviedo, Howell Win

By Chris Flater
Herald Sports Writer

Once Jan. 26 passes, Eustis' Lady Panthers can breathe a sigh of relief. That is the last time the Lady Panthers will have to deal with Gabby Olden and Lake Mary's Lady Rams.

Olden, a senior point guard from Sweden, poured in a season-high 25 points on 12 of 21 shooting from the floor, dished out 10 assists and completed the triple double with 14 steals as the Lady Rams crushed the Lady Panthers, 80-45, Thursday night at Eustis.

Lake Mary, 6-1 for the season, goes for its fifth consecutive victory tonight at home against Orlando Evans. Eustis fell to 1-4 with the loss.

While Olden, who was Burger King Player of the Week last week, ran the show Thursday, the "Crunch Sisters" came through once again as senior guard Tonya Lawson pumped in 18 points and senior forward-guard Cynthia Patterson tossed in 17. Lawson hit on 9 of 13 shots from the floor and also had six steals and five assists. Patterson had a team-high 13 rebounds.

Teri Whyte, the Lady Rams' junior center, added 11 points, seven rebounds and three blocked shots. For good measure, Olden added six rebounds.

Eustis hung tough in the opening half as it stayed within 10 points, 38-28, but Lake Mary came out blazing in the second half and outscored the Lady Panthers, 22-11, in the third quarter to take a commanding 60-39 lead.

"We were up by 16 in the second quarter but Eustis scored the last six points with us in foul trouble," Lake Mary coach Bill Moore said. "We came out with a full court man-to-man press and scored the first eight points of the third quarter. We pretty much controlled the second half."

In junior varsity play, Vicky Shepherd, Anita Mitchell and Wiletha Hartfield combined for 40 points Thursday as Lake Mary's Lady Rams improved to 2-0 on the season with a 72-36 victory over Eustis.

Shepherd had 17 points to lead the JV Lady Rams while Mitchell tossed in 13 and Hartfield contributed 10. Laura Hall added eight points, six assists and three steals, Lisa Johnson had four steals and four assists and Tara Jackson pulled down 10 rebounds.

COLONIAL SPOILS BOYLE SHOW

Lyman senior Kim Boyle had the best game of her career but it came in a losing cause as the Lady Greyhounds dropped a 61-35 decision to Orlando Colonial's Grenadiers at Colonial High.

Boyle, a 5-8 forward, pumped in 18 points, hauled down 15 rebounds and came up with eight steals to lead Lyman. Behind Boyle, Thelce Bouey's six points were the next highest for the Lady Greyhounds.

"Kim (Boyle) had a tremendous game," Lyman coach Lisa Carlson said. "She's one of the few experienced players on the team. Everybody else is still in the learning stage."

Lyman, which fell to 0-5, plays again tonight at Eustis. Colonial improved to 3-4 and was led by Lynn Terrel who poured in a game-high 28 points.

LADY HAWKS BOMB APOPKA, 68-43

Lake Howell's Lady Silver Hawks scored 15 straight points in the second quarter and never looked back en route to a 68-43 thumping of Apopka's Lady Bule Darters in nonconference action Thursday night at Apopka.

The Lady Hawks ran their record to 5-1 and return to action Monday at home against Orlando Bishop Moore.

Senior guard Erin Hankins pumped in 21 points to lead the way for the Lady Hawks. Hankins played string music from the free throw line as she connected on 11 of 12 and it also marked the third consecutive game she 5-2 dynamo scored 20 or more points.

Kelley Grider scored nine of her 14 points in the second half while Tammy Lewis had another solid all-around game with 13 points, nine rebounds, six assists and six steals. Carolyn Kuhl scored all six of her points in the decisive second quarter.

Apopka fought Lake Howell to an 11-11 tie after one quarter, but the Lady Hawks opened the second period with 15 straight points for a 26-11 lead. Lake Howell outscored the Lady Darters, 24-6, in the second quarter for a 35-17 halftime lead.

The Lady Hawks were particularly effective from the free throw line where they hit 22 of 26 for the game (85 percent).

BRANTLEY GAME RESCHEDULED

Thursday's scheduled game between Lake Brantley and West Orange has been rescheduled for Wednesday night at Lake Brantley High. Lake Brantley will take a 4-3 record into the game.

Winter Park's FT Blitz Sinks Rams

By Mark Blythe
Herald Sports Writer

LAKE MARY — Winter Park's Wildcats put on a second half surge, powered by 16 of 18 shooting from the free throw line, to overcome Lake Mary's Rams, 52-43, Thursday night in front of 401 fans at Lake Mary High School.

Winter Park is now 2-3 with the victory. The Rams dropped to 1-2 and hope to bounce back tonight as they travel to Ocala Forest.

"We just didn't score," Lake Mary coach Willie Richardson said. "We had the shots but they just didn't fall."

Lake Mary held a 24-20 halftime lead but could only manage four points in the third quarter, shifting the momentum to the Wildcats for the fourth quarter.

Winter Park was led by guard Jerry Magee who tallied 13 points while Willy Daunic and Matt Suedmeyer added 12 apiece to pace the Wildcats.

The Rams were led by point guard Terry "The Cat" Miller who finished with 11 points. Shooting guard Cory Prom finished with a career-high 10.

After dominating the first half the Rams offense fell apart. Center Oscar Merthie grabbed 11 rebounds but only managed to score five points for Lake Mary.

Lake Mary was still in the game after three quarters, down 32-28. Winter Park scored the first four points and four more after a Miller jumper to go up, 40-30 with 4:07 left.

Sophomore Bernard Mitchell cut the lead with a layup off a rebound at 3:16. Eric Czerniejewski then fouled out with three minutes left and sent Daunic to the line. Daunic was perfect on six attempts from the charity stripe in the fourth quarter to thwart any comeback thoughts of Lake Mary.

The Rams did not give up willingly, though, as after Daunic's free throws, Prom drilled a jumper with 2:35 remaining.

Daunic added another pair of free throws before Matt Napoli sank a jumper from the corner. Once again the Rams fouled Daunic and he proceeded to put another nail in the Lake Mary coffin with two more free throws.

Miller came down and banked home a driving jump shot with 1:21 to cut the Wildcat lead to 48-38.

Winter Park's Suedmeyer then connected on a pair of free throws before Prom picked up his own rebound and scored with 1:11 left.

Magee followed suit with his teammates, putting in a pair of free throws with 35 seconds remaining. Lake Mary then worked the ball to Merthie who was fouled and connected on one of his two free throws.

The Rams, forced to play a full-court pressing defense, committed their last foul of the night and this time it was Danny Rubin who sank two free throws for the Wildcats. Prom connected on a long jumper late to end the scoring on the night.

"The first four minutes of the second half turned things around for us," Winter Park coach James "Bo" Clark said. "We had some kids confused because they just came out from football."

Richardson, though disappointed with the loss, was happy with the improvements shown by his ball club. "We're getting better with every game, we just can't keep throwing the ball away," Richardson said. "If we keep improving every game we might be better by tournament time."

The Winter Park junior varsity squad delivered Lake Mary's third straight loss with a 61-47 thrashing of the Rams.

P.J. Behr led the Wildcats with 13 points as Erin McGuire added 12 and Tony Dixon added 10 to lead Winter Park.

George "Ain" Gordon led the way for Lake Mary with a game-high 14 points. Ernest Hallare, netted 10 more for the Rams as Calvin Davis contributed seven.

LAKE MARY (43) — Prom 10, Merthie 5, Miller 11, Czerniejewski 4, Napoli 6, Compton 2, Mandaville 2, Mitchell 10. Totals: 179-18 43.

Boone Rips Greyhounds

The Lyman Greyhound basketball team had looked very impressive in its first three games of the season, winning each of them and scoring over 70 points in the process.

That was before the Greyhounds traveled to Orlando. Lyman turned in a lackluster effort while dropping its first game of the season, 60-34, to Boone's Braves in nonconference basketball action Thursday night at Boone High School.

Lyman, 3-1, returns to action Monday against DeLand at home.

"We just weren't ready to play tonight," Lyman coach Tom Lawrence said about the Greyhounds' first away game. "We just stood around and didn't do much. That was pretty obvious as the score reflected our effort tonight."

Boone, 2-3, hit 22 of 27 free throws, which disturbed Lawrence. "I wasn't real happy that they made all of those free throws," Lawrence said. "But they were hot from the line."

Lyman was led by Vince Florence with nine points.

Oklahoma's 'Stretch' Defense Ropes Longhorns

United Press International

Oklahoma, best known for scoring points not preventing them, used a stingy defense to defeat Texas Thursday night.

Darryl Kennedy scored 18 of his 20 points in the second half to carry the 13th-ranked Sooners past the Longhorns 84-65, and Oklahoma Coach Billy Tubbs said it was his team's defense that won the game.

"I thought we played our best at critical times down the stretch in both halves," Tubbs said. "Our defense forced them away from the basket more than they would have liked."

Kennedy hit 3 straight baskets early in the second half to thwart an attempted comeback by the Longhorns. Kennedy's baseline drive gave Oklahoma a 50-35 lead with 15 minutes left.

Basketball

Kennedy was one of five Sooners to score in double figures. He was joined by Harvey Grant with 16, Tim McCallister 15, David Johnson 13 and Ricky Grace 12.

Patrick Falls led Texas with 16 points and Raynard Davis added 15. Travis Mayes scored 14, and Wayne Thomas had 11.

In other games, No. 8 Auburn romped past Austin Peay 115-93, No. 10 Western Kentucky lost to Central Michigan 73-65, No. 12 Syracuse defeated St. Bonaventure 68-52. Texas Tech surprised co-No. 19 Wyoming 69-61 and St. John's edged Seton Hall 72-69.

At Auburn, Ala., Jeff Moore scored a season-high 26 points and five teammates scored in double figures to lead the Tigers over Austin Peay. Auburn led by 33 points at one juncture in the second half and reached the century mark for the first time since 1983.

At Bowling Green, Ky., Dan Magerie scored 23 points to help Central Michigan upset Western Kentucky and send the Hilltoppers to their second defeat in as many nights. Western had lost to Louisville Wednesday.

At Buffalo, N.Y., Sherman Douglas scored 20 points and Syracuse remained unbeaten with a victory over St. Bonaventure. Derrick Coleman grabbed 11 rebounds for the Orangemen.

At Lubbock, Texas, Mike Nelson and Greg Crowe combined to score 35 points to lead Texas Tech over Wyoming. The Cowboys trailed 38-22 at halftime but rallied to close the gap on the shooting of Fennis Dembo, who scored 26 of his 31 points in the second half.

At New York, Shelton Jones scored 17 of his game-high 25 points in the second half to spark St. John's past Seton Hall in the Big East opener for both teams. The Redmen trailed 34-27 at halftime, but outscored the Pirates 19-9 in the first seven minutes of the second half.

Raiders To Face Tall (7-0, 6-10, 6-10) Obstacles

By Mark Blythe
Herald Sports Writer

Seminole Community College will look to overcome some tall obstacles Friday night when the Raiders take on Cincinnati Tech in the Brevard Community College Christmas Tournament.

Seminole, Cincinnati, Georgia's Brunswick Community College and host Brevard make up the tournament. Game time for both nights will be 7 and 9.

"We don't know too much about Cincinnati," Seminole assistant coach Dean Smith said. "We haven't been able to talk to anybody who has played them."

The one thing the Raiders do know is that Cincinnati will come in with an NBA-like front line. "We know they start a 7-foot center and two 6-10 forwards," Smith said.

Basketball

Smith and head coach Bill Payne are not settling up any different strategy to battle the giants of Ohio but go with SCC's normal game plan — pressure on offense and defense.

SCC is 13-1, ranked 11th nationally and second in the state JuCo poll.

"You run with what you've brought," Smith said. "We'll go with what is working best for us and work on it from there."

SCC will look for the inside play of both 6-8 Vance Hall and 6-7 Claude Jackson to come alive for the matchup and look for guards Darris Gallagher and Malcom Houston to contribute to the Raiders cause. James Morris will also be called upon to hit the boards for the Raiders.

WOMEN HOST NORTH FLORIDA

The SCC women will host North Florida Junior College tonight at 7 at the SCC Health Center. The Lady Raiders are coming off an impressive win over Brevard and Seminole coach Ileana Gallagher hopes to keep her Raiders and gun style going.

The Lady Raiders stand at 7-4 on the season. SCC is led by former Lyman High standout Pam Jackson and also has three other former Seminole County standouts including Stephanie Nelson (Oviedo), Aileen Patterson (Lake Mary) and Andrea Johnson (Lake Mary).

Heavyweights Get Green Light, Witherspoon, Smith Vie Tonight

NEW YORK (UPI) — After weeks of haggling that ended fewer than 24 hours before the scheduled opening bell, champion Tim Witherspoon has agreed to fight James "Boncrusher" Smith tonight for the World Boxing Association title and the dubious privilege of facing Mike Tyson.

The bouts are part of a tournament devised by Home Box Office and promoter Don King to unify the three heavyweight titles, but they have developed into a showcase for Tyson, at 20 the youngest heavyweight to claim a world title. Neither Witherspoon nor Smith is regarded as threats to Tyson, who claimed the World Boxing Council crown Nov. 22 by knocking out Trevor Berbick in the second round.

Until 9 p.m. Thursday, Witherspoon had not committed to fight Smith. He had originally signed to fight Tony Tubbs, and Smith's substitution rendered the contract invalid. Tubbs withdrew last week claiming he reinjured his shoulder, but King said Tubbs complained about the purse.

Madison Square Garden set a Friday noon deadline for a decision, and King negotiated with Witherspoon through Thursday night, when the champion informed the New York State Athletic Commission he would fight.

Witherspoon weighed in Thursday noon at 233 1/2 pounds, although he was still, at the time, undecided about fighting. Smith weighed 228 1-2.

Miami's Brown Top UPI Lineman

MIAMI (UPI) — Jerome Brown, the swaggering leader of the Miami defense who used his strength and quickness to dominate the line of scrimmage, was named College Lineman of the Year Thursday by United Press International.

Despite facing constant double- and triple-team blocking and missing two games with a toe injury, Brown had 75 tackles — four behind the line of scrimmage — and five sacks for the top-ranked Hurricanes. Brown's presence in the middle of the line often forced teams to run to the outside.

At 6-foot-2 and 285 pounds, the senior tackle from Brooksville, has great quickness for a big man and good strength despite not being an avid weightlifter. He was a finalist for both the Lombardi and Outland trophies.

Wasslin' At Seminole Sunday

The Seminole High School Athletic Department is sponsoring a night of professional wrestling Sunday beginning at 7:30 p.m. at Seminole High. Admission is $4 for adults and $2 for students. Proceeds will go to the athletic department.

In the main event, a four-man Australian tag team match with taped-fist rules, Dan McClain and Bobby Steel take on The Medics. In a North American Heavyweight Championship bout, former Seminole High footballer Ray "Bird-Dog" Bertrand battles T.J. Harmon. And, in a Junior Heavyweight Championship, Bo Brandon goes up against Mike Masters.

Iowa State: 2 Years Probation

AMES, Iowa (UPI) — The NCAA confirmed Thursday Iowa State's football team has been placed on two years probation and stripped of four scholarships for 1987, but the basketball team will suffer no penalties as a result of an investigation of illegal recruiting.

Initially, the NCAA had also barred the football team from television and postseason bowl appearances in 1987, but that sanction was suspended "because of actions taken by the university," said Reid Crawford, assistant to Iowa State President Gordon Eaton.

Tway, Hulbert Lead Team Golf

BOCA RATON (UPI) — A team that failed to make the cut last year leads after one round of this year's $600,000 Chrysler Team Championship.

Bob Tway and Mike Hulbert, who had missed the cut by one shot a year ago, shot a 13-under 59 Thursday to take a one-shot lead over David Peoples and Dick Mast in a rain-shortened first round. Twenty-two of the 75 groups did not complete play because of rain and were scheduled to finish the round this morning.

Benevolent Broen Distributes 4 Assists

Mattingly Notches Hat Trick — Abernethy, Boyesen Spark Lady Greyhounds

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

Soccer

Since it is the season of giving, Kelley Broen is being especially generous to her Lake Mary teammates. Thursday night, the Lady Rams' senior sensation distributed four assists to go along with her two goals as Lake Mary rolled to a 7-0 victory over Vero Beach's Lady Indians at Lake Mary High.

The Lady Rams improved to 4-1 overall and return to Seminole Athletic Conference play Saturday at homes against Lyman. Lake Mary is 1-1 in the SAC while Lyman stands at 0-0-2.

"We'll get a true test when we play Lyman Saturday," Lake Mary coach Bill Eisele said. "For the last three games, we've come out ready to play and have focused on going to the ball and playing aggressively."

The Lady Rams reeled off six goals in the first half with three coming in the first 15 minutes. Donna Rohr scored the opening goal on Broen's first assist and Broen then received an assist from Rohr for a 2-0 lead. Michelle Mattingly put the first feather in her hat trick as she scored on another Broen assist for a 3-0 cushion.

Mattingly scored two more goals in the opening half, the first on Broen's assist and the second on an assist from Rohr. The sixth goal of the first half was scored by Leslie Hobek with Broen getting credit for her fourth assist.

Lake Mary added one more goal in the second half and it was scored by Broen on Cristie Snow's assist. Broen now has seven goals and eight assists in five games.

"We dominated on offense because we played real strong defensively," Eisele said. "We had very few breakdowns on defense and that relieved the pressure so we could play offense."

Eisele also said the Kristin Jones was a big contributor to the offense although she didn't score a goal or have an assist. "She (Jones) did an excellent job moving the ball up the field and feeding it to her teammates," Eisele said.

Lake Mary goalkeeper Tammy Scott had four saves in recording her fourth shutout of the season. Gail Lystromb had 14 saves for Vero Beach which now stands at 1-3.

LYMAN TREMS WILDCATS

Karen Abernethy's goal early in the second half broke up a 1-1 tie and Dana Boyesen added an insurance goal as Lyman's Lady Greyhounds broke a three-game winless streak with a 3-1 victory over Winter Park's Lady Wildcats Thursday at Ward Park.

Lyman, 2-1-2, will now look tame a Lake Mary team that has exploded for 14 goals in the last two games.

Lyman took a 1-0 lead in the first half on an unassisted goal by Linda Schultheis but Winter Park tied it at 1-1 on Connie Windham's goal. The score remained 1-1 at the half.

Abernethy's goal, her second of the season, came on an assist from Maye Belle Bryant and gave Lyman a lead it would not relinquish. Boyesen, a freshman, later scored her first goal for the

Broen Mattingly

Lady Greyhounds on an assist from Stacy Roy to make the final 3-1.

Lyman took 18 shots on goal compared to five for the Lady Wildcats. Lyman keeper Sarah Cobb had four saves and Winter Park keeper Kathy Rizza kept the Lady Cats close with 12 saves.

"Winter Park played a good, aggressive game," Lyman coach Laura Dryden said. "We're working hard on the things that need improving and are taking it one game at a time."

Dryden said forward Randi Huddleston and defender Jennifer McAvoy also turned in outstanding efforts Thursday night.

five minutes left in the first half. A Lyman defender was playing the ball back to the keeper when Jon Brooks intercepted it and knocked it into the goal for his fourth goal of the season.

Lake Mary held onto its 1-0 lead at halftime but Lyman came back to tie it 12 minutes into the second half when Gerard Mitchell booted in a loose ball.

Lake Mary took 14 shots on goal Thursday compared to Lyman's 11. Lyman keeper Kelly Walden came up with seven saves and Lake Mary keeper Scott Betsinger made six saves.

Sandidge said he also received fine defensive play from Chris Walden and outstanding mid-field play from Mark Dubin and Brett Wortham.

HOWELL BOPS BRANTLEY
Kenny Higgins scored the tying goal and had the assist on the winning goal Thursday night as Lake Howell's Silver Hawks upended Lake Brantley's Patriots, 3-1, in SAC action at Lake Brantley High.

Lake Howell, 4-0, goes for its fifth consecutive victory Tuesday at home against Lyman. Lake Brantley fell to 2-2 with its second straight loss and will look to rebound Saturday at home in a nonconference game against Merritt Island.

Lake Brantley took the early lead Thursday as Paul Ahrens scored on a free kick with 23:30 left in the half. Lake Howell came up with the tying goal with just 2:30 left in the half when Higgins scored on an assist from Erik Bird.

Lake Howell broke the tie 8:11 into the second half when Dougie Lee scored on Higgins' assist. Todd Smith later added an insurance goal on an assist from Jeff Phillips to make the final 3-1.

"This is the first time we've been scored on first and the kids showed real composure to come back the way they did," Lake Howell coach Glenn Griffin said. "I didn't feel we played that well in the first half so we made some changes and did a whole lot better the second half."

Lake Brantley coach Jim Brody said the Patriots played well in the first half led by Ahrens, John Schaefer, Henry Broitman and Chad Marlen but the Pats didn't convert on their chances in the second half.

"We had two real good chances to score late in the game, one on an open goal, but we couldn't put it in," Brody said.

Lake Howell took 11 shots on goal for the game compared to nine for the Patriots. Brantley keeper Scott McCullough made seven saves while Lake Howell keeper Martin Nystrom came up with five.

"This was the first time Martin (Nystrom) played the whole game and he did an excellent job," Griffin said.

Bosworth Repeats As Butkus

Football

The award is named for Chicago Bears' great Dick Butkus, who will present Bosworth with the trophy at a black-tie ceremony in Orlando Monday.

A panel of sports writers, broadcasters and others connected with football nominates players and selects the winner.

Other finalists for the award were Alabama senior Cornelius Bennett, Penn State senior Shane Conlan, Arizona senior Byron Evans and Chris Spielman, a junior at Ohio State.

Bosworth, a junior who helped the Sooners to a 10-1 season and a trip to the Orange Bowl as the Big Eight Conference champion, captured eight of nine first-place votes to win the award by a large margin over runner-up Bennett.

Heading into the New Year's Day bowl contest with Arkansas, Bosworth — 6-foot-2, 234 pounds — has made 138 tackles and five quarterback sacks.

In a telephone hookup to a news conference Thursday, Bosworth said he has been traveling and spent two days in the hospital with an intestinal infection.

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

Basketball

Bobby Coffield and Ondreaus Redding poured in 21 points each as the Seminole High freshman blazed to a 96-56 victory over Oviedo's Lions Thursday night at Oviedo High.

Seminole, 3-0, has its biggest early-season game Monday night against Lyman's 4-0 Greyhounds. Game time is 6 p.m. at Seminole High.

"We pressed them for three quarters and laid back the fourth," Seminole coach Bill Zieas said. "We used two different presses with nine players and they all did a good job."

Coffield, a jet-quick guard, also came up with 10 steals and dished out eight assists. Jessie Nightengale added 16 points to the onslaught while Brandon Caah pumped in 15 points and grabbed nine rebounds. Paul Thomas added 10 points, Willie McCloud tossed in nine and David Wright and Allan Fossitt contributed two each.

Hector Diaz led Oviedo with 13 points. Seminole scored 27 points in each of the first two quarters for a 54-34 halftime lead.

LYMAN BUMPS HORNETS

Lyman's freshman Greyhounds outscored Bishop Moore's Hornets, 13-6, in the third quarter and Thursday night and went on to claim a 40-33 victory in freshman action at Bishop Moore.

Lyman, 4-0, is at Seminole High Monday night. "That's the big one," Lyman coach Rich

Balazentis said of Monday's matchup. "I'm just hoping we can stay with Seminole and keep it close."

Paul Bowen's 13 points were high for the Greypups Thursday while Octavious Holiday led the way underneath with 10 points and 17 rebounds. Lenny Anderson added seven points on 5 of 6 free throw shooting and also pulled down seven rebounds and Kennis Moree contributed eight rebounds.

Bishop Moore held a 15-14 halftime lead but Lyman turned up the pressure the third quarter and took a 27-21 lead into the final eight minutes.

BRANTLEY WINS

Clinton Johnson and Rob Harper combined for 27 points and Joe Kushner controlled the inside as Lake Brantley's freshman Patriots downed Lake Howell's Silver Hawks, 59-48, Thursday night at Lake Brantley High.

Lake Brantley, 1-2 for the season, has games against Lake Mary and Seminole next week. Lake Howell fell to 0-3 with the loss.

Johnson's 16 points were high for the Patriots while Harper added 11 and Kushner tossed in nine points, grabbed 11 rebounds and blocked three shots. Todd Guthrie had a game-high 24 points to lead Lake Howell.

Blood Tests Offer A Wealth Of Data

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — I had my blood tested and was surprised at how much one could find out from it. I'd like to know more about the various tests. What are the calcium, chloride and BUN tests? What do the readings mean?

DEAR READER — A great deal of information can indeed be obtained from a lowly blood sample. This includes values for common body chemicals, up through and including the meticulous analysis of the genetic arrangement of blood-cell chromosomes. In addition, trace amounts of various body substances can be identified. An astoundingly useful amount of knowledge can be derived from blood analysis, depending on the sophistication of the laboratory that is analyzing the sample.

Routine blood tests, automatically performed by complicated machines, measure sugar and fats in the blood, minerals (such as calcium and potassium), liver function, kidney efficiency (blood urea nitrogen, or BUN), enzyme levels, toxic substances, general nutrition, hormone levels and cancer proteins (such as carcinoembryonic antigen, a substance that may be present in the bloodstreams of patients with certain cancers). The complete blood count (CBC) is a particularly simple way to assess whether the blood cells themselves are normal in number and appearance.

High or low readings of any component of a blood test usually mean that something is wrong. However, the prudent physician would want to correlate the abnormal value with a patient's general health and clinical state. For instance, in the routine blood tests of normal adults, I often find that the chloride — a part of the salt molecule — is elevated; ordinarily, this has no significance whatsoever.

Blood tests are only one of many ways to investigate health and disease. Test results are compared to the normal levels that most healthy people have. Many healthy people may actually show slight variations from the normal average or spread of values. In addition, laboratories and technicians do sometimes make mistakes, and test results can be affected by some medications or substances, such as hormone or vitamin supplements, oral contraceptives, antibiotics and many others — so it's important to tell your doctor of any medications or supplements you've been taking. Therefore, although blood tests may seem to be wondrous ways to examine the human body, they are not magic and have to be correlated with other medical investigation.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Here is an age-old problem relating to defensive carding. When your partner leads the king against a slam contract, is it proper for you to signal whether you like the lead? Or should you play a card that will tell your partner how many cards you hold in the suit led (high for an even number, low for an odd number)?

In today's deal, East played his lowest diamond. He meant that to indicate his fear that a second diamond would be ruffed. He also felt comfortable about his partner shifting to a heart. However, West thought his partner was showing an odd number of diamonds, since the five was the lowest diamond not in view. So West tried to take a second diamond trick. Declarer happily ruffed, drew trumps and made his slam.

What's the solution? There is no unanimity, even among experts. My suggestion is this: When a king is led against a slam contract in a suit, give count. If you have four cards in the suit, as East did, play the second-highest card (in this instance, the seven-spot). Should you and your favorite partner agree on this method, I hope it may be a while before you get to try it out in actual play. It's much more fun to bid a slam and try to make it than to defend against it.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
DECEMBER 13, 1986

Your hopes will be built upon realistic foundations in the year ahead. This will enable you to get what you go after, but it might take more time than you initially anticipate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Do yourself a favor today by pushing yourself away from the table and being active. Doing something stimulating outdoors will fill the bill. Poor Lighting Major Cause Of Plant Failure

It's that time again — time to bring all of your house plants indoors that you've had on the patio through the summer. This can be a good time, if you're careful and slowly acclimate your plants to the new environment. You may find that some of your plants will drop their leaves temporarily while adjusting to indoor conditions.

Alfred Bessesen
Urban Horticulturist

Nearly all forms of life need some light to survive, and this includes your houseplants. Among the elements needed for indoor plant culture and proper temperature, humidity, and light — with light leading the list. Poor lighting is a major cause of plant failure.

The light requirements of various plants vary drastically. Light intensity refers to the brightness of the area where the plant is placed. Generally, a low light condition occurs about eight feet from a window, where a plant receives no direct light. A medium light condition occurs in a well-lit room, where a plant is between four and eight feet from a window. High light areas are the brightly lit places within three feet of any south, east or west window.

Most indoor plants need at least medium light. And, many require high light conditions to look their best. A few will survive in low light. These include many of our tropical plants which will actually "sunburn" if exposed to high light conditions.

Plants can use natural light, from the sun or artificial light from fluorescent, incandescent, or special "grow-light" bulbs. Sunlight is the best source of light for plants, but artificial light can be used very successfully to meet the needs of indoor plants. When growing plants under artificial light, a combination of fluorescent and incandescent light, or grow-lights alone will give good results.

Duration of exposure — the total amount of time a plant receives light, is important. If a plant doesn't receive enough natural light, artificial lights can provide the additional light necessary for the plant's survival. It's difficult to provide indoor light intensities as high as those under which a plant would grow best. But, you can come close by increasing the light duration — in other words, exposing the plants to artificial light for longer periods of time.

Plants were never meant to live indoors. Their natural habitat is the great outdoors. In addition to the light needs, you must consider temperature and humidity. These, too, can be modified to stimulate healthy plant growth.

For most plants to do well indoors, the temperature should be between 70 and 75 degrees F. during the day, and about 65 degrees at night. These are only rough guidelines. Plant preferences and tolerances to temperatures vary widely. A little reference reading at the library, or talking with the folks at your favorite garden center or nursery, or visiting the agricultural center, will go a long way in better understanding the needs of the particular plants you are growing.

The most important temperature factor in growing house plants is stability. Try to locate your plants in areas of your home where the temperature will vary no more than five degrees. This means keeping your plants away from heating units, television sets, windows and doorways. House plants need a moderately warm spot. Extended periods of exposure to temperatures of 50 degrees or lower can cause permanent damage to many plants.

Most plants grow best when the humidity is at least 30 percent or higher. Since indoor air is usually rather dry, you may need to provide enough water, proper lighting conditions, and a well-regulated temperature to make up for the lack of humidity.

A humidifier is an excellent way to provide adequate air-moisture levels for good plant growth. If this is not feasible or impractical for your home, there are other ways. You can increase the humidity around your plants by setting them on water-filled trays of pebbles. Remember, the pots must be set on top of the pebbles. Never allow them to become immersed in the water. Grouping plants seem to help, too. Plants separated usually dry out faster than those grown close together.

You may consider locating plants with very high moisture requirements in naturally humid areas of your home, such as the kitchen or bath. Those house plants that can tolerate moisture on their leaves will benefit from regular syringing with a fine mist of water. But, remember that some plants can be injured by such treatment.

While humidity is an important source of the moisture requirements plants need for good health, they receive most of their water through direct applications to the soil. And, unfortunately, this is often a source of serious trouble. Of all the points of good house plant culture, proper watering is probably the most misunderstood. Careless watering is the biggest killer of houseplants. Happy Gardening!

Private's Panty Penchant Wouldn't Fit In The Army

DEAR ABBY: I am a 26-year-old man, trim, slim and healthy. I am happily married and am a private in the U.S. Army. I will get right to the point. I love wearing women's underwear. I started wearing women's panties when I was in the sixth grade. It began when I saw my mother's peach-colored satin panties in her dresser drawer. I tried them on and they felt so smooth and silky. I hated to take them off. I also like the feel of panty hose. Men's undergarments feel so rough in comparison.

My wife has no objections. I am not gay or bisexual. I am a straight guy, absolutely straight. I just love wearing women's underwear. Is there anything wrong with that?

I have read a lot about yoga and it says that everyone has both masculine and feminine traits, which may explain my preference for feminine undergarments. Also the femininity in me comes out when I dance ballet and do aerobics. I have beautiful, shapely legs and am very graceful.

Right now I am in the Army, so I have left my panties back home. I miss them, but I'm afraid they wouldn't fit in here.

CALL ME PRIVATE PERSON

DEAR PRIVATE PERSON: You're right, they wouldn't fit in there. And there are many men like you who are perfectly straight, but enjoy the feel of feminine undergarments in the privacy of their own homes. But if you want to survive in the Army, I urge you to keep your preferences private, private.

DEAR ABBY: Could you please suggest a diplomatic way to keep friends from kissing me on the mouth when they greet me? Not only is it unsanitary, it really nauseates me. I recently married and thought that would put an end to this disgusting practice, but it hasn't.

I have a friend who lightly kisses the top of my hand in a very elegant manner. How I wish all men would do this instead of going right for my mouth!

PROVOKED IN PEACHTREE

DEAR PROVOKED: Give the would-be kisser the straight arm while turning your head — sharply. And should you encounter any resistance, say, "Not on the mouth, please."

DEAR ABBY: Last year during the Christmas season I witnessed an exchange between a salesperson and a customer in a department store that lost the salesperson a sale. The store policy was to refuse to allow the customer to use an unsigned charge card for her purchase. The customer produced various forms of identification, but refused to sign the card. Her reason: If her signature was on her card and it was lost or stolen, it could be used by the person finding (or stealing) it.

Abby, wouldn't a signed credit card be much more difficult to use than an unsigned one? It would be much harder to match the signature already on the card than to match on you put there yourself.

This woman obviously had not thought about the fact that a person who would steal her unsigned card would have no compunction about signing her name on it. With another Christmas shopping season upon us, we should all check our credit cards to be sure they are signed. And salespersons should make it a policy to check the signature on the card against the signature on the charge slip. Usually no other identification is requested when you use a charge card. I wish I had spoken up at the time of the occurrence, even if the customer had told me to mind my own business.

CAUTIOUS IN RICHMOND, VA.

DEAR CAUTIOUS: I have always signed my credit cards, believing that unsigned credit cards were unacceptable. Your letter reinforces that belief. Readers?

Rent-A-Santa Has Red Suit, Will Travel

Santa is worried this year because there are over 4,000 missing children in the state of Florida. He is working with the Rotaract Club of Sanford and the Missing Children Center to bring the children home to their families this Christmas.

Santa will be available to make visits to area homes and offices from Dec. 10-23 as part of the 12th Annual Rotaract Rent-A-Santa. All proceeds from Santa's visits will go to the Missing Children Center, Inc. of Winter Springs, Fla.

Bill Wilkins of the Rotaract Club of Sanford says that in the past, Santa (complete with candy canes, of course) has brightened the day for both children and adults at day care centers, elementary schools, nursing homes, office parties and private homes. The rental charge is nominal — ranging from $15-$30, depending on the number of people and the length of time needed. The Rotaract Santa will travel to all areas of Seminole County and parts of Winter Park.

To reserve a visit from Santa, call the Missing Children Center, Inc. at 895-HELP.

Stocks Open Lower

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened lower today in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which fell 9.28 Thursday, was down 2.25 to 1921.40 shortly after the market opened.

Declines led advances 534-331 among the 1,362 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early turnover amounted to about 9,493,800 shares.

Before the market opened, the government reported producer prices rose 0.2 percent in November.

The stock market finished broadly lower

Thursday, hurt by a weak bond market and lower stock index futures prices.

Traders said talk that OPEC ministers might be making progress on boosting oil prices contributed to weakness in the inflation-conscious bond market, as did a stronger-than-expected 0.5 percent rise in November retail sales, reported by the Commerce Department Thursday morning. The bellwether 30-year Treasury bond fell about 1/8 of a point, or about $8.75 for every $1,000 of face value.

Stephen Weissglass, chairman of the executive committee at Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co., said the market has been laboring as the Dow tries to surpass the high set at 1955.57 on Dec. 2.

Congress Debates SEC Effectiveness

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lawmakers are debating the assertion of the Securities and Exchange Commission chairman that cracking the Ivan Boesky Wall Street scandal has proved a stiff deterrent to illegal insider trading.

Members of the House Energy and Commerce Committee, who heard Thursday from SEC Chairman John Shad, suggested his agency still lacks the resources — as well as statutory authority — to adequately fight securities fraud. They questioned whether his change-of-heart decision to seek a "substantial" SEC budget increase for fiscal 1988 will do enough to alter that situation.

The lawmakers also were told Boesky was allowed reduce to his firm's liabilities by about $1.32 billion before the SEC disclosed its case against him, to ease the impact of the affair on the stock market. Previous estimates placed the amount at $440 million.

testing. He said he thought testing was a good idea for current city employees who work with equipment which, if used improperly, could injure the operator or others. He said he recognized there was a constitutional issue involved and said he did not think it would be resolved anytime soon.

Mrs. Meadors said new people should be willing to submit to such testing.

"If I want a job, I wouldn't object to it," she said.

Eckstein said there was a constitutional question to be addressed with the issue and the city should not open itself to a civil suit by requiring non-payroll employees to submit to such testing. He said the issue should be referred to the city's legal counsel before any such action be taken.

The high cost of litigation in various actions was also addressed by the forum.

Smith said he has never liked litigation between cities and counties and suggested the legislature should pass a law to prevent it. In reference to annexation suits, he said he thinks the city should enter such suits because land owners have a right to ask that they become part of the city. He said such annexations increase the tax base.

McClanahan said the annexation wrangle and litigation was caused in part by the legislature which he said failed to make good land definitions. He said no court of "competent jurisdiction" has considered the issue.

Mrs. Meadors said the problem could perhaps be resolved with better communication between the respective governments.

Eckstein said it was a matter of cost effectiveness, implying that some annexation would be worth the effort and expense, others may not. He said the money thus far spent in litigation between the city and the county could have been used to build sports facilities for children.

One issue discussed was the existence of multi-member homes of elderly people living in single-family residential areas, a situation which has embroiled the Sanford City Commission and Code Enforcement Board lately.

Smith said the fine levied against such a dwelling recently was excessive, but, he said, there also was a violation of the law and the city's Code Enforcement Board did what it was designed to do and that was to find the problem and handle it. He said compassion and judgment is needed in such cases and that not allowing any more would slowly solve the problem through attrition.

McClanahan said the code board overstepped its bounds.

"I think the commission should tell them (the code board) to cease and desist for 90 days until they get their act together," he said. The Code Enforcement Board was full of "political cronies" and took "excessive and ridiculous" action.

Eckstein favored grandfathering in those existing homes but enforce the law for those following. It would be a way to "adhere to policy but show compassion to the individuals right now," Mrs. Meadors said it was the city commission responsibility to resolve the situation.

On the topic of senior citizens, Smith said he would someday like to see a senior citizen center, a position echoed by McClanahan. Eckstein also favored such a center but said, like Smith, it should be studied to determine where it should be built. Mrs. Meadors said she thought the civic center could be used for senior citizen activities.

Sanford's growing budget, approaching $20 million, was addressed by the candidates with Eckstein favoring an active annexation program to broaden the city's tax base. He also said he supports a fiscally conservative tract of no more money out than in.

Mrs. Meadors said she favored attracting environmentally clean businesses to broaden the tax base, and "running the city like a business."

McClanahan said the city has added 68 employees in the last two years and the first item of business he would call for, if elected, is a freeze on all city hiring.

Smith said the increase in the number of city employees was based on growth problems which the city cannot ignore. He did say, however, that the city probably will not be adding more employees to the payroll "for a while."

A municipal pool was also discussed by the candidates with Smith and McClanahan agreeing that if a pool is built, it should not be operated by the city. Mrs. Meadors said she favor a pool if it were the responsibility of the schools or a Y.M.C.A. Eckstein, who said he used to swim in a Sanford city pool, said that if a pool is built it should be part of a larger complex, be useable year round, and be run "by professionals."

The candidates fielded written questions and questions from the floor from three dozen people attending the forum.

The Dec. 2 election produced a 33.6 turnout of voters in District 3 and a 14.5 turnout in District 4.

Run-off polling will be held from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Tuesday. District 3's polling place is the Church of Jesus Christ Latter Day Saints, 2315 Park Ave., and District 4's polling place is the Sanford Fire Station, #2, across from the Seminole Center near Lake Mary Boulevard.

"But what he (Walko) needs to be aware of is that we're small, struggling merchants down here. I can tell you that we're all committed to supporting the community, and we do so in a number of different ways. As with the Christmas decorations. We got no financial support from the city, we did it ourselves."

"But we can't do it all. Besides, many of our members — and we're up to 42 now from only about 16 not too long ago — are new to the area and they're still in the process of getting organized ... acquainted with who's doing what and who's who."

"Not only that, I don't think he's (Walko) being fair about this. I don't think there was more than a week, or two at the most, left to the fund-raising drive when I first got the literature to hand out."

"Our membership is in the process of reorganizing, setting up priorities and establishing goals that include a lot of support for the community. I'm sure if we're given enough time next year, our members will respond accordingly," Mrs. Beine added.

When Walko told Lt. Flanigan United Way is reluctant to dole out a large share of the UW pie to areas where it doesn't raise proportionately large amounts of money, Flanigan said that seemed a contradiction in purpose.

Lt. Flanigan pointed out that the northern sector of the county is where most people in need reside, hence, it should be evident fewer dollars would come from such an area.

Flanigan said about two-thirds of the people helped by the Salvation Army are from Sanford and its nearby areas, but that the organization's outreach effort provides assistance to another third of its caseload throughout the county. "Sanford and its area is where the greater need exists," he noted.

Walko said he realized that Flanigan's observation made sense, but that he wanted to point out one of the several ways United Way decides how much money goes to which agencies in which part of the county.

"Don't get me wrong," Walko said, "We still feel we have a lot of friends in Sanford, and a lot of supporters. As a matter of fact, I'm looking now to find a couple of people to serve on the board of directors to replace the two Sanford people who have resigned from the board. Dave Farr (president of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce) will serve with us beginning next year. I just think some people in Sanford still have a bit of a grudge because we moved our offices from the fifth floor of the Atlantic Bank to Longwood. But since we have, we've had much better walk-in volunteer activity because we're centrally located."

According to Walko, the Sanford directors who have resigned are Winifred "Bill" Glelow and Annette Wing. Mrs. Glelow said she resigned "because I was just too involved with many things in the community, and we travel three months out of the year and a lot of (the United Way) work is done in the summer."

She said she resigned in November, but her term is not up until this month. She said she has been involved with United Way since the 1960s.

Mrs. Wing declined to say when she resigned.

"There's no reason for me to tell you that," she said.

"There is only one reason. I'm just too busy," she said. "I loved being on the United Way board. I think it's a fantastic group."

Realty, Cardinal Industries and United Telephone in Altamonte Springs are helping the social workers to provide for the children.

Mrs. Jackson said the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary from Winter Springs has adopted 15 families to supply with food and toys as well as helping with refreshments and toys for the Head Start Christmas Party. United Telephone Co.'s Apopka office will also be helping fete the Head Start children.

In most cases, however, Mrs. Jackson said, those adopting families are only given the first names and ages of the children, then the gifts, food and clothing they donate is distributed to the family by one of the social workers from the schools or the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services. This is to respect the privacy of the families. The Seminole County Extension Homemakers club have also helped at Christmas.

Anyone wishing to help in some way should contact Mrs. Jackson at 322-4418.

She said they work with HRS, Foster Care and welfare to provide Christmas for as many needy children as possible, not just school children.

Mrs. Jackson said she has seven pages of names of families needing help this Christmas. Some of the social workers work directly with area churches and those cases don't come across my desk, she added.

The responsibility of the social workers, she said, is to help get children in Seminole County schools and keep them there hopefully until they graduate. We do whatever it takes whether it is in the area of education, behavior, attendance or social problems to help them be as successful as they can be.

In cases of child abuse the social workers refer the cases to the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services, but work closely with HRS because they are already involved with the families and children.

The social workers have established the Marie Taylor Children's Fund named in honor of Mrs. Jackson's predecessor who devoted so many years to Seminole County school children before her retirement. Funds are used to help the needy children not only at Christmas (for those not aided by other groups), but throughout the year to meet special needs, such as hearing aids, glasses and surgery.

The Sanford Christian Sharing Center cooperates with the social workers to provide clothing for children who do not have the proper clothing to wear to school.

Mrs. Jackson said parents tell her they don't want anything fancy, but their children need the basics — shoes, socks and underwear.

She said, although her department is responsible for the more than 40,000 school children in the county's 42 schools, as far as referrals go they concentrate mostly on helping the approximately 15 to 20 percent of the school population with special needs. One of the social workers is assigned to the alternative program at Crooms School of Choice working with teenage mothers and troubled dropouts, who have trouble fitting into the normal classroom and curriculum.

In cases where drug abuse is involved, she said they refer students to other resources where help is available, such as The Grove Counseling Center.

In the workshop before the special meeting, the commission discussed possible sites to build the new City Hall complex.

Strong said. "He has a good education and background. His strong points were that he showed leadership responsibility and dictated policy. I think if you have a city manager you have to let him operate."

Strong said when his regime was in power they had a smooth operation, but it has been in upheaval ever since the "conservative, older group" took over.

As far as meeting his philosophy of what a city manager should do, Strong said Norris did that very well. "A city manager should reach out and explore present new ideas. He should be energetic and bring in new things. This new commission just wants somebody to do what they want done."

He added there was really no reason to dismiss Norris, but that the move to Lake Mary would be a good one. Norris will make as much or more than his previous salary which Strong said was about $28,000.

Going back a little further in Norris' career to when he was planning director for the city of West Monroe, La., the Herald talked to Mayor Dave Norris (no relation).

Mayor Norris said Robert Norris had been "an outstanding employee."

"I considered him to be my right-hand man and hated to see him leave. He was very knowledgeable. His biggest problem is that he lives to work and that's about the only thing he's interested in." But he said the Lake Mary commission had made "an excellent choice."

Dulcimers

True American Sound

Plucked Or Strummed

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

Bob Fletcher, right, has been handcrafting dulcimers for eight years.

For a traditional twang of true American sound some musicians pick up the dulcimer, a folk instrument that can be plucked or strummed.

And to have dulcimers — an instrument that bears the same name, but no resemblance to and ancient stringed instrument played with hammers — you have to have dulcimer makers.

That's where 64-year-old Bob Fletcher steps in. For about eight years, ever since his wife Anne said she wanted to try her hand at one of these Appalachian music makers, he has been making dulcimers.

Mrs. Fletcher's desire for a dulcimer sent Fletcher to a Virginia dulcimer maker, who he watched work for three or four days. He was fascinated. That craftsman, Fletcher said, gave him a pattern for what he said is the original American-style dulcimer. Many make American dulcimers using different designs, but he said his pattern is used only by a couple of artists.

"You can get dulcimers anywhere. They make them everywhere, but they don't make the old-time pattern. I keep making it to help keep an American tradition alive. This is the only instrument that originated in this country," he said.

There are also college workshops on making and playing the dulcimer, which Fletcher said, is popular across America.

Fletcher, who had done woodworking before, made his first dulcimer and took it back to his Virginia tutor. That man was impressed and told him if he would promise to keep making dulcimers using the pattern that was originated by Scottish-American pioneers, who were inspired by an almost soundless German instrument about 200 years ago, he would share with him some of his prized aged wood.

Fletcher has kept that promise and said he's helping preserve an American tradition.

And the naturally aged wood from the Virginia craftsman's stash started him off on the right note, because, Fletcher said, it's critical in producing a quality instrument that you use naturally aged wood.

Some, he said, say a secret of Stradivari's success as a violin maker was in the wood he took from ancient cathedrals. "They say the wood absorbed all the organ music. Whether this is possible or not, I'm not saying," Fletcher said. But the theory is this is one of the secrets of his instruments."

Naturally aged wood — walnut, maple, chestnut and cherry, is part of the secret of Fletcher's success in making these elongated, four-or-five-stringed instruments. In addition, he invests about 60 hours of handcraftsmanship in each dulcimer he makes.

"I'm not in any hurry. I have to spend that much time or I can't come out with that kind of workmanship," he said. "As in any musical instrument, everything has to be precise. Your fret board has to be perfectly flat. Also your frets have to be in exactly the right position. A sharp pencil width off will give you a bad note."

Mrs. Fletcher said the notes on the dulcimers made by Fletcher are true to her hopes for what she called, "a nice old instrument."

Fletcher said dulcimer in Greek means sweet sound or sweet music and in addition to living up to that name, keeps alive a traditional mountain music sound. When the Scottish settlers developed the dulcimer the only thing they kept from the German instrument that served as inspiration for the dulcimer was the fret pattern — where the frets are on the board and the technique of playing, Fletcher said.

"This instrument is not like a guitar or a mandolin or banjo. It only has full notes. There are no half notes. The modern dulcimer makers will now put one extra note in between number 6 and number 7, they call 6½ fret. It expands the playing just a little bit more in certain modes of playing. The instrument itself, the dulcimer, doesn't have any half notes and anybody can tune it," he said.

Another plus for the dulcimer, Mrs. Fletcher said, is just about anyone can pick one up and play it. Although she played piano in her youth, Mrs. Fletcher said, "I think you can play a dulcimer just as well if you've never played anything."

"Some people know too much about music and they can't relate to it. It's so simple. It's a more personal instrument. You can play along with other instruments, but it's something you can sit down and play by yourself and enjoy more."

Fletcher said even though he is a musical klutz, after a couple of months of lessons and practice he too picked up some skill with the dulcimer. But with his dulcimers on display in Longwood, this Orlando man demonstrates his skill as a dulcimer maker by far tops his ability to pick out tune.

Two Shows Spotlight Risks Of Television

By Mark Schwed
UPI TV Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Television is such an easy medium. We can take it all in lounging in front of the tube, eating our meatloaf and mashed potatoes and fluffing the pillows on the couch.

But while we are cozy as a purring cat, there are people out there risking their lives to expand our minds.

Two upcoming shows highlight what a risky business television can be for those bold enough to take a chance.

For "Candle In the Wind," a program about religion in the Soviet Union airing Dec. 15 (9 p.m. EST) on PBS, producer Eugene Shirley was under constant surveillance by the Soviets and finally had to smuggle his film out of the country.

Producer Jeff B. Harmon took an even greater risk to get the story on the war in Afghanistan. He was shelled, shot at, rocketed, and after all that the Soviets launched a military operation to kill him. He was just trying to make a film — "Jihad — Afghanistan's Holy War," airing Dec. 14 within the National Geographic Explorer series on superstation WTBS (8-10 p.m. EST).

Turn off the situation comedies and "lifelike" dramas and watch these programs.

Harmon has a knack for finding the most dangerous game and then filming it up close.

He has filmed the war between Uganda and Tanzania, penetrated the Nazi community in Paraguay in a search for the late Dr. Josef Mengele and was the only journalist or film maker to make contact with an operational death squad in El Salvador.

Harmon, along with co-producer-cameraman Alexander Lindsay, decided Afghanistan was next on the agenda.

"It is very dangerous and very difficult to cover the war," says Harmon. "You have to go into the country illegally, under threat of execution, and film clandestinely."

"There is nothing convenient about Afghanistan. You can't go back to the hotel at 6 o'clock and get a drink. There is no drink, there is no bar, there is no hotel."

"It takes total commitment and insanity. I have already accepted my own death. Once you accept your own death, it doesn't matter anymore. You are able to function on the edge of the precipice."

"It's been 13 years now that I've been shot at, so one gets oddly used to it. A bullet is a bullet. It's close. You smell the sulfur."

To underline the risks Harmon and Lindsay took, the previous film crew in the area was ambushed and the correspondent captured. The first journalist in after Harmon was killed by a missile from a helicopter gunship.

But Harmon was obsessed. He wanted to cut through the network news image of the war that has left 1 million Afghans dead and caused 4 million to flee the country.

So he filmed from the foxhole at the front.

It is a rare view.

In the other film on the Soviet Union, there were no bullets, no rockets, no helicopter gunships. But there was danger just the same.

"Candle in the Wind" is a probing one-hour documentary about the state of religion in the Soviet Union — from officially tolerated expressions of faith to secret ceremonies people attend at their own risk. It is biased in that the producer, Shirley, went in with the belief that people ought to be able to freely practice the religion of their choice.

Shirley negotiated with the Soviets for nine months before getting permission to enter the country. Perhaps the Soviets thought it would be easy to manipulate a 23-year-old graduate student and first-time film maker following up on his master's thesis.

But the joke was on the Soviets.

"The KGB was trying to test us. They sent someone up to us to say there was a demonstration in front of the U.S. Embassy. If we had gone, they would have known we had lied to them about the purpose of our film."

"We knew why we were seated at the same table every night for dinner. We knew our rooms were bugged. We purposely were very guarded in our conversation and then said things like, 'Oh, I can't wait until I get back to the U.S. and tell everyone how free the Soviet Union is.'"

The strategy worked. Shirley left the Soviet Union with footage of Lenin's funeral, underground footage shot and smuggled to him by Soviets, plus his own material.

Because it was in his contract, the film premiered for the Soviet Embassy personnel in Washington, D.C. The Soviets were not pleased.

"They said, 'It was anti-Soviet propaganda from A to Z. It was a grave error for us to ever cooperate with you.'"

Then there was a special screening at the White House and showings in Western Europe. Now the American public gets the chance.

A Show Worth Gushing About

By Mark Schwed
UPI TV Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Television critics do not have much chance to gush. For the most part, we spend our time whining, moaning, groaning and dumping on the networks for putting on so much trash.

There are good shows. CBS's "Cagney and Lacey," NBC's "L.A. Law" and ABC's "Our World" are a few that come to mind. The fact that it is easier to rattle off two dozen lousy shows than to name three good ones bespeaks the state of affairs on commercial television.

So, when a show comes along worth gushing about, it's easy to spew forth like a Saudi Arabian oil rig.

NBC's "A Year in the Life," airing Dec. 15, 16 and 17 on WESH-TV, Channel 2 (9-11 p.m. EST), is a real gusher. It makes up for a mountain of mush all season long.

Gather the family around the TV set and watch it. It may be the best six hours of television you'll ever see.

What a breath of fresh air. There are no vamps in Bob Mackie designer gowns, no oil barons in cowboy hats, no Russian czars, no housewives with trendy diseases, no cops with big guns, no car wrecks, no stupid jokes, no earthquakes, no terrorists, no glitz, no tricks, no gimmicks.

Instead, you will find witty dialogue, real people in real situations, splendid acting from Oscar and Emmy winners and from people you have never seen on television before. Thank you, NBC, for that.

Better than all the above, you will find a piece of yourself, your family, even your dog.

Created by John Falvey and Joshua Brand, the force behind NBC's "St. Elsewhere," "A Year in the Life" tells the tale of an ordinary middle class family living in Seattle, Wash. Richard Kiley and Eva Marie Saint head the cast as Joe and Ruth Gardner, a loving couple married for 35 years. There are four grown children and two grandchildren. For the first time in a long time, the family together, gathered to celebrate the Christmas holiday.

"A Year in the Life" gets its action from the stuff which connects us all — relationships. Father and son, mother and daughter, husband and wife — three generations worth of relationships.

Grandson helps dad chop down a Christmas tree. Mom walks the dog. Big sis loves to embarrass little brother by talking about sex. The oldest son and father are so different and yet they are the same.

Mental Illness In Middle America

Yet another disease with sociological tenacles is coming out of the TV closet. If the prospect has you planning a trip to the video rental store, hold up: the Hallmark Hall of Fame production airing on CBS Dec. 14 is an American Gothic excursion more chilling than any "Halloween" sequel. "Promise" (9-11 p.m. EST, WCPX-TV, Channel 6) stars James Garner, James Woods and Piper Laurie in a stark portrait of schizophrenia, a devastating mental disorder characterized by delusions, fragmented personality and erratic behavior. Garner stars as gadfly Bob, who inherits his mother's farm estate upon her death. Part of that estate is Bob's younger brother D.J. (played by Woods), a schizophrenic who spends all day clinging to his armchair in front of the tube, chain-smoking cigarettes and scribbling frantic notes to himself. Bob had "promised" his mother to care for D.J. (hence the title); it is a promise that cannot be kept, which is the lesson of this television parable. Schizophrenia, which apparently involves a dysfunction of the brain, has mystified the best minds in psychiatry. Its effect on the families of its victims is a long-playing nightmare of violent outbursts, dwindling bank accounts and a "treatment" system that glibly offers warehouse care or mega-medication.

By Nancy M. Reichardt

GUIDING LIGHT

Rosa broke the news to Vanessa that Dinah is their daughter after Joe's second ransom demand for Dinah revealed the girl's parentage to Henry. Jean-Claude's lawyer, Barbara Farrell, told Alan that Johnny worked for Jean-Claude and his partner, Roland Valere. The trio broke up after Johnny had an affair with Valere's wife, Christine. Valere set Johnny up and he was arrested on contraband charges. Gerhardt told his pal, Hugo, that Josh and Simon believed Gerhardt's ploy that he's an intrio agent. Hugo paid Cat to cause trouble for Mindy and Simon. Fletcher moved in with Maevie and Ben. Simon warned Cat to stay away from Mindy, who rebuffed Cat's physical advances. Joe and Shelly taunted Dinah by not telling her the identity of her parents. Billy romanced Vanessa, but said he still plans to divorce her. Afraid of losing Rosa, Calla tried, but failed, to keep him from seeing Dinah's medical records.

LOVING

Steve was shocked to learn from Gwyneth that Trisha's family forced her to give up Steve when Cabot arranged Steve's release from prison. Nick told Gwyneth he'll take care of Trisha, who passed out from too much booze and pills. Lottie no longer has to report to her parole officer. Handsome newcomer in town, Tony Benedict, rented a room from Kate and applied for a job as a gardener at the Alden estate. Two punks tailed Kelly, who borrowed money from a friend. Eban pressured old pal, Sunny, for Lottie's whereabouts.

ONE LIFE TO LIVE

Charles convinced Jamie to give himself up and Jamie was arrested. Thomas helped Viki keep it a secret that she's suffering from a temporary memory loss. In a minor shootout, Pete was wounded, but Jamie's hostages, Didi and Connie, were later released unharmed. Believing that Maria might kill her, a hospitalized Allison lapsed into a deep coma. Cord forced Tina to turn ownership of Devil's Claw Island over to Aaa, who offered the island to Pamela as a divorce settlement. Brad and Connie got married. Didi left for Paris where she joined her long-lost husband, Bo Buchanan. Kate offered to buy Devil's Claw from Aaa, then learned that pirate treasure is supposedly buried on the island. Viki continued referring to Thomas as "Joe." Rafe searched for Allison's mother, Ruth, who he believes can shed light on Jessica's kidnapping. Viki told Clint that she's not having an affair with Thomas.

RYAN'S HOPE

Erik told a shocked Slobhan that he's her supposed dead husband, Joe Novak, and that he had plastic surgery to throw his enemies off his trail. Lizzie took off with Owney, even though she can't cope with the child. Erik (Joe) said he'll let Slobhan stay married to Max if that's what she wants. Frank learned that Harlan had many enemies, and the police suspect that Harlan murdered his wife. Johnny told Jill he's convinced that Lizzie killed Harlan. Ryan argued with Rick, who doesn't think Lizzie's a killer.

SANTA BARBARA

Newcomer Jeffrey Conrad saved Sophia when a wall that was damaged in a fire nearly fell on her. Tori learned that she's pregnant by Cruz. Caroline told Gus that she doesn't want Alice to know that Caroline is her mother. Jane helped convince Brian to stick around town for a while for Alice's sake. Mason said he'd sleep with Julia again since she didn't get pregnant yet. Caroline admitted to Lionel that she went to the prison to visit with Alice's father. C.C. realized that Alice is Caroline's daughter. After meeting Alice, C.C. agreed to Caroline's request that he try to get Gus out of prison. Eden told Cruz that she still loves him. The Capwells concocted a scheme to "kidnap" Kelly to force Gina to turn over the video tape that clears Kelly of murder. Lionel figured out that Alice is Caroline's daughter. C.C., who once had a boxing contract with Gus,

SEARCH FOR TOMORROW

Bela felt a fool when Sunny told him that she's not pregnant. Kate took Malcolm to the airport, but he didn't board the plane to Ireland. David was cleared of charges that he caused Suzi's death. Wilma returned from her recording session in time to learn that David has decided to fight his addiction to alcohol. Jo and Stu spent time together after his release from the hospital. Patti and Hogan returned from Ireland. Quinn brought Kat to Henderson and vowed to prove that Malcolm is a murderer. Evie realized Quinn loves Kat.

THE YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS

Julia tried to help Ashley come to terms with her abortion decision. Ashley mixed telling Victor that she knows about Nikki's failing health. Paul read Lauren the riot act while she explained that she had entered his photo in the centerfold contest for their mutual amusement. Paul resigned from the mayor's anti-porn task force. Ellen accepted another dinner date with Jack. JoAnna returned from a buying trip and was shocked to see Paul's centerfold spread. Nina saw Terry kiss Danny, who was surprised to learn that Terry is extending her stay in Genoa City. Jill vowed to tell Phillip the real reason behind his father's death. Kay told Phillip that her son, Brock, is working in Africa now, but he would approve of her adopting Phillip. Jill turned down Michael's marriage proposal. Victor is worried about Nikki, who's having bouts of fatigue. Ashley is obsessed with the baby she aborted.

ALL MY CHILDREN

Linc, Chuck and Kelly returned to comfort Mona, who mourned Charles's sudden death. After his release from prison, Jeremy was shocked when Erica told him their romance is off forever because she'll never be his first priority. Hillary agreed to Tad's idea that they see a marriage counselor. Now that they've rekindled their romance, Nina and Cliff made plans to remarry. Convinced that Adam set Natalie up, Palmer paid Natalie's bail. Tad fumed to learn that Skye told Hillary that Tad's been seeing another woman (Skye) while separated from Hillary. Brooke searched for Mark. Ross disapproved that Palmer wants to turn Natalie into a "double agent" and have her spy on Adam. Brooke fumed that Tom neglected Laura while the child was in his care. Adam ordered Natalie to get him a key to the Courtland Enterprises laboratory where Palmer's people are developing a security device. Natalie accepted Palmer's offer to live in his mansion.

ANOTHER WORLD

On the witness stand, Catlin told the court that Peter threatened to kill Brittany after Peter learned he wasn't Peter Reginald's father. M.J. dreamed of romping in the sack with Adam. Peter testified that Brittany plotted to kill him in cold blood while he pulled his gun with the intention of protecting her from a dangerous horse. M.J. realized that Vince split town and that Cass and Kathleen are with him. Felicia warned Rachel to make up her mind about her feelings for Mitch. Jamie and Nicole rescued Michael, who got into a barroom brawl after learning that Donna's mental state is deteriorating. Catlin told Brittany he wants to marry her. Tired of his quarrels with Rachel, Mac arranged a dinner date with his favorite employee, Rose. Jamie realized that M.J. is hung up on Adam. Mary told Reginald she wants to be financially independent of him.

Search For Name Of 'Jagged' Witness

Dear Dick: I saw the movie, "The Jagged Edge," with Jeff Bridges. I have been searching for the name of the actress who had a small part on the witness stand as Mrs. Howell? — B.D., Troy, Ohio.

Dear B.D.: That was beautiful Leigh Taylor-Young.

Dear Dick: My favorite actor is Richard Dean Anderson, who plays "MacGyver." Can you tell me if he has appeared in any other movies and if they will make a MacGyver action figure? — C.R., Littleton, W.Va.

Dear C.R.: First, the producers say there are no plans for an action figure of MacGyver. Anderson has done quite a few roles, before and since this one — notably, in the TV movie "Ordinary Heroes," with Valerie Bertinelli, and on the soap opera "General Hospital." He also appeared in the CBS series, "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers" and "Emerald

Ask Dick Kleiner

Point, N.A.S."

Dear Dick: I would like to know whatever happened to Alice Faye. And also if she had a relative by the name of Caroline Livingston. Caroline Livingston was my grandmother who passed away years ago, and Alice Faye was her first cousin. — C.M.C., Saginaw, Mich.

Dear C.M.C.: Alice and Phil Harris, who have been married for more than 45 years (another of those quickle Hollywood marriages), have a good life near Palm Springs. She is retired from acting, but she is a spokeswoman for Pfizer pharmaceuticals, going around and speaking to senior citizens groups on their behalf. She also works hard raising money for the Arthritis Foundation. She looks terrific. Finally, she tells me she had no relative — first cousin or otherwise — named Caroline Livingston.

Dear Dick: I have a pipe dream of turning my favorite book into a movie. I've found the perfect actor for the part of the lead villain, but all I know about him is that his first name is Ernie. He played the only black policeman in the TV comedy, "The Last Precinct," last season. Can you identify him? — J.S., Muncy, Pa.

Dear J.S.: The actor is Ernie Hudson. I'll be watching for your movie.

Best of all is the family chatter.

Dad notices grandson is wearing an earring.

"What the hell is that?" gramps asks.

"What's what?"

"That thing in your ear."

"I believe it's called an earring."

"Does your mother know about that?"

"It's one of hers."

Jim and Lindley Gardner Eisenberg (Adam Arkin and Jayne Atkinson) discuss the impending birth of their child.

"Would you rather your son be a registered Republican or a convicted felon?" she asks.

"Same difference," he says.

"Would you rather be a wife who offered to convert to Judaism or was asked by her husband because it was important to him?" he asks.

Sunshine is the 15-year-old daughter of Anne Gardner (Wendy Phillips), a former flower child who is struggling to make a go of her second marriage. Sunshine hates her name and as soon as she turns 18, she'll change it to Nicole. During a car ride with her mother and brother, she discusses it.

"Sunshine is a ridiculous name. It's embarrassing. What were you and Daddy thinking about?" she asks.

"Their next tab of acid," replies brother, referring to the LSD generation.

Sam Gardner (David Oliver), a conservative 23-year-old with a carefully planned future that includes the perfect fiancée, is drawn to a free-spirited woman he meets in a store. She likes rock music and her hair is as wild as she is.
