Janet Hasson, secretary of domestic relations commissioner Terry Ackert, gets information from a complainant.

Aid With Alimony

What does an ex-wife do when her former spouse is behind in his alimony or child support payments? And what can an ex-husband do when he finds for some special reason that he cannot pay any or part of his court-ordered child support or alimony payments this month?

The answer to both questions for residents of Seminole County used to be to hire an attorney, if one could be afforded, to champion your cause. One couldn't pay attorney's fees or was not eligible for help from Legal Aid, the answer often was to hope for the best.

It's all changed now with the creation by the Seminole County Commission on the urging of the circuit judges of the 18th Judicial Circuit — Seminole and Brevard Counties — of a domestic relations commissioner.

Persons with these problems now should call the domestic relations commissioner's (DRC) office in the old county jail at Sanford for an appointment to talk over the matter with a staff member, said Terence Ackert, DRC.

"The staff person will help the party fill out the proper documents and I will sit as a special master or hearing officer on the case and make my recommendations to the circuit court," Ackert said.

"It is no longer necessary to contact an attorney to gain enforcement of court orders in domestic relations," he said.

"If a man refuses to pay, we are here to seek enforcement. The court always retains jurisdiction to enforce," he said, adding by the same token if a gentleman has suffered some disability and wishes to alter his support payments, he can ask for that assistance through a hearing before me."

"The DRC was initiated so that either party could get into court. The service is offered fairly to all parties," he said.

Fees, generally amounting to $15 per case, are charged for the service. "That's far less than it takes to file a new lawsuit for enforcement," Ackert said.

"We can handle the problem speedily and effectively," Ackert said.

"The people who have utilized the office have expressed great satisfaction with the service rendered and are pleased the judges of the circuit and the county commission have enabled them to do something they never thought they could do — get into court when they can't afford a lawyer or get legal aid. I have not talked to one person who was not thrilled with the opportunity to resolve their problem," Ackert said.

The county commission allocated $40,000 for the operation of the DRC from May through September. Tentatively budgeted for the DRC operation in the 1979-1980 fiscal year is $39,553, said County Finance Director Jeff Eichberger.

Child support, alimony and maintenance payments through the Seminole County Clerk of the Circuit Court Arthur Beckwith's office is big business.

In May 2,453 cases with $212,847.43 in payments were channeled through Beckwith's office. The totals in June were 2,213 cases involving $194,609.76 and in July 2,136 cases involving $193,236.45.

Records after that time have yet to be compiled.

Lake Mary: Should It Continue?

By DONNA ESTES
 Herald Staff Writer

The city of Lake Mary has existed as an incorporated municipality for six years. But do the people of that community wish it to continue to exist?

This is one of the questions left in the mind of Lake Mary Councilman Pat Southward since Tuesday's referendum when a property tax increase was denied by the voters.

She wanted to put the question on the city's December election ballot but got no support from colleagues on the city council.

"I said before the election I felt the tax increase amounted to a life and death issue. I still feel it does," she said Thursday night.

"As has been pointed out, the reasons for the outcome of the election can be debated," she said.

Mrs. Southward said the election results can be interpreted as a vote against the council, a vote against the police department or a vote against the continued existence of the city. "I suspect the sentiment for de-incorporation is still strong," she said, asking City Attorney Gary Massey to look into how the council could put the question on the ballot.

"Six years ago (when the community was incorporated) the people of Lake Mary were proud and wanted self-determination. Today it is very unclear whether the people are willing to pay for pride and self-determination. I would like to know whether the people want to continue the city," Mrs. Southward said.

Councilman Harry Terry, senior member of the council, having served since the incorporation, "wholeheartedly disagreed" with Mrs. Southward's position.

He said the people know that if the city were dissolved, the property acquired by the city during the past six years no longer would be owned by Lake Mary as an entity but would become county property. He added that the people in the unincorporated area of the county are paying nearly as much for fire protection alone as city taxpayers are paying for all city property taxes.

In the 1978-1980 fiscal year, people in the unincorporated area of Lake Mary will be paying $2.72 per $1,000 assessed valuation of real property for fire protection, while Lake Mary residents will be paying $2.84 per $1,000 assessed valuation for all city services.

"I would vote for continued incorporation," said Mrs. Southward on Thursday night. "But what about all the folks who are not here tonight?"

"It wasn't elected to disestablish the city," said Councilman Cliff Nelson. "The people were saying they want us to run the city more efficiently with no more property taxes, with fewer luxuries and less frills."

"If this city is to exist with the constant fear of a referendum on the recall of the city charter, God help us," Councilman Bert Perinichief said.

"If you want an answer you don't agree with, ask the people," Nelson said.

The city was incorporated by an act of the Florida Legislature with a ratifying approval by more than 50 percent of Lake Mary's voters in August, 1973. Less than a year later, on July 31, 1974, the people in a special referendum petitioned for voted on the issue of dissolving the city.

At that time, 554 voted to dissolve the city and 247 voted against, but the issue failed.

The old city records include a letter from the secretary of state certifying the election failed. A two-thirds vote of the people is necessary to dissolve a city.

Slightly less than 60 percent had voted for de-incorporation. The council during the hours it pored away at the budget Thursday night discussed several times philosophically what the voters were saying when they turned down a property tax increase.

Noting the city had advertised an alternative budget and sent (See LAKE MARY, Page 2A)

Orlando Garcia (left), corrections officer with Seminole County Sheriff's Department, monitors breathalyzer test.

Drunks, Beware!

Drunks beware! Stay out of Sanford if you are driving under the influence (DUI) because the Sanford police department in the next few weeks is going to start an intensive program to take drunk drivers off the highway.

The Sanford City Commission this week at the request of Police Chief Ben Butler authorized the purchase of a new breathalyzer, a computer which analyzes blood alcohol by breath tests.

The city police officers for the past two years have been using a breathalyzer in DUI cases at the Seminole County Sheriff's Department.

And, according to what Butler told the city commission, "our officers have indicated they dread making DUI arrests because of the hassle they go through in obtaining a breathalyzer test."

In a report to the city commission, Butler said a recent survey of Seminole County police departments revealed that all municipal police agencies with the exception of Lake Mary and Sanford own and maintain breathalyzers. He said up until October, 1977, a breathalyzer was kept at the Sanford Police Department. At that time it was moved to the Seminole County Jail. The relocation was brought about by the Sheriff's Department claiming its instrument, Butler said.

The equipment had been placed in the police department's facilities before then because of a state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services requirement that the breathalyzer be kept in a secure place. "It was decided that the Sanford Police Department would do so until such time as an area could be created by the Sheriff's Department," Butler said.

Butler said the relocation of the breathalyzer forced the city police to share not only with the Sheriff's Department but also with the Florida Highway Patrol. "This has resulted in officers being off the road for extended periods of time while waiting their turn to have a breath test administered."

"I feel that a breathalyzer is a necessary police tool to combat the dangerous offense of DUI," Butler said.

The chief said the acquisition by the police department of the breathalyzer would allow police officers to more efficiently and rapidly process violators, thereby returning the officers to patrol duties; encourage officers to arrest violators which would ultimately reduce accident rates, injuries, fatalities and property damage through successful detection, apprehension and processing of drunk drivers and the department would once again become a self-supported agency requiring minimal outside agency assistance.

Butler estimated cost of acquiring the breathalyzer at between $2,000 and $2,300.

He cited statistics showing that during the 1976 calendar year, there were 87 accidents in Sanford attributable to DUI, with 40 injuries, three fatalities and property damage valued at $94,700. During the first six months of 1978, he said, there were 47 accidents attributable to DUI with 24 injuries, no deaths and $4,215 in property damage.

In all of 1978 there were 59 DUI arrests, he said, and 31 in 1979 during the first six months.

DUI is an all-encompassing charge which includes driving under the influence of not only alcohol but also drugs or other substances that could affect a driver's ability to function. It replaces the former charge of driving while intoxicated (DWI), which usually referred to intoxication with alcoholic beverages.

You Never Know When You'll Meet A Bobcat Or Two

By JANE CASELLEBERRY
 Herald Staff Writer

Once scorned by the fur industry the pelt of bobcat, a Florida native well ensconced in the backwoods and swamps of Seminole County, is much in demand causing some biologists concern about the future of North America's smallest native wild cat.

Ed Posey, curator at the Central Florida Zoo near Sanford, says there is probably not much of a decline in bobcat population in this state at present, but if there were no restrictions, it could become a problem. "There is a point where you harvest more than is safe but don't realize it until it is too late," he added.

In Seminole, Posey pointed out, the bobcats are probably more threatened by destruction of their habitat by construction of new developments than they are by trappers and hunters.

Posey said there are two Florida bobcats officially living at the zoo, but many more living in the wild in the zoo park area. "We have seen five or six at one time," he said.

When far from old-timers, most newcomers to central Florida probably never have encountered a bobcat outside a zoo. "They are primarily solitary and nocturnal animals, but they are everywhere," he said. "They have their place in the environment and sometimes we don't realize the contribution a species makes to nature. You can never really tell until they are gone."

With homes being built in or adjacent to the natural habitat of the bobcat, residents may be startled to find one in their yard.

"The bobcats have the ability to co-exist," said Posey. "That's when the problem arises. I had a call several months ago from a woman in the Sanford area concerned because a bobcat had established its den under the steps of her front porch."

"Unless they are sick or have young, an unprovoked attack on humans by a bobcat is highly unlikely, but when they have young, they are more likely to stand their ground."

"Don't try to feed or corner them to make a pet; it doesn't work," Posey added. "The longer they stay around, the more at ease and the harder to get rid of they will become."

In five years between 1971 and 1978 the average price brought by a bobcat pelt in some areas jumped from $4 to $48.50, and a single pelt has sold for as much as $400. In the 1976-77 trapping season, more than 100,000 bobcats were taken in the United States, according to the National Wildlife Federation.

During the same year, according to the Florida Game Commission, 13,439 bobcats were harvested commercially in the state. The state bobcat population has not been officially estimated, but because of the big increases in trapping, the quota that could be safely harvested in the state was set at 7,500 in the 1977-78 season.

Protected as a mammal, the bobcat is technically not a game animal, but legally can be harvested in the state by trapping, snaring or hunting with a gun from Dec. 1 to March 1. A commercial trapping license is required.

All pelts used commercially must be tagged appropriately and a permit is necessary to export them out of the country.

Why the sudden demand for the pelt of the cat, classified as a varmint in some states?

In 1979, an international treaty — the Convention on International Trade and Endangered Species (CITES) — banned all commercial trade in the fur of big spotted cats. With their old supply cut off, the once-scorned bobcat pelt, which is tan to reddish brown, looked quite attractive to European buyers.

Some biologists began to worry about the bobcat population, but information was scarce. In 1977, ESSA (the Endangered Species Scientific Authority), which was established to direct U.S. compliance with CITES, proposed all exports of bobcat fur be banned. In the face of loud protests from some state and game agencies, ESSA backed down, but did place the cat on Appendix II of CITES. This means ESSA must review the bobcat population and management status for each state before exports of pelts are allowed.

The controversial cat will be the subject of a research conference sponsored by the National Wildlife Federation and ESSA, October 18-19, at the Smithsonian research center in Front Royal, Va. More than 40 experts will meet to discuss methods and techniques for assessing the population status and management

Look Who's 2-0: Lyman Upsets Brantley

Meyers, Haas Key 15-14 Victory

By BARRY DILLON Herald Correspondent

There was nothing left for Lake Brantley after the game but to hop a bus for the short haul back to Forest City.

The Greyhound locker room was sheer bedlam. Jon Haas and Jeff Meyers were among the happiest, and rightfully so, because they did the scoring.

Jeff Meyers heads for winning touchdown

Lyman used the rushing talents of Austin Cleveland in four approach runs, giving Lyman a first down on the Brantley 15. Four plays later Lyman settled for a three-point field goal made by Haas.

Brantley won the toss, but it became a disadvantage. On the kickoff return, Reich stripped the ball from Robert Carroll on Scott Jackson's plus a pair of five and nine-yard runs by Meyers for touchdowns which spelled 15 points for Lyman.

The Patriots retaliated on the next charge. Going mostly in the air, Tony Constantine connected with Time Burke to bring the ball to the Lyman 29. From there, Constantine connected again with Robert Carroll to make the score 6-3, and the extra point was missed.

Meyers, the Lyman quarterback, apparently became motivated when Brantley took the lead. On the following charge Meyers kept the ball and ran. With three carries, Meyers made the score 14-3, the kick being blocked. Lyman scored within three minutes of the previous Brantley touchdown.

Who's No. 93? Why It's No. 1 - Zinn Beck

By JIM HAYNES Herald Sports Editor

The wooden rocker stays at Sanford Memorial Stadium, and anyone who stops by the office can't help but notice the '93' painted on the headrest.

Who is No. 93? a stranger asked recently. "No. 93 is No. 1 - Zinn Beck," answered Wes Rinker, the keeper of baseball legends at the stadium.

Beck played in the major leagues for the St. Louis Cardinals 1913 through 1916, and later joined the New York Yankees in 1918.

Leads Orioles To 5-3 Win Singleton Bids For MVP

By United Press International Ken Singleton claims he doesn't go out each evening to win MVP votes as he just tries to help the Baltimore Orioles help winning.

Boston Red Sox, 5-3, to extend their lead to a dozen games in the American League East. And Singleton collected his 10th game-winning RBI, hit his 34th home run, knocked in season runs No. 106, 107 and 108, and raised his batting average to .301.

With the score still tied, 2-2, in the fifth, Rick Dempsey reached first on a fielder's choice and Al Bumbry and Kiko Garcia singled to load the bases. Singleton followed with a two-run single to make the score 4-2. Eddie Murray then doubled to send Garcia home with the fifth and final Oriole run.

Astros Not Folding, 7-0

By United Press International The Houston Astros refuse to fold and that comes as no surprise to any of the Astros, especially Manager Bill Virdon. Houston, behind a four-hitter by Vern Riffe, blanked the San Francisco Giants, 7-0, Friday night, to move within a half-game of the Western Division-leading Cincinnati Reds, who dropped a 2-0 decision to the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Everyone says we're going to fold," said Virdon, "but... it hasn't happened yet. We're getting contributions from all our players. Vern Riffe is a good example."

Riffe, 23, who allowed only three runners to reach second base and struck out two while walking one, has been on the disabled list for three months with a back injury, and last won April 18.

In the National League, Cincinnati hit Cincinnati hitters through 6 1/2 innings and settled for a three-hitter. George Foster singled to left-center with one out in the seventh to shatter Schuffele's no-hit bid.

Chicago blanked Philadelphia, 2-0, in 10 innings and Atlanta defeated St. Diego, 10-7. The Montreal-St. Louis doubleheader was rained out and will be made up today.

Falcons Vie Vs. Broncos

By United Press International After two come-from-behind road victories, the "Franklin Falcons" return to Atlanta Stadium Sunday to showcase rookie running back William Andrews against the defense-oriented Denver Broncos.

The Falcons, who ranked 27th in the NFL in rushing last season, tabbed Andrews in the third round of the recent college draft and the 6-foot, 200-pounder has paid instant dividends.

In the Falcons' victory over New Orleans and Philadelphia Andrews became only the fifth running back in league history to rush for over 100 yards in his first two games and will be looking for dangerous wide receiver Rick Upchurch, who leads the AFC with 14 yards on seven receptions. The Broncos, who have allowed just 19, fumble in the NFL.

In other games, Chicago travels to Dallas, Tampa Bay is at Green Bay, Philadelphia at New Orleans, Detroit at the road victories, the "Franklin Falcons" return to Atlanta Stadium Sunday to showcase rookie running back William Andrews against the defense-oriented Denver Broncos.

Darlington Named Home For Car Hall DARLINGTON, S.C. (UPI) — The National Motorsports Press Association announced Saturday its Stock Car Hall of Fame will be built at Darlington Raceway, the site of the first major league stock car race, the Southern 500 in 1950.

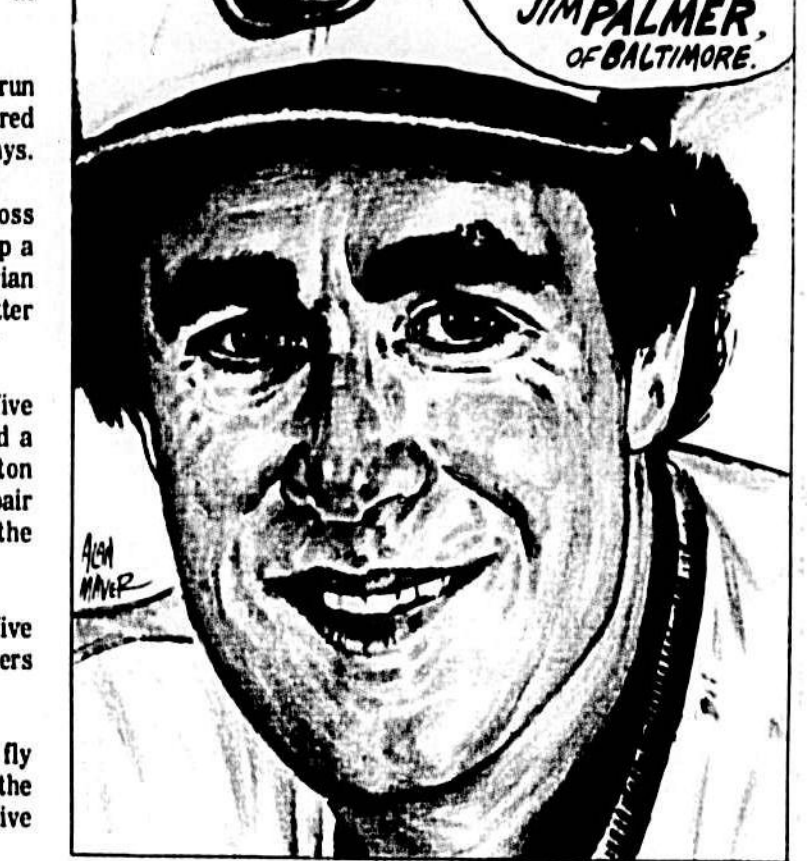

The museum currently has 9,000 square feet of floor space and houses the largest collection of stock car racing cars in the world.

A committee comprised of Wallace; Benny Phillips, sports editor of the High Point, N.C., Enterprise; and Art Hamstrom, advertising manager of Union Oil Co. of California, will have to approve any changes or additions to the building and the exhibits.

Salespersons Encounter Inconsiderate Customers

DEAR ABBY: I am a salesperson selling women's wear in a large department store. We make the minimum wage and no commission. We take great pains to be polite and helpful regardless of how rude or inconsiderate the customer is. I'm sure thousands of salespeople encounter the same problems that I face daily. As a favor to all of us, will you please print this:

HOW TO MAKE A SALESPERSON'S DAY
If you are approached by a salesperson who offers to help you, ignore her. Ask if you may take more than the permitted number of garments into the fitting room. If you are refused, sneak in with an armload and leave the rejects on the floor. If your makeup sobs a garment, don't tell the clerk so she can have it cleaned. Let your children pull off price tags and chew on your fitting room number. If you normally take a 14, try to squeeze into a 12. (What do you care if you split the seams? It's not yours.) Should you accidentally break a zipper or pull a button off, keep quiet. Let the next person who tries it on mention it.

Dear Abby
If there's a NO SMOKING sign in the fitting room, light up anyway, and say you didn't see the sign. If the salesperson is sufficiently conscientious to carefully compare your signature to the one on your charge plate, act insulted. If you return anything, throw away all the tags and receipts, and demand a cash refund! HAD IT IN BUFFALO

DEAR POINT: If the mother can have her child brought to her for nursing (at her own expense) and forego her coffee break for her baby's milk break, I'd go along with it. But demanding that employers provide a special set-up for nursing mothers would be a costly accommodation for which the consumer (or taxpayer) would have to pay, and I'm opposed to it.

TOWERS: Your suggested 11th commandment, "Thou shalt not get caught," is very catchy, but if you obey the first 10, you won't need an 11th. Address comments and questions to Abby, C/o Box 6976, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply, please enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

DEAR HELOISE: Here's a hint for all your readers who knit... I made a very handy and inexpensive holder for all my straight needles. I used two tubular potato chip cans and cut the bottom out of one can. Tape it to the second can and cover the whole thing with adhesive-backed paper. Place the needles inside and top with the plastic lid.

It stands up next to my large knitting bag and all my needles are handy. I usually have at least two articles working at the same time so it saves time searching for the right needle.

The pockets in my knitting bag hold circular needles, tape measure, gauge markers, etc. In a pencil holder with a zipper, which my son once used in school, I keep my stitch holders, row keeper, scissors and the many other little things a knitter needs to have handy.

Dorothy Toney Super! Super! Both organized. Ten, and you have spent only a few pennies to accomplish it. Love, HeLoise

IT'S IN THE BAG! DEAR HELOISE: My granddaughter enjoys playing with all sorts of small babies wouldn't swallow anything.

As I came across interesting throwaway items, usually plastic, I would add them to the bag. That's the first place the little ones go when they come to my house.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! DEAR HELOISE: Our children have a fun way to wrap birthday presents using white or colored tissue paper and decorative flowers. Where do we get the flowers? They are cut from adhesive-backed plastic!

It's amazing how much easier it is to hold the ends of the paper in place with a couple of two-inch flowers. and it gives the package a decorative touch when placed at random on it.

FIRST I EAT THE ICE CREAM! DEAR HELOISE: This hint does not have to go in the paper because it's not so great. But in my room, I don't have a desk, so I use a five-quart, plastic ice cream pail.

Pencils, glue, scissors, etc., go in the pail. Then with the lid on, I use the pail for a desk.

S.I.

In my column your hint is great — and so are you! Bet lots of kids will be using your bright idea, Sugarplum! Keep them coming.

A LOVE LETTER FROM KAREN DEAR HELOISE: I've read your column for a long time now, and I really like it so I decided to think of an idea myself, and I did. Here it is: My mother would always throw away the comic section containing your hints before I could remember any of the ideas. So I "tricked" her.

Every week I cut out the "HeLoise" part, poke a hole in the corner of the page and string them on a cord. I keep them in a safe place.

Go To Agency, Says Spokesman

Hospital Past-Due Billing Errors Cited

By GEOFFREY POUNDS
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole Memorial Hospital Administrator Charles Bentley today said he is satisfied the $530,000 figure listed as past due bills owed the hospital is accurate despite reports by individuals claiming bookkeeping errors on the hospital's part.

The reports of errors began coming into the hospital after former patients started receiving letters this month from a Minnesota collection agency informing them they were delinquent in their bills. At least 20 persons have questioned the accuracy of the statements, saying they were never billed by the hospital to begin with or that their insurance companies had already paid the bills.

Typical of those with questions about the accuracy of the hospital's billing procedure is Mrs. J.D. Driggers of 1402 S. Oak Ave., Sanford. She said the collection agency, Allied Medical Accounts Control, has told her she and her husband owe $196 for treatment received in February, but that there is no copy of a bill for that amount, or an itemized account of the bill available.

"I never received anything from the hospital telling me what I owe that money for," she said. "I'll be darned if I am going to pay anything until I am told what the bill is for, and I couldn't have paid anything if I never got a bill in the first place."

According to Mrs. Driggers, she got a statement from the hospital several days after her husband was discharged as the patient in February. The statement said only that additional charges not covered by Medicare were pending. No amount was given, she said. She said in the past her insurance company has picked up the portion of medical expenses not paid through Medicare. Mrs. Driggers said she followed the same procedure this year and assumed her insurance would again cover the difference. She said she did not hear anything else on the bill until she was contacted by the collection agency. When she tried to inquire into the matter, she said she was "given the runaround."

"When I asked why I never got a bill, I kept getting referred from one person to another. Finally someone said my statement had been 'put in another file, whatever that means,'" she said. She said she still has not been told what the $196 she reportedly owes is for.

Bentley said part of the task of the Minnesota firm will be to audit the billing procedure and he admitted there may be a few errors, but he said he does not think there are many or serious enough errors to change the $530,000 he says is owed by patients

CAN YOU TRUST YOUR EYES? There are at least six differences in drawing details between top and bottom panels. How quickly can you find them? Check answers with those below.

Junior Whirl

by Hal Kaufman

● SUM NAME! Five hundred begins it; five hundred ends it; and five in the middle is seen. The first of all letters, the first of all numbers, have taken their stations between. What given name is spelled out?

● Challenge: Place the numbers 1-9 in three rows so that the top row is half the middle row and one-third the bottom row. No fair peeking.

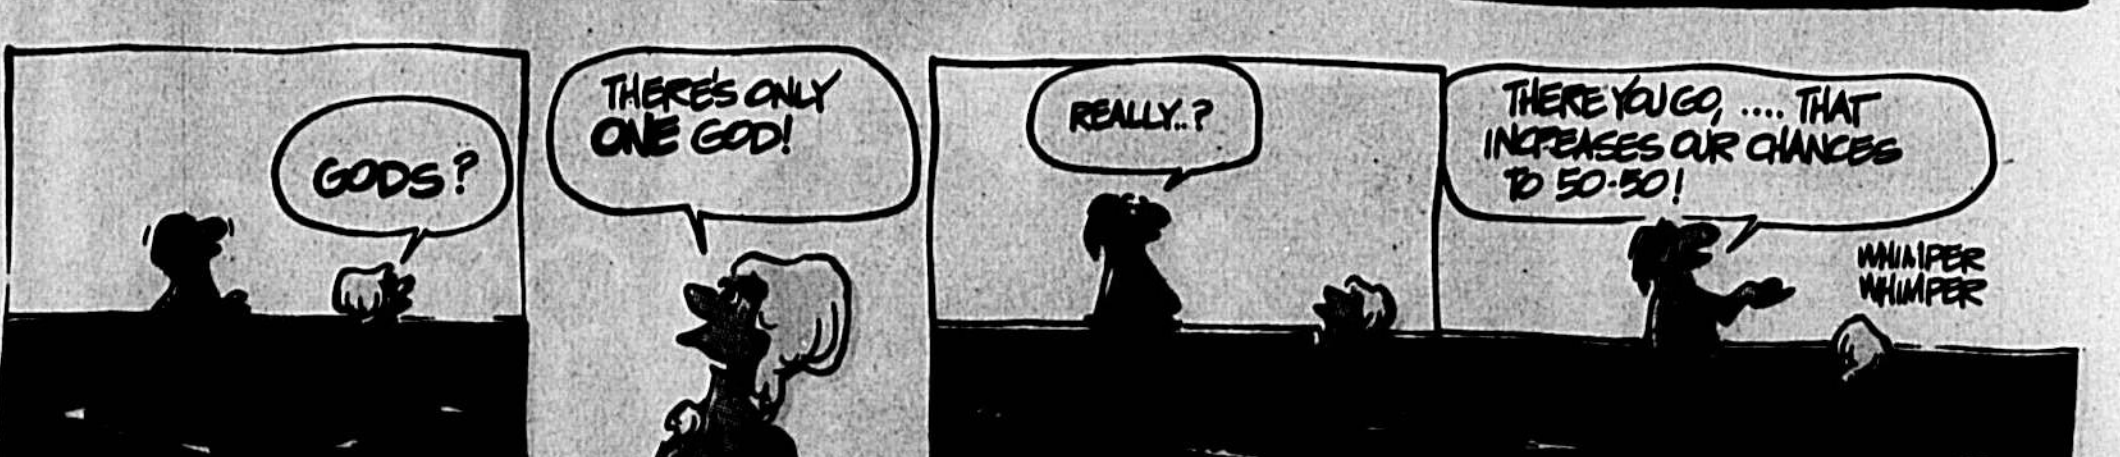

● Check 'Em Out! Rearrange letters to identify items on this grocery list: 1. raebd. 2. imik. 3. odas. 4. trufi. 5. gityure.

● Bird Lore! Which bird is a chef? Cook Robin. Which bird cooks with a spit? The kaboblink. Which bird cooks with a frying pan? The skillet fanager. Can you think of some?

● MAKE MONEY GO ROUND! Here's how to put money in circulation and at the same time keep it within your grasp. Place a coin at the center of the crossbar of an ordinary wooden coat hanger, see illustration above.

Now, swing the hanger gently from side to side, increasing speed until the hanger does a complete revolution about your finger, and keep the hanger swinging in place. Amazingly, centrifugal force will keep the coin steadfast in its precarious place on the crossbar.

● ON TARGET! "Hit the bull's-eye, win a prize," cries the Barker. Will our shooter pal above comply? You decide.

SALT Vote Delay Eyed By Senator

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Sen. Henry Bellmon, saying he was suspicious of Soviet military activity because of the SALT II accord, vowed to propose legislation today postponing ratification of the treaty at least until March 1, 1980, to allow reappraisal of U.S. defense and foreign policies.

He said the panel would be expected to develop recommendations on the level of conventional and strategic military needed through the year 2000.

"How long has it been since the Senate and Executive Branch, or any other decision-making body thoroughly, medically and intelligently reviewed the nation's foreign policy?" said Oklahoma's senior senator.

He said he had doubts that U.S. intelligence could monitor Soviet military activity because "we don't even notice Russian combat troops massing 90 miles off the Florida coast."

"U.S.-Soviet relations have been strained, if not temporarily poisoned by the revelation of Russian troops in Cuba."

"Administration credibility has been wounded by the clumsy cover-up efforts made to hide this significant development from Congress and the country," Bellmon said.

He said Congress might find out it missed a chance to review U.S. defense policy if the treaty was passed now.

A REALLY BIG SHOW

Health Dept. Gears For Flu Vaccines

By JANE CASSELLBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

Next Sunday is the first day of fall, and for all that entails, the Seminole County Health Department it means getting ready for the flu season.

The health department is readying itself this week to give free flu vaccine to help those who need protection through the season.

During the 1978-1979 season the health department issued flu vaccine to about 500 persons, according to Mrs. Bernice Duncan, a nursing supervisor.

Mrs. Duncan said last year there were about 115 confirmed flu cases, but that for this area 100 to 120 cases would be considered normal. More than 120 confirmed cases, according to Mrs. Duncan, would probably be classified an epidemic.

Dr. Jorge DeJu, public health director, said there is nothing at this time to indicate there may be a flu epidemic in this area this year.

"It is difficult to predict when and whether a flu epidemic will occur, and there is nothing at present to suspect an epidemic," said Dr. DeJu.

"Viruses change every so often and the vaccine is based on these changes," he pointed out. "The last flu epidemics occurred in Brazil and Russia and if epidemics occur this fall and winter we expect the virus will be closely related. The vaccine we use will be designed to protect against those strains," Dr. DeJu added.

Flu immunization shots will be available from the county health department beginning this week.

The free immunization will be available from the clinic at 300 S. French Ave., Sanford, from 8:11 a.m. Tuesday and Friday, and the Longwood clinic at Church Street and Wilma Avenue, on Mondays, 8-11 a.m.

Dr. DeJu said the county health department will be responding to requests for immunizations from area nursing homes, clubs for the elderly and other groups which might want them. He recommends the flu shots especially for those 65 years and over and those suffering from chronic diseases.

Mrs. Duncan said the vaccine to be used this year is the same as last year's to afford protection against the Russian strain.

Airport Restaurant Closed Temporarily

After 2½ years operating at the site, Jerry's Restaurant at Sanford Airport closed its doors to business Friday.

Richard Buck, owner of Buck's Catering, Sanford, who plans to submit the entry, said he expects to reopen the restaurant on Wednesday for breakfast and lunch.

Because of the necessity of various license transfers, Buck said today he has not as yet set a definite time for reopening the bar and banquet room.

Marvin Greenstein, assistant to Sanford Airport Manager J.S. (Red) Cleveland, said the transfer in operations probably will be routinely approved by the Sanford Airport Authority.

Rattlesnakes Cause Scare

A 12-year-old Lakeview Middle School student received a scare but no injury Friday when he was bitten by one of two baby rattlesnakes who made their way into the school and hid behind a gym door.

Lakeview principal Ted Barker said the youth was taken immediately to a doctor, but the skin had not been broken on the wound and there was no injury.

"He was back in class within two hours. The snakes were very small and did not have any venom," said Barker.

The principal said both snakes were found behind the door to the gym. The youth had reached down for one of the snakes when it bit him, Barker said.

"This is the first time we've ever had a report of a snake inside the school, he said. Barker theorized that the high water from all the recent rain brought the snakes into the dry grass around the school. He said he ordered maintenance crews to cut the grass surrounding the school very low to discourage other snakes.

The Colonel Coming Back To Sanford?

Site plan for a new Kentucky Fried Chicken restaurant to be constructed at the corner of Airport Boulevard and U.S. 17-92 will be considered by the Sanford Planning and Zoning Commission at its 7 p.m. meeting Thursday.

The meeting will be held in the commission room at city hall.

City Building Official Bill Brockstad said plans are to remove the old gasoline station structure from the corner property to construct the new 61,000 sq. ft. restaurant.

Recessed roof construction is expected to be underway before the end of the year.

Group Seeking Seminole Mass Transit Will Propose Referendum For Fees

By GEOFFREY POUNDS
Herald Staff Writer

A plan asking for a service charge of $2 per month for every homeowner in Seminole, Orange and Osceola counties in order to subsidize mass transportation has been unveiled by leaders of the Free People's Transit Organization.

John Hedrick, Free People's Transit spokesman, said his group will be seeking to get the county commission in each of the three counties to put the proposal to the voters in a March referendum.

The plan, which Hedrick says he will formally present later this month to the Metropolitan Planning Organization (MPO), calls for a $2 fee to homeowners and a $1 fee to non-homeowners. The fee would be tacked onto a consumer's monthly utility bill, he proposes. Based on these fees, Hedrick said, about $5.5 million would be generated.

"The first year that money would go into capital expenses — spare buses," he said. Part of the money generated would also go to cover a loss incurred by a planned reduction in bus fares from 50 cents to 10 or 35 cents, depending on time, he said.

In subsequent years, the money generated from the fees would be used to expand the number of bus routes and the number of buses running those routes, he said.

Hedrick is proposing that the 50 cent bus fares be lowered to 10 cents during non-rush hours and 35 cents during peak periods of use in the mornings and afternoons. He said studies have indicated bus usage declines markedly when the rate exceeds 35 cents.

If county commissioners in the three counties reject the referendum proposal, Hedrick said his organization will try to put the plan to the voters through initiative petitions in individual cities throughout the area.

Hedrick further announced he would be meeting with representatives of Seminole County social service agencies in an attempt to mobilize support for improvements in the mass transit system.

Last week representatives from 22 social service agencies in Seminole County met at Seminole Community College for a work session on common needs. The representatives tabbed better mass transit as the number one priority.

"There are a lot of people falling between cracks — people who can't get to jobs or services they need because there is no transportation," said Ed Holst, resource and job developer for the Epilepsy Association of Central Florida.

Holst said the agency representatives will plan another work session next month to map out a strategy for presenting requests for better transportation to the county commission. Specifically, Holst said, the social service agencies would like to see expanded service on buses running from Orlando up 17-92 all the way to Sanford. No regular service on that route now exists.
