Schools Urge To Join Fight For New Taxes

Legislator Says Additional Funds Are Needed To Educate Florida Children

TALLAHASSEE, June 21—(AP)—Governor Warren called in reporters and photographers today to watch him sign a note putting his 1948 Cadillac sedan as security for a $2,000 loan. The 70-day note was sent to him from the Commercial Bank in Panama City. The Governor said the interest rate was 10 percent. The bank is headed by Marlon G. Nelson, a Warren appointee to the State Road Board.

GAINESVILLE, June 21 (AP)—Florida county school superintendents have been urged by a member of the House of Representatives to join the fight for new revenue. Rep. S. Travis Phillips, Hernando County, wired the school heads to "tell the mothers and fathers of the school children of Florida that revenue must be produced to educate their children."

"As a member of the House of Representatives," Phillips said "I would like to warn that now is the time to rally your forces and tell the mothers and fathers of the school children of Florida that revenue must be produced to educate their children."

"There isn't a better investment," Phillips concluded. Phillips' telegram came after a poll of county school heads meeting here showed that most schools would only be open for seven months unless new revenue is found to meet the 1948 school apportionment (By Page 2).

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 21—(AP)—Armed legionnaires today demanded that Jefferson (Birmingham) county law enforcement officers put a halt to activities of hooded and white robed mobs. In another development, a Birmingham Post reporter was knocked down yesterday while attempting to investigate night riders at Sumiton, Ala.

The reporter, 28-year-old Clarke Stalworth, was not seriously hurt. A warrant charging assault and battery was served last night on Roscoe Fowler of Sumiton. Fowler posted $500 bond. Heads of civic clubs in the Birmingham district were asked to meet today to organize a "committee of 500" to combat activities of the night riders. Several persons recently have been flogged and others threatened by white robed men.

Prague Communists Step Up Fight On Catholics In Czechoslovakia

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, June 21—(AP)—Government controlled newspapers gave a hint today that the next step in the Communist regime's war against the Roman Catholic Church may be the arrest and prosecution of Archbishop Josef Beran as an enemy of the state.

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Communist government of Czechoslovakia stepped up its feud with the Roman Catholic Church today. In the largely Roman Catholic province of Moravia numerous clergy and prominent laymen were reported arrested.

According to one source Archbishop Josef Matocha of Moravia's second city, Olomouc, is under police surveillance. A closer police guard was reported around the palace of Archbishop Josef Beran in Prague.

Churchmen describe the events as a government move to exterminate the hierarchy in Czechoslovakia and cut off all ties with the Vatican. The government has set up a "Catholic Action" organization which Archbishop Beran has denounced.

The Vatican decreed yesterday that those voluntarily joining the government-sponsored "Catholic Action" group would be excommunicated.

General Heliodor Pika, former deputy chief of the Czechoslovak army, was executed today at Pankraz prison, the Prague radio announced. He was sentenced Jan. 28 after a two-day secret trial on charges of divulging secrets to the British intelligence.

Touhy Inducted As President Of Sanford Rotary

George Touhy was inducted into office as president of the Rotary Club and George Stine was presented with a past president's pin formerly belonging to the late Herman Lehman, at the meeting of the Rotary Club yesterday night.

In presenting the pin to Mr. Stine, H. H. Coleman, himself a past president, said, "The club wants you to know that it appreciates the fine work you do during the past year. We know there have been many trials and tribulations, but honors do not come without trials and tribulations. The pin we are presenting to you was formerly given to another beloved past president, the late Herman Lehman. We know you will wear it with honor and pride."

Mr. Stine said he clasped Mr. Lehman as one of his best friends and the highest type of Rotarian whose pin he would be honored to wear. He also presented the president's pin to Mr. Touhy and said that he had always done a grand job on everything that he had been called upon by the club to do and knew that he would do a grand job as president for the coming year.

Mr. Touhy expressed his appreciation for the confidence which the club had expressed in him and said he realized it is a great job on everything that he had been called upon by the club to do and knew that he would do a grand job as president for the coming year.

CIVIC CLUBS STUDY BUILDING SITUATION
All local civic clubs are expected to meet tonight at 7:00 o'clock at the Tourist Center to discuss a proposal which the City made to the Chamber of Commerce whereby a new building will be constructed for tourist use, John Ivey, president of the Chamber of Commerce, announced this morning.

Present plans are for a $4 by 34 foot building to seat 100 people, and to be located near the unfinished courts in Ft. Mellon Park. "It is hoped," Mr. Ivey said, "that some definite decision will be made at the meeting, because the City has asked for acceptance of their proposal by the 15th of the month so that action may be taken. As the tourists have asked for headquarters by Oct. 1."

Judith Coplon Says She Took Inter-Service Files For Book

Witness Ends Testimony In Defense Denying Charges; State Takes Over

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP)—Judith Coplon completed her long-repeated denial of espionage activity today and was turned over to the government for cross examination.

After she had testified for about 12 hours under the guidance of defense lawyer Archibald Palmer, Palmer suddenly turned to prosecutor John M. Kelley, and said "your witness, Mr. Kelley."

This occurred about ten minutes before the usual noon recess, but Kelley told federal Judge Albert L. Reeves that he was ready to start the examination immediately. Miss Coplon's story added up to this:

She never passed any government secrets to Valentine A. Gubitch, a Russian engineer with whom she was arrested, and he never asked her to do so. Papers found in her purse were not for use in espionage activity but in connection with (1) A book she said she was writing, (2) A Civil Service examination she planned to take Mar. 16 and (3) Her work as a political analyst in the Justice Department.

She repeatedly swore that she had no intention of disclosing any of the papers to anyone. Today she said she destroyed a manuscript for the book rather than have it fall in the hands of the FBI.

She said the jury of eight men and four women trying her on espionage charges today.

Inquiry Launched Into Fee Payments On U. S. Contracts
WASHINGTON, June 21—(AP)—Chairman Hoy (D-N.C.) of the Senate investigating committee announced an inquiry today into the report of a $1,000,000 paid for help in getting government contracts.

They said the investigation will be based on articles in the New York Herald Tribune concerning a "Washington five per cent" fee. They quoted the newspaper as reporting that Paul Grindle, a Massachusetts businessman, said he paid the $1,000,000 to James Hunt, "management consultant." He identified Hunt as a former lieutenant colonel in the Army Quartermaster Corps and later an employee of the War Assets Administration.

They said William P. Rogers, chief attorney for the investigating group, will "make a complete investigation of all the facts." "It should be clearly understood that the mere fact that the staff of the committee has been asked to make this investigation is in no sense a pre-judgment of any of the issues involved," Hoy added in a statement.

After the staff inquiry has been completed, Hoy said, the subcommittee "will determine then what course should be followed by the public interest."

Fred Weber Is Moved To Orlando Hospital
Fred Weber, Sanford Giants first baseman, who was injured in the Sanford-St. Augustine baseball game at the Municipal Park Sunday afternoon has been transferred to an Orlando hospital and is under the care of a bone specialist. Weber has a fractured bone in his left ankle.

Manager Gruber contacted the New York office of the New York farm system, and has received word that a rookie first baseman will report to the Sanford club within a day or two.

"All I know about the fellow is that his name is Barry. I could not even tell you his first name, his record in semi-pro ball, where he makes his home or anything else," Manager Gruber declared this afternoon.

Johnson Says Inter-Service Rows Harmful

Despite Differences Nation's Defense Are Said Best In Peacetime History

WASHINGTON, June 21—(AP)—Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson, with President Truman's approval, today approved the modernization of two aircraft carriers at a total cost of $80,000,000.

Johnson described the modernization of the two carriers as an answer to those who assert that by the recent cancellation of the Navy's aircraft carrier program there was a conspiracy "either to sink the Navy's air arm or reduce the Navy to a second class role."

Secretary of Defense Johnson acknowledged today that "severely contested" Army-Navy-Air Force disagreements have hampered the work of the national defense establishment.

He said, however, that they were sincere disagreements, and added that despite them "there exists today a readiness and defense potential superior to that of any previous period in our nation's peacetime history."

Johnson's address, prepared for the graduation of officers attending the National War College, was heard by President Truman and other high officials. It was the defense chief's first major speech since he took over the job in March. He spoke harsh words about Russia, describing that nation as "imperialist" and "despotic." It is because of Russia that the United States must maintain a strong military.

Leon Grand Jury Begins Probe Of Bribery Charges
TALLAHASSEE, June 21—(AP)—A Leon County grand jury started looking into the Legislative bribery charges against John A. Scruggs today.

It listened for about an hour to testimony of Senator C. I. Alford of Grand Ridge, who accused Scruggs of offering him $2,000 to vote against a bill denying telephonic and telegraphic service to race bet bookmakers.

Alford was followed in the closed hearing room by Senator Henry S. Baynard of St. Petersburg. He stayed about half an hour, then Mrs. Rosabell Massey, Scruggs' secretary, went in to testify.

Alford has said he sought Baynard's advice when Scruggs first approached him in opposition to the anti-bookie bill. Hugh P. Moore of Lake City, a Highway Patrol radio and sound expert, went into the grand jury room with a recording machine. There have been reports that a record was made of a conversation between Alford and Scruggs.

Also on hand were two State Highway Patrol officers that Alford says Governor Warren assigned to hide and witness the alleged bribery transaction.

As a result of the opinion yesterday, a 35-year-old escaped convict, Clarence Jackson, will have to return to Georgia to finish out his 20 year sentence for burglary.

In ordering Jackson back to Georgia, Supreme Court Justice Ernest E. L. Hammer concluded: "The prison system of Georgia seems to have been brought abreast of the most modern penological practices of the various prison systems of the United States, both state and national."

American Legion Membership Is Largest In History Of Post

Four new candidates were admitted last evening as members of Campbell-Living Post No. 33, the American Legion, bringing total membership to 442, the highest in the history of the Post. Commander J. Q. Galloway reported today.

New members are Albert E. McMillan, Charles Shafer, Robert P. Mince, and D. E. Pennington.

The highest previous membership of the Post was in 1945-46, when under J. J. Kooze, the total number was 410. Under James Singletary in 1948 the membership reached 345, and prior to that, according to Capt. Earle Loucks, post historian, the highest membership was the 304 of 1926-27 when Lewis P. Chittenden was post commander.

The present high membership had its start and reached a peak during the 1948-49 term of James V. Wright.

At McMillan, manager of the Legion sponsored boys' baseball team, reported that the 16 members of the team have won uniforms and have made a fine start by defeating Apollo 29 to 2 last week. They are scheduled to play St. Cloud at the Jersey City Park here this afternoon.

John Landis was appointed manager of the 1950 fair by the Legion Fair Association of Sanford Post 33. Inc. James Singletary was elected president of the association; J. Q. Galloway, secretary; Karlyle H. Housholder, treasurer. Elected as members of the board of directors were James A. Wright, F. D. Scott, Carl Lundgren, Joel Field, R. T. Johnson and Douglas Stenstrom.

Officers and directors of the association were given power to act in any way necessary to make arrangements for the fair in 1950 without having to call a meeting of the membership.

Following a chicken picnic supper last evening, the members inspected the new addition, which aside from painting is complete and includes an office, a "mystery room," a large kitchen and two rest rooms.

Bedell Smith And Gov. Dewey Urge Europe Aid Plan

COLORADO SPRINGS, June 21 (AP)—Lieut. General Walter Bedell Smith urged today's governor's fight to throw their weight behind a double-barreled program to give Western Europe arms and full-scale economic aid.

Even before the former ambassador to Moscow spoke at the 44th annual state dinner of the governor's conference, Governor Thomas H. Dewey of New York pledged his support to the arms program as well as to continuation of the Marshall Plan. Dewey was the 1948 GOP presidential nominee.

General Smith told the governors that "unless" Russian leaders are playing a game, hoping to "swallow" the United States and its friends.

He said that game, by and by, the country must not only help Europe get back on its economic feet but must lift the western democracies from their almost "helpless" dependence on the United States.

Byrd Says Federal Job Holders Growing
WASHINGTON, June 21, (AP)—Senator Byrd (D-Va.) said today the executive branch of the government is hiring new workers during April at the rate of more than 350 a day.

The Virginia, chairman of the subcommittee on outgoing non-essential federal spending, said civilian employment in the executive branch totalled 2,122,710 in April, compared with the March total of 2,111,257—an increase of 11,453.

"Average federal pay is approximately $3,000 a year," Byrd said in a statement. "If that should be added to the federal payroll in April represent a net permanent increase, it means annual federal personnel costs were increased during the month at the rate of more than a million dollars a day."

Byrd said the greatest April increase was reported by the Agriculture Department with 3,000 added, followed by the Army with 2,500 civilian employees. The largest decrease was 4,618 reported by the Navy. The War Assets Administration was next with 861.

Senate Subcommittee Against Extending Wage Benefits To Additional Workers

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP)—A Senate labor subcommittee voted unanimously today for a minimum wage of 75 cents an hour. It decided against trying to extend coverage of the wage-hour law to 5,000,000 additional workers.

The seven-member subcommittee, headed by Senator Pepper (D-Fla.), concludes a majority of the 13-man Senate Labor Committee. So presumably today's agreement means the full committee is certain to recommend wage-hoisting legislation to the Senate.

The legislation was against extending the law to workers in retail stores.

The bill would have applied to most business firms making or handling goods which are shipped across state lines. Generally, it forbids payment of a lower wage than 40 cents an hour and requires payment of minimum pay for work over 40 hours a week.

In addition to an increase in the minimum to 75 cents, labor unions have been clamoring for extension of the law to cover additional workers. Most of the opposition to Congress has centered on extending the coverage, rather than boosting the minimum.

Meanwhile, a delegation of unemployed unionists, all members of the CIO United Electrical Workers, had lobbied the subcommittee for a minimum membership benefit.

At the same time, Rep. Huber (D-Ore.) filed a petition to force out of the House Veterans Committee the bill extending the benefits another two years. The committee has refused to act.

3 Soldiers Hurt In Auto Accident At Monroe Bridge
Three soldiers are in critical condition in Orlando Air Base Hospital following an accident at 2:10 this morning at the Monroe Bridge where the 1037 Packard, proceeding south after crossing the bridge, failed to make the turn, went into the right embankment and plunged down the eight embankment.

Reese J. Carter, 19, owner of the car, and believed to have been the driver, probably went to sleep behind the wheel, and P. D. Harrison, highest patrolman who investigated the accident, Carter, who with the other soldiers had been recently transferred from California to the 89th Air and 94 group at Orlando Air Base, had a broken back and head injuries.

THE WORLD TODAY

By DWIGHT MACKENZIE

The month-old Big Four Ministers' Council meeting in Paris finally has ground to a weary close, having recorded some achievement although it has done little to make the balls of the pink palace echo with satisfaction...

The principal object of the conference—to establish economic and political unity for Germany—hasn't got far. The best that could be done by the four statesmen—Viashinsky of Russia, Bevin of Britain, Schuman of France and Acheson of America—was to agree on a "modus vivendi" under which dismembered Germany will continue to be administered by the occupying powers...

Under this agreement the Big Four would support and encourage trade between East and West Germany. The Russians promise not to impose blockade conditions on Berlin again.

At face value that looks good, but its real value depends on whether it can be made to work. The establishment of political and economic unity of Germany is essential to the rehabilitation and peace of Europe. However, this very importance of the West German situation is the object of a tug of war between West and East...

The council agreed that Austria's frontiers will remain what they were on August 1, 1938, which means that Yugoslavia's claim has been thrown out. Russia is expected to withdraw her support to that claim. Yugoslavia won't get reparations but may "seize, retain and administer" the West Yugoslav territory. Austria will pay Russia $100,000,000 in reparations.

That's what has been agreed to in principle. It remains to be seen whether the agreement is signed, sealed and delivered. Agreements in principle have had an uncomfortable habit of blowing up, and so we shall wait and see what happens before accepting the treaty as an accomplished fact.

If this agreement does work out as scheduled, it will be agreeable to the western powers. One reason is that the Russians will have to withdraw their troops from Austria when the treaty is signed. Another is that if the Soviet does drop its support of Yugoslavia claims this may drive Marshal Tito—who is feuding with Moscow—into the western sphere of influence.

It probably would have been too much to expect the council meeting to end without fireworks. In any event after the conference had been wound up Vishinsky without warning demanded a further secret session on the strength of frank word from Moscow.

For a bit consternation reigned. Acheson and Bevin both were packed and eager to start home. It developed that the Russians wanted to debate a disputed point concerning the withdrawal of profits on German property in Austria, of which the Soviet would take control. However, it was a technical matter and the ministers decided that it should be worked out through diplomatic channels.

To summarize, judging from the casual conversation which seems to have gained any tremendous advantage in the conference. Jack White, San Antonio and John White, National Woodman director, on behalf of Texas Woodmen.

Mrs. Jeanie Willard, president, National Fraternal Congress, and Mrs. Doris A. Talley, president, Woodmen Circle, both of Omaha will bring greetings from their organizations. Vice President E. E. Miller of the Woodmen will respond.

Anglo-Americans Seek Compromise On Argentine Trade Agreements

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP)—American and British officials apparently are searching for a face-saving compromise in their row over a proposed British-Argentine trade agreement.

While the issue is the most serious which has thus far entered American relations with any country under the European Recovery program, officials discount speculation that the United States might actually cut off some Marshall Plan aid to Britain. Hather it appeared from information available here—from the State Department, RCA and British embassy and from London and Buenos Aires dispatches—that a compromise is shaping up along these lines:

1. Britain and Argentina will not sign the treaty until after the State Department and RCA have had a chance to study and comment on it.

2. Britain intends to go through with the five-year agreement but concedes that such two-tuition trade contracts will be renegotiated every year so that at almost any time an American seller theoretically could enter the market.

3. While the British will make a firm agreement to buy specified quantities of meat from Argentina for five years the Argentine will decide each year what they want from Britain. Thus, Argentina's purchase contracts will be renegotiated every year so that at almost any time an American seller theoretically could enter the market.

This latter point is perhaps the most important one under study here. British embassy officials stressed it to the State Department last week with the argument that Britain is not trying to sew up Argentine trade or exclude American goods from Argentine markets.

That has been one of the American objections to the treaty. On another British point there seemed to be substantial American agreement already—that is that a trade deal between Britain and Argentina would be a good thing.

Governors Meet

(Continued From Page One) enough for the United States to come to a decision. It is not clear if it is concluded that the Soviet difficult to deal with, is not willing at this time to risk war and will modify its aggressive policies when confronted with firm resistance, backed by recognizable force, he declared.

Speaking of socialized medicine, Dewey said his visit to England convinced him that such plans just won't work. He said that doctors there told him the level of medical service dropped because they had to see a long line of patients and could give "only three minutes to each one."

In the inescapable conclusion, Dewey said, "that such a program would destroy the medical standards and the health of the people of the United States." New Jersey Governor Alfred E. Dreese led a parade of criticism against proposed federal aid to education and federal "home relief" contributions.

Dreese told his colleagues that it would be "a tragic mistake" for Congress to enact the $200,000,000 federal school aid bill already passed by the Senate with the help of Senator Taft (R-Ohio) and some other GOP members—and pending in the House.

He said the federal government would proceed to take a hand in education. Instead, he said the U. S. ought to get out of certain tax, social insurance, inheritance and death levies—and let the states raise enough money to keep their schools going.

Dreese was joined by Tennessee's Democratic Governor Gordon Browning in criticizing plans for direct federal relief. Browning said the states ought to lean down on boosting unemployment and other insurance funds instead of "encouraging people to ask for handouts."

Alabama's Democratic Governor James Folsom said he hopes the federal government doesn't try to "dictate" school policies under any education aid bill as he asserted it "dictates" what highways states will build.

Military Experts Seen As Favoring Defensive Arms

By H. TONC. FAY Associated-Press Military Affairs Reporter WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP)—The military pendulum may be swinging back in favor of defensive weapons, some informed military students believe.

As an example, they pointed today to reports that guided rockets are being developed. They also noted progress in the tools of land warfare—the recoilless gun, an improved proximity fuse, better artillery fire direction equipment, improved non-wasteful land mines and better tactical aircraft.

Military leaders say this apparent turn toward the defensive weapon follows the pattern of military history. An offensive weapon is followed by a weapon to counter it—first the arrow, then the armor to stop it, then the armor-piercing slug fired from the primitive matchlock gun.

Writer-Writer Is Fired From Job

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer
A writer was fired from a New York restaurant. His boss—when the waiter appealed, said the fellow spent more time eyeing customers' collars and mending notes than he did slinging escargots in a bougie (it was a very nice restaurant). Seems the man was gathering material for a book.

Twice in two days, lately, I've been a passenger in taxis when the cabbies, without urging, confided to me that they had both written books of their experiences driving around the city. One fellow wondered if it meant a certain publisher had accepted his manuscript when it hadn't been returned within two weeks. The other wanted to know if I knew the name of a good publisher, because HIS manuscript had just come back with a rejection slip.

I know a hairdresser who rushes home after getting the last pin curl in place and notes down all the gossip and big names he's heard all day. He's getting ready to do a memoir. Ball players, tennis players, theatrical people, unprovoked nobility, ladies who have married famous men, men who have married famous ladies, stevedores, hotel keepers, jailbirds, all the politicians and the Roosevelt approach are being over-steamed hotel typewriters, pouring out their souls.

It seems years since I've met anyone who didn't have a book in the process of creation. Fortunately, we've seen the end of the cycle of non-correspondent books. The even correspondents seem to be the ones who now take a quick 10-day look around in the scenes of past glory and return to us a definitive expose of conditions.

There are fiction and article writers, librettos happily churning out their specialized output, who have also developed a busy man's method of becoming book authors. They had read over their old pieces, and made a selection of them together with explanatory introductions on how come they wrote them. Lo, they have books under their belts.

Indisputably it's smart to be the author of a book today. But things also are coming to the point where book-writing primarily is an occupation of non-writers.

The business of putting thoughts on paper seems to be one of a very few occupations which requires little or no prior preparation. If you're an anthropologist who's discovered a new recipe for shrieking heads, or a celebrity-hunter with a memory for anecdote, all you have to do is rent a typewriter and start sorting out adjectives. That makes you an author.

Of course, fiction remains a field open to professional writers alone. It's a rare autobiographer who ventures into the plot-and-climax area where one is judged by one's handiwork alone. An exception is a woman who wrote her memoirs, and then had to turn all the "I said" places into "Jane said," and swing a lot of real matters into made-up ones. The reason was that her publishers were afraid of libel suits. But the book hasn't gone so well.

Somebody said that every living soul has at least one book in him. It seems to me that before more than a couple of years are past, there will be very few people left with said stories simmering and seething in their minds. Publishers will run out of rejection slips, and the public will be content of personal story, personal opinion and interpretation.

Then will come the day when we'll return to professionals of the pen and pencil, whose whole training is to turn out an impersonal, uninteresting story. Meanwhile, it's pretty embarrassing for anyone who has any connection with the writing business to admit one never has managed to whip out at least 50,000 words around a single subject. Thank goodness, the newspaper business remains full of dreamy souls who always are going to write a book tomorrow.

George Kell Fattens To The Ring Tonight
WILMINGTON, Del., June 21—Rocky Graziano returns to the flat warfare tonight after an absence of a year with his sights set on a shot at the middleweight crown he once held.
 The one-time boss of the 100 pounders takes on Buffalo's Bobby Claws at Wilmington's ball park. The bout is slated for 10 rounds.
 It'll be Graziano's first competitive appearance in the ring since Tony Zale took back the middleweight title June 10, 1943.
 Since the Zale fight Graziano has returned to the good graces of the New York State Athletic Commission and the National Boxing Association.
 The New York state boxing fathers suspended him Feb. 7, 1943 for failure to report two $100,000 bribes offers he thought were "jokes." He was reinstated last May 6.

 Locked in a three-way tie in home runs production with 10 each were Williams, Joost and Veta. Stephens of Boston, Williams held the runs-batted-in lead with 65, leading in 13 during the week.
 Joost had the most runs, 41; Kell the most hits, 30; Majeski the most two-baggers, 18; and Dillinger the most stolen bases, eight. Elmer Valo of Philadelphia and Cleveland's Dale Mitchell were tied in hitting triples, each with seven.

 The nation's best feminine golfers set out today in first round match play and 27 amateurs seemed a good bet to dispense with the pros as the game moved on to its pay-off stations later this week.

Heat Wave Marks First Day Of Summer

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Most of the country will not be surprised to learn that this is the first day of summer.

School Funds

Some schools will only be able to operate for six months.

There's nothing in our program that's excessive, said Dan Boyd, Duval superintendent, explained.

Superintendents from Manatee, St. Lucie, Wakulla, Lee, Clay, Leon, Alachua, Orange, West Palm Beach, Nassau, Marion, Levy, Gilchrist, Lake, and Brevard, said they could operate for about seven months.

The Volusia County school head estimates a seven to eight month program, and Dan Anderson, Escambia County, said he expected to run his schools for eight months.

Sarasota and Putnam County superintendents thought they could "squeeze through" seven months.

Other counties looking forward to a six month school term are Walton, Lafayette, Washington, and Madison.

L. R. McCallum, LaFayette County superintendent, doubted if he could make the six months. He explained that 90 percent of LaFayette schools funds came from state funds.

Howard County is in a little better position. The school board there says he could make the full nine month school term by raising local millages.

The lower total was due in part to "some decline in price," the department noted, but the main cause was decreased consumption due to a "weakening of demand for items in the luxury class."

TALLAHASSEE, June 21—(AP)—Criticizing "confused comments on the state's financial condition," the Cabinet today issued a simple factual statement on Florida's fiscal situation.

The two-page outline of the Cabinet's stand on the state's finances was prepared by Secretary of State R. A. Gray who said he would send copies to every member of the Legislature and every Florida newspaper.

Several legislators have issued statements in the past few days declaring the state has no need of new revenue. They said economy in government operations would save enough money to tide Florida over until the next regular session of the Legislature two years from now.

The Cabinet statement said the 1948 Legislature appropriated $20,000,000 a year more than the state's current income. Because of this, the Cabinet said, it was necessary for it to cut expenditures 25 percent below appropriations for the next two years.

The statement recalled that the Legislature two years ago levied no new taxes, but made appropriations calling for more than was coming in. Then, however, there was a wartime backlog of "between $40,000,000 and $60,000,000 accumulated in the state treasury and by using this the school appropriations have been met in full the past two years. This 'back log' is now gone.

The financial plight of the state is so serious, it is no time for confused thinking," the Cabinet declared.

Governor Warren agreed, commenting "most of the confusion about state finances arises not from government boddies but from confused comment from confused sources."

American Liquor Bill Is Off For First Time

WASHINGTON, June 21—(AP)—Americans apparently drank less intoxicating liquor last year, including they spent less on their drinking.

This was reported yesterday by the Commerce Department, which said the total 1948 outlay for whiskey, beer and wine was an estimated $8,000,000,000. The figure was 2.7 per cent below 1947, and marked the first time since 1938 that the nation's drinkers had spent less than they did the preceding year.

The lower total was due in part to "some decline in price," the department noted, but the main cause was decreased consumption due to a "weakening of demand for items in the luxury class."

Excavations have shown there were nine successive cities on the site of Troy in Asia Minor.

Coplon Testifies

Coplon testified that she "already had been held up to enough scorn and did not want the FBI to get hold of the manuscript."

Miss Coplon testified that some of the papers found in her purse when she was arrested were for use in connection with the book.

She testified that she had written three chapters in rough draft. After her release on bail, she swore, she went to her parent's home in Brooklyn, found the manuscript apparently untouched, and destroyed it.

Under questioning by Defense Attorney Archibald Palmer, Miss Coplon told the jury that the first chapter dealt with her coming to Washington and "the whole leading in wartime Washington" followed by the letdown which followed the end of the war.

The second chapter, she said, dealt with "espionage hysteria." She testified that she had written "some of the things which to my eyes were farcical and tragic."

The third chapter, she related, compared American mass production to Europe's lack of mass production and was written after she returned from Europe last year.

She swore that three biographical sketches found in her purse were for use in connection with the book.

She said the manuscript contained references to William E. Foley and Raymond P. Wherry—Justice Department officials under whom she worked as a political analyst in the Justice Department.

She added, however, that she intended to delete names in the final draft. Palmer asked her about the references to Wherry, one of

The government prosecutors in her trial, and she replied: "Some were fine and some not so fine."

J. D. Morrison was foreman of the jury which included Dan Gilbert, Joe Wooten, Herbert Fuller, J. D. Morrison, Axel Wooten and W. S. Brunley.

She swore that a reference to a "top secret" FBI report on Soviet and Communist spying which was in her purse also was intended for use in the book.

She said Foley had shown it to her, told her later not to read it, then brought it back to her to read.

She said she read the report only briefly and that it was "a summation of a lot of old stuff." She added that she thought it "very amusing" the way Foley handled the matter.

One of the biographical sketches in Miss Coplon's purse dealt with Lorraine Elkin Sinderbrand, with whom Miss Coplon had gone to high school in Brooklyn. At one place this sketch said: "She remembers me as a Communist."

Miss Coplon told the jury: "I thought she thought I was a Communist. When I was in high school I was rather outspoken. I was for Social Security, and other parts of the New Deal. It was just my impression that she thought I was a Communist."

itary machine, he said, adding that this nation should not place too much trust on mere possession of the atomic bomb.

"Within a few short years," he said, "we may witness the end of this era of atomic secrecy—ansera whose end will be signalled by the explosion of some other nation's bomb."

"From that day on, our advantage in strategic bombing will rest not in monopoly possession of the atom bomb but in our superior stockpile, our production capacity, and in the effectiveness and quantity of aircraft required to deliver those bombs."

But, Johnson added, while "all power is given a promise of speedier end to conflict" it has by no means placed either the ground or naval forces in a subordinate position.

The decision on which service to emphasize at any given time, he said, rests with the joint chiefs of staff, whom "I shall not knowingly repudiate x x x unless convinced their views are in conflict with other considerations beyond their province."

On the subject of inter-service rivalry, Johnson declared: "To those who contend that each service must be the sole arbiter of its own needs, I would reply that this nation can no longer tolerate the autonomous conduct of any service."

"The unaided conduct of its affairs by any single service is an open invitation to spendthrift defense. And the waste of our resources in spendthrift defense is an invitation to disaster."

"The problem of rearing 'conflicts within the armed forces is not a simple task of knocking heads together," he added.

"These differences exist not so much in the acrimonious criticism of one service by another as they do on honest disagreement among earnest men formidably equipped with expert opinion."

"These men have been done a sad disservice by critics who ascribe to them service loyalties in excess of their duty to country."

Johnson had acid words for Navy partisans who "twisted" the cancellation of a Navy supercarrier "into a charge of persecution against the Navy," he said.

"In their campaign of terror armed forces they have roused against further unification of the

Watson said there was no question in his mind that the attack was directed at the ship. He said the British flag was plainly visible.

Most seriously injured among crewmen was deck boy T. Edwards. He was hurt in the bomb blast. Fourth Officer T. D. Mothershill, Jr., Electrician McPhail and Seaman J. Hamilton were less seriously injured in the strafing attack.

The bomb exploded on the port side between the engine room and the number four hold. The vessel developed a quick list. She will be unable to proceed without repairs, the captain said.

The Anchesies entered from Kobe with 700 tons of machinery and textiles. She was to go to Hong Kong with seven passengers, including two Chinese, when she left Shanghai.

The Shell warehouse, a few miles upstream, was hit by another bomb from the raiders. There were no casualties reported at the warehouse.

The raid lasted about 30 minutes. The Anchesies was the fifth British ship hit in the last two months of the Chinese civil war. The other four were warships: the cruiser London, the destroyer Consort, and the sloop, Amethyst and Black Swan. They were hit by Communist artillery on the Yangtze above Shanghai. Forty-four British crewmen were killed.

Produce Business At Farm Marts Drops

JACKSONVILLE, June 21—(Special)—The number of State Farmers' Markets handling produce is dwindling each week—only three markets reporting produce movement during the past week, said William L. Wilson, Director of State Markets in his weekly markets review.

"The Starke State Farmers' Market reports that movement of produce from that area is practically over with only a small amount of pepper, Fort Hook beans and Butter beans being moved. The Sweet corn season ended on Tuesday with the movement of 1,917 dozen, averaging 25 cents per dozen."

"The Plant City State Farmers' Market moved 1,771 packages of produce, consisting mostly of okra and eggplant, and giving producers a total revenue of $20,735.70, during the period June 9 through June 15. Crowder peas, Blackeyes and Bell pepper were also available in light volume."

"The Pompano State Farmers' Market shipped the last car of Florida State Markets received reports from 12 Florida livestock market managers, telling of the sale of 3,108 cattle and 2,643 hogs for a cash revenue to producers of $178,043.34, 4 markets omitting cash payments."
