Secretary Predicts State Department Will Discourage Sale Of Bombers

Nazi Press Again Hits At Czechs

Europe On Edge With Czech Elections Set For Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(AP)—Secretary of State Hull said today this government's condemnation of the bombing of civilians was directed at American manufacturers of bombing planes as well as foreign powers.

The Secretary predicted that State Department pressure would discourage sales of such planes for use against defenseless civilians.

The State Department recently condemned bombings in China and Spain.

Europe was headed into another set of week-end litters by the renewed attacks on Czechoslovakia in the controlled German press and new bristling in Czechoslovakia on the eve of the last of a series of communal elections.

Central European rumblings came close to drowning out the sounds of the war in Spain and in China.

Czechoslovakia announced it was well armed to maintain order within the country during the elections and would not try to cross borders.

In Spain the insurgent spearhead thrust through fierce government resistance to Castellon de Plana, principal barrier to the conquest of Valencia.

On the other side of the world Japanese gunboats started down the Yangtze River in a drive on Hankow, provisional Chinese capital, to support the infantry thrust from farther Chengchow, 300 miles north of Hankow.

Efforts Made By City To Collect Delinquent Taxes

Settlement On Adjusted Basis Is Sought By Commissioners

With just six months remaining in which the City Commissioners are allowed to settle delinquent taxes and assessments on property in Sanford on an adjusted basis, the board is making a final effort to give as many residents as possible an opportunity to clear their property.

City Clerk Frank S. Lamson and his staff at the City Hall are checking the delinquent taxes and penalties, special assessments and interest against property within the city limits. The amounts, with the amounts required to settle on the adjusted basis are mailed to the delinquent property holders.

This program gives the property owner a chance to recover his property before foreclosure proceedings are started by the City. It was pointed out, "Under the law when tax certificates become two years old they are subject to foreclosure and when an installment of a special assessment becomes delinquent, the entire assessment becomes due immediately," the City Clerk points out in a letter to the delinquents.

"It is the intention to vigorously enforce payment of these assessments. Before starting action, however, the City Commission is offering an adjustment of these items under its authority as a Municipal Delinquent Tax Adjustment Board."

The Commission is giving property holders the full adjustment is allowed to give under the provisions of the Legislature. It is in which it is granted authority to adjust the delinquent taxes. It is pointed out that the items will be placed in the hands of the City Attorney for enforcement as provided by law.

The Commissioners have expressed hope that all property owners will avail themselves of the opportunity to settle their delinquent taxes and special assessments thus saving the necessity of enforcement action.

Hard To Be Neutral

The difficulty of remaining neutral in the undeclared war raging in China is becoming more apparent with each new day of atrocious bombing of civilian populations far behind the enemy lines. The excuse given and is made that the bombs dropped are intended for enemy supplies and military bases, but if such is the case the inaccuracy of an army that has been reputed to be beyond compare and is one not easily believed.

Of course, the truth of the matter is that the Japanese are seeking a military advantage by "softening up" the people at home. The manner adopted is of the most vicious type, a type which regards women and children as fair prey. An army that can't win its victories on the battlefield and must carry its fight into enemy homes is not worthy of the name and is certainly not worthy of justifying its claim of "restoring order in China."

Just how much order the Japanese army will restore and just how well it will care for the conquered Chinese may be guessed at what is happening already within the conquered lines. It is reliably reported that the Japs are doing little or nothing to care for the estimated 50,000,000 non-combatants made homeless by the Japanese invasion, and that the dread disease, cholera, is being allowed to spread havoc among the populace. In one refugee camp of 45,000 persons near Shanghai, mostly women and children, there is enough food on hand for less than three weeks, and epidemics are making veritable death houses out of wide areas.

Prior to the Japanese aggression in China, the Chinese under Chiang Kai-shek had conducted a relentless campaign against cholera which was so effective that not a single case was reported in three years. If for no other reason, the rest of the world cannot view with detached concern the spread of maladies, what with the grave possibility that they may be carried to the far corners. The speed of communications has heightened the ease with which diseases may spread and it is not altogether unlikely that plagues of serious consequence may result from conditions in China.

So, no matter if we don't have any humanitarian desire to take sides, we cannot help but be affected when we consider that our health may be endangered.

Blind Landings

When an airplane pilot cannot see his landing field because of fog or other atmospheric conditions, a serious situation arises, one some times resulting in a crash. "One of the major bugaboos of air transport" will be ended, says the New York Times, "if the promise of blind landing system is realized in further experimental flight. This week United Air Lines disclosed that after several years of experimentation, which has been conducted jointly with T. W. A., it would install the system which it has been trying at Burbank, Calif., Oakland, Denver, Cleveland and Newark, and perhaps Seattle, to give its line pilots extensive practice in its use—although not while carrying passengers until the system is fully proven."

"An experimental installation of the 'Air Track' system, like in principle but employing portable transmitting units, has been made at the Pittsburgh Airport and is being flown by the pilots of Pennsylvania-Central Airlines. American Airlines has conducted experiments at Indianapolis with the Lorenz system of somewhat similar operation, and both this company and Eastern Air Lines have been invited to participate in the plans under development at Burbank."

With the idea of blind landings in mind, designers of the new 20-ton Douglas airliners have incorporated the tricycle landing gear in the planes making it possible for a plane to land on an even keel and without the danger of ground loops as heretofore in the conventional type of gear. With the perfected landing devices in operation, a long step will have been taken in making the always a safer mode of transportation.

WATER BUCKET FIRE... Chicago burned down in 1871 when a tow kicked over a lamp, but a bucket of water set Seattle ablaze 18 years later in the worst fire of her history.

In the dark basement of a building on the corner of Front and Madison streets a painter was busy stirring a pot of glue boiling on a stove. It was the sixth of June and the heat was stifling.

The painter, John Back, pulled a handkerchief from his pocket, mopped his eyes a burst of smoke and flames shot ceilingward. The glue had boiled over onto the stove and caught fire.

Back grabbed a pail of water nearby and hurled its contents on the flaming glue. Instead of extinguishing the blaze, the water sent the flaming mass spluttering to the floor, where it ignited a pile of wood shavings.

In a moment the whole room, the whole building was ablaze. Back rushed into the street, shouting an alarm. Engine Company Number 1 responded, but something went wrong with the pressure pump. The blaze took on a serious aspect.

A rising wind whipped through the flames, now gigantic in proportion, sweeping from building to building across Seattle. The entire block was soon on fire; flames jumped across the streets, started new fires.

Mayor Robert Moran assumed command of the situation, as Fire Chief Josiah Collins was out of town. Realizing Seattle's fire-fighting facilities were inadequate, he wired Tacoma, Port Townsend and Portland for help. A special train was dispatched from Tacoma to bring equipment to the scene, making the trip in a record time of 58 minutes.

By nightfall, June 7, the town was practically leveled. No business building was spared; losses were estimated at $10,000,000 but, strange fire started by a bucket of water was reported lost in the strange fire started by a bucket of water.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

BY PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—If the government should say that after October there would be no more relief money for anybody, it would be somewhat comparable to what has been done for Harry Hopkins' northern outpost, the Matanuska test-tube pioneer project in Alaska.

The most dramatic of all relief projects has come to the jumping-off place, and families which during the last two years have received as much as $75 a month for clearing their farms will get nothing after their fall harvest is in.

Jack London and other writers have painted Alaska as a land of perpetual snow and snarling malamutes. Probably there was not a handful of people in all the United States who ever knew that they raise carrots, pigs and peas up there. Matanuska has at least demonstrated that Alaskan farming is a possibility.

It was two years ago that the relief administration took the country by surprise and rounded up about 200 families from stranded farming and lumbering communities in Michigan, Minnesota, Montana and other northern belt states to cart them off to Alaska.

Taking them off to Siberia was the accusation at times voiced by critics, but after a few sensational denials and complaints, news about the pioneer project petered out until the present order had finally putting them on their own.

For 'National Defense' Under the contract with the 200 families taken to Matanuska in 1935, each was to have 40 acres of land, farming equipment, houses and a grub stake to last until cash crops could be raised. They carried their grub stake by clearing 15 acres of their own land, for which the government paid them $25.00 an acre. An energetic grubber could clear off about two acres a month—that is, cut the trees and burn the brush. The government paid contractors to remove the stumps.

By the summer of 1936, each of the 2000 new grubbers had cleared a minimum of 15 acres.

How Much Does Government Cost?

By HARRY SCHERMAN In New York Herald Tribune

Mr. Roosevelt's speech at AF thought about the matter of your Thursday included an assertion, extraordinary in its thoughtlessness, which has not aroused the comment it deserves. He said: Taxes, local and State and Federal combined, are nowhere near as high in this country as they are in any other great nation that pretends to be up to date.

Any citizen hearing this categorical statement, on such authority, would take it to mean only one thing: that government costs Americans much less than it does other peoples. The truth is the precise opposite. Government now costs us more than it does any other nation. Few Americans, in end out of office, realize it.

The British are generally considered the most heavily taxed people in the world, and it is usually Great Britain that is referred to, when it is assumed the American taxpayer is so well off. What do the comparative figures show?

For the year ending March 31, 1938, national taxes collected in the United Kingdom were a round £176,000,000 for local taxes a close estimate based upon the latest published figures. Counting the pound at $4.25, and the population at 47,000,000, this comes to about $107 per person in the United Kingdom.

As to the United States, total State and Federal taxes collected for the fiscal year ending in 1938, look now as if they will be in the close neighborhood of $13,700,000,000, according to estimates of the National Industrial Conference Board and budget estimates. With our population at 128,000,000, this is also, very interestingly, $107 per person in the population!

Thus, we have finally managed to pull abreast of Great Britain in the amount of taxes collected per capita. But this is giving ourselves a colossal break. How about the taxes we defer by means of loans? Great Britain's national debt has increased only 1,343,000,000 since 1930, whereas our Federal debt has increased $21,000,000,000 in the same period!

The Real Cost of Government In short, it is an absurd and egregious error to count mere taxes collected a measure of the cost of government, if not enough are collected to pay the current costs, and when the balance is obtained by borrowings which can only be met in one way—by the collection of increased taxes later!

When a government adopts a deliberate policy of deficit-financing (as ours has done upon the advice of an Englishman, Mr. Keynes, whose ideas the British themselves have ignored) taxes collected are not merely misleading—they are simply no measure at all of what government is costing the people affected. The only true measure of what government costs any people is the money the government actually spends in carrying on its chosen activities.

From this necessary criterion, what does government cost in the United States, as compared with other nations? We Lead the World Some authoritative light on this subject can be found in a study made by The Twentieth Century Fund, the results of which were published in 1937, under the title of The National Debt and Government Credit. In one of its chapters it compared the government expenditures of Great Britain, France and the United States. Both central and local government expenses were included.

The result was as follows for 1936, the latest year for which authoritative figures from the governments were then available: United States: 153 per person; France: 105 per person; Great Britain: 85 per person. This, then, is the true picture of the situation: as to actual wealth currently taken from us in taxes, we march in advance of all nations alongside Great Britain; and as to the more essential matter, the real cost of government, we outstrip all other nations.

Does the President Know? In view of the categorical nature of the President's statement at Arthurville, it is a fair question to speculate upon by its reference to the present estimate of the cost of government in the United States, as compared with other nations, or to be simply content in the face of it?

In any case, one certainly is inescapably of the opinion that it is likely to be believed in the nation, it is clear that the President's part in giving further credence to this statement, which is a gross misstatement of the facts, is to be regretted.

Sanford Theater News for the Coming Week

ON WITH THE DANCE!—Jack Crosby directed the dance sequences of the new Bing Crosby-Beatrice Lillie-Mary Carlisle musical comedy, "Doctor Rhythm," which will have its first local showing tomorrow at the Ritz Theatre. The spygy character performs in a scene in which Miss Lillie does a spygy dance in the world-famous Lillie manner. Andy Devine and Rufa Davis are also cast.

MARRIES MINUS RING

Robert Livingston, who stars with Ray Corrigan and Max Terhune in "Wild Horse Rodeo" playing Saturday at the Ritz Theatre, is Hollywood's most nonchalant man. The story is told of him that he dropped the wedding ring at his own marriage ceremony and induced the minister to complete the ceremony without benefit of the missing ring, which was never recovered.

Bob is particularly nonchalant in the hair-raising scenes which make his pictures popular. In the current production he rides a wild horse which had never been ridden before on, or off, screen.

LOOKING OUT—Donald Woods in the picture "Prison Farm" is railroaded to a horrible fate by others who deserve to suffer.

There are 35 known species of the birch.

PUNCHING PROGRESS

Dick Baldwin, who seems destined to be punching his way out of predicaments in the movies, gets plenty of excitement on the screen of the Ritz Theatre Tuesday and Wednesday in "One Wild Night," 20th Century-Fox mystery drama. Baldwin, who appeared recently in another film as a boxer, spends several hours a week in the gym with such pugilists as Fiedl LaBarba and Maxie Rosenbloom. In his college days at St. Louis, Dick fought 50 bouts with some of the best undergraduate leather pushers in the country at 160 pounds.

Bing Proves That Son Never Sets On Empire Of Britons

Your prescription to banish the blues and make yourself feel twenty years younger is furnished by "Doc or Rhythm," the Paramount picture which opens tomorrow at the Ritz Theatre starring Bing Crosby and Beatrice Lillie in a new musical comedy partnership that should make screen history.

Crosby conditioned as only Bing knows how to make it, and gauzily by London's inimitable Bea, who proves once again that fun never sets on the British Empire, "Doctor Rhythm" is the screen version of one of O. Henry's most popular tales, directed by Hollywood's master of frivolous screen musicals, Frank Tuttle, who was responsible for "Walkie Wedding" and "College Holiday." For this festive production he selected an all-star cast, including Mary Carlisle, Laura Hope Crews, Andy Devine, Frank Elyton, Bill Anstine and Louis Armstrong and his band.

Bing's assignment is second only to that of the audience as he plays the Park Avenue physician who turns policeman for a day as a favor to the "Bovine Andy," who has been put hors de combat by a trained seal with whom he wrestled in the Central Park Zoo. Bing's first assignment, to act as personal bodyguard to the madcap Miss Lillie, convinces him that a policeman's lot is not a happy one, but when she turns him over to her nurse, Mary Carlisle, he finds that love and duty mix perfectly.

Romance travel a rough road, for Bing must not only lead Miss Carlisle away from her infatuation with a gangster, Fred Keating, but also must protect her from his gang when the disappointed actor tries to carry her off on his yacht.

Even the animals do their part to contribute to the gaiety of "Doc or Rhythm." In the opening scene at the Central Park Zoo, giraffes, zebras, seals, monkeys and the rest all enter joyously into the spirit of the occasion. Miss Lillie is again the acrobatic who rules supreme over the English and American stage.

Dying First Time Hard, King Finds

The first time John King died, he found it very difficult, but he hopes to do better on his next attempt.

This handsome Universal youngster dies for the first time in his screen career in Universal's "The Crime Of Dr. Hader," coming to the Ritz Theatre. Since he had no previous experience in perishing on the stage or in film, he took all day to do it right. Director S. Sylvan Simon shot the scene 15 times before he was satisfied. Since dying is one of the hardest tricks of cinema technique, even to experts.

Young Screen Star Turns "Roughneck"

Edith Fellows, aided and abetted by Leo Carrillo, Scott Colton, Jacqueline Wells and Thurston Hall, is the wild-eyed mistress of ceremonies of Columbia's new comedy musical, "Little Miss Roughneck," which opens Tuesday at the Ritz Theatre.

Little Edith, recently featured in "She Married Her Boss," "Pennies From Heaven" and "Life Begins With Love," plays her first top featured role in the picture, singing on the screen for the first time in her career.

The story, directed by Aubrey Scott from a screen play by Fred Niblin, Jr., Grace Neville and Michael L. Sammons, marks the fulfilled Hollywood odyssey of a screen-attacked child actress in charge of her fluttery, laughable mother. Somewhere en route the little star-to-be decides to kidnap herself for the publicity involved and managed to accomplish a goal, real more than that.

Miss Fellows, portraying the child actress, sings several popular numbers. These include "As Long As I Love," by Ben Oakland and Milton Drake; "La Golondrina," a Mexican folk song, "The Wren" by Benedict and "Cara Nome," from Verdi's "Rigoletto."

Money Not Life's Purpose Is Theme Of New Romance

The idea that money and the accumulation of money are not the main purposes of life is brilliantly expressed in a delightful comedy romance coming next Thursday and Friday to the Ritz Theatre, "Holiday," the Columbia production of the Philip Barry Broadway stage hit is a blessed change from the bright and scintillant whimsies of modern times. With Katharine Hepburn and Cary Grant costarring, the Ritz Theatre attraction vibrates with life. The film is packed with humor, with human humor instead of zany antics. Its situations are the normal ones of reality, and not the insane possibilities of the recent crop of rickety comedies.

"Holiday" presents a rebellious socialite who knows a real man when she sees one, and a young man who insists upon doing his own groping in life's gathering, rather than marry a million-dollar baby. The problems of "Holiday" are very real to the film's characters, but they are revealed with typical George S. Zukor deftness, with humor and honesty, in a grandeur of setting which emphasizes the dilemmas of the two rebels.

Miss Hepburn, who with easy grace slips into the skin of any character entrusted to her, gives Linda Nelson brilliant reality as a caste-shackled girl who never permits herself heroics but in whose ultimate triumph anyone can feel joy. It is her greatest performance to date.

Cary Grant is cast as the young man who plans to earn enough money to retire while he is still young, so that he can take a "Holiday" long enough to think things over. Mr. Grant's performance matches Miss Hepburn's for sincerity and brilliance.

In the whittling of circumstance about the principal young characters of "Holiday" are other interesting persons, and their characterizations enrich the flavor of gay drama in high places.

Congress To Close Shop By Next Week

Will Adjourn Wednesday Without Enacting Legislation To Benefit Railroads

Compromise On Measure Is Victory For Southern Segment

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—Senate Leader Barkley (D-Ky.) told reporters after a conference with President Roosevelt today that Congress would adjourn Wednesday without enacting "any new" railroad legislation.

The Democratic leader specifically that a bill to stabilize reconstruction bonds on railroads was not on the program to be completed before Congress adjourns.

The measure was once reported to the Senate by the banking committee but was sent back to the committee when the railroad proposed a 15 percent wage cut.

Abandonment of the railroad legislation left only the wage-hour bill as the key to adjournment.

Senate and House conferees yesterday ended a long deadlock over the controversial wage-hour bill by agreeing to a flexible measure designed to establish a 40-hour maximum work week and a 40-cent-a-hour minimum wage in industry within seven years.

The compromise, which will be reported in both houses Tuesday for final enactment, was a significant victory for rebellious Southern Democrats who had threatened to filibuster if their industries did not receive preferential treatment.

It also was a triumph for President Roosevelt and John L. Lewis of the CIO. Mr. Roosevelt made the bill the keystone of his social reform program. He has been demanding passage for two years. Lewis wanted it as an opening wedge in future anti-labor labor legislation. President Hoover of the AFL opposes most of the provisions.

The new measure specifically exempts executives, professional men, local retail establishments, salesmen, servicing trades in industry.

KIDNAPER CONSIDERED HIM

Federal agents said at Miami, Fla., that Franklin Pierce McCall, confessed kidnaper of 5-year-old James Bailey Cash Jr., also considered Charles Chambers, Jr., and an older school boy before finally snatching the Cash child. Little Charles here is shown with his mother at Princeton, Fla.

Grand Jury Is Empaneled To Hear Evidence

Witnesses In Kidnap Case Will Testify Against McCall In Afternoon Session

MIAMI, June 12 (AP)—A special grand jury was empaneled today to hear federal agents and other witnesses present evidence against Franklin Pierce McCall in connection with the kidnaping of James Bailey Cash Jr.

After viewing an automobile dealer, Arthur J. Lingard, for whom the boy received until 2:00 P. M. to give the state attorney an opportunity to marshal witnesses.

Circuit Judge H. F. Atkinson, in his charge, made no specific reference to the kidnaping, telling the jurors they were to consider such minor felonies as have been committed, and "which may be brought to your attention by the State Attorney."

An uncle of McCall, whose name was not learned, arrived from Jasper, Fla., to visit him. He was the first visitor the 21-year-old truck driver has had since he was jailed last week after allegedly confessing the single-handed abduction of "Skeg" Cash whose body was found early Thursday.

Meanwhile the sandy-haired, husky youth maintained a sullen silence in his bare cell high in Dade county's 39th floor jail.

He refused to speak to news personnel or pose for photographs, saying "There has been enough publicity the sooner this is forgotten the better."

McCall, son of a Nashvilles minister, has spent most of the time since Friday, when he was transferred to the county jail from headquarters of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, reading a Bible and magazine which were supplied to him by Sheriff D. C. Coleman.

The first legal step in the plan to send McCall to the electric chair for the seventh major child abduction since 1932 was made yesterday at Homestead, 25 miles south of Princeton, where the 10-year-old Cash boy was stolen from his crib the night of May 28.

A six-man coroner's jury decided after a brief hearing at which James H. Cash Sr., the victim's father, testified, that "James Bailey Cash Jr. came to his death at the hands of Franklin Pierce McCall."

McCall, in a nine-page confession to head G. Man J. Edgar Hoover, admitted that he was solely responsible for the crime. He admitted kidnaping the boy, but he had not intended killing him.

A 24-hour duty outside McCall's cell to prevent any attempt at suicide. The prisoner's shoelaces, belt and tie have been taken away.

The lowest paid type of work in China is the garbage collector in most cities of the country, his monthly wage seldom amounts to more than (U. S.) $1.

Joe Hendricks To Attend St. Johns Association Meet

Group Slated To Consider Developments In Regard To Canal

Congressman Joe Hendricks has accepted an invitation to attend the annual meeting of the St. Johns River Improvement Association to be held in the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce building tomorrow afternoon at 2:00 o'clock and although pressing engagements at the Capital may make it necessary for him to fly to Washington before the proposed adjournment Wednesday, local Chamber of Commerce officials expect his attendance at the meeting.

The primary purpose of the meeting will be to consider important developments in the proposed St. Johns Indian River canal, according to a statement secretary of the association, Ralph Bagwell.

George W. Gibbs of Jacksonville, president, will preside over the meeting during which officers will be elected for the coming year.

Officials of chambers of commerce, association members and others from leading cities and counties in the St. Johns River Valley are expected to gather for the meeting tomorrow afternoon.

Registering the proposed canal, Mr. Bagwell asserted that there is no objection in the St. Johns River Valley which should be more interested in securing this project than Seminole County.

He urged all local members of the association to attend the meeting.

Post Officials Urge All Foreign War Vets To Attend Free Supper Tonight

Officials of the recently organized local post of Veterans of Foreign Wars today extended an invitation to all eligible veterans to attend the free supper and business meeting, the first since the post was organized, which will be held in the American Legion Hut tonight. Officials of out-of-town veterans have been invited as guests.

The veterans of Foreign Wars was founded Sept. 23, 1899, at Columbus, Ohio by a group of 13 Spanish-American War veterans whose desire was to perpetuate the comradeship and patriotic ideals of their overseas service. This was the nucleus from which has sprung the organization of today which ranks high among the five major organizations of veterans which are chartered by the Congress of the United States.

The organization at present is comprised of more than 3700 units in cities and towns in every state as well as the Philippines, Alaska, Cuba, France, the Canal Zone and elsewhere. Membership in this organization is not confined to veterans of any one war but includes veterans of any combat fought on other than United States soil.

The organization is continually fighting for the benefit of its members and their families, officials stated, and every worthy while cause receives its fullest support. Among major legislative goals of the parents of overseas veterans, "jobs or pensions" for all veterans, promotion and protection of Americanism and "Keeping America out of war" by means of strict neutrality policies, government control of munitions, an adequate national defense and the "de-profiting of war through graduated tax schedules."
