Woman Sociologist Discovers Various Cultures Enrich U. S.

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK — (AP) — It is the theory of the American melting pot that children of different nationalities, when they grow up together, will become a new, unified people. But Dr. Rachel Davis-Dubois, a south Jersey Quaker who has pioneered in developing techniques for intercultural relations, believes it is not so simple.

"The melting pot theory, as it was interpreted years ago," she said, "meant that people coming here would cut themselves off from their cultural pasts."

"There was a pressure to think alike, do alike and be alike. That would make our American culture this indeed."

And what troubled Mrs. Dubois most was that children of minority groups grow up secretly or openly ashamed of the ways and customs of their parents. This created tension at home and at school.

The answer? Mrs. Dubois felt it lay in creating a feeling of pride in the child for his cultural background, and a feeling of respect for the differing cultures of others.

She got an opportunity to test her beliefs in sections several years ago at P. S. 165, a public school in upper West Manhattan attended by children of different nationalities. It was a tension area, and the melting pot wasn't melting very well. After two children were killed near the school, the board of directors, Teachers' Association asked Dr. Dubois for help.

"I thought if I could get the children to understand each other's background, the tension would be reduced," she said. "But how to do it? Franchising tolerance to children doesn't work any better than preaching it to grownups. Dr. Dubois' solution was 'the paranda.'"

The paranda in Puerto Rico, she explained, "is a kind of progressive party in which people go from one house to another."

She worked out a program under which a dozen or more children of varying nationalities were released from school once a week from noon until 3 o'clock. During this time they had lunch at the home of one parent and went on to desert at another. The first home might be Finnish or Irish or Jewish.

"In each home," she said, "the children sample the food, sing songs, engage in games and dances and learn about the customs of their host."

The teacher goes along, but just as another participant. The kids think of it as a real party. No sermons against prejudice.

LIKE FATHER, ALMOST LIKE PORT WASHINGTON, L. I.
(AP) — The names of Stewart Ray and Harold William Ray both grace the track and field record book at Rutgers University. Each of the Rays, who lives here, is the current holder of school track record, even though Harold is Stewart's father.

In June 1921, Harold ran a quarter mile in 49.5 seconds for a college mark which still stands. Son Stewart set the Port Washington high school quarter-mile record of 52 seconds and then went to Rutgers to try to top his father's mark. But he pulled a muscle hurdling and was unable to compete in the 440.

Stewart moved up to the half-mile, and recently established a new Rutgers record of 1:56.1 in that event, bettering a standard set in 1941.

Now both father and son are listed as current holders of Rutgers records.

50th Anniversary Rural Common Sense

By SPUDS JOHNSON
 Old Bessy seems blithely on her way to setting a new all-time high milk production record for the United States during June, Florida counties, along with their sisters throughout the country, are making high milk production records indicative of the tremendous progress that has been made in dairy production and dairy cattle.

Where a cow that would give two gallons of milk a day used to be considered pretty good, she must be a four-gallon cow to get a good rating now. And with artificial insemination associations egg-pounding their coverage in Florida, more and more cows are being bred to proved bulls that are known to transmit high producing ability to their daughters.

Walter Welkner, one of Florida's leading dairymen, recently exhibited a cow family with five generations, each one a little better than the other. Old Blacky had transmitted some producing ability to her daughters. Mr. Welkner, for years has followed the practice of proving his young bulls before he puts them into general service. He breeds a young bull to a group of females and then puts the bull on "seed storage" until his calves have come into production. If his heifer calves produce enough milk to make him valuable, the bull is then put back into service. If not, he is butchered.

This is an expensive method of raising calves, but Walter Welkner has found it to be worthwhile. It has helped him to build one of the "Welkner" nurseries herds in the South. Of course, with artificial insemination associations serving a herd, it is possible to build semen only from proved bulls of high record.

Florida dairymen are watching with keen interest the U. S. Department of Agriculture's project in which it is raising Red Sindhi, a milk-producing cow with Jersey blood. The first few heifer calves of that race are already in Florida and are proving to be exceptionally high producers. The Department people believe that if they can get the heifer's ability to sweat and stand up under adverse conditions, she are found in Florida combined with the Jersey's ability to produce milk, they will have a valuable animal for the South. And they seem to be well on the way.

Dairy herd improvement associations are keeping record for only men and sending them to cut poor cows and feed good ones, which showed no signs of a stray gic.

Sciatica
 By H. K. Rlug, D. C.
 Sciatica is mainly an abnormal condition of the great sciatic nerve which passes to and supplies the tissues of the thigh and leg. The pain may come from an inflammation of the sciatic nerve or its sheath or may come from pressure upon sensory nerve fibers which have their peripheral ending in the sciatic nerve.

The Chiropractor is trained to locate the vertebra which is in an abnormal position and to adjust the vertebra, thus causing the abnormality of in the proper manner to restore it to its normal position.

When suffering from sciatica the logical solution is to visit your Chiropractor. Following the release of interference to nerve transmission, health is on the ascent.

Heroes Are Abundant In Life If You Just Search For Them

NEW YORK. — (AP) — The other day a friend said to me: "There are no more heroes."

He seemed sad about it. Thinking it over later, I decided he was wrong. He just had run out of personal heroes himself, and hadn't yet found a new one.

But I am sure he will. For heroes are as necessary to the development of the mind as food is to the growth of the body. Nations need them as much as individuals. And the quality of the nation is shown by the type of men it picks to hero worship.

Every man's memory holds a catalog of personal heroes, some of which rather lose their luster as he grows from childhood into youth, maturity and old age. But this is all right, because you need different types of heroes at different ages, and there is nothing wrong in changing them to suit your own needs.

My first hero was a dog. He was named Dewey, after the famous admiral of the Spanish American War, and it rather went to his head. Dewey was a bull-dog, and he had an idea that every day he had to fight the battle of Manila Bay all over again, sinking all the neighborly dogs he could find. But he had that one quality all heroes must have: courage.

During World War II my idea of heroism changed a great deal. I heroes didn't have to stand alone upon a peak in history. Heroes, as the infantry proved, could be anonymous and multitudinous.

And I think I grew up a great deal when I realized that the main work of the world is done by quiet and earnest heroes.

Seven of these associations are operating in Florida.

And so, during June, which is National Dairy Month, it is well to salute the dairy industry for the progress made during recent years and to hope for even more advancement in the years ahead.

U. S. Agriculture Department scientists are experimenting with infusing hatching eggs as a means of controlling Newcastle disease in chicks.

Why Is A Good Used Car So Hard to Find?

The answer is simple. A good used car is hard to find because it sells so fast.

We know. We've been in this business for years—and one thing we've noticed lately is this: The fastest-selling used car on our lot is now the 1949 Mercury. At times we can't get enough of them to keep up with the demand. Stands to reason, doesn't it, that the 1949 Mercury must be a pretty good car to own?

Stop in and see our stock today. All makes and models. Low prices, liberal terms.

Hollywood

By JIM BACON

HOLLYWOOD, (AP) Three months ago the movies wanted Alan Young in only one role—but of the paying fan.

"I couldn't even get arrested in a studio then," he said.

Today almost every studio in town has bid for him. And with the splash of a beauty contest judge he has just chosen Universal International. That studio not only wants to star him in a movie but also wants him—and his two writers—to create the story. That offer came in a town where the top stars shout "Hollywood" if they win the right to express an opinion on their stories.

Why the sudden change of the Hollywood heart?

On Mar. 14 "The Alan Young Show" was first seen on the more than a half-million television screens here. Some of those screens are movie palaces' homes.

On Mar. 14, Hollywood "discovered" Alan Young.

The discovery, of course, was the same Alan Young who had started on his own radio net's work comedy show both here and in Canada.

It was the same Alan Young who was under contract at 20th Century Fox studio for three to six years until they dropped him.

It was Alan's old studio that made the first of the current pitches. The other companies started phoning too. Alan went around.

A timid sort of fellow at like most comics, serious off-stage, Alan always asked cops at studio gates if the producers had left a pass for him. He always got the same answer: "Go right in, Alan. You don't need a pass here."

"That made me wonder about this television," observed young Alan (he's only 29). "I worked three years at Fox, and I had to show my pass every time I went in the gate."

There's no doubt about it. Alan has found his medium in video. In the dozen weekly shows since his TV debut he has come up with a parade of hilarious sketches.

The television Alan Young is a comedian the radio and movie Alan Young didn't know existed. His natural gift for pantomime lost in radio seemed in studio audiences, is magnificently evident for mimicry and situation comedy. His suggestive of Charlie Chaplin and Harold Lloyd, although his style is strictly his own. And he is one of the new stars who actively helps write his own stuff. He couldn't do that in movies—until now.

Sooner Dreams Of Using Water For Heating US Homes

STILLWATER, Okla.—Hot and cold running water for every home! That was the dream 50 years ago.

It's the dream today of Robert E. Irwin, but he wants to use it for heating and cooling homes.

Irwin, assistant professor in mechanical engineering at Oklahoma A&M college, is working on a variation of radiant heating that he hopes will be inexpensive enough for every home owner to install.

In his workshop at the college, Irwin has developed a "hot box" which has scientific instruments and controlled ventilation.

The biggest drawback to air conditioning, or cooling a home now, is the cost," Irwin explained.

"Refrigeration units are expensive for the average home-owner. Evaporative cooling systems are inexpensive but they are limited because while reducing the temperature, they also raise the humidity."

Irwin has found in experiments with his "hot box" that from 80 to 95 per cent of the heat flowing into a house comes through walls and windows. The remaining 5 per cent is supplied by body heat, electric lights and pilot lights.

The solution Irwin is working on is to circulate cool water between the inside and outside walls of a house and between ceiling and roof. The idea is not new in itself, but he is attempting to develop means to make it inexpensive enough for everyone to use.

Meanwhile, in London, the Labor government, still riding out attacks on its finance program has agreed to a new test of strength June 26 in debate on the French government's plan to pool Europe's coal and steel.

Despite Prime Minister Herbert Morrison announced the debate in the House of Commons. It will take place six days after six nations—Britain, government has held aloof—begin to work out pool details in Paris.

The labor government has shied away from debating the plan and Britain's nonparticipation. If the government is defeated on any challenge facing it, Prime Minister Clement Attlee is expected to ask the king to dissolve the parliament and order a new election.

Attlee told Commons the cabinet believes it would hinder things to propose a rival program before voting on the plan which renounced the Schuman Plan.

The Conservatives and European socialists have criticized Britain's holding back.

Conservative attacks failed to shake labor margins of 10 to 12 votes in the House last night. Laborites beat down an attempt to lower taxes on earned income and won compromise dispute over heavy sales taxes on commercial vehicles. The government has won 11 test votes on finance policy.

White House View Will Be Engraved On New US Stamp

AP Newsfeatures

The South View of the White House will form the central design of a new U. S. commemorative stamp. This one is the 3-cent Executive Stamp. It is the second in the National Sesquicentennial series and will be placed on first day sale at Washington, D. C. on June 12. The top border of this stamp bears the inscription "1800-WASHINGTON-1950." The color will be green.

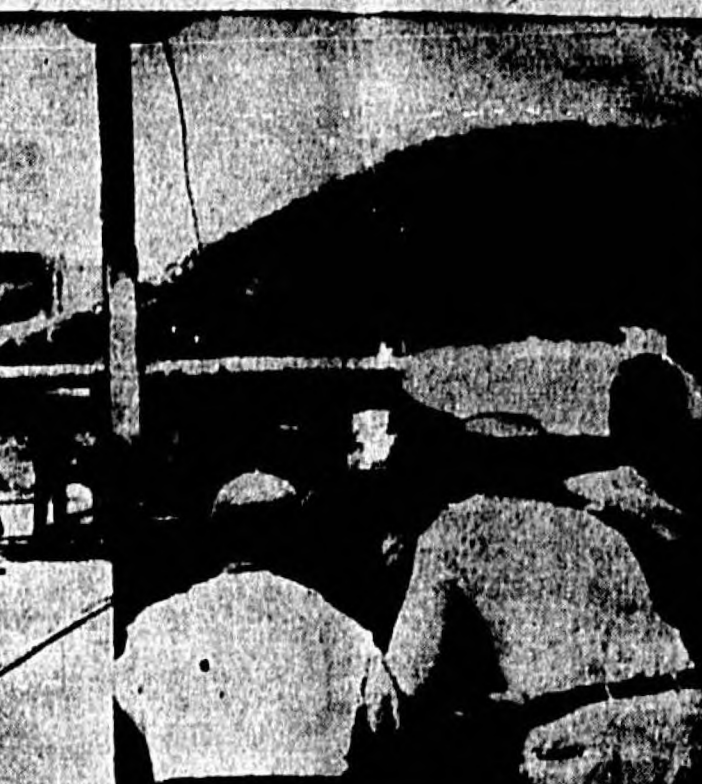

The stamp will be released to coincide with Post Office Department Day. On June 11, 1800 the Post Office Department moved to Washington. It was the first Federal Department to be established in the capital city.

Stamp collectors desiring first-day cancellations may send not more than ten addressed envelopes to the Postmaster at Washington, D. C. with postal note or money order to cover the cost of stamps to be affixed.

Meanwhile in Pasadena, Calif., the FBI announced the arrest of Dr. Sidney Weinbaum, 53, California Institute of Technology scientist formerly with its propulsion laboratory.

Richard B. Hood, head of the Los Angeles FBI office, said Weinbaum is charged with perjury and fraud against the government.

In a complaint filed with U. S. Commissioner Howard V. Calverly, the government alleges that: "On or about Sept. 23, 1949, at Los Angeles, Sidney Weinbaum under oath before the industrial employment review board willfully and fraudulently testified that he had never been a member of the Communist Party, when in fact he held membership in the Communist Party Professional Unit No. 123, under the party name of Sydney Empson."

At 1717 S. Inglewood street in Los Angeles, Weinbaum also charged that about April 3, 1949, Weinbaum, "in his personal security questionnaire which he signed in connection with his employment with the Jet-propulsion laboratory at Caltech willfully omitted a statement that he had been a member of the Communist Party."

Weinbaum's employment with the jet propulsion laboratory was terminated last July. The FBI said. Since then he has been a research fellow in Caltech's chemistry department.

TO HONOR the 50th anniversary of their Bureau of Forestry the Philippines has issued two new stamps.

The 2-centavo green and 4-centavo violet show a red lantern tree in a Philippine forest. It is interesting to note that this tree provides 75 per cent of all the timber out in Philippine forests.

IN MANY SOVIET satellite countries postage stamps were issued during May Day. Although this day is celebrated today with parades, clashes and riots in countries all over the world, it began as a peaceful and festive occasion.

The Romans celebrated it in honor of Flora, the goddess of flowers. In medieval England, May Day was celebrated by the youngsters as a "blossom" or may day. Even in this country May Day was recognized as joyous one. Children danced around the May Poles and sang songs.

Toward the end of the 19th century the various labor organizations in Europe adopted May Day for annual demonstrations. More recently, and especially since the Cold War, May Day has been observed by Communist organizations and sympathizers to publicize their aims and objectives.

How SMOOTH can a ride be?

That's a question well worth answering before you settle on your next automobile.

For what fun is there—what thrill—in a car that is prisoner to the city streets, slowed down by roads a Buick is built to take in stride?

So we'd like to show you just how much smoothness your money can buy. How levelly you float over cobbles and car tracks—over rutty gravel and wavy black-top—in this stunning traveler.

The car will be any Buick you prefer—SPECIAL, SUPER or ROADMASTER. You can name the place—pick a spot or a stretch you know so that you can measure Buick's smoothness against your own experience—and we'll promise you a new sensation in riding comfort.

The time can be any time you want to arrange with your Buick dealer—who is ready to show with actual figures that "if you can afford a new car you can afford a Buick."
