Kidney Dunk Battle Continues

Thirty-eight Seminole High School cheerleaders raised $358 for the Central Florida chapter of the National Kidney Foundation during the first weekend of the annual Kidney Karnival. The battle continues Saturday and Sunday and June 1, 2 at Flea World on U.S. Highway 17-92 in Sanford with the cheerleaders from Lake Brantley High attempting this weekend to top the amount of money SHS has. Big Red, disc jockey from K92 radio station, will help Lake Brantley by serving as a dunker from noon to 1 p.m. on Sunday. The Lyman High cheerleaders will continue the watery battle the last weekend of the karnival.

Man Charged In Lewd Assault

A 31 year-old Michigan ironworker was being held today in lieu of $8,000 bond charged with committing a lewd and lascivious act upon a 10-year-old Forest City girl. The girl told Seminole County sheriff's deputies the man assaulted her earlier this month by putting her on top of his body where she lay on his chest while he fondled her. She also said the man had touched her in a similar way previously in Seminole County, in Michigan and in Orlando. Sheriff's investigator Terry Hufman reported. According to the girl, both she and the man were partially clothed when the fondlings occurred, except on one occasion when he pushed her panties aside, Hufman said. Gary Edwin Ferguson, 31, of West Branch, Mich., was arrested following questioning at the Seminole County Sheriff's Department at 4:15 p.m. Thursday.

BLUGGED INTO JAIL

Two flatfighters nabbed by a Florida Highway Patrol trooper and charged with affray have been released on $100 bond each. The pair were slugging it out when the trooper broke up the fight on Fernwood Boulevard, south of state Road 436, Casselberry, on Wednesday, an arrest report said. David Ian Rice, 19, and Craig Bryan Woods, 26, both of 120 Etowah Circle, Casselberry, were jailed at 11:29 p.m. The reason for the fight was not reported. Both are scheduled to appear in court May 31.

BURGLARIES & THEFTS

Seminole County sheriff's deputies have the name of a suspect who may have taken $200 from a cash box in a desk at Duda and Sons, Inc., state Road 426, Oviedo, around 5:15 p.m. Tuesday. Darrell Duda told deputies a secretary realized she had left her office without securing the cash box. She returned within 15 minutes, saw another employee at her desk, checked the cash box and found the money missing, a sheriff's report said. No arrest has been made.

Paul D. Mignano, 20, of 626 Caliente Way, Altamonte Springs, reported to deputies a 1977 Honda motorcycle worth $200 was stolen from his home on Monday.

Two hundred keys worth $300 were stolen from the leasing office of an apartment complex at 3000 Fox Hill Circle, Apopka, on Monday or Tuesday. The thief pried open a rear window to enter, according to a report filed by manager David Odegard.

A $300 antique chair and a television were among the items stolen from the home of Arline Hutchison of 130 Jewell Drive, Forest City, between May 16 and Tuesday, a sheriff's report said.

A thief took a $90 chainsaw and a $400 paint sprayer from the garage of Robert W. Morgan, 39, of 270 Clemone Drive, Rolling Hills, near Longwood, between May 1 and Tuesday, deputies reported.

A $500 sports coat has been missing since May 27, when owner Joseph K. Clemons, Jr., 66, of 804 Sweetwater Club, Longwood, dined at Freddie's Steak House, 6000 U.S. Highway 17-92, Fern Park. A sheriff's report said the jacket was either lost or stolen at the restaurant.

Two antique muzzle loaders worth $1,000 each were stolen along with a $100 gold ring and a $150, .22 caliber revolver from the home of Gary Daniel LaTour, 24, of 154 5th St., Chuluota, between Monday and Wednesday.

Jeffrey Ray Fore, 23, of 1003 Tropical Ave., Chuluota, reported to deputies a $550 rifle was stolen from his home between May 16 and Wednesday.

FIGHTER NABBED

A Seminole County sheriff's deputy who spotted a man beating another and chasing him charged the alleged brawler with battery.

The arrest was made on Dike Road south of Tuskawilla Road in southeast Seminole County at 2:53 p.m. Wednesday. The deputy reported seeing the suspect hit Carl Meadows twice in the head. Meadows ran around a car to escape and ran into the roadway as the deputy pulled up, a sheriff's report said.

The suspect started to walk away, but stopped when the deputy called to him, the report said.

Meadows said he had a lump on his head and the deputy noted he had a cut under his eye, the report said.

David William Gretzinger, 18, of 1619 Clematis Lane, Winter Park, has been charged in the case. He has been released on $500 bond and is scheduled to appear in court June 5.

Cost Of Telephone Service Going Up

Local, Long Distance Directory Assistance And Pay Phones

Southern Bell will implement three new pricing plans on July 1.

Customers will be allowed three free calls per month for local directory assistance. For each call to 4-1-1 after the initial three, customers will be charged 25 cents. The charge had been 15 cents per call over six calls monthly. For each 4-1-1 call, customers will still be able to obtain two listings. The rate of 15 cents set in 1978 never really covered the cost of a local directory assistance call, "said Larry Strickler, Southern Bell spokesman. "All Florida telephone companies are implementing this new local directory assistance charging plan. "We also will begin charging for each call for long distance directory assistance within Florida," Strickler said.

A.T.&T. already charges 50 cents for each call to long distance directory assistance outside of Florida. All telephone companies in Florida will charge 25 cents per call for in-state long distance directory assistance. "If you call 1-(305) 813 or (904) 555-1212, you will be charged 25 cents for each call under the new pricing plan. We simply can no longer provide "free" long distance directory assistance," Strickler said.

"There's no subsidy to help pay for these services any longer. Eighty-five percent of the calls to directory assistance are made by 15 percent of our customers. Those customers who generate the calls should pay for them." Southern Bell also will increase the coin telephone charge from 10 cents to 25 cents for four specified locations (low-income housing, public schools, nursing homes and non-profit hospitals). This change is a move to a uniform statewide charge of 25 cents for local coin calls, Strickler said.

"These changes are in the best interest of most Southern Bell customers since the new rates affect only those who call directory assistance or use public phones in certain locations. Use of these services is optional. The directory assistance rates should encourage customers to use their telephone directory more often and to note new listings obtained from directory assistance," he said.

"These changes will increase our revenues to help offset the loss of $26 million from the expiration of the surcharge billed to A.T.&T. during 1984. In fact, less than 50 percent of the $26 million reduction is being made up in these rate changes. We still face three serious problems in Florida - rate restructuring, increased depreciation and inadequate earnings. These problems need to be addressed during 1985," Strickler said.

Improper Soil May Cause Plants To Perform Poorly

Do you have any plants that grow poorly for no apparent reason? Sometimes a healthy plant can be set in what seems to be a good soil, gets plenty of sunlight and water and still looks sickly and performs poorly. If you have areas around your home where plants react this way, you may want to check for a soil problem. Especially the wrong soil reaction or pH for the plants you are attempting to grow.

So what is pH? Well, the pH level is nothing more than a chemist's shorthand for describing the amount of hydrogen in the soil. The capital letter "H" is the chemical symbol for hydrogen and pH is a figure describing the concentration of hydrogen in the soil. This determines the acidity of the soil.

To make things simple, a numerical scale is used to express soil pH. The scale goes from 0.0 to 14.0. The midpoint, pH 7.0, is the value for pure water — neutral — neither acid nor alkaline.

Figures below 7.0 on the scale indicate acid soils. The lower the number, the more acid the soil. Each whole number drop in pH denotes ten times the acidity. For example, a soil having a pH of 5.0 is ten times more acid than one having a pH of 6.0. Numbers above 7.0 indicate an alkaline soil. Again the higher the number, the more alkaline the soil.

Two good examples of acid and alkaline liquids are orange juice and sea water. Orange juice has a pH of about 3.7, which is very acid. Sea water has a pH of 7.9, which is slightly alkaline.

Why is soil pH so important? Soil pH influences several soil properties which directly affect the growth of plants. Among these properties are soil bacteria, nutrient leaching and availability, and elements toxic to plants.

Most plants we grow have a range of tolerance to pH. Nutrients needed by plants are available, for the most part, in the pH range of 5.5 to 6.5. This being on the "slightly acid" side. This is a good range for soil bacteria, too. And, most important, this is the best range for most plants in our gardens.

I say "most plants" as there are certain ones that thrive best on acid or alkaline soils having pH values out of the usual "best" range. For example, azaleas, bougainvillea, croton, dogwood, gardenia, hibiscus, holly, and magnolia grow best in acid soils having a pH value below 5.5. These plants grow poorly and many have yellow leaves if you attempt to grow them in areas where soils have a higher pH value or in alkaline soils. In contrast, cabbage palms, yucca, sea grape and many other plants grow quite well on alkaline soils.

A pH determination will tell whether your soil is within a range that produces good plant growth, but it certainly is not an indication of fertility. If the pH is not optimum, it can be raised or lowered using materials readily available to all home gardeners. But, remember, it is a lot easier to raise the pH of a soil than it is to lower it.

If excess alkalinity exists near your home, the only solution is to remove the soil and replace it with a more suitable material. If the soil pH is too high because of liming, several acid-forming materials can be used to reduce the soil pH.

Super-fine dusting or wettable sulfur can be used to acidify a soil, but it should not be applied unless a soil pH test indicates the need. The sulfur must be washed into the soil immediately after application or it will severely burn grass or shallow-rooted plants. Even with the most care, some burn may occur after an application of sulfur. The safest approach is to apply an acid-forming fertilizer, such as ammonium sulfate. This material applied at the rate of 5 pounds per 1,000 square feet of area will help acidify the soil without burning the plants.

Normally, dolomitic lime is used to increase the pH of the soil. Dolomite contains both calcium and magnesium carbonate, which are needed for growth of all plants. Dolomitic lime is generally slow to react, so six months may be required before the soil pH rises.

What can you do if you think soil pH may be a problem in your garden? First, find out the pH value of the soil where planting is anticipated. You can purchase test kits at most garden supply stores, or you can have it tested at the Agricultural Center for a small fee. Second, learn the pH reference of the ornamentals or vegetables to be planted. Then, if necessary, you can raise or lower the pH of the soil to best suit the plant. If this isn't possible, you can select a plant which will thrive at the natural pH of the soil.

Happy gardening!

Spring For Art

The Annual "Spring For Art" Show, sponsored by the Sanford-Seminole Art Association and Sanford Plaza, was held at the Plaza.

The art show, designed for students, 6 to 18, attracted a large number of entries with over $400 awarded in prize money. Students were judged in age categories by professional judges.

Among the winners were: Becky Durak, 17, a senior at Lake Mary High School, a first place ribbon for her watercolor entry.

Adam Cornelius, 7, a first grade student at Hamilton Elementary who won a first place ribbon for his crayon painting of parrots.

Kenneth Brashear, a seventh grade student at Lakeview Middle School for his wood carving, a duck decoy.

New Law Helps Moms Collect Child Support

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I am a single mother who has had difficulty getting child support for the last 10 years. I became so desperate. I even took my ex-husband back to court, but it didn't do any good. I spent hundreds of dollars on legal fees. Finally, I just gave up.

I recently discovered that there is a new federal law for child support enforcement. There are state and local agencies that collect child support for women in my situation, and their fees are very small compared to what most lawyers charge.

Abby, not many women are aware of this, but they do read your column. Please let them know about this new law.

HELPED AT LAST

DEAR HELPED: Thanks for wanting to help others as you have been helped.

In investigating the problems concerning child support, I came upon a wonderful new handbook titled, "Handbook on Child Support Enforcement." Some questions that are answered:

— My boyfriend and I are still in high school, and our baby is 6 months old. Why should legal paternity be established if the father has no money to support the child?

— What if he denies he is the father, or says he's not sure?

— The father of my child is in the Army, but I don't know where he's stationed. Can the enforcement agency find him?

— My ex-husband is in the Navy. Can I get his child support payments deducted from his paycheck?

— My ex-husband has a good job and he's willing to have the support payments deducted from his paycheck, but his employer won't do it. Now what?

— Can I force my children's father to include them under the group health insurance where he works?

— My ex-husband has remarried and has another family to support. How will this affect the support of my children?

— How can I get my child support increased?

— I think the child's father is still in the area. What information will the enforcement office need to find him?

— What if I don't have this Social Security number?

— The father of my child is in jail. Can I get support?

— I heard that my children's father is buying a very expensive car. He owes over $5,000 in back support. Can the credit agency be told this?

— As soon as my children's father is notified about child support enforcements, he moves. What should I do?

— My children and I need financial assistance now. Their father left us 10 years ago. Will they still try to find him, or is it too late?

For a free copy of the new "Handbook on Child Support Enforcement," write: "Child Support Handbook," Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colo. 81009. This helpful booklet is free to anyone who requests it. Be sure to include your name and address, clearly printed.

DEAR ABBY: Here is another reply to "Missing Link." Being the self-appointed family historian, I told my father one year that the only Christmas present I wanted from him was an autobiography. At first he refused, explaining how painful it was for him to remember his childhood.

The next year, I asked him again, so he reluctantly began. As he searched his memories, he had to confront his bitterness, and as he wrote he came to terms with it. It took him two years, but in the end the most valuable gift was not to me in the 200 pages he typed out — but to himself. The pain of the abuse and deprivation, the anger toward the people who had hurt him and the bitterness that rose up in him at the mention of his childhood melted away as the words poured out.

He is at peace with his past at last. And we, who are privileged to have his story, are in awe of the wonderful man who has grown from such a poorly cultivated seed.

We all have things we would like to hide — but they are what make up what we are.

D.H., SILVERTHORNE, COLO.

DEAR D: Eureka! That's how psychoanalysis was born.

Night Of Dance Marks School's 20th Year

The 20th Anniversary of the School of Dance Arts is being celebrated this year in grand style.

The Lake Mary High School Auditorium will provide the setting for all the glitter and almost as much glamour as a Broadway Opening. Valerie weld says.

Three performances packed with beautiful dancing and singing by the students of Valerie Rye Weld and Miriam Rye Wright will climax this anniversary year for the sisters who made Sanford their home 20 years ago.

Saturday, May 25, at 8 p.m. is the premier presentation of 1985's "Night of Dance" followed by two performances on Sunday, May 26 at 3 p.m. and 8 p.m. Every show is different, providing three separate showcases for students ranging in age from 4 to 44.

Reminiscing over past years, Miriam and Valeria have chosen to restage favorite numbers and audience pleasers from recitals dating back to 1965. Old timers may remember their rendition of "Mammy" (some readers may even have performed the original version), "Mississippi Mud," "Top Hat, White Tie & Tails," "Louisiana Hayride," "Perfect Young Ladies."

Miriam and Valerie are hoping former students will make a special effort to come and be a part of the audience. Second and even third generations will already be well represented as past dancing Grandmothers come to watch their little ones put their best foot forward in "A Night of Dance."

Tickets are available at the School of Dance Arts, 2560 Elm Avenue, Sanford and at Knight's Shoes in downtown Sanford, and at the door if there is not a sellout.

Classes Offered At SCC

Chronic Yeast Infection May Well Mean Diabetes

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — I've had a yeast infection on my buttocks and groin for several years, and doctors haven't been able to clear it up. It stings, burns and is red. It clears up for a few days, then comes back. I am 79.

DEAR DR. GOTT — A yeast infection of the type you describe may indicate diabetes. In addition, non-diabetic obese people have lots of nooks and crannies where skin surfaces touch and remain moist and dark. Get checked for high blood sugar, lose weight if you are stout or try using an anti-fungus cream like mycostatin. A dermatologist may be able to suggest other methods of combating this nuisance.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am interested in learning more about the man-made growth hormone. I have a grandson who is 19 and is 5 feet 3. He was a normal-size baby. When he was three weeks old he had surgery for pyloric stenosis. His doctor told us that he might be a little slower in maturing due to surgery at that age. His height is the only thing that seems slower.

DEAR READER — Your grandson will have to learn to put up with being short. Growth hormone is useful in certain short-statured individuals, but it must be administered before a youngster's bone-growth centers have closed. By 19, most young people have lost the ability to gain height; therefore, the use of a hormone would serve only to modify their bones without lengthening them. I suggest that he be encouraged to emphasize the really positive things in his life. Is he creative, bright, honest and outgoing? What are the many goals he is equipped to achieve? Many happy and successful short men have become great successes by "accentuating the positive."

If your grandson becomes obsessed with his small size, his world will shrink. He will learn to behave in inappropriate ways to compensate for his lack of height. He runs the risk of becoming a "little Caesar."

On the other hand, if he can be taught that size is unimportant, in the larger scheme of things, he will come to believe in his validity as a person. To paraphrase the Wizard of Oz: You will be judged not by how much you love, but by how much you are loved. Body size need have little relation to the development of really worthwhile human characteristics.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Does aspirin cure colds or does it just help them to go away?

DEAR READER — Aspirin does not cure anything. It makes people feel better by reducing inflammation, fever and aches. Colds just go away; there is no treatment for them. Rest, fluids and anti-cold pills can relieve symptoms and increase your resistance; no matter what you do, the cold will last about a week.

Send your questions to Dr. Gott at P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, Ohio 44101.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
When you lead the king of your suit from the AK and partner plays a high card, it's nice to know that he will probably be able to ruff the third round of the suit. That doesn't mean it's best to do so immediately.

Whether East trumps with the spade ace or discards, South will discard his third club and be able to ruff the third round of clubs with a high spade. This line of play by declarer will prevent West from scoring his little trump.

Our West defender was in too much of a hurry. When he saw East play the seven on the opening lead, he continued with the ace and gave his partner a ruff. Now East played a club. Declarer won with dummy's jack and played a spade, won by East's king. A second club was played, won by dummy's king. Declarer now tried the jack of hearts. That killed the defense.

The answer for the defenders comes at trick two. Before rushing to give East a heart ruff, West should shift to the club 10. Now, at a very unhurried pace, East can win the spade king, play a second club, win the spade ace and give his partner a club ruff. Only now will West continue with the other high heart and let East take the setting trick with his low trump.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring... YOUR BIRTHDAY May 25, 1985

Be grateful for what will come easily to you in the year ahead. Don't take for granted or show a lack of appreciation for the privileges you'll be accorded.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you are too haphazard to think for yourself today, important decisions will be made for you by others who don't have your interests at heart. Major changes are ahead for Gemini in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Try to keep your financial affairs properly balanced today. Just because you have a trickle coming in, you mustn't let a flood flow out.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A poor choice of companions could spoil your fun today. When socializing, stick to friends whose likes and interests parallel yours.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You'll have the choice today of rolling up your sleeves and getting the job done or resting on your laurels and letting things pile up for future problems.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't take the chance comments of friends too seriously today. If you do, you might find ill will in a statement where none was intended.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your concern for the underdog makes you a bit vulnerable today. Don't be drawn into a situation where another's excesses become your liabilities.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Assessments you make today may lean more toward what you want them to be, rather than what they really are. Unfortunately, this is not a logical perspective.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Judgments must be predicated upon facts today. If you make assumptions or wild guesses, you're apt to end up far off target.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Usually you're the type of person who treats everyone equally. But today you might uncharacteristically be nice only to those who can help you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If there are any foods or beverages you know from experience you shouldn't partake of, be sure to pass them up. You might be tempted to overindulge today.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Being your own person is an admirable quality, provided it's not carried to extremes. Don't become so self-serving you ignore the wishes of others.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You might think of a project as already being accomplished today when in reality it's only in its early stages.

Snakes Alive!

Who Wants A Pet That Won't Play Or Fetch Your Slippers?

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

If you think you could warm up to a cold-blooded pet, one that isn't too bright and will basically ignore you except on the occasions when you toss it a frozen rat as a snack, a snake may be for you.

If a slithering soul mate, one that has the power to make the phobic turn and run and scream in fear, isn't quite your speed maybe you might find it easier to live with a different sort of reptile. Perhaps an equally unresponsive plodding turtle or a lazy lizard is more your speed.

In any case, reptile fanciers say some can and do make good pets, but not everyone makes a good reptile keeper.

In fact, Joanne Prager of the Seminole County Humane Society said the average person who has not educated him or herself in the peculiar care and feeding of these scaly critters will not be doing the animal a favor by picking it up at a pet store ... or from along the roadside. Mrs. Prager said she can't recommend reptiles as pets, not because of any overriding concern for their owners but because of the neglect and abuse they often suffer at the hands of humans and because they often end up dumped into an environment that is not at all like their natural habitat.

Some are even flushed into the sewage system and some snakes have surfaced in the toilet bowls of unsuspecting souls who had no intention of sharing their bathroom with a reptile.

Several species are also protected under the law. Mrs. Prager said, if you do anything more than help to the other side that turtle that's trudging across the roadway (like taking it home), you may have removed an endangered animal from its habitat and in some cases that's illegal.

You may also have made yourself susceptible to disease. Carl Barden, assistant reptile keeper at the Central Florida Zoological Park, Sanford, said turtles, especially the smaller ones, may be infected with salmonella, disease causing bacteria that can be passed to humans and which can cause digestive problems.

But 20-year-old Barden said that hasn't curbed his love of reptiles. He captured his first snake at age 7, following his brother's example, but he no longer recommends collecting reptiles from the wild because they probably will suffer in captivity.

Most turtles, he said, end up malnourished because commercial foods don't meet their needs. Reptiles also demand a clean environment with a daily fresh water supply for drinking, but even water snakes should in most cases be kept dry to ward off fungus infections, he said. Newspapers make an ideal surface for raising aquarium-housed reptiles, because they are dry, clean and easily changed.

Barden said before taking on the responsibility of a reptile pet the would-be keeper should read and consult a zoo or other authority for tips on how to properly care for the animal. He cautions that you think twice, nay, thrice, before opening up your home to a reptile. Otherwise you might end up with an unruly python or iguana that you just can't handle.

Because reptiles are relatively inactive, they don't need to be exercised and eat less frequently than more common pets, Barden said. Even so, they are

TV Censorship Eases: Frankly, My Dear, Does Anyone Give A Damn?

By Vernon Scott
UPI Hollywood Reporter

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The nation's puritanical legacy has been eroded over the years, thanks in large part to literature, movies and now television.

TV has come so far, in fact, that CBS has programmed an hour-long special tracing the diminishing taboos on the tube. "America Censored" will be hosted Tuesday by singer John Denver, who was once censored himself.

Hollywood watchdogs have kept a sharp eye on film going back to Will Hays, a former U.S. postmaster general who was appointed movie czar in 1922. He gave us the production code to censor movies.

Unseemly language, nudity, sex, religion, racism, drugs and social taboos were stripped from scripts and finished films with great zeal. Eddie Murphy would have been jailed on sight.

A screen kiss was limited to five seconds. Couples, married or not, could never be seen in a double bed unless both male and female had one foot touching the floor. Bare breasts were strictly forbidden. Nary a damn nor hell was allowed.

Homosexuality was verboten, not to mention rape or scenes depicting coitus.

But over the years Hays and his censors gradually gave ground before advancing waves of progress. A major breakthrough was Clark Gable's "Frankly, my dear, I don't give a damn" in "Gone With the Wind."

In 1943 Howard Hughes caused a major sensation with

Jane Russell's low décolletage and hot haystack love-making with Jack Beutel in "The Outlaw."

Deborah Kerr and Burt Lancaster scandalized production code enforcers in 1953 with their torrid beach love scene in "From Here To Eternity." Censors had the temerity to ask Lancaster to wear a bathrobe over his swim suit in the scene.

Director Otto Preminger made history in 1953 using the word "virgin" written on a bathroom mirror in "The Moon Is Blue."

Today, literally anything goes in movies, but TV networks continue to wield the censor's blue pencil with such offices as broadcast standards and program practices.

Andrew Solt, who produced "America Censored," says TV is gradually but grudgingly liberalizing its code.

"When 'I Love Lucy' was first on the air Lucille Ball became pregnant," Solt said, grinning. "She couldn't use the word 'pregnant,' but it was okay to say, 'I'm going to have a baby.' CBS asked her to take a hiatus until after the baby was born. Eventually they worked her pregnancy into the show."

"Until recently, all three networks were tough on language. Now you can hear damn, hell and s.o.b. But four-letter words are strictly forbidden."

"Sex is still tightly controlled. On the final episode of 'The New Dick Van Dyke' series a child actress opens her parent's bedroom door and turns away. Later she asks, often neglected by owners who simply forget to tend to their needs, he said.

Martin Slinkoly, president of the Orlando Reptile Club, houses his 40 turtles of varying types in his fenced backyard where he has built them two pools in which to swim.
Thirty-year-old Slinkoly said he began his collection when he moved to Florida about two years ago when he rescued a few turtles from a fate as freeway pancakes. His reptile habit grew from there and he picked up more turtles from friends and pet dealers. They're fascinating to watch and that, he said, is the main appeal of most reptiles.
He has even gotten his wife Pat into the act. She has a two-foot boa constrictor she calls Snuggles. But Slinkoly said he's not jealous. Despite his name, Snuggles isn't too cuddly.
Slinkoly's turtles thrive on catfish food doled out every other day. Snuggles, who could grow to about 20 feet and which should remain manageable until he's about eight feet long, downs a live mouse once a week.
Slinkoly's 3-year-old daughter loves to watch Snuggles die, he said.
"It takes a little getting used to, but it's natural."
If you're a bit more squeamish, Barden recommends most boas and pythons as they can be satisfied with frozen rodents. In the wild they would gobble down live game or nibble on carrion if they came upon another animal's kill.
Barden said the snakes on exhibit at the zoo are a popular attraction and he is happy to see people with an interest in snakes because the creatures are grossly misunderstood.
"If reptiles were given half a chance people would stop killing every snake they see."
If your interest in the forked-tongued critters stops short of wanting to share your home with one, you can see them safely at the zoo, where the non-venomous snakes are on one side of the reptile house, behind glass, while their deadly cousins are housed just across the room.
For more information on owning your own reptile the Orlando Reptile Club, which meets at 7:30 p.m. on the first Tuesday of the month at the Orlando Science Center, can be reached through Slinkoly at 298-6313.

Most Studios Refuse Unsolicited Manuscripts

DEAR DICK — Do you know of any TV or movie studio that accepts and will read original scripts? If so, what is the procedure? Also, who would I contact? — K.K., Houston, Texas.

The general policy of studios is not to read any unsolicited manuscripts. They return them unopened, usually. They say that they will only read manuscripts submitted through legitimate literary agents. With every rule, however, there are exceptions. And if you know a particular producer, he or she may read a manuscript that comes in "over the transom," to use the customary expression for unsolicited manuscripts. Your best bet is to pick out a particular producer and write him a letter explaining what kind of manuscript you have and asking if he would be interested in reading it. Query first, before you send your script. And good luck!

DEAR DICK — On a recent "Tonight" show, Rita Moreno said she was married to a Jewish doctor. I could swear I saw her on "Tattletales" a while back and she was married to William Shatner. Were my eyes deceiving me or were they divorced? She made it sound like this husband is and has been her only husband. — A.G., Kalamazoo, Mich.

Your eyes and ears both deceived you if you think you saw and heard Rita say she was Mrs. Shatner. She and Dr. Lawrence Gordon have been married long enough so they have an 18-year-old daughter,

Ask Dick Kleiner

Fernanda, Nanda, as they call her, is half-Jewish and half-Puerto Rican, so Gordon says she is Jewish and Rita says she is Puerto Rican.

DEAR DICK — Is Hawke of "Airwolf" the oldest son of Ossie Nelson? — E.G., Houston, Texas.

DEAR DICK: I have a bet riding on this. Are Suzanne Somers and John Ritter the son and daughter of Tex Ritter? — G.G., Utica, Mich.

DEAR DICK: Recently, my daughter and I went to the movie, "Johnny Dangerously," starring Michael Keaton. Is he related to Buster Keaton? — M.M., St. Charles, Mich.

Jan-Michael Vincent — Hawke — is not a Nelson son. John Ritter is Tex Ritter's son, but Suzanne is not a Ritter daughter. And Michael Keaton is unrelated to Buster, or to Diane, for that matter.

DEAR DICK — Does Hayley Mills's red-headed sister star in the comedy, "Who's the Boss?" — L.D., Fort Hood, Texas.

No. Juliet Mills's only series was "Nanny and the Professor."

DEAR DICK — What was the theme song of "The Thornbirds"? I have tried other sources to find out, but no luck. Also, would like to obtain a copy. — E.L., Br., Rock Island, Ill.

Henry Mancini wrote that great theme music, which was called simply "The Theme From 'The Thornbirds.'" It was recorded on RCA and you shouldn't have trouble finding a copy.

DEAR DICK — Was "Sanford and Son" a spin-off from the English TV show, "Steptoe and Son"? — B.C., Amarillo, Texas.

Spin-off is the wrong word. That implies that characters from the original show form the basis of a new show. In this case, Norman Lear based "Sanford" on "Steptoe" just as he had based "All in the Family" on another English show, "Till Death Do Us Part."

DEAR DICK — I would like to know who the stars were in "The Ten Commandments," made in 1923 by Cecil B. De Mille, which I read was Hollywood's first Technicolor movie. Part of it was filmed on the Guadalupe, Calif. sand dunes near Santa Maria where I live. — N.V., Santa Maria, Calif.

That was a silent film, De Mille's first of two spectacles of that same title. In the 1923 film, the stars were people named Theodore Roberts, Richard Dix, Rod LaRocque, Leatrice Joy and Nita Naldi.

'Happy Together' Concert A 60s Musical Blast

Although 1970 was the last year The Turtles had a hit single on the charts, "Eve of Destruction," it is not the last time Flo and Eddie, the driving force behind the group, topped the charts.

A look at the fine print on Bruce Springsteen's 1982 album "The River" will reveal that background vocal chores on his chart topping smash "Hungry Heart" were handled by Flo and Eddie. And that's not all.

The boys sang on "Bang a Gong-Get It On!" by T. Rex as well as several Jefferson Starship and Warron Zevon ditties. During the '70s, Flo and Eddie hosted a syndicated radio show called "Flo and Eddie By The Fireside," put out five solo albums including the cult classic "Illegal, Immoral and Fattening," and provided voices for animated cartoons.

Flo and Eddie, a name derived from two Turtles road managers, became the performing names for Mark Volman (Flo) and Howard Kaylan (Eddie) when the group broke up in 1970.

The Turtles with Flo and Eddie are just one of four groups featured in a concert billed as "The Happy Together Tour" which makes an 8 p.m. stop at the Orlando-Seminole Jai Alai fronton June 1.

The other groups will be Gary Lewis and the Playboys, The Buckingham's, and The Grass Roots.

10 hits including the classic "Happy Together" which was such a smash that it knocked The Beatles "Penny Lane" out of the number one spot on the singles charts. The Buckingham's racked up five major hits in 1967. They are best remembered for "Kind of a Drag," a number one hit from January 1967.

The Grass Roots had six-year chart career. From 1966 until 1972, the band hit pop charts with such tunes as "Midnight Confessions," "Sooner Or Later," and "Let's Live For Today."

Gary Lewis, the son of actor/comedian Jerry Lewis, surprised everyone with his nasal warbling vocal style but sold millions of records anyway, including the classic number hit "This Diamond Ring." His chart portfolio reveals that Lewis reeled off seven straight top 10 hits in 1965 and 1966.

The best part of listening to these bands is the fact that the music conveys a happy adolescent first-time-in-love feeling. There are no provocative lyrics or political messages.

Tickets for the local "Happy Together Tour" stop are $12.50 and are available at all area Select-A-Seat outlets.

...Censorship

"Mommy, Daddy, are we going to have another baby?" It was cut before it reached the air.

"Groucho Marx shot a 60-minute show so 30 minutes of it could be used on the air. The other half was discarded as being too risqué with his double entendres. By today's standards it's pretty tame stuff. They could use it all.

"When Elvis Presley appeared on 'The Ed Sullivan Show' they shot him from the waist up. Censors didn't want anyone to see his gyrating pelvis.

"Our special includes clips and out-takes from a variety of shows demonstrating what was allowed and what was cut. John Denver had his song, 'Mountain High,' tossed out because censors thought it dealt with drugs."

Solt has dug up such censored footage as Shirley Temple's hula dance in "Curly Top." Six-year-old Shirley was seen topless with a lei covering her tiny chest. "No, no," said the Hays office.

There's also a scene from "The Dentist" with W.C. Fields straddling a woman patient as he extracts a tooth. The woman is seen with one foot in each of the comedian's jacket pockets.

"One of the biggest controversies in TV was the navel wars," said Solt. "They censored Cher's navel when it was exposed for a musical number. They made a flesh-colored plug for Barbara Eden's navel for her slave girl outfit in 'I Dream of Jeannie.' She was the only navel-less performer in TV.

"Now, of course, navels can be seen and the rules are fairly liberal as long as subject matter is handled sensitively and fairly. They're even doing shows on homosexuality, suicide and incest.

"But all three networks are sensitive to sex, drugs and bad taste. I can't foresee a time when they will be as wide open as motion pictures."
