Meeting to plan July 4th

SANFORD — The Sanford Historic Downtown Waterfront Association, SHDWA, will hold a meeting Tuesday morning at 8 a.m., at the Colonial Room Restaurant in downtown Sanford. President Rod Laver says one of the main subjects to be discussed will be whether SHDWA will sponsor the July 4th fireworks and holiday event in 1995. SHDWA has already announced support of the return of fireworks displays, but has not officially declared intentions of being the main sponsor.

In addition to members of SHDWA, the meeting is also open to the general public and any persons interested in pursuing plans for next year's Independence Day event.

Motorcycle deputy injured

LONGWOOD — A Seminole County motorcycle deputy received minor injuries in an accident with a tractor-trailer truck this morning. Deputy John Thomson was taken to Florida Hospital-Altamonte for treatment of cuts and abrasions, said sheriff's spokesman Ed McDonough. Thomson was eastbound on State Road 454 shortly after 8 a.m. when he attempted to pass around a line of vehicles in front of the Springs Plaza, said McDonough. As he moved around the vehicles, the truck driven by an Apopka man struck the right side of the motorcycle, knocking him over. The motorcycle was destroyed, said McDonough. The accident was under investigation by a Florida Highway Patrol trooper this morning.

Engineer of the Year

SANFORD — Seminole County Public Works Director Larry Sellers was named "Florida Engineer of the Year of a Rural County" by the Florida Association of County Engineers and Road Superintendents. Sellers was nominated by County Manager Ron Rabun for his efforts in bringing the 1991 "Penny for Roads" referendum to voter approval. The sales tax will contribute $300 million during 10 years to fulfill the county's highway needs for the foreseeable future. Sellers also played a key role in developing the county's solid waste program, redeveloped under the 1988 Florida Solid Waste Act. Sellers has worked for the county since 1983, first as assistant county engineer, deputy division manager, department director and acting deputy county manager before Rabun appointed him to his current position in 1991 after Rabun was hired.

Polltbits

CASSELLBERRY — Congressional candidate Ed Goddard will hold a town meeting for the public Saturday at the Seminole County Central Branch Library, 215 N. Oxford Road, beginning at 10 a.m. Goddard, a Longwood Democrat, will face Republican District 7 incumbent John Mica in November.

LONGWOOD — The Sanford Womens' Republican Club will hold "The Elephant Stampede" Saturday, Aug. 13, from 2 until 4 p.m., at Alacqua Country Club. Admission is $10 for adults, $5 for children 2-12, and free for children under two. Horn d'oeuvres will be served and door prizes given. Candidates for elective offices will be on hand for the event. Everyone is invited.

Death toll up, tougher enforcement of laws pledged

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Labor Secretary Robert Reich is pledging tougher enforcement of workplace safety laws, as the number of work-related deaths rose 0.9 percent in 1993.

Increased awareness of on-the-job crime is also of major concern locally. The Seminole County Sheriff's Department Crime Prevention Unit has special deputies assigned to deal in workplace crime.

The unit's director, Lt. Matt Stewart says Ray Stacey is the department's Crime Prevention practitioner. "He is fully licensed by the state attorney general," Stewart said, "and among other projects, he is currently working on a special crime-prevention plan dealing with the hotel/motel industry."

Stewart says the project is aimed at increasing and improving the communications link between the sheriff's office and hotel/motel owners and operators. In efforts to help reduce crime in that industry.

Homicides, including shootings and stabbings, caused 17 percent of the on-the-job deaths state-wide last year, the same share as in 1992.

Killings at the workplace have become more prominent in Central Florida recently, with the Seminole County sheriff's Violent Crimes Section looking into the murder of 47-year-old Betty Foster on Jan. 31, 1991. A suspect has recently been named. The woman was found stabbed to death at the My Comp Computer Store near Altamonte

Equipping teachers with knowledge

Dr. Joseph Kendrick discusses learning with Midway Elementary School teachers.

Former Midway student shares strategies to help other kids

SANFORD — There are always those students in a classroom who don't seem to learn as easily as others.

Teachers know the students aren't stupid or that they don't have learning disabilities. What they need are strategies for learning. Maimie Bingham, principal of Midway Elementary School in Sanford, has arranged for the teachers at her school to learn some strategies that will help students learn.

Many of our students are disadvantaged," said Bingham, "but that's not what this is about. Sometimes they are disadvantaged in that no one has taught them how to learn."

Bingham has enlisted the help of a former Midway Elementary School student to teach

Grant money would provide 'Safe Haven'

By VICKI DeBORNER

SANFORD — Educators and civic leaders know communities need a place where children can be occupied and where they can be cared for.

In some communities such a haven can be found in a place of worship. In others it is in the home of a special person. But in some places, there is no such heart.

Where crime is rampant on the streets and families are often shattered, the schools of Seminole County are hoping to serve that purpose to the children.

The schools and the Grove Counseling Center have joined forces to apply for a $100,000 grant which will allow them to be a "Safe Haven."

The program, sponsored jointly by the Department of Education and the Department of Justice, is designed to feature components of school, health and education.

According to grant writer Jeanne Moon, eligible applicants must present a "collaborative effort"

SANFORD — It will be a gigantic birthday party, and everyone is invited. Maude the elephant, at the Central Florida Zoological Park, will turn 20 on Saturday, August 20.

Marketing Director Andrea Farmer says it will be a gala event, adding a variety of entertainment and educational activities to the giant birthday celebration.

Visitors will each receive a piece of the large cake, designed and donated by Kaah 'n Karry in Orange City.

Maude, and Mary, the zoo's other resident elephant, will have a cake of their own choosing however. It will consist of hay, apple slice icing, and carrot candies.

Murder case update

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The attorney who defended Anton Daryl Meyers on a first degree murder charge in the disappearance of a Lake Mary teen has requested to withdraw before the penalty phase of the case.

Meyers was convicted in June of murdering 14-year old Kathy Engels in 1987. The penalty phase of the case is set for later this month. The state is seeking the death penalty. The other sentence possible for conviction of first degree murder is life in prison without parole for 25 years.

In a motion filed last month, Meyers' defense attorney Ed Leinster lists four reasons the court should allow him to withdraw from the case. Meyers has instructed Leinster not to develop or present mitigating evidence on his behalf for the penalty phase. A hearing on the motion is scheduled Aug. 23 before Judge Alan A. Dickey.

In a pro se motion, Meyers has set forth specific instructions about the evidence which Leinster is to present, according to the attorney's request to withdraw from the case. The evidence, in Leinster's opinion, is not germane to issues in the penalty phase.

Vince and Larry, the Crash Test Dummies who teach kids and adults the importance of buckling up and driving safely, visited Hamilton Elementary School earlier this week to teach their lesson to the students with some fun and laughter. Above, the pair taught principal Dave Scott and guidance counselor Sarah Freeman the Crash Dummy Dance.

Vince, played by UCF Police officer Michael Rosignol, slammed across the floor with Scott while Larry, played by fellow UCF officer Joe Rodriguez, crashed gracefully into Freeman. Below, Larry shows the financial consequences of not wearing your seat belt. Buckle up and enjoy the ride.

FLORIDA BRIEFS

Taxi drivers will try to block new rules

MIAMI — Striking taxi drivers said Wednesday they were heading to court to stop an increase in fines as Miami tries to sharpen its image. Meanwhile, officials said the strike seemed to have minimal effect in the tourist mecca.

The United Taxi Drivers and Owners Association said its attorney would file a request for a temporary injunction in county court on the new rules that to begin on Thursday.

Fines, which had been $25 for about 20 years, will increase up to $1,000 for driving without a county-issued taxi license, $250 for overcharging a customer, $100 for refusing a passenger.

Cabbies say the overriding concern should be safety, instead. "They (county officials) don't realize the cab industry is the worst job-related industry there is as far as safety goes," said Martin Stiner, the union's vice president. "The police have a safer job than we do. To go out and work on a daily basis and have this hanging over your head is ridiculous."

Drivers are also upset by a long-standing dress code that dictates drivers wear dark pants or skirts, closed shoes and collared shirts. It's an issue, Stiner said, because of Miami's sweltering heat. Shorts should be an option as they are for some police, he said.

"I don't think there is another industry that has the amount of rules and regulations and fines that we do," he said.

The new fines, Stiner said, resulted from Dade County failing to enforce existing standards.

Order didn't shield woman

FORT PIERCE — A restraining order a woman received last week against her husband didn't shield her from his bullets.

Mary Duce was gunned down in the parking lot of her church Monday night. Police found the restraining order in Johnnie L. Duce's car barring Duce from threatening his wife. Mrs. Duce had a copy in her purse.

Moments before the shooting, Duce offered his wife a bouquet of flowers. She said she didn't want the flowers and reminded him of the restraining order. That's when he went to his car and got a gun, witnesses said.

"Till death do us part," witnesses heard him say.

"Don't do this Johnnie," she cried.

Duce shot his wife twice in the head, once in the neck and once in the shoulder with a .357-caliber Magnum, police said. He then used the gun on himself.

The couple, married 15 years, died in the parking lot of the Johnson Temple Church of God in Christ in Fort Pierce.

Their 9-year-old daughter was in the church at the time of the shooting.

"She told me... 'Daddy said he was going to kill my mama,'" said Mattie Riggins, a friend of the family.

The girl wasn't the only one who heard the death threats. At church on Sunday, parishioners said, Duce stood before the congregation and claimed he was possessed by the devil, and the devil wanted him to kill his wife.

Products will serve the whole household

ORLANDO — Tupperware is on a campaign to take over the kitchen, and go on from there into the closets, bedrooms and the average household's largest storage area of all — the garage.

The 50-year-old company known for its plastic bowls and containers has begun the long-term diversification campaign with a new line of potato peelers, ice trays and other everyday kitchen tools.

They've been redesigned for more efficient usage and convenience, company officials say.

It is the first big departure from the traditional products that made Tupperware a household word.

The Florida-based company that sold $1.2 billion worth of plastic storage products in 56 countries last year is redefining its image. Also a part of the new marketing campaign are a magazine and cookbooks.

"We're pretty much moving in a natural progression from food storage and extending it to the broader area of the kitchen," said Michael P. Hagerty, president of Tupperware North America. "We're also expanding our presence to a larger market."

And from the kitchen, Hagerty said Wednesday, Tupperware will expand into storage and cleaning products made for the rest of the household.

"It's a huge market, and we'll get there eventually. Making people's lives easier is part of our heritage," Hagerty said.

The line of six newly designed kitchen tools was partially the result of a consumer survey.

The company asked its senior sales consultants what busy homemakers wanted in their kitchens. The major finding from a random sample of 500 Tupperware partygoers in California and Florida last week was that a lack of kitchen organization was their No. 1 problem.

Cluttered refrigerators, dirty dishes, disorderly cupboards, too little counter space, and too much slicing, peeling and chopping were the time-wasters most frequently mentioned.

Changes in historic black school noted

By The Associated Press

ORLANDO — While Tuskegee's alumni pay their respects to history in an annual reunion this week, they are also enthusiastic over the changes at the black university.

From Tuskegee Normal School of Booker T. Washington's day to today's Tuskegee Institute, there is a world of difference, its teachers and alumni say.

Today's graduates are engineers, business leaders, doctors and lawyers. No longer is the school content to produce merely teachers, farmers and bricklayers.

Its alumni include Air Force Gen. Daniel "Chappie" James and actor Keenan Ivory Wayans. It is noted for George Washington Carver and the Tuskegee Army, the group of black World War II aviators.

Although officials say they are faithful to Washington's original vision, Tuskegee began changing almost as soon as it opened.

They worked the dickens out of us, especially in engineering.

-Julius C. Cobb

"It simply grew," said Frank J. Toland, a professor at the Alabama university.

"So we don't offer brick masonry for our college students, but we offer a program in building and construction. We don't offer any programs in drafting, we offer degrees in architecture."

The school late last century followed the guidelines of early leaders such as Washington; that blacks could get ahead by learning a vocation, not challenging Southern society by agitating for the vote.

Changes began in the early 1900s, Toland said, as public schools started educating black students. Tuskegee shifted to higher education, becoming an institute in 1937 and a university in 1985. It accommodated no one during the civil rights struggles of the 1950s and 1960s.

Radical student groups had chapters on campus, and professors were free to get involved.

"Its role as a university was simply to leave the faculty members alone, so the staff members who wanted to get involved in it (could)," Toland said.

Today's emphasis is getting students to excel.

Julius C. Cobb of Orlando, joining several hundred other alumni in toasting their alma mater, knows the changes firsthand.

"They worked the dickens out of us, especially in engineering," Cobb said as the reunion got under way Wednesday.

Present at the recent check presentation was (from left) Andy Roberts, Rotary Club of Sanford; Philip Gunster, Kiwanis Club of Sanford; Doris Jennings, principal of Pine Crest Elementary; and Dr. Robert Leidner, assistant principal of Pine Crest Elementary. Unable to attend the presentation was Bruce McKibbin of the Seminole Sunrise Kiwanis Club.

Clubs donate bucks for books

Thanks to the contributions of monies by three local civic organizations, Pine Crest Elementary School will now be able to be involved in the federal program RIF (Reading is Fundamental).

The Rotary Club of Sanford, the Kiwanis Club of Sanford and the Seminole Sunrise Kiwanis Club combined their efforts to provide the funds needed to get the program off the ground at Pine Crest.

Midway Elementary has been involved in the program for ten years. Because the Midway RIF program was recently selected as one of eleven national Literacy Leaders, the opportunity to add another RIF school arose. "The purpose of RIF is to encourage reading and literacy in young children, especially in low income and educationally disadvantaged areas," according to Dede Schaffner, Seminole County School Board Community Involvement Coordinator.

According to Schaffner, who coordinates the program at Midway, for every dollar raised locally, RIF adds three dollars to allow the RIF project to purchase pleasure reading books. Every child has the opportunity on three yearly RIF Distribution Days, to choose one book. Through the years, many children who had never owned a book before, accumulate a library.

Schaffner said approximately $1000 local dollars are needed for three RIF book distributions a year. The Kiwanis Club of Sanford donated $500 and Rotary and Sunrise Kiwanis each gave $250 at a recent check presentation.

Plan for possible exodus

By BILL BERGSTROM
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — The welcome accorded to Cubans who come to Florida as part of a mass exodus would be more like imprisonment under plans that Gov. Lawton Chiles and other state officials are fine-tuning.

Federal deputies would round up the new arrivals in "reception" areas at local jails or other public buildings, under the plans reviewed Wednesday. Within hours, state prison buses and vans will take them to a processing area tentatively planned for Homestead Air Force Base.

From there, federal authorities will take them to military bases outside Florida to be held until it is determined whether they can stay in the United States.

Also Wednesday, Chiles questioned Washington's readiness to do its part, though the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service has prepared contingency plans.

"I used to believe in the tooth fairy," said the governor. At least, he said, "I think we've got a commitment from them that they will take these people out" of Florida.

Chiles urged federal officials to hurry up with exercises to test their emergency plans.

"We are exercising ours," he said. "They are talking about next February. That may be after the fact."

The governor announced the review of Florida's plans after Cuban President Fidel Castro raised the threat of a repeat of the 1980 Mariel boat lift. That exodus poured about 125,000 Cubans into the United States in five months.

Woman chained to courthouse in protest

By The Associated Press

GREEN COVE SPRINGS — A judge's decision in a child custody case has prompted a Texas woman to go on a hunger strike and chain herself to the Clay County Courthouse.

Donna Ringorino, 48, of Houston, who works for a Texas agency that helps battered women and other domestic crime victims, looped a rusty chain around a concrete pillar in front of the courthouse Aug. 3.

Ms. Ringorino has remained at her post for the past week, living on fruit juice and making only brief forays across the street to a service station restroom.

During the night, she sometimes moves to the shelter of an overhang directly in front of the courthouse doors.

Ms. Ringorino, who went on a hunger strike for 34 days outside the Harris County Family Law Center in Houston until she was hospitalized, came to Green Cove Springs in support of a Houston man who is seeking custody of his 6-year-old son.

The man is concerned that his son is being neglected and abused by his ex-wife who lives in Orange Park. Ms. Ringorino said she is upset with Judge William Wilkes' refusal to consider evidence of the abuse.

Marijuana cultivation

Two brothers were arrested by sheriff's deputies and Lake Mary police Tuesday in connection with drug cultivation charges. Lake Mary police first responded to a call at 239 Shady Oaks Circle in regard to a domestic dispute between the brothers. During their investigation, they reported seeing marijuana plants in the house in plain view. Sheriff's deputies were then summoned, and with a search warrant, SIU officers entered the house. The arrest report indicates five marijuana plants were being cultivated in the garage, with others found elsewhere in the house. Thomas James Daniela, 25, and his brother, Timothy James Daniela, 34, were both arrested on charges of cultivation of marijuana, and possession of marijuana. Thomas was also charged with possession of drug paraphernalia. Lake Mary police charged Timothy with battery in connection with the reported fight with his brother.

Drug stop

Winter Springs police arrested Avery Malone Grace, 18, of 109 Cumberlin Circle, Longwood, following a traffic stop on S.R. 434 Tuesday. Police reported finding a knife under the seat, and four baggies of a leafy green substance in Grace's shoe. Grace, the driver of the vehicle, was also found to be in possession of two credit cards which had been identified as being stolen. He was charged with possession with intent to distribute, possession of stolen property, and having a concealed weapon. Another man in the vehicle was not charged.

Sanford wreck

Sanford police have charged Catherine Medeana Riggall, 17, of 2525 Yale Avenue, with failure to yield to a vehicle approaching a crossing. The woman was involved with a two car collision Tuesday afternoon near the intersection of 27th Street and South Sanford Avenue. The driver of the other vehicle, a 1986 Pontiac, identified as Dorothy Thurau Bicknell, was not seriously injured. Riggall was transported to Central Florida Regional Hospital for treatment of her injuries.

Two in fence

A passing deputy reported seeing two men in a fenced compound Tuesday, near a business on U.S. Highway 17-92 south of Sanford. After the business owner was summoned, nothing was immediately believed to be missing. Fred Thomas Werk, 19, of Shady Lake, Longwood, and Kris Clay Jenkins, 18, of Geneva, were each arrested on charges of loitering and prowling.

Child abuse

Joy L. Bennett, 27, of 1041 Wentworth Court, Longwood, was arrested by Longwood police Monday. According to the arrest report, Bennett reportedly had hurled her two-year old daughter approximately four feet to the floor, during an argument, and fled from the home. Police called in a K-9 unit, and tracked the woman first to Longwood Hills Road, then to a wooded area off Lake Emma Road, where she was finally apprehended. She has been charged with child abuse and resisting arrest without violence. Although police said the child was slightly injured, she was not transported to the hospital, and was turned over to the child's father.

Man flees

Members of the Sanford police Special Investigative Unit, SIU, conducted a surveillance for narcotics activities Tuesday. They said when one man was approached for questioning, he fled from the area and was pursued into an alley in the 1100 block of Willow Avenue before being apprehended. William Jerome Boone, 21, of 1812 Mellonville Avenue, was arrested on a charge of resisting an officer without violence.

Biker robbed

Sanford police arrested Anthony Edwards, 30, of 412 S. Sanford Avenue, near Eighth Street and Sanford Avenue Tuesday. Police said he reportedly had approached an elderly man riding a bike near Fifth Street, and demanded money or the man's bike. The arrest report says Edwards grabbed the man's wallet containing $12 and fled from the area. He was found three blocks away by police and arrested on a charge of robbery.

Retail theft

Patrick V. Robinson, 27, of 912 Pine Avenue, Sanford, was arrested by Sanford police Tuesday at a business in the 3100 block of S. Orlando Drive. The arrest report said Robinson apparently took clothing, batteries and sports equipment valued at $163.35, and attempted to write a check for his purchases. The check was determined to be from a closed bank account. Police arrested him on a charge of retail theft.

Theft

Ronald S. Tatum, 18, 505 Palmetto Avenue, Longwood, was arrested by Longwood police Tuesday. Tatum was charged in connection with a home burglary on August 2, at which time approximately $200 in items were taken. He has been charged with unarmed burglary, and petit theft.

Domestic case

Rick Franklin Fisher, 30, 101 Edgewater Circle, Sanford, was arrested by Sanford police at his residence Tuesday following a reported altercation with his wife. He was charged with battery, domestic violence.

Warrants served

Booker T. Barringer, 31, 2591 Crawford Drive, Sanford, was located by Sanford police at Airport Boulevard and U.S. Highway 17-92 Tuesday. He was wanted on warrants for failing to appear on a charge of trespassing, and failing to appear on a charge of possession of drug paraphernalia.

Kevin Lance Murray, 34, of Melbourne, was transported to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility from Brevard County Tuesday. He was wanted for violation of probation on a conviction of driving under the influence of alcohol.

Joseph Williams, 38, 2420 Lake Avenue, Sanford, was located at the jail Monday. He was wanted for failing to appear on charges of driving with a suspended/revoked license and fleeing and attempting to elude.

David Earl Crowe, 40, 401 Katie Street, turned himself in to deputies at his residence Tuesday. He was wanted for failing to appear to pay a fine. It was later discovered he was also wanted for violation of probation on a conviction of dealing in stolen property.

Hubert Edward Embry Jr., 21, 904 E. 10th Street, Sanford, was located by deputies at his residence Tuesday. He was wanted for violation of probation on a conviction of aggravated battery.

Michael Timothy Murphy, 27, 115 Anderson Street, Sanford, was arrested by deputies at the State Probation Office Tuesday. He was wanted on a probation office warrant.

Incidents reported to the sheriff

Two girls' bicycles with a total value of $230 were reportedly taken Saturday from a residence in the 800 block of Roseliff, in Sanford.

An estimated $100 was stolen Friday in a burglary in the 2800 block of S. French Avenue.

A 12 horsepower motor and other items valued at $1,500 was reported stolen Friday from a construction site near Seminole High School.

A pool table, cash register and other items valued at $490 were reportedly stolen Tuesday from a business in the 2100 block of Brison Avenue.

Rat killing: Gardener charged

By DONNA DE LA CRUZ
Associated Press Writer

HILLSIDE, N.J. — Frank Balun pointed to the scene of the crime: the tomato patch where he bashed his victim to death with a broom handle wrapped in newspaper.

"I killed a rat and I'm a criminal," he said.

The 68-year-old gardener was charged with animal cruelty after he killed a rat that had been eating his tomato plants. Balun whacked it as it tried to escape from a trap he had set for the rodent.

Union County Prosecutor Andrew Ruotolo Jr. has asked local officials to dismiss the charges, saying the matter is beneath the legal process.

"Frank Balun was a World War II veteran. He doesn't have to be a rat martyr," Ruotolo said.

But Hillside's prosecuting attorney, Christopher Howard, said Wednesday that he'll have to ask the judge to dismiss the charges when the case comes up for a hearing Aug. 24.

Balun is looking forward to his day in court.

"I'm so thrilled I'll be able to go to court and tell people that I didn't kill that rat out of hatred or anger," Balun said. "I'm a good person, a quiet person. I wouldn't hurt anybody."

Balun, whose only previous brush with the law was a parking ticket, hopes state lawmakers come to the hearing so they can see why animal cruelty laws should be changed to exempt rodents.

The Associated Humane Societies issued Balun two summonses, each carrying a penalty of up to six months in jail and $1,250 in fines. Balun had called the association to come get the rat after killing it late last month.

Lee Bernstein, the association's executive director, stood by his decision to issue the summonses.

"It was not the fact that the animal was killed," Bernstein said Wednesday. "It was a matter of how a trapped animal that could not escape was mutilated and died a horrible death. No one has the right to take the law into their own hands."

Municipal Court Judge Albert Parsonnet, meanwhile, says he wants to hear from Balun before deciding whether the case should be dropped.

"The defendant has the right to say 'I want a trial,' and it's the law in our country that a judge hears both sides of the argument," Parsonnet said.

Faulkner undaunted by Citadel colf

By BRUCE SMYTH
Associated Press Writer

CHARLESTON, S.C. — Losing her long brown locks won't weaken Shannon Faulkner.

"I'm not backing out. The only thing that can happen to keep me out is a court stay," Ms. Faulkner said Wednesday after a judge ruled for a second time that The Citadel may shave off her hair when she becomes its first female cadet.

U.S. District Judge C. Weston Houck said there is no law barring the all-male military school from giving Faulkner the buzz cut required of all first-year cadets. He ruled the same thing last week, but was asked to reconsider.

Ms. Faulkner, who fought in court for 18 months to join the corps, is expected to receive the cut when she reports on Monday.

"I have said before I will have my head shaved," said Ms. Faulkner, who admitted she wouldn't like it.

The Citadel argues the haircut strips away individuality as cadets begin life in the corps. But lawyers for Ms. Faulkner and the Justice Department argued it would add to her isolation as the lone woman in the corps and doesn't mirror the requirements for women in the military.

Houck ordered The Citadel last month to admit Ms. Faulkner into the corps, ruling its all-male admissions policy unconstitutional. The school has asked the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals to block her entrance.

The judge said there was no evidence Ms. Faulkner was in danger of being harmed or sexually harassed. He also asked that U.S. marshals make sure his order admitting her is carried out "fully, fairly and peacefully."

Ignorance isn't bliss

A regular examination of the Police Briefs published on page 3-A of each issue of the Sanford Herald proves that the mind of a lawbreaker may not be as developed as it might be.

Many times, we read of traffic stops made because of a busted taillight or speeding, which result in multiple charges being made against the driver, often for driving with a suspended/revoked license, failing to appear in court, or driving under the influence of alcohol.

Law enforcement officers may not appreciate this type of advice to lawbreakers, but it should be obvious. If a person is wanted on an outstanding warrant, or driving illegally, it's dumb to speed, drive without proper lights or go on a drinking spree.

But rather than judge the lawbreaker's reasoning for not caring about automobile maintenance, let us look at the law-abiding citizen.

You are not exempt from trouble. Driving with improper equipment can also cause you a great deal of inconvenience, embarrassment, and even money. You find yourself stopped by a patrolman, and try to explain why your taillight doesn't work. You must get the light fixed and pay the traffic fine, which is not a minor amount of money.

If there are enough traffic stops and fines, you could end up losing your license. Getting to work, the grocery store or doctor's office will be impossible unless you find someone else to drive. That is often expensive as well.

Of course, if you drive yourself, and are in violation of the law, you have reverted back into the position of the knowing lawbreaker about whom we began these observations.

Getting a headlight or taillight changed, repairing a broken windshield, or other repairs can be costly. Not as much however, as having to do so plus having to pay a traffic fine.

We suggest motorists realize their vehicle plays a major part in each day. Take care of it, and it will help take care of you.

Avoid taking care of it, and it will cause you problems as well as money. And, who knows, you may someday read your own name in the traffic stop section of the Police Briefs.

We need fall ball

Another year has passed and the Sanford youth baseball season has ended. Hopefully everyone was able to experience the joy that this sport can provide. But wait....

... the season continues. A new league was formed for the 18- to 19-year olds. Hats off to the Sanford Recreation Department for putting it all together. They continually do an outstanding job of serving this community. They are operating this new league with virtually no funds from their budget. There are only four teams in the league, but parent/fan turn-out indicates a successful endeavor.

So why doesn't the city of Sanford support a fall baseball program? All the other towns around Central Florida have some form of off-season or instructional league play. Must we rely on private funding to support a program that benefits the entire city? That's right, everybody benefits. Listen up, Sanford. The Recreation Department provides choices to our youth. Those kids that are "at risk" or "borderline" don't have to hang out on the corner when they can be involved in an activity that instills qualities like self-esteem and sportsmanship.

They don't have to succumb to the "crack smelter."

That 75-year-old grandmother didn't have to lose an eye in a beating resulting from a robbery motivated by drugs.

That small business owner didn't have to die over a lousy 80 bucks.

Because we, as human beings, are capable of making choices.

The Sanford Recreation Department provides choices.

Let's get our priorities straight. Don't shortchange our youth.

We need fall ball.

WILLIAM A. RUSHER

Will Big Government ever go away?

One of the complaints forever being heard in conservative circles is that Ronald Reagan "failed" to turn Big Government around. Sometimes it's said critically, sometimes sadly, but the point is always the same: Look at how huge and intrusive government is today, after Reagan — and it's still growing!

In the June issue of Commentary, David Frum, one of our brightest young conservative journalists, has an article to this effect, excerpted from his forthcoming book, "Dead Right." He correctly identifies the fundamental problem: the deterioration of the old American virtues (prudence, thrift, hard work, self-discipline, etc.) in a liberal welfare state:

"Why be thrifty any longer when your old age and health care are provided for, no matter how profligate you may be in your youth? Why be prudent when the state insures your bank deposits, replaces your flooded-out house, buys all the wheat you can grow? Why be diligent when half your earnings are taken from you and given to the idle?"

Foreseeing a backlash and the collapse of the welfare state under the ever-growing burden of its benefactions, Frum counsels conservative intellectuals (he knows better than to tell politicians) to "(discard) all consideration of what the public at the moment wants to hear, and (try) to prepare its mind to respond intelligently to the crisis ahead.... Copy-rightonservative intellectuals will have to care less about the immediate electoral prospects of the Republican party and more about telling unpalatable truths — in the hope of making those truths prevail to the point of becoming the conventional political wisdom of the future."

In a nutshell, Frum believes that the public still "rather like" the liberal social programs, but that if they are told the grim truth about them they will, over time, turn against Big Government. With all due respect, I disagree on both scores.

I believe that the American public understands full well the baleful consequences of liberal welfarism. I think most voters would vote, today, to jettison the whole shebang and return, as a nation, to the old American virtues if they could.

But there's the rub. As a practical matter it is impossible to run modern America the way it was run (say) a century ago.

In Chronicles, the lively journal of the "paleoconservatives," one can read every month long diatribes to the America of the 1890s, or even to remote regions of the West today. As exercises in nostalgia these essays are commendable, but as practical prescriptions for the nation's future they are about as useful as liver pills.

America today is a nation of upwards of a quarter of a billion people of widely varying ethnic and cultural backgrounds, staggering under the burden of a government whose leaders' only dependable impulse is to pile more straws on the camel's back. The public is not suffering from a reluctance to change things, but from a bewildered and total ignorance of how to get from here to there. And that, it seems to me, is the job of conservative intellectuals to tell them.

But be (I will use the word once more) practical. We must and can find ways to cut welfare without precipitating mass starvation.

Look at how huge and intrusive government is today, after Reagan.

JOSEPH SPEAR

Right still rails at Foster's grave

First thing I want to say is, if the more responsible members of the Republican Party had any sense of decency, they would issue an abject apology to the Vincent Foster family and then retire to the Washington Mall for a recantation ceremony featuring the consumption of barrels of cathartic substances.

Second thing I want to say is, the scruffy collection of politicians, preachers, radio blabberjocks, scribes and sleazoids who have tormented the Foster family for to these many months with their relentless crusade to make something sinister of the poor man's suicide are damn lucky this is a democracy. If it were a dictatorship and I were El Jefe, I would strip these creeps to their BVDs and lock them in pillories on the White House lawn and let them bake in the summer sun until Labor Day.

This motley crew hasn't shut up since July 30, 1993, the day the deputy counsel to the president drove to a Civil War fort on the banks of the Potomac and fired a bullet into his brain — and the media have led the way. The New York Post raised the ominous specter that Foster had been murdered or, at minimum, his body tampered with. The Wall Street Journal and Washington Times fell into step behind the Post, as did Rush "Truth Detector" Limbaugh, who repeated an irresponsible allegation that Foster had died in another location and that his body had been taken to the park where it was discovered.

Then God's self-appointed prosecutors weighed in. "Suicide or murder?" asked Pat Robertson on his television show. "That's the ominous question... concerning Vincent Foster's mysterious death," Jerry Falwell posed similar questions on his "Old Time Gospel Hour" broadcast. Indeed, Falwell took the disgusting campaign a step further when he began hawking a video suggesting that Bill Clinton was involved in a string of murders.

The narrator of this nasty bit of conspiratorial blarney is Larry Nichols, the former Arkansas state employee who first accused Clinton of being a womanizer. In recent months, he has been welcomed to the microphones by 150 radio talk show hosts to air his unfounded charges. On Capitol Hill, he was escorted around like a visiting panjandrum by Rep. Dan Burton, R-Ind.

Robert Fluke, the special counsel for whose appointment the Clinton critics had screamed, employed five physicians and seven FBI agents, interviewed 125 witnesses, conducted microscopic, DNA and laser tests on the evidence and concluded that Foster killed himself. Still the critics sniveled.

On the anniversary of Foster's death, the family issued a statement denouncing the "despicable" rumor campaign, especially the stories spread by "those calling themselves Christian ministers" and the "shameful statements on the House floor by a legislator who, in our view, is purposefully employing outrageous innuendo and speculation for political ends." Their " fervent hope," the family said, is "that this matter now will recede from public view and that the family will be left alone."

But the alimbollers who daily gather beneath the Capitol dome would have none of that. On July 29, Senate banking committee Republicans, led by Alfonse D'Amato of New York, Connie Mack of Florida and Lauch Faircloth of North Carolina, probed the Foster death.

Maybe I would pillory them across the street in Lafayette Park, lest the melting grease destroy the White House lawn.

I would strip these creeps to their BVDs and lock them in pillories on the White House lawn.

GUEST COLUMNIST

A look at freedom of the press

I had so much trouble getting off my soapbox when we discussed "freedom of speech" last week that I never did get to "freedom of the press." Just as well. Those four little words are just as important as "freedom of speech," at least to me and every newsman/woman in the country — whatever the media — and deserves just as good a coverage by this old duffer. I shall try.

"Freedom of the press." Very, very few of you good people out there in LaLaland have the faintest idea what life would be like without that precious commodity. You've always had it. At least, you've always had it here in the good old U.S. of A. Not so for the hundreds of thousands — perhaps millions — of German citizens back in the days of Adolf Hitler and the Nazi BS, over in Germany.

Back then, the citizens didn't read "news" — they read exactly what the Third Reich wanted them to read. Nothing more. Nothing less. It was called a totally controlled press — in Germany — under Hitler. If you disagreed at all (that's called freedom of speech) it was a midnight requisition — stonewall — bang — you're it. Need I say more — or have most of you got the point?

Do I agree with and like everything I see, hear and read daily? No way! Especially the TV news on a hot breaking story. By the time I've heard and seen the fourth or fifth rerun of supposedly the same story, I've heard and seen at least three or four drastically different versions of a singular happening. Actually it's worse than a young baby with a bad case of diarrhea and smells about the same.

Newspapers! Now there's a horse of a different color. For the most part, newspapers, unless they are very "heavily" biased and slanted, get it right the first time. Please take note the verbiage — "heavily." All news media is biased to one extent or another, reflecting the editors, the owners, or controlling factions, viewpoints — but you'll have to admit, they generally get the facts sorted out and reported correctly — most of the time — the first attempt.

Dedication to accurate reporting and a healthy dose of investigative initiative are what makes a "good paper" a "great paper." The mark of a truly great paper is when they screw up — will admit it — and then fix it. Oh, yes, one more minor item. That I don't get skipped any more. Please....

Stop and think where we, as a country, might be back in the Nixon-Watergate days if no one knew one little peep about all those federal shenanigans with the top legal beagle — John Mitchell and company. Governmental coverups are as common as fleas on a badly infected dog. And a free press is what ferrets them out. Also goes a long ways to keep you abreast with the day-to-day happenings to you, me, and that guy down the street.

If you think freedom of speech is important to you, and freedom of the press is important to the news media, you'd better get off your duffs and start supporting your country's Constitution — ALL OF IT — before you start losing MORE of it, a tiny piece at a time. Look on the floor. You see all those tiny chunks of whatever? Those chunks of whatever are tiny pieces of your Constitution — that aren't there any more. Gone!

Check your ivories and clamp down on that one for a time or two.

Additionally, Sanford resident Bette Shea was murdered at Silk, Silk, Silk, a floral shop where she worked in Orlando.

In another case, a 28-year old Sanford man was recently charged with first degree murder in the death of a local cab driver in 1986.

There have also been a number of armed robberies in the Sanford and Lake Mary area as well as other parts of the county recently.

"Robbery was the primary motive for homicide at work," the report said. "Workers in retail establishments, such as grocery stores and eating and drinking places, made up about half of the homicide victims. Taxicab drivers also were at particular risk of being shot while working."

Officials have said the larger percentage of female homicide victims is due to the large number of women exposed to crime by working late at night.

Eighty-two percent of the 1,063 homicide victims were men.

"But homicide was, by far, the most frequent manner in which women workers were fatally injured, accounting for 39 percent of their 481 fatal injuries," the report said. "By comparison, homicides were 17 percent of the 5,790 fatal injuries to men at work."

Statewide, the number of work-related deaths rose from 6,217 in 1992 to 6,271 in 1993, the latest figures available from the Labor Department. Highway accidents and homicides were the leading causes for a second straight year.

"The workplace is still a dangerous environment," Secretary Reich said in an interview Wednesday. "Tragically, the more traditional accidents and many others were preventable."

Reich contended his department has substantially increased enforcement of workplace safety laws, "working closely with employers who want to do the right thing and coming down very hard on employers who don't."

"We're determined to use every tool of enforcement and training at our disposal to see that fewer of these accidents occur," he said.

The Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics found that 92 percent of the 1993 fatalities were men, far more than their 55 percent share of the nation's job holders. The disparity was attributed to the differences in the industries and occupations in which they typically work.

Highway accidents killed 1,232, the largest number of on-the-job deaths. They represented 20 percent of the fatalities, up from 18 percent in 1992.

Half the fatal accidents involved collisions between two or more vehicles including trucks, delivery vans and cars driven by salespeople. Ninety percent of the victims were men.

In an effort to trim highway-related deaths, Reich said, the department is working on proposed rules that he hopes will be published in the fall of 1995.

Forty percent of all on-the-job deaths were transportation-related. In addition to highway accidents, these included off-road incidents such as those on farms or at factories, workers being struck by vehicles and incidents involving air, water or rail transportation.

The survey found 20 percent of the deaths resulted from objects striking workers or from falls, while electrocutions and "equipment entrapments" each accounted for 5 percent of the total.

Besides the disproportionate difference between male and female deaths, the study found another anomaly: the self-employed and those working in family businesses accounted for 21 percent of the workplace fatalities — double their share of the nation's workers.

"One-fourth of the fatal incidents occurred on a street or highway, primarily the result of highway motor vehicle incidents, and about one-fifth occurred at a construction site, warehouse, factory or other industrial premise," the report said.

"About one out of every seven occurred in a public building, such as a grocery store or other retail store, restaurant, office building, or school, the majority of which were homicides," it added. "Of special note are the roughly 200 fatalities occurring in a parking lot or garage, about half of which were homicides."

Information from Associated Press is included in this report.

Leinster states it is his opinion a conflict exists between his duties to follow his client's instructions and his duty to develop evidence and (he) "respectfully requests the court enter an order to withdraw."

In another development in the Meyers' case, prosecutor Chris White notified the court that twice since the guilty verdict was rendered against Meyers, Engels' grandmother, Marie Hooper, has inadvertently come in contact with a member of the trial jury.

"Both occasions resulted in conversations which this court may want to hear about from the two people involved," White's motion states. "Unfortunately, Mrs. Hooper does not know the name of the juror involved, only that it was one of the lady jurors from the first row with dark hair."

The jury on the Meyers' case was comprised of 11 women and one man with two alternate jurors. The alternates heard all of the evidence in the case but did not deliberate to reach the guilty verdict.

White said he will propose an alternate juror be seated to complete the penalty phase of the case. Jurors will recommend the penalty in the case, but the ultimate decision rests with the judge.

White declined to comment about where the victim-juror contacts took place. Despite the contact, a new trial will not be necessary, the prosecutor said.

"The worst thing that could happen," White commented, "is an entirely new jury would have to be seated for the penalty phase."

A trial transcript could be read, or key witnesses recalled if an entirely new jury is seated, he added.

Engels disappeared from a friend's home May 24, 1987 and was last seen with Meyers. Meyers told police Engels asked him for a ride to her grandparents Lake Mary home after she left a friend's house in the Carriage Cove mobile home park in Sanford. Meyers lived in Carriage Cove at the time. Meyers bought beer and spent the evening drinking with Engels and two of her young friends. Meyers told the teens he was 19 but was actually 27 years old at the time.

Meyers told police Engels disappeared from a convenience store where the teen-ager asked to stop to make a phone call. However, he gave conflicting stories about which store the pair allegedly stopped at and that the store was open when it was not. Two women who Meyers claims he went swimming with on the night Engels disappeared never came forward.

Several inmates testified Meyers described killing the teen after she resisted sexual advances, then hid her body in a wooded area near the mobile home park. Meyers made the statements while jailed on unrelated charges. Her body was never found. Family members and long-time friends testified Engels has not contacted any of them since the night she disappeared.

and establish the program to divide a wide range of educational, social and recreational services for youth and adults."

The proposal calls for a Safe Haven to be established at Midway Elementary School.

The goal, according to Moon, is "to enable neighborhood youth and adults to become healthy, productive, law abiding citizens, free from drug and alcohol abuse, through the establishment of a neighborhood-based multi-service center, located in a safe environment."

The district proposes, if they receive the grant, to establish a center at the school within a year.

They said the center would implement programs aimed at personal health and fitness, nutrition, substance use and abuse and mental and emotional health.

One of the goals of the program is to strengthen collaboration among public, private and community groups in developing and implementing services.

The services at the "Safe Haven" would be provided by the Grove, Seminole County Mental Health, the county Health Department and the schools. The services would include nutrition classes, health screenings and referrals for services to other agencies, GED and literacy classes.

"The 'Safe Haven' is hoped to be another aspect of the Full Service Schools program that tries to address the needs of the community in one location."

"We need to be sure that we can serve the whole community in order to ensure that we can help our students be all that they can be and to ensure that we can give them the best education we can," said Moon.

Dr. Joseph Kendrick is not a teacher, though he was always a successful student.

"He did very well in school and has been successful," Bingham said.

According to Bingham, Kendrick was part of a migrant family that came to Sanford to work the fields.

Despite the mobility, he finished school and went on to complete college and go to veterinary school.

A successful veterinarian in Knoxville, Tennessee these days, Kendrick has been volunteering his services in the school system there to help students do better in school.

"He had just come back to Sanford to visit his parents,"

Abortion foes support 'justifiable homicide'

By FRED BAYLES
AP National Writer

Henry Fellsone says the three FBI agents who came to his door were brief and polite.

"They asked me about Paul Hill, and I told them I didn't know anything," says the New York City electronics technician-turned-preacher.

Hill is the fervent abortion opponent accused in last month's slayings of Dr. John Bayard Britton and his escort outside a Pensacola, Fla., abortion clinic.

Fellsone is among 30 anti-abortion activists who signed a petition Hill had circulated, starkly declaring deadly force justified in defense of the unborn.

Not surprisingly, the signers are now the targets of an FBI inquiry, a congressional hearing set for next week and the vilification of abortion foes and supporters alike. Yet they remain steadfast and mostly unrepentant.

"My feelings haven't changed one bit," said Donald Spitz, a longtime abortion opponent in Chesapeake, Va.

"I believe if an abortionist walking into the abortion mill to kill babies is killed by force, it's justifiable homicide," Spitz said in a telephone interview. "The anti-abortion groups who condemn Hill are cowards who are condemning the babies."

The statement Hill passed around and mailed out over several months said, in part:

"We proclaim that whatever force is legitimate to defend the life of a born child is legitimate to defend the life of an unborn child."

It further stated that the first shooting death of an abortionist, that of Dr. David Gunn in March 1993, also in Pensacola, was "justifiable provided it was carried out for the purpose of defending the lives of unborn children."

But Spitz and others who put their names to the statement insist they themselves are no threat.

"I've been telling people it's a statement of belief rather than an endorsement," said Michael Dodds, a Wichita, Kan., activist. "I would never consider doing anything like that myself."

The reassurances are scant comfort to the pro-choice movement. Its members recall Hill used very similar language in recent months as he made the rounds of television talk shows and print interviews to promote his view that killing doctors who abort fetuses is justifiable.

Hill debated his position at an April meeting of anti-abortion groups in Chicago — and by some accounts split the conference into two camps, for and against violence.

"There's a clear and present threat to many doctors. People who say they believe in lethal force are roaming around," said Eleanor Smeal, president of the Feminist Majority Foundation, which trains abortion clinic workers how to deal with protesters. Smeal and other pro-choice activists are demanding action against the "justifiable homicide" adherents. FBI agents have visited the petition signers, and federal marshals were dispatched to protect clinics specifically in towns where the signers live.

Rep. Charles Schumer, D-N.Y., has scheduled a hearing before the House Subcommittee on Crime and Criminal Justice next week.

"The Justice Department should investigate anti-abortion groups that advocate violence in the same manner that they investigated the Ku Klux Klan in the 1960s," Schumer said. "If there is collusion between these groups to instill terror and do violent acts, they should be prosecuted."

Those who signed Hill's petition stoutly insist there is no conspiracy. They say Hill intended the statement as a fund-raising instrument in support of Michael Griffin, charged and later convicted in Gunn's murder.

Many of the signers interviewed by The Associated Press this week say they've never met Hill.

"He got my number from someone," said Dodds, who was jailed 40 days in 1991 as one of the leaders of six weeks of protests outside Wichita abortion clinics.

"He was looking for strategically placed leaders in the pro-life movement. I said,

"Hey, I'll make the sacrifice."

Most of the names are anti-abortion activists well-known in their local communities, whose past activities range from publishing anti-abortion tracts to assaults on clinics.

Michael Bray, a Bowie, Md., minister convicted of conspiracy and other charges in the 1985 bombings of six abortion clinics, is on the list. So is the Rev. David Troesch, an Alabama priest who prints a cartoon on his personal letterhead that shows an abortion doctor about to be shot in the operating room.

"If 100 doctors need to die to save over 1 million babies a year, I see it as a fair trade," Troesch has said in earlier interviews.

Also on the list is Dave Leach, a Des Moines, Iowa, music store owner who publishes a modestly circulated monthly newsletter on abortion.

"Somehow I got on his list, and he asked if I would allow my name to be added," Leach said. "If you'll look at how carefully crafted the sentences are, the logic is irrefutable. As distressing as the conclusion is, I could not justify turning him down."

Leach, arrested three times for trespassing during anti-abortion demonstrations, said FBI agents had visited him.

"I gave them some sound reasons why I wasn't a threat, other than my deadly word processor," he said.

A number of the signers were in Mississippi this week with the American Coalition of Life Activists, a new group whose protests are aimed at running off the state's only registered abortion doctor.

Among them was Andrew Burnett of Portland, Ore., who said he signed Hill's statement as a matter of principle. Burnett's Life Ministries magazine recently described how Hill and other activists circumvented pro-choice groups to learn the identity of the doctor who would replace Gunn at the Pensacola abortion clinics, then tracked his movements.

That doctor was Britton, killed July 29.

At this week's Mississippi protests, coalition leaders required protesters to sign pledges of nonviolence.

"Do we look like terrorists?" Roy McMillan, head of the Jackson-based Christian Action Group and a signer of Hill's statement, asked as he demonstrated outside a Gulfport clinic.

"Maybe we look confrontational, like Dr. (Martin Luther) King. He was willing to make things uncomfortable for society."

Smokers on international flights face a flameout

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Smokers on international airline flights to and from the United States may be facing a flameout.

A House subcommittee voted Wednesday to ban smoking on international flights that begin or end in this country. Smoking has already been snuffed on domestic flights of six hours or less.

"This is long overdue, particularly for the flight attendants," Rep. Peter A. DeFazio, D-Ore., said after the voice vote by the House Public Works and Transportation aviation subcommittee. The bill now goes to the full committee.

The measure was strongly backed by airline flight attendants who work international routes.

"Flight attendants are sick, diseased, dying and dead from illnesses caused by tobacco smoke," Patricia Young, an American Airlines flight attendant, told the subcommittee at a hearing May 18.

"The easiest, the fastest, the cheapest way to improve air quality on international flights ... is to stop the smoking," said Rep. James L. Oberstar, D-Minn.

Rep. Bob Clement, D-Tenn., said he would prefer to see the rule take effect July 1, 1996, the date the International Civil Aviation Organization has urged all air carriers to ban smoking. "I think that's too long to wait for something we can handle now," said Oberstar.

The Air Transport Association, which represents the airline industry, has said it supports efforts to eliminate smoking on international flights as long as all airlines are included.

The Transportation Department, meanwhile, has sought to negotiate airline smoking bans with individual countries when it works out air travel agreements with those nations. A four-way agreement to ban smoking on nonstop flights between the United States, Canada, Australia and New Zealand was recently proposed.

The bill proposed by subcommittee Chairman Oberstar would require the Transportation Department to ban smoking in the cabins and lavatories of airliners entering and leaving the United States. It would take effect within 120 days of the bill's becoming law.

Asked if the United States could limit smoking on foreign airlines, Oberstar said it would be the same as any other aviation regulation — airlines that want to fly into the United States must obey U.S. rules.

The ban would cover only the leg of an international flight originating or ending in the United States — not flights between two foreign locations. It would not be limited to U.S. airspace, though.

Financial markets anxiously await latest inflation signals

By JAMES H. HANSEN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Inflation may be accelerating, and financial markets are anxiously awaiting the latest government figures that could signal the cost of living is heading upward.

The first of back-to-back reports on price trends was due out today with the Labor Department's announcement of its Producer Price Index measuring wholesale prices for July. The Consumer Price Index, which gauges costs at the retail level, will be released Friday.

The Commerce Department also was releasing retail sales figures for July today.

Inflation has been moderate, but many analysts predicted in advance of today's PPI report a modest upswing for both price barometers. Even a small rise could unnerve investors and traders who anticipate that any increase in inflationary pressure will prompt the Federal Reserve to move quickly to boost short-term interest rates.

"I think the prices are going to come in on the higher side," said economist Robert Dederick of the Northern Trust Co. in Chicago. "That will give them the support they need for the pre-emptive actions they are seeking."

On Wednesday, Wall Street seemed to shrug off interest rate worries temporarily. The Dow Jones Industrial average posted a moderate 11-point gain and advancing issues outnumbered losers.

Robert Brusca, chief economist for Nikko Securities Co. International in New York City, said he expected the PPI to be up 0.5 percent in July and the CPI up 0.4 percent, primarily because of energy costs and soaring coffee prices.

"These are not terrible numbers," Brusca said. "But given (Federal Reserve Board Chairman Alan) Greenspan's anti-inflation rhetoric, I presume this will make his life uncomfortable."

The Federal Open Market Committee, the central bank's policy-making body, meets Tuesday, and many analysts expect it to boost the target rate banks charge each other for overnight loans. The Fed has raised rates four times since February to stifle inflation, increasing them from 3 percent to 4.25 percent.

Greenspan offered no hints about the Fed's immediate course when he testified Wednesday before a House Government Operations subcommittee.

The theme of his remarks was that the government's forecasting data was imprecise at best, and that cost-of-living figures could exaggerate inflation.

Nonetheless, Greenspan has made it clear before that tightening credit too much to choke off inflation is a wiser course than moving too slowly and letting inflation get a head of steam.

Lake Mary softball registration

LAKE MARY — Returning teams may now register for the Lake Mary Parks and Recreation fall adult softball leagues.

Men's Class C leagues are planned for Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday nights at the Lake Mary Sports Complex while a women's Class C league is scheduled for Monday. Each league will play a 10-week schedule beginning the week of Sept. 5.

Registration will be open to teams new to the Lake Mary leagues beginning Monday, Aug. 22.

To register a team, a completed roster, all player cards, and all fees must be turned in. Registration packets may be picked up and turned in at Lake Mary City Hall between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The team registration fee is $280. There is also a $12 ASA team fee. Non-Lake Mary residents must pay a $5 non-resident fee. For details, call Terry Diederich at 324-3097.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Olivares leads Cardinal rout

MIAMI — On the mound and at the plate, Omar Olivares ignored the distraction of a looming strike.

Olivares pitched seven innings and hit his third career homer Wednesday, helping the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Florida Marlins 12-4.

"Distraction? What distraction?" Olivares said. "I was there to pitch. I wasn't thinking about what is going to happen Thursday. There was no distraction, just baseball."

Chattanooga overtakes Suns

JACKSONVILLE — Eric Owens' sacrifice fly delivered the go-ahead run, leading the Chattanooga Lookouts to a 6-4 victory over the Jacksonville Suns on Wednesday.

Jacksonville led 4-3 and reliever Jim Mecir (6-4) had retired six Chattanooga batters in a row going in the ninth.

But consecutive singles by Chad Mottola, Tom Houk, Brian Koelling and Pokey Reese tied the game. Owens' sacrifice fly made it 5-4. Mark Merchant's groundout scored the final run.

Panthers sign Boughner

FORT LAUDERDALE — The Florida Panthers signed free agent defenseman Bob Boughner to a multi-year contract Wednesday.

Boughner, 23, scored eight goals and 14 assists for 22 points while recording 292 penalty minutes in 72 games for the Adirondack Red Wings of the American Hockey League.

Dilfer, Rhett to play Saturday

TAMPA — Rookies Trent Dilfer and Errict Rhett will make their debuts for the Tampa Bay Buccaneers in Saturday night's exhibition against the Seattle Seahawks.

Neither will start the game, but coach Sam Wyche said Dilfer will take a limited number of snaps at quarterback and that Rhett will share playing time with three veteran running backs.

Marino to start this week

DAVIE — Miami Dolphins quarterback Dan Marino will start in Saturday's exhibition game against the Green Bay Packers and play the first quarter, coach Don Shula said Wednesday.

The team also announced the signing of fourth-round draft pick Ronnie Woolfork.

Shula was pleased with Marino's performance last week against the Pittsburgh Steelers and he is expected to play about three series.

Marino is continuing his recovery from a ruptured Achilles' tendon.

Bagwell breaks hand

HOUSTON — Houston Astros first baseman Jeff Bagwell, who has a major-league leading 118 RBIs, will miss 3-5 weeks with a broken hand after being hit by a pitch in a game against the San Diego Padres.

Bagwell was hit by a pitch from Andy Benes. X-rays revealed he has a fracture of the fourth metacarpal bone of his left hand, and he was placed in a splint.

Foreman-Moorer fight off

WEST PATTERSON, N.J. — George Foreman's scheduled fight with Michael Mooror for the WBA and IBF heavyweight championships is off because the WBA refused to sanction the fight, promoter Dan Duva said.

Duva said the WBA would strip Michael Mooror of his title even if he fought the 45-year-old Foreman only for the IBF title.

Foreman and Mooror were scheduled to fight for both belts on Nov. 8.

Two programs offered by Florida Soccer Leagues

From Staff Reports

LONGWOOD — One of the toughest tasks facing youth sports leagues is attracting parent volunteers. Often, games or practices conflict with work schedules, making it all but impossible for some parents to participate.

The Florida Soccer Leagues may have found a way to deal with that problem.

This fall, the Florida Soccer Leagues are offering two leagues that are identical in scope, expense, and age spans. The only difference is when the teams practice.

Teams in the co-ed Weekend League will practice on Saturday mornings with games scheduled for Saturday and Sunday afternoons between 1:30 and 5 p.m. By comparison, the Weekday League teams will conduct their practices during the week and play games on Sunday afternoons.

In another attempt to increase the convenience of participating in the leagues, players will not tryout but be assigned more or less to neighborhood teams.

Since the Weekend League will be more convenient for more families, it'll be the larger of the two. Additional parent volunteers are welcome to participate in this league.

The Weekday League will be offered in selected areas only and is in need of parent volunteers.

Both leagues will be divided into two-year age groups. The season is 12 weeks long, including eight scheduled games. Registration in either league is $59, which includes a uniform T-shirt, shorts, socks, accident and liability insurance, and administrative fees.

All players in both leagues will receive a certificate at the end of the season. Members of the first and second-place teams will be awarded trophies.

Also, a Tiny Tot League is being offered for beginning players only. Children born between Aug. 1, 1990, and Dec. 31, 1991, are eligible for this instructional league. The registration fee is $49.

With league play scheduled to start Saturday, Aug. 27, registration is now being conducted by the Florida Soccer Leagues. More information is available by calling 260-6004.

There are a variety of opportunities for parents to be involved. Volunteers are needed to serve as coaches, assistant coaches, referees, team mothers, fund raisers, equipment managers, field managers, and concessions managers.

Individuals may sponsor a team for $175.

SANFORD — Kevin Whittington's sacrifice fly in the sixth inning scored Anthony Alameda with the go-ahead run and gave the Aviation Blade Services Marlins a 6-5 win over the Cline's Painting-Good News Gang Royals in the Sanford Recreation Senior Baseball Tournament at Sanford Memorial Stadium.

While the Marlins and Royals were able to complete their game, the contest pitting the undefeated Noble Construction White Sox against the Metro Sewer Red Sox at Zinn Beck Field was stopped by rain and darkness with the White Sox leading 9-4 with one out in the top of the fifth inning.

There was no word on when the White Sox-Red Sox game would be completed and when the finals will be played. Originally, the consolation game was scheduled for 10 a.m. Saturday morning at Zinn Beck Field with the championship game to follow at noon.

After the Royals (4-8) scored all five of their runs in the top of the first inning, the Marlins (5-5) started chipping away at the lead, scoring single runs in the bottom of the first, second, and fifth innings.

Play stopped by rain, darkness with one out in the top of the fifth inning.

The Marlins' game-winning rally began when Tony Lewis hit a one-out single in the home half of the sixth inning. After Fred Badke walked, Alameda singled home Lewis. Chris Denman then hit a single that scored Badke with the tying run and set the stage for Whittington.

Alameda led the Marlins' seven-hit offense with a pair of singles, two runs scored, and an RBI. Denman singled twice and drove in two runs. Lewis and Steve Sperry each hit a single and scored a run. Mario Alexander also hit a single.

Whittington and Jason Thornton each had an RBI.

'Luck' gives Balough win in Crown's second leg

By PAUL MARZOLLA
Special to the Herald

SAMSULA — Gary "Hot Shoe" Balough needed a lucky finish to beat a star-studded field and win the second leg of the 100-lap Late Model Triple Crown run last Saturday night, Aug. 6, at New Smyrna Speedway.

Balough, who won the Triple Crown's first race on Friday night at Orlando Speedworld, started the race on the pole and led every circuit to secure the victory.

But after racing uncontested for 98 laps, Balough's car blew a power steering hose heading into the white flag lap. He was able to avoid the wall and manhandled the car to the checkered flag.

"You talk luck. I was lucky tonight," said Balough, who picked up his 34th win on the season. "Not only did I draw the pole, but when the hose blew, I slipped in my own oil and I was headed right for the wall."

"Going into turn four, I was trying to steer the car, but it just kept going straight. I was thinking, 'I lead the whole race and now I'm going into the wall.' At the last second, the wheels caught and I straightened out."

On the start of the race, Daniel Keene — who set the evening's fast qualifying time — and Mike Fitch tangled going into turn four. After flagman Johnny Bass sent both drivers to the rear of the field for the restart, Balough jumped to the lead on the new green flag with David Russell, Ricky Wood, and Ronnie Burkett in tow.

Russell would remain in second place for the entire race, pressuring Balough for the No. 1 spot. By lap 39, Keene had worked his way from the back of the pack to third place and stayed there until Rogers overtook him on lap 68.

With each restart, brought about by six caution flags, Balough would pull away from the field to a comfortable lead.

"We raced our plan," explained Balough. "Mash the gas to get in front, then run hard enough, without abusing the car or tires, to keep the rest of the guys behind us."

"I have a good situation with Griffin Racing. Pee Wee (Griffin), the car owner, is a long-time driver. The crew is real experienced so when we go to race, we're really ready."

By lap 76, the top five positions — the only cars on the lead lap — of the race were established, Balough riding the point with Russell, Rogers, Keene, and Burkett trailing.

"I had Gary set up for a pass when he dropped the oil," said Russell, a four-time FASCAR Late Model champion. "I backed off, waiting for a caution flag, and it never came. By the time I got on the gas, it was too late to catch him."

Bass felt a caution wasn't necessary since the fluid dropped was minimal, causing no danger or threat to the drivers.

"I'm tickled to take third tonight, but it would have made no difference where we finished," said Rogers, the winningest Late Model driver at New Smyrna Speedway. "I've been racing Volusia (County Speedway) lately because I'm in the hunt for the Sunbelt Region championship, but we've been rained out there for the last three weeks."

"I needed to race. I had to have a racing fix. When we got rained out there tonight, I said to the guys, 'We're leaving here and heading to Clyde's Place.' I'm sure glad we made the trip. I feel a whole lot better now."

The race took 55 minutes to complete. There were six cautions and no injuries reported. Balough collected $2,000 for the win.

Other feature event winners were Dave Savicki (Modifieds), Bobby Sears (Mini-Stocks), Allen Rhodes (Limited Late Models), Barbara Pierce (Sportsman), Chuck Vola (Bombers), and Tim Nicholas (Run-About).

Romp has T. Willie's in midst of title chase

From Staff Reports

WINTER SPRINGS — And the hits just keep on coming.

Toucan Willie's collected 23 safeties in just five innings of work Wednesday night, romping to a 23-9 win over Herbalite Sales in the Winter Springs Men's Class C Slowpitch Softball League at Central Winds Park.

The game was stopped after five innings by the 15-run mercy rule.

In other action, Sanford-based Hellig Meyers handed league-leading Signature Pools its first loss of the season Wednesday night.

With two make-up games left in the season, Toucan Willie's (6-2) is tied for second place with Hellig Meyers, one game behind Signature Pools (7-1). Next week, Toucan Willie's and Hellig Meyers will play in 7:30 p.m. game.

Hellig Meyers and Signature Pools are scheduled to play again on Wednesday, Aug. 24.

Oviedo High School graduate Ryan Alkire led Toucan Willie's attack last night with a triple, three singles, six RBI, and two runs scored. Harold Hitt contributed a double, two singles, four runs scored, and three RBI.

Kenny Tuttle hit three singles and scored four runs. Lance Abney also hit three singles and a sacrifice fly, driving in four runs and scoring a pair.

Billy Stripp tripled, singled, scored a run, and had four RBI. Rick Tribit had a double, single, two runs, and two RBI while Doug Pegel chipped in with a double, single, and three runs scored. Eddie Norton added two singles, two walks, a sacrifice fly, and three runs scored.

Miller, O'Neal lead romp over Puerto Rico

By BILL BARNARD
AP Basketball Writer

TORONTO - Dream Team II is really starting to get the hang of international basketball. After lackluster victories in two of its first three games at the World Championship of Basketball, the U.S. team of 12 NBA All-Stars now has two consecutive 50-point blowouts against Australia and Puerto Rico.

The Americans, who earlier in the tournament took turns showing off their inside and outside games, displayed both in a 134-83 rout of Puerto Rico, which is coming off a gold-medal performance at the Goodwill Games.

"Teams are trying different ways to play us," said Reggie Miller, who hit eight of 11 3-pointers and scored 26 of his 28 points in the first half Wednesday night. "They now know they can't try to slow it down and they can't run with us. We didn't have a Tourna-ment of the Americas to prepare for the different styles. Now we're ready to play any way."

The Tournament of the Americas statement by Miller was a pointed reference to the pre-Olympic event played by the original Dream Team in 1992. Dream Team II finishes its quarterfinal round-robin Friday night at SkyDome against Russia, which also is undefeated in five games after winning 103-76 over Australia.

The one-sided victory gave the Americans a 5-0 record in the tournament and assured them a spot in Saturday's semifinals against undefeated Croatia or Greece. Croatia is 5-0 after winning 92-81 over Canada.

The second-half highlight was the 7-foot-1, 300-pound O'Neal's rebound, coast-to-coast dribble and slam-dunk, bringing his teammates off the bench in celebration.

Poison ivy: Is there protection?

DEAR DR. GOTT: I suffer from poison ivy three or four times a year. Is there a shot I can get to keep me from getting covered with this annoyance?

DEAR READER: Some people exhibit a astounding hypersensitivity to poison ivy or poison oak. Even with minimal exposure, they experience severe reactions, with marked swelling, itching and discomfort. For such persons, desensitization injections are available and I have used them with stunning success. The most widely sold product is Ivyol.

Initially, three injections are given about three weeks apart. Each year thereafter, one booster shot (in the early spring) should maintain immunity. Ask your doctor about this.

This therapy is not necessary for the average person, who may experience mild poison ivy reactions, such as rash and itching over the hands or legs; these trivial cases can be prevented by wearing appropriate protective clothing, and for the average poison ivy sufferer, topical agents, such as Caladryl, will relieve symptoms.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have a problem with my fingernails splitting and peeling. I've been told that folic acid might help. Since I'm in my 70s and there's no chance of my getting pregnant, I wonder if this is a possible remedy.

DEAR READER: Splitting of the nails commonly accompanies old age. The condition is annoying and difficult to treat. Traditionally, protein supplements (such as gelatin) have been used to strengthen the nails.

I am not aware that folic acid, a necessary nutrient for normal cell metabolism, helps cure split nails. Folic acid deficiency causes anemia and malnutrition during pregnancy. The Recommended Dietary Allowance is 400 milligrams per day for adults.

The substance is completely safe and is routinely prescribed for expectant mothers; folic acid toxicity has not been reported to occur. If you want to try a folic

Answer to Previous Puzzle

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

A former British Prime Minister, Benjamin Disraeli, said, "The secret of success is constancy of purpose." In other words, determine your goal and keep plugging away until you reach it.

In bridge, the goal is to make all the contracts you declare (unless you are sacrificing) and to defeat all the contracts you defend. It is impossible to do this all the time, of course, but your constancy of purpose should be to succeed whenever possible.

West leads the spade five against your contract of three no-trump. How would you plan the play? Many Wests would produce a weak jump overall of two hearts. But if North-South buys the contract, that bid would make it easier for the declarer to read the cards.

East might have competed with two hearts, but without an honor in the suit, he didn't want to encourage West to lead a heart.

Placing West with the spade king for his overall, South called for dummy's queen. However, East won with the king and switched to a heart. With this lie of the cards, South could no longer make his contract.

True, the lead looked as though it was away from the king, but suppose South rises with the spade ace, plays a club to his ace and continues with the 10, planning to overtake with either dummy's jack or king. How can he go down? He can't. Whatever the layout, at the worst East wins with the club queen and the defenders cash three spade tricks. South always wins at least one spade, one heart, two diamonds and five clubs.

Only finesse when it is safe or necessary.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bode Ouel
YOUR BIRTHDAY
Aug. 12, 1994

Even though you might have to overcome some obstacles, substantial material growth is indicated for the year ahead. Keep trying and don't settle for second best.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) As you approach the fulfillment of your expectations today, your luck could be significantly magnified. Be determined to produce desirable results. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences governing you in the year ahead. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $1.25 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4485, New York, N.Y. 10163. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your best asset today is your ability to improve on the ideas of associates. Even if what they have to offer is good going in, you can make it better.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Conditions look extremely promising for you at this time, as far as your financial interests are concerned. Keep searching for ways to add to your income or holdings. Lady Luck is willing to help.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Endeavors you create or manage today have excellent chances for success, but don't expect Rome to be built in a day. What you're dealing with could have long-term possibilities.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Friends might request favors of you today they dare not ask of others. They know you're a compassionate person who will help if at all possible.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your popularity among your peers is tracking upwards. Even those who have recently treated you with indifference may do an about-face and shower you with warmth.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Focus your efforts on meaningful goals in this cycle. The more significant, the better. Big expectations can be gratified in this time frame if you have the determination.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Strive to maintain a philosophical attitude today, regardless of what develops. If your outlook is positive, negative situations can be comfortably reversed.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Today your most significant benefits might come from arrangements that are not of your making but still provide advantages uniquely suited to your character.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you have to make a difficult decision today, return to a friend who has offered you wise advice previously. This person has a lot more solutions in his/her storehouse of knowledge.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Adequate help should be available today to assist you in handling a difficult development you thought you'd have to manage on your own.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Because you're rather bold and enterprising today, others might feel you are taking risks you should avoid. However, you'll be well aware of your limitations and govern your actions accordingly.
