

Modern Music Experimental" Says Dohnanyi On Birthday

By Julius Stern
 The past week's long head-butt of the present today and didn't what is over.

Dr. Ernst von Dohnanyi, dean of living composers and the last surviving representative of the romantic age of Beethoven and Wagner, is passing about the future of music, Hungarian-born Dohnanyi, who knew Brahms and Goldmark and Schumann and Mahler, who heard Anton Rubinstein (one of the greatest pianists of any age), who saw Franz Liszt in his abbé robes—when, at his London debut here the turn of the century, was hailed as a pianist greater than Paderewski—consented for the first time to make some brief comments on modern music.

This silver-haired Titan of the keyboard will be 89 years old on July 27. As ramrod straight as now, with the reflexes of an adolescent, and a keyboard ability which outpaces younger pianists—the slightly built, handsome figure with the massive musical reputation has come to our country to live in quiet seclusion Tallahassee, where he teaches advanced piano and composition students at Florida State University.

"I have never given opinions on modern music," he recently told this writer, "because it would offend some living persons."

"Besides, it is difficult to have a settled opinion to this music," he went on with a merry twinkle in his kindly eyes. "You think one thing today; then you must change tomorrow."

Pressed for an amplification of his remarks, he said: "The situation is much the same as in art. They are searching, but they are not sure what for. There is no style now; only experimenting. It's a passing phase, of course, but where it will go is problematic."

Dr. Dohnanyi will celebrate his birthday quietly with a group of friends at the home of a fellow faculty member, Polish pianist-composer Franciszek Zechara. It was Zechara who, on the occasion of an earlier birthday, wrote his "Festivities on a Nursery Rhyme."

Birthday celebrations are "old hat" with this musician. On his 60th, in 1927, the Hungarian state officials declared a festival in his honor. One of the events was a banquet in Budapest attended by over 2,000 people.

But the most touching was his 70th birthday celebration. In 1944 the Dohnanyi family, husband and wife and two children, were refugees and living in a little colony of about 35 Hungarians in Germany. Food was scarce, but his competitors, rivetted as was their situation, somehow managed to rent a restaurant and throw a surprise party for him. There was a birthday cake complete with a handsome ribbon and wine and meat for which these refugees had bartered their last pieces of extra clothing.

In 1944, with the Nazis in Hungary, listening to broadcasts from England was forbidden. But on July 27th a friend ran over to the Dohnanyi house to summon the family hurriedly around the shortwave receiver. As it has each year on his birthday, the BBC was broadcasting a program in his honor. The announcer told the audience that "although he could technically be considered an enemy since he is in an enemy-occupied country—we know him from the past and love him so much that we feel his music should be considered international."

Dohnanyi's career stretches across a span of more than 60 years. Now in his 7th decade, he teaches and writes regularly, and everyone is amazed, as was this writer, at his marvelous vitality and the fact that he is so young physically. His doctors attribute this to the fact that he has the unusual facility for living a relaxed life. His concerts are played the same way and for that reason he never seems to tire.

American citizens and living far away from their lifelong homeland, he and his lovely wife now consider Tallahassee "home," and are in turn treated as "homefolks" by the friendly Tallahasseans.

A DOG'S BEST FRIEND
 GILSTONBURY, Conn.—(UPI)—Arthur Jackson, 14, suffered a broken shoulder when he swerved his bicycle into a huge boulder rather than run down a small dog. Said Arthur: "I'm glad I did it. After all, I wouldn't want to hurt that dog."

John Erwin Owes His TV Success To Army

By MEL SPOTOWNEY
 NEW YORK (UPI)—At the age of 31 John Erwin considered himself a failure.

Now, a movie maker, Mr. John Erwin is a success. And it all goes to show what the Army can do for a man.

When he was 22, Erwin was one of hundreds of young actors trying desperately to make a mark in New York—and finding failure at practically every turn.

Then he received "greetings" from his friends and neighbors on the draft board, and, after a few months, he leaped into the star part for a television series about Army heroes, he won a world-wide Army talent contest and he is sought after in traditional frantic fashion by Hollywood "discoverers."

"I didn't like the idea of being drafted," Mr. Erwin said while here to appear on TV. "But I figured it would give me a pad and three hot meals a day (a bed and three hot meals)."

"But then again I felt as if I'd be that much longer before I could get anywhere on Broadway."

Series of Flops
 "I had two solid years of failures under my belt. I started off in an off-Broadway play called 'Doctor Schlemiel,' which was as bad as it sounds. A quick series of successful flops followed."

The Army sent Erwin, a native of Fort Wayne, Ind., to Germany after his basic training to play in a unit band, which meant that he would do less marching in the Army than he did pounding the pavement in New York looking for jobs.

Before long he saw an audition notice in "Stars and Stripes," the GI newspaper in Europe, for a TV series, "Citizen Soldiers," the true exploits of U. S. World War II heroes.

Here the Army gave him another helping hand. Erwin said that before he was drafted he was so desperate to get an acting job, that his auditions weren't "honest." But after a few months in the Army he developed the drafter's traditional "don't sweat" attitude and his tryout for the TV series went well.

Send Agent Film
 "They liked me and they used me," Erwin said. "They assigned me to temporary duty to work on the film and away I went."

Erwin had the foresight to send a print of one of his filmed efforts to an agent in Hollywood who started to show it around. It didn't get very far, however, Erwin said. One of the first Hollywood potentates to see it refused to return the film for other showings.

LACROFT, N. Y.—(UPI)—Competing in a high school track meet despite being handicapped by having a broken arm in a cast, Bob Lake successfully cleared the high jump bar at 5 feet, 7 inches. Then he tried to clear 5-6, fell hard and broke his other arm. His last good jump earned him a tie for second place in the event.

NO TRESPASSING
 NEWTON, Ill.—(UPI)—Farmer John Collins noticed that a one-week-old pig had joined his chickens as he fed them. Suddenly, the pig squealed and fell over dead. Collins found two small holes in the head of the pig. They were inflicted by the spurs of an irate rooster.

Space For Rent

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI)—If there is a man in the moon, Pauline Riggs Haines wants to be the first one there to sell him a house.

A Downey Calif. broker, Mrs. Haines recently wrote the State Division of Real Estate: "Enclosed please find $1. I wish to be the first to apply for a branch office on the moon."

"My children insist this will come in my time. It is hard to believe, but I want to be ready," Real Estate Commissioner F. W. Griesinger showed that his imagination was at least equal to Mrs. Haines'.

He decided that pending annexation of all or part of the moon's surface to the state of California, her application for a branch office will be kept on file under "Moonbeams."

The Wanig foundry, which now employs 12 craftsmen plus Wanig's 54-year-old son Ulfman, turns out cannon in four different sizes. They range in price from $100 to $450. Ammunition is also available at 50 cents a round.

Quite often, Wenig calls his arsenal out into a nearby field and fires the cannon one after the other. It's an impressive sight—and an awesome sound.

West Germans Are Buying Ceremonial Cannon For Show

POKING, Germany (UPI)—The cannon business is booming in this small Bavarian village near the Austrian frontier.

Not the fearsome atomic variety, but old-fashioned cannon for ceremonial use.

In 33 years, Joseph Wenig has turned out 2,300 of the guns at his foundry. He says he's now getting more orders than ever before.

"Apparently," said the small, bespectacled, 70-year-old Wenig, "people still like the idea of the booming noise of the cannon to

Merril C. Ginder Killed From Ambush Early Today

CofC Group Approves School Bond Issue

A special Education Committee of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce endorsed the School Bond Issue at a meeting last night when details of the school system's needs were explained by R. T. Milwee, Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Capt. L. A. Arthur Speaks On School Bond Issue Today

Captain Lionel A. Arthur told the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce Coffee Club this morning that "We, of the Navy, have a very deep personal interest in the City of Sanford and Seminole County."

Pepper Strikes Hard At Holland Yesterday

By United Press International Sen. Spessard L. Holland said that Claude D. Pepper's statement that he would be elected senator is "just about as optimistic as when he offered himself for the presidency for 72 hours back in 1948."

The seven-man committee heard Milwee explain the need for the $3.2 million five-year school building program.

It was also brought out that 35 per cent of the annual budget for school operation is furnished from local funds. The other 65 per cent, it was explained, comes from state funds.

A 30-year-old Sanford package store owner was shot down from an ambush early this morning. Merrill C. Ginder was blasted down and instantly killed at 1 o'clock this morning as he helped his wife into their car just outside the 600 West 7th St.

The blast was apparently fired at close range from a 12 gauge shotgun, said Deputy Sheriff Verne Brewster at the scene.

The shot apparently came from behind another automobile which was parked in the driveway of the Clark home.

Clark said "I didn't go outside the house but stayed inside and phoned for the Sheriff and the ambulance."

Ginder fell in his tracks as he attempted to close the car door and go around to his side of the automobile. His keys were found beside him as were his glasses.

Jaycees Auction Services Of Their President Soon

There are many ways through which funds are raised for various projects.

However, the Sanford Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce, faced with the need for funds with which to complete construction of their new Tourist Information Building on French Ave., will try a brand new one that they are hoping will bring in enough to get a good portion of the proposed building complete.

The Jaycees are offering the services of their President, Tom McDonald, to the highest bidder.

Bids will be taken on Saturday during the hours of 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. while a broadcast is being conducted direct from Jaycee Park on French Ave.

E. C. Wise Death Shock To Oviedo

OVIEDO—The many friends of E. C. Wise of Oviedo wish to express their love and sympathy to Mrs. Wise. The sudden death of Mr. Wise came as a shock to his many friends.

Harold Ward, president of Lake Charm Fruit Company, told once how many years he had been associated with the firm. It was thirty-three years, a long time with them.

He was well liked by the many who knew him. He was probably known by most of the citrus and citrus growers in this section.

Those who have had business dealings with him for many years will miss him very much—his affable smile, his friendly greeting.

NUMBERS, PLEASE GRAND HAVEN, Mich. —(UPI)—Lengthy debate over what to do about a skunk that had taken over a telephone booth here was ended when someone suggested opening the door to let him out. It worked.

Justice of the Peace W. Hugh Duncan impounded a coroner's jury to view the body. The six men jury sworn in at the scene included: A. F. Green, A. L. Ginter, J. C. Williams, J. D. Condon (foreman), Oscar Decker, and J. W. Colley.

No date has been set for an inquest, into the brutal slaying of the Sanford man.

Annexation Petitions Now Being Circulated

Extensive plans were made at a recent meeting of volunteers for the circulation of petitions in Pinedale for annexation to the City of Sanford.

L. L. R. Bauer, at whose home the meeting was held, outlined to the committee of 12 volunteers workers, the campaign for covering the entire Pinedale area to obtain the necessary signatures to the petitions for annexation.

LADR. W. J. Hendrick heads a large committee which will circulate the petitions from house to house in the area.

Mrs. H. Eichelberger and Mrs. Wills Mae Prokash are the chairwomen of a committee of many women whose job will be to telephone residents in advance of the petition circulating committee.

Question and answer sheets on annexation will be distributed this week by L. Bauer and J. Rubel. The sheets will go to each resident in the Pinedale area. These sheets, it was said, will attempt to clarify any misunderstanding point of the annexation program or inform residents who are not familiar with annexation.

Pinedale residents who attended the recent meeting were: L. and Mrs. L. R. Bauer, Mrs. D. Hendrick, W. J. Hendrick, L. C. Hendrick, W. H. Mahoney, A. O. M. W. M. Prokash, L. J. Sangster, J. Rubel, and E. L. Weber, A. D. C.

Annexation petitions have been circulated throughout Country Club Manor under the leadership of George Harrison.

A spokesman for the volunteer group said that in order to complete the tremendous task of petitioning in an orderly fashion "it has been necessary to divide the area affected by annexation into sections so that everyone interested can be contacted."

Other residents outside of the Sanford City limits who are in the proposed annexation area, the spokesman said, will be contacted around Aug. 9, at the conclusion of the Pinedale area canvassing.

Gen. Fuad Chehab Elected President Of Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)—Gen. Fuad Chehab was elected president of Lebanon today in a parliamentary landslide that signaled an end to the Lebanese crisis and early withdrawal of U. S. forces.

After 13 weeks of bitter warfare, both government and insurgent forces rallied behind the 60-year-old army chief of staff. He was elected by a vote of 46 to 7 in the chamber of deputies. The election, which for a time looked as though it would not come off, was held in the heavily guarded parliamentary building.

Fifty-six of the Ayy deputies showed up for the crucial elections. Chehab got 43 votes on the first ballot—just one short of the constitutional majority required. Only one other candidate gained any votes, opposition challenger Raymond Eddo who received 13. Three deputies abstained.

Beirut radio immediately broadcast the news in the nation. It was received with jubilation. The significance of the vote was not that Chehab had won but that the military divided forces of President Camille Chamoun and the anti-western insurgents had cast their ballots together.

It took two ballots before the excited announcement from speaker Adel Ossayran that Chehab had won.

On the second and decisive ballot, Chehab won 46, Eddo got 7 and one deputy abstained.

But it was still a triumph for the quiet, unassuming general who stepped out from a non-political military career in offering the nation stability. It was the second time Chehab took over the reins of government at a time of crisis.

stop with leaders of the government and opposition forces in his efforts to resolve their dispute and solve the crisis. He met with Tripoli leader Rashid Karami just before taking off for Amman. Chehab emerged early in the negotiations and the two men had signed an agreement Monday. He made it clear that he would accept the presidency if the parties guaranteed him an overwhelming majority in the vote.

Accidental Injury

KENNESVILLE, N.C. (UPI)—The car swerved wildly, left the highway, ripped through a fence and bumped through for 300 feet into farmer Raymond Wilson's pasture. Car owner Franklin B. Jones was uninjured, as was another man who was driving for him. But Patrolman Clay Fox said that when he came on the scene James had a nasal fracture. Seems the car-owner and the farmer had argued about who was to pay for the fence, and the farmer had punched James in the nose. More than two million tons of air freight and cargo are flown in the U. Recreation Program Features Hayride

OVIDO—The final event of the Teenage Parties of the Ovido Recreation Program will be the hayride tonight, departing at 7:00 p. m. from the Ovido Center. All are urged to come and join in the fun. The pool at Sweetwater Park has been closed for several days now, pending repairs to the damage of the many who have been enjoying its facilities. The Junior Olympics, scheduled by the Ovido Recreation Program for Wednesday, had to be canceled. Coach Mikler had counted so much on that to be the highlight of the week, especially as the end of the program is today. Even without the Junior Olympics Coach Mikler and his entire staff of helpers have done a wonderful job and have conducted the best Recreation Program over in the annals of its history. We know they all deserve a good vacation now and hope they all get it. We'll look forward to next year's event. In addition to his good work with the Recreation Program, Coach Mikler has been manager of the Babe Ruth Team.

Slavia Girl New Located in Canada

OVIDO—Had a letter from our friends, Marion and John Obeda, from Timmins, Ontario, Canada. Marion, if you remember, was Miss Marion Stanko, niece of Mrs. Juliano Stanko, of Slavia. They tell us that they are moving to Bradford, Ontario, about 400 miles south of their present location, 40 miles north of Toronto on Highway 11. John has accepted the call to Trinity Lutheran Church there. They further stated that they were eagerly awaiting the arrival of John's parents, also Aunt Stanko (Mrs. Juliana Stanko) and Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Best. They went even further and gave their present location—on the corner of Colborne and Seaton to those who will be coming up. That sounds like a mighty exciting invitation from Marion and John. We're mighty tempted— with the weather so hot here! Even gave their mailing address as Box 423, Bradford, John stated: "It would be wonderful for more people to see Canada and visit our mission stations here." Just gets more tempting by the minute. We never enjoyed anything any more than we did Marion's and John's wedding last November. The wonderful "banquet" following was "out of this world." Aunt Stanko's delicious strudel and all of those other delicious goodies prepared by their friends in Slavia. We promised Marion and John to send them a picture postcard of Sunny Florida when the weather was so cold, and snow piled high — in February or March. They were good sports and said they would be eagerly awaiting those cards. Of course, we had meant to get them a washi homesick for good old Florida. However, the joke backfired. Who was in the clutches of "ole man winter" in February? We were good sports, too. Sent them a card of the North on one side and Sunny Florida on the other. We wrote we were undecided as to which was which and not to let the picture of Sunny Florida fool them.

However, we will be mighty glad to see them again. It has been a long month to some of us—but a short one to them, we know.

Protest Against Tax Inequities A Step In The Right Direction

We can see it right now—this is going to be a no holds barred fight for an equalization of taxes for Seminole County.

The anger behind the barrage of protests Tuesday when the Equalization Board met has been fomenting for many months. It's hard to estimate just how far back the sting of inequality was felt by taxpayers.

But the battle lines are drawn and the fight has begun. From here it can go anywhere and we're not trying to predict just where the flames will go out and normalcy—on the feeling about taxes—will be resumed.

One threat made yesterday is bound to have some effect on the outcome of the fight to have equal property assessed an equal amount, and that was the one by J. Brailley Odham when he roared at the Equalization Board and to the Seminole County Tax Assessor "I'll take this thing to court—to every court I can get it into—until it's settled."

No doubt when the Equalization Board meets again next Monday afternoon there'll hardly be room in the Seminole County Court House to hold them. The word is getting around and citizens are getting up in the air.

The popular topic of conversation comes under the general heading of "Taxes" and the usual warmer-upper at the start of greetings might be "How much taxes do you pay?"

We'd find ourselves agreeably surprised to know the number of citizens who pay no taxes and the most of them expressing the desire to "pay something." That came out forcefully Tuesday when citizens protested. "I didn't come up here to get out of paying taxes or even to have my taxes reduced—I would gladly pay more—even double what I am assessed now, but I want to pay on an equal basis with my neighbor who has equal property and comparable homes."

Actually, this is nothing more than a battle to obtain justice for each individual. Some are paying too much as their share of taxes. Others, who want to pay taxes, are paying nothing. Yet—our schools, road program, maintenance programs, health and welfare, old folks home, police protection, and other services must go on—and most times at ridiculously high figures that keep going up year after year.

There again we have a word to say. There are some places in our county government where money is no concern. Get rid of it is the by-word—and that's what's done. We believe that the Board of Seminole County Commissioners must sit down and take a close look at the 1958-59 budget—depart-

Science Today

By DELOM SMITH
 UPI Science Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—When 112 men were students together in one college, their interest in religion was slight but their interest in power and influence was great.

Fifteen years later, when they were husbands and fathers and more or less successful in life, their interest in power and influence had diminished very little but their interest in religion had moved way up and held a strong second place.

These provocative facts were obtained by Dr. Irving E. Bender, professor of psychology at Dartmouth College, by comparing the scores the men made in psychological tests when they were students and when they took the same tests 15 years later.

Psychology's scientific mission is to find out and understand what makes people tick, in relation both to their individualized inner selves and to all the things which are going on in the world they live in. The 15 years covered the span from the beginning of World War I to the present crisis years of atomic and hydrogen bombs and the division of the world into two great camps.

The 112 men are all Dartmouth men. To the extent that Dartmouth men are representative of Americans as a whole, Bender's newly obtained facts apply to all of us. As for what the facts reveal about the present state of the hearts and minds of Americans, Bender could only ask questions.

"Is the resurgence of religion a part of the widespread and expanding need to belong, the need to conform?" he asked. "Or is the change motivated by fear, not without an undertone of hope? Do circumstances compel one to despair of reason and invoke the ancient answer to trust in God?"

The psychological tests applied to the men are complex and designed to get down into the depths of their beings which they themselves may not know very well consciously. The results are checked for accuracy by measurement.

ing the results of any one against those of the others. Scientific psychology believes in them.

Mark Of The Times

Bender tested to find out whether or the turning to religion was a mark of the 15 men having matured in 15 years, or a mark of the times in which they are living. His results indicated the latter was the case. As a check, he tested current Dartmouth students. Their religious interest scores were similar to those of Dartmouth men who are now in their 40's.

In reporting his studies to the American Psychological Association, he noted that the most pronounced increase in religious interest was among the men who studied the social sciences in college and who now "operate a small, self-run business." He also found that the increased interest was more in the theological than in the philosophical aspects of religion.

Foreign News Commentary

By CHARLES M. McCANN
 UPI Foreign News Analyst

It looks as if there may be a series of "summit" conferences. It is possible that one conference will be held at United Nations headquarters in New York within the next few weeks.

There are increasingly strong indications that if this meeting is held, it will be followed by another one in Europe, most probably in Geneva, Switzerland, or Paris.

If those two conferences gave any hope of important agreements, it is possible that there might be a third one—a clean-up meeting.

A few weeks ago it seemed highly improbable that there would be any summit meeting this year.

Then came the United States and British troops landings in Lebanon and Jordan.

Out of Hand

This resulted in a demand by Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev for an emergency meeting in Geneva at which the United States, Britain, France, India and Russia would be represented, with United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld sitting in.

After a number of exchanges of notes, it is now proposed that the conference be held in New York, under the authority of the U.N. Security Council.

But the entire business has got out of hand.

Under the procedure now shaping up, the U.N. conference would be practically an international convention.

The entire member Security Council, including the United States, Britain, France and Russia, would be represented.

In addition, India would be invited. And it is suggested that several Arab countries, including President Gamal Abdel Nasser's United Arab Republic, Saudi Arabia and Jordan, be invited.

It is now proposed that not only the Lebanese and Jordanian situations but the Middle Eastern as a whole be discussed.

Washington See-Saw

By Wm. Pennington
 Good-Bye Party—Nobody knows for sure when Congress will adjourn, but Mrs. Inez Sikes, new president of the Florida State Society, thinks it might be around August 9. So, she has scheduled the annual farewell party for the Florida colony here for August 8. It will be held in the Senate Cause Room from 7:00 until 9:00 (p. m. that is). With the announcement of the party came the roster of the new Board of Directors; one member from each Congressional office: From Senator Holland's office, Sarah Shiner; Senator's, Ruth Yates; House's, Jerry Melvin; Raylong's, Audrey Williamson; Rogers', Buddy Lochrie; Haley's, Marice MacNichol; Fancell's, Jane Buehler; Matthews', Glenda Chaney; Bennett's, Audrey Stringfellow; Cramer's, Charlie Batschelder.

Turn About—Last week, a number of Florida's citrus leaders were in Washington to attend hearings on the high cost of orange juice. The industry had been accused of raising the price of fresh orange juice in the northern markets by cartel. During testimony before the Agriculture Committee, Marvin Walker, Lake Wales, General Manager of the Florida Citrus Canners Cooperative, said: "At least there is one something I thought today. I have been coming to Washington for the last 20 years to do what I can to raise the price of oranges and orange juice. This is the first time I have ever been here when somebody has said the price is too high." All in all, the Florida group made a good impression on the Committee, and apparently convinced them that there is no cartel in Florida; that the high price of orange juice is the natural result of the old rule of supply and demand; that the high price was caused by last winter's freeze.

Friendship Pays Off—Congressman Syd Herlong's faculty for getting along with people and making himself well-liked, built last week before the Agriculture Committee. Several weeks ago, he introduced a bill giving the Federal Government to give to Sumter County some 3,000 acres of land lying in the Withlacoochee Development Project. The County wants it for a location for a new branch of the Florida prison system. They plan to erect a $2 million building; use the land as a research farm. Syd was formerly a member of the Agriculture Committee and when he asked the chairman, Harold Cooley (D-NC), to hold a hearing on his bill, the entire Committee was present. The audience would be about half. Our prediction: Syd will get the land without any trouble. Here to appear before the Committee were James W. West, Bushnell, Sumter County Attorney; Willard Peebles, Wildwood, president of the Sumter County Chamber of Commerce; A. D. Palmer, Wildwood, chairman of the Board of County Commissioners.

Let's Go Home—Congressman Billy Matthews has a reputation for being able to please any audience. He proved it again the other day. It was after six o'clock. The House was still in session. He was the final speaker of the day. Under a previous order he was recognized for 15 minutes. He pleased his audience in the first 10 seconds when he announced he would use only five minutes of his allotted time so everybody could go home. He did and they did. All were happy.

Pentagon Parade—In Washington for two weeks active duty is Col. Louis Gravelly, Ocala attorney. Col. Gravelly is Civilian Aide to the Secretary of the Army for Florida and was recently named Army Vice-President of the Reserve Officers Association. This is the sixth straight year that Gravelly has taken his tour of duty in the office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Logistics and Requirements.

By ROBERT MUSEL
MOSCOW (UPI)—United States weight-throwers—in the shotput and discus throw—apparently are next on the list of American world track and field champions Russia is out to conquer.

A horde of lady scientists and other Russian officials made their debut Tuesday in the aftermath of the first U.S. vs Russia dual track meet in history. The Russians claimed victory by coupling the scores of both men and women to come up with a final 179-179 score while U.S. officials claimed their men won and their women lost.

But what the Russians are thinking of doing when they go to Philadelphia next July was made crystal clear by the way they concentrated on the activities of shotput ace Perry O'Brien and discus thrower Al Oerter.

The Russians took 18 minutes of film of O'Brien alone," revealed U.S. Coach George Eastment, coach of Manhattan College's track team. "And they haven't given Oerter a minute's peace with their questions."

"They're particularly interested in how I started out as a kid," said Oerter, who patiently answered questions for hours. "Well, I can give them some free advice—they train too hard. Their discus men train three hours daily seven days a week."

The Russians apparently have decided to permit the sprinters to remain in the United States "private property" for the time being at least. The northern European countries have been traditionally weak at the smaller distances although they have produced great distance champions.

It took practically no time at all for Eastment and Russian coach Gavril Korobov to get into a disagreement over next year's meet. Korobov said it should be made clear before the clash that the men's and women's points should be lumped together.

"Definitely not," said Eastment. "We never feel them in the United States. Why I don't think we've got more than 500 women in training over the whole country. We'll score 'em separately — 40 we were supposed to do this time."

U.S. official Dan Ferris told Western reporters he has a letter in which the Russians agreed the meet was to be scored separately but that's not the way he was quoted Tuesday in the Russian press.

In the Pravda version, Ferris said: "The Soviet team beat us through their fine performances in the pole vault and the men's high jump."

Local news outlets banner the "Russian victory," of course, and the Leningradskaya Hotel busied with activity as the Soviet researchers descended on the "Tetra" to find out how they did it. The American stars were swamped with questionnaires from the moment they went down to breakfast until they could get quiet in their hotel rooms.

Player Of The Day

—GERRIE LOLLAR—
 The White Sox call catcher Bernie Lollar the "brave" of the ball club and quite often he also supplies the brawn.

Al Lopez, like other White Sox managers before him, entrusts his pitching staff completely to Lollar before and during all games.

"Bernie knows the hitters' weaknesses better than anyone in the league," Lopez says. "He always gets together with our pitchers and goes over the hitters on the other clubs."

Lollar's contribution to the White Sox doesn't end there, however. He's pretty good with the bat, too.

Tuesday night, for example, he came up with two out and one on in the ninth. Washington was ahead, 1-0. He smashed a 2-and-0 pitch by Russ Kemmerer into the left field lower deck at Comiskey

Operator Negligence Boat Accident Cause

An empty headed skipper is an overloaded boat is the number one cause of boating accidents.

This fact was brought out in a recently completed study of boating accidents just published by the Outboard Boating Club of America. According to the study, 21.7 per cent of the accidents analyzed were caused by "operator negligence," a category which includes such acts of foolishness as overloading a boat, making too sharp turns, standing up in a small boat, etc.

Causing or overturning (including boats found overturned after the fact and accidents with too brief or generalised description of cause for other classification) caused 28.54 per cent of the accidents. Collisions with other boats, rocks, reefs, or submerged objects caused 8.89 per cent of the accidents.

Kids and high speeds are shown to be only incidental factors in boating accidents, according to OBC's report.

Of the cases studied, it was found that the average age of skippers involved in fatal accidents was a little over 30 and only one such skipper in 19 was less than 20 years of age. It was also found that in more than half the cases reported, the boat was engaged in fishing at the time of the accident. This limitation high speeds as a major cause of accidents, OBC concludes, since good skippers are not needed in fishing. (Water skiing and racing, two activities which demand high speeds, accounted for only 4.8 per cent of the cases.)

OBC's study is based on newspaper reports of boating accidents from January 1 to December 31, 1937. During the period of coverage, an average of more than three news clippings per accident were received and analyzed. This afforded OBC an opportunity to check one report against another for accuracy and to obtain additional information.

The new accident study examines in detail 737 accidents involving 973 deaths that occurred in 1937 and represents approximately 80 per cent of the total boating fatalities for the year, according to OBC's estimates. Accidents were distributed through 48 states and the District of Columbia.

Confirming information and conclusions published in a similar survey last year, the study underlines the fact that the rapid growth of boating's popularity has not resulted in a proportionate increase in boating accidents.

The report shows that while the number of outboard motors in use increased from 8.8 million in 1940 to 4.7 million in 1938, the record of fatalities dropped from 1,348 in 1949 to 1,237 in 1938.

It is evident, OBC concludes, that the well-planned educational program and sensible safety regulations now in existence are doing a great deal to help the new boaters handle their craft correctly.

OBC uses the information from its accident studies to direct its

Horsemen Helped "Buy" Their Way Out Of Recession

When a white neck, the administration would be "buy" their way out of the recession, horsemen obviously took the admonition to heart. At the breeders' sales company sale of stallions at Keeneland in Lexington, Kentucky last week they proceeded cautiously in the future to the tune of $2,000,000.

While prices set no records — and none were expected according to breeders — the buyers spent $200,000 more this year than they had at the 1937 sales. The average paid for 287 yearlings sold was $7,215.

Some of the same is anticipated for the 8-night sale of Yearlings at Saratoga which got underway on August 11. Humphrey R. Finney, president of Fasig-Tipton Company which began selling yearlings at Saratoga in 1917, returned from the Keeneland sales beaming.

"In spite of recession and the more recent disturbing developments in the Middle East, the yearling market is solid and this is a good sign for business generally," Finney said.

It was noted that TRA statistics on race track operation for the first six months of 1938 had shown no drastic change from the 1937 figures. Attendance was up 4.5% and the net-mutual handle was off by the same fractional amount.

The yearling sales and the Tallyator board serve as a good barometer of business conditions generally and the Louisville investment house of Tyrus R. Davis Company recently issued an "Index of Business Trends as Determined by the Wagering on the Derby Race (Kentucky Derby), 1930-1938."

The Tyrus R. Davis Company "theory in economic evaluation" observed that "The correlations of Derby betting trends with other

NEW YORK (UPI)—The bright, set new star in the N.Y. 100 ft. League today, a boy they used to call "a butcher" in the outfield.

There never was any question about Shiner's hitting ability, but some of his awkward defensive antics used to cause die-hard Pirates fans to shield their eyes in horror.

Now Shiner's .228 batting figure puts him within reasonable reach of Stan Musial and Willie Mays for the league's batting crown. More important, perhaps, his steady fielding puts him directly in line for the title of the most improved fly-chaser in the circuit.

"The thing that helped me most was Danny Murtaugh (Pirates manager) giving me a chance to play regularly," says the lissle six-foot-year-old-Martin from San Diego, Calif.

"I knew I was no Tris Speaker in the outfield," he explains. "and I also knew the only way I'd improve was by playing every day."

When Shiner, or "Shin" as his teammates call him, received that opportunity, he made the most of it.

Every day when the Pirates were at home, he'd come out early in the morning to Forbes Field and work on every defensive phase he could think of. That included running in for Toss 'em leaguers, going back for drives hit over his head, and playing corners off the wall.

His improvement was noted throughout the league.

Shiner, 25, never had many problems about his hitting. He first impressed the parent Pirates by compiling a robust .348 mark with New Orleans of the Southern Association in 1935.

That earned him a promotion to Pittsburgh in 1936. His fielding was below standard; accordingly the Pirates tried him at first base and even at third in hopes of finding a spot where his glove could do the least damage.

Big Bob made the rounds of positions again last year, and while comparative historical data are of such striking nature as to cause more than casual interest in their validity as an economic indicator. With the Derby betting of 1938 up 14% over 1937 the report points to "taking place in late October or early November."

That the trends indicated by Thoroughbred racing's economy have some validity was shown in a recent survey of Banks, Trust Companies and Investment Houses by the financial editor of a New York newspaper; all agreed that the business recession had hit bottom and looked for an Autumn upturn.

scored in 22 games. Although he wasn't a regular, he claimed 23 home runs.

Some of the drives Shiner hit last season still are talked about in Pittsburgh.

Holland Asks Pepper To Use Only Truth

By United Press International
Sen. Spessard L. Holland today denied digging up an old photograph to use in his campaign against Claude D. Pepper in the race for the Democratic senatorial nomination.
Holland said the picture, showing Pepper with Negro singer Paul Robeson and former Vice President Henry Wallace, "has no part in my campaign." He said "I do hope they use only the truth in this campaign because I shall not use anything but the truth."
Commenting on the picture, Pepper charged that his opponent is resorting to the "Hitler big lie technique - gutter tactics - a deliberate attempt to brand me as a Communist."
Pepper, speaking in Miami, flashed a letter that charged he was a "liberal socialist and radical leader" when he was in the Senate 10 years ago. The letter contained the picture taken in New York's Madison Square Garden. It was the same picture Sen. George Smathers used to help defeat Pepper in 1950.
The letter with the picture was mailed July 23 by the so-called "Citizens Committee for Holland" of Jacksonville. Holland's Duval campaign manager, Connie A. Hartley, said the "Citizens Committee for Holland" in Jacksonville does not have the "function" of the Holland organization and "has nothing in the world to do with it."
Pepper said the Madison Square Garden meeting, when the picture was taken, was held in 1946 under the auspices and at the request of the national Democratic Party. He said he spoke at the meeting on behalf of Democratic candidates on the ticket in New York state.
Holland, in a Miami Beach address, said that the basic question in his campaign against Pepper is "whether freedom is going to live or whether Communism is going to live."
Holland accused Pepper of being too "credulous and gullible" in his relations with people friendly to Russia. He said this country should not attempt to "appear the great force that would destroy us."
Holland was scheduled to spend the morning in Broward County before flying to Tampa this afternoon for more campaigning and to make a television film. Tonight he will attend a reception in Orlando, moving Saturday to Lake County.
Meanwhile, Pepper today will attempt to drum up support in Pasco, Dade, Lake and Marion counties. Saturday he goes to northern Florida, hitting Putnam, St. Johns, Clay, Bradford and Alachua counties.

Sheriff Intensifies Murder Investigation

The Seminole County Sheriff's department has intensified its investigation into the shotgun slaying of Merrill C. Ginder Thursday morning.
"We're running everything down on every bit of information with all of the intensity we can put into it," Sheriff J. L. Hobby said this morning.
Sheriff Hobby revealed that "We have called in our reserve power in order to follow any and every lead that we can get."
"We have no definite leads at the present time," it was stated. "But we're working everything we can get our hands on that might turn up a trail that we can follow."
Sheriff Hobby said "We're not going to be satisfied until we've done some good."
The Seminole County Sheriff's office is operating its investigation around the clock and stepping up the intensity of the search for the person who pulled the trigger.
Ginder, according to officers at the scene of the shooting yesterday morning, was shot down by a person crouched behind an automobile parked in the driveway of the home in which he and Mrs. Ginder were visiting.
Shotgun shell pellets were apparently fired upward from the crouched position, according to the line of fire determined yesterday.
Wads from the shotgun shell were found about 60 feet from Ginder's body as he lay crumpled from instant death and shot from not more than 15 feet.
Already, hundreds of people have been investigated and talked to regarding the possibility of a definite thread of a lead that might lead the Sheriff to the Thursday morning killer.
Next week the club will hold installation of new members. Charles A. Thomson, Lt. Governor of the Florida District of Civitan, will conduct Dr. Edwin L. Lindsey, C. Boyd Coleman, Pat Colbert and William T. Cavanaugh.

Civitan Club Hears Toastmasters Club President At Meet

The Sanford Civitan Club met last night at 7 p. m. at the Pinecrest Inn with Bill Halback, president.
S. J. Davis introduced the guest speaker, Lt. Ed Graham, who is the president of the Seminole Toastmasters' Club. He chose as his subject "How the Toastmasters' Club program is designed to develop individuals in the arts of public speaking and basic parliamentary procedures."
A. K. Shoemaker was appointed chairman for the annual Claxton Fruit Cake sale which will be held this fall.
Next week the club will hold installation of new members. Charles A. Thomson, Lt. Governor of the Florida District of Civitan, will conduct Dr. Edwin L. Lindsey, C. Boyd Coleman, Pat Colbert and William T. Cavanaugh.

Crowded Courtroom Expected For Hearing

The Seminole County Court House court room is expected to be completely filled Monday afternoon when the board of Equalization resumes its hearing at 10 o'clock.
Already a record number of protests have been voiced before the board and official, signed protests will be handed in Monday afternoon when the hearing gets underway.
Intensity of the campaign for the equalization of taxes and valuations is gaining momentum as citizens look into the amount of taxes being paid in comparison to the neighbors' amount.
Officials are keeping mum about what action will be taken following the completion of the hearing. However, the hearings can continue indefinitely until every citizen who desires to voice a complaint or protest is heard.
According to law, the Equalization Board can take whatever action it desires on individual cases that are handed to the board for consideration.
The first 1958 meeting, held earlier this week, is an unprecedented one with more than 100 people making an appearance in the court room, some with complaints, others just to listen to the proceedings.
J. Bratley Otham who entered an official protest over taxes paid on his home and other properties, told the board "I will take this action to court if necessary and into every court possible to see that justice is done."
Otham also called on the Seminole County Tax Assessor to answer the questions of the people who appear before the board to determine if their taxes are too low or too high.
It is expected that seating space in the courtroom, which normally will take care of an audience of about 200, will be at a premium.
There is also the possibility, however not officially stated, that the meeting will be again recessed in order to hear the complaints of taxpayers.

High Court Does Not Rule On Daisy Chain Charter

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—The Florida Supreme Court today declined to rule whether the Legislature may use the proposed "daisy chain" system of amending the state charter.
In rejecting a request from Atty. Gen. Richard Ervin for a clarification on the point, the court said that the question was not brought up when it struck the proposed new state constitution from the November ballot last week.
Ervin had asked the court for a ruling on whether the "daisy chain" system proposed in a separate amendment to be voted on in November is constitutional.
Under the system amendments are submitted to the voters in a package. If one amendment is rejected, all fail to pass.
In last week's opinion which struck the proposed 14-point change from the ballot, the court said that "under the daisy chain system all amendments must be accepted or all will be rejected, therefore the right of the elector to approve one or a few will become worthless unless all others including the ones he rejects, receive a majority vote of approval."
The opinion continued to say that under the system "substance is sacrificed to form" but in refusing the clarification today, the court sidestepped ruling on the legality of the "daisy chain" mechanism.

Sanford Squadron Aboard USS Essex

WITH U. S. SIXTH FLEET IN MEDITERRANEAN—It was just 16 years ago today that the attack carrier, USS Essex, which spearheaded the U. S. Sixth Fleet's carrier support of the U. S. Expeditionary Force landings at Beirut, Lebanon, the afternoon of July 16, was launched at the Newport News, Va., Shipbuilding Co. Since that time and her commissioning five months later, "The Fighting Ship in the Fleet" as she was called in World War II, has taken part in two years of WWII action, had two tours of duty during the Korean conflict, and then the venerable warship, as carriers go, took the leading role among Sixth Fleet carriers in the Lebanon landings.
Essex left her home port of Mayport, Fla., in February, 1958, to join the fleet in the Mediterranean. She is commanded by Captain Thomas A. Christopher, U. S. Navy, of Norfolk, Va., and Perth Amboy, N. J.
Her squadrons of Air Task Group 201, commanded by Cdr. Elbert H. English Jr., of Sheridan, Ark., hail from Cecil Field and Sanford, Fla.; Oceana, Va.; and Quantico Point, R. I.

Three Conventions Slated For Sanford

Three conventions have been scheduled for the Sanford Civic Center this fall, Ronald W. Perry told the Sanford-Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce yesterday at its noon luncheon meeting.
Perry reported to the Jaycees on the accomplishments of the summer recreation program which ended yesterday.
"This was the first summer program coordinated with the county under one leader," Perry told the Jaycees as he pointed to the number of events and participants during the seven-week program.
"We had an average daily attendance of 1200 white children and 700 colored children," Perry said, and the playgrounds registered 2800 youngsters.
Breaking down the attendance at various events, Perry pointed to an attendance of over 300 a week for the afternoon program, 500 weekly at evening programs, four nights a week, and 75 weekly at Seminole High School.
In other events he said that 151 registered for water skiing for which there was an average attendance of 110 a week. There were 63 youngsters for horseshoe riding; 44 participants for bowling; and 32 for golf.
The Recreation Director, Elmer A. Vail, said that 70 per cent of 43 children visiting the zoo from the Pinecrest area had never seen the Sanford attraction and that 40 per cent of a Southside School group had never seen the zoo.
"We will open the winter program," said Perry "on Sept. 1 with an adult basketball league, a volleyball league, and square dancing on the patio."
The Youth Wing will be used all winter with special events, dances in the civic center for young people, arts and crafts for adults, Perry planned.
"It is intended to use this building as much as possible even up to 18 hours a day if necessary," he said. Perry also called attention to the fact that name bands will be attracted here for dances at the Sanford Civic Center.
"We hope to double the tennis courts and have them lighted," Perry said as he commented on plans for the future. Additional ball fields, a day camp, a baseball diamond in Fort Mellon Park and one in the Gold-burn Recreation area. Improvements are planned for the swimming pool, too, he said.
"We think we have had a successful program for the children of this area," Perry told the Jaycees. To hear out his statement, the year-round Recreation Director pointed to the total registration of 3200 youngsters "just quadrupled the last year's program."

Merrill C. Ginder Funeral Tomorrow Afternoon 3 p.m.

Elks Lodge will conduct services at the graveside.
Interment will be in Oaklawn Memorial Park.
Mr. Ginder was killed instantly early Thursday morning from a shotgun blast at close range from an ambush.

Boy Scouts Visit The Florida Forest Service Tower

The Florida Forest Service was host to a group of Scouts and Explorers of Troop 242, Lake Mary, yesterday.
The Scouts, led by Scoutmaster Coleman, hiked from Lake Mary to the Forest Service ranger station at Longwood where they were conducted on a tour and briefed on the operation of the station and equipment by Rangers Bob Leavett, Arnold Westol and Norman Bristol.
The highlight of the tour according to the Scouts, was climbing the tower and meeting George Otto, the Forest Service dispatcher. Otto described the use of the radio communication system and the method of plotting the location of fires in conjunction with other towers in the area. While the Scouts were in the tower, they witnessed the procedure in dispatching a crew to an actual fire.
The Scouts came prepared to have lunch at the tower, however it was noted that after their long hike, all the lunches were consumed before 10 o'clock.
A thorough inspection of the crawler tractor and fireline plow was made and they also tried their skill at operating the backfire can and backpack water pumps. A rundown on the operation of the power wagon water tanker rounded out the visit.
The Explorer Scouts received special instruction in the organization of the Forest Service and the forest fire protection laws of the state.
County Ranger Bob Gray commended Troop 242 on their active interest in helping with the fire prevention campaign in Seminole County.

Capt. J. R. Reedy Takes Command Of Lexington

On the morning of July 31, Captain James R. Reedy, USN, formally relieved Captain R. L. Bailey, USN, as Commanding Officer of the USS Lexington (CVA-16). The change of command ceremony took place on the parade ground adjacent to the berth in Pearl Harbor where the giant attack carrier lay a few days prior to getting underway for operations at sea. Captain Reedy initially joined the Lexington on her deployment from San Diego, flying aboard at the controls of a B-52 Skywarrior, the Navy's latest jet attack bomber.
Captain Reedy was born June 16, 1910 in Cleveland, Ohio, the son of the late James A. Reedy, and of Mrs. May Reedy who lives presently at 2825 Bosworth Road. He is the brother of Mrs. Frank Greywitt, Mrs. Carl Monahan, and Mrs. George Hoy.
