Seminole Precincts Will Predict Primary For ABC

Two north Seminole County precincts have been declared "key precincts" in predicting the winner of Florida's Democratic Presidential Preference Primary. ABC television will use the precincts' voting pattern to make an early prediction of the outcome of the March 13 primary.

Election results from precincts 42 in Sanford and 26 in Lake Mary will be telephoned to the television news election center in New York City as soon as the votes are tallied, said Sandy Goard, Seminole supervisor of elections.

Because both precincts are within a short distance of Mrs. Goard's courthouse office where the ballots will be computer counted, she said the network can expect to know less than 30 minutes after the polls close how Democratic voters in those two areas cast their ballots.

"ABC will be doing no exit interviews (asking people who they voted for as they leaving polling places) in the county's 72 precincts, relying on the results from the two precincts to determine how the vote is going in at least this county," Mrs. Goard said.

Meanwhile, the primary has been billed as little more than "a beauty contest" by state Democratic Party leaders. The victor will not win a single delegate to the August Democratic Presidential Convention in San Francisco by winning the contest.

Voters who want to give their favorite presidential candidate delegate support must vote again in a separate place on the ballot for the delegates.

Candidates for delegate positions have until Friday to file qualifying documents listing campaign treasurers and banks where their campaign funds will be kept. Then a presidential candidate picks qualified delegates from each congressional district to represent him on the ballot. At the convention, elected delegates must vote for the candidate to whom they are pledged.

The Democratic candidates are: Reubin Askew, Alan Cranston, John Glenn, Gary Hart, Ernest Hollings, Jesse Jackson, George McGovern and Walter Mondale.

Eighty-four delegates and 28 alternates will be chosen by the voters in the primary. Other delegates will be selected from the ranks of party officers and elected officials.

In the meantime, the only presidential candidate on the Republican ballot will be President Ronald Reagan. Delegates supporting his nomination at the Republican Convention will be selected at congressional district caucuses.

Seminole Countians who qualify as Democratic delegates and are selected by the candidates will have to run for election in the 5th Congressional District composed of all of Seminole and portions of Orange and Lake counties.

Are Orlando-Based Recruiters Giving County Money's Worth?

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

Time is ripe to find a better way to spend the many thousands of dollars Seminole County uses to hire an Orlando-based industrial development commission to recruit new industry to the county, agreed some members of a Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce committee today.

Seminole County has allocated $75,000 from this year's budget for hiring the Industrial Development Commission of Mid-Florida.

But A.K. Shoemaker Jr., developer for more than 25 years in Sanford and Central Florida, told the chamber's Industrial Action Committee the commission, as a matter of course, steers industrial prospects first to Orlando Central Park and channels the lion share of industrial revenue bonding to one specific bank in Orlando.

"This year is ripe to find some other way to better use that money," Shoemaker said, adding it could be channeled in whole or in part to a group such as the Industrial Action Committee to get more for the money.

Shoemaker said the Seminole County Industrial Development Authority (SCIDA) has become little more than "an arm to review industrial revenue bonds" and to channel information to the Mid-Florida group. Before the county joined with the Mid-Florida group it had SCIDA and a staff.

Shoemaker said the committee should at least study the matter.

Dennis Dolgner, executive director of the Seminole County Port Authority, agreed with Shoemaker that Jim Daniel, who formerly headed SCIDA, did a good job of promoting industries to locate in the county, but he added that the county decision to join with the Mid-Florida group was a forward move.

And he said he would oppose any move against the Mid-Florida group without talking to representatives from that organization first.

At its first meeting of the new year, the committee appointed a steering committee to provide a plan of action for the following ideas:

- Conducting a study on whether Sanford and the county are getting their "fair share" of work from the Industrial Development Commission of Mid-Florida and whether the committee ought to seek part or all of the $75,000 county subsidy to be paid that organization this year.
- Seeking out the locations of suitable buildings where industrial prospects might locate.
- Urging the city of Sanford to boost its capability of providing sewer service

• Encouraging all the chambers of commerce in the county to band together to seek new industry.

• Calling a meeting of the committee with area realtors and banking interests to inform on resources — water and sewer service — and financing available

• Keeping in mind the human resources available — especially the nearly 50 percent of the county's high school graduates who will not be going on to college.

Trash Firms Are Seeking Exclusive Franchise

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

There's profit in garbage and the Lake Mary City Commission is scheduled tonight to consider whether the franchise to collect garbage within the city should be exclusive.

Also on the commission's agenda is the condemnation of a Lake Mary road from U.S. Highway 17-92 to Seminole Community College, a change in the city's bond requirements for subdivision developers, and appointments to the city's Planning and Zoning Board and the Board of Adjustments.

Four area refuse collection firms have asked to be considered for the exclusive rights to collect the garbage, said Lake Mary City Manager Kathy Rice.

Ms. Rice said the business asked the commission for the exclusive franchise so it could plan future collections, expansions, and personnel changes.

Trouble is, the municipal ordinance dealing with garbage collection both commercial and residential does not provide for awarding an exclusive franchise, Ms. Rice said.

What the commission will consider is — if they agree to an exclusive proviso — the term of an exclusive franchise, what type of escape clause is possible if the contractor does not fulfill his obligations, and whether the exclusive contract should cover all garbage collected within the city or be granted for residential collections or commercial needs or both.

Vying for an exclusive franchise are: Better Garbage of Lake Mary, World Refuse, Altamonte Springs, Industrial Waste Services, and ACE Disposal Service, both of Orlando.

Ms. Rice said a total of $475,000 has been allotted by the State Department of Transportation to make East Road, the feeder traffic artery from U.S. 17-92 to Seminole Community College, into a four-lane road with an upgraded intersection at Highway 17-92.

While the college is located in the city of Sanford, and Highway 17-92 is a federal highway, East Road is in Lake Mary. Before improvements can be made, the city must condemn the city's right-of-way along the road, Ms. Rice said.

She said the county has offered to handle the legal condemnation procedures if the city agrees since the facility serves all Seminole County citizens.

The commission is also scheduled to consider the request of a Lake Mary builder to change the municipal bond requirements for subdivision developers.

Ms. Rice said that when a developer starts a project, the city requires him to acquire a "performance" bond which guarantees 110 percent of the costs of putting in roads and utility connections. The bond guarantees the city will not be left with unpaid subdivision costs if the developer does not finish the project for whatever reason.

After the roads and utility services are accepted by the city, the developer must acquire a "maintenance" bond guaranteeing that the roads and utility services he installed will be maintained for two years.

Burn Victim Improves

An Altamonte Springs man, in critical condition Wednesday, is today in serious condition with second-degree burns over 10 percent of his body.

Donald Julius, 32, of Orlando, had his condition upgraded from critical to serious today, according to a hospital spokesman, after suffering the burns in a methane explosion at the Keller Road Sewer Treatment Plant in Altamonte Springs. He is being treated at Florida Hospital-Altamonte.

Julius, a city employee since 1978 and a plant operator, was doing routine maintenance at the plant at 11:15 a.m. when the explosion occurred, according to Altamonte Springs Personnel Director Sam Frazier.

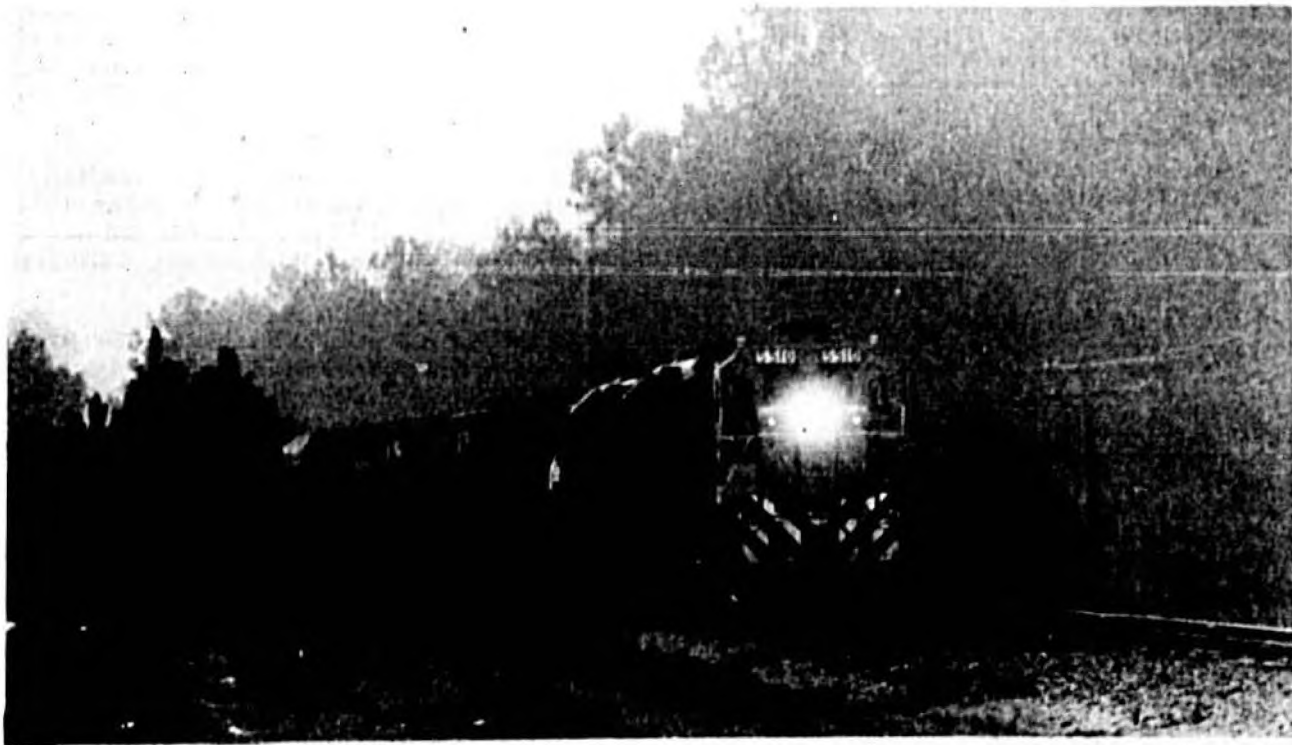

Ms. Frazier said she did not know what Julius was doing specifically at the time of the explosion.

Pair Leave Smiling

Shultz-Gromyko Dialogue 'Went Well'

By E. Michael Myers

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) — Secretary of State George Shultz said his five hours of talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko "went well," and the two men shook hands and smiled after the meeting to restore the broken superpower dialogue.

The talks, which lasted two hours longer than scheduled Wednesday, were described by a senior State Department official as "detailed, candid and very intensive," despite differences over a range of issues.

The meeting took place in the Soviet Embassy on a snow-covered hillside overlooking the Swedish capital, where both men were attending the opening of the European disarmament conference.

Shultz was scheduled to leave Stockholm today for a six-hour visit to Oslo, Norway, for talks with Prime Minister Kare Willoch before returning to Washington.

"There are differences, obviously, but the discussions were good ones," the State Department official said of the Shultz-Gromyko meeting. He declined to discuss details of the talks.

"They did all the talking," he said. "They shook hands before and after. They were even smiling. They were smiling more after than before."

Shultz told Swedish Foreign Minister Olof Palme, "I thought the talks went well." And he admitted to a fellow member of his delegation he had been "jittery" about their outcome all afternoon.

Meanwhile, in Washington, President Reagan brushed aside Gromyko's harsh attack and is still hoping the Soviets will respond more kindly to his attempt to lessen East-West tensions.

Gromyko charged Wednesday the administration is preparing "maniacal" plans for nuclear war.

"He's not letting it (Gromyko's attack) get under his skin," an aide said.

White House aides say they do not consider statements made by Gromyko and the Soviet press sharply denouncing Reagan's address Monday on U.S.-Soviet relations as the final word on the subject.

"It is a Soviet response," Spokes said, "but we don't regard it as the totality of the Soviet response."

They point to the history of relations between the two superpowers and indicate it will "take time" for the Kremlin to develop a formal response. Aides said Reagan is looking for "deeds not words."

"The present U.S. administration is an administration thinking in terms of war and acting accordingly," he said in his speech to the delegates at the conference on European disarmament and security.

The Soviets, retaliating for the U.S. placement of Pershing-2 and cruise missiles in Europe, have deployed high-powered missiles in East Germany. The Soviets also are expected to base missiles in Czechoslovakia.

The Soviet moves in Eastern Europe came "as no surprise," an aide said. He noted that Moscow had been threatening such deployment in hopes of blocking the NATO deployment of U.S. missiles in Western Europe.

The Shultz-Gromyko meeting Wednesday was in marked contrast to their blunt exchanges in Madrid last September over the Soviet destruction of a South Korean airliner and what President Reagan called the "massacre" of its 269 passengers.

Sex Bias Report At White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A progress report on how well 26 federal agencies think they are doing at eliminating sex discrimination in their rules, policies and publications is at the White House.

The report, which a Justice Department lawyer described as containing "nothing too sexy," is the fourth installment of work on President Reagan's project to purge federal laws, regulations and policies of discrimination against women.

Reagan proposed the project as an alternative to adoption of the Equal Rights Amendment, which he opposes.

Released by the Justice Department Wednesday, the 2-inch-thick report shows agencies are at varying stages in the process of identifying and changing sexually biased language or practices under their own roofs.

One important women's rights issue was touched on in the chapter filed by the Internal Revenue Service, which noted it is aware of at least five sex-based actuarial tables used to compute taxpayers' assets.

The tables, figured on the premise that women live longer than men, result in women paying higher taxes on certain annuities. The IRS has proposed making the tables unisex and is expected to report more fully on the proposal in a later report, a Justice Department official said.

While Gromyko rejected any resumption of the Geneva negotiations on limiting intermediate- and long-range nuclear arms unless NATO removes new U.S. missiles in Western Europe, Shultz chose to shrug off the hard-line rhetoric.

"He recognized it was a speech," a State Department official said. "He took his normal constructive attitude to doing business with another foreign minister."

Asked to characterize the state of U.S.-Soviet relations following the meeting, the official said, "We will have to wait and see. We will know more about what the results will be in future."

He declined to say whether further meetings were planned.

The Soviet news agency Tass said only that Gromyko had not deviated from the line he took during the disarmament conference, or from his demand that the United States remove the cruise and Pershing-2 missiles from Europe.

But the State Department official said there were "no raised voices, no rhetoric" at the meeting in a wood-paneled conference room.

IN BRIEF

Canadians, American Nabbed In Murder Plot

CLEVELAND (UPI) — A federal grand jury indicted six men for allegedly buying weapons for an assassination attempt against Guyana's prime minister and members of his government. Five of the six were indicted Wednesday on one count each of conspiracy and three counts each of weapons violations. A U.S. Customs spokesman said agents posing as members of the underworld turned over machine guns and other weapons to the suspects and then arrested them. He said the suspects were all members of the Conservative Party of Guyana. The spokesman said there were enough weapons to outfit a 20-member assassination squad that would try to assassinate the Prime Minister Forbes Burnham of Guyana and key members of his government so they could be replaced by members of the Conservative Party.

Pentagon Has Some Nerve

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional rejection last year of renewed production of nerve gas has not deterred the Pentagon from planning another attempt to win money for the project, a congressional source says. Twice last year Vice President George Bush cast rare tie-breaking votes in the Senate in support of spending $114.6 million for the production of nerve gas, but the administration request died when the House refused to go along. It was the only major administration defense program that was ignored last year.

"There's no question about DOD's intention," the source said Wednesday, "but I'm not sure if it's got (Defense Secretary Casper) Weinberger's OK yet or if it has survived the interagency review and make it into the final budget to be sent to Congress Feb. 1.

The United States has not produced chemical weapons since 1969. This week, Secretary of State George Shultz said in Stockholm the United States soon will offer a draft treaty for a verifiable ban on the use of chemical weapons.

More EDB Found In Foods

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — The cancer-causing fumigant EDB has been found in 12 of 42 samples of flour, corn meals, baking mixes, cereals and nuts randomly selected from California stores, a state official said Wednesday.

The highest concentration of EDB, or ethylene dibromide, was in a product called Texas wheat — 650 parts per billion — and the lowest in Clinch Corn Bread Mix — 4 parts per billion.

The Department of Health Services said it also tested 84 whole grain products and 20 citrus juices, but found no trace of EDB in them.

EDB, proven to cause cancer in rats, has been used for more than 20 years to kill insects that may contaminate grain. Its use as a soil fumigant has been banned by the federal government.

Bell Wants Funds For 'Futuristic' Computer Instruction In Schools

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Education Secretary Terrel Bell wants the government to help America's schools enter the computer age by developing "futuristic" programs to teach writing and arithmetic.

Bell said Wednesday his proposed fiscal 1985 budget, which will be sent to Congress Feb. 1, will include funds for the research and development of computer classes in the basics.

"It would be futuristic, but the longest journey begins with the first step," Bell said Wednesday. "The time to start is now."

He said, "Schools are buying computers — it is almost a fad — but much of the software leaves a lot to be desired."

Bell, who has been in a battle with the Office of Budget and Management over funding, declined to say what his proposed budget would total or what individual segments would cost.

He said in addition to computers, other budget proposals would include developing performance-based teacher-pay plans and expanding work-study programs by paying college students to be reading tutors for adult illiterates.

"We would like to develop software packages for small, inexpensive micro-computers in two areas where we think we have serious problems — writing and math," he said.

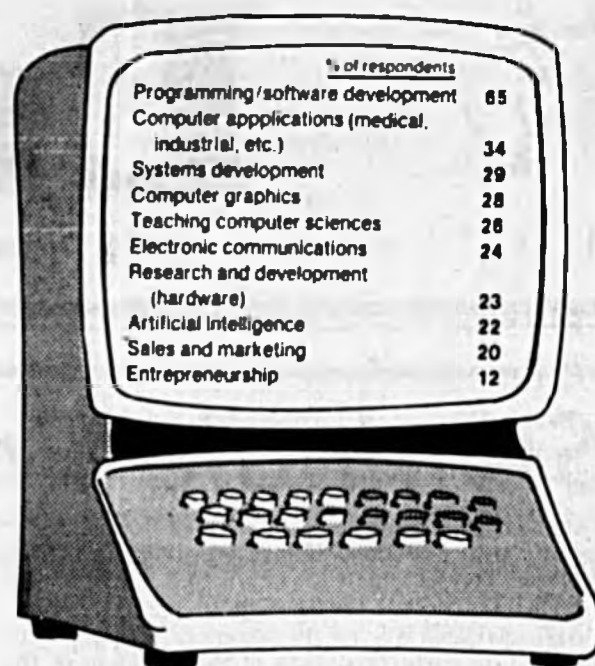

"One reason many teachers don't assign as many writing assignments as they should is because it is sort of self-inflicted punishment," because of the piles of papers they have to grade, he said.

Bell said computer experts have told him "software can be developed where much of this hard work can be done by the computer as a slave mechanism for the teacher," noting some programs to check spelling already exist.

Bell said he also wants programs for pre-algebra and algebra.

"The reason we have students that don't want to study more math and balk at chemistry and physics is because they had a terrible time with algebra," he said.

"I'm convinced there is a great opportunity to develop some outstanding software packages," he said. "We need to develop a program and try it out."

If computer education is improved as Education Secretary Terrel Bell recommends, what jobs in the field offer the best career opportunities? Programming and software development have the brightest prospects.

FCC Backs Delay Of Phone Access Charges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Communications Commission, yielding to public protest, tentatively voted today to delay until Dec. 1 long-distance "access" charges for residential and small business telephone customers.

The commission also ruled the flat monthly charges, which had been set to start April 3 at $2 a month, should be phased in gradually until 1990 and should climb no higher than $4.

And the commission decided the rate that competing long-distance phone companies, such as MCI and Sprint, pay for their connections to local lines should be set at 55 percent of what American Telephone & Telegraph pays until the quality of the connection is improved to equal that of AT&T's.

Under the plan tentatively adopted today, the access charges business customers pay for their hook up to long distance services would go into effect April 3 as scheduled.

The commission said it would meet next Wednesday to issue a final ruling on the decision.

The action today was closely aligned with the recommendations included in a letter to the commission Wednesday from Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., and 31 other senators, mostly Republicans.

Chairman Mark Fowler said it was "most unfortunate" that the delay of the access charges would reduce or eliminate the $1.75 billion reduction in long-distance phone rates AT&T had originally planned to coincide with its breakup Jan. 1.

The commission said the decision to delay the charges comes in response to protests from the public, state governments, state regulatory agencies, Congress, and businesses. It said it needs time to assess the effect of divestiture on universal telephone service.

The senators' letter, in addition to recommending the flat monthly access fee be delayed until 1985, also said that if the commission decides "access charges should be ordered sometime during this decade, they be capped at a maximum of $4 and that small rural (telephone) companies be exempt from the order due to the high cost of those operations," Dole said.

The senators also had proposed a change in the discounted rates paid by competing long-distance telephone for their connection to local lines, which are of lesser quality than AT&T's connection. The letter said a charge based on actual minutes used, without a substantial reduction of the discount, should be adopted.

The proposals in the letter, which Dole called "a reasonable compromise," represent a major weakening in support for pending Senate legislation that calls for a two-year moratorium on the charges.

"The cap we propose and the exemption for small, rural companies provide far more protection at the end of the moratorium than the legislation pending in the Senate," Dole said.

It was believed that the proposals in the letter might be offered as a substitute to the phone measure when the Senate takes it up, possibly next week.

Trial Set For April 16

Provenzano Pleads Innocent In Courthouse Shooting

ORLANDO (UPI) — An April trial is set for a man charged in last week's courthouse shootout that left one bailiff dead and two other court employees seriously wounded.

Thomas Provenzano, 34, on Wednesday pleaded innocent to charges of murder and attempted murder and an April 16 trial date was set.

Earlier this week, Provenzano was indicted on a charge of first-degree murder in the death of bailiff Arnie Wilkerson, 60.

In addition, Provenzano was indicted on two counts of assault with intent to commit first-degree murder in the shootings of bailiff Harry Dalton, 53, and corrections officer Mark Parker, 19.

Dalton remains in a coma, but doctors say he has a better than 50-50 chance of surviving a gunshot wound to the head. Parker, who was shot in the back, was in serious condition and is partially paralyzed.

Provenzano also was shot during the incident but was released from a hospital after two days and is being held at the Orange County Jail under $450,000 bond.

The shooting spree took place Jan. 10 when witnesses said the heavily-armed Provenzano walked into a courtroom in the Orange County Courthouse and opened fire.

BURGLARIES

A 9mm semi-automatic pistol valued at $250 was taken in a break-in at the home of Ronald Overfet, 25, of 151 Sorrento Circle, Winter Park, between 1:15 and 7 p.m. Sunday. A sheriff's report said the thief entered the home by removing a screen from a bedroom window and unlocking the window. The gun was taken from the headboard of the bed in the master bedroom, the report said.

A thief cut a screen and opened a door at the home of Lee Combs, 54, of State Road 426, Geneva, and took a purse valued at $80 from a chair in a bedroom. The purse contained a $100 check, $50 cash and other items, a sheriff's report said. The theft occurred between 11 p.m. Saturday and 7:15 a.m. Sunday while the victim was at home, the report said.

Farris L. Hunter, 27, of 2306 Jitway Ave., Midway, reported that someone entered his home through a kitchen window between 7:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. Friday and took a pellet rifle and a kerosene heater valued at $124, a sheriff's report said.

Earl D. Blackweider, 35, of Route 3 Box 642-A Pjneway, Sanford, reported that someone broke into his home between 8 a.m. and 6:15 p.m. Friday and took two shotguns, a rifle, fishing equipment and other items valued at $1,280, a sheriff's report said. According to the report, there were no signs of forced entry to the home.

Jewelry and camera equipment valued at $1,885 were reported stolen from the home of Matthew Klir, 24, of 2830 Red Lion Square, Winter Park, between 9:05 a.m. and 5:45 p.m. Monday. Klir said the door to his home may have been unlocked at the time of the theft, a sheriff's report said.

A clock, clothes, dishes, sheets and other items valued at $300 were reportedly stolen from the ransacked home of Enzy M. Mayse, 35, of 2644 Arietta Road, Altamonte Springs, between 7 a.m. and 6:15 p.m. Monday.

A pool sweeper valued at $495 was taken from a screened pool area of a home site at 254 Mounts Bay Court, Longwood, Sunday or Monday. Property owner Bob Murphy Jr., 42, of 108 Forest Park, Longwood, said the thief cut through the screen to take the sweeper, a sheriff's report said.

Items including tools, a stereo and print of a nude woman, with a total value of $4,565, were taken by a thief who broke a window and entered the maintenance office of Cod Materials on State Road 419, Winter

Springs. The office was ransacked between Saturday and Monday and the items taken belonged to Joseph Wilcock, 38, of 115 Rio Court, Sanford, and William H. Osborne, 35, of 264 Buttonwood Ave., Winter Springs.

An electric grill valued at $418 was reported missing from the screened porch of a home at 2251 River Park Circle #64, Longwood. The house is the property of Mason Homes, Inc., 251 Maitland Ave., Altamonte Springs. Realtor Barbara S. McKinnon reported that a thief cut through the screen of the porch and took the grill Sunday or Monday, a sheriff's report said.

Robert McNeal, 14, of 1801 Pear Ave, Sanford reported that a thief took a mini-bike and a bicycle from his front yard Sunday or Monday. The vehicles were valued at $500, a sheriff's report said.

RAPES REPORTED

Seminole County sheriff's deputies are investigating complaints that two retarded women may have been raped in two unrelated incidents.

Investigators also have two suspects in the cases, but Capt. Jay Leman said no arrests have been made.

In one case, the father of an 18-year-old woman reported to deputies that he believed his daughter had been sexually assaulted by a co-worker at her job site in Altamonte Springs. The man told investigators that he believed his daughter had been assaulted between Jan. 1 and Monday, a sheriff's report said.

The sheriff's report said the woman had marks on her body that indicated a possible assault.

In the second case, Valary Cotton, 23, of Fern Park, an employee of the Fern Park Development Center, 230 Fern Park Blvd., reported to sheriff's investigators that at 7:45 a.m. Tuesday she saw a disabled man who is a resident of the center leaving the room of a 47-year-old retarded woman.

According to Ms. Cotton, when she entered the room, the woman occupant was lying on the bed and had marks on her body indicating she had been assaulted.

The victim was transported to Central Florida Regional Hospital, Sanford, where, according to Leman, tests could not confirm she had been sexually assaulted. Investigators are continuing to look into both incidents, Leman said.

COCAINE BUST

A Pine Hills man and an Orlando woman, arrested on cocaine charges by an Altamonte Springs officer, posted $1,000 bond each and were released from the Seminole County jail.

The pair were arrested at 4:01 a.m. Sunday in the parking lot of the Hotline Bottle Club, State Road 436, Altamonte Springs, by an officer who thought they were acting suspiciously, a police report said.

The officer reported that he approached the car occupied by the two suspects and saw a small mirror, covered with a white powder, a razor blade and a straw on the engine compartment between the driver and the passenger.

Steven Glen Bruner, 22, and Karen Marie Seymore, 21, were both charged with possession of cocaine and drug paraphernalia. They were released from jail Sunday and are scheduled to appear in court on Feb. 3.

...Industry Committee Eyes Changes

Chamber president Jack Horner, Private Industry Council member Gary Earl, and Kevin Spolski of Designed Structures, a general contracting firm, to the steering committee.

Art Maheu, a past chairman of the industrial action committee, said while he held that office he received many calls of inquiry from the Orlando-based group. He agreed, however, with Shoemaker that "we are not getting our share."

But, Maheu said, there are no large buildings to send industrial prospects to see.

Horner stood with Shoemaker, saying his fears when the county disbanded its industrial development office in favor of joining with the Mid-Florida group have come to pass. While Daniel first went with the Mid-Florida organization, he has since left and is no longer in the industrial promotion field for Seminole. Spolski, noting that he is nearing completion of the development of a shopping center at Airport Boulevard and 25th Street, said future plans are to expand the center sometime after its March-April opening from the current 30,000 square feet to 70,000 square feet.

Garnett White, a Sanford realtor, said the availability of adequate water and sewer service in Sanford to serve new development is of prime importance. "The name of the game is water and sewer service and adequate roads," he said.

White also mentioned that a major problem at this point is the moratorium on new connections to the city's utility systems.

Dr. James Hickman, owner of the I-4 Industrial Park, said his park has adequate water and sewer service and buildings are also available there for industries. Hickman's park is outside the city limits.

IN BRIEF

Missing Cocaine Prompts Investigation

TITUSVILLE (UPI) — Two police departments are under investigation following the disappearance of up to a pound of cocaine that was used in undercover drug buys, officials said.

State attorney Douglas Cheshire said the Indian Harbour Beach Police Department and the Satellite Beach Police Department are the targets of the probe.

He said the cocaine disappeared last year while it was on loan from the Seminole County Sheriff's Department.

"The question is not is cocaine missing, but who caused it to be missing," said Cheshire. "If you can identify who got it, I can assure you criminal charges will come out of it."

Custody Change Unjustified

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Arguments between divorced parents about medical bills, visitation rights and other matters do not justify changing child custody from one spouse to another, an appeal court says.

Reversing a lower court, the 1st District Court of Appeal ruled 3-0 Wednesday against Panama City dentist Authur Clayton Zediker in his bid to have the custody of his three children transferred to him from his ex-wife, Mary Catherine Zediker of Orlando.

In reaching the decision, the three-judge panel also determined that appeal courts have more latitude in reviewing a divorce settlement modification than they do in reviewing the initial decree.

The appeal court agreed with Mrs. Zediker's lawyer that the problem stemmed from the "inability of the mother and father to 'get along'" and concluded this fell short of "the heavy burden" imposed on a non-custodial parent seeking a change in custody.

Transplant Patient Critical

United Press International

An 8-year-old Florida girl whose last hope for survival was a second liver transplant was listed in critical condition early today following the transplant of a new donor organ.

"She is in the intensive care unit, in critical condition," said John Donica, spokesman for LeBonheur Children's Medical Center in Memphis, Tenn. "Everything just went fine. It was a long tedious procedure as was expected. She's a very sick youngster. The next few days are really crucial."

Megan Shaw of Daytona Beach underwent her second transplant Wednesday after her first donor organ failed. Megan, who had several complications following her first liver transplant in December, slipped into very critical condition before the second transplant began. Doctors found a suitable donor organ and flew to the West Coast to retrieve it for the operation.

Jury Selection Begins

MIAMI (UPI) — Prospective jurors in the trial of a policeman whose fatal shooting of a young black man set off three days of racial violence were warned they faced a "high profile case" and extra officers were on duty at the courthouse.

Judge David Gersten set the stage for jury selection Wednesday by denying motions to suppress the policeman's statements to detectives and testimony about the victim's character.

Luis Alvarez, 33, is charged with manslaughter. He claims his gun fired accidentally while arresting Nevell Johnson Jr., 20, for carrying a concealed pistol into a video parlor in the Overtown ghetto.

Jury selection was to begin today and authorities took precautions to avoid disturbances.

Drunk Film May Backfire

FORT LAUDERDALE (UPI) — Some 200 parents and teenagers who packed a Fort Lauderdale middle school to see a documentary about intoxicated youths didn't seem to be phased by the hour-long video.

A preview of the tape, which chronicled drug, alcohol and crime problems on the city's famous beach "Strip," was held Wednesday night. The film, Hanging Out, was produced by the city police department as a means of showing parents the dangers their children facing by hanging out on the strip.

"It's not in good taste," said Jesse Gaddis, a member of the Broward Tourist Development Council. "And it may be a reflection that the people making the film are not doing their job. If they can film it, they should be able to stop it."

Common Cause Raps The Power Of PACs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Common Cause says spending by political action committees in 1982 bolsters its argument that PACs "distort and undermine" democracy by giving incumbent candidates a 3.4-to-1 advantage over challengers.

The citizen action lobby released statistics showing that more than 1,200 of the 3,371 PACs reporting to the Federal Election Commission spent 80 percent or more of their contributions on incumbent members of Congress.

Common Cause President Fred Wertheimer told reporters the advantages incumbents enjoy in collecting campaign funds are not new, but the present laws had "institutionalized corruption" inherent in the receipt of large sums of money by public officials from special interests.

"PACs distort and undermine the political process," Wertheimer said. "First, they substantially tilt the financing of elections in favor of incumbents."

In 1982, PACs gave incumbent members of Congress $54 million compared with the $16 million they gave to their challengers, an advantage for incumbents of 3.4 to 1.

In contrast, he said, non-PAC contributors favored incumbents only 1.3 to 1.

The Common Cause analysis showed 64 of the 1,211 PACs that gave 80 percent or more of their contributions to incumbents spent more than $100,000.

The "No. 1 incumbent-protection PAC," according to Wertheimer, was the committee formed by the Commodity Exchange, Inc., of New York, which gave 99 percent of its $106,100 outlay to incumbents.

PACs 'substantially tilt the financing of elections in favor of incumbents. In 1982, PACs gave incumbent members of Congress $54 million compared with the $16 million they gave to their challengers, an advantage for incumbents of 3.4 to 1.'

—Fred Wertheimer, Common Cause president

Common Cause said other PACs that gave the bulk of their money to incumbents were the National Cotton Council of America, 97 percent of $123,575; the American Society of Travel Agents, 96 percent of $127,575; U.S. League of Savings Associations, 95 percent of $331,625; American Trucking Association, 95 percent of $314,465; General Electric Co., 95 percent of $148,875; Independent Bankers of America, 95 percent of $128,750.

The PAC that gave the most money to incumbents was the American Bankers Association, which gave 86 percent of its $944,085 to candidates already in office.

Independent spending — funding by groups other than a candidate's own campaign organization — totaled $5.75 million in the 1981-82 congressional elections. Spending by the National Conservative Political Action Committee alone comprised 55 percent of the total, while funding by the other nine groups listed accounted for more than 35 percent.

Florida Fruit Rolls West Again

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Agriculture Commissioner Doyle Conner says Florida fruit is on the way to California again, this time sprayed with a substitute fumigant rather than the controversial pesticide EDB.

Conner said that five shipments of Florida citrus to California have been approved following a test shipment to Los Angeles that ended with the fruit in "beautiful" condition.

The fruit was sprayed with methyl bromide, which Conner said has been approved for use by the federal government and has not been found to cause cancer.

California has imposed a ban through Jan. 31 on Florida fruit fumigated with EDB. The action followed an announcement by the federal government that EDB would be banned nationwide as a post-harvest fruit fumigant beginning in September.

EDB has been found to cause cancer in laboratory animals.

Ralph Brown, methods development chief for the Florida Department of Agriculture, said methyl bromide is a "old reliable fumigant" widely used in Florida for many years.

California requires fumigation of most arriving Florida fruit to prevent the spread of the Caribbean fruit fly, which is common to many areas of Florida. Other citrus-producing states and Japan have similar requirements.

Florida citrus accounts for about 1 percent of the fruit eaten in California.

News Report Harmed National Interest?

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (UPI) — The national interest may have been harmed by a Scripps-Howard News Service report that enough uranium is missing from a secret nuclear weapons factory to make 85 atomic bombs, a government agency says.

"The information could lead to the revelation of how many weapons the United States has produced," Department of Energy spokesman Wayne Range said. "We take very seriously these kinds of things."

Range said there may be efforts to learn how the news service got documents that reportedly showed 1,710 pounds of bomb-grade uranium have vanished from the Y-12 plant over the past 35 years.

The uranium inventory at government nuclear weapons plants is classified and officials said anyone who leaks or receives the information is subject to prosecution under the Atomic Energy Act.

In Washington, Scripps-Howard editor Dan Thomasson defended the decision to run the story, which did not reveal the source of the documents.

"I can only say that we thought we had a service to do and we did it," Thomasson said. "This has been covered up for quite a while and we gave the Department of Energy every opportunity to sit down and talk with us about it. They refused."

The government has refused to comment on the Scripps-Howard report but said there is "no evidence" any uranium was stolen.

The DOE has maintained missing uranium at U.S. plants is caked in processing pipes or the result of bookkeeping errors.

Rep. Marilyn Lloyd, D-Tenn., said she anticipated the FBI would investigate the document leak.

"This is definitely a violation of the Atomic Energy Act. Certainly it is the responsibility of the DOE to find out who in their organization leaked this report and I imagine the matter will be referred to the FBI," said Mrs. Lloyd, whose district includes Oak Ridge.

Iran Barbarism: Call It Genocide

Iran under the Ayatollah Khomeini seems to recognize no limits in its holy (by its lights) war against all infidels, chief among them the United States.

Its acts range from the relatively unharmed kind — like making scathing speeches in the United Nations in violation of that body's rule against insulting other member states, and publishing a postage stamp depicting the takeover of the U. S. Embassy in Tehran ("the American spy den") — to the decidedly harmful, like sending children into battle, taking a hand in international terrorism and, perhaps worst of all, persecuting its own minorities.

According to Amnesty International, whose credentials are as good as any, at least 144 members of the Bahai faith in Iran have been executed or assassinated by the government or its agents. Their principal "crime"? Adherence to their faith, and their refusal to convert to Islam.

Last June, 16 Bahai women were hanged after they refused to recant and convert. Another 130 were dispossessed of their property, confined for three days without food or water, then released to the fury of a mob. They escaped death only by hiding in a forest outside their village.

Bahai leaders have been executed on trumped-up spying charges. Even children have been among those executed for what is officially condemned as heresy in Iran.

And why are the Bahai — in contrast with other religions and sects, which may be discriminated against but are officially tolerated — so detestable in the sight of the fanatical mullahs who rule Tehran?

Presumably because their faith, an eclectic one founded in Iran some 140 years ago, preaches the kind of tolerance that is so at odds with the Khomeini brand Islam: Equality of all races and religions, the equality of men and women, intellectual freedom, universal education and — heresy of heresies — world peace. Obviously such a doctrine, if widely followed in Iran, would undercut the regime's efforts to keep the populace in a constant state of fury and hate for all that is alien to the official line.

Plas for an end to persecution of the 300,000 Iranian Bahai have been made to Khomeini by world leaders, including President Reagan, and by a number of international organizations, including the U. N. Commission on Human Rights in Geneva — but not, notably, the U.N. General Assembly in New York. Efforts to bring the issue to the Assembly floor for debate have failed even to turn up a single government willing to offend Iran by sponsoring such a move.

The Bahai are not the only ones to suffer in Iran, of course. Amnesty International has received reports of more than 5,000 executions, which it regards as an "absolute minimum." But the barbarous treatment the Bahai have received is so monstrous that it demands a special response from civilized nations, whose only recourse is to focus greater attention on what amounts to no less than genocide.

We Love Ma Bell

Ma Bell was big. She had more than a million employees, $134 billion in assets and controlled 21 telephone subsidiaries throughout the country.

This scared some people. They feared Ma Bell's bigness. They compared her to such sinister organizations as the CIA. Bumper stickers warned of her evil intentions.

Now Ma Bell has been whittled down by government anti-trust action. She has been left with 385,000 employees and assets of $34 billion. But not everybody is happy. The same people who feared Ma Bell was too big and powerful now fear she may be too small and weak.

We think they just like to be frightened. Frightened of bigness. Frightened of change. They needn't be.

Telephones are personal to people. We know they are loved because there are 160 million telephones in the nation. And those telephones are going to keep right on ringing.

BERRY'S WORLD

"IS THAT FOR REAL — or is it a Cabbage Patch Kid?"

If a sparkling array of glass and china makes your eyes shine you'll want to plan to attend the 12th Annual Sanford Depression Era Glass, China and Collectibles Show and Sale. The glittering collection of items will be on display at the Florida Civic Center Jan. 27, 28 and 29.

The theme of this year's show is animals, which will be featured in 34 booths along with depression glass and handmade glass items from such companies as Heisey, Cambridge, Fostoria and Fenton.

The show will kick off with a champagne preview, which is open to the public, Jan. 27, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Admission for that event is $5. Admission for the two following show dates is $2. The Jan. 28 show and sale will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on the 29th the doors will open at 11 a.m. and the show will close at 5 p.m.

A glass animal will be given to each person who attends the show, as long as the supply lasts and a door prize of a 14-piece luncheon set in Fostoria's June etching will be given away after a 4 p.m.

drawing on the 29th.

There will also be three guests at the show. Nora Koch, founder and editor of the Depression Glass Daze newspaper, Gene Florence, author of "The Collector's Encyclopedia of Depression Glass," and Winnie Keillor, author of "Dishes What Else? Blue Ridge Of Course," will be on hand to talk with visitors to the show.

Sara K. Myers, show manager, said this show will give collectors an opportunity to find that elusive piece of glass needed to complete a collection.

ANTHONY HARRIGAN The Ads Reveal It All

Some of the most interesting reading is to be found in the Letters to the Editor columns of newspapers. The classified advertising columns also are full of information that reveals the temper of our times.

Among the readers of the classifieds is President Ronald Reagan, who is fond of citing information on employment situations which he finds in the newspaper ads.

I also like to read the classifieds, especially those that are published in radical magazines. They reveal a great deal about the doings of the Left in the United States.

The other day I perused the classified section of The Progressive, radical magazine published in Madison, Wisconsin, that has a large following among the New Left. These classifieds illustrate the wide world of the Left in the United States. They bring to light the variety of organizations, jobs and interests among Left types.

For example, do you know that there is a new War Tax Resistance Coordinating Committee? It is planning "war tax resistance actions, witness, presences and demonstrations across the country."

If one is left of center and wants an auto window decal, one can order "Nuclear Free Zone Window Decals" or bumper stickers. There's also an "Impeach Ron" bumper sticker, plus other so-called "social awareness" items. Or perhaps someone wants a "nonconformist bandana" or "When Your Heart Is On The Left" poster. Another option is "You Can't Hug A Child With Nuclear Arms" button.

If one is interested in a summer conference, the university of Illinois offers a "Third World Women and Feminist Perspectives Conference," with the theme of "colonization and resistance." The Center For Popular Economics in Amherst, Mass., offers a week-long course on "military spending and Reaganomics" for "progressive groups."

Young lefties may want to apply for a job. There are two job openings at the Syracuse, N.Y., Peace Council, which is described as "a Left-radical peace and social justice organization" which has an avowed interest in "agitation."

There are a few classifieds which promise "a roach-free home" or assert that "cats will obey," but the vast majority of the classifieds in The Progressive offer opportunities for New Leftists.

In a way, all this is rather funny. It is a mistake, however, to regard such doings as political comedy played by a minority of Americans. The Progressive classifieds show how active the various left-of-center groups are and how many people are involved.

Two years ago, no one imagined that the Left would be able to organize a massive "peace" movement in the U.S. with a program identical to what Moscow advocates. The movement has succeeded beyond its wildest dreams, however. Why? Because moderate Americans simply won't get involved in issues and politics to the degree that is necessary.

The inaction of ordinary, conservative Americans allows the fringe groups to generate massive publicity and have a powerful impact on Congress. The lesson: The country simply can't afford inaction by responsible citizens. The extremists fill the vacuum.

More Mentally Ill End Up On Streets

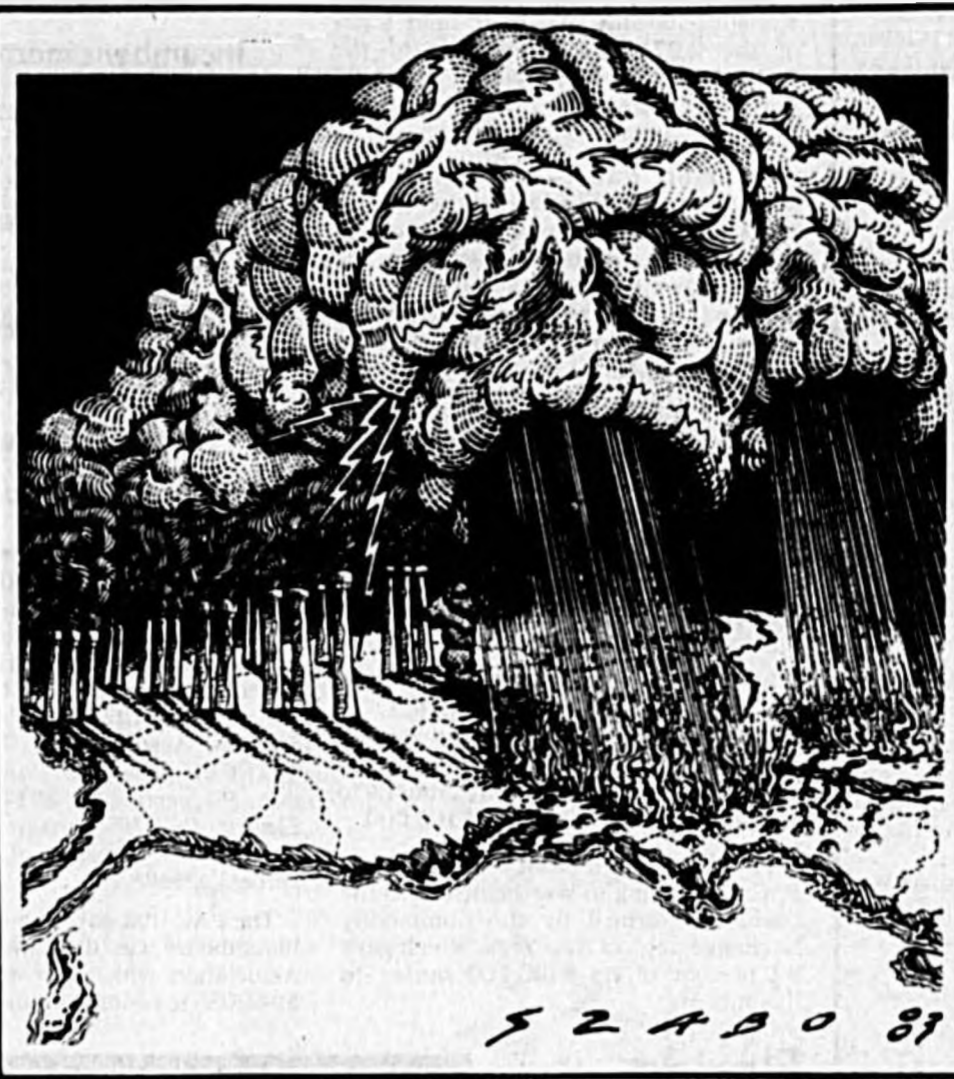

By Gino Del Guercio
UPI Science Writer

BOSTON (UPI) — In 1980, Billy D. was a freshman at an Ivy League college. Today he is a vagrant searching for hot air ducts to keep himself warm at night and listening to voices no one else can hear.

Billy D. suffers from schizophrenia. After dropping out of school he was hospitalized briefly and treated with antipsychotic drugs. He was released into his mother's care, but she was too chronically depressed to care for him.

Twenty years ago, Billy D. would have been committed to a state mental hospital where he would have either recovered and been released or remained there for the rest of his life. But during the last 20 years state mental hospitals have reduced their number of patients by 75 percent. Now, no state hospital will take him on a long-term basis.

Billy D. has joined the ranks of thousands of mentally ill people who have hit rock bottom. Many others, of the estimated 2 million chronically mentally ill Americans, live in rundown rooming houses or tiny welfare apart-

Timber Giants Bailout

WASHINGTON — In an apparent attempt to harvest votes in the Pacific Northwest, President Reagan approved an industry bailout that will benefit some of the nation's richest timber companies — at an estimated cost to the taxpayers of $600 million.

Unlike the $1.5 billion Chrysler Corp. loan guarantee — which eventually earned the Treasury $311 million from the sale of stock warrants that were part of the deal — the timber barons' bailout will represent an unrecoverable loss to the taxpayers. The companies will be given a five-year extension on contracts to buy government timber on which they overbid, without having to pay interest that would normally be required for such contract extensions.

And unlike Chrysler, which was on the verge of bankruptcy when it appealed for government help, the big timber corporations that will benefit most from the bailout are in healthy financial condition. Individual companies earned profits as high as $80 million in the first nine months of 1983.

In fact, Wall Street analysts are predicting industry profits of nearly $3 billion for 1984. That's a 93 percent increase over 1982, when the timber companies first began whining for permission to waltz on their contracts.

What makes the bailout particularly galling is that it was the timber companies' own reckless greed that put them in the predicament from which Reagan has now rescued them. Wrongly expecting high inflation and the housing boom to continue indefinitely — and hoping to freeze out smaller competitors — the big timber companies went on a bidding binge in the late 1970s, offering prices for government timber that were as high as 400 percent of its appraised value.

Then the recession sent housing demand — and lumber prices — skidding down like logs on a flume. The industry demanded to be let out of its contracts and allowed to buy the timber at the lower current price.

The timber barons found a sympathetic ear in John B. Crowell, assistant agriculture secretary for natural resources. Before he joined the government, Crowell was general counsel for Louisiana Pacific, which will gain an estimated $10 million share of the contract bailout.

It was Crowell who raised the political issue. My associate Michael Blinstein obtained an internal memo from Crowell that said:

"If extensions with interest are the most that the government offers, we can expect continued political agitation for doing something more. A recent poll in Oregon showed 53 percent of the persons queried to be in favor of allowing logging companies to satisfy their contract obligations by paying the lower current prices."

Crowell claimed he had no conflict of interest because he and his family had divested all their timber holdings.

The political point was also driven home by Oregon's Republican Gov. Victor Atiyeh when he came to Washington with timber industry officials last summer. Reagan carried Oregon by a slim margin in 1980.

During several stormy Cabinet sessions, the bailout was opposed by the president's Council of Economic Advisers, Treasury Secretary Donald Regan, Budget Director David Stockman and the Justice Department. One of the principal objections was that the bailout would set a precedent for other industries that are in trouble — or that claim to be.

The decision was made to hold the timber firms to the prices they bid for the timber, but to allow them an extra five years to purchase it. In the meantime, they will pay no interest on the money owed the government.

Footnote: For years Louisiana Pacific has been urging the Forest Service to require larger down payments at bidding time, piously proclaiming that this would reduce speculation. But Forest Service officials believe that this would squeeze many smaller timber companies out of business and lead to even greater control of the industry by the big companies.

DICK WEST Spotting Instant Tradition

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Tradition has been defined as anything done the same way twice. That seems to me an oversimplification.

I am more inclined to go along with the central theme of the book "The Invention of Tradition." It holds that many of our rituals, practices and usages are relatively modern formats devised to cover up or disguise changes that had taken place.

Mistakes, I might add, also can be camouflaged by tradition.

Why does a certain group persist in doing something the hard way? The traditional explanation is, "That's the way it's always been done."

Actually, the record likely will show that people only started doing things the hard way a fairly short time ago. In culpable circles, this is known as "creative nostalgia."

History abounds with examples. For modern illumination, we need not look beyond the second coming of the 98th Congress next week.

New security measures intended to foil political terrorists at the Capitol offer numerous opportunities for creating nostalgia.

If the security satraps were candid about it, they might admit they were emulating football coaches.

A common game plan is to try to confuse the opposition with a wide variety of formations.

It just may be that these tactics will so confuse any would-be terrorists that the Capitol complex will remain secure.

Or, should the practicality of the plans be called into question, the security chiefs can always defend their handiwork by claiming they have tradition on their side.

Is it traditional for visitors and reporters to pass through metal detectors when entering the building?

It is now. That bit of creative nostalgia has been added to the earlier tradition of passing through metal detectors installed at entrances to the press and public galleries of the House and Senate.

And what of the use of what appears to be huge links of concrete sewer pipe as outdoor barricades?

Well, is not beautification of the Capitol grounds an ancient and honorable tradition? And will not these conduits eventually be filled with dirt and planted with flowers and shrubbery?

The beautification tradition includes the planting of trees as memorials to distinguished lawmakers and other public figures. At last count, more than 50 such arboreal tributes were spreading their roots, including the Sen. Jacob Galliger memorial oak, the Sen. Shelby Cullom memorial elm, the Rep. Charles Randall memorial redwood and the Speaker John McCormack memorial sugar maple.

Eventually, I suppose, if this tradition continues, the Capitol grounds will become a bit too bosky for other beautification pursuits.

Is it too early to start creating nostalgia at the security barricades? Not if admirers of instant antiquity seize the moment, it isn't.

A memorial flower pot that could double as a sewer connection would seem a fitting way to honor certain public figures. And, best of all, it could become a congressional tradition.

ments. State mental hospitals have purged their wards of all but the most severely mentally ill patients during the past 30 years. The rationale behind the philosophy, known as deinstitutionalization, was that mental patients could be cared for more effectively and less expensively by the community.

The burgeoning human rights movement at the time added fuel to the argument that people, even the severely mentally ill, should have control over their own lives. And new drugs that effectively controlled their aberrant behavior made them acceptable to the community.

A speech by President John F. Kennedy in 1963 calling for a "bold new approach" to mental illness gave the movement a final push.

But many authorities say what at first looked like a good idea, has proven to be a disaster.

At least while living in mental hospitals patients didn't face the daily risk of being robbed or freezing to death in some back alley. But now temporary shelters across the country are filled with these poor, confused people.

In the past, the most people who stayed in shelters for the homeless were alcoholics. Although there are no hard figures, shelter directors now say the majority of their inhabitants are or have been mentally ill. Most receive no treatment at all.

At the Lemuel Shattuck Hospital Shelter in Boston, 90 percent of the guests have severe psychological difficulties. Shelter workers say there is no reason to believe their population is different from any other.

The shelters are overflowing, leaving many homeless with no place to sleep except on heating grates or, if they're lucky, in an abandoned building. Few of these patients are receiving any treatment at all.

"We had 267 residents the other night. We're at our absolute saturation point," said Pat Murphy, director of the Pine Street Inn, a shelter for the homeless in downtown Boston. "We can't go over this number before we begin really severely compromising what we're doing. The situation is really very extreme."

How did such a good idea go so wrong?

Most experts believe patients were released into communities too fast and without adequate community based programs. When Kennedy endorsed community-based care he promised there would be 2,000 community mental health centers by 1980. Today there are only 800.

Many of the centers that do exist are so overcrowded they are forced to discharge patients as quickly as possible. According to one shelter director, the health centers sometimes discharge patients by giving them a day pass and not letting them back in.

William A. Anthony, director of the Center for Rehabilitation Research and Training in Mental Health at Boston University, believes that no one realized how much care the mentally ill required once they left the hospital. He said most people thought that all mental patients needed was access to medication and occasional visits to the hospital or mental health center.

What they discovered was that over and above their illness, most of these people were retarded in their social skills.

Merit Pay

Teachers Claim It's Unfair; Study Group Continues Work

TALLHASSEE (UPI) — Members of a high-level state panel say incentive pay plans for teachers are possible but difficulties remain over how teachers will be evaluated and who will do it.

T.E. Bronson, chairman of Florida Mining and Minerals Corp. and a member of the Florida Quality Instruction Incentives Council, said in spite of the problems, the goal of doubling the learning capacity of Florida students in the next five years was "reasonable."

The council has been working since August to develop recommendations on implementing incentive pay plans. The group is due to submit a final report to the Legislature and the governor and Cabinet by March 1.

In an interim report to Gov. Bob Graham and the Cabinet Tuesday, council members outlined the pay plans currently under consideration, including controversial proposals that would base at least part of the teacher evaluations on student scores on standardized tests.

One day earlier, many teachers told the council merit pay was unworkable and unfair and should not be considered until the general salary level of all teachers was improved.

In other education action, Graham and the Cabinet received a report on a proposal to raise the passing score on Florida's functional literacy test, but delayed action until their next meeting.

The functional literacy test has been a diploma requirement for high schools seniors since last spring, when a U.S. district judge in Tampa upheld its constitutionality. The case is currently in the 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Graham and the Cabinet also postponed a decision on whether to take the federal government to court over an undercount of migrant workers in Florida that is jeopardizing funding for a variety of migrant-oriented programs.

At issue is whether the government should use U.S. Census Bureau figures — which set the state's migrant population at less than 100,000 — or U.S. Department of Agriculture figures — which place the migrant population at more than 280,000.

The immediate result of the government's reliance on Census Bureau statistics is that funding for Florida's adult migrant education program fell from $5.2 million two years ago to $3.7 million last year.

Education Commissioner Ralph Turlington said continued use of the Census figures could also cost

Florida money in a variety of other programs utilizing population as a basis for dispersing funds.

In other action, Graham and the Cabinet:

—Imposed new conditions on Exxon's use of an 11-mile access road in the Big Cypress State Preserve following an oil spill last fall.

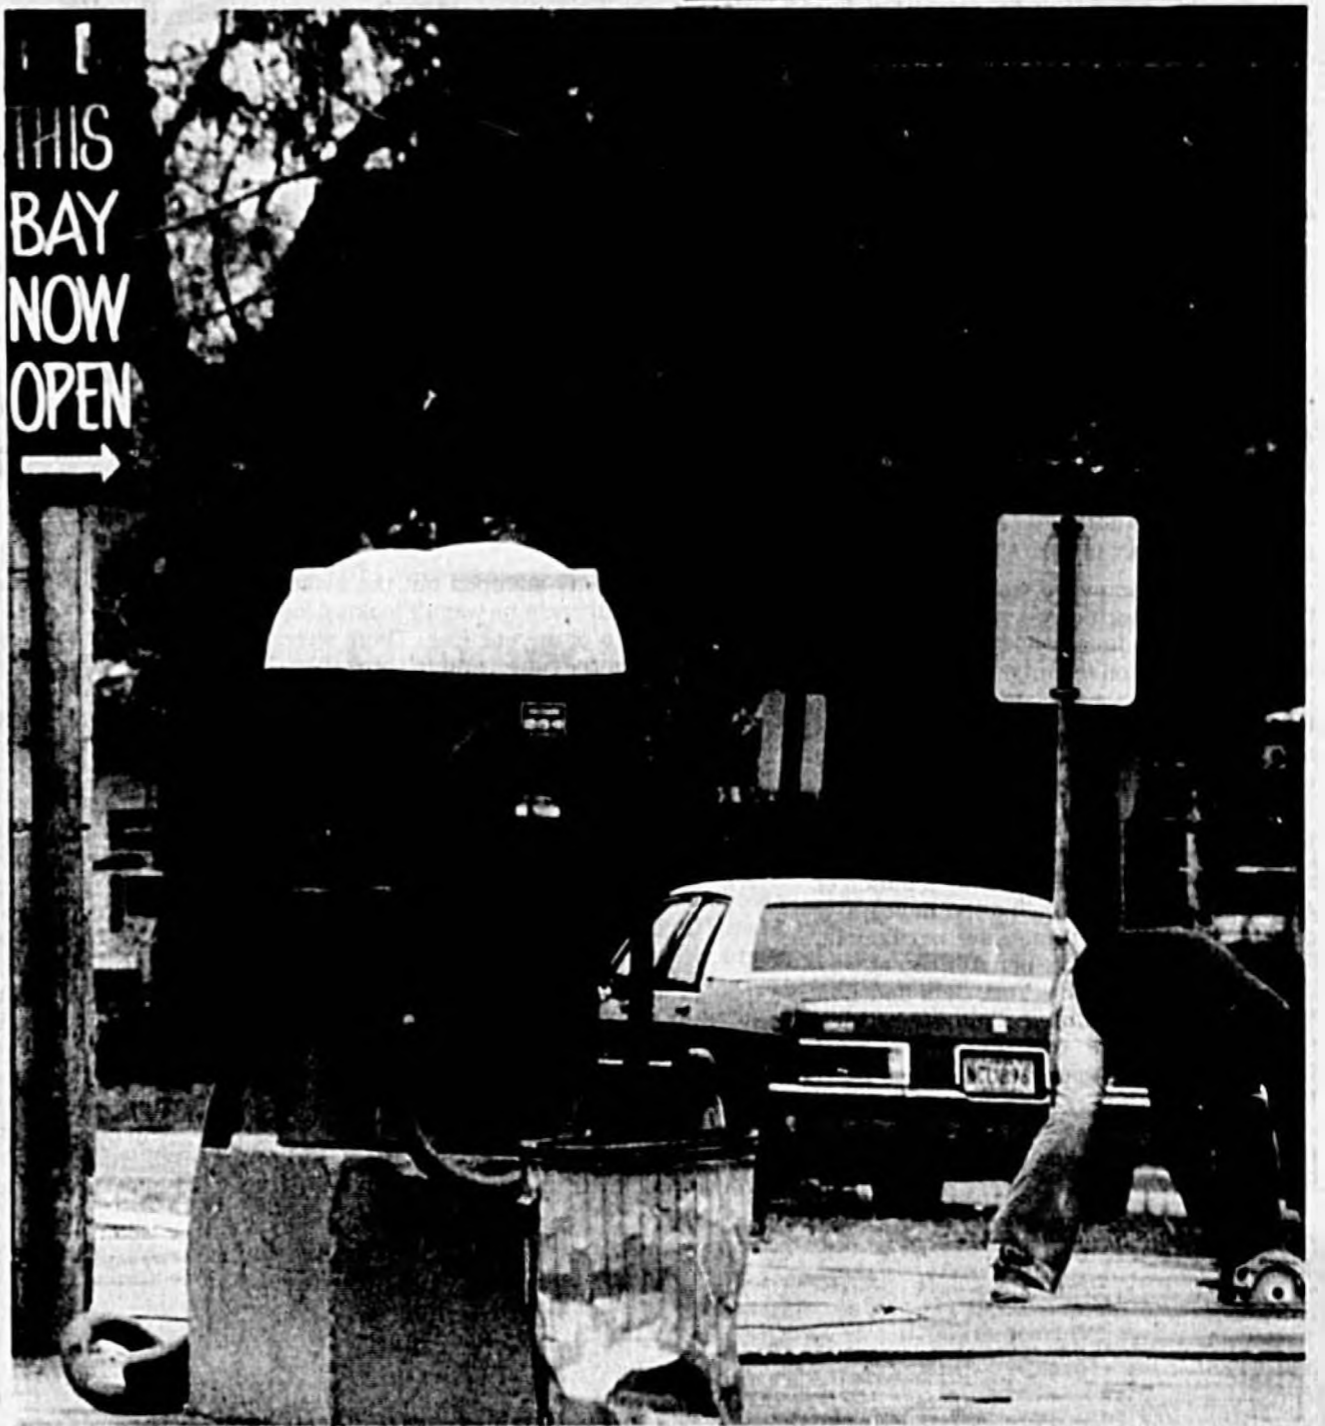

The new conditions include requiring the road surface be at least 15 feet wide, prohibiting maintenance vehicles be on the road at the same time as loaded oil tankers, requiring tankers to travel in convoys and mandating better radio communications.

More than 1,500 gallons of crude oil were spilled during the accident last year.

—Ordered the Department of Natural Resources to draft specific criteria for marina and dock siting in the Florida Keys with the purpose of protecting and conserving the area's fragile coral reefs.

The governor and Cabinet said the siting criteria should include such factors as public access and the impact of construction on mangroves, seagrass beds and other resources.

The proposed regulations are to come back before the governor and Cabinet at the Feb. 21 meeting.

Not Yet, It Isn't

While the sign at this car wash on U.S. Highway 17-92 and Third Street in Sanford says the wash bay is now open, it obviously isn't. In fact, this workman has just begun curbing the concrete to lay pipe to the new bay. Maybe the sign painter just pointed his arrow in the wrong direction.

Gum OK'd To Help Smokers Quit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A prescription chewing gum that contains nicotine will soon be in drug stores to help people kick the cigarette habit.

The Food and Drug Administration Tuesday approved the gum, Nicorette, that studies show can double the success rate for people trying to quit smoking.

Nicorette does not eliminate the desire for a cigarette but can provide a short-term alternative source of nicotine for people dependent on cigarettes, the FDA said.

"This is not a panacea," said Charles Ronney, a spokesman for Merrell Dow Pharmaceuticals Inc. of Cincinnati, which will market the drug. "This won't make everyone stop smoking. It is an aid."

"The gum should be used as part of a program of education, counseling and support," Ronney said. "As prescribed, it would be used for about three months."

Nicorette contains two milligrams of nicotine per piece. It was developed in Sweden 12 years ago and is marketed there and in Britain and Canada. Merrell Dow will import the gum from a Swedish pharmaceutical company.

Ronney said the gum, which will sell for about $20 for a box of 96 tablets, will likely be in drug stores by March.

Tests in Britain found that people trying to quit smoking in organized programs had doubled the unaided success rate when they used the gum, which he described as having a spicy nicotine taste.

Dr. Edward Tocus, chief of the FDA's drug abuse staff, said while smokers are exposed to carcinogenic tars, users of the gum are only exposed to nicotine, which raises blood pressure but does not cause cancer.

Because of this increase in blood pressure, the FDA said pregnant women and some heart patients should not use Nicorette — nor should they smoke.

According to the labeling approved by the FDA, smokers who have a high physical dependence on nicotine are most likely to benefit from Nicorette.

Such a person typically smokes more than 15 cigarettes a day, prefers cigarettes with more than 0.9 milligrams of nicotine, inhales and finds the first cigarette of the morning the hardest to give up.

The FDA noted in a statement that the U.S. Public Health Service regards cigarette smoking as "the single most important preventable cause of illness and early death" in the United States.

Growers See Another Poor Orange Crop

ORLANDO (UPI) — A Christmas cold snap which caused millions of dollars in damage to Florida orange groves will probably make next season's crop one of the worst ever, growers say.

Growers predict between 125 million and 140 million 90-pound boxes will be picked during the 1984-1985 harvest. If the harvest is less than this year's projected 129 million boxes, it would be the state's second worst output in 16 years, growers said Wednesday.

About 100 million boxes were produced in 1968. "If we produce 130 million boxes next season, we'd be quite fortunate," said John Kennedy of Golden Gem Growers Cooperative in Umatilla.

Some of the growers are worried because countless trees in Florida's 850,000 acres of groves were devastated by the surprise Christmas weekend freeze.

Damage is so severe in some sections of central Florida that bark is separating from trees. Growers said the industry would be virtually destroyed if another freeze hits next month.

"They (the trees) are just as open and vulnerable as they can be. A good freeze will bust the bark," said Art Mathias of Haines City Citrus Growers Cooperative.

Grower Maurice Boyd said it would be two years before some of the acreage would yield fruit again.

"I think you'll see the largest reduction ever in the last several years. I will be extremely low, extremely low," Boyd said.

However, Polk County citrus observer Jim Griffiths and other growers don't think the freeze will jeopardize next year's crop.

Griffiths said freeze damage was confined to the industry's smaller growing areas. He estimated the pick next year at 140 million boxes.

Citrus authority John Jackson said roughly 20 percent of the state's trees were hurt by the freeze, but were not concentrated in heavy production areas.

Jackson, a Lake County extension agent, said heavy production areas were in good shape.

'Crazy' Riggins Would Have Made A Great Raider

TAMPA (UPI) — What's all this prune juice about how much the Washington Redskins and Los Angeles Raiders despise each other and can't wait to prove it Sunday in Super Bowl XVIII? You wanna know the real truth? If they were any friendlier, or enjoyed one another's company more, people might start to talk.

A perfect example of how buddy-buddy the players on both teams actually are with each other or how well they hit it off together was Monday night's meeting between more than a half dozen members of the Redskins and a like number of Raiders at a local bar and restaurant not long after they had arrived in town.

If you didn't know better, you might've gotten the idea this was some sort of sentimental class reunion among a bunch of guys who hadn't seen each other in years. It certainly wasn't anything like that famous flash-fire confrontation between Broadway Joe Namath of the New York Jets and Lou Michaels of the Baltimore Colts when they found themselves together in a Fort Lauderdale bar a week before Super Bowl III.

Remember that one? Merely trying to be neighborly, Namath said to Michaels, a fellow Pennsylvanian, "Sorry, we're gonna have to take care of you guys Sunday."

Michaels comes from a different section of Pennsylvania than Namath. He's from Swoyersville, where they don't make jokes like that.

"Let's go outside and I'll show you who'll take care of who," snapped the Colts' place kicker.

Namath hurriedly stamped out the blaze. He convinced Michaels he wasn't looking for a fight with him or anyone else. There were other players in the place, and to show there were no hard feelings, Namath picked up the check for everyone when he left.

Maybe New Englanders are bigger on spontaneous socializing. Whatever it is, I wish you could've seen the honest affection with which the Redskins' Peter Cronan of Framingham, Mass., greeted and grabbed the Raiders' Howie Long of Charlestown, Mass., in that local watering hole Monday night.

Cronan, who played for Boston College, is captain of the Redskins' special teams and always is full of stories and full of life. Long came to the Raiders from Villanova, made All-Pro as defensive end this season and has even more stories than Cronan. Like the rest of the other Redskins and Raiders who ran into each other in that bar, they did some table hopping and had a great time talking and kidding with one another.

Milton Richman

"We were having some Diet-Pepsis," Cronan, the natural born joker, winked. "Howie and I know each other from when Boston College was trying to recruit him. He and I had a real good visit and when I got back to my table, my roommate, Mark Murphy, put it on me. You see, before our last game of the season with the Giants, I saw Murph shaking hands with a lot of their players. When he got back to the locker room after we warmed up, I said to him, 'What are you, the Welcome Wagon representative?' He got a little upset about that. So when I came back to the table after being with Long, he got back at me. 'What are you, the Welcome Wagon representative?' he asked me," Cronan laughed.

Naturally, all these friendships will be put on hold temporarily Sunday. At least, until after the game. It won't exactly be a rose garden out there. It never is whenever any two NFL teams go head-to-head.

"You should hear some of the names they call you," he said. "You should hear some of the things they say about your mother. But I never worry about things like that. It's all part of the game. Some of the things they say I take as a compliment because they're being said out of frustration, not out of malice. That's football, and I play the game because I love it. People say to me, 'Yeah, but look at the money you make.' They've got the wrong idea about it. You could never really get paid enough for all the pain, anxiety and work that's involved. People only see the finished product. They assume we only line up and play. They have no idea what it's really like out there."

Generally speaking, Long agreed with everything Cronan had to say.

"This is a ball," beamed the 6-foot-5, 270-pound former collegiate boxing champ. "This is living life to the fullest. You hear a lot about this so-called 'hatred' we're supposed to have for them and they're supposed to have for us. I'd say it's more like a mutual respect. The way I look at it is they're standing in my way of $36,000 and the world championship, so naturally, I'm going to do everything I can to knock them out of the way. You have 22 very proud individuals on the field. That means you're going to have some pushing and shoving. But it isn't anything personal. Hey, I really like John Riggins. He's crazy. He'd have made a great Raider. A lotta people say I'm crazy, too. But I think I'm more calculated than crazy."

Get Long talking about Charlestown, where he grew up, and he never stops.

"60 Minutes said it's the bank robbers' capital of the world," said the Raiders' big, good-looking third-year man. "I dunno, my grandmother likes it. It ain't a bad town. When I was a kid growing up there, the biggest sport was hockey. Skates were $100. Where was I gonna get that kind of money? I work with the Boys Club back there now in the off season. I wanna show kids there's more than robbing banks."

When I was a kid in Charlestown, the guys robbing cars were the hot items. They may say I'm a jerk for saying that, but it's the truth. I didn't get into any of that, though. I used to hang around the Boston Garden all the time. I'd sneak in from the fire escapes. I loved the Boston Celtics and my dream was to play in the NBA some day. I hung around there so much, I think I heard every swear word Tom Heinsohn ever said."

Janak Draws A Crowd

Jili Janak, Seminole soccer player, battles a host of Oviedo players for the ball in action Tuesday at Seminole High. Janak assisted Susan Mann to give the Lady Seminoles a 3-3 tie in the second half, but Oviedo won in overtime on a penalty kick, 4-3. Toni Washington and Chris Gonzales had the other goals while Alicia Huaman and Lisa Myers had assists.

Seminole Girls Look For Breathing Room In 5 Star Against Lake Mary

The race for the Five Star Conference girls championship could get even tighter tonight or closer to being decided.

The key matchup is an 8 p.m. game between Sanford's Lady Seminoles and Lake Mary's Lady Rams at Seminole High. Seminole clobbered the Lady Rams in its first game of the season, but Lake Mary has played much better recently. The Lake Mary's junior varsity will also be in action as it takes on Seminole at 6:15 prior to the varsity game. The JV Lady Rams are 8-0 on the season.

After its upset loss to Seabreeze Tuesday, the Lady Tribe's conference lead dwindled to one game over Lake Howell and two over DeLand. Seminole (15-4 overall) stands at 9-1 in the conference followed by Lake Howell at 8-2, DeLand at 7-3 and Lake Mary and

Prep Basketball

Lyman at 6-4. Lake Mary (11-5 overall) could pull to within two games tonight and will still be in the running to host its first round game in the district tourney.

The format of the district tournament was changed this season (girls only), the top four teams will host their first round games and the remainder of the tourney will be played at Lake Howell High — if the plan is approved — said Lake Howell coach Dennis Codrey.

In other Five Star Conference action tonight, Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots will try for their second straight victory at Apopka.

game. Oviedo's Lady Lions will try to get back on track as they travel to Osceola Klasmimnee.

Another key Five Star matchup is on the agenda for Friday night as Lake Howell's Lady Hawks try to stay within one game of Seminole against Lyman's Lady Greyhounds in the first game (6:15) of a doubleheader at Milwee Middle School.

Lake Howell ran up its 15th victory in 20 games Wednesday night when it crushed Bishop Moore, 75-43, at Bishop Moore High School in Orlando.

Lake Howell spurred to a 45-19 first-half lead to put the game out of reach early. Tammy Johnson tossed in 20 points while running mate at guard Mary Johnson added 17. Forward Monica McNeil chipped in 10.

Payton, Tolbert Click Again — Raiders Pound St. Johns

PALATKA — The tandem of Jimmy Payton and Mike Tolbert continues to click for Seminole Community College's Raiders.

Payton, a 8-0 guard, threw in 12 of his 16 points during a first-half splurge, and Tolbert, a 6-3 swingman, supplied two crucial buckets in the second half as the Raiders blitzed St. Johns River, 72-53, Wednesday night.

The victory raises SCC's overall mark to 13-8 and 2-1 in the Division II. St. Johns falls to 8-7 and 0-3. The Raiders take on Valencia, a 90-72 loser to Lake City, Saturday at the SCC Health Center at 7:30 p.m. The Lady Raiders, 8-12, play Pensacola Saturday at 2 p.m. at Noye.

After experiencing a mid-season slump, coach Bill Payne's team has jelled in the past five games with the insertion of Tolbert for sophomore Delvin Everett. "Tolbert's presence takes some of the pressure off Payne," said Payne. "And Everett has played better of the bench. He did a good job for us last night."

Payton, always a fine playmaker but usually too unselfish to put it up, has come out of his shooting shell the last few games. Wednesday, the ex-Spruce Creek standout fired in 7 of 12 shoots for 16 points.

After the Raiders and St. Johns battled evenly for nine minutes, Payton ignited a burst which saw the Raiders take a 31-22 lead into intermission.

"Payton can shoot," Payne has said on many occasions. "The problem is getting him to do so."

While the Raiders carried a nine-point lead into the final 20 minutes, Payne was disturbed by a lack of rebounding. "They were just killing us on the boards," he said. "We finally rebounded a little better in the second half."

St. Johns rebounded, too, pulling within 40-33 with 24 minutes to play. Then Tolbert, a freshman streak shooter from Oak Ridge, drilled in two jumpers from the left wing to pull the Raiders back up by 44-33 and put the game out of reach.

The Raiders continued to shoot well from the field, dropping 29 of 57 shots for 51 percent. They also hit 14 of 17 free throws for 82 percent. St. Johns converted

J.C. Basketball

Just 24 of 85 attempts for 37 percent and only 5 of 9 free throws for 56 percent.

St. Johns River outrebounded SCC, 33-32. Luis Phelps, Bernard Merthie and Payton each had five boards for the Raiders. Tolbert finished with 10 points on 5 of 9 from the field. He also handed out seven assists.

Former Boone star Linnny Grace handed out eight assists, made five big steals and totaled 13 points. Freshman Mike Phillips did a nice job off the pine with 4 of 4 from the field and the foul line for 12 points. Phelps finished with 13 points.

Henderson Hits 17, Frosh Capture 14th

Rod Henderson poured in 17 points and Jerry Parker added 14 as Seminole's freshman squad rolled to its 14th straight victory, 72-26, Wednesday over Lake Howell at Seminole High School.

The Tribe frosh will be back in action today at 4 at Seminole High against Lake Mary's Rams, the only team that came close to beating Seminole this season.

Seminole's devastating offensive attack was too much for Lake Howell Wednesday as the Tribe cruised to a 40-12 halftime lead and never looked back. Sean Fulce added eight points for the Tribe frosh while David Daniels and Freddie Grooms added six each.

Tisdale Pops For 36, Sooners Tip Colorado

The Rocky Mountain air did little to invigorate Billy Tubbs.

"A game like this will add a hundred years to your age," the Oklahoma coach said Wednesday night.

In a Big Eight game in Boulder, Colo., the 17th-ranked Sooners defeated the Colorado Buffaloes

Basketball

100-89 in double overtime. And as is often the case with Oklahoma, Wayman Tisdale was the prime mover, finishing with 36 points on 18-of-20 shooting.

Before a crowd of 10,649, the largest for a Colorado home game, the Sooners, 14-2, also got clutch work from Jan Pannell, who sank 10 free throws in the second overtime.

Colorado tied it 70-70 with 11 seconds left in regulation on a tip-in by Randy Downs and Pierce missed a foul shot with two seconds to go to force overtime.

In other Top 20 games, No. 1 North Carolina defeated Virginia 89-66; No. 6 Georgetown beat Providence 80-78; and No. 20 Boston College edged Northeastern 81-78 in overtime.

At Chapel Hill, N.C., the Tar Heels squandered a 24-point second-half lead before recovering to beat Virginia in an Atlantic Coast Conference game. Michael Jordan scored 23 points for North Carolina, 13-0, and Othell Wilson had 21 points for the Cavaliers.

At Washington, Patrick Ewing and David Wingate provided 18 points each in the Big East game as Georgetown, 14-2, regrouped after its loss to Villanova. Providence, victimized by turnovers, was led by Ous Thorpe's 15 points.

At Newton, Mass., Martin Clark's layup with 40 seconds left and two free throws by Jay Murphy with a second to go gave Boston College its 19th straight victory over city rival Northeastern.

Elsewhere, Rafael Addison scored 20 points and freshman Dwayne Washington 16 to lead Syracuse over Connecticut 95-88; Dave Hoppen's 27 points and 11 rebounds rallied Nebraska by Iowa State 84-63; Kansas defeated Missouri 73-58 behind 17 points by Carl Henry and 15 by Calvin Thompson; Charles Jones fired in 19 points to send Louisville past Cincinnati 82-64; Ron Stokes hit a baseline jumper as time expired to lift Ohio State over Michigan 82-60; and Memphis State dropped South Carolina 75-58 on Phillip Haynes' 19 points.

Elks Hoop Shoot Begins Saturday At Seminole High

The 1984 Elks Hoop Shoot competition is coming to Sanford on Saturday at 1 p.m. at Seminole High School. The Hoop Shoot is a national free throw shooting contest for boys and girls ages 8 to 13.

Over three million boys and girls entered the contest last year. The age categories are 8-9, 10-11 and 12-13. Each contestant has 25 shots at the hoop. The boy and girl in each age group with the best scores advances through four tiers of competition to qualify for the national finals.

Local, district and state winners will compete against other contestants in the local, district and state events. Names of the national winners will be inscribed on the Elks National Hoop Shoot plaque, on permanent display in the NalSmith Memorial Basketball Hall Fame in Springfield, Mass.

All boys and girls are invited to compete.

Reds Slate Tryout Camp

The Cincinnati Reds will hold an open tryout camp for prospective baseball players on Friday, Jan. 27 at the University of South Florida baseball field located on East Fowler Ave. in Tampa. The camp will begin promptly at 9:30 a.m. and end at 1 p.m.

The camp is open to baseball players who are not attending high school. No high school players is eligible to attend. Tryouts for high school players are permitted during summer months.

Players are requested to bring their uniforms and gloves.

Lady Rams Whip Saints

Lake Mary's girls' soccer team broke a 0-0 deadlock with three second-half goals en route to a 3-0 victory over Trinity Prep at Trinity Prep Wednesday afternoon.

Three minutes into the second half, Kellie Broen kicked in the Lady Rams' first goal to break the tie. Vickie Warner and Suzy Suter later added goals for the 3-0 win.

Keeper Debbie Howell kept the Lady Saints in check throughout the game. Lake Mary, 5-5, hosts Lake Brantley Wednesday at 5:30 p.m.

Patriots Blank Bucs, 3-0

Chad Marien, Steve DeLong and Rick Williams each scored a goal as the Lake Brantley Patriots blanked Mainland, 3-0, in Five Star Conference soccer at Lake Brantley High School Wednesday.

The Patriots outshot the Bucs, 27-8, and keeper Daryl Sowers saved four shots for coach Bob Steadman's team.

Lake Brantley returns to action next Tuesday at Lyman.

Waldrops A Winner

Eddie Waldrop, an 11-year-old from Lake Mary, throws in his game-winning free to capture his division of the Knights of Columbus-Father Lyons Council Free-Throw Contest.

Branch: 'Pearl Harbor Crew' Won't Fall Easily

TAMPA (UPI) — Jim Plunkett will likely be throwing bombs at Washington's "Pearl Harbor Crew" secondary Sunday but veteran receiver Cliff Branch says the Los Angeles attack won't come easy.

"Don't give me that stuff," said Branch, at 35 the "Old Folks" of the Raiders' receiving corps.

"They've been together for 18 games now and they've only lost two. They have to be doing something right. We think we have some things that will go against them. We'll wait and see on Sunday."

The Raiders resumed full-scale workouts Wednesday for Sunday's game and Coach Tom Flores said another heavy workout was on tap today. "Just like we'd do during the week of a regular-season game."

"One of the things we're trying to do this week is make our players feel like they are at home, not at training camp. We're trying to make everything as normal as possible."

Flores said there were several "collisions" in Wednesday's three-hour session. "It was a very physical practice, which shows you how important this game is. Everyone is getting a little keyed up already and we have to temper that so that they don't peak too early."

Super Bowl

Flores said linebacker Ted Hendricks is still suffering from "a strained abdominal muscle," but he is counting on him to start Sunday.

"That injury has bothered him for some weeks now," said Flores. "We'll be taking him out on certain plays, but he's still a dominating player, especially early in the game. This is his type of game."

He said guard Charley Hannag (bruised chest) also will play.

"They take me out on obvious passing plays," explained Hendricks. "We like to play man for man and opponents would take advantage of having me in there with my lateral movement and my blitzing ability cut down. The only part of my game that is not suffering is defending against the run."

"If the Redskins are smart, they'll get on me. But no one can intimidate me. I've been around too long."

Flores said he would not be surprised if the game turns into another high-scoring affair like the 37-35 contest won by Washington on Oct. 2. In that game, the Redskins

Business As Usual For Gibbs

Super Bowl

TAMPA (UPI) — If anything approaching normality can be achieved during the hectic pace of Super Bowl week, Washington Redskins coach Joe Gibbs plans to find it.

Gibbs is big on maintaining a business-as-usual atmosphere as the Redskins prepare to defend their Super Bowl title Sunday against the Los Angeles Raiders. Gibbs even went so far as to give the Redskins their usual day off Tuesday.

"Everyone knows the magnitude of this game, but our first job is to prepare to win the football game and we think the best way to do that is to stick as closely as possible to our regular routine," Gibbs said Wednesday.

Gibbs stayed with the normal 10 a.m. meeting and 1:45 p.m. workout schedule the Redskins keep during the regular season. Gibbs was concerned that his club find the time and privacy to work when necessary, although he is allowing the players the leniency to enjoy the Super Bowl hoopla.

"It's important that we have privacy when we're working," said Gibbs. "We need the time away from everything to do our job - prepare to win the football game."

"I think we're getting that done. And the coaches have the privacy for meetings and preparation for Sunday. The players deserve the chance to enjoy the Super Bowl atmosphere. But the main task is preparing for the game."

Gibbs kept the Redskins on their University of South Florida practice field for nearly 2 1/2 hours Wednesday, a normal Wednesday practice. Gibbs, however, couldn't make the weather approach normal for his club, although no one seemed to mind.

The Redskins worked out in 77-degree temperatures, with the skies alternating between sunny and partly cloudy. No one complained, however, because they knew their practice field in the Northern Virginia suburbs of Washington is under a heavy blanket of snow.

"We were able to get a lot of good work in on Friday, Saturday and Monday at home," said Gibbs. "But I think the biggest reason for the enthusiasm on Monday was the players knowing they would be coming here right after we finished."

Unlike a year ago, Gibbs has not has to crack down on his club for any mid-week partying. Some players and assistant coaches were chastised for missing a team bus to practice last year, but all has gone smoothly this week.

Observing the Super Bowl festivities closely is third-string quarterback Babe Laufenberg. He's been quick to point out that while this is the second-straight Super Bowl for several Redskins, it's his second-straight January in Tampa.

"A year ago this week, I was here for a tryout camp," grinned the rookie from Indiana University. "Then I went home and watched the Super Bowl on television. This year, at least I have a better seat, and I get paid to watch."

Laufenberg, who hasn't played a down, stands to make $64,000 if the Redskins win Sunday, or settle for $48,000 if they lose. There's a frustrating side, however, but he tempers it with realism.

"I never played in a bowl game in college, never played on a championship team in high school," said Laufenberg, a sixth-round draft pick

WORLD IN BRIEF

Egypt Readmitted To Influential Arab Group

CASABLANCA, Morocco (UPI) — Leaders of the Islamic Conference Organization agreed today to readmit Egypt, banished from the worldwide group for signing a peace treaty with Israel in 1979, the Gulf News Agency reported.

The report by the Bahrain-based news agency, however, could not be confirmed immediately at the Islamic summit, which earlier went into an unscheduled fourth day to try to break the deadlock on Egypt between Arab moderates and hardliners.

Moderate Arab states, with African and Asian backing, favored readmission, but were opposed by hardline anti-Israeli Arab nations.

Yasser Arafat, chairman of the Palestine Liberation Organization and a member of the conference, made a passionate speech early today praising Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak and calling for Egypt's return to the organization, sources said.

Mine Fire Kills 83

TAKADA, Japan (UPI) — Rescue workers pulled the last bodies from an undersea coal mine today, ending a frantic 26-hour search for survivors of a fire that killed 83 miners, most poisoned by toxic fumes.

One miner, pinned by smoke and flames in a pit about three miles from the mine entrance, miraculously survived for more than 25 hours before being rescued today.

The final casualty toll was announced by officials at the Ariake Mine after rescuers discovered the bodies of the last three miners nearly two miles inside the coal mine and 26 hours after the blaze began.

Mitsui Mining Co. officials said 83 miners died, most from carbon monoxide poisoning, and 13 were injured. It was Japan's worst mining disaster since a gas explosion in the Yubari Coal Mine in northern Japan killed 93 miners two years ago.

More than 600 miners managed to escape when the fire broke out at 1:50 p.m. local time Wednesday.

Lawyer's Arrest A Warning

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Polish police arrested a pro-Solidarity attorney as a warning to the country's legal profession not to represent dissidents, colleagues said.

Colleagues said Wednesday Maciej Bednarkiewicz was arrested and jailed Jan. 11 to prevent him from representing the family of pro-Solidarity student Grzegorz Przemyski, who was beaten to death last May 3.

Przemyski's family had retained Bednarkiewicz, a prominent member of the board of the Polish Attorney's Association, to represent them at the trial of two doctors, two policemen and two ambulance crewmen charged in connection with the killing.

Bednarkiewicz also was due to defend dissident leader Jan Rulewski, a member of the outlawed Solidarity union scheduled to go on trial on charges of conspiring to overthrow Poland's communist government.

Murder A Warning

U.S. Educator's Killers Vow To Continue Terrorism

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — The assassination of the president of the American University of Beirut was a warning that terrorism will continue until "there will no longer be a single American or Frenchman" in Lebanon, the group that claimed the killing says.

Malcolm Kerr, 52, was shot twice in the head Wednesday by two gunmen with silencer-equipped pistols as he walked alone from the elevator to his third-floor campus office. His killers apparently escaped into west Beirut's busy streets.

The university president, an American who was a noted expert on the Arab world, was pronounced dead on arrival at the American University Hospital, the same hospital where he was born.

He had reportedly grown tired of war-torn Beirut and was considering returning to the U.S., some of his colleagues at UCLA said Wednesday.

"Kerr was the victim of the American presence in Lebanon," said a caller claiming to be a member of Islamic Jihad, or Holy War. The Moslem group took responsibility for the suicide bombings of American and French targets in the Middle East.

"We pledge that there will no longer be a single American or Frenchman on this soil," he told the French news agency.

The caller also said a kidnapped Saudi Arabiar diplomat, Hussein Farraj, was being tried "under the terms of Islamic justice" and his body "will soon be thrown out." Farraj, 45, was abducted Tuesday from his chauffeur-driven car.

Kerr had shunned a bodyguard's protection, although his predecessor, David Dodge, was abducted from the campus in July 1982 and held in Iran for a year until his release.

Kerr's wife, Ann, is a linguistics professor at the university and the couple had four children.

Across the capital in east Beirut, Lebanon's seemingly ceaseless violence raged on as Christian neighborhoods came under renewed shelling by Druze Moslem rebels.

President Amin Gemayel met for five hours with U.S. Middle East envoy Donald Rumsfeld, Beirut radio said.

Panamanian Students Deface U.S. Embassy

United Press International
Students burned a U.S. Army vehicle carrying musicians to the University of Panama and threw paint on the U.S. Embassy in a protest against American policy in Central America and alleged Panama Canal treaty violations.

The station wagon was transporting a folk music group to the university Wednesday when it was attacked and burned by members of the unknown Anti-Interventionist Youth Movement of Panama, a spokesman for the U.S. Southern Command said.

No details concerning injuries to the occupants of the vehicle were immediately available, the command spokesman said.

Students later threw paint on the U.S. Embassy. An embassy spokesman said it had no details on either incident.

Local television reported that both protests were against alleged violations of the 1976 Panama Canal treaty and U.S. policy in Central America.

Last week, a 27-year-old Panamanian doused himself in gasoline and set himself on fire at the entrance of the U.S. Embassy to protest American policy in the area. The man died from the burns in a local hospital the next day.

In El Salvador Wednesday, the army issued a last-minute order for a captain believed to have led a death squad that killed two American land reform advisers to remain jailed for further investigation.

Capt. Eduardo Avila had been scheduled to be released from National Police headquarters late Wednesday after completing a 30-day sentence imposed for leaving the country without permission.

Israel Has Ability To Make Atomic Weapons

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israel has had the capability of making atomic weapons for decades but refuses to build any bombs because it does not want to turn the Middle East dispute into a "nuclear conflict," Israel's science minister said.

Science Minister Yuval Neeman told a Foreign Press Association discussion forum Wednesday that Israel embarked on its nuclear program in the early 1950's so "... we should not rely on anyone helping us if the Arabs ever have nuclear weapons."

Neeman, leader of the ultra-nationalist Tehiya party and an internationally respected nuclear physicist, said, "We wanted to be ready just in case — and then stopped short of going nuclear."

Israel long has said it will not be the first nation in the Middle East to introduce atomic weapons into the Middle East, though many published reports have asserted the Jewish state already possesses a nuclear arsenal.

Israel has declined to sign the nuclear nonproliferation treaty because it said it does not want to be bound by a document some of its radical enemies were certain to ignore. Neeman said the mutual nuclear deterrent existing between the Soviet Union and the United States was impossible in the Middle East context.

First, there are too many Arab countries, "so it's not a matter of a balance between two sides."

He also said some Arab leaders, such as Libya's Moammar Khadafy and Iraq's Saddam Hussein "are crazy. ... You don't want to give people of that nature any kind of possibility of launching a nuclear conflict."

Press Hails Open Court Ruling

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Reporters and editors across the country celebrated a Supreme Court victory supporting the rights of the public and press to attend jury selection at criminal trials.

The nine justices unanimously ruled Wednesday that only in rare instances may judges close courtroom doors when picking jurors for criminal trials and only when other, less severe alternatives have been rejected.

The case was brought by the Riverside, Calif. Press-Enterprise, which appealed the decision of a judge who barred the public from most jury-selection procedures at a 1981 murder trial.

But the ruling, written by Chief Justice Warren Burger, left open the possibility of later legal challenges by jurors who believe their privacy is being invaded by personal questions. Burger said "no right ranks higher than the right of the accused to a fair trial." But "the primacy of the accused's rights is difficult to separate from the right of everyone in the community to attend the (jury questioning) which promotes fairness," he said.

Know Your Ballet Guild Dancers

Ballet Guild of Sanford-Seminole, a non-profit organization in its 18th season, conducts open auditions annually for dancers to form the current company.

The dancers are selected by a professional adjudicator. Each dancer chosen for the current company is required to meet standards outlined by a volunteer board of directors. Dancers are also required to have sponsors to help with the production expenses and scholarships.

In addition to an annual concert, Ballet Guild performs for community events and appears in demonstrations in Seminole County schools.

This year's concert, an original dance drama, "Professor Peppercorn and His Amazing Outdoor Traveling Show," by the guild's artistic directors and choreographers, Valerie Weld and Miriam Wright, will be presented in the stadium of Lake Mary High School on March 24.

The outdoor extravaganza will be staged in a circus-type atmosphere.

The Herald is featuring the 1983-84 BGS dancers.

STACEY MORRIS

A sixth grade student at Lakeview Middle School, Stacey Morris became a company dancer with Ballet Guild of Sanford-Seminole in 1982. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Morris of Sanford.

Stacey is active in band and cheerleading and has received several scholarship and citizenship awards.

Her hobbies are collecting stickers and dolls and she likes skating and all sports.

Stacey auditioned for BGS because she likes to dance, she says, and hopes to make a career of dancing, as well as becoming an attorney. She says, "Ballet Guild is hard work and a challenge, but also a lot of fun."

HEATHER HOFFMAN

Heather Hoffman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hoffman of Deltona, has been a Ballet Guild dancer since 1981.

A seventh grade student at Deltona Junior High School, Heather is a member of Dancettes and her hobbies include dancing, skating and horseback riding and collecting ballet figurines.

Heather has won numerous ribbons and trophies in horse shows and she has received ribbons in science fairs.

With her goals set on dancing with the New York Ballet, Heather says about Ballet Guild, "It gives me more of a chance to dance and enables me to better my dancing skills."

Speaker Tells Xi Theta Epsilon:

Anyone Can Paint; But All Cannot Be Artists

"Anyone can paint," announced artist Gigi Smith at Xi Theta Epsilon's first meeting of the year. Her demonstration of Tole painting methods showed members that given the proper instruction and the desire to learn, anyone can paint.

All cannot be artists, however, since art requires further training, inspiration and a truly inventive and creative mind as well as the ability to paint.

Ms. Smith began to paint eight and one-half years ago and was so impressed with the art of Tole Painting that within three years she had mastered the basics and began teaching classes.

She has studied with professionals in her field and has exhibited and won prizes for her work all over Florida and parts of the southern states. She is presently teaching the art of Tole painting at the Mare's Nest in Longwood.

Tole painting is a more sophisticated form of the early painted tin and stencil ware, Ms. Smith says. For the collector there is a variety of articles ranging from tea pots to chestnut urns.

Tinware was first japanned (painted) in an effort to imitate the lacquered wares of China and Japan, according to the artist. The japanning process was found to be an easier means to the "lacquered look." In England japanning started in 1660 but did not flourish until 1700. It was imported from England to America as early as 1737.

It was then to become more than an industry. It became a vocation for ladies of leisure. From these early beginnings have come the techniques used by Ms. Smith and her colleagues.

Following Ms. Smith's demonstration, president, Laurel Rodgers, conducted a regular business meeting. Members were informed of a benefit for the ISIS program that they are hoping to support. Also discussed were the holiday programs and excellent buffet dinner party held at the home of member Al Kurtz and the children's party.

The meeting closed with a buffet of hors d'oeuvres served by hostess Vicki Hall. Members attending were Laurel Rodgers, Tracey Wight, Ruth Gaines, Vicki Hall, Ginny Hagan, Faye Lord, Al Kurtz, Vicki Hughes, Bonnie Jones, Norma Loepp, Tina Bojanowski and Lois Smith.

DAR To Present Americanism Awards

The January meeting of Sallie Harrison Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution was held at the home of Mrs. P.E. Erisman on Markham Road.

Vice-Regent Mrs. Talmadge K. Wiley presided in the absence of Regent Mrs. W. S. Brumley.

The opening ritual was led by Mrs. L.C. Wildner. Committee reports were given and new member Mrs. James Powell was welcomed. Miss Barbara Ruprecht announced several prospective members.

Mrs. Paul Mickler stated that the February meeting place will be in the Seminole County Historical Museum. At this time, essay winners, good citizenship award winners and the outstanding American History teacher of Seminole County will be announced and honored.

Mrs. Fred M. Walton, DAR school chairman, encouraged members to learn more about the schools that DAR supports and stated that money from the money tree would be divided between Tamassée and Kate Duncan Smith schools.

A warm welcome was given the speaker, Mrs. John Marshall Buckner, past state regent and third generation DAR member who gave an informative talk on the DAR schools, Tamassée in South Carolina, and Kate Duncan Smith in Grant, Ala.

She spoke of the quality of education received by the students and the courtesy extended visitors to the schools. She related several heartwarming and amusing incidents and recommended the school tours as interesting trips.

As she concluded her talk she presented members mementos from the students of each school.

The hostess served refreshments to 28 members.

All Doctors Entitled To Use Their Titles

DEAR ABBY: I have a question about wedding invitations. My husband is a physician, as are our daughter and her fiancé.

Should we mention all the doctors? (I would think so.) Do we use our daughter's last name, or do we use her first name only, preceded by "Doctor"? Or does she have to forego her title? (My husband doesn't think it's fair to use the man's title and not the woman's. I agree.)

If we were to use the following, would it look like a medical convention?

Dr. and Mrs. Charles Cutwell request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter
Dr. Elizabeth Jane Cutwell
and
Dr. Paul Eric Pillousher

MOTHER OF THE BRIDE

DEAR MOTHER: All the doctors are entitled to use their titles. And I think they should. However, the decision should be left to your daughter.

DEAR ABBY: I'm another longtime reader who never thought I'd see the day when I'd be writing a Dear Abby letter, but here I am because I am in desperate need of your advice.

I'll try to make this short: I have met and fallen in love with a man who has every quality I've ever wanted in a man. I am 35 and he is 42, so we both have been around a while.

The problem is, he doesn't know how to kiss. How can I tell him without hurting his feelings? We have so much in common and I know we could have a wonderful relationship. We are both attractive, sensitive and affectionate, but when he kisses me, so help me, it's like kissing a board!

Please answer soon. He is a terrific man in every other way, and if he knew how to kiss, he'd be perfect.

KISSING A BOARD

DEAR KISSING: Don't worry about hurting his feelings. He will forgive you after he becomes an expert. He is obviously keeping his lips stiff, so tell him to relax and kiss you softly, gently and tenderly. Better yet, reverse roles and give him a demonstration.

Nobody is a great kisser naturally — everyone had to learn from someone. So teach him!

DEAR ABBY: Last year my daughter was married. She is not a religious person and neither is he. Her background is Christian and his is Jewish. They wanted some kind of church wedding, but our minister refused to marry them, and her fiancé couldn't find a rabbi who would marry them. I know this sounds terrible, but it's true.

I agonized over it until a friend suggested the Unitarian Church. I called the local pastor, and he was delighted to perform the ceremony. He became ill at the last minute, so a young woman substituted in his place. She performed an absolutely beautiful ceremony. It was enchanting! She combined the Jewish tradition (the groom stepped on the glass) and she brought in some of the Christian traditions, too.

Many guests said it was the most beautiful wedding they had ever attended. This idea may be helpful to others.

RANCHO PALOS VERDES

DEAR RANCHO: I'm sure it will be. Thanks for sharing.

(Every teenager should know the truth about drugs, sex and how to be happy. For Abby's booklet, send $2 and a long, stamped (37 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

GARDEN CIRCLE

HIBISCUS CIRCLE

Hibiscus Circle of the Garden Club of Sanford held the January meeting at the home of Miss Gertrude Fisher with Mrs. J.H. Welebob a co-hostess.

Mrs. T.B. Middleton gave the devotional program and circle president Mrs. Leroy McTavis presided over the business meeting.

A membership drive is currently in progress. Information is available today and Friday from members who will have a table set up at Publix in Sanford Plaza.

A game party will be held at the clubhouse on March 15. Proceeds from the event, including a luncheon and fun fashion show, will go to ward a scholarship to send a girl to Wekiva Camp.

Committee chairmen gave reports with Mrs. Jessie Brisson reporting on edible and medicinal flowers.

Twelve members and one guest were present.

Draperies Class

An evening Drapery/Home Furnishings construction class is now in progress at Seminole Community College. Slots are still available in the class which meets in Room L003 on Monday and Wednesday nights from 7-10 p.m., now through April 18. The fee is $20.

Students will be taught how to construct custom draperies and measure windows properly to compute the yardage needed. Pillows, tablecloths and other home accessories will also be demonstrated.

For information call 323-1450, extension 228 (from Orlando, 843-7001), or register at the admissions office.

Program Of The Year

Don Merrifield, center, service chairman of the Sanford Rotary Club, presents Perry Moore with a plaque for the 1983 "Program of the Year" while Reg Howe, club president looks on. Moore, a personality featured on Stereo 58 WDBO, says he enjoys speaking to civic groups because, "That's Entertainment." And entertainment is business as the morning man at WDBO.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY

JANUARY 20, 1984

Several large opportunities may come your way in the year ahead, but you may have to be careful not to reveal the source.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Help is on its way today in an area that may be secretive or sensitive to you.

LIBRA

(Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Stand still a moment today and wait for favors and offers to catch up with you.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Hopes and wishes can become realities today, partly because of how well you apply yourself and partly because friends go to bat for you.

TAURUS

(April 20-May 20) Success and prosperity can be achieved today by teaming up with persons who have expansive outlooks and are willing to go after what they want.

GEMINI

(May 21-June 20) Now is the time to exert that extra effort in important matters. The tide is with you and will carry you swiftly to your destination.

CANCER

(June 21-July 22) Your outgoing, gregarious personality mixes well with people today. In fact, there's a chance of attracting either a new friend or romance!

LEO

(July 23-Aug. 22) Believe in your talents and abilities, put forth the necessary effort and you'll not be denied the fruits of your labors today.

VIRGO

(Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Persons with whom you come in contact socially can be extremely lucky for you today. It's not the time to sit home and hibernate.

SAURITARIUS

(Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your work or career is in an excellent position for material gains today. Concentrate heavily in this area and you won't be disappointed.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You have the ability to bring people together today and, although it may not be your intention, these unions will end up doing you the most good.

Ringling In Ears May Be Simple Problem

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — I've had constant ringing in my ears for six weeks. Tests showed I'm losing hearing in both ears. My doctor suggested a hearing aid and said it might help the ringing.

When I go to bed I also have pounding in my ears. It seems to be my heart beating or 'running away'.

I now must have a thyroid test and scans, which have nothing to do with my ears. I'm not satisfied with my doctor's diagnosis. I'd like to know what you think.

DEAR READER — Many people have trouble with noises and ringing in their ears. Each case deserves medical evaluation because some are simple problems, such as wax in the ear, while other problems can be more significant. Still others remain unexplained.

It's true that when a person begins to lose his hearing he may hear strange noises. Since you don't hear other sounds as well, you're more aware of the ringing and buzzing sensations aren't really from the ear, but may be related to the circulation to the brain.

When there is a hearing loss the use of a hearing aid may eliminate the ringing and buzzing. When a hearing disorder is caused by some correctable defect, correcting the defect may eliminate the noise.

One purpose of the examination is to find out whether you have a hearing loss, and, if so, if it's correctable.

The sensation of hearing your heart pounding may be an entirely different matter. Your letter said your heart was 'running,' which I presume means it's fast. This may be why you're having a thyroid scan. The question here is why you have a fast heartbeat. An overactive thyroid can cause a fast heartbeat.

The different causes for ear noises and what can be done about them are discussed in more details in The Health Letter 12-10 Help for Tinnitus — Noise or Ringing in the Ear which I am sending you

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm interested in the staph germ. I have arthritic bunches on the upper joint of each finger. I often cut or bruise them and a slight infection occurs. A friend said I might have the staph germ, which she said was very infectious.

DEAR READER — You are referring to staphylococcus germs. They are present on our skin. Most don't cause any harm, but the germs can invade a cut and cause serious infections. A common boil or abscess usually is caused by the staphylococcus germs infecting the skin.

Those little bunches you mentioned may be nodules. If they're at the joint directly above the fingernail, they probably are caused by osteoarthritis. Swelling or enlargement of the second and third joints, closer to the hand, is more often from rheumatoid arthritis.

You can help prevent hand infections by keeping little cuts clean. Sponge the area with alcohol when first injured. If you develop a significant infection you should see your doctor at once.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Bridge hand analysis table showing North, West, East, South, and vulnerable/dealer information.

and led the eight of trumps. East played the seven. Jim played low, and West won with the king. After this start Jim lost only two trump tricks plus the ace of spades for a score of plus 620.

At the other table South rose with his jack and had to lose three trump tricks plus that same ace of spades for minus 100.

As the defeated South pointed out, 'If West's singleton trump had been the 10, Chew would have been down one, and I would have made my contract.' Nothing wrong with that statement, but Chew's play was a two-to-one favorite when the play would make any difference.

The point is that if trumps broke 2-2, the contract was home on either play. It was only when they broke 3-1 that the choice of play could make a difference. Chew's correct play would win against a singleton ace or king. The other play would win only against a singleton 10.

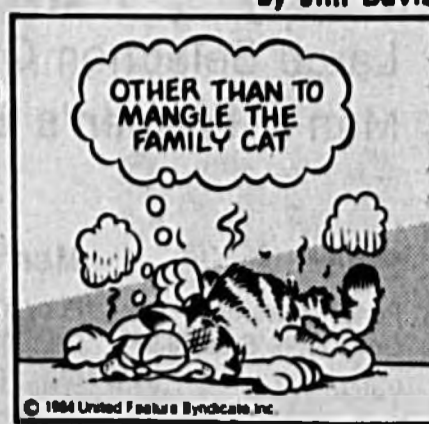

As stated before, two-to-one odds are pretty good.

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby

Here we see Jim Chew playing a simple four-heart contract. The hand depended on a simple book play that the other South player failed to make. As a result the Jacoby Team picked up 12 IMPs.

Jim won the first trick with dummy's ace of clubs

Relevancy Tarnishes Glitter Of 'Emerald'

By David Handler

Emerald Point N.A.S. is a big-budget prime-time suds about the power plays and bed hoppings that go on at a modern naval air station.

It comes from the creators of Dynasty, who maybe spent some time watching The Winds of War. Certainly this idea wasn't around before that miniseries topped last year's ratings.

There are differences, of course. On the plus side, All MacGraw is not in Emerald Point. On the minus side, this CBS series, which brags it takes us to the "front line of an anxious nation's defense," commits the cardinal sin of junk TV.

It takes itself seriously. Sleaze is sleaze. That's what soapers are all about. But Emerald Point, which is often so much like Dynasty and Falcon Crest that the characters all blur together, wants to be respectable. The result is a weird, unwelcome veneer of relevancy. It intrudes. It spoils the fun. It's fake.

Face it — politics is not what this show is about. So who's kidding who, huh? Rear Admiral Thomas Mallory (Dennis Weaver) is our proud, just commander, a widower with three clean-cut but lonely daughters. Hang on. Here we go:

The eldest, Celia (Susan Dey), hates the Navy, loves the grape. Husband Jack (Charles Frank) is a Navy lawyer all the way. They quarrel constantly, and there's a big blowup when he won't take a fat job offer from our resident greed-monger, Industrialist Harlan Adams (formerly played by Patrick O'Neal, and now by Robert Vaughn).

In a tiff, Celia, who mopes and whines a lot and ought to be spanked, takes up with Harlan's son, Simon (Richard Dean Anderson). Simon is an old flame. Simon is also a Navy pilot. I don't think Celia makes much sense. Now she wants a divorce.

Middle daughter Kay (Stephanie Dunham) is in love with Glenn (Andrew Stevens), a square-jawed, numbskull pilot who was supposed to marry her best friend, Hillary Adams (Sela Ward), who is Harlan's daughter and our resident slut, complete with long red fingernails and arched eyebrows.

Trouble is, the night of his stag party Glenn finds out from her latest beau that Hillary gets around, and when said beau ends up with a decorative sword in his belly, Glenn's career is on the line. Hillary couldn't care less. She's not a nice person.

The only woman who's worse is Deanna Kincaid (Jill St. John), the sister of Admiral Mallory's late wife. The admiral hates her. She is a shrewd, ambitious woman of appetite. "I won't let the Navy do to me what it did to my sister," she snarls. She and Harlan strike a fast partnership.

Let's see, there's one more daughter, Leslie (Doran Clark), who's the youngest and who just graduated from Annapolis, making her the seventh generation of the Mallory clan to do so.

She's in love with the aide to the Soviet admiral who is visiting Emerald Point so he and Admiral Mallory can clean up this messy air rights business. Seems a Cuban pilot tried to shoot down Simon.

Here's where the fake relevancy comes in. One minute we're watching Hillary roll around in the sheets, the next minute it's the two admirals sitting around talking global politics. Only there's no substance to it. It's window dressing.

Why 'That Girl' Quit Work To Take Acting Seriously

By Vernon Scott
UPI Hollywood Reporter

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Marlo Thomas, the wife of TV personality Phil Donahue in private life and one of the most highly motivated women in show business, had the courage to drop out of sight for almost three years.

Unlike some female stars who take a career hiatus for motherhood, Marlo opted out for intensive acting classes with the late Lee Strasberg — from 1979 to 1981.

While Marlo suffers no financial woes, she gave up something infinitely more precious than money in her decision to quit work. In a business where youth is a premium, she sloughed off three valuable years of her 40s — prime leading lady years — to study.

Now Marlo, still full of youthful bounce and enthusiasm, is back with a new CBS-TV movie, The Lost Honor of Kathryn Beck, which will be televised Tuesday. It is Marlo's first TV film since It Happened One Christmas five years ago.

"I was a comedienne and a personality. I was proud of That Girl, and I was comfortable with comedy. I learned it from Dad (Danny Thomas), Sid Caesar, George Burns, Phil Silvers and other great comedians who were always around the house."

From her father, too, Marlo learned to become a driving force, the creative talent and tough decision maker, keeping That Girl on the air, perhaps longer than it deserved.

Marlo Thomas
...she wanted to improve her work and took drama lessons with the late Lee Strasberg

Marlo, a strong feminist, is not an actress content to play a role, sit back and await another. She is at her best when she is totally involved in writing, production and even directing.

Her only two notable failures were the movies Jenny and Thelma, in which she was involved only as an actress.

Marlo is aware she excels when she's in charge. It came as no surprise then when she plunged full force into The Lost Honor of Kathryn Beck, devoting two years to its production, casting and writing. Marlo put the package together, even involving herself in the musical score.

"I found the property and developed it with CBS," she said. "I was determined to cast Kris Kristofferson for the male lead, and I succeeded when nobody thought it was possible to get him for a TV movie."

"The whole thing took 18 months of preparation and then I spent two months in production as an actress. I love the production end of the business but it doesn't leave enough time for acting."

"I should play at least four parts in a two-year span. It's not healthy for me to play so few parts. In the next two years I want to act, act, act. Not produce."

'84 Autos Rated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Toyota Camry and Mercury Grand Marquis are among the best new cars, and the Renault Sportswagon and Cadillac Fleetwood are among the worst, a rating by a consumer group said today.

The 1984 edition of The Car Book, a publication the government first produced then scrapped, evaluated cars in crash safety, bumpers, fuel economy, maintenance and insurance costs.

"With the information on 1984 models at their fingertips, consumers can select those cars that are safer, more reliable and more efficient," said Clarence Dittow, executive director for the Center for Auto Safety, a group founded by consumer advocate Ralph Nader.

Dittow, whose organization assisted in this year's book, said the ratings are based on information from the Transportation Department, Environmental Protection Agency, the insurance industry and private engineering studies.

For the first time, the 1984 edition of The Car Book, offers overall ratings in each of the following categories:

—Subcompacts: Toyota Camry, Ford Escort, Mercury Lynx and Nissan Stanza as the best, with the Renault Sportswagon, Volkswagen Rabbit and Volkswagen Scirocco "the worst."

—Compacts: Ford Mustang, Mercury Capri, Nissan 200SX and Oldsmobile Omega as the best, with the Volkswagen Quantum and Chrysler LeBaron the worst.

—Intermediate: Olds Cutlassiera and Volvo DL as the best, with the Ford Thunderbird, Mercury Cougar and Toyota Cressida the worst.

—Large: Ford LTD Crown Victoria and Mercury Grand Marquis as the best, with the Cadillac Fleetwood, Cadillac de Ville and Oldsmobile 98 the worst.

More than 2 million copies of the book's first edition were requested by consumers in 1980. Over protests by consumer groups, the Reagan administration refused to publish a second edition.

Jack Gillis, the Transportation Department official responsible for the first edition of The Car Book, has been the book's chief author for the last three years as a consumer advocate.

"Americans are demanding more information about the cars they buy, which is no surprise, with the average new car costing over $10,500," Gillis said in a statement.

"While the Reagan administration pays lip service to letting the free marketplace work, they have made it nearly impossible for consumers to take an active role in the market," he said.

Here are some of the book's ratings: —Top cars in crash tests: Honda Accord among subcompacts, Toyota Celica among compacts, Pontiac Firebird among intermediates, and Cadillac Seville among large cars.

—Top in fuel economy, based on EPA ratings: Honda Civic Coupe CR-X, 51 miles per gallon; Nissan Sentra Diesel, 50 mpg, Toyota Corolla diesel, 47 mpg.

—Lowest in fuel economy, based on EPA ratings: Austin Martin Saloon, Rolls Royce Camargue and Rolls Royce Corniche, all 9 mpg.

—Lowest overall repair costs: VW Rabbit; Nissan Pulsar; Mazda RX7; Nissan Stanza; VW Scirocco; VW Jetta; Dodge Charger; Chrysler Laser; Nissan Sentra and Dodge Daytona.

—Highest overall repair costs: Peugeot 505; Mercedes 300 SD; Cadillac Seville; Toyota Cressida; Ford Thunderbird; Mercury Cougar; Lincoln Mark VII; Cadillac Eldorado; Cadillac Fleetwood; Cadillac de Ville and Mercury Grand Marquis.

NOTICE OF A PUBLIC HEARING TO CONSIDER THE ADOPTION OF AN ORDINANCE BY THE CITY OF SANFORD, FLORIDA.

Notice is hereby given that a Public Hearing will be held at the Commission Room in the City Hall in the City of Sanford, Florida, at 7:00 o'clock on January 19, 1984, to consider the adoption of an ordinance by the City of Sanford, Florida, as follows:

ORDINANCE NO. 1679 AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF SANFORD, FLORIDA, TO AMEND THE CITY CORPORA TE AREA OF THE CITY OF SANFORD, FLORIDA, UPON ADOPTION OF SAID ORDINANCE, A PORTION OF THAT CERTAIN PROPERTY LYING BETWEEN WYLLY AVENUE AND MATTIE STREET AND BETWEEN PARK AVENUE AND DEER AVENUE SAID PROPERTY BEING SITUATED IN SEMINOLE COUNTY, FLORIDA, IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE VOLUNTARY ANNEXATION PROVISIONS OF SECTION 171.044, FLORIDA STATUTES, PROVIDING FOR THE CITY OF SANFORD, FLORIDA, EFFECTIVE DATE.

WHEREAS, there has been filed with the City Clerk of the City of Sanford, Florida, petitions containing the names of the property owners in the area described hereinafter requesting annexation to the corporation of the City of Sanford, Florida, and requesting to be included therein; and

WHEREAS, the Property Appraiser of Seminole County, Florida, having certified that there are ten owners in the area to be annexed, and that said owners have signed the Petition for Annexation; and

WHEREAS, it has been determined that the property described hereinafter is reasonably compact and contiguous to the corporate limits of the City of Sanford, Florida, and it has been further determined that the annexation of said property will not result in the creation of an enclave; and

WHEREAS, the City of Sanford, Florida, is in a position to provide municipal services to the property described herein; and the City Commission of the City of Sanford, Florida, deems it in the best interest of the City to accept said petition and to annex said property.

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT ENACTED BY THE PEOPLE OF THE CITY OF SANFORD, FLORIDA:

SECTION 1: That the property described below situated in Seminole County, Florida, be and the same is hereby annexed to and made a part of the City of Sanford, Florida, pursuant to the voluntary annexation provisions of Section 171.044, Florida Statutes.

Lots 1, 2, 3, 4, and 7, Block 11, Lots 1, 4, 5, and 8, Block 12 of A.B. Russell's Addition to Fort Reed, according to the plat thereof as recorded in Plat Book 1, Page 97, as recorded in the Public Records of Seminole County, Florida.

SECTION 2: That upon this Ordinance becoming effective, the property owners and any resident on the property described herein shall be responsible for the maintenance and improvement as from time to time granted to residents and property owners of the City of Sanford, Florida, and as are further provided in Chapter 171, Florida Statutes.

SECTION 3: If any section or portion of a section of this Ordinance proves to be invalid, unlawful or unconstitutional, it shall not be held to invalidate or impair the validity, force or effect of any other section or part of this Ordinance.

SECTION 4: That all Ordinances or parts of Ordinances in conflict herewith, be and the same are hereby repealed.

SECTION 5: That this Ordinance shall become effective immediately upon its passage and adoption.

A copy shall be available at the Office of the City Clerk for all persons desiring to examine the same.

All parties in interest and citizens shall have an opportunity to be heard at said hearing.

Select Few Take College Credit Classes While In High School

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

Only 28 Seminole County high school seniors took advantage of special programs allowing them to begin college training early at Seminole Community College last semester, but SCC's coordinator of admissions, Charles Craig understands why.

"These aren't programs for everyone. They are for the capable students who want to accelerate their learning," Craig said. "It's a good way for a student to pick up some extra academic work, something higher in computers or math or science that his high school doesn't offer. It's a challenge."

The Seminole County school system and SCC cooperatively have three programs offering eligible students early college courses.

Andrew Bracken, director of secondary education for the public school system breaks down the programs offered as follows:

• Early Admission— Under this program a student, 16 years old, who has completed his junior year in high school and has a B average may get permission of the principal of his high school to go to SCC full time.

Upon satisfactory completion of his courses at SCC he will receive both the college credits he has earned and high school credit, allowing him to graduate from his high school as well. He must take the normal class load in college, 12 semester hours or four 3-hour courses in each of the two semesters.

He can be awarded a diploma from the high school at the time his class graduates or at a time convenient to the principal.

Bracken said the student must pay his own fees and textbook charges. And Craig said only three students took advantage of this program the first semester at SCC, but, he added, "this is the hardest program to get into."

"Students must be 16 years old and have a 3.0 average," Craig noted.

• Delayed credit— This program was designed for the high school students to earn college credit while still enrolled in high school, Bracken said.

"This means a student taking courses in high school in the mornings, can attend SCC in the afternoon or evening, receiving credit toward college enrollment after he graduates from high school," Bracken said.

Participating students pay their own tuition, fees and textbook charges. They must be 16 years old and must have a 2.0 grade point average.

In the first semester of the 1983-84 school year at SCC, 23 high school students were participating in this program, Craig said.

"This is a good way for a good student to earn college credits while still in high school," Craig said, adding the Seminole County School Board limits the number of hours they may attend college classes weekly. For example if a student is taking four hours of class work in high school daily, he may take only one or two courses in college. "This is limited by School Board policy," Craign said.

• Dual enrollment— A student may earn both college and high school credits for non-duplicative classes by attending both college and high school classes. The college work cannot exceed 11 credit hours per semester and the college work must be academic in nature. No physical education is permitted.

The student goes to his high school for part of the work and to college as well. The School Board pays the tuition and fees while the community college supplies the textbooks and is reimbursed by the state.

The student must be 16, must have completed the 11th grade and must have a 3.0 grade point average. He can participate in the program only with permission of his principal. The student must also state in writing the degree he plans to attain in college. Physical education classes are not permitted in the program.

The credits he attains at college will be applied toward both his college degree and his high school diploma. College classes will apply toward the diploma at the rate of 1/2 credit for each three-credit college course, Bracken said.

Two students from Oviedo High School participated in this program in the first semester. This program gives students an opportunity to take courses that might not have been available at his high school, Craig said.

An agreement has also been worked out between the school system and SCC for another program next year, Bracken said.

The new program will permit the community college to set up enrichment courses on high school campuses.

Seeking a stepping stone to a health related career, 34 area students are finding a program at Central Florida Regional Hospital is giving them a big boost.

High Schoolers Train At CFR Hospital

Thirty-four students from three county high schools will begin training at Central Florida Regional Hospital in February as part of their "health service aide" course.

While their activities at the hospital may be limited to making beds, taking patients to the operating room or to their cars after release, they also will be able to observe medical practices, laboratory testing, respiratory therapy and a variety of hospital procedures.

Students in the program are from Lyman, Lake Brantley and Lake Mary high schools. All 11 at Lake Mary plan to pursue health career courses in college, said Patricia Sprague, a registered nurse, who teaches the class there.

And while they are planning their future careers, they are gaining two credits toward their graduation requirements.

The students have an opportunity of getting an overview of what careers in the health field may be like for those planning to go on to college. Eddie Tossie, director of vocational education for the county school system, said, adding the course also prepares a student for employment after graduation.

"They are prepared for employment as health service aides, laboratory aides, or nurse's aides. The course also provides supplemental training for persons currently employed in these occupations," Tossie said.

The two hour daily class during the first semester at school is designed to help develop skills related to jobs in hospitals, medical centers health departments and other medical related institutions.

Tossie said the course enables students to receive instruction in health service, anatomy and body function, medical terminology, basic health service aid skills, patient care skills, first aide and cardio-pulmonary resuscitation, lab equipment and procedure, hospital procedures, legal and ethical aspects of health work, record-keeping, leadership, health and safety.

Mrs. Sprague said during the first semester the students learn skills, while in the second semester, they have the opportunity of gaining actual experience in the field. "They are taught to take blood pressures, to give cardio-pulmonary resuscitation and first aid," Mrs. Sprague said, as well as anatomy, and medical terminology. During class and at the hospital they wear uniforms similar to those of a nurse. While in hospital training, they must provide their own transportation.

At the hospital they get exposed to the actual health care environment doing some routine work, Mrs. Sprague said.

Laura Moran and Linda Freeland, both registered nurses, teach the course at Lake Brantley and Lyman respectively.

Tossie said that members of the Seminole County Legislative delegation will visit some of the schools' vocational programs including the health care classes after they are treated to breakfast with members of the vocational staff of the school system at 8:30 a.m., Feb. 2 at the Quality Inn in Longwood at State Road 434 and Interstate 4. At noontime the legislators are to be served lunch at Seminole Community College where they will be able to view the vocational programs there as well.

Report: $23 Million In Welfare Fraud

By United Press International

An increase in the number of Florida people "ripping off the system" resulted in more than $23 million in alleged food stamp and welfare fraud during fiscal 1982-1983, an audit report said.

Authorities received 21,010 alleged fraud cases statewide involving $23,800,734 in government subsidies. If a recipient was found guilty by a Circuit Court Judge the most typical sentence was restitution and probation, the report said.

There is no particular reason for the increase, said Billy Davis, director of the Auditor General's Division of Public Assistance Fraud, which issued the report. "It means we're catching people who had been on the rolls longer or ripping off the system longer. Where there are higher amounts of dollars involved, it doesn't mean fraud has actually increased," Davis said Saturday.

One of the largest fraudulent claims in the state occurred in Delray Beach, where a food stamps office employee misappropriated $12,334 by entering false information in a computer, he said.

Court action is pending against the employee, but a great majority of the fraud cases were filed against recipients and not employees, he said.

Davis said the most common fraud cases involved those with food stamps.

"The most prevalent way to rip off the program is to lie about your income or the number of people you have in the household," Davis said.

"For instance, someone comes in and says, 'I'm not working,' and we check Social Security numbers and find they are," he said. "Or someone says, 'I have six kids,' and they only have two. (The state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services) doesn't have the manpower to count noses to see how many people there are."

The report said $278,792 in fraudulent welfare and food stamp cases were reported in Broward County and about $368,509 in Palm Beach County.

This Town Wants A Nuclear-Waste Dump

EDGEMONT, S.D. (UPI) — Nuclear waste is not a frightening term in Edgemont. The townspeople want the jobs and money a radioactive dump could provide.

Edgemont officials are hoping Chem-Nuclear Systems, Inc., will decide to use an abandoned ammunition dump on the outskirts of town as a site for disposing of low-level radioactive wastes.

Chem-Nuclear likes the idea too.

After the firm looked at the proposed dump location, company founder Lloyd Andrews said, "There are probably better sites but I haven't seen them."

That suited local folks just fine. They were, after all, familiar with radioactivity. The community was once a major producer of uranium.

A lot of South Dakotans don't appreciate Edgemont's aspirations to host a nuclear-waste dump. They say such facilities have been known to leak radioactivity. They are circulating a petition to put the issue of nuclear waste disposal in South Dakota on the ballot.

Folks in Edgemont don't understand what all the fuss is about. Some of them resent outsiders in places like Rapid City, 80 miles to the north, messing around in what seems to them a local matter.

"I don't have any problems with a dump," said Rod Worrell, editor and publisher of the Edgemont Herald-Tribune.

Worrell said more than 2,000 people lived in Edgemont when uranium was being mined for top prices in 1977. With the loss of jobs, he said, the population has shrunk to about 1,200.

Worrell said he didn't know anyone in the community opposed to the dump, "except maybe an organic farmer who lives south of town."

That would be Ray Lautenschlager, who fears the proposed site won't be as safe as developers claim.

He visited a Chem-Nuclear Systems radioactive-waste dump in Barnwell, S.C., and came home to report that he had not found anyone in Barnwell outside the nuclear industry "who had a positive attitude about it."

Worrell and other community leaders visited Barnwell too, at the expense of Chem-Nuclear Systems.

The editor and publisher said opponents of the dump charged that "I saw only what the company wanted me to see but I don't think my principles were compromised."

Worrell has described the company editorially as "America's No. 1 low-level radioactive waste disposal firm."

He said all Edgemont wants to do is create a new industry locally and help the state and the region solve radioactive waste disposal problems.
