Parents given advice on hotline

WASHINGTON — Education Secretary Lamar Alexander, who for months has used a special hotline to talk with experts about how to improve schools, will chat with parents this week.

Alexander will be among more than 130 principals from 50 states and the District of Columbia taking turns answering the toll-free National Principals' Hotline at the National Association of Elementary School Principals convention in New Orleans this week.

"He loves stuff like that," said Alexander spokeswoman Eta Fielek. "He wouldn't miss a chance to talk to real people."

The hotline, 1-800-944-1618, will be open from noon to 8 p.m. Sunday and will continue through Tuesday. Alexander is scheduled to begin answering calls shortly before 10 a.m. Tuesday.

New trial for hero cabbie

SAN FRANCISCO — A cab driver ordered by a jury to pay $24,595 to a mugger he caught by pinning him with his taxi will get a new day in court.

Superior Court Judge Carlos Bea has granted Holden Charles Hollom a new trial, saying the evidence contradicts the jury's finding that the cab driver used excessive force.

Hollom chased the thief, Ocie McClure, several blocks and pinned him to a wall with his cab in May 1989 after McClure stole a tourist's purse. McClure, who later was convicted of robbery and sentenced to 10 years in prison, suffered a broken leg and sued the cabbie for damages.

Outrage from around the nation and overseas followed the jury's verdict. A San Francisco radio station collected more than $21,000 to help Hollom pay the award.

The money went to a victim's assistance fund because Hollom's employer, Luxor Cab Co., agreed to pay the award.

State cuts local money

SANFORD — Seminole County stands to lose $264,000 in state assistance under the "reality budget" state lawmakers hope to revise this week.

When the Legislature completed its regular session March 13, it passed a $30 billion trim-down budget that included $222 million in cuts to programs directly affecting programs offered on the county level. Republican and Democratic lawmakers will begin the second of a two-week special session Monday trying to find a compromise.

County Manager Ron Rabun said he is watching the state budget process closely. Rabun said his main concern are continuing efforts by the state to pass court expenses on to the county without adequate provisions for revenues.

"Judicial costs could have a tremendous impact on the county," Rabun said. "This could set a dangerous precedent for future shifts to the county."

Unless the $8 million state juror and witness program is financed, the county could face an additional $122,500 annual expense. The money is the amount paid to jurors and some witnesses during trials. Another judicial program scheduled to be cut is the court reporter program, which could add another $5,400 expense to county tax income.

The county program that will have the greatest impact by the cuts is the Public Safety Department, which provides fire and emergency medical services to unincorporated areas. The approved state budget would cut $136,279 from the county EMS Academy, mostly in EMS training. Almost $31,000 for EMS training equipment would be lost along with nearly $40,000 for construction.

The county Public Health Unit could face nearly $42,000 in cuts, primarily for the operations of the health department, social services and other programs financed by the SANFORD — The early morning sun had barely evaporated the dew from the grass on Saturday morning when crowds began following the scent of pancakes and sausage into the Sanford Civic Center.

"We look like we're going to have a pretty good crowd again," said Jim Carroll of the Sanford Kiwanis Club which was sponsoring their 28th annual pancake day. "We had about 2,300 last year. I guess we'll do as well this year."

The event, which helps raise money for the club's work with underprivileged children, has grown over the years from simply a pancake supper to a day-long celebration which includes food, entertainment, a bake sale, a rummage sale and a produce sale.

"It's really a big family thing," Carroll, who presided over the goodies at the bake sale, said. "I'm working here and my wife is out collecting more items that people have donated. My son is working at the produce sale and my daughters are coming over later to help out."

Tamara Kelly of Sanford said she came to the Pancake Day because she said she'd heard that her $3 contribution would help children in need.

"I love to help kids if I can," she said. John Sanders of Lake Mary said that the Pancake Day has become a family tradition in their household.

LAKE MARY — Lake Mary will launch a review of its City Charter Monday night. The newly formed Charter Review Committee will hold its first meeting.

In a letter to the members of the Committee, Mayor Randy Morris says, "At that meeting, you will be briefed by the City Attorney on the Sunshine Law and its applications, and elect a Chairman and Vice Chairman."

He also suggests, "establish the operational procedures of the Committee, establish your schedule of meetings, and possibly commence the discussion of the Charter."

Although the entire City Charter is only 12 pages long, the City is not expecting the Committee to complete its review and make recommendations until possibly the end of May, Morris indicated. "I expect any revisions to the Charter will be brought before the Commission during the first meeting in June."

Sanford has friendly angle

A couple weeks ago we wrote about the "Way Back When" 1994 heavyweight championship fight in Jacksonville between James J. "Gentlemen Jim" Corbett and the English challenger Charles Mitchell. In that article we mentioned the sheriff at that time for Duval County — Napoleon Bonaparte Broward.

Broward, who later became a governor of Florida and for whom Broward County (Fort Lauderdale) was named, got to be Duval's sheriff when then Governor Edward Perry of Florida asked for and got the resignation of the existing sheriff of Duval County. Perry then appointed Broward.

He served well. But when he ran for the office after his shortened term expired he was defeated by a

FLORIDA BRIEFS

People protesting plan to burn pigs

KEY WEST — A plan to burn 74 pigs at the federal animal quarantine center to test the incinerator on Fleming Key Monday was put on hold after protests by animal welfare groups across Florida.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture wanted a test-fire of its incinerator to make sure it met new state emissions standards. The hogs would be put to sleep, then fed to the flames.

The pigs — weighing about 300 pounds each — were purchased earlier this month at the Ocala Livestock Market for $7,470. They've been hanging out at the Harry S Truman Animal Import Center just off the northwest tip of Key West on Navy-owned Fleming Key, which is connected to Key West by a bridge.

man named Moody. However, Moddy was disqualified under Florida statutes at that time and Florida's next governor, Francis Fleming, appointed Broward to fill another unexpired term.

Broward was born in 1857. He left school in 1875 and went to work as a crewman on the steamboats that plied the St. Johns River between Jacksonville and Sanford.

After he was appointed sheriff for the second time he got himself in hot water with everybody. In fact, the Florida Times-Union in Jacksonville called him "a holy terror." Nevertheless, just when Broward seemed on the way to statewide political success his interests were diverted and pointed toward the insurgents in Cuba.

Broward and his brother, Montcalm, and a friend of theirs, raised $40,000 and built a powerful sea-going tugboat. It was named the "Three Friends."

The tugboat went through many trials and tribulations according to the late former governor of Florida, LeRoy Collins. In his book "Forerunners Courageous." The vessel got involved in gun running arms and ammunition to insurgents in Cuba trying to win that country's freedom from Spain. The tug also carried food, clothing and medical supplies. The hair-raising details of how the vessel successfully accomplished its missions is found in Collins' book.

What has this got to do with Sanford, you ask? Well, remember I said brothers Napoleon and Montcalm, and a friend raised the $40,000 to build the "Three Friends? The third "friend" in this adventure was George A. DeCottes. We can only assume this was the father of the George A. DeCottes who was a local lawyer who served as city attorney, states' attorney and was once the executive officer of the Florida National Guard's well known 124th Infantry Regiment and part of the south's 31st Dixie Division.

Again, it's a small world!

You'll be interested to know that the "Way Back When" photo of the Sanford-Everglades trolley that appeared in The Herald March 16, was also referred to back in those days as the "S" and "E." That tag didn't necessarily mean "Sanford-Everglades." Since that photo was published we've learned that calling it the "S" and "E" really meant "Slow" and "Easy." I guess the folks back in that day also had a sense of humor.

Here's another thing I didn't know about old timer Zinn Beck, a Sanford resident for many years before he died in 1988 at the age of 95. Zinn, a former shortstop for the New York Yankees and the St. Louis Cardinals, became a scout after his playing days. He scouted for years and years for the Washington Senators and the Minnesota Twins after the Washington club moved to Minneapolis. He was baseball's oldest living scout before his death.

I discovered the other day that at one time Beck owned and operated a baseball bat factory in Chattanooga. They were called "Zinn Beck Bats." And all this time I was under the impression all bats were "Louisville Sluggers."

There are several other things I recently learned. For example, I never knew that the Sanford Buick Company started out at 101 Park Avenue. That would be right at the corner of First and Park. All this time I thought the firm was located in the 200 block of Magnolia Avenue.

I also learned that M.D. Gatchell's store at the southwest corner of Mellonville and Celery avenues was not just a grocery store. He also handled hay, grain and feed for stock.

Although not a Sanford kidbit, I found out last week that the Miami International Airport was America's third municipal airport.

Someone recently asked if I knew to whom former Sanford Mayor Morris Spencer was married. I didn't know at first but some checking led me to find out that she was Ruth Roberts.

Recently, I got a call from Sara Warren Festerly, an old friend and a sister to former Mayor Edward Higgins Sr. Sara was a long time employee of the City of Sanford. Everytime I think about her I remember the time when one particular day, Leo the lion at the old Sanford zoo, escaped his cage and jumped through an open window into the City Hall next door. This event nearly scared Sara Warren and other city employees out of their wits. Zoo handlers coaxed Leo back to his habitat.

Sara Warren is now in her 80s. She resides at Bram Towers and is doing well aside from eye problems.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Last-minute bid for VA hospital

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County Manager Ron Rabun will ask county commissioners to pledge $2 million during the next four years as an entitlement to the Veterans Administration to build a 470-bed hospital straddling the Seminole-Orange County line near the University of Central Florida.

"Such projects are of such magnitude and benefit to us that it worth it to make this kind of commitment," said Rabun Friday. "We won't need the money for three years which will give us the opportunity to accumulate the cash."

Commissioners will consider the proposal in a special meeting 9 a.m. Monday in the third-floor conference room of the County Services Building.

Friday, U.S. Rep. Bill McCollum, R-Longwood, announced the VA was looking favorably at Orange County as a site for the $200 million facility. Rabun said two property owners have offered 90 acres on McCulloch Road east of Aloma Avenue for the hospital. VA site inspectors have already visited the property, said Rabun.

The property, owned by Eloise Rybolt and the Clayton family, is adjacent to 90 acres in Orange County which have also been offered to be donated for the hospital, said Rabun. The Orange County commission has offered to put up $3 million if a VA hospital site is selected in Orange County.

"This money, coupled with the $3 million

Orange County has already put up, should be very attractive to the VA people," Rabun said. "I see this as the ideal public-private partnership."

Rabun said the hospital would employ 2,000 workers during construction and about 1,400 people to staff the facility. The hospital would pump $55 million annually into the local economy, he said.

Rabun said he believes he could accumulate the $2 million without impact to taxpayers. The money could be saved through fiscal constraints or through the restructuring of sales or gas tax bonds.

The $2 million would be spent for "infrastructure" improvements for the hospital — roads, drainage or water and sewer lines, said Rabun.

Chuluota celebrates spring

VICKI DeBORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

CHULUOTA — The Chuluota Community Center sits in the midst of a quiet neighborhood just off 7th Street in the small community. It was anything but quiet on Saturday, however.

Several hundred people gathered in the parking lot under the trees early in the morning to buy and sell crafts, household items and clothing.

"I think this is a great," said Bea Blythe of Chuluota who had come to see what the excitement was all about. "I saw a sign out on (County Road) 419 that said 'Spring Fling' and I wanted to see what a spring fling was. This is pretty good."

According to organizers, about 55 families had joined forces to host one of the biggest garage sales in the community's history. Some area residents who could not find a sales space at the Fling set up sales of their own along 7th Street.

"We've got lots of stuff to choose from," Mark Kingalee of Oviedo said. "If there's a craft sale, my wife has a little radar in her head that goes off. I think. She dragged me out here, but I guess it ain't so bad."

Shelly Kingalee said she had found a good buy on a handmade quilt. The multi-colored wedding ring pattern was perfect for their spare room, she said.

Her husband shrugged his shoulders, rolled his eyes and headed away, wallet in hand to purchase the item for her.

For those more interested in eating than finding good buys on items for their homes, there were a variety of baked goods to be had for little money.

"That's all I need," said Kellie Jones, 9, of Oviedo whose mother had brought her to the event.

Tiffany VanRooy, 5, and Peter VanRooy, 8, of Sanford take their turn on a mechanical bull during the Chuluota Spring Fling on Saturday.

For the more adventurous, the Outlaws Restaurant had brought a mechanical bull with a rodeo backdrop for those who wanted to pose for photos atop a Texas Longhorn steer.

Door prizes, provided by local merchants, were handed out every 15 minutes throughout the day.

"This is what I like about living out here," said Danny Lendreaux, who said he moved to Chuluota from Atlanta six months ago. "You can get all these people working together to get this thing going and it's great."

No more graves in Gainesville

Associated Press

GAINESVILLE — Investigators painstakingly searched for clues Saturday in the swampy woods where the body of a missing college student was found and worked to dispel rumors that more graves have been unearthed.

"We have no evidence or reason to suspect there are other bodies buried in that area," Alachua County Sheriff's spokesman Spence Mann said. "The media is doing all the speculating at this point."

On hands and knees, a dozen forensic scientists with trowels and sifters searched several acres Saturday for evidence in the slaying of Elizabeth Foster, the eighth college student murdered in Gainesville in two years.

The 21-year-old Santa Fe Community College student had been missing for more than a week before her body was found Thursday in the trash-strewn area about two miles south of the University of Florida campus.

The search could take several days, said Mann, who refused to confirm a Miami Herald report Saturday of "suspicious depressions" that were being investigated as possible gravesites.

"There are a number of reports attributed to different sources," Mann said. "All I can say is not all of them are true."

Ms. Foster's death has officially been ruled a homicide but authorities declined to reveal autopsy results or whether the young woman was sexually assaulted.

"The detectives decided not to release the cause of death in this case," Mann said. "But one rumor we want to put to rest is that there was not any mutilation in this killing."

Public angry over arrest for slugging intruder

Associated Press

HOLLY HILL — Prosecutors plan to decide this week whether to bring formal charges against a man who used brass knuckles to beat up an intruder in his home.

A public furor has erupted over the arrest of 23-year-old

Randy Kilner on charges of aggravated battery and carrying a concealed weapon. If convicted, he faces even more jail time than the suspected burglar he slugged.

"I think it's totally unfair," Kilner said. "I felt I did the right thing. I think anybody should have a right to defend their own home and their life."

Kilner and his girlfriend, Tanya Holbrook, had returned to their home early March 21 to find their lights off and an intruder in their kitchen.

"The guy kept walking toward me and I had brass knuckles lying right there," Kilner said. "I picked them up and duked him."

Kilner said the man rose and he struck him twice more.

"I started getting a little bit mad," Kilner said. "My adrenaline was just like at the peak level."

POLICE BRIEFS

Disorderly conduct charged

Troy Castle Bednar, 30, 2535 Mohawk Ave., Sanford, was charged with disorderly conduct when he was arrested at the Holiday Inn in Sanford on Friday.

Sanford Police responded to a complaint of a man involved in a disturbance with a woman in the hotel parking lot. Police said that when they arrived he was in his room.

He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held on $100 bond.

Disorderly intoxication charged

Darryl Craig Tate, 35, 8 William Clark Ct., Sanford, was charged with disorderly intoxication when he was arrested on Thursday.

Police report that he became argumentative with his girlfriend and she called police. When police arrived he told them he wasn't going to jail, the report said.

Police took him to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility where he was held on $100 bond.

Grand theft charged

Jeffery Scott Dickson, 34, 2547 Clairmont Ave., Sanford, was charged with grand theft of a motor vehicle valued at more than $20,000 when he was arrested Thursday.

Acting on a tip from the Mt. Dora Police, Sanford Police intercepted Dickson on his way to the Sanford Farmers Market in a Peterbilt truck they said was stolen.

A check by police of the license plate revealed that it belonged to a 1973 Dodge truck. A check by police of the vehicle identification number showed it to be a vehicle stolen from Indiana. Though police said he told them the truck was in litigation due to a problem between himself and the seller when he was first questioned, he could produce no documentation to prove it.

The owner of the truck was located and she informed police that she had leased the truck to Dickson in May 1991 and had not seen or heard from him since.

The FBI is investigating him on federal theft charges in relation to this situation, as well, police said.

Police also reported that his wife contacted them and said that she had been trying to find him to have him served with a warrant for failure to pay child support.

He was transported to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held on $4,000 bond.

LAKE MARY — Eight members of the Lake Mary Volunteer Fire Department's auxiliary waited patiently on several customers who had come to patronize their yard sale in the parking lot of the Shoppes of Lake Mary on Saturday.

Items ranging from Rice Crispy cookies to a plaid love seat meant dollars for the auxiliary. A combination bake sale and yard sale had a little something for everyone.

A city fire truck was on display and attracted the attention of several children who'd joined their parents for the sale.

Iris Johnson, president of the auxiliary, said that the flow of purchasers had been steady

Stuck on you

Close your eyes and you'd swear you were back in the '60s, when a young singer with swivel hips and petulant lips was driving teen-agers wild and parents crazy. Elvis Presley is still making people wild and crazy, only this time it's over a stamp. Why is anyone surprised?

As soon as the U.S. Postal Service announced it would honor the king of rock 'n' roll with a stamp of his very own, a lot of people got all shook up: squeals of delight from those erstwhile teen-agers for whom Elvis symbolized youthful rebellion and simmering sensuality, groans of protest from those for whom he was the devil in disguise.

In truth, Elvis represented some of both. His death in 1977 from a drug-induced heart attack ended a life of rapid dissolution. But in his prime, he was a breakthrough performer: a white kid from Tupelo, Miss., who fused black blues sounds with pop balladry that you could dance to.

Hence the dueling Elvis stamps: The Postal Service can't decide between two designs (both idealized) — the young, svelte Elvis or the fleshier, sequined lounge lizard he became. Ballot cards at post offices across the country will let the public choose.

But why not go with both versions? Then devotees and detractors alike could get their messages across: Honor the big hunk o'love, but remember what landed him in Heart-break Hotel.

Putting China on notice

Legislation passed by both houses of Congress putting China on notice about its human rights, weapons sales and trade practices is a responsible approach to a thorny problem. It stops short of denying China the favorable tariff benefits that most countries receive but ties those benefits to reasonable behavior by a regime that has been anything but that.

The 69-39 vote margin in the Senate fell eight votes short of the two-thirds majority needed to override President Bush's promised veto (the House vote was 409-21). The White House regards China as too important to punish; the president in particular, as a former U.S. envoy to Beijing, thinks he knows best how to induce a hard-line regime to moderate its treatment of dissidents, stop breaking global trading rules and refrain from selling missiles to Middle East troublemakers. That judgment is dubious at best.

Indeed, one factor that may have persuaded nine Senate Republicans to join 50 Democrats in voting for conditional sanctions was a rare secret session, just before the vote, during which senators heard what one called a "chilling" CIA report about Chinese missile sales that raises concern that China seeks to replace the Soviet Union as the world's second superpower, in large part by becoming a leading arms manufacturer and merchant.

None of this deters the administration from its conciliatory policy. Just the other day, the White House gave the green light to resume sales of high-speed computers and satellite parts to China, cut off last June in the face of evidence that Beijing had sold missile launchers to Pakistan. In return, the administration says, Beijing promises to adhere to the 1987 Missile Technology Control Regime, which bars the sale of ballistic missiles with a range beyond 190 miles and the technology to produce them. Yet so far no detailed language from the "promise" has been made public. Why?

The compromise legislation calls on China to release political prisoners, stop exploiting prison labor, end persecution of Buddhists in Tibet, curb missile sales and remove illegal trade barriers. An annual presidential certification that "substantial progress" is being made in these areas would be required. That's hardly onerous, but Bush, mindful of Chinese hostility to these demands, is unwilling to go even that far.

Yet the president's veto will not make this issue go away. Under existing law, he must certify each year that China is making progress on human rights, which recent prison sentences for pro-democracy activists suggests is not the case. Meanwhile, evidence of the sale of weaponry continues to accumulate. Unless that changes, it may be only a matter of time before a two-thirds majority in the Senate votes to hold Beijing's feet to the fire, as it should.

Our social institutions disintegrating

Americans have traditionally taken pride in the fact that our social institutions have served as the foundation of our national strength. The institutions referred to are: the church, the family and the school. The country was founded upon religious principles. Families served as the first industrial unit in conquering the vastness of this land. The founding fathers recognized the need for an educated populace when they framed the Constitution. These institutions have served us well from the beginning of the country until the last several decades of this century.

The challenges of the twentieth century have eroded the stability of the institutions as we have known them. Blatant immorality and declining church attendance among main line denominations have beset our religious institutions. Two central reasons for the disintegration of the family are: divorce/separation and out-of-wedlock births. Americans obtain more divorces than citizens of any other industrialized nation. It is estimated that 50 percent of today's marriages will end in divorce. Naturally, the dissolution of marriages impacts the children involved.

Out-of-wedlock births have escalated from five percent of all births in the United States in 1960 to 25 percent of all births in 1988. More than a million babies are born annually to unmarried mothers.

The net result of divorce, separation and out-of-wedlock births is single parenthood. During their infancy and early childhood years, one half of all white children and three quarters of all black children born in the 1970s and 1980s were likely to have lived with only their mother.

Single parenthood, with a female head of household, is often accompanied by lack of adequate income. The concomitant problems of the poor; housing, health care, child care and generalized stress for the single parent often exists. Nearly 13 million children live in poverty. Of that number, 8 million live in families with income less than half the federal poverty level. This may be larger since these statistics were gathered prior to the 1990/91 recession.

SEMINOLE OPINION

Until this decade (1990s) the one institution that appeared to retain its stability was the public schools. Amid the turmoil created by the disintegration of the family, schools have been called upon to provide a sanctuary for children. Schools provided a plethora of services ranging from: free breakfast, free lunch, counseling, psychological, health and social work services in addition to their primary goal of educating children.

Schools have been derided for not teaching "Johnny to read." However, as a society we have failed to address the real problems that mitigate against children being equipped to benefit fully from educational offerings. Children's learning is not facilitated if they are homeless and their health, nutrition, emotional and social needs are not being addressed.

Public education nationwide is being deprived of funds for general educational needs. However, there apparently are funds available for capital improvements and special projects. It seems evident that the first funding priority should be the general fund.

Currently, each school in Seminole County reviewing its budget with their staff members in consonance with the acting superintendent's suggestion to discuss a possible 5 percent decrease in their respective budgets.

This has prompted the Seminole Education Association (SEA) to send a memo to its members dated March 11, 1992. The memo endeavored to allay some of the fears generated over the possibility of 5 percent budget reductions. SEA proposed 26 recommendations for the Seminole School Board's consideration. The first four are: no layoffs, immediate hiring freeze on all positions, maintain current staffing formula and maintain a six-period day in high schools.

Educators, principally teachers, and those providing direct services to children have expressed grave concerns, not only for themselves but for young people who will be graduating from college and seeking careers in education.

Perhaps the school system should consider the services of an objective efficiency expert to review all positions, other than those whose primary function is the provision of direct services to children. A determination should be made relative to the necessity for particular jobs and overlapping functions that might be eliminated to effectuate budgetary savings.

Political wives' views change

BOSTON — So this candidate's wife is being assessed all over again, as if she were a piece of property. Her value seems to go up and down with every rumor in the marketplace, talking her husband's business along for the ride.

Just last month, Hillary Clinton was Bill's greatest asset. She was the one who stripped the poison petals off Gennifer Flowers' story. This was no wronged wife, long suffering abuse. She was the latest model in political wives, an independent lawyer and political partner.

Now she's being talked about as a deficit. With Tsongas gone and the nomination at hand, what Democratic troubles may lurk in her legal files? Could her personal strengths be his political weaknesses? What woman's role will she be modeling this year anyway and what do we think of it?

Last week, Hillary's stock slid down the politically correct graph lines. She landed in the middle of the great American mommy wars. When asked about the relationship between his state business and her law firm, she said in frustration, "I suppose I could have stayed home, baked cookies and had tea, but what I decided to do was fulfill my profession...."

Ouch. The sound bite went further afield than her careful second thought. "You know, the work that I've done as a professional as a public advocate has been aimed in part to assure that women can make the choice that they should make — whether it's a full-time career, full-time motherhood, some combination...." but she was right to add, "I think that it is still difficult for people to understand right now that it is a generational change."

Indeed, the signs of generational change are all over this election. George Bush came of age with the unifying "Good War," World War II. Bill Clinton came of age with divisive bad war, Vietnam.

Barbara Bush left Smith College and married George when there was one right choice for women. Hillary Clinton finished law school and married Bill when there was no single right choice. Perhaps no right choice.

Today's first lady was in essence "grandmothered" into her role. But the decisions any younger woman makes are instantly controversial. Think of Hillary Clinton's own revolving appearances in the political profit and loss ledgers. When she held onto her own name in 1980, she was blamed for her husband's defeat. When she gave it up, she was criticized for self-defeat.

When she stuck up for her husband and marriage on "60 Minutes," she had to prove that she was no Tammy Wynette. When she proved it, the Tammy Wynette fans wanted to know what's wrong with standing by your man.

At campaign rallies, when she speaks with a strong political voice, someone invariably asks, "Why don't you run?" If she were as quiet as Shelley Buchanan someone would undoubtedly ask if her husband was an impossible chauvinist.

The expectations for husbands are not much easier, nor is their balancing act. At one moment, Bill Clinton deals with his wife as a partner able to stand on her own two feet. The next minute he's angrily, even chivalrously defending her from Jerry Brown's accusing finger.

As Patricia O'Brien, whose new novel, "The Candidate's Wife" is prescient to the point of spookiness says, "You can almost hear the gears creaking as we shift from the rules of one generation to another."

But what are the new rules? Hillary Clinton is not the only one who can describe herself as "confused." How do we deal with the two-career couple in a campaign? Or in the White House?

Is Marilyn Quayle the model — a lawyer who turned, in professional frustration, to mystery writing? Could a husband do for a wife what Jack Kennedy did for his brother when he appointed Bobby attorney general?

At this moment, I am told there are a dozen or more reporters in Arkansas searching for improprieties in the working relationship of a lawyer wife and a governor husband. We may yet give Hillary the treatment accorded to both Geraldine Ferraro's feminism and John Zaccaro's finances. It's not a comfortable thought.

As asset and debt, as lawyer and wife, Hillary Clinton is likely to set a standard this year for the new generation of political couples. Sometimes, I am sure, like every other woman, wife, mother, of her generation who ever stops balancing and juggling expectations for a minute, she must wonder: How on earth do you ever get it right?

How on earth do you ever get it right?

N. Korea weapons activity worrying

WASHINGTON — The man running North Korea's fast-track nuclear weapons project might as well be another Saddam Hussein. He is a paranoid hermit, bent on amassing a nuclear arsenal, skilled at hiding his progress and capable of tragic miscalculation. And there are signs that on April 15 he may graduate from understudy to top dog.

He is Kim Chong Il, the 50-year-old son of aging North Korean President Kim Il Sung. The father turns 80 on April 15 and the big publicity buildup for the son in recent months has stirred up some speculation in intelligence circles that Kim Il Sung will pass the baton to his son that day.

The news about Kim Chong Il is all bad. He has lived a life of isolation and ignorance, has never met a foreign diplomat and has never granted an interview to a journalist. The only known trips he has made out of North Korea were two brief visits to China.

Alarm is growing in the U.S. intelligence community that, under Kim Chong Il's direction, North Korea is on the verge of producing a nuclear weapon. He is so close to achieving his goal, that if he succeeds in stalling international disarmament inspectors, the weapon could be a fait accompli within months. At the very least, Kim Chong Il is buying time to hide the key components so deep that inspectors will never find them.

Two other factors make North Korea the loose canon to watch this year — increased missile sales to its clients in the Middle East and the ominous movement of more Scud missiles to the border with South Korea. The picture laid out by intelligence sources for our associate Dale Van Atta is of a country throwing up a defensive wall to buy time and hide its nuclear secrets.

The White House, Pentagon and State Department have been scrambling to find some way to lean on North Korea, but to no avail. Sanctions will not work against a country with the historical nickname, "The Hermit Kingdom." George Bush has twice proved his willingness to use military force to solve international problems — in Panama and Iraq — but a strike against North Korea would be no cakewalk. The million-man North Korean army is prepared and dug in. North Korea has been flaunting its disregard for what the rest of the world thinks by selling Scuds to the Middle East. Spy satellites have photographed at least 20 Scud canisters from North Korean freighters making their way to Iran where they are loaded on planes bound for Syria and other Arab nations. The North Koreans are fulfilling what one classified CIA report identifies as a $250 million contract with Syria to provide Scuds and Scud-production equipment and expertise.

Syrian President Hafez Assad, whose thuggery rivals that of Saddam Hussein, is frantically building up his military using oil money and more than $2 billion sent his way by Saudi Arabia in gratitude for Syria's help in the Persian Gulf War.

Syria may be first in line for North Korea's Scud-D missile now in production. It will have a range of more than 625 miles. With a Scud-D, North Korea could strike anywhere in South Korea and most of Japan. In the hands of Arab countries in the Middle East, the Scud-D missiles could easily hit Israel. And from Libya, a frequent buyer of North Korean weapons, a Scud-D could hit many cities in Europe.

The news about Kim Chong Il is all bad.

NATIONAL BRIEFS

USDA says 25 million use food stamps

WASHINGTON — A record 25 million Americans relied on the government's help to buy groceries in January, according to the latest food stamp enrollment figures from the Agriculture Department.

The pace of Americans who have turned to USDA for food assistance showed signs of slowing in January, when 100,000 more people were enrolled in the program than in December.

The number of people added to the rolls throughout the fall had been increasing by 300,000 to 400,000 a month.

USDA's latest figures showed 25 million Americans — nearly 1 in 10 — were enrolled in the program in January, compared with 24.9 million in December and 22 million in January 1991.

Clinton, Brown in new flat-tax clash

NEW YORK — Democratic front-runner Bill Clinton slashed at Jerry Brown's proposed 13 percent flat tax Saturday, saying it would put money in his pocket — and probably Brown's as well — while hurting the poor.

Brown shot back that the Arkansas governor had "invented another big lie" about the flat tax as the Democratic presidential race intensified in advance of the state's critical April 7 primary.

"My wife and I have released our tax returns, you can look at them," Clinton said as he campaigned at a Queens diner in advance of New York's April 7 presidential primary.

"We'd make a lot of money on Jerry Brown's plan, because we don't consume that much of our income and 13 percent is a lot less than we normally pay," Clinton said. "I bet Jerry Brown would make a lot of money on his tax plan. He ought to release his tax returns and we can see."

About 200 lunch time diner patrons gave the Arkansas governor a warm round of applause.

Brown ran into trouble with a rival political group and alienated some natural constituents — the organic farm crowd — as he brought his primary campaign back to city streets.

Bush reveals strategy for domestic reforms

By RITA BEAMISH
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — President Bush, drawing on his Rose Garden campaign strategy, today used a White House radio address to promote his new re-election message of domestic reforms.

In the brief speech, which the White House categorized as official rather than political and offered to stations nationwide, Bush also lashed out at the Democrats who control Congress.

He ridiculed them for failing "incredibly" Wednesday to muster even a simple majority in their attempt to override his veto of their middle-class tax cut.

"Congressional liberals suffered this defeat for a simple reason: Americans measure progress in people helped, not dollars spent," Bush said.

He underscored several areas he plans to stress in the coming months in his campaign strategy to remain presidential, through policy speeches and initiatives, rather than take an overtly political tack.

In that vein, Bush will unveil a series of initiatives in such areas as health care and job training. White House domestic policy chief Clayton Yeutter said Friday. The president thus hopes to thwart criticism that he has neglected voters' domestic concerns while focusing on foreign policy.

The goal, Yeutter said in an interview, is to show Americans before Election Day that Bush is "governing and governing well."

Yeutter said working groups are trying to come up with domestic initiatives that can be offered between now and the Democratic and Republican national conventions this summer.

The proposals under consideration include legislation to implement health care changes Bush proposed in February job training and education projects and reform of the legal system, he said.

In addition, the president will stress opening of foreign markets to U.S. products and will emphasize the need for reform in government, especially as it relates to Congress, Yeutter said.

On the political front, he said, "We know we have a challenge" in fighting criticism that Bush has shortchanged domestic problems while focusing on foreign affairs.

"What he is facing is a set of misperceptions on the part of the American public, and we ought to be able to demonstrate to the American public that the president is in command of the domestic agenda, has the right domestic agenda for America and can effectively articulate that agenda," Yeutter said.

In his radio speech, the president appealed to Americans to support his plans.

Sale

from the time they set up shop at 9 a.m.

"I think we're doing pretty good," she said, though she said that she would not count the money until they were done for the day.

Johnson said the auxiliary would use the money raised on Saturday to help purchase items that the department needed, but which would not be put on the regular department budget.

"We got them a little barbecue for when they are on shift," Johnson said. "And when they are out working on a brush fire, for example, we'll bring them refreshments. We bring them food or drinks to keep them going."

The auxiliary failed to get a permit to operate the outdoor sale, but Johnson said there were no problems from officials.

According to Johnson, the permit was denied because there is a city ordinance banning outdoor sales. She said that the event had been planned for a long time, but when they went to apply for the permit last week, they were denied.

Johnson said that the 12 members of the auxiliary get together for a variety of fund-raisers throughout the year. She said that they are usually well supported by the community.

"We usually do pretty well," she said.

Charter

Lake Mary City Attorney Ned Julian is scheduled to meet with the committee Monday night, to advise them on the various aspects of the Sunshine Law that restricts certain types of non-public communications.

Morris said, "The Commission has adopted a policy that during our deliberations we will keep at an arms length relationship with your committee."

The matter is expected to require a thorough clarification however, as all five members of the City Commission are also members of the Charter Review Committee, along with five private citizens appointed by them.

With the restrictions of the Sunshine Law, all of the meetings will be open to the general public.

Whether all of the meetings will be opened for public discussion is still to be determined. J. Craig Spearman, chairman of the Lake Mary Business Advisory Board and also a member of the review committee commented, "I don't know what the entire group may decide, but I am thoroughly in favor of allowing as much public input as possible."

He added, "After all, we are doing this for the entire City and the citizens are what makes the City."

The first meeting of the committee is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. Monday night, in the Commission chambers of the Lake Mary City Hall.

PUBLIC NOTICE SEMINOLE COUNTY CONVEYANCE OF PUBLIC LANDS FOR AFFORDABLE HOUSING

In accordance with Florida Statutes Section 125.38, Seminole County is taking proposals from local nonprofit organizations for the purpose of conveying County owned property to selected organizations who wish to build housing units affordable to very low and low income households. Nonprofit housing organizations are defined as State-authorized corporations no part of the income or profit of which is distributable to its members, directors or officers.

Preference will be given to proposals that:

1. Are sponsored by a non profit housing organization with sufficient capacity (staffing, administrative budget, "track record", etc.) to carry out the project; or are sponsored by a nonprofit organization which has demonstrated the ability to expand the County's overall production capabilities of low and very low income housing units.
2. Provide the greatest number of units affordable to very low and low income households.
3. Demonstrate assurance of long term occupancy of the units (s) by very low and low income households through:
  - length of occupancy (e.g., 15-20 years);
  - mortgage assistance;
  - rental assistance;
  - other subsidy or assistance.

Gary Davies, a senior at Lyman High School in Longwood points out shuttle Atlantis' position on computer screen (roughly over Panama) as he talks to astronaut Brian Duffy.

Lyman hams forsake beach for space talk

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — The smell of tanning lotion was heavy in the air in the tiny television studio at Lyman High School on Friday afternoon.

The science experiment which had young ham radio operators in Joe Laughlin's space science class talking to the astronauts aboard the Space Shuttle Atlantis was a popular event among the students at Lyman.

"There were about 50 people that came in straight from the beach," said Laughlin. "It was a beautiful day. There was no school. I was really pleased with how many people showed up."

Laughlin said he was concerned early on in the experiment that there would be some problems in making contact, but the things worked out well in the end.

"At the start of our window (of opportunity for communication) they could hear us loud and clear, but we couldn't hear them, so we didn't ask any questions at first."

According to Laughlin the students were using 160 watts of power to transmit their signal to the shuttle's five. As their position changed and they moved closer to a closer position, however, the signal improved.

"We could hear them loud and clear," Laughlin said.

Laughlin had coordinated with students at nine schools in Seminole, Orange and Volusia counties to ask questions of the astronauts from their own sites using Lyman's signal.

Lyman's representative was the first to ask a question, wanting to know what it was like to work 12 hour shifts in space.

"I'd work 1,000 hours in space rather than on earth," came the answer from space.

Students from Ventura Elementary School in Orlando, Galaxy Middle School in Deltona and Trinity Preparatory School in Winter Park were able to make queries of their own, but the transmission began to break up when students from Rock Lake Middle School in Longwood tried to get their question.

"We got four and a half out of nine," Laughlin said. "I think that's pretty good."

Laughlin said he said that the fun part of the experiment was over and that the learning would come now.

"It's up to me to educate them now," he said. "The experiment can show them how the math and science they learn in their books is used."

Laughlin said he hopes to do a similar experiment about once a year.

"It takes about six months to completely prepare for this experiment," he said. "I think we'll just take a little break."

Laughlin and 15 students will be going to Cape Canaveral to watch the shuttle when it lands in the early morning hours on Wednesday or Thursday.

Astronauts measure light from stars, Earth's halo

By MARCIA DUNN
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL — Atlantis' astronauts measured light from shooting stars and Earth's gleaming halo Saturday, midway through the first shuttle mission devoted to environmental research.

The crew of six men and one woman was rooting to stay up an extra day, and it appeared NASA would grant their wish. Flight directors said they would decide Sunday whether to extend the eight-day flight.

The astronauts have been frugal with energy since reaching orbit Tuesday. Returning Thursday instead of Wednesday depended on whether they could save enough power, which they did.

"After going through all this work and all this effort, an extra day is a big thing," astronaut Michael Foale said in a preflight interview. "It will represent more than 10 percent of the science."

Atlantis' astronauts have been conducting tests of Earth's atmosphere, including whether chemicals are destroying its ozone layer, which protects against dangerous ultraviolet radiation from the sun.

Mission scientist Marsha Torr said it's far too soon for researchers to "write the science papers" on ozone depletion.

"All we can say at this point is that the quality of the data that have been gathered thus far is very superior to what we have seen on previous flights," Torr said.

The crew should have spent Saturday firing an electron beam gun to generate artificial auroras as well as radio waves aimed at students equipped with special receivers. The gun stood motionless in the cargo bay, though, disabled by an irreparable blown fuse.

Instead, the crew aimed an atmospheric-imaging camera at natural auroras, shooting stars and airglow, a glimmering layer 44 to 372 miles above Earth resulting from atoms and molecules absorbing and radiating sunlight.

"We've gotten a couple of shooting stars going into the atmosphere, some cities and some lightning along with the air glow, so the picture looks great," said astronaut Byron Lichtenberg. "It's really spectacular."

Payload commander Kathryn Sullivan took time out to answer two questions from a list from schoolchildren in Alabama and Texas.

One student wanted to know whether the northern lights differ from the southern lights. The answer: no. Another asked what evidence of man, besides the Great Wall of China, could be seen from space. The answer: lots.

"We've seen jets flying along, contrails in busy parts of the sky, cities on the ground, plumes of smoke where people are clearing their fields to plant a new season's crop, airports, boats in the water," Sullivan said.

"It's very clear there are lots of people on the Earth who are doing lots of things, and some of our activities have very pronounced effects on our planet," she said.

The shuttle's pilots tended to the few non-atmospheric experiments. They tested their eyesight with a hand-held device to determine how vision changes in weightlessness.

They also helped keep tabs on a cell-growth investigation. Hormones were being injected into some of hundreds of thousands of bone, muscle and white blood cells from rats, mice and humans.

Researchers want to know why certain kinds of cells fare poorly in weightlessness. Astronauts suffer a 15 percent to 20 percent reduction in muscle strength in space, for instance, and that's during relatively short trips.

"Before there can be any flight to Mars or a manned U.S. space station, more must be learned about human health risks in low-gravity environments," said Col. William Wiesmann of the Walter Reed Army Institute of Research in Washington, which is overseeing the experiment.

Manatee Haven

Gentle creatures flock near Cape

Associated Press

MELBOURNE — Manatees have their own spring break here this time of year — and they get a great view of shuttle launches.

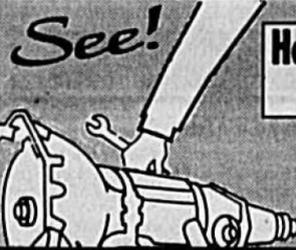

On any given day this spring, as many as 300 to 350 manatees — about one-quarter of the entire manatee population in U.S. waters — can be found feeding and cavorting in the Banana River just off NASA Causeway.

The gathering of endangered mammals who have been around for million years basking in the shadow of some of humankind's most advanced technology, has not gone unnoticed.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Commission visits the area frequently to monitor its highly successful manatee-tagging, satellite-tracking operation. Nearby is the headquarters for Bionetics, a NASA Life Science support contractor that has been conducting long-term studies of manatee migration, habitat and feeding patterns.

Florida-Latin American cargo link bright

ORLANDO — Cargo shipments between Florida and Latin America should continue to be a thriving segment of an otherwise gloomy airline industry, officials said.

The growing economies in Central and South America, plus Florida's historic ties to the region, should mean a continuing increase in cargo shipments, said Steven Leonard, American Airlines' vice president for cargo sales.

"We envision double-digit cargo growth there every year," for the foreseeable future, Leonard said during a speech to attendees at the first International Air Cargo Conference here.

American Airlines has a $2 billion investment in Latin American operations, Leonard said.

Boat-builder files Chapter 11

MIAMI — Bertram-Trojan Inc., Miami's largest boat builder, announced the company filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection.

The firm will continue its efforts to complete prior agreements for separate sales of its Bertram Yacht Division and Trojan Yacht Division, according to a company statement.

Last month, Bertram announced that it had entered into a tentative agreement to sell its Bertram Yacht Division to B.Y. Acquisition Corp., a newly formed Italian conglomerate.

Also, the company has agreed to sell certain assets of its Trojan Yacht Division to Aqua Buoy Corp., officials said.

A bankruptcy judge would now have to approve the proposed sales of the company's assets, the statement said.

Modern behavior

Men and women have important work to do

NOTE: The impact of sexual discrimination in the workplace is an everyday concern for many Americans. In 'Business Protocol: How to Survive and Succeed in Business' (John Wiley & Sons, Inc.), sociologist Jan Yager looks at the new rules for men and women. Here is an excerpt from this newly published book.

By JAN YAGER

Whether you are a man or a woman, a secretary or a vice president, the behavior of men and women at work has become one of the most pressing etiquette issues facing us today.

The key is to show good manners without being accused of being sexist.

Look at the issue of a man opening a door for a woman: In my business etiquette survey of 108 personnel administrators working in a variety of industries throughout the United States, 77 percent wrote that it is considered etiquette at their company for a man to open the door for a woman; 57 percent said it was etiquette for a woman to open the door for a man.

However, the age-old practice of a man standing up when a woman enters his office seems to be on the way out — a whopping 78 percent wrote that at their company men do not stand up if a woman enters the office.

It seems that as women are being treated more equally in the business world, and are being judged on their abilities rather than the fact they are women, some of the old-fashioned sexual graces are being left out of the corporate setting.

The vice president of an advertising company based in Wilton, Conn., wrote about male and female relationships in the office:

"The most sensitive area in business is the female-male relationship when trying to establish relationships and networks on a business level. Both sexes are slowly evolving (changing) the normal social rules into a new set of business etiquette rules.

"Our generation is in transition so there are many miscommunications and wrongful interpretations as the opposite sex reacts in a more personal than business way."

What is emerging, rather than simply following certain rules because you are dealing with a man or woman, is the prevailing attitude today that courtesy has nothing to do with sex. A woman will open the door for a man if he is carrying packages and it seems polite for her to do so.

In this, as in all other etiquette issues, find out what is expected at your company and conform to those rules.

Letitia Baldrige writes that a new standard has emerged in the workplace. In "Letitia Baldrige's Complete Guide to Executive Manners," she writes that "people are supposed to treat each other equally and act according to rules of protocol, not of gender, and one sex is supposed to come to the aid of the other whenever either needs assistance."

According to Baldrige, the "polished executive," whether a man or a woman:

Moves quickly to open a door for anyone walking nearby who has his or her hands full.

Picks up whatever someone else has dropped who cannot retrieve it as easily as he or she can.

Stands to greet a visitor to the meeting or his or her office.

Assists a colleague struggling to get in or out of his or her coat.

But the equality to which Baldrige refers is, according to my findings, more theory than fact. Despite the sexual discrimination laws that have been passed, and the sexual discrimination suits that have been won, there are still relatively few women in top management. Men and women have not yet found ways to feel comfortable working together at high levels without compromising ingrained views of the "right" way to treat one another.

A competent woman will get to the top because she does what a competent man does, namely she works hard and fits in with a SANFORD — Cruise trips on the Riverships Grand Romance and Romance are in big demand. "This is our peak season," commented company President Nanci Yuronis.

Trips on the St. Johns River, from several hours long to two day events are being well received by area citizens as well as visitors. "We use the smaller Romance for private parties and special functions," Yuronis said, "but we've had a number of occasions when the Grand Romance has been so solidly booked, we've used the Romance for the short cruises as well."

Meanwhile, Bill Sternberg, director of the Grand Romance, has recently returned from a three day national convention of the National Association of Passenger Vessel Operators, NAPVO, in New Orleans.

NAPVO represents 350 member companies operating over 1,200 passenger vessels including tour and excursion boats, dinner-cruise boats, car and passenger ferries, whale-watching vessels and riverboat casinos.

"The meeting was an excellent educational opportunity," Sternberg said. "We could chose from 15 separate workshops, hear Coast Guard and industry leaders speak, and learn of new marketing tactics that can help us attract the tourists critical to our local economy."

Among issues discussed were employment, health-care, tourism, and for some participants, riverboat gambling.

As a member of NAPVO, the Riverships Romance and Grand Romance which operate out of the Monroe Harbour Marina in Sanford, must follow all regulations regarding safety, employment, tax laws, and other requirements for improved water transportation.

Zales saves four stores in mall

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

It appears as though the four stores owned by Zale Corporation will continue operations in the Altamonte Mall. Zale has been able to avoid a major store shutdown.

The U.S. Bankruptcy Court in Dallas, approved Zale's permanent financing request this past Tuesday. The money will allow Zale to continue operating almost all of its stores, rather than facing a closure that had originally been predicted, of possibly one third of their operations.

The Zale Corporation, the nation's largest jewelry retailer, owns four stores at the Altamonte Mall including Bailey, Banks and Biddle, Gordon's Jewelers, Lawton Jewelers and Zales Jewelers. Including it calls for $470 million in debtor-in-possession financing, made available by Chemical Bank.

Judge Steven Feisenthal ruled that Zale could draw as much as $60 million on an interim basis, and Zale hopes to finalize the financing of the entire operation after obtaining approval by the bankruptcy court of certain inter-company borrowing terms.

Andrew Ludwig, Zale Corporation vice president of finance said, "Our goal is to emerge quickly from Chapter 11 as a strong and profitable retail company." He added, "The Court's decision to approve our permanent financing allows us to move ahead with our efforts to return Zale to profitability."

Zale entered Chapter 11 on Jan. 23, in response to an involuntary bankruptcy filing petition filed on New Year's Day by a few dissident bondholders. The involuntary filing resulted in a significant reduction of trade credit to the company.

The new financing will allow the company to finance customer purchases on the private label credit card, buy new merchandise, and finance company operations through these traditionally slow jewelry retail months.

Chamber breakfast meet set

SANFORD — "Keys to the Economy" is the topic of an upcoming breakfast meeting at the Sanford Civic Center. The Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce Bankers Committee will be presenting the event for area business leaders.

Featured speaker for the meeting is Dr. David Scott, executive director of the Dr. Phillips Institute for the Study of American Business Activity. Dr. Scott holds the Della Phillips-Martha D. Schenck Chair in American Private Enterprise and is a Professor of Finance at the University of Central Florida.

Bankers Committee Chairman Ardy Roberts has indicated the breakfast meeting "will provide some of the necessary tools our businesses, large and small, need to persevere in the months ahead."

Roberts added, "This key event is presented a service to help us understand the workings of this economy and how to survive these challenging times."

The breakfast meeting will begin at 8 a.m., April 7th., in the Sanford Civic Center. Reservations for the breakfast and presentation are $7 per person, and are now being accepted at the Chamber office.

Goldsboro prepares for year round

SANFORD — Year Round Education begins at Goldsboro Elementary School on July 20, 1992.

The school administration is inviting area day care operators to come to an informational session at the school on Tuesday, March 31 at 7 p.m.

The administration hopes to help coordinate services of both the day cares and the school when it makes its transition to the 12-month calendar.

Teacher Quest applicants sought

The Teacher Quest Scholarship program is seeking applicants for this summer.

The program gives teachers of math, science and computer applications the opportunity to enhance their knowledge and "real world" skills by applying the concepts that they teach to the work world.

This allows them to take this updated, current information back to the classroom where they can show their students how the textbook learning has a great deal of relevance outside of school.

In return for hiring a teacher through Teacher Quest, employers have the opportunity to gain a motivated, committed employee at half the usual pay. The Challenger Astronaut Trust Fund pays half of the teacher's summer salary.

Last year in Seminole County, Westinghouse hired two teachers and another instructor was hired by AT&T.

Teachers or employers who are interested in taking part in the program should contact the Dividenda school volunteer program at 834-8211.

Rams rested and ready to go on

LAKE MARY — Things are beginning to heat up again at Lake Mary High School.

This past week, students had three nine weeks' exams to struggle through on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, but a four-day weekend was well worth the trouble and the Class of 1992 is now more than ready to begin its last nine weeks of high school.

Lately, clubs and organizations have been excelling at competitions at the local, state and national levels.

Recently, the Brain Bowl team, the Spanish Club, the math team, the band, the chorus, the Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA), the Health Occupations team and the thespians have been either attending or gearing up for competitions. Every team has had some degree of success.

The Marionettes dance team recently travelled to Miami for the Miss Florida Drill Team competition and came away with many trophies for their choreography and presentation, among other skills.

The freshman, JV and varsity cheerleaders also went to Williamsburg, VA for their national competitions. The freshman win first place in their divisions while the JV and varsity squads earned honorable mentions for their work. Many individual cheerleaders won a spot to perform at the Hula Bowl in Hawaii next Christmas.

Registration was held last Monday for the Student Government's first Powder Puff football game between the junior and senior girls. There will be about 40 girls on each team and they will be supported by about 14 guys who will be acting as cheerleaders for the event.

Practices will be held the last week in April and the game will be Friday, May 1 at 7 p.m. at Don T. Reynolds Stadium. Student government members will provide each participant with a souvenir t-shirt.

The senior class officers are currently busy reminding seniors of the April 3 deadline for submitting pictures for the Senior Class slide show to be shown at the Senior Class Banquet at graduation and at the first reunion.

They are also helping with Project Graduation to be held aboard the RiverShip Romance after graduation which will be June 9 at the Orlando Arena.

Noles ready for Spring Fling, fun

SANFORD — It was a short, but hectic school week at Seminole that finished with a four day weekend for students.

Many students spent their weekend at the beach relaxing and recovering from their nine weeks' exams. We are now coming to the final nine weeks of the school term, which is sure to be the busiest time of all.

The 1992 Seminole High School Spring Fest is just around the corner. It will be held on April 4. The Flea Market will begin at 9 a.m. and the arts and crafts phase of the day. There will be booths set up around the school's main courtyard.

A chicken barbecue dinner will start at noon. Tickets can be purchased in advance from student members of participating clubs for $4 for adults and $2 for children for a full meal.

The auction of brand new to very old items donated by merchants and individuals will begin at 3 p.m.

Bryn Alan photographers will also be on hand to take photography portraits ranging in price starting at $10.

Come out to Seminole's annual all-school, all-club, all-team fundraiser day of fun, food and bargains. Spring Fest '92.

Being the last nine weeks all students have a lot on their minds, especially the seniors.

Graduation day will be here very soon, so many are finalizing their college and after high school plans.

There is much more than graduation on the minds of the students. Activities such as prom, Grad Night and Project Graduation are some of the biggest events of the school year.

These are definitely some very special events to look forward to.

But in the midst of all the excitement let's not forget about Spring Break, which is April 13 through April 17. This will be a time for both students and faculty to relax before gearing up for the last weeks of this school year.

So much to do. So little time!

Kindergarten, first grade pre-registration dates set

By VICKI DeBORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — If, in the fall, it will be time to have your youngster stop playing school and start attending real classes for the first time, now is the time to think about registration.

Classes will begin in the end of August at most schools and on July 20 at Goldsboro, Geneva and Lawton elementary schools which have gone to the modified school calendar (year round classes).

Kindergarten spring registration will take place on April 7 through 9 and on April 21-23. The pre-registration period is designed to give the parents of kindergarten and first grade students who will be attending a Seminole County school for the first time during the next academic year.

Parents should check with the school district administrative office, 1211 Mellonville Ave. in Sanford (or by calling 322-1252), to determine the school that their child should attend. Registration should be done at that school site.

Hours for registration are from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. at all locations.

In order to enter Kindergarten in the Seminole County school district, a child must be five years old on or before Sept. 1, 1992.

To enter the first grade, a child must be six years old on or before Sept. 1, 1992 and must have successfully completed Kindergarten in either a public or private school.

When going to register a child, parents should bring the following things to the school:

- The child's birth certificate or other proof of his or her date of birth.
- Proof of residency.
- Immunization records and a copy of the child's student health examination record, if available.
- The child's social security number.

The school district must have all of these items on file before he or she will be allowed to enter school.

Science is still doing poorly in our schools

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Science still is not faring well in the nation's schools, despite many national calls for increased emphasis on the subject, the Education Department said today.

The 1990 Science Report Card released today by the department said less than half of the elementary schools and only about one-third of the high schools have identified science education as a special priority.

As a result, the report said, "a disproportionately low percentage" of students know enough about science or have the ability to accomplish even relatively straightforward tasks requiring application or thinking skills.

But fewer knew how to apply general scientific information, like drawing the position of the moon during a solar eclipse and identifying which in a series of questions could be answered most easily with an experiment.

By their senior year, fewer than half of the students demonstrated the knowledge and reasoning abilities to interpret data in tables and graphs and to evaluate and design science experiments.

The National Assessment of Educational Progress, popularly known as the Nation's Report Card, surveyed 20,000 students in the three grades during the winter and spring of 1990. The latest report cannot be compared with earlier data because officials used a new set of objectives.

"This report from The Nation's Report Card provides further information about students' lack of preparation in science, their apparent disinclination to enroll in challenging science courses, and the comparatively low achievement of black and Hispanic students, females, economically disadvantaged students, and non-college bound students," said the study.

Get the facts on acne treatment

Acne is actually many different diseases which affect people of all ages, even newborns, throughout the entire world.

-Randall B. Coverman, M.D., P.A.

Acne is a fascinating disease that affects virtually all ages, races and sex. It can be very disruptive to one's life; however, it doesn't need to be, with good medical supervision.

Acne is actually many different diseases which affect people of all ages, even newborns, throughout the entire world.

Some infants are born with a type of acne known as "acne neonatorum" which comes from hormones passed to them from their mothers. Most children do not have any further acne until they reach puberty although it is not uncommon to see children begin develop acne at age 8, 9 or 10.

It has been estimated that 90 percent of all teenagers will have acne during their teenage years. A popular myth is that acne ends when adulthood begins. In reality, I see almost as many 21 to 35-year-old patients as teenagers.

A form of acne known as "acne rosacea" usually does not begin until between the ages of 30 and 40 and may extend through the age of 70 plus.

Acne is never life threatening; however, many patients have been embarrassed to death about their complexion. Besides appearance, acne may be associated with fever and generalized illness. Acne rosacea may also have an effect on the eyes leading to visual problems.

Acne, in its various forms, is basically a disease of the "pilosebaceous apparatus" which is actually the hair shaft and oil glands. Acne is caused by the interplay and combination of an increase in the male hormones, known as androgens which occur in both men and women, an abnormal hair follicle lining, too much oil and a type of bacteria known as "propionibacteria acnes."

The first disorder which occurs in acne is the blockage of the hair shaft, which leads to what is known as "open comedones" or blackheads and

"closed comedones." These are the non-inflammatory type of lesions which virtually never scar.

Once the oil gland is blocked, the oil backs up much like the damming of a river. Bacteria may work on that backup to create inflammatory lesions known as "pustules" and "papules" and rarely, "cysts." The inflammatory lesions are the ones most people find to be the most distressing because they are very visible and may lead to scarring.

Is there a cure for acne? While there is no known cure yet, there are successful methods for controlling acne. To control acne, one must understand the various types of lesions: non-inflammatory; inflammatory or both.

RetinA (Tretinoin) is probably the best medication for decreasing the blockage of the hair follicle and oil duct. This is the original use of RetinA prior to its wrinkle treatment use.

The inflammatory acne is treated by several different antibiotics such as tetracycline and variations of tetracycline and erythromycin. Other less commonly prescribed antibiotics may be used as well. All of these antibiotics are often taken orally (by mouth) as well as being applied to the skin. Benzoyl peroxide, resorcinol and sulphur are other medications that have been used to treat acne.

The most severe inflammatory and scarring types of acne may be treated with Accutane. This is a beneficial drug that has given hope to previously hopeless cases of severe acne. It must be prescribed by a physician who is very familiar with all of its side effects and necessary precautions. One of the most satisfying aspects of dermatology is to see a patient's self-image and confidence improve as their acne has cleared up with treatment.

Randall B. Coverman, M.D., P.A., is a dermatologist with an office located at 220 N. Westmonte Dr., Altamonte Springs.

Program for elderly expands into Seminole County area

Samuel Vance, 80, likes to stand on the porch of his 75-year-old Sanford home and look at the barn where he worked as a mechanic for most of his life, according to Marie Reyes, of the Visiting Nurse Association, Orlando.

Although his memory is clouded, his wife Bertha says "He never forgets to tell me that he doesn't want to go to a nursing home. He can remember that!"

Thanks to a state financed program now being offered in Seminole County, the Vances can remain in their home with some much needed help from home health care professionals.

"It (the Department of Elder Affairs' Nursing Home Diversion Program) came just in time, because I was really run down," said Mrs. Vance. After caring for her husband for six years, she began to develop medical problems herself and wondered how much longer she could continue. When Mr. Vance began receiving help at home for several hours, three times a week, Mrs. Vance said, "I got more rest in two weeks than I had gotten the past six years."

The Visiting Nurse Association Community Care for the Elderly Program, began offering Nursing Home Diversion in Orange County two years ago, but just recently received finances to expand the program to Seminole County.

Community care for the elderly has operated for 12 years in Seminole County, offering homemaking, personal care and case management services to frail seniors in their homes. The program allows the agency to provide an increased level and frequency of services to reach those who are more severely impaired.

"The agency is anxious to get the word out to eligible Seminole County residents, that the program is now available," according to Donna Bannasch, social work clinical supervisor for the program. Bannasch says that individuals must be over age 60 and be receiving, or eligible to receive, Medicaid and SSI. (SSI eligibility requires an income not exceeding $442/month).

Deliah Hinson, 66, of Midway, has been a client since 1987 and receives weekly homemaker and personal care services. Since being offered the diversion program, Hinson enjoys more frequent services from a home health aide, who not only cleans her house and bathes her, but also takes her to the doctor and the grocery store. "She does everything for me," said Hinson.

The diversion program also offers much needed caregiver respite services and individual transportation for medical appointments and shopping and help with home repairs. Clients receiving services range in age from 60 to 113 years old.

Another benefit of this new program is that it has opened up slots for seniors in the Community Care for the Elderly Program and there is no longer a waiting list for CCE in Seminole County.

While diversion requires individuals to be Medicaid/SSI eligible, community care only requires that seniors be frail and in need of services that they can't pay for privately.

"The goal of both programs is to help the frail elderly remain in their homes as long as possible," said Melodie Marcks, vice president of the Visiting Nurse Association. Marcks notes that these at-home services not only make these seniors more secure and comfortable, but it is cost effective and saves the taxpayer money by avoiding nursing home placement.

Anyone interested in finding out more about the programs offered should call the Visiting Nurse Association at 628-2884.

Doctors' Day observed

LONGWOOD — In 1990 President George Bush signed into law designating today, March 30, as "National Doctors' Day." The bill calls on the people of the United States to observe the day with special ceremonies to recognize the contributions of physicians.

"The staff of West Lake Hospital always looks forward to the annual Doctors' Day observance," said Dennis H. Jones, Ph.D., administrator. "It is our chance to express gratitude to the many talented physicians affiliated with our hospital who demonstrate skill, sympathy and compassion in the treatment of patients."

The first Doctor's Day observance was held on March 30, 1933, by the Barrow County Auxiliary in Winder, Ga., on the anniversary of physician Crawford D. Long's successful use of ether anesthesia. Crawford W. Long, M.D., practiced medicine in Winder from 1840 to 1878.

In 1935 the celebration was adopted by the Southern Medical Association Auxiliary, which still publicizes the event to honor physicians.

Cancer drug protects bones, heart

By DANIEL G. HANEY
AP Science Writer

BOSTON — A drug widely used to prevent breast cancer also appears to protect women from broken bones and heart attacks, new research has found.

The drug, an estrogen-blocker called tamoxifen, has been given since the 1970s to women treated for breast cancer. It helps prevent recurrence of existing cancer or the development of new cancer and is often given for five to 10 years.

A study in Thursday's New England Journal of Medicine suggests that this treatment may carry an important side benefit.

Doctors from the University of Wisconsin found that when women took the medicine after breast cancer, the strength of their bones increased by about half of 1 percent a year. In an untreated comparison group, bone density fell by 1 percent a year.

Tamoxifen ought to be associated with a reduction of fracture risk of about 30 percent over two to five years," said Dr. Richard R. Love, who directed the study.

His study, conducted on 140 women, is the latest in a series of recent studies that show multiple benefits of tamoxifen treatment.

Last year, Love published a study showing a dramatic effect on cholesterol. He found that women taking the drug had about a 12 percent drop in their total cholesterol levels. They also had a 20 percent drop in so-called bad cholesterol.

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — U.S. Rep. Bill McCollum will sponsor two "town meetings" in Seminole County April 4.

McCullum, who represents all of Seminole County and portions of Orange County, will meet local constituents at Lake Mary City Hall at Lake Mary Boulevard and Country Club Road beginning at 11:30 a.m. Earlier, McCollum will be at Altamonte Springs City Hall, 225 Newburyport Ave., at 9:30 a.m.

McCollum's press aide Scott Brenner said McCollum will be available for public comments and questions but will also update residents on at least two issues of local interest.

Brenner said McCollum will tell residents on the status of the Veteran's Administration site selection process for a central Florida hospital. The VA reportedly is favoring an Orange County which will be more convenient to Seminole County residents than a location in Brevard County.

Brevard County was considered a prime site because of the political influences of former Congressman Bill Nelson, who represented a district which included Brevard County.

Brenner said McCollum will also present a proposal he has to save money in the savings and loan bailout designed to save banking jobs and keep marginal banks open instead of closing them at a tremendously greater cost.

Although many thrifths were paying off debts and returning to a stable condition, changes in federal banking laws required many thrifths to try to eliminate losses within one year, instead of decades. As a result, many thrifths were unable to meet certain federal banking requirements.

McCollum's proposal would pay thrifths the amount needed to meet the requirements and avoid a takeover by the Resolution Trust Corp., the federally-created thrift takeover company.

Winters show opens; wildlife exhibit off

By NICK PPRIPAUF
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — A Florida Wildlife art exhibit planned to open this weekend at First Street Gallery, has been postponed. It will be moved to June 5th.

"We thought we might be able to make all of the arrangements on time to open this weekend," said Kay Bartholomew. "But we are holding off on this special show in order to obtain a wider variety of artists."

She added, "This time, we want to reach out to try to attract artists from throughout the State, rather than just here in Central Florida."

The Florida Wildlife exhibit is planned to be an all-media show with juried competition. Prizes will include $350 for best of show, $180 for the award of distinction, and two awards of merit for $50 each.

There will be an entry fee of $15 for each piece of art, with a maximum size of three by four feet, with three feet maximum depth. All work for the Florida Wildlife exhibit must be submitted by May 30th.

One of the unusual highlights of the Wildlife exhibit will be a special art showing by artist Carolyn Gruber. She has recently been involved in painting wildlife scenes on the sides of Tri-County buses. During the opening of the showing, one of the buses will be parked at the First Street Gallery.

According to Bartholomew, "She is the artist who has done this magnificent job of painting all of the nature and wildlife pictures on the buses, including an eagle, pantler, humming birds, and many others."

In place of the postponed showing, the new display, scheduled to open to the public Tuesday, will be a combination photographic and art display, by noted Winter Springs artist Jean Winters.

Seminoles show well at tough Florida Relays

By ROB STOCK
Herald Correspondent

GAINESVILLE — Seminole High School's boys' track team began its late season stretch run with a strong performance in the 1992 Florida Relays Friday at the University of Florida's Percy M. Beard track.

Now only did the Seminoles show off their top athletes in the field events, but they also flashed some speed in the running events, finishing in the top four of every event in which they competed. And they did so without the services of Brent Deese, who pulled a hamstring in the long jump.

Carlo White highlighted the meet for Seminoles with a throw of 62 feet, 6 1/2 inches in the shot put, easily winning the event and moving into second place nationally behind Ceaser O'Neal of Huntsville, Texas. O'Neal, who has signed with the University of Miami, has a throw of 66 feet, 7 inches to his credit.

White, a senior, came through with his career-best performance in his first attempt of the finals.

"I threw it pretty well today," said a smiling White, "wasn't all perfect. My technique still needs some work."

For White, who topped the 60-foot mark as a sophomore, the meet was a pleasant exhibition of how much he has improved from a knee injury that hindered his performance last year, when he finished second to Tallahassee-Rickard's Byron Price at both the Florida Relays and the Class 3A state meet.

"I'm throwing with more confidence than I've ever had with my knees (being healthy)," said White.

Seminole coach Ken Brauman wasn't surprised by White's throw.

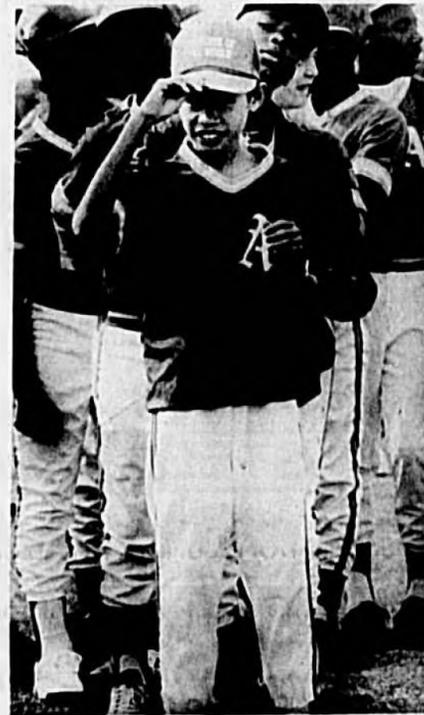

"He's ready to throw that far," Brauman said. "He's just got to get consistent."

Sophomores Bernard Sparrow and Andre Scott also enjoyed outstanding meets. Sparrow took second in the discus (169 feet, 11 inches) and third in the shot put (56 feet, 9 1/2 inches) while Scott was second in the triple jump with a leap of 48 feet, 3 1/2 inches.

Scott, who jumped 51 feet, 3 3/4 inches at the Bob Hayes Invitational last weekend, lost to Johnny McDaniel of Tallahassee-Rickards, who set a meet record with an attempt of 50 feet, 1 1/2 inches.

Patriots take two from Hawks

By RYAN ANDERSON
Herald Correspondent

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Once is great, but twice is even better.

It might as well have been doubles night at Lake Brantley High School as the Patriots captured two victories in three hours over the Lake Howell Silver Hawks, 6-5 and 1-0, in Seminole Athletic Conference baseball games Friday night.

"This is a first for us, to have anything like this due to weather," Lake Brantley coach Mike Smith said. "We were supposed to go over to Lake Howell yesterday (Thursday) at 11:00 a.m., but we weren't able to do that, so we finished it (game suspended on March 6 due to hail storm) up tonight."

The firsts for the Patriots didn't end there. Kevin Marro got the win in both games, improving his record to 4-0.

Lake Brantley broke the 3-3 tie in the suspended game when Wes Iler nailed a RBI single that drove home Frank Harmer from third base. The Patriots added two more runs in the seventh, then had to hold off a late two-run charge by Lake Howell.

Pesky Hornets sting Lake Mary

By BILL KERNS
Herald Correspondent

LAKE MARY — Someone swat that bug. Bishop Moore, a Class 2A High School which has already beaten Class 4A Lake Howell twice, used a seven-run first inning to defeat Class 4A Lake Mary 10-6 Friday night at Ram Field.

"We've got to stop allowing those big innings," said Lake Mary head coach Allen Tuttle, whose team is now 9-11. "We're not flat. When teams start losing, people say they're flat, but we just got some bad breaks. We swung the bat well and tried to battle back. They played real good defense, give them credit."

The first eight Bishop Moore batters of the game reached base safely. Lead-off hitter Shane Howat singled twice in the inning for the Hornets, Pablo Abreu, Jimmy Schroeder, and Brian Krot also singled.

Oviedo sweeps deuce with University

From Staff Reports

OVIDEO — One was the loneliest number for the University High School varsity baseball team Saturday as the host Oviedo Lions swept a non-conference doubleheader from the Cougars, 5-1 and 3-1.

Erik Jordan was the winner in the first game, hurling a two-hitter while striking out eight. The senior right-hander also walked eight, but six of those came in the sixth and seventh innings after he had tired. The win improved his record to 2-4.

Kevin Twiggs paced the offense in the first game, going 2-for-3 with a double. Also contributing were Brian King (double), Chris Stokes (1-for-3, RBI) and Todd Bellhorn (1-for-3).

The second game also featured a strong pitching performance, with Oviedo's Lee Reynolds tossing a five-hitter. University's lone run came in the top of the walking and being hit with a pitch. The only other Seminole player to reach base was Blane Barroso, who singled in three trips to the plate.

Blanton just missed serious injury in the bottom of the eighth inning when a pitch hit his helmet and glanced off his right cheekbone. But all that resulted was a scratch and he should be able to return to the lineup immediately.

The Raiders' offense was not the only thing lacking in this game. The usually reliable pitching also had a bad game, giving up 14 hits and five walks.

For the second straight game Lake Howell product Dwayne Clark had a rocky start, giving up two runs on four hits, while facing nine batters in the first inning. It looked like the ex-Silver Hawk might last when he worked out of the jam allowing only the two runs, but after allowing a bunt single and a walk and going 2-0 on the next batter in the second inning, he was lifted.

His replacement, Eric Rice, didn't fare any better, allowing a single to load the bases before walking in a run and hitting a batter to score another before being replaced by first baseman Joey Golinaki.

The sophomore avoided further damage by getting a pitcher-to-catcher-to-first double play and a strike out to end the inning. The only run allowed by Golinaki in his five inning of work came on a two-out chopper off the plate that just got over his head for an infield single that scored Chris Plecones, who had doubled.

The Panthers' other runs came off of Oviedo's B.J. Calapa in the seventh. A couple of wind blown hits, a walk and two singles past a drawn in infield produced the four runs. Calapa came back to pitch a perfect eighth, before Stanley Evans hurled a perfect ninth.

SCC fell to 12-17-1 with the loss and were scheduled to start a three-game Mid-Florida Conference road trip with a game in Jacksonville Saturday afternoon. The Raiders will travel to Gainesville on Tuesday and Palatka on Thursday before returning home for a non-conference game with the College of Lake County, Ill. next Friday at 2 p.m.

South Florida improved to 11-21 with victory.

Jack Niles was the only Seminole Community College player to get two hits Friday in the Raiders' 9-0 loss to South Florida.

Study shows many water-related deaths could be prevented

A study conducted by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers over the past five years of water-related fatalities reveals some statistics that should be of interest to all of us.

The first noteworthy statistic is that 90 percent of those who died in and around the water were not wearing life jackets. These fatalities were then divided into different categories. For example, 19 percent of all fatalities were the result of powerboat accidents while less than 1 percent each were sailing and water skiing accidents.

Another 11 percent of the deaths occurred while fishing from a boat, less than 1 percent were hunting from a boat, 5 percent were fishing from a dock, 1 percent were wade fishing, and 1 percent died while attempting a rescue. It is significant to note that 88 percent of all deaths were male.

Researchers were surprised to discover that 8 percent of all deaths were people simply wading. Not surprising, 37 percent of all fatalities were swimmers.

These are sobering statistics, and Florida residents are very vulnerable considering we are in a state that is virtually surrounded by water.

The Coast Guard tabulates boating accidents each year and estimates that 50 percent of all deaths are attributed to alcohol or drug use.

Water safety is a big responsibility. While we are on the water, we are not only responsible for our own welfare, but for that of others as well. Always have life jackets or personal flotation devices on board and be a safe boat operator. Alcohol and drugs are proven killers on our waterways, and we can all have a good time in the great outdoors without these items aboard our boats.

SHUPE'S SCOOP
It is important for us as adults to be models of water safety when in the presence of children. They, in turn, will hopefully practice caution when on or near the water by themselves.

FISHING FORECAST
Steve Guard at the Osteen Bridge Fish Camp reports good speck action in the shallows around roads and lily pads. Missouri minnows and small jigs are producing most of the fish.

FISHING

JIM SHUPE

With bass on the beds, bass action is on the slow side. Expect plenty of hungry fish once the bedding activities subside.

Sebastian Inlet is packed with baitfish and all types of predatory species — Jack crevalle, ladyfish, snook, trout, bluefish, flounder and redfish (season closed). You can count on action with live shrimp, jigs and a wide variety of lures.

High seas have prevented Captain Jack at Port Canaveral from obtaining any offshore reports — the smart anglers are not fishing until calmer weather arrives.

Inside the Port, flounder, bluefish, sheepshead and jack crevalle are hitting. Guide Troy Perez still reports good trout and redfish action on the flats of the Banana and Indian rivers.

Carefully listen to the marine forecast before planning a trip to Ponce Inlet. Huge ground swells and big whitecaps have made the inlet very dangerous this past week. Although very few people have been fishing, plenty of sheepshead and bluefish can be expected at both jetties. The south side of the south jetties will produce some decent flounder on live finger mullet.

After Krot doubled and scored on a passed ball in the top of the third for Bishop Moore, Lake Mary came back in their third with five runs. Jason Rasmussen, Dave Hudick, T.J. Hamilton, Matt Green and Chad Ebbert all singled and scored. Scott Johnston added an RBI sacrifice fly.

Both teams scored one run in the fourth inning. Krot singled in Mike Grenon for Bishop Moore, and Hudick singled in Rasmussen for Lake Mary.

Larry Richard doubled and scored on Abreu's sacrifice fly to complete the scoring for Bishop Moore (7-8) in the fifth inning.

"I like the way we tried to come back," said Tuttle. "We didn't give up. We played a good game overall after the first inning. We've got to quit making mistakes. The kids are trying hard. Losing is just something all baseball teams go through."

Chad Kesler hurled 5 1/2 innings in relief for Lake Mary, yielding three runs on 12 hits. Ben Rovito finished the game for the Rams.

Hudick sparked the Rams' comeback attempt, going 2-for-3 with one RBI and one run. Other contributors were Hamilton (1-for-3, one run), Green (1-for-4, two RBI), Rasmussen (1-for-3, two runs), Ebbert (1-for-4, one RBI), Johnston (one RBI) and Barfield (1-for-3, double).

Lake Brantley

The second game was a pitcher's duel between starter Brett Black and Morro for the Patriots and Lake Howell's Brian Gomes.

"Our defense made the plays when they had to and the pitchers made the pitches when they had to tonight," said Smith. "This was just a terrific game to sit back and watch. We had a running mistake on the bases, but that was the only mistake all night."

The pitching duel lasted for 7 1/2 scoreless innings before Eric Castaldo scored on a sacrifice pop fly from Jeff Butler in the bottom of the eighth inning to get the Patriots the win.

Black, who registered his second save of the season in the first game, threw a no-hitter through seven innings, striking out eight without walking a batter. When his arm tightened up, Smith brought in Morro, who was touched for both Lake Howell hits.

Lake Brantley will return to action in the Palatka tournament this week.

"This was a pivotal game for us, I believe," said Smith. "We've won seven out of our last eight games and now we're on our way to Palatka to play in a prestigious tournament. We're going in there 12-5 and should come out of it with a state ranking, and that would help us."

Track

Scott's effort at the Hayes Invitational current leads the nation and, if verified, would set a national record for sophomores.

Sparrow was optimistic about his performance, but not satisfied.

"I threw the shot well, but not the discus," said Sparrow. "It still needs a lot of work."

Brauman was pleased with Scott's efforts. "He's not going to jump what he's going to jump because of the intense training we've been through this week," said Brauman.

On the track, the Seminoles did well despite not having the speedy Deese. Britt Henderson, Jeff Ingram (stepping in for Deese), Anthony Neal and Corey Wilson combined for a second-place finish in the 4 x 200-meter relay with a time of 1:31.53. Seminole had the lead entering the last leg but couldn't hold off New Smyrna Beach.

The 4 x 100-meter relay, which also had to do without Deese, finished third with a time of 42.71. Scott, Wilson, Neal and Ingram ran that relay.

Ricardo Allen, Terrence Jones, Gary Rowe, Gary Rowe and Brian Rottinghaus put together a 8:23.98 effort to take fourth in the 4 x 800-meter relay.

Wilson also finished fourth in the 100-meter dash (11.17).

"We had a great performance," said Brauman. "It (the Florida Relays) is important in that they (the athletes) see who they're going up against. They can see what they're going to have to do to do well in the state meet."

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

Finally, after the long winter, there was some warmth in the sun's rays. The Senior Life Master recalled a deal that he had played many springs ago.

Like all young men (he began), I was happy when spring arrived. Baseball returned and, like the poet, my fancy lightly turned to thoughts of love. But I never turned down a good bridge game. When the club champion offered to partner me in our Spring Regional, I jumped at the chance, canceling a date in the process.

As we entered the last round of the Open Pairs, we were clearly in the hunt. On the final board, we pushed to a thin slant. Over the double, my two no-trump showed a limit raise in spades. Four clubs was a splinter bid, revealing a singleton or void in the suit. Thereafter we cue-bid a lot. West led the diamond queen. Immediately my partner saw that he could take two heart finesses for his contract. If one worked, he would be home. But the takeout double suggested that West would have both top hearts.

My partner displayed perfect technique. After winning trick one in the dummy, he cashed the club ace and ruffed a club in hand. The spade ace and a spade to dummy's 10 were followed by another club ruff. A diamond to dummy's ace, a third club ruff and a diamond ruff eliminated the minors. Now my partner led dummy's heart 10 and ran it, endplaying West. West could either return a heart into South's tenace or concede a ruff and discard. This result was just enough for me to win my first Regional title.

Animal rights upheld

By DEBORAH YINGLING
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — Darrell DeLany does not have to think very long about what his biggest area of concern is regarding animal rights. The answer from the concerned and committed Sanford man comes almost immediately.

"The area I am most concerned about is the area of animal agriculture...food animals. In terms of sheer numbers, we eat in this country close to six billion animals in a year, not including fish. Whereas 200 million animals are hunted, up to a 100 million animals might be in laboratories in this country, 15 million cats and dogs are euthanized due to not having a home. So in terms of numbers this is the big issue," DeLany says, ticking off the statistics.

As an active member and past president of the Voices for Animals of Central Florida, DeLany has given the matter much consideration. He believes the best way for people to become involved is to adopt a diet that would include more grains and vegetables. DeLany stresses that he does not expect everyone to give up meat entirely, though that was his personal choice.

"I'm not talking about being strict, just moving in the other direction," he says.

DeLany believes that Americans would reap various side benefits by changing their eating habits. He points to improved health and an improved environment as bonuses of a vegetarian diet. He says that it takes more grain and more water to raise animals for food.

"There is an environmental aspect involved," he claims.

DeLany sees the slaughter of animals for food as the root of inhumane treatment of animals. He believes that using any animal product is wrongful exploitation and he does not even wear leather shoes. He completely abstains from using dairy products.

He elaborates, "People say, well it's okay to experiment on animals because we eat animals, don't we? And what's wrong with skinning animals because we'll eat it, don't we? What's wrong with dissecting a frog? We eat animals. I think it produces a desensitization to life."

Cheese pizza and fish were the last two things he surrendered for his cause. He became convinced that using dairy products contributes to the horrible, cruel conditions under which veal calves are raised.

"There is complicity between the demand for milk and the veal calf. Because what else can you do with a male dairy cow? They can't be made into four-legged milk pumps."

1986 changed DeLany's life forever. He had read a book called "Fit for Life" by Harvey Diamond that greatly influenced his views. Although the book does not endorse vegetarianism, he felt that it was the logical conclusion to the author's teachings. Led by a desire to improve his health, he became a vegetarian.

His wife, Helen, first suggested the idea of giving up meat. A schoolteacher, she says she started to look at animals differently after preparing an experiment for a science class to compare a beef bone and a chicken bone. She stopped eating chicken after one of her students brought two chicks to class, which became pets. Also, her views changed after a neighboring farmer offered her a side of beef.

"I said, I couldn't eat your cows. I watch them graze. And then I thought, how can I eat any cow?"

Voices for Animals of Central Florida holds monthly meetings to keep its members informed of different issues on animal rights. The group sponsors educational and social events such as the annual Meatout Celebration, a vegetarian dinner. They demonstrate against actions that they believe are cruel and unjust to animals. DeLany estimates current membership of the group to be 100 people.

Several members of the group adhere strictly to the principles of the animal rights movement. It influences everything they purchase and much of what they do.

"It's a way of life. This is something you do every single day of your life. It affects what products you buy to wash your clothes, what cosmetics you buy, what shampoo you use, what car you buy," explains Connie Graham, the current president of the Central Florida

Intellectual heads Meatout Celebration

By DEBORAH YINGLING
Herald Correspondent

WINTER PARK — Dr. Tom Regan delivered an inspirational message at the Meatout Celebration event this year that was held on March 14 by the Voices for Animals of Central Florida. He is generally recognized as the intellectual leader of the animal rights movement.

Dr. Regan, professor of philosophy at North Carolina State University, has written or edited over fifteen books on philosophy, religion, environmental ethics, the rights of children, the retarded, the mentally ill, and animals.

His greatest hope for the movement lies in the next generation, he says. Regan quotes statistics that show two out of every three teenagers support the goals of the animal rights movement and one of those two endorse the policies very strongly. He said that the survey included teens from both sexes and all social, racial and economic groups.

"The impact when they become consumers will be great," he said.

SANFORD — Congratulations from his principal, teachers, peers, family and friends has kept young Sylvester Wynn Jr. smiling broadly these days.

They are all happy that Sylvester has received the honor of being named Seminole County's elementary representative for the state "Dreamer and Doer" award. It will be presented to him during the month of April at a special awards ceremony at Walt Disney World. Sylvester is the son of Sylvester and Sabina Wynn and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. James Milton and Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Wynn, Sanford.

Barbara Loel, fifth grade teacher at Idylwild Elementary School, recommended Sylvester for this prestigious award as a "Dreamer and Doer." His teacher says that Sylvester exhibits many fine qualities. As a doer, he readily takes charge of a situation and carefully plans how to carry out the activity. He was recently asked why he would want to be president.

He said, "I'm aware of the broad picture that America must play in the world, yet I knew how important it is to keep America as the focus, and so, as president, I would do what I could to make America great."

Loel chose Sylvester because he is aggressive, and yet sensitive to his peers, and shows a spirit of cooperation when working with them. He sees things not as they are but how they could be. He sees a future where life can be better.

The group of boys traveled to Mullet Lake where they cast their poles into the water for a great day of fishing, the winners catching a bass and some mullet. Also, a few cats received the honor. The winners received small trophies for their catches.

The boys attending the day's outing were Samuel Hughes, James Oliver, Willie Blackman, David Tedric, Abner Jackson, Bradley Williams, Robert Coleman, Dante Hayes, Rufus Wright, Major Wheeler, Robert Johnson, James Dickson and Andre Mitchell.

The girls were not left out of the Saturday special day. They journeyed to the state competition for Boys and Girls Clubs on March 14. St. Petersburg was the site of the competition. The following youth returned with honors: Eric Jamison who named the 50 states and won 2nd place; Angela Campbell, 1st place in the math contest; Lashandra Jackson, awarded the sport connect four award; Tocara Peters, drawing and connect four; and Robin Johnson, spelling contest.

The Midway Club is supervised by Sharon Patterson, Santelia Brooks and Robert Johnson. The mission of the Boys and Girls Club is to help young people from all backgrounds in the Central Florida area and especially those from disadvantaged circumstances. The club helps them to develop qualities and the self-esteem needed to become responsible citizens and leaders — "The Club of Opportunity."

Show appreciation

There's a Special Appreciation service today at 3 p.m. at the Allen Chapel AME Church. The church family invites the City of Sanford churches, community, friends and well-wishers to this fellowship service. Bring your gifts of love, joy and words of appreciation for Martha Woodard, community servant to all people.

The worship service will see the message of the occasion being delivered by the dynamic Rev. Doris Andrews of Mt. Dora, well-known evangelist and gospel singer.

Mrs. Woodard, the first lady of the Allen Chapel AME Church family and the AME Connection Missionary Department, will be honored for her Christian leadership, devotion and community service. The Rev. John H. Woodard is pastor.
