Torrential Rains Follow Chile Earthquake

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI)—Torrential rains hit earthquake-devastated Chile today, flooding stricken areas and crippling rescue operations in towns where 20-foot tidal waves wrought havoc in the wake of the tremors.

Official reports listed at least 205 persons dead and more than 100 missing but communications were broken and authorities feared the toll would rise. More than 1,000 persons were injured. At least 200 were in critical condition.

The Interior Ministry said the devastation stretched 500 miles from Concepcion to Ancub over an area of thousands of square miles containing 1,500,000 persons. Property damage was in the untold millions.

The rains inflicted new hardships on persons who have been sleeping in the open in fear of new quakes, and hampered United States, Argentine and Peruvian efforts to assist the Chilean armed forces in rescue and relief operations.

Surging tides caused by earthquakes and tidal waves in Chile today ripped loose moorings and scattered some 80 yachts in anchorages of Long Beach-Los Angeles harbor.

The Coast Guard said a strong current was going in with ease that brought harbor waters up several feet before falling back. The surging began at dawn.

Small finger piers of main anchorages were pulled loose with the surge of the craft that drifted back and forth in the channels. Coast Guard crews and boat owners were gathering up lines and securing the drifting boats. There are several thousand small boats and yachts anchored in the harbor.

No injuries were reported although some small pleasure craft foundered.

Mixing Issue Is Debated In State, County Contests

Name calling and the racial issue erupted at the first of two final political rallies in the county Friday night, but at the final rally Saturday, the candidates involved quieted down and spent their three minutes in a last ditch attempt to get votes before the second primary Tuesday.

At the first rally at Ferr Park, a small crowd heard District 3 County Commission candidates hurl charges at each other and continued bitter words after they left the speaking stand.

James Avery, first to speak, said that his opponent had "resorted to half truths and lies in an attempt to assassinate my character."

"He has brought the race issue into the election. I am for total segregation and do not have a Negro campaign manager. I would like to see my opponent make a public stand on this issue," Avery said.

District 3 incumbent commissioner Lawrence Swafford said, "It was not me who met in a Negro lodge and said I will lead your people to their rightful place in society. It was not me who is destroying relations with Negroes here by meeting with Negroes and making promises. It was not me who took Negroes that you will never get in our schools unless you get rid of Milwood and the pupil placement law."

After Swafford and Avery left the speaker's stand, Avery kept up a verbal barrage at Swafford shouting, "You are a liar Mr. Swafford. You are a liar."

However, at the final rally Saturday night at Memorial Stadium, Avery kept to his platform and segregation was not mentioned.

"I would not want to see a better road and maintenance program and had no strings attached to him."

"No Kingfish summons me to his office for instructions," Avery said.

Be Independent

The voters have been subjected lately to several dart throwing contests instead of political campaigns. Some aspirants seek to ease into office by being against most anything in the way of a program and through being against some political personality on the county scene.

This makes their efforts distasteful and hardly in the public interest.

The Herald has said before, and repeats, that it is not interested in political personalities but has been plugging for the progress of the county and the good of the many citizens who just want their business handled right no matter who handles it.

We are urging again that voters think independently and consider carefully what the candidates are offering in the way of a realistic program and, most of all, their qualifications, if any, for public service.

It's time for voters to realize that leadership cannot come from opportunists who have come to offer. It's time for the voters to stop voting against people who have provided leadership when it was needed and now become the targets of one and all who take the line of least resistance and stoop to vilifying them.

Every voter should search his mind for recollection of how much some of these personalities have done for the public good while the "agains" and all their ilk staidly by reaping the benefits.

Every voter has the responsibility of letting the public good, not any private or factional axe grinder influence the way he votes.

If this is the basis of the voting, Seminole County will continue the progress it has started in spite of those who had only criticism and nothing else to offer.

MIAMI (UPI)—Doyle E. Carlton Jr. said today the architect of Ferris Bryant's gubernatorial campaign is former governor Millard Caldwell, "a reactionary dedicated to fight against any form of progress for Florida."

Bryant charged Carlton with "hypocrisy" on the racial question.

As the two candidates swapped charges, Gov. LeRoy Collins announced he would go on television tonight to make a speech on behalf of Carlton. Bryant said he was "amused" at Collins' "clever violation of the spirit of the Constitution."

Carlton said Caldwell had been quoted as saying Florida must avoid extracting any more industry.

"This closes the ring of anti-labor and anti-industry supported in the opposition camp," Carlton said.

"Now we know where they got their reluctance to talk about specific plans for directing new industry of Florida."

Bryant, in Miami, said, "My opponent's comments follow a pattern of hypocrisy that has characterized his campaign. He was far in opposition and he wrote a letter to prove it, but he was accusing me. He was for closing and voted for it to close them, but he was accusing me. He helped establish the private school bill, but he was accusing me for following the course he outlined."

Bryant pointed out there is a Florida law allowing parents to move their children from integrated schools. He said one of the choices open to the parents would be to place his child in a private school. Bryant would not say whether he would take any subsidies to send children to private schools.

"I would be very careful about doing anything to affect adversely our public school system," he said.

The candidates met face-to-face on a televised debate in Miami Sunday night.

Bryant said that Carlton voted for a bill which would close schools if National Guard troops were used to force integration.

Carlton denied the measure mentioned the National Guard. He said it specified only intervention by federal troops.

Bryant read from what he said was a copy of the bill and said the words "National Guard" appeared in the text.

Both Carlton and Bryant spent today in Miami in a last minute appeal for the city's heavy vote. They were to debate again over WPST-TV from 10 to 11 p. m.

Bryant and Carlton affirmed their support of the Pupil Assignment Law during the debate. Both said they would keep schools segregated if possible.

Carlton suggested there is a need for local authorities to be armed with more power to handle their racial problems.

"I will seek to give it to them if I am governor," he said.

Bryant said "The Pupil Assignment Law is the best defense that we had. If integration fails, we will devise new way to achieve our aims."

Bryant said he thinks reappointment can be effected through the present Constitution. Carlton maintained the growing areas of the state can get no help in law legislature through this method. He advocated changing the Constitution to create a 44-member Senate and a 104-member House.

Ceylon Working To Stop U. S., Red Blowup In UN

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UPI)—Ceylon was reported working behind the scenes today to prevent a major Security Council blowup between the United States and the Soviet Union over U.S. spy plane flights.

Informed sources said Mr. Claude Corea of Ceylon, president of the Security Council for May, was considering a compromise resolution that would express disapproval of intelligence flights by planes of one nation over territory of another.

Such a resolution, if it avoided direct condemnation of the United States for the '13 spy planes downed in Russia, might stand a chance of gaining the necessary seven votes of the 11-member council without a veto by any of the five permanent members.

TO THE VOTERS OF SEMINOLE COUNTY:

Since it is impossible for me to see each of you in person, I am taking this means of expressing to you my gratitude for having been given the privilege of serving you on your Board of County Commissioners during these past four years. Having been elected to this position by you, the people, I have humbly endeavored to represent you. Through there have been times when my decisions or actions may not have been in accord with the views of some INDIVIDUALS, I can honestly report to you that I have made a sincere effort to do what was best for ALL the people of this county. I do not favor employing a County Manager. It is my belief that whatever duties would be performed by a County Manager should be performed by the County Commissioners in their respective districts thereby saving the county this additional expense. Now, based on my qualifications, my past record and experience in office, I am asking you to re-elect me your County Commissioner. My family and business circumstances are such as to allow me to spend all the time necessary to adequately conduct the business of the county. I pledge to you to continue to serve you to the very best of my ability and to keep first and foremost the interest of the county at heart. I appreciate the vote given me on May third and will be grateful for your support and vote on May Twenty-fourth.

Ketauwer Faces Election Challenge

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Sen. Estes Ketauwer geared his re-election campaign today to meet the challenge of a circuit judge who claims the liberal views of the former Democratic vice presidential candidate do not represent the thinking of most Tennesseans.

Conservative Judge Andrew T. (Tip) Taylor, who opposes Ketauwer in the Aug. 4 Democratic primary, is expected to make Ketauwer's record, especially his votes on civil rights and labor bills, a major campaign issue.

Ketauwer, in a re-election announcement Saturday, said he would campaign on a pledge to work for a "just and lasting peace with honor" and on his record in Congress.

Leftist Japanese Students Riot Outside Parliament

TOKYO (UPI)—Stone-throwing leftist students protesting the United States - Japan security treaty injured scores of policemen today in a brief but bloody battle outside the Japanese Diet (Parliament) building.

Police headquarters reported 88 policemen were injured, 14 of them seriously. Student leaders said "40 or 50" of their ranks were injured by club-swinging police, none seriously. Fifteen of the rioters were arrested.

It took 2,000 police to break up the student mob of 1,500. Then the students regrouped and did a snake dance to the Tokyo railroad station, stopping en route to throw some stones at the Foreign Ministry building.

At the station, Takeo Hayama, chairman of the Young Communist League, vowed he and his followers would burn down Premier Nobusuke Kishi's residence and the Foreign Ministry "when the time is ripe."

Hayama told United Press International afterward he was organizing thousands of students for violent demonstrations against President Eisenhower when he arrives on a state visit next month. The clash came after police repeatedly warned the students for several hours that their demonstration was illegal and they must break it up.

The students ignored the warning and pranced about in wild snake dances denouncing the treaty and demanding the resignation of Kishi who pushed it through Parliament last week.

Kishi also has been under pressure from most Japanese newspapers and many leading politicians, including some members of his own Liberal-Democratic Party, to step down.

Kennedy, Rivals Begin Scramble To Land Uncommitted Delegates

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The contest for the Democratic presidential nomination moved into a new arena today with Sen. John F. Kennedy and his rivals ready to scramble for delegates still uncommitted or still to be chosen.

The Oregon vote last Friday was the last of the major presidential primary contests this year before the Democratic national convention opens at Los Angeles seven weeks from today.

Twenty of the 36 states still must choose delegates, although the delegations from two of these—Indiana and Maryland—already are committed to Kennedy for at least one ballot by their presidential preference votes.

Kennedy's victory in Oregon was his seventh without a defeat, although he had major contests in only four states. He started the campaign as the man to beat and the primaries served to stretch his lead over such actual, or prospective rivals as Sen. Stuart Symington, Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson and Adlai E. Stevenson.

After two defeats apiece by Kennedy, Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey and Wayne L. Morse both bowed out as candidates for the presidential nomination.

The United Press International count of committed and known first ballot preferences now shows Kennedy with 303 1/2 convention votes, Johnson with 96 1/2 and Symington with 61 1/2. A candidate needs 761 votes to win the Democratic nomination.

These figures do not tell the whole story because sentiment has jelled in some states which have not yet chosen delegates. In state conventions next month, for example, Texas will provide 61 votes for Johnson and Connecticut 21 for Kennedy.

"We are quite reckless because we believe we are already sentenced to death by starvation and overwork. One way or another we are doomed to die, so we escape."

DOYLE CONNER

COMMISSIONER OF AGRICULTURE

THE JOB: No post in the State Cabinet has such impact upon public welfare as that of the Commissioner of Agriculture.

The duties of this office go far beyond the State's agricultural pursuits — into intimate corners of everybody's life; the car you drive, the lipstick you use, the food you eat, the welfare of your child in school, the taxes you pay, your health, the economic stability of your job.

EXPERIENCE: 10 YEARS OF LEGISLATIVE SERVICE: Five terms, Florida House of Representatives. House Speaker in 1957-1958. Chairman of Agriculture Committee (two sessions). Chairman of Committee on Rules, Member Health, Finance and Taxation, Safety, Citrus Committees, Constitutional Advisory Commission, Legislative Council.

An outstanding legislative record, wide agricultural experience, complete freedom from special-interest ties and devotion to the public welfare qualify Doyle Conner for Commissioner of Agriculture.

HE pledges to:

1. promote the general welfare of Florida, and as a Member of the State Cabinet to promote increased efficiency and economy in government;
2. promote the development of markets for Florida products through the establishment of a Marketing Institute;
3. plan for better usage of Florida lands;
4. promote conservation, drainage, and development of the State's water resources;
5. promote Florida's vast citrus industry, and assure uniform inspection;
6. protect farmers and the public, by rigid inspection and control of weights, measures, and analyses of consumer products;
7. assure honest and impartial enforcement of laws, regulating feeds, seed, fertilizers, insecticides, and fungicides;
8. advance the school system of Florida;
9. foster adequate care of the aged and of dependent children;
10. protect our bays, beaches, and waterfronts against indiscriminate filling;
11. assure job stability based on efficiency for Department of Agriculture employees;
12. work for adequate prisons and mental institutions;
13. implement reorganization of the Agriculture Department.

DOYLE CONNER is interested in the problems of our county, as well as the rest of the state. During this campaign he has visited Seminole County four times.

WASHINGTON CALLING

by Marquis Childs

PARIS—With the end of negotiation between East and West—the ruin of the summit conference means scarcely less than that the cold war warriors will try to take over both the Soviet Union and the United States. The extent to which they succeed will be the measure of the danger in which the world now stands.

Of that peril there cannot be the least doubt. In a fall from the summit, where the Western powers have until quite recently talked themselves into a strange and mutual complacency, it is hard to stop at a halfway point. The drop is precipitous, the disillusion complete.

The faction in Washington that has consistently opposed any understanding with Soviet Russia, however limited, is well identified. It consists, on the one hand, of the hard-core anti-Communists who are convinced that the Com-unist system is so immoral, wicked and menacing to Western civilization that a policy that sanctions its existence is not acceptable. Somewhat less emotional but no less implacable are the men in the Atomic Energy Commission and the Pentagon who are convinced that America's policy must be one of strength pushed to a point which in one way or another it will overwhelm the Soviet Union.

The danger inherent in these attitudes is evident enough. At its furthest limit are the Pentagon planners who prepare detailed papers to prove that the United States can absorb forty million casualties in a nuclear war and yet emerge the eventual victor. They will now be pushing for more ready alerts, greater defense appropriations and an end to all contacts with the enemy to the east.

In the Communist bloc the faction convinced of the inevitability of the cold war is harder to define but it may be equally important in the equation of uncertainty and fear that we now confront. It is on the opposition of these elements that the best explanation of Premier Khrushchev's violent and intractable behavior here in Paris may be found.

Little noticed outside the Communist bloc, a drumfire of attack on Khrushchev has grown louder in recent months. Coming in its purest form from Red China, the attack has centered in Khrushchev's "heresy" in the weird subterranean world of the Marxist-Leninist doctrine. Khrushchev was saying not only that peaceful coexistence between capitalism and communism was possible but that leaders in the West, notably President Eisenhower, genuinely wanted peace. The true faith in the view of the Chinese and others among the hard-line Communists is that no "imperialist" can want peace, and the war between capitalism and communism must go on to its end with the triumph of the latter.

When President Eisenhower at his press conference last week not only accepted responsibility for the U-2 plane incident but seemed to be saying that he approved the continuance of such flights, Khrushchev was put in an extremely embarrassing position. He had apparently been proved wrong, and his suspicious critics were proved right.

Whether, as satellite observers here insist and some Westerners agree, Khrushchev waited until Sunday night for a sign that Eisenhower would voluntarily disavow the flights is perhaps now irrelevant. What is important is that Khrushchev was compelled to react with a violence that would prove to his critics that he had discovered the error of his way.

After all, as the American ambassador to Moscow, Llewellyn Thompson, confirmed in reports to Washington, the Soviet premier was preparing for Eisenhower's visit to Russia in June such a welcome as rarely has been accorded to a citizen, to say nothing of a foreigner. This was being done for a "hero of peace" whose halo had been fastened on under Khrushchev's direction.

With the unmasking of this here Khrushchev was driven to react in violence. Fortunately for the West, he did this with characteristic wild overstatement and brutality, so that the blame for torpedoing the conference could in the propaganda battle be passed back to him.

But propaganda and violence to one side, there is a large element of genuine fear in the Soviet reaction to the U-2 episode. To ignore this, to assume that the cold, calculating Soviets have made every move at Paris out of cold calculation, is to indulge in a kind of ostrichism especially dangerous for this moment.

The satellite observers here have been saying, "How would you in America have reacted if a Russian plane had been shot down near Chicago or Detroit?" The same question has been in the minds of the French and the British. And members of the Soviet delegation have demanded, "How was Chairman Khrushchev and the Defense Ministry to know that the espionage plane when it was first detected did not carry a nuclear bomb?"

It is logical to expect that out of the fear and tension created, together with the insistence of the Soviet Defense Ministry on more stringent measures, will come a hair-trigger alert. The danger of accidental war, which in the past Khrushchev has seemed fanatically to fear, is immeasurably increased.

WASHINGTON

by Ed Koterba

WASHINGTON—Along a major street behind the Iron Curtain, the people see a symbol that needs Khrushchev's world-shaking denunciation of spying.

The street is in Prague, Czechoslovakia. On my visit there I learned that it was renamed "Rosenberg" by the Communists as a tribute to the "honor and values" of Ethel and Julius Rosenberg, two of history's most treacherous spies.

The thoroughfare was thus titled after the couple was executed for turning over our atomic secrets to the Soviets. And now, suddenly, spying in Nikita Khrushchev's book has become, he tells me, an act of war.

What the deeds of the Rosenbergs may eventually cost in human lives, no one will know. Consequently, the assigned mission of pilot Francis G. Powers was almost to save our nation countless thousands, perhaps millions, of lives.

Yes, in this turmoil of the past few years, Francis G. Powers has, in a way, become the forgotten man.

I lay awake through the dawn hours wondering about him—about his personal well-being, and about whether the Reds are using cunning tactics against him. Did they indeed, as so-called "truth men" claim?

I tried to picture myself in his shoes, but it was a vague image. To be in solitary confinement? Does he have any idea—a bare notion—of what his capture had wrought upon the world?

Surely he could not envision that today his name is known intimately to almost every man, woman and child in the United States. And virtually the globe over.

There must be others, like I, tossing and wondering about this fine-looking young man whose fate may be death by a firing squad behind the Iron Curtain.

In the morning I went to the phone and called Mrs. William Hileman, and asked her just what has been crossing her mind about young Francis.

"It's strange that you ask me that question," she said, "for just a few minutes ago at breakfast I was sitting there trying to picture what Francis was having for breakfast on this day."

Joyce Hileman is Francis Powers' younger sister. She's a striking brunette, and a mother. These have been days of mental torture for her, and for the other sisters—Jean, Joan, Janice and Jessie. Francis—or "Gary" as they sometimes call him—is their only son.

Mrs. Hileman, who works in a Washington insurance office, keeps at her side at all times a portable electric radio to grasp at any news about her brother.

"You heard about Dad, I guess," Mrs. Hileman said. "He wants to exchange himself to the Russians for Francis. He's already applied for a passport."

Joyce said that if the Reds release him, she'd try to offer herself in his brother's place.

Meanwhile, as for young Powers and the events leading up to his capture, the outside world knows virtually nothing. Will we ever get the full true story?

The mission—arranged by higher-ups—may now appear to have been a blunder. But, then again, when and if the real story is known there may be established a monument proud and tall in the name of Francis G. Powers.

WORRY CLINIC by Dr. G. W. Crane

CASE E-467: Harley H., aged 38, is an insurance executive.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "what do medical think about the use of sea kelp and other ocean products?"

"The reason I ask, I have received several glowing advertisements about the value of adding trace chemicals to our diet.

"He said he had for a period of dried seaweed tablets and takes them every day.

"Does modern medicine approve of adding trace chemicals to our diet?"

Cancer researchers usually conclude with this advice:

"Cancer is apparently due to some chemical deficiency."

And many other ailments that usually occur in middle age, are not attributed to germs, such as diabetes, gray hair, baldness, possibly multiple sclerosis, myasthenia gravis and several others.

They are called "deficiency ailments," meaning something is lacking, and that "something" may be a trace of one or more vital chemicals.

Getting used to be very prevalent in men as well as women until a trace of iodine was added to our table salt in 1924.

Now you people under 40 years of age probably can't remember ever seeing a bad case of goiter, can you?

Flourine is also banishing much of the dental decay that robbed us of our teeth.

Yet, we eat only ONE part flourine per million parts of water!

A few years ago the sheep of Australia were dying off. The owners couldn't locate the cause, until they fed the lambs iodine. If they did, the lambs died.

"Maybe the rams are defective," was the suggestion, so new, visible males were imported, but to no avail.

Then it was found that a tiny trace of cobalt was needed. Now the sheep, instead of becoming extinct, are thriving better than ever before.

So modern medicine realizes that trace chemicals may spell the difference between life and death. In our modern vitamin capsules, we often include a dozen chemicals, too, but the ocean water has far more.

Indeed, all water soluble chemicals on this earth are dissolved in sea water which contains traces of nearly 80 chemicals.

Kelp and shrimp and other sea products may thus offer us some extra chemicals that are now lacking in our usual farm soil.

But a little of the ocean water itself would give us the entire supply of soluble chemicals, and probably be far cheaper.

Instead of paying $5 per pound for seaweed, you could get ocean water for a few cents per gallon, and you take along the sea coasts can dip it up by the bucketful, free of charge.

Ponce de Leon traveled thousands of miles in search of the famous "Fountain of Youth," when he might have been within 10 feet of it all the time he was in that small sailing vessel!

God Almighty created the human body to take care of itself pretty well, if it has the raw materials. But surveys of our American rivers now show a deficiency of some 36 chemicals.

Since our farm soil lacks these 36, our vegetables and fruits from such soil are also deficient therein.

"Did you hear the one about the traveling salesman and the farmer's daughter? Well..."

Those were the jokes of our time, child. They were not Mort Sahl caliber, kids. But we whooped and boistered over the dumb farmer, his new L. Q. daughter and the amazed traveling salesman.

Having just made a trip among our sturdy plowmen, I will report that I do not think they are so dumb. How can you be dumb and be so rich?

We did not investigate the daughters. They are all back at Vassar.

Thus the old order changed. Farm prices are supported. The props are knocked out from under American humor.

The hazard to your traveling correspondent is not the farmer's daughter. It is his own fair maiden.

"What did you bring me?" she said.

"A heartfelt love and a bagful of kisses." I am a romantic sort.

It seems I should have brought something from Bergdorf Goodman.

One year you can bring them bubble gum. The next they have grown into teenage harpies. Nothing will do less than cashmere sweaters.

A 10-cent comic book still pacifies our small boy, thank goodness.

I can scarcely afford to go anywhere, it costs me so much to come home.

A good many expensive things have piled up since I left. A mere three weeks ago.

The bathtub is leaking down through the plaster.

It falleth as a gentle rain from heaven—upon the afternoon bridge players. The plumber cannot find this leak. The merry fellow suggests taking the house down and putting it back together again.

The gay tent with the Roy Rogers print has fallen among the poison oak.

Did our 4-year-old cowboy do it? He did not!

"It was Donna and Carrie. They pulled it down."

I gather that our boy stood by, pleading with them in a gentlemanly fashion to desist. He went around propping it up. He did his best.

He was overwhelmed by the two young ladies who share his good fortune and his bad. (His fortunes have been terrible lately—a female around a tent is like same around a house; always moving the furniture.)

Consequently, the tent came down. It is scattered around the hillside. The beams look somewhat as the Little Big Horn must have appeared that day in 1876 after Custer had leaped his military lesson:

"Never divided your forces in the face of a superior enemy."

"What did you bring me?" she said.

I do not divide my forces. I divide my belongings.

"I did not bring you a cashmere sweater, daughter. But you can borrow one of my white shirts to wear sloppy-like. With the tail hanging out over your Bermudaes."

For my son: "I have brought you a gorgeous comic book. It shows how to fight dragons." (It is a plunger comic book for a Russian movie: "The Sword and the Dragon." Sent to me by Mr. Benn Reyes, the show biz entrepreneur. It is for free. Thus we capitulate.)

Mr. Bilopp

It is considered important that a child be put early to bed to insure it the sleep on which its health and growth depend.

The child will not appreciate the value of sleep to its health and growth. It will be more concerned at the moment with something it is interested in doing. Besides, it associates going to sleep early with babyhood.

Perhaps the child has other brothers and sisters who are allowed to all up late. Or there may be children in the neighborhood whose parents do not take their responsibilities seriously, or who pooch-pooch the theory that children have to go to bed early in order to be healthy and grow.

Thus a child who goes to bed early will be envious of older brothers and sisters or will be humiliated before children of its own age who do not have to go to bed early.

Whatever the reason, the child will fight the bedtime that it goes to bed early. It will change the subject. It will appear not to hear. It will ask permission to stay up just a few minutes more for some special purpose.

Determined parents will not give in. Painful as the order may be to the child and as contrary to its wishes they will put the child's future good above all other considerations.

They may have to deal in bribery, make promises and even indulge in compromises. But their willpower will prevail over that of the child and they will get it to bed and to sleep and enjoy a sense of triumph.

But their triumph will seem hollow when the child, having had all the sleep it wants and needs for health and growth will wake at dawn and make enough noise to get the rest of the household up with it.

Check Your Child's Spine By This Test: (By DR. F. LEO KERWIN)

Pin a string above and in the center of an open doorway and attach a small weight to the other end. Remove all clothing from your child, stand him with his back to the string so that it falls along the center of the spine. Bench Paying Off For Pirates

United Press International A bench is made to sit on but Danny Murtaugh wants to stand up and cheer for the one that's winning ball games for him in Pittsburgh.

"We didn't have much of a bench last year and you saw what happened," Murtaugh says. "This year we have a fine one and you can see what's happening now."

The tobacco-chewing, lantern-jawed Pittsburgh plot expert sneezed that feeling Sunday when he looked down the dugout in the 11th inning, told pinch-hitter Sial Smith to grab a bat and saw him use it to deliver a two-out single with the bases loaded that acclimated San Francisco, 7-7.

Smith's blow off southpaw ace Mike McCormick gave the Pirates the "rubber game" of a three-game series and increased their National League lead to 1 1/2 games over the Giants.

Bob Skinner sent the game into extra innings with a two-run homer off Billy Loes in the ninth that tied the score at 7-all.

Milwaukee defeated Chicago, 3-1, Los Angeles downed Philadelphia, 9-6, and Cincinnati salvaged the nightcap of a doubleheader, 5-3, after St. Louis won the opener, 5-3.

In the American League, the Senators swept a doubleheader from the White Sox, 7-5 and 3-2, to shave Chicago's lead to a half game, the Orioles took over second place with rain-abbreviated 7-6 win over the Indians, the Tigers extended the Red Sox losing streak to nine games by winning both ends of a twin-bill, 6-3, and 6-2, and the Yankees beat the Athletics, 9-7.

The Braves won their game from the Cubs even though held to four hits by Glenn Hobbie. One of those four hits was a two-run homer by Joe Adcock that broke a 1-1 tie in the sixth. Jaun Fizaro bunted a seven-hitter for his third triumph.

Don Drysdale made his first relief appearance of the season for the Dodgers and halted a Phillies rally to preserve Ed Roebuck's second victory. Los Angeles blew a four-run first inning lead, but

Mary Esther's Holds Bowlerette League

Mary Esther's still holds the lead in the Jet Bowlerette League with a total of 23 1/2 wins to their favor.

Sweeney's follows with a close second with 22 and Nell's Hair Salon and Trim-ette Figure Salon vie for the third slot with a tie of 19 wins each.

House of Rahlja Portraits with 18, Ro-Jay's total 17, Ivey's Shoe Store 16, Yowell's, 16, Duke & Duchess Dress Shop with 15, and Howie's Fashions with their total of 14 follow the leaders.

Mary Esther's took the first two games from Nell's Hair Salon winning both by large margins. Fran Mackay turned in the high series for the dress shop and Marge Lyons aided the beauty shop with her high series and the 5-10 split she picked off.

Howie's Dress Shop just couldn't make the score to top the Trim-ette Figure Salon as Trim-ette took the four points in this weeks play. Mary Satre was the spark for the figure salon with her 491 series.

NFL May Set Attendance Mark Despite New Loop

United Press International The National Football League may set an attendance record again this year despite competition from the new American League, a United Press International survey showed today.

The NFL set its eighth consecutive attendance mark in 1938 and all of its established clubs reported sales of season tickets running ahead of last year's pace with the campaign more than four months away.

American League teams, in most cases, are just setting up their ticket drives but the Los Angeles Chargers, who will compete directly against the Rams of the NFL, reported the sale of 15,000 season tickets. This was the top mark reported by an AFL club. The Rams, who started their 1939 schedule with 38,500 season tickets sold, said current sales indicated they would open with about 40,000 sold this year.

Greyhounds Lose Grip On Second Place Losing 2 In Row; Face Lakeland Tonight

By JERRY COVINGTON

The Sanford Greyhounds lost their grip on second place over the weekend by losing two to St. Petersburg after defeating Palatka two in a row.

Tonight the locals face league leading Lakeland here in a battle to get back in the running for first place in the fast Florida State League.

Sanford lost Saturday, 3-1 and 5-4, Sunday night.

In the game Saturday night, pitcher Ron Bayovic went all the way for the Greyhounds only to see his efforts fall by the wayside. The little "Rooster," who suffered his second loss of the season against four victories deserved a better fate. He scattered eight hits and struck out five but the Saints took advantage of every break and pushed across three runs while the cold Sanford hitters could only muster one run.

First baseman Ken Harrelson was the only Sanford batter to touch the Saint's Larry Broughton for more than a single blow.

He singled in the second inning and doubled in the sixth driving across Bill Dube with the only tally for the locals. Pat Sisk, Bill Dube and pitcher Banovic were the only other Greyhounds to reach Broughton.

In the contest Sunday the locals maintained a two run lead until the sixth inning when starter Joe Patrikovic was touched for two singles to start the inning. Then, rightfielder Jack DePalo, a converted pitcher, hit a blast over the left field wall to give the Saints enough margin to take the victory.

The Greyhounds loaded the bases in their half of the sixth with no outs, but pinch hitter Mike Maloney popped to short to retire the side. Again in the seventh the locals threatened when Bill Dube led off with a walk and Bolivar Hinojosa singled. However, pitcher Fred Chambers shut the door and they were both left stranded. Hinojosa, who is leading the league in hitting, had three for four to maintain a good margin in this department.

Sunday Line Score
St. Petersburg 200 003 000 5 8 3
Sanford 103 000 000 4 7 0

Batteries: St. Petersburg, Chambers, Dolinsky; Sanford, Patrikovic, Bailey 7th, Golick 9th, Perez

Hefty Bats

The Sanford Greyhounds may be in a minor slump but it certainly doesn't show in the way they are doubling the ball.

Sanford is leading the other seven clubs in the league in batting with a strong .274 average. Lakeland, the league's leaders in the Florida State League, are in second place in batting with a .259 mark.

In individual batting, Bolivar Hinojosa of the Greyhounds is batting at a .374 clip rapping off 40 hits for 107 times at bat. Ken Harrelson, also with the Greyhounds is not far behind with a .312 batting average.

In pitching, Sanford's Bob Golick, has won the most games in the loop with a 5-1 record.

Rookie Burns Up 'Classic' Field

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., (UPI)—The Speedway's fastest field, led by three veteran drivers and a new sensation in rookie Jim Hurtubise, was set today for the 500-mile Memorial Day auto race.

Four days of hectic time trials, including last-minute dramatics, ended late Sunday when a 33-car starting field was completed despite sporadic downpours of rain which threatened to extend the preliminaries.

When it was all over, Hurtubise owned the one and four-lap qualifying records which were smashed three times in the trials and just missed breaking the long sought 150 mile and hour barrier by 16-100ths of a second.

The California comet, the first qualifier Sunday, wrecked all trial speed marks for the famous gasoline derby when he roared around the two and one half mile oval at a clip of 149.069 for the 10-mile distance. He hung up another new mark when he was clocked at 149.601 on his third trip around the course.

Rocky May Sit On Bench Awhile

DETROIT (UPI)—Rocky Colavito watched from the bench Sunday while the Tigers swept a doubleheader from the Boston Red Sox.

And, unless manager Jimmie Dykes tries to sneak a fourth outfielder into his starting lineup, he may just be an observer for quite some time.

The way the Tiger outfielders hit Sunday there doesn't seem to be any room for the 28-year-old Colavito, whose .161 batting average is Detroit's major disappointment of the spring.

Handlers Cocky That Bally Ache Can Cop Belmont

BALTIMORE, Md., (UPI)—Bally Ache, impressive winner of the $175,100 Preakness Stakes Saturday after being decisively beaten in the Kentucky Derby two weeks earlier, will surely win the Belmont Stakes, his handlers now are thoroughly convinced.

"There should be no doubt in anyone's mind that he can run over a distance," said Joseph Arnold who bought Bally Ache for $1,250,000 a week ago.

But before Bally Ache gets to Belmont Park and a shot at the testing mile and one-half classic, he will be sent to Garden State Park on Tuesday to run in the $100,000 added Jersey Derby there on Memorial Day.

That will make five weekends in a row on which Bally Ache has raced but "old ironides" seems to thrive on a rigorous campaign.

Bally Ache suffered no ill effects from his runaway triumph in the Preakness in which Kentucky Derby winner Venetian Way was up the track, fifth in the six-hour race.

Dreams of sweeping the Triple Crown with Venetian Way crumbled when the colt, powerhouse winner of the Kentucky Derby only 14 days previous, showed little in the Preakness.

Atlanta, Ga., has 29 colleges and institutions of higher learning. Total enrollment at Atlanta's white and Negro colleges and similar institutions is well over 20,000.

FOR COUNTY COMMISSIONER

Pd. Pol. Adv.

BE SURE TO VOTE ... TOMORROW

I AM NOT IN FAVOR of a county manager form of government. I do not believe the extra expense to the county would be justified. Under this form of government, one man would run the county, and that is what we want to avoid.

If elected, I will do all in my power to eliminate the long lines and long waiting periods at voting time.

My sincere thanks to the 3094 people who voted for me on May 3. I assure all citizens of the county that I am a completely independent candidate, and if elected will do my best to represent everyone in the county fairly, as well as efficiently. Thank You.
