SANFORD HIGH SCHOOL COMMENCEMENT

SENIOR CLASS, 1912

Class Day

The beautiful and interesting Class Day exercises at the High School took place on the lawn and north steps of the High School building Wednesday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock in the presence of a large number of delighted spectators, composed mainly of the families and friends of the graduating class and members of the High School.

At the appointed hour, to the accompaniment of music the class of 1912 marched out of the building with their class banner and colors of black and orange, and took their places to the right of the steps. They were followed by the Sophomores with class colors and banners of green and golden, who also took their places on the right. The Juniors came next with banners and colors of yellow and purple, also going to the right, and then the Seniors holding green and white flower wands, the class colors, to which were attached long white ribbons, all of which were secured to a longer wand held in the center of the group.

The class went through a beautiful drill to Mendelssohn's "Spring Song," with mocking bird accompaniment.

At the conclusion of the very pretty and artistic drill the Seniors marched back and took their positions on the steps, where Miss Jossie Stumon, the president of the class delivered a very charming address of welcome, concluding with the presentation to the school, from the graduating class, of a slab from the Northern Frieze of the Parthenon, a continuation of the slab presented to the school by the class of 1911, and which was accepted for the school by Mr. C. R. Walker, chairman of the school board in a few choice words. The class quartette sang "Happy Days Are Gliding" after the address and presentation. The class prophecy was given by Miss Lillian Higgins in a strikingly amusing and entertaining way. Unique and interesting futures await some of her classmates.

The "Farewell Words" to classmates, teachers and school board, while expressing pleasure in their four years of association as a class, appreciation and gratitude to their kind and faithful teachers, and thanks to the efficient school board for making their school course possible, the note of sadness could be felt all through Clarence Mahoney's last talk to his schoolmates as a class, in this severance of their pleasant relations as a class, and the ties of teachers and pupils the threshold which leads to broader knowledge with pleasure and pride. The graduates almost filled the stage after they had marched down the aisle preceded by Mr. L. R. Phelps of the school board, Mr. J. D. Langley who was to make the address, Prof. Perkins, Misses Walker and Spear, teachers of the eighth grade.

of the class sang the "Salute of the Flag." Miss Jossie Stumon next held the close attention of every one while paying a very fine tribute to "Old Glory," which was followed by a song by the girls of the class, "Hurrah for Our Banner." The recitation by Cecil Ristow of "The Man Without a Country" was splendidly done and much enjoyed. The class then sang "The Flag of the Free." The keynote sounding through all the exercises was patriotism. Rev. J. D. Langley made a short address to the class, filled with kindly and wise counsel, weaving the fabric of the foundation for the tender hearted and beautiful sentiment voiced in the several suggestions and advice by experience around three words: "Attainment, Discrimination and Reflection." At the conclusion Prof. Perkins presented the certificates in a few appropriate words of congratulation, commendation and suggestions for future effort, as from teacher to pupils and friend to youth. The class that will swell the ranks in the High School next year numbers thirty-seven, and is a body of bright intelligent, fine looking girls and boys.

Junior Reception

Another social event of much interest and pleasure to many Sanford citizens was the lovely reception at the Sanford High School Thursday evening, which the Junior class gave to the graduating Seniors.

A large and elegant assemblage of guests filled the handsome rooms of the school building, which were beautifully and very artistically decorated in trailing vines of star jessamine, branches of trailing bamboo, tall stems of ribbon grass, a variety of handsome ferns and potted plants. On the wall at the back of the rostrum in the auditorium was the handsome class banner of green, with S. H. S. 12 in large white letters. The beautiful color motif green and white are the class colors.

The gracious hosts and hostesses of the Junior class received their guests at the so soon to end. The lovely exercises were concluded by the appropriate song "Forget-Me-Not," sung by the glee club.

Grammar School

The graduating exercises of the Grammar School held in the auditorium of the High School Wednesday morning was an event which filled the hearts of the parents and friends of the large class of girls and boys, who are preparing to cross

The exercises were opened by the song "Our Starry Banner," sung by the class, accompanied by Miss Margaret Davis. The song was followed by a very fine paper on "Our Early Flags" by Harvey Nash. "Our Glorious Union Forever," a piano solo, was played by Miss Irene Thurston. Margaret Coffee entertained the large audience by a splendid recitation of "The American Flag." Accompanied by Miss Margaret Davis the boys

A Child is Among Ye Taking Notes and Faith, He'll Prent 'Em"—So Says Supterter.

¶ Once again the boys and girls are leaving the happy school days behind them and entering upon the more serious term of real life. It makes me feel more or less sad to see the children growing up around me from little tots to larger lads and lasses and from that to young ladies and gentlemen and breaking from the gentle influence of teachers and instructors to mingle with the more harsh and more exacting world. It reminds me oft the watching of young birds from the time they hatch in the nest to the fledgling days and the gradual change to the time when they must leave the nest and try their wings for their own living. What a responsibility rests upon the instructors in shaping the lives of these children so that they shall either become of some importance in the making of history or be nameless in the great maelstrom. We were the flotsam and jetsam floats or sinks and leaves but a ripple in the surface to mark the passage. And in noting the instructors the thought strikes me that in some instances the tired and many times overworked teachers do not have the patience with the boys that they should have and in a moment of exasperation may say or do something that will wreck the whole future of the child and not only make him discouraged with his school work but unfit him forever in the battle of life, for the boy cannot be taught by nagging or driving. There are many instances of the boys leaving school at a tender age because the teacher did not have the patience that is required to study the real character that lies behind a rough exterior of so many young Americans. This finesse of a teacher's art is possessed by very few teachers and the majority prefer to cast the boy out and have his parents finish his education or let him go to work at an age when the mother love that should dwell in the bosom of every true woman could have helped him onward and upward to a better and brighter future. The boys are the bulwark of the nation and to the boys should the teacher of today give the closest attention, catering to his whims at times and yet ruling him with firmness.

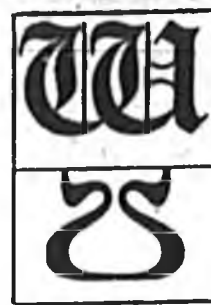

¶ A lady called my attention to an act of courtesy performed by one of the Boy Scouts the other day. She said that a lady from Geneva was in the city and coming down the street with her arms full of bundles was accosted by a Scout and an offer to help her with the bundles was made. The lady appreciated the kind offer so much that she inquired his name and thanked him most heartily, but the lad did not think he had done more than his duty to the organization whose uniform he wore. The lady called attention to the incident and requested her Sanford friends to announce in the paper that in her estimation one might travel far and not find boys more polite or find a nicer body of young lads than the Sanford Boy Scouts. I will not mention the boy's name, but will watch his career in after life, for he will make his mark.

¶ Two long haired tramps preached sermons on the streets last Friday and Saturday and consigned true religion and everything else to the waste basket. They had charts and plenty of talk to back their claims as being the proper hack drivers on the road to Heaven and everything else in the way of religious belief was put in the discard. They managed to draw a crowd of people by singing and exhorting and like everything that comes to Sanford they were given a respectful hearing. While not averse to the rights of every man thinking for himself I am absolutely opposed to these people shouting their insane doctrines on the streets and it would be a good idea to stop them and force them to either hire a hall somewhere or move on to the next place with their belongings. I grant to every man the right of free speech and religion, but not to these people who are trying to eke out an existence by a distorted and highly colored harangue on the street with the primary object of selling leaflets and taking up a collection. They are a public nuisance on the streets and should be placed in that class.

¶ One of my main talking points has been abolished or will be at once. I refer to the old pine shute, the old coal shute, the moss covered shute that raised so much, well, dust and other things too numerous to mention. They say that it is being demolished and that all the trains will soon be operated on the main stem, and Sanford will not even be bothered by so much as a switch engine. The A. C. L. will put on a flying machine to bring the freight to the city and all the mufflers will put on the soft pedal and hereafter the stillness of "nothing doing" will brood over the places where once the coal shute reared its defiant head and the engines throbbed and pulsed with ghoulisn glee and the switch engine coughed defiance at the puny laws of the city dads.

*"No more will the iron track sever
Or the engines smoke a stogie.
They destroyed tradition forever
When they killed the coal shute bogie."*
And since the A. C. L. has complied with all the requirements and ordinances and rules and regulations and blue laws and read laws and takes all the old iron and rags and hanks of hair and other appurtenances and goes to the suburbs, I, for one, wish to rise up and remark that railroads are willing to do the right thing by the community, if you urge them sufficiently, and that when the railroad does move we will all be rather lonesome for awhile and as before stated, what will we kick about then? The railroad has taken away their "houn" and we can't kick him "aroun."

¶ According to the last census there were over fifteen million boys and girls attending the public schools of our land and not ten per cent of that number have ever graduated from our seminaries and colleges in any one year. Then how necessary it is that the common school system of our country should be made better. How necessary is it that every person connected with the maintenance or support of our public schools should be a man or woman thoroughly equipped for the service, and should give to it their best thought. The world today is seeking men and women who are honest and upright. It will not make them honest to be educated. It will not make them upright to be intellectual. The training they receive must come from persons themselves who know what honesty and uprightness mean, and who will, by precept, as well as by example, instill this idea thoroughly into the minds and hearts of their pupils.

¶ I was well pleased at the large attendance upon all the events last week at the High School commencement exercises. The people realize and feel they have an interest in their public schools, and this was but a fair manifestation of it. As they beheld this culmination of well applied and judiciously directed efforts they must certainly concede that the liberal support they have given has not been lavished in vain or trusted to hands that have misapplied it; and, while it does take means to maintain our school system if it is progressive, it is means well applied, and repays in benefits fourfold any community and our country in general.

In this class there is not a dim star in the constellation. The entire class acquitted themselves with honor. The productions were creditable, savored much of originality, and many sparkled with the richest gems of thought.

WHICH SHALL IT BE?

The truck-growers of the Sanford District have the same situation and problems confronting them that have confronted the growers of every specially favored garden and fruit-growing section in the United States. There has always come a time in the history of such districts when the production of the especially profitable crop has tempted both newcomers and old residents to specialize too closely.

The result has been always the same: too much of that product in various grades and qualities (according to the skill and experience of the grower and the quality of the land employed) for satisfactory distribution and sale through any method of distribution and sale at that time available. Further result: demoralization of the business, disappointment, and financial loss to most of those engaged in it, and a general set-back to the community for a time until matters were adjusted, production and distribution regulated, and affairs put upon a business basis.

The more perfect the soil and climatic conditions of that district, the more certain and rapid its progress toward the conditions above named. California citrus fruit and celery, Texas onions and cabbage, Georgia peaches, Michigan grapes, Virginia potatoes, and products of other sections of the country have passed through this experience. The grower of perishable fruits and vegetables is particularly liable to the disappointments resulting from such conditions for he cannot do as the Kansas wheat-growers did: build elevators and store products for an indefinite time; until consumers need and call for them. His products must move to market on the day that they mature, and, no matter what the condition of the market may be, they must sell worth at they will bring.

This forced sale of perishable products has naturally created many pernicious and dishonest methods of handling them in the markets and never, until the regulation of the business at both the producing and the selling ends has been accomplished, have these communities found their level and proceeded with their business in a profitable and satisfactory manner.

It is true that the farmer has been the last of the great business forces of the country to organize for the protection of his own interest, but during the last few years he has awakened to the call of necessity and has made marvelous progress, as is evidenced by the co-operative associations formed, and of which we read in nearly every magazine and newspaper in the land. His progress in this direction has been slow—delayed at every turn as much as opposing factions could delay him. He has been laughed at, condemned, slighted, confused and led astray from his best intentions and convictions by the wiles of those who are opposed to his organizing for very good reasons of their own; and by some small failures of his plans to bear immediate fruit, and he has always to hear the cry, "Why the farmers can't organize; they can't stick together."

Nevertheless, they are organizing, and they are "sticking together" and the sooner all farmers realize that they can do these things, the sooner they will come into their own. This is not theory; this is now history, and the sooner the growers of the Sanford District realize it and "get together," the sooner we will overcome our difficulties and know prosperity.

This getting together means more than just forming an organization to "kick," in a weak-kneed manner, at the conditions that confront us in the sale of our products and the prices we pay for our necessities in running our business. It means getting together and staying together and putting our shoulders to the wheel and making it turn our way.

We know that the old method will not do. It has not done. It has proven a failure. Now, are we going to continue in the old way, or are we going to do as other farmers have done—get our heads together, buy our supplies at lower prices by buying together, take a reasonable consideration of the markets' demands, and not plant too much of any one thing, grow more of the staple crops like potatoes and onions to safeguard us against losses from bad weather and bad market conditions which affect our extremely perishable products, and "last, but not least," look to the proper distribution and sale of our products?

We can do these things despite all opinions and statements to the contrary, for other farmers have done it. The question is, will we do these things now, before we have still worse conditions to face, or shall we wait until those worse conditions force us to do them?

The Florida Vegetable Growers' Association has done good work this season. The farmers of the district have gotten their supplies at lower prices than ever before, and good prices for their products have been maintained as long as it has been possible under the conditions surrounding us. The Association will continue to do good work if it gets the united support of the growers, but let it be thoroughly understood that this support is from now on an absolute necessity.

The Association cannot and will not fight the grower's battles for him unless it receives the full support of the grower. Too many growers have received the benefits of the organization without giving it support, too many have made sales by shading the prices of the Association, and too many have let the Association try to hoe the whole field while they simply tried to hoe their own row when and how they wished, to the detriment of the community at large. This will no longer "work." No individual grower is shrewd enough or capable enough to successfully handle alone, the situation that confronts us. It is going to take united action, and united action will always obliterate the individual.

If the Florida Vegetable Growers' Association is to continue its work it must have more support both in revenue and in loyalty from the grower. Otherwise we will stop operations until such time has elapsed as will be required to convince the grower that the Association has to be.

We believe in the old saying that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and we would choose to be the "ounce of prevention now," rather than wait for the situation to grow worse, and then become the "pound of cure." But it is up to the growers.

Which shall it be?
The Florida Vegetable Growers Ass'n.

THE SANFORD SCHOOLS

The Sanford schools have attained a rank in the annals of educational events in the state that entitle them to first place in communities of the size of Sanford and the commencement exercises last week were on a par with the college commencements. The many people attracted to Sanford by the excellent school system is noted by the Herald each year and with the growth of the school system the growth of Sanford keeps pace. The Sanford system of having the primary, grammar and High School separate institutions and separate buildings has been commended by the highest authorities as one of the best features that could be engrafted upon the educational system, and with the new $20,000 High School building, second to none in the state, Sanford can well invite the stranger to bring the children to the city where they offer the most superior advantages.

Lack Appreciation.

The Herald has called the attention of the ministers of Sanford to the church column and asked them to give the notice for services every Thursday but few of them take the time to write the items and send them in and it is very evident that the Tampa ministers are in the same rut as the following from the Tampa Tribune would indicate.

"Although the Tribune cheerfully gives free space to the ministers of the city for the announcements of their Sunday services, the reverend gentlemen either lack the information or the industry to avail themselves of the privilege. The number of church notices sent in for the Sunday Tribune has been gradually diminishing until, for yesterday's paper, only one appeared. Suppose the Tribune should offer similar space free of charge to the grocers, or the druggists, or the clothiers, or the dry goods men, or even the saloonists of the city, how many do you imagine would fail to take the trouble to write and send in their announcements? The pastors evidently do not appreciate the unusual concession which is offered them.

Champion Liar.

Gainesville, the home of Congressman Clark, will have no more of him, and by a most decisive majority turned him down completely. Gainesville, Clark received 163; Burr, 88, and Hilburn, 409. The Gainesville people consolidated their vote on Hilburn as they had been led to believe that he was the man to beat Clark with, and they were more interested in beating Clark than in choosing his successor. His home city knows him, and it will be well for the district to follow its example if the corporation crowd succeed in getting him in the second primary.—Ft. Pierce Tribune.

We find the above copied in the Palatka News, Col. Hilburn's home paper. Editor Russell knew it was false when he copied it, for he had seen the returns from Gainesville, Burr 66, Clark 433, Hilburn 99—a total of 598 votes for the three candidates and a majority for Clark over both his opponents of 268 votes. Now compare this vote with the vote given Col. Hilburn in his home city, Palatka. Also compare the vote given Frank Clark in Alachua county with that cast for Hilburn in Putnam county, and see who is the stronger man with the people of their respective home counties. The Sun has the highest regard for Col. Hilburn. Personally he is our friend, but the editors who resort to such wilful, premeditated falsification of elections should drop their heads in shame. They have attempted to belittle one of the best men that ever held office in Florida, falsifying the election returns in order to do so. Yes Frank Clark's home city know him, and it would be well for the district to follow its example and give him the same vote in proportion on May 28th that the people of Gainesville gave him on April 30th.

Our people should rebuke such dirty lies as the above by giving Frank Clark a solid vote on May 28—Gainesville Sun.

Mister Burglar Again

The light fingered gentry seem to have a hankering after the block on Oak avenue between Fourth and Fifth streets, and about the time the season for second story work opens the start is usual in this block. Just whether the folks over there are heavy sleepers or easy or that they have the most money is not known, but Jimmy Valentine seems to hold his spring opening there every year. So according to tradition, the Mr. Burglar effected an entrance into the residence of Mr. W. W. Long last Saturday night and carried all the male attire he could find into the hallway where he went through the pockets at leisure. Somehow the burglar seemed to realize that J. T. Hill, who rooms at the residence of Mr. Long and has charge of the Monotype at the Herald office had all the money in Sanford and proceeded to take all the change in his clothes. The other inhabitants were not opulent Monotype operators and consequently did not have any loose change to lose. No other house in the neighborhood was visited and he is probably laying for Hill's money next Saturday night.

Last night the self same burglar gained an entrance into the residence of J. A. Borum and pursuing the same tactics carried the clothes into the hall and rifled the pockets, securing about $50 in cash and two gold watches and several other gold ornaments.

The work is probably being done by an organized bunch with plenty of help to spot the houses and watchers to give the signal. The police force and all the citizens should be on the lookout for these bold, bad burglars and give them a warm reception when they are caught at the trick.

Rev. Richeson Died Today

Boston, May 21.—Clarence V. T. Richeson was electrocuted at 12:17 this morning.

The current was turned on at 12:10:02 and the prisoner was declared dead at 12:17.

The former Baptist clergyman who confessed poisoning Avia Linnell of Hyannis, his former sweetheart, was outwardly calm when he entered the death chamber, and he maintained his composure while the straps and electrodes were being adjusted as he sat in the electric chair.

Richeson walked to the chair erect, eyes straight ahead, until he sat down. Then he closed his eyes and kept them shut until the end.

Seated in the chair, he was asked a series of questions by the Rev. Herbert S. Johnson, his spiritual advisor.

During his answers he said: "God will take care of my soul and I pray for all. I forgive everybody." The last of these questions was:

"Are you willing to die for Jesus' sake?"

The reply in an even, well modulated tone was simply, "I am willing to die."

The current applied was of 1,900 volts, 8 amperes. One application was sufficient.

Getting in Line For Charities

The organization committee appointed last week Sunday afternoon to plan for organized charities for the city of Sanford had its first meeting last night. A number of constitutions and charity plans had been gathered from neighboring cities and the committee is basing its work on these. The final meeting takes place next Friday night, when it is expected back to the representative body.

The next meeting of the various representatives of churches, fraternal and charity organizations of the city will be held at the Masonic Hall at four o'clock next Sunday afternoon. It is expected at that time to act upon this report of the Organization Committee and perhaps to complete the preliminary work for charity organization.

WORD ABOUT THE ORPHANAGE

As Chairman of the board of trustees I feel that the friends and supporters of the Orphanage at Enterprise will appreciate a brief statement in regard to the present condition of the institution. Having been in Sanford and Enterprise for the past three days I have tried to make an honest use of my eyes, ears and power of analysis.

First, my fears about the physical poison and other threatening conditions among the children have been removed. It is exceedingly unfortunate that some people are not careful to measure their terms when they volunteer to be reporters. If one, two, or three children show a need of blood remedy why report that there is general prevalence of malignant disease in the institution? On Tuesday I was "lectured," free of charge, on the criminality of the Board and the Superintendent in regard to the filthy, diseased condition of the children. If the lecturer knew my opinion of the lecture there would be no danger of a repetition of the performance. There is one little boy who, with his rosy-cheeked sister, was the "first fruits" of the institution. He was a typhoid victim when he was taken from his home, and it left him with a peculiar trouble in one side of the head—about the inner ear. Two physicians are ready to satisfy the credulous that there is no danger to others from the little fellow. Another orphan, supported by the father, was received upon the certificate of a physician, but is disappointing. She will be examined in a few days, and the report will decide the question of retention or dismissal. Outside of this little boy and girl I would be glad to enter the orphanage family in a contest for average health and strength. Among children who do not live in luxury they look just like others. Yet the "news" goes out that the whole house is infected, and the chairman receives a free lecture about it.

Secondly, the discipline of the institution is much better than the "reporter" represented it. Obedience on the part of children is very largely a "back number" in this age, and if we see obedience among orphans we almost sympathize with them. But there is beautiful obedience among the orphans. Back of it is authority that is positive, and yet it is threaded with tenderness. The "reporter" led me to look for frightened children running away to some corner, or cringing in the presence of the Superintendent. But I saw the utmost freedom of approach, and there was no look of apprehension or restraint. I was told that the boys have been seen on the wharf and on top of the orphanage building. I am sorry to hear this. A family of two or three boys and girls will find similar trouble and yet there is no manifest surprise in the community—the "reporter" has little or nothing to say about it. But it seems that thirty-three orphan children are supposed to have come from heaven, and that if so small a family as that can't be restrained from occasional escapades and hilarious mischief, the authority are looked upon as incompetent, and should either go before the lecture bureau or go out of business. In other words the Orphanage discipline should be perfect, and any occasional departure from this standard fixes judgment upon the whole thing.

Thirdly, I think we have too many Superintendents—too many who try to "run" the institution. If every one could see alike this would be splendid! But everyone hath his psalm, his hymn, and his doctrine. It would be a relief to the Board if all, save one, of the Superintendents would resign! One at a time is better.

Fourthly, the question is asked: "Why don't you do," so and so? I answer that the Board has been and is doing the best it could with the money it gets. My lecturer talked like we were able to get all the comforts and conveniences that might be needed at any time, and actually tried to beat this duty into my stupid brain! But the Board understands its own finances, and if the critic will not require us to leap up to perfection in a day we may yet approximate the ideal of every man and woman who have joined the Superintendency and "Board of Management!"

Finally, my criticisms apply only to those to whom they do apply. The kind friends and supporters of the Orphanage will please accept assurances of gratitude for their sympathy and loyalty. The duties of the Board are delicate; and while we ask not for pity, we do appreciate sympathy. We are familiar with the needs of the Orphanage, and can adjust ourselves to those needs only according to resources.

LETTER ENDORSING CLARK

Prominent Citizen of Arcadia Compares Sparkman and Clark
Arcadia, Fla., May 17, 1912.

Dear Mr. Editor:
Although not now a resident of your Congressional District permit me to say a word about the coming primary election based on the fact that for many years I was a voter with you, and on the further fact that I have been in a position to know personally the real value to the genuine interests of Florida in having such men in Congress as Frank Clark and Stephen Sparkman, instead of new and inexperienced members. Down here in our District Colonel Sparkman was returned by a most flattering majority. I want to see Frank Clark receive the same treatment. The secret of the great power exercised at Washington for so many years by certain northern states was not due so much to the intellectual ability of the men sent there as to the policy of keeping them there for many years after they were sent. Both Clark and Sparkman are strong at Washington. This I know because I have visited that city various times and have had an opportunity to learn their standing among the leaders of Congress. Without saying the least word in disparagement of Mr. Hillburn or Mr. Phillips, I urge voters to bear in mind that it would be many tears before either of them, if seated in Congress, would acquire any influence of material value to our state.

In conclusion, I know that there are no clames of land developers in Florida today—the straight and the crooked. Frank Clark is the friend and supporter of the straight men, and the uncompromising enemy of the crooked crowd. Florida will benefit much if we can eliminate the crooks. She will suffer much if they prevail.

I most urgently hope that Orange and adjacent counties will send Frank Clark back to Washington where he belongs.

Respectfully yours,
ARTHUR F. ODLIN.

Have you tried the Sistine House? 4th and Palmetto. If not get a meal ticket.

TOOMER FOR CONGRESS

(From Tallahassee True Democrat)

Hurling defiance at Demagogues, Peanut Politicians and Muck Rakers, Col. W. M. Toomer, of Jacksonville, the people's Candidate for Congressman-At-Large, delivered a ringing address before a representative audience in the Court House Wednesday night.

Colonel Toomer was in fighting trim and fired broadside after broadside, into the ranks of those who are doing their best to tear down and destroy. He stated that he believed in the future of Florida; in the fair-minded citizenship of the State; that he trusted the men behind the ballot to go to the polls next Tuesday and do their duty. He declared that he wanted the people to consider the issues before them and to make no mistake in their choice of Congressman-At-Large.

"The work which the coming Congress will have to do," said the speaker "will tax the ability of real men. With big problems to solve the nation needs statesmen, and citizens who will think and vote in the interest of all the people. The Sixty-third Congress will be no place for demagogues."

"I am a firm believer in the regulation of the so-called trusts. I stand for the rigid enforcement of the anti-trust laws, when it is shown that they have been violated, but I do not believe in the insane assaults upon business. Demagogues and men like Claude L'Engle are striving to stir up trouble, to ruin business, to array the people into classes and to gain control of the government for their own selfish ends. It has been charged that I am not a progressive. I am not a progressive in the sense that the term is used with reference to Claude. I stand for a Democracy for a government of the people. I want to go to Congress to do what I can to make this state greater; to increase the measure of her people's prosperity; to help enact laws which will really benefit all the people; to meet and fight every corrupting influence; to try and bring the government closer to the people and to do my part towards securing the passage of legislation which will build up. If I go to Congress, and I think I shall, I will fight graft and grafters; fakes and fakers, freaks and freak legislation.

"My friends, the tariff is the one big issue of the day and it is more than right that you should know my position on this question. I stand for a DOWNWARD revision of schedules and for the carrying out of the platform promises made the people by the Democratic Party. The Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives, where our party is in overwhelming majority, is dealing with the tariff to-day. I hope that the question will be settled soon and for all time. It has been charged that I am a friend of the 'interests' and act as attorney for so-called trusts. Both these accusations are false. I have been counsel for the people in prosecutions where alleged trusts faced the court and I fought them to a finish. There is one matter to which I wish to call your attention and that is my plank relating to immigration and health laws. If you send me to Congress, I shall fight to secure the creation of another executive department; one which will have charge of immigration and health. With the opening of the Panama Canal, thousands of foreigners will come this way and our people will be exposed to cholera and other diseases, unless these people are properly handled. This is only one of the big issues which will come before Congress. If I go to Washington, I shall do what I can to have this new department in operation within a short time."

The above gives some of my platform principles. I favor all that Democracy favors and oppose what Democracy opposes.

If you have not received a copy of my platform in full, send for it at once. I want you to know what I stand for and what I will vote for in Congress.

W. M. TOOMER.
Winning Candidate for Congress State-at-Large.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—Richard Lightnut, an American with an affected English accent, receives a present from a friend in China.

CHAPTER II—The present proves to be a pair of pajamas. A letter hints of surprises to the wearer.

CHAPTER III—Lightnut dons the pajamas and late at night gets up for a smoke. His servant, Jenkins, comes in and, failing to recognize Lightnut, attempts to put him out. Thinking the servant is crazy, Lightnut changes his clothes intending to summon help. When he reappears Jenkins falls on his neck with joy, confirming Lightnut's belief that he is crazy.

CHAPTER IV—Jenkins tells Lightnut of the encounter he had with a hideous Chinaman dressed in pajamas.

CHAPTER V—In a message from his friend Jack Billings, Lightnut is asked to put up "the kid" for the night on his way home from college. Later Lightnut finds a beautiful girl in black pajamas in his room.

CHAPTER VI—Lightnut is shocked by the girl's "smoking" and slangy talk.

CHAPTER VII—She tells him her name is Frances and puzzles him with a story of her love for her sister's room-mate, named Frances. Next morning the girl is missing and Lightnut hurries to the boat to see her off. He is accosted by a husky college boy, who calls him "Dicky," but he does not see the girl.

CHAPTER VIII—Jack Billings calls to spend the night with Lightnut. They discover priceless rubies hidden in the buttons of the pajamas.

CHAPTER IX—Billings dons the pajamas and retires.

CHAPTER X—Lightnut later discovers in his apartment a beefy person in mutton-chop whiskers and wearing pajamas Jenkins calls the police, who declare the intruder to be a criminal, called "Foxy Grandpa."

CHAPTER XI—The intruder declares he is Lightnut's guest and appeals to the latter in vain.

CHAPTER XII—He is hustled off to jail.

CHAPTER XIII—In the morning Lightnut is astonished to find Billings gone, and more astonished when he gets a message from the latter, demanding his clothes. Lightnut, bound for Terrytown, Billings' home, discovers "Frances," the girl of the pajamas, on the train.

CHAPTER XIV—Lightnut speaks to her and alludes to the night before. She declares indignantly that Lightnut never saw her in black pajamas. At Terrytown Frances is met by a husky college youth, who calls Lightnut as "Dicky." The latter ignores the boy, who then threatens to thrash him for offending Frances. Lightnut takes the next train home.

CHAPTER XV—Billings storms over the outrage of his arrest. He and Lightnut discover mysterious Chinese characters on the pajamas.

CHAPTER XVI—Professor Doosenberry is called in to interpret the hieroglyphics.

CHAPTER XVII—He raves over what he calls the lost silk of Bi-Ling-Chi.

CHAPTER XVIII—The writing declares that a person wearing the pajamas will take on the semblance of the previous wearer. The professor borrows the pajamas for experiment.

CHAPTER XIX—"Billings" dressed in pajamas is found in the professor's room and is taken home in an automobile with Frances and a woman Lightnut calls "the frump."

CHAPTER XX—Lightnut is angered by "the frump's" slanderous talk about "Frances."

CHAPTER XXI—"Billings" is taken to his room. A servant tells Lightnut that a message has just been received stating that Billings was under arrest in New York for stealing a suit of black pajamas.

CHAPTER XXII—Judge Billings astonishes Lightnut with a tale of Frances' escapades. Lightnut asks permission to speak to "Frances."

"The devil is this fellow?" And I advanced angrily—dashed annoyed, you know.

Billings interposed. "My brother," he said quietly.

"Yes, his brother," almost shouted the other. Then he lowered his voice at Billings' command: "And I say, you didn't tell Jack you were on the train yesterday, posing as a 'Mr. Smith,' and that you insulted Frances?" He shook off his brother's hand angrily. "Oh, yes he did—sister told me about it! I know it was you when I got to thinking about it this morning!" He panted for breath. "I can't call you a liar, Lightnut, when you say I wasn't at your rooms, because you're a quicker bitter than I am, and—" He looked around and shrugged. "And because we are in this house. But you're an infernal hypocrite, and I want Jack to know it." He laughed mockingly and faced his brother. "Ask your friend, Mr. Lightnut, about that girl in black pajamas in his room!"

And he sung himself from the room with a Partisan shout: "Ask him to tell you about her as he did me. Ask him who it was!"

Billings seemed to groan. "More black pajamas!" he muttered.

I faced him eagerly. "I never told him about her—I'll swear I didn't," I pleaded miserably. "You know all there is to know, Jack. I wouldn't tell anybody in the world a thing like

"And, besides, she's forgiven me," I persisted gloomily. "And I love her—and we're going to be married—or I hope so, dash it!"

And This Was the Frump's Father.

Billings stared at me with popping eyes for an instant. Then he lifted my chin and looked at me anxiously. "Are you quite well, old man?" he asked. "Headache, or anything like that? By George, it's from sitting out in the sun without a hat. Marry my sister?" He wagged his head lugubriously. "What—Elizabeth? Oh, good heavens!"

"No—Frances," I explained anxiously.

He stared. "Frances?" Then his arm led me out. "Come along, old chap," he said with an air of concern. "We'll get a little ice."

There was a bustle near the hall entrance and I heard a commanding voice I recognized as that of Judge Billings:

"Come right in, Colonel, and we will try to make you forget that little exasperation—do you know I just can't get over the idea that I've seen you somewhere and recently—Hello, Jack! Colonel Kirkland, my eldest boy, Jack—named after his mother, Johanna. Look here, Jack, has everybody on the blithering police force gone crazy about pajamas? Most infernal outrage—pardon me, Colonel Kirkland—three policemen wanted to arrest him on description dragnet order, they said—for stealing a pair of silk pajamas. Even hear the like of that?"

Billings' voice murmured something, and then I was dully conscious of my name being passed and of the fact that I was limply shaking a hand. But I don't remember uttering a word—couldn't, by Jove, for my jolly tongue was paralyzed. I didn't know what to do, didn't know what to say, you know for there before my eyes, recognizable and unmistakable, despite frock coat and white choker tie, was the figure of "Foxy Grandpa."

The beefy face, white mutton chop whiskers and bald head were as indelibly imprinted on my memory as the sunburn line that fenced his fiery face.

And this was the frump's father, and it was for him she was scheming to make a home!

CHAPTER XXXI.

The Club.

I didn't go in to luncheon. Instead, I lay down up in my room, wondering what Jenkins would think when he saw Foxy Grandpa a guest with me under this roof, and wondering also what I ought to do, or if I should do anything. I came to the conclusion finally that I wouldn't say anything for the present, for I had about all the complications I could carry.

Presently I went down to the living room, where they were all assembled, and my heart leaped as I thought I detected a brightening in Frances' face as I entered.

Billings was waving the frump away with his fat hand. "Take it away," he said. "I hate bugs."

"But, Jacky," said the frump pleadingly, "I think it's a phusiotus gloriosa."

"I don't care if it's a giraffe," said Billings rudely.

But the professor was already across the room to the rescue.

"Hal not a gloriosa," he said animatedly, as he snoooped over the little greenish thing in the frump's hand. "Observe the shortened prothorax and mesothorax and—"

"And metathorax," chimed in the frump, her head close to his. "Hence—"

"It is a phanaeus carnifex," said the professor positively.

By Jove, it looked to me like what we used to call a dung beetle!

And then the two grunks went out in the sun with butterfly nets, and Frances and I drifted out to our pavilion overlooking the broad sweep of the Tappan Zee. As yet, her father had said nothing to me, but I knew that the blow might fall any moment. Only the arrival of the frump's father had so far saved me. And though I had gone right ahead violating his jolly injunction about Frances, I kept a sort of parole with him by avoiding any discussion of things that I knew would have interested my darling the most—that is, our love and our future. Later we took a drive through Sleepy Hollow and the Pocatello Hills. But though we grew better and better acquainted every minute, I couldn't help feeling devilish disappointed, for never once did she ever call me "Dicky." I wondered moodily whether her brother had told her yet of his plans for me.

In the evening, the younger brother showed up at dinner, but sulked, which I thought under the circumstances was about the most considerate thing he could have done.

Once during the evening, Billings, who had been talking with the professor, turned to me. "By the way, Dicky—those pajamas, you know—what did you do with them this morning?" He and the professor whispered again; then Billings turned back. "Gray paper parcel—um—you know?"

Know? Dash it, of course I knew, but I—

"Why, I have them now," came quietly from my companion, "thanks to Mr. Lightnut. He gave them to me this morning."

"Gave them to you?" gasped Billings. He whispered to me. "But the rubies you curkoo—you didn't give her those?"

"Rubies? Dash it, I had to think hard to remember what had become of the rubies. But I got the idea."

"Why, the professor has those," I reminded him. "The red pajamas, you know—don't you remember?" I draw him aside.

Billings stared. "But he has returned them," he exclaimed, "taking an odd-idea look at the professor, who was talking to Frances and the frump. Billings frowned.

"Haven't seen them," I said carelessly, for I wanted to talk to her. "Oh, dash the rubies—wait till morning!"

Billings looked sourly at the professor and went off and sat alone. He seemed put out about the old boy not returning the garments. Never seemed

Plumbers to Meet Here

The Florida State Association of Master Plumbers will hold its annual meeting at Sanford Wednesday, May 22nd. The delegates will arrive during the forenoon. Fifteen are expected from Tampa. The meeting will be called to order at the Sanford House at 2 p. m. The officers of the association are W. E. McAndrews, president, Tampa, Fla.; F. W. Mahoney, vice-president, Sanford; R. T. Joughin, secretary, Tampa.

The annual meeting will be held at the Sanford House at 1 o'clock. The visiting members will be entertained by the local master plumbers of Sanford: H. Dinges and F. W. Mahoney of the Fernald Hardware Co. The object of the master plumbers association is to safeguard the public health by insisting on the best sanitary regulations and to protect the public from incompetent and irresponsible workmen. If the public see that their plumbing work is done by members of this association they can rely on having full protection and the public health and safety are also protected.

STEEL DRAW BRIDGE FINISHED

Connection With Geneva Section All That Could Be Desired

The new steel draw bridge that connects Sanford and the Geneva section is now completed and the people from that thriving section are now flocking to Sanford and making good the statement of The Herald that the money donated to that project would be money well invested. By auto this trip can now be made in 45 minutes and though the road is not in as good shape as it will eventually be the change from the old antediluvian ferry system is proof that Orange county and the Sanford section especially expects to take the lead in the matter of good roads and bridges. The new bridge brings our thriving city into closer touch with the good people of the rapidly growing section around Geneva and in time this rich country will develop rapidly.

The wooden approaches to the bridge are 1,500 feet and the steel draw bridge proper is 120 feet, making 1,420 feet of bridging. The approaches and fills were made under the direction of J. T. McLain and are pronounced all right by the travelling public. Now let the good work of bridge building go right on and have the Osteen ferry converted into a steel draw bridge as soon as possible, for the travel to the East Coast will soon be in full swing and the bridge will be a great convenience.

main entrance, and a dainty little Junior in blue escorted the ladies to the cloak room on the second floor, and then into the reception room on the right of the main entrance, where Professor Perkins, Mrs. Perkins and little daughter, Ethel Goodwin, stood in the receiving line with the guests of honor, the graduates, to receive the congratulations of their many friends and guests of the occasion. The handsome library was used for the reception room, and was tastefully decorated with the green vines and flowers. After meeting and congratulating the graduates, the guests mingled with their friends in the hall and auditorium, where they were seated to enjoy the delightful songs rendered by Messrs. Pope, Wetherill, Inman and Blackman, the Rollins' College quartette, who in their gracious manner entertained the music lovers who gathered in the auditorium to enjoy the songs.

Leaving the rooms below, the guests were escorted by an attentive Junior to the refreshment rooms on the second floor, where the pretty class colors were evident everywhere. But the daintiest feature of the whole reception was the presence of the class colors and decoration motif in the delicious refreshments, served on little tables, with handsome white covers and green and white star jessamine in vases. On the blocks of white ice cream was the number 12 in green, and also on the white icing on the cake was the same class year number in green. After the refreshments the guests returned to the auditorium where the quartette were again their most generous entertainers, delighting every one with their beautiful songs which ended the pleasant reception, one of the to be remembered events in the lives of the graduating class of 1912.

To the faculty, and especially Miss Guild and Miss Tetherly in planning and making possible the happy occasion and charming reception, and to the Juniors, are due the thanks and appreciation of all whose good fortune it was to be present.

Graduating Exercises

Of supreme interest and the crowning event of Commencement week were the impressive and beautiful, though sad, graduating exercises Friday evening in the auditorium of the Sanford High School, when the Senior class, who had completed with credit and honor the prescribed course of study, and after receiving their diplomas as a reward for work well and faithfully done ceased to be pupils of the Sanford High School. The large auditorium and stage were tastefully decorated with the beautiful star jessamine vines, lovely ferns and graceful bamboo branches. The class banner and colors of green and white graced the back of the stage, where the chairs had been arranged for the graduates, the school board and speaker and the school faculty. The Stumon orchestra rendered several delightful selections for the entertainment of the large audience of parents, friends and citizens of the town, who filled the large auditorium to overflowing in their appreciation of the occasion and heartfelt desire to do honor to the ten sweet girl graduates and their three manly classmates. While the orchestra played a march Tenney Deane, the dignified Junior and Marshal of the occasion, with his badge of office, decorated with the Junior class colors, preceded the school board, County School Board of Public Instruction, the orator of the occasion, the faculty and graduates down the aisle to the stage, where the board, Superintendent and Dr. Murphree took the seats on the right of the stage, the graduates in the center, and the faculty on the left. The invocation was made by Supt. McKinnon, at the conclusion of which the High School Glee Club, accompanied by Miss Margaret Davis sang "In May Time" and "Water Lilies." When the Glee Club had sung their beautiful numbers and had resumed their seats in the auditorium Robert McKim advanced down to the front of the stage and in a calm and dignified manner delivered an exceedingly interesting essay on "Radium," which from the clearness of its exposition showed great care and study in its preparation. After Mr. McKim's essay Miss Josie Stumon, accompanied by Mr. Gwynn Fox, played a delightful flute solo, "Adoration by Felix Barowski. Miss Hoskins Jones next claimed the attention of the audience while she drew a fine pen picture of "Ancient Art," especially as it flourished in Egypt in past centuries, relics of which have been and are still being unearthed by the research of the archaeologists of the present day. Miss Jones' essay was well written, interesting and well delivered.

"The Two Grenadiers," a fine solo, was charmingly sung by Mr. Clarence Mahoney, accompanied by Miss Florence Frank. Mr. Mahoney rejoices in the distinction of being the bass singer of the class. Supt. McKinnon had the honor of introducing to the audience Dr. A. A. Murphree, A. M., L.L. D., president of the University of Florida, which he did in his most felicitous style. All the nice compliments and bouquets that Mr. McKinnon was pleased to offer Dr. Murphree were more than deserved, as he made a very fine address indeed. After congratulating the graduates on the auspicious occasion and commending them on their school achievements he gave them several wise and kindly suggestions for consideration in planning their future. Dr. Murphree made a strong plea for the public schools and for education. In a clear cut and forceful way he showed the contrast between the life and attainment of an educated individual and of one who had no education higher than that gained in the school of life. The faculty are to be congratulated on their choice of a speaker and teacher for this occasion.

After the close of Dr. Murphree's address Professor Perkins gave the class his farewell talk, commending them upon their faithful diligence and congratulating them that they had arrived at the threshold of a broader, higher outlook upon life and its responsibilities and wisely and tenderly advising them how to use their opportunities. He then presented the diplomas.

While the orchestra played their last selection the marshal led the way to the library on the right of the main entrance, where the graduates received the congratulations of their family and friends.

The graduating class numbered thirteen, ten young ladies and three young men, and are Misses Josie Stumon, president of the class; Ruth Stewart, Hoskins Jones, Lillian Higgins, Mary Haskins, Agnes Berner, Midred Haskins, Ruby Betts, Elizabeth Munson, Bertha Packard; Clarence Mahoney, Robert McKim and Ray Maxwell.

The High School Magazine

Salamagundi, the High School Magazine issued by the pupils each year is out and is a good specimen of what our boys and girls can do in the literary line. The staff this year was composed of the following: Ruth Stewart, editor-in-chief; Josie Stumon, Mary Haskins; Agnes Berner, associate editors, and Robert McKim and Clarence Maligney, business managers. The magazine shows careful work on the part of the contributors and is full of good articles and bright bits—in fact, a real salamagundi. The work was done by Chas. Wing and is excellent in every particular of the printers' art. The citizens of Sanford should purchase copies of Salamagundi and send them to their friends in other states.

Entertained The Juniors

After the exercises at the High School Friday night the ex-Juniors were invited to the home of the president of the graduating class, Miss Josie Stumon, where they were joined by the graduates and Miss Guild and Miss Tetherly, after the organization of the Alumni Association of the Sanford High School. A very pleasant time was enjoyed by all. The president of the class of '13 was called for to make a speech, but he failed to respond.

Delicious refreshments were served during the evening. The home was fragrant with cut flowers and ferns, green and white being the prevailing colors. At a late hour the guests departed knowing that "all good things must end," and with regret the graduates realized that their High School life was ended. Besides the classes of '12 and '13 were present Misses Guild, Tetherly, Whitner, Connelly, Purdon, Lycca Chappell, Jessie and Junnie Stumon, Messrs. W. G. Fox, A. R. Key, Mr. and Mrs. Stumon.

Alumni Association

After the graduating exercises were concluded Friday evening all the former graduates of the High School who are in the city held a meeting in the superintendent's office and organized an Alumni Association. The following officers were elected. President, Miss Florence Frank vice president, Miss Peacha Laffler; treasurer, Miss Mabel Bowler; secretary, Eugene Roumillat. The first meeting of the association will be held in October, date to be decided later.

A Visit to Fairyland

At the new school on the corner of Oak Avenue and Eighth street taught by the Sisters of Mercy, the little girls of the school will present a play, the name of which is "Work Conquers." On Friday evening May 28th, at 8 o'clock the play will be repeated in "Fairyland" will be repeated for the children of the city.

The following synopsis of the "Visit to Fairyland" may be interesting.

Once two little orphan children from a city far away started out in their childish belief to find the country where the pretty fairies stay. Growing weary of their search they sat down by the wayside to rest and fell asleep. As the good fairies came by they found the two children and changed them into fairies. They were happy and contented till the ban of evil fairies came along and by their promises of all kinds of pleasure, won the children away from the good fairies, who never gave up their search for the little ones and did all in their power to bring them back. A short time after the children left the good fairies they became very unhappy and begged the good angels, who warned them before, to bring them back to the path of virtue. The children at last went in search of the good fairies, and hearing them singing in the distance said, "Let us hide here and see, perhaps they will find us and take us back." The good fairies did just as the children expected, and when they sprang out and said, "O little fairies, forgive us," the queen welcomed them back saying, "In repentance there is blessing. We will help you to be true." Now the good fairies' one endeavor was to win the evil fairies to their side and with the aid of angels they at last came of their own accord asking to be forgiven, and with a promise that they would always be as servants under their command. The good fairies received them, and now all are united in love and charity, and one and all promise ever to walk the beautiful shining way of truth and love and virtue.

HAPPENINGS DURING THE WEEK

Here the Readers Will Find a Brief Historical Spring Flowing For Hurried Readers

With the primary elections less than a week away, when the voters of New Jersey will have a chance to express a presidential preference, the campaign is rapidly developing into one of the most vigorous political struggles the state has witnessed in years. Colonel Roosevelt will begin a whirlwind tour of the state tomorrow. Later in the week President Taft will be heard in a number of the principal cities. Senator La Follette also is planning to stump the state. Governor Wilson, on the Democratic side, will continue his speech making until the night before the primaries, fighting hard for the solid support of his home state.

"The result in Ohio has settled the contest," said Colonel Roosevelt today. He was greatly elated over the Ohio reports. After reading several hundred telegrams from all parts of the country, Roosevelt said: "Naturally I am very much pleased with the popular judgment of the people of Ohio. I believe we could have won without Ohio. Our opponents needed Ohio's solid vote to give them a chance to make a contest at Chicago. The victory in Ohio means that it will be hopeless to try to beat us at Chicago. It will be impossible for them to win by to win by seating delegates from southern states which represent nothing but fraud."

The uprising of negroes against the government is hourly becoming more serious. More than 5,000 negroes have taken up arms in Orient province, which and far outnumber the rurales and troops in that section. While there have been no other clashes with the authorities as yet, the section is in a state of great excitement and terror. Floyd Shick and Joseph Bryan, American citizens, today complained to United States Consul Holaway at Santiago that they were assaulted and robbed on the road to Siboney by a band of armed negroes, who divested them of everything of value they had on their persons, and in addition beat them shamefully. The consul will take the matter up with the Cuban government.

Death of Oliver Mitchell

Oliver Mitchell died at the Neal Hospital on Monday night last. The funeral occurred on Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock at the Catholic church, interment being made in the Catholic cemetery. Mr. Mitchell had been ill for the past year and death came as a relief after a lingering illness from partial paralysis. He had been a resident of this section for many years and held the respect of every one, being a quiet and unassuming man who led his life in the Golden Rule way.

He leaves five sons to mourn his loss, all of them living in this vicinity.

SANFORD MILITARY COMPANY

Celery City Guards Will Soon Be Marking Time On The Street

For a long time Sanford has been in need of a military company and several times the Herald has advocated the organization of a company of militia for the boys of this city. Several weeks ago the question was taken up by W. C. Palmer, of the firm of Palmer & Seigh of this city, who takes a great interest in the youth of Sanford and together with several ex-military men the names of prospective members were solicited and thirty or more have already signed the roster and as many more are promised. Mr. Palmer served ten years in the national guard and four years in the regulars, being in a cavalry company in Cuba during the Spanish American war and is in every way capable of organizing and directing the company. A letter from the Adjutant General bears the information that the full complement of the company must be sixty men and that the Sanford boys by hustling can attend this year's encampment.

There is nothing quite so good for the young men of this city as military service and the encampment will be an education and a vacation for many who do not get enough outdoor life at present. The roster is at the store of Palmer & Seigh, and the boys should put down their names at once, so as to get all the drill possible between now and encampment. Let Sanford take the lead in the way of a military company and help added honor on our city.

Revival Notes

The revival to be conducted by Evangelists Bass and Stapleton will begin with the first service Sunday morning, 11 a. m. The whole city should attend every service and take some active part in this effort for the moral and spiritual uplift of Sanford.

A large chorus is being organized by Prof. C. L. Polk, and the best work in this line will be presented to our people during these meetings. All who will take part with him in this important work are requested to meet at the Methodist church Friday night, 7:30.

The following gentlemen have consented to act as ushers during the meetings: F. W. Miller, J. G. Randall, C. H. Smith, M. E. Moye, J. K. Mettinger, Dr. Mason, M. A. Mot and L. R. Phillips.

An Appeal

I take this method of earnest appeal to the members of the Methodist church and to the members of the Christian denominations of our city and surrounding country to take stock in the revival meeting. There is a great need of a genuine and mighty moral and spiritual quickening. The inexhaustible resources of God are at the disposal of faith. This is the day of the Holy Spirit, whose mission is to convict of sin, righteousness and judgment, and to comfort those who turn from backsliding and impenitence in contrition and faith to the cross of Christ.

Your presence at all the services is most cordially solicited.

Yours faithfully,

CHARNELLE H. SUMMERS.

Little Newspaper Parable

Speaking of the difficulty newspapers experience in pleasing all their patrons, Tom Mason, editor of Life, told this one in his talk to Kansas editors at Lawrence. A boy had been given a chameleon, of which he was very fond. His father, returning home after an absence of a couple of days, asked the boy about the pet. "It's gone," replied the boy. "Gone where?" continued the father. "Oh, he's all in, down and out," said the boy. His father being unable to understand, demanded an explanation. "Well father, I did a little experimenting. I put it on red and it turned red, I put it on blue and it turned blue, I put it on yellow and it turned yellow, but when I put it on plaid it burst itself trying to be satisfactory."

Fancy Work Circle

Mrs. T. S. Davis was hostess of the Fancy Work Circle Wednesday afternoon. The ladies had a very pleasant afternoon together in the enjoyment of their fancy work, which was later laid aside in favor of the delicious ice cream and cake served by the hostess. Mrs. Davis' guests were Mrs. J. J. Purdon, Mrs. Esterby, Mrs. W. H. Milteer, Mrs. H. H. Hill, Mrs. W. T. Johns, Mrs. R. L. Peck and Mrs. H. B. Connelly, visitor.

SANFORDS NEW ROADS

New District Will Be Most Progressive In State

TWO NEW STEEL DRAW BRIDGES

The Sanford District Will Have Brick Roads and The Best of Steel Drawbridges

The new road district that will embrace the entire celery delta will be one of the most improved districts in the state. The contemplated brick roads will cover the entire district and will be further improved by the construction of two or more steel drawbridges. Tired of waiting for the county to build brick roads the Sanford section has petitioned the county commissioners to make this a special road district, and when this is done the work of making brick roads over the entire district will begin.

The next step in the march of progress to be made by Orange county will be the erection of a steel drawbridge across the St. Johns river at the foot of Celery avenue, thus connecting by foot and water road Volusia and Orange county. Last spring these two counties had the approaches to this bridge thrown up out of the bed of the river and Orange county had several hundred feet of trestle erected so as to shorten the trip across the channel of the river. At the time this work was done presentation was taken to have it conform to the general improvement which would follow the erection of the steel drawbridge, so as to utilize this portion of the preparatory work.

The new bridge when completed will cost approximately $5,500 and the expense will be borne in half by Orange county, the remaining half being made up by private subscription by New Smyrna and Osteen settlements. These two communities have already pledged their proportion of the funds and the work is now progressing in its primary stages and will be pushed to completion as soon as some minor details have been adjusted by the war department. The Orange county commissioners have the matter in charge and are now having plans made for the structure, which will be ready to submit to the national officials at Washington in a short time.

Last week the commissioners went on a tour of inspection of the roads in the Sanford district. The new cut off on the west side which will lead to the DeLand ferry at Monroe is being rushed just as rapidly as possible and will be ready for use in a short time. This cut off will save a lot of heavy travel through deep sand and will shorten the time considerably between DeLand and Sanford. The bridge across the St. Johns at Geneva ferry was inspected, as were also the approaches and the roads on each side of the bridge. The bridge is now being used for foot and wagon traffic. The commissioners have taken such steps as are necessary to have the approaches shaped up and widened and the road placed in proper condition for the large amount of traffic which will take advantage of this new route across the river.

A new route is being opened from a point on the Orlando road south of here to Oviedo for the purpose of straightening and shortening the distance between Sanford and this city. This route has been established and now a gang of workers is busy getting it in shape. An active campaign of road improvements will be carried on all roads during the summer and fall and from the program outlined it is safe to say that this community will have very fine roads when all the roads have been completed.

BURGLAR AT WORK AGAIN

Light Fingred Gentry Seem to Like Sanford

It would seem that some of the second story artists are stranded in Florida and in order to get to the Democratic or Republican conventions are forced to get the money on the way and having spent the winter in Tampa are now enroute north and via Sanford. Several cases have been reported to the police of breaking and entering and it seemed to be the work of the professional. The game was repeated last Wednesday morning about one o'clock, when Mrs. Jessie Speer thought she heard a noise at her window and becoming thoroughly aroused looked out and discovered a man trying to get the window open. Speaking to her sister to hand her a pistol scared the man away for the nonce, and as Mrs. Speer rushed into the room making his way to another part of the front porch. She fired, and the first shot only missed him by a few inches and with an ejaculation of "My God!" he left in a hurry, about as badly scared as Mrs. Speer. The plucky lady fired five shots at him, and he is probably running yet, as no more houses have been entered since. Mrs. Speer had a good description of him and stated today that when she awoke at first he was so close to the blinds that she could smell cigarette smoke from him. Mrs. Speer certainly deserves credit for being as brave under the circumstances, and if every one gives the gentleman as warm a reception he will not linger long in Sanford.

Preacher Wakes Up

Editor of the Herald

I am one of the Sanford preachers who appreciate the courtesies extended by the Herald to the churches. What is more, I believe there are a good many more of your readers who are equally appreciative. Newspaper editors are situated like preachers in some respects. People are quick enough to jump on you if you make an error, but they are not so ready to recognize your excellencies. But bless you! they are appreciative just the same, though they may forget to tell you so.

Let me tell you another thing. Sanford people are mighty fortunate to have a paper like the Herald, whose editor is sure to be found on the right side of moral questions and lets his light shine through its pages. You are doing a good work, Brother Holly, keep it up, though we preachers don't always take full advantage of all you offer us. Even preachers go to sleep sometimes and lie down on their jobs. Just keep hammering along and after awhile perhaps we will all wake up.

A PREACHER

Margaret Davidson Wins

The Buck Stove & Range Co., through their Sanford agents, the Hill Hardware Co., some time ago put on a novel contest in the way of an outline picture that was to be colored by a child and an essay written at the same time on the merits of the Buck stove. The contest excited much interest among the children and called a great effort on their part.

After a careful estimate by the committee appointed to decide the contest Miss Margaret Davidson was declared the winner. Following is their report.

The committee after careful consideration of all required points have decided that the prize in the Buck's Picture Coloring Contest be awarded to Margaret Davidson, aged nine years.

The committee also suggests that the pictures of Gladys Adams and Florence Witte deserve honorable mention for artistic coloring, and the one of Miss Mary Zachary for neatness.

Respectfully submitted,
MRS. L. R. PHILIPS,
MRS. J. W. DICKINS,
MRS. GEO. FOX, JR.

At The Congregational Church

The negroes who ambushed the officers near Archer the other day and killed two of them have been indicted by the grand jury of Alachua county for murder in the first degree and will pay the penalty at an early date.

As yet there is no clue to the man or men who enticed Motorman Sparkman and Conductor Smith from the street car in Jacksonville last Saturday night and then shot them in the back. All the money that each carried as well as that on the car is missing and robbery must have been the motive.

Fort Lauderdale is going to have telephone service by the first of June. This is going right ahead for a town that was not on the map many years ago except perhaps as a location. Modern improvements must follow the advance of civilization in this age and the people want telephones, electric lights, water supply, sewerage, pavements and fine buildings.

The board of trustees of Southern College have completed their annual session. It continued over a period of five days. Prof. W. L. Clifton of Mississippi succeeds Dr. J. P. Hilburn as president. The road is being constructed by the trunk line between Montgomery and South Florida.—Ocala Star.

Alfalfa in Florida

Last week Judge Holcomb brought to our office a large sample bunch of alfalfa which was grown on his lot in the east part of the city. A plot of ground about ten by forty feet was prepared and the seed sown as an experiment. The grass came up well and developed a good stand from which two cuttings have already been made in the last few weeks. The samples exhibited in our office were very fine, and the judge feels perfectly confident that it will do well in this climate and soil. He has a large plot of ground planted to this forage on his place east of the city.—Arcadia News.
