

WALKER TRIES TO LAUGH OFF SEABURY QUIZ

Jimmy Wisecracks As Prosecutor Seeks To Trace Some Of Financial Dealings

NEW YORK, May 26. — (A.P.)—Mayor James J. Walker, in a fiery, spectacular appearance as a witness yesterday before Samuel Seabury, acknowledged realizing $246,962.76 without investment from a brokerage account with Paul Block, the publisher, and denied he influenced improperly the granting of a bus franchise.

The tracing of the brokerage transactions came as the mayor completed a full day on the stand of the Hofstadter legislative committee, which has been engaged in a sweeping 14 months investigation of the municipal government, with Seabury as counsel.

Thousands milled around the county courthouse as Walker sat on the stand sometimes mopping his forehead and mixing repartee in his answers to the scholarly, gray-haired Seabury.

When the mayor arrived the whole neighborhood echoed with the cheer that went up. All day the streets around the building were black with men and women who stood for hours just to get a glimpse of the man New York's millions call "Jimmy."

Inside, the corridors were filled with throngs which battled to get inside the little courtroom designed to seat only 300. Far more than that number were admitted. They stood close and five deep all around the walls.

Tea tables were set up with out an outbreak from the spectators. Whenever they credited Walker with a point they cheered. At other times there were loud hisses.

Walker said the joint account was opened, without any initial investment, "on Mr. Block's splendid credit and reputation."

"Did you stand ready to stand any loss that might be incurred?" "I stood ready to," the mayor answered.

"Did you make any agreement to that effect?" "The subject was not discussed."

The account originally was in the name of Paul Block and J. J. Walker, but later was changed to Paul Block and Max Block, the publisher's brother.

The mayor verified a statement that the account was opened on Feb. 10, 1927, and was closed on Aug. 6, 1929.

The mayor said there was no understanding as to how withdrawals were to be made, but "a method was developed." Explaining this method, he said when Block made a withdrawal the publisher would take out an equal amount for him (Walker), and that when the mayor

PRUSSIAN DIET IS SCENE OF FIGHTS AND BLOODSHED

Riots Unprecedented In Parliamentary History Of Nation

BERLIN, May 26. — (A.P.)—Smoldering political passions in the new Prussian diet broke out in hand-to-hand fighting between national socialists and communists yesterday with a violence unprecedented in the parliamentary history of Germany.

The legislative hall was wrecked and at least half a dozen members, including neutrals, were injured.

Deputy Juergensen, a leader of the social democrats, who took no part in the fray, was carried unconscious to a hospital with one side of his face ripped open.

With fists, inkwells, chair legs and water bottles, the legislators fought their battle to the bitter end without police interference. Gen. Karl Litzmann, senior member of Adolf Hitler's national socialist party, having declined the services of the police several days ago.

The trouble started after Hans Kerkel, a national socialist, had been elected president of the diet and Ernst Wittmann, a social democrat, had been elected first vice president. The session had been in an uproar since it opened for the second day of parliamentary business.

Wilhelm Pleck, a communist deputy rose to a point of order and at the top of his voice shouted that there were murderers on the Nazi benches. The Nazis jumped up and made a mass attack on the communist members, whom they outnumbered 162 to 57.

Citizens Urged To Support Poppy Day In City Saturday

"If we could make people realize that the purchase of one of the small red poppies that we will sell on Sanford streets Saturday may be the means of sustaining the life and spirit of a disabled veteran," was the hope expressed this morning by Mrs. J. C. Benson, general chairman of the American Legion Auxiliary's Poppy Day sale.

Mrs. Benson has gathered about her a corps of workers, many of them volunteers, who all day Saturday will ask the passers-by to help contribute to the Legion's fund for the maintenance of rehabilitation and child welfare work throughout America.

In an appeal to Sanford residents today Mrs. Benson asks them to picture the mental strain of the non-compensated veteran in the hospital as he thinks of his wife and little children at home with no income. "Then open to him this opportunity whereby he can earn money by making Poppies, 350 to 375 per month to send to his family," Mrs. Benson said, "can't you almost feel the relief?"

"Picture the family of the deceased veteran," Mrs. Benson asked, "and remember that the money from the sale of the Poppy will be used to help make conditions better for the family that may be left, in many cases where the mother cannot care for her children."

Concluding, Mrs. Benson said that "the Legion and Auxiliary will give assistance by caring for the 'kiddies' through the Child Welfare program by providing for them a home, when it is not possible to keep the children and mother together."

RELIEF BILL IS BEING PUSHED BY DEMOCRATS

2,300,000,000 Million Dollar Measure Has Provision For Public Works Program

WASHINGTON, May 26. — (A.P.)—Senate Democrats pushed their $2,300,000,000 unemployment relief bill forward yesterday despite President Hoover's emphatic opposition to its provision for a $500,000,000 public works bond issue.

The bill was formally introduced after receiving the unanimous approval of the combined Democratic steering and policy committees. It was referred to the banking committee.

Simultaneously, Speaker Garner said his $2,100,000,000 program had been drafted into a bill and would be introduced today.

Republicans on both sides of the capital waited for the Democratic bill, determined if possible to reach a compromise acceptable to the President.

The Democrats bill, which was presented in the Senate by Chairman Wagner of the subcommittee which drafted it, provides in addition to the bond issue an increased capitalization of $1,500,000,000 for the Reconstruction Corporation for loans on self-liquidation projects and $300,000,000 for direct relief loans to states.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, Democratic leader, who helped in frame the bill, said he would not agree to a recess for the convening in June unless the bill was acted upon.

Wagner in presenting the bill denied President Hoover's contention that a bond issue for public works would result in the building (Continued on Page Six)

River Association Has Enthusiastic Meet In Orlando

Sanford waterway enthusiasts who attended the May meeting of the St. Johns River Improvement Association held in Orlando Tuesday morning reported that enthusiasm featured by an address on the advantages of the proposed St. Johns-Indian River canal, to the state of Florida.

Karl Lehmann, secretary of the Association introduced George H. Hills, Jacksonville engineer, who addressed the meeting. Mr. Hills, together with Col. E. A. Youngberg, former U. S. War Department Engineer, has given considerable time to this project, and he has appeared before numerous audiences, and in view of a long record, setting forth the purposes of the canal.

Among those from Sanford who attended were: H. M. Papworth, C. A. Byrd, Fred T. Williams, L. D. Haines, Walter L. Cooper, and Karl Lehmann.

Interesting among the matters discussed was that relating to the widening of various points in the river by eliminating many of the sharp bends, particularly between Sanford and Palatka. It is understood that the Association is securing deeds for portions of the land which channels may be dug. Some of these deeds must be signed by Spanish persons representing the successors of the Spanish kings who deeded the land to various persons in the 1600's.

Federal aid on this project is expected to result just as soon as enough right-of-ways have been collected. Funds for their purchase or to pay for abstracts and deed are expected to be realized from the membership dues collected by the Association.

World Congress Of Ocean Filers Ends

ROME, May 26. — (A.P.)—The first world congress of trans-oceanic filers ended today after an all night battle in which there was sharp national division over the "freedom of the air" with a view to future competition in trans-Atlantic commercial aviation routes. It is understood the argument is based on French and Italian competition for control of future air lines from Europe to South America. Delegates finally decided to demand all governments to leave their airports open to trans-Atlantic flying.

Inquiries, Protests Reach Capital Over G.O.P. Plans As To Prohibition Question

BLACKMER PAYS GOVERNMENT BIG CIVIL TAX CLAIM

Fugitive From U. S. Is Still Facing Arrest If He Should Return

WASHINGTON, May 26. — (A.P.)—Prohibition and organization worries are combining to stir up troubles which may settle down upon the Republican national convention.

Persistent statements of the interest being manifested by the President in the shaping of a prohibition plank for the party, has brought a wave of inquiries and protests to the capital.

It became known the prohibition leaders have been pressing Senator Borah, their champion, for information since his reported discussion with Hoover.

The organized dry bodies—39 in all—will mobilize in Washington next week to consider campaign strategy to follow between now and the national convention.

Dr. Edwin D. Binwood, secretary of the national prohibition board of strategy, said the board of the national conference of organizations supporting the Eighteenth Amendment would map plans "on the theory that both Republicans and Democrats, in a sober second thought, will refuse to take a position that would drive away dry supporters."

Meanwhile, the President is having his troubles in reorganizing plans for the national convention in view of the prospect that Congress may be in session. His failure to consult with some of the (Continued on Page Two)

Contracts Are Let For Construction Of Lake Boulevard

Contracts on the Lakefront Boulevard, totaling $261,000 have been let jointly in the Langdon Construction Co. of Orlando, according to information received yesterday from the State Road Department by The Sanford Herald.

The contracts cover the actual laying of the fill and the construction of several small bridges, culverts and drainage ditches, and will require four or five months for completion. The actual work will begin in about fifteen days, according to the announcement.

The contracts have been sent to Montgomery, Ala. for approval by the Federal Bureau of Public Roads which was characterized by road department officials as a mere formality.

Cocoa Educator Tells Kiwanians Of Vocational Guidance Education Plan

"Vocational Guidance" as the educational light of the world, and the primary aim of Kiwanis International, was pictured before Sanford Kiwanians yesterday at the Montezuma Hotel by educator Charles Taylor, Cocoa educator and sponsor of an unique educational system which Cocoa Kiwanians hope to establish in every school in Florida.

Kiwanian Taylor, one of the most prominent Kiwanians in Florida, brought the local club an interesting picture of the benefits of a system of vocational guidance—against the failures of the present day school system. "I see that the school and religious agencies have failed in the development of our children," were his first words as he introduced his plan, "and I charge you that it is the duty of Kiwanis International to succeed where they have failed."

Under his plan, in effect in Cocoa schools for some years, students in the seventh grade have placed before them a weekly course in vocational instruction. Not only are they taught the fundamentals of practically every known means of livelihood, but business, professional, and industrial men in that community appear before them in lectures, and also lead classes through their plants, stores, or offices.

This course of study is continued for six years, through graduation from high school, so that when the boy or girl is ready to enter college or business life, he

Chain Of Reconstruction Committees To Be Set Up Headed By U. S. Business Men

WASHINGTON, May 26. — (A.P.)—White House officials said today that President Hoover gained a pledge of support from 39 newspaper publishers who met with him last night for setting up a network of reconstruction committees in all large cities along the line of the banker business group created in New York under the chairmanship of Owen Young.

It is said the President outlined a "complete program for setting up a reconstruction committee of leading men in every large city." Mr. Hoover stressed the necessity for cooperative action in this direction as a remedy for ailing business. It was said, and received from the publishers, an "unanimous expression of entire sympathy with the program."

There was also a full discussion of how general legislative attention including the possibilities of a revival of the sales tax.

The newspaper executives were from localities described as concentrated in Washington and included many of the large Eastern, Southern and Mid-Western cities. They represented all shades of political thought. The entire membership apparently was pledged to public service.

The President, it was learned, desired the opinions of the newspaper executives on the economic distress throughout the country and their suggestions on means of alleviating it. He is expected to review his economic program, most of which has been adopted, (Continued on Page Four)

2nd Distribution Of Federal Flour Set For Saturday

In announcing that the second distribution of free government flour will be made on Saturday morning of this week, Sanford Red Cross officials sent out an appeal that all persons who assisted in making the first distribution some days ago should make themselves available for service on Saturday.

Distribution will be made at the Seminole County jail, now the City Station, Saturday morning from 9:30 o'clock to 12:00 o'clock on persons failing to appear at the jail during those hours, will not be served, officials declare.

Last week, Mrs. Helen T. Moore, county welfare director who assisted in investigating the needs of the 310 families who were given free flour, had a list of over 250 more families who had asked that they be given flour. She has been active during the week, looking into all the new cases reported, and from all indications more than 300 families will be included in the second serving of flour.

Red Cross officials were given complimentary volunteer participation during the first serving, persons from many county towns, spending the entire day, as did local work agencies, in caring for the needs of the indigent families.

George M. Smith, 83, Dies After Illness

George M. Smith, 83, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. C. A. Haines, West Eighteenth Street last night after a brief illness. His body was sent to Thomasville, Ga., this afternoon, accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. E. M. Houlahan, of Tampa. It will be buried in the Smith family plot there tomorrow, with the Thomasville Odd Fellows Lodge directing final rites.

Mr. Smith, born in Microcosm, Fla., May 17, 1849, was a retired postoffice worker, having completed 45 years' service in the Thomasville postoffice some five years ago. He and his wife were visiting his son in law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Haines, when he became ill and developed pneumonia.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Patsy Bryan Smith, who is ill at the Haines home; three daughters, Mrs. C. A. Haines, Sanford; Mrs. F. M. Houlahan, Tampa; and Mrs. S. H. Everett, of Thomasville.

JUNIOR HIGH HAS FINAL EXERCISES OF SCHOOL YEAR

117 Students Graduated, With Friends, Relatives Present

With the auditorium filled with friends, teachers, and relatives, the graduating class of Sanford Junior High School, numbering 117 students, held its graduating exercises Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, to close officially its school year.

Sixty-one boys and 56 girls, one of the largest classes ever going out from Junior High School here, occupied the stage, together with many of Sanford's prominent religious and educational workers, to help the class enticed as one of the most energetic and studious in years, and to see various members awarded honors for excellence in scholastic or athletic ability.

Rev. J. R. Root, of First Congregational Church, delivered the graduating address, his theme entitled "The Pathway To Success." He told the students that the gates of success must first throw it in his person, the heavy load personified in "smert talk, selfishness, and pride," and he told stories of how each of these evils had hindered the lives of scores of persons.

Superintendent of Schools T. W. Lawton spoke briefly, expressing his congratulations to the class on having completed its first years of school life. He cautioned each student against the shortcuts to real progress that would be held out to him, and urged each to prepare himself for a busy and fruitful year in Senior High School.

During his talk, Mr. Lawton took occasion to compliment the faculty and student body on having achieved a remarkable record in that the student body turned in a general examination mark that was 20 points better than the average. (Continued on Page Three)

Large Political Rallies Planned For June 2 And 4

The Democratic Executive Committee of Seminole County, now sponsoring political rallies in towns throughout the county, is making plans to provide for a record throng of voters scheduled to meet at the Sanford City Hall Thursday night, June 2, and Saturday night, June 4, to hear state and county political candidates in final addresses.

Candidates who will be heard Thursday night are those for Clerk of Circuit Court, Tax Collector, County Prosecuting Attorney, Superintendent of Schools, County Judge, Justice of Peace, Fourth District, County Commissioner for the Third District, Sheriff, and Registrar.

Candidates who will be heard Saturday night, June 4, are those for Circuit Judge, State Attorney, Constables, Fourth District, State Senator, and Representatives in Florida Legislature. Representatives seeking the nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt, William D. Murray, or L. C. Chesser, for president will also speak.

The meetings are tentatively announced for the City Hall, but may be held in the Band Shell if the attendance and weather warrant. If the Band Shell is used, a loud-speaking system may be installed, so that addresses may be heard for some distance away from that location.

Knife Wielder Kills One, Injures 2 More

CLEVELAND, May 26. — (A.P.)—A knife wielder, who called himself "Mystery Jake," turned on a crowd of school children today, stabbed one girl to death, and perhaps fatally wounded two more. He was captured by a policeman as hundreds of persons gathered and threatened mob action.

The man, who gave his name as Jake Gordon, 40, muttered he "had a call to kill millions" and asked the policeman to "kill me, kill me, I have not killed enough."

The dead girl was Elaine Meeklin, 8, Lena Deasand, 12, and Rose Marie Parker, 8, were cut above the throat. Police said the man talked insanely and boasted he was "Mystery Jake," with an illusion that he was to be hanged.

League-Leading Indians To Battle Against Feds Here Thursday In 'Crucial' Tilt

By PETER SCHAAL
The Central Florida Baseball League, coasting along in great style, with five clubs in a reasonable position to nab the first half pennant which is exactly nine games away, Thursday afternoon offers the first "crucial" game of the season when the suddenly surprising powerful Sanford Celery Feds meet the league-leading Indians on Sanford's own ground.

It will be the stellar attraction of the day, although DeLand will be in New Smyrna, taking on the ancient enemy, and Daytona Beach will be visiting Winter Park trying to shove Buck Taylor's youngsters deeper into the cellar.

Sanford fans and many from nearby cities, numbering probably 1000 persons are expected to see this Sanford-Cocoa game, which will indicate whether the Feds, now boasting the fastest outfield, the steadiest infield, the smartest catcher, and one of the most creditable pitching staffs in the league, are really the powerful combine which humbled the proud DeLand outfit with one hit in that 10 to 1 game last Sunday.

Manager Joe Barnes will call on his young veteran, Buddy Lake, to stop the Indians, leading the league by a margin of one and one half games over DeLand, Sanford, and Daytona, tied for second place. Lake has had fair success against the Indians with a mediocre tall club back of him. Manager Barnes believes that he will dispose of the slugging Indians with ease, since he has the veteran Bert Chapman, the old Red Sox star, handling his plants.

Back of Lake will be that smooth working machine that humbled the Reds in DeLand last Sunday, including Red Martin, the old "Mystery Man." Sanford fans who will be seeing Red in action for the first time this year are reminded that they must expect too much of him tomorrow. After his great day Sunday when he got two singles and a double in 5 tries, scored four runs, drove in two runs and stole three bases, Red went right out and got an infected right leg. He has been treating it carefully for several days, but it may give him trouble tomorrow, so, if he doesn't steal so many bases, or get so many hits, don't think that he can't when he's in shape. Anyway, you fans know what he can do.

Tomorrow's line-up will be something like this: Bach, 2b; Chapman, c; Barnes, 1b; Pittman, 3b; Martin, cf; Reed, rf; Harrison, lf; Moore or Higgins, ss; and Lake, p. Reed that hit again and just look at the heavy hitters and sparkling fielders: What a team! Manager Weathers has not indicated his choice for mound duty, but it will probably be Early Joiner, who holds two decisions over the Feds this year. Joiner, one of the league's leading batters, seems to have everything his own way against the Feds, and with the heavy-hitting Wall and Culbreth leading the pack of Cocoa sluggers, he expects to score a third victory.

The game means just as much to Cocoa as it does to Sanford. A defeat for the Indians will find the Feds half a game behind them, and Cocoa must face DeLand and Daytona in successive games. A defeat for Sanford puts it two and one-half games away from Cocoa with successive games with Daytona and New Smyrna to worry over.

Manager Mike Boisch of the Islanders has announced the signing of Tige Stone, veteran Southeastern League hurler whose powerful bat has broken up many a game. Gordon Apgar, 1931 Dayt shortstop may return to the lineup for the Thursday game, and with Stone, should provide more punch, and probably aid in the Islanders' sixth straight victory. Lefty Lane will probably hurl.

Manager Taylor has added three new players, Jones, Parker, and Jordan, and expects to give the Islanders competition of an unusual sort, for Taylor has a knack of getting everything there is out of any player he handles.

Manager Ken Douglas at DeLand, will have two new catchers and a pitcher, J. Dull and Nut Shirley, and Hutch Boney, former Eastern League hurler, on hand in time for Thursday's game. That 10 to 1 defeat at the hands of Sanford was too much for DeLand manager, who expect Douglas to have a revamped and winning combination at New Smyrna Thursday.

Even the Crakers have made a few changes in the last minute effort to nab the first half flag. They have added Bill Ferrand, the Gaiter football star; Frenchy Brand and George Beck, ambitious youngsters. Manager Jim White of the Crakers will send Louie, the southern-spirited ace.

COMPANY D WINS ITS FIRST GAME FROM GROWERS

16 To 12 Victory Is Chalked Up By Soldiers Last Night

By E. H. CULLUM

Company D came through last night with its first win of the season, defeating the Sanford-Oviedo Truck Growers 16 to 12. Bobbie Knight was on the firing line for the losers for the first five innings, and with the exception of his wildness in the fifth, walking three men in a row, hurled a good game, allowing Company D only six hits, which were good for nine runs. Stine replaced Knight in the sixth, and Wham! went the old ball game. Company D evidently liked the brand of ball Stine was hurling and started on him at once. Kinlaw, first up, singled; Weaver, following Kinlaw, tripled; Kinlaw coming in; Rines and Heater drew a walk, filling the bags; Locke cleared the bases with his double through second base; Moye doubled, scoring Locke; Pearson went out, short to first; Moye scoring on the play; Kanne, out, pitcher to first; Dossy got a double; Cook tripled, scoring Dossy; Kinlaw, coming up for his second time in this inning, out at first. Results six hits, seven runs, and the ball game in the bag for Company D.

M. Kanner pitched for Company D, yielding up 10 hits for 12 runs. Pippin was the heavy hitter for the Truck Growers, getting two out of three times up, his first hit, a home run, coming in the first inning with two on. For Company D Moye got two doubles out of three trips to the plate, each hit playing an important part in Company D's run getting.

Tonight Company D and Medical Detachment will play off their postponed game from last week. This promises to be one of the hottest contested games of the season as both teams are "rarin'" to get at each other. The Sanford team goes to DeLand tonight to play off the old game of their series. Each team has won one and both teams will be fighting hard for the old game.

Tomorrow night Firestone and the Medical Detachment will hook up on the local diamond and Friday night the Celo Seminoles Laundry girls will have as their guests the Blackwood girls team from Orlando.

EDITORIAL TEND OF STATE PAPERS SEEN FOR HARDEE

Majority Of Press In Florida Is Throwing Support To Him

LIVE OAK, May 22.—Voters may readily secure a true picture of the attitude of the press of this state by reading the editorial utterances of the newspapers. It is interesting to note that the great majority of the newspapers, large and small, published in Florida, have given their support and prestige freely and unreservedly to Cary A. Hardee in his race for the Democratic nomination for Governor. They are doing this because in his four years as Governor, and in his work as a member of the Legislature, Mr. Hardee showed himself to be a thinker, a doer, a statesman, a patriot; he showed business ability of a high class as an administrator of the state's affairs. And as a young man his work as an educator and a lawyer, make a part of his life also for which no apology is needed. Quotations from some of the editorials received in an informal poll among representative newspapers of the state, follow: The Gadsden Times says, "Hardee will receive as many votes in Gadsden county as all other aspirants combined and there is every indication he will lead in practically every county in West Florida.

We predict he will lead by 25,000 over his nearest opponent in the first primary, and overwhelmingly in the second regardless of which of the other candidates is in the run-off." The St. Petersburg Times says, "Hardee is the leading candidate, Martin next." The Bradenton Herald says, "We should not be surprised to see Hardee nominated at the first primary." The Miami Daily News predicted Hardee would carry Dade County. The Lakeland Ledger said the chances were "99 to one" in favor of Hardee. The River Junction Tribune stated "The turn for Hardee is great, every day." The Jacksonville Floridian says, "Cary A. Hardee is generally considered to be the leading candidate." The Palm Beach Post says, "The Post has editorially approved of Cary

Hardee, believing him to be the best qualified man in the race." The Tampa Tribune in commenting on the Hardee leadership says, "Cary A. Hardee should be pleased at the strong support his candidacy is receiving from the leading and representative newspapers of the state. His press support is not confined to any one section. Like his popular support, it is far ahead of any other candidate." The Sanford Herald says, "In formation from various parts of the state regarding the gubernatorial campaign is to the effect that John Martin will carry Jacksonville, and Martin county and the lower East Coast. Shelta will carry Volusia county, Caldwell will lead in Hamilton, and Durrance and Gomez may carry Lee and Bradford counties. The rest of the

KING'S RIDDLE (From The Commonwealth)

We live too much with mirth and ease, And all the silken things, Our bodies fed, how can we know The joy of kings? The high crown, the slow steps, The foe behind the wall; A quick lunge, a bright flash, The red rainfall. And tragedy on tragedy To break small hearts in twain, To fathom them and furrow them Till they grow again. For if a man through all his days Be never on the cross, How shall he know the high from low, The clear gold from the dross? Far better be a king cast out With thistles for a crown, Than be a little millionaire And always sleep on down. I'd rather be that old Lear Throned on a log, Than dwell in some tall golden house And die like a dog. For out of tears is born anew, With a laughter-starry eyes, A lad who holds his quaking sides And shakes the towered skies. —Francis Beauchamp Thornton— The slot machine racket is causing a big stir in some parts of the state. And then there was the fellow who went over to Daytona Beach in order to improve his Vitamin G's. Nowadays it isn't how much money you have, but how much money you owe that determines your standing in the financial world. Now that Foss Hathaway has withdrawn from the gubernatorial race, John Martin is free to take credit for the roads which the people built during his administration. Dave Scholtz says he is going to sweep the state in a regular landslide in the coming election. We fear that by the time the votes are counted Dave will think he has been in an earthquake. When some statisticians remark that four million persons in the city of New York can't tell you the name of their congressman, the Lakeland Ledger observes that they know but are just ashamed to tell. Now that the state of New Jersey has offered a twenty-five thousand dollar reward for information leading to the arrest of the Lindbergh slayers, maybe this guy Curtis will tell the rest of his story. Al Smith doesn't agree with President Hoover on the matter of federal bond issues to finance public works. Sanford taxpayers could tell the former New York governor that big bond issues do not make for permanent prosperity. Many of our congressional candidates are taking advantage of the present unpopularity of the prohibition amendment to try to get into office on a repeal platform. The people should not forget that Congress has comparatively little to do with constitutional amendments. Even if Congress should adopt a resolution directing a special amendment it would be up to the voters of the state for ratification. Before it would become a part of the constitution. And even if it has been ratified, it still has to be approved by the voters of each state. It is the duty of every citizen to be informed of the merits of the various candidates and to vote accordingly.

Poppy Day

"In Flanders fields the poppies blow, Between the crosses, row on row— In those two lines we find the reason for Poppy Day. The poppy was the only living thing which could survive the frightful devastation of Flanders fields. Where trench mortars and field pieces had blasted great holes, where tangled barbed wire cluttered the ground, where shattered helmets and broken bayonets lay around, ten million bright red poppies grew. Saturday will be another Poppy Day in Sanford and throughout the whole United States. Again ten million brilliant poppies will burst forth to brighten up the world and to gladden the hearts of suffering warriors. For twelve months, 80,000 veterans of the World War, incapacitated for other more strenuous work, have been engaged in government hospitals making poppies. Saturday these poppies will go on sale. The American Legion, the American Legion Auxiliary and various other women's organizations will be on the streets selling poppies to every man, woman, and child who remembers the service which these veterans rendered their country in its hour of need, and who feels a bond of common sympathy tying him to the wounded soldier. Pennies, dimes, quarters or dollars will be welcomed, and every cent collected will go directly to the aid of disabled veterans. Some of us may feel that our problems are burdensome, that too many demands are made upon us for relief, but if we could see the real suffering of those who made the truly great sacrifices of the World War, of those who lost an arm or leg, or worse, those who had their lungs destroyed by poisonous gas, or lost their sight, or hearing, all of us would probably breathe a sigh of relief that we are as well off as we are. Saturday we will have a chance to prove not only that we have a real sympathy for the disabled veterans but also that we are thankful that we have been spared much of the suffering which is theirs.

Watch For Bunco Artists

"Hard times" are usually the busiest times for the clever promoter who has a shady proposition to offer the public. The Old Army Game is never so ardently played as when money is scarce and when many energetic smooth talkers feel the pinch for making a living. Scarcely a day passes that someone doesn't come into this office with a scheme whereby we can presumably make a fortune without turning our finger. The woods are full of campaign promoters, bunco artists, and ballyhoosers who make great promises but never deliver. Their type is not so far dissociated from the check forger, the bill raiser, or the pickpocket, except that in the first case the clothes are more finely tailored, the voice more appealing, and the method of operations more polished. It has been reported that some one-dollar bills have been discovered in Sanford that have been raised to the ten-dollar denomination. The system is very simple, but the product is easily recognized as a fake, if a little observation is used. The only trouble is that most people have an unhappy faculty for being too credulous when in the presence of an imitation or a fakir. Another "scheme" which has been brought to our attention recently and which is calculated to fleece the public is a publicity stunt, put on by so-called advertising agents, who are attempting to sell space to Florida business men in a booklet which, it is claimed, will be distributed from the Florida building at the Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago next year. In commenting on this "scheme," Earl W. Brown, manager of the Florida exhibit, has this to say: "We have been advised that solicitors already are in the field pretending that they have been given the right to distribute their proposed books, booklets or pamphlets from the Florida concessions on the exposition grounds. We have been told that some of those solicitors are asking as high as $300 a page for advertising space in their proposed publications. We hope that the people of Florida will be warned against spending their advertising money with the hope or belief that the advertising will be given free distribution from the Florida building or other Florida exhibits at Chicago. There will be no such distribution." The public should be continually on the lookout for frauds, fakers, and imitations at all times and especially right now when every kind of shady manipulation is being tried to get a few dollars.

SANFORD, TWENTY YEARS AGO

President Taft, ex-President Roosevelt, and Senator LaFollette rested Sunday after three days of the hardest campaigning they have experienced since they began the fight for the Republican presidential nomination. The president and Colonel Roosevelt have made more than 40 speeches each since last Thursday and plan to wind up their speaking tours by two days more of vigorous work. Prof. and Mrs. N. J. Perkins were the pleasant host and hostess of a very delightful house party in honor of Mrs. Perkins' sisters, the Misses Emma and Estelle Beard, recently. The party left Sanford Tuesday morning in the launch, Mamie, for Lemon Bluff, where Capt. Pagenhast's house boat is moored, where they spent several happy days in the enjoyment of boating, bathing and fishing. Thursday afternoon Mrs. Harry Wight, with her father, Dr. Joseph Wight, and David Caldwell, Kinchella, with David Caldwell, joined the party, returning with them Thursday evening. Those who enjoyed the pleasant outing were Prof. and Mrs. Perkins, Ethel Goodwin Perkins, the Misses Emma and Estelle Beard, Madge Ward, Lela Michael, Lillian Gibson, Miss Massey, and Roland Wildman, and Waldman Caldwell. Miss Lela Lucy Simon and Mr. E. E. Gentry were united in marriage at the Baptist parsonage at Sanford, Fla., by the Rev. C. A. Owens, Sunday, Mar. 15, 1912. Miss Simon is well known in Sanford, having lived here all her life. Mr. Gentry is a prominent merchant at Cameron City where he has lived for several years, having come to Sanford from Sanford, North Carolina, where he was born.

King Said Backed By Men Seeking To Harm State Citrus

TALLAHASSEE, May 26.—In an open letter to Franklin G. King, candidate for Commissioner of Agriculture, made public here today, Commissioner Nathan Mayo, candidate to succeed himself, charges that King is being supported financially and otherwise by a group of citrus growers who seek to do violence to the citrus industry of Florida. Mayo also embraces the opportunity in his vigorous letter to reply in detail to King's many campaign statements. He characterizes King's utterances as pervasions of the truth. "King," states Mayo, "is being sponsored by those growers and shippers who have not only violated the gross fruit and arsenic spray laws, but who through litigation have attempted to have these statutes declared invalid. Taking cognizance of King's denial that he is not being backed by the citrus growers, I have in my possession absolute conclusive evidence that King's candidacy is sponsored by those men and the voters of the citrus belt who will know who they are. They brought him out and they now expect every effort to be made to elect him."

FARM CO-OPERATION

BY THEODORE MACKLIN (In Daily States Daily)

Protection of citizens' is universally accepted as a foremost responsibility of government. This is of various kinds, depending upon the causes of danger. The Constitution grants to all persons the right to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." Those who design to prosper in these respects at the expense of others create many causes of danger which require government action to develop protective services for their people. During the past 30 years, public realization of the nature of marketing work has made increasingly clear that producers, economic marketing agencies, and consumers require protection in definite ways. To be really protecting the service must cope with or eliminate the causes of danger. What are these dangers? The origin and incentive for marketing lies in consumers' needs to receive what they want keenly enough to pay for. When consumer confidence is created and maintained for a product a market is assured. If that market is treated properly by those who feed it with supplies it will pay satisfactory prices. But when improperly treated, meaning that the quantity of product is too great or too scarce, unsatisfactory prices result. Glutted markets injure producers. Starved markets injure consumers. In each case a part of the public is damaged by causes beyond the power of individual to correct them. Public demand has led governments of many states and nations to develop services to deal with these causes of marketing trouble and to help correct them. Close examination of the quantities of product delivered in markets shows that consumer confidence rests upon quality. To know quality, buyers rely on reputation, if the commodity has any; otherwise upon inspection. But inspection takes time for even the best of quality. To save time, grading and standardization service is highly appreciated by consumers and by those dealing with them. To help further by building reputation, wise producers and marketing agencies have created names known as "brands" to identify their quality goods and services. Desirable marketing recognizes at all times consumer requirements for identified reliable quality made certain by grades. But those firms and producers who aspire to these worthy purposes are interfered with by other producers and firms who ignore business standards. This class of operators constantly tears down the efforts of those who try to build up efficient marketing. The competitive struggle going on in all markets is a battle of right against wrong in business. It is a struggle of worthy quality, reliable standards, and advertised identification against substitutes of all kinds. These substitutes are forced into the market by those deliberately trying to obtain unfair advantage, without serving or paying the costs of service which are so essential both to consumers and producers. The more wisely and strongly organized producers are, the less they have need of protection from government through the law. Laws as supplying market news, law enforcement, and the promotion of organization and of trade contact and good will. It is those growers who are helpless in marketing, rendered so by either incomplete or lacking organization, who throw upon the Government the burdens of trying to protect them by executive function fixed by law in the State Division of Markets. If all growers were as well organized as the members of the producer's cooperation associations marketing citrus fruits, nuts, eggs, and certain cheese, there would be little need for government protection for them. They could take care of themselves even as these well-organized growers are now doing. While the primary function of government is protection to citizens, the most important phase of this protection is to help them organize so they may permanently protect themselves by efficient self-supporting service. In no other way can government be relieved of expensive service demands which weigh heavily upon the taxpayer. In order that producers may provide for themselves at their own expense the marketing protection which they seek from the state at the taxpayer's expense, it is incumbent upon the Division of Markets, by the stated purposes of the law, to promote sound organization of producers in their own right, and of marketing agencies, both commercial and cooperative, in their own behalf. Also in practical ways, it is its duty to stimulate the ability of marketing agencies to operate efficiently at business expense, thus relieving the state and the taxpayers of the cost of trying perpetually to help those who are unorganized and unable to create favorable market conditions by their own efforts. Without industry demand backed by public opinion, the Market Commission Act of California becomes neither operative nor a noticeable expense to the taxpayer. The Division of Markets, therefore, is an executive arm of the state government to function in time of need when drafted to serve. When it responds to call this is evidence of real need, because either producers or middlemen, or both, have taken action to request something which they want, but do not have, and are authorized to obtain from the state.

Blackmer Pays Injuries, Protects Government Big Wash Civil Tax Claim As To Liquor Issue

(Continued From Page One) Blackmer was adjudged guilty of contempt of court for failure to appear at the Fall-Sinclair conspiracy trial. It was Liberty bonds traced by the United States Secret Service which first connected Blackmer with the oil lease scandal in which the government charged that Albert B. Fall, secretary of the Interior, had conspired with Harry F. Sinclair, wealthy oil man, to defraud the government of the Teapot Dome naval oil reserves. The bonds, it was found on investigation, were part of the proceeds of an oil deal in which Blackmer, Sinclair and other oil men participated in the purchase and resale of oil. The oil men formed the Continental Trading Company for handling their transactions. The Secret Service traced some of the bonds from the company to Sinclair and Fall, Blackmer, summoned as a government witness in the Fall-Sinclair trial in 1927, failed to appear. Contempt proceedings and seizure of the $100,000 in Liberty bonds followed. He was found guilty of contempt of court a second time when he refused to appear at the trial of Sinclair in 1928. Later the court imposed a fine of $30,000 on each of two charges under a newly-enacted law giving the courts authority to seize up to $100,000 of the property of any person who refused to return from abroad and testify in a criminal trial. Other oil men involved in the Continental Trading Company deal paid the Treasury the tax and penalties assessed against them on their unreported profits. Blackmer was assessed a total of $8,498,936 by the Internal Revenue Bureau for back taxes, penalties and interest. A short time later he was indicted in Denver and the government placed liens on all of its property it could locate but could find only $1,589,398 worth. Blackmer appealed to the Board of Tax Appeals for a redetermination of the amount and the government compromised assessments for 1916, 1917, and 1919 which amounted to $2,626,354 for $1,500,000 and interest for 1920, 1921, 1922, and 1923. The tax amounted to $1,049,254 while the penalties and interest amounted to $1,121,530.

Warner Baxter, Miss Nixon To Appear Here

Warner Baxter in "Amateur Oddy" with Marian Nixon in the principal feminine role, is the screen offering at the Milane Theater Friday. The story, which is based on Mildred Cram's popular novel, "Scotch Valley," is said to deftly combine drama with romance, and though the film has its moments of pathos there is a delightful undercurrent of sparkling humor every present.

Baxter's role is that of a shy and kind hearted bachelor. When he escapes with minor injuries an accident which results in the death of his best friend, he takes it upon himself to care for his pal's family, whose name incidentally happens to be Smith. But there are Smiths and Smiths, which never occurs to Baxter, and he soon finds himself mothering and fathering a small family of poor but happy waifs.

The eldest of them is a girl of eighteen, the part played by Miss Nixon. She is inclined to resent the intrusion of Baxter at first but he gradually wins her confidence which in turn develops into a very

Miss Rossetter Has Party At Her Home

In celebration of her twelfth birthday anniversary, Miss Nancy Rossetter, assisted by her mother, Mrs. A. K. Rossetter, entertained with a birthday party at her home on Celery Avenue Monday afternoon. Games and a treasure hunt were enjoyed on the porch and lawn until late in the afternoon.

At the refreshment hour the guests were invited to the dining room where a color scheme of pink and green was developed by decorations of roses, gladioli, fern, and crepe paper. The table was centered with a large cake decorated with green icing, pink candles, and pink roses. Appointments on the table further accentuated the chosen color motif. Favours were old-fashioned novelties of flowers.

Among those present were: the Misses Dorothy Wiggins, Elizabeth Leffler, Marjorie Coeburn, Joanne Azzarelli, Daphne Takach, Ann Benson, Frances Johnson, Frances Phillips, Gene Taylor, Cecelia Bruuck, Carol Palmer, Evelyn Stowe, Lillian Adams, Ella Naude Jones, Jeanne Hanson, Theodosia Murphy, Dora Skyleson, Gladys Palmer, and Lois Wolff.

Zelma A. Zelenovitch and Julian Zelenovitch have arrived from Brunswick, Ga. to spend a short time here with Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Moses, Palmton Avenue.

Miss Carrie White returned yesterday from the Florida State College for Women to spend the summer here with her parents, Judge and Mrs. H. S. White.

The public is cordially invited to attend the recital. Doors will be closed during the number.

Strong friends up but not without a pity. He is a man that he has his own way of the neighboring ranch families, and that he is falling in love with the girl, much against his own will. Ang at the very height of his romance he discovers that it is the wrong family of Smiths he has been caring for.

Plane Reported To Have Sent Out SOS Call Denies Story

BOSTON, May 26 (A.P.)—A mail plane catapulted from the deck of the North German Lloyd liner Europa, 500 miles at sea and which later sent out SOS signals, landed at the Boston airport at 5:40 P. M. yesterday.

The plane, piloted by Leof Jonchum Blankenborg with Earl Kato off as copilot, arrived at the airport while the Europa searched the sea for it and while three Coast Guard vessels were racing to its assistance from distant points.

Attaches of the Boston airport who reported the landing, and the plane likewise appeared to be in good condition.

The plane, carrying mail to Boston and New York, had sent out SOS signals at 11:10 A. M. Eastern Standard Time. Two hours later the United States Department of Commerce Castle Island station picked up the SOS call for assistance.

Boston airport attaches said the three planes had sent out SOS signals and competing among themselves as to the possibility another plane might be in trouble.

The three were quoted by news boys at the airport as saying they were in a race to land 100 miles away from the Europa, thus cutting off their communication with the liner. After the plane had landed, they left their engines and came to the ground at a New York, their general destination, the airport reported.

Some time after the fight was over Krummer returned with a bloody bandage about his head. Turning toward the Nazi members grouped at one side of the hall he shouted:

"Twenty to one! You'll pay for this!"

A renewal of the fight was threatened when parliament spirit flared up in the public gallery. Spectators rushed down to the main floor, but were ejected by officials.

During the tumult, Keresy, the legislature's new president, left the hall automatically, closing the session.

In the council of elders after the affair both the Nazi and communist declared their respective parties were interested in fixing the blame and neither wished to lag the police into the affair.

Doctor Will Be Here To Give Inoculation

Dorothy Lams, county school nurse, today was advised that Dr. W. Peck of the Florida State Board of Health, will be in Seminole County June 2 through June 3 to give inoculation against diphtheria to any child from one year of age up, and whose parents wish them to have it.

It will be his second visit here within a month, his first being last week when he examined 100 school children at a free clinic. At that time he reported that they were all in excellent health, with only a few exceptions of diseased tonsils and adenoids. He also re-

MEDICAL TEAM IS BEATEN AT HANDS OF SOLDIER BOYS

Clearly Outclassed In 13 To 4 Struggle On Lakeshore Lot

By E. H. CULLUM. Clearly outclassed in every department of the game, the Medical Detachment diamond ball team went down to defeat at the hands of Company D last night to the tune of 13 to 4.

Murray Kanner was on the mound for Company D in the first six innings and limited the Medical Detachment to 4 hits, good for two runs, during his stay in the box, striking out ten, and did not walk a man. For four innings the Medical Detachment was able to get only one man on base. In this inning, Hester, first up, hit to left short, who fumbled the ball and then threw wild to first. However, Hester died on third as the next three went out in succession. Jesse Cook replaced Kanner at the 7th, and allowed two hits, for two runs, walked one, and struck out three.

The Medical Detachment put over their first two runs in the fifth inning. Odham, first up, connected with the first ball pitched, and boy! did he smack that! The ball sailed over left center far beyond the field and Odham trotted home before the ball was retrieved. Wade, next up, struck out; Williams, safe on an error; Thompson struck out; Porter doubled scoring Williams; Calhoun hit one through left short. However, Porter, running the bases, got in the way of the ball, being automatically out. Wade was on the firing line for the Medical Detachment, and held the hard hitting Company D team to nine hits. However, miserable support by his teammates, and especially infield errors in the fourth inning, when the entire infield blew up accounted for most of the runs made by Company D. Odham was the heavy hitter for the Medical Detachment, getting two out of three times at bat, a homerun and a single. Mutt Mays and M. Kanner, also hit for the circuit for Company D. Claude Locke got two out of four trips to the plate, a triple and a double. While the Medical Detachment team did not show up so well last night, they have some mighty good material on their team. Practically every member of the team is a novice at diamond ball playing, and with a little more experience and practice they will show a decided improvement over their playing last night. On the other hand the Company D team has developed faster than any team in the league, and is now strong enough to give any team in the league a run for its money.

Tonight the Firestone and Medical Detachment will tie up. Tomorrow night the girls will engage the Orlando girls in a game. The Sanford diamond ball team was defeated in DeLand last night by the DeLand All Stars 8 to 4.

Commissioner of Education, will award degrees to approximately 300 graduates of 1932. A feature of this year's commencement will be the unveiling of a handsome oil painting of P. K. Yonge, chairman of the State Board of Control, and one of Florida's most distinguished and beloved citizens.

Fast Bouts Are On Tap For Princess Tomorrow Evening

Matchmaker Hal Davis of the Legion announced today that he has an added attraction on the fight card here Friday night at the Princess Theater in Billy Hood, one of the best professional boxers in Florida. Hood will box a four round exhibition with two sparring partners. This should prove a good foil for the hard fighting that is scheduled on the card as Hood is one of the fastest and cleverest boxers in the South.

The fight between Kid Allen and Young Fitzsimmons seems to have the fans talking more than any other fight on the card. Allen, the more experienced of the two is well known locally because of the many good fights in which he has participated here. But Fitzsimmons is not without backers because he has been coming to the front with a rush of late. His whirlwind style may cause Allen serious trouble.

Babe Peckham and Pat Robinson, who are in the final bout, will have to hustle to keep the spotlight with such well matched fights as the ones that are scheduled to precede them. Jack Carroll, Coach MacLaren's Sanford High jumper, is sure to provide plenty of fire works in his bout with Lee Cash. Carroll hits like a train with either hand and Cash will need all his cleverness to remain intact.

In the other half of the double windup Bill McGarity meets Kid Ted Miller and the other preliminaries will find Stewart Gatchel boxing Jack Hughes, while the opening bout will be a return match between Jesse Cook and Roy Echols.

Benders White Sox Take Tournament In Bowling League

Benders White Sox won the present five-man tournament staged at the Sanford Bowling Alleys, by defeating the Witte's Indiana team in the roll off of a protested game.

The victory put the White Sox in first place; the Senators second; the Indians, Tigers, and Dodgers in a tie for third place, and the Cardinals in last place. All teams tied for third place will roll a three-way, three-game total pin match to decide which team takes third place. This match will be played on Sunday night of this week, and all players of those teams are urged to be present.

A four-man team tournament with six teams is being formed to start next week, and any new bowlers wishing to participate, may register at the alleys on Commercial Street during this week. Eddie Bender won the high score honor for last week, with a 254 score, and John Herbst won the three game total with scores of 224-224 and 224, for a total of 672.

Why John W. Martin Leads The Field

Editorial comments in Florida newspapers reveal the points of view of those who are espousing the cause of the leading candidates for governor.

One reason for the remarkable hold John W. Martin has on the people is explained by the Lake Wales News:

"Hon. John W. Martin met his friends in this community last Friday with the same hearty 'Howdy' which has always characterized his past visits. He is an excellent campaigner and his discussion of the present gubernatorial campaign had a tendency to crystallize his support into an active working body."

This tells only a part of the story. John W. Martin warms those with whom he comes in contact by his friendliness, he inspires confidence in those who hear him and he impresses everyone as human, red blooded and positive in his opinions and actions.

But his tremendous following throughout Florida including ardent friends and supporters in every precinct of every county, has an earlier and firmer foundation. Since long before John W. Martin had any idea of running for public office he was known as a man who stood to his friends and was always ready to lend a helping hand to those in distress.

In a recent issue of the Apopka Chief there was published this story as told by Mr. J. McDonald, long-time resident of Apopka to the editor:

"Twenty-five years ago I was a resident of Jacksonville. This was before John Martin had entered politics. He was at that time a salesman for a wholesale grocery house, a popular young man with his trade and with all who came to know him. I was conducting the McDonald Drug Company at that time, with a store at the corner of Eighth and Main Streets. Next door to my store a man named Ellis kept a grocery."

"One day Ellis had a friend to come to visit him and the two went fishing in what is known, or was then, as Trout Creek. Both were drowned and naturally there was great distress in the Ellis household. With no one to look after his business affairs, the widow was overwhelmed in her misfortune."

"The case came to the attention of John Martin and he called on the distressed woman and offered to care for her business and close it out. This he did, giving careful attention to every detail and turning everything possible into money. He did this at no little sacrifice to himself of time and effort. Then he paid over to the widow the money he had gathered for her, refusing to take anything for himself."

"I have always admired John Martin ever since. This was only one of his many good deeds. Is it any wonder that later he was Mayor of Jacksonville three times and then governor of the State? I thought this little story might help some people who do not know John Martin, to understand the sort of man he is."

Those who know the sort of man he is know, of course, that he would show the greatest consideration to widows and orphans in his business dealings and were therefore not surprised to learn that instead of taking advantage of two estimable ladies in Pensacola he has kept their taxes paid for several years and prevents them from losing their home. Is it any wonder that the lady who had title to the property expressed the wish that she could cast a vote for John W. Martin.

The same sort of consideration was shown to some orphans who have a claim to property in Tallahassee and in other cases John W. Martin has sustained losses of interest and principal to aid those in straightened circumstances.

While it is true that John W. Martin has aided many persons who have later turned against him, to serve their personal ends, the people of Florida as a rule are not ungrateful and there are thousands who would follow Martin even though it meant personal loss and even privation.

HE'LL DO SOMETHING

And still this does not account entirely for a solidarity of support that stretches across North Florida, down the east coast and up the Gulf shore with only a few missing links. John W. Martin has a strong appeal to thousands who have no personal reason for supporting him but who see in him the only candidate with the ability, the force, the strength of character and the manhood to do something for Florida.

This point of view is expressed by the Lake City Reporter which refers to the leading candidate for governor as "Our John." In an editorial under the caption, "He'll Do Something," the Reporter says in part:

"When the state government was expanding and had growing pains, Governor Martin kept the state government solvent at the time. With the demand for more and more taxes and decreased state agencies, Governor Martin is qualified as few men in meeting the present situation. He will do something and that's the kind of man Florida needs in Tallahassee the next four years."

There are, of course, two schools of thought on how to meet the present emergency. In state and nation Hoover and Carlton have had the idea that it was best to sit still and wait for something to happen. This has not proven very effective. Mr. Martin's opponent appeals to those who still concern to this point of view. They feel that what Florida needs is a do-nothing administration. John W. Martin represents the opposite view point. He believes in meeting the emergency with action. He believes that the rest of government must be reduced but that it is even more important that the people have money because unless they do they will not be able to pay taxes even though they are reduced. To that end he has a program of inducing capital to the state, developing Florida's resources, marketing Florida's products, finding new jobs for Florida people, restoring the confidence of the nation in Florida's credit, a program that has many advantages among those of high and low estate. One of these was described recently in the Tallahassee State as follows: "In town the other day was a fisherman from down Chesapeake way. He said he had been used by one of the state politicians down there to vote for Senator Hardee and had a man that will 'lighten down' he said he would. 'Well, great grand country, they have lightened down here until there is just one more third to come before we'll be broke and that's what we need to a man who will stand up a little bit.'" state affairs, his ability to accomplish things and his sound business-like management.

THOSE AGAINST MARTIN

Those who oppose Martin in this campaign are also of various types. There are the Carlton appointees who hope to hold their jobs under Hardee, the citizens who favor the Carlton-Hardee kind of state government for various reasons, the type of banker who is opposed to any change in banking laws unless written or dictated by the banking fraternity or who favor the filling up of huge useless surpluses in the banks, the ultra-conservatives and reactionaries who represent in Florida the Republican idea of special favor for the interests, the timid souls who feel safest in the presence of the massive and cold blooded and a few who are so glibly that they will believe John W. Martin walked into Tallahassee in a rage and went back to Jacksonville four years later with a dozen hussies, fifteen chauffeurs, a private car and a steam yacht.

And what absurdities are raked out for use as campaign arguments against Martin! That he donated $10 to a Baptist Church at Bonita when he was governor. That he keeps his promise and stands by his friends. That he repaired and furnished a dilapidated and barren governor's mansion, leaving there for future governors everything bought during his administration. That he spent millions more for paved highways and returned millions more to the counties for local roads and public schools. That he found the Everglades development half finished and sought to complete the job and save the millions sunk there by the bond issues of Hardee and other governors without a penny of cost to taxpayers elsewhere. That the legislature and cabinet boards did certain things while he was governor.

And what a weak case is being made out for his opponent, Mr. Hardee! While Hardee falteringly insists that the great accomplishments of his administration were reappointment and a fiscal policy the impression grows that Mr. Hardee excels in the ability to do absolutely nothing with extraordinary distinction. While Hardee timidly denies Carlton twice, the Carlton appointees and the pro-Carlton press are joined by the Miami Daily News, most closely allied with the Carlton administration of them all. And while he reiterates that his campaign is based on his record, thousands join the Inverness Chronicle in this opinion:

"Hardee is basing his campaign for another term as governor on his past record as this state's chief executive, which, to our way of thinking, is a very flimsy excuse for making the effort."

And this opinion from the Miami Post: "For the small amount of work done Mr. Hardee proudest himself the most extravagant governor the state ever had." And while Hardee daily defends his "vacant Chair" administration and strenuously attempts to deny the obvious Carlton administration support of his candidacy, his opponent drives straight ahead in a vigorous and aggressive campaign.

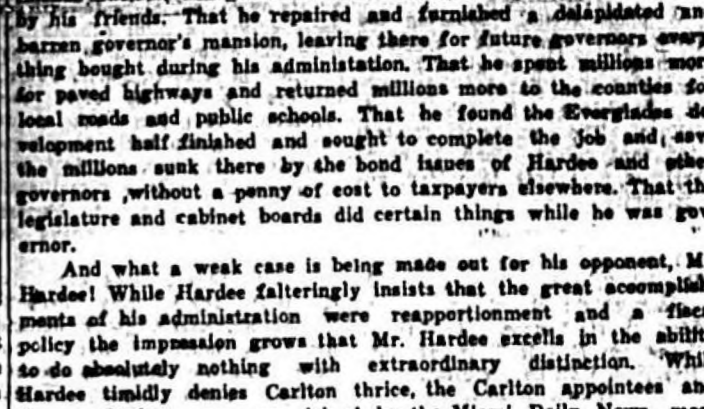

Friends of John W. Martin will not permit anyone to spread falsehoods about him. Attempts to do so have been promptly met with indubitable disproval.

But John W. Martin does not pause or even hesitate on his course. He continues to drive straight ahead, through the weakening Carlton lines toward sure victory. Nothing can stop the wave of sentiment for John W. Martin. The people want a strong, active, courageous man and the entire Carlton administration, the organized bankers and the special interests cannot stand in the way. We wish to make it quite clear that there is a distinct difference between engraved personal cards and printed cards.

One of the principal differences is the fact that the engraved ones are much larger in size, then too, this type of card must be made elsewhere for no shop in Sanford is equipped to engrave cards.

Of course if you want more cards some time later it would be better to purchase engraved cards now because by doing so you will be given a plate, from which others may be made at a reasonable cost.

However, printed cards in Old English type on paneled cards are very dignified and suitable for the occasion. They may be printed right here in our office so we can extend to you an unusually reasonable price. We will gladly show you samples and promise prompt delivery.
