Policeman Not Guilty In Planted Wallet Sting

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

A Sanford police officer accused of taking $20 from a planted wallet in an "integrity test" was found not guilty Thursday after a daylong retrial. Alvin Bernard McGill, 27, of 1107 E. 8th St., was found not guilty following a few minutes deliberation by a six-member jury.

McGill's first trial on the misdemeanor charge of petty theft ended in a mistrial May 31 with the jury split 5 for acquittal, once for conviction.

McGill, suspended with pay Feb. 27, will be reporting back to work as soon as a schedule can be worked out, perhaps today, said Sanford Police Chief Steve Harriett.

McGill was suspended following the wallet "sting" in which Sanford officers said they planted a wallet with $20 in it in a phone booth then had a sheriff's department employee report a found wallet. McGill was dispatched to pick up the wallet. Officer said the wallet did not have any money in it when McGill turned it in at the police station. Further, the officers said, McGill did not mention any money in his report of the incident.

Defense attorney Chris Ray argued that the Sanford officers did not search the woman to assure she did not have the cash. She also testified that she did not look in the wallet to see if it contained any money. Ray also said McGill was not confronted with the accusation until several hours after the call.

If McGill had been convicted of the petty theft charge he could have received up to 60 days in the county jail and a $500 fine. A conviction would also have placed his state certification as a police officer in jeopardy.

Neither McGill nor Ray could be contacted today for comment.

According to court records, on Feb. 27 at 12:30 a.m., McGill was dispatched to the parking lot of the Foxfire Restaurant, 3221 S. U.S. Highway 17-92, Sanford, on the found wallet call.

6 Nabbed In Cocaine Schemes

By Deane Jordan
and Susan Loden

Two Seminole County men are being held on $100,000 bond each following $2 million cocaine bust at three Orlando area motels late Thursday and early today, according to Dennis Dayle, director of the Metropolitan Bureau of Investigation.

In an unrelated bust, a Maitland man and a Winter Park man were arrested in Seminole County and being held early today on cocaine charges after they were allegedly caught picking up drug-filled envelopes at four area post offices.

The Orlando bust also netted two Miami residents from Columbia who had in their possession three kilos of cocaine and an undetermined amount of diamonds, sapphires and gold, Dayle said.

Ken Agerton, 30, of Altamonte Springs, and James Moore, 24, of Casselberry, were being held in lieu of $100,000 bond each today, Dayle said. They were arrested at 10:35 p.m. Thursday.

Economic Index Rebounds In May

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government's composite index of leading indicators rose 0.7 percent in May after two previous months of decline, presenting a mixed picture of the economy's prospects, government economists said today.

The up-and-down gyrations of the leading index, intended to foretell changes in the economy, have been little help to forecasters trying to figure out whether a rebound is under way.

In 12 months the index has pointed down six times.

Instead analysts have looked to the other government report to tell the future, the "flash" projection of the gross national product, which suggests the quarter just ending grew at a 3.1 percent annual rate, 10 times the growth of the first quarter.

Additional data showed the April index went down 0.6 percent instead of the originally reported 0.2 percent. And the March index slipped 0.1 percent instead of increasing by the same amount.

Eight of the 10 indicators available for May contributed to the increase, led by a change in raw materials prices, a possible sign of stronger demand.

Also positive were a lengthening of the average work week, an expansion of the money supply, an increase in the average of 500 common stock prices, a rise in building permits, improvements in orders for factory equipment, a decline in new claims for unemployment benefits and an acceleration of orders for consumer goods.

Chinese Visitors To Get Special Sanford Welcome

By Rick Branson
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford is preparing a special welcome for a delegation of 10 business and political leaders from the Peoples' Republic of China scheduled to arrive in town Saturday morning.

The delegation, from the south China city of Guangzhou, formerly Canton, is coming for a week of negotiations with a Sanford helicopter company, as well as to tour of the city and some of Central Florida's major attractions.

Sanford officials are scheduled to honor the delegation with a luncheon at the airport at noon Monday. Mayor Bettye Smith, who toured China in September, will present the leaders with a key to the city and then take them on a bus tour.

Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce President Jack Horner is then scheduled to lead the delegation on an inspection of Sanford's business and industrial districts.

The group is scheduled to arrive at Orlando International Airport Saturday morning and then will be bused to Sanford, according to Troy Simmons, sales manager for Orlando Helicopter Airways Inc., the company hosting the visitors.

They will spend the rest of the day resting from their flight from the other side of the world, Simmons said. On Sunday, the delegation is scheduled to tour Orlando Helicopter's facilities at the Sanford airport. They will also begin talks to seal a 15-year, multi-million dollar deal made earlier this year.

Employees at Orlando Helicopter have been working feverishly to get the offices and warehouses looking their best, Simmons said.

"I've been pounding nails and painting and doing everything," he said. "It's a big thing (for the company). The biggest to date."

The visit is also "big" for Sanford, according to Horner, because some of the most important business and political leaders of Guangzhou are coming to town. The delegation includes the mayor of Guangzhou, China's fifth largest city.

"He has as many people in his province as Gov. Graham has in this state," Horner said.

The company and the Chinese struck the contract in February, calling for Orlando Helicopter to sell 10 of its "Bearcat" cargo helicopters and spare parts to the country.

Orlando Helicopter and the Chinese also formed a joint venture company called Guangzhou Orlando Helicopters Ltd., which will build a helicopter factory in Guangzhou. The 25,000-square-foot plant is under construction and is expected to be fully operational in about three years. Under the contract, Orlando Helicopter would supply parts and technicians and China would supply the labor. By 1989, the Chinese are expected to build their own helicopters. Orlando Helicopter will have about 60 percent of the interest in the factory and the Chinese 40 percent, according to Board Chairman Fred Clark.

Simmons said next week's negotiations would mainly "cross the T's and dot the I's" of the contract. The company is not revealing the exact monetary terms.

After their Sanford tour the Chinese are scheduled to spend the rest of the week in negotiations with Orlando Helicopter and touring elsewhere.

The deal with China, besides boosting Orlando Helicopter's profits, means more jobs for Sanford and the widening of a big economic door for the United States, Simmons said.

"They've dealt in the past with Russia and what have they gotten? Now they realize they have got to deal with the United States. They have seen Hong Kong, their neighbor, and how it

Ill Hostage Freed; Others May Be In Syria

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — The Amal militia freed another ailing American hijack hostage today and took him to a hospital amid reports some of the remaining 38 hostages had been transferred to Syria and that arrangements were being made to move the rest.

An aide to Amal leader Nabih Berri said Simon Grossmayer was released and taken to American University Hospital in west Beirut for treatment of an undisclosed ailment.

Grossmayer was taken to the hospital from Berri's home in west Beirut. There had been reports he was to have been put aboard a plane for Cyprus, but the last flight to Cyprus left without him.

A spokesman at the Lebanese Ministry of Information confirmed Grossmayer's release and said he was receiving treatment at the hospital. But the spokesman said he did not know if the treatment was linked to lung or chest problems.

Grossmayer, 57, of Algonquin, Ill., had a lung removed some years ago and Berri said earlier this week he was considering releasing him. His release left 38 hostages in the hands of the powerful Shiite Moslem Amal militia or of Shiite militants who hijacked a Rome-bound TWA jet June 14.

Lebanese intelligence sources said some of the hostages with Jewish-sounding names — taken off the plane before the rest of the hostages were placed in Amal's custody — had already been transferred to Syria. Damascus firmly denied that report.

A senior editor of the official Syrian News Agency, the government's mouthpiece, said the report was "not true." He also denied a report Syria had agreed to take the remaining 38 hostages under United Nations' auspices.

Other news reports, however, suggested negotiations were underway to arrange a transfer of the hostages to Syria.

A spokesman for the Swiss Embassy said there had been no reply from Berri since he pledged to pass on to hijackers a Swiss offer to take custody of the hostages.

YMCA Planned For South Seminole

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

Construction of a YMCA gymnasium and office building on a five-acre tract in southwest Seminole County, behind Lake Brantley High School, will begin as soon as money is raised for the facility. But that time isn't far off.

It will cost about $500,000 to build the facility, but a donation of $220,000 has already been received from the Central Florida Capital Funds Committee, a group of businessmen who raise money for worthy causes, said Jerry Haralson, general director of the Central Florida YMCA.

"That money is a seed gift to be matched by the community," Haralson said. Another $125,000 has been donated by persons Haralson called "selected individuals - community leaders."

He said the 12,000 square foot facility to be the first phase of a total YMCA for Seminole County will contain a gymnasium, office space and locker rooms. A second phase to be done at a future time will include an indoor pool and multi-purpose room.

Haralson said the YMCA did a survey in Seminole in 1983 to determine the kind of facility the public desired and the majority of responses were for a gymnasium with an indoor pool coming in second.

Estimates of construction costs for different kinds of designs are being gathered.

Haralson said 5,000 residents of Seminole County are par-

Sewer Capacity Allocations Give Building Plans Go-Ahead

Construction can begin on some 20 residential and commercial projects in southeast Seminole County within the next 30-to-45 days because 500,000 gallons per day of sewer capacity is being released to the county by Orlando's Iron Bridge Sewer plant near Oviedo.

Construction of the projects has been held up awaiting sewer capacity.

Cindy Wright, assistant director of the county's Department of Environmental Services, said notices will be sent certified mail late this week or early next week to the developers, who are on a waiting list, notifying them they have 72 hours to write a letter to the department of their intent to buy up to 52,500 gallons of sewer capacity each within 30 days.

The 52,500 gallons of capacity is the amount needed for 150 homes or an equivalent amount of commercial development. Ms. Wright said,

Carburetor Woes Slow Progress, Dampen Spirits

Sanford's road rally team, Gerald and Don Gross, racing across America in their 1932 Deluxe Model A "Jenny Steamcleaner," were slowed Thursday by a malfunctioning carburetor.

The combination of the mechanical problems and travel fatigue put the Grosses in poor spirits by the time they pulled into Amarillo Thursday night, said Patty Austin, Gross secretary at his Sanford architectural firm.

As a result of the carburetor problems the team lost time and ground and probably dropped back from their prime position in the race. Gross said they had been in the top third of the field Wednesday.

Ms. Austin said the carburetor started malfunctioning shortly after they set out from Albuquerque, N.M., Thursday morning. The malfunction forced the team to cut its speed.

The car's windshield was

Don Gross

also broken by flying rocks in the Texas panhandle, she reported.

Mechanics traveling with the team rebuilt the carburetor during the night, "but they don't have a another windshield," Ms. Austin said. Because the car was lamed by carburetor problems, the Grosses had no time to stop and socialize with townspeople along the way — a practice they have enjoyed since the race began Monday.

As a side note, Gross reported there were some football players from the National Football League in the race, "but he said they were better football players than car drivers," Ms. Austin said.

The Grosses will try to make up the time they lost today on their way to Wichita, Kan.

'Dear John...'

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Men observed picking up prostitutes may soon be receiving embarrassing "Dear John" letters at home, if the local police chief has her way.

Police Chief Penny Harrington Thursday announced the plan to curb prostitution.

The chief said four community newspapers had agreed to publish the names of men cited for soliciting the services of prostitutes.

Letters warning prostitution is illegal will also be sent to the registered owners of cars spotted picking up prostitutes.

The city's major daily newspaper, The Oregonian, refused to participate in the project, its editor saying "The Oregonian is a newspaper and not an arm of a law enforcement agency."

Hotel Strike Over; Workers Back On The Job

NEW YORK (UPI) — Thousands of hotel workers today began returning to work at 53 inns where a bitter strike had crippled service to out-of-town guests at the start of the busy summer tourist season.

Members of the Hotel and Motel Trades Council meeting Thursday screamed approval of an agreement that ended the city's first hotel strike in 47 years.

Many of the 16,000 workers involved in the strike were expected to return to work by today at the 53 hotels affected, including some of the city's finest hostels — the Waldorf-Astoria, Plaza and Pierre.

Agreement had been reached Wednesday to end the 26-day walkout of workers ranging from bartenders to chambermaids. The vote by more than 5,000 of the union workers was a formality since the union's Wage and Policy Committee had unanimously approved the new contract a few hours earlier.

The agreement with the Hotel Association of New York affects 25,000 union members working in 165 hotels and raises wages and benefits more than 30 percent over five years.

Most Fire Evacuees Back Home

COACHELLA, Calif. (UPI) — All but about 400 of the 2,200 people evacuated because of toxic smoke from a fire at a pesticide and fertilizer warehouse are back home, but experts are now testing crops for possible contamination.

The all-clear was given Thursday after tests showed the air in the vicinity of the fire was safe, except for possible danger within a two-mile radius of the still-smoldering warehouse.

The remaining evacuees spent the night at a Red Cross emergency center at Coachella Valley High School, where temperatures exceeded 110 degrees.

"We're in the process of suppression," Riverside County Fire Department Capt. Gene Ostrander said. "Firefighters are using foam to seal and smother the chemicals, which will be removed once the smoldering spots are extinguished."

About 2,200 people were driven from homes and fields from nearby Thermal and Mecca on Wednesday morning after fire enveloped the Wilbur-Ellis Chemical Company.

No serious injuries resulted from the smoky chemical fire, which was described as a "carbon copy" of a blaze Sunday in an Anaheim agricultural firm that forced 10,000 people from their homes.

GOP Wooing Democrats

ATLANTA (UPI) — Republicans, claiming their party mirrors mainstream America, hope to enlarge their ranks by 100,000 in the coming weeks with a radio and television advertising blitz aimed at disenfranchised Democrats.

A recent Gallup Poll showed 37 percent of Americans identified themselves as Democrats and 35 percent called themselves Republicans, a sharp change from less than a decade ago when Democrats held a 25 percent edge.

Five States Await Word On Homeport For Battleship

United Press International

Congressional officials in the five Gulf states say they still have received no word from the Navy on which town will be selected as the homeport for the USS Wisconsin and its support vessels.

The Navy in February pared the list of possible sites for the Wisconsin, currently mothballed, to six: Pensacola, Fla.; Mobile, Ala.; Lake Charles, La.; Pascagoula, Miss.; Galveston, Texas; and Corpus Christi, Texas.

Key West is a possible site as the homeport of two of the Wisconsin's support frigates should the Navy decide to split up the group. Lake Charles also has been mentioned as a site for the support vessels.

Navy Secretary John Lehman has said he wanted to make the decision by July 4 and many people expected word to come this week before Congress recesses for Independence Day.

Agents Raid Cocaine Smugglers

WEST PALM BEACH (UPI) — Two months of tedious surveillance around the clock paid off for federal and local drug enforcement officers in the largest smuggled drugs haul in Palm Beach County history.

About 30 camouflaged agents moved out of the bushes along the Intracoastal Waterway at dawn Thursday and swooped down on two homes. The officers seized 30 duffel bags containing a ton of uncut cocaine, two speed boats and four expensive sports cars and arrested 10 people.

The duffel bags contained a total of 1,800 to 2,000 pounds of cocaine, worth about $20 million wholesale, said Palm Beach County Sheriff Richard Wille. On the street, the cocaine could have been worth up to $200 million. Authorities also seized an undisclosed amount of cash.

Wille said the houses were the starting point for a cocaine distribution network. From the houses, the drugs would go to a distribution point in Miami, from where it was sent to major cities in the northern half of the country.

Wille said the cocaine was believed to have come from South America via the Bahamas.

Bike Auction Canceled

The Seminole County Sheriff's Department auction of unclaimed bicycles, originally scheduled for Saturday, has been postponed to 10 a.m. July 13.

The bikes will be sold to the highest bidder. The auction will be held at the fenced compound behind the sheriff's office, building 310 at the Sanford Airport, Sanford. The bikes can be viewed through the fence before the cash-only sale.

House: Execute Military Spies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House passed a $292 billion Pentagon package with decisions to put legal limits on cases in which U.S. combat troops can be sent to Nicaragua and to execute spies who wear a U.S. uniform.

The two issues and a handful of far less controversial proposals marked the end of a three-week-long debate that also saw the House restrict the MX program and tentatively allow chemical weapons production to resume for the first time in 16 years.

The 278-106 vote on the total defense authorization bill came as Congress rushed to wrap up business so members can head out today for a week's Fourth of July recess.

On troop use in Nicaragua, members opted 312-111 for a proposal by Rep. Thomas Foley of Washington, assistant House Democratic leader, to limit the cases in which U.S. combat forces could be sent to Nicaragua without a formal declaration of war.

The House also decided 104-34 to let courts-martial impose a death penalty for peacetime military spying. The penalty now is 10 years in prison.

The Senate has proposed that the penalty for all spying convictions should be a mandatory life sentence until a federal death penalty is restored.

Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, said the defense bill reflected a new direction for House Democrats — who now are on record in favor of a number of weapons systems, arms control issues and a lower spending figure than Reagan advocated.

The figure of $292 billion amounts to a freeze at actual fiscal year 1985 levels, while the Senate number of $302 billion is a freeze after an adjustment for inflation. Reagan accepted the $302 billion figure.

The bills now go to a conference committee that will spend the summer trying to work out the differences. Foley's amendment limited to two cases the use of U.S. troops in Nicaragua without a declaration of war: —Introduction to Nicaragua of nuclear weapons or Soviet MiG jets, or incidents of hijacking or terrorism involving Americans or U.S. allies in which Nicaragua was used as a sanctuary.

—Development of a "clear and present danger of hostile action" against the United States or an ally or to protect or evacuate U.S. citizens or to protect the U.S. embassy in Nicaragua.

In earlier actions, the House: —Agreed to limit production of MX warheads to as many as are needed to tip the missiles that are built, plus a few extra in reserve.

—Rejected a bid to link civilian and military pay raises.

—Refused to restore to Pentagon retirement accounts about $4 billion that was cut with orders that a new pension system be developed that does not affect those already getting pension checks or already in uniform.

Unions Suffer Another Setback

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Labor unions, struggling with declining membership and dwindling political clout, have been dealt a new setback by a Supreme Court decision making it easier for members to resign during strikes.

The court on a 5-4 vote Thursday said the Pattern Makers' League of North America broke the law when it fined 10 members who resigned during a strike against clothing companies in Rockford, Ill., and Deloit, Wis.

Writing for the majority, Justice Lewis Powell said rules aimed at preventing membership defections are inconsistent with the "congressional policy of voluntary unionism."

Labor leaders said the ruling, which upheld the National Labor Relations Board, will make it harder for them to present a unified front to management during job actions.

"It will make it harder for employees to strike," said Paul Alan Levy, representing Teamsters for a Democratic Union. "I think it is a decision which bodes ill for unions' ability to sustain collective actions during a strike."

The number of strikes called each year is at its lowest point since 1947 and union membership dropped 3 million since the 1981 recession — to 19 million.

The Supreme Court

The AFL-CIO said through spokesman Murray Seeger the ruling will further efforts of the anti-labor Reagan administration to "restrict union self-government and ... weaken the ability of unions to improve wages and working conditions through effective strikes."

"No-quit" provisions, adopted by about half of the 96 national unions, are viewed as an effective way to keep membership intact at a time when workers feel the pinch of not getting a paycheck.

The case before the court began May 5, 1977, when the Pattern Makers' League voted to strike the Rockford-Deloit Pattern Jobbers Association, an 11-member employer group.

Nearly a dozen employees resigned from the union during the strike and went back to work. When an agreement was reached in December 1977, the union fined 10 employees for violating the no-quit clause of the union constitution.

The union relied on a provision that says, "No resignation or withdrawal from an association ... shall be accepted during a strike or lockout or at a time when a strike or lockout appears imminent."

The National Labor Relations Board and the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled the union did not have the right to penalize or prevent workers from quitting whether a strike was occurring or not.

In other action Thursday, the court:

—Ruled 8-0 with Justice Lewis Powell not participating that the government is not liable for the death of a serviceman killed by another soldier even though they were off duty and off base.

—Voting 6-3 said union rules requiring marine shipping companies to use longshoremen, even though they are not needed, do not violate federal labor law since they are aimed at preserving jobs.

—In a 6-3 ruling said discrimination victims who turn down a pretrial settlement, then win a lower amount at trial, forfeit the right to attorney's fees computed after the offer was made.

$100 Million Bond Issue Heads For Oct. Ballot

The Seminole County School Board has voted unanimously to act quickly to get a $100 million school construction bond issue on the October ballot.

Seminole County School Board Attorney Ned Julian Jr. told board members Wednesday night they need to hire three outside professionals to get the proposed referendum before the voters.

On June 12 the board approved a plan to finance school construction projects with a $100 million bond issue. Julian said the board needs an architect, a fiscal agent and a bond counsel.

The architect would review the cost, time table and feasibility of the construction projects.

The fiscal agent would give guidance in structuring the bond program and handle the marketing and technical papers.

The bond counsel would independently review all legal aspects of the program and verify that the bonds meet all legal requirements.

"We need to retain bond counsel now, not down the road," Julian said. If there are any mistakes with the paperwork, Julian explained, then the bonds could lose their tax-free status.

Jeep Scam Suspect Nabbed On Bad Check Charges

An alleged Sanford con man arrested a week ago for reportedly selling non-existent government surplus has been arrested again. This time he's charged with depositing worthless checks with intent to defraud a bank.

Wayne Dale Dreyer, 41, of 103 Borado Road, was arrested about 10:30 a.m. Thursday.

The new charges involve allegations that Dreyer deposited four checks with a total value of about $40,570 into an account at Empire Bank of Sanford drawn on a closed account at NCNB Bank.

Empire Bank lost $121 in the transactions, a Seminole County sheriff's report said.

Dreyer, who was being held in the Seminole County jail today in lieu of $5,000 bond, had been released on $5,000 bond on the Jeep scam charges.

Dreyer's alleged bogus dealings with the bank may have been the result of an effort to raise money to refund $200 deposits he reportedly received from 100 would-be Jeep buyers.

deputies Madam Katherine, a Longwood psychic, told him she has a receipt for $1,000 she gave the suspect, but Rock has no record of that donation.

Rock told deputies that Altamonte Springs police and Orange County sheriff's deputies are also investigating allegations against the man, Seminole County sheriff's report said.

Joanna K. Evans, 32, of 2575 state Road 438 #1111, Winter Park, reported to sheriff's deputies $255 cash and jewelry worth about $1,250 were stolen from her home on Wednesday. The front door had been kicked open, a sheriff's report said.

Timothy W. White, 21, of 31-B 7th St., Chuluota, gave deputies the name of a suspect who may have stolen a .357-caliber revolver from his home on Monday.

A thief took $1,652 cash from a briefcase in the car of Elwin H. Thomas, 45, of 1630 Robert St., Longwood, while the vehicle was parked at his home on Sunday or Monday. Sheriff's deputies reported no sign of forced entry to the car. Thomas told deputies the briefcase was on the floor behind the passenger seat and was hidden under a towel, a sheriff's report said.

Ellen Davis Jones, 23, of 1220 Oxford Road, Fern Park, reported to sheriff's deputies that her $200 wedding band was stolen from her bedroom between June 20 and Monday.

An American flag worth $25 was stolen from a flag pole at McDonald's restaurant, 2704 Orlando Drive, Sanford, between Monday and Tuesday, according to a police report.

GOLD THEFT ARREST

A man accused of stealing two gold chains with a total value of $1,380 has been charged with grand theft and dealing in stolen property. The suspect is accused of pawned one of the necklaces on June 7, the day of the theft, for $80 and then buying it back the next day.

Jeffery Darrell Gilliard, 22, of 40 N. 2nd St., Winter Springs, was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

DUI ARRESTS

The following persons have been arrested in Seminole

County on a charge of driving under the influence:

—Steven Higenbotham, 32, of 101 E. Hight Road 436, #1613, Altamonte Springs, was arrested at about 9 p.m. Thursday after police followed him to his apartment. He had been pursued because a clerk at a gasoline station reported he got gasoline, but didn't pay. Altamonte Springs police said he had a glass containing what appeared to be alcohol in his hand when he got out of his truck. Charges were not filed in connection with the gas theft because he agreed to pay for the gas, a police report said. He was also charged with driving with a suspended license.

—Forrest Lowell Folles, 62, of 116 Holderness Drive, Longwood, at 11:08 p.m. Thursday after his car was seen weaving on Hunt Club Boulevard, Longwood.

—Brent Michael Kaufmann, 22, of 106 Suffolk Court, Longwood, at 2:52 a.m. at Brantley Square, state Road 436, Altamonte Springs, after his car sped ahead of a police car. An Altamonte Springs police officer reported the suspect put his car in reverse while stopped at a traffic light. Kaufmann ignored the officer's signal to stop and sped into the shopping center parking lot before stopping, the report said. He was also charged with careless driving.

Seven Fined For Driving Under The Influence

The following persons have either pleaded or been found guilty of driving under the influence or having an unlawful blood alcohol level.

The first-time offenders have had their driver's license suspended for 6 months, been ordered to pay a $250 fine and court costs of $27.50, and complete 50 hours of community service. When a guilty or no contest plea is entered or if the defendant is found guilty of an alcohol-related charge, other charges are usually either not prosecuted or dismissed. Most of the first-time offenders are allowed to apply for business-only driving permits. In cases where the sentence differs, the actual sentence is reported.

—Terry Cornell Green, 19, of 610 Sixth St., Chuluota, arrested April 10 on Lake Road, about three blocks from the scene of an accident where his car reportedly hit a fence post at 322 Avenue E, Chuluota. He was fined $500, placed on probation for a year and his driver's license was suspended for 5 years.

—Sidney Kenneth Carpenter, 40, of 27 W. Winter Park Drive, Casselberry, arrested June 14 after his swerving car ran over a concrete island on U.S. Highway 17-92, south of Sanford.

—Marc Richard Enterline, 21, of 502 Georgetown Drive, Casselberry, arrested June 13 after his vehicle was seen swerving on state Road 436, Casselberry.

—Johnny Melvin Ragsdale, 23, of Orange City, arrested June 15 on First Street, Sanford, after driving on the wrong side of the road.

—Gary Michael Bennett, 31, of Deltona, arrested April 26 on Lake Mary Boulevard. Lake Mary, after his car crossed the centerline of the roadway and forced three oncoming cars off the road. He was fined $500 and his driver's license was suspended for 5 years.

—Tyler Lincoln Hughes, 19, of 1621 Stanley St., Longwood, arrested March 2 after his speeding car ran a red light on county Road 427 at state Road 434, Longwood. He was found guilty of DUI by jury and fined $300, placed on probation for 6 months and ordered to complete 75 hours of community service.

—Keith Alan Doverspike, 27, of 502 Bradshaw St., Sanford, arrested March 30 after he was found asleep in his car which was parked in the intersection of 17-92 and Lake Mary Boulevard, Sanford. The car's engine was running and the vehicle was in gear. He pleaded guilty to willful and wanton reckless driving, a lesser included charge, and was fined $300. —Deane Jordan

FAA Tests Airport Security

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Aviation Administration says its inspectors regularly test airport security by trying to slip through with hidden weapons, but the FAA will not say how often they get caught.

The tests were revealed Thursday by Billie Vincent, chief of the FAA's Civil Aviation Security Program, in testimony before a House subcommittee studying airport security measures.

Vincent also said X-ray devices used to check baggage are "not an explosives detector," but research begun in 1975 is expected to produce a "close to 100 percent effective" device in about 2 1/2 years.

Vincent told of the security checks before a subcommittee headed by Rep. Cardias Collins, D-Ill., after she and Rep. Alfred McCandless, R-Calif., asked why they were sometimes stopped when passing through airport metal detectors.

Vincent said the metal detectors were "not a perfect system" and differing responses were due to the "boredom factor" of security personnel and whether they felt a passenger was carrying a device for a logical reason.

"We regularly test the system," he said, adding that inspectors try to carry "guns encased in plastic and fake bombs" through the detectors.

No panel member asked how often inspectors were caught and Vincent tried to brush off the question when asked about it after the hearing.

"They (airport security systems) are very rarely penetrated," he finally said.

Vincent told the panel that airline screening of passengers and baggage was "an extremely effective" part of an FAA security program that he called "an unparalleled success."

Almost 6 billion people and more than 7.4 billion pieces of baggage have been screened in the last 11 years, he said.

This has resulted in the detection of over 31,000 firearms and almost 13,000 related arrests have been made," he said. "In the process, at least 112 hijackings or related crimes have been prevented."

Vincent said foreign airliners landing in the United States must meet FAA security requirements but the FAA has no authority over foreign airports.

"This is where the difficulties arise," he said, although most foreign governments are "cooperative and genuinely concerned" about passenger safety.

"Unfortunately, that experience has not been universal," he said, adding that the airport in Athens, Greece — where Shiite Muslim gunmen boarded TWA Flight 847 and hijacked it — has "troubled us and others for some time."

Vincent also said it was not yet known how guns were smuggled onto the Trans World Airlines jetliner, which eventually ended up in Beirut, Lebanon. Of the plane's 153 passengers and crew, 39 Americans are still being held hostage.

Courts: Why Should Cubans Remain in Jail?

ATLANTA (UPI) — The federal government has been ordered to show why nearly 1,100 Cuban refugees whose deportations were canceled by Fidel Castro should remain in prison with no plans for their future.

U.S. Northern District Judge Marvin Shoob, acting in concert with 11 other federal judges, issued the order in hopes of resolving the legal limbo of the imprisoned Cuban refugees.

The order, which requires action by Aug. 5, directs Attorney General Edwin Meese to show why the so-called Marielito Cubans should remain behind bars. It also allows the Cubans' cases to be considered individually.

The order also names Louis Richard, district director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, and Jack Hanberry, warden of the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary.

The judges, all from the U.S. District Court in Atlanta, began discussing the fate of the Cubans on May 20 when the Cuban president canceled a pact to accept up to 2,746 refugees the Reagan administration wants deported.

"Because these detainees again face indefinite confinement as a result of Cuba's suspension of the accord," the order read, "the court has concluded it would be unjust to delay further this proceeding."

More than 1,800 Marielitos were at the prison awaiting deportation when the pact was suspended, but the order dealt with only 1,300 detainees who petitioned the court for release last December.

More than 200 of the petitioners — all convicted of a crime or treated for mental illness — had already been deported before Castro renounced the agreement the day Radio Martí began beaming U.S. broadcasts to Cuba.

Some of the refugees have been in prison since arriving in the United States five years ago in the Mariel sea lift.

U.S. Trade Losses Near Record

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. trade losses soared in May, reaching $12.7 billion, the second highest on record, as import purchases surged and export sales slumped, the Census Bureau said today.

The deficit in the balance of merchandise trade, accelerating beyond April by nearly $1 billion, defied the expectations of government economists who assumed less of a deficit in their estimate of the second quarter "flash" gross national product figure.

One contributing factor in May was the fact that the usual surplus in farm trade dwindled to only $336.4 million, the smallest in recent years and only about one-third of the surplus as recently as February.

Trade losses take the edge off domestic growth, which benefits very little from dollars sent to producers elsewhere.

The large amount of red ink on trade ledgers suggested the April-May quarter is still laboring under a heavy load of import competition, the main reason growth in the first quarter was a nearly motionless 0.3 percent.

The deficit in April was $11.85 billion. The deficit with Japan alone widened to $4.2 billion, up from April's $4.03 billion.

Analysts expect to see that total go up dramatically in the next few months, now that the Japanese are shipping more cars than ever to the United States with the increase in its voluntary quota agreement.

The deficit was the largest since July 1984's record $13.8 billion despite a 1.1 percent decline in the amount spent on imported oil during May.

Imports other than oil jumped for a variety of products, including clothing, aircraft and automobiles.

Export sales dropped for soybeans, corn and tobacco as well as power generating equipment.

Americans spent $30.1 billion on imports, also the highest total since July 1984's record.

At the same time export sales to other countries dropped 2.1 percent to $17.4 billion, the least since February of last year. The trading disadvantage of a strong dollar, which makes American products less competitive and imports a bargain, threatens to keep affecting the numbers for at least many months to come.

Although the value of the dollar on foreign exchange markets has declined somewhat in recent weeks, as interest rates in the United States get lower and less appealing for investors, its strength in relation to other currencies is still more than during 1984.

Even if the dollar should slip to what economists consider a more reasonable future, trade balances would not begin to reflect the difference for months.

So far the trade losses total $57.3 billion for 1985 so far, compared to $51.3 billion during the same period last year.

The trend suggests that when 1985 is over, it will have amassed a record merchandise trade deficit of $130 billion or perhaps much more, in any case well above last year's record $123.3 billion.

Each billion lost to foreigners is roughly equivalent to giving up 25,000 jobs, leading industry representatives to warn Congress that the United States is importing a recession.

Search For Missing Girl Turns Up Bones, No Child

ORLANDO (UPI) — The search for a kidnapped 6-year-old girl turned up the skeletal remains of an adult or teenage male, but no sign of little Regina Mae Armstrong, Orange County deputies said.

Deputies found the bones Wednesday hidden under thick palmettos several hundred feet northeast of Orlando General Hospital, along the eastern border of the 18-square-mile search area.

Sheriff's Cmdr. John Guemple said the bones were scattered under the palmetto trees and apparently had been in the brush for several months.

Clothing found at the scene indicated the remains were those of a male, Guemple said. Because there were no wisdom teeth among the bones, investigators believe the bones are those of a teenager whose teeth had not yet formed, or an adult, who may have had the teeth pulled.

The cause of death has not been determined. Guemple said the remains would be compared to missing person reports following an autopsy.

The bones were found an hour after 257 Navy cadets, law enforcement officers and firefighters began combing woods, swamps and brush for evidence that might lead investigators to Regina or her abductor.

The child was kidnapped June 18 from a parking lot behind an apartment where she was being cared for by a babysitter. Children who saw the abduction described the kidnapper as a white man about 6 feet tall and between 30 and 40 years old, possibly with two teeth missing.

The search of the wooded area continued Thursday, but nothing was found.

"If they don't find my daughter out there by the end of the week, it's going to hurt," said Regina's father, Bob Armstrong. "But in a way, I'll feel relieved because there would be more reason to believe she is out of the area and alive."

"If they do find her and she is deceased," he said, "at least I will know where she is. I'd rather hold her in my arms dead than never know where she is," he said.

Failure Of An Electronic Signal May Have Caused Metrorail Crash

MIAMI (UPI) — The failure of an electronic signal may have caused a Metrorail test train to slam into the rear of a passenger train on the overhead track, injuring 13 passengers, investigators said.

The automatic signal, which warns drivers when a train ahead has stopped, is triggered by a device in the train track. Metrorail spokesman King Elliott said. Ironically, it was the signal that was being tested by the driver of the test train that crashed into a passenger train carrying 28 people Wednesday night.

Thirteen passengers were treated at three hospitals for minor injuries, mostly bumps and bruises. All had been released by Thursday, hospital officials said.

The two-car test train, empty except for driver Joseph McRae, was northbound on the overhead electric track behind a two-car passenger train. Metro-Dade County Police Lt. Robert Brown said the passenger train stopped as it rounded a curve about 300 yards from the Northside station.

McRae estimated he was traveling 35 to 40 mph just before the crash. He said he did not know there was a train stopped ahead of him.

"There's not much I can tell you," McRae said. "I don't know much about what happened."

"Both the computerized brake system and the emergency brake failed to halt the test train and it rammed the rear of the passenger train."

"I was looking out the back and I saw the light of the other train coming and I couldn't believe it," passenger Rosa Martinez said. "I screamed. 'Oh my God, a train's coming.'"

"It felt like it was a head-on collision, except it was in the back," said another passenger, Shandara Cherry, 18. "Then the lights went off and I just fell."

"People were hollering, panicking, everything," passenger Robert Ford, 24, said.

"We were all afraid the train would catch fire because the doors wouldn't open," Martinez said. "I was afraid that the train would fall down because everybody was trying to get out the windows."

Rescue workers broke out a window to remove Martinez' 2-month-old grandson, who was unharmed. Fifteen other passengers also were evacuated through train windows and lowered to the street with fire department ladders. Twelve passengers were taken down the track to the station when the third rail — which carries electricity — was turned off.

"The biggest problem was the electrified rail," Brown said. "I think it was off in 15 minutes. That's definitely a rescue problem."

Investigators estimated damage to the trains would exceed $2 million, Brown said.

"The cars were very crumpled," Brown said. "Each one crumpled into the other one. There were four cars, and they were just kind of demolished."

The tracks were cleared and the trains were running during the morning rush hour Thursday. Three investigators with the National Transportation Safety Board arrived in Miami late Thursday to begin a federal investigation, an NTSB spokesman said.

Police Canyon Of The Dead

Colonia Libertad, one of Tijuana, Mexico's, poorest neighborhoods, is the gateway to America for thousands of illegal aliens. They ride buses for days from their impoverished villages in the interior of Mexico and from Central America, reaching Tijuana exhausted but hopeful. Here is the entrance to El Norte, where jobs await them in farms and hotels and sweatshops. Jobs that pay in a week what they can earn in months at home. Jobs that provide food for their families remaining behind in villages named for Christian saints and pre-Columbian gods, villages cursed by hunger and disease.

But before they can reach those jobs, the illegal aliens must cross the Canyon of the Dead, El Canon de los Muertos. It is a ravine running parallel to the international boundary, on U.S. territory in California, less than a mile east of the most heavily used border gate in the world. The aliens who enter America with visas enter a world of rights and freedoms.

But the way through the Canyon of the Dead is the path to an illegal world, of manhunts and attacks by bandits, of ghettos and exploitation. An apartheid world without rights or freedoms for illegal aliens working in the land of liberty.

The aliens are called pollos — chickens — but they show great courage in crossing the border. The physical danger is not from the Border Patrol, which generally avoids violent encounters, but from the bandits who attack and rob and rape and sometimes kill the pollos crossing the canyon named for the bodies found in its depths. The bandits, called asalto-pollos, come from both sides of the border. But most fade into Colonia Libertad when dawn comes and the Border Patrol counts up its apprehensions and the successful pollos make their way north and the victims crawl out of the no-man's land or remain face down in the dust.

During the day, hundreds of pollos gather openly at a place called the "soccer field," on U.S. territory, overlooking the canyon. The ground is covered with broken glass and there are remains of a bloody towel, an abandoned suitcase. Three taco vendors shaded by umbrellas serve food to pollos who may not eat again for days before reaching hiding places in America. Men laugh as a woman passes, joking, "Who'll get her tonight?" She flinches and walks on, clutching her small bag. A sunburned man says he's been caught six times in five days by the Border Patrol but he's waiting to try again. A peasant husband and his wife with braided hair clutch two infant daughters wearing ruffled Sunday dresses and white shoes. They hope that the children will protect them from the asalto-pollos.

The sun lowers above the Pacific. A Border Patrol van glints on the bluff. A dozen pollos head together down the canyon. Asalto-pollos follow them, their shadows moving like daggers. Over the hill, people wait blithely in cars to cross the border legally, oblivious to the nightmare unfolding in the Canyon of the Dead.

The Americans who opposed the Simpson-Mazzoli immigration reform bill for civil-rights reasons should come to the soccer field and explain to the pollos waiting to cross the Canyon of the Dead that this is better than a guest-worker program that would give them visas to cross legally. The Mexicans who protest the mistreatment of illegal aliens in the United States should explain why the Mexican police do nothing to halt the asalto-pollos.

As long as this tragedy is allowed to continue, night after night, year after year, to thousands of people whose crime is to cross the border illegally to feed their families, the symbol of American immigration is not the Statue of Liberty but the Canyon of the Dead.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Today, can't we forget acknowledging our connectedness to everything else on the planet and just have some LAUGHS."

DONALD LAMBRO

Printing Office's Raises Soak Taxpayers

WASHINGTON — Let's say you're the head of a large corporate subsidiary and your parent company's running a $200-billion annual deficit. The interest payments alone on your debts are costing you $130 billion a year. The board of directors has voted to slash spending next year by $56 billion to bring the firm's fiscal crisis under control, but it remains deeply split about where to cut.

Meanwhile, your workers are demanding a pay raise (these workers don't care if the company's plunging into debt) and you've got to decide whether your company can afford to give it to them. What do you do?

That's the real-life situation that faced Ralph E. Kennickell Jr., head of the $600-million Government Printing Office, whose 2,300 printers, bookbinders and production workers have long been among the highest paid in their profession, in or out of the government.

Congress's investigating arm, the General Accounting Office, discovered in 1983 that GPO workers were being paid from $3,222 to $17,879 more than workers performing similar jobs elsewhere in the government.

Yet Kennickell's incredible decision was to offer GPO's craft workers a generous cost-of-living raise of up to 15 percent during the next three years and to cut their workweek from 40 hours to 37-and-a-half hours.

The fact that Kennickell, a Reagan appointee from Georgia, could make such an offer reveals why some of the president's most conservative allies in Congress have been suspicious of Kennickell ever since the White House picked him to succeed GPO Public Printer Danford Sawyer last year.

In making the wage-hike offer, Kennickell was thumbing his nose at the administration's efforts to cut the budget as well as the budget-cutting mood in Congress. Faced with another record-shattering $200-billion-plus deficit next year, both the House and Senate budget bills called for freezing federal pay where it is.

However, Kennickell, seemingly oblivious to all this, volunteered the pay hike without any real effort to engage in tough negotiations with his printers. "He just handed it to them on a silver platter," said one well-placed GPO official.

But before the wage hike could take effect, it had to be approved by CBO's lord and master, Congress's Joint Committee on Printing — which, in the past, has been notoriously generous to the printer unions that represent GPO's craft workers. Notably, the chairman of the committee is Maryland Sen. Charles Mathias. Many GPO employees live in his state, and their unions have enthusiastically supported his re-election campaigns.

Thus, despite a budgetary crisis of historic proportions, when the Joint Committee on Printing met on June 13, it merrily voted, by 6 to 2, to ratify Kennickell's costly giveaway to GPO's printers — leaving taxpayers to foot the bill.

The big spenders who irresponsibly agreed to the pay raise were Sens. Mathias, Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., and Wendell Ford, D-Ky.; plus Reps. Joseph Gaydos, D-Pa., Ed Jones, D-Tenn., and Frank Annunzio, D-Ill.

Only two lawmakers on the committee opposed the pay raise: Reps. Robert E. Badham, R-Calif., and Pat Roberts, R-Kan.

Under the wage package that the committee rubber-stamped, GPO craft workers will receive a whopping 4.6 percent pay raise this year and up to a 5 percent raise — depending upon the cost-of-living index — in each of the succeeding two years.

"These lucrative benefits," Rep. Roberts told me, "fly in the face of every taxpayer willing to sacrifice in an effort to reduce the deficit."

Reagan Is Crisis Hostage

By Helen Thomas
White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan is becoming immersed in the Beirut hostage crisis much as he would prefer the "business as usual" approach.

The president attempted to create the impression that the crisis prompted by the Shiite hijacking of TWA's flight 847 and the taking of 10 passengers as hostages is only one of the issues facing the White House.

But he now finds that such events are all pervasive and there is no way to turn the spotlight on domestic issues while there is an ongoing tug-of-war between the Shiite leadership in Beirut and the administration in Washington.

True enough, the president has not curtailed his out-of-town one-day appearances to drum up support for his tax reform package.

But the biggest signal that he is caught up in the hostage drama is his decision to scrub his nine-day vacation trip to his mountaintop ranch near Santa Barbara over the Fourth of July.

He brooded last weekend over whether to take the holiday and decided that it would be better to imagine and otherwise to forgo a vacation while the eyes of the world are on Beirut and the hostage struggle. In some ways the crisis has chastened the president. It appears to be the toughest dilemma he has faced in the White House, where he has always boasted of U.S. military power as the personification of strength vs. weakness in world affairs.

But he has learned the hard way that sometimes it is impossible to use force, particularly in the taking of hostages whose lives would be jeopardized in retaliatory moves.

So far the president has moved cautiously. He has weighed his diplomatic and other options carefully, albeit in frustration.

Crippling the Beirut airport was one of the measures recommended.

The president has to balance the natural clamor for action against the appeals of the 40 hostages who feel their lives would be on the line if Reagan takes military action.

The White House "comment officer" is beginning to reflect a very concerned citizenry with pros and cons.

Reagan boxed himself in with a demand for unconditional return of the hostages.

ROBERT WAGMAN

What It Really Means

WASHINGTON (NEA) — When official Washington speaks, the words often mean something very different from their dictionary definitions.

Take, for example, the words "cut" and "increase." It seems logical that if a federal program receives $100 in the current budget and is given $103 next year, its funding has increased.

However, it's not that simple.

Inflation raises the cost of all federal programs each year — so if, next year, a program's increase is less than the expected rate of inflation, that increase is actually a cut.

Then there's the reverse situation: A program is scheduled to receive a significant increase, but Congress gives it less than was planned. Although the amount is still far greater than the rate of inflation, official Washington calls this a cut. One example of this is the defense budget that passed in the House.

Or consider entitlement programs like Social Security. The overall annual outlays may increase from year to year, since the program gains more beneficiaries than it loses each year. However, if Congress rejects the full cost-of-living increases contained in current law, it would be said that Social Security is being cut — although outlays and average benefits are increasing far above the inflation rate.

This word game also covers taxes. A massive tax cut was passed in 1981, to be phased in over a five-year period. In 1983, Congress voted to reduce some cuts that hadn't yet been implemented. Taxes still came down, but Congress's action was called the largest tax "increase" in history — so "cut" and "increase" often are in the eye of the beholder.

Then there's the unemployment rate. After almost two years of constant decline, unemployment has started to nose slightly upward. This trend may accelerate in coming months, as economic expansion slows — so it's worthwhile to examine just how official Washington defines "unemployment."

In one official publication, the Bureau of Labor Statistics says that "people with jobs are employed; people who do not have jobs and who are looking for work are unemployed; people who meet neither test are not considered to be in the labor force." It sounds simple — but it isn't.

"Cut" and "increase," "employed" and "unemployed" — these are just a few of the strange ways in which official Washington uses the English language.

Landing Sites Planned

By Anthony Boadle

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — When the space shuttle blasts off from California early next year, it will have the world's loneliest inhabited island as an emergency landing site if anything goes wrong on takeoff.

The military government has approved U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration plans to extend the runway on Easter Island, a tiny volcanic island in the South Pacific, and President Augusto Pinochet is expected to give his approval soon.

Military officials say the plan will bring Chile closer to the United States. But the project has come under fire from Chileans who fear it will damage the island's unique archaeological heritage.

Critics claim the United States will turn the remote island into a strategically placed military base that could drag Chile into the forefront of superpower conflicts and make the country a sitting duck in a nuclear war.

Easter Island, Chile's only Polynesian possession, located some 2,000 miles off the South American coast, is one of the world's most fantastic open-air museums.

Massive stone heads carved out of volcanic stone by unknown sculptors many centuries ago dot the barely inhabited island. The mysterious 30-foot figures with long faces stand all around the windswept island, looking out to sea.

"The NASA plan is absurd. It's like building a dance floor in the Natural History Museum," said Chilean historian Oscar Pinochet de la Barra, one of the critics of the space shuttle landing project.

Opposition leaders, complaining that the country has not been fully informed about a project, which, they claim, will damage national sovereignty, have demanded a referendum to put the issue to the country.

The United States plans to start launching space shuttles from Vandenberg Air Force Base in Southern California next March. Shuttles flying from Vandenberg will be able to fly in orbits that cross the poles. Shuttles launched from Cape Canaveral can only go into equatorial orbits.

Polar orbits are required for weather and Earth resources satellites and for certain kinds of military reconnaissance spacecraft because a satellite flying over the poles overflies the entire globe periodically.

Finding Mengele Was Not Top Priority

By Jack Anderson and Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — The most puzzling aspect of the Josef Mengele story was the strange reluctance of Israel to track down the death-camp doctor and bring him to justice.

Israel, after all, is the principal refuge of Holocaust survivors, including that pitifully small number who encountered the Auschwitz "Angel of Death" and lived to tell about it.

Likewise, the West German government did not exactly cover itself with glory in the 40-year search for Mengele. The Germans would undoubtedly be delighted to have the case officially closed.

Our associate Lucette Lagnado has interviewed officials of Mossad, Israel's respected intelligence service, who made clear that for two decades the search for the war criminal had a low priority.

Even after Mengele became the world's most wanted fugitive, with a price of $3.5 million on his head, the Israeli manhunt rested on the shoulders of a lone investigator. His name is Menachem Ruseck, and he works out of a tiny office in the Tel Aviv police headquarters.

For various reasons, the Israeli government made a conscious decision to leave Mengele in peace more than 20 years ago. Here are the curious details of the lukewarm Israeli search for the man who was held responsible for the deaths of 400,000 Jews.

In the early 1960s, Israeli agents in Argentina were ready to grab Mengele after capturing Adolf Eichmann. The agents had Mengele's address in Buenos Aires and had studied his daily routine. But the successful kidnapping of Eichmann alarmed Mengele, and he skipped across the border into the Paraguayan jungles.

In 1962-63, teams of Mossad agents scoured Europe and South America for clues to Mengele's hiding place. They located him in Paraguay. But Mengele's hideout was too remote and too heavily guarded.

After 1963, with the resignation of Mossad chief Issar Harel, the Mengele search was all but called off, as the secret service concentrated on the growing threat of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

In 1977, with the no-nonsense Menachem Begin as prime minister, Mossad was asked once again to find Mengele. But the doctor's trail had grown cold.

Israel concluded, meanwhile, that it needed all the friends it could get in the United Nations, even if this meant courting Latin American governments that might have harbored Mengele or known his whereabouts. The Israelis were also reluctant to pursue Mengele so aggressively that the Jewish communities in countries like Paraguay would be hurt by an anti-Israeli backlash.

All these factors combined to bring the Israeli effort where it is today: in the hands of Ruseck, an aging and determined Tel Aviv cop and Auschwitz survivor. Most Israeli officials would be happy to have the Mengele case closed for good — the embarrassment of their efforts through the years buried along with the Nazi arch-criminal.

The West Germans obviously have even less reason to want Mengele alive, captured and brought to trial. Perhaps that's why West German prosecutor Hans Eberhard Klein was so eager to proclaim his belief that the skeleton exhumed in Brazil was probably Mengele. Throughout Bonn's halfhearted effort to bring Mengele to justice, Klein has taken refuge in the West German law that forbids him to search outside the country's borders.

Nicaragua To Create DMZ On Southern Border

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — Nicaragua has said it will unilaterally create a demilitarized zone on its border with Costa Rica to prevent the United States from using border conflicts to justify intervention in the region.

"I wish to express the decision of my government to establish in a unilateral form a neutralized and demilitarized zone in Nicaraguan territory along all of the border with Costa Rica," President Daniel Ortega said Wednesday in a letter to Costa Rican President Luis Alberto Monge.

Ortega said the zone would prevent the "provoking of situations that could be used (by the United States) to justify aggressive actions against Nicaragua or artificial tensions between both countries."

Costa Rica rejected a Nicaraguan proposal June 3 to bilaterally withdraw security forces from the border, for three years the scene of clashes between Nicaraguan troops and U.S.-backed Contras trying to overthrow the leftist Sandinista government.

Costa Rica officially refuses to acknowledge that rebels of the Democratic Revolutionary Alliance operate from its territory.

The border tension reached a climax May 31 when Costa Rica accused Nicaraguan troops of crossing into its territory and killing two civil guardsmen in an ambush. Nicaragua denies the charge.

"Our country has signalled with insistence that the direct cause of the tensions between Costa Rica and Nicaragua is the presence of the mercenary forces in Costa Rican territory,"

Ortega's letter said

It added the rebel situation "was being used as a pretext to promote a new wave of aggression against Nicaragua by the U.S. government." In San Jose, Monge said that he had not received the letter, charging the Nicaraguan proposal "forms part of the show" to distract attention from the border incident in May.

Deputy Foreign Minister Jose Leon Talavera said Nicaragua will look for "countries that have a solid international prestige" to monitor the border, which stretches 250 miles from the Pacific Ocean to the Caribbean coast.

Talavera suggested France or the one of the four Contadora nations, Mexico, Venezuela, Colombia and Panama, who seek a peaceful solution to the Central American conflict.

Talavera also charged Costa Rica with "compromising" its official policy of neutrality.

"If they really believed in neutrality, they would disarm the mercenary forces," he said, referring to the rebels.

Study Says

Few Alcoholics Can Become Moderate 'Social Drinkers'

BOSTON (UPI) — Very few alcoholics who undergo standard treatment are able to revert to long-term moderate drinking, contradicting claims that alcoholics can become social drinkers, researchers reported Thursday.

A study of 1,289 patients treated at four Missouri medical centers found that only 1.6 percent reverted to moderate drinking during a five- to seven-year period.

The study also found that women and less severe alcoholics have a slightly better chance of becoming social drinkers than the average alcoholic.

"Among those serious enough to come to medical attention, the evolution of social drinking is very low," said Dr. John E. Helzer, the study's primary author.

The study, reported in the New England Journal of Medicine, found that 15.1 percent of alcoholics were able to abstain from drinking, 4.6 percent were occasional drinkers, 1.6 percent became moderate drinkers, 12.2 percent were heavy drinkers without any social or medical problems and 66.5 percent remained alcoholics.

This study suggests that there is little cause for optimism about the likelihood of an evolution to long-term, stable, moderate drinking among treated alcoholics, the report said.

The study was undertaken to resolve the long-standing controversy whether some alcoholics can become moderate drinkers, as was reported in several studies during the last 30 years.

The study defined long-term moderate drinking as drinking in at least 30 of the previous 36 months no more than six drinks a day on four or more days a month, and freedom from any social, medical, or legal problem due to alcohol during the previous three years.

"The definition of moderate drinking that we used does not seem overly strict," said the report. "In fact, in terms of the daily consumption of alcohol allowed (up to six drinks a day) it might be considered generous."

The study found only three factors that increased the chances an alcoholic would revert to social drinking — sex, the severity of drinking, and when the patient became an alcoholic.

Women were four times more likely to become moderate or controlled drinkers, although the percentages were still very low. Alcoholics who became controlled or moderate drinkers usually had less serious drinking problems and developed a drinking problem at a later age.

Helzer, who is a professor of psychiatry at the Washington University School of Medicine, said the study did not examine alcoholics who entered programs specifically designed to produce social drinkers.

"Therefore, one cannot infer from our findings that treatment aimed specifically at moderate drinking would be doomed to failure," said the report.

Rape Victim Sues Hospital Over Treatment

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A rape victim who was allegedly denied a "morning-after" birth control pill at a Catholic hospital is suing the medical center, claiming she suffered a "great deal of stress" worrying if she was pregnant.

Attorney Gloria Allred said Wednesday the lawsuit, believed the first in the nation, seeks to force Daniel Freeman Marina Hospital in Marina del Rey to either give out the pill or to immediately transfer rape victims to a hospital that will.

"We think it's cruel of the hospital to deny rape victims what is standard practice in other hospitals," Allred said.

"It's a violation of her rights. It is unconscionable that a rapist can get complete medical treatment in an emergency room, but the rape victim only gets partial treatment."

Kathleen Brownfield, 21, was taken to Daniel Freeman Marina Hospital after she reported being raped last September. Allred said the hospital's emergency room treated Brownfield, but when the victim's mother asked if the pills were available, the hospital refused to give them to her.

The so-called morning-after pill is a massive dose of estrogen, which prevents pregnancy if taken within 72 hours of conception.

Daniel Freeman Marina Hospital is run by an order of nuns called the Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet. Christie Plank, a spokeswoman for the hospital, said use of the pills is prohibited by ethical and religious regulations established by the National Conference of Catholic Bishops.

Sanford Man, 20, Who Gave Child Syphilis Gets 4½ Years

A Sanford man has been sentenced to 4½ years in prison in connection with a sexual assault on a child which left his victim with syphilis.

Reginald Grant, 20, of 2029 Airport Blvd., was given concurrent 4½-year sentences Thursday by Seminole Circuit Judge S. Joseph Davis Jr. for attempted sexual battery and lewd and lascivious assault.

Grant gave his victim, a 6-year-old girl, syphilis, according to testimony during his trial.

While Grant, arrested Nov. 28 at Lake Mary High School, was charged with sexual battery to a child under 11 — a felony punishable by life imprisonment — a jury in April opted to find him guilty of the lesser charges of attempted sexual battery and lewd and lascivious assault. The jury apparently was swayed by testimony that sexual contact without penetration is not sexual battery.

The girl said Grant, whom she knew, tried to have sex with her in October after picking her up at a day school, according to court records.

During the trial a lie detector was admitted — by pre-trial agreement — which indicated Grant was lying when he said he did not assault the girl.

The girl was taken to the hospital after the girl's grandmother and mother noticed the girl walking strangely. —Deane Jordan

Woman Gets Herpes, $25,000

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — A woman who claims she contracted herpes from her lover has reached an out-of-court settlement for $25,000 under his homeowner's insurance coverage.

The Twin Cities woman, who was not identified, made the claim to the Prudential Property and Casualty Insurance Co., saying her lover was negligent in transmitting the contagious disease to her.

Stewart Perry, her attorney, said he believed this was the first such settlement in Minnesota.

He said the woman, who received the check Friday, developed the disease about three years ago.

Perry said a lawsuit was prepared but never filed, adding that the insurance company settled with his client after he wrote a letter demanding the policy limit of $25,000.

Spitters Gather For National Contest

RALEIGH, Miss. (UPI) — Saturday on a flatbed truck in Billy John Crumpton's pasture, Jeff "Faucet Man" Barber and Al "The Wolf" Lott will square off in a full-blown grudge match for a national title.

There'll also be a mule pull, a foot race, a dunking machine, gospel music and cats galore at Crumpton's farm 5 miles west of Raleigh, but the main event is the 31st annual National Tobacco Spitting Contest.

"I can't wait," said "Faucet Man," a 25-year-old restaurant manager from Ocean Springs. "I'm primed and ready now."

Barber, who set a world record in 1981 with a spectacular spit of 33 feet, 7 ½ inches, won the distance crown again last year.

But he lost the accuracy title to "The Wolf," a chewer from Raleigh, and has spent an entire year puckering up for a rematch.

"Mr. Lott, beware," Barber said in a phone interview Wednesday. "The Faucet Man is coming after you and I am ready."

Barber predicted he will capture both the distance and accuracy titles this year because of a strict training regimen.

"I started training a couple of weeks ago using a new technique," he said. "Instead of spitting tobacco juice all the time, I've started using water."

"The water helps my timing and distance," he explained, "and it strengthens my muscles."

Barber said he lost his accuracy crown last year because he made a dumb mistake.

"I just wasn't ready to spit. I should have waited and I didn't. That was my own mistake. My mouth was so dry that I couldn't believe it."

"I went ahead and spit," he said, but his tobacco blast fell short of the shiny gold spittoon set up about halfway down the bed of a truck.

"After that, I said to myself, 'Dummy,'" he recalled.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Dave Jenkins, in from Brooklyn to visit his aunt and uncle, found the key under the mat when he arrived.

He made himself right at home, watching TV and helping himself to a pizza from the refrigerator.

The only problem was that he was in the wrong home.

After arriving early Wednesday in San Francisco, Jenkins, 21, hailed a taxi and told the driver to take him to 456 Belvedere Street. He was let off at 436 Belvedere instead but did not check the address when he found the key under the mat.

After his snack, he used the bathroom next to the bedroom of his unsuspecting hosts, who were sound asleep. Jenkins then fell asleep in the living room.

Four doors away, Jenkins' aunt and uncle were frantically checking the airport, police and local hospitals for their missing nephew.

At about 7 a.m., Jenkins was awakened by an unidentified man who inquired, "What are you doing in my living room?"

The affair was straightened out quickly. The Jenkinses brought their neighbors, whom they had never met, a bottle of wine and Dave washed up his pizza dishes.

The two families also agreed not to leave a door key under the mat anymore.

Altamonte's Real Senior All-Star Makes His Last Stand

George Armstrong Custer died 109 years ago last Tuesday. He and his troops were hopelessly outnumbered by the Indians. So hopelessly outnumbered that his entire command was wiped out in the massacre at the Little Big Horn.

Some great actors have played Custer. Errol Flynn among them. But none has ever been able to alter the ending at the Little Big Horn. Custer is always among the last to die as the Sioux and Cheyenne stampede by and grab the banner of the 7th Cavalry.

Corey Prom is a 13-year-old on the Altamonte Springs Senior League all-star team. Two years ago, he was the most valuable pitcher on a 13-year-old junior team which marched all the way to the World Series in Taylor, Mich. and finished second.

Prom began his baseball career as an 8-year-old at Altamonte. He's been a "lifer" with the successful program ever since. He didn't jump on its bandwagon when it started winning from another baseball program.

Custer and Prom. You wouldn't think they had much in common, would you? But they do. On the anniversary of the very day Custer died at the Little Big Horn, Prom was announced as a member of the Senior League all-star team.

It may be 109 years later, but Prom, like Custer, is making his last stand. Corey Prom, who just two years ago enjoyed the greatest thrill of his young baseball career by participating in a World Series, has been left to fend for himself.

His former teammates and other stars of the Altamonte Senior League have deserted him.

Feeling it would better enhance their high school careers, they ran off to play American Legion baseball, thus forfeiting their Little League all-star participation for the summer.

They won't be there Monday, July 8, at Maitland when Altamonte opens defense of its world championship against Maitland. Yes, world championship. The one won by manager Gene Letterio and his Senior League All-Stars at Gary, Ind. last year.

Like Custer, Prom stands outnumbered. Whereas, Prom was just one of 14 all-stars two years ago, he now stands as the only true all-star. And this is not to put down his present teammates. They will no doubt give their 100 percent to try and make this team a success. Realistically, though, none would be all-stars if the 20-plus players hadn't left. Eight of the players are 14-year-olds. Last year's team had two that age.

Maybe it's fitting that Prom is making the last stand. He did not think of himself first, and Altamonte, a league which brought him his greatest baseball happiness, second, Corey Prom stayed. He stayed to fight.

And for that he should be admired and respected. It was an act of pride and loyalty. No one would have said anything if Corey Prom left with the rest of them. No one would have even questioned his loyalty. But since one did stay, what about the loyalty of the others?

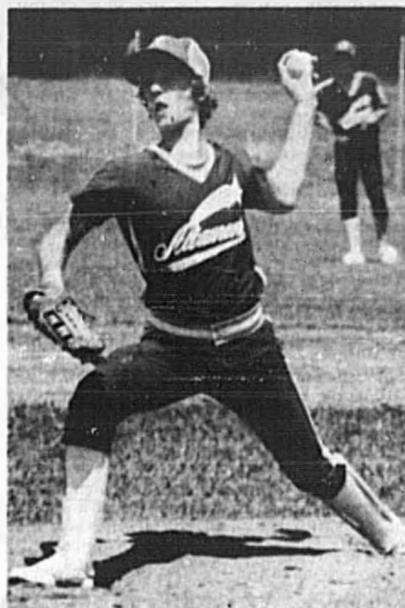

The others didn't think about Altamonte, the league which let most of them showcase their talents before a World Series audience. They only thought of what was best for them. They didn't think about a league which was defending a world championship. They thought of their future.

Little League officials were quick to blame American Legion coaches for letting players under 16 years old try out for their programs. But it wasn't the fault of the American Legion teams.

No, it was the fault of those who have left. They were fully aware of the fact that if they tried out for American Legion, their Little League careers were over.

After the exodus, the Senior League almost collapsed. It struggled to finish the season and to field teams for the Top Team Tournament. Then, those top teams were declared ineligible. One foot in the American Legion door closes the Little League career for the summer. If you're ineligible for all-stars, you're ineligible for top team, too.

But Corey Prom was different. Why? He said

Errant Toss Eases AWS By Maitland

Bases-loaded situations are usually a manager's delight. Especially when it's his team which is loading up the bags. For Apopka-West Seminole Thursday night, however, two bases-loaded opportunities in the third and fifth innings were just that: opportunities.

"We were snakebite all night until the seventh," said AWS manager Richard Coffey about Thursday's Big League baseball matchup against Maitland at Lake Brantley High School.

Apopka-West Seminole finally did cash in on a bases-loaded opportunity. But not in a usual manner. Catcher Bill Lee's pickoff attempt hit baserunner Skip Cousins in the back as he was retreating to third. Cousins promptly picked himself up and raced home with the winning run as AWS pulled out a 5-4 decision over Maitland.

The four-run seventh-inning rally erased a 4-1 Maitland lead and handed right-hander Kevin Bass his fourth win in as many decisions.

Apopka-West Seminole, 17-2, returns to action Saturday at Lake Brantley High School against the Oviedo Seminoles for a double-header at 5 p.m.

Maitland jumped to a 3-0 lead in the third. After two were out, John Canfield reached on an error by the shortstop and stole second. Rich Esposito then reached on another error by shortstop and Canfield scored. Lee followed with a two-run homer to right center.

AWS bounced back in the third when Timmy Bruehl singled and stole second. Mark Coffey walked and a double steal put runners on second and third. Mike Davis then walked and Bass walked to force in a run. Starter Ed Aiello was then relieved by Canfield who struck out Mike Brown, Cousins and Bruce Bonaventure to escape the jam.

In the seventh, AWS came alive. Davis reached on error by first baseman and Bass walked. Brad Helmling, who came on in the fifth inning to hurt, was replaced by Esposito. Brown then doubled to left center to score Davis. Cousins followed with another double to left center to tie the score.

Randy Snodgrass, the ace of Winter Park High's staff, then relieved Esposito. Tony Johnson intentionally walked and Bruce Carlson walked to load the bases. Jason Andrews struck out but Bruehl faked a squeeze bunt and Lee threw the ball to third, hitting the runner. When the ball bounded away, Cousins popped up and scored the winning run.

Juniors Need A Quick Start

By Chris Flater
Herald Sports Writer

Getting out of the blocks quickly will be important for the Sanford Junior League All-Stars as they open play Monday in the Florida Junior Major League District 4 Tournament at Port Orange.

Sanford plays the second game Monday night, beginning at 8, against defending champion Port Orange. Port Orange defeated Sanford in the finals last year. In Monday's first game at 6 p.m., New Smyrna Beach battles Ormond Beach.

Holly Hill, which drew a first-round bye, plays the NSB-Ormond winner Tuesday at 6 and the losers of Monday's games play Tuesday night at 8. The winner of the district tournament gets a berth in the Florida Junior Major League State Tournament.

Sanford is looking to get off to a good start against Port Orange, which is expected to be the top competition again this year. The key early in the game will be pitching, more exactly, control pitching.

"We should have a pretty strong team," said manager Jim Lucas, who will be assisted by Harry Chibberton Sr. "We've got a lot of talent and, if we play together, we've got a good shot."

In practice games against the Sanford Recreation Department teams, the Juniors' pitching staff has had excellent control and that's what manager Jim Lucas is looking for Monday.

If the pitching keeps it close, look for Sanford to make a move on the basepaths. Almost every player on the Sanford team is capable of stealing bases and the Juniors will use that speed to their advantage.

"I wish we had one more week," said Lucas who said his players are learning quickly but haven't been taught fundamentals. "It's a shame that they have so much speed but don't know how to get a good lead. Coach Chibberton has done a good job with their baserunning. He really knows baseball."

Another way Sanford will use its speed, which it hasn't been doing much in recent years, is the squeeze play. With the kind of quickness the team has, a successful bunt will just about automatically mean a run. The squeeze is another thing the Juniors displayed in the practice games.

"I used the squeeze bunt effectively when I coached for Seminole Pony Baseball," said Lucas. "It should be an effective weapon for us in the tournament."

Here is a look at the 1985 Sanford Junior League All-Stars: Ronald Cox — Pitched Ball Motor Line to the Junior League title. Has overpowering speed, a good curve which he displayed in the league championship series, and outstanding control. Cox also has a quick delivery to the plate which makes it hard to steal a base off him. At the bat, Cox was one of the top power hitters in the league and was one of three players to hit a home run over the 310-foot Chase Park fence.

Jimbo Lucas — Another mainstay for Ball Motor Line, Lucas can play almost any position. Along with Cox, Lucas gave Ball Motor an excellent 1-2 pitching punch. Lucas also played first base and caught in the championship series.

Oscar Edwards — One of six 13-year-olds on the team, Edwards was one of the catalysts of the Kiwanis team which won the first ball before bowing out to Ball Motor Line. Edwards is an infielder and was a good leadoff hitter for Kiwanis.

Sammy Edwards — The older brother of Oscar, Sammy is another versatile ballplayer. He was the team's top pitcher and also excels in the infield and at catcher.

Bernard Mitchell — Was Kiwanis second pitcher before bone chips in his right elbow forced him off the mound. Mitchell was still an effective player with the injury both in the field, at first base, and at the plate. Mitchell is also one of the top base stealers and smartest runners on the team.

Leonard Richardson — Another 13-year-old off Kiwanis, Richardson stepped right out of the Little Major League and became a top player in the Junior League. Richardson was consistent all year at the plate and in the field.

Burnett Washington — Turning in a strong performance for Ball Motor Line in the City Series, Washington plays well defensively at third and is a good singles hitter.

Joseph Leonard — A fine fundamental player, "Scooter" led Moose to a tie for the first half title and the second-best record in the league. Leonard is a good infielder, can also play the outfield, and was Moose's leading RBI man this season.

Anthony Merthle — Like Sammy Edwards, "Boon," who played for Moose, is a versatile player who can do the job at a number of positions. He also carries a hefty bat, can hit for power, and has speed on the bases.

Mike Merthle — The younger brother (13) of Anthony, Mike was one of the leading pitchers in the league despite the move to the longer mound distance after Little Major League. He was also an effective leadoff hitter for Moose.

Willie McCloud — Along with Cox, "Sugar Tex," gives Sanford two powerful pitchers that are tough to hit when they're on. McCloud, who played for Elks, also has a lot of tournament experience as he went to the Little Major League State Tournament two years in a row. McCloud was also a good power hitter and, like Cox, was one of few to hit one out at Chase Park.

IN BRIEF

Kevin Gross Goes 'K' Crazy, Strikes Out 17 In 5-0 Victory

Some of those Dwight Gooden "K" placards, which New York Met fans display whenever the fireballer strikes out a hitter, may soon be going up in Sanford Memorial Stadium.

If that were the case Thursday night, the fan with the K would have had a pretty sore arm from raising it so much.

Kevin Gross, a former Lake Brantley High standout, hurled a one-hitter Thursday and struck out 17 in the process.

KEVIN GROSS

The last 13 outs recorded by Gross were Ks.

For good measure, Gross also smashed a two-run homer to lead Florida Baseball School to a 5-0 whitewashing of New Smyrna Beach in Buddy Lake League action at the stadium.

The lone hit off Gross was a two-out double by Joe Schlagel in the first inning. The big righthander walked just two. FBS has a 3-7 record in league play and Gross has all three wins.

Tim Martin added a pair of hits and drove in a run for FBS.

In Thursday's second game, DeLand Boulevard Tire won its 11th in row, 11-3, over New Smyrna Beach. Buddy Underwood was the winning pitcher and was backed by a potent offense which included John Brenner's three-run homer and a two-run shot off the bat of Ken Mullin.

Sutton, Sander Lead Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Hal Sutton and Bill Sander, co-leaders going into today's second round of the Memphis Golf Classic, are a study in contrasts.

Sutton, 1983 Player of the Year when he won both the PGA and Tournament Players Championship has been one of the most successful young golfers to join the pro tour in recent years.

Sander has seldom met expenses during the eight years he's played the Tour and he's dead last on this year's money list with only $712 after making the cut only once in his previous six starts.

He that as it may, Sutton and Sander, who hadn't broken par before this year, both fired 7-under par 65s in Thursday's rain-lengthened opening round of the $500,000 Classic to share a one-stroke lead over David Ogren and two over John Mahaffey and George Burns.

Sander, playing in the final threesome, barely beat the dark because of a 90-minute rain delay and noted, "I didn't know if we were going to get it in today."

Temple Initiates Test For Drugs

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Temple University president Peter Liacouras praised a Board of Trustees decision to adopt a random drug testing program for athletes, saying Temple is taking the lead concerning drug problems in colleges.

However, the board's Thursday decision was criticized by the American Civil Liberties Union which said it violated a student's privacy and unnecessarily jeopardizes their future.

The board voted unanimously to adopt a new drug education and testing program that would subject athletes on intercollegiate teams to undergo random testing, starting Nov. 5. The drug education will start this summer.

Purina Gets Only $12 Million

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Ralston Purina Co. apparently received only the $12 million selling price for the St. Louis Blues in settling its $60 million suit against the National Hockey League.

Ralston Purina and the NHL Thursday interrupted a trial on the suit with a terse statement that said an out-of-court settlement had been reached.

Although both sides pledged not to disclose terms of the settlement, a source familiar with the case said Ralston did not receive more than the $12 million the league received when it sold the team to Harry Ornstein. All other claims were dismissed.

Parker's Bat Halts Astros' Skid

KISSIMMEE — Ex-SCC standout Bob Parker drove in one run with a sacrifice fly and singled home another as the Oseola Astros snapped a four-game losing streak with a 3-1 victory over Fort Myers Thursday night in Florida State League baseball at Oseola Stadium.

Mike Cerefin, Aubrey Lucas and Mark Baker combined on a five-hitter with Cerefin (3-8) earning the win. Baker notched his 12th save.

The Astros, who lead the FSL's Central Division by four games, host Fort Myers tonight at 7:30.

Hanggie's HR Pinches Charlotte

ORLANDO — Dan Hanggie slugged a two-run pinch-hit homer in the ninth inning Thursday night to lift the Orlando Twins past the Charlotte Orioles at Tinker Field.

Hanggie, pinch-hitting for Alex Marte, clouted his blast over the right field fence against Dwight Bernard. It scored Jeff Trout who had singled to lead off the ninth.

The Twins, 2-3 in the second half, host Charlotte again tonight at 7:30.

4 Eagles Fly To Savages

They play in the same tournaments, they've both been very competitive and another thing they have in common — they're out of the same club.

The Seminole Savages and Seminole Eagles have played excellent softball most of the time this summer in tournament play. The Savages, the Seminole Softball Club's 15 and under All-Star team, won one tourney and finished third the last three, while the Eagles, the club's "B" team of all 13-14 year olds, won their own tournament last weekend.

The two teams have also went up against each other a few times this summer and those games have gone down to the wire. In one tournament, the younger Eagles defeated the Savages twice.

Since the club has some outstanding talent on both teams, it chose to move some of the Eagles up to the Savages for the remainder of the tournament season, according to Roger Richardson, president of the Seminole Softball Club. That move may put the Savages in the ASA National Tournament for the second year in a row.

Moving up to the Savages from the Eagles are Katrina Shuler, Corrie Lawson, Tammy Jenerette and Jodie Switzer. The four will play for the Savages this weekend in the Conway Invitational Tournament.

"That should make us awesome," said Savages manager Don Jonas.

The Savages have some players returning who competed in the Nationals last year including Jaudon Jonas, Bridget Jenerette, Sharon Bonaventure and Lomicia Whitaker. Also, a number of last year's Eagles, who became the first team of only 13-14 year olds to make the Southern Regional Tournament, are on this year's Savages including Niki Burke, Val Smith, Marnie Frey and Heather Meyer.

Switzer and Lawson were also members of the Eagles last season. The addition of Lawson in the outfield gives the Savages two of the fastest players around. Lawson and Sanford's Aretha Riggins could probably cover the whole outfield themselves and, with two more outfielders, not many balls will fall in for hits.

All four players who are moving up have also carried hefty bats so far this summer. Shuler, another player out of Sanford, has hit over .600 in all but one tournament. Tammy Jenerette and Lawson are two of the more powerful hitters while Switzer has been a consistent hitter all through her freshman season at Oviedo High and into the summer season. Switzer, a switch hitter, is also an outstanding pitcher.

While the Savages have strengthened their chances of reaching nationals, the Seminole Hawks, the Club's 12 and under All-Star team, has been a contender right from the start.

The Hawks have won three tournaments and have compiled a record of 19-2. The only tournament they didn't win the Hawks tied for first but lost the tiebreaker which was total runs scored in the tourney.

Defense has been the strong point for the Hawks thus far. Last week, in sweeping four games en route to their own tournament title, the Hawks allowed a total of three runs, made just four errors and turned four double plays.

And the double plays aren't flukes either like they can be in the younger age groups. The Hawks defense seems to come up with the clutch double play in the most crucial situations.

For instance, in a 2-1 victory over Conway in last weekend's semifinals, Conway had the tying run on first with one out in the top of the seventh when the Hawks turned a game-ending double play when second baseman Tonya Higgins scooped up a grounder, tagged the runner going to second and gunned to first.

Hu Or Na? Either Way Her Dream Comes True

Tennis

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Slobodan Zivjovic and Hu Na thus far have been the long and the short of the unbearably wet Wimbledon Tennis Championships.

As if the persistent, disruptive rain this week wasn't enough of a problem, it seems that to spring a surprise here, a player must have a name the umpire cannot get right.

Hu Na doesn't trouble a westerner's tongue in quite the way Zivjovic did in the Yugoslav's upset of fourth seed Mats Wilander Wednesday.

But is the young woman who Thursday surprised the 1984 Wimbledon Junior Champion Annabel Croft on Court No. 1 to be called Miss Na or Miss Hu?

It was a tricky decision for an official with such a straightforward name as Peter Smith. He opted for: Miss Na. Wrong.

The San Diego-based Hu, China's No. 1 until she defected in 1982, wasn't too concerned, though. She was too busy enjoying the occasion.

After qualifying, she had mused on the possibility of playing on a show court.

"Today I think that my dream came true. I didn't care if I won or lost, just to have a chance to play....." the cheery 22-year-old Hu said after the biggest moment in her tennis career.

Jimmy Connors, the third seed who is aiming to reach his sixth Wimbledon singles final, was down to play the first match on Centre Court against qualifier Kelly Evernden.

The 23-year-old New Zealander, ranked No. 167 in the world, faced a mammoth task if he was to add his name to this year's list of unlikely sounding Wimbledon heroes.

If top-seed John McEnroe is upset by his Nigerian opponent — who believes God's guiding hand directs his destiny — umpires better pray they can quickly learn to say Nduka Odizer.

After all the rain delays, it was set to be an active day for most of the leading seeds Friday.

Chris Evert Lloyd, joint top women's seed with Martina Navratilova, was due to face fellow American Susan Mascarin, following her husband John Lloyd onto Center Court for the third match. Over the wall on No. 1, defending champion Navratilova was due to play Australian Anne Minter.

Men's No. 2, Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia, faced a long wait before challenging American Mike Leach.

Hu, hovering around No. 150 on the world rankings, snatched the limelight Thursday with her confident serve-and-volley triumph over Croft, a top 40 player. The locals almost forgave her for beating one of their own, surviving a late exchange of service games for a 6-3, 7-5 victory.

Elsewhere, the computer rankings provided an accurate guide. Evert Lloyd whipped fellow American Mary-Lou Piatek 6-1, 6-0 after third seed Hana Mandlikova had set the ball rolling with a 6-0, 6-1 demolition of Czechoslovakian compatriot Iva Budarova.

Fourth-seeded Manuela Maleeva of Bulgaria and Helena Sukova of Czechoslovakia, the seventh seed, also came through, as did No. 13, Carling Bassett of Canada.

Sweden's Carina Karlsson, who became the first qualifier ever to reach the women's quarterfinals last June, slipped to a first-round defeat against Czech Lea Pichova.

In the men's event, sixth-seeded Australian Pat Cash, nursing a troublesome back, came through 6-3 in the fifth set against American Todd Nelson, eighth seed Kevin Curren won in three, and unseeded Boris Becker, the 17-year-old West German, outhit American Hank Pfister.

NOTEBOOK

United Press International
WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Attractive blonde Anna White of the United States started Wimbledon Thursday when she walked onto the court wearing a white, figure-hugging leotard.
The sexy outfit drew a huge crowd to the No. 2 court and the match was played to the constant sound of motorized cameras from the sidelines.

White also drew the attention of tennis fashion designer Teddy Tinling, who caused a sensation 20 years ago by designing frilly knickerbockers for Gussy Moran.

"It's totally logical," said Tinling. "She has got a lovely shape. What she's wearing is the shape of things to come."
White was playing fifth seed Pam Shriver. Shriver took the first set 6-3 and White won the second 7-6 before the match was halted by darkness.

But when things resume Friday, White will be wearing more conventional tennis clothing.

Raines: Bench Has Expos Sitting On Top

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Montreal's holdover Tim Lincecum says the bench strength that helped the Expos defeat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-2, Thursday night also is the reason they are leading the National League East.

"People on other teams talk about injuries — they've got nothing on us," said Raines, who capped Montreal's scoring with a two-run, fifth-inning homer. "Today we had four regular players out — Andre Dawson, Herb Winningham, Dan Driessen and Tim Wallach — and we still won."

"In Montreal," Raines added, "we've got players who can come off the bench and play."

Jim Wolford provided proof for Raines' contention Thursday night. He picked up his fifth game-winning RBI of the season — with a fourth-inning single off losing starter Larry McWilliams, 4-6 — in only his 39th game of the season.

So did second baseman U.L. Washington, who was playing in his 35th game. He scored the Expos' first run on Wolford's hit after leading off the fourth with a double. Later, Washington was forced out of the game when he strained his right hamstring for the second time this year.

Raines said the Expos have one other secret weapon the experts overlooked when they picked teams other than Montreal to win the NL East — right-handed relief pitcher Jeff Reardon.

Padres 8, Dodgers 6
 Whether or not Fernando Valenzuela was at his best, Jerry Royster will always treasure his game-winning single against the Dodger ace.

"Everyone remembers days like this against a pitcher like this," said Royster after his two-out single in the sixth inning Thursday gave the San Diego Padres a 6-5 victory over Los Angeles. "I know I will."

"(Valenzuela's) probably the best left-hander in baseball. I can only remember one infield single off him in all my other times against him."

Royter, who came to the Padres this season as a free agent from Atlanta, drove in Garry Templeton from second to make a winner of Craig Lefferts, 4-2. Rich Gossage worked the ninth inning to earn his 17th save.

Reds 7, Giants 6
 At Cincinnati, Wayne Krenchicki drove in three runs with a homer, double and single to power the Reds to a series sweep. Ron Robinson, 2-0, pitched to only one batter to earn the victory and Ted Power got his 12th save. Jeff Leonard hit for the cycle, but the Giants suffered their seventh straight loss.

Cardinals 4, Phillies 3
 At Philadelphia, Willie McGee had three hits and scored his team's first three runs to help the Cardinals snap the Phillies' five-game winning streak. Kurt Kneppert yielded four hits while striking five and walking four to improve to 5-5. Jeff Lahti notched his sixth save.

Cubs 4, New York 2
 At Chicago, rookie Billy Hatcher had three hits and two RBI, including his first major-league homer and Rick Sutcliffe hurled a five-hit victory to help the Cubs. Ryne Sandberg and Leon Durham added solo homers off Ron Darling, 6-2, to give Chicago its second triumph in a row after 13 straight losses.

Braves 4, Astros 1
 At Houston, Zane Smith, Jeff Edmon and Bruce Sutter combined on a six-hitter and Claudell Washington blasted a solo home run to lead the Braves to their fourth straight victory. Houston lost for the sixth straight time.

Clearwater Musician Didn't Expect An Organ Transplant

CLEARWATER (UPI) — The last thing Wilbur Snapp expected at Jack Rossell Stadium was an organ transplant.

A dispute broke out Wednesday night during the Clearwater Phillies' minor-league baseball game against the Ocala Astros and the 64-year-old Snapp was the only person ejected by umpire Kevin O'Connor. Snapp is the Phillies' organist.

O'Connor, in no mood to play name that tune, tossed Snapp out for a spirited rendition of "Three Blind Mice," on his $10,000 Kawai DX900 organ. The St. Petersburg, Fla., resident says the song just wrote itself as the play unfolded.

"I just couldn't resist it," says Snapp, who's been playing organ for 30 years. "Everyone was raising so much Cain and the call was really bad."

The Phillies, who eventually won the Class A game 8-2, had a he felt an obligation to the league but he did admit he thought of himself, too. "I don't think I would have gotten that much playing time in American Legion," he said about the Lake Mary team where he was a freshman last year. "I think I did the right thing."

But what about these other guys? The ones who left? Prom didn't show any resentment. He was philosophical. He didn't put the blame on anyone or anything. He was a class act even when he didn't have to be.

"Everybody has to make his own decision," Prom said softly. "Everybody started going to Legion. I guess the rest went because everybody else went."

The players weren't the only ones who left. When it was evident Altamonte wouldn't field its usual powerhouse team in the Senior Division, some of the more experienced coaches sided away. The frontrunners.

"I guess I did at first, too," said Woody Woodard, who will coach the Seniors. "But then I thought, that's not my style. I'm not going to run away like those other guys did."

That makes two all-stars. The rest should wonder about what they did.

O's Risk: Is Wiggins Drug-Free?

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The struggling Baltimore Orioles, taking a self-admittedly "considerable risk" in obtaining drug-plagued second baseman Alan Wiggins from the San Diego Padres, are confident Wiggins will be an asset.

"We recognize the considerable risk we have taken in concluding this deal," said Orioles general manager Hank Peters Thursday. "Drugs very nearly ruined his career. We believe he has an intense desire to rehabilitate himself."

"We hope the Orioles' fans will give Alan a chance to prove himself both as a ballplayer and as a man."

To acquire Wiggins, the Orioles gave up right-handed reliever Roy Lee Jackson, who had been with the club's Triple-A team in Rochester, N.Y., and a player to be named later. To make room for Wiggins on the roster, the team is expected to release Joe Nolan, the veteran catcher whose knee problems have limited him to a pinch-hitting role.

Wiggins, who twice has been treated for cocaine dependency, agreed to forfeit up to one-third of his 4-year, $2.8 million contract should he again lapse into drug use, thus sealing the deal he had been hoping for.

"We are well aware that there is no guarantee he is completely recovered from his dependency," Peters added. "However, we feel that with the help of the Orioles' management, his new teammates, and an excellent employee assistance program — we can help him straighten out his personal life and he can help us on the field."

The Orioles have lost seven of their last 10 games — despite the return of Manager Earl Weaver — and are 35-33 for the season, 7 1/2 games behind Toronto entering Thursday night.

Wiggins, 27, was hitting .054 in 10 games with the Padres before he was suspended after a second publicized bout with cocaine. He recently was assigned to San Diego's Triple-A club at Las Vegas, Nev.

A lifetime .259 hitter who in his last two full seasons stole 70 and 60 bases, Wiggins is expected to become Baltimore's starting second baseman and leadoff hitter, adding firepower to a lineup that includes Eddie Murray, Cal Ripken, Fred Lynn and Lee Lacy.

"Alan Wiggins is a quality player who can provide several of the offensive ingredients we have been lacking," Peters said. "He has excellent speed. He gets on base a lot and he can cover a lot of ground at second base."

GROUP SAVE PIRATES

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The heads of Westinghouse Electric and U.S. Steel and Mayor Richard Caliguiri have joined forces to assemble a group of corporate and private investors that would bid on the money-losing Pittsburgh Pirates before the end of the summer.

Caliguiri also said at an informal news briefing Thursday that the City of Pittsburgh would negotiate concessions on the Pirates' longterm lease with Three Rivers Stadium — and might even contribute funds to the investment group — if that is what is necessary to stave off purchase attempts by out-of-town groups.

"I stand ready, willing and able to discuss any contractual arrangements necessary to make it more attractive for a local group to buy the team and also to provide any public financial aid possible," Caliguiri said.

"At the present time, I am only going to discuss this type of thing with local groups," Caliguiri added.

Pirates president Dan Galbreath last November promised to try to sell the National League team to local buyers who would keep it in Pittsburgh. But he has become increasingly frustrated by the team's mounting losses, growing debts and dwindling attendance as well as the lack of an official purchase bid by any local investors.

Earlier this week, Galbreath threatened to put the team, for which he reportedly is asking upwards of $40 million, into Chapter 11 bankruptcy in order to be free of contractual obligations to play in Three Rivers Stadium until 2011 and attract out-of-town buyers seeking major-league franchises.

Several out-of-town groups have contacted the Pirates, and some of those groups have tried to interest the New Jersey Sports Authority in providing the team with a place to play.

The goal of the group, Barger said, is to raise money both to purchase and continue operating the team for a few years until it can turn its fortunes around.

Gardening

Begin Plans Now For A Better Fall Harvest

By now, most of us have just about finished harvesting and storing all the vegetables from our spring gardens. Although it's not yet time to begin making preparations for fall planting, you should not completely forget about your present garden. Even during this interlude, there are things to think about and tasks to do to insure continued gardening success.

Maintaining a successful, productive vegetable garden is a never-ending enterprise. Even though you may have a lull between spring harvest and fall planting, there's still work to be done. During this period, you need to perform those fine-tuning tasks that can make the difference between a good and great garden.

If you still have vegetables in your garden, you should continue — perhaps intensify — a regular pest protection program. We're into the rainy season now, which means hot, wet days, and warm, humid nights — just the conditions that stimulate insect and disease pest activity. Tomato and corn fruit worms,

Alfred Bessesen
Urban Horticulturist

and pickle worms can be very destructive at this time. And, even those pests which haven't been overwhelming so far, often become severe during the rainy months. Little creatures, such as aphids, cabbage worms, squash borers, and corn bud worms, are common problems. So, you should be especially alert for signs of damage, and be prepared to apply insecticide as needed.

In addition, maintain a sharp lookout for the spread of plant disease. Any diseased plants should be pulled out and disposed of as soon as possible, preferably in the garbage bag. Do not compost any diseased plants! Plants remaining in the garden should be sprayed weekly with a good fungicide.

Your friendly neighborhood garden supply shop can help you select both an insecticide and a fungicide.

Summer is a good time to evaluate the seed varieties you selected for the spring garden. Ask yourself such questions as ... did the variety produce strong, vigorous plants? ... what about the quality of the vegetables themselves? ... how about disease resistance? Try to make notes of the varieties which did well and those that didn't, so you'll have some idea of the ones you'll want to include in your fall vegetable garden. Here's where a garden diary can be very helpful.

Summer offers a good opportunity to observe the beneficial effects of mulching, too. If you mulched your spring garden, you'll notice that you have very few weeds, whereas your neighbor's unmulched garden may be overrun with weeds.

Nematode injury is less on mulched vegetables. While nematodes will attack mulched plants, their effects are not as severe, because of the healthier root zone in a mulched garden.

The most striking observation you'll make about mulching is how it controls soil moisture. Vegetables grown on unmulched, hot, sandy Florida soils will droop, while those grown in mulched gardens will stand tall. We've seen all kinds of materials used for mulching, including black plastic sheets, pine straw, hay, oak leaves ... even such things as peanut hulls, and newspapers.

Getting rid of grass clippings and garden refuse can be a problem during the summer. Yet, these garden byproducts can be turned into useful compost with just about the same effort as bagging them for removal by the trash hauler. In many instances, the compost may serve the same function as peat moss.

Good compost consists of a small amount of soil along with decomposed or partially decomposed plant and animal residue. Compost is especially useful in improving our sandy garden soils. Although compost contains some nutrients, the greatest benefit comes from improving the soil texture. You will still need to add some fertilizer to your garden to get the greatest growth and production.

Many types of organic material can be used to build a compost heap — sod, grass clippings, leaves, hay, weeds, manure, sawdust, shredded newspapers, wood ashes (not from barbecue briquets), and any other plant residue. When compost is ready for use (generally about two months or so), it should be dark and crumbly with much of the original identity of the materials lost. Now, you have what we refer to as "humus."

Compost or humus is also a valuable mulching material around the garden and landscape plants. You can use it as a "topdressing" for lawns, too, and when it contains a small amount of soil, you can use it as a potting soil for house plants or for starting seedlings.

You may think of other summer chores and new gardening ideas. Meanwhile, don't forget the care of your plants that are still producing. A little extra effort may squeeze some valuable productivity from your old plot. And, be sure to use any extra time during this slow gardening season to make your future plans — ones that could pay off in a better fall harvest.

Happy gardening!

Perfect Child's Flaw Blow To Parents

DEAR ABBY: Three weeks ago I accidentally found my daughter's birth control pills, and I haven't been able to sleep since. She's 18, a straight-A student and active in our church. She's worked since she was 16 and saved every penny for college. She was a perfect child (we thought). She's planning on going away to college in the fall.

When I found those pills, I hit the ceiling, and told her since she's having sex, she should get married and forget about college. I didn't really mean it, but she hurt me so bad, I wanted to hurt her.

Her steady boyfriend is in his second year of college. He still picks her up, but doesn't come in the house. We used to think he was tops. He doesn't drink or smoke and he goes to our church.

My husband was heartaick when I told him, but he hasn't said anything to our daughter. He's too embarrassed. I guess maybe we should be thankful that she was smart enough to go to a doctor for pills, but I cannot condone premarital sex. What should I do.

DISAPPOINTED MOM
DEAR MOM: You shouldn't "do" anything other than accept the fact that your daughter is no longer a minor and you can't control her actions.

Dear Abby

I am not asking you to condone premarital sex, but I urge you not to destroy your once wonderful mother-daughter relationship because you don't see eye to eye on this one issue.

Be thankful she's not risking pregnancy, and love her for her admirable qualities. She appears to have many.

DEAR ABBY: Amy and I are getting married next month. We are both 23 and very much in love, but we are having a minor disagreement we can't seem to settle. I have never smoked but Amy has been a heavy cigarette smoker since high school, and she's made it very clear that she plans on smoking at our wedding reception. She says that after the wedding ceremony, she will "need" a cigarette to calm her nerves. And she's sure our guests will understand.

I told her that the sight of a bride smoking a cigarette in her bridal gown and veil would be disgusting and probably a breach of etiquette.

I've sadly accepted Amy's addiction to nicotine, but is it unreasonable to ask her to refrain from smoking on this very special occasion?

BMOKED OUT

DEAR SMOKED OUT: Yes. Nicotine addicts "need" a cigarette when they are under pressure. I agree, a bride in a gown and veil does not a pretty picture make, with a cigarette in hand, but since you so strongly object, ask her to excuse herself and smoke in private when she feels the "need."

DEAR ABBY: For years I have been trying to find an answer to this question: how did "Peggy" come to be the nickname for "Margaret"?

I hope you or one of your readers can come up with the answer, as I have been trying for years without success.

My given name is Margaret, but I have always been called Peggy. I like the name Peggy, but when people ask me how Margaret came to be Peggy, I don't have an answer.

PEGGY (REALLY MARGARET)

DEAR PEGGY: If someone out there knows the answer, I'll pass it along. Readers?

DEAR ABBY: Two weeks ago, I received a chain letter in the mail informing me that if I didn't make 15 copies and send them to 15 people, I would suffer dire consequences — even death! I tossed it in the garbage.

Since then, my TV set broke down and now my refrigerator is on the blink, and I had a big fight with my husband.

I usually laugh at such coincidences, but now I am wondering if maybe my throwing that chain letter away has something to do with all this bad luck I've been having.

SCARED IN NEW YORK

DEAR SCARED: Chain letters are just so much rubbish, but they can be damaging if a person becomes frightened by them. Chain letters that threaten "dire consequences — even death" are against postal regulations. Should you receive another, send it to your postmaster.

CONFIDENTIAL TO B.B. IN BANGOR, MAINE: Psychiatry is not an athletic concept. The greatest textbook ever written on human behavior is the Bible, in which the principle of psychoanalysis was set forth 3,000 years ago: "And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." (John 8:32)

Not until one knows the truth about himself, complete with all the grim hostilities, insecurities and unresolved conflicts, is he truly "free."

It is the role of the psychotherapist to remove the camouflage, self-deception and rationalizations, and to bring the unconscious conflicts into the conscious mind where reason can deal with them.

Once reason is gained, the cure begins. Because the truth does indeed make one free.

Pinched Nerves Leave Hands Numb, Tingling

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have had an increased numbness in both my hands for three or four years. In the winter they improve. Now they bother me at night. My fingers get so numb that I can't even thread a needle and my palm hurts. Can this be treated? I am 60 and use my hands a lot, gardening and sewing.

DEAR READER — What you describe sounds like a common and potentially serious condition, neuropathy, the malfunction of the nerves leading to your hands.

This progressive disability can result from lack of circulation — as you can easily experience by crossing your legs and waiting for your foot to fall asleep. If nerves are deprived of blood nutrients and oxygen, they will go all funny; numbness and tingling may result. Later, weakness may develop. Possibly you have a blockage in the arteries leading to the nerves in your hands.

Nerves will tingle if they are compressed. So, as well as seeking a vascular cause for your problem, you will have to determine whether the nerves to your hands are being pinched. This constriction can occur anywhere along the courses of the nerves — from your neck, down the arms and through the wrists.

Your symptoms seem quite pronounced, so I think it is appropriate for you to see a doctor, particularly a neurologist — one who specializes in diseases of nerves. In all likelihood he will be able to identify not only the source of your problem but also its location. You may need to undergo special testing. Like neck X-rays and electromyography — a method of mapping out nerve and muscle malfunction. The trouble may be well worth the inconvenience and expense, however, because treatment to remove the obstruction or compression is usually successful.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am 88 and have hardening of the arteries. My hands become numb in even slightly cold weather. What can be done about this?

DEAR READER — You seem to have a purely circulatory problem. As people age, arteries to various parts of the body become plugged with cholesterol deposits and these narrowed vessels cannot supply adequate oxygen and heat to certain organs, particularly hands and feet. Although your condition may be difficult to correct, there are certain things you can do to help the numbness. Avoid extreme cold. Use mittens and gloves. Stop smoking.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

The game of bridge is sometimes played under highly uncomfortable conditions. There can be poor lighting, for example, inadequate air conditioning, small tables, crowded rooms, or uncomfortable chairs. But one thing's for sure: The game is never played in a vacuum.

Defender West, in his rush for brilliance, let the cat out of the bag, and declarer South was quick to notice what was happening. With 12 cards in the red suits, South arrived in a six-diamond contract. It may seem unusual that North raised diamonds with only three-card support, but his two aces certainly warranted some action over West's three-club bid. Once diamonds were raised, South took off via the Blackwood asking bid.

The deuce of clubs lead by West was a good shot. He hoped that East would win the club jack and, after getting over his surprise at winning the trick, then know to give West a heart ruff.

Unfortunately the club jack failed to live. Also unfortunately, declarer now knew that West had desperately tried to get his partner on lead. Declarer played K-Q of diamonds and a diamond to the ace. Next came the nine of hearts; when East played low, so did South.

Though declarer had to give up a heart trick, passing the heart nine limited the defenders to only one heart trick and assured the contract. None of this would have been that easy if declarer had not been tipped off to the heart situation by the lead of the club deuce.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY JUNE 20, 1985
There will be a general improvement in your material affairs in the year ahead. However, increases may not come in larger measures, but in small, steady increments.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) Today, search for little ways to economize. If something requires mending, see if you can fix it yourself or have it repaired cheaply instead of buying a replacement. Trying to patch up a romance? The Matchmaker set can help you understand what it might take to make the relationship work. Send $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) As time ticks on today, your mood will grow more gregarious and sociable, so be sure to make plans for the evening. You won't want to be left out of the action.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A close friend who is quite secretive may take you into confidence today and tell you things he dares not repeat to others.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Activities that are more mental than physical will provide you with the greatest pleasure today. Try to mix with friends who share similar interests.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Little things take on greater significance than usual today, especially in the financial realm. Don't ignore small chances for personal gain.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Long-awaited news of something outside your direct control will be forthcoming. The tiding will please you.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A valuable lesson can be learned today from observing how another handles a sticky issue similar to one that also confronts you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Beneficial results will come today from a discussion with a wise friend who does not limit his thinking to traditional concepts.
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Act in harmony with your thoughts and impulses today. Your ideas for furthering your goals are worthy of implementation.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) You will have opportunities today to pass on acquired knowledge. Friends you'll be chatting to will be duly impressed.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Conditions for financial dealings are favorable today. The profit in each transaction is apt to be small, but their cumulative effect could be surprising.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Companions will find you nice to be around today because your thoughts will be focused on doing what you can to please those about you.

Budget Conferees Go Home Empty Handed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate and House budget negotiators are taking a week-long Independence Day break without any progress on compromise, and when they return they face a new budget proposal that includes taxes.

The negotiators were called back together Thursday when Senate Budget Committee Chairman Pete Domenici sensed a "ray of hope" on the sensitive Social Security issue, but the talks ended quickly without agreement.

As the conference recessed for the July 4 break, a bipartisan group of senators led by Lawton Chiles, D-Lakeland, Fla.; Slade Gorton, R-Wash.; and Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., proposed a budget that would freeze defense spending and Social Security, except for the poor, and would raise $59 billion in taxes over three years.

The senators' plan also includes less drastic cuts than the Senate budget made in many programs and cuts nearly $70 billion from the deficit.

"It's clear we're about to reach an impasse here," Chiles said. "We've got to put some revenues on the table (and you've got to treat people fairly; that's what this plan does."

But Domenici, R-N.M., said he did not support the plan and even some Democrats said raising taxes now would derail tax reform. But the plan was backed by six Senate conferees, three from each party, and therefore had enough votes to pass without Domenici's support.

Domenici said his hope on the Social Security issue sprang from comments House Speaker Thomas O'Neill made suggesting that people with high incomes could pay more tax on their Social Security payments.

But other Democrats, including prominent members of the budget conference, rejected the idea.

Social Security and military spending have been the toughest issues of the nearly 3-week-old conference. The Senate budget would freeze Social Security payments next year but give the Pentagon an inflation adjustment. The House version would do the opposite.

Both budgets are aimed at cutting about $56 billion from the more than $220 billion deficit in fiscal year 1986.

Domenici said he had planned to offer a new budget package that would incorporate O'Neill's idea — which would be the first Senate departure from its stand on Social Security.

"In light of his (O'Neill's) suggestion — that I considered a ray of hope on the Social Security issue — I determined we should reconvene the conference," Domenici said.

But Domenici never offered his alternative budget and House Budget Committee Chairman William Gray insisted O'Neill was speaking for himself.

"The speaker's proposal is not a proposal of the House or the chairman of the House conferees," Gray said.

Hollings called O'Neill's suggestion "the worst idea ever proposed" and said it would turn Social Security into a welfare program.

O'Neill suggested people earning above $25,000 for individuals and $32,500 for couples could pay tax on 85 percent of their Social Security income. They now pay tax on 50 percent of it.

Court: Bizarre Murder Tape Admissible

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The Supreme Court — divided on the legal principle at stake — has upheld a murder conviction that was based on the victim's tape recording of his own death.

The justices agreed Thursday that a trial judge did not violate Anthony Paul Inclarrano's constitutional right to privacy against unwarranted police wiretaps in allowing the tape to be used as evidence during his 1982 trial.

Prosecutors described Trimble as a fugitive from justice in California who lived in Howard County under the name Michael Phillips. They said he operated a psychology practice under phony credentials — as well as a mail order church. They also said Inclarrano killed Earvin Herman Trimble over a business deal gone sour.

As evidence they introduced the tape recording Trimble had made of two separate conversations with a man Trimble identified on the tape as Inclarrano.

During the first conversation, Trimble announced he was cutting Inclarrano out of a deal to set up a bingo operation under the banner of the mail order church in neighboring Palm Beach County.

The second conversation came three days later. In it, Trimble briefly discussed the same matter with a man he did not identify. There followed the sound of five gun shots and of Trimble dying.

Prosecutors said the voice of the killer belonged to Inclarrano.

Inclarrano's trial judge admitted the tape as evidence over the objections of the accused's lawyer, who then entered a plea of no contest. Inclarrano was sentenced to life in prison. He appealed.

Thursday, four of the justices agreed the tape could be admitted as evidence, arguing the constitution and a statute outlining the privacy rights of the accused apply only when a defendant has a reasonable expectation to privacy. Writing for the majority, Justice James Alderman said Inclarrano lost that reasonable expectation when he visited the victim's office intending to kill him.

Justice Ben Overton agreed — adding that an accused would expect a different level of privacy in a business office than in a private home. Overton also suggested the Legislature clarify the statute.

But Justice Raymond Erlich and Leonard Shaw differed strongly, saying that reasoning — which was based on earlier court decisions they said they also disagreed with — would "shake the foundations of the 4th Amendment."

They agreed the tape was admissible but argued the statute was designed strictly to apply to "interceptions" of conversations by police — and not to privately recorded conversations.

"The victim no more 'intercepted' the conversation than he 'intercepted' the bullets that ended his life," Erlich wrote. "If criminal acts waive privacy rights, as the majority implies, police have the right and duty to intrude without a warrant into a bedroom where the owner-resident is smoking marijuana, reasoning that the 4th Amendment protection has 'gone up in smoke.'"

Civil Rights Groups Laud Reynolds' Rejection

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Faced with a stunning Senate panel defeat, President Reagan says he will not abandon civil rights policies enforced by William Bradford Reynolds, his rejected nominee for a Justice Department promotion.

Civil rights leaders called the vote a major victory and a repudiation of the administration's civil rights policies they contend have turned back the clock 30 years for blacks and minorities.

The Senate Judiciary Committee Thursday repeatedly voted against Reynolds' nomination to be associate attorney general, the department's No. 3 job, in tense political maneuvering sparked by senators' charges that he misled the committee in his confirmation hearings.

In a pointed statement, Reagan expressed his support of Reynolds, the administration's civil rights chief, and said he was "deeply disappointed" by the committee vote.

"That some members of the committee chose to use the confirmation process to conduct an ideological assault on so superbly qualified a candidate was unjust and deeply wrong," Reagan said.

"Let me emphasize that Mr. Reynolds' civil rights views reflect my own. The policies he pursued are the policies of this administration and they remain our policies as long as I am president."

For his part, Reynolds defended his work and maintained the administration's civil rights policies have been "effective in combatting unlawful discrimination."

Reynolds' nomination was considered an important test for the White House, and the defeat was widely viewed as a vote against Reagan's policies.

"It's a big victory for civil rights," said William Taylor of the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights.

In Dallas, delegates to the NAACP's annual convention jumped to their feet with thunderous applause when Chairman William Gibson announced the Senate panel's action. An organ struck up "We Shall Overcome."

The first sign Reynolds would have trouble came when the committee recalled him last week to explain what some senators said were misleading statements.

Reynolds apologized to the committee for giving inaccurate or possibly misleading testimony about his civil rights record but declared he testified "truthfully, honestly and straightforwardly to the best of my recollection."

The last time a Senate committee rejected a presidential nominee was in 1981 when the Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted 13-4 against Ernest Lefever to be assistant secretary of state. Lefever withdrew his name.

NOTICE FOR HEARING ON DECLARED PUBLIC NUISANCE

IN RE: LOT 17, HAYMAKERS ADDITION NO. 2, according to the plat thereof as recorded in Plat Book 5, Page 7, of the Public Records of Seminole County, Florida, presently shown as being owned by Ade Nelson and all parties having or claiming to have any right, title or interest in the property described above.

WHEREAS, the Board of County Commissioners of Seminole County, Florida, did on the 28th day of May, 1985, find and declare a structure located in Seminole County, Florida, to be unsafe, unsanitary and a public nuisance; that the owner of the property according to the property records in the Seminole County Property Appraiser's Office on which the structure is located is Ade Nelson, 278 Jackson Street, Altamonte Springs, Florida 32701; that the public nuisance is a residential structure located on Jackson Street, Altamonte Springs, Florida and further described as set forth above, and that corrective action is required to abate the public nuisance; and

WHEREAS, the Board of County Commissioners found that the following conditions constituted a public nuisance: (1) The building has been severely damaged by fire and the elements of nature due to abandonment. (2) Foundation piers, exterior walls, exterior steps, floor framing and flooring, partitions, roof rafters and sheathing, ceiling joist, exterior and interior doors, roofing materials, roof flashing, window glass, window screens and window frames are damaged beyond reasonable repair. (3) Electrical service, electrical panels, electrical receptacles, electrical lights and switches are damaged to the extent that they are a hazard. (4) Plumbing fixtures, plumbing drain system, hot and cold water distribution system and hot water heater are damaged beyond reasonable repair or nonexistent. (5) There is no evidence of a septic tank or drainfield. (6) There is garbage and rubbish inside and outside of the building. (7) This condition constitutes a potential fire hazard; and

WHEREAS, the following corrective action necessary to abate the public nuisance is to demolish and remove the building, garbage and rubbish from the property;

NOW THEREFORE, notice is hereby given to the said Ade Nelson and all parties having or claiming to have any right, title or interest in the property described above, to appear before the Board of County Commissioners of Seminole County, Florida, at 10:00 a.m., at its regular meeting on the 12th day of August, 1985, at the Seminole County Services Building, Room W-128, 1101 East First Street, Sanford, Florida, to show cause, if any, why such structure should not be declared a public nuisance and the corrective action of abatement specified in the Notice of Public Nuisance should not be taken; or cause, if any, why the cost of the corrective action of abatement specified in the Notice of Public Nuisance should not be paid for by Ade Nelson, her heirs or assigns; or cause, if any, why said cost should not be assessed against the property.

WITNESS my hand and seal this 28th day of June, 1985.

NOTICE

The St. Johns River Water Management District has received an application for Consumptive Water Use from:

SEMINOLE COUNTY SCHOOL BOARD, 1211 MELLONVILLE AVE., SANFORD, FL 32771, application #1217014/85, on 12/28/85. The applicant proposes to use their own aquifer via an existing well for grass irrigation to serve 85 acres in Seminole County located in section 26, Township 31 South, Range 30 East.

The Governing Board of the District will take action to grant or deny the application(s) no sooner than 30 days from the date of this notice. Should you be interested in any of the listed applications, you should contact the St. Johns River Water Management District at P.O. Box 1429, Palatka, Florida 32978, or in person at its office on State Highway 108 West, Palatka, Florida, 904/328-8321. Written objection to the application may be made, but should be received no later than 14 days from the date of publication. Written objections should identify the objector by name and address, and fully describe the objection to the application. Filing a written objection does not entitle you to a Chapter 120, Florida Statutes, Administrative Hearing. Only those persons whose substantial interests are affected by the application and who file a petition meeting the requirements of Section 20.5201, F.A.C., may obtain an Administrative Hearing. All timely filed written objections will be presented to the Board for its consideration in its deliberation on the application prior to the Board taking action on the application.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Case Into Americans' Murder Reopened; New Evidence Found

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — Citing new testimony from two Americans and a Costa Rican, prosecutors have reopened the case against a former army officer named by triggermen in the 1981 murders of two American land reform advisers.

The confessions by two former national guardsmen said the three were killed because of opposition from the army and the oligarchy to a land reform program backed by the U.S. government.

Following the killings, the guardsmen confessed to the murder and fingered Capt. Eduardo Ernesto Alfonso Avila and Lt. Isidro Lopez Sibrían as having ordered the killings and given them the guns in the parking lot outside the hotel.

However, under Salvadoran law the confession of one suspect cannot be used against another suspect.

Both Avila and Lopez Sibrían were removed from active duty by the government of President Jose Napoleón Duarte, but no legal steps have been taken against them.

The case against Avila is being reopened.

Air-India Wreckage Found

CORK, Ireland (UPI) — A British Navy ship today located the bulk of the wreckage from an Air-India jumbo jet that crashed into mile-deep waters of the Atlantic Ocean, killing 329 people.

The HMS Challenger, a "seabed operations" vessel equipped with sophisticated sonar equipment, had pinpointed the wreckage under more than 6,000 feet of water about 120 miles off the southwest coast of Ireland, a spokesman for crash investigators said.

"We are not sure yet whether the wreckage discovered today is still fully intact but we're hoping most of it is still together," the spokesman said.

Officials said recovery of the wreckage — vital to determining if the plane was brought down by a terrorist bomb, as some experts suspect — would be difficult and require special salvage equipment.

Aviation experts suspected an exploding bomb caused the jet to vanish from radar screens at 31,000 feet Sunday and crash into the Atlantic. But investigators said only meticulous examination of the wreckage could confirm that.

An Irish official said Thursday only "1 to 2 percent" of the plane had been recovered as wreckage.

Kidnapped Aristocrat Sought

ROME (UPI) — Police pressed a search today for a prominent Rome aristocrat who was kidnapped at the gates of her Mediterranean estate by three hooded assailants armed with submachine guns.

There was no word from the kidnappers of Marchesa Isabella Guglielmo Grazioli Della Rovere, 37, a member of one of Rome's oldest noble families, but police said they were treating the abduction Thursday as a kidnapping for ransom.

Hundreds of police, backed by dogs and helicopters scoured the area Thursday but found no trace of the kidnappers and a search continued today.

The remote control system in the gate broke down recently and the marchesa was seized when she stepped out of the car to unlock the gate. The kidnappers then used the marchesa's Volkswagen to escape.

The abduction was only the fifth kidnapping for ransom reported in Italy this year — a big drop from the annual average of around 40 kidnappings for ransom since 1980.

Within the 30 days the developers must pay the county in connection fees $4.71 per gallon for sewer capacity and $425 per residential unit for water capacity and execute a developers' agreement with the county.

The area generally served is east of state Road 436, south of Red Bug Lake Road and near state Road 434, south of Oviedo.

Developers, proposed developments and capacity they are to receive according to the waiting list are:

- Jose Gonzalez, Lafayette Forest, 92 housing units, 32,300 gallons. This development received 10,960 gallons in the first allocation of capacity several months ago.
- John Baldwin, J. Baldwin Commercial site, 4,000 square feet of commercial space, 3,000 gallons.
- Ishmar Naran, Oak Ridge Motel, 48 units, 5,200 gallons.
- Magnolia Service Corp., Fernwood Center, 46,000 square feet office building, 1,000 gallons.
- Engineering Management, Riverwood Landing, 100 housing units, 27,500 gallons.
- Lockrane Engineering, Mrs. Winner's Chicken, 68-seat restaurant, 3,000 gallons.
- Peralta Development Corp., Brushyfork, 85 housing units, 30,000 gallons.
- Maronda Homes, Lake Tuskawilla, 83 housing units, 29,000 gallons.
- Clark Chrysler Plymouth, 600 square foot building, 4,000 gallons.

- U.S. Homes, Ashland Park, 156 housing units, will be allowed 52,500 gallons. The developer has asked for 54,600 gallons.
- Holtzclaw, U.S. Fitness Center, 2,800 square foot building, 5,000 gallons.
- Bojangles Restaurants, 84 seats, 4,000 gallons.
- Keewin development, Bear Gulley Bay, 27 housing units, 9,400 gallons.
- Godwin Development, Trinity Bay Phase 2, 30 housing units, 10,500 gallons.
- Richmond American, Autumn Glen, 278 housing units, will be allowed 52,500 gallons, but has asked for 97,300 gallons.
- J.L. Mason, University Woods 1,2,3, 363 units, will be allowed 52,500 gallons, but has requested 99,825 gallons.
- Richland Properties, Olde

- Times Square II, 50,000 gallons.
 - Ken Flagg, Flagg Homes, 496 multi-family units, will be allowed 52,500 gallons, but has asked for 123,500 gallons.
 - Ken Flagg, Flagg Homes, commercial, 80,000 gallons.
 - Pridden & Associates, Red Willow Plaza, 150,000 square feet of commercial development, will be allowed 52,500 gallons, but has requested 200,000 gallons.
 - Straton Builders, Straton Shopping Center, 250,000 square feet, 30,000 gallons.
- The requests of developers, who have asked for more sewer capacity than the 52,500 gallons limitation allows, will be considered after the 44 remaining on the waiting list are given the limit at a future date when additional capacity is available.

at the Ramada Court of Flags Hotel, 5715 Major Boulevard, Orlando, by MBI agents. At the time of their arrest, they were found to have in their possession a kilo of cocaine. They reportedly had in their possession $11,000 cash, two pistols and a machine gun with a silencer, Dayle said. He said weapon charges will be filed against the pair. They were charged early today with trafficking in cocaine. Also arrested in the bust and being held without bond is Antonio Cardona, 45, of Miami and his wife Alba Cardona. Dayle said Cardona was arrested around 1 a.m. at the Americana's Dutch Resort Hotel, and Mrs. Cardona at the Howard Johnson Hotel, both of the Lake Buena Vista area.

Dayle said the bust stemmed from the MBI unit surveillance at the Orlando International Airport.

He said agents were assisted in the bust by a 14-year-old girl with Cardona. He said he would not elaborate on her involvement except to say she was carrying a kilo of cocaine in her underwear.

In the cocaine-by-mail scheme, two men accused of picking up envelopes containing cocaine at four area post offices were being held at the Seminole County Jail today in lieu of $10,000 bond each after their arrests on charges of possession of and trafficking in cocaine.

Altamonte Springs police arrested the pair at about 4 p.m. Thursday after watching as each man, traveling alone, made stops at post offices in Altamonte Springs, Maitland, Fern Park and Casselberry, allegedly to pick up a total of 18 envelopes loaded with 15 grams of cocaine each. The envelopes were mailed from Peru, a police report said.

Altamonte Springs police Lt. Richard Beary said 25 envelopes had been sent from Peru, but postal workers didn't deliver all of them to the post office boxes. Some were held back as evidence.

U.S. Customs officials had alerted postal inspectors of the expected mail arrivals. Beary said, and police were called in to assist in the case about two weeks ago.

Police detective Mark Andrews, who began watching the pair at about 8:30 a.m. Thursday, arrested Steven Albert Sami, 21, of 2455 Carlton Road, Maitland, on Maitland Avenue, in Altamonte Springs.

Erik Lee Thomas, 20, of 7402 Woodcrest Lane, Winter Park, was arrested on Longwood Avenue in Altamonte Springs after he reportedly made stops at post offices in Casselberry and Altamonte Springs.

Sami allegedly made pickups in Fern Park, Casselberry and Maitland, the report said.

Across the street Sanford Sgt. William Hasson and a sheriff's deputy watched the woman tell McGill there was a wallet in the phone booth. She was wearing a hidden tape recorder.

The police had set up the test, according to court records, because some citizens had complained McGill had taken money from them.

The two officers on stake-out said they watched

McGill pick up the wallet, take it back to his patrol car, turn its inside light on for a few minutes, and look down for a short while. He then left the area, according to court records.

When confronted, McGill denied taking the money and told Hasson it was Hasson's word against his records show.

During trial, McGill testified that there was no money in the trial, only some papers and a driver's license.

The original trial and the retrial was before County Judge Wallace Hall.

He said earlier this week he would be willing to transfer the prisoners to the custody of a western Embassy in Beirut or to Syria.

Berri said he would convey the Swiss offer to the hijackers today.

But Berri told CBS News Thursday he was not optimistic about the hijackers' response to the Swiss proposal, which called for Switzerland to retain the right to move the 39 Americans out of Lebanon and possibly to Geneva.

Berri has said he wanted the hostages kept in a Western embassy in mainly Moslem west Beirut until Israel frees more than 700 Lebanese prisoners — the main demand of the hijackers who seized TWA Flight 847 June 14 on a flight to Rome from Athens, Greece.

Israel television reported Thursday that the United States and Israel had agreed not to free the Arab prisoners detained in Israel until all the American captives, including seven abducted before the TWA hijacking, are released.

Beirut's respected An Nahar newspaper reported today that any transfer of the Americans to a Western embassy faced serious security obstacles and that a move to Damascus was more likely.

"Transferring the hostages to Damascus under the sponsorship of (Syrian) President Hafez Assad is the most likely choice because the hostages will be safe there regardless of how long a solution is delayed, and their relatives will not worry about their safety," said an official quoted by An Nahar.

And, in Christian east Beirut, the Voice of Lebanon radio said a plot to assassinate Berri today was foiled by soldiers who found two rockets rigged on the roof of a mosque overlooking his west Beirut home.

The radio, which like many Lebanese stations frequently airs reports that merely heighten tensions, did not identify the source of its information. Police could not immediately verify the report.

The radio said Tareq Yaff, 19, a member of the Progressive Socialist Party of the Druze Moslem sect, was arrested in the alleged plot. Amal officials declined comment.

Horner and Mayor Smith said the delegation's visit may mean more business between Sanford and China in the future. The city is going to go out of its way to lay the groundwork for future ties to the country. Extra interpreters have been hired by the city to ensure that communication will be clear and smooth.

"We're going to do our best to show them that this is the place to do business," Horner said.

Mayor Smith said, "If we show them we're friendly and open to talk, we may see more business dealings with them."

Horner said Sanford, dubbed "The Friendly City" will live up to its name as it hosts the delegation this week.

"We are going to treat them just as we would want to be treated over there," he said.

The delegation's visit may also lead to future cultural exchanges between Sanford and China. She said she hopes Sanford can adopt a "sister city" in China. She ruled out Guangzhou

WEATHER

AREA FORECAST: Today showers and thunderstorms were scattered today from Louisiana and Mississippi to northern Florida and southwestern Florida. Rain fell in the Middle Atlantic states, New England, western Kentucky, Illinois and Wisconsin. In Louisiana, more than 2 1/2 inches of rain soaked Monroe, while nearly 2 inches was reported in New Orleans. Winds Thursday night gust to 59 mph at Northern Louisiana University and 58 mph in Monroe. Nearly 1 1/2 inches of rain fell Thursday at Peoria, Ill., and street and small-creek flooding was reported during the afternoon in the southwestern Illinois counties of St. Clair, Bond, Madison and Clinton.

NATIONAL REPORT: Cool Canadian air clung to the Plains today, pushing temperatures to record lows for a second consecutive day in Nebraska and Kansas, while storms in the South poured heavy rain on Louisiana. Early today, temperatures in the Plains ranged from the lower 40s in the Dakotas to 61 degrees in San Angelo, Texas. In Wyoming, the mercury dipped to 38 degrees at Yellowstone National Park. Records were tied today with readings of 42 in North Platte, Neb.; 53 in Topeka, Kan.; 56 in Concordia, Kan.; 58 in Wichita Falls, Texas, and 59 in Wichita, Kan. Records in the 30s and 40s were set Thursday in Kansas, Colorado, Montana and Nebraska, where a reading of 38 in Scottsbluff snapped the mark set in 1907.

"The upper air flow (in the Plains) is out of Canada," said Pete Reynolds, a National Weather Service meteorologist. "The sun beating down on the Plains will eventually warm things up, but it will still be unseasonably cold today."

Cuttin' Up

You Can Save A Bundle On Your Grocery Bill

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

It's like that 7-Eleven TV commercial: You're zipping through the grocery store, get to the checkout stand and ... SCREEECH! ... the line is backed up all the way to the baby food section over on aisle 5. Some cost-conscious homemaker, her basket piled high with food, is sorting through a fistful of coupons she has been diligently clipping from magazines and newspapers for the past week.

You murmur something profane under your breath and wonder if you're going to get out of here before your milk sours and your bread goes stale.

This is no isolated scenario. It's happening with greater frequency in supermarkets from Sanford to Seattle. In addition to their shopping lists and money, customers may soon start bringing a book or their knitting to the corner grocery store to wile away the time while waiting behind the 'couponers.'

Or, you could join them. It might be worth the trouble. The couponers handed over 6.5 billion manufacturers' coupons last year and walked away with $2 billion in savings.

Those statistics from Iowa's A.C. Nielsen Clearing House, the nation's largest coupon processor, are enough to cause even those who wouldn't stoop to pick up a dime off the street to fill their purses and pockets with brightly colored snips of paper that promise savings from a few cents to a few bucks.

But beware the insidious Creeping Coupon Collection. Coupons multiply in cars and closets. They're crated in corners and stored in crannies and most don't improve with age. The threat of an expiration date usually looms on the horizon.

To take full advantage of all available couponing and refunding opportunities, it seems, one must be organized.

Longwood couponing magnate Bonnie Dahlbury, who claims to be organized, says she has cut her grocery bill in half after eight years developing her clipping expertise. She is so adept at couponing that she has taught Seminole Community College non-credit classes on the subject.

She also presides over four refunding seminars held in Altamonte Springs each year. There you can pick up tips on mailing away for cash promised by manufacturers who offer the give-backs as an enticement for customers to buy their products.

There's no way you can lose, Ms. Dahlbury said. And you can add to your gains by shopping at stores that, in order to lure customers to their checkout stands, offer to double the value of manufacturers' coupons.

Ms. Dahlbury, who stashes her coupons in two boxes in alphabetical order according to categories and then by brand, devotes about an hour a day to clipping and filing her coupons. She said she wouldn't even consider redeeming one of her coupons at a store that wouldn't double it's value.

It's a family affair. She pays her three pre-teen children a penny for each coupon they clip and hand over to her.

Another coupon-clutching shopper, Sally Payne, like Ms. Dahlbury, got hooked on couponing about seven years ago after seeing televised reports of couponers walking out of stores with carts and carts of goods without paying a cent.

Ms. Dahlbury has done even better. She said she has actually gotten money back after making her purchases because the total value of her coupons exceeded the cash value of what she 'bought.' In effect, she is being paid to shop. Some stores, however, won't redeem a coupon for more than a product is worth.

Such savings, Mrs. Payne said, have turned shopping, once considered a drudge, into a challenge which she enjoys.

Mrs. Payne, of Longwood, who calls her dozen boxes of coupons "valuable treasure," said couponing pays off for the manufacturers as well because the coupons attract customers to products and brands they probably wouldn't sample without the additional incentive.

Coupons can break a customer's brand loyalty or win a new product an in-home test that may lead to further sales. That's what companies are gambling on, she said.

Mrs. Payne said she saves about $20 a week with coupons and earns another $30-$40 a month with refunds. She said some shoppers get so carried away with the promise of profits that they buy items they have no use for because the combined value of a coupon and a refund makes it an irresistible deal.

To add to their savings, Mrs. Payne said, many couponers buy multiple copies of newspapers that carry coveted coupons.

To make her savings effort less of a burden on fellow shoppers, Ms. Dahlbury said she's at the ready when she gets to the checkout stand. Her coupons are carefully sorted and she has weeded out any that are for items she hasn't picked up.

She "highlights" the expiration dates so the checkers can breeze through her coupon collection and she says she always plays fair. That means she doesn't try to slip in expired coupons and she doesn't try to use a specific coupon for a different item, she said.

By the time she's ready for the final cash transaction "The people behind me are mumbling until they see what I paid. Their mumbling stops and the questions start. They want to know how I did it."

"It's an honest way to save," Mrs. Payne said. "I think if it weren't for coupons a lot of people would need food stamps. Everyone doesn't need coupons, but for those who do it's worth the effort. I know people who spend 10 hours a day on couponing. It's their life."

If you want to make couponing and refunding a part of your life, but feel you need a nudge to get started, support groups abound in addition to newsletters and seminars. For more information, call Ms. Dahlbury in the evening at 365-9505.

Americans are clipping more manufacturers' coupons than ever, trimming their grocery bills by about $2 billion annually.

Connie Towers A Diplomatic Act

By Dick Kleiner

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Occasionally, soap-opera stars are written out of their roles for emergencies — sickness in the family, etc. — or when they have a chance at some major part in a major film. But Constance Towers is probably the only soap-opera star to be written out because of a state visit.

It's happened at least twice. Connie Towers is the wife of John Gavin, U.S. ambassador to Mexico, and she feels she must assume her duties as hostess at the embassy in Mexico City on important occasions. So when Vice President George Bush and Secretary of State George Shultz made state visits to Mexico, Connie's character, Clarissa McCandless, was written out of "Capitol."

"I can be in Mexico City very quickly if I'm needed," Connie says. "It's only a three-hour flight from here."

She tries to go every weekend to be with her husband. He also comes to Los Angeles on business — mostly to make speeches — frequently.

She takes her job as ambassador's wife very seriously. Currently, she is working with interior designer Tim Morrison on redoing the official ambassador's residence in Mexico City. There, the couple has an exhibit of paintings by American artists — the Wyeths, Thomas Hart Benton, Georgia O'Keeffe, etc. — "because I believe American art should be displayed on foreign soil."

She is happy that Gavin's assignment was Mexico and not, say, Australia. She is thus able to continue her career as an actress as well as being a working ambassador's wife.

The Gavins have been married for nearly 11 years. In that time, she says, more than six years have found one or the other commuting. For a long time, it was John who had to hop on a plane to visit Connie, when she was doing "The King and I" opposite Yul Brynner, in New York.

"Jack used to say during that period that the only thing wrong with my being in a hit show

There Just May Be Hope For You Yet

There is good news for rejects, flakes, nerds, dreamers, goonies and other weirdos: you, too, can be a winner. Such rich and beautiful people as actress Cher, singer Cyndi Lauper, movie mogul Steven Spielberg and sunny guy Woody Allen were all certifiable lunies as youngsters.

As a kid, Lauper was "singular, alone," so she gave her dolls crewcuts and colored their hair with green vegetable dye. "I created my own world," Lauper told People magazine.

How about Cher? "I was a shy, ugly kid who led a big fantasy life. I thought I was an angel from heaven sent to cure polio."

Spielberg's mother, Leah, says her lovely child was something of a monster. "Steven always had a highly developed sense of imagination. He cut the head off of one of his sister Nancy's dolls and served it to her on a platter surrounded by lettuce and tomato."

Then there's Allen. "My teachers loathed me. I never did homework. I am amazed they expected me to work on those sleazy projects. To this day I wake up in the morning, clutch onto the bed and thank God I don't have to go to school."

Vanessa Makes A Comeback

Vanessa Williams, the 1984 Miss America who was forced to resign because she posed for nude photographs published in Penthouse magazine, made her New York stage debut Tuesday in an off-Broadway musical. Williams plays one of three back-up women for comic actor James LeGros in "One-Man Band" at the South Street

Theater, which is essentially a one-man show with LeGros playing multiple male and female roles. Critics reported that Miss Williams did just fine. Wrote D.J.R. Bruckner of the New York Times, "She is especially effective in the comic sequences where one might expect a newcomer to be a bit awkward."

Portrayal Of Hispanics Wins Awards For NBC And 'Blues'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — NBC and the series "Hill Street Blues" have been given Imagen Awards by the National Conference of Christians and Jews for portraying Hispanics in a positive light.

The network was singled out in the awards Tuesday for having the most programs showing Latinos in non-stereotypical roles. An episode of "Hill Street Blues" titled "El Capitan" was praised in particular.

"El Norte," directed by Gregory Nava, was honored as the motion picture best portraying Hispanics.

Among those endorsing the awards were Barry Diller of 20th Century-Fox, Norman Lear of Embassy Communications, Grant Tinker of NBC, Lewis H. Erlicht of ABC and B. Donald Grant of CBS.

Buck Has Galloped Off Into His Final Sunset

Dear Dick — My brother paid me a visit recently and we started to reminisce about the Saturday matinees at the movies. We were wondering what ever became of the old Buck Jones and Tim McCoy movies. To our knowledge, they haven't been shown on TV the way Hoppy was in the 1950s and '60s. We would sure like to revisit our youth! — E.M.D., Glendora, Calif.

The Jones and McCoy movies were just too old for TV. Buck's heyday was in the late 1920s and early '30s, and Tim's mostly in the 1930s. William Boyd (Hopalong Cassidy), on the other hand, did most of his in the 1940s. Besides, Boyd owned the rights to his films and had the good sense to see the promise of early TV.

Dear Dick — I would like to know if someone else played the part of Jock Ewing when "Dallas" first started. If so, who? — Mrs. F.O., Fritch, Texas.

No, there was only one Jock Ewing, the late Jim Davis.

Dear Dick — I would like to know if Lindsey Wells on "The Young and the Restless" and Daisy on "Finder of Lost Loves" are one and the same, or sisters. — T.J.H., Knoxville, Tenn.

No, they are two and different, and not sisters. Lindsey is played by Lauren Koslow and Daisy is played by Deborah Adair.

Ask Dick Kleiner

Dear Dick — Will you please answer three questions for me? Did Jack Barry of "Joker's Wild" die? Is the money Bill Cullen gives out on the show real money? How do the contestants get the large prizes they win on the game shows home? — M.R., Racine, Wis.

Yes, I will answer three questions for you. Yes, Jack Barry died. Yes, Bill Cullen gives out real money. The game shows arrange for the shipment of the large prizes to the contestants' homes, if they want them, or give them the cash equivalent if they elect to go that route.

Dear Dick — The last time I saw Bea Arthur on TV, I noticed a drastic change in her looks. Remembering her as "Maude," I was not quick to recognize her right off. Has she been ill or purposely lost weight? She is one of her best comic actresses. — Unsigned, Houston, Texas.

She has lost some weight, but is physically fine. You'll be seeing her next season, with Betty White and Rue McClanahan, in the new NBC comedy, "The Golden Girls."

Dear Dick — I was wondering what happened to a western movie star, Monte Hale, who played in westerns from 1945 to 1950. I have seen him in San Angelo, Texas, and then in San Antonio. Did he retire or die? — B.M., Dalhart, Texas.

Hale, known around Hollywood as one of the last of the singing cowboys in films, turned to writing country music when the bottom dropped out of the singing cowboy movie star trade. He may have a ranch, as you say, but he's also done pretty well writing songs.

Dear Dick — Could you please tell me if it is true that officials of Procter and Gamble at some time appeared on the Donahue TV program and admitted supporting the Church of Satan or devil worship? — P.T., Freeland, Mich.

That ridiculous and vicious rumor, and other similar ones, have been going on for some years now. Totally untrue. Most of the rumors include the nasty touch that the P&G symbol — the man in the moon and a pattern of stars — represents some evil force. It's gotten so bad that P&G recently announced they would have to change that symbol. The story you cite simply never happened.

ABC, Capital Cities Merger Approved

By Joan Hanauer
 UPI TV Reporter

NEW YORK (UPI) — Leonard H. Goldenson steered the ABC stockholders meeting through its vote Tuesday in favor of the merger with Capital Cities Communications, presiding at an ABC annual meeting probably for the last time.

Goldenson, 80, ABC's chairman of the board, has led the American Broadcasting Companies Inc. since it was created in the 1953 merger of ABC and United Paramount Theaters. In the new ABC-Capital Cities arrangement, he moves upstairs to chair the new company's executive committee.

He has fended off takeover bids in the past by Howard Hughes and Norton Simon, but this time he successfully advocated the Cap Cities merger.

In addressing the stockholders meeting at an ABC studio, its high ceiling festooned with lights and other broadcast equipment, Goldenson stood in front of a giant blue ABC logo and outlined his company's achievements:

"The equity of ABC shareholders at the end of our first year — 1953 — totalled $79 million. Last year, shareholders' equity approached $1.4 billion, almost 18 times as great.

"Revenues in 1953 — including Paramount Theaters — were $172 million. By 1984, revenues had increased more than 20-fold, to $3.7 billion. But even more significant, the ABC broadcast operations were losing money in 1953. Last year, ABC's earnings were $195 million."
